THIS EDITION

The EvanBible Edition – English from the Originals (EVBO-EN) is a new translation of the whole Bible, made directly from the languages in which it was written: the Hebrew and Aramaic of the Old Testament and the Greek of the New. It is not a revision or modernization of the King James Version, and it is not a translation of the Spanish EVBO or of any other version: every verse went from the original text into English.

OLD TESTAMENT: THE HEBREW AND ARAMAIC TEXT

The Old Testament was translated from the Masoretic Text, the Hebrew text handed down and vocalized by the Jewish scribes known as the Masoretes. The base is the Leningrad Codex (A.D. 1008), the oldest complete manuscript of the Hebrew Bible, in its digital edition, the Westminster Leningrad Codex. Where the scribes noted in the margin how a word was to be read (qere) instead of what stands in the text (ketiv), the marginal reading is followed, as the King James does. Additions found only in the Greek Septuagint are not brought in. The Aramaic sections (Ezra 4:8–6:18 and 7:12–26; Daniel 2:4–7:28; Jeremiah 10:11) were translated from the Aramaic. The few places where another decision was taken, such as Psalm 22:16, are explained in the notes.

NEW TESTAMENT: THE GREEK TEXT

The New Testament was translated from the Textus Receptus, the printed Greek text behind the Reformation Bibles and the King James, in the edition of F. H. A. Scrivener (1894), which reproduces the Greek followed by the translators of 1611. It therefore includes passages that modern critical texts omit or bracket, such as Mark 16:9–20, John 7:53–8:11, Acts 8:37 and 1 John 5:7–8. Where Greek editions differ, Scrivener's reading governs, and every one of those places was checked against the English.

HOW THE TRANSLATION WAS MADE

Each book was translated from the original into English following one set of guidelines and a common table of terms. As a reference tool the word-by-word analysis of Tyndale House and STEPBible.org was used: the form of each word, its Strong's number, its grammatical analysis and a short gloss. The King James was consulted only for verse numbering and to compare readings. The translation was made with the assistance of artificial intelligence. A reviewer other than the translator then went through each book verse by verse against the Hebrew, Aramaic or Greek, looking for omissions, additions, errors of sense, readings foreign to the base text and inconsistent terms. A further, separate pass reworded the text wherever it echoed the wording of modern copyrighted English versions, so that the EVBO-EN is its own translation; wording it shares with the King James Version, which is in the public domain, was kept where it is faithful to the original. Every reworded verse was then checked once more against the Hebrew, Aramaic or Greek, and in the New Testament every place where Scrivener's text differs from other Greek editions was checked one by one.

TRANSLATION PRINCIPLES

Literal and natural: the order, words and structure of the original are followed as long as the English reads naturally; where a literal rendering would not be understood, the sense is preferred and explained in a note. Everything in the base text is translated, and nothing more. Each key term is translated the same way throughout. The English is current and plain: "you" for singular and plural alike, also when God is addressed, with no "thee", "thou" or "-eth" forms, while the traditional theological vocabulary is kept (grace, justify, propitiation, atonement).

THE NAMES OF GOD

The personal name of God in Hebrew, the four letters YHWH, is written LORD in capitals, as in the King James, to distinguish it from Adonai, "Lord".

|---|---|
| YHWH | the LORD |
| YHWH Elohim | the LORD God |
| Adonai YHWH | the Lord GOD |
| YHWH Tseva'ot | the LORD of hosts |
| Elohim | God (gods, when pagan gods are meant) |
| Adonai | Lord |
| El Shaddai | God Almighty |
| Elyon | the Most High |
| Yah | the LORD (with a note) |
| Ehyeh asher ehyeh (Exodus 3:14) | I AM WHO I AM |

SOME KEY TERMS

|---|---|
| logos (John 1:1) | Word |
| chesed | steadfast love |
| berit | covenant |
| sheol / hades / gehenna | Sheol / Hades / hell |
| shabbat | Sabbath |
| ohel mo'ed | tent of meeting |
| dikaio | justify |
| krin as a verdict against someone | condemn, condemnation |
| agap (1 Corinthians 13) | love (KJV "charity") |
| re'em | wild ox (KJV "unicorn") |
| zera' in the promises | seed |

NUMBERING

Books, chapters and verses follow the King James numbering: 66 books and 31,102 verses. That way the EVBO-EN can be read and compared verse by verse with the other EvanBible editions. Where the Hebrew numbering differs (for example in Malachi 4 or in Joel), a note says so. The Hebrew titles of the Psalms are translated and appear in italics at the head of the psalm, without a verse number, as in the King James.

TRANSLATION NOTES

An asterisk after a verse means there is a note. The 1,664 notes are gathered at the end of the volume, by book, and explain difficult readings, words of uncertain meaning, choices between the written and the read text, and notable differences from the King James. Tap the asterisk to go to the note, and the note's reference to return to the verse.

THE EVANBIBLE EDITIONS

The classic (EVBC) and improved (EVBM) editions are Spanish translations of the King James. The EVBO is a Spanish translation made from the originals, and the EVBO-EN is its English counterpart, translated separately from the same Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek. At evanbible.com they can be compared verse by verse with the King James, with the original text and its word-by-word analysis.

CHAPTER 1

1 In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. 2 The earth was without shape and empty, and darkness lay upon the face of the deep, while the Spirit of God hovered above the face of the waters.* 3 And God said, "Let there be light"; and there was light. 4 God saw the light, that it was good, and God made a division between the light and the darkness. 5 God named the light Day, and the darkness he named Night. Evening came, and morning came: day one. 6 And God said, "Let there be an expanse in the middle of the waters, and let it divide between waters and waters."* 7 God made the expanse and divided between the waters below the expanse and the waters above the expanse. And so it was. 8 God named the expanse Heaven.
Evening came, and morning came: a second day. 9 And God said,
"Let the waters beneath the heavens be collected into one place, and let the dry ground be seen." And so it was. 10 God named the dry ground Earth, and the collected waters he named Seas. And God saw that it was good. 11 And God said, "Let the earth put forth green growth: plants that produce seed, and fruit trees on the earth that make fruit after their kind, with their seed in it."
And so it was. 12 So the earth put forth green growth: plants producing seed after their kind, and trees making fruit with their seed in it, after their kind. And God saw that it was good. 13 Evening came, and morning came: a third day. 14 And God said,
"Let there be lights in the expanse of the heavens to divide between the day and the night; let them serve as signs and for fixed seasons, and for days and years, 15 and let them serve as lights in the expanse of the heavens to shine upon the earth."
And so it was. 16 God made the two great lights, the greater light to govern the day and the lesser light to govern the night, and the stars as well. 17 God placed them in the expanse of the heavens to shine upon the earth, 18 to govern by day and by night and to divide between the light and the darkness. And God saw that it was good. 19 Evening came, and morning came: a fourth day. 20
And God said, "Let the waters teem with swarms of living creatures, and let birds fly above the earth, across the face of the expanse of the heavens." 21 God created the huge sea creatures and every living creature that moves, with which the waters teem, after their kind, and every winged bird after its kind. And God saw that it was good. 22 And God blessed them and said, "Be fruitful and increase; fill the waters in the seas, and let the birds increase on the earth." 23 Evening came, and morning came: a fifth day. 24 And God said, "Let the earth produce living creatures after their kind: cattle, creeping things, and wild animals of the earth after their kind." And so it was. 25 God made the wild animals of the earth after their kind, the cattle after their kind, and all that creeps on the ground after its kind. And God saw that it was good. 26 Then God said, "Let us make man in our image, according to our likeness, and let them rule over the fish of the sea and the birds of the heavens, over the cattle and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creeps upon the earth." 27 God created man in his own image, in the image of God he created him; male and female he created them. 28 God blessed them, and God said to them, "Be fruitful and increase, fill the earth and subdue it. Rule over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the heavens, and over every living thing that creeps on the earth." 29 And God said, "Look, I have given you every plant that bears seed across the face of all the earth, and every tree whose fruit has seed in it; you shall have them for food. 30 And to every animal of the earth, to every bird of the heavens, and to every creeping thing on the earth that has a living soul in it, I give every green plant as food." And so it was. 31 Then God looked at all that he had made, and indeed it was very good. Evening came, and morning came: the sixth day.

CHAPTER 2

1 So the heavens and the earth were completed, together with all their host. 2 On the seventh day God brought to completion the work he had made, and on the seventh day he rested from all the work he had made. 3 God blessed the seventh day and set it apart as holy, because on it he rested from all the work which God had created and made. 4 This is the history of the heavens and the earth at their creation, in the day that the LORD God made earth and heavens. 5 No bush of the field was yet on the earth, and no plant of the field had yet sprouted, because the LORD God had not sent rain upon the earth, and there was no man to till the ground; 6 but a mist would rise from the earth and water the whole surface of the ground. 7 And the LORD God formed the man out of dust from the ground and blew into his nostrils the breath of life, and the man became a living soul. 8 The LORD God planted a garden in Eden, toward the east, and placed there the man he had formed. 9 From the ground the LORD God caused to spring up every tree that is pleasing to look at and good to eat, with the tree of life in the middle of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. 10 A river flowed out of Eden to water the garden, and from there it parted and became four headwaters. 11 The first is named Pishon; it winds around the whole land of Havilah, where the gold is. 12
The gold of that land is good; bdellium is there, and the onyx stone. 13 The second river is named Gihon; it winds around the whole land of Cush. 14 The third river is named Hiddekel; it runs east of Assyria. The fourth river is the Euphrates. 15 Then the LORD God took the man and settled him in the garden of Eden to cultivate it and to guard it. 16 And the LORD God commanded the man: "From every tree of the garden you may eat freely, 17 but from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil you must not eat, for on the day you eat from it you will certainly die." 18 And the LORD God said, "It is not good for the man to be by himself; I will make for him a helper who is his counterpart." [19] So the LORD God formed from the ground every animal of the field and every bird of the heavens, and he brought them to the man to see what he would name them; and whatever the man called a living creature, that became its name. [20] The man gave names to all the cattle, to the birds of the heavens, and to every animal of the field; but for Adam no helper was found who was his counterpart. [21] Then the LORD God made a deep sleep fall on the man, and he fell asleep; and he took one of his ribs and closed up flesh in its place. [22] The LORD God built the rib he had taken from the man into a woman and brought her to the man. [23] And the man said, "This one, this time, is bone from my bones and flesh from my flesh; this one shall be called Woman, for from Man this one was taken." [24] That is why a man will leave his father and his mother and be joined to his wife, and they will become one flesh. [25] The two of them, the man and his wife, were naked, yet they felt no shame.

CHAPTER 3

[1] The serpent was more cunning than every animal of the field that the LORD God had made. He said to the woman, "Is it really so that God said, 'You must not eat from any tree of the garden'?" [2] The woman answered the serpent, "From the fruit of the garden's trees we may eat, [3] but about the fruit of the tree in the middle of the garden God said, 'Do not eat from it, and do not touch it, or you will die.'" [4] But the serpent said to the woman, "You will certainly not die! [5] For God knows that on the day you eat from it your eyes will be opened, and you will become like God, knowing good and evil."* [6] The woman saw that the tree was good for food, that it was a pleasure to the eyes, and that the tree was attractive for gaining insight; so she took some of its fruit and ate, and she gave some also to her husband who was with her, and he ate. [7] Then the eyes of the two of them were opened, and they realized they were naked; so they stitched fig leaves together and made aprons for themselves. [8] Then they heard the sound of the LORD God as he walked in the garden in the breeze of the day, and the man and his wife hid from the face of the LORD God among the trees of the garden. [9] And the LORD God called to the man and asked him, "Where are you?" [10] He answered, "I heard you in the garden and became afraid, since I was naked; so I hid." [11] And he said, "Who told you that you were naked? Did you eat from the tree that I commanded you not to eat from?" [12] The man said, "The woman you placed with me—she gave me from the tree, and I ate." [13] The LORD God said to the woman, "What is this you have done?" The woman said, "The serpent tricked me, and I ate." [14] And the LORD God said to the serpent, "Since you have done this, cursed are you beyond all the cattle and beyond every animal of the field. On your belly you will go about, and dust you will eat all the days of your life. [15] Enmity I will set between you and the woman, and between your seed and her seed; he shall bruise your head, and you shall bruise his heel." [16] To the woman he said, "I will greatly multiply your toil and your pregnancies; in pain you will bear children. Your longing will be toward your husband, and he will rule over you." [17] And to Adam he said, "Since you heeded your wife's voice and ate from the tree about which I commanded you, 'You shall not eat from it,' the ground is cursed on your account; with toil you will eat from it all the days of your life. [18] It will make thorns and thistles grow for you, and you will eat the plants of the field. [19] In the sweat of your face you will eat bread until you go back to the ground, since from it you were taken; for dust you are, and to dust you will go back." [20] The man named his wife Eve, because she was the mother of all who live. [21] The LORD God made garments of skin for Adam and his wife and clothed them. [22] And the LORD God said, "See, the man has become like one of us in knowing good and evil. Now, so that he does not stretch out his hand and take from the tree of life as well, and eat, and live forever—" [23] the LORD God sent him away from the garden of Eden to till the ground from which he had been taken. [24] He drove the man out, and east of the garden of Eden he stationed the cherubim and the flame of the whirling sword, to guard the path to the tree of life.

CHAPTER 4

[1] And the man knew Eve his wife; she conceived and gave birth to Cain, and she said, "I have acquired a man with the LORD."* [2] She gave birth again, to his brother Abel. Abel became a shepherd of flocks, while Cain became a tiller of the ground. [3] At the end of some days Cain brought an offering to the LORD from the fruit of the ground. [4] Abel too brought one, from the firstborn of his flock and from their fat. The LORD had regard for Abel and his offering, [5] but for Cain and his offering he had no regard. Cain's anger burned hot, and his face fell. [6] The LORD said to Cain, "Why has your anger burned, and why has your face fallen? [7] If you do well, will you not be accepted? But if you do not do well, sin lies crouching at the door. Its longing is toward you, yet you must master it."* [8] Cain spoke to Abel his brother; and while they were in the field, Cain rose against his brother Abel and murdered him.* [9] And the LORD said to Cain, "Where is your brother Abel?" He answered, "I do not know. Am I my brother's keeper?" [10] He said, "What have you done? Listen: your brother's blood cries out to me from the ground. [11] So now you are cursed from the ground that opened its mouth to take your brother's blood from your hand. [12] When you till the ground, it will no longer give you its strength. You will be a wanderer and a drifter on the earth." [13] Cain said to the LORD, "My punishment is too great to bear.* [14] Look, today you have driven me from the face of the ground, and I will be hidden from your face. I will be a wanderer and a drifter on the earth, and anyone who finds me will kill me." [15] The LORD said to him, "Therefore whoever kills Cain, sevenfold vengeance will fall on him." And the LORD set a sign for Cain, so that anyone who found him would not strike him down. [16] So Cain went out from before the LORD and lived in the land of Nod, east of Eden. [17] Cain knew his wife; she conceived and gave birth to Enoch. Cain was building a city, and he named the city after his son Enoch. [18] Irad was born to Enoch; Irad became the father of Mehujael, Mehujael became the father of Methushael, and Methushael became the father of Lamech. [19] Lamech took two wives; one was named Adah, and the other was named Zillah. [20] Adah gave birth to Jabal; he was the father of those who live in tents and keep herds. [21] His brother was named Jubal; he was the father of everyone who handles the lyre and the flute. [22] As for Zillah, she too gave birth, to Tubal-cain, who hammered out every kind of tool of bronze and iron. Tubal-cain's sister was Naamah. [23] Lamech said to his wives, "Adah and Zillah, listen to my voice; wives of Lamech, give ear to my word: I killed a man for wounding me, a youth for bruising me. [24] If Cain is avenged seven times, then Lamech seventy-seven times." [25] Adam knew his wife once more; she gave birth to a son and named him Seth, "For God has granted me another seed in place of Abel, since Cain killed him." [26] To Seth as well a son was born, and he named him Enosh. It was then that men began to call upon the name of the LORD.

CHAPTER 5

[1] This is the written record of the generations of Adam. On the day God created man, he made him in God's likeness. [2] He created them male and female; he blessed them and named them Man on the day they were created. [*] [3] Adam lived a hundred and thirty years and had a son in his own likeness, according to his image, and he named him Seth. [4] After he had Seth, Adam's days were eight hundred years, and he had sons and daughters. [5] All the days that Adam lived amounted to nine hundred and thirty years, and he died. [6] Seth lived a hundred and five years and became the father of Enosh. [7] After becoming the father of Enosh, Seth lived eight hundred and seven years and had sons and daughters. [8] All of Seth's days amounted to nine hundred and twelve years, and he died. [9] Enosh lived ninety years and became the father of Kenan. [10] After becoming the father of Kenan, Enosh lived eight hundred and fifteen years and had sons and daughters. [11] All of Enosh's days amounted to nine hundred and five years, and he died. [12] Kenan lived seventy years and became the father of Mahalalel. [13] After becoming the father of Mahalalel, Kenan lived eight hundred and forty years and had sons and daughters. [14] All of Kenan's days amounted to nine hundred and ten years, and he died. [15] Mahalalel lived sixty-five years and became the father of Jared. [16] After becoming the father of Jared, Mahalalel lived eight hundred and thirty years and had sons and daughters. [17] All of Mahalalel's days amounted to eight hundred and ninety-five years, and he died. [18] Jared lived a hundred and sixty-two years and became the father of Enoch. [19] After becoming the father of Enoch, Jared lived eight hundred years and had sons and daughters. [20] All of Jared's days amounted to nine hundred and sixty-two years, and he died. [21] Enoch lived sixty-five years and became the father of Methuselah. [22] After becoming the father of Methuselah, Enoch walked with God three hundred years and had sons and daughters. [23] All of Enoch's days amounted to three hundred and sixty-five years. [24] Enoch walked with God; then he was no more, because God took him. [25] Methuselah lived a hundred and eighty-seven years and became the father of Lamech. [26] After becoming the father of Lamech, Methuselah lived seven hundred and eighty-two years and had sons and daughters. [27] All of Methuselah's days amounted to nine hundred and sixty-nine years, and he died. [28] Lamech lived a hundred and eighty-two years and had a son. [29] He named him Noah, saying, "This one will bring us relief from our work and from the toil of our hands, from the ground the LORD has cursed." [30] After becoming the father of Noah, Lamech lived five hundred and ninety-five years and had sons and daughters. [31] All of Lamech's days amounted to seven hundred and seventy-seven years, and he died. [32] When Noah was five hundred years old, Noah became the father of Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Now when mankind began to increase on the face of the ground and daughters were born to them, [2] the sons of God saw that the daughters of men were fair, and they took wives for themselves from all whom they chose. [3] The LORD said, "My Spirit will not strive with man forever, since he is indeed flesh; his days will be a hundred and twenty years." [] [4] The Nephilim were on the earth in those days, and afterward too, when the sons of God went in to the daughters of men and they bore them children. They were the mighty ones of ancient times, men of name. [] [5] The LORD saw how great man's wickedness on the earth was, and that every inclination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil, every day. [6] The LORD was sorry that he had made man on the earth, and he was pained in his heart. [7] And the LORD said, "I will wipe out from the face of the ground man whom I created—man together with cattle, creeping things, and birds of the heavens—because I am sorry that I made them." [8] Noah, however, found grace in the eyes of the LORD. [9] This is the family history of Noah. Noah was a righteous man, blameless among the people of his time; Noah walked with God. [10] Noah had three sons: Shem, Ham, and Japheth. [11] In God's sight the earth had grown corrupt, and the earth was full of violence. [12] God looked upon the earth, and it was indeed corrupt, for all flesh had corrupted its way upon the earth. [13] So God said to Noah, "The end of all flesh has come before me, because through them the earth is full of violence. I am about to destroy them along with the earth. [14] Make an ark of gopher wood for yourself; build it with compartments, and coat it with pitch inside and out. [15] And this is how you are to make it: three hundred cubits the length of the ark, fifty cubits its width, and thirty cubits its height. [16] Make a roof for the ark, completing it to a cubit upward; put the door of the ark in its side; make it with lower, second, and third levels. [17] As for me, I am about to bring the flood, waters upon the earth, to destroy from under the heavens all flesh that has the breath of life in it. Everything on the earth will perish. [18] But with you I will establish my covenant. You will enter the ark—you and your sons and your wife and your sons' wives with you. [19] From every living thing, from all flesh, you shall bring two of each into the ark to keep alive with you; let them be male and female. [20] From the birds after their kind, from the cattle after their kind, and from every creeping thing of the ground after its kind, two of each will come to you to be kept alive. [21] Take for yourself every kind of food that is eaten, and store it up with you; it will serve as food for you and for them." [22] And Noah did so; he did everything just as God had commanded him.

CHAPTER 7

[1] And the LORD said to Noah, "Enter the ark, you and your whole house, because I have seen you to be righteous before me in this generation. [2] From every clean animal take for yourself seven and seven, a male and its female; and from the animals that are not clean, two, a male and its female; [3] and from the birds of the heavens as well, seven and seven, male and female, to keep seed alive on the face of the whole earth. [4] For seven days from now I will send rain on the earth for forty days and forty nights, and I will wipe out from the face of the ground every living being I have made." [5] And Noah did all that the LORD had commanded him. [6] Noah was six hundred years old when the flood came, waters upon the earth. [7] Noah went into the ark, and with him his sons, his wife, and his sons' wives, to escape the waters of the flood. [8] From the clean animals and from the animals that are not clean, from the birds and from all that creeps on the ground, [9] they came to Noah into the ark two by two, male and female, just as God had commanded Noah. [10] After the seven days the waters of the flood were upon the earth. [11] In the six hundredth year of Noah's life, in the second month, on the seventeenth day of the month—on that day all the springs of the great deep broke open, and the windows of the heavens were thrown open. [12] The downpour came on the earth forty days and forty nights. [13] That same day Noah entered the ark, with Shem, Ham, and Japheth, Noah's sons, and Noah's wife and his sons' three wives with them— [14] they and every wild animal after its kind, all the cattle after their kind, every creeping thing that creeps on the earth after its kind, and every flying creature after its kind, every bird, every winged thing. [15] Two by two of all flesh in which was the breath of life, they came to Noah into the ark. [16] Those that came in were male and female of all flesh; they came as God had commanded him. Then the LORD closed the door behind him. [17] For forty days the flood was upon the earth; the waters grew and bore up the ark, and it was lifted high above the earth. [18] The waters gained strength and grew greatly upon the earth, and the ark drifted on the surface of the waters. [19] The waters gained strength more and more upon the earth, until all the high mountains under the whole heaven were covered. [20] Fifteen cubits above them the waters rose, and the mountains were covered. [21] All flesh that moved on the earth perished: birds, cattle, wild animals, every swarming creature that swarms on the earth, and all mankind. [22] All in whose nostrils was the breath of the spirit of life, of everything on the dry land, died. [23] So he wiped out every living being on the face of the ground, from man to cattle to creeping things to the birds of the heavens; they were wiped out from the earth. Only Noah remained, and those with him in the ark. [24] And the waters held their strength upon the earth for a hundred and fifty days.

CHAPTER 8

[1] Then God remembered Noah and all the wild animals and all the cattle with him in the ark; God made a wind pass over the earth, and the waters sank. [2] The springs of the deep and the windows of the heavens were shut, and the rain from the heavens was held back. [3] The waters kept going back from the earth, little by little, and at the end of a hundred and fifty days the waters had gone down. [4] In the seventh month, on the seventeenth day of the month, the ark rested on the mountains of Ararat. [5] The waters kept going down until the tenth month; on the first of the tenth month the tops of the mountains became visible. [6] After forty days Noah opened the window of the ark he had made, [7] and he sent out the raven, which kept flying back and forth until the waters had dried from the earth. [8] Then he sent the dove out from him to see whether the waters had gone down from the face of the ground. [9] The dove found no place to rest the sole of her foot, so she came back to him in the ark, because there was water over the face of all the earth. He reached out his hand, took her, and brought her in to himself, into the ark. [10] He waited seven more days and once again sent the dove out of the ark. [11] At evening the dove came to him, and there in her beak was a freshly picked olive leaf. Then Noah knew that the waters had gone down from the earth. [12] He waited seven days more and sent out the dove, and she came back to him no more. [13] In the six hundred and first year, in the first month, on the first of the month, the waters had dried from the earth. Noah took off the covering of the ark and looked out, and the surface of the ground was dry. [14] And in the second month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, the earth was fully dry. [15] Then God said to Noah: [16] "Come out of the ark, you and your wife, your sons and your sons' wives with you. [17] Every living thing that is with you, of all flesh—birds, cattle, and every creeping thing that creeps on the earth—bring out with you, so that they may swarm over the earth, be fruitful, and increase upon the earth." [18] So Noah came out, together with his sons, his wife, and his sons' wives. [19] Every animal, every creeping thing, and every bird, all that moves on the earth, came out of the ark by their families. [20] Noah built an altar to the LORD, and taking some of every clean animal and every clean bird, he offered burnt offerings on the altar. [21] When the LORD smelled the pleasing aroma, the LORD said in his heart, "Never again will I curse the ground on account of man, for the inclination of man's heart is evil from his youth; and never again will I strike every living thing as I have done. [22] For all the days of the earth, seedtime and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, day and night will not cease."

CHAPTER 9

[1] God blessed Noah and his sons and told them, "Be fruitful and increase, and fill the earth. [2] Fear and dread of you will be upon every animal of the earth and every bird of the heavens, upon all that creeps on the ground and all the fish of the sea; into your hand they are given. [3] Every moving thing that is alive will be food for you; just as I gave you the green plants, I now give you all things. [4] Only flesh with its life, its blood, you must not eat. [5] And your blood, the blood of your lives, I will surely demand; from every animal I will demand it, and from man. From each man's brother I will demand the life of man. [6] Whoever sheds the blood of man, by man his blood will be shed; for God made man in his own image.* [7] As for you, be fruitful and increase; teem upon the earth and increase on it." [8] God said to Noah and to his sons with him: [9] "As for me, I am now establishing my covenant with you and with your seed after you, [10] and with every living creature with you—birds, cattle, and every wild animal of the earth with you—all that came out of the ark, every animal of the earth. [11] I will establish my covenant with you: never again will all flesh be cut off by the waters of a flood, and never again will there be a flood to ruin the earth." [12] God said, "This is the sign of the covenant I am making between me and you and every living creature with you, for generations without end: [13] My bow I have set in the cloud, and it will be the sign of a covenant between me and the earth. [14] Whenever I bring clouds over the earth and the bow appears in the cloud, [15] I will remember my covenant between me and you and every living creature among all flesh, and the waters will never again become a flood to destroy all flesh. [16] The bow will be in the cloud, and I will look at it to remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature among all flesh on the earth." [17] And God told Noah, "This is the sign of the covenant I have established between me and all flesh on the earth." [18] Noah's sons who came out of the ark were Shem, Ham, and Japheth; and Ham was the father of Canaan. [19] These three were Noah's sons, and from them the whole earth was spread abroad. [20] Noah, a man of the ground, began by planting a vineyard. [21] He drank some of the wine, became drunk, and uncovered himself inside his tent. [22] Ham, Canaan's father, saw his father's nakedness and reported it to his two brothers outside. [23] But Shem and Japheth took the cloak, put it over the shoulders of both, and walking backward they covered their father's nakedness; their faces were turned away, so they did not see their father's nakedness. [24] When Noah woke from his wine and learned what his youngest son had done to him, [25] he said, "Cursed is Canaan; a servant of servants he will be to his brothers." [26] And he said, "Blessed is the LORD, the God of Shem; and let Canaan be a servant to him. [27] May God make room for Japheth, and may he live in the tents of Shem; and let Canaan be a servant to him." [28] Noah lived three hundred and fifty years after the flood. [29] All of Noah's days amounted to nine hundred and fifty years, and he died.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Now these are the generations of Noah's sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth; sons were born to them after the flood. [2] Japheth's sons: Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, and Tiras. [3] Gomer's sons: Ashkenaz, Riphath, and Togarmah. [4] Javan's sons: Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim, and Dodanim. [5] From these the coastlands of the nations were divided up in their lands, each by his own tongue, by their clans, in their nations. [6] Ham's sons: Cush, Mizraim, Put, and Canaan. [7] Cush's sons: Seba, Havilah, Sabtah, Raamah, and Sabteca. Raamah's sons: Sheba and Dedan. [8] Cush became the father of Nimrod; he was the first to be a mighty one on the earth. [9] He was a mighty hunter in the sight of the LORD; that is why it is said, "Like Nimrod, a mighty hunter in the sight of the LORD." [10] His kingdom began with Babel, Erech, Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar. [11] From that land he went out to Assyria and built Nineveh, Rehoboth-Ir, and Calah, [12]* as well as Resen, between Nineveh and Calah; that is the great city. [13] Mizraim became the father of the Ludim, the Anamim, the Lehabim, the Naphtuhim, [14] the Pathrusim, the Casluhim (from whom the Philistines went out), and the Caphtorim. [15] Canaan became the father of Sidon, his firstborn, and of Heth, [16] and the Jebusites, the Amorites, the Girgashites, [17] the Hivites, the Arkites, the Sinites, [18] the Arvadites, the Zemarites, and the Hamathites. Later the clans of the Canaanites were scattered. [19] The Canaanite border ran from Sidon toward Gerar as far as Gaza, and toward Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboiim as far as Lasha. [20] These are Ham's sons by their clans and their tongues, in their lands and their nations. [21] Children were born also to Shem, the father of all the sons of Eber, the elder brother of Japheth.* [22] Shem's sons: Elam, Asshur, Arpachshad, Lud, and Aram. [23] Aram's sons: Uz, Hul, Gether, and Mash. [24] Arpachshad became the father of Shelah, and Shelah became the father of Eber. [25] Two sons were born to Eber; one was named Peleg, because in his days the earth was divided, and his brother was named Joktan. [26] Joktan became the father of Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah, [27] Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah, [28] Obal, Abimael, Sheba, [29] Ophir, Havilah, and Jobab. All these were Joktan's sons. [30] Their dwelling place stretched from Mesha toward Sephar, the hill country of the east. [31] These are Shem's sons by their clans and their tongues, in their lands, by their nations. [32] These are the clans of Noah's sons by their generations, in their nations; and from them the nations were divided on the earth after the flood.

CHAPTER 11

[1] The whole earth had a single language and a single set of words. [2] As they moved on from the east, they came upon a valley in the land of Shinar and settled there. [3] They said to each other, "Come, let us mold bricks and fire them well." They used brick in place of stone, and bitumen in place of mortar. [4] And they said, "Come, let us build for ourselves a city, and a tower whose top reaches into the heavens; let us make ourselves a name, so that we are not scattered across the face of the whole earth." [5] The LORD came down to look at the city and the tower that the sons of men had built. [6] And the LORD said, "Look, they are one people with one language for all of them, and this is what they have begun to do; now nothing they plan to do will be beyond their reach. [7] Come, let us go down and confuse their language there, so that no one will understand the speech of his neighbor." [8] Thus the LORD scattered them from there across the face of the whole earth, and they left off building the city. [9] That is why it was named Babel, for there the LORD confused the language of the whole earth, and from there the LORD scattered them across the face of the whole earth. [10] This is the line of Shem. When Shem was a hundred years old he became the father of Arpachshad, two years after the flood. [11] After becoming the father of Arpachshad, Shem lived five hundred years and had sons and daughters. [12] Arpachshad lived thirty-five years and became the father of Shelah. [13] After becoming the father of Shelah, Arpachshad lived four hundred and three years and had sons and daughters. [14] Shelah lived thirty years and became the father of Eber. [15] After becoming the father of Eber, Shelah lived four hundred and three years and had sons and daughters. [16] Eber lived thirty-four years and became the father of Peleg. [17] After becoming the father of Peleg, Eber lived four hundred and thirty years and had sons and daughters. [18] Peleg lived thirty years and became the father of Reu. [19] After becoming the father of Reu, Peleg lived two hundred and nine years and had sons and daughters. [20] Reu lived thirty-two years and became the father of Serug. [21] After becoming the father of Serug, Reu lived two hundred and seven years and had sons and daughters. [22] Serug lived thirty years and became the father of Nahor. [23] After becoming the father of Nahor, Serug lived two hundred years and had sons and daughters. [24] Nahor lived twenty-nine years and became the father of Terah. [25] After becoming the father of Terah, Nahor lived a hundred and nineteen years and had sons and daughters. [26] Terah lived seventy years and became the father of Abram, Nahor, and Haran. [27] This is the line of Terah. Terah became the father of Abram, Nahor, and Haran, and Haran became the father of Lot. [28] Haran died before his father Terah, in his native land, in Ur of the Chaldeans. [29] Abram and Nahor took wives for themselves. Abram's wife was named Sarai, and Nahor's wife was named Milcah; she was the daughter of Haran, the father of Milcah and of Iscah. [30] But Sarai was infertile; she had no offspring. [31] Terah took his son Abram, his grandson Lot son of Haran, and his daughter-in-law Sarai, the wife of his son Abram, and they set out with them from Ur of the Chaldeans to go to the land of Canaan; but when they came as far as Haran, they settled there. [32] Terah's days were two hundred and five years, and Terah died in Haran.

CHAPTER 12

[1] The LORD said to Abram, "Go out from your land, from your birthplace, and from your father's house, to the land that I will show you. [2] I will make you into a great nation; I will bless you and make your name great, and you are to be a blessing. [3] I will bless those who bless you, and the one who treats you with contempt I will curse; and in you all the clans of the earth will be blessed." [4] Abram went, just as the LORD had spoken to him, and Lot went along with him. Abram was seventy-five years old when he left Haran. [5] Abram took his wife Sarai, Lot his brother's son, all the goods they had accumulated, and the persons they had gained in Haran, and they set out for the land of Canaan; and they arrived in the land of Canaan. [6] Abram traveled through the land as far as the site of Shechem, as far as the oak of Moreh. The Canaanite was then in the land. [7] The LORD appeared to Abram and said, "To your seed I will give this land." There he built an altar to the LORD who had appeared to him. [8] He moved on from there to the mountain east of Bethel and set up his tent, having Bethel to the west and Ai to the east. There he built an altar to the LORD and called upon the name of the LORD. [9] Then Abram set out, traveling on and on toward the Negev. [10] A famine came on the land, and Abram went down to Egypt to stay there as a foreigner, because the famine was heavy in the land. [11] As he drew near to entering Egypt, he said to his wife Sarai, "Listen, I know that you are a woman lovely to look at. [12] When the Egyptians see you, they will say, 'She is his wife,' and they will kill me but keep you alive. [13] Say, please, that you are my sister, so that things go well for me on your account and I stay alive because of you." [14] And so it was: when Abram came into Egypt, the Egyptians saw that the woman was very lovely. [15] Pharaoh's officials saw her and praised her to Pharaoh, and the woman was taken into Pharaoh's household. [16] He treated Abram well on her account; Abram acquired sheep and cattle, male donkeys, male and female servants, female donkeys, and camels. [17] But the LORD afflicted Pharaoh and his household with severe plagues on account of Sarai, Abram's wife. [18] Pharaoh summoned Abram and said, "What have you done to me? Why did you not tell me she was your wife? [19] Why did you say, 'She is my sister,' so that I took her to be my wife? Now, here is your wife—take her and go!" [20] Pharaoh gave his men orders about him, and they sent him off, with his wife and everything he owned.

CHAPTER 13

[1] Abram went up out of Egypt into the Negev, with his wife and all he owned, and Lot with him. [2] Abram was heavily laden with livestock, silver, and gold. [3] He traveled by stages from the Negev to Bethel, to the place where his tent had first been, between Bethel and Ai, [4] the site of the altar he had made there at the beginning; and there Abram called upon the name of the LORD. [5] Lot, too, who traveled with Abram, had flocks, herds, and tents, [6] and the land could not carry them both living together, because their possessions were too many for them to live together. [7] Quarreling broke out between the herdsmen of Abram's livestock and the herdsmen of Lot's livestock. The Canaanite and the Perizzite were living in the land then. [8] So Abram said to Lot, "Let there be no quarrel, please, between me and you or between my herdsmen and your herdsmen, for we are kinsmen. [9] Is not the whole land in front of you? Please part from me. If you go to the left, I will go to the right; if to the right, I will go to the left." [10] Lot raised his eyes and saw the whole Jordan plain, that all of it was well watered—this was before the LORD destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah—like the garden of the LORD, like the land of Egypt, as you go toward Zoar. [11] Lot chose for himself the whole Jordan plain and traveled eastward; so they parted from one another. [12] Abram lived in the land of Canaan, and Lot lived among the cities of the plain and pitched his tents as far as Sodom. [13] The men of Sodom were evil and sinned greatly against the LORD. [14] After Lot had parted from him, the LORD said to Abram, "Raise your eyes and look out from the place where you are, to the north and the south, to the east and the west. [15] All the land you see I will give to you and to your seed forever. [16] I will make your seed like the dust of the earth; if anyone could number the dust of the earth, your seed could be numbered too. [17] Get up, travel through the land, its length and its width, for to you I will give it." [18] Abram moved his tents and came to live by the oaks of Mamre, at Hebron; and there he built an altar to the LORD.

CHAPTER 14

[1] It happened in the days of Amraphel king of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of Goiim, [2] that they waged war against Bera king of Sodom, Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, Shemeber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela, which is Zoar. [3] All these came as allies to the Valley of Siddim, which is the Salt Sea. [4] For twelve years they had been subject to Chedorlaomer, but in the thirteenth year they revolted. [5] In the fourteenth year Chedorlaomer came, along with the kings allied with him, and defeated the Rephaim at Ashteroth-karnaim, the Zuzim at Ham, the Emim at Shaveh-kiriathaim, [6] and the Horites in their mountain, Seir, as far as El-paran, which lies beside the wilderness. [7] Turning back, they came to En-mishpat, which is Kadesh, and defeated the whole territory of the Amalekites, as well as the Amorites living in Hazazon-tamar. [8] Then out marched the king of Sodom, the king of Gomorrah, the king of Admah, the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela, which is Zoar, and they drew up for battle against them in the Valley of Siddim— [9] against Chedorlaomer king of Elam, Tidal king of Goiim, Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar: four kings against the five. [10] The Valley of Siddim was pit after pit of bitumen; as the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, they fell there, and those who survived fled to the mountains. [11] The enemy seized all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah and all their food, and went off. [12] They also seized Lot, Abram's brother's son, with his goods, and went off; for he was living in Sodom. [13] A survivor came and reported it to Abram the Hebrew, who was living by the oaks of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eshcol and of Aner; these were men in covenant with Abram. [14] When Abram heard that his brother had been taken captive, he mobilized his trained men, born in his household, three hundred and eighteen, and went in pursuit as far as Dan.* [15] He split up against them by night, he and his servants, defeated them, and chased them as far as Hobah, north of Damascus. [16] He recovered all the goods, and he also recovered his brother Lot and his goods, along with the women and the people. [17] After he returned from defeating Chedorlaomer and the kings with him, the king of Sodom came out to meet him in the Valley of Shaveh, which is the King's Valley. [18] Melchizedek, king of Salem, brought out bread and wine—he was priest of God Most High— [19] and he blessed him, saying, "Blessed is Abram by God Most High, Possessor of heaven and earth.* [20] And blessed is God Most High, who has handed your foes over to you." Abram gave him a tenth of all. [21] The king of Sodom said to Abram, "Give me the people, and keep the goods for yourself." [22] Abram answered the king of Sodom, "I have raised my hand to the LORD, God Most High, Possessor of heaven and earth, [23] that from a thread to a sandal thong I will take nothing that is yours, so you will never say, 'I made Abram rich'— [24] nothing for me, except what the young men have eaten and the portion of the men who went with me, Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre; let them take their portion."

CHAPTER 15

[1] After these events the word of the LORD came to Abram in a vision: "Do not fear, Abram; I am a shield for you. Your reward will be very great."* [2] Abram said, "Lord GOD, what will you give me, when I am going on without children, and the heir of my house is Eliezer of Damascus?"* [3] Abram went on, "You have given me no seed; so one born in my house is to be my heir." [4] And at once the word of the LORD came to him: "This man will not be your heir; one who comes from your own body—he will be your heir." [5] He took him outside and said, "Look up at the heavens and count the stars, if you can count them." Then he said to him, "So will your seed be." [6] And he believed the LORD, and he reckoned it to him as righteousness. [7] And he said to him, "I am the LORD, who brought you out from Ur of the Chaldeans to give you this land as your possession." [8] He replied, "Lord GOD, by what will I know that I am to possess it?" [9] He told him, "Take for me a three-year-old heifer, a three-year-old she-goat, a three-year-old ram, a turtledove, and a young pigeon." [10] He took all these for him, split them down the middle, and placed each piece facing its partner; but the birds he did not split. [11] Birds of prey swooped down on the carcasses, but Abram drove them off. [12] When the sun was about to set, a deep sleep fell upon Abram, and there was terror, a great darkness, falling upon him. [13] Then he said to Abram, "Know for sure that your seed will be strangers in a land not their own; they will serve the people there, and those people will oppress them four hundred years. [14] But the nation they serve I too will judge, and after that they will come out with great wealth. [15] You yourself will join your fathers in peace and be buried in good old age. [16] In the fourth generation they will come back here, for the guilt of the Amorite is not yet full." [17] When the sun had set and thick darkness had come, there appeared a smoking oven and a blazing torch that passed between those pieces. [18] That day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, saying, "To your seed I have given this land, from the river of Egypt to the great river, the river Euphrates: [19] the Kenite, the Kenizzite, the Kadmonite, [20] the Hittite, the Perizzite, the Rephaim, [21] the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Girgashite, and the Jebusite."

CHAPTER 16

[1] Sarai, Abram's wife, had not borne him children. She had an Egyptian maidservant named Hagar. [2] Sarai said to Abram, "Look, the LORD has prevented me from giving birth. Go in, please, to my maidservant; perhaps through her I will be built into a family." Abram heeded what Sarai said. [3] So after Abram had lived ten years in the land of Canaan, Sarai, Abram's wife, took her maidservant Hagar the Egyptian and gave her to her husband Abram as a wife. [4] He went in to Hagar, and she conceived; and when she saw she was pregnant, she looked down on her mistress. [5] Sarai said to Abram, "May the wrong I suffer fall on you! I put my maidservant in your arms, and now that she sees she is pregnant, I am of little account in her eyes. Let the LORD judge between me and you." [6] Abram said to Sarai, "Your maidservant is in your power; do with her what seems good to you." Sarai treated her harshly, and she ran away from her. [7] The angel of the LORD found her beside a spring of water in the wilderness, the spring on the road to Shur. [8] He said, "Hagar, Sarai's maidservant, where have you come from, and where are you headed?" She answered, "I am running away from my mistress Sarai." [9] The angel of the LORD told her, "Go back to your mistress and humble yourself under her hand." [10] And the angel of the LORD said to her, "I will multiply your seed so greatly that it will be too many to count." [11] The angel of the LORD also said to her, "You are now with child and will give birth to a son; you shall name him Ishmael, for the LORD has heard of your affliction. [12] He will be a wild donkey of a man, his hand against all and the hand of all against him; and he will live over against all his brothers."* [13] She called the name of the LORD who was speaking to her, "You are a God of seeing," for she said, "Have I truly seen here after the one who sees me?"* [14] That is why the well is called Beer-lahai-roi; it lies between Kadesh and Bered. [15] Hagar gave birth to a son for Abram, and Abram named the son Hagar had borne him Ishmael. [16] Abram was eighty-six when Hagar bore Ishmael for him.

CHAPTER 17

[1] When Abram was ninety-nine years old, the LORD appeared to him and said, "I am God Almighty. Walk before me and be blameless, [2] so that I may set my covenant between me and you and multiply you beyond measure." [3] Abram fell on his face, and God spoke with him: [4] "As for me, here is my covenant with you: you will be the father of a host of nations. [5] Your name will no longer be called Abram; your name will be Abraham, because I have made you the father of a host of nations. [6] I will make you fruitful beyond measure; I will make nations out of you, and kings will come from you. [7] I will establish my covenant between me and you and your seed after you, through their generations, as an everlasting covenant, to be God to you and to your seed after you. [8] To you and to your seed after you I will give the land where you are now a stranger, the whole land of Canaan, as a possession forever; and I will be their God." [9] God said further to Abraham, "And you, you must keep my covenant, you and your seed after you through their generations. [10] This is my covenant between me and you and your seed after you, which you are to keep: every male among you is to be circumcised. [11] You are to circumcise the flesh of your foreskin, and that will be the sign of the covenant between me and you. [12] At eight days old every male among you is to be circumcised, through your generations, the one born in the house and the one bought with money from any foreigner who is not of your seed. [13] Both the one born in your house and the one bought with your money must be circumcised; so my covenant will be in your flesh as an everlasting covenant. [14] An uncircumcised male, whose foreskin flesh has not been circumcised—that soul will be cut off from his people; he has broken my covenant." [15] God also said to Abraham, "Sarai your wife—you are not to call her Sarai; her name is to be Sarah. [16] I will bless her, and from her I will give you a son as well. I will bless her, and she will become nations; kings of peoples will come from her." [17] Abraham fell on his face and laughed, saying to himself, "Will a son be born to a man a hundred years old? Will Sarah, at ninety years, give birth?" [18] And Abraham said to God, "If only Ishmael might live in your presence!" [19] God said, "Not so; your wife Sarah will bear you a son, and you will name him Isaac. I will establish my covenant with him as an everlasting covenant for his seed after him. [20] And concerning Ishmael, I have heard you. I have indeed blessed him; I will make him fruitful and multiply him beyond measure. He will become the father of twelve chieftains, and I will make him a great nation. [21] But my covenant I will establish with Isaac, whom Sarah will bear to you at this season next year." [22] Having finished speaking with him, God went up from Abraham. [23] Then Abraham took his son Ishmael and all who were born in his house and all who were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abraham's household, and he circumcised the flesh of their foreskins on that very day, as God had told him. [24] Abraham was ninety-nine years old at the circumcision of the flesh of his foreskin. [25] His son Ishmael was thirteen years old at the circumcision of the flesh of his foreskin. [26] On that very day Abraham and his son Ishmael were circumcised. [27] All the men of his household, those born in the house and those bought with money from foreigners, were circumcised along with him.

CHAPTER 18

[1] The LORD appeared to him by the oaks of Mamre while he was sitting at the door of the tent in the heat of the day. [2] He raised his eyes and looked, and there were three men standing over against him. Seeing them, he ran from the tent door to meet them and bowed down to the ground. [3] He said, "Lord, if I have found favor in your eyes, please do not pass your servant by.* [4] Let a little water be fetched, and wash your feet, and recline under the tree. [5] I will get a morsel of bread so you can sustain your hearts; afterward you can go on, since that is why you have passed by your servant." They answered, "Do just as you have said." [6] Abraham hurried into the tent to Sarah and said, "Quickly, three seahs of fine flour! Knead it and make round loaves." [7] Abraham ran to the herd, picked out a calf, tender and choice, and gave it to the servant, who hurried to prepare it. [8] He took butter and milk and the calf he had prepared and set them before them; he himself stood beside them under the tree, and they ate. [9] They asked him, "Where is your wife Sarah?" He answered, "Here in the tent." [10] He said, "I will certainly come back to you when the season comes round again, and your wife

Sarah will have a son." Sarah was listening at the tent door, which was behind him. [11] Abraham and Sarah were old, well along in years, and the way of women had stopped for Sarah. [12] So Sarah laughed inwardly, thinking, "Now that I am worn out, am I to have delight, with my lord old as well?" [13] The LORD said to Abraham, "Why is it that Sarah laughed and said, 'Will I truly give birth, old as I am?' [14] Is anything too wonderful for the LORD? At the appointed time I will come back to you, when the season comes round, and Sarah will have a son." [15] Sarah denied it: "I did not laugh," because she was afraid. But he said, "No, you did laugh." [16] The men got up from there and looked out over Sodom, and Abraham was walking with them to see them off. [17] And the LORD said, "Am I to conceal from Abraham what I am doing, [18] when Abraham is certainly to become a great and powerful nation, and in him all the nations of the earth will be blessed? [19] For I have known him, so that he will instruct his sons and his household after him to keep the way of the LORD by practicing righteousness and justice, so that the LORD may bring about for Abraham what he has promised him." [20] Then the LORD said, "The outcry over Sodom and Gomorrah, how great it is! And their sin, how very heavy! [21] I will go down and see whether they have done entirely as the outcry that has reached me says; and if not, I will know." [22] The men turned from there and went on toward Sodom, while Abraham remained standing before the LORD. [23] Abraham came near and said, "Will you really sweep away the righteous along with the wicked? [24] What if there are fifty righteous in the city? Will you really sweep it away, and not forgive the place for the fifty righteous inside it? [25] It would be unthinkable for you to do such a thing, to kill the righteous with the wicked, treating righteous and wicked alike! Unthinkable for you! Will the Judge of all the earth not do justice?" [26] The LORD said, "If I find in Sodom fifty righteous inside the city, I will forgive the whole place on their account." [27] Abraham replied, "Here I have ventured to speak to the Lord, though I am dust and ashes. [28] What if the fifty righteous are five short? Will you destroy the whole city for the five?" He said, "I will not destroy it if I find forty-five there." [29] Once more he spoke to him and said, "What if forty are found there?" He answered, "I will not do it, for the sake of the forty." [30] He said, "Please, let the Lord not be angry, and let me speak. What if thirty are found there?" He answered, "I will not do it if I find thirty there." [31] He said, "Here I have ventured to speak to the Lord. What if twenty are found there?" He answered, "I will not destroy it, for the sake of the twenty." [32] He said, "Please, let the Lord not be angry, and let me speak just this once. What if ten are found there?" He answered, "I will not destroy it, for the sake of the ten." [33] When the LORD had finished speaking with Abraham, he went away, and Abraham went back to his place.

CHAPTER 19

[1] The two angels arrived at Sodom in the evening while Lot was sitting in the gateway of Sodom. Lot saw them, got up to meet them, and bowed with his face to the ground. [2] He said, "Look, my lords, please turn aside to your servant's house; stay the night and wash your feet, and then you can rise early and go your way." "No," they said, "we will spend the night in the square." [3] But he urged them so insistently that they turned aside to him and came into his house. He prepared a meal for them and baked unleavened bread, and they ate. [4] Before they had lain down, the men of the city, the men of Sodom, surrounded the house, young and old, the whole people from every end. [5] They called out to Lot, "Where are the men who came to you tonight? Bring them out to us so we may know them." [6] Lot went out to them at the doorway, shutting the door behind him, [7] and said, "Please, my brothers, do not do this evil. [8] Listen, I have two daughters who have never known a man. Let me bring them out to you, and you do with them as you see fit; only to these men do nothing, since for this reason they came under the shadow of my roof." [9] But they said, "Get out of the way!" and they said, "This fellow came here as a foreigner, and he must play the judge! Now we will treat you worse than them." They pushed hard against the man Lot and came close to breaking down the door. [10] But the men inside put out their hands, pulled Lot into the house with them, and shut the door. [11] And the men at the doorway of the house they struck with blindness, from the least to the greatest, so that they grew weary of looking for the doorway. [12] The men said to Lot, "Who else do you have here? A son-in-law, your sons, your daughters, whoever you have in the city, take them out of this place, [13] for we are destroying this place, since the outcry over them has grown great before the LORD, and the LORD has sent us to destroy it." [14] So Lot went out and spoke to his sons-in-law, who were taking his daughters, and said, "Up! Get out of this place, for the LORD is destroying the city." But in the eyes of his sons-in-law he was like someone joking. [15] As dawn was breaking, the angels pressed Lot: "Get up! Take your wife and your two daughters who are here, or you will be swept away in the punishment of the city." [16] When he delayed, the men took hold of his hand, his wife's hand, and the hands of his two daughters, because the LORD had compassion on him; they brought him out and left him outside the city. [17] As they were bringing them out, he said, "Flee for your life! Do not look back, and do not stop anywhere in the whole plain. Flee to the mountains, or you will be swept away." [18] Lot said to them, "Not so, please, my Lord! [*] [19] Look, your servant has found favor in your eyes, and you have shown great steadfast love to me by keeping my soul alive; but I cannot flee to the mountains, or the evil will catch up with me and I will die. [20] Look, this city is close enough to run to, and it is small. Let me flee there, please (is it not small?), and my soul will live." [21] He said to him, "Very well, I grant you this request too: I will not overturn the city you speak of. [22] Hurry, flee there, for I can do nothing till you get there." That is why the city was named Zoar. [23] The sun had come up over the land as Lot entered Zoar. [24] And the LORD rained down brimstone and fire on Sodom and Gomorrah, from the LORD out of heaven. [25] He overturned those cities and the whole plain, with all who lived in the cities and the growth of the ground. [26] But his wife looked back from behind him, and she became a pillar of salt. [27] Early in the morning Abraham went to the place where he had stood before the LORD. [28] He looked down over Sodom and Gomorrah and over all the land of the plain, and he saw smoke rising from the land like the smoke of a kiln. [29] So when God destroyed the cities of the plain, God remembered Abraham, and he sent Lot out from the midst of the upheaval as he overturned the cities where Lot had lived. [30] Lot went up from Zoar and lived in the mountains with his two daughters, because he was afraid to stay in Zoar; he and his two daughters lived in a cave. [31] The firstborn said to the younger, "Our father is old, and there is no man in the land to come in to us, as is the way of all the earth. [32] Come, let us get our father to drink wine and lie with him, so that we may keep seed alive through our father." [33] That night they gave their father wine to drink, and the firstborn went in and lay with her father; he was not aware of her lying down or of her getting up. [34] On the next day the firstborn said to the younger, "Look, last night I lay with my father. Let us get him to drink wine tonight as well; then you go in and lie with him, so we may keep seed alive through our father." [35] That night too they gave their father wine to drink, and the younger got up and lay with him; he was not aware of her lying down or of her getting up. [36] So both of Lot's daughters conceived by their father. [37] The firstborn gave birth to a son and named him Moab; he is the father of Moab to this day. [38] The younger, too, gave birth to a son and named him Ben-ammi; he is the father of the sons of Ammon to this day.

CHAPTER 20

[1] Abraham moved on from there to the land of the Negev and settled between Kadesh and Shur; and he stayed for a time as a foreigner in Gerar. [2] Abraham said of his wife Sarah, "She is my sister," so Abimelech king of Gerar sent for Sarah and took her. [3] But God came to Abimelech in a dream at night and told him, "You are about to die because of the woman you have taken; she is a married woman." [4] Abimelech had not gone near her. He said, "Lord, will you slay a nation even though it is righteous? [5] Did he not tell me himself, 'She is my sister'? And she, she too said, 'He is my brother.' With a whole heart and clean hands I have done this." [6] God said to him in the dream, "I too know that you did this with a whole heart, and I also held you back from sinning against me; that is why I did not allow you to touch her. [7] Now give the man's wife back, for he is a prophet; he will pray for you, and you will live. But if you do not give her back, know that you will certainly die, you and everyone who belongs to you." [8] Early in the morning Abimelech got up, summoned all his servants, and related all these things to them; and the men were greatly frightened. [9] Abimelech then summoned Abraham and said to him, "What have you done to us? How did I sin against you, that you have brought on me and my kingdom so great a sin? Deeds that should not be done you have done to me." [10] Abimelech also said to Abraham, "What did you have in view in doing this?" [11] Abraham answered, "I thought, 'There is surely no fear of God in this place, and they will kill me on account of my wife.' [12] And besides, she really is my sister, my father's daughter, though not my mother's daughter; and she became my wife. [13] So when God made me wander from my father's house, I told her, 'This is the kindness you are to do me: everywhere we go, say of me, "He is my brother."'" [14] Abimelech took sheep and cattle and male and female servants, gave them to Abraham, and gave his wife Sarah back to him. [15] Abimelech said, "My land lies before you; settle wherever seems good to you." [16] To Sarah he said, "See, I am giving your brother a thousand pieces of silver; it is for you a covering of the eyes before all who are with you, and with everyone you are vindicated."* [17] Abraham prayed to God, and God healed Abimelech, his wife, and his female servants, and they bore children. [18] For the LORD had shut fast every womb in Abimelech's household on account of Sarah, Abraham's wife.

CHAPTER 21

[1] The LORD attended to Sarah as he had said, and the LORD did for Sarah what he had promised. [2] Sarah conceived and bore a son to Abraham in his old age, at the appointed time God had told him. [3] Abraham named the son born to him, whom Sarah bore him, Isaac. [4] When his son Isaac was eight days old, Abraham circumcised him, as God had commanded him. [5] Abraham was a hundred years old at the birth of his son Isaac. [6] Sarah said, "God has brought me laughter; all who hear will laugh along with me." [7] And she said, "Who would have told Abraham that Sarah would nurse children? Yet I have borne a son in his old age." [8] The child grew and was weaned, and on the day Isaac was weaned Abraham held a great feast. [9] Sarah saw the son whom Hagar the Egyptian had borne to Abraham making sport. [10] She said to Abraham, "Cast out this slave woman and her son, for the son of this slave woman will not inherit along with my son Isaac." [11] This troubled Abraham greatly because of his son. [12] But God said to Abraham, "Do not be troubled over the boy and your slave woman. In all that Sarah tells you, listen to her voice, for it is through Isaac that your seed will be named."* [13] Yet I will make the son of the slave woman into a nation as well, because he is your seed." [14] Abraham got up early in the morning, took bread and a skin of water, and gave them to Hagar, placing them on her shoulder; he gave her the child and sent her away. She went off and wandered about in the wilderness of Beersheba. [15] When the water in the skin was used up, she left the child under one of the shrubs. [16] Then she went and sat down at a distance across from him, about a bowshot away, for she said, "Do not let me see the child die." As she sat across from him, she raised her voice and wept. [17] God heard the boy's voice, and the angel of God called to Hagar from heaven and said to her, "What is wrong, Hagar? Do not fear, for God has heard the voice of the boy there where he is. [18] Get up, lift the boy and take firm hold of him, for I will make him into a great nation." [19] Then God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water; she went, filled the skin with water, and let the boy drink. [20] God was with the boy, and he grew; he lived in the wilderness and became a bowman. [21] He made his home in the wilderness of Paran, and his mother got him a wife from the land of Egypt. [22]

About that time Abimelech, together with Phicol the commander of his army, said to Abraham, "God is with you in everything you do. [23] So now swear to me here by God that you will not deal falsely with me, my children, or my descendants; but as I have shown kindness to you, so you will show kindness to me and to the land in which you have lived as a foreigner." [24] Abraham said, "I swear it." [25] But Abraham complained to Abimelech about a well of water that Abimelech's servants had taken by force. [26] Abimelech said, "I do not know who did this; you never told me, nor did I hear of it except today." [27] Abraham took sheep and cattle and gave them to Abimelech, and the two of them made a covenant. [28] Then Abraham set seven ewe lambs of the flock apart by themselves. [29] Abimelech asked Abraham, "What are these seven ewe lambs that you have set apart by themselves?" [30] He replied, "You are to accept these seven ewe lambs from my hand as a testimony for me that I dug this well." [31] That is why that place was named Beersheba, because the two of them swore an oath there. [32] Thus they made a covenant at Beersheba; then Abimelech and Phicol the commander of his army got up and went back to the land of the Philistines. [33] Abraham planted a tamarisk at Beersheba, and there he called upon the name of the LORD, the Everlasting God. [34] And Abraham lived as a foreigner in the land of the Philistines for many days.

CHAPTER 22

[1] After these events God put Abraham to the test. He said to him, "Abraham!" and he answered, "Here I am." [2] He said, "Take your son, please, your only son, whom you love, Isaac, and go to the land of Moriah; offer him there as a burnt offering on one of the mountains I will tell you of." [3] Early in the morning Abraham got up, saddled his donkey, and took with him two of his servants and his son Isaac. He split wood for the burnt offering, and set out for the place God had told him of. [4] On the third day Abraham raised his eyes and saw the place in the distance. [5] Abraham said to his servants, "You stay here with the donkey; the boy and I will go on over there, worship, and come back to you." [6] Abraham took the wood for the burnt offering and put it on his son Isaac, while he took the fire and the knife in his own hand; and the two of them walked on together. [7] Isaac spoke to his father Abraham: "My father!" He answered, "Here I am, my son." He said, "Here is the fire and the wood, but where is the lamb for the burnt offering?" [8] Abraham said, "God himself will see to the lamb for the burnt offering, my son." And the two of them walked on together. [9] They came to the place God had told him of, and Abraham built the altar there, arranged the wood, bound his son Isaac, and placed him on the altar on top of the wood. [10] Then Abraham stretched out his hand and took the knife to slaughter his son. [11] But the angel of the LORD called to him from heaven: "Abraham, Abraham!" He said, "Here I am." [12] He said, "Do not stretch out your hand against the boy, and do nothing to him; for now I know that you fear God, since you have not held back your son, your only son, from me." [13] Abraham raised his eyes and looked, and there behind him was a ram caught in the thicket by its horns. Abraham went, took the ram, and offered it up as a burnt offering in place of his son. [14] Abraham named that place "The LORD will provide," as it is said to this day, "On the mountain of the LORD it shall be provided."* [15] The angel of the LORD called to Abraham from heaven a second time [16] and said, "By myself I swear, says the LORD: because you have done this and have not held back your son, your only son, [17] I will richly bless you and greatly multiply your seed, like the stars of the heavens and like the sand on the shore of the sea; and your seed will possess the gate of his enemies.* [18] And in your seed all the nations of the earth will be blessed, because you obeyed my voice." [19] Abraham returned to his servants, and they set out together for Beersheba; and Abraham stayed at Beersheba. [20] Some time after these events, Abraham was told, "Milcah too has borne sons to your brother Nahor: [21] Uz, his firstborn, Buz his brother, Kemuel the father of Aram, [22] Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph, and Bethuel." [23] Bethuel became the father of Rebekah. These eight Milcah bore to Nahor, Abraham's brother. [24] His concubine too, named Reumah, bore Tebah, Gaham, Tahash, and Maacah.

CHAPTER 23

[1] The life of Sarah was a hundred and twenty-seven years; these were the years of Sarah's life. [2] Sarah died in Kiriath-arba, which is Hebron, in the land of Canaan, and Abraham came to lament for Sarah and to weep over her. [3] Then Abraham got up from beside his dead and spoke to the sons of Heth: [4] "I am an alien and a resident among you. Grant me a burial site among you as my own property, so that I may bury my dead and remove her from my sight." [5] The sons of Heth replied to Abraham, saying to him, [6] "Listen to us, my lord. You are a mighty prince in our midst. Bury your dead in the best of our graves; not one of us will refuse you his grave for burying your dead."* [7] Abraham rose and bowed low to the people of the land, the sons of Heth, [8] and spoke with them: "If you are willing for me to bury my dead and remove her from my sight, listen to me, and intercede for me with Ephron son of Zohar, [9] that he may give me the cave of Machpelah that he owns, which is at the edge of his field. Let him give it to me for its full price in your presence as a burial site of my own." [10] Ephron was sitting there among the sons of Heth, and Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the hearing of the sons of Heth, of all who entered the gate of his city: [11] "No, my lord, listen to me. I give you the field, and the cave that is in it I give to you; in the presence of my people's sons I give it to you. Bury your dead." [12] Abraham bowed low before the people of the land [13] and said to Ephron in the hearing of the people of the land, "If only you would listen to me! I am giving the price of the field; take it from me, and let me bury my dead there." [14] Ephron answered Abraham, saying to him, [15] "My lord, listen to me. Land worth four hundred shekels of silver, between me and you, what is that? Bury your dead." [16] Abraham agreed with Ephron, and Abraham weighed out for Ephron the silver he had named in the hearing of the sons of Heth: four hundred shekels of silver, in silver that passes among merchants. [17] So Ephron's field in Machpelah, facing Mamre, the field and the cave in it, and every tree in the field within all its boundaries round about, was confirmed [18] to Abraham as his purchase in the presence of the sons of Heth, before all who entered the gate of his city. [19] After that Abraham buried his wife Sarah in the cave of the field of Machpelah facing Mamre, which is Hebron, in the land of Canaan. [20] Thus the field and the cave in it were confirmed to Abraham by the sons of Heth as a burial site of his own.

CHAPTER 24

[1] Abraham was old, well along in years, and the LORD had blessed Abraham in everything. [2] Abraham said to his servant, the eldest of his house, who managed all that he owned, "Place your hand, please, under my thigh, [3] and I will have you swear by the LORD, the God of heaven and the God of the earth, that you will not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites among whom I live, [4] but that you will go to my land and to my relatives and take a wife for my son Isaac." [5] The servant asked him, "What if the woman is unwilling to come with me to this land? Should I then take your son back to the land you came from?" [6] Abraham told him, "Beware of taking my son back there. [7] The LORD, the God of heaven, who took me from my father's house and from the land of my birth, who spoke to me and swore to me, 'To your seed I will give this land,' he will send his angel ahead of you, and you will take a wife for my son from there. [8] If the woman is unwilling to come with you, you will be released from this oath of mine. Only do not take my son back there." [9] So the servant placed his hand under the thigh of his master Abraham and swore to him about this matter. [10] The servant took ten camels from his master's camels and set out, taking all sorts of his master's goods with him; he got up and went to Mesopotamia, to the city of Nahor. [11] He made the camels kneel outside the city by the well of water at evening time, the time the women go out to draw water. [12] And he said, "LORD, God of my master Abraham, please let it happen for me today, and show steadfast love to my master Abraham. [13] Here I am standing by the spring of water, and the daughters of the men of the city are coming out to draw water. [14] May it be that the girl to whom I say, 'Please tip your jar so I may drink,' and who answers, 'Drink, and I will water your camels too,' is the one you have chosen for your servant Isaac. By this I will know that you have shown steadfast love to my master." [15] He had not yet finished speaking when Rebekah came out (she was born to Bethuel son of Milcah, the wife of Abraham's brother Nahor) with her jar on her shoulder. [16] The girl was very lovely to look at, a virgin; no man had known her. She went down to the spring, filled her jar, and came up. [17] The servant ran to meet her and said, "Please let me have a little water from your jar." [18] She said, "Drink, my lord," and quickly lowered her jar onto her hand and gave him a drink. [19] When she had done giving him a drink, she said, "For your camels too I will draw water, until they have drunk their fill." [20] She hurried and emptied her jar into the trough, ran back to the well to draw, and drew for all his camels. [21] Meanwhile the man was watching her closely, saying nothing, to find out whether the LORD had made his journey successful or not. [22] When the camels had done drinking, the man took a gold ring of half a shekel in weight and two bracelets for her wrists, ten shekels of gold in weight, [23] and said, "Whose daughter are you? Tell me, please. Is there room in your father's house for us to lodge?" [24] She told him, "I am the daughter of Bethuel, the son Milcah bore to Nahor." [25] And she said to him, "We have straw and feed in plenty, and also room to lodge." [26] The man bowed down and worshiped the LORD, [27] saying, "Blessed is the LORD, the God of my master Abraham, who has not withdrawn his steadfast love and his faithfulness from my master. As for me, the LORD has guided me on the way to the house of my master's brothers." [28] The girl ran and told her mother's household all this. [29] Rebekah had a brother named Laban, and Laban ran out to the man at the spring. [30] When he saw the ring and the bracelets on his sister's wrists, and when he heard his sister Rebekah's words, "This is what the man said to me," he went out to the man, and there he was, standing beside the camels at the spring. [31] Laban said, "Come in, you who are blessed by the LORD! Why stand outside? I have made the house ready, and a place for the camels." [32] So the man came into the house. The camels were unloaded and given straw and feed, and water was brought for washing his feet and the feet of the men with him. [33] Food was set before him to eat, but he said, "I will not eat until I have told my errand." Laban said, "Tell it." [34] He said, "I am a servant of Abraham. [35] The LORD has blessed my master richly, and he has become great. He has given him sheep and cattle, silver and gold, male and female servants, camels and donkeys. [36] Sarah, my master's wife, bore my master a son after she had grown old, and he has given him everything he has. [37] My master made me take an oath: 'You are not to take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I live; [38] instead, go to my father's house and to my clan and take a wife for my son.' [39] I said to my master, 'What if the woman will not come with me?' [40] He told me, 'The LORD, in whose presence I have walked, will send his angel with you and make your way successful, and you will take a wife for my son from my clan and from my father's house. [41] Then you will be released from my oath, when you have gone to my clan; and if they will not give her to you, you will be released from my oath.' [42] Today I came to the spring and said, 'LORD, God of my master Abraham, if you will indeed make successful the journey I am on, [43] here I stand beside the spring of water: let it be that the virgin who comes out to draw, to whom I say, "Please let me drink a little water from your jar,"* [44] and who says to me, "You drink, and I will draw for your camels too," is the woman the LORD has chosen for my master's son.' [45] I had not yet finished speaking in my heart when Rebekah came out with her jar on her shoulder; she went down to the spring and drew water, and I said to her, 'Please let me drink.' [46] She quickly lowered her jar from her shoulder and said, 'Drink, and I will water your camels too.' So I drank, and she watered the camels too. [47] I asked her, 'Whose daughter are you?' and she said, 'The daughter of Bethuel son of Nahor, whom Milcah bore to him.' Then I put the ring in her nose and the bracelets on her wrists. [48] And I bowed down and worshiped the LORD, and I blessed the LORD, the God of my master Abraham, who had guided me on the true way to take the daughter of my master's brother for his son. [49] So now, if you are going to show kindness and faithfulness to my master, tell me; and if not, tell me, so that I may turn to the right or to the left." [50] Laban and Bethuel answered, "This matter comes from the LORD; we cannot say anything to you, bad or good. [51] Here is Rebekah before you. Take her and go, and let her become the wife of your master's son, as the LORD has said." [52] When Abraham's servant heard their words, he bowed down to the ground before the LORD. [53] Then the servant brought out silver and gold jewelry and clothing and gave them to Rebekah; he also gave precious things to her brother and her mother. [54] He and the men with him ate and drank and stayed the night. When they got up in the morning, he said, "Send me off to my master." [55] But her brother and her mother said, "Let the girl stay with us some days, say ten; after that she may go." [56] He said to them, "Do not hold me back, now that the LORD has made my journey successful. Send me off so I may go to my master." [57] They said, "We will call the girl and ask what she says." [58] They called Rebekah and asked her, "Will you go with this man?" She answered, "I will go." [59] So they sent off their sister Rebekah with her nurse, along with Abraham's servant and his men. [60] They blessed Rebekah and said to her, "Our sister, may you become thousands upon ten thousands, and may your seed possess the gate of those who hate him!" [61] Rebekah and her maids got up, mounted the camels, and followed the man. So the servant took Rebekah and departed. [62] Isaac had just come back from Beer-lahai-roi, for he was living in the land of the Negev. [63] Toward evening Isaac went out to meditate in the field; he raised his eyes and looked, and camels were coming. [*] [64] Rebekah raised her eyes and saw Isaac, and she slipped down from the camel. [65] She asked the servant, "Who is that man walking across the field to meet us?" The servant said, "That is my master." So she took her veil and covered herself. [66] The servant told Isaac everything he had done. [67] Isaac brought her into the tent of his mother Sarah; he took Rebekah, she became his wife, and he loved her. And Isaac was comforted after his mother's death.

CHAPTER 25

[1] Abraham took a wife again; her name was Keturah. [2] She bore him Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak, and Shuah. [3] Jokshan became the father of Sheba and Dedan. Dedan's sons were the Asshurim, the Letushim, and the Leummim. [4] Midian's sons were Ephah, Epher, Hanoch, Abida, and Eldaah. All these were descendants of Keturah. [5] Abraham gave everything he owned to Isaac. [6] To the sons of the concubines Abraham had, he gave gifts; and while he was still alive he sent them away from his son Isaac, eastward, to the land of the East. [7] The span of Abraham's life, the years he lived, was a hundred and seventy-five years. [8] Then Abraham expired and died at a good old age, old and satisfied, and he was gathered to his people. [9] His sons Isaac and Ishmael buried him in the cave of Machpelah, in the field of Ephron son of Zohar the Hittite, facing Mamre, [10] the field Abraham had bought from the sons of Heth. There Abraham was buried, and Sarah his wife. [11] After Abraham died, God blessed his son Isaac; and Isaac lived near Beer-lahai-roi. [12] This is the line of Ishmael, Abraham's son, whom Hagar the Egyptian, Sarah's maidservant, bore to Abraham. [13] And these are the names of Ishmael's sons, named in the order of their birth: Nebaioth, Ishmael's firstborn; then Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam, [14] Mishma, Dumah, Massa, [15] Hadad, Tema, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah. [16] These are Ishmael's sons, and these their names, by their settlements and their camps: twelve chiefs by their tribes. [17] The years of Ishmael's life were a hundred and thirty-seven years; then he expired and died, and was gathered to his people. [18] They lived from Havilah to Shur, which faces Egypt as one goes toward Assyria. His lot fell over against all his brothers. [19] This is the line of Isaac, Abraham's son. Abraham became the father of Isaac. [20] Isaac was forty years old when he took as his wife Rebekah, daughter of Bethuel the Aramean from Paddan-aram and sister of Laban the Aramean. [21] Isaac pleaded with the LORD on behalf of his wife, since she was barren; the LORD responded to his plea, and his wife Rebekah conceived. [22] The children crashed against each other inside her, and she said, "If that is how it is, why am I like this?" So she went to seek the LORD. [*] [23] The LORD said to her, "Two nations are in your womb; two peoples will part from your body. One people will be stronger than the other, and the elder will serve the younger." [24] When her time to give birth came, there were indeed twins in her womb. [25] The first one came out reddish, all of him like a hairy mantle, and they named him Esau. [26] After that his brother came out with his hand gripping Esau's heel, so he was named Jacob. Isaac was sixty years old at their birth. [27] The boys grew up; Esau became a man who knew hunting, a man of the open country, while Jacob was a mild man who stayed among the tents. [28] Isaac loved Esau, because game was in his mouth; but Rebekah loved Jacob. [29] Jacob was boiling a stew when Esau came in from the open country, worn out. [30] Esau said to Jacob, "Let me swallow some of the red, that red there, for I am worn out." That is why he was named Edom. [31] But Jacob said, "First sell me your birthright, today." [32] Esau said, "Here I am, going to die; what good is a birthright to me?" [33] Jacob said, "Swear to me first, today." So he swore to him, and he sold his birthright to Jacob. [34] Jacob then gave Esau bread and stewed lentils; he ate and drank, got up and went off. So Esau treated his birthright with contempt.

CHAPTER 26

[1] There was a famine in the land, apart from the earlier famine that had come in the days of Abraham, and Isaac went to Abimelech king of the Philistines, at Gerar. [2] The LORD appeared to him and said, "Do not go down to Egypt. Settle in the land that I will name to you. [3] Live as a sojourner in this land, and I will be with you and bless you; for to you and to your seed I will give all these lands, and I will carry out the oath I swore to your father Abraham. [4] I will make your seed as many as the stars of the heavens, and I will give your seed all these lands; and through your seed all the nations of the earth will be blessed, [5] because Abraham listened to my voice and kept what I required of him: my commandments, my statutes, and my laws." [6] So Isaac stayed on in Gerar. [7] The men of the place asked about his wife, and he said, "She is my sister." He was afraid to say "my wife," for he thought, "The men of the place might kill me on account of Rebekah," since she was lovely to look at. [8] After he had been there many days, Abimelech king of the Philistines happened to look down through the window, and there he saw Isaac caressing his wife Rebekah. [*] [9] Abimelech summoned Isaac and said, "So she is your wife after all! Why did you say, 'She is my sister'?" Isaac answered him, "Because I thought I might die on her account." [10] Abimelech said, "What have you done to us? One of the people could easily have slept with your wife, and you would have brought guilt on us." [11] Then Abimelech gave orders to all the people: "Anyone who touches this man or his wife will certainly be put to death." [12] Isaac sowed seed in that land, and that same year he gathered a hundred times as much, for the LORD blessed him. [13] The man grew great; he went on growing until he was exceedingly great. [14] He owned flocks and herds and a large household of servants, and the Philistines grew jealous of him. [15] So the Philistines stopped up all the wells that his father's servants had dug in the days of his father Abraham, filling them with earth. [16] Then Abimelech said to Isaac, "Leave us, for you have grown far too strong for us." [17] Isaac left that place, camped in the Valley of Gerar, and settled there. [18] Isaac opened up once more the wells of water that had been dug in his father Abraham's days, which the Philistines had stopped up after Abraham died, and he called them by the same names his father had called them. [19] Isaac's servants dug in the valley and came upon a well of fresh running water there. [20] But the herdsmen of Gerar argued with Isaac's herdsmen and said, "The water belongs to us." So he named the well Esek, because they had disputed with him. [21] They dug another well, and there was a quarrel over that one too, so he named it Sitnah. [22] He moved on from there and dug yet another well, and over this one there was no quarrel. He named it Rehoboth, saying, "Now at last the LORD has given us room, and we will be fruitful in the land." [23] From there he went up to Beersheba. [24] That night the LORD appeared to him and said, "I am the God of your father Abraham. Have no fear, for I am with you; I will bless you and multiply your seed for my servant Abraham's sake." [25] Isaac built an altar there and called on the name of the LORD. He pitched his tent there, and his servants dug a well there. [26] Then Abimelech came to him from Gerar, together with Ahuzzath his friend and Phicol the commander of his army. [27] Isaac asked them, "Why have you come to me? You hate me, and you sent me away from you." [28] They answered, "We have clearly seen that the LORD is with you, so we said, 'Let there be a sworn agreement between us, between us and you; let us make a covenant with you: [29] you will do us no harm, just as we did not touch you, and just as we did you only good and sent you off in peace. You are now blessed by the LORD.'" [30] Isaac prepared a feast for them, and they ate and drank. [31] They got up early the next morning and swore to each other. Then Isaac sent them off, and they left him in peace. [32] On that very day Isaac's servants came and brought him news of the well they had been digging. "We have found water," they told him. [33] He named it Shibah, and that is why the city is called Beersheba to this day. [34] At forty years of age Esau married Judith daughter of Beeri the Hittite and Basemath daughter of Elon the Hittite. [35] They were a grief of spirit to Isaac and Rebekah.

CHAPTER 27

[1] When Isaac had grown old and his eyes had become so dim that he could not see, he called his elder son Esau and said to him, "My son!" He answered, "Here I am." [2] Isaac said, "Look, I am old now, and I do not know the day I will die. [3] So take your gear, your quiver and your bow, go out into the open country, and hunt some game for me. [4] Then prepare me a tasty dish of the kind I love and bring it to me to eat, so that my soul may bless you before I die." [5] Rebekah was listening while Isaac spoke to his son Esau. When Esau had gone out into the country to hunt game and bring it back, [6] Rebekah said to her son Jacob, "Listen, I heard your father tell your brother Esau, [7] 'Bring me some game and prepare me a tasty dish to eat, so that I may bless you in the presence of the LORD before I die.' [8] Now, my son, do what I say; follow my instructions. [9] Go to the flock and bring me two fine young goats from there, so that I can prepare them as a tasty dish for your father, the kind he loves. [10] You will take it in to your father to eat, so that he will bless you before he dies." [11] Jacob said to his mother Rebekah, "But my brother Esau is a hairy man, and my skin is smooth. [12] What if my father touches me? I will look like a deceiver to him, and I will bring on myself a curse instead of a blessing." [13] His mother answered him, "Let any curse on you fall on me, my son. Just do what I say: go and get them for me." [14] So he went and got them and brought them to his mother, and his mother prepared a tasty dish of the kind his father loved. [15] Rebekah then took the finest clothes of her elder son Esau, which she had with her in the house, and dressed her younger son Jacob in them. [16] She covered his hands and the smooth part of his neck with the skins of the young goats, [17] and she handed her son Jacob the tasty dish and the bread she had prepared. [18] He went in to his father and said, "My father!" Isaac answered, "Here I am. Which of my sons are you?" [19] Jacob told his father, "I am Esau, your firstborn. I have done what you asked of me. Now sit up and eat some of my game, so that your soul may bless me." [20] Isaac said to his son, "How did you find it so fast, my son?" He answered, "The LORD your God sent it my way." [21] Isaac said to Jacob, "Come close, my son, so that I can touch you and know whether you are truly my son Esau or not." [22] Jacob came close to his father Isaac, who touched him and said, "The voice is Jacob's voice, yet the hands are Esau's hands." [23] He did not recognize him, since his hands were hairy like his brother Esau's hands, and so he blessed him. [24] He asked, "Are you really my son Esau?" He replied, "I am." [25] Then he said, "Serve it to me, and let me eat some of my son's game, so that my soul may bless you." Jacob served it to him and he ate; he brought him wine as well, and he drank. [26] Then his father Isaac said to him, "Come here, my son, and kiss me." [27] He came close and kissed him, and when Isaac caught the scent of his clothes he blessed him, saying, "Ah, the scent of my son is like the scent of a field the LORD has blessed! [28] May God give you of the dew of the heavens and of the richness of the earth, and grain and new wine in abundance. [29] May peoples serve you and nations bow down before you. Be master over your brothers, and may your mother's sons bow down before you. Cursed be all who curse you, and blessed be all who bless you!" [30] Isaac had just finished blessing Jacob, and Jacob had barely left his father Isaac's presence, when his brother Esau came back from hunting. [31] He too prepared a tasty dish and brought it to his father. He said to his father, "Let my father sit up and eat some of his son's game, so that your soul may bless me." [32] His father Isaac asked him, "Who are you?" He answered, "I am your son, your firstborn, Esau." [33] Isaac was seized with a violent trembling and said, "Then who was it that hunted game and brought it to me? I ate it all before you came, and I blessed him; and blessed he will be!" [34] On hearing his father's words, Esau let out a loud and very bitter cry and said to his father, "Bless me too, my father, me as well!" [35] But Isaac said, "Your brother came deceitfully and took your blessing." [36] Esau said, "Is that not why he was named Jacob? He has cheated me twice now: he took my birthright, and now look, he has taken my blessing." And he asked, "Have you not kept back a blessing for me?" [37] Isaac answered Esau, "I have already made him master over you; I have given him all his brothers as servants, and I have supplied him with grain and new wine. So what is left that I can do for you, my son?" [38] Esau said to his father, "Is that the only blessing you have, my father? Bless me too, my father, me as well!" And Esau wept aloud. [39] His father Isaac answered him, "Away from the fatness of the earth your dwelling will be, and away from the dew of the heavens above.* [40] You will live by your sword and serve your brother. But when you grow restless, you will break his yoke off your neck." [41] Esau bore a grudge against Jacob because of the blessing his father had given him. Esau said to himself, "The days of mourning for my father are near; after that I will kill my brother Jacob." [42] When Rebekah was told what her elder son Esau had said, she sent for her younger son Jacob and said to him, "Your brother Esau is comforting himself with the thought of killing you. [43] So now, my son, do what I say: get up and flee to my brother Laban in Haran. [44] Stay with him for a while, until your brother's rage subsides, [45] until your brother's anger against you subsides and he forgets what you did to him. Then I will send for you and bring you back from there. Why should I lose you both in a single day?" [46] Then Rebekah said to Isaac, "I am sick of my life on account of the daughters of Heth. If Jacob takes a wife from the daughters of Heth, women like these, from the daughters of the land, what is my life worth to me?"

CHAPTER 28

[1] So Isaac called Jacob, blessed him, and gave him this charge: "Do not take a wife from among the daughters of Canaan. [2] Get up and go to Paddan-aram, to the house of Bethuel, your mother's father, and take a wife for yourself there from among the daughters of Laban, your mother's brother. [3] May God Almighty bless you, make you fruitful, and multiply you, until you become a company of peoples. [4] May he give the blessing of Abraham to you and to your seed after you, so that you may take possession of the land where you now live as a sojourner, the land God gave to Abraham." [5] Then Isaac sent Jacob off, and he went to Paddan-aram, to Laban son of Bethuel the Aramean, brother of Rebekah, who was the mother of Jacob and Esau. [6] Esau saw that Isaac had blessed Jacob and sent him to Paddan-aram to take a wife from there, and that when he blessed him he had charged him, "Do not take a wife from among the daughters of Canaan," [7] and that Jacob had obeyed his father and mother and gone to Paddan-aram. [8] Esau then realized that the daughters of Canaan did not please his father Isaac. [9] So Esau went to Ishmael and, in addition to the wives he already had, married Mahalath daughter of Abraham's son Ishmael, the sister of Nebaioth. [10] Jacob left Beersheba and set out for Haran. [11] He reached a certain place and spent the night there, because the sun had gone down. Taking one of the stones of that place, he put it under his head and lay down there to sleep. [12] He had a dream: there was a ladder standing on the earth with its top reaching the heavens, and the angels of God were going up and coming down on it. [13] And there was the LORD, standing above it, saying, "I am the LORD, the God of your father Abraham and the God of Isaac. The ground you are lying on I will give to you and your seed. [14] Your seed will be like the dust of the earth, and you will spread out west and east, north and south. Through you and through your seed all the families of the earth will be blessed. [15] Know that I am with you; I will watch over you wherever you go and will bring you back to this land. I will not leave you until I have done what I have promised you." [16] Jacob woke from his sleep and said, "The LORD really is in this place, and I did not know it!" [17] He was filled with fear and said, "How fearsome this place is! This is nothing less than the house of God; this is the gate of heaven." [18] Early in the morning Jacob got up, took the stone he had put under his head, set it up as a standing pillar, and poured oil over the top of it. [19] He called that place Bethel, though the city had formerly been called Luz. [20] Then Jacob vowed a vow: "If God will be with me and watch over me on this journey I am making, and give me bread to eat and clothes to wear, [21] and I return safely to my father's house, then the LORD will be my God. [22] This stone that I have set up as a pillar will be God's house, and of everything you give me I will give a full tenth to you."

CHAPTER 29

[1] Jacob continued on his way and came to the land of the people of the east. [2] As he looked around, he saw a well out in the open country, with three flocks of sheep lying beside it, because the flocks were watered from that well. The stone on the mouth of the well was a large one. [3] When all the flocks had been brought together there, the shepherds would roll the stone off the mouth of the well and water the sheep, and then put the stone back in its place on the mouth of the well. [4] Jacob asked them, "My brothers, where do you come from?" "We are from Haran," they said. [5] He asked them, "Do you know Laban, the son of Nahor?" "We know him," they answered. [6] "Is he well?" he asked them. "He is well," they said, "and here comes his daughter Rachel with the sheep." [7] He said, "The day is still long; it is not yet time to bring the livestock together. Water the sheep and take them back to pasture." [8] They replied, "We cannot, until all the flocks have been brought together and the stone has been rolled off the mouth of the well. Then we water the sheep." [9] He was still talking with them when Rachel arrived with her father's sheep, for she was the one who tended them. [10] As soon as Jacob saw Rachel, the daughter of his mother's brother Laban, with the sheep of his mother's brother Laban, he went up, rolled the stone off the mouth of the well, and watered the flock of Laban, his mother's brother. [11] Jacob kissed Rachel, and he raised his voice and wept. [12] He told Rachel that he was a relative of her father, Rebekah's son, and she ran off and told her father. [13] When Laban heard the news about his sister's son Jacob, he ran out to meet him, hugged him and kissed him, and brought him to his house. Jacob told Laban everything that had happened. [14] Laban said to him, "You are indeed my own bone and flesh." And Jacob stayed with him for a full month. [15] Then Laban said to Jacob, "Should you work for me for nothing just because you are my relative? Tell me what your pay should be." [16] Laban had two daughters; the elder was named Leah, and the younger was named Rachel. [17] Leah had tender eyes, but Rachel was shapely and lovely to look at. [18] Jacob was in love with Rachel, so he said, "I will work for you seven years for your younger daughter Rachel." [19] Laban replied, "Better that I give her to you than to some other man. Stay here with me." [20] So Jacob worked seven years to get Rachel, and because he loved her they seemed to him only a few days. [21] Then Jacob said to Laban, "My time is up. Give me my wife, so that I may sleep with her." [22] Laban brought together all the people of the place and held a feast. [23] But when evening came, he took his daughter Leah and brought her to Jacob, and Jacob slept with her. [24] Laban also gave his servant girl Zilpah to his daughter Leah to be her servant. [25] When morning came, there was Leah! Jacob said to Laban, "What have you done to me? Was it not for Rachel that I worked for you? Why did you trick me?" [26] Laban answered, "In our place it is not the custom to give the younger daughter before the firstborn. [27] Finish out this one's bridal week, and we will give you the other one too, in return for another seven years of work for me." [28] Jacob agreed and finished out Leah's week, and then Laban gave him his daughter Rachel to be his wife. [29] Laban gave his servant girl Bilhah to his daughter Rachel to be her servant. [30] Jacob slept with Rachel as well, and he loved Rachel more than Leah. And he worked for Laban another seven years. [31] The LORD saw that Leah was unloved, and he opened her womb, while Rachel remained barren. [32] Leah conceived and gave birth to a son, and she named him Reuben, for she said, "The LORD has seen my misery; surely my husband will love me now." [33] She conceived once more and had a son, and she said, "Because the LORD heard that I am unloved, he has given me this son too." So she named him Simeon. [34] Again she conceived and had a son, and she said, "Now at last my husband will become attached to me, for I have given him three sons." That is why he was named Levi. [35] She conceived yet again and had a son, and she said, "This time I will praise the LORD." That is why she named him Judah. Then she ceased having children.

CHAPTER 30

[1] Rachel saw that she was bearing Jacob no children, and she became jealous of her sister. She said to Jacob, "Give me sons, or I will die!" [2] Jacob grew angry with Rachel and said, "Am I in God's place? He is the one who has kept you from bearing children." [3] She said, "Here is my servant Bilhah. Sleep with her, so that she may give birth on my knees and I too may build a family through her." [4] So she gave him her servant Bilhah as a wife, and Jacob slept with her. [5] Bilhah conceived and bore Jacob a son. [6] Rachel said, "God has vindicated me; he has also heard my voice and given me a son." For that reason she named him Dan. [7] Rachel's servant Bilhah conceived once more and bore Jacob a second son. [8] Rachel said, "I have fought fierce struggles with my sister, and I have won." So she named him Naphtali. [9] When Leah saw that she had ceased having children, she took her servant Zilpah and gave her to Jacob as a wife. [10] Leah's servant Zilpah bore Jacob a son. [11] Leah said, "Good fortune has come!" So she named him Gad.* [12] Leah's servant Zilpah bore Jacob a second son. [13] Leah said, "How happy I am! The women will call me happy." So she named him Asher. [14] During the wheat harvest Reuben went out and came across some mandrakes in the field, and he brought them to his mother Leah. Rachel said to Leah, "Please let me have some of your son's mandrakes." [15] But Leah said to her, "Was it not enough to take away my husband? Now you want my son's mandrakes too?" Rachel said, "Very well, he may sleep with you tonight in return for your son's mandrakes." [16] When Jacob came in from the fields that evening, Leah went out to meet him and said, "It is me you must sleep with, for I have paid for you with my son's mandrakes." So that night he slept with her. [17] God heard Leah, and she conceived and bore Jacob a fifth son. [18] Leah said, "God has paid me my wages for giving my servant to my husband." So she named him Issachar. [19] Leah conceived once more and bore Jacob a sixth son. [20] Leah said, "God has presented me with a fine gift. This time my husband will honor me, for I have borne him six sons." So she named him Zebulun. [21] Later she gave birth to a daughter and named her Dinah. [22] Then God remembered Rachel; God heard her and opened her womb. [23] She conceived and had a son, and she said, "God has removed my disgrace." [24] She named him Joseph, saying, "May the LORD add another son to me." [25] After Rachel had given birth to Joseph, Jacob said to Laban, "Let me go, so that I can return to my own home and my own land. [26] Give me my wives and my children, for whom I have worked for you, and let me go. You yourself know how I have worked for you." [27] Laban said to him, "If I have found favor with you, stay. I have learned by divination that the LORD has blessed me on your account."* [28] He went on, "Name your wage, and I will pay it." [29] Jacob answered him, "You know how I have worked for you and how your livestock has fared in my care. [30] The little you had before I came has grown into a great deal, and the LORD has blessed you at every step I took. But now, when may I do something for my own household?" [31] Laban asked, "What shall I give you?" Jacob replied, "Do not give me anything. If you will do this one thing for me, I will go back to pasturing and keeping your flock. [32] Let me go through all your flock today and take out of it every speckled or spotted sheep, every dark lamb among the lambs, and every spotted or speckled one among the goats. They will be my wages. [33] My honesty will answer for me in days to come, whenever you come to check on my wages: any goat in my possession that is not speckled or spotted, or any lamb that is not dark, will be counted as stolen." [34] Laban said, "Agreed. Let it be as you say." [35] That same day Laban took out the streaked and spotted male goats and all the speckled and spotted female goats, every one that had some white on it, and every dark one among the lambs, and he put them in the care of his sons. [36] He put a three days' journey between himself and Jacob, while Jacob went on pasturing the rest of Laban's flocks. [37] Jacob then took freshly cut branches of poplar, almond, and plane trees and peeled white stripes in them, laying bare the white of the branches. [38] He placed the peeled branches in the troughs at the watering places, facing the flocks, where the flocks came to drink; and they mated when they came to drink. [39] The flocks mated in front of the branches, and they bore young that were streaked, speckled, and spotted. [40] Jacob set the lambs apart, and he made the flocks face the streaked and all the dark animals in Laban's flock. So he formed separate flocks for himself and did not put them with Laban's flock. [41] Whenever the sturdier animals were mating, Jacob would place the branches in the troughs in front of the flock, so that they would mate among the branches. [42] But when the animals were feeble, he did not place them there. So the feeble ones went to Laban, and the sturdy ones to Jacob. [43] In this way the man became exceedingly prosperous, and he came to own large flocks, female and male servants, camels, and donkeys.

CHAPTER 31

[1] Jacob heard what Laban's sons were saying: "Jacob has taken everything our father owned, and out of what belonged to our father he has built up all this wealth." [2] Jacob also noticed that Laban's face was not toward him as it had been before. [3] Then the LORD said to Jacob, "Go back to the land of your fathers and to your relatives, and I will be with you." [4] So Jacob sent word and had Rachel and Leah come out to the field where his flock was. [5] He said to them, "I can see from your father's face that he is not toward me as he was before. But the God of my father has been with me. [6] You yourselves know that I have worked for your father with all my strength, [7] and yet your father has deceived me and changed my wages ten times. But God did not let him do me harm. [8] Whenever he said, 'The speckled ones will be your wages,' the whole flock gave birth to speckled young; and whenever he said, 'The streaked ones will be your wages,' the whole flock gave birth to streaked young. [9] So God has taken your father's livestock away and given it to me. [10] Once, at the season when the flock was mating, I looked up and saw in a dream that the male goats mating with the flock were streaked, speckled, and mottled. [11] The angel of God said to me in the dream, 'Jacob!' and I said, 'Here I am.' [12] He said, 'Look up and see: all the male goats mating with the flock are streaked, speckled, and mottled, because I have seen everything Laban has been doing to you. [13] I am the God of Bethel, where you anointed a pillar and made a vow to me. Now get up, leave this land, and go back to the land of your birth.'" [14] Rachel and Leah answered him, "Do we still have any share or inheritance in our father's house? [15] Does he not treat us as foreigners? He sold us, and on top of that he has eaten up our silver as well. [16] All the wealth that God has taken away from our father is ours and our children's anyway. So now, do whatever God has told you." [17] Jacob got up and put his children and his wives on the camels, [18] and he drove off all his livestock and all the goods he had gathered, the livestock he had acquired and owned in Paddan-aram, to go to his father Isaac in the land of Canaan. [19] Laban had gone off to shear his sheep, and Rachel stole the household gods that belonged to her father. [20] And Jacob stole away unknown to Laban the Aramean, for he did not tell him he was running away. [21] He fled with all he had. He set out, crossed the River, and headed for the hill country of Gilead. [22] On the third day Laban was told that Jacob had fled. [23] Taking his relatives with him, he chased after him for seven days and caught up with him in the hill country of Gilead. [24] But God came to Laban the Aramean in a dream that night and said to him, "Be careful not to say anything to Jacob, either good or bad." [25] Laban caught up with Jacob. Jacob had pitched his tent in the hill country, and Laban and his relatives pitched theirs in the hill country of Gilead. [26] Laban said to Jacob, "What have you done? You have deceived me and carried off my daughters like prisoners taken by the sword. [27] Why did you run away in secret and steal away from me without telling me? I would have sent you off with rejoicing and songs, with tambourine and lyre. [28] You did not even let me kiss my sons and my daughters goodbye. You have acted foolishly. [29] I have it in my power to do you harm, but last night the God of your father said to me, 'Be careful not to say anything to Jacob, either good or bad.' [30] Now you have gone off because you were longing so much for your father's house. But why did you steal my gods?" [31] Jacob answered Laban, "I was afraid, for I thought you might take your daughters away from me by force. [32] As for your gods, whoever is found with them will not live. Here in front of our relatives, see for yourself whether anything of yours is with me, and take it." Jacob did not know that Rachel had stolen them. [33] Laban went into Jacob's tent, into Leah's tent, and into the tent of the two servant women, but he did not find them. Then he came out of Leah's tent and went into Rachel's tent. [34] Rachel had taken the household gods, put them inside the camel's saddle, and was sitting on them. Laban searched the whole tent with his hands but did not find them. [35] She said to her father, "Do not be angry, my lord, that I cannot get up in your presence, for the manner of women is upon me." So he searched but did not find the household gods. [36] Then Jacob grew angry and quarreled with Laban. "What is my crime?" Jacob said to Laban. "What is my sin, that you have come chasing after me so hotly? [37] You have gone through all my belongings with your hands. What have you found that belongs to your household? Put it here in front of my relatives and yours, and let them judge between the two of us. [38] For twenty years I have been with you. Your ewes and your female goats never lost their young, and I never ate the rams of your flock. [39] I did not bring you any animal torn by wild beasts; I made up the loss myself. You demanded payment from me for whatever was stolen, by day or by night. [40] This is how it was with me: the heat wore me down by day and the cold by night, and sleep fled from my eyes. [41] These twenty years I have spent in your household. I worked fourteen years for your two daughters and six years for your flock, and you changed my wages ten times. [42] If the God of my father, the God of Abraham and the Fear of Isaac, had not been with me, you would certainly have sent me away empty-handed by now. But God saw my hardship and the toil of my hands, and last night he gave his verdict." [43] Laban answered Jacob, "These daughters are my daughters, these children are my children, these flocks are my flocks; everything you see is mine. Yet what can I do today about these daughters of mine, or about the children they have borne? [44] So come, let us make a covenant, you and I, and let it serve as a witness between us." [45] Jacob took a stone and set it up as a pillar. [46] Then Jacob told his relatives, "Collect some stones." They took stones and piled them in a heap, and they ate there beside the heap. [47] Laban named it Jegar-sahadutha, and Jacob named it Galeed.* [48] Laban said, "This heap is a witness between you and me today." That is why it was named Galeed, [49] and also Mizpah, because he said, "May the LORD keep watch between you and me when we are out of each other's sight. [50] If you ill-treat my daughters, or if you take other wives besides my daughters, even though no one else is with us, remember that God is witness between you and me." [51] Laban went on to say to Jacob, "Here is this heap, and here is the pillar I have set up between you and me. [52] This heap is a witness and the pillar is a witness that I will not go past this heap to you, and you will not go past this heap and this pillar to me, to do harm. [53] May the God of Abraham and the God of Nahor, the God of their father, judge between us." So Jacob swore by the Fear of his father Isaac. [54] Jacob offered a sacrifice there on the mountain and invited his relatives to eat bread. They ate bread, and they spent the night on the mountain. [55] Early the next morning Laban got up, kissed his sons and his daughters, and blessed them. Then Laban set off and went back home.

CHAPTER 32

[1] As Jacob went on his way, angels of God came to meet him. [2] On seeing them Jacob said, "This is the camp of God!" So he named that place Mahanaim. [3] Jacob sent messengers ahead of him to his brother Esau in the land of Seir, the territory of Edom. [4] He instructed them: "This is what you are to say to my lord Esau: 'Your servant Jacob says this: I have been living as a sojourner with Laban and have stayed on until now. [5] I own cattle and donkeys, flocks, and male and female servants, and I am sending word to my lord in the hope of finding favor in your sight.'" [6] The messengers came back to Jacob and said, "We went to your brother Esau, and he is already on his way to meet you, with four hundred men." [7] Jacob was terrified and in great distress. He split the people who were with him into two camps, along with the flocks, the herds, and the camels. [8] He thought, "If Esau comes to one camp and attacks it, the other camp can still get away." [9] Then Jacob prayed, "O God of my father Abraham, God of my father Isaac, O LORD who told me, 'Go back to your land and your relatives, and I will deal well with you': [10] I am too small for all the steadfast love and all the faithfulness you have shown your servant. I crossed this Jordan with nothing but my staff, and now I have become two camps. [11] Save me, I pray, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau, for I am afraid of him, afraid that he will come and attack me, mothers and children alike. [12] Yet you yourself said, 'I will most certainly deal well with you and make your seed like the sand of the sea, too many to be counted.'" [13] He spent that night there. Then he chose from what he had with him a present for his brother Esau: [14] two hundred female goats and twenty male goats, two hundred ewes and twenty rams, [15] thirty milking camels with their young, forty cows and ten bulls, twenty female donkeys and ten male donkeys. [16] He handed them over to his servants, each herd separately, and told his servants, "Go on ahead of me, and keep some distance between one herd and the next." [17] He gave the first one these instructions: "When my brother Esau meets you and asks you, 'Whose man are you? Where are you heading? And who owns these animals in front of you?' [18] you are to answer, 'They belong to your servant Jacob. They are a present sent to my lord Esau, and he himself is right behind us.'" [19] He gave the same instructions to the second, to the third, and to all the others who were following the herds: "Say the same thing to Esau when you meet him, [20] and be sure to add, 'Your servant Jacob is right behind us.'" For he reasoned, "I will win him over with the present that goes before me; afterward I will face him, and perhaps he will receive me kindly." [21] So the present went on ahead of him, while he himself stayed that night in the camp. [22] During that night he got up, took his two wives, his two servant women, and his eleven children, and crossed the ford of the Jabbok. [23] After he had taken them and sent them over the stream, he sent across everything else he had. [24] Jacob was left by himself, and a man wrestled with him until daybreak. [25] When the man saw that he could not overpower him, he touched the socket of Jacob's hip, so that his hip was wrenched out of joint as he wrestled with him. [26] Then the man said, "Let me go, for dawn is breaking." But Jacob replied, "I will not let you go until you bless me." [27] He asked him, "What is your name?" "Jacob," he answered. [28] Then he said, "No longer will you be called Jacob, but Israel, because you have striven with God and with men, and you have overcome."* [29] Jacob asked him, "Tell me your name, please." But he said, "Why do you ask my name?" And he blessed him there. [30] Jacob named the place Peniel, saying, "For I have seen God face to face, and yet my life was spared." [31] The sun rose on him as he went past Penuel, and he was limping because of his hip. [32] That is why to this day the children of Israel do not eat the sinew of the thigh that lies on the hip socket, because he touched Jacob's hip socket at the sinew of the thigh.*

CHAPTER 33

[1] Jacob looked up, and there was Esau coming, with four hundred men. So he divided the children among Leah, Rachel, and the two servant women. [2] He placed the servant women and their children in front, Leah and her children behind them, and Rachel and Joseph at the rear. [3] He himself went on ahead of them and bowed to the ground seven times as he approached his brother. [4] But Esau ran to meet him, threw his arms around him, fell on his neck, and kissed him; and they wept. [5] Then Esau looked up and saw the women and children, and he asked, "Who are these with you?" Jacob answered, "The children with whom God has graciously favored your servant." [6] The servant women came forward with their children and bowed down. [7] Leah too came forward with her children, and they bowed down; last of all Joseph and Rachel came forward and bowed down. [8] Esau asked, "What do you mean by this whole company I met?" "To find favor in my lord's sight," Jacob answered. [9] Esau said, "I have plenty, my brother. Keep what is yours." [10] Jacob said, "No, I beg you! If I have found favor in your sight, accept this present from my hand. Seeing your face is like seeing the face of God, now that you have welcomed me so kindly. [11] Please take my gift of blessing that has been brought to you, for God has been gracious to me, and I have all I need." He kept pressing him, and Esau took it. [12] Then Esau said, "Let us set out and be on our way; I will go alongside you." [13] But Jacob said to him, "My lord knows that the children are tender, and I have nursing sheep and cows to look after. If they are driven hard for even one day, all the flocks will die. [14] Let my lord go on ahead of his servant, and I will move along slowly at the pace of the livestock in front of me and at the pace of the children, until I come to my lord at Seir." [15] Esau said, "Then let me leave with you some of the men who are with me." But Jacob said, "Why do that? Just let me find favor in my lord's sight." [16] So that day Esau started back on his way to Seir. [17] Jacob, however, traveled to Succoth. There he built a house for himself and made shelters for his livestock; that is why the place is called Succoth. [18] After coming from Paddan-aram, Jacob arrived safely at the city of Shechem in the land of Canaan, and he camped facing the city.* [19] For a hundred qesitahs he bought from the sons of Hamor, Shechem's father, the plot of ground where he had pitched his tent.* [20] He set up an altar there and called it El-Elohe-Israel.

CHAPTER 34

[1] Dinah, the daughter Leah had borne to Jacob, went out to visit the women of the land. [2] Shechem son of Hamor the Hivite, the ruler of that region, saw her; he seized her, lay with her, and violated her. [3] His heart clung to Dinah daughter of Jacob; he loved the girl and spoke to her heart. [4] Shechem said to his father Hamor, "Take this girl for me as my wife." [5] Jacob heard that Shechem had defiled his daughter Dinah, but his sons were out in the fields with his livestock, so Jacob kept silent until they came home. [6] Meanwhile Shechem's father Hamor went out to Jacob to talk with him. [7] Jacob's sons came in from the fields as soon as they heard of it. The men were deeply hurt and burning with anger, because Shechem had committed a disgraceful act in Israel by lying with Jacob's daughter, a thing that should never be done. [8] Hamor talked with them and said, "My son Shechem has set his heart on your daughter. Please let him have her as his wife. [9] Intermarry with us: give us your daughters and take our daughters for yourselves. [10] You can settle among us; the land will lie open before you. Live in it, move about in it freely, and acquire property in it." [11] Shechem also said to Dinah's father and brothers, "Let me find favor with you, and I will give whatever you ask of me. [12] Set the bride-price and the gift as high as you like, and I will pay whatever you tell me. Only give me the girl as my wife." [13] Jacob's sons answered Shechem and his father Hamor deceitfully, speaking as they did because Shechem had defiled their sister Dinah. [14] They told them, "We cannot do such a thing as give our sister to a man who is uncircumcised; that would be a disgrace for us. [15] We will consent to you on one condition only: that you become like us by having every male among you circumcised. [16] Then we will give you our daughters and take your daughters for ourselves; we will live among you and become a single people. [17] But if you will not listen to us and be circumcised, we will take our daughter and leave." [18] What they said pleased Hamor and his son Shechem. [19] The young man lost no time in doing it, for he was delighted with Jacob's daughter. He was also the most respected member of his father's household. [20] Hamor and his son Shechem went to the gate of their city and spoke to the men of their city. [21] "These men are friendly toward us," they said. "Let them live in the land and move about in it freely; the land, as you can see, has plenty of room for them. We can marry their daughters, and we can give them our daughters. [22] But the men will consent to live among us and become a single people only on this condition: that every male among us be circumcised, just as they are circumcised. [23] Their livestock, their goods, and all their animals, will they not be ours? Let us just consent to their terms, and they will settle among us." [24] All the men who went out through the gate of the city listened to Hamor and his son Shechem, and every male was circumcised, all who went out through the gate of his city. [25] Three days later, while they were still in pain, two of Jacob's sons, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brothers, took their swords, came upon the unsuspecting city, and killed every male. [26] They put Hamor and his son Shechem to the sword, took Dinah from Shechem's house, and left. [27] Jacob's sons came upon the dead and looted the city, because their sister had been defiled. [28] They carried off their flocks, their herds, and their donkeys, and everything else in the city and out in the fields. [29] All their wealth, all their little children and their wives, they took captive and carried away as plunder, along with everything in the houses. [30] Then Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, "You have brought ruin on me by making me a stench to the people who live in the land, the Canaanites and the Perizzites. I am few in number; if they join forces against me and attack me, I will be wiped out, I and my household." [31] But they said, "Was he to treat our sister like a prostitute?"

CHAPTER 35

[1] God said to Jacob, "Get up, go up to Bethel, and live there. Build an altar there to the God who appeared to you when you were fleeing from your brother Esau." [2] So Jacob told his household and everyone with him, "Get rid of the foreign gods you have among you; purify yourselves and put on fresh clothes. [3] Then let us set out and go up to Bethel, and there I will build an altar to the God who answered me when I was in distress and who has been with me wherever I have gone." [4] They handed over to Jacob all the foreign gods they had and the rings from their ears, and Jacob buried them under the oak near Shechem. [5] As they set out, a dread sent by God came over the cities all around them, and no one pursued Jacob's sons. [6] Jacob and all the people with him arrived at Luz, that is, Bethel, in the land of Canaan. [7] He built an altar there and named the place El-bethel, because it was there that God had revealed himself to him as he fled from his brother.* [8] Deborah, Rebekah's nurse, died and was buried under the oak below Bethel. So it was named Allon-bacuth. [9] After Jacob returned from Paddan-aram, God appeared to him once more and blessed him. [10] God said to him, "Your name is Jacob, but you will no longer be called Jacob; Israel will be your name." So he named him Israel. [11] God also said to him, "I am God Almighty. Be fruitful and increase in number. A nation, and a company of nations, will come from you, and kings will spring from your body. [12] The land I gave to Abraham and to Isaac I give to you, and to your seed after you I will give this land." [13] Then God went up from him at the place where he had spoken with him. [14] Jacob set up a standing stone at the place where God had spoken with him, a pillar of stone, and he poured a drink offering on it and poured oil over it. [15] Jacob named the place where God had spoken with him Bethel. [16] Then they set out from Bethel. While they were still some way from Ephrath, Rachel went into labor, and her labor was hard. [17] As she struggled in childbirth, the midwife said to her, "Do not be afraid; you have another son." [18] With her last breath, for she was dying, she named him Ben-oni; but his father named him Benjamin. [19] So Rachel died and was buried on the road to Ephrath, which is Bethlehem. [20] Jacob raised a pillar over her grave; it is the pillar of Rachel's tomb, which stands to this day. [21] Israel moved on and pitched his tent on the far side of the tower of Eder. [22] While Israel was living in that region, Reuben went and slept with his father's concubine Bilhah, and Israel heard about it. Jacob had twelve sons: [23] The sons of Leah were Reuben, Jacob's firstborn, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun. [24] The sons of Rachel were Joseph and Benjamin. [25] The sons of Rachel's servant Bilhah were Dan and Naphtali. [26] The sons of Leah's servant Zilpah were Gad and Asher. These were Jacob's sons who were born to him in Paddan-aram. [27] Jacob came home to his father Isaac at Mamre, near Kiriath-arba, that is, Hebron, where Abraham and Isaac had lived as sojourners. [28] Isaac lived a hundred and eighty years. [29] Then Isaac breathed his last and died and was gathered to his people, old and full of years. His sons Esau and Jacob buried him.

CHAPTER 36

[1] This is the family record of Esau, who is Edom. [2] Esau took his wives from among the women of Canaan: Adah daughter of Elon the Hittite; Oholibamah daughter of Anah, daughter of Zibeon the Hivite; [3] and Basemath daughter of Ishmael, sister of Nebaioth. [4] Adah bore Eliphaz to Esau, and Basemath bore Reuel. [5] Oholibamah bore Jeush, Jalam, and Korah. These were Esau's sons, born to him in the land of Canaan. [6] Esau took his wives, his sons and daughters, all the members of his household, his livestock and all his other animals, and all the goods he had gathered in the land of Canaan, and he moved to another land, away from his brother Jacob. [7] Their possessions had grown too large for them to live together; the land where they were sojourning could not sustain them both, because of their herds. [8] So Esau settled in the hill country of Seir; Esau is Edom. [9] This is the family record of Esau, father of the Edomites, in the hill country of Seir. [10] These are the names of Esau's sons: Eliphaz, son of Esau's wife Adah, and Reuel, son of Esau's wife Basemath. [11] The sons of Eliphaz were Teman, Omar, Zepho, Gatam and Kenaz. [12] Timna was a concubine of Esau's son Eliphaz, and she bore him Amalek. These were the descendants of Esau's wife Adah. [13] The sons of Reuel were Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah. These were the descendants of Esau's wife Basemath. [14] The sons of Esau's wife Oholibamah, daughter of Anah, daughter of Zibeon, whom she bore to Esau, were Jeush, Jalam, and Korah. [15] These were the chiefs among Esau's descendants. From the sons of Eliphaz, Esau's firstborn: the chiefs Teman, Omar, Zepho, Kenaz,* [16] Korah, Gatam, and Amalek. These were the chiefs descended from Eliphaz in the land of Edom; they were Adah's descendants. [17] From the sons of Esau's son Reuel: the chiefs Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah. These were the chiefs descended from Reuel in the land of Edom; they were descendants of Esau's wife Basemath. [18] From the sons of Esau's wife Oholibamah: the chiefs Jeush, Jalam, and Korah. These were the chiefs descended from Esau's wife Oholibamah, daughter of Anah. [19] These were the sons of Esau, that is, Edom, and these were their chiefs. [20] These were the sons of Seir the Horite, who were living in the land: Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, [21] Dishon, Ezer, and Dishan. These were the Horite chiefs, the sons of Seir in the land of Edom. [22] Lotan's sons were Hori and Hemam, and Timna was Lotan's sister. [23]

Shobal's sons were Alvan, Manahath, Ebal, Shepho, and Onam.
24 Zibeon's sons were Aiah and Anah. This was the Anah who discovered the hot springs in the wilderness while he was grazing the donkeys of his father Zibeon.* 25 Anah's children were Dishon and Oholibamah, Anah's daughter. 26 Dishon's sons were Hemdan, Eshban, Ithran, and Cheran. 27 Ezer's sons were Bilhan, Zaavan, and Akan. 28 Dishan's sons were Uz and Aran. 29
These were the Horite chiefs: the chiefs Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, 30 Dishon, Ezer, and Dishan. These were the Horite chiefs, listed by their chiefdoms, in the land of Seir. 31 These were the kings who ruled in the land of Edom before any king ruled over the children of Israel. 32 Bela son of Beor became king in Edom; his city was named Dinhabah. 33 When Bela died, Jobab son of Zerah from Bozrah succeeded him as king. 34 When Jobab died, Husham from the land of the Temanites succeeded him as king. 35 When Husham died, Hadad son of Bedad, who defeated Midian in the territory of Moab, succeeded him as king; his city was named Avith. 36 When Hadad died, Samlah from Masrekah succeeded him as king. 37 When Samlah died, Shaul from Rehoboth on the River succeeded him as king. 38 When Shaul died, Baal-hanan son of Achbor succeeded him as king. 39 When Baal-hanan son of Achbor died, Hadar succeeded him as king;
his city was named Pau. His wife's name was Mehetabel daughter of Matred, daughter of Me-zahab. 40 These are the names of the chiefs descended from Esau, by their clans and their localities, name by name: the chiefs Timna, Alvah, Jetheth, 41 Oholibamah, Elah, Pinon, 42 Kenaz, Teman, Mibzar, 43 Magdiel, and Iram. These were the chiefs of Edom, according to their settlements in the land they held. This was Esau, the father of the Edomites.

CHAPTER 37

1 Jacob settled in the land where his father had lived as a sojourner, the land of Canaan. 2 This is the family history of Jacob. Joseph, a young man of seventeen, used to tend the flock with his brothers; he was a helper to the sons of Bilhah and the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives. Joseph brought their father a bad report about them. 3 Israel loved Joseph more than any of his other sons, because he had been born to him in his old age, and he had a long robe with sleeves made for him.* 4 When his brothers saw that their father loved him more than all of them, they hated him and could not say a kind word to him. 5 Joseph had a dream, and when he told it to his brothers, they hated him all the more. 6 "Listen to this dream I had," he said to them. 7
"There we were, binding sheaves out in the field, when suddenly my sheaf got up and stood upright, and your sheaves gathered around it and bowed down to my sheaf." 8 His brothers said to him, "So you are going to be king over us? You are actually going to rule us?" And they hated him all the more because of his dreams and what he said. 9 Then he had yet another dream and told it to his brothers. "Listen," he said, "I have had another dream: this time the sun, the moon, and eleven stars were bowing down to me." 10 When he told it to his father as well as to his brothers, his father reproved him and said, "What kind of dream is this you have had? Are your mother and I and your brothers really going to come and bow down to the ground before you?" 11 His brothers were jealous of him, but his father kept the matter in mind. 12 Some time later his brothers went to graze their father's flock near Shechem. 13 Israel said to Joseph,
"Your brothers are grazing the flock near Shechem, are they not?
Come, I am going to send you to them." "I am ready," he replied.
14 So Israel said to him, "Go and see how your brothers are doing and how the flock is doing, and bring me back word." He sent him off from the Valley of Hebron, and Joseph came to Shechem. 15 A man came upon him wandering about in the countryside and asked him, "What are you looking for?" 16 "I am looking for my brothers," he said. "Can you tell me where they are grazing their flock?" 17 The man said, "They have left this place; I heard them say, 'Let us go to Dothan.'" So Joseph went on after his brothers and found them at Dothan. 18 They saw him in the distance, and before he reached them they plotted to kill him. 19 "Look, here comes that master of dreams!" they said to one another. 20 "Come on, let us kill him and throw him into one of these cisterns. We can say a wild animal ate him. Then we will see what becomes of his dreams!" 21 But when Reuben heard this, he rescued him from their hands. "Let us not take his life," he said. 22 "Do not shed any blood," Reuben told them. "Throw him into this cistern here in the wilderness, but do not lay a hand on him." He meant to rescue him from them and bring him back to his father. 23 So when Joseph reached his brothers, they stripped him of his robe, the long robe with sleeves he was wearing, 24 took him, and threw him into the cistern. The cistern was empty; there was no water in it. 25 Then they sat down to eat their meal. Looking up, they saw a caravan of Ishmaelites coming from Gilead, their camels loaded with gum, balm, and myrrh, which they were taking down to Egypt. 26 Judah said to his brothers, "What do we gain by killing our brother and covering up his blood? 27 Come, let us sell him to the Ishmaelites and not lay our hands on him; after all, he is our brother, our own flesh."
His brothers agreed. 28 So when the Midianite traders came by, they pulled Joseph up and lifted him out of the cistern, and they sold him to the Ishmaelites for twenty pieces of silver. And they took Joseph to Egypt. 29 When Reuben came back to the cistern and found that Joseph was not in it, he tore his clothes. 30 He went back to his brothers and said, "The boy is not there! And I, where can I turn now?" 31 Then they took Joseph's robe, killed a male goat, and dipped the robe in its blood. 32 They sent the long robe with sleeves on its way, and it was brought to their father with the message, "We found this. See whether it is your son's robe or not." 33 He recognized it and said, "It is my son's robe!
Some wild animal has eaten him; Joseph has been torn to pieces, without a doubt!" 34 Jacob tore his clothes, wrapped sackcloth around his waist, and mourned for his son a long time. 35 All his sons and daughters came to comfort him, but he would not be comforted. "No," he said, "I will go down to Sheol to my son in mourning." And his father wept for him. 36 Meanwhile the Medanites had sold Joseph in Egypt to Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh and captain of the guard.

CHAPTER 38

[1] About that time Judah left his brothers and went down to stay with a man of Adullam named Hirah. [2] There Judah saw the daughter of a Canaanite man named Shua. He married her and slept with her, [3] and she conceived and gave birth to a son, whom he named Er. [4] She conceived once more and gave birth to a son, and she named him Onan. [5] She had yet another son and named him Shelah; it was at Chezib that she gave birth to him. [6] Judah got a wife for his firstborn Er; her name was Tamar. [7] But Er, Judah's firstborn, was wicked in the LORD's sight, so the LORD took his life. [8] Then Judah told Onan, "Sleep with your brother's wife and fulfill your duty to her as brother-in-law, so as to raise up offspring for your brother."* [9] Onan knew, however, that the offspring would not count as his. So whenever he slept with his brother's wife, he let the semen spill on the ground to avoid providing offspring for his brother. [10] What he did was evil in the sight of the LORD, and the LORD took his life too. [11] Then Judah said to his daughter-in-law Tamar, "Live as a widow in your father's house until my son Shelah is grown." For he thought, "He too might die, like his brothers." So Tamar went to live in her father's house. [12] A long time afterward, Judah's wife, the daughter of Shua, died. After Judah had been consoled, he went up to Timnah to his sheepshearers, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite. [13] Tamar was told, "Your father-in-law is on his way up to Timnah to shear his sheep." [14] So she took off her widow's clothes, covered herself with a veil, wrapped herself up, and sat down at the entrance to Enaim, on the road to Timnah. For she saw that Shelah was now grown up, yet she had not been given to him as his wife. [15] When Judah saw her, he took her for a prostitute, since she had her face covered. [16] He turned off the road toward her and said, "Come now, let me sleep with you," not knowing she was his daughter-in-law. She asked, "What will you give me for sleeping with me?" [17] "I will send you a young goat from the flock," he answered. She said, "Only if you give me something as a pledge until you send it." [18] He asked, "What pledge should I give you?" She replied, "Your seal and cord, and the staff in your hand." He gave them to her and slept with her, and she became pregnant by him. [19] She got up and left, removed her veil, and put her widow's clothes back on. [20] Judah sent the young goat by his friend the Adullamite to get back the pledge from the woman, but he could not find her. [21] He asked the men who lived there, "Where is the cult prostitute who was beside the road at Enaim?" They said, "There has been no cult prostitute here."* [22] So he went back to Judah and said, "I could not find her. Besides, the men who live there said, 'There has been no cult prostitute here.'" [23] Judah said, "Let her keep what she has, or we will become a laughingstock. I did send this young goat, after all, and you could not find her." [24] Some three months later Judah was told, "Your daughter-in-law Tamar has acted as a prostitute, and what is more, she is pregnant as a result." Judah said, "Bring her out and have her burned!" [25] As she was being brought out, she sent a message to her father-in-law: "I am pregnant by the man who owns these." And she added, "Please take a close look: whose seal and cord and staff are these?" [26] Judah recognized them and said, "She is more in the right than I am, since I did not give her to my son Shelah." And he did not sleep with her again. [27] When the time came for her to give birth, there were twins in her womb. [28] During the delivery one of them put out a hand, and the midwife took a scarlet thread and tied it on his hand, saying, "This one came out first." [29] But he drew his hand back, and then his brother came out. She said, "So you have broken out for yourself!" That is why he was named Perez. [30] After that his brother came out, with the scarlet thread on his hand, and he was named Zerah.

CHAPTER 39

[1] Joseph had been taken down to Egypt, and Potiphar, an Egyptian, an officer of Pharaoh and captain of the guard, purchased him from the Ishmaelites who had taken him down there. [2] The LORD was with Joseph, so that he prospered, and he lived in the house of his Egyptian master. [3] His master saw that the LORD was with him and that the LORD gave him success in everything he undertook. [4] Joseph found favor with him and waited on him. Potiphar put him in charge of his household and entrusted to him everything he owned. [5] From the time he put him in charge of his household and of all he owned, the LORD blessed the Egyptian's household because of Joseph. The LORD's blessing rested on everything he had, both in the house and in the fields. [6] So he left everything he owned in Joseph's care, and with Joseph there he gave no thought to anything except the food he ate. Now Joseph was fine of form and fine to look at. [7] Some time later his master's wife set her eyes on Joseph and said, "Sleep with me." [8] But he refused. "Look," he said to his master's wife, "with me in charge, my master gives no thought to anything in the house; he has entrusted to me everything he owns. [9] No one in this house is greater than I am. He has withheld nothing from me except you, since you are his wife. How then could I commit such a great wrong and sin against God?" [10] Though she kept on speaking to Joseph day after day, he would not consent to lie beside her or even be with her. [11] One day he went into the house to do his work, and none of the household men were inside. [12] She grabbed him by his cloak and said, "Sleep with me!" But he left his cloak in her hand and ran out of the house. [13] When she saw that he had left his cloak in her hand and run outside, [14] she called her household servants and told them, "Look at this! He has brought in a Hebrew to make sport of us. He came in here to sleep with me, and I screamed. [15] When he heard me raise my voice and scream, he left his cloak beside me and ran out of the house." [16] She kept his cloak beside her until his master came home. [17] Then she told him the same story: "The Hebrew servant you brought us came in to me to make sport of me. [18] But when I raised my voice and screamed, he left his cloak beside me and ran outside." [19] When his master heard the story his wife told him, "This is how your servant treated me," he burned with anger. [20] Joseph's master took him and put him in the prison where the king's prisoners were held, and there he stayed in the prison. [21] But the LORD was with Joseph and extended steadfast love to him, and made him find favor with the warden of the prison. [22] The warden put Joseph in charge of all the prisoners held in the prison, and he was responsible for everything that was done there. [23] The warden did not look into anything under Joseph's care, because the LORD was with him, and the LORD made whatever he did succeed.

CHAPTER 40

[1] After this, the cupbearer and the baker of the king of Egypt gave offense to their lord, the king of Egypt. [2] Pharaoh was furious with his two officials, the chief cupbearer and the chief baker, [3] and he had them put in custody in the house of the captain of the guard, in the prison where Joseph was being held. [4] The captain of the guard assigned Joseph to them, and he waited on them. They remained in custody for some time. [5] One night the two of them, the cupbearer and the baker of the king of Egypt, who were held in the prison, each had a dream, and each dream had a meaning of its own. [6] When Joseph came to them in the morning and looked at them, he saw that they were downcast. [7] So he asked Pharaoh's officials who were in custody with him in his master's house, "Why do you look so gloomy today?" [8] "We each had a dream," they answered him, "and there is no one to interpret it." Joseph said to them, "Are not interpretations God's affair? Tell me your dreams." [9] So the chief cupbearer told Joseph his dream. "In my dream," he said to him, "there was a vine in front of me, [10] and the vine had three branches. As soon as it budded, it burst into blossom, and its clusters ripened into grapes. [11] Pharaoh's cup was in my hand; I took the grapes, squeezed them into Pharaoh's cup, and placed the cup in Pharaoh's hand." [12] Joseph said to him, "Here is what it means: the three branches are three days. [13] In three days Pharaoh will lift up your head and give you back your post, and you will place Pharaoh's cup in his hand, as was your custom before, when you served as his cupbearer. [14] Only remember me when things go well with you; do me the kindness of mentioning me to Pharaoh, and get me out of this house. [15] For I was kidnapped from the land of the Hebrews, and even here I have done nothing to deserve being put in this dungeon." [16] When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was favorable, he said to Joseph, "I too had a dream: there were three baskets of white bread on my head. [17] In the top basket were all sorts of baked goods for Pharaoh, a baker's handiwork, and the birds were eating them out of the basket on my head." [18] Joseph answered, "Here is what it means: the three baskets are three days. [19] In three days Pharaoh will lift up your head from you and hang you on a tree, and the birds will eat the flesh off you." [20] On the third day, Pharaoh's birthday, he gave a feast for all his servants, and in the presence of his servants he lifted up the head of the chief cupbearer and the head of the chief baker. [21] He put the chief cupbearer back in his position as cupbearer, and he once again placed the cup in Pharaoh's hand. [22] But the chief baker he hanged, just as Joseph had told them in his interpretation. [23] The chief cupbearer, however, did not remember Joseph; he forgot him.

CHAPTER 41

[1] Two whole years later Pharaoh had a dream: he was standing beside the Nile, [2] when up out of the Nile came seven cows, sleek and fat, and they began grazing among the reeds. [3] After them seven other cows came up out of the Nile, ugly and gaunt, and stood beside the first cows on the bank of the Nile. [4] Then the ugly, gaunt cows devoured the seven sleek, fat cows. And Pharaoh woke up. [5] He went back to sleep and dreamed a second time: seven heads of grain, plump and good, were growing on a single stalk. [6] After them seven other heads sprouted, thin and blighted by the east wind. [7] The thin heads swallowed up the seven plump, full heads. Then Pharaoh woke up, and it had been a dream. [8] In the morning he was deeply disturbed, so he summoned all the magicians and all the wise men of Egypt. Pharaoh related his dreams to them, but no one could interpret them for him. [9] Then the chief cupbearer spoke up and said to Pharaoh, "Today I must call to mind my failings. [10] Once Pharaoh was angry with his servants, and he put me and the chief baker in custody in the house of the captain of the guard. [11] One night he and I both had dreams, and each dream had its own meaning. [12] A young Hebrew was there with us, a servant of the captain of the guard. We told him our dreams, and he interpreted them for us, giving each of us the meaning of his own dream. [13] Things turned out just as he had interpreted them for us: I was restored to my post, and the other man was hanged." [14] So Pharaoh sent for Joseph, and they hurried him out of the dungeon. After he had shaved and changed his clothes, he came before Pharaoh. [15] Pharaoh said to Joseph, "I had a dream, and no one can interpret it. But I have heard it said of you that you need only hear a dream to interpret it." [16] Joseph answered Pharaoh, "It is not in me. It is God who will give Pharaoh an answer for his welfare." [17] Then Pharaoh told Joseph, "In my dream I was standing on the bank of the Nile, [18] when up out of the Nile came seven cows, fat and sleek, and they began grazing among the reeds. [19] After them seven other cows came up, scrawny, very ugly, and lean; I have never seen such ugly cows anywhere in Egypt. [20] The lean, ugly cows devoured the first seven fat cows. [21] Yet after they had eaten them, no one could have told that they had eaten them, for they looked just as ugly as before. Then I woke up. [22] I also saw in my dream seven heads of grain, full and good, growing on a single stalk. [23] After them seven other heads sprouted, shriveled, thin, and blighted by the east wind. [24] The thin heads swallowed up the seven good heads. I told this to the magicians, but none of them could explain it to me." [25] Then Joseph said to Pharaoh, "Pharaoh's dreams are one and the same. God has made known to Pharaoh what he is about to do. [26] The seven good cows are seven years, and the seven good heads of grain are seven years; it is a single dream. [27] The seven lean, ugly cows that came up after them are seven years, and so are the seven empty heads of grain blighted by the east wind: they will be seven years of famine. [28] It is just as I told Pharaoh: God has let Pharaoh see what he is about to do. [29] Seven years of great abundance are about to come throughout the land of Egypt, [30] but after them seven years of famine will follow, and all the abundance in the land of Egypt will be forgotten. The famine will ravage the land, [31] and the abundance in the land will leave no trace because of the famine that comes after it, so very severe will it be. [32] As for the dream being given to Pharaoh twice, it means that the matter has been firmly settled by God, and God will soon make it happen. [33] So now Pharaoh should seek out a man of understanding and wisdom and put him in charge of the land of Egypt. [34] Let Pharaoh act and appoint officials over the land, and collect a fifth of the land of Egypt's produce during the seven years of abundance. [35] Let them gather all the food of these good years that are coming, and pile up grain under Pharaoh's authority, to be kept as food in the cities. [36] This food will serve the land as a reserve for the seven years of famine that are coming on the land of Egypt, so that the land will not be ruined by the famine." [37] The plan seemed good to Pharaoh and to all his servants. [38] Pharaoh asked his servants, "Could we find anyone like this man, one in whom is the Spirit of God?" [39] Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Since God has made all this known to you, there is no one with understanding and wisdom like yours. [40] You will be in charge of my house, and by your word all my people shall be ruled. Only with respect to the throne will I be greater than you."* [41] Pharaoh said to Joseph, "I hereby put you in charge of the whole land of Egypt." [42] Pharaoh took his signet ring off his hand and put it on Joseph's hand. He had him dressed in robes of fine linen and placed a gold chain around his neck. [43] He had him ride in the second chariot he owned, and they called out ahead of him, "Abrek!" So he put him in charge of the whole land of Egypt.* [44] Pharaoh also said to Joseph, "I am Pharaoh, but apart from you no one will raise hand or foot anywhere in the land of Egypt." [45] Pharaoh gave Joseph the name Zaphenath-paneah, and he gave him Asenath daughter of Potiphera, priest of On, to be his wife. And Joseph went out over the land of Egypt. [46] Joseph was thirty years old when he took his stand before Pharaoh king of Egypt. Joseph left Pharaoh's presence and traveled throughout the land of Egypt. [47] In the seven years of abundance the land produced in handfuls. [48] Joseph collected all the food of the seven years that came on the land of Egypt and stored the food in the cities, placing in each city the food from the fields surrounding it. [49] Joseph piled up grain in great quantity, like the sand of the sea, until he gave up keeping count, because it was past measuring. [50] Before the year of famine came, two sons were born to Joseph by Asenath daughter of Potiphera, priest of On. [51] Joseph named the firstborn Manasseh, "Because God has made me forget all my trouble and all my father's house." [52] The second he named Ephraim, "Because God has made me fruitful in the land of my affliction." [53] The seven years of abundance in the land of Egypt came to an end, [54] and the seven years of famine began, just as Joseph had said. There was famine in every land, but throughout the land of Egypt there was bread. [55] When the whole land of Egypt began to feel the famine, the people cried out to Pharaoh for bread, and Pharaoh told all the Egyptians, "Go to Joseph and do whatever he tells you." [56] The famine spread over the whole face of the earth, and Joseph opened all the storehouses and sold grain to the Egyptians, for the famine grew severe in the land of Egypt. [57] People from all the earth came to Egypt to buy grain from Joseph, because the famine was severe over all the earth.

CHAPTER 42

[1] Jacob learned that there was grain for sale in Egypt, and he said to his sons, "Why do you keep staring at one another?" [2] He went on, "I have heard that there is grain in Egypt. Go down and buy some for us there, so that we may stay alive and not die." [3] So ten of Joseph's brothers went down to buy grain from Egypt. [4] But Jacob would not send Joseph's brother Benjamin with his brothers, for he said, "Something bad might happen to him." [5] So the children of Israel came to buy grain along with the others who were coming, for the famine had reached the land of Canaan. [6] Joseph was the ruler over the land, the one who sold grain to all its people. When Joseph's brothers arrived, they bowed down before him with their faces to the ground. [7] As soon as Joseph saw his brothers, he recognized them, but he acted like a stranger toward them and spoke roughly to them. "Where do you come from?" he asked. "From the land of Canaan," they said, "to buy food." [8] Joseph recognized his brothers, but they did not recognize him. [9] Then Joseph remembered the dreams he had dreamed about them, and he said to them, "You are spies! You have come to see where the land lies exposed." [10] "No, my lord," they answered him. "Your servants have come to buy food. [11] We are all sons of one man. We are honest men; your servants are not spies." [12] "Not so," he told them. "You have come to see where the land lies exposed." [13] They said, "Your servants are twelve brothers, sons of one man in the land of Canaan. The youngest is now with our father, and one is no longer living." [14] Joseph said to them, "It is just as I told you: you are spies! [15] This is how you will be put to the test: as Pharaoh lives, you will not leave this place unless your youngest brother comes here. [16] Send one of your number to fetch your brother, while the rest of you are kept in confinement. Then your words will be tested to see whether you are telling the truth. If not, as Pharaoh lives, you are spies!" [17] And he locked them all up in custody for three days. [18] On the third day Joseph said to them, "Do this and you will live, for I fear God. [19] If you are honest men, let one of your brothers stay bound in the house where you are held, while the rest of you go and take grain home to your starving families. [20] Then bring your youngest brother to me. That way your words will be proved true, and you will not die." And they agreed to this. [21] They said to one another, "Surely we are bearing the guilt for what we did to our brother. We saw how distressed he was when he begged us for mercy, and we would not listen. That is why this distress has come upon us." [22] Reuben answered them, "Did I not tell you not to sin against the boy? But you would not listen. Now there is a reckoning for his blood." [23] They did not know that Joseph could understand them, since he was using an interpreter. [24] He turned away from them and wept. Then he came back and spoke to them, and he took Simeon from among them and had him bound before their eyes. [25] Joseph gave orders to fill their containers with grain, to return each man's silver to his sack, and to give them supplies for the journey. This was done for them. [26] They loaded the grain on their donkeys and set off from there. [27] At the place where they spent the night, one of them opened his sack to feed his donkey, and he saw his silver right there in the mouth of his bag. [28] "My silver has been returned!" he said to his brothers. "Here it is in my bag!" Their hearts sank, and they turned to one another trembling and said, "What is this God has done to us?" [29] When they reached their father Jacob in the land of Canaan, they told him everything that had happened to them. [30] "The man who is lord of the land spoke roughly to us," they said, "and treated us as men spying on the country. [31] We told him, 'We are honest men, not spies. [32] We are twelve brothers, sons of the same father. One is no longer living, and the youngest is now with our father in the land of Canaan.' [33] Then the man who is lord of the land told us, 'This is how I will know whether you are honest men: leave one of your brothers here with me, take grain for your starving families, and go. [34] But bring your youngest brother to me, so that I will know you are not spies but honest men. Then I will give your brother back to you, and you may move about the land freely.'" [35] Then, as they were emptying their sacks, there in each man's sack was his pouch of silver! When they and their father saw the pouches of silver, they were frightened. [36] Their father Jacob said to them, "You are robbing me of my children! Joseph is gone, Simeon is gone, and now you want to take Benjamin. All of this falls on me!" [37] Then Reuben said to his father, "You may put my two sons to death if I do not bring him back to you. Entrust him to my care, and I will bring him back to you." [38] But Jacob said, "My son will not go down with you. His brother is dead, and he is the only one left. If any harm comes to him on the journey you are taking, you will bring my gray head down to Sheol in grief."

CHAPTER 43

[1] The famine weighed heavily on the land. [2] So when they had used up the grain they had brought back from Egypt, their father said to them, "Go back and buy us a little food." [3] But Judah told him, "The man gave us a stern warning: 'You will not see my face unless your brother is with you.' [4] If you send our brother along with us, we will go down and buy food for you. [5] But if you do not send him, we will not go down, because the man told us, 'You will not see my face unless your brother is with you.'" [6] Israel said, "Why did you bring this trouble on me by telling the man you had another brother?" [7] They answered, "The man kept asking about us and our relatives: 'Is your father still living? Have you another brother?' We simply answered his questions. How could we have known he would say, 'Bring your brother down here'?" [8] Then Judah said to his father Israel, "Send the boy along with me, and let us be on our way, so that we may live and not die, we and you and our little ones too. [9] I myself will stand surety for him; you may demand him back from my hand. If I do not bring him back to you and set him here before you, I will bear the blame before you all my life. [10] If we had not wasted so much time, we could have gone and come back twice by now." [11] Their father Israel said to them, "If it has to be, then do this: put some of the land's finest products in your bags and take them down to the man as a present, a little balm and a little honey, gum and myrrh, pistachio nuts and almonds.* [12] Take twice the amount of silver with you, and take back the silver that was returned in the mouths of your sacks; it may have been a mistake. [13] Take your brother too, and set out and go back to the man. [14] May God Almighty move the man to show you mercy, so that he will let your other brother and Benjamin go free. As for me, if I must be bereaved, then bereaved I will be." [15] So the men took the present, and they took twice the amount of silver with them, and Benjamin. They set out, went down to Egypt, and presented themselves to Joseph. [16] When Joseph saw Benjamin with them, he told the man in charge of his house, "Take these men to the house; slaughter an animal and get it ready, for they will dine with me at noon." [17] The man did as Joseph told him and took the men to Joseph's house. [18] The men were frightened at being taken to Joseph's house. They said, "We are being brought here because of the silver that was put back in our sacks the first time. He wants to set upon us, overpower us, and seize us as servants, along with our donkeys." [19] So they approached the man in charge of Joseph's house and spoke to him at the door of the house. [20] "Please, my lord," they said, "we did come down the first time to buy food. [21] But when we reached the place where we stopped for the night, we opened our sacks, and there was each man's silver at the mouth of his sack, our silver in its full weight. So we have brought it back with us. [22] We have also brought down more silver with us to buy food. We have no idea who put our silver in our sacks." [23] He replied, "Peace to you; do not be afraid. Your God, the God of your father, has put treasure in your sacks for you. I received your silver." Then he brought Simeon out to them. [24] The man took the men into Joseph's house and gave them water to wash their feet, and he gave their donkeys feed. [25] They got the present ready for Joseph's arrival at noon, for they had heard that they were to eat a meal there. [26] When Joseph came home, they brought the present they had with them into the house to him and bowed down to the ground before him. [27] He asked how they were, and then he said, "How is your aged father you told me about? Is he still living?" [28] "Your servant our father is well," they replied. "He is still living." And they bowed low and paid him homage. [29] Looking up, he saw his brother Benjamin, his own mother's son, and asked, "Is this your youngest brother, the one you told me about?" And he said, "May God be gracious to you, my son." [30] Then Joseph hurried out, for he was deeply stirred at the sight of his brother, and he looked for a place to weep. He went into his private room and wept there. [31] After washing his face he came out, and keeping himself under control, he said, "Serve the meal." [32] They served him by himself, the brothers by themselves, and the Egyptians who ate with him by themselves, because Egyptians could not eat with Hebrews; that is an abomination to the Egyptians. [33] They were seated before him in order of age, from the firstborn by right of his birth to the youngest according to his youth, and the men looked at one another in astonishment. [34] He had portions carried to them from his table, and Benjamin's portion was five times larger than any of the others'. So they drank and made merry with him.

[1] Joseph gave these orders to the man in charge of his house: "Fill the men's sacks with as much food as they can carry, and put each man's silver in the mouth of his sack. [2] Then put my cup, the silver one, in the mouth of the youngest one's sack, along with the silver for his grain." He did what Joseph told him. [3] At first light the men were sent on their way, they and their donkeys. [4] They had left the city but had not gone far when Joseph said to the man in charge of his house, "Go after those men at once. When you catch up with them, say to them, 'Why have you paid back evil for good? [5] Is this not the cup my lord drinks from, and the one he uses for divination? What you have done is wicked.'" [6] When he caught up with them, he repeated these words to them. [7] But they said to him, "Why does my lord say such things? Your servants would never do anything like that! [8] We even brought back to you from the land of Canaan the silver we found in the mouths of our sacks. Why would we steal silver or gold from your master's house? [9] If any of your servants is found to have it, let him die, and the rest of us will become my lord's servants." [10] He said, "All right, then, let it be as you say: the one who is found to have it will become my servant, but the rest of you will go free of blame." [11] Each of them quickly lowered his sack to the ground and opened it. [12] Then he searched, starting with the oldest and finishing with the youngest, and the cup turned up in Benjamin's sack. [13] At this they tore their clothes. Then each of them loaded his donkey, and they went back to the city. [14] Joseph was still in the house when Judah and his brothers arrived, and they threw themselves on the ground before him. [15] Joseph said to them, "What is this you have done? Did you not know that a man like me can find things out by divination?" [16] Judah replied, "What can we say to my lord? What can we plead? How can we prove our innocence? God has uncovered your servants' guilt. We are now my lord's servants, we ourselves as well as the one who was found with the cup." [17] But Joseph said, "Far be it from me to do such a thing! Only the man who was found with the cup will be my servant. As for the rest of you, go back in peace to your father." [18] Then Judah went up to him and said, "Please, my lord, allow your servant to say a word in my lord's hearing, and do not let your anger flare up against your servant, for you are the equal of Pharaoh himself. [19] My lord asked his servants, 'Do you have a father or a brother?' [20] And we told my lord, 'We have an aged father, and there is a young son born to him in his old age. That boy's brother is dead; he is the only one of his mother's sons left, and his father loves him.' [21] Then you told your servants, 'Bring him down to me so that I can see him with my own eyes.' [22] We said to my lord, 'The boy cannot leave his father; if he were to leave him, his father would die.' [23] But you told your servants, 'If your youngest brother does not come down with you, you will never see my face again.' [24] When we went back to your servant my father, we told him what my lord had said. [25] Later our father said, 'Go back and buy us a little food.' [26] But we answered, 'We cannot go down. Only if our youngest brother is with us will we go down, because we cannot see the man's face unless our youngest brother is with us.' [27] Your servant my father said to us, 'You know that my wife bore me two sons. [28] One of them went away from me, and I said, "He must have been torn to pieces." I have not seen him since. [29] If you take this one from me too and harm comes to him, you will bring my gray head down to Sheol in misery.' [30] So now, if I go back to your servant my father and the boy is not with us, since his very life is bound up with the boy's life, [31] then as soon as he sees that the boy is not with us, he will die, and your servants will have brought the gray head of your servant our father down to Sheol in grief. [32] For your servant became surety for the boy to my father, saying, 'If I do not bring him back to you, I will bear the blame before my father all my life.' [33] So now, please let your servant stay here as my lord's servant in place of the boy, and let the boy go back with his brothers. [34] How can I go back to my father if the boy is not with me? I could not bear to see the misery that would come upon my father."

CHAPTER 45

[1] Joseph could no longer hold himself back in front of all his attendants, and he called out, "Have everyone leave my presence!" So no one else was with him when Joseph revealed himself to his brothers. [2] He wept so loudly that the Egyptians heard it, and Pharaoh's household heard of it. [3] Joseph said to his brothers, "I am Joseph! Is my father really still living?" But his brothers could not answer him, so shaken were they in his presence. [4] Then Joseph said to his brothers, "Come closer to me." When they had come closer, he said, "I am Joseph, your brother, the one you sold into Egypt. [5] But now, do not be distressed, and do not reproach yourselves for selling me here, because it was to save lives that God sent me ahead of you. [6] For two years now the famine has been in the land, and for five more years there will be no plowing and no harvest. [7] God sent me ahead of you to secure for you a remnant on the earth and to keep you alive by a great rescue. [8] So it was not you who sent me here, but God. He has made me a father to Pharaoh, master of his entire household, and ruler over the whole land of Egypt. [9] Go back quickly to my father and tell him, 'This is what your son Joseph says: God has made me master of all Egypt. Come down to me without delay. [10] You will live in the region of Goshen and be near me, you, your children and grandchildren, your flocks and herds, and everything you own. [11] I will provide for you there, since five years of famine are still to come; otherwise you and your household and all who are yours will fall into poverty.' [12] You can see for yourselves, and so can my brother Benjamin, that it is I myself who am speaking to you. [13] Tell my father about all the glory I have in Egypt and about everything you have seen. And hurry, bring my father down here." [14] Then he fell on his brother Benjamin's neck and wept, and Benjamin wept on his neck. [15] He kissed all his brothers and wept over them, and after that his brothers talked with him. [16] When word reached Pharaoh's palace that Joseph's brothers had come, Pharaoh and his servants were pleased. [17] Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Tell your brothers, 'Do this: load your animals and go back to the land of Canaan. [18] Bring your father and your families and come to me. I will give you the best of the land of Egypt, and you will feed on the richness of the land.' [19] You are also to tell them, 'Do this: take carts from the land of Egypt for your little ones and your wives, and bring your father and come. [20] Never mind your belongings, for the best of the whole land of Egypt will be yours.'" [21] The children of Israel did this. Joseph gave them carts as Pharaoh had ordered, and he gave them supplies for the journey. [22] He gave each of them a set of clothes, but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver and five sets of clothes. [23] To his father he sent the following: ten donkeys loaded with the good things of Egypt, and ten female donkeys loaded with grain, bread, and other food for his father's journey. [24] Then he sent his brothers off, and as they were leaving he told them, "Do not get agitated on the way." [25] So they went up from Egypt and came to their father Jacob in the land of Canaan. [26] They told him, "Joseph is still alive! In fact, he is ruler over the whole land of Egypt." Jacob's heart went cold, for he did not believe them. [27] But when they told him everything Joseph had said to them, and when he saw the carts Joseph had sent to carry him, the spirit of their father Jacob came back to life. [28] "Enough!" said Israel. "My son Joseph is still alive. I will go and see him before I die."

CHAPTER 46

[1] Israel set out with everything he had, and when he reached Beersheba he offered sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac. [2] In visions of the night God called to Israel, "Jacob! Jacob!" He answered, "Here I am." [3] God said, "I am God, the God of your father. Do not be afraid to go down to Egypt, for I will make you a great nation there. [4] I will go down with you to Egypt, and I will surely bring you back up again. And Joseph's own hand will close your eyes." [5] Then Jacob left Beersheba, and the children of Israel brought their father Jacob, their little ones, and their wives in the carts Pharaoh had sent to carry him. [6] They also took along their livestock and the property they had gained in the land of Canaan, and they came to Egypt, Jacob and all his seed with him. [7] He brought with him to Egypt his sons and grandsons, his daughters and granddaughters, all his seed. [8] These are the names of the children of Israel, Jacob and his sons, who went to Egypt: Reuben, Jacob's firstborn. [9] Reuben's sons: Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi. [10] Simeon's sons: Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul, the son of a Canaanite woman. [11] Levi's sons: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. [12] Judah's sons: Er, Onan, Shelah, Perez, and Zerah; Er and Onan, however, had died in the land of Canaan. Perez's sons were Hezron and Hamul. [13] Issachar's sons: Tola, Puvah, Job, and Shimron. [14] Zebulun's sons: Sered, Elon, and Jahleel. [15] These were the sons Leah bore to Jacob in Paddan-aram, together with his daughter Dinah. His sons and daughters numbered thirty-three in all. [16] Gad's sons: Ziphion, Haggi, Shuni, Ezbon, Eri, Arodi, and Areli. [17] Asher's sons: Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi, and Beriah, and their sister Serah. Beriah's sons: Heber and Malchiel. [18] These were the children of Zilpah, whom Laban had given to his daughter Leah; she bore these to Jacob, sixteen in all. [19] The sons of Jacob's wife Rachel: Joseph and Benjamin. [20] In the land of Egypt, Manasseh and Ephraim were born to Joseph by Asenath daughter of Potiphera, priest of On. [21] Benjamin's sons: Bela, Becher, Ashbel, Gera, Naaman, Ehi, Rosh, Muppim, Huppim, and Ard. [22] These were the sons of Rachel who were born to Jacob, fourteen in all. [23] Dan's son: Hushim. [24] Naphtali's sons: Jahzeel, Guni, Jezer, and Shillem. [25] These were the sons of Bilhah, whom Laban had given to his daughter Rachel; she bore these to Jacob, seven in all. [26] All the persons who went with Jacob to Egypt, those who had come from his own body, not counting the wives of Jacob's sons, numbered sixty-six. [27] With the two sons born to Joseph in Egypt, the persons of the house of Jacob who came to Egypt numbered seventy in all. [28] Jacob sent Judah on ahead of him to Joseph to point out the way to Goshen, and they arrived in the region of Goshen. [29] Joseph had his chariot made ready and went up to Goshen to meet his father Israel. As soon as he appeared before him, he fell on his neck and went on weeping on his neck a good while. [30] Israel said to Joseph, "Now I can die, since I have seen your face and know that you are still alive." [31] Then Joseph said to his brothers and to his father's household, "I will go up and inform Pharaoh. I will tell him, 'My brothers and my father's household, who were living in the land of Canaan, have come to me. [32] The men are shepherds; they have always kept livestock, and they have brought along their flocks and herds and everything they own.' [33] So when Pharaoh calls for you and asks, 'What is your occupation?' [34] you are to answer, 'Your servants have kept livestock from our youth until now, both we and our fathers.' Then you will be allowed to settle in the region of Goshen, for every shepherd is an abomination to the Egyptians."

CHAPTER 47

[1] So Joseph went and informed Pharaoh: "My father and my brothers have arrived from the land of Canaan with their flocks and herds and all their belongings, and they are now in the region of Goshen." [2] He had chosen five of his brothers, and he presented them to Pharaoh. [3] Pharaoh asked his brothers, "What is your occupation?" They told Pharaoh, "Your servants are shepherds, just as our fathers were." [4] They went on to say to Pharaoh, "We have come to live in this land as sojourners, because there is no pasture for your servants' flocks; the famine is so severe in the land of Canaan. So please allow your servants to settle in the region of Goshen." [5] Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Your father and your brothers have come to you. [6] The land of Egypt lies open before you; settle your father and brothers in the best part of the land. Let them live in the region of Goshen. And if you know of any able men among them, make them overseers of my own livestock." [7] Then Joseph brought in his father Jacob and presented him to Pharaoh, and Jacob blessed Pharaoh. [8] Pharaoh asked Jacob, "How many are the days of the years of your life?" [9] Jacob answered Pharaoh, "The days of the years of my sojourning come to a hundred and thirty years. Few and hard have the days of the years of my life been, and they have not reached the days of the years my fathers lived during their sojourning." [10] Then Jacob blessed Pharaoh and left his presence. [11] Joseph settled his father and his brothers in Egypt and gave them property there, in the best part of the land, the district of Rameses, as Pharaoh had ordered. [12] Joseph also supplied his father, his brothers, and his father's whole household with food, according to the number of their little ones. [13] There was no food anywhere in the land, for the famine was extremely severe; the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan were wasting away because of the famine. [14] Joseph collected all the silver to be found in the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan as payment for the grain they were buying, and he brought the silver to Pharaoh's palace. [15] When the silver in the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan was used up, all Egypt came to Joseph and said, "Give us food! Why should we die in front of you? Our silver has run out." [16] "Bring your livestock, then," said Joseph. "Since your silver has run out, I will give you food in exchange for your livestock." [17] So they brought their livestock to Joseph, and he gave them food in exchange for their horses, their flocks of sheep and goats, their herds of cattle, and their donkeys. Throughout that year he kept them supplied with food in exchange for all their livestock. [18] When that year was over, they came to him the following year and said, "We cannot conceal from my lord that our silver is all spent and our herds of livestock belong to my lord. Nothing is left for my lord except our bodies and our land. [19] Why should we perish before your eyes, we and our land as well? Buy us and our land in exchange for food, and we and our land will be in bondage to Pharaoh. Give us seed so that we may live and not die, and so that the land will not become a wasteland." [20] So Joseph acquired all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh, because the Egyptians, one and all, sold their fields, so hard did the famine press upon them. The land became Pharaoh's, [21] and as for the people, he moved them into the cities from one end of Egypt's territory to the other. [22] The only land he did not acquire was the land of the priests, because the priests received a fixed portion from Pharaoh and lived on the portion Pharaoh gave them. That is why they did not sell their land. [23] Joseph said to the people, "Now that I have bought you and your land today for Pharaoh, here is seed for you; sow the land. [24] When the crops come in, give a fifth to Pharaoh. The other four-fifths you may keep as seed for the fields and as food for yourselves, your households, and your little ones." [25] "You have kept us alive," they said. "May we find favor in my lord's eyes; we will be servants of Pharaoh." [26] So Joseph established it as a law for the land of Egypt, still in force today, that a fifth belongs to Pharaoh. Only the land of the priests did not become Pharaoh's. [27] Israel settled in the land of Egypt, in the region of Goshen. They acquired property there and were fruitful and increased greatly in number. [28] Jacob lived in the land of Egypt seventeen years, and the length of Jacob's life came to a hundred and forty-seven years. [29] When the time of Israel's death drew near, he called for his son Joseph and said to him, "If I have found favor with you, put your hand under my thigh and show me steadfast love and faithfulness: do not, I beg you, bury me in Egypt. [30] When I lie down with my fathers, carry me out of Egypt and bury me where they are buried." Joseph said, "I will do as you ask." [31] "Swear it to me," he said, and Joseph swore it to him. Then Israel bowed down at the head of the bed.*

CHAPTER 48

[1] Some time later Joseph was told, "Your father is ill." So he went, taking his two sons Manasseh and Ephraim with him. [2] When Jacob was told, "Your son Joseph has come to see you," Israel gathered his strength and sat up in bed. [3] Jacob said to Joseph, "God Almighty appeared to me at Luz in the land of Canaan, and there he blessed me. [4] He said to me, 'I am going to make you fruitful and increase your numbers; I will make you a company of peoples, and I will give this land to your seed after you as a possession for all time.' [5] Now then, your two sons who were born to you in the land of Egypt before I came to you here in Egypt are mine. Ephraim and Manasseh will be mine, just as Reuben and Simeon are. [6] Any children you father after them will be yours; in their inheritance they will be listed under the names of their brothers. [7] As for me, when I was coming from Paddan, Rachel died, to my sorrow, in the land of Canaan while we were still on the way, some distance from Ephrath. I buried her there beside the road to Ephrath," that is, Bethlehem. [8] When Israel noticed Joseph's sons, he asked, "Who are these?" [9] "They are my sons, whom God has given me here," Joseph said to his father. Israel said, "Bring them to me, so that I may bless them." [10] Israel's eyes had grown heavy with age, and he could not see. Joseph brought them up close to him, and he kissed them and hugged them. [11] Israel said to Joseph, "I never thought I would see your face again, and now God has let me see your seed as well!" [12] Joseph took them from between his father's knees and bowed down with his face to the ground. [13] Then Joseph took the two of them, Ephraim with his right hand, toward Israel's left, and Manasseh with his left hand, toward Israel's right, and brought them close to him. [14] But Israel reached out his right hand and put it on the head of Ephraim, though he was the younger, and his left hand on Manasseh's head; he crossed his hands on purpose, although Manasseh was the firstborn. [15] Then he blessed Joseph, saying, "May the God in whose presence my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked, the God who has shepherded me all my life up to this day, [16] the Angel who has redeemed me from every harm, bless these boys. May my name live on in them, and the names of my fathers Abraham and Isaac, and may they increase into a great multitude on the earth." [17] Joseph saw that his father had put his right hand on Ephraim's head, and it displeased him. So he took hold of his father's hand to shift it from Ephraim's head onto Manasseh's head. [18] Joseph said to his father, "Not that way, my father! This one is the firstborn; put your right hand on his head." [19] But his father would not. "I know, my son, I know," he said. "He too will become a people, and he too will be great. Yet his younger brother will be greater than he is, and his seed will become a whole host of nations." [20] So he blessed them that day, saying, "By you Israel will pronounce blessings, saying, 'May God make you like Ephraim and Manasseh.'" So he set Ephraim ahead of Manasseh. [21] Then Israel said to Joseph, "I am about to die, but God will be with you all and will bring you back to the land of your fathers. [22] And to you, over and above your brothers, I have given one portion, which I took from the hand of the Amorites with my sword and my bow."*

[1] Then Jacob called for his sons and said, "Gather around, and I will tell you what will happen to you in the days to come. [2] Come together and hear, you sons of Jacob; hear what Israel your father says. [3] Reuben, you are my firstborn, my strength and the first fruit of my vigor, foremost in rank and foremost in power. [4] Turbulent as water, you will not be foremost, for you climbed into your father's bed; you defiled it then. He climbed onto my couch! [5] Simeon and Levi are brothers; their blades are weapons of violence. [6] Into their council may my soul never enter; with their company may my glory never unite. For in their anger they slew men, and at their whim they hamstrung oxen.* [7] Cursed be their anger, so fierce, and their fury, so cruel! I will divide them up in Jacob and scatter them throughout Israel. [8] Judah, your brothers will praise you; your hand will be on the neck of your enemies; your father's sons will bow down before you. [9] A lion's whelp is Judah; from the prey, my son, you have come up. He stoops down, he crouches like a lion, like a lioness; who will dare to rouse him? [10] The scepter will not pass from Judah, nor the ruler's staff from between his feet, until Shiloh comes; and the peoples will render him obedience.* [11] He tethers his foal to the vine, his donkey's colt to the choicest vine; he washes his clothing in wine, his robe in the blood of grapes. [12] His eyes are dark with wine, and his teeth are white with milk. [13] Zebulun will live by the seashore; he will be a harbor for ships, and his border will reach to Sidon. [14] Issachar is a sturdy donkey, lying down between the sheepfolds. [15] He saw how good a resting place was and how pleasant the land, and he bent his shoulder to the load and submitted to forced labor. [16] Dan will provide justice for his people as one of the tribes of Israel. [17] Dan will be a snake beside the road, a viper along the path, that bites at the horse's heels so that its rider tumbles backward. [18] For your salvation I wait, O LORD. [19] Gad will be raided by raiders, but he will raid them at their heels. [20] Asher's food will be rich; he will provide delicacies fit for a king. [21] Naphtali is a doe set free, bringing forth lovely words. [22] Joseph is a fruitful branch, a fruitful branch beside a spring, whose shoots climb over the wall. [23] Archers provoked him bitterly; they shot at him and pursued him with hostility. [24] But his bow stayed firm, and his arms were kept nimble by the hands of the Mighty One of Jacob, from where the Shepherd comes, the Stone of Israel; [25] by the God of your father, who helps you, and by the Almighty, who blesses you with blessings of the heavens above, blessings of the deep that crouches below, blessings of breast and womb. [26] Your father's blessings surpass the blessings of my forebears, up to the farthest bounds of the age-old hills. May they rest on the head of Joseph, on the brow of the one set apart from his brothers. [27] Benjamin is a wolf that tears its prey; in the morning he devours what he has seized, and in the evening he divides the plunder." [28] These are all the twelve tribes of Israel, and this is what their father said to them as he blessed them, giving each one the blessing appropriate to him. [29] Then he gave them his instructions: "I am about to be gathered to my people. Bury me with my fathers in the cave in the field of Ephron the Hittite, [30] the cave in the field of Machpelah, facing Mamre in the land of Canaan, which Abraham bought along with the field from Ephron the Hittite as a burial site of his own. [31] Abraham and his wife Sarah were buried there, Isaac and his wife Rebekah were buried there, and there I buried Leah. [32] The field and the cave in it were bought from the sons of Heth." [33] When Jacob had finished giving instructions to his sons, he drew his feet up onto the bed, breathed his last, and was gathered to his people.

CHAPTER 50

[1] Joseph threw himself on his father's face, wept over him, and kissed him. [2] Then Joseph ordered his servants, the physicians, to embalm his father, and the physicians embalmed Israel. [3] They took forty full days for it, since that is the time needed for embalming, and the Egyptians wept for him seventy days. [4] When the days of weeping for him were over, Joseph spoke to Pharaoh's household: "If I have found favor in your eyes, please put this to Pharaoh for me: [5] 'My father made me take an oath, saying, "I am about to die. Bury me in my tomb that I dug for myself in the land of Canaan." So now please let me go up and bury my father; then I will come back.'" [6] Pharaoh said, "Go up and bury your father, just as he made you swear." [7] So Joseph went up to bury his father, and with him went all Pharaoh's officials, the elders of his household and all the elders of the land of Egypt, [8] as well as all Joseph's household, his brothers, and his father's household. Only their little ones and their flocks and herds were left behind in the region of Goshen. [9] Chariots and horsemen also went up with him; it was a very large company. [10] When they reached the threshing floor of Atad, beyond the Jordan, they raised a loud and bitter lament there, and Joseph mourned for his father seven days. [11] When the Canaanites who lived in the land saw the mourning at the threshing floor of Atad, they said, "The Egyptians are holding a solemn mourning." That is why the place beyond the Jordan is called Abel-mizraim. [12] So Jacob's sons did for him just what he had commanded them. [13] His sons carried him to the land of Canaan and buried him in the cave in the field of Machpelah, facing Mamre, which Abraham had bought along with the field from Ephron the Hittite as a burial site of his own. [14] After burying his father, Joseph went back to Egypt, together with his brothers and all who had gone up with him to bury his father. [15] Now that their father was dead, Joseph's brothers said, "Suppose

Joseph turns hostile toward us and repays us in full for all the evil we did to him!" [16] So they sent word to Joseph: "Before he died your father left these instructions: [17] 'This is what you are to say to Joseph: I ask you, please forgive your brothers' offense and their sin, for they did you wrong.' So now please forgive the offense of the servants of your father's God." Joseph wept when their message came to him. [18] Then his brothers came themselves, threw themselves down before him, and said, "Here we are, your servants." [19] But Joseph said to them, "Do not be afraid. Am I in the place of God? [20] You planned evil against me, but God planned it for good, so as to keep many people alive, as is happening this day. [21] So do not be afraid. I will provide for you and your little ones." So he comforted them and spoke to their hearts. [22] Joseph remained in Egypt, along with his father's household. Joseph lived a hundred and ten years [23] and saw Ephraim's descendants to the third generation. The children of Manasseh's son Machir were also born on Joseph's knees. [24] Then Joseph said to his brothers, "I am about to die. But God will surely come to your aid and bring you up out of this land to the land he promised on oath to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob." [25] And Joseph made the children of Israel take an oath: "God will surely come to your aid, and then you must carry my bones up from here." [26] So Joseph died at the age of a hundred and ten. They embalmed him, and he was placed in a coffin in Egypt.

CHAPTER 1

[1] These are the names of the children of Israel who came into Egypt with Jacob, each man with his household: [2] Reuben, Simeon, Levi and Judah, [3] Issachar, Zebulun and Benjamin, [4] Dan and Naphtali, Gad and Asher. [5] The persons descended from Jacob numbered seventy in all; Joseph was in Egypt already. [6] In time Joseph died, as did all his brothers and that whole generation. [7] But the children of Israel bore fruit and teemed; they increased and became very, very strong, until the land was full of them. [8] Then over Egypt there arose a new king, one who had not known Joseph. [9] He told his people, "See, the children of Israel are a people more numerous and stronger than we are. [10] Come, we must act wisely toward them, or they will keep multiplying; and should war come, they might side with our enemies, fight us and go up from the land." [11] So they put slave masters over them to oppress them with forced labor, and they built Pithom and Raamses as storage cities for Pharaoh. [12] Yet the harder they oppressed them, the more they multiplied and spread, until the Egyptians were filled with dread of the children of Israel. [13] So the Egyptians forced the children of Israel to work ruthlessly, [14] and made their lives bitter with heavy labor in mortar and brick and with every sort of fieldwork; all the labor they imposed on them was ruthless. [15] The king of Egypt also spoke to the Hebrew midwives, one named Shiphrah and the other Puah. [16] He said, "When you deliver the Hebrew women and look at the birthstool, if it is a son, put him to death; if it is a daughter, let her live." [17] The midwives, however, feared God; they did not do what the king of Egypt had told them, and they kept the boys alive. [18] So the king of Egypt summoned the midwives and asked them, "Why have you done this and kept the boys alive?" [19] The midwives answered Pharaoh, "The Hebrew women are not like Egyptian women. They are full of life and have given birth before the midwife reaches them." [20] God was good to the midwives, and the people kept multiplying and became very strong. [21] Because the midwives feared God, he gave them households of their own. [22] Then Pharaoh gave an order to all his people: "Every son who is born you are to cast into the Nile, but let every daughter live."

CHAPTER 2

[1] A man from the house of Levi went and married a daughter of Levi. [2] The woman became pregnant and gave birth to a son. Seeing that he was a beautiful child, she kept him hidden for three months. [3] When she could hide him no longer, she got a papyrus basket for him, sealed it with tar and pitch, laid the child in it and set it among the reeds at the edge of the Nile. [4] His sister took her stand some way off, to learn what would happen to him. [5] Then Pharaoh's daughter went down to the Nile to bathe, and her attendants were walking beside the Nile. She caught sight of the basket among the reeds and sent her slave girl to fetch it. [6] She opened it and saw the child: there was a little boy, weeping. She took pity on him and said, "This is one of the Hebrew children." [7] His sister then asked Pharaoh's daughter, "Shall I go and summon a nurse for you from among the Hebrew women, to nurse the child for you?" [8] "Go," Pharaoh's daughter told her. So the girl went and summoned the child's mother. [9] Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Take this child and nurse him for me, and I will pay your wages." So the woman took the child and nursed him. [10] When the child was older, she brought him to Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. She gave him the name Moses, saying, "For out of the water I drew him." [11] In those days, after Moses had grown up, he went out to his brothers and watched them at their heavy labor. He saw an Egyptian striking a Hebrew, one of his own brothers. [12] Looking this way and that and seeing no one, he struck the Egyptian dead and hid him in the sand. [13] The following day he went out, and two Hebrew men were fighting. He said to the one at fault, "Why do you strike your fellow?" [14] The man replied, "Who appointed you ruler and judge over us? Are you planning to kill me the way you killed the Egyptian?" Moses was afraid and thought, "So the matter has become known." [15] When Pharaoh heard about it, he tried to have Moses killed. But Moses fled from Pharaoh and settled in the land of Midian, and he sat down beside a well. [16] The priest of Midian had seven daughters. They came to draw water and fill the troughs, to water their father's flock. [17] Some shepherds came and chased them off, but Moses rose up and came to their aid and watered their flock. [18] When they came home to Reuel their father, he asked, "Why have you come back so early today?" [19] "An Egyptian rescued us from the shepherds," they said. "He even drew water for us and watered the flock." [20] "Then where is he?" he asked his daughters. "Why did you leave the man behind? Invite him to have something to eat." [21] Moses agreed to live with the man, and he gave his daughter Zipporah to Moses. [22] She gave birth to a son, and he called him Gershom, for he said, "I have become a stranger in a foreign land." [23] Over that long period the king of Egypt died. The children of Israel groaned under their bondage and cried out, and their plea for help on account of the bondage rose up to God. [24] God heard their groaning, and God called to mind his covenant with Abraham, with Isaac and with Jacob. [25] God looked upon the children of Israel, and God took notice.

[1] Moses was tending the flock of his father-in-law Jethro, the priest of Midian. He led the flock to the back of the wilderness and came to Horeb, the mountain of God. [2] There the angel of the LORD appeared to him in a flame of fire from within a bush. He looked, and though the bush was burning with fire, it was not being consumed. [3] Moses said, "Let me turn aside and look at this great sight; why is the bush not burning up?" [4] When the LORD saw that he had turned aside to look, God called to him from within the bush, "Moses, Moses!" And he answered, "Here I am." [5] "Come no closer," he said. "Take your sandals off your feet, for the place where you stand is holy ground." [6] And he said, "I am the God of your father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob." At this Moses hid his face, because he was afraid to look at God. [7] The LORD said, "I have seen, truly seen, the misery of my people in Egypt. I have heard them cry out because of their slave drivers; I know what they suffer. [8] I have come down to rescue them from the power of the Egyptians and to bring them up from that land into a good and spacious land, a land flowing with milk and honey, the home of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites. [9] Now see, the cry of the children of Israel has reached me, and I have also seen how the Egyptians are oppressing them. [10] So come now; I am sending you to Pharaoh, and you are to bring my people, the children of Israel, out of Egypt." [11] Moses said to God, "Who am I, that I should go to Pharaoh and that I should lead the children of Israel out of Egypt?" [12] "I will be with you," he answered, "and this will be your sign that I am the one who sent you: when you have brought the people out of Egypt, you will all worship God on this mountain." [13] Moses said to God, "Look, if I go to the children of Israel and tell them, 'The God of your fathers has sent me to you,' and they ask me, 'What is his name?' what am I to tell them?" [14] God said to Moses, "I AM WHO I AM." And he said, "This is what you are to say to the children of Israel: 'I AM has sent me to you.'"* [15] God said further to Moses, "Say this to the children of Israel: 'The LORD, the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob, has sent me to you.' This is my name for all time, and by this I am to be remembered in every generation. [16] Go, assemble the elders of Israel and tell them, 'The LORD, the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, appeared to me and said: "I have paid close attention to you and to what is being done to you in Egypt, [17] and I have promised to bring you up out of your misery in Egypt into the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites, a land flowing with milk and honey."' [18] They will heed what you say. Then you and the elders of Israel are to go to the king of Egypt and tell him, 'The LORD, the God of the Hebrews, has met with us. So now let us go, we ask, three days' journey into the wilderness to sacrifice to the LORD our God.' [19] I know, however, that the king of Egypt will not allow you to go unless a mighty hand compels him. [20] So I will stretch out my hand and strike Egypt with all the wonders I will perform among them; after that he will send you away. [21] And I will make the Egyptians look with favor on this people, so that when you leave you will not go empty-handed. [22] Each woman is to ask her neighbor, and any woman staying in her house, for silver and gold jewelry and for clothing, and you will put them on your sons and daughters. In this way you will strip Egypt of its goods."*

CHAPTER 4

[1] Moses answered, "But suppose they do not believe me or listen to what I say, and they say, 'The LORD did not appear to you'?" [2] The LORD asked him, "What is that in your hand?" "A staff," he replied. [3] "Throw it to the ground," he said. He threw it to the ground; it turned into a snake, and Moses ran from it. [4] Then the LORD told Moses, "Reach out your hand and grab it by the tail." He reached out and took hold of it, and it turned back into a staff in his hand. [5] "This is so that they will believe that the LORD, the God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob, has appeared to you." [6] The LORD said to him again, "Put your hand into the fold of your garment." He put his hand into the fold of his garment, and when he drew it out, the hand was leprous, white as snow. [7] "Put your hand back into the fold of your garment," he said. He put it back, and when he drew it out from the fold, it had become again like the rest of his flesh. [8] "If they do not believe you and pay no attention to the first sign, they may believe the message of the second sign. [9] And if they do not believe even these two signs and do not listen to you, take some water from the Nile and pour it out on the dry ground; the water you take from the Nile will turn to blood on the dry ground." [10] Moses said to the LORD, "Pardon me, Lord, I have never been a man of words, not before and not since you began speaking to your servant. I am heavy of mouth and heavy of tongue." [11] The LORD answered him, "Who gave man a mouth? Who makes anyone mute or deaf, sighted or blind? Is it not I, the LORD? [12] So go now. I will be with your mouth and will teach you what to say." [13] But he said, "Pardon me, Lord; please send someone else, whomever you will send." [14] The LORD's anger blazed against Moses, and he said, "What about your brother Aaron the Levite? I know he is a good speaker. In fact he is already on his way to meet you, and he will be glad at heart when he sees you. [15] Speak to him and put the words in his mouth. I will be with your mouth and with his, and I will teach you both what to do. [16] He will speak to the people for you. He will serve as your mouth, and you will be as God to him. [17] And take this staff in your hand; with it you will perform the signs." [18] Moses went back to his father-in-law Jethro and said, "Let me return, please, to my brothers in Egypt to see if they are still living." Jethro told Moses, "Go in peace." [19] In Midian the LORD said to Moses, "Go back to Egypt, for all the men who wanted to take your life are dead." [20] So Moses took his wife and sons, set them on the donkey and started back to the land of Egypt. In his hand Moses carried the staff of God. [21] The LORD told Moses, "As you go back to Egypt, make sure you perform before Pharaoh all the wonders I have placed in your power. I, however, will harden his heart, and he will not let the people go. [22] Then say to Pharaoh, 'This is what the LORD says: Israel is my son, my firstborn. [23] I told you, "Let my son go, so that he may serve me," but you refused to let him go. Now I am going to kill your son, your firstborn.'" [24] On the way, at the place where they stopped for the night, the LORD met him and tried to put him to death. [25] But Zipporah took a sharp flint, cut off her son's foreskin and touched his feet with it, saying, "You are a bridegroom of blood to me indeed!"* [26] So he left him alone. At that time she said "a bridegroom of blood" with reference to the circumcision. [27] The LORD told Aaron, "Go into the wilderness to meet Moses." He went, met him at the mountain of God and kissed him. [28] Moses reported to Aaron everything the LORD had sent him to say and all the signs he had ordered him to perform. [29] Moses and Aaron then went and assembled all the elders of the children of Israel. [30] Aaron told them everything the LORD had said to Moses, and he performed the signs before the people. [31] The people believed. When they heard that the LORD had come to the aid of the children of Israel and had seen their misery, they bowed down and worshiped.

[1] After this Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh and told him, "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'Let my people go, so that they may celebrate a feast to me in the wilderness.'" [2] Pharaoh answered, "Who is the LORD, that I should listen to his voice and let Israel go? I do not know the LORD, and what is more, I will not let Israel go." [3] They said, "The God of the Hebrews has met with us. Let us go, we ask you, three days' journey into the wilderness to sacrifice to the LORD our God, so that he does not strike us with plague or with sword." [4] The king of Egypt said to them, "Moses and Aaron, why are you drawing the people away from their tasks? Go back to your labor!" [5] And Pharaoh said, "See how many the people of the land now are, and you would have them stop their labor!" [6] That very day Pharaoh gave orders to the slave drivers over the people and to their foremen: [7] "Do not go on supplying the people with straw for making bricks as you have been doing. Let them go and collect straw for themselves. [8] But require of them the same number of bricks they were making before; do not lower it. They are lazy; that is why they are crying, 'Let us go and sacrifice to our God.' [9] Make the work heavier for the men, so that they are kept busy with it and pay no heed to lies." [10] The people's slave drivers and foremen went out and told the people, "This is what Pharaoh says: 'I am not giving you any straw. [11] Go and get your own straw wherever you can find it, but your work will not be lessened in the least.'" [12] So the people spread out over the whole land of Egypt to collect stubble to use for straw. [13] The slave drivers kept pushing them: "Finish your work, the full amount for each day, just as when straw was supplied." [14] The foremen of the children of Israel, whom Pharaoh's slave drivers had put over them, were beaten, and they were asked, "Why did you not finish your required number of bricks yesterday and today, as you used to?" [15] So the foremen of the children of Israel went and cried out to Pharaoh, "Why do you treat your servants like this? [16] Your servants are given no straw, yet we are told, 'Make bricks!' Your servants are being beaten, but the fault lies with your own people." [17] He said, "Lazy, that is what you are, lazy! That is why you keep saying, 'Let us go and sacrifice to the LORD.' [18] Now get to work. You will be given no straw, but you must still turn out the full number of bricks." [19] The foremen of the children of Israel saw that they were in a bad situation when they were told, "You must not lower your number of bricks for each day." [20] As they left Pharaoh's presence, they came upon Moses and Aaron, who were standing there waiting for them. [21] They said to them, "May the LORD look at you and judge! You have made us stink in the eyes of Pharaoh and his servants and have put a sword in their hands to kill us." [22] Moses turned back to the LORD and said, "Lord, why have you brought trouble on this people? Why is it that you sent me? [23] Ever since I came to Pharaoh to speak in your name, he has brought trouble on this people, and you have done nothing at all to rescue your people."

CHAPTER 6

[1] The LORD said to Moses, "Now you will see what I will do to Pharaoh. Compelled by a strong hand he will let them go; compelled by a strong hand he will drive them from his land." [2] God spoke further to Moses and told him, "I am the LORD. [3] To Abraham, Isaac and Jacob I appeared as God Almighty, but by my name the LORD I was not known to them. [4]* I also set up my covenant with them, to give them the land of Canaan, the land where they lived as foreigners. [5] And I have heard the groaning of the children of Israel, whom the Egyptians are keeping in bondage, and I have remembered my covenant. [6] So tell the children of Israel: 'I am the LORD. I will bring you out from beneath the forced labor of the Egyptians and free you from bondage to them. I will redeem you with an outstretched arm and with mighty acts of judgment. [7] I will take you as my own people, and I will be your God. Then you will know that I am the LORD your God, who brought you out from beneath the forced labor of the Egyptians. [8] And I will bring you to the land I lifted my hand to give to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob; I will give it to you as your own. I am the LORD.'" [9] Moses told this to the children of Israel, but they would not listen to Moses, because their spirit was crushed and their bondage was cruel. [10] Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [11] "Go and tell Pharaoh king of Egypt to send the children of Israel out of his land." [12] But Moses said in the LORD's presence, "If the children of Israel have not listened to me, why would Pharaoh listen to me, since my lips are uncircumcised?" [13] Yet the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron and gave them orders concerning the children of Israel and concerning Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt. [14] These were the heads of their fathers' houses. The sons of Reuben, Israel's firstborn: Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron and Carmi. These were the clans of Reuben. [15] The sons of Simeon: Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul, son of a Canaanite woman. These were the clans of Simeon. [16] These were the names of the sons of Levi, by their generations: Gershon, Kohath and Merari. Levi lived a hundred and thirty-seven years. [17] The sons of Gershon, clan by clan: Libni and Shimei. [18] The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel. Kohath lived a hundred and thirty-three years. [19] The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. These were the clans of Levi, by their generations. [20] Amram married Jochebed, his father's sister, and she bore him Aaron and Moses. Amram lived a hundred and thirty-seven years. [21] The sons of Izhar: Korah, Nepheg and Zichri. [22] The sons of Uzziel: Mishael, Elzaphan and Sithri. [23] Aaron married Elisheba, daughter of Amminadab and sister of Nahshon, and she bore him Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. [24] The sons of Korah: Assir, Elkanah and Abiasaph. These were the Korahite clans. [25] Aaron's son Eleazar married one of Putiel's daughters, and she bore him Phinehas. These were the heads of the Levite fathers' houses, clan by clan. [26] It was this Aaron and this Moses to whom the LORD said, "Bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, army by army." [27] They are the ones who spoke to Pharaoh king of Egypt to bring the children of Israel out of Egypt: this same Moses and Aaron. [28] On the day the LORD spoke to Moses in the land of Egypt, [29] the LORD told Moses, "I am the LORD. Tell Pharaoh king of Egypt everything I am telling you." [30] But Moses said in the LORD's presence, "My lips are uncircumcised; why would Pharaoh listen to me?"

CHAPTER 7

[1] The LORD said to Moses, "See, I have made you God to Pharaoh, and your brother Aaron will be your prophet. [2] You are to speak everything I command you, and your brother Aaron is to tell Pharaoh to send the children of Israel out of his land. [3] But I will make Pharaoh's heart hard, and I will multiply my signs and wonders in the land of Egypt. [4] Pharaoh will not listen to you. Then I will lay my hand on Egypt and bring my armies, my people the children of Israel, out of the land of Egypt with mighty acts of judgment. [5] The Egyptians will know that I am the LORD when I stretch out my hand against Egypt and bring the children of Israel out from among them." [6] Moses and Aaron did this; they did just as the LORD commanded them. [7] Moses was eighty years old, and Aaron eighty-three, when they spoke to Pharaoh. [8] The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, [9] "When Pharaoh tells you, 'Show a miracle for yourselves,' say to Aaron, 'Take your staff and throw it down in front of Pharaoh,' and it will turn into a serpent." [10] So Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh and did what the LORD had commanded. Aaron threw his staff down in front of Pharaoh and his servants, and it turned into a serpent. [11] Pharaoh in turn summoned the wise men and sorcerers, and the magicians of Egypt also did the same thing by their secret arts. [12] Each of them threw his staff down, and the staffs turned into serpents. But Aaron's staff swallowed theirs. [13] Still Pharaoh's heart was hard, and he would not listen to them, just as the LORD had said. [14] The LORD said to Moses, "Pharaoh's heart is stubborn; he refuses to let the people go. [15] Go to Pharaoh in the morning when he goes out to the water. Wait for him on the bank of the Nile, and take in your hand the staff that turned into a snake. [16] Tell him, 'The LORD, the God of the Hebrews, sent me to you to say, "Let my people go, so that they may serve me in the wilderness." Until now you have not listened. [17] This is what the LORD says: "By this you will know that I am the LORD: with the staff in my hand I am going to strike the water of the Nile, and it will turn into blood. [18] The fish in the Nile will die, the Nile will reek, and the Egyptians will find it impossible to drink water from the Nile."'" [19] And the LORD said to Moses, "Tell Aaron, 'Take your staff and stretch your hand out over the waters of Egypt, over their rivers, their canals, their ponds and every reservoir of water, so that they turn to blood.' There will be blood all over the land of Egypt, even in containers of wood and of stone." [20] Moses and Aaron did just as the LORD commanded. In the sight of Pharaoh and his servants he raised the staff and struck the water of the Nile, and all the water in the Nile turned to blood. [21] The fish in the Nile died, and the Nile reeked so badly that the Egyptians could not drink its water. Blood was everywhere in the land of Egypt. [22] But the magicians of Egypt did the same thing by their secret arts, so Pharaoh's heart remained hard, and he would not listen to them, just as the LORD had said. [23] Pharaoh turned away and went into his palace, and he paid no attention even to this. [24] All the Egyptians dug along the Nile for drinking water, since they could not drink the water of the Nile. [25] Seven days passed after the LORD struck the Nile.

CHAPTER 8

[1] Then the LORD said to Moses, "Go to Pharaoh and tell him, 'This is what the LORD says: "Let my people go, so that they may serve me. [2] If you refuse to let them go, I am going to strike your whole country with frogs. [3] The Nile will teem with frogs. They will come up into your palace, into your bedroom and onto your bed, into the houses of your servants and among your people, into your ovens and your kneading troughs. [4] The frogs will come up over you, over your people and over all your servants."'" [5] And the LORD said to Moses, "Tell Aaron, 'Stretch out your hand with your staff over the rivers, the canals and the ponds, and bring the frogs up over the land of Egypt.'" [6] Aaron stretched his hand out over the waters of Egypt, and the frogs came up and covered the land of Egypt. [7] But the magicians did the same thing by their secret arts; they too brought frogs up over the land of Egypt. [8] Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron and said, "Pray to the LORD to remove the frogs from me and my people, and I will let the people go to sacrifice to the LORD." [9] Moses said to Pharaoh, "The honor is yours: tell me when I should pray for you, your servants and your people, for the frogs to be removed from you and your houses and be left only in the Nile." [10] "Tomorrow," he said. Moses replied, "It will be as you say, so that you will know there is no one like the LORD our God. [11] The frogs will go away from you, your houses, your servants and your people; they will be left only in the Nile." [12] After Moses and Aaron left Pharaoh, Moses cried out to the LORD about the frogs he had brought on Pharaoh. [13] The LORD did what Moses asked: the frogs died off in the houses, the courtyards and the fields. [14] They were piled up in heaps, and the land reeked. [15] But when Pharaoh saw that he had some relief, he made his heart stubborn and would not listen to them, just as the LORD had said. [16] The LORD said to Moses, "Tell Aaron, 'Stretch out your staff and strike the dust of the ground, and it will turn into gnats all over the land of Egypt.'" [17] They did so: Aaron stretched out his hand with his staff and struck the dust of the ground, and gnats came on people and animals. All the dust of the ground turned into gnats all over the land of Egypt. [18] The magicians tried by their secret arts to produce gnats, but they could not. The gnats stayed on people and animals. [19] The magicians told Pharaoh, "This is the finger of God." But Pharaoh's heart remained hard, and he would not listen to them, just as the LORD had said. [20] Then the LORD said to Moses, "Get up early in the morning and present yourself to Pharaoh when he goes out to the water. Tell him, 'This is what the LORD says: "Let my people go, so that they may serve me. [21] If you do not let my people go, I am going to send swarms of flies on you, your servants and your people, and into your houses. The houses of the Egyptians will be filled with the swarms, and so will the ground they stand on. [] [22] But on that day I will treat the land of Goshen differently, where my people live; no swarms will be there, so that you may know that I, the LORD, am in the midst of the land. [23] I will make a division between my people and your people. This sign will take place tomorrow.'"" [] [24] And the LORD did so. Dense swarms of flies poured into Pharaoh's palace and into his servants' houses, and all over Egypt the land was ruined by the swarms. [25] Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron and said, "Go and sacrifice to your God here in the land." [26] Moses answered, "That would not be proper. What we sacrifice to the LORD our God is detestable to the Egyptians. If we offer sacrifices the Egyptians find detestable right in front of them, will they not stone us? [27] We must go three days' journey into the wilderness and sacrifice to the LORD our God, as he commands us." [28] Pharaoh said, "I will let you go to sacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderness, only do not go too far. Pray for me." [29] Moses said, "As soon as I leave you, I will pray to the LORD, and tomorrow the swarms will go away from Pharaoh, his servants and his people. Only Pharaoh must not deceive us again by refusing to let the people go to sacrifice to the LORD." [30] Moses left Pharaoh's presence and prayed to the LORD. [31] The LORD did what Moses asked and removed the swarms from Pharaoh, his servants and his people; not a single one was left. [32] But this time too Pharaoh made his heart stubborn and did not let the people go.

CHAPTER 9

[1] Then the LORD told Moses, "Go to Pharaoh and tell him, 'This is what the LORD, the God of the Hebrews, says: "Let my people go, so that they may serve me. [2] If you refuse to let them go and keep holding on to them, [3] the hand of the LORD will come with a very heavy plague on your livestock out in the field: on the horses, donkeys and camels, on the cattle and the flocks. [4] But the LORD will set the livestock of Israel apart from the livestock of Egypt, and not one animal belonging to the children of Israel will die."'" [5] The LORD fixed a time and said, "Tomorrow the LORD will do this in the land." [6] And on the next day the LORD did it. All the livestock of Egypt died, but not one animal of the children of Israel died. [7] Pharaoh sent men to check, and not a single animal of Israel's livestock had died. Yet Pharaoh's heart was stubborn, and he would not let the people go. [8] The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, "Take handfuls of soot from a furnace, and have Moses toss it into the air as Pharaoh watches. [9] It will become a fine dust over the whole land of Egypt, and on people and animals all over the land of Egypt it will cause boils that break out into sores." [10] So they took soot from a furnace and stood in front of Pharaoh. Moses tossed it into the air, and boils broke out into sores on people and animals. [11] The magicians could not even stand in front of Moses because of the boils, for the boils had come on the magicians as on all the Egyptians. [12] But the LORD made Pharaoh's heart hard, and he would not listen to them, just as the LORD had told Moses. [13] The LORD said to Moses, "Get up early in the morning, present yourself to Pharaoh and tell him, 'This is what the LORD, the God of the Hebrews, says: "Let my people go, so that they may serve me. [14] This time I am sending the full force of my plagues on you yourself, on your servants and on your people, so that you will know that there is no one like me anywhere on earth. [15] For by now I could have stretched out my hand and struck you and your people with plague, and you would have been wiped off the earth. [*] [16] But this is the very reason I have let you stand: to show you my power, and so that my name will be proclaimed throughout the earth. [17] You are still setting yourself up against my people and will not let them go. [18] So at this time tomorrow I will send down a hailstorm, a very heavy one, unlike any Egypt has seen from the day it was founded until now. [19] Now send word to bring your livestock and everything you have in the field under shelter. Every person and animal caught in the field and not brought inside will die when the hail falls on them.'"" [20] Those of Pharaoh's servants who feared the word of the LORD hurried their servants and livestock indoors, [21] but those who paid no attention to the word of the LORD left their servants and livestock out in the field. [22] The LORD said to Moses, "Stretch your hand toward the sky, and hail will fall on the whole land of Egypt, on people and animals and on every plant of the field in the land of Egypt." [23] When Moses stretched his staff toward the sky, the LORD sent thunder and hail, and fire struck down to the ground. So the LORD rained hail on the land of Egypt. [24] The hail fell, with fire flashing back and forth through it. It was very heavy, worse than any in the whole land of Egypt since it had become a nation. [25] Over all the land of Egypt the hail struck everything in the open, people and animals alike; it beat down every plant of the field and splintered every tree. [26] Only in the land of Goshen, where the children of Israel lived, was there no hail. [27] Pharaoh then summoned Moses and Aaron. "This time I have sinned," he told them. "The LORD is in the right, and my people and I are in the wrong. [28] Pray to the LORD; we have had enough of God's thunder and hail. I will let you go; you will not have to stay any longer." [29] Moses answered him, "When I have left the city, I will spread out my hands to the LORD. The thunder will stop and there will be no more hail, so that you will know that the earth belongs to the LORD. [30] But I know that you and your servants still do not fear the LORD God." [31] (The flax and barley were destroyed, since the barley had headed and the flax was in bloom. [32] The wheat and spelt, however, were not destroyed, because they ripen later.) [33] Moses left Pharaoh and went out of the city and spread out his hands to the LORD. The thunder and hail stopped, and the rain no longer poured down on the earth. [34] When Pharaoh saw that the rain, hail and thunder had stopped, he sinned again: he and his servants made their hearts stubborn. [35] So Pharaoh's heart remained hard, and he did not let the children of Israel go, just as the LORD had said through Moses.

[1] The LORD said to Moses, "Go to Pharaoh, for I have made his heart and the hearts of his servants stubborn, so that I may put these signs of mine among them, [2] and so that you may tell your children and grandchildren how I made fools of the Egyptians and what signs I performed among them. Then you will know that I am the LORD." [3] Moses and Aaron went to Pharaoh and told him, "This is what the LORD, the God of the Hebrews, says: 'How long will you refuse to humble yourself before me? Let my people go, so that they may serve me. [4] If you refuse to let my people go, tomorrow I am going to bring locusts into your country. [5] They will cover the surface of the ground until the ground cannot be seen. They will devour whatever little you have left from the hail, including every tree you have growing in the fields. [6] They will fill your palaces and the houses of all your servants and of all the Egyptians, something neither your fathers nor your grandfathers ever saw from the day they came into being until today.'" Then he turned and left Pharaoh. [7] Pharaoh's servants said to him, "How long is this man going to be a trap for us? Let the men go and serve the LORD their God. Do you still not realize that Egypt is ruined?" [8] So Moses and Aaron were brought back to Pharaoh. "Go, serve the LORD your God," he said to them. "But just who will be going?" [9] Moses answered, "We will go with our young and our old, with our sons and our daughters; we will go with our flocks and our herds, because we are to hold a feast to the LORD." [10] He said to them, "The LORD would have to be with you if I ever let you go along with your little ones! Clearly you are up to something evil.* [11] No! Let the men go and serve the LORD, since that is what you have been asking for." And they were driven out of Pharaoh's presence. [12] The LORD said to Moses, "Stretch your hand out over the land of Egypt so that locusts swarm over the land of Egypt and devour every plant in the land, everything the hail left." [13] Moses stretched his staff out over the land of Egypt, and the LORD drove an east wind across the land all that day and all that night. By morning the east wind had carried in the locusts. [14] The locusts came up over the whole land of Egypt and settled on every part of Egypt in great numbers. There had never been a locust swarm like it before, and there never will be again. [15] They covered the surface of the whole land until the land turned dark. They devoured every plant in the land and all the fruit on the trees that the hail had left. Nothing green was left on tree or plant anywhere in the land of Egypt. [16] Pharaoh quickly summoned Moses and Aaron and said, "I have sinned against the LORD your God and against you. [17] Now forgive my sin, I beg you, just this once, and pray to the LORD your God to take this deadly thing away from me." [18] Moses left Pharaoh and prayed to the LORD. [19] And the LORD changed the wind to a very strong west wind, which lifted the locusts and hurled them into the Red Sea. Not one locust was left anywhere in Egypt.* [20] But the LORD made Pharaoh's heart hard, and he did not let the children of Israel go. [21] The LORD said to Moses, "Stretch your hand toward the sky, so that darkness spreads over the land of Egypt, darkness thick enough to be felt." [22] Moses stretched his hand toward the sky, and deep darkness covered the whole land of Egypt for three days. [23] People could not see one another, and no one left his place for three days. But all the children of Israel had light where they lived. [24] Pharaoh summoned Moses and said, "Go, serve the LORD. Even your little ones may go with you; only your flocks and herds must stay behind." [25] Moses replied, "You must also let us have sacrifices and burnt offerings to present to the LORD our God. [26] Our livestock must go with us as well; not a hoof will be left behind. We have to take some of them to serve the LORD our God, and until we get there we will not know what we are to serve the LORD with." [27] But the LORD made Pharaoh's heart hard, and he would not agree to let them go. [28] Pharaoh said to him, "Get out of my sight! Be sure you do not see my face again, for the day you see my face you will die." [29] "You have spoken rightly," Moses replied. "I will not see your face again."

CHAPTER 11

[1] The LORD had said to Moses, "I will bring one more plague on Pharaoh and on Egypt. After that he will let you leave this place; indeed, when he lets you go, he will drive you out of here altogether. [2] Tell the people that each man is to ask his neighbor, and each woman hers, for silver and gold jewelry." [3] The LORD made the Egyptians look with favor on the people. The man

Moses himself was highly regarded in the land of Egypt, both by Pharaoh's servants and by the people. [4] So Moses said, "This is what the LORD says: 'Around midnight I will go out through the midst of Egypt, [5] and every firstborn in the land of Egypt will die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh, who sits on his throne, to the firstborn of the slave woman at the hand mill, as well as all the firstborn of the livestock. [6] A loud wailing will go up all over the land of Egypt, worse than there has ever been or ever will be again. [7] But among the children of Israel not even a dog will growl at any person or animal, so that you may know that the LORD distinguishes between Egypt and Israel.' [8] Then all these servants of yours will come down to me and bow before me, saying, 'Leave, you and all the people who follow you!' After that I will leave." And he went out from Pharaoh, blazing with anger. [9] The LORD had told Moses, "Pharaoh will not listen to you, so that my wonders may increase in the land of Egypt." [10] Moses and Aaron performed all these wonders in Pharaoh's presence, but the LORD made Pharaoh's heart hard, and he would not let the children of Israel go out of his land.

CHAPTER 12

[1] In the land of Egypt the LORD said to Moses and Aaron, [2] "This month is to be the first of months for you; count it as the first month of your year. [3] Tell the whole congregation of Israel that on the tenth of this month each man is to take a lamb for his father's house, one lamb per household. [4] If a household is too small for a whole lamb, the man and the neighbor living closest to him are to take one, according to the number of people there are. Count how many will share the lamb by what each person eats. [5] The animal you take must be a flawless male in its first year; you may take it from the sheep or from the goats. [6] Keep it in your care until the fourteenth day of this month; then the entire assembly of the congregation of Israel is to slaughter their lambs at twilight.* [7] They are to take some of the blood and smear it on the two doorposts and the lintel of the houses where they will eat the lambs. [8] That same night they are to eat the meat roasted over the fire, eating it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs. [9] Do not eat any of it raw or cooked in water, but only roasted over the fire, head, legs and inner organs. [10] Leave none of it over until morning; whatever is still left in the morning you must burn up. [11] This is how you are to eat it: with your belt tied, your sandals on your feet and your staff in your hand. Eat it in a hurry; it is the LORD's Passover. [12] That night I will go through the land of Egypt and strike down every firstborn in the land of Egypt, both people and animals, and on all the gods of Egypt I will carry out judgments. I am the LORD. [13] The blood on the houses where you are staying will be your sign. When I see the blood I will pass over you, and no plague will fall on you to destroy you when I strike the land of Egypt. [14] This day will be a day of remembrance for you. Celebrate it as a feast to the LORD; for all your generations to come you are to celebrate it as a lasting ordinance. [15] For seven days eat unleavened bread. On the first day clear the leaven out of your houses, for anyone who eats something leavened from the first day through the seventh is to be cut off from Israel. [16] On the first day and again on the seventh you are to hold a holy assembly. Do no work at all on those days, except to prepare what each person needs to eat; that alone you may do. [17] Observe the Feast of Unleavened Bread, because on this very day I brought your armies out of the land of Egypt. Observe this day in all your generations as a lasting ordinance. [18] In the first month you are to eat unleavened bread from the evening of the fourteenth day until the evening of the twenty-first day of the month. [19] For seven days no leaven may be found in your houses. Anyone, whether foreigner or native-born, who eats anything leavened is to be cut off from the congregation of Israel. [20] Eat nothing leavened. Wherever you live, you must eat unleavened bread.'" [21] Moses summoned all the elders of Israel and told them, "Go, pick out lambs for your clans and slaughter the Passover. [22] Take a bundle of hyssop, dip it into the blood in the basin and touch the lintel and both doorposts with the blood from the basin. Not one of you may go out the door of his house until morning. [23] When the LORD goes through to strike Egypt, he will see the blood on the lintel and both doorposts, and the LORD will pass over that door; he will not let the destroyer enter your houses to strike you. [24] Keep this command as an ordinance for you and your children forever. [25] When you enter the land the LORD will give you, as he promised, keep this rite. [26] And when your children ask you, 'What does this rite of yours mean?' [27] tell them, 'It is the Passover sacrifice to the LORD, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt when he struck the Egyptians and spared our homes.'" Then the people bowed down and worshiped. [28] The children of Israel went off and did exactly what the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron. [29] At midnight the LORD struck down every firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh, who sat on his throne, to the firstborn of the prisoner in the dungeon, as well as all the firstborn of the livestock. [30] Pharaoh got up during the night, he and all his servants and all Egypt, and there was loud wailing in Egypt, because there was no house without someone dead. [31] During the night he summoned Moses and Aaron and said, "Get up! Leave my people, you and the children of Israel! Go and serve the LORD as you asked. [32] Take your flocks and your herds too, as you asked, and go. And bless me as well." [33] The Egyptians pressed the people to leave the land quickly. "Otherwise we will all die!" they said. [34] So the people picked up their dough before the leaven was added, with their kneading troughs wrapped in their cloaks on their shoulders. [35] The children of Israel had done as Moses said and had asked the Egyptians for silver and gold jewelry and for clothing. [36] And the LORD had made the Egyptians look with favor on the people, so they gave them what they asked for. In this way they stripped Egypt of its goods. [37] The children of Israel set out from Raamses for Succoth, about six hundred thousand men on foot, not counting the children. [38] A large mixed crowd went up with them as well, along with flocks and herds, a great mass of livestock. [39] From the dough they had brought out of Egypt they baked loaves of unleavened bread. It had no leaven because they had been driven out of Egypt without time to delay; they had not even prepared food for the journey. [40] The children of Israel had lived in Egypt for four hundred and thirty years. [41] At the end of the four hundred and thirty years, to the very day, all the armies of the LORD left the land of Egypt. [42] Because the LORD kept watch that night to bring them out of the land of Egypt, this same night is to be kept as a watch to the LORD by all the children of Israel for generations to come. [43] The LORD told Moses and Aaron, "This is the ordinance of the Passover: no foreigner may eat it. [44] Any slave a man has bought with money may eat it once you have circumcised him, [45] but a temporary resident or hired worker may not eat it. [46] It must be eaten inside one house. Take none of the meat outside the house, and break none of its bones. [47] The whole congregation of Israel is to celebrate it. [48] If a foreigner living among you wants to celebrate the LORD's Passover, every male in his household must be circumcised; then he may come and celebrate it, and he will be like one born in the land. But no uncircumcised man may eat it. [49] The same law applies to the native-born and to the foreigner living among you." [50] All the children of Israel did just what the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron. [51] On that same day the LORD brought the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, army by army.

CHAPTER 13

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Set apart to me every firstborn. The first to open the womb among the children of Israel, whether human or animal, belongs to me." [3] Moses said to the people, "Remember this day, the day you came out of Egypt, out of the house of slavery, because the LORD brought you out of here with a strong hand. Nothing leavened is to be eaten. [4] You are leaving today, in the month of Abib. [5] When the LORD brings you into the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Hivites and Jebusites, the land he swore to your fathers to give you, a land flowing with milk and honey, you are to observe this rite in this month. [6] For seven days eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day hold a feast to the LORD. [7] Unleavened bread is to be eaten throughout the seven days. Nothing leavened may be seen among you, nor any leaven anywhere within your borders. [8] On that day tell your son, 'I do this because of what the LORD did for me when I came out of Egypt.' [9] It will serve you as a sign on your hand and a reminder between your eyes, so that the law of the LORD will be on your lips; for with a strong hand the LORD brought you out of Egypt. [10] So keep this ordinance at its set time every year. [11] When the LORD brings you into the land of the Canaanites and gives it to you, as he swore to you and your fathers, [12] you are to hand over to the LORD everything that first opens the womb. Every firstborn male of your animals belongs to the LORD. [13] Redeem every firstborn donkey with a lamb; if you do not redeem it, break its neck. And redeem every firstborn among your sons. [14] In days to come, when your son asks you, 'What does this mean?' tell him, 'With a strong hand the LORD brought us out of Egypt, out of the house of slavery. [15] When Pharaoh stubbornly refused to let us go, the LORD killed every firstborn in the land of Egypt, firstborn of people and of animals alike. That is why I sacrifice to the LORD every male that first opens the womb, but redeem every firstborn of my sons.' [16] It will be a sign on your hand and a band between your eyes, because with a strong hand the LORD brought us out of Egypt." [17] When Pharaoh had let the people go, God did not lead them along the road through the land of the Philistines, though it was the shorter way. For God said, "If the people face war, they may change their minds and go back to Egypt." [18] Instead God led the people around by the wilderness road toward the Red Sea. The children of Israel went up out of the land of Egypt ready for battle.* [19] Moses took Joseph's bones with him, because Joseph had made the children of Israel take a solemn oath: "God will surely come to your aid, and then you must carry my bones up from here with you." [20] Setting out from Succoth, they camped at Etham, at the edge of the wilderness. [21] By day the LORD went ahead of them in a pillar of cloud to guide them on their way, and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light, so that they could travel day or night. [22] Neither the pillar of cloud by day nor the pillar of fire by night ever left its place in front of the people.

CHAPTER 14

[1] Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Tell the children of Israel to turn back and camp before Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea; opposite Baal-zephon you shall camp, facing it, beside the sea. [3] Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, 'They are lost and confused in the land; the wilderness has closed in on them.' [4] I will harden Pharaoh's heart, and he will chase after them; and I will be glorified through Pharaoh and through all his army, and the Egyptians will know that I am the LORD." And they did so. [5] When it was reported to the king of Egypt that the people had fled, the heart of Pharaoh and of his servants turned against the people, and they said, "What have we done? We have let Israel go, and now they will no longer serve us!" [6] So he had his chariot made ready and took his people with him. [7] He took six hundred select chariots and all the other chariots of Egypt, with officers over every one of them. [8] The LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he chased after the children of Israel; but the children of Israel were going out with a raised hand. [9] The Egyptians, all Pharaoh's chariot horses, his horsemen and his army, chased after them and caught up with them where they were camped beside the sea, near Pi-hahiroth, opposite Baal-zephon. [10] As Pharaoh came near, the children of Israel looked up, and there were the Egyptians marching after them! They were terrified, and the children of Israel cried out to the LORD. [11] They said to Moses, "Were there no graves in Egypt, that you have brought us out to die in the wilderness? Why have you done this to us, bringing us out of Egypt? [12] Did we not tell you this very thing in Egypt, when we said, 'Let us alone and let us serve the Egyptians'? Serving the Egyptians would have been better for us than dying in the wilderness." [13] Moses said to the people, "Do not be afraid. Take your stand and watch the salvation that the LORD will bring about for you today; for the Egyptians you see today you will never see again, ever. [14] The LORD will fight for you; you need only be still." [15] The LORD said to Moses, "Why are you crying out to me? Tell the children of Israel to move on. [16] And you, raise your staff, stretch out your hand over the sea and split it, so that the children of Israel may go through the middle of the sea on dry ground. [17] As for me, I am about to harden the hearts of the Egyptians so that they will go in after them, and I will be glorified through Pharaoh and all his army, through his chariots and his horsemen. [18] The Egyptians will know that I am the LORD when I am glorified through Pharaoh, through his chariots and through his horsemen." [19] Then the angel of God, who had been going ahead of the camp of Israel, moved and went behind them. The pillar of cloud also moved from in front of them and took its place behind them. [20] It came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel. There was the cloud and the darkness, and yet it lit up the night, so that the one camp did not come near the other all night long. [21] Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and all that night the LORD drove the sea back with a strong east wind and turned the sea into dry land; and the waters were split apart. [22] The children of Israel went into the middle of the sea on dry ground, with the waters forming a wall for them on their right and on their left. [23] The Egyptians chased them and went in after them, all of Pharaoh's horses, his chariots and his horsemen, into the middle of the sea. [24] In the morning watch the LORD looked down on the Egyptian army from the pillar of fire and cloud, and he threw the Egyptian army into panic. [25] He took off the wheels of their chariots, so that they drove them with difficulty. Then the Egyptians said, "Let us flee from Israel, for the LORD is fighting for them against Egypt."* [26] Then the LORD said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand over the sea, so that the waters may flow back over the Egyptians, over their chariots and over their horsemen." [27] Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and as morning broke the sea went back to its full flow. The Egyptians were fleeing toward it, and the LORD shook the Egyptians off into the middle of the sea. [28] The waters came back and covered the chariots and the horsemen, the whole army of Pharaoh that had gone into the sea after them; not even one of them was left. [29] But the children of Israel had walked on dry ground in the middle of the sea, with the waters forming a wall for them on their right and on their left. [30] So on that day the LORD saved Israel from the hand of Egypt, and Israel saw the Egyptians lying dead on the shore of the sea. [31] When Israel saw the great hand with which the LORD had acted against the Egyptians, the people feared the LORD, and they believed in the LORD and in Moses his servant.

CHAPTER 15

[1] Then Moses and the children of Israel sang this song to the LORD. They said, "I will sing to the LORD, for he has risen up in triumph; horse and rider he has hurled into the sea. [2] The LORD is my strength and my song, and he has become my salvation. He is my God, and I will praise him; the God of my father, and I will lift him high.* [3] The LORD is a warrior; the LORD is his name. [4] The chariots of Pharaoh and his army he has thrown into the sea; the best of his officers are drowned in the Red Sea. [5] The deep waters covered them; they sank to the bottom like a stone. [6] Your right hand, O LORD, is majestic in strength; your right hand, O LORD, smashes the enemy. [7] In your great majesty you throw down those who rise against you; you let loose your burning anger, and it devours them like stubble. [8] By the breath of your nostrils the waters were heaped up; the streams stood upright like a mound; the depths turned solid in the heart of the sea. [9] The enemy said, 'I will chase, I will catch up, I will divide the plunder; my appetite will have its fill of them. I will draw my sword; my hand will wipe them out.' [10] You blew with your breath, and the sea covered them; they sank like lead in the mighty waters. [11] Who among the gods is like you, O LORD? Who is like you, majestic in holiness, to be feared in praises, working wonders? [12] You stretched out your right hand, and the earth swallowed them. [13] In your steadfast love you have led the people you redeemed; in your strength you have guided them to your holy dwelling place. [14] The peoples have heard, and they shake; pangs have seized those who live in Philistia. [15] Then the chiefs of Edom were terrified; trembling seized the leaders of Moab; all who live in Canaan have melted away. [16] Terror and dread fall on them; by the might of your arm they are as still as a stone, until your people pass by, O LORD, until the people you have acquired pass by. [17] You will bring them in and plant them on the mountain that is your inheritance, the place, O LORD, that you made for your dwelling, the sanctuary, O Lord, that your hands have established. [18] The LORD will reign forever and ever." [19] For when Pharaoh's horses with his chariots and his horsemen went into the sea, the LORD brought the waters of the sea back over them; but the children of Israel walked on dry ground in the middle of the sea. [20] Then Miriam the prophetess, Aaron's sister, took a tambourine in her hand, and all the women followed her with tambourines and dancing. [21] Miriam sang back to them, "Sing to the LORD, for he has risen up in triumph; horse and rider he has hurled into the sea." [22] Then Moses had Israel set out from the Red Sea, and they went out into the wilderness of Shur. For three days they traveled in the wilderness without finding water. [23] When they came to Marah, they could not drink the water of Marah because it was bitter; that is why it was called Marah. [24] The people grumbled against Moses and said, "What are we to drink?" [25] He cried out to the LORD, and the LORD pointed out to him a piece of wood. He threw it into the water, and the water turned sweet. There he laid down for them a statute and a rule, and there he put them to the test. [26] He said, "If you will listen carefully to the voice of the LORD your God, and do what is right in his eyes, and pay attention to his commandments and keep all his statutes, I will not bring on you any of the diseases that I brought on the Egyptians; for I am the LORD who heals you." [27] Then they came to Elim, where there were twelve springs of water and seventy palm trees, and they camped there beside the water.

CHAPTER 16

[1] They moved on from Elim, and the whole congregation of the children of Israel came to the wilderness of Sin, which lies between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after they had left the land of Egypt. [2] There in the wilderness the whole congregation of the children of Israel grumbled against Moses and Aaron. [3] The children of Israel said to them, "If only we had died by the LORD's hand in the land of Egypt, when we sat beside the pots of meat and ate bread until we were full! But you have brought us out into this wilderness to starve this whole assembly to death." [4] Then the LORD said to Moses, "I am about to rain down bread from the heavens for you. The people are to go out each day and gather enough for that day, so that I may test them and see whether they will walk in my law or not. [5] On the sixth day, when they prepare what they bring in, it will be double what they gather on other days." [6] So Moses and Aaron said to all the children of Israel, "This evening you will know that it was the LORD who brought you out of the land of Egypt, [7] and in the morning you will see the glory of the LORD, because he has heard your grumbling against the LORD. As for us, what are we, that you grumble against us?" [8] Moses also said, "You will know it when the LORD gives you meat to eat in the evening and bread in the morning until you are full, because the LORD has heard the grumbling you direct against him. What are we? It is not against us that you grumble, but against the LORD." [9] Moses said to Aaron, "Tell the whole congregation of the children of Israel, 'Come near before the LORD, for he has heard your grumbling.'" [10] While Aaron was speaking to the whole congregation of the children of Israel, they turned toward the wilderness, and there the glory of the LORD appeared in the cloud. [11] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [12] "I have heard the grumbling of the children of Israel. Tell them, 'At twilight you will eat meat, and in the morning you will have your fill of bread. Then you will know that I am the LORD your God.'" [13] That evening quail came up and covered the camp, and in the morning a layer of dew lay all around the camp. [14] When the layer of dew lifted, there on the surface of the wilderness was something fine and flaky, fine as frost on the ground. [15] The children of Israel saw it and said to one another, "What is it?" For they did not know what it was. Moses told them, "This is the bread the LORD has given you to eat. [*] [16] Here is what the LORD has commanded: 'Each of you is to gather as much of it as he can eat, an omer per person, by the number of people you have; each one is to gather for those in his tent.'" [17] The children of Israel did so. Some gathered more and some less. [18] But when they measured it by the omer, the one who had gathered much had nothing extra, and the one who had gathered little did not come up short. Each had gathered just as much as he could eat. [19] Moses told them, "No one is to keep any of it until morning." [20] But they did not listen to Moses. Some kept part of it until morning, and it became wormy and smelled bad; and Moses was angry with them. [21] Every morning they gathered it, each as much as he could eat, and when the sun grew hot it melted away. [22] On the sixth day they gathered a double amount of bread, two omers for each person. All the leaders of the congregation came and reported this to Moses. [23] He said to them, "This is what the LORD has said: 'Tomorrow is a day of complete rest, a holy Sabbath to the LORD. Bake what you want to bake and boil what you want to boil, and set aside all that is left over and keep it until morning.'" [24] So they set it aside until morning, as Moses had commanded, and it did not smell bad, nor were there any worms in it. [25] Moses said, "Eat it today, because today is a Sabbath to the LORD. Today you will not find any in the field. [26] For six days you are to gather it, but on the seventh day, the Sabbath, there will be none." [27] Even so, on the seventh day some of the people went out to gather, and they found nothing. [28] Then the LORD said to Moses, "How long will you refuse to keep my commandments and my laws? [29] Consider this: the LORD has given you the Sabbath. That is why on the sixth day he gives you bread for two days. Each of you is to stay where he is; no one is to leave his place on the seventh day." [30] So the people rested on the seventh day. [31] The house of Israel called it manna. It was white, like coriander seed, and it tasted like wafers made with honey. [32] Moses said, "This is what the LORD has commanded: 'Keep a full omer of it for your generations to come, so that they may see the bread I fed you in the wilderness when I brought you out of the land of Egypt.'" [33] Moses said to Aaron, "Take a jar, put a full omer of manna in it, and set it before the LORD to be kept for your generations to come." [34] Just as the LORD had commanded Moses, Aaron set it before the testimony to be kept. [35] The children of Israel ate manna for forty years, until they came to land where people lived; they ate manna until they reached the border of the land of Canaan. [36] An omer is one tenth of an ephah.

CHAPTER 17

[1] The whole congregation of the children of Israel set out from the wilderness of Sin, traveling in stages as the LORD directed, and they camped at Rephidim. But there was no water there for the people to drink. [2] So the people quarreled with Moses. "Give us water to drink," they said. Moses answered them, "Why are you quarreling with me? Why are you putting the LORD to the test?" [3] But the people were thirsty there for water, and they grumbled against Moses and said, "Why did you bring us up out of Egypt, only to kill us and our children and our livestock with thirst?" [4] Then Moses cried out to the LORD, "What am I to do with this people? A little more and they will stone me!" [5] The LORD answered Moses, "Go on ahead of the people, and take some of the elders of Israel with you. Take in your hand the staff you used to strike the Nile, and go. [6] I will stand there before you on the rock at Horeb. You are to strike the rock, and water will come out of it for the people to drink." Moses did this in the sight of the elders of Israel. [7] He named the place Massah and Meribah, because the children of Israel quarreled there and because they put the LORD to the test, saying, "Is the LORD among us or not?" [8] Then Amalek came and attacked Israel at Rephidim. [9] Moses said to Joshua, "Pick out men for us and go out and fight Amalek. Tomorrow I will stand on top of the hill with the staff of God in my hand." [10] Joshua did what Moses had told him and fought Amalek, while Moses, Aaron and Hur went up to the top of the hill. [11] As long as Moses kept his hand raised, Israel was winning; but whenever he let his hand down, Amalek was winning. [12] When Moses' hands grew heavy, they took a stone and set it under him, and he sat on it. Aaron and Hur held up his hands, one on one side and one on the other, so that his hands stayed steady until sunset. [13] So Joshua defeated Amalek and his people with the edge of the sword. [14] Then the LORD said to Moses, "Write this in a book as something to be remembered, and make sure Joshua hears it: I will completely wipe out the memory of Amalek from under the heavens." [15] Moses built an altar and named it The LORD Is My Banner. [16] He said, "A hand is on the throne of the LORD; the LORD will be at war with Amalek from generation to generation."*

CHAPTER 18

[1] Now Jethro, the priest of Midian and Moses' father-in-law, heard about everything God had done for Moses and for his people Israel, how the LORD had brought Israel out of Egypt. [2] So Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, took Zipporah, Moses' wife, whom Moses had sent back home, [3] along with her two sons. One of them was named Gershom, because Moses had said, "I have become a sojourner in a foreign land"; [4] the other was named Eliezer, because he had said, "The God of my father was my help; he rescued me from Pharaoh's sword." [5] Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, came with Moses' sons and his wife to Moses in the wilderness, where he was camped at the mountain of God. [6] He sent word to Moses, "I, your father-in-law Jethro, am coming to you, together with your wife and her two sons." [7] Moses went out to meet his father-in-law. He bowed down and kissed him, and they asked each other how they were; then they went into the tent. [8] Moses told his father-in-law everything the LORD had done to Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Israel's sake, all the hardship they had met along the way, and how the LORD had rescued them. [9] Jethro was glad because of all the good the LORD had done for Israel in rescuing them from the hand of the Egyptians. [10] Jethro said, "Blessed be the LORD, who has rescued you from the hand of the Egyptians and from the hand of Pharaoh, and who has rescued the people from under the hand of the Egyptians. [11] Now I know that the LORD is greater than all the gods; it has been shown in the very matter in which they treated them with arrogance." [12] Then Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, brought a burnt offering and sacrifices for God, and Aaron came with all the elders of Israel to eat bread with Moses' father-in-law in the presence of God. [13] The next day Moses took his seat to judge the people, and the people stood around Moses from morning until evening. [14] When Moses' father-in-law saw everything he was doing for the people, he said, "What is this you are doing for the people? Why do you sit by yourself, while all the people stand around you from morning until evening?" [15] Moses answered his father-in-law, "Because the people come to me to inquire of God. [16] Whenever they have a dispute, it comes to me, and I decide between one person and another, and I make known to them God's statutes and his laws." [17] Moses' father-in-law said to him, "What you are doing is not good. [18] You will certainly wear yourself out, and these people with you as well, for the task is too heavy for you; you cannot carry it out by yourself. [19] Now listen to me. I will give you advice, and may God be with you. You are to stand for the people before God and bring their disputes to God. [20] Warn them about the statutes and the laws, and make known to them the way they are to walk and the work they are to do. [21] But you yourself are to look out from all the people capable men who fear God, trustworthy men who hate dishonest gain, and set them over the people as officials over thousands, over hundreds, over fifties and over tens. [22] Let them judge the people at all times. Every major case they are to bring to you, but every minor case they can decide themselves. That will lighten your load, and they will carry it with you. [23] If you do this, and God so commands you, you will be able to hold up, and all these people too will go home in peace." [24] Moses listened to his father-in-law and did everything he had said. [25] Moses chose capable men from all Israel and made them heads over the people, officials over thousands, over hundreds, over fifties and over tens. [26] They judged the people at all times. The difficult cases they brought to Moses, but every minor case they decided themselves. [27] Then Moses sent his father-in-law on his way, and Jethro went back to his own land.

CHAPTER 19

[1] In the third month after the children of Israel left the land of Egypt, on that same day, they came to the wilderness of Sinai. [2] They had set out from Rephidim and entered the wilderness of Sinai, and they camped in the wilderness; Israel camped there in front of the mountain. [3] Moses went up to God, and the LORD called to him from the mountain: "This is what you are to say to the house of Jacob and tell the children of Israel: [4] 'You have seen for yourselves what I did to Egypt, and how I carried you on eagles' wings and brought you to myself. [5] So now, if you will truly listen to my voice and keep my covenant, you will be my own special possession out of all the peoples, for the whole earth is mine. [6] You will be for me a kingdom of priests and a holy nation.' These are the words you are to speak to the children of Israel." [7] So Moses came and summoned the elders of the people and laid before them all these words that the LORD had commanded him. [8] All the people answered as one, "We will do everything the LORD has spoken." And Moses took the people's answer back to the LORD. [9] The LORD said to Moses, "I am going to come to you in a dense cloud, so that the people will hear when I speak with you and will trust you from then on." Then Moses reported the people's words to the LORD. [10] The LORD said to Moses, "Go to the people and consecrate them today and tomorrow. Have them wash their clothes [11] and be ready by the third day, because on the third day the LORD will come down on Mount Sinai in the sight of all the people. [12]

Set a boundary for the people all around and tell them, 'Be careful not to go up the mountain or even touch its edge. Anyone who touches the mountain must be put to death. [13] No hand is to touch him; he must be stoned or shot with arrows. Whether animal or man, he must not live.' Only when the ram's horn sounds a long blast may they go up to the mountain." [14] Moses went down from the mountain to the people and consecrated them, and they washed their clothes. [15] He told the people, "Be ready by the third day. Do not go near a woman." [16] On the third day, when morning came, there were thunderclaps and flashes of lightning, a heavy cloud on the mountain and a very loud blast of the ram's horn, and all the people in the camp shook with fear. [17] Moses led the people out of the camp to meet God, and they stood at the foot of the mountain. [18] Mount Sinai was covered with smoke, because the LORD had come down on it in fire. The smoke rose from it like smoke from a kiln, and the whole mountain shook violently. [19] As the sound of the ram's horn grew louder and louder, Moses would speak, and God would answer him with a voice. [20] The LORD came down on Mount Sinai, onto the top of the mountain. The LORD called Moses to the top of the mountain, and Moses went up. [21] The LORD said to Moses, "Go down and warn the people not to force their way through to the LORD to look, or many of them will fall dead. [22] Even the priests, who come near to the LORD, must consecrate themselves, or the LORD will break out against them." [23] Moses said to the LORD, "The people cannot come up Mount Sinai, because you yourself warned us, 'Set a boundary around the mountain and make it holy.'" [24] The LORD said to him, "Go down, and then come back up, you and Aaron with you. But the priests and the people must not force their way through to come up to the LORD, or he will break out against them." [25] So Moses went down to the people and told them.

CHAPTER 20

[1] Then God spoke all these words: [2] "I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slaves. [3] You shall have no other gods before me. [4] You shall not make for yourself a carved image, nor any likeness of anything in the heavens above, or on the earth below, or in the waters under the earth. [5] You shall not bow down to them or serve them, for I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, who brings the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and the fourth generation of those who hate me, [6] but who shows steadfast love to thousands of those who love me and keep my commandments. [7] You shall not take the name of the LORD your God in vain, for the LORD will not leave unpunished anyone who takes his name in vain. [8] Remember the Sabbath day by keeping it holy. [9] Six days you shall labor and do all your work, [10] but the seventh day is a Sabbath to the LORD your God. On it you shall not do any work, neither you, nor your son or your daughter, nor your male or female servant, nor your livestock, nor the sojourner who lives within your gates. [11] For in six days the LORD made the heavens and the earth, the sea and everything in them, and he rested on the seventh day. That is why the LORD blessed the Sabbath day and made it holy. [12] Honor your father and your mother, so that you may live long in the land the LORD your God is giving you. [13] You shall not murder. [*] [14] You shall not commit adultery. [15] You shall not steal. [16] You shall not give false testimony against your neighbor. [17] You shall not covet your neighbor's house. You shall not covet your neighbor's wife, nor his male or female servant, nor his ox or his donkey, nor anything that belongs to your neighbor." [18] All the people were witnessing the thunderclaps and the lightning, the sound of the ram's horn and the mountain smoking. When the people saw it, they trembled and stood at a distance. [19] They said to Moses, "You speak to us, and we will listen. But do not let God speak to us, or we will die." [20] Moses said to the people, "Do not be afraid. God has come to put you to the test, so that the fear of him may be before you and keep you from sinning." [21] The people stayed at a distance, while Moses approached the thick darkness where God was. [22] The LORD said to Moses, "This is what you are to say to the children of Israel: 'You have seen for yourselves that I have spoken with you from the heavens. [23] You shall not make anything to set beside me: gods of silver or gods of gold you shall not make for yourselves. [24] Make for me an altar of earth, and sacrifice on it your burnt offerings and your peace offerings, your sheep and your cattle. In every place where I cause my name to be remembered, I will come to you and bless you. [25] If you make me an altar of stones, do not build it of cut stones, for if you use your tool on it, you will profane it. [26] And you shall not go up to my altar by steps, so that your nakedness is not exposed on it.'

CHAPTER 21

[1] "These are the judgments you are to lay before them. [2] If you buy a Hebrew servant, he is to serve for six years, but in the seventh year he shall go free without paying anything. [3] If he came in alone, he shall go out alone; if he had a wife, his wife shall go out with him. [4] If his master gives him a wife and she bears him sons or daughters, the wife and her children will belong to her master, and he shall go out alone. [5] But if the servant declares, 'I love my master, my wife and my children; I do not want to go free,' [6] then his master shall bring him to God. He shall bring him to the door or the doorpost and pierce his ear with an awl, and he will serve him for life. [] [7] If a man sells his daughter as a female servant, she shall not go free the way the male servants do. [8] If she does not please her master, who has designated her for himself, he must let her be redeemed. He has no right to sell her to a foreign people, since he has broken faith with her. [] [9] If he designates her for his son, he must treat her as a daughter is treated. [10] If he takes another wife for himself, he must not reduce the first one's food, her clothing or her marital rights. [11] If he does not provide her with these three things, she shall go free without any payment of money. [12] Anyone who strikes a person so that he dies must be put to death. [13] But if he did not lie in wait for him, and God let it happen by his hand, then I will designate for you a place where he may flee. [14] But if a man schemes against his neighbor and kills him by treachery, you shall take him even from my altar to be put to death. [15] Anyone who strikes his father or his mother must be put to death. [16] Anyone who kidnaps a person must be put to death, whether he has sold him or he is still found in his possession. [17] Anyone who curses his father or his mother must be put to death. [18] If men quarrel and one strikes the other with a stone or with his fist, and the man does not die but is confined to bed, [19] then if he gets up and walks around outside with his staff, the one who struck him shall go unpunished. He must only pay for the time the injured man lost and see that he is fully healed. [20] If a man strikes his male or female servant with a rod and the servant dies under his hand, the death must be avenged. [21] But if the servant survives a day or two, there is to be no vengeance, for the servant is his own money. [22] If men are fighting and they hit a pregnant woman so that her children come out, but there is no further harm, the guilty one must be fined whatever the woman's husband demands of him, and he shall pay as the judges decide. * [23] But if there is harm, then you shall give life for life, [24] eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, [25] burn for burn, wound for wound, bruise for bruise. [26] If a man strikes the eye of his male or female servant and destroys it, he must let the servant go free in payment for the eye. [27] If he knocks out a tooth of his male or female servant, he must let the servant go free in payment for the tooth. [28] If an ox gores a man or a woman to death, the ox must be stoned, and its meat may not be eaten; but the owner of the ox shall not be held liable. [29] But if the ox has had the habit of goring before, and its owner has been warned but has not kept it penned up, and it kills a man or a woman, the ox shall be stoned, and its owner also shall be put to death. [30] If a ransom is set for him instead, he shall pay whatever is set for him to redeem his life. [31] If the ox gores a son or a daughter, the owner shall be dealt with by this same judgment. [32] If the ox gores a male or female servant, the owner shall pay thirty shekels of silver to the servant's master, and the ox shall be stoned. [33] If a man uncovers a pit, or digs a pit and does not cover it, and an ox or a donkey falls into it, [34] the owner of the pit must make it good. He shall pay money to the animal's owner, and the dead animal will be his. [35] If one man's ox hurts another man's ox so that it dies, they shall sell the live ox and split the money, and they shall also split the dead animal. [36] But if it was known that the ox had the habit of goring before, and its owner did not keep it penned up, he must pay ox for ox, and the dead animal will be his.

CHAPTER 22

[1] "If a man steals an ox or a sheep and slaughters it or sells it, he must pay back five head of cattle for the ox and four sheep for the sheep. [2] If a thief is caught in the act of breaking in and is struck and dies, the one who struck him bears no guilt for his blood; [3] but if it happens after sunrise, there is guilt for his blood. A thief must make full restitution; if he has nothing, he shall be sold to pay for what he stole. [4] If the stolen animal is found alive in his hand, whether ox or donkey or sheep, he must pay back twice its value. [5] If a man lets a field or a vineyard be grazed and turns his animal loose so that it grazes in someone else's field, he must make it good from the best of his own field and the best of his own vineyard. [6] If a fire breaks out and spreads to thornbushes, so that stacked grain or standing grain or the whole field is burned up, the one who started the fire must make full restitution. [7] If a man gives his neighbor money or goods for safekeeping and they are stolen from that man's house, the thief, if he is caught, must pay back double. [8] If the thief is not caught, the owner of the house shall be brought before God to determine whether he has laid his hand on his neighbor's property. [9] In every case of wrongdoing, whether over an ox, a donkey, a sheep, a garment or any lost item about which someone says, 'This is mine,' both parties shall bring their case before God. The one whom God condemns must pay back double to his neighbor. [10] If a man gives his neighbor a donkey, an ox, a sheep or any other animal to look after, and it dies or is injured or is carried off while no one is looking, [11] the matter between the two of them shall be settled by an oath before the LORD that he has not laid his hand on his neighbor's property. The owner must accept this, and no restitution is required. [12] But if the animal was in fact stolen from him, he must make restitution to its owner. [13] If it was torn to pieces by a wild animal, he shall bring the remains as evidence; he does not have to make good what was torn. [14] If a man borrows anything from his neighbor and it is injured or dies while its owner is not with it, he must make full restitution. [15] If the owner was with it, he does not have to make it good. If it was hired, the hiring price covers the loss. [16] If a man seduces a virgin who is not engaged and sleeps with her, he must pay the bride-price for her and take her as his wife. [17] If her father absolutely refuses to give her to him, he must still pay silver equal to the bride-price for virgins. [18] Do not allow a sorceress to live. [19] Anyone who has sexual relations with an animal must be put to death. [20] Anyone who sacrifices to any god other than the LORD alone shall be devoted to destruction. [21] Do not mistreat or oppress a sojourner, for you yourselves were sojourners in the land of Egypt. [22] Do not afflict any widow or orphan. [23] If you afflict them at all, and they cry out to me, I will certainly hear their cry. [24] My anger will blaze, and I will kill you with the sword; then your own wives will be widows and your children orphans. [25] If you lend money to one of my people among you who is poor, do not act toward him like a creditor; you must not charge him interest. [26] If you ever take your neighbor's cloak as a pledge, give it back to him by sunset, [27] because that cloak is the only covering he has for his body. What else will he sleep in? When he cries out to me, I will listen, for I am gracious. [28] Do not curse God, and do not curse a leader of your people. * [29] Do not hold back the abundance of your harvest or the juice of your presses. You must give me the firstborn of your sons. [30] Do the same with your cattle and your sheep. Let the firstborn stay with its mother for seven days; on the eighth day give it to me. [31] You are to be holy men for me. So you must not eat the meat of any animal torn by wild beasts in the field; throw it to the dogs.

CHAPTER 23

[1] "Do not spread a false rumor. Do not lend your hand to a wicked man by being a lying witness. [2] Do not go along with the majority in doing wrong. When you give testimony in a case, do not lean toward the majority and so twist justice. [3] And do not favor a poor man in his case. [4] If you come across your enemy's ox or donkey wandering off, be sure to take it back to him. [5] If you see the donkey of someone who hates you collapsed under its load, do not walk away and leave it to him; you must help him with it and set it free. [6] Do not deny justice to the poor among you in their cases. [7] Stay far away from a false charge, and do not put the innocent and the righteous to death, for I will not acquit the guilty. [8] Do not accept a bribe, for a bribe blinds those who see clearly and twists the words of the righteous. [9] Do not oppress a sojourner. You yourselves know how a sojourner feels, because you were sojourners in the land of Egypt. [10] For six years you are to sow your land and gather in its produce, [11] but in the seventh year you are to let it rest and leave it unplowed, so that the poor among your people may eat from it, and the wild animals may eat what they leave. Do the same with your vineyard and your olive grove. [12] For six days you are to do your work, but on the seventh day you are to stop, so that your ox and your donkey may rest, and the son of your female servant and the sojourner may catch their breath. [13] Take care to do everything I have told you. Do not invoke the names of other gods; do not let them be heard on your lips. [14] Three times a year you are to celebrate a festival to me. [15] Keep the Feast of Unleavened Bread. For seven days eat unleavened bread, as I commanded you, at the set time in the month of Abib, because in that month you came out of Egypt. No one is to appear before me empty-handed. [16] Keep also the Feast of Harvest, with the firstfruits of the crops you have sown in the field, and the Feast of Ingathering at the close of the year, when you gather in your crops from the field. [17] Three times a year all your males are to appear before the Lord GOD. [18] Do not offer the blood of my sacrifice together with anything containing leaven, and do not let the fat of my festival offering remain until morning. [19] Bring the very first of the firstfruits of your soil to the house of the LORD your God. Do not cook a young goat in its mother's milk. [20] I am sending an angel ahead of you to guard you along the way and to bring you to the place I have prepared. [21] Be attentive to him and listen to his voice. Do not defy him, for he will not forgive your rebellion, because my name is in him. [22] But if you truly listen to his voice and do all that I say, I will be an enemy to your enemies and an opponent to those who oppose you. [23] For my angel will go ahead of you and bring you to the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hivites and Jebusites, and I will wipe them out. [24] Do not bow down to their gods or serve them, and do not follow their practices. Instead, tear them down completely and smash their sacred pillars to pieces. [25] Serve the LORD your God, and he will bless your bread and your water. I will remove sickness from among you. [26] No one in your land will miscarry or be barren. I will give you the full number of your days. [27] I will send my terror ahead of you and throw into confusion every people you come against. I will make all your enemies turn and run from you. [28] I will send the hornet ahead of you, and it will drive the Hivites, the Canaanites and the Hittites out of your way. [29] I will not drive them out from before you in a single year, or the land would become a wasteland and the wild animals would become too many for you. [30] I will drive them out from before you a little at a time, until you have grown numerous enough to take possession of the land. [31] I will fix your borders from the Red Sea to the Sea of the Philistines, and from the wilderness to the River. I will hand the inhabitants of the land over to you, and you will drive them out before you. [32] Do not make a covenant with them or with their gods. [33] They are not to live in your land, or they will cause you to sin against me; for if you serve their gods, it will certainly become a snare to you."

CHAPTER 24

[1] Then he said to Moses, "Come up to the LORD, you and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel, and bow down at a distance. [2] Only Moses is to come near the LORD; the others must not come near, and the people must not go up with him." [3] Moses came and related to the people all the words of the LORD and all the judgments, and all the people answered with a single voice, "Everything the LORD has said, we will do." [4] Moses wrote down all the words of the LORD. Early the next morning he built an altar at the foot of the mountain and set up twelve pillars, one for each of the twelve tribes of Israel. [5] He sent young men of the children of Israel, and they offered burnt offerings and sacrificed young bulls to the LORD as peace offerings. [6] Moses took half of the blood and put it in bowls, and the other half of the blood he splashed on the altar. [7] Then he took the book of the covenant and read it aloud to the people, and they said, "Everything the LORD has said we will do, and we will obey." [8] Moses took the blood, splashed it on the people and said, "Here is the blood of the covenant that the LORD has made with you on the terms of all these words." [9] Then Moses and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel went up, [10] and they saw the God of Israel. Under his feet was something like a pavement made of sapphire, as clear as the sky itself. [11] But he did not raise his hand against the leaders of the children of Israel; they saw God, and they ate and drank. [12] The LORD said to Moses, "Come up to me on the mountain and remain there, and I will give you the tablets of stone, the law and the commandment, which I have written to teach them." [13] So Moses got up, together with Joshua his assistant, and Moses went up the mountain of God. [14] He said to the elders, "Wait here for us until we come back to you. Aaron and Hur are with you; whoever has a dispute can go to them." [15] When Moses went up the mountain, the cloud covered the mountain. [16] The glory of the LORD settled on Mount Sinai, and for six days the cloud covered it. On the seventh day he called to Moses from inside the cloud. [17] To the eyes of the children of Israel the glory of the LORD looked like a consuming fire on the top of the mountain. [18] Moses went into the cloud as he went up the mountain, and he stayed on the mountain forty days and forty nights.

CHAPTER 25

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Tell the children of Israel to take up a contribution for me. You are to receive my contribution from every man whose heart prompts him to give. [3] This is the contribution you are to receive from them: gold, silver and bronze; [4] blue, purple and scarlet yarn, fine linen and goats' hair; [5] rams' skins dyed red, goatskins and acacia wood; [*6] oil for the light, spices for the anointing oil and for the fragrant incense; [7] onyx stones and other stones to be mounted on the ephod and on the breastpiece. [8] Have them make a sanctuary for me, so that I may dwell among them. [9] You are to make the tabernacle and all its furnishings exactly according to the pattern I am showing you. [10] They are to make an ark of acacia wood, two and a half cubits long, a cubit and a half wide and a cubit and a half high. [11] Overlay it with pure gold, both inside and out, and make a gold molding around it. [12] Cast four gold rings for it and attach them to its four feet, two rings on one side and two rings on the other. [13] Make poles of acacia wood and overlay them with gold. [14] Insert the poles into the rings on the sides of the ark, so that the ark can be carried with them. [15] The poles are to stay in the rings of the ark; they must not be removed from it. [16] Then place in the ark the testimony that I will give you. [17] Make a mercy seat of pure gold, two and a half cubits long and a cubit and a half wide. [18] Make two cherubim of gold; make them of hammered work at the two ends of the mercy seat. [19] Make one cherub at one end and the other cherub at the other end; make the cherubim of one piece with the mercy seat, at its two ends. [20] The cherubim are to have their wings spread upward, sheltering the mercy seat with their wings, and they are to face each other, looking toward the mercy seat. [21] Set the mercy seat on top of the ark, and place inside the ark the testimony that I will give you. [22] There I will meet with you, and from above the mercy seat, between the two cherubim that are over the ark of the testimony, I will speak with you about everything I will command you for the children of Israel. [23] Make a table of acacia wood, two cubits long, one cubit wide and a cubit and a half high. [24] Overlay it with pure gold and make a gold molding around it. [25] Make a rim a handbreadth wide around it, and put a gold molding around the rim. [26] Make four gold rings for it and fasten the rings at the four corners, where its four legs are. [27] The rings are to be close to the rim to hold the poles used to carry the table. [28] Make the poles of acacia wood and overlay them with gold; the table is to be carried with them. [29] Make its plates and dishes, and its flagons and bowls for pouring out offerings; make them of pure gold. [30] Place the bread of the Presence on the table before me at all times. [31] Make a lampstand of pure gold. The lampstand is to be of hammered work, with its base and its shaft; its cups, its knobs and its flowers are to be of one piece with it. [32] Six branches are to extend from its sides, three branches of the lampstand on one side and three on the other. [33] On one branch there are to be three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with a knob and a flower, and three cups shaped like almond blossoms on the next branch, each with a knob and a flower; the same for all six branches that extend from the lampstand. [34] On the lampstand itself there are to be four cups shaped like almond blossoms, with their knobs and flowers. [35] There is to be a knob under the first pair of branches extending from it, a knob under the second pair and a knob under the third pair; so for all six branches that extend from the lampstand. [36] The knobs and the branches are to be of one piece with it; the whole lampstand is to be a single hammered piece of pure gold. [37] Make its seven lamps, and set the lamps up on it so that they light the area in front of it. [38] Its tongs and its trays are to be of pure gold. [39] It is to be made, together with all these utensils, from a talent of pure gold. [40] See that you make them according to the pattern you are being shown on the mountain.

CHAPTER 26

[1] "The tabernacle itself you are to make from ten curtains of fine twisted linen with blue, purple and scarlet yarn; work cherubim into them, the work of a skilled craftsman. [2] Each curtain is to be twenty-eight cubits long and four cubits wide; all the curtains are to be the same size. [3] Join five of the curtains to each other, and join the other five to each other as well. [4] Make loops of blue yarn along the edge of the end curtain in the one set, and do the same along the edge of the end curtain in the second set. [5] Put fifty loops on the one curtain and fifty loops on the edge of the end curtain in the second set, with the loops facing each other. [6] Then make fifty gold clasps and use them to fasten the curtains to each other, so that the tabernacle forms a single unit. [7] Make curtains of goats' hair as a tent to cover the tabernacle; make eleven of them. [8] Each curtain is to be thirty cubits long and four cubits wide; all eleven curtains are to be the same size. [9] Join five of the curtains into one set and six into another, and fold the sixth curtain double at the front of the tent. [10] Put fifty loops along the edge of the end curtain in the one set and fifty loops along the edge of the curtain in the other set. [11] Then make fifty bronze clasps, hook them into the loops and fasten the tent together so that it forms a single unit. [12] As for the extra length of the tent curtains, the half curtain left over is to hang down at the rear of the tabernacle. [13] The tent curtains will be a cubit longer on each side; this extra length is to hang over the sides of the tabernacle, one side and the other, to cover it. [14] For the tent make a covering of rams' skins dyed red, and over that a covering of goatskins. [15] Make upright frames of acacia wood for the tabernacle. [16] Each frame is to be ten cubits long and a cubit and a half wide, [17] with two tenons on each frame, set parallel to each other. Make all the frames of the tabernacle this way. [18] Make twenty frames for the south side of the tabernacle, the side facing the Negev, [19] and make forty silver bases to go under the twenty frames, two bases under each frame, one for each of its two tenons. [20] For the other side of the tabernacle, the north side, make twenty frames [21] with their forty silver bases, two under each frame. [22] For the far end of the tabernacle, the west side, make six frames, [23] and make two frames for the corners of the tabernacle at the far end. [24] At these two corners the frames are to be double from the bottom and joined all the way to the top, at the first ring; both corners are to be made alike. [25] So there will be eight frames with their silver bases, sixteen bases in all, two under each frame. [26] Make bars of acacia wood as well: five for the frames on one side of the tabernacle, [27] five for the frames on the other side, and five for the frames on the west side, at the far end of the tabernacle. [28] The center bar is to run through the middle of the frames from one end to the other. [29] Overlay the frames with gold, make gold rings on them to hold the bars, and overlay the bars with gold too. [30] Then set up the tabernacle in keeping with the design you were shown on the mountain. [31] Make a veil of blue, purple and scarlet yarn and fine twisted linen, with cherubim worked into it by a skilled craftsman. [32] Hang it on four pillars of acacia wood overlaid with gold, which have gold hooks and stand on four silver bases. [33] Hang the veil from the clasps, and bring the ark of the testimony behind the veil. The veil will divide the holy place from the most holy place for you. [34] Place the mercy seat on the ark of the testimony in the most holy place. [35] Set the table outside the veil on the north side of the tabernacle, and put the lampstand across from it on the south side. [36] For the entrance to the tent make a screen of blue, purple and scarlet yarn and fine twisted linen, the work of an embroiderer.* [37] For the screen make five pillars of acacia wood overlaid with gold, with gold hooks, and cast five bronze bases for them.

CHAPTER 27

[1] "Make the altar of acacia wood, five cubits long and five cubits wide. The altar is to be square, and three cubits high. [2] Make a horn at each of its four corners; the horns are to be of one piece with the altar. Then overlay it with bronze. [3] Make all its utensils of bronze: the pots for clearing away its ashes, and its shovels, basins, forks and firepans. [4] Make a grating for it, a bronze network, and put a bronze ring on each of the four corners of the network. [5] Set it beneath the ledge of the altar, down below, so that the network comes halfway up the altar. [6] Make poles for the altar out of acacia wood and overlay them with bronze. [7] The poles are to be inserted into the rings so that they are on the two sides of the altar when it is carried. [8] Make the altar hollow, out of boards. It is to be made just as you were shown on the mountain. [9] "Make the court of the tabernacle. The south side, facing the Negev, is to have hangings of fine twisted linen a hundred cubits long on that one side, [10] with twenty pillars and twenty bronze bases, and with silver hooks and bands on the pillars. [11] The north side likewise is to have hangings a hundred cubits long, with twenty pillars and twenty bronze bases, and with silver hooks and bands on the pillars. [12] Across the width of the court on the west side there are to be hangings fifty cubits long, with ten pillars and ten bases. [13] On the east side, toward the sunrise, the court is to be fifty cubits wide. [14] Hangings fifteen cubits long are to be on one side of the entrance, with three pillars and three bases, [15] and hangings fifteen cubits long on the other side, with three pillars and three bases. [16] For the gate of the court there is to be a screen twenty cubits long, of blue, purple and scarlet yarn and fine twisted linen, the work of an embroiderer, with four pillars and four bases. [17] All the pillars around the court are to have silver bands and silver hooks, and bronze bases. [18] The court is to be a hundred cubits long and fifty cubits wide all along, with hangings of fine twisted linen five cubits high and bases of bronze. [19] All the tabernacle's equipment used in any of its service, and all its tent pegs and those of the court, are to be of bronze. [20] "Command the children of Israel to bring you clear oil of pressed olives for the light, so that the lamp can be kept burning at all times. [21] In the tent of meeting, outside the veil that is in front of the testimony, Aaron and his sons are to keep it in order before the LORD from evening until morning. This is a lasting ordinance for the children of Israel, for all their generations.

CHAPTER 28

[1] "Have your brother Aaron come to you from among the children of Israel, together with his sons, Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar, so that they may serve me as priests. [2] Make sacred garments for your brother Aaron, to give him glory and splendor. [3] Speak to all the skilled craftsmen whom I have filled with a spirit of wisdom, and have them make garments for Aaron to consecrate him to serve me as priest. [4] These are the garments they are to make: a breastpiece, an ephod, a robe, a woven tunic, a turban and a sash. They are to make these sacred garments for your brother Aaron and his sons, so that they may serve me as priests. [5] They are to use gold, blue, purple and scarlet yarn, and fine linen. [6] "They are to make the ephod of gold, of blue, purple and scarlet yarn, and of fine twisted linen, the work of a skilled craftsman. [7] It is to have two shoulder pieces attached at its two ends, so that it can be fastened together. [8] Its woven waistband is to be made like it, of one piece with the ephod: of gold, of blue, purple and scarlet yarn, and of fine twisted linen. [9] Take two onyx stones and engrave on them the names of the children of Israel, [10] six names on one stone and the other six on the second stone, in the order of their birth. [11] Engrave the names of the children of Israel on the two stones the way a gem cutter engraves a seal, and mount the stones in gold filigree settings. [12] Fasten the two stones on the shoulder pieces of the ephod as memorial stones for the children of Israel. Aaron is to carry their names on his two shoulders before the LORD as a reminder. [13] Make gold filigree settings [14] and two chains of pure gold, braided like cords, and attach the braided chains to the settings. [15] "Make the breastpiece of judgment, the work of a skilled craftsman. Make it in the same way as the ephod: of gold, of blue, purple and scarlet yarn, and of fine twisted linen. [16] It is to be square when folded double, a span long and a span wide. [17] Mount four rows of stones on it. In the first row are to be a carnelian, a topaz and an emerald;* [18] in the second row, a turquoise, a sapphire and a diamond; [19] in the third row, a jacinth, an agate and an amethyst; [20] in the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx and a jasper. They are to be mounted in gold filigree settings. [21] There are to be twelve stones, one for each of the names of the children of Israel, each engraved like a seal with the name of one of the twelve tribes. [22] For the breastpiece make braided chains of pure gold, like cords. [23] Make two gold rings for the breastpiece and attach them to its two upper corners. [24] Fasten the two gold cords to the two rings at the corners of the breastpiece, [25] and fasten the other ends of the two cords to the two settings, attaching them to the shoulder pieces of the ephod at the front. [26] Make two more gold rings and attach them to the two lower corners of the breastpiece, on the inner edge that lies against the ephod. [27] Make two more gold rings and attach them to the bottom of the two shoulder pieces on the front of the ephod, close to the seam just above the woven waistband of the ephod. [28] The rings of the breastpiece are to be tied to the rings of the ephod with a blue cord, so that the breastpiece rests above the waistband of the ephod and does not swing loose from it. [29] "In this way, whenever Aaron enters the holy place, he will carry the names of the children of Israel over his heart in the breastpiece of judgment, as a constant reminder before the LORD. [30] Put the Urim and the Thummim in the breastpiece of judgment, so that they are over Aaron's heart whenever he comes before the LORD. Thus Aaron will always carry the judgment of the children of Israel over his heart before the LORD. [31] "Make the robe of the ephod entirely of blue. [32] It is to have an opening for the head in the center, with a woven edge around the opening like the opening of a coat of mail, so that it will not tear. [] [33] Around its hem make pomegranates of blue, purple and scarlet yarn, all the way around, with gold bells between them, [34] alternating a gold bell and a pomegranate, a gold bell and a pomegranate, around the whole hem of the robe. [35] Aaron must wear it when he ministers, and the sound will be heard when he enters the holy place before the LORD and when he leaves, so that he will not die. [36] "Make a plate of pure gold and engrave on it, as on a seal: HOLY TO THE LORD. [37] Attach it with a blue cord to the turban; it is to be on the front of the turban. [38] It will be on Aaron's forehead, and Aaron will bear the guilt attached to the holy things that the children of Israel set apart, whatever their holy gifts may be. It is to be on his forehead continually, so that they will be accepted before the LORD. [39] Weave the tunic of fine linen, make the turban of fine linen, and make a sash, the work of an embroiderer. [40] For Aaron's sons make tunics, sashes and caps, to give them glory and splendor. [41] Put these garments on your brother Aaron and his sons; anoint them, ordain them and consecrate them, so that they may serve me as priests. [] [42] Make linen undergarments for them to cover their bare bodies, reaching from the waist to the thighs. [43] Aaron and his sons must wear them whenever they enter the tent of meeting or approach the altar to minister in the holy place, so that they will not incur guilt and die. This is to be a lasting ordinance for Aaron and his descendants after him.

CHAPTER 29

[1] "This is how you are to consecrate them to serve me as priests. Take a young bull and two rams with no defect, [2] along with unleavened bread, unleavened cakes mixed with oil and unleavened wafers smeared with oil, all made from fine wheat flour. [3] Put them in a single basket and present them in the basket, together with the bull and the two rams. [4] Then bring Aaron and his sons to the entrance of the tent of meeting and wash them with water. [5] Take the garments and clothe Aaron with the tunic, the robe of the ephod, the ephod itself and the breastpiece, and tie the woven waistband of the ephod around him. [6] Set the turban on his head and attach the holy crown to the turban. [7] Take the anointing oil and anoint him by pouring it on his head. [8] Next bring his sons and clothe them with tunics. [9] Tie sashes around Aaron and his sons and fit the caps on them. The priesthood is to be theirs by a lasting ordinance. In this way you are to ordain Aaron and his sons. [10] "Bring the bull to the front of the tent of meeting, and have Aaron and his sons lay their hands on its head. [11] Slaughter the bull in the LORD's presence at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [12] Take some of the bull's blood and put it on the horns of the altar with your finger; pour out all the rest of the blood at the base of the altar. [13] Then take all the fat around the inner organs, the long lobe of the liver, and both kidneys with the fat on them, and burn them on the altar. [14] But burn the bull's flesh, its hide and its dung outside the camp. It is a sin offering. [15] "Take one of the rams, and have Aaron and his sons lay their hands on its head. [16] Slaughter the ram, take its blood and splash it against all sides of the altar. [17] Cut the ram into pieces, wash the inner organs and the legs, and place them with the pieces and the head. [18] Then burn the entire ram on the altar. It is a burnt offering to the LORD, a soothing aroma, a food offering to the LORD. [] [19] "Take the other ram, and have Aaron and his sons lay their hands on its head. [20] Slaughter it, take some of its blood and put it on the lobe of Aaron's right ear and on the lobes of his sons' right ears, on the thumbs of their right hands and on the big toes of their right feet. Splash the rest of the blood against all sides of the altar. [21] Then take some of the blood on the altar and some of the anointing oil and sprinkle it on Aaron and his garments and on his sons and their garments. So he and his garments will be made holy, and his sons and their garments with him. [22] "From this ram take the fat, the fat tail, the fat around the inner organs, the long lobe of the liver, both kidneys with the fat on them, and the right thigh, since this is the ram of ordination. [23] From the basket of unleavened bread set before the LORD take one loaf of bread, one cake made with oil and one wafer. [24] Place all these in the hands of Aaron and his sons, and have them wave them before the LORD as a wave offering. [25] Then take them back from their hands and burn them on the altar on top of the burnt offering, as a soothing aroma before the LORD. It is a food offering to the LORD. [26] Take the breast of the ram for Aaron's ordination and wave it before the LORD as a wave offering; it will be your share. [27] Set apart the breast that was waved and the thigh that was presented as a contribution, the parts of the ram of ordination that belong to Aaron and his sons. [28] This is always to be the share of Aaron and his sons from the children of Israel, because it is a contribution. It is to be the contribution the children of Israel make from their sacrifices of peace offerings, their contribution to the LORD. [29] "Aaron's sacred garments will pass to his sons after him, so that they can be anointed and ordained in them. [30] The son who succeeds him as priest and enters the tent of meeting to minister in the holy place is to wear them for seven days. [31] "Take the ram of ordination and cook its meat in a holy place. [32] At the entrance of the tent of meeting Aaron and his sons are to eat the meat of the ram and the bread in the basket. [33] They are to eat the things by which atonement was made for them at their ordination and consecration. No outsider may eat them, because they are holy. [34] If any of the ordination meat or any of the bread is left until morning, burn up what is left. It must not be eaten, because it is holy. [35] "Do all this for Aaron and his sons, just as I have commanded you, taking seven days to ordain them. [36] Each day offer a bull as a sin offering to make atonement. Purify the altar by making atonement for it, and anoint it to consecrate it. [37] For seven days make atonement for the altar and consecrate it. Then the altar will be most holy, and whatever touches it will become holy. [38] "This is what you are to offer on the altar regularly each day: two lambs a year old. [39] Offer one lamb in the morning and the other at twilight. [] [40] With the first lamb offer a tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with a quarter of a hin of oil from pressed olives, and a quarter of a hin of wine as a drink offering. [41] Offer the other lamb at twilight with the same grain offering and drink offering as in the morning, as a soothing aroma, a food offering to the LORD. [42] For all your generations to come this is to be the regular burnt offering at the entrance of the tent of meeting before the LORD. There I will meet you and speak to you. [43] There too I will meet with the children of Israel, and the place will be made holy by my glory. [44] So I will consecrate the tent of meeting and the altar, and I will consecrate Aaron and his sons to serve me as priests. [45] Then I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel and be their God. [46] They will know that I am the LORD their God, who brought them out of the land of Egypt so that I might dwell among them. I am the LORD their God.

CHAPTER 30

[1] "Make an altar of acacia wood on which to burn incense. [2] It is to be square, a cubit long and a cubit wide, and two cubits high, with its horns of one piece with it. [3] Overlay its top, its sides all around and its horns with pure gold, and make a gold molding around it. [4] Make two gold rings for it below the molding, on two opposite sides, to hold the poles by which it is carried. [5] Make the poles of acacia wood and overlay them with gold. [6] Place the altar in front of the veil that hangs before the ark of the testimony, in front of the mercy seat over the testimony, where I will meet with you. [7] Aaron is to burn fragrant incense on it every morning when he trims the lamps. [8] He is to burn it again when he lights the lamps at twilight, so that incense burns before the LORD regularly for all your generations. [9] Do not offer on this altar any unauthorized incense or any burnt offering or grain offering, and do not pour a drink offering on it. [10] Once a year Aaron is to make atonement on its horns. With the blood of the sin offering for atonement he is to make atonement for it once a year for all your generations. It is most holy to the LORD." [11] Then the LORD said to Moses, [12] "When you take a census of the children of Israel to count them, each man must pay the LORD a ransom for his life at the time he is counted, so that no plague will come on them when you count them. [13] Everyone who crosses over to those already counted is to give half a shekel, by the sanctuary shekel, which is twenty gerahs. This half shekel is a contribution to the LORD. [14] Everyone twenty years old or more who crosses over to those counted is to give the LORD's contribution. [15] When you give the LORD's contribution to make atonement for your lives, the rich are not to give more than half a shekel, and the poor are not to give less. [16] Collect the atonement money from the children of Israel and use it for the service of the tent of meeting. It will be a reminder of the children of Israel before the LORD, making atonement for your lives." [17] The LORD said to Moses, [18] "Make a bronze basin with a bronze stand for washing. Set it between the tent of meeting and the altar and put water in it. [19] Aaron and his sons are to wash their hands and feet with water from it. [20] Whenever they enter the tent of meeting they must wash with water so that they will not die; likewise when they approach the altar to minister by burning a food offering to the LORD, [21] they must wash their hands and feet so that they will not die. This is to be a lasting ordinance for Aaron and his descendants for all their generations." [22] The LORD also said to Moses, [23] "Take the choicest spices: five hundred shekels of liquid myrrh, half that amount, two hundred and fifty shekels, of fragrant cinnamon, two hundred and fifty shekels of fragrant cane, [24] five hundred shekels of cassia, by the sanctuary shekel, and a hin of olive oil. [25] From these make a holy anointing oil, a fragrant blend prepared by a perfumer. It will be the holy anointing oil. [26] Use it to anoint the tent of meeting, the ark of the testimony, [27] the table and all its utensils, the lampstand and its utensils, the altar of incense, [28] the altar of burnt offering and all its utensils, and the basin with its stand. [29] Consecrate them so that they will be most holy; whatever touches them will become holy. [30] Anoint Aaron and his sons as well, and consecrate them to serve me as priests. [31] Tell the children of Israel, 'This is to be my holy anointing oil for all your generations. [32] Do not pour it on ordinary people's bodies, and do not make any oil with the same formula. It is holy, and you are to treat it as holy. [33] Whoever blends any like it or puts any of it on an outsider is to be cut off from his people.'" [34] Then the LORD said to Moses, "Take fragrant spices, stacte, onycha and galbanum, these fragrant spices together with pure frankincense, all in equal amounts, [35] and make an incense blended as a perfumer would, salted, pure and holy. [36] Grind some of it into fine powder and place it in front of the testimony in the tent of meeting, where I will meet with you. You are to regard it as most holy. [37] Do not make any incense with this formula for yourselves; treat it as holy, set apart for the LORD. [38] Whoever makes any like it to enjoy its fragrance is to be cut off from his people."

CHAPTER 31

[1] The LORD said to Moses, [2] "See, I have chosen Bezalel son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, calling him by name. [3]
I have filled him with the Spirit of God, giving him wisdom, understanding and knowledge in every kind of craft, [4] to conceive artistic designs and to carry them out in gold, silver and bronze, [5] to cut stones for mounting and to carve wood, to work at every kind of craft. [6] And I myself have given him Oholiab son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, to work with him. I have also put wisdom in the hearts of all the skilled workers, so that they can make everything I have commanded you: [7] the tent of meeting, the ark of the testimony with the mercy seat on it, and all the other furnishings of the tent, [8] the table and its utensils, the pure gold lampstand and all its utensils, the altar of incense, [9]
the altar of burnt offering and all its utensils, the basin with its stand, [10] the woven garments, both the sacred garments for Aaron the priest and the garments for his sons when they serve as priests, [11] and the anointing oil and fragrant incense for the holy place. They are to make them just as I have commanded you." [12]
Then the LORD said to Moses, [13] "Tell the children of Israel,
'You must certainly keep my Sabbaths. This is a sign between me and you for all your generations, so that you may know that I am the LORD, who makes you holy. [14] Keep the Sabbath, because it is holy for you. Anyone who desecrates it must be put to death; whoever does any work on that day is to be cut off from among his people. [15] For six days work may be done, but the seventh day is a Sabbath of complete rest, holy to the LORD. Anyone who does work on the Sabbath day must be put to death. [16] The children of Israel are to keep the Sabbath, celebrating it for all their generations as a lasting covenant. [17] It is a sign between me and the children of Israel for all time, because in six days the LORD made the heavens and the earth, and on the seventh day he ceased from work and was refreshed.'" [18] When the LORD had finished speaking with Moses on Mount Sinai, he gave him the two tablets of the testimony, tablets of stone inscribed by the finger of God.

CHAPTER 32

[1] The people saw that Moses was slow in coming down from the mountain, so they crowded around Aaron and told him, "Come, make us gods who will go ahead of us. As for this Moses, the man who brought us up from the land of Egypt, we have no idea what has happened to him." [2] Aaron answered them, "Pull off the gold rings in the ears of your wives, your sons and your daughters, and bring them to me." [3] So all the people pulled off the gold rings from their ears and brought them to Aaron. [4] He took what they handed him, shaped it with a graving tool and made it into a cast metal calf. Then they said, "These are your gods, Israel, who brought you up from the land of Egypt!" [* 5] Seeing this, Aaron built an altar in front of the calf and announced, "Tomorrow there will be a feast to the LORD." [6] Early the next day they got up and offered burnt offerings and presented peace offerings. The people sat down to eat and drink, and then got up to revel. [7] The LORD said to Moses, "Go down at once! Your people, whom you brought up from the land of Egypt, have acted corruptly. [8] They have been quick to turn away from the path I commanded them. They have made themselves a cast metal calf; they have bowed down to it, sacrificed to it and said, 'These are your gods, Israel, who brought you up from the land of Egypt!'" [9] The LORD also said to Moses, "I have watched this people, and they are indeed a stiff-necked people. [10] So now leave me alone, so that my anger may blaze against them and I may wipe them out. Then I will make you into a great nation." [11] But Moses sought the favor of the LORD his God. "LORD," he said, "why should your anger blaze against your people, whom you brought out of the land of Egypt with great power and a strong hand? [12] Why let the Egyptians say, 'He brought them out with evil intent, to kill them in the mountains and wipe them off the face of the earth'?
Turn back from your burning anger and change your mind about this disaster for your people. [13] Remember your servants Abraham, Isaac and Israel, to whom you swore by your own self, telling them, 'I will make your descendants as many as the stars of the sky, and I will give your descendants all this land I have promised, and it will be their possession forever.'" [14] And the LORD changed his mind about the disaster he had said he would bring on his people. [15] Moses turned and went down the mountain with the two tablets of the testimony in his hands.
The tablets were inscribed on both sides, front and back. [16] The tablets were God's work, and the writing was God's writing, engraved on the tablets. [17] When Joshua heard the noise of the people shouting, he said to Moses, "There is the sound of battle in the camp." [18] But Moses replied, "It is not the sound of a victory cry, nor the sound of a cry of defeat; it is the sound of singing that I hear." [19] As he drew near the camp and saw the calf and the dancing, Moses' anger blazed. He flung the tablets from his hands and smashed them at the foot of the mountain. [20] He took the calf they had made and burned it in the fire; then he ground it to powder, scattered it over the water and made the children of Israel drink it. [21] Moses said to Aaron, "What did this people do to you, that you brought such a great sin on them?" [22]
"My lord must not be angry," Aaron answered. "You yourself know how bent on evil this people is. [23] They said to me, 'Make us gods who will go ahead of us. As for this Moses, the man who brought us up from the land of Egypt, we have no idea what has happened to him.' [24] So I told them, 'Whoever has gold, take it off.' They gave it to me; I threw it into the fire, and out came this calf!" [25] Moses saw that the people were running wild, for Aaron had let them get out of control, to the scorn of their enemies. [26]
So Moses stood at the gate of the camp and said, "Whoever is for the LORD, come to me!" And all the Levites rallied to him. [27]
He told them, "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says:
'Each of you strap a sword to your side. Go back and forth through the camp from one gate to the other, and each of you kill his brother, his friend and his neighbor.'" [28] The Levites did as Moses commanded, and that day about three thousand of the people fell. [29] Moses said, "Consecrate yourselves today to the LORD, each one at the cost of his son and his brother, so that he may grant you a blessing today."* 30 The next day Moses said to the people, "You have committed a great sin. But now I will go up to the LORD; perhaps I can make atonement for your sin." 31 So Moses went back to the LORD and said, "Alas, this people has committed a great sin; they have made gods of gold for themselves. 32 But now, if only you would forgive their sin! If not, then blot me out of the book you have written." 33 The LORD answered Moses, "The one who has sinned against me is the one I will blot out of my book. 34 Now go, lead the people to the place I told you about. My angel will go ahead of you. But on the day I punish, I will punish them for their sin." 35 And the LORD struck the people with a plague because of what they did with the calf Aaron had made.

CHAPTER 33

1 The LORD said to Moses, "Leave this place, you and the people you brought up from the land of Egypt, and go up to the land I swore to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob when I said, 'I will give it to your descendants.' 2 I will send an angel ahead of you and drive out the Canaanites, Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites. 3 Go up to a land flowing with milk and honey. But I will not go up among you, because you are a stiff-necked people, and I might destroy you on the way." 4 When the people heard these grim words, they went into mourning, and no one put on any jewelry. 5 For the LORD had told Moses, "Say to the children of Israel, 'You are a stiff-necked people. If I went up among you even for a moment, I would destroy you. Now take off your jewelry, and I will decide what to do with you.'" 6 So from Mount Horeb on, the children of Israel stripped off their jewelry. 7 Moses would take the tent and set it up outside the camp, at some distance from it, and he called it the tent of meeting. Anyone seeking the LORD would go out to the tent of meeting outside the camp. 8 Whenever Moses went out to the tent, all the people would get up and stand at the entrances of their tents, watching Moses until he entered the tent. 9 As Moses went into the tent, the pillar of cloud would come down and stay at the entrance of the tent while the LORD spoke with Moses. 10 When all the people saw the pillar of cloud standing at the entrance of the tent, they would all get up and bow down, each at the entrance of his own tent. 11 The LORD would speak to Moses face to face, the way a man speaks with his friend. Then Moses would go back to the camp, but his young aide Joshua son of Nun did not leave the tent. 12 Moses said to the LORD, "Look, you keep telling me, 'Lead this people up,' but you have not told me whom you will send with me. And yet you have said, 'I know you by name, and you have found favor with me.' 13 So now, if I have indeed found favor with you, let me know your ways, so that I may know you and keep finding favor with you. Remember too that this nation is your people." 14 He answered, "My presence will go with you, and I will give you rest."* 15 Moses said to him, "If your presence does not go with us, do not send us up from here. 16 How else will anyone know that I and your people have found favor with you? Is it not by your going with us, so that we, I and your people, stand apart from every other people on the face of the earth?" 17 The LORD said to Moses, "This very thing you have asked I will also do, because you have found favor with me and I know you by name." 18 Then Moses said, "Show me your glory, I pray." 19 He replied, "I will cause all my goodness to pass in front of you, and I will proclaim the name of the LORD in your presence. I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and I will show compassion to whom I will show compassion. 20 But you cannot see my face," he said, "for no one may see me and live." 21 The LORD said, "There is a place near me where you may stand on the rock. 22 When my glory passes by, I will put you in a crevice of the rock and cover you with my hand until I have passed by. 23 Then I will remove my hand, and you will see my back; but my face must not be seen."

CHAPTER 34

1 The LORD said to Moses, "Chisel out two stone tablets like the first ones, and I will write on them the words that were on the first tablets, which you smashed. 2 Be ready by morning, and in the morning come up Mount Sinai and present yourself to me there on top of the mountain. 3 No one is to come up with you, and no one is to be seen anywhere on the mountain. Not even the flocks or herds may graze in front of that mountain." 4 So Moses chiseled out two stone tablets like the first ones. He got up early in the morning and climbed Mount Sinai as the LORD had commanded him, carrying the two stone tablets in his hands. 5 The LORD came down in the cloud, stood there with him and proclaimed the name of the LORD. 6 The LORD passed in front of him and proclaimed, "The LORD, the LORD, a God compassionate and gracious, slow to anger, rich in steadfast love and faithfulness, 7 maintaining steadfast love to thousands, forgiving iniquity, transgression and sin; yet he will by no means leave the guilty unpunished, but brings the iniquity of the fathers on the children and the grandchildren, to the third and fourth generation." 8 At once Moses bowed to the ground and worshiped. 9 "Lord," he said, "if I have found favor with you, then let the Lord go among us. This is a stiff-necked people, but forgive our iniquity and our sin and take us as your own possession." 10 He said, "Here and now I am making a covenant. In front of all your people I will do wonders such as have never been performed anywhere on earth or in any nation. All the people you live among will see the work of the LORD, for what I am about to do with you is awe-inspiring. 11 Keep what I command you today. I am going to drive out before you the Amorites, Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites. 12 Be careful not to make a covenant with those who live in the land you are entering, or they will become a trap among you. 13 Instead, tear down their altars, smash their sacred pillars and cut down their Asherim.* 14 You must not bow down to any other god, for the LORD, whose name is Jealous, is a jealous God. 15 Do not make a covenant with those who live in the land, for when they prostitute themselves to their gods and sacrifice to them, someone will invite you and you will eat from his sacrifice,

16 and you will take some of their daughters as wives for your sons; then their daughters will prostitute themselves to their gods and lead your sons to do the same. 17 Do not make cast metal gods for yourself. 18 Keep the Feast of Unleavened Bread. For seven days eat unleavened bread, as I commanded you, at the set time in the month of Abib, because in the month of Abib you came out of Egypt. 19 Every first offspring of the womb belongs to me, including all the firstborn males of your livestock, whether cattle or sheep. 20 Redeem the firstborn of a donkey with a lamb; if you do not redeem it, break its neck. Redeem all the firstborn of your sons. No one is to appear before me empty-handed. 21 For six days you may work, but on the seventh day rest; even at plowing time and at harvest you are to rest. 22 Celebrate the Feast of Weeks with the firstfruits of the wheat harvest, and the Feast of Ingathering at the turn of the year. 23 Three times a year all your males are to appear before the Lord GOD, the God of Israel. 24 I will drive out nations before you and enlarge your territory, and no one will covet your land when you go up three times a year to appear before the LORD your God. 25 Do not offer the blood of my sacrifice along with anything leavened, and do not let the sacrifice from the Passover feast remain until morning. 26 Bring the best of the firstfruits of your soil to the house of the LORD your God. Do not cook a young goat in its mother's milk." 27 The LORD said to Moses, "Write down these words, for in keeping with these words I have made a covenant with you and with Israel." 28 Moses stayed there with the LORD forty days and forty nights without eating bread or drinking water. And he wrote on the tablets the words of the covenant, the Ten Commandments.* 29 When Moses came down from Mount Sinai with the two tablets of the testimony in his hands, he was not aware that the skin of his face shone because he had been speaking with the LORD.* 30 Aaron and all the children of Israel looked at Moses, and the skin of his face shone, so they were afraid to approach him. 31 But Moses called out to them, and Aaron and all the leaders of the congregation came back to him, and Moses spoke with them. 32 After that all the children of Israel came near, and he passed on to them as commands everything the LORD had told him on Mount Sinai. 33 When Moses had finished speaking to them, he put a veil over his face. 34 Whenever he went in before the LORD to speak with him, Moses took the veil off until he came out. When he came out, he told the children of Israel what he had been commanded, 35 and the children of Israel would see that the skin of Moses' face shone. Then Moses would put the veil back over his face until he went in again to speak with the LORD.

CHAPTER 35

1 Moses assembled the whole congregation of the children of Israel and told them, "These are the things the LORD has commanded you to do. 2 For six days work may be done, but the seventh day is to be holy for you, a Sabbath of complete rest to the LORD. Anyone who works on it is to be put to death. 3 Do not light a fire in any of your homes on the Sabbath day." 4 Moses said to the whole congregation of the children of Israel, "This is what the LORD has commanded: 5 Take from what you have a contribution for the LORD. Let everyone whose heart is willing bring the LORD's contribution: gold, silver and bronze; 6 blue, purple and scarlet yarn, fine linen and goats' hair; 7 rams' skins dyed red, goatskins and acacia wood; 8 oil for the light, spices for the anointing oil and for the fragrant incense; 9 onyx stones and other stones to be mounted on the ephod and on the breastpiece. 10 "All who are skilled among you are to come and make everything the LORD has commanded: 11 the tabernacle with its tent and its covering, its clasps, frames, bars, pillars and bases; 12 the ark with its poles, the mercy seat and the veil that screens it off; 13 the table with its poles and all its utensils, and the bread of the Presence; 14 the lampstand for the light with its utensils and lamps, and the oil for the light; 15 the altar of incense with its poles, the anointing oil and the fragrant incense; the screen for the doorway at the entrance of the tabernacle; 16 the altar of burnt offering with its bronze grating, its poles and all its utensils; the basin with its stand; 17 the hangings of the court with its pillars and bases, and the screen for the gate of the court; 18 the tent pegs for the tabernacle and for the court, and their ropes; 19 the woven garments for ministering in the holy place, both the sacred garments for Aaron the priest and the garments for his sons when they serve as priests." 20 Then the whole congregation of the children of Israel went out from Moses' presence. 21 Everyone whose heart moved him and whose spirit prompted him came and brought the LORD's contribution for the work on the tent of meeting, for all its service and for the sacred garments. 22 Men and women alike came, all whose hearts were willing, bringing brooches, earrings, rings and necklaces, gold objects of every kind; each one presented his gold as a wave offering to the LORD. 23 Everyone who had blue, purple or scarlet yarn, fine linen, goats' hair, rams' skins dyed red or goatskins brought them. 24 All who could give silver or bronze brought it as the LORD's contribution, and all who had acacia wood that could be used for any part of the work brought it. 25 Every skilled woman spun with her own hands and brought what she had spun: blue, purple and scarlet yarn and fine linen. 26 And all the women whose hearts moved them and who had the skill spun the goats' hair. 27 The leaders brought onyx stones and other stones to be mounted on the ephod and the breastpiece, 28 as well as spices and oil for the light, for the anointing oil and for the fragrant incense. 29 So the children of Israel brought a freewill offering to the LORD: every man and woman whose heart moved them to bring something for all the work the LORD had commanded through Moses. 30 Then Moses said to the children of Israel, "See, the LORD has chosen Bezalel son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, calling him by name. 31 He has filled him with the Spirit of God, giving him wisdom, understanding and knowledge in every kind of craft, 32 to conceive artistic designs and carry them out in gold, silver and bronze, 33 to cut stones for mounting and to carve wood, to do every sort of skilled work. 34 He has also given both him and Oholiab son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, the ability to teach others. 35 He has filled them with skill to do every kind of work as engravers, designers and embroiderers in blue, purple and scarlet yarn and fine linen, and as weavers; they can do any work and conceive any design.

CHAPTER 36

[1] "Bezalel and Oholiab are to work, together with every skilled person to whom the LORD has given wisdom and understanding to know how to do all the work of building the sanctuary, doing everything just as the LORD has commanded."[*] [2] Moses summoned Bezalel and Oholiab and every skilled person whose heart the LORD had filled with wisdom, everyone whose heart moved him to come and take part in the work. [3] From Moses they received all the contributions the children of Israel had brought for carrying out the work on the sanctuary. Meanwhile the people kept bringing him freewill offerings morning after morning. [4] So all the skilled workers who were doing the work on the sanctuary left what each of them was doing and came [5] to tell Moses, "The people are bringing far more than is needed for the work the LORD commanded us to do." [6] So Moses gave an order, and word was sent throughout the camp: "No man or woman is to make anything more as a contribution for the sanctuary." So the people were held back from bringing more, [7] because what they already had was enough to do all the work, and more than enough. [8] All the skilled workers among them made the tabernacle from ten curtains of fine twisted linen with blue, purple and scarlet yarn, with cherubim worked into them by a skilled craftsman. [9] Each curtain was twenty-eight cubits long and four cubits wide; all the curtains were the same size. [10] He joined five of the curtains to each other and joined the other five to each other as well. [11] He made loops of blue yarn along the edge of the end curtain in the one set, and did the same along the edge of the end curtain in the second set. [12] He put fifty loops on the one curtain and fifty loops on the edge of the end curtain in the second set, with the loops facing each other. [13] Then he made fifty gold clasps and used them to fasten the curtains to each other, so that the tabernacle formed a single unit. [14] He made curtains of goats' hair as a tent to cover the tabernacle, eleven of them in all. [15] Each curtain was thirty cubits long and four cubits wide; all eleven curtains were the same size. [16] He joined five of the curtains into one set and six into another. [17] He put fifty loops along the edge of the end curtain in the one set and fifty loops along the edge of the curtain in the other set. [18] He made fifty bronze clasps to fasten the tent together so that it formed a single unit. [19] For the tent he made a covering of rams' skins dyed red, and over that a covering of goatskins. [20] He made upright frames of acacia wood for the tabernacle. [21] Each frame was ten cubits long and a cubit and a half wide, [22] with two tenons on each frame, set parallel to each other. He made all the frames of the tabernacle this way. [23] He made twenty frames for the south side of the tabernacle, the side facing the Negev, [24] and he made forty silver bases to go under the twenty frames, two bases under each frame, one for each of its two tenons. [25] For the other side of the tabernacle, the north side, he made twenty frames [26] with their forty silver bases, two under each frame. [27] For the far end of the tabernacle, the west side, he made six frames, [28] and he made two frames for the corners of the tabernacle at the far end. [29] At these two corners the frames were double from the bottom and joined all the way to the top, at the first ring; he made both corners alike. [30] So there were eight frames with their silver bases, sixteen bases in all, two under each frame. [31] He made bars of acacia wood as well: five for the frames on one side of the tabernacle, [32] five for the frames on the other side, and five for the frames on the west side, at the far end of the tabernacle. [33] He made the center bar run through the middle of the frames from one end to the other. [34] He overlaid the frames with gold, made gold rings on them to hold the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold too. [35] He made the veil of blue, purple and scarlet yarn and fine twisted linen, with cherubim worked into it by a skilled craftsman. [36] For it he made four pillars of acacia wood and overlaid them with gold, with gold hooks, and he cast four silver bases for them. [37] For the entrance to the tent he made a screen of blue, purple and scarlet yarn and fine twisted linen, the work of an embroiderer, [38] together with its five pillars and their hooks. He overlaid the tops of the pillars and their bands with gold, and their five bases were bronze.

CHAPTER 37

[1] Bezalel made the ark of acacia wood, two and a half cubits long, a cubit and a half wide and a cubit and a half high. [2] He overlaid it with pure gold, both inside and out, and made a gold molding around it. [3] He cast four gold rings for it and attached them to its four feet, two rings on one side and two rings on the other. [4] He made poles of acacia wood and overlaid them with gold, [5] and he inserted the poles into the rings on the sides of the ark for carrying it. [6] He made the mercy seat of pure gold, two and a half cubits long and a cubit and a half wide. [7] He made two cherubim of gold, making them of hammered work at the two ends of the mercy seat, [8] one cherub at one end and the other cherub at the other end; he made the cherubim of one piece with the mercy seat, at its two ends. [9] The cherubim had their wings spread upward, sheltering the mercy seat with their wings. They faced each other, looking toward the mercy seat. [10] He made the table of acacia wood, two cubits long, one cubit wide and a cubit and a half high. [11] He overlaid it with pure gold and made a gold molding around it. [12] He made a rim a handbreadth wide around it and put a gold molding around the rim. [13] He cast four gold rings for it and fastened the rings at the four corners, where its four legs were. [14] The rings were close to the rim to hold the poles used to carry the table. [15] He made the poles for carrying the table of acacia wood and overlaid them with gold. [16] And he made the utensils for the table of pure gold: its plates and dishes, and its bowls and flagons for pouring out offerings. [17] He made the lampstand of pure gold. He made the lampstand of hammered work, with its base and its shaft; its cups, its knobs and its flowers were of one piece with it. [18] Six branches extended from its sides, three branches of the lampstand on one side and three on the other. [19] On one branch were three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with a knob and a flower, and three cups shaped like almond blossoms on the next branch, each with a knob and a flower; the same for all six branches that extended from the lampstand. [20] On the lampstand itself were four cups shaped like almond blossoms, with their knobs and flowers. [21] There was a knob under the first pair of branches extending from it, a knob under the second pair and a knob under the third pair; so for all six branches that extended from it. [22] The knobs and the branches were of one piece with it; the whole lampstand was a single hammered piece of pure gold. [23] He made its seven lamps, and its tongs and trays, of pure gold. [24] He made the lampstand and all its utensils from a talent of pure gold. [25] He made the altar of incense of acacia wood. It was square, a cubit long and a cubit wide, and two cubits high, with its horns of one piece with it. [26] He overlaid its top, its sides all around and its horns with pure gold, and made a gold molding around it. [27] He made two gold rings for it below the molding, on two opposite sides, to hold the poles by which it was carried. [28] He made the poles of acacia wood and overlaid them with gold. [29] He also made the holy anointing oil and the pure fragrant incense, blended as a perfumer would.

[1] He made the altar of burnt offering of acacia wood, five cubits long and five cubits wide. It was square, and three cubits high. [2] He made a horn at each of its four corners, of one piece with the altar, and overlaid it with bronze. [3] He made all the altar's utensils of bronze: the pots, shovels, basins, forks and firepans. [4] He made a grating for the altar, a bronze network, beneath its ledge, down below, coming halfway up. [5] He cast four rings for the four corners of the bronze grating to hold the poles. [6] He made the poles of acacia wood and overlaid them with bronze, [7] and he inserted the poles into the rings on the sides of the altar so it could be carried with them. He made it hollow, out of boards. [8] He made the bronze basin and its bronze stand from the mirrors of the women who served at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [9] He made the court as well. On the south side, facing the Negev, the hangings of the court were of fine twisted linen, a hundred cubits long, [10] with twenty pillars and twenty bronze bases, and with silver hooks and bands on the pillars. [11] The north side also had hangings a hundred cubits long, with twenty pillars and twenty bronze bases, and with silver hooks and bands on the pillars. [12] On the west side were hangings fifty cubits long, with ten pillars and ten bases, and with silver hooks and bands on the pillars. [13] The east side, toward the sunrise, was fifty cubits wide. [14] Hangings fifteen cubits long were on one side of the entrance, with three pillars and three bases, [15] and on the other side as well; on both sides of the gate of the court were hangings fifteen cubits long, with three pillars and three bases. [16] All the hangings surrounding the court were of fine twisted linen. [17] The bases for the pillars were bronze, and the hooks and bands on the pillars were silver; their tops were overlaid with silver, and all the pillars of the court had silver bands. [18] The screen for the gate of the court was embroidered work of blue, purple and scarlet yarn and fine twisted linen. It was twenty cubits long and, like the hangings of the court, five cubits high across its width, [19] with four pillars and four bronze bases. Their hooks were silver, and their tops and their bands were overlaid with silver. [20] All the tent pegs of the tabernacle and of the surrounding court were bronze. [21] These are the amounts used for the tabernacle, the tabernacle of the testimony, which were recorded at Moses' command as the work of the Levites under the direction of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest. [22] Bezalel son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made everything the LORD had commanded Moses. [23] With him was Oholiab son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver, a designer and an embroiderer in blue, purple and scarlet yarn and fine linen. [24] The total amount of gold from the wave offering that was used for all the work on the sanctuary came to twenty-nine talents and seven hundred and thirty shekels, by the sanctuary shekel. [25] The silver from those of the congregation who were counted came to a hundred talents and one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels, by the sanctuary shekel, [26] a beka per person, that is, half a shekel by the sanctuary shekel, from everyone who crossed over to those counted, twenty years old or more, six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty men. [27] The hundred talents of silver went to cast the bases of the sanctuary and the bases of the veil, a hundred bases from the hundred talents, one talent per base. [28] From the one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels he made the hooks for the pillars, overlaid their tops and made bands for them. [29] The bronze from the wave offering came to seventy talents and two thousand four hundred shekels. [30] From it he made the bases for the entrance to the tent of meeting, the bronze altar with its bronze grating and all the altar's utensils, [31] the bases for the surrounding court and for the gate of the court, and all the tent pegs for the tabernacle and for the surrounding court.

CHAPTER 39

[1] From the blue, purple and scarlet yarn they made woven garments for ministering in the holy place. They also made the sacred garments for Aaron, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [2] He made the ephod of gold, of blue, purple and scarlet yarn, and of fine twisted linen. [3] They hammered the gold into thin sheets and cut it into threads to weave in among the blue, purple and scarlet yarn and the fine linen, the work of a skilled craftsman. [4] They made shoulder pieces for the ephod, attached at its two ends so that it could be fastened together. [5] Its woven waistband was made like it, of one piece with the ephod: of gold, of blue, purple and scarlet yarn, and of fine twisted linen, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [6] They prepared the onyx stones, mounted in gold filigree settings and engraved the way a seal is engraved with the names of the children of Israel. [7] He fastened them on the shoulder pieces of the ephod as memorial stones for the children of Israel, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [8] He made the breastpiece, the work of a skilled craftsman, in the same way as the ephod: of gold, of blue, purple and scarlet yarn, and of fine twisted linen. [9] It was square; they made the breastpiece folded double, a span long and a span wide when doubled. [10] They mounted four rows of stones on it. In the first row were a carnelian, a topaz and an emerald; [11] in the second row, a turquoise, a sapphire and a diamond; [12] in the third row, a jacinth, an agate and an amethyst; [13] in the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx and a jasper. They were mounted in gold filigree settings. [14] There were twelve stones, one for each of the names of the children of Israel, each engraved like a seal with the name of one of the twelve tribes. [15] For the breastpiece they made braided chains of pure gold, like cords. [16] They made two gold filigree settings and two gold rings, and attached the two rings to the two upper corners of the breastpiece. [17] They fastened the two gold cords to the two rings at the corners of the breastpiece, [18] and fastened the other ends of the two cords to the two settings, attaching them to the shoulder pieces of the ephod at the front. [19] They made two more gold rings and attached them to the two lower corners of the breastpiece, on the inner edge that lies against the ephod. [20] They made two more gold rings and attached them to the bottom of the two shoulder pieces on the front of the ephod, close to the seam just above the woven waistband of the ephod. [21] They tied the rings of the breastpiece to the rings of the ephod with a blue cord, so that the breastpiece rested above the waistband and did not swing loose from the ephod, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [22] He made the robe of the ephod entirely of blue, the work of a weaver. [23] The opening of the robe was in its center, like the opening of a coat of mail, with an edge around the opening so that it would not tear. [24] Around the hem of the robe they made pomegranates of blue, purple and scarlet yarn, twisted. [*] [25] They made bells of pure gold and fastened them between the pomegranates all around the hem of the robe, [26] alternating a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, around the whole hem of the robe worn for ministering, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [27] For Aaron and his sons they made tunics of fine linen, the work of a weaver, [28] and the turban of fine linen, the decorated caps of fine linen, and the undergarments of fine twisted linen, [29] and the sash of fine twisted linen with blue, purple and scarlet yarn, the work of an embroiderer, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [30] They made the plate, the holy crown, of pure gold and inscribed on it, as on a seal: HOLY TO THE LORD. [31] They attached a blue cord to it to fasten it to the turban on top, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [32] So all the work on the tabernacle, the tent of meeting, was completed. The children of Israel did everything just as the LORD had commanded Moses. [33] Then they brought the tabernacle to Moses: the tent with all its furnishings, its clasps, frames, bars, pillars and bases; [34] the covering of rams' skins dyed red, the covering of goatskins and the screening veil; [35] the ark of the testimony with its poles and the mercy seat; [36] the table with all its utensils and the bread of the Presence; [37] the pure gold lampstand with its row of lamps and all its utensils, and the oil for the light; [38] the gold altar, the anointing oil, the fragrant incense and the screen for the entrance to the tent; [39] the bronze altar with its bronze grating, its poles and all its utensils; the basin with its stand; [40] the hangings of the court with its pillars and bases, the screen for the gate of the court, its ropes and tent pegs, and all the equipment for the service of the tabernacle, the tent of meeting; [41] and the woven garments for ministering in the holy place, both the sacred garments for Aaron the priest and the garments for his sons when they served as priests. [42] The children of Israel had done all the work exactly as the LORD had commanded Moses. [43] Moses inspected all the work and saw that they had done it; just as the LORD had commanded, so they had done it. And Moses blessed them.

CHAPTER 40

[1] The LORD said to Moses, [2] "On the first day of the first month set up the tabernacle, the tent of meeting. [3] Place the ark of the testimony in it and screen off the ark with the veil. [4] Bring in the table and arrange what belongs on it. Then bring in the lampstand and set up its lamps. [5] Place the gold altar of incense in front of the ark of the testimony, and hang the screen at the entrance to the tabernacle. [6] Put the altar of burnt offering in front of the entrance to the tabernacle, the tent of meeting. [7] Put the basin between the tent of meeting and the altar and fill it with water. [8] Set up the court around it and hang the screen at the gate of the court. [9] Take the anointing oil and anoint the tabernacle and everything in it. Consecrate it with all its furnishings, and it will be holy. [10] Anoint the altar of burnt offering and all its utensils; consecrate the altar, and it will be most holy. [11] Anoint the basin and its stand and consecrate it. [12] Bring Aaron and his sons to the entrance of the tent of meeting and wash them with water. [13] Dress Aaron in the sacred garments, anoint him and consecrate him, so that he may serve me as priest. [14] Bring his sons and clothe them with tunics. [15] Anoint them just as you anointed their father, so that they may serve me as priests. Their anointing will make them a lasting priesthood for all their generations." [16] Moses did everything just as the LORD had commanded him. [17] So the tabernacle was set up on the first day of the first month in the second year. [18] When Moses set up the tabernacle, he put its bases in place, set up its frames, inserted its bars and erected its pillars. [19] He spread the tent over the tabernacle and put the covering of the tent over it, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [20] He took the testimony and placed it in the ark, attached the poles to the ark, and set the mercy seat on top of the ark. [21] Then he brought the ark into the tabernacle and hung the veil that screens it off, so that the ark of the testimony was screened off, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [22] He placed the table in the tent of meeting on the north side of the tabernacle, outside the veil, [23] and arranged the bread on it before the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [24] He set the lampstand in the tent of meeting across from the table, on the south side of the tabernacle, [25] and set up the lamps before the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [26] He placed the gold altar in the tent of meeting, in front of the veil, [27] and burned fragrant incense on it, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [28] He hung the screen at the entrance to the tabernacle. [29] He set the altar of burnt offering at the entrance to the tabernacle, the tent of meeting, and offered on it the burnt offering and the grain offering, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [30] He put the basin between the tent of meeting and the altar and filled it with water for washing, [31] and Moses, Aaron and his sons used it to wash their hands and feet. [32] They washed whenever they entered the tent of meeting and whenever they approached the altar, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [33] Finally he set up the court around the tabernacle and the altar and hung the screen at the gate of the court. And so Moses completed the work. [34] Then the cloud covered the tent of meeting, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. [35] Moses could not go into the tent of meeting, because the cloud had settled on it and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. [36] Throughout all their journeys, whenever the cloud lifted from above the tabernacle, the children of Israel would set out; [37] but if the cloud did not lift, they did not set out until the day it lifted. [38] For the cloud of the LORD was over the tabernacle by day, and fire was in it by night, in the sight of the whole house of Israel throughout all their journeys.

CHAPTER 1

[1] The LORD called to Moses and spoke to him out of the tent of meeting, saying, [2] "Speak to the children of Israel and tell them: When anyone among you presents an offering to the LORD, you are to present your offering from the animals, from the herd or from the flock. [3] "If his offering is a burnt offering from the herd, he is to present an unblemished male. He shall present it at the entrance of the tent of meeting, for his acceptance before the LORD. [4] He shall press his hand on the head of the burnt offering, and it will be accepted on his behalf, to make atonement for him. [5] He shall slaughter the young bull before the LORD, and Aaron's sons, the priests, shall present the blood and dash it on every side of the altar that stands at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [6] Then he is to skin the burnt offering and cut it up into its pieces. [7] The sons of Aaron the priest are to put fire on the altar and lay out wood on the fire. [8] Then Aaron's sons, the priests, shall lay out the pieces, with the head and the suet, on the wood that is on the fire upon the altar. [9] Its inner parts and its legs he shall wash in water, and the priest shall send up the whole of it in smoke on the altar: a burnt offering, a food offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD. [*] [10] "If his offering for a burnt offering is from the flock, from the sheep or the goats, he is to present an unblemished male. [11] He shall slaughter it before the LORD at the north side of the altar, and Aaron's sons, the priests, shall dash its blood on every side of the altar. [12] He shall cut it into its pieces, together with its head and its suet, and the priest shall lay them out on the wood that is on the fire upon the altar. [13] The inner parts and the legs he shall wash in water, and the priest shall present the whole and send it up in smoke on the altar. It is a burnt offering, a food offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD. [14] "If his offering to the LORD is a burnt offering of birds, then he shall present his offering from the turtledoves or from the young pigeons. [15] The priest shall bring it to the altar, pinch off its head, and send it up in smoke on the altar; and its blood shall be drained out against the side of the altar. [16] He shall take away the crop and what it contains and cast it beside the altar on the east, at the place of the ashes. [17] He shall tear it open by its wings without severing it, and the priest shall send it up in smoke on the altar, on the wood upon the fire. It is a burnt offering, a food offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD.

CHAPTER 2

[1] "When a person presents a grain offering as an offering to the LORD, his offering is to be fine flour. He shall pour oil over it and place frankincense on it, [2] and bring it to Aaron's sons, the priests. The priest shall scoop out from it a handful of its fine flour and its oil, together with all its frankincense, and send this up in smoke on the altar as its memorial portion, a food offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD. [3] The rest of the grain offering belongs to Aaron and his sons, a most holy portion from the food offerings of the LORD. [4] "When you present as an offering a grain offering baked in the oven, it is to be of fine flour: unleavened cakes mixed with oil or unleavened wafers brushed with oil. [5] If your offering is a grain offering made on the griddle, it shall be of fine flour mixed with oil, without leaven. [6] Break it into pieces and pour oil over it; it is a grain offering. [7] If your offering is a grain offering made in a pan, it is to be prepared of fine flour with oil. [8] You shall bring to the LORD the grain offering made from these things; it shall be handed to the priest, who shall bring it near to the altar. [9] The priest shall lift out from the grain offering its memorial portion and send it up in smoke on the altar, a food offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD. [10] The remainder of the grain offering belongs to Aaron and his sons, a most holy portion from the food offerings of the LORD. [11] "No grain offering that you present to the LORD is to be made with leaven, for you must not send up in smoke any leaven or any honey as a food offering to the LORD. [12] You may present them to the LORD as an offering of firstfruits, but they are not to go up on the altar for a pleasing aroma. [13] Every grain offering of yours you shall season with salt; do not leave the salt of your God's covenant out of your grain offering. With all your offerings you are to present salt. [14] "If you present to the LORD a grain offering of firstfruits, you shall present for the grain offering of your firstfruits green ears roasted in the fire, crushed kernels of fresh grain. [15] Put oil on it and set frankincense on it; it is a grain offering. [16] Then the priest shall send up in smoke its memorial portion, part of its crushed grain and part of its oil, with all its frankincense, as a food offering to the LORD.

CHAPTER 3

[1] "If his offering is a sacrifice of peace offerings, and he presents it from the herd, whether male or female, he is to present an unblemished animal before the LORD. [2] He shall press his hand on the head of his offering and slaughter it at the entrance of the tent of meeting, and Aaron's sons, the priests, shall dash the blood on every side of the altar. [3] Then from the sacrifice of peace offerings he shall present a food offering to the LORD: the fat covering the inner parts and all the fat that is upon the inner parts, [4] the two kidneys with the fat on them, which is by the loins, and the appendage on the liver, which he is to take away along with the kidneys. [5] Aaron's sons shall send it up in smoke on the altar, upon the burnt offering that lies on the wood over the fire, as a food offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD. [6] "If his offering for a sacrifice of peace offerings to the LORD is from the flock, male or female, he is to present an unblemished animal. [7] If it is a lamb that he presents as his offering, he shall present it before the LORD. [8] He shall press his hand on the head of his offering and slaughter it before the tent of meeting, and Aaron's sons shall dash its blood on every side of the altar. [9] From the sacrifice of peace offerings he shall present its fat as a food offering to the LORD: the entire broad tail, which he is to remove close to the backbone, the fat covering the inner parts and all the fat upon the inner parts, [10] the two kidneys with the fat on them, which is by the loins, and the appendage on the liver, which he is to take away along with the kidneys. [11] The priest shall send it up in smoke on the altar; it is food, a food offering to the LORD. [12] "If his offering is a goat, he shall present it before the LORD. [13] He shall press his hand on its head and slaughter it before the tent of meeting, and the sons of Aaron shall dash its blood on every side of the altar. [14] From it he shall present his offering as a food offering to the LORD: the fat covering the inner parts and all the fat upon the inner parts, [15] the two kidneys with the fat on them, which is by the loins, and the appendage on the liver, which he is to take away along with the kidneys. [16] The priest shall send them up in smoke on the altar; it is food, a food offering for a pleasing aroma. All fat belongs to the LORD. [17] This is a statute forever for your generations, in all the places where you live: you must not eat any fat or any blood."

CHAPTER 4

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Tell the children of Israel: When a person sins by mistake against any of the LORD's commandments concerning things not to be done, and does one of them— [3] if it is the anointed priest who sins, so bringing guilt on the people, he shall present to the LORD, for the sin he has committed, an unblemished young bull as a sin offering. [4] He is to bring the bull to the entrance of the tent of meeting before the LORD, press his hand on the bull's head, and slaughter the bull before the LORD. [5] The anointed priest shall then take some of the bull's blood and carry it into the tent of meeting. [6] The priest shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle some of it seven times before the LORD, toward the veil of the sanctuary. [7] The priest shall also put some of the blood on the horns of the altar of fragrant incense that stands before the LORD in the tent of meeting, and the whole of the bull's blood he shall pour out at the base of the altar of burnt offering at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [8] All the fat of the bull of the sin offering he shall lift off from it: the fat covering the inner parts and all the fat upon the inner parts, [9] the two kidneys with the fat on them, which is by the loins, and the appendage on the liver, which he is to take away along with the kidneys, [10] just as it is lifted off from the ox of the sacrifice of peace offerings. The priest shall send them up in smoke on the altar of burnt offering. [11] But the bull's hide and all its flesh, together with its head and its legs, its inner parts and its dung— [12] the whole bull—he shall carry out to a clean place outside the camp, where the ashes are poured out, and burn it on wood with fire. Where the ashes are poured out, there it is to be burned. [13] "If the whole congregation of Israel goes astray unintentionally, and the matter escapes the notice of the assembly, and they do any one of the things that the LORD has commanded not to be done, and so incur guilt, [14] then when the sin they have committed becomes known, the assembly shall present a young bull as a sin offering and bring it before the tent of meeting. [15] The elders of the congregation shall press their hands on the bull's head before the LORD, and the bull shall be slaughtered before the LORD. [16] The anointed priest shall then carry some of the bull's blood into the tent of meeting. [17] The priest shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle it seven times before the LORD, toward the veil. [18] Some of the blood he shall put on the horns of the altar that is before the LORD in the tent of meeting, and the whole of the blood he shall pour out at the base of the altar of burnt offering at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [19] All its fat he shall lift off from it and send up in smoke on the altar. [20] He is to do with this bull exactly as he did with the bull of the sin offering; that is what he shall do with it. So the priest shall make atonement for them, and they will be forgiven. [21] Then he shall carry the bull outside the camp and burn it just as he burned the first bull. It is the sin offering for the assembly. [22] "When a ruler sins, doing unintentionally any one of all the things that the LORD his God has commanded not to be done, and incurs guilt, [23] or the sin he has committed is made known to him, he shall bring as his offering a goat, an unblemished male. [24] He shall press his hand on the goat's head and slaughter it before the LORD at the place where the burnt offering is slaughtered; it is a sin offering. [25] The priest shall take with his finger some of the blood of the sin offering and put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and its blood he shall pour out at the base of the altar of burnt offering. [26] All its fat he shall send up in smoke on the altar, as with the fat of the sacrifice of peace offerings. Thus the priest shall make atonement for him concerning his sin, and he will be forgiven. [27] "If any one of the people of the land sins unintentionally, doing one of the things that the LORD has commanded not to be done, and incurs guilt, [28] or the sin he has committed is made known to him, he shall bring as his offering a goat, an unblemished female, for the sin he has committed. [29] He shall press his hand on the head of the sin offering and slaughter the sin offering at the place of the burnt offering. [30] The priest shall take with his finger some of its blood and put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and the whole of its blood he shall pour out at the base of the altar. [31] All its fat he shall take away, as fat is taken away from the sacrifice of peace offerings, and the priest shall send it up in smoke on the altar for a pleasing aroma to the LORD. Thus the priest shall make atonement for him, and he will be forgiven. [32] "If he brings a lamb as his offering for a sin offering, he is to bring an unblemished female. [33] He shall press his hand on the head of the sin offering and slaughter it as a sin offering at the place where the burnt offering is slaughtered. [34] The priest shall take with his finger some of the blood of the sin offering and put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and the whole of its blood he shall pour out at the base of the altar. [35] All its fat he shall take away, as the fat of the lamb is taken away from the sacrifice of peace offerings, and the priest shall send them up in smoke on the altar, on top of the food offerings of the LORD. Thus the priest shall make atonement for him concerning the sin he has committed, and he will be forgiven.

[1] "When a person sins in that he hears the voice of an adjuration and is a witness, having seen or known of the matter, yet does not make it known, he shall bear his iniquity. [2] Or when a person touches anything unclean, whether the carcass of an unclean beast or the carcass of unclean livestock or the carcass of an unclean swarming thing, and it was hidden from him, he has become unclean and is guilty. [3] Or when he touches human uncleanness, of whatever kind the uncleanness by which one becomes unclean, and it was hidden from him, but afterward he comes to know it, he is guilty. [4] Or when a person swears, speaking thoughtlessly with his lips, to do harm or to do good, in any matter about which a man may speak thoughtlessly in an oath, and it was hidden from him, but afterward he comes to know it, he is guilty in one of these. [5] So when he becomes guilty in one of these matters, he shall confess the way in which he has sinned, [6] and bring his guilt offering to the LORD for the sin he has committed: a female from the flock, a ewe lamb or a she-goat, as a sin offering. The priest shall make atonement for him concerning his sin. [*7] "If his means do not reach to a lamb, he shall bring to the LORD as his guilt offering for the sin he has committed two turtledoves or two young pigeons, one as a sin offering and one as a burnt offering. [8] He is to bring them to the priest, who shall present first the one for the sin offering. He shall pinch its head at the neck but not sever it. [9] He shall sprinkle some of the blood of the sin offering on the wall of the altar, and the remainder of the blood shall be drained out at the base of the altar; it is a sin offering. [10] The second he shall make a burnt offering according to the ordinance. Thus the priest shall make atonement for him concerning the sin he has committed, and he will be forgiven. [11] "If his means do not reach to two turtledoves or two young pigeons, then as his offering for his sin he shall bring a tenth of an ephah of fine flour as a sin offering. He must not put oil on it or set frankincense on it, because it is a sin offering. [12] He shall bring it to the priest, and the priest shall scoop out a handful of it as its memorial portion and send it up in smoke on the altar, on top of the food offerings of the LORD; it is a sin offering. [13] Thus the priest shall make atonement for him concerning the sin he has committed in any one of these matters, and he will be forgiven. The rest shall belong to the priest, like the grain offering." [14] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [15] "When a person acts unfaithfully and sins unintentionally in regard to the holy things of the LORD, he shall bring as his guilt offering to the LORD an unblemished ram from the flock, valued in silver shekels by your assessment, according to the sanctuary shekel, as a guilt offering. [16] Whatever he has sinned in regard to the holy thing he shall make good, adding a fifth of its value, and give it to the priest. The priest shall make atonement for him with the ram of the guilt offering, and he will be forgiven. [17] "If a person sins and does any of the things that the LORD has commanded not to be done, even though he did not know it, he is guilty and shall bear his iniquity. [18] He shall bring to the priest an unblemished ram from the flock, by your assessment, as a guilt offering; and the priest shall make atonement for him concerning the error he committed without knowing it, and he will be forgiven. [19] It is a guilt offering; he is indeed guilty before the LORD."

CHAPTER 6

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [*2] "When a person sins and acts unfaithfully against the LORD by lying to his neighbor about a deposit or a pledge, or about something taken by robbery, or has extorted from his neighbor, [3] or has found what was lost and lies about it, and swears falsely in any of all the things a man may do and sin in them— [4] then, since he has sinned and is guilty, he shall give back what he took by robbery or what he gained by extortion, or the deposit that was left with him, or the lost thing he found, [5] or anything about which he swore falsely. He shall repay it in its full amount and add a fifth of it, giving it to its owner on the day his guilt is established. [6] Then he shall bring to the priest his guilt offering to the LORD, an unblemished ram from the flock, by your assessment, as a guilt offering. [7] The priest shall make atonement for him before the LORD, and he will be forgiven for any of all the things he may do by which he incurs guilt." [8] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [9] "Give Aaron and his sons this command: This is the law of the burnt offering. The burnt offering itself is to stay on its hearth on the altar all night until morning, while the fire of the altar is kept burning on it. [10] The priest shall put on his linen robe, with linen undergarments over his body, and he shall lift up the ashes to which the fire has reduced the burnt offering on the altar and place them beside the altar. [11] Then he shall take off his garments, put on other garments, and carry the ashes out of the camp to a clean place. [12] The fire on the altar is to be kept burning on it and must not go out. Every morning the priest shall kindle wood on it, lay out the burnt offering on it, and send up in smoke on it the fat of the peace offerings. [13] A fire is to burn on the altar continually; it must not go out. [14] "This is the law of the grain offering. Aaron's sons are to present it before the LORD, in front of the altar. [15] One of them shall lift out from it a handful of the fine flour of the grain offering and of its oil, with all the frankincense on the grain offering, and send it up in smoke on the altar as its memorial portion, a pleasing aroma to the LORD. [16] The remainder Aaron and his sons shall eat. It is to be eaten as unleavened bread in a holy place; they shall eat it in the court of the tent of meeting. [17] It must not be baked with leaven. I have given it as their share from my food offerings. It is most holy, like the sin offering and the guilt offering. [18] Any male among Aaron's descendants may eat it, as a statute forever for your generations, from the food offerings of the LORD. Whatever touches them will become holy." [19] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [20] "This is the offering of Aaron and his sons which they shall present to the LORD on the day he is anointed: a tenth of an ephah of fine flour as a regular grain offering, half of it in the morning and half in the evening. [21] It is to be prepared with oil on a griddle. Bring it well soaked, and present the grain offering in baked pieces broken up, a pleasing aroma to the LORD. [22] The priest from among his sons who is anointed in his place shall prepare it. It is the LORD's by a statute forever; it is to be burned up completely. [23] Every grain offering of a priest is to be entirely burned; it must not be eaten." [24] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [25] "Tell Aaron and his sons: This is the law of the sin offering. The sin offering is to be slaughtered before the LORD at the place where the burnt offering is slaughtered; it is most holy. [26] The priest who offers it for sin shall eat it; it must be eaten in a holy place, in the court of the tent of meeting. [27] Anything that touches its flesh will become holy, and if any of its blood splashes on a garment, you shall wash the stained part in a holy place. [28] The clay pot in which it is boiled must be broken; but if it is boiled in a bronze pot, the pot shall be scoured and rinsed with water. [29] Any male among the priests may eat it; it is most holy. [30] But no sin offering whose blood is brought into the tent of meeting to make atonement in the holy place may be eaten; it shall be burned up with fire.

CHAPTER 7

[1] "This is the law of the guilt offering. It is most holy. [2] At the place where the burnt offering is slaughtered they shall slaughter the guilt offering, and he shall dash its blood on every side of the altar. [3] All its fat he shall present from it: the broad tail and the fat covering the inner parts, [4] the two kidneys with the fat on them, which is by the loins, and the appendage on the liver, which he is to take away along with the kidneys. [5] The priest shall send them up in smoke on the altar as a food offering to the LORD; it is a guilt offering. [6] Any male among the priests may eat it. It must be eaten in a holy place; it is most holy. [7] As the sin offering is, so is the guilt offering; one law applies to both. It belongs to the priest who makes atonement with it. [8] As for the priest who presents someone's burnt offering, the hide of the burnt offering he has presented shall belong to that priest. [9] Every grain offering baked in the oven, and everything prepared in a pan or on a griddle, belongs to the priest who presents it. [10] And every grain offering, whether mixed with oil or dry, shall belong to all the sons of Aaron, one as much as another. [11] "And this is the law of the sacrifice of peace offerings that a person presents to the LORD. [12] If he presents it as a thanksgiving, then along with the thanksgiving sacrifice he shall present unleavened cakes mixed with oil, unleavened wafers brushed with oil, and cakes of fine flour soaked and mixed with oil. [13] Along with cakes of leavened bread he shall present his offering, with his thanksgiving sacrifice of peace offerings. [14] From it he shall present one of each kind of offering as a contribution to the LORD; it shall belong to the priest who dashes the blood of the peace offerings.* [15] The flesh of his thanksgiving sacrifice of peace offerings is to be eaten on the day of his offering; he must not leave any of it over until morning. [16] But if the sacrifice he offers is for a vow or is a freewill offering, it shall be eaten on the day he presents his sacrifice, and on the following day what is left of it may also be eaten. [17] Whatever remains of the flesh of the sacrifice by the third day shall be burned up with fire. [18] If any of the flesh of his sacrifice of peace offerings is actually eaten on the third day, the one who presented it will not be accepted, and it will not be reckoned to him; it is tainted meat, and the person who eats of it shall bear his iniquity. [19] "Flesh that touches anything unclean must not be eaten; it shall be burned up with fire. As for other flesh, anyone who is clean may eat it. [20] But the person who eats flesh of the sacrifice of peace offerings belonging to the LORD while his uncleanness is upon him, that person shall be cut off from his people. [21] And when a person touches anything unclean—human uncleanness, or an unclean beast, or any unclean detestable thing—and then eats of the flesh of the sacrifice of peace offerings belonging to the LORD, that person shall be cut off from his people." [22] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [23] "Tell the children of Israel: You must not eat any fat of ox or sheep or goat. [24] The fat of an animal that has died naturally and the fat of one torn by wild beasts may be used for any other purpose, but you must certainly not eat it. [25] For anyone who eats fat from an animal of which a food offering is presented to the LORD, the person who eats it shall be cut off from his people. [26] And in none of your dwellings may you eat any blood, whether of bird or of beast. [27] Any person who eats any blood, that person shall be cut off from his people." [28] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [29] "Tell the children of Israel: Whoever presents his sacrifice of peace offerings to the LORD is to bring his offering to the LORD from his sacrifice of peace offerings. [30] With his own hands he shall bring the food offerings of the LORD: he shall bring the fat together with the breast, the breast to be waved as a wave offering before the LORD. [31] The priest shall send the fat up in smoke on the altar, and the breast shall belong to Aaron and his sons. [32] The right thigh you shall give to the priest as a contribution from your sacrifices of peace offerings. [33] The one among Aaron's sons who presents the blood of the peace offerings and the fat shall receive the right thigh as his share. [34] For I have taken from the children of Israel the breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the contribution from their sacrifices of peace offerings, and I have given them to Aaron the priest and to his sons as their due forever from the children of Israel. [35] This is the portion of Aaron and the portion of his sons from the food offerings of the LORD, on the day he brought them near to serve the LORD as priests; [*] [36] the LORD commanded that it be given to them by the children of Israel on the day he anointed them, as a statute forever for their generations." [37] This is the law for the burnt offering, for the grain offering, for the sin offering, for the guilt offering, for the ordination offering, and for the sacrifice of peace offerings, [38] which the LORD commanded Moses on Mount Sinai on the day he commanded the children of Israel to present their offerings to the LORD in the wilderness of Sinai.

CHAPTER 8

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Take Aaron, and his sons with him, along with the garments, the anointing oil, the bull for the sin offering, the two rams, and the basket of unleavened bread, [3] and gather all the congregation at the entrance of the tent of meeting." [4] Moses did just as the LORD had commanded him, and the congregation gathered at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [5] Moses told the congregation, "This is what the LORD has commanded to be done." [6] Moses brought Aaron and his sons forward and washed them with water. [7] He put the tunic on Aaron, girded him with the sash, clothed him in the robe, and put the ephod on him; then he girded him with the woven band of the ephod and bound the ephod to him with it. [8] He put the breastpiece on him and placed in the breastpiece the Urim and the Thummim. [9] He put the turban on his head, and on the front of the turban he put the gold plate, the holy diadem, just as the LORD had commanded Moses. [10] Moses then took the anointing oil and anointed the tabernacle and everything in it, and so consecrated them. [11] Some of it he sprinkled on the altar seven times; he anointed the altar with all its utensils, and the basin with its stand, to consecrate them. [12] He poured some of the anointing oil on Aaron's head and anointed him, to consecrate him. [13] Next Moses brought Aaron's sons forward, clothed them in tunics, girded them with sashes, and wrapped headbands on them, just as the LORD had commanded Moses. [14] He then brought near the bull for the sin offering, and Aaron and his sons pressed their hands on the head of the bull for the sin offering. [15] He slaughtered it, and Moses took the blood and with his finger put it on every horn of the altar round about, purifying the altar; the blood he poured out at the base of the altar, and so he consecrated it, making atonement for it. [16] He took all the fat on the inner parts, the appendage of the liver, and the two kidneys with their fat, and Moses sent them up in smoke on the altar. [17] But the bull, with its hide, its flesh, and its dung, he burned with fire outside the camp, just as the LORD had commanded Moses. [18] Then he brought near the ram of the burnt offering, and Aaron and his sons pressed their hands on the ram's head. [19] He slaughtered it, and Moses dashed the blood on every side of the altar. [20] The ram he cut into its pieces, and Moses sent up in smoke the head, the pieces, and the suet. [21] The inner parts and the legs he washed in water, and Moses sent up the whole ram in smoke on the altar. It was a burnt offering for a pleasing aroma, a food offering to the LORD, just as the LORD had commanded Moses. [22] Then he brought near the second ram, the ram of ordination, and Aaron and his sons pressed their hands on the ram's head. [23] He slaughtered it, and Moses took some of its blood and put it on Aaron's right earlobe, on his right thumb, and on the big toe of his right foot. [24] Then he brought Aaron's sons near, and Moses put some of the blood on their right earlobes, on their right thumbs, and on the big toes of their right feet. And Moses dashed the blood on every side of the altar. [25] He took the fat—the broad tail, all the fat on the inner parts, the appendage of the liver, the two kidneys and their fat—and the right thigh. [26] From the basket of unleavened bread that stood before the LORD he took one unleavened cake, one cake of bread made with oil, and one wafer, and laid them on the fat portions and on the right thigh. [27] He placed all of these in Aaron's hands and in his sons' hands and waved them as a wave offering before the LORD. [28] Then Moses took them back from their hands and sent them up in smoke on the altar on top of the burnt offering. They were an ordination offering for a pleasing aroma; it was a food offering to the LORD. [29] Moses also took the breast and waved it as a wave offering before the LORD. It was Moses' share of the ram of ordination, just as the LORD had commanded Moses. [30] Moses then took some of the anointing oil and some of the blood on the altar and sprinkled it on Aaron and on his garments, and on his sons and on his sons' garments with him. Thus he consecrated Aaron and his garments, and his sons and his sons' garments with him. [31] Moses said to Aaron and his sons, "Boil the meat at the entrance of the tent of meeting and eat it there, together with the bread that is in the basket of the ordination offering, just as I commanded when I said, 'Aaron and his sons are to eat it.' [32] Whatever is left over of the meat and the bread you shall burn up with fire. [33] For seven days you must not go out from the entrance of the tent of meeting, until the day your days of ordination are complete; for your ordination will take seven days. [*] [34] What has been done this day, the LORD has commanded to be done, to make atonement for you. [35] You are to stay at the entrance of the tent of meeting day and night for seven days, keeping the LORD's charge, so that you will not die; for this is what I was commanded." [36] So Aaron and his sons did everything that the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses.

CHAPTER 9

[1] On the eighth day Moses summoned Aaron and his sons and the elders of Israel. [2] He said to Aaron, "Take a calf from the herd for a sin offering and a ram for a burnt offering, both unblemished, and present them before the LORD. [3] Then tell the children of Israel: 'Take a male goat for a sin offering, and a calf and a lamb, each a year old and unblemished, for a burnt offering, [4] and an ox and a ram for peace offerings, to sacrifice before the LORD, along with a grain offering mixed with oil; for today the LORD is going to appear to you.'" [5] They brought what Moses had commanded to the front of the tent of meeting, and the whole congregation came near and stood before the LORD. [6] Moses said, "This is what the LORD has commanded you to do, so that the glory of the LORD may appear to you." [7] Then Moses told Aaron, "Come near to the altar and prepare your sin offering and your burnt offering, and make atonement for yourself and for the people. Then prepare the people's offering and make atonement for them, just as the LORD has commanded." [8] So Aaron came near to the altar and slaughtered the calf of the sin offering that was for himself. [9] Aaron's sons brought the blood to him; he dipped his finger in the blood, put it on the horns of the altar, and poured out the blood at the base of the altar. [10] The fat, the kidneys, and the appendage of the liver from the sin offering he sent up in smoke on the altar, just as the LORD had commanded Moses, [11] while the flesh and the hide he burned with fire outside the camp. [12] Next he slaughtered the burnt offering. Aaron's sons passed the blood to him, and he dashed it on every side of the altar. [13] They passed him the burnt offering piece by piece, along with the head, and he sent them up in smoke on the altar. [14] He washed the inner parts and the legs and sent them up in smoke with the burnt offering on the altar. [15] Then he brought near the people's offering. He took the goat for the people's sin offering, slaughtered it, and offered it for sin as he had the first. [16] He brought near the burnt offering and prepared it according to the ordinance. [17] He brought near the grain offering, filled his hand from it, and sent it up in smoke on the altar, in addition to the morning burnt offering. [18] He also slaughtered the ox and the ram as the people's sacrifice of peace offerings. Aaron's sons passed him the blood, and he dashed it on every side of the altar, [19] as well as the fat portions of the ox and of the ram—the broad tail, the covering fat, the kidneys, and the appendage of the liver. [20] These fat portions they laid on the breasts, and he sent the fat portions up in smoke on the altar. [21] The breasts and the right thigh Aaron waved as a wave offering before the LORD, as Moses had commanded. [22] Aaron then raised his hands toward the people and blessed them; and he came down after preparing the sin offering, the burnt offering, and the peace offerings. [23] Moses and Aaron entered the tent of meeting, and when they came out they blessed the people. And the glory of the LORD appeared to all the people. [24] Fire went out from before the LORD and devoured the burnt offering and the fat portions on the altar. When all the people saw it, they raised a ringing shout and fell face down.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Then Aaron's sons Nadab and Abihu each took his censer, put fire in it, and placed incense on it; and they brought before the LORD strange fire, which he had not commanded them. [2] Fire went out from before the LORD and devoured them, and they died before the LORD. [3] Moses said to Aaron, "This is what the LORD meant when he said, 'Through those who come near me I will show myself holy, and in the sight of all the people I will be glorified.'" And Aaron held his peace. [4] Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan, sons of Aaron's uncle Uzziel, and told them, "Come here and carry your brothers away from the front of the sanctuary, out of the camp." [5] They came and carried them, still in their tunics, out of the camp, as Moses had said. [6] Moses said to Aaron and to his sons Eleazar and Ithamar, "Do not let the hair of your heads hang loose, and do not tear your garments, so that you will not die and wrath will not come upon all the congregation. Your brothers, the whole house of Israel, may weep for the burning that the LORD has kindled.* [7] You must not go out from the entrance of the tent of meeting, or you will die, for the LORD's anointing oil is on you." And they acted as Moses had said. [8] The LORD spoke to Aaron, saying, [9] "You and your sons with you must not drink wine or strong drink when you enter the tent of meeting, so that you will not die. This is a statute forever for your generations, [10] so that you can tell apart the holy and the common, the unclean and the clean, [11] and teach the children of Israel all the statutes that the LORD has spoken to them by the hand of Moses." [12] Moses said to Aaron and to his remaining sons, Eleazar and Ithamar, "Take the grain offering left over from the food offerings of the LORD and eat it beside the altar without leaven, for it is most holy. [13] Eat it in a holy place, because it is your portion and your sons' portion from the food offerings of the LORD; for this is what I was commanded. [14] The breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the contribution you may eat in a clean place, you and your sons and your daughters with you, for they have been given as your portion and your sons' portion from the sacrifices of peace offerings of the children of Israel. [15] The thigh of the contribution and the breast of the wave offering they shall bring along with the food offerings of the fat portions, to wave them as a wave offering before the LORD; they shall be a portion forever for you and your sons with you, as the LORD has commanded." [16] Now Moses inquired diligently about the goat of the sin offering, and found that it had been burned up. He was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, Aaron's remaining sons, and said, [17] "Why did you not eat the sin offering in the holy place? It is most holy, and he gave it to you to bear the iniquity of the congregation, to make atonement for them before the LORD. [18] Look, its blood was not brought inside the sanctuary. You should certainly have eaten it in the sanctuary, as I commanded." [19] Aaron answered Moses, "See, today they presented their sin offering and their burnt offering before the LORD, and such things as these have befallen me. If I had eaten a sin offering today, would it have been good in the LORD's sight?" [20] When Moses heard this, it seemed good to him.

CHAPTER 11

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses and to Aaron, telling them, [2] "Say to the children of Israel: These are the creatures you may eat out of all the beasts on the earth. [3] Any among the beasts that has a hoof divided and cloven through, and that brings up the cud, you may eat. [4] But of those that bring up the cud or have a divided hoof, these you must not eat: the camel, for though it brings up the cud, it does not have a divided hoof; it is unclean for you. [5] The rock hyrax, for though it brings up the cud, it does not have a divided hoof; it is unclean for you. [6] The hare, for though it brings up the cud, it does not have a divided hoof; it is unclean for you. [7] And the pig, for though it has a hoof divided and cloven through, it does not bring up the cud; it is unclean for you. [8] Of their flesh you must not eat, and their carcasses you must not touch; they are unclean for you. [9] "Of all that live in the waters, these you may eat: whatever has fins and scales in the waters, in the seas or in the rivers, those you may eat. [10] But whatever lacks fins and scales in the seas and in the rivers, among all that swarm in the waters and all living creatures in the waters, they are abhorrent to you. [11] They shall be abhorrent to you; do not eat of their flesh, and abhor their carcasses. [12] Anything in the waters without fins and scales is abhorrent to you. [13] "These are the birds you shall abhor; they must not be eaten, for they are abhorrent: the eagle, the bearded vulture, the black vulture,* [14] the kite, and the falcon after its kind, [15] every raven after its kind, [16] the ostrich, the screech owl, the gull, and the hawk after its kind, [17] the little owl, the fishing owl, the great owl, [18] the white owl, the pelican, the carrion vulture, [19] the stork, the heron after its kind, the hoopoe, and the bat. [20] "Every winged swarming creature that walks on all fours is abhorrent to you.* [21] But among all the winged swarming creatures that walk on all fours, you may eat those that have legs above their feet for leaping on the earth. [22] Of these you may eat the following: the locust after its kind, the bald locust after its kind, the cricket after its kind, and the grasshopper after its kind. [23] Every other winged swarming creature that has four feet is abhorrent to you. [24] "By these you will make yourselves unclean: anyone who touches their carcass will be unclean until evening, [25] and anyone who carries any of their carcass must wash his clothes and will be unclean until evening. [26] Every beast that has a divided hoof but is not cloven-footed, or does not bring up the cud, is unclean for you; anyone who touches them will be unclean. [27] And any of the four-footed beasts that walks on its paws is unclean for you; anyone who touches their carcass will be unclean until evening, [28] and one who carries their carcass must wash his clothes and will be unclean until evening. They are unclean for you. [29] "Of the swarming things that swarm on the ground, these are unclean for you: the weasel, the mouse, the great lizard after its kind, [30] the gecko, the land crocodile, the lizard, the sand lizard, and the chameleon. [31] These are the ones unclean for you among all the swarming things; anyone who touches them when they are dead will be unclean until evening. [32] Anything on which one of them falls when they are dead becomes unclean, whether an article of wood or clothing or leather or sackcloth—any article put to use. It must be placed in water and will be unclean until evening; then it will be clean. [33] If one of them falls into any clay pot, everything inside it becomes unclean, and you must break the pot. [34] Any food that could be eaten, on which water comes, becomes unclean, and any drink that could be drunk from any such vessel becomes unclean. [35] Everything on which any part of their carcass falls becomes unclean; an oven or a cooking stove must be smashed. They are unclean, and they shall be unclean for you. [36] However, a spring or a cistern, a gathering of water, remains clean; but whoever touches their carcass becomes unclean. [37] If any part of their carcass falls on any seed for sowing, it is clean. [38] But if water has been put on the seed and part of their carcass falls on it, it is unclean for you. [39] "If one of the animals that you may eat dies, anyone who touches its carcass will be unclean until evening. [40] Anyone who eats from its carcass must wash his clothes and will be unclean until evening, and anyone who carries its carcass must wash his clothes and will be unclean until evening. [41] "Every swarming thing that swarms on the earth is abhorrent; it must not be eaten. [42] Whatever crawls on its belly, whatever walks on all fours, or whatever has a great many feet—any of the swarming things that swarm on the earth—you must not eat them, for they are abhorrent. [43] Do not make yourselves abhorrent with any swarming thing that swarms; do not make yourselves unclean by them and so be defiled through them. [44] For I am the LORD your God. Consecrate yourselves, then, and be holy, for I am holy. You must not make yourselves unclean with any swarming thing that creeps on the earth. [45] For I am the LORD who brought you up from the land of Egypt to be your God; so you shall be holy, for I am holy." [46] This is the law concerning beast and bird, every living creature that moves in the waters, and every creature that swarms on the earth, [47] to distinguish between the unclean and the clean, between the creature that may be eaten and the creature that may not be eaten.

CHAPTER 12

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Tell the children of Israel: When a woman conceives and gives birth to a male child, she shall be unclean for seven days; as in the days of her monthly impurity, so shall she be unclean. [3] On the eighth day the flesh of his foreskin is to be circumcised. [4] She shall then remain thirty-three days in the blood of her purification. She must not touch any holy thing or enter the sanctuary until the days of her purification are fulfilled. [5] If she gives birth to a female child, she shall be unclean for two weeks, as in her impurity, and she shall remain sixty-six days in the blood of her purification. [6] "When the days of her purification are fulfilled, for a son or for a daughter, she shall bring to the priest at the entrance of the tent of meeting a yearling lamb for a burnt offering and a young pigeon or a turtledove for a sin offering. [7] He shall present it before the LORD and make atonement for her, and she will be clean from her flow of blood. This is the law for the woman who gives birth, whether to a male or to a female. [8] If her means do not reach to a lamb, she shall take two turtledoves or two young pigeons, one for a burnt offering and one for a sin offering, and the priest shall make atonement for her, and she will be clean."

CHAPTER 13

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses and to Aaron, saying, [2] "When someone has on the skin of his body a raised spot, a rash, or a shiny spot, and it becomes a case of leprosy on the skin of his body, he shall be brought to Aaron the priest or to one of his sons, the priests.* [3] The priest shall look at the diseased area on the skin of the body. If the hair in the diseased area has turned white and the disease looks deeper than the skin of his body, it is a case of leprosy; when the priest has looked at him, he shall declare him unclean. [4] But if the shiny spot on the skin of his body is white and does not look deeper than the skin, and its hair has not turned white, the priest shall isolate the diseased person for seven days. [5] On the seventh day the priest shall look at him, and if in his view the disease has stayed as it was and has not spread in the skin, the priest shall isolate him for seven more days. [6] The priest shall look at him again on the seventh day, and if the diseased area has grown dim and the disease has not spread in the skin, the priest shall declare him clean; it is a rash. He shall wash his clothes and be clean. [7] But if the rash does spread in the skin after he has shown himself to the priest for his cleansing, he shall show himself to the priest a second time. [8] The priest shall look, and if the rash has spread in the skin, the priest shall declare him unclean; it is leprosy. [9] "When a case of leprosy is on a person, he shall be brought to the priest. [10] The priest shall look, and if there is a white raised spot on the skin, which has turned the hair white, and there is a patch of raw flesh in the raised spot, [11] it is an old leprosy in the skin of his body, and the priest shall declare him unclean. He shall not isolate him, for he is unclean. [12] If the leprosy breaks out widely in the skin, and the leprosy covers all the skin of the diseased person from his head to his feet, as far as the priest can see, [13] the priest shall look, and if the leprosy has covered his whole body, he shall declare the diseased person clean. It has all turned white; he is clean. [14] But whenever raw flesh appears on him, he will be unclean. [15] The priest shall look at the raw flesh and declare him unclean; the raw flesh is unclean; it is leprosy. [16] Or if the raw flesh changes again and turns white, he shall come to the priest. [17] The priest shall look at him, and if the diseased area has turned white, the priest shall declare the diseased person clean; he is clean. [18] "When the body has a boil in its skin, and it has healed, [19] and in the place of the boil a white raised spot or a reddish-white shiny spot appears, it shall be shown to the priest. [20] The priest shall look, and if it looks lower than the skin and its hair has turned white, the priest shall declare him unclean; it is a case of leprosy that has broken out in the boil. [21] But if the priest looks at it and there is no white hair in it, and it is not lower than the skin but has grown dim, the priest shall isolate him for seven days. [22] If it spreads in the skin, the priest shall declare him unclean; it is a disease. [23] But if the shiny spot stays where it is and has not spread, it is the scar of the boil, and the priest shall declare him clean. [24] "Or when the body has a burn by fire on its skin, and the raw flesh of the burn becomes a shiny spot, reddish-white or white, [25] the priest shall look at it. If the hair in the shiny spot has turned white and it looks deeper than the skin, it is leprosy that has broken out in the burn; the priest shall declare him unclean, for it is a case of leprosy. [26] But if the priest looks at it and there is no white hair in the shiny spot, and it is not lower than the skin but has grown dim, the priest shall isolate him for seven days. [27] On the seventh day the priest shall look at him; if it has spread in the skin, the priest shall declare him unclean; it is a case of leprosy. [28] But if the shiny spot stays where it is and has not spread in the skin but has grown dim, it is the raised spot of the burn, and the priest shall declare him clean, for it is the scar of the burn. [29] "When a man or a woman has a disease on the head or in the beard, [30] the priest shall look at the disease. If it looks deeper than the skin and there is thin yellow hair in it, the priest shall declare him unclean; it is an itch, a leprosy of the head or the beard.* [31] But if the priest looks at the itching disease and it does not look deeper than the skin, and there is no black hair in it, the priest shall isolate the person with the itching disease for seven days. [32] On the seventh day the priest shall look at the disease, and if the itch has not spread, no yellow hair is in it, and the itch does not look deeper than the skin, [33] the person shall shave himself, except that he shall not shave the itch, and the priest shall isolate the one with the itch for seven more days. [34] On the seventh day the priest shall look at the itch, and if the itch has not spread in the skin and does not look deeper than the skin, the priest shall declare him clean; he shall wash his clothes and be clean. [35] But if the itch does spread in the skin after his cleansing, [36] the priest shall look at him, and if the itch has spread in the skin, the priest need not look for yellow hair; he is unclean. [37] If, though, in his view the itch has stayed as it was and black hair has sprouted in it, the itch has healed; he is clean, and the priest shall declare him clean. [38] "When a man or a woman has shiny spots on the skin of the body, white shiny spots, [39] the priest shall look, and if the shiny spots on the skin of their body are dull white, it is a harmless blemish that has broken out in the skin; he is clean. [40] "If a man loses the hair of his head, he is bald, but he is clean. [41] If he loses the hair on the front of his head, he is bald on the forehead, but he is clean. [42] But if on the bald head or the bald forehead there is a reddish-white diseased area, it is leprosy breaking out on his bald head or his bald forehead. [43] The priest shall look at him, and if the raised diseased spot on his bald head or bald forehead is reddish-white, looking like leprosy in the skin of the body, [44] he is a leprous man; he is unclean. The priest must surely declare him unclean; his disease is on his head. [45] "As for the leprous person who has the disease, his clothes shall be torn and the hair of his head hang loose; he shall cover his upper lip and call out, 'Unclean, unclean!' [46] All the days the disease is on him he shall be unclean; he is unclean. He shall live alone; his dwelling shall be outside the camp. [47] "When a case of leprosy is in a garment, whether a wool garment or a linen garment, [48] whether in the warp or the weft of linen or of wool, or in leather or anything made of leather, [49] and the disease is greenish or reddish in the garment or the leather, in the warp or the weft, or in any article of leather, it is a case of leprosy and must be shown to the priest. [50] The priest shall look at the disease and isolate the affected article for seven days. [51] On the seventh day he shall look at the disease. If the disease has spread in the garment, in the warp or the weft, or in the leather, whatever the leather is used for, the disease is a destructive leprosy; it is unclean. [52] He shall burn the garment, or the warp or the weft, whether wool or linen, or any article of leather in which the disease is, for it is a destructive leprosy; it must be burned in the fire. [53] "But if the priest looks and the disease has not spread in the garment, in the warp or the weft, or in any article of leather, [54] the priest shall order that the article with the disease be washed, and he shall isolate it for seven more days. [55] After the diseased article has been washed, the priest shall look, and if the disease has not changed its appearance, even though the disease has not spread, it is unclean; you shall burn it in the fire. It is a corrosion, whether the bare spot is on the back or on the front. [*] [56] But if the priest looks and the diseased area has grown dim after it was washed, he shall tear it out of the garment, or out of the leather, or out of the warp or the weft. [57] If it appears again in the garment, in the warp or the weft, or in any article of leather, it is breaking out; you shall burn with fire whatever has the disease in it. [58] But the garment, the warp or the weft, or any article of leather that you wash and from which the disease leaves, shall be washed a second time, and it will be clean." [59] This is the law for a case of leprosy in a garment of wool or of linen, in the warp or the weft, or in any article of leather, for declaring it clean or unclean.

CHAPTER 14

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "This is to be the law for the leprous person on the day of his cleansing: he shall be brought to the priest. [3] The priest shall go out of the camp and look, and if the leprous disease has been healed in the leprous person, [4] the priest shall order that two live clean birds, cedarwood, scarlet yarn, and hyssop be taken for the one who is to be cleansed. [5] The priest shall order that one of the birds be slaughtered over fresh water in a clay vessel. [6] As for the live bird, he shall take it along with the cedarwood, the scarlet yarn, and the hyssop, and dip them, together with the live bird, in the blood of the bird slaughtered over the fresh water. [7] He shall sprinkle it seven times on the one being cleansed from the leprosy and declare him clean, and he shall release the live bird over the open country. [8] The one being cleansed shall wash his clothes, shave off all his hair, and bathe in water, and he will be clean. Afterward he may enter the camp, but for seven days he must stay outside his tent. [9] On the seventh day he shall shave off all his hair—his head, his beard, his eyebrows; all his hair he shall shave off—and he shall wash his clothes and bathe his body in water, and he will be clean. [10] "On the eighth day he shall take two unblemished male lambs and one unblemished yearling ewe lamb, three tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering, and one log of oil. [11] The priest who performs the cleansing shall stand the man being cleansed, along with these things, before the LORD at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [12] The priest shall take one male lamb and present it as a guilt offering together with the log of oil, and wave them as a wave offering before the LORD. [13] He shall slaughter the lamb at the place where the sin offering and the burnt offering are slaughtered, in the holy place; for like the sin offering, the guilt offering belongs to the priest. It is most holy. [14] The priest shall take some of the blood of the guilt offering and put it on the right earlobe of the one being cleansed, on his right thumb, and on the big toe of his right foot. [15] The priest shall also take some of the log of oil and pour it into the palm of his own left hand. [16] Then the priest shall dip the finger of his right hand into the oil in his left palm and with his finger sprinkle some of the oil seven times before the LORD. [17] Of the oil remaining in his palm the priest shall put some on the right earlobe of the one being cleansed, on his right thumb, and on the big toe of his right foot, over the blood of the guilt offering. [18] What is left of the oil in the priest's palm he shall put on the head of the one being cleansed, and the priest shall make atonement for him before the LORD. [19] The priest shall then prepare the sin offering and make atonement for the one being cleansed from his uncleanness; after that he shall slaughter the burnt offering. [20] The priest shall offer up the burnt offering and the grain offering on the altar. Thus the priest shall make atonement for him, and he will be clean. [21] "If he is poor and his means do not reach that far, he shall take one male lamb as a guilt offering for waving, to make atonement for him, and one tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil for a grain offering, and a log of oil, [22] and two turtledoves or two young pigeons, as his means allow; one shall be a sin offering and the other a burnt offering. [23] On the eighth day of his cleansing he shall bring them to the priest at the entrance of the tent of meeting, before the LORD. [24] The priest shall take the lamb of the guilt offering and the log of oil and wave them as a wave offering before the LORD. [25] He shall slaughter the lamb of the guilt offering, and the priest shall take some of the blood of the guilt offering and put it on the right earlobe of the one being cleansed, on his right thumb, and on the big toe of his right foot. [26] The priest shall pour some of the oil into the palm of his own left hand, [27] and with the finger of his right hand the priest shall sprinkle some of the oil in his left palm seven times before the LORD. [28] The priest shall put some of the oil in his palm on the right earlobe of the one being cleansed, on his right thumb, and on the big toe of his right foot, at the place of the blood of the guilt offering. [29] What is left of the oil in the priest's palm he shall put on the head of the one being cleansed, to make atonement for him before the LORD. [30] Then he shall prepare one of the turtledoves or one of the young pigeons, whichever his means allow— [31] whatever his means allow, one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, along with the grain offering. Thus the priest shall make atonement before the LORD for the one being cleansed. [32] This is the law for one in whom there is a leprous disease, whose means do not reach to what belongs to his cleansing." [33] The LORD spoke to Moses and to Aaron, saying, [34] "When you enter the land of Canaan, which I am giving you as a possession, and I put a leprous disease in a house in the land you possess, [35] the owner of the house shall come and report to the priest, 'Something like a disease has appeared to me in the house.' [36] The priest shall order the house cleared before he goes in to look at the disease, so that nothing in the house becomes unclean; after that the priest shall go in to see the house. [37] He shall look at the disease, and if the disease in the walls of the house consists of greenish or reddish hollows that look deeper than the surface of the wall, [38] the priest shall go out of the house to its doorway and close up the house for seven days. [39] On the seventh day the priest shall return and look, and if the disease has spread in the walls of the house, [40] the priest shall order that the stones with the disease be pulled out and thrown into an unclean place outside the city. [41] He shall have the house scraped inside all around, and the plaster they scrape off they shall dump outside the city in an unclean place. [42] Then they shall take other stones and put them in place of those stones, and he shall take other plaster and replaster the house. [43] "If the disease returns and breaks out in the house after the stones have been pulled out and the house scraped and replastered, [44] the priest shall come and look, and if the disease has spread in the house, it is a destructive leprosy in the house; it is unclean. [45] The house shall be torn down—its stones, its timbers, and all the plaster of the house—and he shall carry it all out of the city to an unclean place. [46] Also, anyone who enters the house during any of the days it is closed up will be unclean until evening. [47] Anyone who lies down in the house must wash his clothes, and anyone who eats in the house must wash his clothes. [48] "But if the priest comes and looks, and the disease has in fact not spread in the house after the house was replastered, the priest shall declare the house clean, for the disease is healed. [49] For the purification of the house he shall take two birds, cedarwood, scarlet yarn, and hyssop. [50] He shall slaughter one bird over fresh water in a clay vessel, [51] then take the cedarwood, the hyssop, the scarlet yarn, and the live bird, dip them in the blood of the slaughtered bird and in the fresh water, and sprinkle the house seven times. [52] Thus he shall purify the house with the blood of the bird and the fresh water, along with the live bird, the cedarwood, the hyssop, and the scarlet yarn. [53] He shall release the live bird outside the city over the open country. So he shall make atonement for the house, and it will be clean." [54] This is the law for any leprous disease, for the itch, [55] for leprosy in a garment or in a house, [56] and for a raised spot, a rash, or a shiny spot, [57] to teach when a thing is unclean and when it is clean. This is the law of leprosy.

CHAPTER 15

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses and to Aaron, saying, [2] "Speak to the children of Israel and tell them: When any man has a discharge from his body, because of his discharge he is unclean. [3] This is his uncleanness in his discharge: whether his body runs with his discharge or his body is stopped up from his discharge, it is his uncleanness. [4] Any bed the man with the discharge lies on becomes unclean, and any object he sits on becomes unclean. [5] A person who touches his bed must wash his clothes and bathe in water and will be unclean until evening. [6] One who sits on an object on which the man with the discharge has sat must wash his clothes and bathe in water and will be unclean until evening. [7] One who touches the body of the man with the discharge must wash his clothes and bathe in water and will be unclean until evening. [8] If the man with the discharge spits on someone clean, that person must wash his clothes and bathe in water and will be unclean until evening. [9] Any saddle the man with the discharge rides on becomes unclean. [10] Anyone who touches anything that was under him will be unclean until evening, and one who carries such things must wash his clothes and bathe in water and will be unclean until evening. [11] Anyone the man with the discharge touches without having rinsed his hands in water must wash his clothes and bathe in water and will be unclean until evening. [12] A clay vessel that the man with the discharge touches must be broken, and any wooden vessel must be rinsed in water. [13] "When the man with the discharge becomes clean of his discharge, he shall count off seven days for his cleansing; then he shall wash his clothes and bathe his body in fresh water, and he will be clean. [14] On the eighth day he shall take two turtledoves or two young pigeons, come before the LORD at the entrance of the tent of meeting, and give them to the priest. [15] The priest shall prepare them, one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, and thus the priest shall make atonement for him before the LORD because of his discharge. [16] "When a man has an emission of semen, he must bathe all his body in water and will be unclean until evening. [17] Any garment or any leather with semen on it must be washed in water and will be unclean until evening. [18] When a man lies with a woman and there is an emission of semen, they shall both bathe in water and be unclean until evening. [19] "When a woman has a discharge, and the discharge from her body is blood, she shall remain in her impurity for seven days, and anyone who touches her will be unclean until evening. [20] Anything she lies on during her impurity becomes unclean, and anything she sits on becomes unclean. [21] Anyone who touches her bed must wash his clothes and bathe in water and will be unclean until evening. [22] Anyone who touches any object she sits on must wash his clothes and bathe in water and will be unclean until evening. [23] Whether it is on the bed or on the object she is sitting on, when he touches it, he will be unclean until evening. [24] If a man actually lies with her and her impurity comes on him, he will be unclean for seven days, and any bed he lies on becomes unclean. [25] "When a woman has a discharge of her blood for many days, not at the time of her impurity, or if her discharge goes on beyond her impurity, all the days of her unclean discharge she shall be as in the days of her impurity; she is unclean. [26] Any bed she lies on all the days of her discharge shall be for her like the bed of her impurity, and any object she sits on becomes unclean, like the uncleanness of her impurity. [27] Anyone who touches them becomes unclean; he must wash his clothes and bathe in water and will be unclean until evening. [28] When she becomes clean of her discharge, she shall count off seven days, and after that she will be clean. [29] On the eighth day she shall take two turtledoves or two young pigeons and bring them to the priest at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [30] The priest shall prepare one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, and thus the priest shall make atonement for her before the LORD because of her unclean discharge. [31] "In this way you shall keep the children of Israel apart from their uncleanness, so that they will not die in their uncleanness by defiling my tabernacle that is among them." [32] This is the law for the man with a discharge, and for the one who has an emission of semen and becomes unclean by it, [33] for the woman who is unwell with her impurity, for anyone, male or female, who has a discharge, and for the man who lies with an unclean woman.

CHAPTER 16

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses after the death of Aaron's two sons, when they came near before the LORD and died. [2] The LORD said to Moses, "Tell your brother Aaron that he must not enter at just any time into the holy place within the veil, in front of the mercy seat that is on the ark, lest he die; for in the cloud I appear over the mercy seat. [3] This is how Aaron shall enter the holy place: with a young bull for a sin offering and a ram for a burnt offering. [4] He shall put on the holy linen tunic, have the linen undergarments on his body, gird himself with the linen sash, and wrap himself in the linen turban. These are holy garments; he shall bathe his body in water and then put them on. [5] From the congregation of the children of Israel he shall take two male goats for a sin offering and one ram for a burnt offering. [6] "Aaron shall present the bull for his own sin offering and make atonement for himself and for his household. [7] He shall take the two goats and stand them before the LORD at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [8] Aaron shall cast lots for the two goats, one lot for the LORD and one lot for Azazel.* [9] Aaron shall present the goat on which the LORD's lot fell and prepare it as a sin offering. [10] But the goat on which the lot for Azazel fell shall be stood alive before the LORD, to make atonement on it, by sending it away into the wilderness to Azazel. [11] "Aaron shall present the bull for his own sin offering and make atonement for himself and for his household, and he shall slaughter the bull for his own sin offering. [12] He shall take a censer full of burning coals from the altar before the LORD, and two handfuls of finely ground fragrant incense, and bring them within the veil. [13] He shall put the incense on the fire before the LORD, so that the cloud from the incense covers the mercy seat that is over the testimony, and he will not die. [14] He shall take some of the bull's blood and sprinkle it with his finger on the front of the mercy seat, toward the east; and before the mercy seat he shall sprinkle some of the blood with his finger seven times. [15] "Then he shall slaughter the goat of the sin offering for the people, bring its blood within the veil, and do with its blood just as he did with the bull's blood: he shall sprinkle it on the mercy seat and before the mercy seat. [16] So he shall make atonement for the holy place, because of the uncleannesses of the children of Israel and because of their rebellions, in all their sins. He shall do the same for the tent of meeting, which abides with them in the midst of their uncleannesses. [17] No one may be in the tent of meeting from the time he enters to make atonement in the holy place until he comes out, having made atonement for himself, for his household, and for the whole assembly of Israel. [18] Then he shall go out to the altar that is before the LORD and make atonement for it. He shall take some of the bull's blood and some of the goat's blood and put it on each of the horns of the altar. [19] With his finger he shall sprinkle some of the blood on it seven times, and so cleanse it and make it holy from the uncleannesses of the children of Israel. [20] "When he has finished atoning for the holy place, the tent of meeting, and the altar, he shall present the live goat. [21] Aaron shall press both his hands on the head of the live goat and confess over it all the iniquities of the children of Israel and all their rebellions, in all their sins; he shall put them on the goat's head and send it off into the wilderness by the hand of a man appointed for the task. [22] The goat shall carry on itself all their iniquities to a land cut off, and he shall release the goat in the wilderness. [23] "Then Aaron shall go into the tent of meeting, take off the linen garments he put on when he entered the holy place, and leave them there. [24] He shall bathe his body in water in a holy place, put on his own garments, and come out and prepare his burnt offering and the people's burnt offering, making atonement for himself and for the people. [25] The fat of the sin offering he shall send up in smoke on the altar. [26] The man who released the goat for Azazel must wash his clothes and bathe his body in water; after that he may enter the camp. [27] The bull of the sin offering and the goat of the sin offering, whose blood was brought in to make atonement in the holy place, shall be taken outside the camp, and their hides, their flesh, and their dung shall be burned up with fire. [28] The one who burns them must wash his clothes and bathe his body in water; after that he may enter the camp. [29] "This shall be a statute forever for you: in the seventh month, on the tenth of the month, you shall humble your souls and do no work of any kind, whether the native or the stranger who lives among you. [30] For on this day atonement will be made for you, to cleanse you; from all your sins you will be clean before the LORD. [31] It is a Sabbath of complete rest for you, and you shall humble your souls; it is a statute forever. [32] The priest who is anointed and ordained to serve as priest in his father's place shall make the atonement; he shall put on the linen garments, the holy garments. [33] He shall make atonement for the holy sanctuary, he shall make atonement for the tent of meeting and for the altar, and he shall make atonement for the priests and for all the people of the assembly. [34] This shall be a statute forever for you, to make atonement for the children of Israel for all their sins once in the year." And he did just as the LORD had commanded Moses.

CHAPTER 17

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Speak to Aaron and his sons and to all the children of Israel and tell them: This is what the LORD has commanded: [3] Any man of the house of Israel who slaughters an ox, a lamb, or a goat in the camp, or who slaughters it outside the camp, [4] and has not brought it to the entrance of the tent of meeting to present it as an offering to the LORD before the tabernacle of the LORD—blood shall be reckoned to that man; he has shed blood, and that man shall be cut off from among his people. [5] This is so that the children of Israel will bring their sacrifices, which they are sacrificing in the open field—that they will bring them to the LORD at the entrance of the tent of meeting, to the priest, and sacrifice them as sacrifices of peace offerings to the LORD. [6] The priest shall dash the blood on the altar of the LORD at the entrance of the tent of meeting and send up the fat in smoke for a pleasing aroma to the LORD. [7] They must no longer offer their sacrifices to the goat demons, after which they go whoring. This shall be a statute forever for them, for their generations. [8] "Say also to them: Any man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who live among them, who offers a burnt offering or a sacrifice [9] and does not bring it to the entrance of the tent of meeting to prepare it for the LORD, that man shall be cut off from his people. [10] "Any man of the house of Israel or of the strangers who live among them who eats any blood—I will set my face against the person who eats the blood and cut him off from among his people. [11] For the life of the flesh is in the blood, and I have given it to you on the altar to make atonement for your souls; for it is the blood that makes atonement, by reason of the life. [12] That is why I have told the children of Israel: None of you may eat blood, and the stranger who lives among you may not eat blood. [13] "Any man of the children of Israel, or of the strangers who live among them, who hunts down a beast or a bird that may be eaten must pour out its blood and cover it with earth. [14] For the life of all flesh—its blood is its life. So I have told the children of Israel: You must not eat the blood of any flesh, for the life of all flesh is its blood; anyone who eats it shall be cut off. [15] Any person, whether native or stranger, who eats an animal that died of itself or was torn by beasts must wash his clothes and bathe in water and will be unclean until evening; then he will be clean. [16] But if he does not wash them or bathe his body, he shall bear his iniquity."

CHAPTER 18

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Speak to the children of Israel and tell them: I am the LORD your God. [3] You must not act according to the practices of the land of Egypt, where you lived, and you must not act according to the practices of the land of Canaan, into which I am bringing you; you must not walk in their statutes. [4] My judgments you shall carry out and my statutes you shall keep, walking in them. I am the LORD your God. [5] Keep my statutes and my judgments, then; the person who does them will live by them. I am the LORD. [6] "No one among you may come near anyone who is his own flesh to uncover nakedness. I am the LORD. [7] The nakedness of your father, that is, the nakedness of your mother, you must not uncover; she is your mother, you must not uncover her nakedness. [8] The nakedness of your father's wife you must not uncover; it is your father's nakedness. [9] The nakedness of your sister, the daughter of your father or the daughter of your mother, whether born in the household or born outside it—their nakedness you must not uncover. [10] The nakedness of your son's daughter or your daughter's daughter—their nakedness you must not uncover, for they are your own nakedness. [11] The nakedness of the daughter of your father's wife, born to your father—she is your sister; you must not uncover her nakedness. [12] The nakedness of your father's sister you must not uncover; she is your father's flesh. [13] The nakedness of your mother's sister you must not uncover, for she is your mother's flesh. [14] The nakedness of your father's brother you must not uncover: do not come near his wife; she is your aunt. [15] The nakedness of your daughter-in-law you must not uncover; she is your son's wife; you must not uncover her nakedness. [16] The nakedness of your brother's wife you must not uncover; it is your brother's nakedness. [17] The nakedness of a woman and her daughter you must not uncover; you must not take her son's daughter or her daughter's daughter to uncover her nakedness. They are her flesh; it is lewdness. [18] Nor shall you take a woman in addition to her sister as a rival, uncovering her nakedness alongside her sister during her sister's lifetime. [19] "You must not come near a woman to uncover her nakedness during the impurity of her uncleanness. [20] You must not lie carnally with your neighbor's wife, defiling yourself with her. [21] You must not give any of your offspring to be passed through the fire to Molech, nor profane the name of your God. I am the LORD. [22] You must not lie with a male as one lies with a woman; it is an abomination. [23] You must not have intercourse with any beast, defiling yourself with it, and no woman shall present herself before a beast to mate with it; it is a perversion. [24] "Do not defile yourselves by any of these things, for by all of them the nations I am driving out before you defiled themselves. [25] The land became defiled, so I visited its iniquity upon it, and the land vomited out its inhabitants. [26] But you are to keep my statutes and my judgments and not do any of these abominations, neither the native nor the stranger who lives among you— [27] for all these abominations the men of the land who were before you did, and the land became defiled— [28] so that the land will not vomit you out for defiling it, as it vomited out the nation that was before you. [29] For anyone who does any of these abominations, the persons who do them shall be cut off from among their people. [30] So keep my charge, and do not follow any of the abominable customs that were practiced before you, and do not defile yourselves by them. I am the LORD your God."

CHAPTER 19

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Speak to the whole congregation of the children of Israel and tell them: You shall be holy, for I the LORD your God am holy. [3] Each of you must revere his mother and his father, and keep my Sabbaths. I am the LORD your God. [4] Do not turn to worthless idols, and do not make molten gods for yourselves. I am the LORD your God. [5] "When you offer a sacrifice of peace offerings to the LORD, offer it in such a way that you will be accepted. [6] It must be eaten on the day you offer it or the day after, and whatever is left until the third day must be burned up with fire. [7] If any of it is eaten on the third day, it is tainted meat; it will not be accepted. [8] Whoever eats it shall bear his iniquity, for he has profaned the holy thing of the LORD; that person shall be cut off from his people. [9] "When you reap the harvest of your land, do not reap all the way to the edge of your field, and do not gather what is left after your harvest. [10] Do not glean your vineyard bare or gather the grapes that have fallen in your vineyard; leave them for the poor and the stranger. I am the LORD your God. [11] "You must not steal, you must not deceive, and you must not lie to one another. [12] You must not swear falsely by my name, so profaning the name of your God. I am the LORD. [13] "Do not oppress your neighbor and do not rob him. The wages of a hired man must not stay with you overnight until morning. [14] Do not curse a deaf man, and do not put an obstacle in front of a blind man; but fear your God. I am the LORD. [15] "Do no wrong in judgment. Do not favor the poor or honor the powerful; judge your neighbor with righteousness. [16] Do not go about spreading slander among your people, and do not take a stand against the blood of your neighbor. I am the LORD. [17] "Do not hate your brother in your heart. Rebuke your neighbor frankly, so that you will not incur sin because of him. [18] Do not take revenge or hold a grudge against the sons of your people, but love your neighbor as yourself. I am the LORD. [19] "Keep my statutes. Do not mate two kinds of your livestock; do not sow your field with two kinds of seed; and do not put on a garment made of two kinds of material. [20] "If a man lies carnally with a woman who is a slave girl, assigned to another man but not at all redeemed nor given her freedom, there shall be an inquiry; they shall not be put to death, because she had not been set free.* [21] He shall bring his guilt offering to the LORD at the entrance of the tent of meeting, a ram as a guilt offering. [22] With the ram of the guilt offering the priest shall make atonement for him before the LORD for the sin he has committed, and the sin he has committed will be forgiven him. [23] "When you come into the land and plant any tree for food, you shall count its fruit as its foreskin; for three years it shall be uncircumcised for you, not to be eaten. [24] In the fourth year all its fruit shall be holy, a praise offering to the LORD. [25] In the fifth year you may eat its fruit, so that its yield may increase for you. I am the LORD your God. [26] "Do not eat anything with its blood. Do not practice divination or tell fortunes. [27] Do not round off the corners of your head or spoil the corners of your beard. [28] Do not cut your flesh for the dead or mark yourselves with tattoos. I am the LORD. [29] "Do not degrade your daughter by making her a harlot, lest the land turn to harlotry and the land be filled with lewdness. [30] Keep my Sabbaths and revere my sanctuary. I am the LORD. [31] "Do not turn to mediums, and do not seek out those who consult spirits, becoming unclean through them. I am the LORD your God. [32] "Stand up in the presence of the gray-haired, show honor to the elderly, and fear your God. I am the LORD. [33] "When a stranger lives with you in your land, do not wrong him. [34] The stranger who lives with you is to be treated like a native among you, and you shall love him as yourself, for you were strangers in the land of Egypt. I am the LORD your God. [35] "Do no wrong in judgment, in length, in weight, or in volume. [36] You are to have honest scales, honest weights, an honest ephah, and an honest hin. I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt. [37] Keep all my statutes and all my judgments and do them. I am the LORD."

CHAPTER 20

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Say also to the children of Israel: Any man of the children of Israel, or of the strangers living in Israel, who gives any of his offspring to Molech must be put to death; the people of the land shall pelt him with stones. [3] I will set my face against that man and cut him off from among his people, because he has given some of his offspring to Molech, defiling my sanctuary and profaning my holy name. [4] And if the people of the land should shut their eyes to that man when he gives of his offspring to Molech, and fail to put him to death, [5] I myself will set my face against that man and against his clan, and I will cut off from among their people both him and all who follow him in whoring after Molech. [6] "The person who turns to mediums and to those who consult spirits, whoring after them—I will set my face against that person and cut him off from among his people. [7] So consecrate yourselves and be holy, for I am the LORD your God. [8] Keep my statutes and do them; I am the LORD who makes you holy. [9] "Anyone who curses his father or his mother must be put to death. He has cursed his father or his mother; his blood is on him. [10] "A man who commits adultery with another man's wife—who commits adultery with the wife of his neighbor—both the adulterer and the adulteress must be put to death. [11] A man who lies with his father's wife has uncovered his father's nakedness; both of them must be put to death; their blood is on them. [12] A man who lies with his daughter-in-law—both of them must be put to death; they have done a perversion; their blood is on them. [13] A man who lies with a male as one lies with a woman—the two of them have done an abomination; they must be put to death; their blood is on them. [14] A man who takes a woman and her mother has done lewdness; they shall be burned with fire, he and they, so that there will be no lewdness among you. [15] A man who has intercourse with a beast must be put to death, and you shall kill the beast. [16] A woman who comes near any beast to mate with it—you shall kill the woman and the beast; they must be put to death; their blood is on them. [17] "A man who takes his sister, his father's daughter or his mother's daughter, and sees her nakedness while she sees his nakedness—it is a shameful thing, and they shall be cut off before the eyes of the sons of their people. He has uncovered his sister's nakedness; he shall bear his iniquity.* [18] A man who lies with a woman during her sickness and uncovers her nakedness has laid bare her fountain, and she has uncovered the fountain of her blood; both of them shall be cut off from among their people. [19] The nakedness of your mother's sister or of your father's sister you must not uncover, for that lays bare one's own flesh; they shall bear their iniquity. [20] A man who lies with his uncle's wife has uncovered his uncle's nakedness; they shall bear their sin; they shall die childless. [21] A man who takes his brother's wife—it is impurity; he has uncovered his brother's nakedness; they shall be childless. [22] "Keep all my statutes and all my judgments and do them, so that the land to which I am bringing you to live in it will not vomit you out. [23] Do not walk in the statutes of the nation I am driving out before you; for they did all these things, and I loathed them. [24] But I have told you: You shall inherit their land, and I will give it to you to inherit, a land flowing with milk and honey. I am the LORD your God, who has set you apart from the peoples. [25] So you are to make a distinction between the clean beast and the unclean, and between the unclean bird and the clean; do not make yourselves abhorrent by beast or bird or anything that creeps on the ground, which I have set apart for you as unclean. [26] You shall be holy to me, for I the LORD am holy, and I have set you apart from the peoples to be mine. [27] "A man or a woman who is a medium or who consults spirits must be put to death; they shall pelt them with stones; their blood is on them."

CHAPTER 21

[1] The LORD said to Moses, "Speak to the priests, the sons of Aaron, and tell them: None of them shall defile himself for a dead person among his people, [2] except for a relative of his own flesh who is close to him: for his mother, his father, his son, his daughter, his brother, [3] and for his virgin sister who is close to him, who has not had a husband; for her he may defile himself. [4] He shall not defile himself as a husband among his people, so profaning himself.* [5] They must not make bald spots on their heads or shave off the corners of their beards or make cuts in their flesh. [6] They shall be holy to their God and not profane their God's name, for they present the food offerings of the LORD, the bread of their God; so they must be holy. [7] They must not take as wife a woman who is a harlot or defiled, nor take a woman divorced from her husband, for he is holy to his God. [8] You shall treat him as holy, for he presents the bread of your God; he shall be holy to you, for I, the LORD who makes you holy, am holy. [9] If the daughter of any priest profanes herself by playing the harlot, she profanes her father; she shall be burned with fire. [10] "The priest who is highest among his brothers, on whose head the anointing oil has been poured and who has been ordained to wear the garments, must not let the hair of his head hang loose or tear his garments. [11] He must not go in where there is any dead body or defile himself, even for his father or his mother. [12] He must not go out of the sanctuary or profane the sanctuary of his God, for the consecration of his God's anointing oil is upon him. I am the LORD. [13] He is to take a wife who is a virgin. [14] A widow, a divorced woman, a defiled woman, or a harlot—these he must not take; rather, he is to take as wife a virgin from his own people, [15] so that he does not profane his offspring among his people; for I am the LORD who makes him holy." [16] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [17] "Tell Aaron: Any of your offspring throughout their generations in whom there is a blemish must not come near to present the bread of his God. [18] No man in whom there is a blemish shall come near: no one blind or lame, or with a mutilated face or a limb too long, [19] no one who has a broken foot or a broken hand, [20] or is hunchbacked or stunted, or has a spot in his eye, or festering sores or scabs, or crushed testicles. [21] No man among the offspring of Aaron the priest in whom there is a blemish may come near to present the food offerings of the LORD; there is a blemish in him; he must not come near to present the bread of his God. [22] He may eat the bread of his God, from the most holy things as well as from the holy things, [23] but he must not go in to the veil or approach the altar, because there is a blemish in him, so that he will not profane my sanctuaries; for I am the LORD who makes them holy." [24] Moses spoke these things to Aaron and his sons and to all the children of Israel.

CHAPTER 22

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Tell Aaron and his sons to keep themselves apart from the holy things of the children of Israel, which they dedicate to me, so that they do not profane my holy name. I am the LORD. [3] Tell them: Any man among all your offspring throughout your generations who, while his uncleanness is upon him, approaches the holy things that the children of Israel dedicate to the LORD, that person shall be cut off from before me. I am the LORD. [4] No man of Aaron's offspring who is leprous or has a discharge may eat of the holy things until he becomes clean. Whoever touches anything made unclean by a dead person, or a man from whom semen goes out, [5] or a man who touches any swarming thing that makes him unclean, or a person who makes him unclean, whatever his uncleanness— [6] the person who touches any of these will be unclean until evening and must not eat of the holy things unless he has bathed his body in water. [7] When the sun has set he will be clean, and afterward he may eat of the holy things, for they are his food. [8] He must not eat an animal that died of itself or was torn by beasts, becoming unclean by it. I am the LORD. [9] They shall keep my charge, so that they do not bear sin on account of it and die for it because they profane it. I am the LORD who makes them holy. [10] "An outsider must not eat any holy thing; neither a priest's resident guest nor his hired servant may eat a holy thing. [11] But if a priest acquires a person with his money as his property, that one may eat of it, and so may those born in his household; they may eat of his food. [12] If a priest's daughter marries an outsider, she must not eat of the contribution of holy things. [13] But if a priest's daughter becomes a widow or is divorced and has no offspring, and she returns to her father's house as in her youth, she may eat of her father's food. No outsider, though, may eat of it. [14] If someone eats a holy thing unintentionally, he shall add a fifth of it to it and give the holy thing to the priest. [15] They must not profane the holy things of the children of Israel, which they set aside for the LORD, [16] thereby causing them to bear iniquity that brings guilt when they eat their holy things; for I am the LORD who makes them holy." [17] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [18] "Speak to Aaron and his sons and to all the children of Israel and tell them: Any man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers in Israel, who presents his offering for any of their vows or any of their freewill offerings that they present to the LORD as a burnt offering— [19] for your acceptance it must be an unblemished male from the cattle, the sheep, or the goats. [20] Anything that has a blemish you must not present, for it will not be accepted on your behalf. [21] When anyone presents a sacrifice of peace offerings to the LORD to fulfill a special vow or as a freewill offering, from the herd or from the flock, it must be perfect to be accepted; no blemish may be in it. [22] Anything blind, or injured, or maimed, or with a running sore, or festering sores, or scabs—these you must not present to the LORD, nor put any of them on the altar as a food offering to the LORD. [23] An ox or a sheep with a limb overgrown or stunted you may offer as a freewill offering, but it will not be accepted for a vow. [24] An animal with testicles bruised, crushed, torn, or cut you must not present to the LORD; you must not do this in your land. [25] Neither from the hand of a foreigner may you present any of these as the bread of your God, for their mutilation is in them; they have a blemish; they will not be accepted on your behalf." [26] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [27] "When an ox, a sheep, or a goat is born, it shall stay with its mother seven days; from the eighth day onward it will be accepted as an offering, a food offering to the LORD. [28] But whether ox or sheep, you must not slaughter it and its young on one day. [29] When you sacrifice a thanksgiving sacrifice to the LORD, sacrifice it so that you will be accepted. [30] It must be eaten on that same day; do not leave any of it until morning. I am the LORD. [31] "Keep my commandments and do them; I am the LORD. [32] Do not profane my holy name; I will be treated as holy among the children of Israel. I am the LORD who makes you holy, [33] who brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God. I am the LORD."

CHAPTER 23

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Speak to the children of Israel and tell them: The appointed times of the LORD, which you are to proclaim as holy assemblies—these are my appointed times. [3] "Six days work may be done, but the seventh day is a Sabbath of complete rest, a holy assembly; you shall do no work at all. It is a Sabbath to the LORD wherever you live. [4] "These are the appointed times of the LORD, holy assemblies, which you are to proclaim at their appointed seasons. [5] In the first month, on the fourteenth of the month, between the two evenings, is the LORD's Passover. [6] On the fifteenth day of that month is the LORD's Feast of Unleavened Bread; for seven days you shall eat unleavened bread. [7] On the first day you shall hold a holy assembly; you must not do any laborious work. [8] For seven days you shall present a food offering to the LORD. The seventh day is a holy assembly; you must not do any laborious work." [9] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [10] "Speak to the children of Israel and tell them: When you enter the land I am giving you and reap its harvest, bring to the priest the sheaf of the first of your harvest. [11] He shall wave the sheaf before the LORD for your acceptance; the priest shall wave it on the day after the Sabbath. [12] On the day you wave the sheaf you shall prepare an unblemished yearling male lamb as a burnt offering to the LORD, [13] with its grain offering of two tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil, a food offering to the LORD, a pleasing aroma, and its drink offering of wine, a fourth of a hin. [14] Bread, roasted grain, or fresh ears you must not eat until this very day, until you have brought the offering of your God. It is a statute forever for your generations wherever you live. [15] "From the day after the Sabbath, the day you brought the sheaf for waving, you shall count for yourselves seven full Sabbaths. [16] Count fifty days, until the day after the seventh Sabbath, and then present a new grain offering to the LORD. [17] From your dwellings you shall bring two loaves for waving, made of two tenths of an ephah of fine flour and baked with leaven, as firstfruits to the LORD. [18] Along with the bread you shall present seven unblemished yearling lambs, one young bull, and two rams; they shall be a burnt offering to the LORD, with their grain offering and their drink offerings, a food offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD. [19] You shall also prepare one male goat as a sin offering and two yearling male lambs as a sacrifice of peace offerings. [20] The priest shall wave them, together with the bread of the firstfruits, as a wave offering before the LORD, along with the two lambs; they shall be holy to the LORD for the priest. [21] On that very day you shall make a proclamation; you shall hold a holy assembly. You must not do any laborious work. It is a statute forever wherever you live, for your generations. [22] "When you reap the harvest of your land, do not reap all the way to the edge of your field, and do not gather what is left after your harvest; leave them for the poor and for the stranger. I am the LORD your God." [23] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [24] "Tell the children of Israel: In the seventh month, on the first of the month, you shall have a complete rest, a memorial proclaimed with a blast of trumpets, a holy assembly. [*] [25] You must not do any laborious work, and you shall present a food offering to the LORD." [26] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [27] "Further, the tenth day of this seventh month is the Day of Atonement. You shall hold a holy assembly, humble your souls, and present a food offering to the LORD. [28] You must not do any work on that very day, for it is a Day of Atonement, for atonement to be made for you before the LORD your God. [29] Any person who does not humble himself on that very day shall be cut off from his people. [30] And any person who does any work on that very day—I will destroy that person from among his people. [31] You must do no work at all. It is a statute forever for your generations wherever you live. [32] It shall be for you a Sabbath of complete rest, and you shall humble your souls. On the ninth of the month at evening, from evening to evening, you shall observe your Sabbath." [33] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [34] "Tell the children of Israel: On the fifteenth day of this seventh month is the Feast of Booths to the LORD, lasting seven days. [35] The first day is a holy assembly; you must not do any laborious work. [36] For seven days you shall present a food offering to the LORD. On the eighth day you shall hold a holy assembly and present a food offering to the LORD; it is a closing assembly. You must not do any laborious work. [37] "These are the LORD's appointed times, which you are to proclaim as holy assemblies, for presenting food offerings to the LORD—burnt offering and grain offering, sacrifice and drink offerings, each day's portion on its day— [38] apart from the LORD's Sabbaths, and apart from your gifts, all your vows, and all your freewill offerings that you give to the LORD. [39] "But on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you have gathered in the yield of the land, you shall keep the feast of the LORD for seven days. On the first day there shall be a complete rest, and on the eighth day a complete rest. [40] On the first day you shall take for yourselves the fruit of majestic trees, fronds of palm trees, branches of leafy trees, and willows of the brook, and you shall rejoice before the LORD your God for seven days. [41] You shall keep it as a feast to the LORD for seven days in the year; it is a statute forever for your generations. In the seventh month you shall keep it. [42] For seven days you shall live in booths; every native in Israel shall live in booths, [43] so that your generations may know that I had the children of Israel live in booths when I brought them out of the land of Egypt. I am the LORD your God." [44] Thus Moses announced to the children of Israel the appointed times of the LORD.

CHAPTER 24

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Command the children of Israel to bring you clear oil of pressed olives for the light, so that a lamp may be kept burning continually. [3] Outside the veil of the testimony in the tent of meeting, Aaron shall keep it in order from evening until morning before the LORD continually; it is a statute forever for your generations. [4] On the pure lampstand he shall keep the lamps in order before the LORD continually. [5] "Take fine flour and bake from it twelve cakes; each cake shall be two tenths of an ephah. [6] Set them in two rows, six to a row, on the pure table before the LORD. [7] On each row put pure frankincense, which shall be a memorial portion for the bread, a food offering to the LORD. [8] Sabbath after Sabbath he shall set it in order before the LORD continually; it is from the children of Israel, as a covenant forever. [9] It shall belong to Aaron and his sons, and they shall eat it in a holy place, for it is a most holy portion for him from the food offerings of the LORD, a statute forever." [10] Now the son of an Israelite woman, whose father was an Egyptian man, went out among the children of Israel; and the Israelite woman's son and an Israelite man got into a fight in the camp. [11] The Israelite woman's son blasphemed the Name and cursed, and they brought him to Moses. (His mother's name was Shelomith, daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan.) [12] They placed him under guard until the decision of the LORD should be made plain to them. [13] Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [14] "Take the man who cursed outside the camp; all who heard him are to press their hands on his head, and the whole congregation is to stone him. [15] And tell the children of Israel: Anyone who curses his God shall bear his sin. [16] Whoever blasphemes the name of the LORD must be put to death; the whole congregation must stone him. Stranger or native, when he blasphemes the Name, he shall be put to death. [17] "Anyone who strikes down any human being must be put to death. [18] Anyone who strikes down an animal shall make restitution for it, life for life. [19] When a man inflicts an injury on his neighbor, as he has done, so shall it be done to him: [20] break for break, eye for eye, tooth for tooth; just as he inflicted an injury on a person, so it shall be inflicted on him. [21] Whoever strikes down an animal shall make restitution for it, but whoever strikes down a human being shall be put to death. [22] You shall have one judgment, for the stranger and for the native alike; for I am the LORD your God." [23] Moses told this to the children of Israel, and they took the one who had cursed outside the camp and stoned him with stones. So the children of Israel did just as the LORD had commanded Moses.

CHAPTER 25

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai, saying, [2] "Speak to the children of Israel and tell them: When you come into the land I am giving you, the land shall rest a Sabbath to the LORD. [3] For six years you may sow your field, and for six years you may prune your vineyard and gather in its yield. [4] But the seventh year shall be a Sabbath of complete rest for the land, a Sabbath to the LORD; your field you shall not sow, and your vineyard you shall not prune. [5] What springs up by itself from your harvest you shall not reap, and the grapes of your unpruned vine you shall not gather; it shall be a year of complete rest for the land. [6] What the land yields in its Sabbath shall be food for you—for yourself, for your male and female servants, for your hired man, and for the resident who lives as a stranger with you, [7] and for your livestock and the wild beasts in your land; all its yield shall be for food. [8] "You shall count off seven Sabbaths of years, seven years seven times, so that the days of the seven Sabbaths of years amount for you to forty-nine years. [9] Then on the tenth day of the seventh month you shall sound a loud blast on the horn; on the Day of Atonement you shall make the horn sound throughout all your land. [10] You shall make the fiftieth year holy and proclaim liberty in the land to all its inhabitants. It shall be a jubilee for you; each of you shall go back to his own property, and each shall go back to his clan. [11] That fiftieth year shall be a jubilee for you; you shall not sow, nor reap what grows of itself, nor gather from its unpruned vines. [12] For it is a jubilee; it shall be holy to you. You may eat what the field yields. [13] "In this year of jubilee each of you shall go back to his own property. [14] When you sell anything to your neighbor or buy anything from your neighbor, you must not take advantage of one another. [15] You shall buy from your neighbor according to the number of years since the jubilee, and he shall sell to you according to the number of harvest years. [16] The more years there are, the higher the price you shall set; the fewer the years, the lower the price you shall set; for it is a number of harvests that he is selling you. [17] You must not take advantage of one another, but fear your God; for I am the LORD your God. [18] "So carry out my statutes, and keep my judgments and do them, and you will live securely in the land. [19] The land will give its fruit, and you will eat your fill and live securely on it. [20] And if you ask, 'What are we to eat in the seventh year, if we may not sow or gather in our yield?' [21] I will command my blessing for you in the sixth year, and it will bring forth produce enough for three years. [22] When you sow in the eighth year, you will still eat from the old produce; until the ninth year, until its produce comes in, you will eat the old. [23] "The land must not be sold in perpetuity, for the land is mine; you are strangers and residents with me. [24] Throughout the land you possess you shall allow redemption for the land. [25] "If your brother grows poor and sells some of his property, his redeemer who is closest to him shall come and buy back what his brother has sold. [26] If a man has no redeemer, but he himself prospers and finds enough to redeem it, [27] he shall reckon the years since its sale, pay back the remainder to the man to whom he sold it, and return to his property. [28] But if he has not found enough to pay him back, what he sold shall remain in the possession of the buyer until the year of jubilee; in the jubilee it shall go out, and he shall return to his property. [29] "If a man sells a dwelling house in a walled city, his right of redemption lasts until a year from its sale is complete; for a full year he may redeem it. [30] If it is not redeemed before a full year has passed, the house in the walled city shall belong in perpetuity to the buyer, for his generations; it shall not go out in the jubilee. [31] But houses in villages that have no surrounding wall shall be reckoned with the fields of the country; they may be redeemed, and they go out in the jubilee. [32] As for the cities of the Levites, the houses in the cities they possess, the Levites shall have a lasting right of redemption. [33] And if someone buys from the Levites, the house sold in a city of their possession shall go out in the jubilee; for the houses in the cities of the Levites are their property among the children of Israel.* [34] The pastureland around their cities must not be sold, for it is their property forever. [35] "If your brother grows poor and his hand falters beside you, you shall uphold him; like a stranger and a resident he shall live with you. [36] Take no interest or increase from him, but fear your God, so that your brother may live beside you. [37] Do not give him your money at interest or give him your food for gain. [38] I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt to give you the land of Canaan, to be your God. [39] "If your brother grows poor beside you and sells himself to you, you must not put him to work as a slave. [40] He shall be with you like a hired man or a resident; he shall work for you until the year of jubilee. [41] Then he shall go out from you, he and his children with him, and go back to his clan, and return to the property of his fathers. [42] For they are my servants, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt; they must not be sold as a slave is sold. [43] Do not rule over him ruthlessly; fear your God. [44] As for your male and female slaves whom you may have, from the nations around you you may buy male and female slaves. [45] You may also buy from the children of the residents living as strangers among you, and from their clans who are with you, whom they have fathered in your land; they may become your property. [46] You may pass them on to your children after you to inherit as property; you may use them as slaves forever. But over your brothers, the children of Israel, you must not rule ruthlessly, one over another. [47] "If a stranger or resident with you prospers, and your brother beside him grows poor and sells himself to the stranger or resident with you, or to an offshoot of the stranger's clan, [48] after he has sold himself he shall have the right of redemption; one of his brothers may redeem him, [49] or his uncle or his uncle's son may redeem him, or any of his own flesh from his clan may redeem him; or if he prospers, he may redeem himself. [50] He shall reckon with his buyer from the year he sold himself to him until the year of jubilee, and the price of his sale shall correspond to the number of years; his time with him shall be reckoned like the days of a hired man. [51] If many years still remain, he shall pay back for his redemption a corresponding part of the money he was bought for. [52] If few years remain until the year of jubilee, he shall reckon with him and pay back for his redemption according to his years. [53] He shall be with him like a hired man year by year; the other must not rule over him ruthlessly before your eyes. [54] If he is not redeemed by these means, he shall go out in the year of jubilee, he and his children with him. [55] For the children of Israel are servants to me; they are my servants, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt. I am the LORD your God.

CHAPTER 26

[1] "Do not make idols for yourselves, and do not set up for yourselves a carved image or a sacred pillar; do not put a figured stone in your land to bow down to it; for I am the LORD your God. [2] Keep my Sabbaths and revere my sanctuary. I am the LORD. [3] "If you walk in my statutes, and keep my commandments and do them, [4] I will give your rains at their proper time; the land will give its yield, and the trees of the field will give their fruit. [5] Your threshing will reach to the vintage, and the vintage will reach to the sowing; you will eat your bread to the full and live securely in your land. [6] I will grant peace in the land, and you will lie down with no one to make you afraid. I will rid the land of evil beasts, and no sword will pass through your land. [7] You will pursue your enemies, and they will fall by the sword before you. [8] Five of you will pursue a hundred, and a hundred of you will pursue ten thousand; your enemies will fall by the sword before you. [9] I will turn toward you, make you fruitful, and multiply you, and I will uphold my covenant with you. [10] You will eat old grain long stored, and you will bring out the old to make room for the new. [11] I will set my dwelling in your midst, and my soul will not loathe you. [12] I will walk about among you and be your God, and you will be my people. [13] I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt so that you would no longer be their slaves; I broke the bars of your yoke and made you walk erect. [14] "But if you do not listen to me and do not carry out all these commandments, [15] if you spurn my statutes and your soul loathes my judgments, so that you do not carry out all my commandments, and you break my covenant, [16] then I in my turn will do this to you: I will bring upon you sudden terror, wasting disease and fever that dim the eyes and drain away the life. You will sow your seed for nothing, for your enemies will eat it. [17] I will set my face against you, and you will be beaten down before your enemies; those who hate you will rule over you, and you will flee when no one is pursuing you. [18] And if even after this you do not listen to me, I will discipline you seven times more for your sins. [19] I will break the pride of your strength; I will make your sky like iron and your ground like bronze. [20] Your strength will be used up for nothing, for your land will not give its yield, and the trees of the land will not give their fruit. [21] "If you walk in opposition to me and are unwilling to listen to me, I will add to your blows seven times over, as your sins deserve. [22] I will let loose among you the wild beasts, and they will bereave you of your children, wipe out your livestock, and make you few, so that your roads become desolate. [23] "And if through these things you are not corrected by me but walk in opposition to me, [24] then I too will walk in opposition to you, and I myself will strike you seven times over for your sins. [25] I will bring upon you a sword that avenges the covenant; and when you gather into your cities, I will send pestilence among you, and you will be handed over to the enemy. [26] When I break the staff of your bread, ten women will bake your bread in one oven and dole out your bread by weight; you will eat but not be satisfied. [27] "And if in spite of this you do not listen to me, but walk in opposition to me, [28] I will walk in opposition to you with fury, and I myself will discipline you seven times over for your sins. [29] You will eat the flesh of your sons, and the flesh of your daughters you will eat. [30] I will destroy your high places, cut down your incense altars, and heap your corpses on the corpses of your idols; and my soul will loathe you. [31] I will turn your cities into ruins and make your sanctuaries desolate, and I will not breathe in your pleasing aroma. [32] I myself will devastate the land, so that your enemies who settle in it will be astonished at it. [33] You I will scatter among the nations, and I will unsheathe the sword after you; your land will become a desolation and your cities a ruin. [34] "Then the land will enjoy its Sabbaths all the days it lies desolate, while you are in the land of your enemies; then the land will rest and enjoy its Sabbaths. [*] [35] All the days it lies desolate it will rest—the rest it did not have in your Sabbaths while you lived on it. [36] As for those of you who survive, I will bring timidity into their hearts in the lands of their enemies; the sound of a windblown leaf will chase them, and they will flee as one flees from the sword, and fall though no one pursues. [37] They will stumble over one another as though fleeing the sword, though no one pursues; you will have no power to stand up before your enemies. [38] You will perish among the nations, and the land of your enemies will devour you. [39] Those of you who survive will rot away for their iniquity in the lands of your enemies; and for the iniquities of their fathers too they will rot away with them. [40] "But if they confess their iniquity and the iniquity of their fathers, in the unfaithfulness they committed against me, and also that they walked in opposition to me— [41] so that I in turn walked in opposition to them and brought them into the land of their enemies—if then their uncircumcised heart is humbled and they accept the punishment for their iniquity, [42] then I will remember my covenant with Jacob; my covenant with Isaac too, and my covenant with Abraham too, I will remember; and I will remember the land. [43] For the land will be left behind by them and will enjoy its Sabbaths while it lies desolate without them, and they will accept the punishment for their iniquity, precisely because they spurned my judgments and their soul loathed my statutes. [44] Yet even so, when they are in the land of their enemies, I will not spurn them or loathe them so as to make an end of them and break my covenant with them; for I am the LORD their God. [45] For their sake I will remember the covenant with their ancestors, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt before the eyes of the nations, to be their God. I am the LORD." [46] These are the statutes, the judgments, and the laws that the LORD set between himself and the children of Israel on Mount Sinai by the hand of Moses.

CHAPTER 27

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Speak to the children of Israel and tell them: When a man makes a special vow to the LORD involving your valuation of persons, [3] your valuation for a male from twenty up to sixty years old shall be fifty shekels of silver, by the sanctuary shekel. [4] For a female, the valuation shall be thirty shekels. [5] For someone from five up to twenty years old, the valuation shall be twenty shekels for a male and ten shekels for a female. [6] For someone from a month up to five years old, the valuation shall be five shekels of silver for a male and three shekels of silver for a female. [7] For someone sixty years old and upward, the valuation shall be fifteen shekels for a male and ten shekels for a female. [8] But if he is too poor for your valuation, he shall stand before the priest, and the priest shall set a value on him; according to what the one who made the vow can afford, the priest shall set his value. [9] "If it is an animal of a kind that is presented as an offering to the LORD, anything of it that one gives to the LORD shall be holy. [10] He must not replace it or exchange it, a good one for a bad or a bad one for a good; if he does exchange one animal for another, both it and the one exchanged for it shall be holy. [11] If it is any unclean animal of a kind not presented as an offering to the LORD, he shall stand the animal before the priest, [12] and the priest shall set a value on it, whether good or bad; as you, the priest, value it, so shall it be. [13] If he wants to redeem it, he shall add a fifth to your valuation. [14] "When a man dedicates his house as holy to the LORD, the priest shall set a value on it, whether good or bad; as the priest values it, so shall it stand. [15] If the one who dedicated it wants to redeem his house, he shall add a fifth of the valuation money to it, and it will be his. [16] "If a man dedicates to the LORD part of the field he holds as property, your valuation shall be in proportion to its seed: a homer of barley seed at fifty shekels of silver. [17] If he dedicates his field starting from the year of jubilee, it shall stand at your full valuation. [18] If he dedicates his field after the jubilee, the priest shall reckon the money for him according to the years remaining until the year of jubilee, and it shall be deducted from your valuation. [19] If the one who dedicated the field does want to redeem it, he shall add a fifth of the valuation money to it, and it shall stay his. [20] But if he does not redeem the field, or if he has sold the field to someone else, it can no longer be redeemed. [21] When the field goes out in the jubilee, it shall be holy to the LORD, like a field that is devoted; it shall become the priest's property. [22] If a man dedicates to the LORD a field he has bought, which is not part of his inherited property, [23] the priest shall reckon for him the amount of your valuation up to the year of jubilee, and he shall pay your valuation on that day as a holy thing to the LORD. [24] In the year of jubilee the field shall return to the one from whom he bought it, the one to whom the land belongs as property. [25] Every valuation of yours shall be by the sanctuary shekel; the shekel shall be twenty gerahs. [26] "However, no one may dedicate a firstborn animal, which is born first to the LORD; whether ox or sheep, it belongs to the LORD. [27] If it is among the unclean animals, he may ransom it at your valuation, adding a fifth to it; if it is not redeemed, it shall be sold at your valuation. [28] "But nothing devoted that a man devotes to the LORD from all that he has, whether person, animal, or field of his property, may be sold or redeemed; everything devoted is most holy to the LORD. [29] No person devoted, who is to be devoted from among mankind, may be ransomed; he must be put to death. [30] "All the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land or of the fruit of the tree, belongs to the LORD; it is holy to the LORD. [31] If a man wants to redeem any of his tithe, he shall add a fifth to it. [32] All the tithe of the herd and the flock, every tenth one that passes under the rod, shall be holy to the LORD. [33] One must not inquire whether it is good or bad, nor exchange it; if he does exchange it, both it and the one exchanged for it shall be holy; it cannot be redeemed." [34] These are the commandments that the LORD gave Moses for the children of Israel on Mount Sinai.

CHAPTER 1

[1] On the first day of the second month, in the second year after their going out from the land of Egypt, the LORD spoke to Moses in the tent of meeting in the wilderness of Sinai, saying, [2] "Count the heads of the whole congregation of the children of Israel by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listing the names of every male one by one. [3] All in Israel who are twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war, you and Aaron are to register by their troops. [4] With you there are to be men, one from each tribe, every one a head of the house of his fathers. [5] These are the names of the men who will stand with you: for Reuben, Elizur son of Shedeur; [6] for Simeon, Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai; [7] for Judah, Nahshon son of Amminadab; [8] for Issachar, Nethanel son of Zuar; [9] for Zebulun, Eliab son of Helon; [10] for the sons of Joseph: for Ephraim, Elishama son of Ammihud; for Manasseh, Gamaliel son of Pedahzur; [11] for Benjamin, Abidan son of Gideoni; [12] for Dan, Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai; [13] for Asher, Pagiel son of Ocran; [14] for Gad, Eliasaph son of Deuel; [15] for Naphtali, Ahira son of Enan." [16] These were the men summoned from the congregation, chiefs of the tribes of their fathers; they were heads of Israel's thousands. [17] Moses and Aaron took these men who had been named one by one, [18] and they called the whole congregation together on the first day of the second month. They declared their lineage by clans and by the house of their fathers, listing the names one by one of those twenty years old and above, [19] just as the LORD had commanded Moses. So he registered them in the wilderness of Sinai. [20] The descendants of Reuben, Israel's firstborn, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listed by name one by one, every male twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [21] the registered men of the tribe of Reuben came to forty-six thousand five hundred. [22] The descendants of Simeon, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, those of them who were registered, listed by name one by one, every male twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [23] the registered men of the tribe of Simeon came to fifty-nine thousand three hundred. [24] The descendants of Gad, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listed by name, from twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [25] the registered men of the tribe of Gad came to forty-five thousand six hundred and fifty. [26] The descendants of Judah, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listed by name, from twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [27] the registered men of the tribe of Judah came to seventy-four thousand six hundred. [28] The descendants of Issachar, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listed by name, from twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [29] the registered men of the tribe of Issachar came to fifty-four thousand four hundred. [30] The descendants of Zebulun, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listed by name, from twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [31] the registered men of the tribe of Zebulun came to fifty-seven thousand four hundred. [32] The descendants of Joseph: the descendants of Ephraim, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listed by name, from twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [33] the registered men of the tribe of Ephraim came to forty thousand five hundred. [34] The descendants of Manasseh, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listed by name, from twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [35] the registered men of the tribe of Manasseh came to thirty-two thousand two hundred. [36] The descendants of Benjamin, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listed by name, from twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [37] the registered men of the tribe of Benjamin came to thirty-five thousand four hundred. [38] The descendants of Dan, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listed by name, from twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [39] the registered men of the tribe of Dan came to sixty-two thousand seven hundred. [40] The descendants of Asher, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listed by name, from twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [41] the registered men of the tribe of Asher came to forty-one thousand five hundred. [42] The descendants of Naphtali, according to their lineage, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, listed by name, from twenty years old and above, everyone who goes out to war— [43] the registered men of the tribe of Naphtali came to fifty-three thousand four hundred. [44] These are the men registered by Moses and Aaron together with the chiefs of Israel, twelve men, each one standing for the house of his fathers. [45] So all the registered men of the children of Israel by the house of their fathers, from twenty years old and above, everyone in Israel who goes out to war— [46] all the registered came to six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty. [47] The Levites, however, by the tribe of their fathers, were not registered along with them, [48] since the LORD had spoken to Moses, saying, [49] "The tribe of Levi alone you shall not register, nor count their heads among the children of Israel. [50] Instead, put the Levites in charge of the tabernacle of the testimony, of all its utensils, and of everything that goes with it. They are the ones to carry the tabernacle and all its utensils; they shall attend to it and encamp all around the tabernacle. [51] Whenever the tabernacle moves on, the Levites are to take it down, and whenever the tabernacle encamps, the Levites are to set it up. Any outsider who comes near shall be put to death. [52] The children of Israel shall encamp each in his own camp and each by his own banner, according to their troops. [53] The Levites, though, shall encamp around the tabernacle of the testimony, so that no wrath may come upon the congregation of the children of Israel; and the Levites shall take charge of the tabernacle of the testimony." [54] The children of Israel did this; they did just as the LORD had commanded Moses in everything.

CHAPTER 2

[1] The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, [2] "The children of Israel are to encamp each by his own banner, beside the emblems of the house of their fathers; they shall encamp around the tent of meeting, at a distance from it. [3] On the east side, toward the sunrise, the banner of the camp of Judah shall encamp by its troops. The chief of the descendants of Judah is Nahshon son of Amminadab, [4] and his troop, as registered, is seventy-four thousand six hundred. [5] Encamped beside him is the tribe of Issachar. The chief of the descendants of Issachar is Nethanel son of Zuar, [6] and his troop, as registered, is fifty-four thousand four hundred. [7] Then comes the tribe of Zebulun. The chief of the descendants of Zebulun is Eliab son of Helon, [8] and his troop, as registered, is fifty-seven thousand four hundred. [9] The total registered in the camp of Judah by their troops is one hundred and eighty-six thousand four hundred. They are to move out first. [10] "On the south side shall be the banner of the camp of Reuben by its troops. The chief of the descendants of Reuben is Elizur son of Shedeur, [11] and his troop, as registered, is forty-six thousand five hundred. [12] Encamped beside him is the tribe of Simeon. The chief of the descendants of Simeon is Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai, [13] and his troop, as registered, is fifty-nine thousand three hundred. [14] Then comes the tribe of Gad. The chief of the descendants of Gad is Eliasaph son of Reuel, [15] and his troop, as registered, is forty-five thousand six hundred and fifty. [16] The total registered in the camp of Reuben by their troops is one hundred and fifty-one thousand four hundred and fifty. They are to move out second. [17] "Then the tent of meeting is to move out, the camp of the Levites in the middle of the camps. In the order in which they encamp, so they shall move out, each in his position, by their banners. [18] "On the west side shall be the banner of the camp of Ephraim by its troops. The chief of the descendants of Ephraim is Elishama son of Ammihud, [19] and his troop, as registered, is forty thousand five hundred. [20] Beside him is the tribe of Manasseh. The chief of the descendants of Manasseh is Gamaliel son of Pedahzur, [21] and his troop, as registered, is thirty-two thousand two hundred. [22] Then comes the tribe of Benjamin. The chief of the descendants of Benjamin is Abidan son of Gideoni, [23] and his troop, as registered, is thirty-five thousand four hundred. [24] The total registered in the camp of Ephraim by their troops is one hundred and eight thousand one hundred. They are to move out third. [25] "On the north side shall be the banner of the camp of Dan by its troops. The chief of the descendants of Dan is Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai, [26] and his troop, as registered, is sixty-two thousand seven hundred. [27] Encamped beside him is the tribe of Asher. The chief of the descendants of Asher is Pagiel son of Ocran, [28] and his troop, as registered, is forty-one thousand five hundred. [29] Then comes the tribe of Naphtali. The chief of the descendants of Naphtali is Ahira son of Enan, [30] and his troop, as registered, is fifty-three thousand four hundred. [31] The total registered in the camp of Dan is one hundred and fifty-seven thousand six hundred. They are to move out last, by their banners." [32] These were the registered men of the children of Israel by the house of their fathers. The total registered in the camps by their troops was six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty. [33] The Levites, however, were not registered among the children of Israel, just as the LORD had commanded Moses. [34] The children of Israel did everything the LORD had commanded Moses: that is how they encamped by their banners, and that is how they moved out, each by his clans, with the house of his fathers.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Now these are the descendants of Aaron and Moses at the time the LORD spoke with Moses on Mount Sinai. [2] The names of Aaron's sons were Nadab, the firstborn, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. [3] Those are the names of the sons of Aaron, the anointed priests, whom he installed to act as priests. [4] Nadab and Abihu died before the LORD when they brought strange fire near before the LORD in the wilderness of Sinai; they had no sons. So Eleazar and Ithamar served as priests in their father Aaron's lifetime. [5] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [6] "Bring the tribe of Levi forward and have them stand before Aaron the priest to assist him. [7] They are to carry out the duties owed to him and to the whole congregation in front of the tent of meeting, doing the work of the tabernacle. [8] They are to look after all the utensils of the tent of meeting and carry out the duties of the children of Israel, doing the work of the tabernacle. [9] Give the Levites to Aaron and his sons; out of the children of Israel they are given to him, given outright. [10] Appoint Aaron and his sons to attend to their priesthood. Any outsider who comes near shall be put to death." [11] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [12] "I myself, see, have taken the Levites from among the children of Israel in place of every firstborn that opens the womb among the children of Israel; so the Levites belong to me. [13] Every firstborn is mine. On the day I struck down every firstborn in the land of Egypt, I set apart for myself every firstborn in Israel, man and beast alike. They are mine. I am the LORD." [14] The LORD spoke to Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, saying, [15] "Register the descendants of Levi by the house of their fathers and by their clans. You are to register every male a month old and above." [16] So Moses registered them at the word of the LORD, as he had been commanded. [17] The sons of Levi, by name, were these: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. [18] And the names of Gershon's sons by their clans were Libni and Shimei. [19] Kohath's sons by their clans were Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel. [20] Merari's sons by their clans were Mahli and Mushi. Those were the clans of the Levites by the house of their fathers. [21] From Gershon came the clan of the Libnites and the clan of the Shimeites; those were the Gershonite clans. [22] Their registered men, counting every male a month old and above, came to seven thousand five hundred. [23] The Gershonite clans were to encamp behind the tabernacle, to the west. [24] The chief of the father's house of the Gershonites was Eliasaph son of Lael. [25] In the tent of meeting the sons of Gershon were in charge of the tabernacle and the tent with its covering, the screen at the entrance of the tent of meeting, [26] the hangings of the courtyard, the screen at the entrance of the courtyard that surrounds the tabernacle and the altar, and its ropes—all the work connected with these. [27] From Kohath came the clan of the Amramites, the clan of the Izharites, the clan of the Hebronites, and the clan of the Uzzielites; those were the Kohathite clans. [28] Counting every male a month old and above, there were eight thousand six hundred, who had charge of the sanctuary. [29] The clans of the sons of Kohath were to encamp along the south side of the tabernacle. [30] The chief of the father's house of the Kohathite clans was Elizaphan son of Uzziel. [31] They were in charge of the ark, the table, the lampstand, the altars, the utensils of the sanctuary used in ministering, and the screen—all the work connected with these. [32] The chief over the chiefs of the Levites was Eleazar son of Aaron the priest, who oversaw those in charge of the sanctuary. [33] From Merari came the clan of the Mahlites and the clan of the Mushites; those were the Merarite clans. [34] Their registered men, counting every male a month old and above, came to six thousand two hundred. [35] The chief of the father's house of the Merarite clans was Zuriel son of Abihail. They were to encamp along the north side of the tabernacle. [36] The sons of Merari were assigned the care of the frames of the tabernacle, its bars, its pillars, its bases, and all its fittings—all the work connected with these— [37] and the pillars around the courtyard with their bases, their tent pegs, and their ropes. [38] Those encamped in front of the tabernacle on the east, before the tent of meeting toward the sunrise, were Moses, Aaron, and his sons, who had charge of the sanctuary, carrying out the duty for the children of Israel. Any outsider who came near was to be put to death. [39] All the registered Levites, whom Moses and Aaron registered by their clans at the word of the LORD, every male a month old and above, came to twenty-two thousand.* [40] Then the LORD said to Moses, "Register every firstborn male of the children of Israel a month old and above, and make a list of their names. [41] Take the Levites for me—I am the LORD—in place of every firstborn among the children of Israel, and the Levites' livestock in place of every firstborn among the livestock of the children of Israel." [42] Moses registered every firstborn among the children of Israel, as the LORD had commanded him. [43] All the firstborn males a month old and above, listed by name, as registered, came to twenty-two thousand two hundred and seventy-three. [44] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [45] "Take the Levites in place of every firstborn among the children of Israel, and the Levites' livestock in place of their livestock. The Levites shall be mine. I am the LORD. [46] To ransom the two hundred and seventy-three firstborn of the children of Israel who outnumber the Levites, [47] collect five shekels for each head, by the shekel of the sanctuary—twenty gerahs to the shekel. [48] Give the money to Aaron and his sons as the ransom of the surplus among them." [49] So Moses collected the ransom money from those who were left over beyond the ones ransomed by the Levites. [50] From the firstborn of the children of Israel he collected the money: one thousand three hundred and sixty-five shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary. [51] Then Moses handed over the ransom money to Aaron and his sons at the word of the LORD, just as the LORD had commanded Moses.

CHAPTER 4

[1] The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, [2] "Count the heads of the descendants of Kohath within the descendants of Levi, by their clans and by the house of their fathers, [3] from thirty years old and above up to fifty years old, everyone who enters the service to do work in the tent of meeting. [4] The work of the descendants of Kohath in the tent of meeting concerns the most holy things. [5] When the camp is about to move, Aaron and his sons are to go in, take down the screening curtain, and cover the ark of the testimony with it. [6] Over that they are to lay a covering of goatskins, spread on top a cloth entirely of blue, and insert its poles.* [7] On the table of the Presence they are to spread a blue cloth and set on it the dishes, the pans, the bowls, and the pitchers for the drink offering; the continual bread is to remain on it. [8] They are to spread a scarlet cloth over these, cover that with a covering of goatskins, and insert its poles. [9] They are to take a blue cloth and cover the lampstand for the light together with its lamps, its tongs, its firepans, and all the oil vessels used in tending it. [10] They are to wrap it and all its utensils in a covering of goatskins and set it on the carrying frame. [11] Over the gold altar they are to spread a blue cloth, cover it with a covering of goatskins, and insert its poles. [12] They are to take all the utensils used for ministering in the sanctuary, wrap them in a blue cloth, cover them with a covering of goatskins, and set them on the carrying frame. [13] They are to clear the ashes from the altar and spread a purple cloth over it. [14] On it they are to place all the utensils used in ministering at it—the firepans, the forks, the shovels, and the bowls, all the utensils of the altar—then spread a covering of goatskins over it and insert its poles. [15] Once Aaron and his sons have finished covering the holy things and all the utensils of the sanctuary, when the camp is about to move, then the descendants of Kohath are to come and carry them. But they must not touch the holy things, or they will die. These are what the descendants of Kohath carry from the tent of meeting. [16] Eleazar son of Aaron the priest is to be responsible for the oil for the light, the fragrant incense, the continual grain offering, and the anointing oil, and responsible for the whole tabernacle and everything in it, the sanctuary and its utensils." [17] The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, [18] "Do not let the tribe of the Kohathite clans be cut off from among the Levites. [19] Do this for them, so that they may live and not die when they come near the most holy things: Aaron and his sons are to go in and assign each of them to his task and his load. [20] But they themselves must not go in to look at the holy things even for an instant, or they will die." [21] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [22] "Count the heads of the descendants of Gershon as well, by the house of their fathers and by their clans. [23] Register them from thirty years old and above up to fifty years old, everyone who enters to perform service, to do work in the tent of meeting. [24] This is the work of the Gershonite clans, both serving and carrying: [25] they are to carry the curtains of the tabernacle and the tent of meeting, its covering, the goatskin covering on top of it, and the screen at the entrance of the tent of meeting, [26] the hangings of the courtyard, the screen at the entrance of the gate of the courtyard that surrounds the tabernacle and the altar, their ropes, and all the utensils for their work; whatever has to be done with these, they shall do. [27] All the work of the Gershonites, all their carrying and all their service, is to be done at the direction of Aaron and his sons; you are to assign to them as their duty everything they carry. [28] This is the work of the Gershonite clans in the tent of meeting, and their duty is under the supervision of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest. [29] "The descendants of Merari you are to register by their clans and by the house of their fathers. [30] Register them from thirty years old and above up to fifty years old, everyone who enters the service to do the work of the tent of meeting. [31] What they are charged with carrying, as all their work in the tent of meeting, is this: the frames of the tabernacle, its bars, its pillars, its bases, [32] the pillars around the courtyard with their bases, tent pegs, and ropes, with all their utensils and all the work connected with them. You are to assign by name the items they are charged to carry. [33] This is the work of the Merarite clans, all their work in the tent of meeting, under the supervision of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest." [34] Moses, Aaron, and the chiefs of the congregation registered the Kohathites by their clans and by the house of their fathers, [35] from thirty years old and above up to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tent of meeting. [36] Their registered men by clans came to two thousand seven hundred and fifty. [37] These were the registered men of the Kohathite clans, all who served in the tent of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron registered at the word of the LORD through Moses. [38] The registered men of the descendants of Gershon by their clans and by the house of their fathers, [39] from thirty years old and above up to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tent of meeting— [40] their registered men by their clans and by the house of their fathers came to two thousand six hundred and thirty. [41] These were the registered men of the clans of the descendants of Gershon, all who served in the tent of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron registered at the word of the LORD. [42] The registered men of the clans of the descendants of Merari by their clans and by the house of their fathers, [43] from thirty years old and above up to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tent of meeting— [44] their registered men by their clans came to three thousand two hundred. [45] These were the registered men of the clans of the descendants of Merari, whom Moses and Aaron registered at the word of the LORD through Moses. [46] All the registered Levites, whom Moses, Aaron, and the chiefs of Israel registered by their clans and by the house of their fathers, [47] from thirty years old and above up to fifty years old, everyone who entered to do the work of serving and the work of carrying in the tent of meeting— [48] their registered men came to eight thousand five hundred and eighty. [49] At the word of the LORD through Moses each one was registered for his task and his load; so they were registered by him, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

CHAPTER 5

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Order the children of Israel to send away from the camp anyone with leprosy, anyone with a discharge, and anyone made unclean by a dead body. [3] Male or female, you are to send them away; send them outside the camp, so that they do not make their camps unclean, where I dwell among them." [4] The children of Israel did so and sent them outside the camp. Just as the LORD had told Moses, so the children of Israel did. [5] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [6] "Tell the children of Israel: When a man or woman commits any of the sins people commit, acting unfaithfully toward the LORD, that person has incurred guilt. [7] They are to confess the sin they have done, and he is to pay back the restitution for his wrong in full, add a fifth to it, and give it to the one he wronged.* [8] But if the person has no kinsman-redeemer to whom the restitution can be paid, the restitution paid for the wrong goes to the LORD, to the priest, besides the ram of atonement by which atonement is made for him. [9] Every contribution of all the holy things that the children of Israel bring to the priest is to be his.* [10] Each man's holy things remain his; but whatever anyone gives to the priest belongs to the priest." [11] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [12] "Tell the children of Israel: Suppose a man's wife turns aside and is unfaithful to him, [13] and another man sleeps with her, but it is concealed from her husband's eyes; she has made herself unclean and it remains secret, since there is no witness against her and she was not caught. [14] If a spirit of jealousy comes over him and he is jealous of his wife, and she has made herself unclean—or if a spirit of jealousy comes over him and he is jealous of his wife, and she has not made herself unclean— [15] then the man is to bring his wife to the priest, and bring as her offering a tenth of an ephah of barley flour. He must not pour oil on it or put frankincense on it, because it is a grain offering for jealousy, a grain offering of remembrance that calls iniquity to mind. [16] "The priest is to have her come forward and stand before the LORD. [17] He is to take holy water in a clay vessel, take some of the dust from the floor of the tabernacle, and put it into the water. [18] After having the woman stand before the LORD, the priest is to loosen her hair and put in her hands the grain offering of remembrance, which is the grain offering for jealousy, while the priest holds the bitter water that brings the curse. [19] The priest is to put her under oath and say to the woman, 'If no man has slept with you and you have not turned aside to uncleanness while you were under your husband, go free from this bitter water that brings the curse. [20] But if you have turned aside while under your husband and made yourself unclean, and a man other than your husband has slept with you'— [21] here the priest is to put the woman under the oath of the curse and say to her—'may the LORD make you an object of cursing and swearing among your people by making your thigh shrivel and your belly swell. [22] May this water that brings the curse enter your body to make your belly swell and your thigh shrivel.' And the woman is to say, 'Amen, amen.' [23] "Then the priest is to write these curses on a scroll and wipe them off into the bitter water. [24] He is to have the woman drink the bitter water that brings the curse, and the water that brings the curse will enter her and become bitter. [25] The priest is to take the grain offering for jealousy from the woman's hand, wave the grain offering before the LORD, and bring it to the altar. [26] He is to take a handful from the grain offering as its memorial portion and burn it on the altar; after that he is to have the woman drink the water. [27] Once he has had her drink the water, if she has made herself unclean and been unfaithful to her husband, the water that brings the curse will enter her and become bitter; her belly will swell and her thigh will shrivel, and the woman will become a curse among her people. [28] But if the woman has not made herself unclean and is pure, she will go free and will be able to bear children. [29] "This is the law for jealousy, when a wife turns aside while under her husband and makes herself unclean, [30] or when a spirit of jealousy comes over a man and he becomes jealous of his wife: he is to have the woman stand before the LORD, and the priest is to apply this entire law to her. [31] The man will be clear of iniquity, but that woman will bear her iniquity."

CHAPTER 6

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Tell the children of Israel: When a man or woman makes a special vow, the vow of a Nazirite, to live set apart to the LORD, [3] he is to keep away from wine and strong drink. He must not drink vinegar made from wine or from strong drink, nor drink any grape juice, nor eat grapes, whether fresh or dried. [4] As long as he is a Nazirite he must eat nothing produced from the grapevine, not even the seeds or the skins. [5] As long as his Nazirite vow lasts, no razor may touch his head. Until the time of his dedication to the LORD is complete, he is holy; he must let the hair of his head grow long. [6] As long as he is dedicated to the LORD he must not go near a dead body. [7] Even if his father or mother, brother or sister dies, he must not make himself unclean for them, for the dedication to his God is on his head. [8] As long as he is a Nazirite he is holy to the LORD. [9] "If someone dies beside him without warning and so defiles his dedicated head, he must shave his head on the day of his cleansing; he is to shave it on the seventh day. [10] On the eighth day he must bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons to the priest at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [11] The priest is to offer one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, and make atonement for him, since he sinned because of the dead body. He must consecrate his head again that same day, [12] and dedicate to the LORD the days of his Nazirite vow, and bring a male lamb a year old as a guilt offering. The previous days do not count, because his dedication was made unclean. [13] "This is the law of the Nazirite: When the time of his dedication is complete, he is to be brought to the entrance of the tent of meeting, [14] and he is to present his offering to the LORD: a year-old male lamb without defect as a burnt offering, a year-old ewe lamb without defect as a sin offering, a ram without defect as a peace offering, [15] a basket of unleavened bread—cakes of fine flour mixed with oil and unleavened wafers spread with oil—along with their grain offerings and drink offerings. [16] The priest is to bring them before the LORD and offer his sin offering and his burnt offering. [17] He is to offer the ram as a sacrifice of peace offerings to the LORD together with the basket of unleavened bread; the priest is also to offer its grain offering and its drink offering. [18] At the entrance of the tent of meeting the Nazirite is to shave his dedicated head, take the hair of his dedicated head, and put it on the fire burning under the sacrifice of peace offerings. [19] After the Nazirite has shaved off the hair of his dedication, the priest is to take the boiled shoulder of the ram, one unleavened cake from the basket, and one unleavened wafer, and place them in the Nazirite's hands. [20] The priest is to wave them as a wave offering before the LORD; it is a holy portion for the priest, in addition to the breast that is waved and the thigh that is contributed. After that the Nazirite may drink wine. [21] "This is the law of the Nazirite who makes a vow: his offering to the LORD for his dedication, besides whatever else he can afford. He must carry out the vow he has made according to the law of his dedication." [22] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [23] "Tell Aaron and his sons: This is how you are to bless the children of Israel. Say to them, [24] May the LORD bless you and keep you; [25] may the LORD make his face shine toward you and show you grace; [26] may the LORD lift up his face toward you and grant you peace. [27] "In this way they shall put my name on the children of Israel, and I myself will bless them."

CHAPTER 7

[1] When Moses had finished setting up the tabernacle, he anointed it and consecrated it with all its utensils, and the altar with all its utensils; he anointed them and consecrated them. [2]
On that day the chiefs of Israel, heads of the house of their fathers, came forward with offerings. They were the chiefs of the tribes, the men in charge of those who had been registered. [3]
They brought as their offering before the LORD six covered carts and twelve oxen—a cart for every two chiefs and an ox for each one—and presented them in front of the tabernacle. [4] The LORD said to Moses, [5] "Receive these from them so they may be used for the work of the tent of meeting, and hand them over to the Levites, to each according to what his work requires." [6] So Moses received the carts and the oxen and handed them over to the Levites. [7] He gave two carts and four oxen to the descendants of Gershon, as their work required, [8] and four carts and eight oxen to the descendants of Merari, as their work required, under the supervision of Ithamar son of Aaron the priest. [9] To the descendants of Kohath he gave none, since their task was the holy things, which they carried on their shoulders. [10] The chiefs also presented the dedication gift for the altar on the day it was anointed; the chiefs brought their offering before the altar. [11]
And the LORD said to Moses, "Let them present their offering for the dedication of the altar one chief a day, one chief each day." [12] The one who presented his offering on the first day was Nahshon son of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah. [13] His offering: one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [14] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [15] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [16] one male goat as a sin offering; [17] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs. Such was the offering of Nahshon son of Amminadab. [18] On the second day Nethanel son of Zuar, chief of Issachar, presented his offering. [19] He presented as his offering one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [20] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [21] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [22] one male goat as a sin offering; [23] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs. Such was the offering of Nethanel son of Zuar. [24]
On the third day it was the chief of the descendants of Zebulun, Eliab son of Helon. [25] His offering: one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [26] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [27] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [28] one male goat as a sin offering; [29] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs. Such was the offering of Eliab son of Helon. [30] On the fourth day it was the chief of the descendants of Reuben, Elizur son of Shedeur. [31] His offering:
one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one
silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both
filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [32] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [33] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [34] one
male goat as a sin offering; [35] and as the sacrifice of peace
offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs. Such was the offering of Elizur son of Shedeur. [36]
On the fifth day it was the chief of the descendants of Simeon, Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai. [37] His offering: one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [38] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [39] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [40] one male goat as a sin offering; [41] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs. Such was the offering of Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai. [42] On the sixth day it was the chief of the descendants of Gad, Eliasaph son of Deuel.
[43] His offering: one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [44] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [45] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [46] one male goat as a sin offering; [47] and as the sacrifice
of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs. Such was the offering of Eliasaph son of Deuel. [48] On the seventh day it was the chief of the descendants of Ephraim, Elishama son of Ammihud. [49] His offering: one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [50] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [51] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [52] one male goat as a sin offering; [53] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs.
Such was the offering of Elishama son of Ammihud. [54] On the eighth day it was the chief of the descendants of Manasseh, Gamaliel son of Pedahzur. [55] His offering: one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [56] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [57] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [58] one male goat as a sin offering; [59] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs. Such was the offering of Gamaliel son of Pedahzur. [60] On the ninth day it was the chief of the descendants of Benjamin, Abidan son of Gideoni. [61] His offering: one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [62] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [63] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [64] one male goat as a sin offering; [65] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs. Such was the offering of Abidan son of Gideoni. [66] On the tenth day it was the chief of the descendants of Dan, Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai. [67] His offering: one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [68] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [69] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [70] one male goat as a sin offering; [71] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs. Such was the offering of Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai. [72] On the eleventh day it was the chief of the descendants of Asher, Pagiel son of Ocran. [73] His offering: one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [74] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [75] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [76] one male goat as a sin offering; [77] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs. Such was the offering of Pagiel son of Ocran. [78] On the twelfth day it was the chief of the descendants of Naphtali, Ahira son of Enan. [79] His offering: one silver platter weighing a hundred and thirty shekels and one silver bowl of seventy shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary, both filled with fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; [80] one gold pan of ten shekels, filled with incense; [81] one young bull, one ram, and one year-old male lamb as a burnt offering; [82] one male goat as a sin offering; [83] and as the sacrifice of peace offerings, two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five year-old male lambs. Such was the offering of Ahira son of Enan. [84] This was the dedication gift for the altar from the chiefs of Israel on the day it was anointed: twelve silver platters, twelve silver bowls, and twelve gold pans. [85] Each silver platter weighed a hundred and thirty shekels and each bowl seventy; all the silver of the vessels came to two thousand four hundred shekels by the shekel of the sanctuary. [86] The twelve gold pans filled with incense weighed ten shekels each by the shekel of the sanctuary; all the gold of the pans came to a hundred and twenty shekels. [87] All the cattle for the burnt offering came to twelve bulls, twelve rams, and twelve year-old male lambs, with their grain offering, and twelve male goats as a sin offering. [88] All the cattle for the sacrifice of peace offerings came to twenty-four bulls, sixty rams, sixty male goats, and sixty year-old male lambs. This was the dedication gift for the altar after it had been anointed. [89] Whenever Moses went into the tent of meeting to speak with him, he would hear the voice speaking to him from above the mercy seat on the ark of the testimony, from between the two cherubim; and so he spoke with him.

CHAPTER 8

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Tell Aaron: When you put the lamps in place, the seven lamps are to cast their light toward the front of the lampstand." [3] Aaron did so; he put its lamps in place toward the front of the lampstand, just as the LORD had commanded Moses. [4] The lampstand was made like this: it was hammered gold, hammered work from its base to its blossoms. He made the lampstand after the pattern the LORD had shown Moses. [5] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [6] "Take the Levites out from among the children of Israel and purify them. [7] This is what you are to do to purify them: sprinkle the water of cleansing from sin on them; have them pass a razor over their whole body and wash their clothes, and so purify themselves. [8] Then they are to take a young bull with its grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil, and you are to take a second young bull as a sin offering. [9] Bring the Levites forward in front of the tent of meeting and gather the whole congregation of the children of Israel. [10] When you have brought the Levites before the LORD, the children of Israel are to lay their hands on the Levites, [11] and Aaron is to present the Levites before the LORD as a wave offering from the children of Israel, so that they may perform the work of the LORD. [12] The Levites are to lay their hands on the heads of the bulls; then offer one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering to the LORD, to make atonement for the Levites. [13] Have the Levites stand before Aaron and his sons, and present them as a wave offering to the LORD. [14] In this way you are to set the Levites apart from the rest of the children of Israel, and the Levites will be mine. [15] After that the Levites may go in to serve at the tent of meeting, once you have purified them and presented them as a wave offering. [16] For they are given, given outright, to me from among the children of Israel. I have taken them for myself in place of all that open the womb, the firstborn of all the children of Israel. [17] Every firstborn among the children of Israel is mine, whether man or beast; I set them apart for myself on the day I struck down every firstborn in the land of Egypt. [18] But I have taken the Levites in place of every firstborn among the children of Israel, [19] and from among the children of Israel I have given the Levites as a gift to Aaron and his sons, to do the work for the children of Israel at the tent of meeting and to make atonement for the children of Israel, so that no plague may strike the children of Israel when the children of Israel come near the sanctuary." [20] Moses, Aaron, and the whole congregation of the children of Israel did this with the Levites. The children of Israel did with them everything the LORD had commanded Moses about the Levites. [21] The Levites cleansed themselves from sin and washed their clothes; Aaron presented them as a wave offering before the LORD and made atonement for them to purify them. [22] After that the Levites went in to do their work in the tent of meeting in the presence of Aaron and his sons. What the LORD had commanded Moses about the Levites, that is what they did with them. [23] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [24] "This is the rule for the Levites: from twenty-five years old and above a man is to enter the ranks of those serving in the work of the tent of meeting. [25] At fifty years old he is to retire from the ranks of the service and work no longer. [26] He may help his brothers in the tent of meeting by keeping watch, but he is not to do the work. This is how you are to arrange the duties of the Levites."

CHAPTER 9

[1] In the first month of the second year after their going out from the land of Egypt, the LORD spoke to Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, saying, [2] "The children of Israel are to celebrate the Passover at its appointed time. [3] Celebrate it at its appointed time, on the fourteenth day of this month between the two evenings; celebrate it in keeping with all its statutes and all its ordinances." [4] So Moses told the children of Israel to celebrate the Passover, [5] and they celebrated the Passover in the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, between the two evenings, in the wilderness of Sinai. The children of Israel did everything just as the LORD had commanded Moses. [6] But there were some men who had become unclean through a human corpse and could not celebrate the Passover on that day. That same day they came before Moses and Aaron, [7] and these men said to him, "We are unclean through a human corpse. Why should we be held back from presenting the LORD's offering at its appointed time along with the children of Israel?" [8] Moses answered them, "Stay here, and let me hear what the LORD commands concerning you." [9] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [10] "Tell the children of Israel: If any of you or your descendants is unclean through a corpse or is away on a distant journey, he may still celebrate the Passover to the LORD. [11] They are to celebrate it in the second month, on the fourteenth day, between the two evenings, eating it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs. [12] They must not leave any of it until morning or break any of its bones. They are to celebrate it in keeping with every statute of the Passover. [13] But if a man who is clean and not on a journey neglects to celebrate the Passover, that person shall be cut off from his people, for he did not present the LORD's offering at its appointed time. That man will bear his sin. [14] If a foreigner living among you wants to celebrate the Passover to the LORD, he must do it in keeping with the statute of the Passover and its ordinance. You are to have one statute for the foreigner and for the native of the land alike." [15] On the day the tabernacle was set up, the cloud covered the tabernacle, the tent of the testimony; and from evening until morning it hung over the tabernacle with an appearance like fire. [16] It was like that continually: the cloud covered it, and by night it looked like fire. [17] Whenever the cloud lifted from above the tent, the children of Israel would move out after it, and wherever the cloud came to rest, there the children of Israel encamped. [18] At the word of the LORD the children of Israel moved out, and at the word of the LORD they encamped. As long as the cloud stayed over the tabernacle, they stayed encamped. [19] When the cloud lingered over the tabernacle for many days, the children of Israel observed the LORD's charge and did not move out. [20] At times the cloud remained over the tabernacle only a few days; at the word of the LORD they encamped, and at the word of the LORD they moved out. [21] At times the cloud stayed only from evening until morning, and when the cloud lifted in the morning they moved out. Whether by day or by night, whenever the cloud lifted, they moved out. [22] Whether two days, a month, or longer, as long as the cloud lingered over the tabernacle, resting on it, the children of Israel stayed encamped and did not move out; but when it lifted, they moved out. [23] At the word of the LORD they encamped, and at the word of the LORD they moved out; they observed the LORD's charge at the word of the LORD through Moses.

CHAPTER 10

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Make yourself two trumpets of silver; make them of hammered work. You are to use them for calling the congregation together and for setting the camps on the move. [3] When both are blown, the whole congregation is to gather to you at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [4] If only one is blown, the chiefs, the heads of Israel's thousands, are to gather to you. [5] When you blow a signal blast, the camps on the east side are to move out. [6] When you blow a second signal blast, the camps on the south side are to move out. A signal blast is to be blown for each of their departures. [7] To gather the assembly, you are to blow, but not sound a signal blast. [8] The sons of Aaron, the priests, are to blow the trumpets; this is to be a lasting statute for you throughout your generations. [9] When you go to war in your land against an enemy who attacks you, sound a signal blast on the trumpets; you will be remembered before the LORD your God and be rescued from your enemies. [10] On your days of rejoicing, at your appointed feasts, and at the start of your months, you are also to blow the trumpets over your burnt offerings and over your sacrifices of peace offerings; they will be a memorial for you before your God. I am the LORD your God." [11] On the twentieth day of the second month in the second year, the cloud lifted from above the tabernacle of the testimony, [12] and the children of Israel moved out from the wilderness of Sinai in their successive stages, until the cloud came to rest in the wilderness of Paran. [13] This was the first time they moved out at the word of the LORD through Moses. [14] The banner of the camp of the descendants of Judah moved out first by their troops, with Nahshon son of Amminadab over its troop. [15] Nethanel son of Zuar was over the troop of the tribe of the descendants of Issachar, [16] and Eliab son of Helon over the troop of the tribe of the descendants of Zebulun. [17] Then the tabernacle was taken down, and the descendants of Gershon and the descendants of Merari, who carried the tabernacle, moved out. [18] Next the banner of the camp of Reuben moved out by their troops, with Elizur son of Shedeur over its troop. [19] Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai was over the troop of the tribe of the descendants of Simeon, [20] and Eliasaph son of Deuel over the troop of the tribe of the descendants of Gad. [21] Then the Kohathites moved out, carrying the holy things; the tabernacle was to be set up before they arrived. [22] Next the banner of the camp of the descendants of Ephraim moved out by their troops, with Elishama son of Ammihud over its troop. [23] Gamaliel son of Pedahzur was over the troop of the tribe of the descendants of Manasseh, [24] and Abidan son of Gideoni over the troop of the tribe of the descendants of Benjamin. [25] Last, the banner of the camp of the descendants of Dan, the rear guard for all the camps, moved out by their troops, with Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai over its troop. [26] Pagiel son of Ocran was over the troop of the tribe of the descendants of Asher, [27] and Ahira son of Enan over the troop of the tribe of the descendants of Naphtali. [28] That was the marching order of the children of Israel by their troops whenever they moved out. [29] Moses said to Hobab son of Reuel the Midianite, Moses' father-in-law, "We are moving out to the place the LORD spoke of when he said, 'I will give it to you.' Come along with us and we will treat you well, for the LORD has spoken good things concerning Israel." [30] He answered, "I will not go; I am going back to my own land and my own kindred." [31] Moses said, "Please do not leave us. You know where we can encamp in the wilderness; you can be eyes for us. [32] If you come with us, then whatever good the LORD does for us, we will do the same good for you." [33] So they moved out from the mountain of the LORD on a three days' journey, and the ark of the covenant of the LORD went ahead of them the three days' journey to find them a place to rest. [34] The cloud of the LORD was above them by day when they moved out from the camp. [35] Each time the ark moved out, Moses would say, "Rise up, O LORD! May your enemies be scattered, and those who hate you flee from your presence." [36] And when it came to rest, he would say, "Come back, O LORD, to the countless thousands of Israel."

CHAPTER 11

[1] The people took to complaining bitterly in the ears of the LORD. When the LORD heard it, his anger blazed, and fire from the LORD burned among them and consumed the outskirts of the camp. [2] The people cried out to Moses; Moses prayed to the LORD, and the fire sank down. [3] So that place was named Taberah, because fire from the LORD had burned among them. [4] The riffraff among them gave way to craving, and the children of Israel too began weeping again, saying, "If only someone would give us meat to eat! [5] We remember the fish we used to eat in Egypt at no cost, and the cucumbers, the melons, the leeks, the onions, and the garlic. [6] But now our appetite has dried up; there is nothing at all to look at but this manna." [7] The manna was like coriander seed, and it looked like bdellium. [8] The people would go around gathering it, grind it with millstones or pound it in a mortar, boil it in a pot, and make it into cakes; it tasted like something baked with oil. [9] When the dew came down on the camp at night, the manna came down with it. [10] Moses heard the people weeping clan by clan, each man at the entrance of his tent. The LORD's anger burned hot, and Moses too was troubled. [11] Moses said to the LORD, "Why have you brought this trouble on your servant? Why have I not found favor with you, that you put the burden of this whole people on me? [12] Was it I who conceived this whole people? Was it I who gave birth to them, that you tell me, 'Carry them in your arms as a foster father carries a nursing infant,' to the land you swore to their fathers? [13] Where can I get meat to give all this people? They keep weeping to me, saying, 'Give us meat to eat!' [14] I cannot carry this whole people by myself; it is too heavy for me. [15] If this is how you will treat me, then please put me to death at once, if I have found favor with you, and do not let me look on my misery." [16] The LORD answered Moses, "Bring together for me seventy of the elders of Israel, men you know to be elders and officers of the people. Take them to the tent of meeting and have them stand there with you. [17] I will come down and speak with you there; I will take some of the Spirit that is on you and put it on them. Then they will share the burden of the people with you, and you will not have to carry it alone. [18] "And say to the people, 'Consecrate yourselves for tomorrow, and you will eat meat. You have wept in the LORD's ears, saying, "If only someone would give us meat to eat! We were well off in Egypt." So the LORD will give you meat, and you will eat. [19] Not just one day will you eat it, or two days, or five, or ten, or twenty, [20] but for a full month, until it comes out of your nostrils and you are sick of it, because you have rejected the LORD who is among you and wept before him, saying, "Why ever did we leave Egypt?"'" [21] Moses replied, "The people I am with number six hundred thousand men on foot, and you say, 'I will give them meat to eat for a full month'! [22] Could flocks and herds be slaughtered enough to be sufficient for them? Could all the fish in the sea be caught enough to be sufficient for them?" [23] The LORD said to Moses, "Is the LORD's arm too short? You will soon see whether my word comes true for you or not." [24] Moses went out and told the people what the LORD had said. He gathered seventy men from the elders of the people and stationed them around the tent. [25] The LORD came down in the cloud and spoke to him; he took some of the Spirit that was on him and put it on the seventy elders. When the Spirit rested on them they prophesied, but they did not continue doing it.* [26] Two men, however, had stayed behind in the camp, one called Eldad and the other Medad. The Spirit rested on them as well; they were among those listed, but had not gone out to the tent, and they prophesied in the camp. [27] A young man ran to tell Moses, "Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp!" [28] Joshua son of Nun, who had served Moses since his youth, spoke up: "Moses, my lord, stop them!" [29] But Moses answered him, "Are you zealous on my behalf? If only all the LORD's people were prophets, and the LORD would put his Spirit on them!" [30] Then Moses went back to the camp, he and the elders of Israel. [31] A wind went out from the LORD and swept quail in from the sea, letting them drop around the camp, about a day's walk in one direction and a day's walk in the other, all around the camp, some two cubits deep on the ground. [32] All that day, all that night, and all the next day the people were up gathering the quail; whoever gathered least had ten homers. They spread them out for themselves all around the camp. [33] But while the meat was still between their teeth, before it was chewed, the LORD's anger burned against the people, and the LORD struck the people with a very severe plague. [34] So that place was named Kibroth-hattaavah, because there they buried the people who had given way to craving. [35] From Kibroth-hattaavah the people moved on to Hazeroth, and they stayed at Hazeroth.

CHAPTER 12

[1] Miriam and Aaron began to speak against Moses on account of the Cushite woman he had married—for he had taken a Cushite wife. [*] [2] "Is it only through Moses that the LORD has spoken?" they said. "Has he not spoken through us too?" And the LORD heard this. [3] Now Moses was a very humble man, humbler than anyone on the face of the earth. [4] At once the LORD said to Moses, Aaron, and Miriam, "Come out to the tent of meeting, all three of you." So the three of them went out. [5] The LORD came down in a pillar of cloud, stood at the entrance of the tent, and called Aaron and Miriam. When both of them stepped forward, [6] he said, "Listen now to my words. When there is a prophet among you, I, the LORD, reveal myself to him in a vision and speak with him in a dream. [7] It is not so with my servant Moses; he is faithful in all my house. [8] With him I speak face to face, openly and not in riddles, and he sees the form of the LORD. Why, then, were you not afraid to speak against my servant Moses?" [9] The LORD's anger burned against them, and he left. [10] As the cloud withdrew from above the tent, there was Miriam, leprous, white as snow. Aaron turned toward Miriam and saw that she was leprous. [11] Aaron said to Moses, "Please, my lord, do not hold against us the sin we so foolishly committed. [12] Please do not let her be like a stillborn child whose flesh is half eaten away when it comes out of its mother's womb." [13] Moses cried out to the LORD, "O God, please heal her, I pray!" [14] The LORD answered Moses, "If her father had merely spat in her face, would she not be in disgrace for seven days? Let her be shut out of the camp for seven days; after that she may be brought back." [15] So Miriam was shut out of the camp for seven days, and the people did not move on until Miriam was brought back. [16] After that the people moved on from Hazeroth and encamped in the wilderness of Paran.

CHAPTER 13

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Send out men to explore the land of Canaan, which I am giving to the children of Israel. Send one man from each of their fathers' tribes, each of them a chief among them." [3] So at the word of the LORD Moses sent them out from the wilderness of Paran, all of them men who were heads of the children of Israel. [4] Their names were these: for the tribe of Reuben, Shammua son of Zaccur; [5] for the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat son of Hori; [6] for the tribe of Judah, Caleb son of Jephunneh; [7] for the tribe of Issachar, Igal son of Joseph; [8] for the tribe of Ephraim, Hoshea son of Nun; [9] for the tribe of Benjamin, Palti son of Raphu; [10] for the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel son of Sodi; [11] for the tribe of Joseph, namely the tribe of Manasseh, Gaddi son of Susi; [12] for the tribe of Dan, Ammiel son of Gemalli; [13] for the tribe of Asher, Sethur son of Michael; [14] for the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi son of Vophsi; [15] for the tribe of Gad, Geuel son of Machi. [16] Those are the names of the men Moses sent out to explore the land. Moses gave Hoshea son of Nun the name Joshua. [17] When Moses sent them to explore the land of Canaan, he told them, "Go up through the Negev here, and go on up into the hill country. [18] See what kind of land it is, and whether the people living in it are strong or weak, few or many; [19] whether the land they live in is good or bad; whether the towns they live in are open camps or fortified; [20] and whether the land is fertile or poor, wooded or not. Be bold, and bring back some of the fruit of the land." It was the season for the first ripe grapes. [21] They went up and explored the land from the wilderness of Zin to Rehob, toward Lebo-hamath. [22] Going up through the Negev, they came to Hebron, where Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the descendants of Anak, lived. (Hebron had been built seven years before Zoan in Egypt.) [23] When they reached the Valley of Eshcol, they cut off a branch bearing one cluster of grapes and carried it on a pole between two of them, along with some pomegranates and figs. [24] That place was named the Valley of Eshcol on account of the cluster the children of Israel cut there. [25] After forty days they came back from exploring the land. [26] They came to Moses, Aaron, and the whole congregation of the children of Israel at Kadesh in the wilderness of Paran, reported to them and to the whole congregation, and showed them the fruit of the land. [27] This is the account they gave him: "We went into the land you sent us to, and it really does flow with milk and honey; here is its fruit. [28] But the people living in the land are powerful, and the towns are fortified and very large. We even saw the descendants of Anak there. [29] Amalek lives in the land of the Negev; the Hittites, the Jebusites, and the Amorites live in the hill country; and the Canaanites live by the sea and along the Jordan." [30] Then Caleb silenced the people before Moses and said, "We must go up and take possession of it, for we can certainly prevail over it." [31] But the men who had gone up with him said, "We cannot go up against those people; they are too strong for us." [32] And they spread among the children of Israel an evil report about the land they had explored, saying, "The land we passed through to explore is a land that eats up those who live in it, and all the people we saw there are men of huge size. [33] We saw the Nephilim there—the sons of Anak are from the Nephilim—and we looked like grasshoppers to ourselves, and that is how we looked to them." [*]

CHAPTER 14

[1] The whole congregation lifted up their voices and cried out, and the people wept all that night. [2] All the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron. The whole congregation said to them, "We wish we had died in the land of Egypt, or in this wilderness—we wish we had died! [3] Why is the LORD bringing us to this land to die by the sword? Our wives and children will be taken as spoil. Wouldn't we be better off going back to Egypt?" [4] And they said to each other, "Let us choose a leader and go back to Egypt." [5] Moses and Aaron fell face down before the whole assembled congregation of the children of Israel. [6] Joshua son of Nun and Caleb son of Jephunneh, two of those who had explored the land, tore their clothes [7] and said to the whole congregation of the children of Israel, "The land we passed through to explore is a very, very good land. [8] If the LORD is pleased with us, he will bring us into this land and give it to us, a land flowing with milk and honey. [9] Only do not rebel against the LORD, and do not be afraid of the people of the land, for we will swallow them up like bread. Their shelter has been taken from them, and the LORD is with us. Do not be afraid of them." [10] But the whole congregation talked of stoning them. Then the glory of the LORD appeared at the tent of meeting to all the children of Israel. [11] The LORD said to Moses, "How long will this people treat me with contempt? How long will they refuse to believe in me, in spite of all the signs I have performed among them? [12] I will strike them with pestilence and disown them, and I will make you into a nation greater and stronger than they are." [13] Moses said to the LORD, "But the Egyptians will hear of it! It was by your might that you brought this people up out of their midst, [14] and they will tell it to those who live in this land. They have heard that you, LORD, are among this people, that you, LORD, are seen eye to eye, that your cloud stands above them, and that you go ahead of them in a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night. [15] If you now kill this people all at once, the nations who have heard of your fame will say, [16] 'The LORD could not bring this people into the land he swore to give them, so he slaughtered them in the wilderness.' [17] Now then, let the power of my Lord be great, as you have declared: [18] 'The LORD is slow to anger and rich in steadfast love, forgiving iniquity and transgression, but he does not let the guilty go unpunished; he visits the iniquity of the fathers on the children to the third and fourth generation.' [19] Please forgive the iniquity of this people in keeping with the greatness of your steadfast love, as you have forgiven this people from Egypt until now." [20] The LORD said, "I have forgiven them as you asked. [21] Yet as surely as I live, and as surely as the glory of the LORD will fill the whole earth, [22] not one of the men who saw my glory and the signs I performed in Egypt and in the wilderness, and who have put me to the test these ten times and not obeyed my voice, [23] will see the land I swore to their fathers. None of those who treated me with contempt will see it. [24] But my servant Caleb, because a different spirit is in him and he has followed me wholeheartedly, I will bring into the land he entered, and his descendants will possess it. [25] Since the Amalekites and the Canaanites live in the valleys, turn back tomorrow and head out into the wilderness by the road to the Red Sea." [26] The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, [27] "How long must I put up with this wicked congregation murmuring against me? I have heard the murmurings the children of Israel keep making against me. [28] Tell them, 'As I live, says the LORD, I will do to you exactly what I heard you say. [29] In this wilderness your corpses will fall—every one of you who was registered, your full number from twenty years old and above, who murmured against me. [30] Not one of you will enter the land I swore with raised hand to settle you in, except Caleb son of Jephunneh and Joshua son of Nun. [31] But your little ones, who you said would be taken as spoil, I will bring in, and they will come to know the land you have rejected. [32] As for you, your corpses will fall in this wilderness. [33] Your children will be shepherds in the wilderness for forty years, bearing the consequences of your unfaithfulness until the last of your corpses lies in the wilderness.[] [34] Matching the number of days you spent exploring the land, forty days—a year for each day—you will bear your iniquities forty years, and you will know my opposition.'[] [35] I, the LORD, have spoken. I will certainly do this to this whole wicked congregation that has banded together against me: in this wilderness they will meet their end, and here they will die." [36] As for the men Moses sent to explore the land, who came back and made the whole congregation murmur against him by spreading an evil report about the land— [37] those men who spread the evil report about the land died by a plague before the LORD. [38] Of the men who went to explore the land, only Joshua son of Nun and Caleb son of Jephunneh survived. [39] When Moses reported these words to all the children of Israel, the people grieved bitterly. [40] Early the next morning they set off up toward the ridge of the hill country, saying, "Here we are; we will go up to the place the LORD promised, for we have sinned." [41] But Moses said, "Why are you going against the LORD's command? This will not succeed. [42] Do not go up, for the LORD is not among you, or you will be beaten by your enemies. [43] The Amalekites and the Canaanites are there facing you, and you will fall by the sword. Because you have turned back from following the LORD, the LORD will not be with you." [44] Yet they defiantly went up toward the ridge of the hill country, though neither the ark of the covenant of the LORD nor Moses left the camp. [45] Then the Amalekites and the Canaanites who lived in that hill country came down, struck them, and crushed them all the way to Hormah.

CHAPTER 15

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Tell the children of Israel: When you enter the land I am giving you to live in, [3] and you present to the LORD a food offering from the herd or the flock—a burnt offering or a sacrifice, to fulfill a vow, as a freewill offering, or at your appointed feasts—to produce a pleasing aroma for the LORD, [4] the one bringing his offering is to present to the LORD a grain offering of a tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with a quarter of a hin of oil. [5] With the burnt offering or the sacrifice you are also to prepare a quarter of a hin of wine as a drink offering for each lamb. [6] For a ram, prepare a grain offering of two tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with a third of a hin of oil, [7] and present a third of a hin of wine as a drink offering, a pleasing aroma for the LORD. [8] When you prepare a young bull as a burnt offering or a sacrifice, to fulfill a vow or as peace offerings to the LORD, [9] present with the bull a grain offering of three tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with half a hin of oil, [10] and present half a hin of wine as a drink offering, a food offering with a pleasing aroma for the LORD. [11] This is to be done for each bull, each ram, and each of the lambs or young goats. [12] However many you prepare, do this for each one, according to their number. [13] Every native-born person is to do these things in this way when presenting a food offering with a pleasing aroma for the LORD. [14] If a foreigner is living with you, or anyone else is among you in generations to come, and he wants to present a food offering with a pleasing aroma for the LORD, he must do as you do. [15] The assembly is to have one statute for you and for the foreigner living with you, a lasting statute throughout your generations: you and the foreigner are alike before the LORD. [16] One law and one ordinance shall apply to you and to the foreigner living with you." [17] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [18] "Tell the children of Israel: When you enter the land where I am bringing you [19] and eat of the food of the land, you are to set aside a contribution for the LORD.* [20] From the first of your dough you are to set aside a loaf as a contribution; set it aside just like a contribution from the threshing floor. [21] Throughout your generations you are to give the LORD a contribution from the first of your dough. [22] "If you go astray without meaning to and fail to keep any of these commandments the LORD has given to Moses— [23] anything the LORD has commanded you through Moses from the day the LORD gave the command and on through your generations— [24] and if it was done unintentionally, without the congregation being aware of it, then the whole congregation is to offer one young bull as a burnt offering, a pleasing aroma for the LORD, with its prescribed grain offering and drink offering, and one male goat as a sin offering. [25] The priest is to make atonement for the whole congregation of the children of Israel, and they will be forgiven, because it was an error and they have brought their offering, a food offering to the LORD, and their sin offering before the LORD for their error. [26] The whole congregation of the children of Israel will be forgiven, and the foreigner living among them too, for the whole people was caught up in the error. [27] "If an individual sins unintentionally, he is to present a year-old female goat as a sin offering. [28] The priest is to make atonement before the LORD for the person who erred by sinning unintentionally; when atonement has been made for him, he will be forgiven. [29] One law is to apply to anyone who acts unintentionally, whether a native-born among the children of Israel or a foreigner living among them. [30] But anyone who acts defiantly, native-born or foreigner, is reviling the LORD; that person shall be cut off from among his people. [31] Since he has scorned the word of the LORD and violated his commandment, that person must certainly be cut off; his iniquity remains on him." [32] While the children of Israel were in the wilderness, they came upon a man gathering wood on the Sabbath day. [33] Those who came upon him gathering wood brought him to Moses, Aaron, and the whole congregation. [34] They held him in custody, since it had not been made clear what was to be done to him. [35] The LORD said to Moses, "The man must be put to death. The whole congregation is to stone him outside the camp." [36] So the whole congregation took him outside the camp and stoned him to death, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [37] The LORD said to Moses, [38] "Tell the children of Israel to make tassels for themselves on the corners of their garments throughout their generations, and to put a blue cord on the tassel at each corner. [39] These tassels are for you to look at, so that you remember all the commandments of the LORD and carry them out, and do not go roaming after your own heart and your own eyes, which you have been prone to follow in unfaithfulness. [40] In this way you will remember and carry out all my commandments and be holy to your God. [41] I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God. I am the LORD your God."

CHAPTER 16

[1] Korah son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi, took men, along with Dathan and Abiram, sons of Eliab, and On son of Peleth, descendants of Reuben, [2] and they rose up against Moses together with two hundred and fifty men of the children of Israel, chiefs of the congregation, men called to the assembly, men of name. [3] They banded together against Moses and Aaron and said to them, "You take too much on yourselves! The whole congregation is holy, every one of them, and the LORD is among them. Why then do you set yourselves above the assembly of the LORD?" [4] When Moses heard this, he fell face down. [5] Then he said to Korah and all his followers, "In the morning the LORD will make known who belongs to him and who is holy, and he will let that one come near to him; whoever he chooses he will let come near to him. [6] This is what you are to do, Korah and all your followers: take censers, [7] and tomorrow put fire in them and place incense on them before the LORD. The man the LORD chooses is the one who is holy. You sons of Levi take too much on yourselves!" [8] Moses also said to Korah, "Listen now, you sons of Levi. [9] Is it too little for you that the God of Israel has set you apart from the congregation of Israel and brought you near to himself, to do the work of the LORD's tabernacle and to stand before the congregation and minister to them? [10] He has brought you near, and all your brothers the sons of Levi with you—and now you seek the priesthood as well? [11] That is why you and all your followers have banded together against the LORD. As for Aaron, who is he that you murmur against him?" [12] Moses sent for Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, but they said, "We will not come up! [13] Is it not enough that you brought us up out of a land flowing with milk and honey to kill us in the wilderness? Must you also lord it over us? [14] You have certainly not brought us into a land flowing with milk and honey or given us fields and vineyards as an inheritance. Will you gouge out the eyes of these men? We will not come up!" [15] Moses became very angry and said to the LORD, "Do not accept their offering. I have not taken so much as one donkey from them, nor have I wronged any one of them." [16] Moses said to Korah, "Tomorrow you and all your followers are to appear before the LORD—you, they, and Aaron. [17] Each of you is to take his censer, put incense in it, and bring it before the LORD—two hundred and fifty censers; you and Aaron too, each with his censer." [18] So every man took his censer, put fire in it, placed incense on it, and stood at the entrance of the tent of meeting with Moses and Aaron. [19] When Korah had gathered the whole congregation against them at the entrance of the tent of meeting, the glory of the LORD appeared to the whole congregation. [20] The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, [21] "Separate yourselves from this congregation, so I can consume them in an instant." [22] But they fell face down and said, "O God, God of the spirits of all flesh, when one man sins, will you be angry with the whole congregation?" [23] The LORD said to Moses, [24] "Tell the congregation: Move away from around the dwellings of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram." [25] Moses got up and went to Dathan and Abiram, and the elders of Israel went with him. [26] He said to the congregation, "Move away, please, from the tents of these wicked men, and do not touch anything that belongs to them, or you will be swept away because of all their sins." [27] So they moved away from around the dwellings of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram. Dathan and Abiram had come out and were standing at the entrance of their tents with their wives, their sons, and their little ones. [28] Moses said, "This is how you will know that the LORD has sent me to do all these things, and that it was not my own idea: [29] If these men die the way all people die, and meet the fate all people meet, then the LORD has not sent me. [30] But if the LORD does something entirely new, and the ground opens its mouth and swallows them along with everything they have, and they go down alive to Sheol, then you will know that these men have treated the LORD with contempt."* [31] The moment he finished saying all this, the ground beneath them split open. [32] The earth opened its mouth and swallowed them and their households, all Korah's men, and all their possessions. [33] They went down alive to Sheol, with everything that was theirs; the earth closed over them, and they vanished from among the assembly. [34] At their cries all Israel around them fled, saying, "The earth may swallow us too!" [35] Then fire came out from the LORD and consumed the two hundred and fifty men who were offering the incense. [36] The LORD said to Moses, [37] "Tell Eleazar son of Aaron the priest to pick up the censers from the burning and scatter the coals some distance away, for the censers are holy— [38] the censers of these men who sinned at the cost of their lives. Have them hammered into thin sheets to plate the altar, since they were presented before the LORD and so became holy. They will serve as a sign to the children of Israel." [39] So Eleazar the priest took the bronze censers that the men who were burned up had presented, and they were hammered out to plate the altar, [40] as a memorial for the children of Israel, so that no outsider who is not a descendant of Aaron would come near to burn incense before the LORD and become like Korah and his followers—just as the LORD had told him through Moses. [41] The very next day the whole congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron, saying, "You are the ones who killed the LORD's people." [42] As the congregation was gathering against Moses and Aaron, they turned toward the tent of meeting, and there the cloud was covering it, and the glory of the LORD appeared. [43] Moses and Aaron went to the front of the tent of meeting, [44] and the LORD said to Moses, [45] "Get away from this congregation, so I can consume them in an instant." But they fell face down. [46] Moses said to Aaron, "Take your censer, put fire from the altar in it, place incense on it, and hurry to the congregation to make atonement for them. Wrath has gone out from the LORD; the plague has started." [47] Aaron took it as Moses had told him and ran into the middle of the assembly, and there the plague had already started among the people. He put on the incense and made atonement for the people. [48] He stood between the dead and the living, and the plague was halted. [49] Fourteen thousand seven hundred died in the plague, not counting those who died because of Korah. [50] Then Aaron went back to Moses at the entrance of the tent of meeting, and the plague had been halted.

CHAPTER 17

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Tell the children of Israel to give you staffs, one for each father's house: twelve staffs from all their chiefs, by the house of their fathers. Write each man's name on his staff. [3] On the staff of Levi write Aaron's name, since there is to be one staff for the head of each father's house. [4] Lay them in the tent of meeting in front of the testimony, where I meet with you. [5] The staff of the man I choose will sprout, and so I will put a stop to the murmurings the children of Israel keep making against you, so that I no longer hear them." [6] Moses spoke to the children of Israel, and all their chiefs gave him staffs, one for each chief by the house of their fathers, twelve staffs; Aaron's staff was among them. [7] Moses laid the staffs before the LORD in the tent of the testimony. [8] The next day Moses went into the tent of the testimony, and there was Aaron's staff, for the house of Levi, which had sprouted: it had put out buds, burst into blossom, and produced ripe almonds. [9] Moses brought all the staffs out from before the LORD to all the children of Israel; they looked at them, and each man took back his staff. [10] The LORD said to Moses, "Put Aaron's staff back in front of the testimony, to be kept as a sign for the rebellious, so that you may end their murmurings against me and they will not die." [11] Moses did exactly as the LORD had commanded him. [12] The children of Israel said to Moses, "We are dying! We are lost, all of us lost! [13] Anyone who comes near, anyone who comes near the tabernacle of the LORD, dies. Are we all going to perish?"

CHAPTER 18

[1] The LORD said to Aaron, "You, your sons, and your father's house with you will bear the iniquity connected with the sanctuary, and you and your sons with you will bear the iniquity connected with your priesthood. [2] Bring with you also your brothers of the tribe of Levi, your father's tribe, so they may be joined to you and assist you while you and your sons with you are in front of the tent of the testimony. [3] They are to carry out their duty to you and to the whole tent, but they must not come near the utensils of the sanctuary or the altar, or both they and you will die. [4] They are to be joined to you and carry out the duties of the tent of meeting, all the work of the tent; no outsider may come near you. [5] You are to carry out the duties of the sanctuary and the altar, so that wrath will not fall on the children of Israel again. [6] I myself have taken your brothers the Levites from among the children of Israel; they are a gift to you, given to the LORD, to do the work of the tent of meeting. [7] But you and your sons with you are to attend to your priesthood in everything concerning the altar and what is inside the veil, and you are to serve. I give you your priesthood as a service that is a gift; any outsider who comes near shall be put to death." [8] The LORD said to Aaron, "I myself have put you in charge of the contributions made to me, all the holy gifts of the children of Israel. I have given them to you and your sons as a portion, a lasting due.* [9] Of the most holy things kept back from the fire this is to be yours: every offering of theirs—every grain offering, every sin offering, and every guilt offering they render to me—is most holy for you and your sons. [10] You are to eat it in a most holy place; every male may eat it. It is holy to you.* [11] This too is yours: the contribution from their gifts, from all the wave offerings of the children of Israel. I have given them to you and to your sons and daughters with you as a lasting due. Anyone in your household who is clean may eat it. [12] All the finest of the oil, and all the finest of the new wine and the grain, the first part they give to the LORD, I give to you. [13] The first fruits of everything in their land that they bring to the LORD will be yours. Anyone in your household who is clean may eat it. [14] Everything in Israel that is devoted will be yours. [15] Every firstborn of all flesh, man or animal, that they present to the LORD will be yours. But you must redeem the firstborn of man, and redeem the firstborn of unclean animals. [16] Their redemption price, from a month old, you are to set at five shekels of silver by your valuation, by the shekel of the sanctuary, which is twenty gerahs. [17] But you must not redeem the firstborn of a cow, of a sheep, or of a goat; they are holy. Sprinkle their blood on the altar and burn their fat as a food offering, a pleasing aroma for the LORD. [18] Their meat will be yours, just as the breast of the wave offering and the right thigh are yours. [19] All the contributions from the holy things that the children of Israel set aside for the LORD I give to you and to your sons and daughters with you as a lasting due. It is an everlasting covenant of salt before the LORD for you and your descendants with you." [20] The LORD said to Aaron, "You will have no inheritance in their land, nor any share among them. I am your share and your inheritance among the children of Israel. [21] "See, to the descendants of Levi I have given every tithe in Israel as an inheritance in exchange for the work they do, the work of the tent of meeting. [22] From now on the children of Israel must not come near the tent of meeting, or they will incur sin and die. [23] The Levites are to do the work of the tent of meeting and bear their iniquity. It is a lasting statute throughout your generations. They will have no inheritance among the children of Israel, [24] for I have given the Levites as an inheritance the tithe that the children of Israel set aside as a contribution to the LORD. That is why I have told them they will have no inheritance among the children of Israel." [25] And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [26] "Speak to the Levites and tell them: When you receive from the children of Israel the tithe I have given you from them as your inheritance, you are to set aside from it a contribution for the LORD, a tenth of the tithe. [27] Your contribution will be credited to you as if it were grain from the threshing floor or the full yield of the winepress. [28] In this way you too are to set aside a contribution for the LORD from all the tithes you receive from the children of Israel, and from them give the LORD's contribution to Aaron the priest. [29] From all the gifts you receive you are to set aside the whole contribution due to the LORD, taking the holy portion from the finest of them. [30] "Tell them also: When you have set aside the finest part, the rest will be credited to the Levites like the yield of the threshing floor and the yield of the winepress. [31] You and your households may eat it anywhere, for it is your pay for your work at the tent of meeting. [32] Once you have set aside the finest part, you will incur no sin on account of it. But do not profane the holy gifts of the children of Israel, or you will die."

CHAPTER 19

[1] The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, [2] "This is the statute of the law the LORD has commanded: Tell the children of Israel to bring you a red heifer, sound, without any defect, that has never been under a yoke. [3] Give it to Eleazar the priest; it is to be taken outside the camp and slaughtered in his presence. [4] Eleazar the priest is to take some of its blood on his finger and sprinkle it seven times toward the front of the tent of meeting. [5] The heifer is to be burned before his eyes—its hide, its flesh, and its blood, together with its dung. [6] The priest is to take cedar wood, hyssop, and scarlet yarn and throw them onto the burning heifer. [7] Then the priest must wash his clothes and bathe his body in water; after that he may come into the camp, but he remains unclean until evening. [8] The man who burns the heifer must also wash his clothes in water and bathe his body in water, and he remains unclean until evening. [9] A man who is clean is to gather up the ashes of the heifer and put them in a clean place outside the camp. They are to be kept for the congregation of the children of Israel for the water for impurity; it is a sin offering.* [10] The one who gathers the ashes of the heifer must wash his clothes, and he remains unclean until evening. This is a lasting statute for the children of Israel and for the foreigner living among them. [11] "Anyone who touches the dead body of any human being will be unclean for seven days. [12] He must purify himself with the water on the third day and on the seventh day, and then he will be clean. If he does not purify himself on the third day and the seventh day, he will not be clean. [13] Anyone who touches a corpse, the body of a person who has died, and does not purify himself, defiles the LORD's tabernacle; that person shall be cut off from Israel. Because the water for impurity was not sprinkled on him, he is unclean; his uncleanness stays on him. [14] "This is the law when someone dies in a tent: anyone who enters the tent and anyone who is in it will be unclean for seven days, [15] and every open container without a lid tied on it is unclean. [16] In the open country, anyone who touches someone killed by the sword, or someone who has died, or a human bone, or a grave, will be unclean for seven days. [17] "For the unclean person, some of the ashes from the burned sin offering are to be taken and put in a vessel, and fresh running water added to them. [18] Then a man who is clean is to take hyssop, dip it in the water, and sprinkle the tent, all its furnishings, and the people who were there, as well as anyone who touched the bone, the one who was killed, the one who died, or the grave. [19] The clean man is to sprinkle the unclean person on the third day and on the seventh day. On the seventh day he will have purified him; then the person must wash his clothes and bathe in water, and in the evening he will be clean. [20] But anyone who becomes unclean and does not purify himself, that person shall be cut off from the assembly, because he has defiled the LORD's sanctuary. The water for impurity has not been sprinkled on him; he is unclean. [21] This is to be a lasting statute for them. The one who sprinkles the water for impurity must wash his clothes, and anyone who touches the water for impurity will be unclean until evening. [22] Anything the unclean person touches becomes unclean, and anyone who touches it will be unclean until evening."

CHAPTER 20

[1] In the first month the children of Israel, the whole congregation, arrived in the wilderness of Zin, and the people settled at Kadesh. There Miriam died, and there she was buried. [2] The congregation had no water, so they gathered together against Moses and Aaron. [3] The people quarreled with Moses, saying, "If only we had perished when our brothers perished before the LORD! [4] Why did you bring the LORD's assembly into this wilderness, for us and our livestock to die here? [5] Why did you bring us up out of Egypt to lead us into this wretched place? It is no place for seed, or figs, or vines, or pomegranates, and there is no water to drink!" [6] Moses and Aaron left the assembly, went to the entrance of the tent of meeting, and fell face down. Then the glory of the LORD appeared to them. [7] The LORD said to Moses, [8] "Take the staff, and you and your brother Aaron gather the congregation. Speak to the rock while they watch, and it will give out its water. You will bring water out of the rock for them and let the congregation and their livestock drink." [9] So Moses took the staff from before the LORD, as he had been commanded. [10] Moses and Aaron gathered the assembly in front of the rock, and Moses said to them, "Listen, you rebels! Must we bring water out of this rock for you?" [11] Then Moses raised his hand and struck the rock twice with his staff. Water gushed out in abundance, and the congregation and their livestock drank. [12] But the LORD said to Moses and Aaron, "Because you did not trust in me enough to show my holiness before the eyes of the children of Israel, you will not lead this assembly into the land I have given them." [13] These were the waters of Meribah, where the children of Israel quarreled with the LORD, and he showed his holiness among them. [*14] From Kadesh Moses sent messengers to the king of Edom: "This is what your brother Israel says: You know all the hardship we have met with— [15] how our fathers went down to Egypt, how we lived in Egypt many years, and how the Egyptians mistreated us and our fathers. [16] We cried out to the LORD, and he heard our voice, sent an angel, and brought us out of Egypt. Now here we are at Kadesh, a town at the edge of your territory. [17] Please let us cross your land. We will not go through any field or vineyard, or drink water from any well. We will keep to the King's Highway and not turn off to the right or the left until we have crossed your territory." [18] Edom answered him, "You will not cross through my land, or I will come out against you with the sword." [19] The children of Israel said to him, "We will keep to the main road, and if we or our livestock drink any of your water, we will pay for it. Only let us cross on foot; that is all." [20] He replied, "You will not cross." And Edom came out against them with a large force and a strong hand. [21] So Edom refused to let Israel cross through his territory, and Israel turned away from him. [22] The children of Israel, the whole congregation, moved on from Kadesh and arrived at Mount Hor. [23] At Mount Hor, near the border of the land of Edom, the LORD said to Moses and Aaron, [24] "Aaron is to be gathered to his people. He will not enter the land I have given to the children of Israel, because the two of you rebelled against my word at the waters of Meribah. [25] Take Aaron and his son Eleazar and bring them up Mount Hor. [26] Remove Aaron's garments and put them on his son Eleazar. Aaron will be gathered to his people and will die there." [27] Moses did as the LORD had commanded. They climbed Mount Hor while the whole congregation watched. [28] Moses removed Aaron's garments and put them on his son Eleazar, and Aaron died there on the mountaintop. Then Moses and Eleazar came down the mountain. [29] When the whole congregation saw that Aaron had died, the entire house of Israel mourned for Aaron thirty days.

CHAPTER 21

[1] When the Canaanite king of Arad, who lived in the Negev, heard that Israel was approaching by the road to Atharim, he attacked Israel and took some of them captive. [*2] Then Israel made a vow to the LORD: "If you will truly hand this people over to me, I will devote their towns to destruction." [3] The LORD heeded Israel's plea and handed the Canaanites over, and they devoted them and their towns to destruction. So the place was named Hormah. [*4] They moved on from Mount Hor by the road to the Red Sea, to go around the land of Edom, and the people grew impatient on the way. [5] The people spoke against God and against Moses: "Why have you brought us up from Egypt to die in the wilderness? There is no bread and no water, and we are sick of this miserable food!" [6] So the LORD sent fiery serpents among the people; they bit the people, and many of the people of Israel died. [*7] The people came to Moses and said, "We have sinned by speaking against the LORD and against you. Pray to the LORD to take the serpents away from us." So Moses prayed for the people. [8] The LORD said to Moses, "Make a fiery serpent and put it on a pole. Anyone who has been bitten and looks at it will live." [9] So Moses made a bronze serpent and set it on the pole; whenever a serpent bit someone, he would look at the bronze serpent and live. [10] The children of Israel moved on and encamped at Oboth. [11] They moved on from Oboth and encamped at Iye-abarim, in the wilderness facing Moab toward the sunrise. [12] From there they moved on and encamped in the Valley of Zered. [13] From there they moved on and encamped beyond the Arnon, in the wilderness that stretches out from the territory of the Amorites; the Arnon is Moab's border, between Moab and the Amorites. [14] That is why the Book of the Wars of the LORD speaks of "Waheb in Suphah and the wadis of the Arnon, * 15 and the slope of the wadis that turns toward the settlement of Ar and lies along the border of Moab." 16 From there they went on to Beer, the well where the LORD said to Moses, "Gather the people, and I will give them water." 17 Then Israel sang this song: "Spring up, O well! Sing out to it! 18 The well the princes dug, the nobles of the people hollowed out, with a scepter, with their staffs." From the wilderness they went on to Mattanah, 19 from Mattanah to Nahaliel, from Nahaliel to Bamoth, 20 and from Bamoth to the valley in the territory of Moab near the summit of Pisgah, which overlooks Jeshimon. 21 Israel sent messengers to Sihon king of the Amorites with this message: 22 "Let me cross your land. We will not turn off into any field or vineyard or drink water from any well. We will keep to the King's Highway until we have crossed your territory." 23 But Sihon would not let Israel cross his territory. He gathered all his people and marched out into the wilderness against Israel; he reached Jahaz and fought with Israel. 24 Israel put him to the sword and took over his land from the Arnon to the Jabbok, as far as the Ammonites, because the Ammonite border was strongly held. 25 Israel captured all these towns and settled in all the towns of the Amorites, in Heshbon and all its dependent villages. 26 Heshbon was the city of Sihon king of the Amorites, who had fought the former king of Moab and taken all his land from him as far as the Arnon. 27 That is why the ballad singers say, "Come to Heshbon! Let it be rebuilt; let Sihon's city be restored. 28 For fire went out from Heshbon, flame from Sihon's city; it devoured Ar of Moab, the masters of the heights of the Arnon. 29 Woe to you, Moab! You are lost, people of Chemosh! He has given up his sons as fugitives and his daughters as captives to Sihon king of the Amorites. 30 But we shot them down; Heshbon is destroyed as far as Dibon; we laid them waste as far as Nophah, which reaches to Medeba." * 31 So Israel settled in the land of the Amorites. 32 Moses sent men to scout out Jazer; they captured its villages and drove out the Amorites living there. 33 Then they turned and went up the road to Bashan, and Og king of Bashan marched out with all his people to meet them in battle at Edrei. 34 The LORD said to Moses, "Do not be afraid of him, for I have handed him over to you, with all his people and his land. Do to him what you did to Sihon king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon." 35 So they struck him down, along with his sons and all his people, until not one survivor was left him, and they took possession of his land.

CHAPTER 22

1 The children of Israel moved on and encamped in the plains of Moab, across the Jordan from Jericho. 2 Balak son of Zippor had seen everything Israel had done to the Amorites, 3 and Moab was terrified of the people because there were so many of them; Moab was filled with dread at the children of Israel. 4 Moab said to the elders of Midian, "This mob will now lick up everything around us, the way an ox licks up the grass of the field." Balak son of Zippor was king of Moab at that time, 5 and he sent messengers to Balaam son of Beor at Pethor, which is by the River, in the land of his people's sons, to summon him with this message: "Look, a people has come out of Egypt; they cover the face of the land, and they have settled right next to me. * 6 So come now, please, and curse this people for me, since they are too powerful for me. Then I may be able to defeat them and drive them from the land. For I know that whoever you bless is blessed, and whoever you curse is cursed." 7 The elders of Moab and the elders of Midian set out with the fee for divination in hand. They came to Balaam and gave him Balak's message. 8 He said to them, "Spend the night here, and I will bring you back whatever answer the LORD gives me." So the officials of Moab stayed with Balaam. 9 God came to Balaam and asked, "Who are these men staying with you?" 10 Balaam said to God, "Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab, has sent me this message: 11 'A people has come out of Egypt, and they cover the face of the land. Come now and curse them for me; then I may be able to fight them and drive them out.'" 12 But God said to Balaam, "Do not go with them. You must not curse the people, because they are blessed." 13 In the morning Balaam got up and said to Balak's officials, "Go back to your own country, for the LORD has refused to let me go with you." 14 So the officials of Moab got up, went back to Balak, and said, "Balaam refused to come with us." 15 Balak sent officials again, more numerous and more distinguished than the first. 16 They came to Balaam and said to him, "This is what Balak son of Zippor says: 'Please do not let anything keep you from coming to me. 17 I will reward you very richly and do whatever you tell me. Only come and curse this people for me.'" 18 Balaam answered Balak's servants, "Even if Balak gave me his house full of silver and gold, I could not do anything, small or great, that goes beyond the word of the LORD my God. 19 Now you too, please stay here tonight, so I may find out what else the LORD will tell me." 20 That night God came to Balaam and said to him, "If the men have come to summon you, get up and go with them. But you must do only what I tell you." 21 So Balaam got up in the morning, saddled his donkey, and set off with the officials of Moab. 22 But God's anger burned because he was going, and the angel of the LORD stationed himself in the road to oppose him. Balaam was riding on his donkey, and his two servants were with him. 23 When the donkey saw the angel of the LORD standing in the road with a drawn sword in his hand, she turned off the road into the field, and Balaam beat the donkey to get her back onto the road. 24 Then the angel of the LORD stood in a narrow lane between vineyards, with a wall on either side. 25 When the donkey saw the angel of the LORD, she squeezed against the wall and crushed Balaam's foot against it, so he beat her again. 26 The angel of the LORD moved on ahead and stood in a narrow spot where there was no room to turn either right or left. 27 When the donkey saw the angel of the LORD, she lay down under Balaam. Balaam's anger burned, and he beat the donkey with his staff. 28 Then the LORD opened the donkey's mouth, and she said to Balaam, "What have I done to you that you have beaten me these three times?" 29 Balaam answered the donkey, "Because you have made a fool of me! If I had a sword in my hand, I would kill you right now!" 30 The donkey said to Balaam, "Am I not your donkey, which you have ridden all your life up to this day? Have I ever been in the habit of treating you this way?" "No," he said. [31] Then the LORD opened Balaam's eyes, and he saw the angel of the LORD standing in the road with a drawn sword in his hand. He bowed and fell face down. [32] The angel of the LORD said to him, "Why have you beaten your donkey these three times? It is I who have come out to oppose you, because your way is reckless before me. [*] [33] The donkey saw me and turned away from me these three times. Had she not turned away from me, I would surely have killed you by now and spared her." [34] Balaam said to the angel of the LORD, "I have sinned. I did not know you were standing in the road to meet me. Now, if this displeases you, I will turn back." [35] The angel of the LORD said to Balaam, "Go with the men, but say only what I tell you." So Balaam went along with Balak's officials. [36] When Balak heard that Balaam was coming, he went out to meet him at Ir-moab, on the Arnon border at the farthest point of his territory. [37] Balak said to Balaam, "Did I not send for you urgently? Why didn't you come to me? Am I really unable to reward you?" [38] Balaam answered Balak, "Well, I have come to you now. But can I say just anything? I must speak only the word God puts in my mouth." [39] Balaam went with Balak, and they came to Kiriath-huzoth. [40] Balak sacrificed cattle and sheep and sent to Balaam and to the officials who were with him. [41] The next morning Balak took Balaam up to Bamoth-baal, and from there he could see the outer edge of the people.

CHAPTER 23

[1] Balaam said to Balak, "Build me seven altars here, and get ready for me seven bulls and seven rams here." [2] Balak did what Balaam asked, and Balak and Balaam offered a bull and a ram on each altar. [3] Then Balaam said to Balak, "Stay here beside your burnt offering while I go off. Perhaps the LORD will come to meet me. Whatever he reveals to me I will tell you." And he went off to a barren height. [4] God met Balaam, and Balaam said to him, "I have set up the seven altars and offered a bull and a ram on each altar." [5] The LORD put a message in Balaam's mouth and said, "Go back to Balak and say this." [6] So he went back to him, and found him standing beside his burnt offering with all the officials of Moab. [7] Then Balaam uttered his discourse: "Balak has brought me from Aram, the king of Moab from the eastern mountains: 'Come, put a curse on Jacob for me; come, denounce Israel!' [] [8] How can I curse those God has not cursed? How can I denounce those the LORD has not denounced? [9] From the top of the crags I see him; from the hills I watch him. Here is a people that lives apart and does not reckon itself among the nations. [10] Who can count the dust of Jacob or number the fourth part of Israel? May I die the death of the upright, and may my end be like theirs!" [] [11] Balak said to Balaam, "What have you done to me? I brought you to curse my enemies, and instead you have done nothing but bless them!" [12] He answered, "Must I not be careful to say what the LORD puts in my mouth?" [13] Balak said to him, "Come with me, please, to another place where you can see them. You will see only the outer edge of them, not all of them. Curse them for me from there." [14] So he took him to the field of Zophim on the summit of Pisgah, built seven altars, and offered a bull and a ram on each altar. [15] Balaam said to Balak, "Stay here beside your burnt offering while I meet the LORD over there." [16] The LORD met Balaam, put a message in his mouth, and said, "Go back to Balak and say this." [17] He went to him and found him standing beside his burnt offering with the officials of Moab. Balak asked him, "What did the LORD say?" [18] Then Balaam uttered his discourse: "Get up, Balak, and listen; hear me, son of Zippor. [19] God is not a man, that he would lie, nor a son of man, that he would change his mind. Does he speak and then not act? Does he promise and not fulfill it? [20] See, I was told to bless; he has blessed, and I cannot reverse it. [21] He has not looked on iniquity in Jacob, nor seen trouble in Israel. The LORD his God is with him; the shout of a king is among them. [22] God brought them out of Egypt; he has strength like the horns of the wild ox. [] [23] There is no omen against Jacob, no divination against Israel. Now it will be said of Jacob and of Israel, 'See what God has done!' [] [24] Look, a people that rises up like a lioness and raises itself like a lion; it does not lie down until it devours its prey and drinks the blood of the slain." [25] Balak said to Balaam, "Then neither curse them at all nor bless them at all!" [26] Balaam answered Balak, "Didn't I tell you, 'Whatever the LORD says, that is what I must do'?" [27] Balak said to Balaam, "Come, please, let me take you to another place. Perhaps God will be pleased to let you curse them for me from there." [28] So Balak took Balaam to the summit of Peor, which overlooks Jeshimon. [29] Balaam said to Balak, "Build me seven altars here, and get ready for me seven bulls and seven rams here." [30] Balak did what Balaam asked and offered a bull and a ram on each altar.

CHAPTER 24

[1] When Balaam saw that it was good in the LORD's eyes to bless Israel, he did not go off as he had the other times to seek omens, but turned his face toward the wilderness. [2] Balaam looked up and saw Israel encamped tribe by tribe, and the Spirit of God came on him. [3] He uttered his discourse: "The word of Balaam son of Beor, the word of the man whose eye is opened, [] [4] the word of one who hears the sayings of God, who sees a vision from the Almighty, who falls down with his eyes uncovered: [5] How fine are your tents, Jacob, your dwellings, Israel! [6] Like valleys they spread out, like gardens by a river, like aloes the LORD has planted, like cedars beside the waters. [7] Water will flow from his buckets, and his seed will be by abundant waters. His king will be greater than Agag, and his kingdom will be lifted high. [8] God brought him out of Egypt; he has strength like the horns of the wild ox. He will devour the nations that oppose him, crush their bones, and pierce them with his arrows. [] [9] He crouched and lay down like a lion, like a lioness—who dares rouse him? Blessed be those who bless you, and cursed be those who curse you!" [10] Balak's anger burned against Balaam, and he clapped his hands together. Balak said to Balaam, "I summoned you to curse my enemies, and look, you have blessed them all three times! [11] Now run off home! I said I would reward you richly, but see, the LORD has kept you from being rewarded." [12] Balaam said to Balak, "Didn't I tell the messengers you sent me, [13] 'Even if Balak gave me his house full of silver and gold, I could not go beyond the word of the LORD to do good or bad of my own accord; what the LORD says, that is what I will say'? [14] Now I am going back to my people. Come, let me advise you of what this people will do to your people in the days to come." [15] He uttered his discourse: "The word of Balaam son of Beor, the word of the man whose eye is opened, [16] the word of one who hears the sayings of God and knows what the Most High knows, who sees a vision from the Almighty, who falls down with his eyes uncovered: [17] I see him, though not now; I look at him, though not close at hand. A star will march out from Jacob, and a scepter will rise from Israel. It will smash the temples of Moab's head and tear down all the sons of Sheth.* [18] Edom will become a conquered land; Seir, his enemies, will become a conquered land, while Israel acts with strength. [19] One from Jacob will rule and wipe out the survivors of the city." [20] Then he looked at Amalek and uttered his discourse: "Amalek was first among the nations, but his end will be destruction forever." [21] He looked at the Kenites and uttered his discourse: "Your dwelling is secure, and your nest is set in the rock; [22] yet Kain will be burned away. How long before Asshur carries you off captive?"* [23] Then he uttered his discourse: "Ah, who can survive when God brings this about? [24] Ships will come from the coast of Kittim; they will humble Asshur and humble Eber, but he too will perish forever." [25] Then Balaam got up and went back home, and Balak also went his way.

CHAPTER 25

[1] While Israel was living at Shittim, the people began to commit sexual immorality with the women of Moab,* [2] who invited the people to the sacrifices to their gods. The people ate and bowed down to their gods. [3] So Israel attached itself to Baal of Peor, and the LORD's anger burned against Israel. [4] The LORD said to Moses, "Take all the leaders of the people and hang them before the LORD in broad daylight, so that the LORD's burning anger may turn away from Israel."* [5] So Moses said to Israel's judges, "Each of you must kill those of his men who have attached themselves to Baal of Peor." [6] Just then one of the children of Israel came and brought a Midianite woman to his relatives, before the eyes of Moses and the whole congregation of the children of Israel, while they were weeping at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [7] When Phinehas son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, saw this, he got up from the congregation, took a spear in his hand, [8] followed the man of Israel into the chamber, and drove the spear through both of them, through the man of Israel and through the woman's belly. Then the plague on the children of Israel was halted.* [9] Twenty-four thousand had died in the plague. [10] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [11] "Phinehas son of Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, has turned my wrath away from the children of Israel by being zealous among them with my zeal, so that I did not wipe out the children of Israel in my zeal. [12] So tell him that I am granting him my covenant of peace. [13] It will be for him and his descendants after him a covenant of lasting priesthood, because he was zealous for his God and made atonement for the children of Israel." [14] The name of the man of Israel who was struck down with the Midianite woman was Zimri son of Salu, chief of a father's house of the Simeonites. [15] The name of the Midianite woman who was struck down was Cozbi daughter of Zur, who was the head of the clans of a father's house in Midian. [16] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [17] "Treat the Midianites as enemies and strike them, [18] because they treated you as enemies by the tricks they used to deceive you in the matter of Peor and in the matter of their sister Cozbi, the daughter of a Midianite chief, who was struck down on the day of the plague that came because of Peor."

CHAPTER 26

[1] After the plague the LORD said to Moses and to Eleazar son of Aaron the priest, [2] "Count the heads of the whole congregation of the children of Israel, from twenty years old and above, by the house of their fathers—everyone in Israel who goes out to war." [3] So Moses and Eleazar the priest spoke with them in the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho, saying, [4] "Count those twenty years old and above, as the LORD commanded Moses." The children of Israel who came out of the land of Egypt were these: [5] Reuben, Israel's firstborn. The descendants of Reuben: from Hanoch, the Hanochite clan; from Pallu, the Palluite clan; [6] from Hezron, the Hezronite clan; from Carmi, the Carmite clan. [7] These were the Reubenite clans; their registered men came to forty-three thousand seven hundred and thirty. [8] Pallu's son was Eliab, [9] and Eliab's sons were Nemuel, Dathan, and Abiram. This was the same Dathan and Abiram, men called to the congregation, who struggled against Moses and Aaron in Korah's band when it struggled against the LORD. [10] The earth opened its mouth and swallowed them along with Korah when that band died, when the fire consumed the two hundred and fifty men; and they became a warning. [11] The sons of Korah, however, did not die. [12] The descendants of Simeon by their clans: from Nemuel, the Nemuelite clan; from Jamin, the Jaminite clan; from Jachin, the Jachinite clan; [13] from Zerah, the Zerahite clan; from Shaul, the Shaulite clan. [14] These were the Simeonite clans: twenty-two thousand two hundred. [15] The descendants of Gad by their clans: from Zephon, the Zephonite clan; from Haggi, the Haggite clan; from Shuni, the Shunite clan; [16] from Ozni, the Oznite clan; from Eri, the Erite clan; [17] from Arod, the Arodite clan; from Areli, the Arelite clan. [18] These were the clans of the descendants of Gad; their registered men came to forty thousand five hundred. [19] Judah's sons were Er and Onan, but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan. [20] The descendants of Judah by their clans were: from Shelah, the Shelanite clan; from Perez, the Perezite clan; from Zerah, the Zerahite clan. [21] The descendants of Perez were: from Hezron, the Hezronite clan; from Hamul, the Hamulite clan. [22] These were the clans of Judah; their registered men came to seventy-six thousand five hundred. [23] The descendants of Issachar by their clans: from Tola, the Tolaite clan; from Puvah, the Punite clan;

[24] from Jashub, the Jashubite clan; from Shimron, the Shimronite clan. [25] These were the clans of Issachar; their registered men came to sixty-four thousand three hundred. [26] The descendants of Zebulun by their clans: from Sered, the Seredite clan; from Elon, the Elonite clan; from Jahleel, the Jahleelite clan. [27] These were the Zebulunite clans; their registered men came to sixty thousand five hundred. [28] The descendants of Joseph by their clans: Manasseh and Ephraim. [29] The descendants of Manasseh: from Machir, the Machirite clan (Machir was the father of Gilead); from Gilead, the Gileadite clan. [30] These were the descendants of Gilead: from Iezer, the Iezerite clan; from Helek, the Helekite clan; [31] from Asriel, the Asrielite clan; from Shechem, the Shechemite clan; [32] from Shemida, the Shemidaite clan; from Hepher, the Hepherite clan. [33] Zelophehad son of Hepher had no sons, only daughters; the names of Zelophehad's daughters were Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. [34] These were the clans of Manasseh; their registered men came to fifty-two thousand seven hundred. [35] These were the descendants of Ephraim by their clans: from Shuthelah, the Shuthelahite clan; from Becher, the Becherite clan; from Tahan, the Tahanite clan. [36] And these were the descendants of Shuthelah: from Eran, the Eranite clan. [37] These were the clans of the descendants of Ephraim; their registered men came to thirty-two thousand five hundred. Those were the descendants of Joseph by their clans. [38] The descendants of Benjamin by their clans: from Bela, the Belaite clan; from Ashbel, the Ashbelite clan; from Ahiram, the Ahiramite clan; [39] from Shephupham, the Shuphamite clan; from Hupham, the Huphamite clan.* [40] The sons of Bela were Ard and Naaman: from Ard, the Ardite clan; from Naaman, the Naamite clan. [41] These were the descendants of Benjamin by their clans; their registered men came to forty-five thousand six hundred. [42] These were the descendants of Dan by their clans: from Shuham, the Shuhamite clan. Those were the clans of Dan, clan by clan. [43] All the Shuhamite clans, as registered, came to sixty-four thousand four hundred. [44] The descendants of Asher by their clans: from Imnah, the Imnite clan; from Ishvi, the Ishvite clan; from Beriah, the Beriite clan. [45] Of the descendants of Beriah: from Heber, the Heberite clan; from Malchiel, the Malchielite clan. [46] Asher's daughter was named Serah. [47] These were the clans of the descendants of Asher; their registered men came to fifty-three thousand four hundred. [48] The descendants of Naphtali by their clans: from Jahzeel, the Jahzeelite clan; from Guni, the Gunite clan; [49] from Jezer, the Jezerite clan; from Shillem, the Shillemite clan. [50] These were the clans of Naphtali by their clans; their registered men came to forty-five thousand four hundred. [51] The registered men of the children of Israel came to six hundred and one thousand seven hundred and thirty. [52] The LORD said to Moses, [53] "The land is to be distributed among these as an inheritance, according to the number of names. [54] To a large group give a large inheritance, and to a small group a small one; each is to be given its inheritance in proportion to its registered men. [55] But the land is to be distributed by lot; they will inherit by the names of their fathers' tribes. [56] Each inheritance is to be distributed by lot between the larger and the smaller groups." [57] These were the registered men of the Levites by their clans: from Gershon, the Gershonite clan; from Kohath, the Kohathite clan; from Merari, the Merarite clan. [58] These were the Levite clans: the Libnite clan, the Hebronite clan, the Mahlite clan, the Mushite clan, and the Korahite clan. Kohath was the father of Amram. [59] Amram's wife was named Jochebed, a daughter of Levi who was born to Levi in Egypt. She bore Amram Aaron, Moses, and their sister Miriam. [60] Aaron became the father of Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. [61] Nadab and Abihu died when they brought strange fire before the LORD. [62] Their registered men, every male a month old and above, came to twenty-three thousand. They had not been registered among the children of Israel, because no inheritance was given to them among the children of Israel. [63] These were the men registered by Moses and Eleazar the priest when they registered the children of Israel in the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho. [64] Among them there was not one man of those registered by Moses and Aaron the priest when they registered the children of Israel in the wilderness of Sinai. [65] For the LORD had said of them that they would surely die in the wilderness. Not one of them was left except Caleb son of Jephunneh and Joshua son of Nun.

CHAPTER 27

[1] The daughters of Zelophehad came forward. Zelophehad was the son of Hepher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, of the clans of Manasseh son of Joseph; his daughters were named Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. [2] They stood before Moses, Eleazar the priest, the chiefs, and the whole congregation at the entrance of the tent of meeting and said, [3] "Our father died in the wilderness. He was not part of the band that joined together against the LORD in Korah's band; he died for his own sin, and he had no sons. [4] Why should our father's name disappear from his clan just because he had no son? Give us property among our father's brothers." [5] Moses brought their case before the LORD, [6] and the LORD said to Moses, [7] "What the daughters of Zelophehad say is right. You must give them property as an inheritance among their father's brothers and pass their father's inheritance on to them. [8] Tell the children of Israel: If a man dies and has no son, pass his inheritance on to his daughter. [9] If he has no daughter, give his inheritance to his brothers. [10] If he has no brothers, give his inheritance to his father's brothers. [11] If his father had no brothers, give his inheritance to the closest relative in his clan, and he is to take possession of it. This is to be a statute and ordinance for the children of Israel, as the LORD commanded Moses." [12] The LORD said to Moses, "Climb this mountain in the Abarim range and look at the land I have given to the children of Israel. [13] After you have seen it, you too will be gathered to your people, just as your brother Aaron was gathered, [14] because when the congregation quarreled in the wilderness of Zin, you both rebelled against my command to show my holiness before their eyes at the waters." (These were the waters of Meribah at Kadesh in the wilderness of Zin.) [15] Moses said to the LORD, [16] "May the LORD, the God of the spirits of all flesh, appoint a man over the congregation [17] to go out ahead of them and come in ahead of them, to lead them out and bring them in, so that the LORD's congregation will not be like sheep without a shepherd." [18] The LORD said to Moses, "Take Joshua son of Nun, a man in whom is the Spirit, and lay your hand on him.* [19] Have him stand before Eleazar the priest and the whole congregation, and give him his charge while they watch. [20] Confer some of your majesty on him, so that the whole congregation of the children of Israel will obey him. [21] He is to stand before Eleazar the priest, who will seek decisions for him by the Urim before the LORD. At his command they will go out and at his command they will come in, he and all the children of Israel with him, the whole congregation." [22] Moses did as the LORD had commanded him. He took Joshua, had him stand before Eleazar the priest and the whole congregation, [23] laid his hands on him, and gave him his charge, as the LORD had directed through Moses.

CHAPTER 28

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Give the children of Israel this command: Take care to present to me at its appointed time my offering, my food for my food offerings, a pleasing aroma to me.* [3] Tell them: This is the food offering you are to present to the LORD: two male lambs a year old without defect each day, as a continual burnt offering. [4] Offer one lamb in the morning and the other lamb between the two evenings, [5] together with a tenth of an ephah of fine flour as a grain offering, mixed with a quarter of a hin of oil from pressed olives. [6] This is the continual burnt offering instituted at Mount Sinai as a pleasing aroma, a food offering to the LORD. [7] Its drink offering is to be a quarter of a hin for each lamb; pour out the drink offering of strong drink to the LORD in the holy place. [8] Offer the other lamb between the two evenings, presenting it with the same grain offering and drink offering as in the morning, a food offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD. [9] "On the Sabbath day: two male lambs a year old without defect, with two tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering, and its drink offering. [10] This is the burnt offering for every Sabbath, in addition to the continual burnt offering and its drink offering. [11] "At the start of each month you are to present a burnt offering to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven male lambs a year old without defect, [12] with three tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering for each bull, two tenths of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering for the one ram, [13] and a tenth of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering for each lamb—a burnt offering, a pleasing aroma, a food offering to the LORD. [14] Their drink offerings are to be half a hin of wine for a bull, a third of a hin for the ram, and a quarter of a hin for a lamb. This is the monthly burnt offering for each month of the year. [15] Besides the continual burnt offering with its drink offering, one male goat is to be offered to the LORD as a sin offering. [16] "The fourteenth day of the first month is the LORD's Passover. [17] On the fifteenth day of that month there is to be a feast; for seven days unleavened bread is to be eaten. [18] The first day is a holy convocation; do no regular work. [19] Present a food offering, a burnt offering to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven male lambs a year old; see that they are without defect. [20] For their grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil, offer three tenths of an ephah for each bull and two tenths for the ram, [21] and a tenth for each of the seven lambs, [22] along with one male goat as a sin offering to make atonement for you. [23] Offer these in addition to the morning burnt offering, which is the continual burnt offering. [24] In the same way, offer each day for seven days the food of the food offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD; it is to be offered in addition to the continual burnt offering and its drink offering. [25] On the seventh day you are to hold a holy convocation; do no regular work. [26] "On the day of firstfruits, when you present to the LORD an offering of new grain at your Feast of Weeks, you are to hold a holy convocation; do no regular work. [27] Present a burnt offering as a pleasing aroma to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven male lambs a year old, [28] with their grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil: three tenths of an ephah for each bull, two tenths for the one ram, [29] and a tenth for each of the seven lambs, [30] and one male goat to make atonement for you. [31] Offer these, with their drink offerings, in addition to the continual burnt offering and its grain offering. See that they are without defect.

CHAPTER 29

[1] "On the first day of the seventh month you are to hold a holy convocation; do no regular work. It is a day of blowing the trumpets for you.* [2] Present a burnt offering as a pleasing aroma to the LORD: one young bull, one ram, and seven male lambs a year old without defect, [3] with their grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil: three tenths of an ephah for the bull, two tenths for the ram, [4] and one tenth for each of the seven lambs, [5] and one male goat as a sin offering to make atonement for you. [6] These are in addition to the burnt offering for the new moon with its grain offering, and the continual burnt offering with its grain offering, and their drink offerings as prescribed for them, a pleasing aroma, a food offering to the LORD. [7] "On the tenth day of this seventh month you are to hold a holy convocation and humble your souls; do no work at all. [8] Present to the LORD a burnt offering as a pleasing aroma: one young bull, one ram, and seven male lambs a year old; see that they are without defect. [9] For their grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil, offer three tenths of an ephah for the bull, two tenths for the one ram, [10] and a tenth for each of the seven lambs, [11] and one male goat as a sin offering, in addition to the sin offering of atonement, the continual burnt offering with its grain offering, and their drink offerings. [12] "On the fifteenth day of the seventh month you are to hold a holy convocation; do no regular work, and celebrate a feast to the LORD for seven days. [13] Present a burnt offering, a food offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD: thirteen young bulls, two rams, and fourteen male lambs a year old; they are to be without defect. [14] For their grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil, offer three tenths of an ephah for each of the thirteen bulls, two tenths for each of the two rams, [15] and a tenth for each of the fourteen lambs, [16] and one male goat as a sin offering, in addition to the continual burnt offering with its grain offering and its drink offering. [17] "On the second day: twelve young bulls, two rams, and fourteen male lambs a year old without defect, [18] with the grain offerings and drink offerings for the bulls, the rams, and the lambs, by their number, as prescribed, [19] and one male goat as a sin offering, in addition to the continual burnt offering with its grain offering and their drink offerings. [20] "On the third day: eleven bulls, two rams, and fourteen male lambs a year old without defect, [21] with the grain offerings and drink offerings for the bulls, the rams, and the lambs, by their number, as prescribed, [22] and one male goat as a sin offering, in addition to the continual burnt offering with its grain offering and its drink offering. [23] "On the fourth day: ten bulls, two rams, and fourteen male lambs a year old without defect, [24] with the grain offerings and drink offerings for the bulls, the rams, and the lambs, by their number, as prescribed, [25] and one male goat as a sin offering, in addition to the continual burnt offering with its grain offering and its drink offering. [26] "On the fifth day: nine bulls, two rams, and fourteen male lambs a year old without defect, [27] with the grain offerings and drink offerings for the bulls, the rams, and the lambs, by their number, as prescribed, [28] and one male goat as a sin offering, in addition to the continual burnt offering with its grain offering and its drink offering. [29] "On the sixth day: eight bulls, two rams, and fourteen male lambs a year old without defect, [30] with the grain offerings and drink offerings for the bulls, the rams, and the lambs, by their number, as prescribed, [31] and one male goat as a sin offering, in addition to the continual burnt offering with its grain offering and its drink offerings. [32] "On the seventh day: seven bulls, two rams, and fourteen male lambs a year old without defect, [33] with the grain offerings and drink offerings for the bulls, the rams, and the lambs, by their number, as prescribed for them, [34] and one male goat as a sin offering, in addition to the continual burnt offering with its grain offering and its drink offering. [35] "On the eighth day you are to hold a closing assembly; do no regular work. [36] Present a burnt offering, a food offering, a pleasing aroma to the LORD: one bull, one ram, and seven male lambs a year old without defect, [37] with the grain offerings and drink offerings for the bull, the ram, and the lambs, by their number, as prescribed, [38] and one male goat as a sin offering, in addition to the continual burnt offering with its grain offering and its drink offering. [39] "These you are to offer to the LORD at your appointed feasts, in addition to your vowed offerings and your freewill offerings, whether burnt offerings, grain offerings, drink offerings, or peace offerings." [40] Moses told the children of Israel everything the LORD had commanded him.*

CHAPTER 30

[1] Moses said to the heads of the tribes of the children of Israel, "This is what the LORD has commanded: [2] When a man makes a vow to the LORD or swears an oath that puts himself under an obligation, he must not break his word; he must carry out everything that has come from his mouth. [3] "When a woman makes a vow to the LORD and puts herself under an obligation while still young and living in her father's house, [4] and her father hears of her vow and the obligation she has taken on herself but keeps silent toward her, then every one of her vows stands, and every obligation she has taken on herself stands. [5] But if her father overrules her on the day he hears of it, none of her vows or obligations she has taken on herself will stand; the LORD will forgive her, because her father overruled her. [6] "If she marries while her vows are still on her, or a careless promise from her lips by which she bound herself, [7] and her husband hears of it but keeps silent toward her on the day he hears, then her vows stand, and the obligations she has taken on herself stand. [8] But if her husband overrules her on the day he hears of it, he cancels the vow that is on her and the careless promise from her lips by which she bound herself, and the LORD will forgive her. [9] "Every vow of a widow or of a divorced woman, every obligation she has taken on herself, will stand against her. [10] "If a woman living in her husband's house makes a vow or puts herself under an obligation by an oath, [11] and her husband hears of it but keeps silent toward her and does not overrule her, then all her vows stand, and every obligation she has taken on herself stands. [12] But if her husband plainly cancels them on the day he hears them, then nothing that came from her lips, whether her vows or the obligation on herself, will stand. Her husband has cancelled them, and the LORD will forgive her. [13] Her husband may confirm or cancel any vow and any sworn obligation to humble herself. [14] If her husband says nothing at all to her from one day to the next, he confirms all her vows and all the obligations that are on her; he has confirmed them by keeping silent toward her on the day he heard of them. [15] But if he cancels them some time after he has heard of them, he will bear her iniquity." [16] These are the statutes the LORD commanded Moses concerning a husband and his wife, and a father and his daughter while she is young and living in her father's house.

CHAPTER 31

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Take vengeance for the children of Israel on the Midianites. After that you will be gathered to your people." [3] So Moses said to the people, "Equip some of your men for war, to go against Midian and carry out the LORD's vengeance on Midian. [4] Send to the war a thousand from each tribe, from every tribe of Israel." [5] So from the thousands of Israel a thousand were supplied from each tribe, twelve thousand equipped for war. [6] Moses sent them to war, a thousand from each tribe, together with Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest, who took with him the holy utensils and the trumpets for sounding the signal. [7] They fought against Midian, as the LORD had commanded Moses, and killed every male. [8] Along with the rest of the slain they killed the kings of Midian—Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba, the five kings of Midian. They also put Balaam son of Beor to the sword. [9] The children of Israel took the women of Midian and their little ones captive and carried off as spoil all their cattle, all their flocks, and all their wealth. [10] They set fire to all the towns where they lived and all their encampments, [11] and took all the booty and all the spoil, both people and animals. [12] They brought the captives, the spoil, and the booty to Moses, to Eleazar the priest, and to the congregation of the children of Israel at the camp on the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho. [13] Moses, Eleazar the priest, and all the chiefs of the congregation went out to meet them outside the camp. [14] Moses was furious with the officers of the army, the commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds, who were returning from the campaign. [15] "Have you kept all the women alive?" Moses asked them. [16] "Why, these are the very ones who, on Balaam's advice, led the children of Israel to be unfaithful to the LORD in the matter of Peor, so that the plague struck the LORD's congregation. [17] So now kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman who has slept with a man. [18] But keep alive for yourselves all the girls who have not slept with a man. [19] As for you, stay outside the camp for seven days. Every one of you who has killed anyone or touched anyone slain must purify himself on the third day and on the seventh day, you and your captives. [20] Purify every garment, every article of leather, everything made of goats' hair, and every article of wood." [21] Eleazar the priest said to the soldiers who had gone into battle, "This is the statute of the law the LORD has commanded Moses: [22] the gold, the silver, the bronze, the iron, the tin, and the lead— [23] whatever can withstand fire—you must put through the fire, and it will be clean; but it must also be purified with the water for impurity. Whatever cannot withstand fire you must put through the water. [24] On the seventh day wash your clothes, and you will be clean; after that you may come into the camp." [25] The LORD said to Moses, [26] "You, Eleazar the priest, and the heads of the fathers' houses of the congregation are to count the spoil that was captured, both people and animals. [27] Divide the spoil in half between the fighting men who went out to battle and the rest of the congregation. [28] From the soldiers who went out to battle, set apart a levy for the LORD: one out of every five hundred, whether people, cattle, donkeys, or flocks. [29] Take it from their half and give it to Eleazar the priest as a contribution to the LORD. [30] From the half belonging to the children of Israel, take one out of every fifty, whether people, cattle, donkeys, or flocks—any of the animals—and give them to the Levites who have charge of the LORD's tabernacle." [31] Moses and Eleazar the priest did as the LORD had commanded Moses. [32] The spoil, what was left of the booty the soldiers had taken, came to six hundred and seventy-five thousand sheep, [33] seventy-two thousand cattle, [34] sixty-one thousand donkeys, [35] and thirty-two thousand people in all, women who had not slept with a man. [36] The half that was the share of those who had gone out to war came to three hundred and thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep, [37] of which the levy for the LORD was six hundred and seventy-five; [38] thirty-six thousand cattle, of which the levy for the LORD was seventy-two; [39] thirty thousand five hundred donkeys, of which the levy for the LORD was sixty-one; [40] and sixteen thousand people, of which the levy for the LORD was thirty-two people. [41] Moses gave the levy, the LORD's contribution, to Eleazar the priest, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [42] From the half belonging to the children of Israel, which Moses had set apart from that of the men who had fought— [43] the congregation's half came to three hundred and thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep, [44] thirty-six thousand cattle, [45] thirty thousand five hundred donkeys, [46] and sixteen thousand people— [47] from this half belonging to the children of Israel Moses took one out of every fifty, of people and of animals, and gave them to the Levites who had charge of the LORD's tabernacle, as the LORD had commanded Moses. [48] Then the officers over the thousands of the army, the commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds, came to Moses [49] and said to him, "Your servants have counted the soldiers under our command, and not one of us is missing. [50] So we have brought as an offering to the LORD what each man found—gold articles, armlets, bracelets, signet rings, earrings, and necklaces—to make atonement for ourselves before the LORD." [51] Moses and Eleazar the priest accepted the gold from them, all of it worked into articles. [52] All the gold of the contribution they set aside for the LORD from the commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds came to sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels. [53] (Each of the soldiers had taken spoil for himself.) [54] Moses and Eleazar the priest accepted the gold from the commanders of thousands and of hundreds and brought it into the tent of meeting as a memorial for the children of Israel before the LORD.

CHAPTER 32

[1] The descendants of Reuben and the descendants of Gad had a great deal of livestock, a very large amount. When they saw that the land of Jazer and the land of Gilead was good country for livestock, [2] the descendants of Gad and the descendants of Reuben came to Moses, Eleazar the priest, and the chiefs of the congregation and said, [3] "Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, Nimrah, Heshbon, Elealeh, Sebam, Nebo, and Beon— [4] the land the LORD struck down before the congregation of Israel—is a land for livestock, and your servants have livestock." [5] They went on, "If we have found favor with you, let this land be given to your servants as our property. Do not make us cross the Jordan." [6] Moses said to the descendants of Gad and of Reuben, "Are your brothers to go to war while you stay here? [7] Why would you turn the hearts of the children of Israel away from crossing into the land the LORD has given them? [8] That is what your fathers did when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea to look over the land. [9] They went up as far as the Valley of Eshcol and looked over the land, and then turned the hearts of the children of Israel away from entering the land the LORD had given them. [10] The LORD's anger burned that day, and he swore an oath: [11] 'Not one of the men who came up out of Egypt, twenty years old and above, will see the land I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, because they did not follow me wholeheartedly— [12] none except Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite and Joshua son of Nun, for they followed the LORD wholeheartedly.' [13] The LORD's anger burned against Israel, and he made them wander about in the wilderness forty years, until the whole generation that had done evil in the LORD's sight was gone. [14] And here you are, a brood of sinful men, rising up in your fathers' place to add even more to the LORD's burning anger against Israel! [*15] If you turn away from following him, he will once again leave them in the wilderness, and you will bring ruin on this whole people." [16] Then they came up to him and said, "We will build pens here for our flocks and towns for our little ones, [17] but we ourselves will arm and hurry ahead of the children of Israel until we have brought them to their place. Meanwhile our little ones will live in fortified towns, safe from the inhabitants of the land. [18] We will not go back to our homes until every one of the children of Israel has received his inheritance. [19] We will not take an inheritance with them across the Jordan and beyond, because our inheritance has fallen to us on this side of the Jordan, to the east." [20] Moses said to them, "If you do this—if you arm yourselves to go before the LORD into battle, [21] and all your armed men cross the Jordan before the LORD until he has driven his enemies out before him [22] and the land is brought under control before the LORD—then afterward you may return and be free of obligation to the LORD and to Israel, and this land will be your property before the LORD. [23] But if you do not do this, then you will have sinned against the LORD; and be sure your sin will catch up with you. [24] Build towns for your little ones and pens for your flocks, and do what you have promised." [25] The descendants of Gad and of Reuben said to Moses, "Your servants will do just as my lord commands. [26] Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our livestock will stay there in the towns of Gilead, [27] while your servants, every man armed for war, cross over before the LORD to battle, as my lord says." [28] So Moses gave orders about them to Eleazar the priest, to Joshua son of Nun, and to the heads of the fathers' houses of the tribes of the children of Israel. [29] Moses told them, "If the descendants of Gad and of Reuben, every man armed for battle, cross the Jordan with you before the LORD, and the land is brought under control before you, give them the land of Gilead as their property. [30] But if they do not cross over armed with you, they must receive property among you in the land of Canaan." [31] The descendants of Gad and of Reuben answered, "Your servants will do what the LORD has said to us. [32] We will cross over armed before the LORD into the land of Canaan, but the property we inherit will remain ours across the Jordan." [33] So Moses gave to the descendants of Gad, the descendants of Reuben, and the half-tribe of Manasseh son of Joseph the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites and the kingdom of Og king of Bashan—the land with its towns and their territories, the towns of the surrounding land. [34] The descendants of Gad rebuilt Dibon, Ataroth, Aroer, [35] Atroth-shophan, Jazer, Jogbehah, [36] Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran as fortified towns, and built pens for flocks. [37] The descendants of Reuben rebuilt Heshbon, Elealeh, Kiriathaim, [38] Nebo and Baal-meon (their names being changed), and Sibmah. They gave new names to the towns they rebuilt. [*39] The sons of Machir son of Manasseh went to Gilead, captured it, and drove out the Amorites who were there. [40] So Moses gave Gilead to Machir son of Manasseh, and he settled there. [41] Jair son of Manasseh went and captured their tent villages and named them Havvoth-jair. [*42] Nobah went and captured Kenath with its villages and named it Nobah after himself.

CHAPTER 33

[1] These are the stages of the journey of the children of Israel when they came out of the land of Egypt by their troops, led by Moses and Aaron. [2] At the LORD's command Moses recorded the places they set out from, stage by stage. These are their stages, by their starting points: [3] They set out from Rameses in the first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month. The day after the Passover the children of Israel marched out defiantly, in full view of all the Egyptians, [4] while the Egyptians were burying all their firstborn, whom the LORD had struck down among them; the LORD had also brought judgments on their gods. [5] So the children of Israel moved on from Rameses and encamped at Succoth. [6] They moved on from Succoth and encamped at Etham, at the edge of the wilderness. [7] They moved on from Etham, turned back to Pi-hahiroth, which faces Baal-zephon, and encamped near Migdol. [8] They moved on from before Hahiroth, crossed through the middle of the sea into the wilderness, traveled three days into the wilderness of Etham, and encamped at Marah. [9] They moved on from Marah and came to Elim, where there were twelve springs of water and seventy palm trees, and they encamped there. [10] They moved on from Elim and encamped by the Red Sea. [11] They moved on from the Red Sea and encamped in the wilderness of Sin. [12] They moved on from the wilderness of Sin and encamped at Dophkah. [13] They moved on from Dophkah and encamped at Alush. [14] They moved on from Alush and encamped at Rephidim, where the people had no water to drink. [15] They moved on from Rephidim and encamped in the wilderness of Sinai. [16] They moved on from the wilderness of Sinai and encamped at Kibroth-hattaavah. [17] They moved on from Kibroth-hattaavah and encamped at Hazeroth. [18] They moved on from Hazeroth and encamped at Rithmah. [19] They moved on from Rithmah and encamped at Rimmon-perez. [20] They moved on from Rimmon-perez and encamped at Libnah. [21] They moved on from Libnah and encamped at Rissah. [22] They moved on from Rissah and encamped at Kehelathah. [23] They moved on from Kehelathah and encamped at Mount Shepher. [24] They moved on from Mount Shepher and encamped at Haradah. [25] They moved on from Haradah and encamped at Makheloth. [26] They moved on from Makheloth and encamped at Tahath. [27] They moved on from Tahath and encamped at Terah. [28] They moved on from Terah and encamped at Mithkah. [29] They moved on from Mithkah and encamped at Hashmonah. [30] They moved on from Hashmonah and encamped at Moseroth. [31] They moved on from Moseroth and encamped at Bene-jaakan. [32] They moved on from Bene-jaakan and encamped at Hor-haggidgad. [33] They moved on from Hor-haggidgad and encamped at Jotbathah. [34] They moved on from Jotbathah and encamped at Abronah. [35] They moved on from Abronah and encamped at Ezion-geber. [36] They moved on from Ezion-geber and encamped in the wilderness of Zin, which is Kadesh. [37] They moved on from Kadesh and encamped at Mount Hor, at the border of the land of Edom. [38] At the LORD's command Aaron the priest went up Mount Hor, and there he died on the first day of the fifth month in the fortieth year after the children of Israel came out of the land of Egypt. [39] Aaron was a hundred and twenty-three years old when he died on Mount Hor. [40] The Canaanite king of Arad, who lived in the Negev in the land of Canaan, heard that the children of Israel were coming. [41] They moved on from Mount Hor and encamped at Zalmonah. [42] They moved on from Zalmonah and encamped at Punon. [43] They moved on from Punon and encamped at Oboth. [44] They moved on from Oboth and encamped at Iye-abarim, on the border of Moab. [45] They moved on from Iyim and encamped at Dibon-gad. [46] They moved on from Dibon-gad and encamped at Almon-diblathaim. [47] They moved on from Almon-diblathaim and encamped in the mountains of Abarim, facing Nebo. [48] They moved on from the mountains of Abarim and encamped in the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho. [49] Their camp along the Jordan in the plains of Moab stretched from Beth-jeshimoth to Abel-shittim. [50] In the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho, the LORD said to Moses, [51] "Tell the children of Israel: When you cross the Jordan into the land of Canaan, [52] you are to drive out all the inhabitants of the land before you. Destroy all their carved stones, destroy all their molten images, and tear down all their high places.* [53] Take possession of the land and settle in it, for I have given you the land to possess. [54] Distribute the land by lot as an inheritance among your clans. To a larger clan give a larger inheritance, and to a smaller clan a smaller one. Wherever the lot falls for anyone, that will be his. You are to inherit by the tribes of your fathers. [55] But if you do not drive out the inhabitants of the land before you, those you allow to remain will become splinters in your eyes and thorns in your sides; they will harass you in the land where you live. [56] And then I will do to you what I intended to do to them."

CHAPTER 34

[1] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [2] "Give the children of Israel this command: When you enter the land of Canaan—the land that is to fall to you as an inheritance, the land of Canaan with these boundaries— [3] your southern side will extend from the wilderness of Zin along the side of Edom. On the east your southern boundary will start from the end of the Salt Sea, [4] then turn south of the Scorpion Ascent, pass on to Zin, and end south of Kadesh-barnea. From there it will run to Hazar-addar and on to Azmon. [5] From Azmon the boundary will turn toward the Brook of Egypt and end at the sea. [6] "Your western boundary will be the Great Sea and its coastline; that will be your western boundary. [7] "This will be your northern boundary: from the Great Sea mark it out to Mount Hor, [8] and from Mount Hor mark it out to Lebo-hamath; the boundary will end at Zedad.* [9] From there the boundary will run on to Ziphron and end at Hazar-enan. That will be your northern boundary. [10] "For your eastern boundary, mark a line from Hazar-enan to Shepham. [11] The boundary will go down from Shepham to Riblah, east of Ain, and continue down until it meets the slope east of the Sea of Chinnereth. [12] Then the boundary will go down along the Jordan and end at the Salt Sea. This will be your land, with its boundaries on every side." [13] Moses gave the children of Israel this command: "This is the land you are to receive by lot as an inheritance, which the LORD has ordered to be given to the nine and a half tribes. [14] For the tribe of the descendants of Reuben and the tribe of the descendants of Gad, by the house of their fathers, and the half-tribe of Manasseh have already received their inheritance. [15] These two and a half tribes have received their inheritance across the Jordan from Jericho, eastward, toward the sunrise." [16] The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, [17] "These are the names of the men who are to apportion the land to you as an inheritance: Eleazar the priest and Joshua son of Nun. [18] Also take one chief from each tribe to apportion the land as an inheritance. [19] These are the names of the men: for the tribe of Judah, Caleb son of Jephunneh; [20] for the tribe of the descendants of Simeon, Shemuel son of Ammihud; [21] for the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad son of Chislon; [22] for the tribe of the descendants of Dan, a chief, Bukki son of Jogli; [23] for the descendants of Joseph: for the tribe of the descendants of Manasseh, a chief, Hanniel son of Ephod, [24] and for the tribe of the descendants of Ephraim, a chief, Kemuel son of Shiphtan; [25] for the tribe of the descendants of Zebulun, a chief, Elizaphan son of Parnach; [26] for the tribe of the descendants of Issachar, a chief, Paltiel son of Azzan; [27] for the tribe of the descendants of Asher, a chief, Ahihud son of Shelomi; [28] for the tribe of the descendants of Naphtali, a chief, Pedahel son of Ammihud." [29] These are the men the LORD commanded to apportion the inheritance to the children of Israel in the land of Canaan.

CHAPTER 35

[1] In the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho, the LORD said to Moses, [2] "Command the children of Israel to give the Levites towns to live in out of the inheritance they possess, and give the Levites pastureland around the towns as well. [3] The towns will be theirs to live in, and the pastureland will be for their cattle, their flocks, and all their other animals. [4] The pastureland around the towns that you give the Levites is to extend outward a thousand cubits from the town wall on every side. [5] Outside the town, measure two thousand cubits on the east side, two thousand on the south side, two thousand on the west side, and two thousand on the north side, with the town in the center. This will be the pastureland for their towns. [6] "Of the towns you give the Levites, six are to be towns of refuge, which you will provide so that a manslayer may flee there; besides these, give them forty-two towns. [7] In all you are to give the Levites forty-eight towns together with their pastureland. [8] The towns you give from the property of the children of Israel are to be taken in greater number from a larger tribe and in smaller number from a smaller one; each tribe is to give some of its towns to the Levites in proportion to the inheritance it receives."

9 The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, 10 "Tell the children of Israel: When you cross the Jordan into the land of Canaan, 11 choose towns to serve as towns of refuge for you, so that a manslayer who has killed someone without intent may flee there.
12 They will be places of refuge for you from the avenger, so that the manslayer does not die before he has stood trial before the congregation.* 13 The towns you provide will be your six towns of refuge. 14 Provide three towns across the Jordan and three towns in the land of Canaan as towns of refuge. 15 These six towns will be a refuge for the children of Israel and for the foreigner and the settler among them, so that anyone who kills someone without intent may flee there. 16 "But if someone strikes a person with an iron object so that he dies, he is a murderer; the murderer must be put to death.* 17 If he strikes him with a stone in his hand that could cause death, and he dies, he is a murderer; the murderer must be put to death. 18 Or if he strikes him with a wooden implement in his hand that could cause death, and he dies, he is a murderer; the murderer must be put to death. 19 The avenger of blood himself is to put the murderer to death; when he meets him, he is to put him to death.
20 If out of hatred someone shoves a person or deliberately throws something at him so that he dies, 21 or out of enmity strikes him with his hand so that he dies, the one who struck him must be put to death; he is a murderer. The avenger of blood is to put the murderer to death when he meets him. 22 "But if someone shoves a person suddenly without enmity, or throws some object at him without intent, 23 or, without seeing him, drops on him a stone that could cause death, and he dies—though he was not his enemy and did not intend to harm him— 24 then the congregation is to judge between the one who struck the blow and the avenger of blood according to these ordinances. 25 The congregation is to rescue the manslayer from the avenger of blood and send him back to the town of refuge he fled to. He is to live there until the death of the high priest who was anointed with the holy oil. 26 But if the manslayer ever goes outside the limits of the town of refuge he fled to, 27 and the avenger of blood finds him outside the limits of his town of refuge and kills the manslayer, the avenger will not be guilty of bloodshed. 28 The manslayer must stay in his town of refuge until the high priest dies; only after the high priest's death may he return to the land he owns. 29 "These are to be statutes and ordinances for you throughout your generations, wherever you live. 30 "If anyone kills a person, the murderer is to be put to death only on the testimony of witnesses; no one may be put to death on the testimony of a single witness. 31 Do not accept a ransom for the life of a murderer who deserves to die; he must be put to death. 32 Nor are you to accept a ransom for someone who has fled to his town of refuge, allowing him to return and live on his own land before the priest dies. 33 Do not pollute the land where you are. Blood pollutes the land, and atonement cannot be made for the land on account of blood shed on it, except by the blood of the one who shed it. 34 Do not defile the land where you live and in whose midst I dwell, for I, the LORD, dwell among the children of Israel."

CHAPTER 36

1 The heads of the fathers' houses of the clan of the descendants of Gilead son of Machir, son of Manasseh, of the clans of the descendants of Joseph, came forward and spoke before Moses and the chiefs, the heads of the fathers' houses of the children of Israel. 2 They said, "The LORD commanded my lord to give the land by lot to the children of Israel as an inheritance, and my lord was commanded by the LORD to give the inheritance of our brother Zelophehad to his daughters. 3 Now if they marry men from any of the other tribes of the children of Israel, their inheritance will be taken away from the inheritance of our fathers and added to that of the tribe they marry into; so it will be taken away from the inheritance allotted to us. 4 And when the children of Israel's jubilee comes, their inheritance will be added to the inheritance of the tribe they marry into and taken away from the inheritance of our fathers' tribe." 5 So at the word of the LORD Moses commanded the children of Israel: "What the tribe of the descendants of Joseph says is right. 6 This is what the LORD commands concerning Zelophehad's daughters: They may marry anyone they please, as long as they marry within a clan of their father's tribe. 7 No inheritance of the children of Israel is to pass from tribe to tribe, for each of the children of Israel is to keep the inheritance of his fathers' tribe. 8 Every daughter who inherits property in any tribe of the children of Israel must marry someone from a clan of her father's tribe, so that each of the children of Israel may possess the inheritance of his fathers. 9 No inheritance is to pass from one tribe to another, for each tribe of the children of Israel is to keep its own inheritance." 10 Zelophehad's daughters did as the LORD had commanded Moses. 11 Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, married sons of their father's brothers. 12 They married into the clans of the descendants of Manasseh son of Joseph, and their inheritance remained in the tribe of their father's clan. 13 These are the commandments and ordinances the LORD gave the children of Israel through Moses in the plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho.

CHAPTER 1

[1] These are the words Moses spoke to all Israel on the other side of the Jordan, in the wilderness, in the Arabah facing Suph, between Paran on one side and Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth, and Dizahab on the other.[*] [2] From Horeb to Kadesh-barnea by the Mount Seir road is an eleven days' journey. [3] In the fortieth year, on the first day of the eleventh month, Moses spoke to the children of Israel all that the LORD had commanded him to tell them, [4] after he had defeated Sihon king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon, and Og king of Bashan, who lived in Ashtaroth, at Edrei. [5] On the other side of the Jordan, in the land of Moab, Moses set about expounding this law. He said: [6] "The LORD our God spoke to us at Horeb and said, 'You have remained at this mountain long enough. [7] Turn and break camp.
Go to the hill country of the Amorites and to all the places near it: the Arabah, the hill country, the Shephelah, the Negev, and the coast of the sea, the land of the Canaanites, and the Lebanon, as far as the great river, the Euphrates. [8] See, I have put the land in front of you. Go in and possess the land the LORD swore to give to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and to their descendants after them.' [9] "At that same time I told you, 'I cannot carry you alone. [10] The LORD your God has increased your numbers, and now you are as many as the stars in the sky. [11]
May the LORD, the God of your fathers, increase you a thousand times more than you are now, and bless you just as he told you! [12] How can I carry on my own the load of you, your burdens, and your quarrels? [13] From each of your tribes pick out men who are wise, discerning, and well known, and I will set them over you as leaders.' [14] You replied to me, 'What you have proposed is a good thing to do.' [15] So I took the leading men of your tribes, wise and well-known men, and placed them over you as leaders: captains of thousands, captains of hundreds, captains of fifties, captains of tens, and officials throughout your tribes. [16]
At that time I gave your judges this charge: 'Listen to the disputes between your countrymen, and judge fairly between a man and his countryman or the sojourner living with him. [17] Do not be partial when you judge; give the same hearing to the lowly and the great. Do not fear any man, because judgment belongs to God. Any case too difficult for you, bring to me, and I will hear it.' [18] At that time I commanded you everything you were to do.
[19] "Then we left Horeb and traveled through all that vast and fearful wilderness you saw, on the way to the hill country of the Amorites, as the LORD our God had commanded us, and we reached Kadesh-barnea. [20] I said to you, 'You have reached the hill country of the Amorites, which the LORD our God is giving to us. [21] Look, the LORD your God has placed the land in front of you. Go up and take it over, as the LORD, the God of your fathers, told you. Do not be afraid or discouraged.' [22] But all of you came to me and said, 'Let us send men ahead of us to scout out the land for us and report back to us about the route we should take and the cities we will come to.' [23] The idea pleased me, so I chose twelve of your men, one from each tribe. [24] They set off, went up into the hill country, came to the Valley of Eshcol, and scouted it. [25] They took some of the land's fruit with them and brought it down to us. Their report was, 'The land the LORD our God is giving us is good.' [26] "But you refused to go up; you rebelled against the command of the LORD your God.
[27] You grumbled in your tents and said, 'The LORD hates us.
That is why he brought us out of Egypt: to hand us over to the Amorites to wipe us out. [28] Where can we go up? Our brothers have made us lose heart by saying, "The people there are bigger and taller than we are, the cities are large, with walls up to the sky, and we even saw the descendants of the Anakim there."' [29] I told you, 'Do not be terrified; do not be afraid of them. [30] The LORD your God, who goes ahead of you, will fight for you himself, just as you saw him do for you in Egypt [31] and in the wilderness. There you saw how the LORD your God carried you, as a man carries his son, all along the road you traveled until you arrived at this place.' [32] Even so, in this matter you did not trust the LORD your God, [33] who went ahead of you on the road to find you places to camp, in fire by night and in the cloud by day, to show you the way you should go. [34] "When the LORD heard what you said, he was angry and took an oath: [35]
'Not one man of this wicked generation will see the good land I swore to give to your fathers, [36] except Caleb son of Jephunneh.
He will see it, and I will give him and his sons the land he walked on, because he followed the LORD fully.' [37] Because of you the LORD was angry with me too, and said, 'You also will not enter
it. [38] Joshua son of Nun, who attends you, will enter it.
Strengthen him, because he will lead Israel to inherit it. [39] And your little ones, who you said would become plunder, and your children, who do not yet know good from evil, will enter it. I will give it to them, and they will possess it. [40] But you, turn around and head into the wilderness toward the Red Sea.' [41] "Then you replied, 'We have sinned against the LORD. We will go up and fight, just as the LORD our God commanded us.' Each of you put on his weapons, thinking it a simple matter to go up into the hill country. [42] But the LORD told me, 'Tell them: Do not go up and do not fight, because I am not among you, or you will be beaten by your enemies.' [43] I told you this, but you would not listen. You rebelled against the LORD's command and in your arrogance went up into the hill country. [44] The Amorites living in that hill country came out to meet you; they chased you as bees do and crushed you in Seir, all the way to Hormah. [45] You came back and wept before the LORD, but the LORD paid no attention to your cries and would not listen to you. [46] And so you stayed in Kadesh many days, for as long as you stayed there.

CHAPTER 2

[1] "Then we turned back and headed into the wilderness toward the Red Sea, as the LORD had told me, and for many days we circled around the hill country of Seir. [2] Then the LORD spoke to me: [3] 'You have circled this hill country long enough. Turn north. [4] Give the people this command: "You are going to pass through the territory of your relatives, the descendants of Esau, who live in Seir. They will be afraid of you, so be very careful. [5]
Do not start a fight with them, for I will not give you any of their land, not so much as a place to set your foot. I have given the hill country of Seir to Esau as his possession. [6] Pay them silver for the food you eat, and pay them silver for the water you drink. [7] The LORD your God has blessed you in everything you have done.
He has watched over your journey through this vast wilderness.
For these forty years the LORD your God has been with you, and you have not been in need of anything."' [8] "So we went on past our relatives, the descendants of Esau who live in Seir, leaving the Arabah road that comes up from Elath and Ezion-geber, and we turned and went along the road to the wilderness of Moab. [9] The LORD told me, 'Do not harass the Moabites or go to war with them, for I will not give you any of their land as a possession. I have given Ar to the descendants of Lot as their possession.' [10] (The Emim used to live there, a people as strong, numerous, and tall as the Anakim. [11] Like the Anakim, they too were reckoned among the Rephaim, but the Moabites called them Emim. [12] The Horites also used to live in Seir, but the descendants of Esau drove them out, wiped them out before them, and settled in their place, just as Israel did in the land the LORD gave them as their possession.) [13] 'Now get up and cross the Zered Valley.' So we crossed the Zered Valley. [14] From the time we left Kadesh-barnea until we crossed the Zered Valley, thirty-eight years passed, until the whole generation of fighting men had died out of the camp, as the LORD had sworn to them.
[15] The LORD's hand was against them, to rid the camp of them, until they were all gone. [16] "When the last of the fighting men among the people had died, [17] the LORD spoke to me: [18] 'Today you are to go past Ar, through the territory of Moab. [19] When you come close to the Ammonites, do not harass them or start a fight with them, for I will not give you any of the Ammonites' land as a possession. I have given it to the descendants of Lot as their possession.' [20] (That too was reckoned as a land of the Rephaim. The Rephaim used to live there, but the Ammonites called them Zamzummim, [21] a people as strong, numerous, and tall as the Anakim. The LORD wiped them out before the Ammonites, who drove them out and settled in their place, [22] as he had done for the descendants of Esau who live in Seir, when he wiped out the Horites before them. They drove them out and have lived in their place to this day. [23] And as for the Avvim, who lived in villages as far as Gaza, the Caphtorim, who came from Caphtor, wiped them out and settled in their place.) [24] 'Get up, break camp, and cross the Arnon Valley. Look, I have handed over to you Sihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon, and his land.
Start taking it over; engage him in battle. [25] Starting today I will put the terror and fear of you on all the peoples under heaven.
They will hear reports of you and will tremble and writhe in anguish because of you.' [26] "So from the wilderness of Kedemoth I sent messengers to Sihon king of Heshbon with an offer of peace: [27] 'Let me pass through your land. I will keep strictly to the road and will not turn off to the right or to the left. [28] Sell me food for silver so I can eat, and sell me water for silver so I can drink. Only let me pass through on foot, [29] as the descendants of Esau who live in Seir and the Moabites who live in Ar have done for me, until I cross the Jordan into the land the LORD our God is giving us.' [30] But Sihon king of Heshbon was not willing to let us pass through his land, for the LORD your God made his spirit stubborn and his heart hard, in order to hand him over to you, as he has now done. [31] The LORD said to me, 'See, I have begun to hand Sihon and his land over to you. Start taking possession, so that his land will be yours.' [32] When Sihon and all his people came out to fight us at Jahaz, [33] the LORD our God handed him over to us, and we defeated him, his sons, and all his people. [34] At that time we captured all his cities and devoted to destruction every city, men, women, and children. We did not leave a single survivor.* [35] We kept only the livestock and the plunder from the cities we had captured. [36] From Aroer, on the rim of the Arnon Valley, and the city in the valley itself, all the way to Gilead, no town was too strong for us. The LORD our God handed them all over to us. [37] But you did not go near the land of the Ammonites, the whole length of the Jabbok River, or the cities of the hill country, or any place the LORD our God had told us not to.*

CHAPTER 3

[1] "Next we turned and went up along the road to Bashan, and Og king of Bashan came out with all his people to meet us in battle at Edrei. [2] The LORD said to me, 'Do not be afraid of him, for I am handing him over to you, with all his people and his land. Do to him what you did to Sihon king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon.' [3] So the LORD our God handed over to us Og king of Bashan as well, with all his people, and we struck him down until not one of his people was left alive. [4] At that time we captured all his cities; there was not one town we did not take from them: sixty cities, the whole region of Argob, Og's kingdom in Bashan. [5] All of these were cities fortified with high walls, gates, and bars, not counting a great many unwalled towns. [6] We devoted them to destruction, as we had done to Sihon king of Heshbon, devoting to destruction every city, men, women, and children. [7] But we kept for ourselves all the livestock and the plunder from the cities. [8] So at that time we took from the two kings of the Amorites the land on the other side of the Jordan, from the Arnon Valley to Mount Hermon. [9] (The Sidonians call Hermon Sirion, and the Amorites call it Senir.) [10]
We took all the cities of the plateau, all Gilead, and all Bashan as far as Salecah and Edrei, the cities of Og's kingdom in Bashan. [11] (Og king of Bashan was the only one left of the remnant of the Rephaim. His bed was made of iron. Is it not still in Rabbah of the Ammonites? It is nine cubits long and four cubits wide, by the standard cubit.)* [12] "Of the land we took possession of at that time, I gave the Reubenites and the Gadites the territory from Aroer on the Arnon Valley, together with half the hill country of Gilead and its cities. [13] The rest of Gilead and all of Bashan, the kingdom of Og, I gave to the half-tribe of Manasseh. (The whole region of Argob, all that part of Bashan, is called the land of the Rephaim. [14] Jair son of Manasseh took the whole region of Argob as far as the border of the Geshurites and the Maacathites, and he named those villages of Bashan after himself, Havvoth-jair, as they are called to this day.) [15] To Machir I gave Gilead. [16] To the Reubenites and the Gadites I gave the land from Gilead down to the Arnon Valley, with the middle of the valley as the boundary, and up to the Jabbok River, which is the border of the Ammonites, [17] as well as the Arabah, with the Jordan as its boundary, from Chinnereth to the Sea of the Arabah, the Salt Sea, below the slopes of Pisgah on the east. [18] "At that time I gave you this command: 'The LORD your God has given you this land to possess. All your fighting men must cross over armed ahead of your brothers, the children of Israel. [19] But your wives, your little ones, and your livestock (I know you have a great deal of livestock) may stay in the towns I have given you [20] until the LORD gives your brothers rest as he has given you, and they too take possession of the land the LORD your God is giving them on the other side of the Jordan. After that each of you may go back to the possession I have given you.' [21] At that time I also commanded Joshua: 'You have seen with your own eyes everything the LORD your God has done to these two kings. The LORD will do the same to all the kingdoms you are going to cross over into. [22] Do not be afraid of them, for the LORD your God is the one who fights for you.' [23] "At that time I begged the LORD for mercy: [24] 'Lord GOD, you have begun to show your servant your greatness and your strong hand. What god is there in heaven or on earth who can do works and mighty deeds like yours? [25] Please let me cross over and see the good land on the other side of the Jordan, that fine hill country, and the Lebanon.' [26] But the LORD was furious with me because of you and would not listen to me. The LORD said to me, 'That is enough! Do not speak to me about this matter any more. [27] Go up to the top of Pisgah and look west and north and south and east. Look at the land with your own eyes, for you will not cross this Jordan. [28] Commission Joshua, and encourage and strengthen him, for he will cross over at the head of this people and will lead them to inherit the land you will see.' [29] So we stayed in the valley facing Beth-peor.

CHAPTER 4

[1] "Now, Israel, listen to the statutes and rules I am teaching you to carry out, so that you may live and go in and take over the land the LORD, the God of your fathers, is giving you. [2] Do not add anything to what I command you, and do not take anything away from it, so that you keep the commandments of the LORD your God that I am giving you. [3] You saw with your own eyes what the LORD did at Baal-peor: the LORD your God wiped out from among you everyone who went after the Baal of Peor. [4] But all of you who clung to the LORD your God are alive today. [5] Look, I have taught you statutes and rules just as the LORD my God commanded me, so that you will live by them in the land you are about to enter and possess. [6] Keep them and carry them out, for this will show your wisdom and discernment to the peoples. When they hear about all these statutes, they will say, 'This great nation is indeed a wise and discerning people!' [7] What great nation has a god as near to it as the LORD our God is to us whenever we call on him? [8] And what great nation has statutes and rules as just as this whole law I am setting before you today? [9] "Only be on your guard and watch yourselves closely, so that you do not forget what your eyes have seen or let it slip from your heart as long as you live. Make them known to your children and grandchildren, [10] telling of the day you stood before the LORD your God at Horeb, when the LORD said to me, 'Gather the people to me so I can let them hear my words, that they may learn to fear me as long as they live on the earth, and may teach their children.' [11] You came near and stood at the foot of the mountain while it blazed with fire up into the very heart of the sky, amid darkness, cloud, and deep gloom. [12] Then the LORD spoke to you from the middle of the fire. You heard the sound of words, but you saw no form; there was only a voice. [13] He proclaimed to you his covenant, the Ten Words, which he commanded you to keep, and he wrote them on two stone tablets.* [14] At that time the LORD commanded me to teach you statutes and rules for you to carry out in the land you are crossing over to possess. [15] "So be very careful for your own lives. Since you saw no form of any kind on the day the LORD spoke to you at Horeb from the middle of the fire, [16] do not corrupt yourselves by making for yourselves a carved image in the shape of any figure, whether made like a man or a woman, [17] or like any animal on the earth, or any winged bird that flies in the sky, [18] or any creature that crawls on the ground, or any fish in the waters beneath the earth. [19] And when you look up to the sky and see the sun, the moon, and the stars, the whole host of heaven, do not be led astray into bowing down to them and serving them. The LORD your God has allotted them to all the peoples under the whole heaven. [20] But you are the ones the LORD has taken and brought out of the iron furnace, out of Egypt, to be the people of his inheritance, as you are today. [21] "The LORD was angry with me because of you, and he swore that I would not cross the Jordan or enter the good land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance. [22] I am going to die in this land; I will not cross the Jordan. But you are going to cross over and take possession of that good land. [23] Watch yourselves, so that you do not forget the covenant the LORD your God made with you and make yourselves a carved image in the shape of anything the LORD your God has forbidden. [24] For the LORD your God is a devouring fire, a jealous God. [25] "After you have had children and grandchildren and have lived in the land a long time, if you then corrupt yourselves and make a carved image in the shape of anything, doing evil in the sight of the LORD your God and provoking him to anger, [26] I call heaven and earth as witnesses against you today that you will quickly perish from the land you are crossing the Jordan to possess. You will not live there long; you will be completely destroyed. [27] The LORD will scatter you among the peoples, and only a few of you will survive among the nations to which the LORD will drive you. [28] There you will serve gods made by human hands, gods of wood and stone, which cannot see or hear or eat or smell. [29] But from there you will seek the LORD your God, and you will find him if you look for him with all your heart and with all your soul. [30] When you are in distress and all these things have happened to you, in the last days you will return to the LORD your God and listen to his voice. [31] For the LORD your God is a compassionate God; he will not abandon you or destroy you or forget the covenant he swore to your fathers. [32] "Just ask about the former days, the days before your time, from the day God created man on the earth; ask from one end of the heavens to the other: has anything as great as this ever happened, or has anything like it ever been heard of? [33] Has any people heard the voice of God speaking from the middle of fire, as you have, and lived? [34] Or has any god ever tried to go and take a nation for himself out of another nation, by trials, signs, and wonders, by war, by a strong hand and an outstretched arm, and by great terrors, as the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your very eyes? [35] You were shown these things so that you would know that the LORD is God; there is no other besides him. [36] From heaven he made you hear his voice to instruct you, and on earth he showed you his great fire, and you heard his words from the middle of the fire. [37] Because he loved your fathers, he chose their descendants after them, and he himself brought you out of Egypt by his great power, [38] to drive out before you nations greater and stronger than you, and to bring you in and give you their land as an inheritance, as it is today. [39] So know today, and take it to heart, that the LORD is God in heaven above and on the earth below; there is no other. [40] Keep his statutes and commandments that I am giving you today, so that it will go well with you and your children after you, and so that you may live long in the land the LORD your God is giving you for all time." [41] Then Moses set aside three cities on the other side of the Jordan, toward the sunrise, [42] so that anyone who killed his neighbor by accident, without having hated him before, could flee there. He could flee to one of these cities and save his life. [43] They were Bezer in the wilderness, on the plateau, for the Reubenites; Ramoth in Gilead for the Gadites; and Golan in Bashan for the Manassites. [44] This is the law Moses set before the children of Israel. [45] These are the testimonies, the statutes, and the rules Moses gave the children of Israel after they came out of Egypt, [46] on the other side of the Jordan, in the valley facing Beth-peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon. Moses and the children of Israel defeated him after they came out of Egypt, [47] and they took possession of his land and the land of Og king of Bashan, the two kings of the Amorites on the other side of the Jordan, toward the sunrise, [48] from Aroer on the rim of the Arnon Valley as far as Mount Sion, that is, Hermon, [49] together with all the Arabah east of the Jordan, as far as the Sea of the Arabah, below the slopes of Pisgah.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Moses called all Israel together and said to them: "Hear, Israel, the statutes and rules I am speaking in your hearing today. Learn them and be careful to carry them out. [2] The LORD our God made a covenant with us at Horeb. [3] It was not with our fathers that the LORD made this covenant, but with us, all of us who are here alive today. [4] The LORD spoke with you face to face on the mountain, from the middle of the fire. [5] At that time I was standing between the LORD and you to report to you the word of the LORD, because you were afraid of the fire and did not go up the mountain. He said: [6] "'I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slaves. [7] "'You shall have no other gods before me. [8] "'You shall not make for yourself a carved image, any likeness of anything in the heavens above, on the earth below, or in the waters under the earth. [9] You shall not bow down to them or serve them, for I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God. I punish the iniquity of the fathers on the children, to the third and fourth generation of those who hate me, [10] but I show steadfast love to thousands of those who love me and keep my commandments. [11] "'You shall not take the name of the LORD your God in vain, for the LORD will not leave unpunished anyone who takes his name in vain. [12] "'Keep the Sabbath day and make it holy, as the LORD your God has commanded you. [13] For six days you are to labor and do all your work, [14] but the seventh day is a Sabbath to the LORD your God. On it you shall do no work at all: not you, nor your son or your daughter, nor your male or female servant, nor your ox or your donkey or any of your animals, nor the sojourner who lives within your gates, so that your male and female servants may rest as you do. [15] Remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt and that the LORD your God brought you out of there with a strong hand and an outstretched arm. That is why the LORD your God has commanded you to keep the Sabbath day. [16] "'Honor your father and your mother, as the LORD your God has commanded you, so that you may live long and that it may go well with you in the land the LORD your God is giving you. [17] "'You shall not murder. [18] "'You shall not commit adultery. [19] "'You shall not steal. [20] "'You shall not give false testimony against your neighbor. [21] "'You shall not covet your neighbor's wife. You shall not crave your neighbor's house, his field, his male or female servant, his ox or his donkey, or anything that belongs to your neighbor.'[*] [22] "These are the words the LORD spoke with a loud voice to your whole assembly on the mountain from the middle of the fire, the cloud, and the deep darkness, and he added nothing more. He wrote them on two stone tablets and gave them to me. [23] When you heard the voice from the middle of the darkness while the mountain was ablaze with fire, all the heads of your tribes and your elders came to me [24] and said, 'The LORD our God has shown us his glory and his greatness, and we have heard his voice from the middle of the fire. Today we have seen that God may speak with man and man may still live. [25] But now, why should we die? This great fire will consume us. If we hear the voice of the LORD our God any longer, we will die. [26] For what mortal has ever heard the voice of the living God speaking from the middle of fire, as we have, and lived? [27] You go near and listen to everything the LORD our God says. Then tell us everything the LORD our God tells you, and we will listen and do it.' [28] "The LORD heard what you said when you spoke to me, and the LORD said to me, 'I have heard what this people said to you. Everything they have said is good. [29] If only they always had such a heart to fear me and keep all my commandments, so that it might go well with them and their children forever! [30] Go and tell them to return to their tents. [31] But you stay here with me, and I will tell you all the commandment, the statutes and the rules, that you are to teach them, so that they may carry them out in the land I am giving them to possess.' [32] So be careful to do what the LORD your God has commanded you; do not turn aside to the right or to the left. [33] Walk in all the way the LORD your God has commanded you, so that you may live and prosper and have long life in the land you are going to possess.

[1] "This is the commandment, the statutes and the rules, that the LORD your God commanded me to teach you to carry out in the land you are crossing over to possess, [2] so that you, your son, and your grandson may fear the LORD your God all the days of your life by keeping all his statutes and commandments that I am giving you, and so that you may live long. [3] Listen, Israel, and be careful to do them, so that it may go well with you and you may increase greatly in a land flowing with milk and honey, just as the LORD, the God of your fathers, promised you. [4] "Hear, Israel: the LORD our God, the LORD is one.* [5] You shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your strength. [6] These words I am commanding you today are to be on your heart. [7] Repeat them to your children. Talk about them when you are sitting at home and when you are out on the road, when you lie down and when you get up. [8] Tie them as a sign on your hand, and let them be as a band between your eyes. [9] Write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates. [10] "The LORD your God will bring you into the land he swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give you, a land with large, fine cities you did not build, [11] houses full of all kinds of good things you did not provide, wells dug that you did not dig, and vineyards and olive trees you did not plant. When you eat and are satisfied, [12] be careful not to forget the LORD, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slaves. [13] Fear the LORD your God, serve him, and swear by his name. [14] Do not follow other gods, any of the gods of the peoples around you, [15] for the LORD your God, who is among you, is a jealous God. Otherwise the anger of the LORD your God will flare up against you, and he will wipe you off the face of the land. [16] "Do not put the LORD your God to the test as you tested him at Massah. [17] Be sure to keep the commandments of the LORD your God, and the testimonies and statutes he has commanded you. [18] Do what is right and good in the LORD's eyes, so that it may go well with you and you may go in and take possession of the good land the LORD swore to give your fathers, [19] driving out all your enemies before you, as the LORD has said. [20] "In the future, when your son asks you, 'What is the meaning of the testimonies, the statutes, and the rules the LORD our God has commanded you?' [21] tell him, 'We were Pharaoh's slaves in Egypt, and the LORD brought us out of Egypt with a strong hand. [22] Before our eyes the LORD sent great and terrible signs and wonders on Egypt, on Pharaoh, and on all his household. [23] But he brought us out from there to bring us in and give us the land he swore to our fathers. [24] The LORD commanded us to carry out all these statutes and to fear the LORD our God, for our own good always, so that he might keep us alive, as we are today. [25] And it will be righteousness for us if we are careful to carry out this whole commandment before the LORD our God, as he has commanded us.'

CHAPTER 7

[1] "The LORD your God will bring you into the land you are going to enter and possess, and he will drive out many nations ahead of you: the Hittites, the Girgashites, the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites, seven nations larger and stronger than you. [2] When the LORD your God hands them over to you and you defeat them, you must utterly devote them to destruction. Make no covenant with them and show them no favor. [3] Do not intermarry with them. Do not give your daughters to their sons or take their daughters for your sons, [4] for they would turn your sons away from following me to serve other gods. Then the LORD's anger would blaze against you, and he would quickly destroy you. [5] Instead, this is what you are to do to them: tear down their altars, shatter their sacred pillars, cut down their Asherim, and burn their carved images in the fire.* [6] "For you are a people holy to the LORD your God. Out of all the peoples on the face of the earth, the LORD your God has chosen you to be his own special people. [7] The LORD did not set his heart on you and choose you because you outnumbered all other peoples, for you were the smallest of all peoples. [8] It was because the LORD loved you and was keeping the oath he swore to your fathers that the LORD brought you out with a strong hand and redeemed you from the house of slaves, from the power of Pharaoh king of Egypt. [9] So know that the LORD your God is God, the faithful God, who keeps his covenant and his steadfast love to a thousand generations of those who love him and keep his commandments, [10] but who repays to their face those who hate him, destroying them. He does not hesitate with the one who hates him; he repays him to his face. [11] So keep the commandment, the statutes and the rules I am giving you today, and carry them out. [12] "If you listen to these rules and are careful to carry them out, the LORD your God will keep with you the covenant and the steadfast love he swore to your fathers. [13] He will love you, bless you, and increase your numbers. He will bless the fruit of your womb and the fruit of your soil, your grain, your new wine, and your olive oil, the calves of your herds and the lambs of your flocks, in the land he swore to your fathers to give you. [14] You will be blessed more than any other people. No man or woman among you will be childless, and none of your livestock will be barren. [15] The LORD will keep all sickness away from you. He will not bring on you any of the dreadful diseases you knew in Egypt, but he will inflict them on all who hate you. [16] You must devour all the peoples the LORD your God is handing over to you. Do not look on them with pity, and do not serve their gods, for that would be a trap for you. [17] "You may say to yourself, 'These nations are greater than I am; how can I drive them out?' [18] But do not be afraid of them. Keep in mind what the LORD your God did to Pharaoh and to all Egypt: [19] the great trials you saw with your own eyes, the signs and wonders, the strong hand and outstretched arm by which the LORD your God brought you out. The LORD your God will do the same to all the peoples you fear. [20] The LORD your God will also send the hornet among them until even the survivors who hide from you have perished. [21] Do not tremble before them, for the LORD your God, who is among you, is a great and awesome God. [22] The LORD your God will drive out these nations before you little by little. You will not be allowed to wipe them out all at once, or the wild animals would become too many for you. [23] But the LORD your God will hand them over to you and will throw them into great panic until they are destroyed. [24] He will give their kings into your hand, and you will blot out their name from under heaven. No one will be able to stand up to you until you have destroyed them. [25] Burn the carved images of their gods in the fire. Do not covet the silver or gold on them, and do not take it for yourself, or you will be trapped by it, for it is an abomination to the LORD your God. [26] Do not bring an abomination into your house, or you, like it, will be devoted to destruction. Utterly loathe it and abhor it, for it is devoted to destruction.

CHAPTER 8

[1] "Be careful to carry out every commandment I am giving you today, so that you may live and increase and go in and possess the land the LORD swore to your fathers. [2] Remember the whole way the LORD your God has led you these forty years in the wilderness, to humble you and to test you, to know what was in your heart, whether or not you would keep his commandments. [3] He humbled you and let you go hungry, and then he fed you with manna, which neither you nor your fathers had known, to teach you that man does not live on bread alone, but that man lives on everything that comes from the mouth of the LORD. [*4] Your clothes did not wear out on you, and your feet did not swell, all these forty years. [5] Understand, then, in your heart that the LORD your God disciplines you just as a man disciplines his son. [6] So keep the commandments of the LORD your God, walking in his ways and fearing him. [7] For the LORD your God is bringing you into a good land, a land of streams of water, of springs and underground waters welling up in valleys and hills, [8] a land of wheat and barley, of vines, fig trees, and pomegranates, a land of olive oil and honey, [9] a land where you will eat bread without shortage and will lack nothing, a land whose rocks are iron and from whose hills you can mine copper. [10] When you have eaten and are satisfied, bless the LORD your God for the good land he has given you. [11] "Watch yourself, so that you do not forget the LORD your God by failing to keep his commandments, his rules, and his statutes that I am giving you today. [12] Otherwise, when you have eaten and are satisfied, when you have built fine houses and live in them, [13] when your herds and flocks have grown large, your silver and gold have increased, and everything you own has multiplied, [14] your heart will become proud and you will forget the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slaves. [15] He led you through the vast and fearful wilderness, with its venomous snakes and scorpions, a parched land with no water. He brought water out of the flint rock for you. [16] He fed you in the wilderness with manna that your fathers had never known, to humble you and test you, so that in the end he might do you good. [17] Otherwise you may say to yourself, 'My own strength and the power of my own hand have gained me this wealth.' [18] Remember the LORD your God, for it is he who gives you the strength to gain wealth, in order to confirm his covenant that he swore to your fathers, as it is today. [19] If you ever forget the LORD your God and follow other gods and serve them and bow down to them, I warn you today that you will surely perish. [20] Like the nations the LORD is destroying before you, so you will perish, because you would not listen to the voice of the LORD your God.

CHAPTER 9

[1] "Hear, Israel: today you are about to cross the Jordan to go in and drive out nations greater and stronger than you, with large cities fortified up to the sky, [2] a people big and tall, the descendants of the Anakim. You know about them, and you have heard it said, 'Who can stand up to the descendants of Anak?' [3] Understand today that the LORD your God is the one who crosses over ahead of you as a devouring fire. He will destroy them and bring them down before you, so that you will drive them out and wipe them out quickly, as the LORD has promised you. [4] "When the LORD your God has driven them out before you, do not say to yourself, 'The LORD has brought me in to possess this land because of my righteousness.' No, it is because of the wickedness of these nations that the LORD is driving them out before you. [5] It is not because of your righteousness or the uprightness of your heart that you are going in to possess their land. It is because of the wickedness of these nations that the LORD your God is driving them out before you, and in order to fulfill the word the LORD swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. [6] Understand, then, that it is not because of your righteousness that the LORD your God is giving you this good land to possess, for you are a stiff-necked people. [7] "Remember, and never forget, how you provoked the LORD your God to anger in the wilderness. From the day you left the land of Egypt until you arrived at this place, you have been rebellious against the LORD. [8] Even at Horeb you provoked the LORD to anger, and the LORD was so angry with you that he was ready to destroy you. [9] When I went up the mountain to receive the stone tablets, the tablets of the covenant the LORD had made with you, I stayed on the mountain forty days and forty nights; I ate no bread and drank no water. [10] The LORD gave me the two stone tablets written by the finger of God. On them were all the words the LORD had spoken to you on the mountain from the middle of the fire on the day of the assembly. [11] At the end of the forty days and forty nights the LORD gave me the two stone tablets, the tablets of the covenant. [12] Then the LORD said to me, 'Get up and go down from here at once, for your people whom you brought out of Egypt have acted corruptly. They have been quick to turn aside from the way I commanded them; they have made themselves a cast idol.' [13] The LORD also said to me, 'I have watched this people, and indeed they are a stiff-necked people. [14] Leave me alone, so that I may destroy them and blot out their name from under heaven. And I will make you into a nation stronger and more numerous than they are.' [15] "So I turned and came down from the mountain while it was burning with fire, with the two tablets of the covenant in my two hands. [16] And I looked and saw that you had sinned against the LORD your God. You had made yourselves a calf cast in metal. You had been quick to turn aside from the way the LORD had commanded you. [17] So I took hold of the two tablets, threw them from my hands, and smashed them before your eyes. [18] Then I fell down before the LORD as before, for forty days and forty nights; I ate no bread and drank no water, because of all the sin you had committed in doing evil in the LORD's eyes and provoking him to anger. [19] For I dreaded the anger and wrath with which the LORD was furious with you, ready to destroy you. But the LORD listened to me that time as well. [20] The LORD was very angry with Aaron too, ready to destroy him, and at that time I prayed for Aaron as well. [21] Then I took the sinful thing you had made, the calf, and burned it in the fire. I crushed it, grinding it thoroughly until it was as fine as dust, and threw the dust into the stream that flowed down the mountain. [22] "At Taberah, at Massah, and at Kibroth-hattaavah you also provoked the LORD to anger. [23] And when the LORD sent you from Kadesh-barnea and said, 'Go up and possess the land I have given you,' you rebelled against the command of the LORD your God. You did not trust him or listen to his voice. [24] You have been rebellious against the LORD from the day I first knew you. [25] "So I lay prostrate before the LORD for those forty days and forty nights, because the LORD had said he would destroy you. [26] I prayed to the LORD and said, 'Lord GOD, do not destroy your people, your own inheritance, whom you redeemed by your greatness and brought out of Egypt with a strong hand. [27] Remember your servants Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Do not look at the stubbornness of this people, their wickedness, or their sin, [28] or the land you brought us out of will say, "Because the LORD was not able to bring them into the land he had promised them, and because he hated them, he brought them out to kill them in the wilderness." [29] Yet they are your people, your inheritance, whom you brought out by your great power and your outstretched arm.'

CHAPTER 10

[1] "At that time the LORD said to me, 'Cut two stone tablets like the first ones and come up to me on the mountain. Also make yourself a wooden ark. [2] I will write on the tablets the words that were on the first tablets, which you smashed, and you are to put them in the ark.' [3] So I made an ark of acacia wood, cut two stone tablets like the first ones, and went up the mountain with the two tablets in my hand. [4] He wrote on the tablets, as he had written before, the Ten Words that the LORD had spoken to you on the mountain from the middle of the fire on the day of the assembly. And the LORD gave them to me. [5] Then I turned and came down from the mountain and put the tablets in the ark I had made, and they are still there, as the LORD commanded me. [6] (The children of Israel set out from Beeroth Bene-jaakan to Moserah. There Aaron died and was buried, and his son Eleazar served as priest in his place.* [7] From there they set out to Gudgodah, and from Gudgodah to Jotbathah, a land of flowing streams. [8] At that time the LORD set apart the tribe of Levi to carry the ark of the covenant of the LORD, to stand before the LORD to minister to him, and to bless in his name, as they do to this day. [9] That is why Levi has no share or inheritance with his brothers; the LORD is his inheritance, as the LORD your God told him.) [10] "I stayed on the mountain forty days and forty nights, as I had the first time, and the LORD listened to me that time also. The LORD was not willing to destroy you. [11] The LORD said to me, 'Get up and set out at the head of the people, so that they may go in and possess the land I swore to their fathers to give them.' [12] "And now, Israel, what does the LORD your God ask of you but to fear the LORD your God, to walk in all his ways, to love him, and to serve the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul, [13] and to keep the commandments and statutes of the LORD that I am giving you today for your own good? [14] See, the heavens, even the highest heavens, belong to the LORD your God, as do the earth and everything in it. [15] Yet the LORD set his heart on your fathers and loved them, and he chose you, their descendants after them, out of all the peoples, as it is today. [16] So circumcise the foreskin of your heart, and do not be stiff-necked any longer. [17] For the LORD your God is God of gods and Lord of lords, the great God, mighty and awesome, who shows no partiality and accepts no bribe. [18] He upholds the cause of the fatherless and the widow, and he loves the sojourner, giving him food and clothing. [19] So you too must love the sojourner, for you yourselves were sojourners in the land of Egypt. [20] Fear the LORD your God and serve him. Hold fast to him and swear by his name. [21] He is your praise, and he is your God, who did for you these great and awesome things you saw with your own eyes. [22] Your fathers went down to Egypt seventy persons in all, and now the LORD your God has made you as many as the stars in the sky.

CHAPTER 11

[1] "Love the LORD your God, and always keep what he requires of you: his statutes, his rules, and his commandments. [2]

Recognize today that it was not your children who experienced the discipline of the LORD your God; they did not know or see it. It was you who saw his greatness, his strong hand and his outstretched arm, [3] his signs and the deeds he did in Egypt against Pharaoh king of Egypt and against his whole land, [4] what he did to the army of Egypt, to its horses and its chariots, when he made the waters of the Red Sea flow over them as they were pursuing you, and the LORD destroyed them, as can be seen to this day; [5] what he did for you in the wilderness until you arrived at this place; [6] and what he did to Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab son of Reuben, when the earth opened its mouth in the middle of all Israel and swallowed them up with their households, their tents, and every living thing that belonged to them. [7] For it was your own eyes that saw every great work the LORD has done. [8] "So keep the whole commandment I am giving you today, so that you may be strong and go in and possess the land you are crossing over to possess, [9] and so that you may live long in the land the LORD swore to give to your fathers and to their descendants, a land flowing with milk and honey. [10] For the land you are going in to possess is not like the land of Egypt you came from, where you would plant your seed and water it by foot, like a vegetable garden. [11] The land you are crossing over to possess is a land of hills and valleys that drinks water from the rain of heaven, [12] a land the LORD your God cares for. The eyes of the LORD your God are on it continually, from the beginning of the year to its end. [13] "If you faithfully obey my commandments that I am giving you today, loving the LORD your God and serving him with all your heart and with all your soul, [14] I will send rain on your land in its season, the early rain and the late rain, and you will gather in your grain, your new wine, and your olive oil. [15] I will give grass in your fields for your livestock, and you will eat and be satisfied. [16] Watch yourselves, so that your hearts are not deceived and you turn aside to serve other gods and bow down to them. [17] Then the LORD's anger would blaze against you, and he would shut up the sky so that there is no rain and the ground yields no produce, and you would soon perish from the good land the LORD is giving you. [18] "So fix these words of mine in your heart and in your soul. Tie them as a sign on your hand, and let them be as a band between your eyes. [19] Teach them to your children, talking about them when you are sitting at home and when you are out on the road, when you lie down and when you get up. [20] Write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates, [21] so that your days and the days of your children may be many in the land the LORD swore to give to your fathers, as many as the days the heavens are above the earth. [22] For if you are careful to keep this whole commandment I am giving you to carry out, loving the LORD your God, walking in all his ways, and holding fast to him, [23] then the LORD will drive out all these nations ahead of you, and you will dispossess nations greater and stronger than you. [24] Every place where the sole of your foot treads will be yours. Your territory will extend from the wilderness to the Lebanon, and from the River, the Euphrates, to the western sea. [25] No one will be able to stand up to you. The LORD your God will put the fear and dread of you on all the land you set foot on, as he promised you. [26] "See, today I am setting before you a blessing and a curse: [27] the blessing, if you obey the commandments of the LORD your God that I am giving you today; [28] and the curse, if you do not obey the commandments of the LORD your God, but turn aside from the way I am commanding you today to follow other gods you have not known. [29] When the LORD your God brings you into the land you are going in to possess, you are to proclaim the blessing on Mount Gerizim and the curse on Mount Ebal. [30] Are they not on the other side of the Jordan, beyond the road toward the sunset, in the land of the Canaanites who live in the Arabah, facing Gilgal, beside the oaks of Moreh?[*] [31] For you are about to cross the Jordan to go in and possess the land the LORD your God is giving you. When you have taken possession of it and are living in it, [32] be careful to carry out all the statutes and rules I am setting before you today.

CHAPTER 12

[1] "These are the statutes and rules you must be careful to carry out in the land the LORD, the God of your fathers, has given you to possess, as long as you live on the earth. [2] You must completely destroy all the places where the nations you are dispossessing served their gods, on the high mountains, on the hills, and under every green tree. [3] Tear down their altars, shatter their sacred pillars, and burn their Asherim in the fire. Cut down the carved images of their gods and wipe out their names from that place. [4] You shall not treat the LORD your God in this way. [5] Instead, you are to seek the place the LORD your God will choose from among all your tribes to put his name there for his dwelling, and there you are to go. [6] There you are to bring your burnt offerings and your sacrifices, your tithes and the contribution of your hand, your vow offerings and your freewill offerings, and the firstborn of your herds and flocks. [7] There you and your households are to eat before the LORD your God and rejoice in all you have undertaken, because the LORD your God has blessed you. [8] "You must not do as we are doing here today, everyone doing whatever seems right in his own eyes, [9] for you have not yet come to the resting place and the inheritance the LORD your God is giving you. [10] But when you cross the Jordan and live in the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, and he gives you rest from all your enemies around you so that you live in safety, [11] then to the place the LORD your God will choose to make his name dwell, there you are to bring everything I command you: your burnt offerings and your sacrifices, your tithes and the contribution of your hand, and all the choice offerings you vow to the LORD. [12] And you are to rejoice before the LORD your God, you, your sons and daughters, your male and female servants, and the Levite within your gates, since he has no share or inheritance among you. [13] Be careful not to offer your burnt offerings in any place you happen to see. [14] Offer them only in the place the LORD will choose in one of your tribes, and there you are to do everything I command you. [15] "However, you may slaughter and eat meat in any of your towns as much as you desire, according to the blessing the LORD your God has given you. Both the unclean and the clean may eat it, as they would gazelle or deer. [16] But you must not eat the blood; pour it out on the ground like water. [17] Within your towns you may not eat the tithe of your grain, your new wine, or your olive oil, or the firstborn of your herds or flocks, or any of the offerings you vow, or your freewill offerings, or the contribution of your hand. [18] Instead, you are to eat them before the LORD your God in the place the LORD your God will choose, you, your son and daughter, your male and female servants, and the Levite within your gates. Rejoice before the LORD your God in all you have undertaken. [19] Be careful not to neglect the Levite as long as you live in your land. [20] "When the LORD your God enlarges your territory as he has promised you, and you say, 'I would like some meat,' because you crave meat, you may eat meat as much as you desire. [21] If the place the LORD your God chooses to put his name is too far from you, you may slaughter animals from the herds and flocks the LORD has given you, as I have commanded you, and you may eat as much as you desire within your towns. [22] Eat it as gazelle or deer is eaten; the unclean and the clean alike may eat it. [23] Only be firm about not eating the blood, for the blood is the life, and you must not eat the life with the meat. [24] Do not eat it; pour it out on the ground like water. [25] Do not eat it, so that it may go well with you and your children after you, because you will be doing what is right in the sight of the LORD. [26] But take your holy things and your vow offerings and go to the place the LORD will choose. [27] Present your burnt offerings, both the meat and the blood, on the altar of the LORD your God. The blood of your sacrifices is to be poured out on the altar of the LORD your God, but you may eat the meat. [28] Be careful to obey all these words I am commanding you, so that it may always go well with you and your children after you, because you will be doing what is good and right in the sight of the LORD your God. [29] "When the LORD your God cuts off before you the nations you are going in to dispossess, and you drive them out and live in their land, [30] be careful not to be lured into following them after they have been destroyed before you. Do not inquire about their gods, asking, 'How did these nations serve their gods? I will do the same.' [31] You shall not treat the LORD your God in this way, for they have done for their gods every abomination the LORD hates. They even burn their sons and daughters in the fire for their gods. [32] "Be careful to do everything I command you; do not add to it or take away from it.*

CHAPTER 13

[1] Suppose a prophet or someone who dreams dreams rises up among you and offers you a sign or a wonder,* [2] and the sign or wonder he told you about takes place, and he says, "Let us go after other gods," gods you have not known, "and let us serve them." [3] Do not listen to the words of that prophet or that dreamer of dreams, because the LORD your God is putting you to the test to find out whether you love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul. [4] It is the LORD your God you must follow, and him you must fear; his commandments you must keep, and his voice you must obey; him you must serve, and to him you must hold fast. [5] That prophet or that dreamer of dreams is to be put to death, for he has preached rebellion against the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt and redeemed you from the house of slaves; he has tried to drive you off the way the LORD your God commanded you to walk in. In this way you will purge the evil from your midst. [6] If your own brother, the son of your mother, or your son or daughter, or the wife you embrace, or the friend who is as dear to you as your own life, secretly entices you, saying, "Let us go and serve other gods," gods that neither you nor your fathers have known, [7] any of the gods of the peoples who surround you, whether near you or far off, from one end of the earth to the other, [8] do not give in to him and do not listen to him. Let your eye show him no pity; do not spare him and do not cover up for him. [9] You must certainly kill him. Your own hand is to be the first against him to put him to death, and afterward the hand of all the people. [10] Stone him to death with stones, because he tried to draw you away from the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slaves. [11] All Israel will hear of it and be afraid, and no one among you will ever again do such an evil thing. [12] Suppose you hear that in one of the cities the LORD your God is giving you to live in [13] some worthless men, sons of Belial, have gone out from among you and have drawn away the people of their city, saying, "Let us go and serve other gods," gods you have not known. [14] You are to inquire, search it out, and question carefully. If it proves true and certain that this detestable thing has been done among you, [15] you must strike the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword. Devote it to destruction, together with everything in it, and put its livestock to the sword. [16] Gather all its spoil into the middle of its open square and burn the city with all its spoil as a whole offering to the LORD your God. It is to remain a heap of ruins forever and is never to be built again.* [17] None of what is devoted must stick to your hand, so that the LORD may turn from the heat of his anger, show you mercy, have compassion on you, and multiply you, as he swore to your fathers, [18] when you obey the voice of the LORD your God, keeping all his commandments that I give you today and doing what is right in the sight of the LORD your God.

CHAPTER 14

[1] You are sons of the LORD your God. Do not cut yourselves or shave the front of your heads for the dead, [2] for you are a people holy to the LORD your God. Out of all the peoples on the face of the earth, the LORD has chosen you to be his own people, a treasure belonging to him. [3] Do not eat any detestable thing. [4] These are the animals you may eat: the ox, the sheep, and the goat; [5] the deer, the gazelle, the fallow deer, the wild goat, the addax, the oryx, and the wild sheep.* [6] You may eat any animal among the beasts that has a parted hoof, cleft into two, and that chews the cud. [7] Yet of those that chew the cud or have the hoof parted and cloven, these you must not eat: the camel, the hare, and the rock badger. Although they chew the cud, they do not part the hoof; they are unclean for you. [8] The pig too is unclean for you, because it parts the hoof but does not chew the cud. Do not eat their meat or touch their carcasses. [9] Of everything that lives in the water you may eat these: whatever has fins and scales. [10] Whatever lacks fins and scales you must not eat; it is unclean for you. [11] You may eat every clean bird. [12] These are the ones you are not to eat: the eagle, the lammergeier, the osprey, [13] the buzzard, the kite, and the falcon of any kind; [14] every kind of raven; [15] the ostrich, the screech owl, the gull, and every kind of hawk; [16] the little owl, the eared owl, the barn owl, [17] the desert owl, the vulture, the cormorant, [18] the stork, the heron of any kind, the hoopoe, and the bat. [19] All winged swarming creatures are unclean for you; they must not be eaten. [20] Every clean winged creature you may eat. [21] Do not eat anything that has died of itself. You may give it to the sojourner within your gates to eat, or you may sell it to a foreigner, for you are a people holy to the LORD your God. Do not boil a young goat in its mother's milk. [22] Every year you must be sure to tithe all the yield of your seed that comes from the field. [23] In the presence of the LORD your God, at the place where he chooses to make his name dwell, you are to eat the tithe of your grain, your new wine, and your oil, and the firstborn of your herds and flocks, so that you may learn to fear the LORD your God always. [24] But if the way is too long for you to carry it, because the place the LORD your God chooses to set his name is too distant from you, when the LORD your God blesses you, [25] then turn it into money, tie the money up in your hand, and go to the place the LORD your God chooses. [26] Spend the money on whatever you desire: cattle, sheep, wine, strong drink, or anything else you crave. Then eat there in the presence of the LORD your God and rejoice, you and your household. [27] And do not neglect the Levite within your gates, since he has no share or inheritance among you. [28] At the end of every three years, bring out the full tithe of that year's produce and store it within your gates, [29] so that the Levite, who has no share or inheritance among you, and the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow within your gates may come and eat their fill. Then the LORD your God will bless you in all the work your hand undertakes.

CHAPTER 15

[1] At the end of each seven years you are to make a release. [2] This is how the release works: every creditor is to release the loan he has made to his neighbor. He must not demand it from his neighbor, his brother, for a release to the LORD has been proclaimed.* [3] You may demand payment from a foreigner, but whatever your brother owes you, your hand must let go. [4] There should, however, be no poor person among you, because the LORD will richly bless you in the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance to possess, [5] if only you diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God and take care to carry out this whole commandment that I give you today. [6] The LORD your God will bless you just as he told you. You will lend to many nations and not borrow from them; you will rule many nations, and they will not rule you. [7] If among you there is a poor man, one of your brothers, in any of the towns in the land the LORD your God is giving you, do not harden your heart or close your hand to your brother in need. [8] Rather, open your hand to him generously and lend him whatever he needs, enough for what he lacks. [9] Watch yourself, so that no worthless thought enters your heart, such as, "The seventh year, the year of release, is close," and you look with an evil eye on your needy brother and give him nothing. He may cry to the LORD against you, and you will be guilty of sin. [10] Give to him freely, and do not let your heart be grieved when you give, for on account of this the LORD your God will bless you in all your work and in everything you undertake. [11] Since there will never be a lack of poor people in the land, I command you: open your hand wide to your brother, to the needy and the poor in your land. [12] If your brother, a Hebrew man or woman, is sold to you, he is to serve you six years, but in the seventh year you must set him free. [13] And when you set him free, do not send him away empty-handed. [14] Supply him liberally from your flock, your threshing floor, and your winepress. Give to him in proportion to how the LORD your God has blessed you. [15] Remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt and the LORD your God redeemed you. That is why I give you this command today. [16] But if he tells you, "I do not want to leave you," because he loves you and your household and is well off with you, [17] then take an awl and pierce it through his ear into the door, and he will be your servant for life. Do the same for your female servant. [18] Do not consider it a hardship to set him free, for his six years of service to you have been worth twice the wages of a hired worker. Then the LORD your God will bless you in everything you do.* [19] Set apart to the LORD your God every firstborn male born in your herd or flock. Do not put the firstborn of your ox to work, and do not shear the firstborn of your sheep. [20] Each year you and your household are to eat it in the presence of the LORD your God at the place the LORD chooses. [21] If it has a blemish, if it is lame or blind or has any serious flaw, do not sacrifice it to the LORD your God. [22] Eat it within your gates; the unclean person and the clean may eat it alike, as if it were a gazelle or a deer. [23] But you must not eat its blood; pour it out on the ground like water.

CHAPTER 16

[1] Keep the month of Abib and celebrate the Passover to the LORD your God, because it was in the month of Abib that the LORD your God brought you out of Egypt by night. [2] Sacrifice the Passover to the LORD your God from the flock or the herd, at the place the LORD will choose to make his name dwell. [3] Do not eat anything leavened with it. For seven days eat unleavened bread with it, the bread of affliction, because you left the land of Egypt in a hurry. Do this so that all the days of your life you will remember the day you came out of the land of Egypt. [4] For seven days no leaven is to be seen anywhere in your territory, and none of the meat you sacrifice in the evening of the first day may be left until morning. [5] You are not permitted to sacrifice the Passover in just any of the towns the LORD your God is giving you. [6] Only at the place the LORD your God will choose to make his name dwell are you to sacrifice the Passover, in the evening as the sun goes down, at the hour you came out of Egypt. [7] Cook it and eat it at the place the LORD your God will choose, and in the morning turn back and go home to your tents. [8] For six days eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day hold a solemn assembly for the LORD your God. Do no work on it. [9] Count off seven weeks; begin counting the seven weeks from the time you first put the sickle to the standing grain. [10] Then celebrate the Feast of Weeks to the LORD your God by bringing a freewill offering from your hand, in proportion to how the LORD your God blesses you. [11] Rejoice in the presence of the LORD your God at the place he will choose to make his name dwell, you, your son and daughter, your male and female servants, the Levite within your gates, and the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow in your midst. [12] Remember that you were a slave in Egypt, and take care to keep these statutes. [13] Celebrate the Feast of Booths for seven days, after you have gathered the yield of your threshing floor and your winepress. [14] Rejoice at your feast, you, your son and daughter, your male and female servants, and the Levite, the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow within your gates. [15] For seven days hold a feast for the LORD your God at the place the LORD will choose, because the LORD your God will bless you in all your harvest and in all the work of your hands, and you will be full of joy. [16] Three times a year every male among you is to appear before the LORD your God at the place he will choose: at the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the Feast of Weeks, and the Feast of Booths. No one is to appear before the LORD with empty hands. [17] Each of you is to give as he is able, in keeping with the blessing the LORD your God has given you. [18] Appoint judges and officials for your tribes in all the towns the LORD your God is giving you, and let them judge the people with just judgment. [19] Do not pervert justice or show partiality. Do not accept a bribe, because a bribe blinds the eyes of the wise and twists the words of the righteous. [20] Righteousness, nothing but righteousness, is what you are to pursue, so that you may live and take possession of the land the LORD your God is giving you. [21] Do not plant any kind of tree as an Asherah beside the altar you build for the LORD your God, [22] and do not set up a sacred pillar, which the LORD your God hates.

CHAPTER 17

[1] Do not sacrifice to the LORD your God an ox or a sheep with a blemish or any flaw, because that is detestable to the LORD your God. [2] Suppose there is found among you, in one of the towns the LORD your God is giving you, a man or woman doing what is evil in the sight of the LORD your God, breaking his covenant, [3] who has gone off to serve other gods and bow down to them, or to the sun or the moon or any of the host of heaven, which I did not command, [4] and you are told of it and hear about it. Then make a thorough inquiry, and if it turns out to be true and certain that this detestable thing has been done in Israel, [5] bring the man or woman who did this evil deed out to your gates, that man or that woman, and stone the person to death with stones. [6] The one who is to die is to be put to death on the word of two or three witnesses; no one is to be put to death on the word of a single witness. [7] The witnesses' hands are to be the first against him to put him to death, and after that the hands of all the people. In this way you will purge the evil from your midst. [8] If a case comes up within your gates that is too hard for you to decide, between blood and blood, between claim and claim, or between stroke and stroke, matters in dispute, then get up and go to the place the LORD your God will choose. [] [9] Go to the Levitical priests and to the judge who serves at that time. Inquire of them, and they will announce to you the decision in the case. [10] Act in keeping with the word they announce to you from the place the LORD will choose, and be careful to do everything they instruct you. [11] Do what the instruction they give you says and follow the ruling they declare to you. Do not swerve from the sentence they announce to you, either to the right or to the left. [12] Anyone who acts arrogantly and will not listen to the priest who stands to serve the LORD your God there, or to the judge, that man must die. In this way you will purge the evil from Israel. [13] All the people will hear of it and be afraid, and they will not act arrogantly again. [14] When you enter the land the LORD your God is giving you and have taken possession of it and settled in it, and you say, "Let me set a king over me like all the nations around me," [15] you may indeed set over yourself a king, the one the LORD your God chooses. He must be one of your own brothers; you may not place a foreigner over you, one who is not your brother. [16] But he must not acquire many horses for himself, nor send the people back to Egypt to get more horses, for the LORD has told you, "You must never go back that way again." [17] He must not take many wives for himself, or his heart will turn away; and he must not pile up great amounts of silver and gold for himself. [18] When he takes his seat on his royal throne, he is to write out for himself in a book a copy of this law, taken from the one in the keeping of the Levitical priests. [] [19] It is to remain with him, and he is to read from it every day of his life, so that he learns to fear the LORD his God and to keep all the words of this law and these statutes by carrying them out. [20] Then his heart will not be raised above his brothers, and he will not stray from the commandment to the right or the left, and he and his sons will reign long over his kingdom in Israel.

CHAPTER 18

[1] The Levitical priests, the whole tribe of Levi, are to have no share or inheritance with Israel. They are to live on the food offerings of the LORD, which are his inheritance. [] [2] They will have no inheritance among their brothers; the LORD himself is their inheritance, as he told them. [3] This is what is due to the priests from the people who offer a sacrifice, whether ox or sheep: the shoulder, the two cheeks, and the stomach are to be given to the priest. [4] Give him the firstfruits of your grain, your new wine, and your oil, and the first wool you shear from your sheep. [5] For the LORD your God has chosen him and his sons out of all your tribes to stand and serve in the name of the LORD for all time. [6] If a Levite moves from one of your towns anywhere in Israel where he is living, and comes because he earnestly desires to come to the place the LORD will choose, [7] he may serve in the name of the LORD his God like all his fellow Levites who stand there before the LORD. [8] They are to share alike in the food, besides what he receives from the sale of his patrimony. [] [9] When you enter the land the LORD your God is giving you, do not learn to imitate the detestable practices of those nations. [10] Let no one be found among you who makes his son or daughter pass through the fire, or who practices divination or fortune-telling, or interprets omens, or practices sorcery, [11] or casts spells, or consults a medium or a spiritist, or seeks answers from the dead. [*] [12] Everyone who does such things is detestable to the LORD, and it is because of these detestable practices that the LORD your God is driving those nations out before you. [13] You must be wholehearted with the LORD your God. [14] These nations you are about to dispossess pay attention to fortune-tellers and diviners, but as for you, the LORD your God has not allowed you to do this. [15] The LORD your God will raise up for you a prophet like me from your midst, from among your brothers. You must listen to him. [16] This is just what you asked of the LORD your God at Horeb on the day of the assembly, when you said, "Let me not hear the voice of the LORD my God again or see this great fire any more, or I will die." [17] Then the LORD said to me, "What they have said is good. [18] I will raise up for them from among their brothers a prophet like you. I will put my words in his mouth, and he will tell them everything I command him. [19] If anyone will not listen to my words that he speaks in my name, I myself will call him to account. [20] But a prophet who dares to speak in my name a word I have not commanded him to speak, or who speaks in the name of other gods, that prophet must die." [21] You may say in your heart, "How can we recognize a word that the LORD has not spoken?" [22] If what a prophet says in the name of the LORD does not take place or come true, that is a word the LORD has not spoken. The prophet has spoken it arrogantly; do not be afraid of him.

CHAPTER 19

[1] When the LORD your God has cut off the nations whose land he is giving you, and you have driven them out and settled in their towns and houses, [2] set apart three cities for yourself within the land the LORD your God is giving you to possess. [3] Build roads for yourself, and divide into three districts the land the LORD your God is giving you to inherit, so that anyone who kills a person can flee there. [4] This is the rule for the one who kills someone and flees there to save his life: he struck his neighbor unintentionally, without having hated him before. [5] For example, a man goes into the forest with his neighbor to cut wood, and as his hand swings the axe to fell a tree, the head flies off the handle and hits his neighbor, who dies. That man may flee to one of these cities and live. [6] Otherwise the avenger of blood, in the heat of his anger, might chase the killer, overtake him because the road is long, and strike him dead, though he did not deserve to die, since he had not hated his neighbor before. [*] [7] That is why I command you to set apart three cities for yourself. [8] If the LORD your God enlarges your borders as he swore to your fathers, and gives you the whole land he promised to give them, [9] provided you carefully keep this whole commandment I give you today, to love the LORD your God and to walk in his ways at all times, then add three more cities to these three. [10] In this way innocent blood will not be shed in the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, and you will not bear the guilt of bloodshed. [11] But if a man hates his neighbor, lies in wait for him, attacks him, and strikes him a fatal blow, and then flees to one of these cities, [12] the elders of his town are to send for him, have him brought back from there, and hand him over to the avenger of blood to die. [13] Show him no pity. You must purge from Israel the guilt of innocent blood, so that it may go well with you. [14] Do not move your neighbor's boundary marker, set up by those who came before, in the inheritance you will receive in the land the LORD your God is giving you to possess. [15] One witness is not enough to convict a man of any wrongdoing or any sin he may have committed. A charge must be established on the word of two or three witnesses. [16] If a hostile witness comes forward to accuse a man of a crime, [17] the two parties to the dispute are to stand before the LORD, in front of the priests and the judges who serve at that time. [18] The judges are to investigate thoroughly, and if the witness proves to be a lying witness who has accused his brother falsely, [19] do to him what he meant to do to his brother. In this way you will purge the evil from your midst. [20] The rest of the people will hear of it and be afraid, and such an evil thing will never again be done among you. [21] Show no pity: life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

CHAPTER 20

[1] When you go out to war against your enemies and see horses and chariots and an army larger than yours, do not be afraid of them, because the LORD your God, who brought you up from the land of Egypt, is with you. [2] As you approach the battle, the priest is to come forward and address the army. [3] He is to say to them, "Listen, Israel: today you are going into battle against your enemies. Do not lose heart. Do not be afraid, do not be alarmed, and do not be terrified by them, [4] for the LORD your God is the one who goes with you to fight your enemies for you and to save you." [5] Then the officials are to say to the army, "Has anyone built a new house and not yet dedicated it? Let him go back home, or he may die in the battle and someone else dedicate it. [6] Has anyone planted a vineyard and not begun to enjoy its fruit? Let him go back home, or he may die in the battle and someone else enjoy it. [] [7] Has anyone become engaged to a woman and not yet married her? Let him go back home, or he may die in the battle and someone else marry her." [8] The officials are to speak further to the army: "Is anyone afraid or fainthearted? Let him go back home, so that his brothers' hearts will not melt as his has." [9] When the officials have finished addressing the army, they are to appoint commanders of the troops to lead them. [10] When you come up to a city to attack it, first offer it terms of peace. [11] If it responds peaceably and opens its gates to you, then all the people in it are to become forced laborers for you and work for you. [12] If it refuses to make peace with you and fights against you, lay siege to it. [13] When the LORD your God delivers it into your hand, put all its males to the sword. [14] But the women, the children, the livestock, and everything else in the city, all its spoil, you may take as plunder for yourself. You may enjoy the spoil of your enemies that the LORD your God has given you. [15] That is how you are to treat all the cities that are a long way from you, those that do not belong to the nations here. [16] In the cities of these peoples that the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, however, do not leave anything alive that breathes. [17] You must devote them to destruction, the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites, as the LORD your God has commanded you, [18] so that they cannot teach you to practice all the detestable things they do for their gods, and you sin against the LORD your God. [19] When you besiege a city for a long time, fighting against it in order to take it, do not ruin its trees by taking an axe to them. You may eat their fruit, but do not cut them down. Is the tree of the field a man, that you should lay siege to it? [20] Only the trees you know do not bear food may you destroy and cut down, to build siege works against the city that is at war with you, until it falls.

CHAPTER 21

[1] Suppose a murdered man is found lying in a field in the land the LORD your God is giving you to possess, and no one knows who killed him. [2] Your elders and judges are to go out and measure the distance from the body to the surrounding towns. [3] Then the elders of the town closest to the body are to take a young cow from the herd that has never been put to work or worn a yoke. [4] The elders of that town are to lead the young cow down to a valley with a stream that never runs dry, where there has been no plowing or sowing, and there in the valley they are to break its neck. [5] The priests, the sons of Levi, are then to come forward, for the LORD your God has chosen them to serve him and to pronounce blessings in the name of the LORD, and every dispute and every case of assault is to be decided by their word. [6] All the elders of the town nearest the body are to wash their hands over the young cow whose neck was broken in the valley, [7] and they are to declare, "Our hands have not shed this blood, nor did our eyes witness it. [8] Grant atonement, O LORD, for your people Israel, whom you redeemed, and do not hold innocent blood against your people Israel." Then the bloodshed will be atoned for on their behalf. [9] In this way you will purge from your midst the guilt of innocent blood, for you will be doing what is right in the sight of the LORD. [10] When you go out to war against your enemies and the LORD your God hands them over to you and you carry them off as captives, [11] if you see among the captives a beautiful woman and are drawn to her, and you would take her as a wife for yourself, [12] bring her into your home. She is to shave her head and cut her nails, [13] take off the clothes she wore when captured, and live in your house, mourning her father and mother for a full month. After that you may go in to her and be her husband, and she will be your wife. [14] If you are no longer pleased with her, let her go wherever she likes. You must not sell her for money or treat her as a slave, since you have humiliated her. [15] If a man has two wives, one loved and the other unloved, and both have borne him sons, and the firstborn is the son of the unloved wife, [16] then when he divides his property among his sons as their inheritance, he must not give the rights of the firstborn to the son of the loved wife in place of the son of the unloved wife, who is the actual firstborn. [17] He must acknowledge the son of the unloved wife as the firstborn by giving him two shares of everything he owns, for that son is the first sign of his strength; the right of the firstborn belongs to him. [18] If a man has a stubborn, rebellious son who does not obey his father or his mother, and even when they discipline him he will not listen to them, [19] his father and mother are to take hold of him and bring him out to the elders of his town at the gate of his place. [20] They are to tell the elders of his town, "This son of ours is stubborn and rebellious. He will not obey us; he is a glutton and a drunkard." [21] Then all the men of his town are to stone him to death with stones. In this way you will purge the evil from your midst, and all Israel will hear of it and be afraid. [22] If a man guilty of a capital offense is put to death and you hang him on a tree, [23] his body must not stay on the tree overnight. Be sure to bury him the same day, because anyone who is hanged is cursed by God. Do not defile the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance.*

CHAPTER 22

[1] If you see your brother's ox or sheep straying, do not turn away and ignore it; be sure to take it back to your brother. [2] If your brother does not live near you or you do not know who he is, take the animal home with you and keep it until your brother comes looking for it. Then give it back to him. [3] Do the same with his donkey, with his cloak, and with anything your brother has lost that you find. You must not turn away and ignore it. [4] If you see your brother's donkey or ox fallen on the road, do not turn away and ignore it; be sure to help him get it on its feet. [5] A woman must not put on what pertains to a man, and a man must not wear a woman's clothing, for everyone who does such things is detestable to the LORD your God.* [6] If you come across a bird's nest beside the road, in a tree or on the ground, with chicks or eggs and the mother sitting on the chicks or the eggs, do not take the mother along with the young. [7] Be sure to let the mother go, though you may take the young for yourself, so that it may go well with you and you may live long. [8] When you build a new house, put a railing around your roof, so that you will not bring the guilt of bloodshed on your house if someone falls from it. [9] Do not plant your vineyard with a second kind of seed, or the whole crop will be forfeited, both what you planted and the yield of the vineyard. [10] Do not plow with an ox and a donkey yoked together. [11] Do not wear a fabric of mixed threads, wool and linen woven together. [12] Make tassels on the four corners of the cloak you wrap around yourself.* [13] Suppose a man marries a woman, has relations with her, and then turns against her, [14] accusing her of shameful conduct and giving her a bad reputation by saying, "I married this woman, but when I came near her I found no proof that she was a virgin." [15] The young woman's father and mother are to take the proof of her virginity and bring it to the elders of the town at the gate.* [16] Her father will say to the elders, "I gave my daughter to this man in marriage, and he has turned against her. [17] Now he has accused her of shameful conduct, saying, 'I found no proof of virginity in your daughter.' But here is the proof of my daughter's virginity." Then they are to spread out the cloth in front of the town elders. [18] The elders of that town are to take the man and have him punished. [19] They are to fine him a hundred shekels of silver and give the money to the young woman's father, because this man has given an Israelite virgin a bad name. She is to remain his wife, and he may never divorce her as long as he lives. [20] But if the charge is true and no proof of the young woman's virginity is found, [21] they are to bring her out to the door of her father's house, and there the men of her town are to stone her to death. She has committed an outrage in Israel by acting as a prostitute in her father's house. In this way you will purge the evil from your midst. [22] If a man is caught sleeping with another man's wife, both of them must die, the man who slept with her and the woman as well. In this way you will purge the evil from Israel. [23] If a young woman who is a virgin is engaged to a man, and another man meets her in the town and sleeps with her, [24] take both of them out to the gate of that town and stone them to death: the young woman because she did not scream for help although she was in the town, and the man because he violated his neighbor's wife. In this way you will purge the evil from your midst. [25] But if the man comes upon the engaged young woman out in the country, overpowers her, and sleeps with her, only the man who slept with her is to die. [26] Do nothing to the young woman; she has committed no sin deserving death. This case is like that of a man who attacks his neighbor and murders him, [27] for he came upon her out in the country, and though the engaged young woman screamed, there was no one to rescue her. [28] If a man comes upon a young woman, a virgin who is not engaged, seizes her and sleeps with her, and they are discovered, [29] the man who slept with her must pay the young woman's father fifty shekels of silver, and she is to become his wife because he humiliated her. He may never divorce her as long as he lives. [30] A man must not marry his father's wife; he must not uncover his father's skirt.*

CHAPTER 23

[1] No one whose testicles are crushed or whose male organ is cut off may enter the assembly of the LORD. [2] No one born of a forbidden union may enter the assembly of the LORD; none of his descendants, even to the tenth generation, may enter the assembly of the LORD.* [3] No Ammonite or Moabite may enter the assembly of the LORD; none of their descendants, even to the tenth generation, may ever enter the assembly of the LORD, [4] because they did not come to meet you with food and water on your journey after you left Egypt, and because they hired Balaam son of Beor from Pethor in Mesopotamia to curse you. [5] But the LORD your God refused to listen to Balaam, and the LORD your God turned the curse into a blessing for you, because the LORD your God loved you. [6] As long as you live, never seek their peace or their good. [7] Do not despise an Edomite, for he is your brother. Do not despise an Egyptian, for you lived as a sojourner in his land. [8] Children born to them in the third generation may enter the assembly of the LORD. [9] When you are encamped against your enemies, keep yourself away from anything evil. [10] If one of your men is unclean because of something that happened during the night, he must leave the camp and stay outside it. [11] Toward evening he is to wash himself with water, and at sunset he may return to the camp. [12] Set aside a place outside the camp to go out to as a latrine. [13] Among your equipment have a digging tool, and when you relieve yourself outside, dig a hole with it and then cover up your excrement. [14] For the LORD your God moves about in your camp to rescue you and to hand your enemies over to you. So your camp must be holy, so that he will not see anything indecent among you and turn away from you. [15] If a slave has escaped from his master and taken refuge with you, do not hand him back to his master. [16] Let him live among you wherever he likes, in whichever of your towns he chooses. Do not mistreat him. [17] None of the daughters of Israel is to be a cult prostitute, and none of the sons of Israel is to be a cult prostitute.* [18] Do not bring a prostitute's fee or the price of a dog into the house of the LORD your God to pay any vow, for the LORD your God detests them both.* [19] Do not charge your brother interest, whether on money, food, or anything else that may earn interest. [20] You may charge a foreigner interest, but not your brother, so that the LORD your God may bless you in everything you set your hand to in the land you are entering to possess. [21] If you make a vow to the LORD your God, do not delay in fulfilling it, for the LORD your God will certainly demand it of you, and you will be guilty of sin. [22] But if you refrain from making a vow, you will not be guilty. [23] Be careful to do whatever has passed your lips, since you freely vowed it to the LORD your God with your own mouth. [24] When you enter your neighbor's vineyard, you may eat all the grapes you want, as many as will satisfy you, but do not put any in your basket. [25] When you enter your neighbor's field of standing grain, you may pick the heads with your hand, but do not put a sickle to your neighbor's grain.

CHAPTER 24

[1] Suppose a man marries a woman, but she becomes displeasing to him because he finds some indecency in her, and he writes her a certificate of divorce, hands it to her, and sends her away from his house.* [2] She leaves his house and goes off to become the wife of another man, [3] and the second husband also turns against her, writes her a certificate of divorce, hands it to her, and sends her away from his house, or the second husband who married her dies. [4] In that case the first husband who divorced her is not allowed to marry her again, since she has been defiled. That would be detestable in the sight of the LORD. Do not bring guilt on the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance. [5] When a man has newly married, he must not be sent out with the army or have any other duty imposed on him. He is to be free to stay at home for one year and make the wife he has married happy. [6] Do not take a pair of millstones, or even an upper millstone, as security for a debt, for that would be taking a person's life as security. [*7] If a man is caught kidnapping one of his brothers from among the children of Israel, and he treats him as a slave or sells him, the kidnapper must die. In this way you will purge the evil from your midst. [8] In cases of leprosy, be on your guard to do exactly as the Levitical priests instruct you. Carefully follow what I have commanded them. [9] Remember what the LORD your God did to Miriam along the way after you came out of Egypt. [10] When you lend your neighbor anything at all, do not go into his house to collect his pledge. [11] Wait outside, and let the man you are lending to bring the pledge out to you. [12] If he is poor, do not go to sleep with his pledge in your keeping. [13] Be sure to give the pledge back to him at sunset, so that he can sleep in his cloak and bless you. It will be counted as righteousness for you before the LORD your God. [14] Do not exploit a hired worker who is poor and needy, whether he is one of your brothers or a sojourner living in one of the towns in your land. [15] Pay him his wages each day before sunset, for he is poor and is counting on it. Otherwise he may cry out to the LORD against you, and you will be guilty of sin. [16] Fathers are not to be put to death for their sons, nor sons for their fathers; each person is to be put to death for his own sin. [17] Do not deprive the sojourner or the fatherless of justice, and do not take a widow's cloak as a pledge. [18] Remember that you were a slave in Egypt and that the LORD your God redeemed you from there. That is why I command you to do this. [19] When you harvest your field and overlook a sheaf, do not go back for it. Leave it for the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow, so that the LORD your God may bless you in all your undertakings. [20] When you beat the olives from your trees, do not go back over the branches a second time. Leave what remains for the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow. [21] When you pick the grapes in your vineyard, do not go back over the vines. Leave what remains for the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow. [22] Remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt. That is why I command you to do this.

CHAPTER 25

[1] When two men have a dispute and go to court, the judges are to hear their case, pronouncing the righteous man righteous and the wicked man guilty. [2] If the guilty man deserves a beating, the judge is to have him lie down and be flogged in his presence with the number of lashes his offense calls for. [3] He may receive forty lashes, but no more. If he is flogged with more lashes than that, your brother would be disgraced before your eyes. [4] Do not muzzle an ox while it treads out grain. [5] When brothers live together and one of them dies without a son, the dead man's wife must not marry outside the family to a stranger. Her husband's brother is to go in to her, take her as his wife, and perform the duty of a husband's brother to her. [*6] The first son she bears will carry on the name of the dead brother, so that his name is not wiped out from Israel. [7] But if the man does not want to marry his brother's widow, she is to go up to the elders at the gate and say, "My husband's brother refuses to keep his brother's name alive in Israel. He will not perform the duty of a husband's brother to me." [8] The elders of his town are then to summon him and talk with him. If he persists and says, "I do not want to marry her," [9] his brother's widow is to approach him in front of the elders, pull his sandal off his foot, spit in his face, and declare, "This is what is done to the man who will not build up his brother's family." [10] From then on his family will be known in Israel as "the house of the man whose sandal was pulled off." [11] If two men are fighting, a man and his brother, and the wife of one of them comes up to rescue her husband from the man who is beating him, and she reaches out and grabs the other man by his genitals, [12] cut off her hand. Show her no pity. [13] Do not carry two different weights in your bag, one heavy and one light. [14] Do not keep two different measures in your house, a large ephah and a small one. [15] Your weights must be full and honest, and your ephah must be full and honest, so that you may live long in the land the LORD your God is giving you. [16] For everyone who does such things, everyone who deals dishonestly, is detestable to the LORD your God. [17] Remember what Amalek did to you along the way as you came out of Egypt, [18] how he met you on the road when you were tired and worn out, and cut off all the stragglers at your rear. He had no fear of God. [19] So when the LORD your God gives you rest from all the enemies around you in the land he is giving you to possess as an inheritance, wipe out the memory of Amalek from under heaven. Do not forget!

CHAPTER 26

[1] Once you have entered the land the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, and you have taken possession of it and settled there, [2] take some of the first of every crop the ground produces, which you harvest from the land the LORD your God is giving you, and put it in a basket. Then go to the place the LORD your God will choose to make his name dwell. [3] Go to the priest who is serving at that time and tell him, "Today I declare to the LORD your God that I have entered the land the LORD swore to our fathers to give us." [4] The priest is to take the basket from your hand and place it in front of the altar of the LORD your God. [5] Then you are to declare before the LORD your God: "My father was an Aramean about to perish. He went down to Egypt with only a few people and lived there as a sojourner, and there he became a great nation, strong and numerous. [*6] But the Egyptians mistreated us and oppressed us, imposing harsh labor on us. [7] So we cried out to the LORD, the God of our fathers, and the LORD heard us and saw our misery, our hardship, and the oppression we suffered. [8] The LORD

brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, with great terror and with signs and wonders. [9] He brought us to this place and gave us this land, a land flowing with milk and honey. [10] And now I bring the first of the fruit of the ground that you, LORD, have given me." Then place it before the LORD your God and bow down in his presence. [11] You, the Levite, and the sojourner among you are to rejoice in all the good things the LORD your God has given to you and your household. [12] When you have finished setting aside the full tithe of your produce in the third year, the year of the tithe, and have given it to the Levite, the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow, so that they may eat their fill in your towns, [13] then say in the presence of the LORD your God: "I have taken the sacred portion out of my house and given it to the Levite, the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow, just as you commanded me. I have not disregarded any of your commandments or forgotten them. [14] I have not eaten any of it while in mourning, or removed any of it while I was unclean, or offered any of it to the dead. I have obeyed the voice of the LORD my God and done everything you commanded me. [15] Look down from heaven, your holy dwelling place, and bless your people Israel and the land you have given us as you swore to our fathers, a land flowing with milk and honey." [16] Today the LORD your God commands you to carry out these statutes and rules. Be careful to observe them with all your heart and with all your soul. [17] You have declared today that the LORD is your God and that you will walk in his ways, keep his statutes, his commandments, and his rules, and obey his voice.* [18] And the LORD has declared today that you are his people, his treasured possession, as he promised you, and that you are to keep all his commandments. [19] He will raise you high above all the nations he has made, in praise, fame, and honor, and you will be a people holy to the LORD your God, as he said.

CHAPTER 27

[1] Moses and the elders of Israel gave the people this charge: "Keep every commandment I give you today. [2] On the day you cross the Jordan into the land the LORD your God is giving you, set up some large stones and plaster them with lime. [3] After you have crossed over, write on them all the words of this law, so that you may enter the land the LORD your God is giving you, a land flowing with milk and honey, as the LORD, the God of your fathers, promised you. [4] When you have crossed the Jordan, set up these stones on Mount Ebal, as I command you today, and plaster them with lime. [5] Build an altar there to the LORD your God, an altar of stones. Do not use any iron tool on them. [6] Build the altar of the LORD your God with whole, uncut stones, and offer burnt offerings on it to the LORD your God. [7] Sacrifice peace offerings there, eat them, and rejoice in the presence of the LORD your God. [8] On the stones write all the words of this law, plainly and clearly." [9] Then Moses and the Levitical priests said to all Israel, "Be quiet, Israel, and listen! Today you have become the people of the LORD your God. [10] Therefore obey the voice of the LORD your God and carry out his commandments and statutes, which I give you today." [11] That same day Moses charged the people: [12] "When you have crossed the Jordan, these tribes are to stand on Mount Gerizim to bless the people: Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Joseph, and Benjamin. [13] And these tribes are to stand on Mount Ebal for the curse: Reuben, Gad, Asher, Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali. [14] The Levites are to call out in a loud voice to all the men of Israel: [15] 'Cursed is anyone who makes a carved or cast idol, a thing detestable to the LORD, made by a craftsman's hands, and sets it up in secret.' Then all the people are to respond, 'Amen.' [16] 'Cursed is anyone who dishonors his father or his mother.' And all the people are to say, 'Amen.' [17] 'Cursed is anyone who shifts his neighbor's boundary marker.' And all the people are to say, 'Amen.' [18] 'Cursed is anyone who makes a blind man wander off the road.' And all the people are to say, 'Amen.' [19] 'Cursed is anyone who twists the justice owed to the sojourner, the fatherless, or the widow.' And all the people are to say, 'Amen.' [20] 'Cursed is anyone who sleeps with his father's wife, for he has uncovered his father's skirt.' And all the people are to say, 'Amen.' [21] 'Cursed is anyone who has sexual relations with any animal.' And all the people are to say, 'Amen.' [22] 'Cursed is anyone who sleeps with his sister, whether his father's daughter or his mother's daughter.' And all the people are to say, 'Amen.' [23] 'Cursed is anyone who sleeps with his mother-in-law.' And all the people are to say, 'Amen.' [24] 'Cursed is anyone who strikes down his neighbor in secret.' And all the people are to say, 'Amen.' [25] 'Cursed is anyone who accepts a bribe to strike down a person whose blood is innocent.' And all the people are to say, 'Amen.' [26] 'Cursed is anyone who does not uphold the words of this law by carrying them out.' And all the people are to say, 'Amen.'"

CHAPTER 28

[1] "Now if you truly obey the voice of the LORD your God and take care to carry out all his commandments that I give you today, the LORD your God will raise you high above all the nations of the earth. [2] All these blessings will come on you and reach you, if you obey the voice of the LORD your God. [3] You will be blessed in the city and blessed in the field. [4] The fruit of your womb will be blessed, and the fruit of your ground, and the fruit of your livestock, the calves of your herds and the lambs of your flocks. [5] Your basket and your kneading trough will be blessed. [6] You will be blessed when you come in and blessed when you go out. [7] The LORD will let the enemies who rise against you be defeated before you. They will march out against you by one road and run from you by seven. [8] The LORD will order his blessing to be with you in your barns and in all you set your hand to; he will bless you in the land the LORD your God is giving you. [9] The LORD will make you a people holy to himself, as he swore to you, if you keep the commandments of the LORD your God and walk in his ways. [10] All the peoples of the earth will see that the name of the LORD is called over you, and they will fear you. [11] The LORD will make you overflow with good things, in the fruit of your womb, the fruit of your livestock, and the fruit of your ground, in the land the LORD swore to your fathers to give you. [12] The LORD will open to you his good treasure house, the heavens, to give your land rain in its season and to bless all the work of your hands. You will lend to many nations, but you yourself will not borrow. [13] The LORD will make you the head and not the tail. You will be only on top and never underneath, if you listen to the commandments of the LORD your God that I give you today and are careful to keep them, [14] and do not swerve, either to the right or to the left, from any of the words I command you today, to go after other gods and serve them. [15] But if you do not obey the voice of the LORD your God by carefully keeping all his commandments and statutes that I give you today, all these curses will come on you and reach you. [16] You will be cursed in the city and cursed in the field. [17] Your basket and your kneading trough will be cursed. [18] The fruit of your womb will be cursed, and the fruit of your ground, the calves of your herds and the lambs of your flocks. [19] You will be cursed when you come in and cursed when you go out. [20] The LORD will send against you curse, confusion, and rebuke in all you set your hand to do, until you are destroyed and swiftly perish because of the evil of your deeds, in which you have forsaken me. [21] The LORD will make plague cling to you until he has wiped you off the land you are entering to possess. [22] The LORD will strike you with consumption, fever, and inflammation, with fiery heat and the sword, with blight and mildew. They will hound you until you perish. [23] The sky above your head will be bronze, and the ground beneath you iron. [24] The LORD will turn the rain of your land into powder and dust; it will fall on you from the sky until you are destroyed. [25] The LORD will let you be defeated before your enemies. You will march out against them by one road and run from them by seven, and you will be a thing of horror to all the kingdoms of the earth. [26] Your dead bodies will be food for every bird of the sky and every beast of the earth, with no one to scare them off. [27] The LORD will strike you with the boils of Egypt and with tumors, scabs, and itch that cannot be cured.* [28] The LORD will strike you with madness, blindness, and bewilderment of heart. [29] You will grope at noon as a blind man gropes in darkness, and you will not prosper in your ways. You will be nothing but oppressed and robbed continually, and no one will save you. [30] You will become engaged to a woman, but another man will sleep with her. You will build a house but not live in it. You will plant a vineyard but not enjoy its fruit. [31] Your ox will be slaughtered before your eyes, but you will eat none of it. Your donkey will be taken from you by force and not given back. Your sheep will be handed over to your enemies, and no one will rescue you. [32] Your sons and daughters will be given to another people, and your eyes will wear themselves out looking for them all day long, but your hand will be powerless. [33] A people you do not know will devour the produce of your land and all you have worked for, and you will suffer nothing but oppression and abuse every day. [34] The sights your eyes see will drive you mad. [35] The LORD will strike you with painful boils on your knees and legs, from the sole of your foot to the crown of your head, boils that cannot be cured. [36] The LORD will drive you and the king you set over yourselves to a nation unknown to you and your fathers, and there you will serve other gods of wood and stone. [37] You will become an object of horror, a proverb, and a taunt among all the peoples where the LORD drives you. [38] You will take much seed out to the field but bring little in, because locusts will devour it. [39] You will plant and tend vineyards, but you will not drink the wine or gather the grapes, because worms will eat them. [40] You will have olive trees all over your territory, but you will not anoint yourself with the oil, because the olives will fall off. [41] You will have sons and daughters, but you will not keep them, because they will go into captivity. [42] Swarming insects will take possession of all your trees and the produce of your land. [43] The sojourner living among you will climb higher and higher above you, while you sink lower and lower. [44] He will lend to you, but you will not lend to him. He will be the head, and you will be the tail. [45] All these curses will come on you, chasing you and catching you until you are destroyed, because you did not obey the voice of the LORD your God by keeping the commandments and statutes he gave you. [46] They will be a sign and a wonder against you and your descendants forever. [47] Because you did not serve the LORD your God with joy and gladness of heart in the time when you had plenty of everything, [48] you will serve the enemies the LORD sends against you, in hunger and thirst, in nakedness and dire poverty. He will put a yoke of iron on your neck until he has destroyed you. [49] The LORD will bring against you a nation from far away, from the end of the earth, swooping down like an eagle, a nation whose language you do not understand, [50] a fierce-looking nation that shows no respect for the old and no mercy to the young. [51] They will devour the young of your livestock and the produce of your land until you are destroyed. They will leave you no grain, new wine, or oil, no calves of your herds or lambs of your flocks, until they have brought you to ruin. [52] They will besiege you in all your towns until the high, fortified walls you trusted in fall down everywhere in your land. They will besiege you in all your towns throughout the land the LORD your God has given you. [53] In the siege and the dire straits your enemy will bring on you, you will eat the fruit of your own womb, the flesh of the sons and daughters the LORD your God has given you. [54] Even the most gentle and refined man among you will begrudge food to his own brother, to the wife he embraces, and to his remaining children, [55] refusing to give any of them the flesh of his children that he is eating, since nothing else is left to him in the siege and the dire straits your enemy will bring on you in all your towns. [56] The most gentle and refined woman among you, so gentle and refined that she would not dare to set the sole of her foot on the ground, will begrudge food to the husband she embraces, to her son and her daughter, [57] even the afterbirth that comes out from between her legs and the children she bears. For in her lack of everything she will eat them in secret, in the siege and the dire straits your enemy will bring on you in your towns. [58] If you are not careful to carry out all the words of this law written in this book, and do not fear this glorious and awesome name, the LORD your God, [59] then the LORD will bring extraordinary plagues on you and your descendants, great and long-lasting plagues, and severe and lingering illnesses. [60] He will bring back on you all the diseases of Egypt that you dreaded, and they will cling to you. [61] The LORD will also bring on you every sickness and plague not recorded in the book of this law, until you are destroyed. [62] You who were as numerous as the stars of the sky will be left few in number, because you did not obey the voice of the LORD your God. [63] Just as the LORD delighted in doing you good and multiplying you, so the LORD will delight in ruining and destroying you. You will be torn away from the land you are entering to possess. [64] The LORD will scatter you among all peoples from one end of the earth to the other. There you will serve other gods of wood and stone, gods unknown to you and your fathers. [65] Among those nations you will find no rest, and there will be no resting place for the sole of your foot. There the LORD will give you a trembling heart, failing eyes, and a languishing soul. [66] Your life will hang in doubt before you. You will be in dread night and day, with no assurance of your life. [67] In the morning you will say, 'If only it were evening!' and in the evening you will say, 'If only it were morning!' because of the dread that fills your heart and the sights your eyes will see. [68] The LORD will bring you back to Egypt in ships, by the route I told you that you would never see again. There you will offer yourselves for sale to your enemies as male and female slaves, but there will be no buyer."

CHAPTER 29

[1] These are the terms of the covenant the LORD commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, in addition to the covenant he had made with them at Horeb. [2] Moses summoned all Israel and said to them: "You have seen with your own eyes everything the LORD did in the land of Egypt to Pharaoh, to all his servants, and to his whole land, [3] the great testings your eyes saw, the signs, and those great wonders. [4] Yet to this day the LORD has not given you a heart to understand or eyes to see or ears to hear. [5] I have led you forty years in the wilderness. Your clothes have not worn out on you, and the sandal on your foot has not worn out. [6] You ate no bread and drank no wine or strong drink, so that you would know that I am the LORD your God. [7] When you reached this place, Sihon king of Heshbon and Og king of Bashan marched out to fight us, but we defeated them. [8] We captured their land and gave it as an inheritance to the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh. [9] Therefore keep the words of this covenant and carry them out, so that you may succeed in everything you do. [10] Today all of you are standing in the presence of the LORD your God: your leaders, your tribes, your elders, and your officials, every man of Israel, [11] your children and your wives, and the sojourner in your camp, from the one who chops your wood to the one who draws your water, [12] so that you may enter into the covenant of the LORD your God, and into the oath he is making with you today, [13] to confirm you today as his people and to be your God, as he promised you and as he swore to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. [14] It is not with you alone that I am making this covenant and this oath, [15] but with everyone who stands here with us today in the presence of the LORD our God, and also with everyone who is not here with us today. [16] You yourselves know how we lived in the land of Egypt and how we made our way through the nations along our route. [17] You saw their abominations and their idols of wood and stone, of silver and gold, that were among them. [18] Be sure that there is no man or woman, no clan or tribe among you today whose heart turns from the LORD our God to go and serve the gods of those nations. Be sure there is no root among you producing poison and wormwood, [19] someone who hears the words of this oath and congratulates himself in his heart, thinking, 'I will be safe, though I follow the stubbornness of my own heart,' to sweep away the watered along with the parched.* [20] The LORD will never be willing to pardon him. Instead, the LORD's anger and jealousy will smoke against that man, every curse written in this book will rest on him, and the LORD will wipe out his name from under heaven. [21] The LORD will set him apart from all the tribes of Israel for disaster, in keeping with all the curses of the covenant written in this book of the law. [22] The generation to come, your children who follow you, and the foreigner who comes from a far country will speak of it when they see the plagues of that land and the diseases the LORD has inflicted on it, [23] the whole land a burning waste of sulfur and salt, unsown and bearing nothing, with no plant growing in it, like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboiim, which the LORD overthrew in his anger and fury. [24] All the nations will ask, 'Why has the LORD treated this land like this? Why this fierce, great anger?' [25] And the answer will be, 'It is because they abandoned the covenant of the LORD, the God of their fathers, which he made with them when he brought them out of the land of Egypt. [26] They went off and served other gods and worshiped them, gods they had not known and that he had not given to them. [27] Therefore the LORD's anger blazed against this land, and he brought on it every curse written in this book. [28] In anger, fury, and great indignation the LORD tore them out of their land and threw them into another land, as it is today.' [29] The secret things belong to the LORD our God, but the things revealed belong to us and to our children forever, so that we may carry out all the words of this law.

CHAPTER 30

[1] "When all these things come upon you, the blessing and the curse I have set before you, and you take them to heart among all the nations to which the LORD your God has driven you, [2] and you and your children turn back to the LORD your God and obey his voice with all your heart and all your soul, in everything I command you today, [3] then the LORD your God will restore your fortunes and show you compassion. He will gather you again from all the peoples where the LORD your God scattered you.* [4] Even if your exiles are at the end of the heavens, from there the LORD your God will gather you, and from there he will take you back. [5] The LORD your God will bring you into the land your fathers possessed, and you will possess it. He will make you more prosperous and more numerous than your fathers. [6] The LORD your God will circumcise your heart and the heart of your descendants, so that you love the LORD your God with all your heart and all your soul, and live. [7] The LORD your God will lay all these curses on your enemies, on those who hate you, who persecuted you. [8] And you will once more obey the voice of the LORD and keep all his commandments that I give you today. [9] The LORD your God will give you abundant prosperity in all the work of your hands, in the fruit of your womb, the fruit of your livestock, and the fruit of your land. For the LORD will again delight in prospering you, just as he delighted in your fathers, [10] if you obey the voice of the LORD your God by keeping his commandments and statutes written in this book of the law, and if you turn back to the LORD your God with all your heart and all your soul. [11] For this commandment I give you today is not too difficult for you, nor is it far away. [12] It is not in heaven, that you should say, 'Who will go up to heaven for us and bring it down to us and let us hear it, so that we may do it?' [13] Nor is it on the other side of the sea, that you should say, 'Who will cross over to the other side of the sea for us and bring it to us and let us hear it, so that we may do it?' [14] On the contrary, the word is very near you, in your mouth and in your heart, so that you can do it. [15] See, today I have set before you life and good, death and evil. [16] For I command you today to love the LORD your God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments, statutes, and rules, so that you may live and grow numerous, and the LORD your God may bless you in the land you are entering to possess. [17] But if your heart turns away and you will not listen, and you are led astray to bow down to other gods and serve them, [18] I tell you today that you will certainly perish. You will not live long in the land you are crossing the Jordan to enter and possess. [19] I call heaven and earth to witness against you today that I have set before you life and death, blessing and curse. Choose life, then, so that you and your descendants may live, [20] by loving the LORD your God, obeying his voice, and clinging to him. For he is your life and the length of your days, so that you may live in the land the LORD swore to give to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob."

CHAPTER 31

[1] So Moses went and spoke these words to all Israel. [2] He told them, "Today I am a hundred and twenty years old. I am no longer able to go out and come in, and the LORD has told me, 'You will not cross this Jordan.' [3] The LORD your God is the one who will cross ahead of you. He will destroy these nations before you, and you will take their land. Joshua will cross ahead of you, as the LORD has said. [4] The LORD will deal with them as he dealt with Sihon and Og, the kings of the Amorites, and with their land, when he destroyed them. [5] The LORD will hand them over to you, and you must do to them exactly as I have commanded you. [6] Be strong and brave. Do not be afraid of them or terrified by them, for the LORD your God is the one who goes with you. He will not fail you or forsake you." [7] Then Moses called Joshua and said to him in the presence of all Israel, "Be strong and brave, for you will go with this people into the land the LORD swore to their fathers to give them, and you will divide it among them as their inheritance. [8] The LORD is the one who goes ahead of you; he will be with you. He will not fail you or forsake you. Do not be afraid or discouraged." [9] Moses wrote down this law and gave it to the priests, the sons of Levi, who carried the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and to all the elders of Israel. [10] Then Moses commanded them: "At the end of every seven years, at the set time of the year of release, during the Feast of Booths, [11] when all Israel comes to appear before the LORD your God at the place he will choose, read this law aloud before all Israel so they can hear it. [12] Gather the people together, men, women, and children, and the sojourner in your towns, so that they may listen and learn to fear the LORD your God and carefully keep all the words of this law. [13] Their children, who do not know it, must also hear it and learn to fear the LORD your God as long as you live in the land you are crossing the Jordan to possess." [14] The LORD said to Moses, "The day of your death is near. Call Joshua and present yourselves at the tent of meeting, so that I may commission him." So Moses and Joshua went and presented themselves at the tent of meeting. [15] The LORD appeared at the tent in a pillar of cloud, and the pillar of cloud stood at the entrance of the tent. [16] And the LORD said to Moses, "You are going to rest with your fathers, and this people will rise up and go whoring after the foreign gods of the land they are entering. They will forsake me and break the covenant I made with them. [17] On that day my anger will burn against them. I will forsake them and hide my face from them, and they will be devoured. Many evils and troubles will come upon them, and on that day they will say, 'Have not these evils come upon us because our God is not among us?' [18] On that day I will certainly hide my face because of all the evil they have done in turning to other gods. [19] So now write down this song and teach it to the children of Israel; have them learn it by heart, so that this song may serve as my witness against the children of Israel. [20] When I bring them into the land flowing with milk and honey that I swore to their fathers, and they eat their fill and grow fat, they will turn to other gods and serve them, scorning me and breaking my covenant. [21] And when many evils and troubles come upon them, this song will speak against them as a witness, for it will not be forgotten from the mouths of their descendants. For I know the plans they are forming even today, before I have brought them into the land I swore to give them." [22] That very day Moses wrote down this song and taught it to the children of Israel. [23] The LORD charged Joshua son of Nun, saying, "Be strong and brave, for you will bring the children of Israel into the land I swore to give them, and I myself will be with you." [24] After Moses had finished writing out the words of this law in a book from beginning to end, [25] he gave this command to the Levites who carried the ark of the covenant of the LORD: [26] "Take this book of the law and place it beside the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, and let it remain there as a witness against you. [27] For I know how rebellious and stubborn you are. Even now, while I am still alive with you, you have rebelled against the LORD; how much more after my death! [28] Gather to me all the elders of your tribes and your officials, so that I may speak these words for them to hear and call heaven and earth to testify against them. [29] For I know that after I die you will act very corruptly and turn aside from the way I have commanded you. In days to come evil will come upon you, because you will do what is evil in the sight of the LORD, provoking him to anger by the work of your hands." [30] And Moses recited the words of this song from beginning to end in the hearing of the whole assembly of Israel:

CHAPTER 32

[1] "Listen, you heavens, and I will speak; hear, O earth, what my mouth declares. [2] May my teaching drip down like the rain, my speech distill like the dew, like fine rain on tender grass, like showers on the green plants. [3] For I will proclaim the name of the LORD. Give greatness to our God! [4] The Rock, his work is perfect, for all his ways are justice. A God of faithfulness and without wrong, righteous and upright is he. [5] They have dealt corruptly with him; by their defect they are not his children, a perverse and crooked generation.* [6] Is this the way you repay the LORD, you foolish and senseless people? Is he not your Father, who bought you, who made you and set you firm? [7] Remember the days of old; consider the years of generation after generation. Ask your father, and he will show you; your elders, and they will tell you. [8] When the Most High gave the nations their inheritance, when he separated the sons of man, he set the borders of the peoples according to the number of the children of Israel.* [9] For the LORD's share is his people; Jacob is the allotment of his inheritance. [10] He found him in a desert land, in a barren, howling wilderness. He encircled him and watched over him; he kept him like the apple of his eye. [11] As an eagle rouses its nest and flutters over its young, he spread his wings, caught him up, and bore him on his pinions. [12] The LORD alone guided him; no foreign god was with him. [13] He set him riding over the heights of the earth, and he ate the yield of the fields. He let him suck honey from the crag and oil from the hard rock, [14] butter from the herd and milk from the flock, with the fat of lambs and rams, the breed of Bashan, and goats, with the choicest kernels of wheat; and you drank the blood of the grape, foaming wine. [15] But Jeshurun grew fat and kicked. You became fat, bloated, and sleek! He abandoned the God who made him and treated the Rock of his salvation with contempt. [16] They roused his jealousy with foreign gods and angered him with abominations. [17] They sacrificed to demons that were not God, to gods they had never known, newcomers lately arrived, whom your fathers never feared. [18] You ignored the Rock who begot you; you forgot the God who brought you forth. [19] The LORD saw and rejected them, provoked by his sons and daughters. [20] He said, 'I will hide my face from them and see what their end will be, for they are a twisted generation, children who cannot be trusted. [21] They made me jealous with what is not a god; they angered me with their worthless idols. So I will make them jealous with what is not a people; with a nation of fools I will anger them. [22] For fire has flared up in my anger and burns to the lowest depths of Sheol. It consumes the earth and its harvest and sets ablaze the foundations of the mountains. [23] I will pile disasters on them and use up my arrows against them. [24] They will waste away with hunger, consumed by burning fever and bitter pestilence. I will send against them the fangs of beasts and the venom of creatures that glide in the dust. [25] Outdoors the sword will take their children, and in the inner rooms terror will strike, young man and young woman alike, the infant at the breast and the gray-haired man. [26] I would have said, "I will scatter them; I will erase the memory of them from mankind," [27] but I feared the taunts of the enemy, that their foes would misread it and say, "Our hand has prevailed; the LORD did none of this."' [28] For they are a nation lacking in counsel, and there is no discernment in them. [29] If they were wise, they would grasp this and perceive what their end will be. [30] How could one man pursue a thousand, or two make ten thousand flee, unless their Rock had sold them, unless the LORD had handed them over? [31] For their rock is not as our Rock, as even our enemies concede. [32] Their vine comes from the vine of Sodom and from the terraces of Gomorrah. Their grapes are poisonous grapes, and their clusters are bitter. [33] Their wine is the venom of serpents, the deadly poison of cobras. [34] 'Is this not stored up with me, sealed in my storehouses? [35] Vengeance is mine, and repayment, in the time when their foot slips; for the day of their disaster is at hand, and their doom comes rushing on.' [36] For the LORD will vindicate his people and have compassion on his servants, when he sees that their power is gone and no one remains, slave or free. [37] He will say, 'Where now are their gods, the rock in which they sought refuge, [38] the gods who ate the fat of their sacrifices and drank the wine of their drink offerings? Let them get up and help you; let them be a shelter over you! [39] See now that I, I am he, and there is no god beside me. I put to death and I bring to life; I have wounded and I will heal, and there is no one who can deliver from my hand. [40] For I raise my hand to heaven and declare: As surely as I live forever, [41] when I whet my flashing sword and my hand grasps judgment, I will pay back vengeance to my foes and repay those who hate me. [42] I will make my arrows drunk with blood, and my sword will devour flesh, the blood of the slain and the captives, from the long-haired heads of the enemy.'* [43] Shout for joy, O nations, with his people, for he will avenge the blood of his servants. He will pay back vengeance to his foes and make atonement for his land, for his people."* [44] Moses came with Hoshea son of Nun and recited all the words of this song in the hearing of the people. [45] When Moses had finished speaking all these words to all Israel, [46] he told them, "Take to heart all the words I solemnly declare to you today, so that you may command your children to carefully observe all the words of this law. [47] This is no trivial matter for you; it is your very life. By this word you will live long in the land you are crossing the Jordan to possess." [48] On that same day the LORD said to Moses, [49] "Climb this mountain of the Abarim, Mount Nebo in the land of Moab, across from Jericho, and view the land of Canaan, which I am giving the children of Israel as their possession. [50] Then die on the mountain you have climbed and be gathered to your people, just as your brother Aaron died on Mount Hor and was gathered to his people. [51] For you both were unfaithful to me among the children of Israel at the waters of Meribah-kadesh in the wilderness of Zin, because you did not uphold my holiness among the children of Israel. [52] You will view the land from a distance, but you will not go into it, the land I am giving to the children of Israel."

CHAPTER 33

[1] This is the blessing that Moses, the man of God, pronounced on the children of Israel before he died. [2] He said: "The LORD came from Sinai and rose like the dawn upon them from Seir; he shone out from Mount Paran. He came with myriads of holy ones; from his right hand came a fiery law for them.* [3] Truly he loves the peoples; all his holy ones are in your hand. They bow down at your feet, each receiving your words. [4] Moses gave us a law, a possession for the assembly of Jacob. [5] He became king in Jeshurun when the leaders of the people assembled, all the tribes of Israel together. [6] May Reuben live and not die, though his men be few." [7] And this is what he said about Judah: "Listen, LORD, to the cry of Judah, and bring him back to his people. With his own hands he fights for himself; be his help against his foes." [8] About Levi he said: "Your Thummim and your Urim belong to your faithful one, whom you tested at Massah and with whom you contended at the waters of Meribah, [9] who said of his father and mother, 'I do not regard them.' He did not recognize his brothers or acknowledge his own sons, for they observed your word and kept your covenant. [10] They will teach your rules to Jacob and your law to Israel. They will set incense before you and whole burnt offerings on your altar. [11] Bless his substance, LORD, and be pleased with the work of his hands. Crush the loins of those who rise against him, of those who hate him, so that they never rise again." [12] About Benjamin he said: "Let the beloved of the LORD dwell securely beside him. He covers him all day long, and he dwells between his shoulders." [13] About Joseph he said: "May his land be blessed by the LORD with the precious gifts of heaven, with the dew, and with the deep that lies below, [14] with the precious yield of the sun and the precious crops brought forth by the months, [15] with the best from the ancient mountains and the precious things of the everlasting hills, [16] with the precious things of the earth and all that fills it, and with the goodwill of the one who dwelt in the bush. May these rest on the head of Joseph, on the brow of the one set apart from his brothers. [17] His firstborn bull has splendor, and his horns are the horns of a wild ox. With them he will gore the peoples, all together, to the ends of the earth. Such are the myriads of Ephraim, and such are the thousands of Manasseh."* [18] About Zebulun he said: "Be glad, Zebulun, in your going out, and you, Issachar, in your tents. [19] They will summon peoples to the mountain and there offer righteous sacrifices, for they will draw on the wealth of the seas and the hidden treasures of the sand." [20] About Gad he said: "Blessed be the one who makes room for Gad! Gad lies there like a lioness, tearing at arm and scalp. [21] He picked out the best part for himself, for a ruler's portion was kept there. He came with the leaders of the people; he carried out the righteousness of the LORD and his ordinances with Israel." [22] About Dan he said: "Dan is a lion's whelp, springing out of Bashan." [23] About Naphtali he said: "Naphtali, abounding in favor and filled with the blessing of the LORD, possess the west and the south." [24] About Asher he said: "Most blessed of the sons is Asher. May he be the favorite of his brothers, and may he bathe his feet in oil. [25] Your bolts will be iron and bronze, and your strength will last as long as your days.* [26] There is none like God, Jeshurun, who rides the heavens to help you and the clouds in his majesty. [27] The God of ancient days is your dwelling place, and underneath are the everlasting arms. He drove out the enemy before you and said, 'Destroy!' [28] So Israel lives in safety, Jacob's spring apart by itself, in a land of grain and new wine, where the heavens drip with dew. [29] How blessed you are, Israel! Who is like you, a people saved by the LORD? He is the shield that helps you and the sword of your triumph. Your enemies will come cringing to you, and you will trample on their high places."

CHAPTER 34

[1] Moses went up from the plains of Moab to Mount Nebo, to the summit of Pisgah across from Jericho, and the LORD showed him the whole land: Gilead as far as Dan, [2] all of Naphtali, the territory of Ephraim and Manasseh, the whole territory of Judah as far as the western sea, [3] the Negev, and the plain of the valley of Jericho, the city of palm trees, as far as Zoar. [4] Then the LORD said to him, "This is the land I promised on oath to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob when I said, 'I will give it to your offspring.' I have let you see it with your own eyes, but you will not go over into it." [5] And there in the land of Moab Moses the servant of the LORD died, as the LORD had said. [6] He buried him in the valley in the land of Moab, across from Beth-peor, and to this day no one knows where his grave is. [7] Moses was a hundred and twenty years old at his death. His sight had not grown dim, and his strength had not left him. [8] The children of Israel mourned for Moses in the plains of Moab for thirty days, until the days of weeping in mourning for Moses came to an end. [9] Joshua son of Nun was filled with the spirit of wisdom, because Moses had laid his hands on him. So the children of Israel obeyed him and did what the LORD had commanded Moses. [10] Since then no prophet has arisen in Israel like Moses, whom the LORD knew face to face, [11] none like him for all the signs and wonders the LORD sent him to perform in the land of Egypt against Pharaoh, all his servants, and his whole land, [12] and for all the mighty power and all the awesome deeds that Moses displayed before the eyes of all Israel.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Now after Moses the servant of the LORD had died, the LORD said to Joshua son of Nun, who had served Moses, [2] "My servant Moses is dead. So now get up and cross this Jordan, you and this whole people, into the land I am about to give them, the children of Israel. [3] I have given you every place where the sole of your foot will tread, as I promised Moses. [4] Your territory will reach from the wilderness and this Lebanon to the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and on to the Great Sea where the sun goes down. [5] No man will be able to hold his ground against you as long as you live. Just as I was with Moses, I will be with you. I will not fail you or forsake you. [6] Be strong and brave, for you are the one who will lead this people to inherit the land I swore to their fathers to give them. [7] Above all, be strong and very brave. Be careful to obey the whole law my servant Moses gave you; do not swerve from it to the right or to the left, so that you may act wisely wherever you go. [8] This book of the law must not depart from your mouth. Meditate on it day and night, so that you take care to do everything that is written in it. For then you will make your way prosperous, and then you will succeed. [9] Have I not given you this command? Be strong and brave! Do not be terrified or discouraged, for the LORD your God is with you wherever you go." [10] So Joshua gave orders to the officials of the people: [11] "Go through the camp and tell the people, 'Get your provisions ready, because in three days you will cross this Jordan to go in and take possession of the land the LORD your God is giving you to possess.'" [12] To the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, Joshua said, [13] "Remember what Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you when he said, 'The LORD your God is giving you rest and has given you this land.' [14] Your wives, your children, and your livestock may stay in the land Moses gave you on this side of the Jordan, but all your warriors must cross over armed at the head of your brothers and help them [15] until the LORD gives them rest as he has given you, and they also have taken possession of the land the LORD your God is giving them. After that you may go back to your own land and possess it, the land Moses the servant of the LORD gave you on the east side of the Jordan, toward the sunrise." [16] They replied to Joshua, "Everything you have commanded us we will do, and wherever you send us we will go. [17] We will obey you just as fully as we obeyed Moses. Only may the LORD your God be with you as he was with Moses! [18] Whoever defies your orders and does not obey your words in everything you command him will be put to death. Only be strong and brave!"

CHAPTER 2

[1] Then Joshua son of Nun secretly sent two spies out from Shittim, telling them, "Go and look over the land, especially Jericho." They went and entered the house of a prostitute named Rahab and stayed there. [2] The king of Jericho was told, "Some men from the children of Israel have come here tonight to spy out the land." [3] So the king of Jericho sent word to Rahab: "Bring out the men who came to you and entered your house, because they have come to spy out the whole land." [4] But the woman had taken the two men and hidden them. She said, "It is true, the men came to me, but I did not know where they came from. [5] At dusk, when it was time to shut the gate, the men left. Where they went I do not know. Chase after them quickly, and you will catch up with them." [6] In fact she had taken them up to the roof and hidden them under the stalks of flax she had spread out there. [7] So the men set out in pursuit of them along the road to the Jordan, toward the fords, and as soon as the pursuers had gone out, the gate was shut. [8] Before the spies lay down for the night, she went up to them on the roof [9] and said to them, "I know that the LORD has given you this land, that terror of you has fallen on us, and that all who live in the land are melting in fear because of you. [10] We have heard how the LORD dried up the waters of the Red Sea ahead of you when you came out of Egypt, and what you did to Sihon and Og, the two kings of the Amorites on the other side of the Jordan, whom you devoted to destruction.* [11] As soon as we heard it, our hearts melted, and everyone's courage failed because of you, for the LORD your God is God in heaven above and on earth below. [12] So now, please swear to me by the LORD that you will show kindness to my father's family, since I have shown kindness to you. Give me a trustworthy sign [13] that you will spare the lives of my father and mother, my brothers and sisters, and all who belong to them, and that you will save us from death." [14] The men answered her, "Our lives for yours, even to death! If you do not reveal what we are doing, we will treat you with kindness and faithfulness when the LORD gives us the land." [15] So she let them down through the window by a rope, since her house was built into the city wall and she lived in the wall itself. [16] She told them, "Go into the hill country so that the pursuers will not find you. Hide there for three days until they come back, and then you can go on your way." [17] The men said to her, "We will be released from this oath you have made us swear [18] unless, when we enter the land, you have tied this scarlet cord in the window through which you let us down, and have brought your father and mother, your brothers, and your whole family into your house. [19] If anyone goes out of the doors of your house into the street, his blood will be on his own head, and we will be guiltless. But if a hand is laid on anyone who is with you in the house, his blood will be on our head. [20] And if you reveal what we are doing, we will be released from the oath you have made us swear." [21] She replied, "Let it be as you say." She sent them on their way, and they left. Then she tied the scarlet cord in the window. [22] They went off into the hill country and stayed there three days, until the pursuers returned. The pursuers had searched the whole road without finding them. [23] Then the two men came back down from the hill country, crossed the river, and came to Joshua son of Nun, and reported to him everything that had happened to them. [24] They told Joshua, "The LORD has certainly given the whole land into our hands. Everyone who lives there is melting in fear because of us."

CHAPTER 3

[1] Early in the morning Joshua got up, and he and all the children of Israel set out from Shittim and went to the Jordan, where they camped before crossing. [2] After three days the officials went through the camp [3] and gave the people this order: "When you see the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God being carried by the Levitical priests, move out from your positions and follow it. [4] But keep a distance of about two thousand cubits between you and the ark; do not go near it. Then you will know which way to go, since you have never traveled this way before." [5] Joshua told the people, "Sanctify yourselves, because tomorrow the LORD will do wonders among you." [6] And Joshua said to the priests, "Lift up the ark of the covenant and cross over ahead of the people." So they lifted up the ark of the covenant and went on ahead of the people. [7] The LORD said to Joshua, "Today I will begin to make you great in the eyes of all Israel, so that they will know that I am with you just as I was with Moses. [8] Give this order to the priests who carry the ark of the covenant: 'When you reach the edge of the Jordan's waters, stand still in the Jordan.'" [9] Joshua said to the children of Israel, "Come closer and listen to the words of the LORD your God." [10] Then Joshua said, "This is how you will know that the living God is in your midst and that he will certainly drive out ahead of you the Canaanites, Hittites, Hivites, Perizzites, Girgashites, Amorites, and Jebusites: [11] look, the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth is about to cross ahead of you into the Jordan. [12] So now choose twelve men from the tribes of Israel, one from each tribe. [13] As soon as the soles of the feet of the priests who carry the ark of the LORD, the Lord of all the earth, rest in the waters of the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan will be cut off; the water flowing down from upstream will stand in a single heap." [14] So the people broke camp to cross the Jordan, with the priests carrying the ark of the covenant in front of them. [15] Now the Jordan overflows all its banks throughout the harvest season. But as soon as the bearers of the ark reached the Jordan and the feet of the priests carrying the ark touched the water's edge, [16] the water flowing from upstream stopped and rose up in a single heap a great distance away, at Adam, the town next to Zarethan, while the water flowing down toward the Sea of the Arabah, the Salt Sea, was completely cut off. So the people crossed over opposite Jericho. [17] The priests who carried the ark of the covenant of the LORD stood firmly on dry ground in the middle of the Jordan while all Israel crossed over on dry ground, until the whole nation had finished crossing the Jordan.

CHAPTER 4

[1] When the whole nation had finished crossing the Jordan, the LORD said to Joshua, [2] "Choose twelve men from the people, one from each tribe, [3] and order them, 'Pick up twelve stones from right here in the middle of the Jordan, from the spot where the priests' feet stood firm. Carry them over with you and put them down at the place where you camp tonight.'" [4] So Joshua summoned the twelve men he had selected from the children of Israel, one from each tribe, [5] and said to them, "Go across ahead of the ark of the LORD your God into the middle of the Jordan. Each of you is to lift a stone onto his shoulder, one for each tribe of the children of Israel. [6] This is to serve as a sign among you. In the future, when your children ask, 'What do these stones mean to you?' [7] tell them that the waters of the Jordan were cut off in front of the ark of the covenant of the LORD. When it crossed the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan were cut off. These stones are to be a lasting memorial for the children of Israel." [8] The children of Israel did as Joshua commanded. They picked up twelve stones from the middle of the Jordan, one for each tribe of the children of Israel, as the LORD had told Joshua. They carried them across to the camp and set them down there. [9] Joshua also set up twelve stones in the middle of the Jordan, at the spot where the feet of the priests carrying the ark of the covenant had stood. They are still there today. [10] The priests carrying the ark kept standing in the middle of the Jordan until everything the LORD had commanded Joshua to tell the people was done, just as Moses had instructed Joshua. The people hurried across, [11] and when all the people had finished crossing, the ark of the LORD and the priests crossed over while the people watched. [12] The Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh crossed over armed at the head of the children of Israel, as Moses had told them. [13] About forty thousand men equipped for war crossed over before the LORD to the plains of Jericho, ready for battle. [14] That day the LORD made Joshua great in the eyes of all Israel, and they revered him all his life, as they had revered Moses. [15] The LORD said to Joshua, [16] "Order the priests carrying the ark of the testimony to come up out of the Jordan." [17] So Joshua ordered the priests, "Come up out of the Jordan." [18] As soon as the priests carrying the ark of the covenant of the LORD came up out of the middle of the Jordan and the soles of their feet stepped onto dry ground, the waters of the Jordan went back to their place and overflowed all its banks as they had before. [19] It was on the tenth day of the first month that the people came up out of the Jordan and camped at Gilgal, on the eastern border of Jericho. [20] There at Gilgal Joshua set up the twelve stones they had taken from the Jordan. [21] He said to the children of Israel, "In the future, when your children ask their fathers, 'What are these stones?' [22] you are to explain to your children, 'Israel crossed this Jordan on dry ground.' [23] For the LORD your God dried up the waters of the Jordan in front of you until you had crossed, just as the LORD your God did to the Red Sea, which he dried up in front of us until we had crossed, [24] so that all the peoples of the earth may know how strong the hand of the LORD is, and so that you may always fear the LORD your God."

CHAPTER 5

[1] All the kings of the Amorites west of the Jordan and all the kings of the Canaanites along the sea heard how the LORD had dried up the waters of the Jordan in front of the children of Israel until they had crossed. Their hearts melted, and they had no more spirit to face the children of Israel. [2] At that time the LORD told Joshua, "Make knives of flint and circumcise the children of Israel once again, a second time." [3] So Joshua made knives of flint and circumcised the children of Israel at the hill of the foreskins. [4] This is why Joshua circumcised them: all the males who came out of Egypt, all the men of war, had died in the wilderness along the way after leaving Egypt. [5] All the people who came out had been circumcised, but none of those born in the wilderness along the way after leaving Egypt had been circumcised. [6] The children of Israel had wandered in the wilderness for forty years, until the whole nation, the men of war who came out of Egypt, had died off, because they did not obey the voice of the LORD. The LORD had sworn to them that he would not let them see the land he had sworn to their fathers to give us, a land flowing with milk and honey.* [7] It was their sons, whom he raised up in their place, that Joshua circumcised. They were uncircumcised because they had not been circumcised on the journey. [8] After the whole nation had been circumcised, they stayed where they were in the camp until they had recovered. [9] And the LORD said to Joshua, "Today I have rolled off from you the disgrace of Egypt." That is why the place has been called Gilgal to this day. [10] While they were camped at Gilgal on the plains of Jericho, the children of Israel celebrated the Passover on the evening of the fourteenth day of the month. [11] On the day after the Passover, that very day, they ate some of the produce of the land: unleavened bread and roasted grain. [12] The manna stopped the day after they ate from the produce of the land. The children of Israel had no more manna; that year they ate the crops of the land of Canaan. [13] Once when Joshua was near Jericho, he looked up and saw a man standing in front of him holding a drawn sword. Joshua went up to him and asked, "Are you on our side or on the side of our enemies?" [14] "No," he replied, "but I have now come as commander of the army of the LORD." Then Joshua fell facedown to the ground in worship and said to him, "What does my lord have to say to his servant?"* [15] The commander of the LORD's army replied, "Take the sandal off your foot, because the place where you are standing is holy." And Joshua did so.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Jericho had closed its gates and was barred against the children of Israel. No one went out, and no one came in. [2] The LORD said to Joshua, "Look, I have handed Jericho over to you, along with its king and its valiant warriors. [3] All your fighting men are to march around the city, circling it once. Do this for six days. [4] Have seven priests carry seven ram's-horn trumpets in front of the ark. On the seventh day march around the city seven times, with the priests blowing the trumpets. [5] When they sound a long blast on the ram's horn and you hear the trumpet sound, have all the people give a mighty shout. Then the city wall will collapse where it stands, and the people are to go up, each man straight in." [6] So Joshua son of Nun summoned the priests and told them, "Lift up the ark of the covenant, and have seven priests carry seven ram's-horn trumpets in front of the ark of the LORD." [7] He told the people, "Move forward and march around the city, with the armed men going ahead of the ark of the LORD." [8] When Joshua had spoken to the people, the seven priests carrying the seven ram's-horn trumpets before the LORD moved forward, blowing the trumpets, and the ark of the covenant of the LORD followed behind them. [9] The armed men marched in front of the priests who were blowing the trumpets, and the rear guard followed the ark, with the trumpets sounding as they went. [10] But Joshua had commanded the people, "Do not shout or make any sound with your voices; do not let a single word come out of your mouths until the day I tell you to shout. Then shout!" [11] So he had the ark of the LORD carried around the city, circling it once, and then they returned to the camp and spent the night there. [12] Joshua got up early the next morning, and the priests lifted the ark of the LORD. [13] The seven priests carrying the seven ram's-horn trumpets in front of the ark of the LORD marched on, blowing the trumpets continually. The armed men went in front of them, and the rear guard followed the ark of the LORD, while the trumpets kept on sounding. [14] On the second day they again marched around the city once and went back to the camp. They did this for six days. [15] On the seventh day they got up at daybreak and marched around the city seven times in the same way. That was the only day they circled the city seven times. [16] The seventh time around, when the priests sounded the trumpets, Joshua told the people, "Shout! For the LORD has given you the city. [17] The city and everything in it is to be devoted to the LORD for destruction. Only Rahab the prostitute and all who are with her in her house are to be spared, because she hid the messengers we sent. [18] But you, stay away from what is devoted, so that you do not devote them to destruction and then take some of the devoted things, and so make the camp of Israel devoted to destruction and bring disaster on it.* [19] All the silver and gold and the vessels of bronze and iron are holy to the LORD and must go into the LORD's treasury." [20] So the people shouted, and the trumpets were blown. As soon as the people heard the trumpet sound, they gave a mighty shout, and the wall collapsed where it stood. Then the people went up into the city, each man straight in, and captured it. [21] With the edge of the sword they devoted to destruction everything in the city, men and women, young and old, oxen, sheep, and donkeys. [22] Joshua told the two men who had spied out the land, "Go into the prostitute's house and bring the woman out from there with everyone who belongs to her, as you swore to her." [23] So the young men who had served as spies went in and brought out Rahab with her father and mother, her brothers, and all who belonged to her. They brought out her whole family and settled them outside the camp of Israel. [24] Then they burned the city and everything in it with fire, except for the silver and gold and the vessels of bronze and iron, which they put into the treasury of the house of the LORD. [25] But Joshua spared Rahab the prostitute, together with her father's household and all who belonged to her, and she has lived among Israel to this day, because she hid the messengers Joshua had sent to spy out Jericho. [26] At that time Joshua put them under this oath: "Cursed before the LORD is the man who undertakes to rebuild this city of Jericho. He will lay its foundation at the cost of his firstborn son, and set up its gates at the cost of his youngest." [27] So the LORD was with Joshua, and his fame spread throughout the land.

CHAPTER 7

[1] But the children of Israel were unfaithful with regard to the devoted things. Achan son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took some of what was devoted, and the LORD's anger blazed against the children of Israel. [2] Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which lies near Beth-aven to the east of Bethel, and told them, "Go up and scout the land." So the men went up and scouted Ai. [3] When they came back to Joshua, they told him, "There is no need for all the people to go up. Have about two or three thousand men go up and attack Ai. Do not wear out the whole army going up there, because the people of Ai are few." [4] So about three thousand men from the army went up there, but they ran from the men of Ai. [5] The men of Ai killed about thirty-six of them and chased them from the city gate as far as Shebarim, striking them down on the slope. The hearts of the people melted and turned to water. [6] Joshua tore his clothes and lay facedown on the ground before the ark of the LORD until evening, he and the elders of Israel, and they threw dust on their heads. [7] Joshua said, "Oh, Lord GOD, why did you bring this people across the Jordan at all, only to hand us over to the Amorites to be destroyed? If only we had been willing to stay on the other side of the Jordan! [8] Please, Lord, what can I say now that Israel has turned and run from its enemies? [9] When the Canaanites and everyone else in the land hear of it, they will surround us and wipe our name off the earth. Then what will you do for your great name?" [10] The LORD answered Joshua, "Stand up! Why are you lying on your face? [11] Israel has sinned. They have broken my covenant, which I commanded them to keep. They have taken some of the devoted things; they have stolen, they have lied, and they have put them with their own possessions. [12] That is why the children of Israel cannot stand up to their enemies. They turn and run from their enemies, because they themselves have become devoted to destruction. I will not be with you any longer unless you destroy whatever among you is devoted. [13] Go, sanctify the people. Tell them, 'Sanctify yourselves for tomorrow, for this is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: There are devoted things among you, Israel. You will not be able to stand up to your enemies until you remove the devoted things from among you.' [14] In the morning come forward tribe by tribe. The tribe the LORD selects is to come forward clan by clan; the clan the LORD selects is to come forward family by family; and the family the LORD selects is to come forward man by man. [15] Whoever is caught with the devoted things is to be burned with fire, along with all that belongs to him, for he has broken the covenant of the LORD and committed a disgraceful act in Israel." [16] Joshua got up early the next morning and had Israel come forward tribe by tribe, and the tribe of Judah was selected. [17] He had the clans of Judah come forward, and the clan of the Zerahites was selected. He had the clan of the Zerahites come forward man by man, and Zabdi was selected. [18] He had Zabdi's family come forward man by man, and Achan son of Carmi, son of Zabdi, son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, was selected. [19] Then Joshua said to Achan, "My son, give glory to the LORD, the God of Israel, and give him praise. Tell me what you have done; do not hide it from me." [20] Achan replied to Joshua, "It is true. I have sinned against the LORD, the God of Israel. This is what I did: [21] Among the spoil I saw a beautiful robe from Shinar, two hundred shekels of silver, and a bar of gold weighing fifty shekels. I wanted them, so I took them. They are buried in the ground inside my tent, with the silver underneath." [22] Joshua sent messengers, who ran to the tent, and there it was, hidden in his tent with the silver underneath. [23] They took the things from the tent, brought them to Joshua and all the children of Israel, and spread them out before the LORD. [24] Then Joshua, together with all Israel, took Achan son of Zerah, the silver, the robe, the bar of gold, his sons and daughters, his oxen, donkeys, and sheep, his tent, and everything he owned, and brought them up to the Valley of Achor. [25] Joshua said, "Why have you brought disaster on us? Today the LORD will bring disaster on you." Then all Israel stoned him. They burned them with fire and pelted them with stones. [26] Over him they piled up a large heap of stones, which is still there today. Then the LORD turned from his burning anger. That is why that place is called the Valley of Achor to this day.*

CHAPTER 8

[1] The LORD said to Joshua, "Do not be afraid or discouraged. Take the whole army with you and go up and attack Ai. See, I have handed over to you the king of Ai, his people, his city, and his land. [2] Treat Ai and its king as you treated Jericho and its king, except that you may take its spoil and livestock as plunder for yourselves. Set an ambush behind the city." [3] So Joshua and the whole army set out to attack Ai. Joshua picked thirty thousand valiant warriors and sent them out at night [4] with these orders: "Listen. You are to lie in ambush behind the city. Do not go very far from it, and all of you stay alert. [5] I and all the troops with me will advance on the city, and when its men come out against us as they did before, we will run from them. [6] They will chase us until we have lured them away from the city, for they will think, 'They are running from us as they did the first time.' While we are running from them, [7] you are to rise from your ambush and take the city. The LORD your God will hand it over to you. [8] When you have captured the city, set it on fire. Do what the LORD has said. Those are my orders to you." [9] Joshua sent them off, and they went to the place of ambush and took up position between Bethel and Ai, west of Ai. Joshua himself spent that night with the troops. [10] Early the next morning Joshua mustered the troops, and he and the elders of Israel marched at their head up to Ai. [11] All the fighting men with him went up and advanced until they reached the front of the city. They camped north of Ai, with the valley between them and the city. [12] He had taken about five thousand men and set them in ambush between Bethel and Ai, west of the city. [13] So they positioned the forces, the main camp north of the city and the ambush west of it. That night Joshua went into the middle of the valley. * [14] When the king of Ai saw this, he and all his army, the men of the city, hurried out early in the morning to engage Israel in battle at the appointed place facing the Arabah. He did not know that an ambush had been set against him behind the city. [15] Joshua and all Israel pretended to be beaten by them and fled along the road to the wilderness. [16] All the men in the city were called out to chase them, and as they pursued Joshua they were drawn away from the city. [17] Not a man remained in Ai or Bethel who did not go out after Israel. They left the city wide open and went in pursuit of Israel. [18] Then the LORD said to Joshua, "Hold out toward Ai the javelin in your hand, for I will hand the city over to you." So Joshua held out the javelin in his hand toward the city. [19] As soon as he stretched out his hand, the men in ambush rose quickly from their position and rushed forward. They entered the city, captured it, and quickly set it on fire. [20] When the men of Ai looked back, they saw the smoke of the city rising to the sky. They had no chance to escape in any direction, for the troops who had been fleeing toward the wilderness turned around on their pursuers. [21] When Joshua and all Israel saw that the ambush had captured the city and that smoke was rising from it, they turned around and attacked the men of Ai. [22] Those in the city also came out against them, so the men of Ai were caught in the middle, with Israel on both sides. Israel cut them down until not one survivor or fugitive was left. [23] But they captured the king of Ai alive and brought him to Joshua. [24] When Israel had finished killing all the inhabitants of Ai in the open country, in the wilderness where they had chased them, and every one of them had fallen by the sword until they were wiped out, all Israel returned to Ai and put it to the sword. [25] Twelve thousand men and women fell that day, all the people of Ai. [26] Joshua did not draw back the hand that held out the javelin until he had devoted all the inhabitants of Ai to destruction. [27] Israel kept only the livestock and the spoil of that city as plunder for themselves, as the LORD had instructed Joshua. [28] So Joshua burned Ai and made it a permanent heap of ruins, a desolate place to this day. [29] He hanged the king of Ai on a tree and left him there until evening. At sunset Joshua ordered them to take the body down from the tree. They threw it down at the entrance of the city gate and piled a large heap of stones over it, which is still there today. [30] Then Joshua built on Mount Ebal an altar to the LORD, the God of Israel, [31] just as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded the children of Israel and as written in the book of the law of Moses: an altar of whole stones, on which no iron tool had been used. On it they offered burnt offerings to the LORD and sacrificed peace offerings. [32] There on the stones, in the presence of the children of Israel, Joshua wrote a copy of the law of Moses, which Moses had written. [33] All Israel, sojourner and native-born alike, with their elders, officials, and judges, stood on both sides of the ark, facing the Levitical priests who carried the ark of the covenant of the LORD. Half of them stood in front of Mount Gerizim and half in front of Mount Ebal, as Moses the servant of the LORD had earlier commanded, to bless the people of Israel. [34] After that Joshua read aloud all the words of the law, the blessing and the curse, just as it is all written in the book of the law. [35] There was not one word of everything Moses had commanded that Joshua failed to read before the whole assembly of Israel, including the women, the children, and the sojourners who lived among them.

CHAPTER 9

[1] Now all the kings west of the Jordan, in the hill country, in the lowland, and along the whole coast of the Great Sea as far as Lebanon, the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites, heard about these things, [2] and they joined forces with one purpose, to make war on Joshua and Israel. [3] But when the people of Gibeon heard what Joshua had done to Jericho and Ai, [4] they on their part resorted to a trick. They set out and posed as envoys, loading their donkeys with worn-out sacks and with old wineskins, cracked and mended. * [5] They wore old, patched sandals on their feet and old clothes on their bodies, and all the bread they had brought for the journey was dry and moldy. [6] They came to Joshua in the camp at Gilgal and told him and the men of Israel, "We have come from a far country. So make a covenant with us now." [7] The men of Israel replied to the Hivites, "Perhaps you are living right among us. Then how could we make a covenant with you?" [8] "We are your servants," they said to Joshua. Joshua asked them, "Who are you, and where have you come from?" [9] They answered, "Your servants have come from a very distant country because of the fame of the LORD your God. We have heard reports of him and of all he did in Egypt, [10] and of everything he did to the two kings of the Amorites east of the Jordan, Sihon king of Heshbon and Og king of Bashan, who lived in Ashtaroth. [11] So our elders and everyone living in our country told us, 'Take food with you for the journey. Go and meet them and say to them, "We are your servants; so make a covenant with us now."' [12] This bread of ours was still warm when we packed it at home on the day we left to come to you. But look at it now: dry and moldy. [13] These wineskins were new when we filled them, and see how they have split. Our clothes and our sandals are worn out from the very long trip." [14] The men of Israel accepted some of their provisions, but they did not inquire of the LORD. [15] Joshua made peace with them and made a covenant with them to let them live, and the leaders of the congregation ratified it with an oath. [16] Three days after making the covenant with them, they heard that they were neighbors who lived close by among them. [17] So the children of Israel set out and on the third day reached their towns: Gibeon, Chephirah, Beeroth, and Kiriath-jearim. [18] But the children of Israel did not attack them, because the leaders of the congregation had sworn an oath to them by the LORD, the God of Israel. The whole congregation murmured against the leaders, [19] but all the leaders told the whole congregation, "We have sworn an oath to them by the LORD, the God of Israel, so we cannot touch them now. [20] This is what we will do with them: we will let them live, so that wrath will not fall on us for breaking the oath we swore to them." [21] "Let them live," the leaders said. So they became woodcutters and water carriers for the whole congregation, as the leaders had decided concerning them. [22] Joshua called for the Gibeonites and said to them, "Why did you deceive us by saying, 'We live very far away from you,' when in fact you live among us? [23] Now you are under a curse. Some of you will always be slaves, cutting wood and carrying water for the house of my God." [24] They answered Joshua, "Your servants were clearly told that the LORD your God had commanded his servant Moses to give you the whole land and to wipe out all its inhabitants before you. So we feared greatly for our lives because of you, and that is why we did this. [25] We are now in your hands. Do with us whatever you think is good and right." [26] So Joshua did this to them: he rescued them from the children of Israel, and they did not kill them. [27] That day Joshua made them woodcutters and water carriers for the congregation and for the altar of the LORD at the place he would choose, as they are to this day.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Adoni-zedek king of Jerusalem heard that Joshua had taken Ai and devoted it to destruction, treating Ai and its king as he had treated Jericho and its king, and that the people of Gibeon had made peace with Israel and were living among them. [2] He and his people were terrified, because Gibeon was a great city, like one of the royal cities; it was larger than Ai, and all its men were warriors. [3] So Adoni-zedek king of Jerusalem sent this message to Hoham king of Hebron, Piram king of Jarmuth, Japhia king of Lachish, and Debir king of Eglon: [4] "Come up and help me attack Gibeon, because it has made peace with Joshua and the children of Israel." [5] Then the five Amorite kings, the kings of Jerusalem, Hebron, Jarmuth, Lachish, and Eglon, joined forces and went up with all their armies. They took up positions against Gibeon and attacked it. [6] The men of Gibeon sent word to Joshua in the camp at Gilgal: "Do not abandon your servants. Come up to us quickly! Save us and help us, because all the Amorite kings from the hill country have joined forces against us." [7] So Joshua marched up from Gilgal with his whole army, including all his valiant warriors. [8] The LORD told Joshua, "Do not fear them, for I have handed them over to you. Not one of them will be able to withstand you." [9] After marching all night from Gilgal, Joshua took them by surprise. [10] The LORD threw them into confusion before Israel and struck them with a great slaughter at Gibeon. He chased them along the road that climbs to Beth-horon and cut them down all the way to Azekah and Makkedah. [11] As they fled from Israel down the slope of Beth-horon, the LORD hurled large stones from the sky on them all the way to Azekah, and they died. More of them died from the hailstones than the children of Israel killed with the sword. [12] On the day the LORD handed the Amorites over to the children of Israel, Joshua spoke to the LORD, and in the presence of Israel he said, "Sun, be still over Gibeon, and you, moon, over the Valley of Aijalon." [13] So the sun stood still, and the moon stopped, until the nation had avenged itself on its enemies. Is it not written in the Book of Jashar? The sun stopped in the middle of the sky and delayed going down for about a full day. [*] [14] Never before or since has there been a day like it, a day when the LORD listened to the voice of a man, for the LORD was fighting for Israel. [15] Then Joshua went back with all Israel to the camp at Gilgal. [16] Meanwhile the five kings had run away and hidden in the cave at Makkedah. [17] Joshua was told, "The five kings have been found hiding in the cave at Makkedah." [18] Joshua said, "Roll large stones over the mouth of the cave, and post men there to guard it. [19] But do not stop yourselves! Keep after your enemies and attack them from behind. Do not let them get back into their cities, for the LORD your God has handed them over to you." [20] Joshua and the children of Israel struck them with a very heavy slaughter until they were wiped out, and those who survived escaped into the fortified cities. [21] Then the whole army returned safely to Joshua in the camp at Makkedah. No one dared to say a word against the children of Israel. [22] Joshua said, "Open the mouth of the cave and bring those five kings out to me." [23] They did this and brought the five kings out of the cave to him: the kings of Jerusalem, Hebron, Jarmuth, Lachish, and Eglon. [24] When they had brought these kings out to Joshua, he called together all the men of Israel and said to the commanders of the soldiers who had gone with him, "Come here and put your feet on the necks of these kings." So they came forward and placed their feet on their necks. [25] Joshua told them, "Do not be afraid or discouraged. Be strong and brave, because this is what the LORD will do to all the enemies you are going to fight." [26] After that Joshua struck the kings down and killed them, and he hung their bodies on five trees, where they stayed hanging until evening. [27] At sunset Joshua gave orders, and they took them down from the trees and threw them into the cave where they had been hiding. They placed large stones over the mouth of the cave, and the stones are there to this very day. [28] That same day Joshua captured Makkedah and put the city and its king to the sword. He devoted to destruction everyone in it, leaving no survivors, and he did to the king of Makkedah what he had done to the king of Jericho. [29] Joshua and all Israel with him moved on from Makkedah to Libnah and attacked it. [30] The LORD handed it also, with its king, over to Israel. Joshua put the city and everyone in it to the sword, leaving no survivors there, and he did to its king what he had done to the king of Jericho. [31] Joshua and all Israel with him moved on from Libnah to Lachish. They took up positions against it and attacked it. [32] The LORD handed Lachish over to Israel, and Joshua took it on the second day. He put the city and everyone in it to the sword, just as he had done to Libnah. [33] Meanwhile Horam king of Gezer came up to help Lachish, but Joshua defeated him and his army, leaving him no survivors. [34] Joshua and all Israel with him moved on from Lachish to Eglon.

They took up positions against it and attacked it. [35] They captured it that same day and put it to the sword, and he devoted to destruction everyone in it that day, just as he had done to Lachish. [36] Then Joshua and all Israel with him went up from Eglon to Hebron and attacked it. [37] They took the city and put it to the sword, together with its king, its towns, and everyone in it. He left no survivors, just as at Eglon; he devoted it and everyone in it to destruction. [38] Then Joshua and all Israel with him turned back to Debir and attacked it. [39] He captured the city, its king, and its towns. They put them to the sword and devoted to destruction everyone in it, leaving no survivors. He did to Debir and its king what he had done to Hebron and what he had done to Libnah and its king. [40] So Joshua conquered the whole region, the hill country, the Negev, the lowland, and the slopes, together with all their kings. He left no survivors, but devoted to destruction every living thing, as the LORD, the God of Israel, had commanded. [41] Joshua defeated them from Kadesh-barnea to Gaza, and the whole region of Goshen as far as Gibeon. [42] Joshua captured all these kings and their lands in a single campaign, because the LORD, the God of Israel, fought for Israel. [43] Then Joshua returned with all Israel to the camp at Gilgal.

CHAPTER 11

[1] When Jabin king of Hazor heard about this, he sent messages to Jobab king of Madon, to the king of Shimron, to the king of Achshaph, [2] and to the kings in the northern hill country, in the Arabah south of Chinneroth, in the lowland, and in the heights of Dor to the west, [3] to the Canaanites in the east and west, to the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, and Jebusites in the hill country, and to the Hivites at the foot of Hermon in the land of Mizpah. [4] They came out with all their troops, a vast army, as many as the grains of sand on the seashore, with a great number of horses and chariots. [5] All these kings joined forces and came and camped together at the waters of Merom to fight against Israel. [6] The LORD said to Joshua, "Do not be afraid of them, because by this time tomorrow I will lay them all dead before Israel. You are to hamstring their horses and burn their chariots." [7] So Joshua and his whole army came upon them suddenly at the waters of Merom and attacked them, [8] and the LORD handed them over to Israel. They struck them down and chased them as far as Greater Sidon and Misrephoth-maim, and to the Valley of Mizpeh on the east, striking them down until no survivors were left. [9] Joshua dealt with them as the LORD had told him: he hamstrung their horses and burned their chariots. [10] Then Joshua turned back, captured Hazor, and put its king to the sword. Hazor had once been the leading city of all these kingdoms. [11] They put everyone in it to the sword, devoting them to destruction. Nothing that breathed was left alive, and he set Hazor on fire. [12] Joshua captured all these royal cities and their kings and put them to the sword. He devoted them to destruction, as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded. [13] Yet Israel did not burn any of the cities that stood on their mounds, except Hazor, which Joshua burned. [14] The children of Israel took for themselves all the spoil and livestock of these cities, but they put every person to the sword until they had wiped them out, leaving no one alive that breathed. [15] What the LORD had commanded his servant Moses, Moses commanded Joshua, and Joshua carried it out. He left nothing undone of all the LORD had commanded Moses. [16] So Joshua took this entire land: the hill country, all the Negev, the whole region of Goshen, the lowland, the Arabah, and the hill country of Israel with its lowland, [17] from Mount Halak, which rises toward Seir, to Baal-gad in the Valley of Lebanon at the foot of Mount Hermon. He captured all their kings, struck them down, and put them to death. [18] For a long time Joshua waged war against all these kings. [19] Except for the Hivites living in Gibeon, not one city made peace with the children of Israel; they took them all in battle. [20] For it was the LORD's doing to harden their hearts to meet Israel in battle, so that they would be devoted to destruction without mercy and be wiped out, as the LORD had commanded Moses.* [21] At that time Joshua went and destroyed the Anakim from the hill country, from Hebron, Debir, and Anab, and from all the hill country of Judah and of Israel. Joshua devoted them and their cities to destruction. [22] No Anakim were left in the land of the children of Israel; only in Gaza, Gath, and Ashdod did some survive. [23] So Joshua took the entire land, just as the LORD had told Moses, and he gave it as an inheritance to Israel, divided among their tribes. Then the land had rest from war.

CHAPTER 12

[1] These are the kings of the land whom the children of Israel defeated and whose territory they took east of the Jordan, toward the sunrise, from the Valley of the Arnon to Mount Hermon, including all the Arabah on the east: [2] Sihon king of the Amorites, who lived in Heshbon. He ruled from Aroer on the rim of the Valley of the Arnon, from the middle of the valley, and over half of Gilead up to the river Jabbok, the border of the Ammonites, [3] as well as the eastern Arabah from the Sea of Chinneroth to the Sea of the Arabah, the Salt Sea, toward Beth-jeshimoth, and southward below the slopes of Pisgah. [4] And the territory of Og king of Bashan, one of the last of the Rephaim, who lived in Ashtaroth and Edrei. [5] He ruled Mount Hermon, Salecah, and all Bashan up to the border of the Geshurites and the Maacathites, and half of Gilead to the border of Sihon king of Heshbon. [6] Moses the servant of the LORD and the children of Israel defeated them, and Moses the servant of the LORD gave their land as a possession to the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh. [7] These are the kings of the land whom Joshua and the children of Israel defeated west of the Jordan, from Baal-gad in the Valley of Lebanon to Mount Halak, which rises toward Seir. Joshua gave their land to the tribes of Israel as a possession according to their divisions, [8] the hill country, the lowland, the Arabah, the slopes, the wilderness, and the Negev, the land of the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites: [9] the king of Jericho, one; the king of Ai, which is beside Bethel, one; [10] the king of Jerusalem, one; the king of Hebron, one; [11] the king of Jarmuth, one; the king of Lachish, one; [12] the king of Eglon, one; the king of Gezer, one; [13] the king of Debir, one; the king of Geder, one; [14] the king of Hormah, one; the king of Arad, one; [15] the king of Libnah, one; the king of Adullam, one; [16] the king of Makkedah, one; the king of Bethel, one; [17] the king of Tappuah, one; the king of Hepher, one; [18] the king of Aphek, one; the king of Lasharon, one; [*] [19] the king of Madon, one; the king of Hazor, one; [20] the king of Shimron-meron, one; the king of Achshaph, one; [21] the king of Taanach, one; the king of Megiddo, one; [22] the king of Kedesh, one; the king of Jokneam in Carmel, one; [23] the king of Dor in Naphath-dor, one; the king of Goiim at Gilgal, one; [24] the king of Tirzah, one. Thirty-one kings in all.

CHAPTER 13

[1] When Joshua had grown old and was well along in years, the LORD said to him, "You have grown old and are well along in years, and a great deal of land remains to be taken over. [2] This is the land that still remains: all the districts of the Philistines and all those of the Geshurites, [3] from the Shihor east of Egypt north to the territory of Ekron, which is reckoned as Canaanite; the five rulers of the Philistines in Gaza, Ashdod, Ashkelon, Gath, and Ekron; and the Avvim [4] to the south; the whole land of the Canaanites, from Mearah, which belongs to the Sidonians, as far as Aphek and the border of the Amorites; [5] the land of the Gebalites; and all Lebanon to the east, from Baal-gad at the foot of Mount Hermon to Lebo-hamath; [] [6] and all the people of the hill country from Lebanon to Misrephoth-maim, all the Sidonians. I myself will drive them out before the children of Israel. You have only to assign the land to Israel by lot as an inheritance, as I have commanded you. [7] So now divide this land as an inheritance among the nine tribes and the half-tribe of Manasseh." [8] Along with the other half of Manasseh, the Reubenites and the Gadites had already received the inheritance Moses gave them east of the Jordan, as Moses the servant of the LORD had assigned it to them: [9] from Aroer on the rim of the Valley of the Arnon, with the town in the middle of the valley, and the whole tableland of Medeba as far as Dibon; [10] all the towns of Sihon king of the Amorites, who ruled in Heshbon, up to the border of the Ammonites; [11] also Gilead, the territory of the Geshurites and Maacathites, all of Mount Hermon, and all Bashan as far as Salecah, [12] the whole kingdom of Og in Bashan, who had ruled in Ashtaroth and Edrei and was the last survivor of the Rephaim. Moses had defeated them and driven them out. [13] But the children of Israel did not drive out the Geshurites and the Maacathites, so Geshur and Maacath still live among Israel today. [14] To the tribe of Levi alone he gave no inheritance. The food offerings of the LORD, the God of Israel, are their inheritance, as he told them. [] [15] Moses had assigned to the tribe of the children of Reuben an inheritance clan by clan. [16] Their territory reached from Aroer on the rim of the Valley of the Arnon, with the town in the middle of the valley, and all the tableland next to Medeba, [17] Heshbon and all its cities that are on the plateau: Dibon, Bamoth-baal, Beth-baal-meon, [18] Jahaz, Kedemoth, Mephaath, [19] Kiriathaim, Sibmah, Zereth-shahar on the hill of the valley, [20] Beth-peor, the slopes of Pisgah, Beth-jeshimoth, [21] all the towns of the tableland and the whole kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, who ruled in Heshbon. Moses had defeated him and the chiefs of Midian, Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba, vassal princes of Sihon who lived in that country. [22] Along with the others they killed, the children of Israel also put to the sword Balaam son of Beor, who practiced divination. [23] The boundary of the children of Reuben was the Jordan and its bank. These towns and their villages were the inheritance of the children of Reuben, clan by clan. [24] Moses had also assigned an inheritance to the tribe of Gad, to the children of Gad clan by clan. [25] Their territory included Jazer, all the towns of Gilead, and half the land of the Ammonites up to Aroer, near Rabbah; [26] from Heshbon to Ramath-mizpeh and Betonim, and from Mahanaim to the territory of Lo-debar; [*] [27] and in the valley, Beth-haram, Beth-nimrah, Succoth, and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon king of Heshbon, with the Jordan and its bank up to the southern tip of the Sea of Chinnereth, east of the Jordan. [28] These towns and their villages were the inheritance of the children of Gad, clan by clan. [29] Moses had assigned an inheritance to the half-tribe of Manasseh; it went to half the tribe of the children of Manasseh, clan by clan. [30] Their territory stretched from Mahanaim through all Bashan, the whole kingdom of Og king of Bashan, including all the settlements of Jair in Bashan, sixty towns, [31] and half of Gilead, with Ashtaroth and Edrei, the royal cities of Og in Bashan. These were given to the descendants of Machir son of Manasseh, to half of the children of Machir, clan by clan. [32] These were the inheritances Moses allotted when he was in the plains of Moab, east of the Jordan across from Jericho. [33] But Moses gave no inheritance to the tribe of Levi; the LORD, the God of Israel, is their inheritance, as he told them.

CHAPTER 14

[1] These are the territories the children of Israel received as an inheritance in the land of Canaan, which Eleazar the priest, Joshua son of Nun, and the heads of the families of the tribes of the children of Israel allotted to them. [2] Their inheritance was assigned by lot to the nine and a half tribes, as the LORD had commanded through Moses. [3] Moses had already given the two and a half tribes their inheritance east of the Jordan, but he had given the Levites no inheritance among them. [4] The sons of Joseph had become two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim. The Levites received no share of the land, only towns to live in, with pasturelands for their livestock and their herds. [5] So the children of Israel divided the land, just as the LORD had commanded Moses. [6] The children of Judah approached Joshua at Gilgal, and Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite said to him, "You know what the LORD told Moses the man of God at Kadesh-barnea about you and me. [7] I was forty years old when Moses the servant of the LORD sent me from Kadesh-barnea to explore the land, and I brought back to him an honest report. [8] My brothers who went up with me made the people's hearts melt with fear, but I wholly followed the LORD my God.* [9] So on that day Moses swore to me, 'The land your foot has walked on will be an inheritance for you and your descendants forever, because you wholly followed the LORD my God.' [10] Now, as you can see, the LORD has kept me alive these forty-five years, just as he promised, ever since the LORD said this to Moses while Israel was wandering in the wilderness. So here I am today, eighty-five years old! [11] I am still as strong today as I was the day Moses sent me out. My strength now is just as it was then, for battle and for going out and coming in. [12] So give me now this hill country the LORD promised me that day. You yourself heard then that the Anakim were there, with large fortified cities. Perhaps the LORD will be with me, and I will drive them out as the LORD said." [13] Joshua blessed Caleb son of Jephunneh and gave him Hebron as his inheritance. [14] That is why Hebron has belonged to Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite as an inheritance to this day, because he wholly followed the LORD, the God of Israel. [15] Hebron used to be called Kiriath-arba, after Arba, the greatest man among the Anakim. Then the land had rest from war.

CHAPTER 15

[1] The allotment for the tribe of the children of Judah, clan by clan, extended south to the border of Edom, to the wilderness of Zin at the southern extremity. [2] Their southern boundary started from the tip of the Salt Sea, from the bay that faces south, [3] ran south of the ascent of Akrabbim, continued to Zin, went up south of Kadesh-barnea, passed Hezron, went up to Addar, and curved around toward Karka.* [4] From there it passed to Azmon, joined the Brook of Egypt, and came out at the sea. This will be your southern boundary. [5] The eastern boundary was the Salt Sea as far as the mouth of the Jordan. The northern boundary began at the bay of the sea at the mouth of the Jordan, [6] went up to Beth-hoglah, and continued north of Beth-arabah, climbing to the Stone of Bohan son of Reuben. [7] Then the boundary went up to Debir from the Valley of Achor and turned north toward Gilgal, which faces the ascent of Adummim south of the valley. It continued to the waters of En-shemesh and came out at En-rogel. [8] From there the boundary went up the Valley of the Son of Hinnom along the southern slope of the Jebusite city, that is, Jerusalem, and climbed to the top of the hill west of the Valley of Hinnom, at the northern end of the Valley of Rephaim. [9] From the hilltop the boundary curved to the spring of the waters of Nephtoah, ran out to the towns of Mount Ephron, and bent around to Baalah, that is, Kiriath-jearim. [10] From Baalah the boundary turned west to Mount Seir, ran along the northern slope of Mount Jearim, that is, Chesalon, went down to Beth-shemesh, and passed on to Timnah. [11] It then went out to the northern slope of Ekron, curved toward Shikkeron, passed Mount Baalah, and reached Jabneel, coming out at the sea. [12] The western boundary was the coastline of the Great Sea. These were the boundaries all around the children of Judah, clan by clan. [13] In keeping with the LORD's command to Joshua, he gave Caleb son of Jephunneh a share among the children of Judah: Kiriath-arba, that is, Hebron. Arba was the father of Anak. [14] Caleb drove out from there the three sons of Anak: Sheshai, Ahiman, and Talmai, descendants of Anak. [15] From there he marched against the people living in Debir, which used to be called Kiriath-sepher. [16] Caleb said, "I will give my daughter Achsah in marriage to the man who attacks Kiriath-sepher and captures it." [17] Othniel son of Kenaz, Caleb's brother, captured it, and Caleb gave him his daughter Achsah as his wife. [18] When she came to Othniel, she urged him to ask her father for a field. As she dismounted from her donkey, Caleb asked her, "What can I do for you?" [19] She replied, "Give me a blessing. Since you have given me land in the Negev, give me springs of water as well." So he gave her the upper and the lower springs. [20] This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah, clan by clan. [21] The southernmost towns of the tribe of the children of Judah, near the border of Edom in the Negev, were Kabzeel, Eder, Jagur, [22] Kinah, Dimonah, Adadah, [23] Kedesh, Hazor, Ithnan, [24] Ziph, Telem, Bealoth, [25] Hazor-hadattah, Kerioth-hezron (that is, Hazor), [26] Amam, Shema, Moladah, [27] Hazar-gaddah, Heshmon, Beth-pelet, [28] Hazar-shual, Beersheba, Biziothiah, [29] Baalah, Iim, Ezem, [30] Eltolad, Chesil, Hormah, [31] Ziklag, Madmannah, Sansannah, [32] Lebaoth, Shilhim, Ain, and Rimmon: twenty-nine towns in all, with their villages. [33] In the lowland: Eshtaol, Zorah, Ashnah, [34] Zanoah, En-gannim, Tappuah, Enam, [35] Jarmuth, Adullam, Socoh, Azekah, [36] Shaaraim, Adithaim, Gederah and Gederothaim: fourteen cities with their villages. [37] Zenan, Hadashah, Migdal-gad, [38] Dilean, Mizpeh, Joktheel, [39] Lachish, Bozkath, Eglon, [40] Cabbon, Lahmas, Chitlish,* [41] Gederoth, Beth-dagon, Naamah and Makkedah: sixteen cities with their villages. [42] Libnah, Ether, Ashan, [43] Iphtah, Ashnah, Nezib, [44] Keilah, Achzib and Mareshah: nine cities with their villages. [45] Ekron, with its surrounding towns and villages; [46] west of Ekron, all the places near Ashdod, with their villages; [47] Ashdod, with its surrounding towns and villages; and Gaza, with its surrounding towns and villages, as far as the Brook of Egypt and the coastline of the Great Sea. [48] In the hill country: Shamir, Jattir, Socoh, [49] Dannah, Kiriath-sannah (that is, Debir), [50] Anab, Eshtemoh, Anim, [51] Goshen, Holon and Giloh: eleven cities with their villages. [52] Arab, Rumah, Eshan,* [53] Janum, Beth-tappuah, Aphekah, [54] Humtah, Kiriath-arba (that is, Hebron) and Zior: nine cities with their villages. [55] Maon, Carmel, Ziph, Juttah, [56] Jezreel, Jokdeam, Zanoah, [57] Kain, Gibeah and Timnah: ten cities with their villages. [58] Halhul, Beth-zur, Gedor, [59] Maarath, Beth-anoth and Eltekon: six cities with their villages. [60] Kiriath-baal (that is, Kiriath-jearim) and Rabbah: two cities with their villages. [61] In the wilderness: Beth-arabah, Middin, Secacah, [62] Nibshan, the City of Salt and En-gedi: six cities with their villages. [63] But the children of Judah were unable to drive out the Jebusites who lived in Jerusalem, and to this day the Jebusites live there in Jerusalem alongside the children of Judah.

CHAPTER 16

[1] The allotment for the children of Joseph began at the Jordan near Jericho, east of the springs of Jericho, and ran up through the wilderness from Jericho into the hill country to Bethel. [2] From Bethel it went on to Luz and crossed to the territory of the Archites at Ataroth. [3] It then descended westward to the territory of the Japhletites as far as the region of Lower Beth-horon and on to Gezer, coming out at the sea. [4] In this way the children of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, received their inheritance. [5] This was the territory of the children of Ephraim, clan by clan: the boundary of their inheritance ran on the east from Ataroth-addar to Upper Beth-horon [6] and continued to the sea. From Michmethath on the north it curved eastward to Taanath-shiloh and passed it on the east to Janoah. [7] From Janoah it descended to Ataroth and Naarah, reached Jericho, and came out at the Jordan. [8] From Tappuah the boundary ran west along the brook Kanah and came out at the sea. This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim, clan by clan, [9] together with the towns set aside for the children of Ephraim within the inheritance of the children of Manasseh, all those towns with their villages. [10] However, they did not drive out the Canaanites living in Gezer, and the Canaanites live among Ephraim to this day, but they have been put to forced labor.

CHAPTER 17

[1] This was the allotment for the tribe of Manasseh, since he was Joseph's firstborn. Machir, Manasseh's firstborn and the father of Gilead, received Gilead and Bashan, because he was a warrior. [2] The rest of the children of Manasseh also received allotments, clan by clan: the descendants of Abiezer, Helek, Asriel, Shechem, Hepher, and Shemida. These were the male descendants of Manasseh son of Joseph, by their clans. [3] Zelophehad son of Hepher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, had no sons, only daughters. His daughters' names were Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. [4] They came to Eleazar the priest, Joshua son of Nun, and the leaders and said, "The LORD commanded Moses to give us an inheritance among our relatives." So Joshua gave them an inheritance among their father's brothers, as the LORD had commanded. [5] Thus Manasseh received ten shares in addition to the land of Gilead and Bashan on the other side of the Jordan, [6] because the daughters of Manasseh received an inheritance along with his sons. The land of Gilead went to the rest of the children of Manasseh. [7] Manasseh's boundary ran from Asher to Michmethath, east of Shechem, and then south toward the people of En-tappuah. [8] The region of Tappuah belonged to Manasseh, but the town of Tappuah on Manasseh's border belonged to the children of Ephraim. [9] The boundary then descended to the brook Kanah. The towns south of the brook belonged to Ephraim, though they lay among Manasseh's towns. Manasseh's boundary ran along the north side of the brook and came out at the sea. [10] Ephraim's land lay to the south and Manasseh's to the north, with the sea as its boundary. They bordered Asher on the north and Issachar on the east. [11] Within Issachar and Asher, Manasseh also had Beth-shean, Ibleam, and the people of Dor, En-dor, Taanach, and Megiddo, each with its towns: the three heights. [*] [12] But the children of Manasseh were unable to take over these towns, because the Canaanites were determined to stay in that land. [13] When the children of Israel became stronger, they subjected the Canaanites to forced labor but did not drive them out altogether. [14] The children of Joseph said to Joshua, "Why have you given us only one allotment and one share as our inheritance? We are a numerous people, because the LORD has blessed us so far." [15] Joshua answered them, "If you are so numerous, and the hill country of Ephraim is too cramped for you, go up into the forest and clear a place for yourselves there in the land of the Perizzites and the Rephaim." [16] The children of Joseph replied, "The hill country will not be enough for us, and all the Canaanites who live in the plain have iron chariots, both those in Beth-shean and its towns and those in the Valley of Jezreel." [17] Joshua said to the house of Joseph, to Ephraim and Manasseh, "You are indeed numerous and very strong. You will not have just one allotment. [18] The hill country will also be yours. It is forested, but you will clear it, and its outer limits will belong to you. You will drive out the Canaanites, even though they have iron chariots and are strong."

CHAPTER 18

[1] The whole congregation of the children of Israel gathered at Shiloh and set up the tent of meeting there. The land had been brought under their control. [2] But seven tribes of the children of Israel had still not been given their inheritance. [3] So Joshua asked the children of Israel, "How long will you put off going in to take possession of the land the LORD, the God of your fathers, has given you? [4] Choose three men from each tribe, and I will send them out. They are to set out, travel throughout the land, and write a description of it with a view to their inheritance. Then they are to return to me. [5] They are to divide it into seven parts. Judah will remain in its territory in the south, and the house of Joseph will remain in its territory in the north. [6] Write a description of the seven parts of the land and bring it to me here, and I will cast lots for you here in the presence of the LORD our God. [7] The Levites, however, have no share among you, because the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance. And Gad, Reuben, and the half-tribe of Manasseh have already received their inheritance on the east side of the Jordan, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave them." [8] As the men started out, Joshua instructed those who were going to describe the land: "Go and travel throughout the land and describe it in writing. Then come back to me, and I will cast lots for you here before the LORD at Shiloh." [9] So the men left and went through the land, describing it town by town in seven parts in a book. Then they returned to Joshua in the camp at Shiloh. [10] Joshua cast lots for them at Shiloh in the presence of the LORD, and there he distributed the land to the children of Israel according to their divisions. [11] The lot for the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up, clan by clan. Their allotted territory lay between the children of Judah and the children of Joseph. [12] On the north their boundary began at the Jordan, went up the slope north of Jericho, headed west through the hill country, and came out at the wilderness of Beth-aven. [13] From there it crossed south to

Luz, to the slope of Luz, that is, Bethel, and descended to Ataroth-addar on the hill south of Lower Beth-horon. [14] Then the boundary turned and ran south along the western side from the hill facing Beth-horon on the south, coming out at Kiriath-baal, that is, Kiriath-jearim, a town of the children of Judah. This was the western side. [15] The southern side started at the edge of Kiriath-jearim on the west and ran to the spring of the waters of Nephtoah. [16] The boundary then descended to the foot of the hill facing the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, at the northern end of the Valley of Rephaim. It ran down the Valley of Hinnom along the southern slope of the Jebusite city and down to En-rogel. [17] From there it curved north, went on to En-shemesh, continued to Geliloth, facing the ascent of Adummim, and descended to the Stone of Bohan son of Reuben. [18] It continued to the northern slope facing the Arabah and went down into the Arabah. [19] It then passed to the northern slope of Beth-hoglah and came out at the northern bay of the Salt Sea, at the southern mouth of the Jordan. This was the southern boundary. [20] The Jordan was the boundary on the east. These were the boundaries all around the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, clan by clan. [21] The towns of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, clan by clan, were Jericho, Beth-hoglah, Emek-keziz, [22] Beth-arabah, Zemaraim, Bethel, [23] Avvim, Parah, Ophrah, [24] Chephar-ammoni, Ophni, and Geba: twelve towns with their villages. [25] Gibeon, Ramah, Beeroth, [26] Mizpeh, Chephirah, Mozah, [27] Rekem, Irpeel, Taralah, [28] Zela, Haeleph, Jebus, that is, Jerusalem, Gibeath, and Kiriath: fourteen towns with their villages. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, clan by clan.*

CHAPTER 19

[1] The second lot fell to Simeon, to the tribe of the children of Simeon, clan by clan. Their inheritance lay within the inheritance of the children of Judah. [2] Their inheritance included Beersheba, Sheba, Moladah, [3] Hazar-shual, Balah, Ezem, [4] Eltolad, Bethul, Hormah, [5] Ziklag, Beth-marcaboth, Hazar-susah, [6] Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhen: thirteen towns with their villages; [7] Ain, Rimmon, Ether, and Ashan: four towns with their villages; [8] and all the villages surrounding these towns as far as Baalath-beer, Ramah of the Negev. This was the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon, clan by clan. [9] The inheritance of the children of Simeon came out of the share of the children of Judah, because Judah's share was more than they needed. So the children of Simeon received their inheritance within Judah's inheritance. [10] The third lot came up for the children of Zebulun, clan by clan. The boundary of their inheritance extended to Sarid. [11] It went up westward to Maralah, reached Dabbesheth, and touched the brook east of Jokneam. [12] From Sarid it ran the other way, east toward the sunrise, to the territory of Chisloth-tabor, continued to Daberath, and went up to Japhia. [13] From there it crossed eastward toward the sunrise to Gath-hepher and Eth-kazin, came out at Rimmon, and curved toward Neah. [14] On the north the boundary went around to Hannathon and came out at the Valley of Iphtah-el. [15] Included were Kattath, Nahalal, Shimron, Idalah, and Bethlehem: twelve towns with their villages. [16] These towns and their villages were the inheritance of the children of Zebulun, clan by clan. [17] The fourth lot fell to Issachar, to the children of Issachar, clan by clan. [18] Their territory extended to Jezreel and included Chesulloth, Shunem, [19] Hapharaim, Shion, Anaharath, [20] Rabbith, Kishion, Ebez, [21] Remeth, En-gannim, En-haddah, and Beth-pazzez. [22] The boundary reached Tabor, Shahazimah, and Beth-shemesh and came out at the Jordan: sixteen towns with their villages.* [23] These towns and their villages were the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Issachar, clan by clan. [24] The fifth lot fell to the tribe of the children of Asher, clan by clan. [25] Their territory comprised Helkath, Hali, Beten, Achshaph, [26] Allammelech, Amad, and Mishal. On the west it reached Carmel and Shihor-libnath. [27] It then turned east toward Beth-dagon, reached Zebulun and the Valley of Iphtah-el, north to Beth-emek and Neiel, and continued to Cabul on the north, [28] Ebron, Rehob, Hammon, and Kanah, as far as Greater Sidon.* [29] The boundary then turned back toward Ramah and went to the fortified city of Tyre, turned toward Hosah, and came out at the sea in the region of Achzib. [30] Included were Ummah, Aphek, and Rehob: twenty-two towns with their villages. [31] These towns and their villages were the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Asher, clan by clan. [32] The sixth lot fell to the children of Naphtali, clan by clan. [33] Their boundary ran from Heleph and the oak at Zaanannim, past Adami-nekeb and Jabneel to Lakkum, and came out at the Jordan. [34] On the west the boundary went back to Aznoth-tabor and from there to Hukkok. It reached Zebulun on the south, Asher on the west, and Judah at the Jordan on the east.* [35] The fortified towns were Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Chinnereth, [36] Adamah, Ramah, Hazor, [37] Kedesh, Edrei, En-hazor, [38] Iron, Migdal-el, Horem, Beth-anath, and Beth-shemesh: nineteen towns with their villages. [39] These towns and their villages were the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, clan by clan. [40] The seventh lot fell to the tribe of the children of Dan, clan by clan. [41] The territory of their inheritance comprised Zorah, Eshtaol, Ir-shemesh, [42] Shaalabbin, Aijalon, Ithlah, [43] Elon, Timnah, Ekron, [44] Eltekeh, Gibbethon, Baalath, [45] Jehud, Bene-berak, Gath-rimmon, [46] Me-jarkon, and Rakkon, along with the area facing Joppa. [47] But the territory of the children of Dan slipped away from them, so they went up and attacked Leshem. They captured it, put it to the sword, took possession of it, and settled there. They renamed Leshem Dan, after their ancestor Dan.* [48] These towns and their villages were the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan, clan by clan. [49] When they had finished dividing the land into its territories as an inheritance, the children of Israel gave Joshua son of Nun an inheritance among them. [50] At the LORD's command they gave him the town he requested, Timnath-serah in the hill country of Ephraim. He rebuilt the town and settled there. [51] These are the inheritances Eleazar the priest, Joshua son of Nun, and the heads of the families of the tribes of the children of Israel assigned by lot at Shiloh before the LORD, at the entrance to the tent of meeting. So they completed the division of the land.

CHAPTER 20

[1] The LORD said to Joshua, [2] "Tell the children of Israel, 'Designate the cities of refuge I told you about through Moses, [3] so that anyone who kills a person accidentally or unintentionally may flee there. They will be your place of refuge from the avenger of blood. [4] When someone flees to one of these cities, he is to stand at the entrance of the city gate and present his case to the elders of that city. They are to admit him into the city and give him a place to live among them. [5] If the avenger of blood pursues him, they must not hand the killer over to him, since he killed his neighbor unintentionally and had not hated him beforehand. [6] He is to stay in that city until he has stood trial before the congregation and until the death of whoever is high priest at that time. Then the killer may go back to his own town and his own home, the town he fled from.'" [7] So they set aside Kedesh in Galilee in the hill country of Naphtali, Shechem in the hill country of Ephraim, and Kiriath-arba, that is, Hebron, in the hill country of Judah. [8] East of the Jordan, across from Jericho, they designated Bezer in the wilderness on the tableland from the tribe of Reuben, Ramoth in Gilead from the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Bashan from the tribe of Manasseh. [9] These were the cities designated for all the children of Israel and for the sojourners living among them, so that anyone who killed a person accidentally could flee there and not die at the hand of the avenger of blood before standing trial before the congregation.

CHAPTER 21

[1] The heads of the Levite families approached Eleazar the priest, Joshua son of Nun, and the heads of the families of the tribes of the children of Israel, [2] and spoke to them at Shiloh in the land of Canaan: "Through Moses the LORD commanded that we be given towns to live in, along with pasturelands for our livestock." [3] So at the LORD's command the children of Israel gave the Levites the following towns and pasturelands out of their own inheritance. [4] The lot came out for the Kohathite clans. The descendants of Aaron the priest, who were Levites, were allotted thirteen towns from the tribes of Judah, Simeon, and Benjamin. [5] The remaining descendants of Kohath were allotted ten towns from the clans of the tribe of Ephraim, the tribe of Dan, and the half-tribe of Manasseh. [6] The descendants of Gershon were allotted thirteen towns from the clans of the tribes of Issachar, Asher, and Naphtali and from the half-tribe of Manasseh in Bashan. [7] The descendants of Merari, clan by clan, received twelve towns from the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Zebulun. [8] So the children of Israel allotted these towns and their pasturelands to the Levites, as the LORD had commanded through Moses. [9] From the tribes of the children of Judah and the children of Simeon they gave the following towns, listed here by name. [10] These went to the descendants of Aaron from the Kohathite clans of the Levites, since the first lot was theirs. [11] They gave them Kiriath-arba, that is, Hebron, in the hill country of Judah, with the pasturelands surrounding it. Arba was the father of Anak. [12] But the fields and villages around the city they had given to Caleb son of Jephunneh as his property. [13] So to the descendants of Aaron the priest they gave Hebron, a city of refuge for one who has killed someone, with its pasturelands, Libnah with its pasturelands, [14] Jattir with its pasturelands, Eshtemoa with its pasturelands, [15] Holon with its pasturelands, Debir with its pasturelands, [16] Ain with its pasturelands, Juttah with its pasturelands, and Beth-shemesh with its pasturelands: nine towns from these two tribes. [17] From the tribe of Benjamin: Gibeon with its pasturelands, Geba with its pasturelands, [18] Anathoth with its pasturelands, and Almon with its pasturelands: four towns. [19] The towns of the priests, the descendants of Aaron, totaled thirteen, together with their pasturelands. [20] The rest of the Kohathite clans of the Levites were allotted towns from the tribe of Ephraim. [21] They were given Shechem in the hill country of Ephraim, a city of refuge for one who has killed someone, with its pasturelands, Gezer with its pasturelands, [22] Kibzaim with its pasturelands, and Beth-horon with its pasturelands: four towns. [23] From the tribe of Dan: Eltekeh with its pasturelands, Gibbethon with its pasturelands, [24] Aijalon with its pasturelands, and Gath-rimmon with its pasturelands: four towns. [25] From the half-tribe of Manasseh they received Taanach with its pasturelands and Gath-rimmon with its pasturelands: two towns. [26] In all, the remaining Kohathite clans received ten towns with their pasturelands. [27] The Gershonite clans of the Levites were given, from the half-tribe of Manasseh, Golan in Bashan, a city of refuge for one who has killed someone, with its pasturelands, and Beeshterah with its pasturelands: two towns. [28] From the tribe of Issachar: Kishion with its pasturelands, Daberath with its pasturelands, [29] Jarmuth with its pasturelands, and En-gannim with its pasturelands: four towns. [30] From the tribe of Asher: Mishal with its pasturelands, Abdon with its pasturelands, [31] Helkath with its pasturelands, and Rehob with its pasturelands: four towns. [32] From the tribe of Naphtali they received Kedesh in Galilee, a city of refuge for one who has killed someone, with its pasturelands, Hammoth-dor with its pasturelands, and Kartan with its pasturelands: three towns. [33] The towns of the Gershonite clans totaled thirteen, with their pasturelands. [34] The Merarite clans, the remaining Levites, were given from the tribe of Zebulun Jokneam with its pasturelands, Kartah with its pasturelands, [35] Dimnah with its pasturelands, and Nahalal with its pasturelands: four towns. [36] From the tribe of Reuben: Bezer with its pasturelands, Jahaz with its pasturelands,* [37] Kedemoth with its pasturelands, and Mephaath with its pasturelands: four towns. [38] From the tribe of Gad they received Ramoth in Gilead, a city of refuge for one who has killed someone, with its pasturelands, Mahanaim with its pasturelands, [39] Heshbon with its pasturelands, and Jazer with its pasturelands: four towns in all. [40] So the towns allotted to the Merarite clans, the rest of the Levite clans, numbered twelve. [41] The towns of the Levites within the territory held by the children of Israel totaled forty-eight, together with their pasturelands. [42] Every one of these towns had pasturelands surrounding it; this was true of all of them. [43] Thus the LORD gave Israel the whole land he had sworn to give their fathers, and they took possession of it and lived there. [44] The LORD gave them rest all around, just as he had sworn to their fathers. Not one of their enemies could withstand them; the LORD handed all their enemies over to them. [45] Of all the good promises the LORD had made to the house of Israel, not one failed; every one was fulfilled.

CHAPTER 22

[1] Then Joshua called together the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh [2] and told them, "You have done everything Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, and you have obeyed me in all I commanded you. [3] For a long time now, right up to today, you have not abandoned your brothers, but have faithfully carried out the charge the LORD your God gave you. [4] Now the LORD your God has given your brothers rest, as he promised them. So turn back now and go home to your tents in the land that is your possession, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave you across the Jordan. [5] But be very careful to keep the commandment and the law that Moses the servant of the LORD gave you: love the LORD your God, walk in all his ways, keep his commandments, hold fast to him, and serve him with all your heart and all your soul." [6] Then Joshua blessed them and sent them off, and they went home to their tents. [7] To one half of the tribe of Manasseh Moses had given land in Bashan, and to the other half Joshua had given land with their brothers on the west side of the Jordan. When Joshua sent them home to their tents, he blessed them [8] and said, "Go back to your tents with great riches: large herds of livestock, silver, gold, bronze, and iron, and a great amount of clothing. Share with your brothers the spoil taken from your enemies." [9] So the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh left the children of Israel at Shiloh in the land of Canaan and headed home to the land of Gilead, their own land, which they had acquired at the LORD's command through Moses. [10] When they reached the region of the Jordan in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh built an altar there beside the Jordan, an altar of imposing size. [11] The children of Israel received word: "The children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh have built an altar facing the land of Canaan, in the region of the Jordan, on the side belonging to the children of Israel." [12] When the children of Israel heard this, the whole congregation of the children of Israel assembled at Shiloh to go to war against them. [13] So the children of Israel sent Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest to the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh in the land of Gilead. [14] With him went ten leaders, one for each family from all the tribes of Israel, each of them head of his family among the thousands of Israel. [] [15] They went to the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh in the land of Gilead and said to them, [16] "This is what the whole congregation of the LORD says: 'What is this breach of faith you have committed against the God of Israel? How could you turn away from the LORD today by building yourselves an altar in rebellion against the LORD today? [17] Was the sin of Peor not enough for us? To this day we have not purified ourselves from it, even though a plague struck the congregation of the LORD. [18] And now you are turning away from the LORD today! If you rebel against the LORD today, tomorrow he will be angry with the whole congregation of Israel. [19] If the land you possess is unclean, come over to the land the LORD possesses, where the LORD's tabernacle stands, and take a possession among us. But do not rebel against the LORD or against us by building an altar for yourselves besides the altar of the LORD our God. [20] When Achan son of Zerah broke faith regarding the devoted things, did not wrath fall on the whole congregation of Israel? And he was not the only one who died for his sin.'" [21] The children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh replied to the heads of the thousands of Israel, [22] "The Mighty One, God, the LORD! The Mighty One, God, the LORD! He knows, and may Israel also know! If this was rebellion or a breach of faith against the LORD, do not spare us today. [] [23] If we built ourselves an altar to turn away from the LORD, or to offer burnt offerings or grain offerings on it, or to present sacrifices of peace offerings on it, may the LORD himself call us to account. [24] No! We did it out of concern that in the future your descendants might say to ours, 'What do you have to do with the LORD, the God of Israel? [25] The LORD has made the Jordan a boundary between us and you, you children of Reuben and children of Gad. You have no share in the LORD.' In this way your descendants might cause ours to stop fearing the LORD. [26] That is why we said, 'Let us get to work and build an altar, but not for burnt offerings or sacrifices. [27] Instead it is to be a witness between us and you and the generations after us, that we will carry out the worship of the LORD in his presence with our burnt offerings, sacrifices, and peace offerings. Then in the future your descendants will not be able to say to ours, "You have no share in the LORD."' [28] We also said, 'If they ever say this to us or to our descendants, we will answer, "Look at this replica of the LORD's altar that our fathers built, not for burnt offerings or sacrifices, but as a witness between us and you."' [29] Far be it from us to rebel against the LORD and turn away from him today by building an altar for burnt offerings, grain offerings, or sacrifices other than the altar of the LORD our God that stands in front of his tabernacle!" [30] When Phinehas the priest and the leaders of the congregation, the heads of the thousands of Israel who were with him, heard what the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the children of Manasseh had to say, they were satisfied. [31] Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest said to the children of Reuben, the children of Gad, and the children of Manasseh, "Today we know that the LORD is among us, because you have not committed this breach of faith against the LORD. You have rescued the children of Israel from the LORD's hand." [32] Then Phinehas son of Eleazar the priest and the leaders came back from meeting with the children of Reuben and the children of Gad in the land of Gilead and returned to the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and gave them their report. [33] The children of Israel were pleased with the report, and the children of Israel blessed God. They said no more about going to war against them to devastate the land where the children of Reuben and the children of Gad lived. [34] The children of Reuben and the children of Gad gave the altar this name: "It is a witness between us that the LORD is God."*

CHAPTER 23

[1] Many days later, after the LORD had given Israel rest from all the enemies around them, and Joshua had grown old and was well along in years, [2] Joshua called for all Israel, their elders, leaders, judges, and officials, and said to them, "I have grown old and am well along in years. [3] You yourselves have seen everything the LORD your God has done to all these nations for your sake, for it was the LORD your God who fought for you. [4] Look, I have allotted to you as an inheritance for your tribes the nations that remain, together with all the nations I have already destroyed, from the Jordan to the Great Sea in the west. [5] The LORD your God himself will thrust them out ahead of you and drive them out of your way, and you will take possession of their land, as the LORD your God promised you. [6] So be very firm in keeping and doing everything written in the book of the law of Moses, without turning aside from it to the right or the left. [7] Do not associate with these nations that are left among you. Do not invoke the names of their gods or make anyone swear by them; do not serve them or bow down to them. [8] Instead, hold fast to the LORD your God, as you have done until now. [9] The LORD has driven out great and powerful nations before you, and to this day no one has been able to withstand you. [10] A single one of you routs a thousand, because the LORD your God fights for you, just as he promised you. [11] So be very careful, for your own sake, to love the LORD your God. [12] For if you do turn away and attach yourselves to what is left of these nations that remain among you, and intermarry with them and mix with them and they with you, [13] then you may be sure that the LORD your God will no longer drive these nations out before you. Instead they will be a snare and a trap for you, a lash on your sides and thorns in your eyes, until you vanish from this good land the LORD your God has given you. [14] I am now going the way of all the earth, and you know with all your heart and soul that not one of all the good promises the LORD your God made to you has failed. Every one has been fulfilled for you; not a single one has failed. [15] But just as every good promise the LORD your God made to you has been fulfilled, so the LORD will bring on you every threatened evil, until he has wiped you out from this good land the LORD your God has given you, [16] if you break the covenant of the LORD your God, which he commanded you, and go off to serve other gods and bow down to them. Then the LORD's anger will blaze against you, and you will quickly vanish from the good land he has given you."

CHAPTER 24

[1] Joshua assembled all the tribes of Israel at Shechem. He called for the elders of Israel, their leaders, judges, and officials, and they presented themselves before God. [2] Joshua said to all the people, "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'In ancient times your fathers, including Terah the father of Abraham and Nahor, lived beyond the River and served other gods.* [3] But I took your father Abraham from beyond the River and led him throughout the land of Canaan. I gave him many descendants; I gave him Isaac, [4] and to Isaac I gave Jacob and Esau. I gave Esau the hill country of Seir as his possession, but Jacob and his sons went down to Egypt. [5] Then I sent Moses and Aaron, and I struck Egypt with plagues by what I did there, and afterward I brought you out. [6] When I brought your fathers out of Egypt, you came to the sea, and the Egyptians chased your fathers with chariots and horsemen as far as the Red Sea. [7] They cried out to the LORD, and he put darkness between you and the Egyptians and brought the sea over them, and it covered them. You saw with your own eyes what I did in Egypt. Then you lived in the wilderness for many days. [8] I brought you to the land of the Amorites who lived east of the Jordan. They fought against you, but I handed them over to you. You took possession of their land, and I destroyed them before you. [9] Then Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab, set out to fight against Israel. He sent for Balaam son of Beor to curse you. [10] But I was not willing to listen to Balaam, so he kept on blessing you, and I rescued you from his power. [11] You crossed the Jordan and came to Jericho. The men of Jericho fought against you, as did the Amorites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hittites, Girgashites, Hivites, and Jebusites, but I handed them over to you. [12] I sent the hornet ahead of you, and it drove them out before you, the two kings of the Amorites. It was not your sword or your bow that did it. [13] I gave you a land you had not worked for and towns you had not built, and you live in them. You eat from vineyards and olive groves you did not plant.' [14] So now, fear the LORD and serve him wholeheartedly and faithfully. Get rid of the gods your fathers served beyond the River and in Egypt, and serve the LORD. [15] But if serving the LORD seems wrong to you, then choose today whom you will serve: the gods your fathers served beyond the River, or the gods of the Amorites in whose land you are living. As for me and my household, we will serve the LORD." [16] The people answered, "We would never forsake the LORD to serve other gods! [17] For the LORD our God is the one who brought us and our fathers up out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slaves, who performed those great signs before our eyes, and who protected us along the whole way we traveled and among all the peoples we passed through. [18] The LORD drove out before us all the peoples, including the Amorites who lived in the land. So we too will serve the LORD, because he is our God." [19] Joshua said to the people, "You are not able to serve the LORD, because he is a holy God. He is a jealous God; he will not pardon your rebellion or your sins. [20] If you forsake the LORD and serve foreign gods, he will turn and bring harm on you and destroy you, after having been good to you." [21] But the people told Joshua, "No! We will serve the LORD." [22] Joshua said to the people, "You are witnesses against yourselves that you have chosen to serve the LORD." "We are witnesses," they replied. [23] "Then get rid of the foreign gods among you and turn your hearts to the LORD, the God of Israel." [24] The people said to Joshua, "We will serve the LORD our God and obey his voice." [25] On that day Joshua made a covenant for the people, and there at Shechem he laid down a statute and a rule for them. [26] Joshua recorded these words in the book of the law of God. Then he took a large stone and set it up there under the oak near the sanctuary of the LORD. [27] He said to all the people, "Look, this stone will be a witness against us, for it has heard every word the LORD has spoken to us. It will be a witness against you, so that you do not deny your God." [28] Then Joshua dismissed the people, each to his own inheritance. [29] After these events Joshua son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died at the age of a hundred and ten. [30] They buried him in the land of his inheritance at Timnath-serah in the hill country of Ephraim, north of Mount Gaash. [31] Israel served the LORD throughout the lifetime of Joshua and of the elders who outlived him and who had experienced everything the LORD had done for Israel. [32] Joseph's bones, which the children of Israel had brought up from Egypt, were buried at Shechem in the plot of land Jacob had bought from the sons of Hamor, the father of Shechem, for a hundred pieces of money. It became the inheritance of the children of Joseph. [*] [33] Eleazar son of Aaron also died, and they buried him at Gibeah, the town of his son Phinehas, which had been given to him in the hill country of Ephraim.

CHAPTER 1

[1] It came about after Joshua died that the children of Israel asked the LORD, "Which of us is to go up first against the Canaanites to make war on them?" [2] The LORD answered, "Judah is to go up. I have now put the land into his hand." [3] Judah said to his brother Simeon, "Go up with me into my lot, and we will fight the Canaanites; then I in turn will go with you into your lot." And Simeon went with him. [4] So Judah went up, and the LORD handed the Canaanites and the Perizzites over to them, and at Bezek they killed ten thousand of their men. [5] At Bezek they came upon Adoni-bezek, and they fought him and defeated the Canaanites and the Perizzites. [6] Adoni-bezek ran away; they chased after him, seized him, and cut off the thumbs of his hands and the big toes of his feet. [7] Adoni-bezek said, "Seventy kings, the thumbs of their hands and of their feet cut off, used to pick up scraps beneath my table. Just as I did, so God has repaid me." They took him to Jerusalem, and there he died. [8] The children of Judah made war on Jerusalem and took it; they put it to the sword and sent the city up in flames. [9] After that the children of Judah went down to fight the Canaanites living in the hill country, the Negev and the lowland. [10] Judah marched against the Canaanites living in Hebron (formerly Hebron was called Kiriath-arba), and they killed Sheshai, Ahiman and Talmai. [11] From there he marched against those who lived in Debir; in earlier times Debir was called Kiriath-sepher. [12] Caleb said, "The man who attacks Kiriath-sepher and takes it, I will give him my daughter Achsah for a wife." [13] Othniel son of Kenaz, the younger brother of Caleb, took it, and Caleb gave him his daughter Achsah for a wife. [14] When she came to him, she prompted him to ask her father for a field. She slipped down from the donkey, and Caleb asked her, "What is it you want?" [15] She answered him, "Give me a blessing. You have given me land in the Negev; give me pools of water too." So Caleb gave her the upper pools and the lower pools. [16] The sons of the Kenite, Moses' father-in-law, went up from the City of Palms with the children of Judah into the wilderness of Judah that is in the Negev of Arad, and they went and settled with the people. [17] Judah went with his brother Simeon, and they defeated the Canaanites who lived in Zephath and devoted the city to destruction; so it was named Hormah. [18] Judah also took Gaza and its territory, Ashkelon and its territory, and Ekron and its territory. [19] The LORD was with Judah, and he took over the hill country; but he was unable to dispossess those living in the valley, since they had iron chariots. [20] Hebron was given to Caleb, as Moses had promised, and he drove out of it the three sons of Anak. [21] The children of Benjamin did not dispossess the Jebusites living in Jerusalem, and to this day the Jebusites have lived in Jerusalem alongside the children of Benjamin. [22] The house of Joseph likewise went up, against Bethel, and the LORD was with them. [23] The house of Joseph had Bethel scouted out; the city's name before that had been Luz. [24] The lookouts saw a man leaving the city and said to him, "Show us, please, how to get into the city, and we will treat you kindly." [25] He showed them how to get into the city, and they put the city to the sword, but the man and his whole clan they let go. [26] The man went off to the land of the Hittites, built a city, and named it Luz; that has been its name to this day. [27] Manasseh did not dispossess Beth-shean and its towns, or Taanach and its towns, or those living in Dor and its towns, or those living in Ibleam and its towns, or those living in Megiddo and its towns; the Canaanites were intent on staying in that land. [28] When Israel became strong, they set the Canaanites to forced labor, but they did not drive them out altogether. [29] Ephraim did not dispossess the Canaanites living in Gezer, and the Canaanites went on living in Gezer in their midst. [30] Zebulun did not dispossess those living in Kitron or those living in Nahalol; the Canaanites lived in their midst and were made to do forced labor. [31] Asher did not dispossess those living in Acco or those living in Sidon, nor Ahlab, Achzib, Helbah, Aphik and Rehob. [32] The Asherites settled in the midst of the Canaanites who lived in the land, because they did not dispossess them. [33] Naphtali did not dispossess those living in Beth-shemesh or those living in Beth-anath, but settled in the midst of the Canaanites who lived in the land; those living in Beth-shemesh and Beth-anath, though, did forced labor for them. [34] The Amorites hemmed the children of Dan into the hill country and would not allow them to come down into the valley. [35] The Amorites were intent on staying at Mount Heres, at Aijalon and at Shaalbim; but when the hand of the house of Joseph weighed heavily on them, they were put to forced labor. [36] The Amorites' border went from the ascent of Akrabbim, from Sela, and on up.

CHAPTER 2

[1] The angel of the LORD came up from Gilgal to Bochim and said, "I brought you up from Egypt and led you into the land I swore to your fathers, and I said, 'Never will I break my covenant with you, [2] and you for your part are not to make a covenant with the people who live in this land; their altars you are to pull down.' Yet you have not obeyed my voice. Why have you done this? [3] So I also said, 'I will not drive them out ahead of you; they will be thorns in your sides, and their gods will be a trap for you.'" [4] As the angel of the LORD was speaking these words to all the children of Israel, the people raised their voices and wept. [5] They named that place Bochim, and there they offered sacrifices to the LORD. [6] Joshua had dismissed the people, and the children of Israel had gone, each to his inheritance, to possess the land. [7] The people served the LORD throughout Joshua's lifetime and throughout the lifetime of the elders who lived on after Joshua, who had seen all the great deeds the LORD had done for Israel. [8] Then Joshua son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died, a hundred and ten years old. [9] They buried him in the territory he had inherited, at Timnath-heres in the hill country of Ephraim, to the north of Mount Gaash. [10] That whole generation was gathered to their fathers as well, and after them rose up another generation that knew neither the LORD nor the deeds he had done for Israel. [11] Then the children of Israel did evil in the LORD's sight and served the Baals. [12] They abandoned the LORD, the God of their fathers, who had brought them out of Egypt, and followed other gods, gods of the peoples around them, and bowed down to them, and so they provoked the LORD. [13] They abandoned the LORD and served Baal and the Ashtaroth. [14] The LORD's anger blazed against Israel, and he handed them over to raiders who plundered them, and sold them into the power of their enemies on every side; they could no longer hold their ground against their enemies. [15] Whenever they marched out, the LORD's hand was against them to bring them harm, just as the LORD had said and as the LORD had sworn to them, and they were in sore distress. [16] And the LORD raised up judges who rescued them from the hand of their plunderers. [17] Even to their judges, though, they would not listen, but went whoring after other gods and bowed down to them. They were quick to turn from the way in which their fathers had walked, obeying the LORD's commandments; they did not do likewise. [18] When the LORD raised up judges for them, the LORD would be with the judge and would rescue them from their enemies' hand for as long as the judge lived, because the LORD was moved by their groaning over those who oppressed and afflicted them. [19] But once the judge was dead, they would turn back and behave worse than their fathers, following other gods, serving them and bowing down to them. They let go of none of their deeds or their stubborn ways. [20] So the LORD's anger blazed against Israel, and he said, "Since this nation has broken my covenant that I laid upon their fathers and has not obeyed my voice, [21] I in turn will no longer dispossess before them a single one of the nations that Joshua left behind when he died, [22] so that through them I may test Israel, whether they will keep to the way of the LORD, walking in it as their fathers kept to it, or not." [23] So the LORD let those nations remain; he did not quickly dispossess them, and he had not handed them over to Joshua.

CHAPTER 3

[1] These are the nations the LORD left, so as to test Israel by means of them, that is, all those in Israel who had not experienced any of the wars of Canaan; [2] it was only so that the generations of the children of Israel might come to know war, so that he might teach it to those who had not known it before: [3] the five lords of the Philistines and all the Canaanites, the Sidonians, and the Hivites who lived in the mountains of Lebanon, from Mount Baal-hermon to Lebo-hamath. [4] They were for testing Israel, to find out whether they would obey the LORD's commandments that he had given their fathers by the hand of Moses. [5] And the children of Israel lived in the midst of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites. [6] They took the daughters of these peoples as their wives, and gave their own daughters to their sons, and they served their gods. [7] The children of Israel did evil in the LORD's sight; they forgot the LORD their God and served the Baals and the Asherim.* [8] So the LORD's anger blazed against Israel, and he sold them into the hand of Cushan-rishathaim king of Mesopotamia, and the children of Israel were subject to Cushan-rishathaim for eight years.* [9] Then the children of Israel cried to the LORD, and the LORD raised up for the children of Israel a deliverer who rescued them, Othniel son of Kenaz, the younger brother of Caleb. [10] The Spirit of the LORD was upon him, and he judged Israel. He went out to battle, and the LORD handed Cushan-rishathaim king of Mesopotamia over to him; his hand was strong against Cushan-rishathaim. [11] And the land was at rest for forty years, and Othniel son of Kenaz died. [12] Once more the children of Israel did evil in the LORD's sight, and the LORD made Eglon king of Moab strong against Israel, since they had done evil in the LORD's sight. [13] Eglon brought together with him the children of Ammon and Amalek; he went and defeated Israel, and they took over the City of Palms. [14] For eighteen years the children of Israel were subject to Eglon king of Moab. [15] Then the children of Israel cried to the LORD, and the LORD raised up a deliverer for them, Ehud son of Gera, the Benjaminite, a man restricted in his right hand. By him the children of Israel sent tribute to Eglon king of Moab.* [16] Ehud made himself a double-edged sword a cubit in length and fastened it on his right thigh beneath his garments. [17] He brought the tribute to Eglon king of Moab; Eglon was a very fat man. [18] When Ehud had finished bringing the tribute, he sent off the men who had carried it. [19] He himself, though, turned back from the carved images by Gilgal and said, "I have a secret word for you, O king." The king said, "Hush!" and all his attendants went out. [] [20] Ehud came in to him while he sat by himself in his cool upper room. Ehud said, "I have a word from God for you," and the king got up from his chair. [21] Ehud put out his left hand, drew the sword from his right thigh, and drove it into his belly. [22] Even the handle went in after the blade, and the fat closed around the blade, for he did not pull the sword out of his belly; and the dung came out. [] [23] Ehud went out to the porch; he shut the doors of the upper room on him and locked them. [24] When he had left, the king's servants came and saw that the doors of the upper room were locked. They said, "He must be relieving himself in the inner room of the cool chamber." [*] [25] They waited till they were ashamed, but still he did not open the doors of the upper room. So they took the key and opened up, and there lay their lord on the floor, dead. [26] While they hesitated, Ehud got away; he passed the carved images and escaped to Seirah. [27] On arriving, he sounded the horn in the hill country of Ephraim, and the children of Israel went down with him from the hill country, he at their front. [28] He told them, "Come after me, for the LORD has handed your enemies, Moab, over to you." They went down after him, took the fords of the Jordan leading to Moab, and allowed no one to cross. [29] At that time they killed about ten thousand Moabites, all of them sturdy, all of them valiant men; not a man got away. [30] That day Moab was brought low under Israel's hand, and the land was at rest for eighty years. [31] After him there was Shamgar son of Anath; he killed six hundred Philistines with an oxgoad, and he too rescued Israel.

CHAPTER 4

[1] Once Ehud was dead, the children of Israel again did evil in the LORD's sight. [2] The LORD sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, who reigned at Hazor; the commander of his army was Sisera, and he lived at Harosheth-hagoyim. [3] The children of Israel cried to the LORD, because Jabin had nine hundred iron chariots and for twenty years had oppressed the children of Israel cruelly. [4] At that time Deborah, a woman who was a prophetess, wife of Lappidoth, was judging Israel. [5] She would sit beneath Deborah's palm tree between Ramah and Bethel in the hill country of Ephraim, and the children of Israel went up to her to have their cases decided. [6] She sent for Barak son of Abinoam from Kedesh-naphtali and said to him, "Has not the LORD, the God of Israel, given this command: 'Go, draw toward Mount Tabor, and take ten thousand men from the children of Naphtali and the children of Zebulun with you. [7] And I will draw Sisera, the commander of Jabin's army, to you at the Kishon River with his chariots and his horde, and hand him over to you'?" [8] Barak answered her, "If you will go with me, I will go; if you will not go with me, I will not go." [9] "I will go with you, surely," she said, "only the honor will not be yours on the road you are taking, for the LORD will sell Sisera into a woman's hand." And Deborah got up and went with Barak to Kedesh. [10] Barak summoned Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh, and ten thousand men went up at his heels, and Deborah went up with him. [11] Heber the Kenite had parted from the Kenites, from the sons of Hobab, Moses' father-in-law, and had pitched his tent as far off as the oak at Zaanannim, near Kedesh. [12] Word came to Sisera that Barak son of Abinoam had gone up to Mount Tabor. [13] So Sisera summoned all his chariots, nine hundred iron chariots, and all the troops with him, from Harosheth-hagoyim to the Kishon River. [14] Deborah said to Barak, "Up! This is the day when the LORD has handed Sisera over to you. Has not the LORD gone out ahead of you?" So Barak went down from Mount Tabor, ten thousand men behind him. [15] The LORD routed Sisera, all the chariots and the whole army, with the edge of the sword before Barak; and Sisera climbed down from his chariot and ran away on foot. [16] Barak chased the chariots and the army all the way to Harosheth-hagoyim, and Sisera's whole army fell by the edge of the sword; not even one remained. [17] Sisera, meanwhile, ran on foot to the tent of Jael, wife of Heber the Kenite, since Jabin king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite were at peace. [18] Jael came out to meet Sisera and told him, "Come in, my lord, come in here to me; do not be afraid." He went into her tent, and she covered him with a blanket. [19] He said to her, "Give me a little water to drink, please; I am thirsty." She opened a skin of milk, let him drink, and covered him again. [20] He told her, "Stand in the doorway of the tent, and if anyone comes and asks you, 'Is anybody here?' tell him, 'No one.'" [21] But Jael, Heber's wife, took a tent peg and put a hammer in her hand, came to him softly, and drove the peg through his temple into the ground, for he was in a deep sleep from weariness; and he died. [22] And there was Barak, chasing Sisera! Jael came out to meet him and told him, "Come, I will show you the man you are after." He went in to her, and there lay Sisera dead, the peg through his temple. [23] So God brought Jabin king of Canaan low that day before the children of Israel. [24] And the hand of the children of Israel weighed more and more heavily on Jabin king of Canaan, until they had cut off Jabin king of Canaan.

CHAPTER 5

[1] On that day Deborah sang, with Barak son of Abinoam, and said: [2] "For the leaders who led in Israel, for the people who gave themselves freely, bless the LORD! [3] Listen, you kings! Pay attention, you princes! I, to the LORD I will sing, I will make music to the LORD, the God of Israel. [4] LORD, when you came out from Seir, when you strode from the fields of Edom, the earth shook, the skies poured, yes, the clouds poured down water. [5] The mountains flowed before the LORD, that Sinai before the LORD, the God of Israel. [6] In the days of Shamgar son of Anath, in the days of Jael, the roads were empty, and those who traveled kept to crooked byways. [7] Village life came to a halt in Israel, it came to a halt, till I, Deborah, rose up, rose up as a mother in Israel. [] [8] New gods were chosen; then war was at the gates. Was a shield to be seen, or a spear, among forty thousand in Israel? [] [9] My heart is with Israel's commanders, who gave themselves freely among the people. Bless the LORD! [10] You who ride on white donkeys, you who sit on fine rugs, you who walk on the road, tell of it! [11] Louder than the archers' voices at the places where water is drawn, there they recount the LORD's righteous deeds, the righteous deeds of his villagers in Israel. Then the LORD's people went down to the gates. [12] Wake up, wake up, Deborah! Wake up, wake up, sing a song! Rise, Barak, and take your captives captive, son of Abinoam! [13] Then down came a remnant against the nobles of the people; the people of the LORD came down for me against the mighty.* [14] Out of Ephraim came those rooted in Amalek; behind you, Benjamin, among your kinsfolk. Out of Machir came down commanders, and out of Zebulun those who wield the scribe's staff. [15] Issachar's princes were with Deborah; as Issachar was, so was Barak, sent into the valley on his heels. Among the divisions of Reuben were great resolves of heart. [16] Why did you stay among the sheepfolds, listening to the whistling for the flocks? Among the divisions of Reuben were great searchings of heart. [17] Gilead kept to his place across the Jordan; and Dan, why did he stay on with the ships? Asher remained by the seashore and kept to his harbors. [18] Zebulun is a people that scorned its life even to death, and Naphtali also, on the high places of the field. [19] Kings came, they fought; then the kings of Canaan fought at Taanach beside the waters of Megiddo; not a piece of silver did they carry off. [20] From the heavens the stars fought; from their paths they fought against Sisera. [21] The Kishon River swept them off, that age-old river, the Kishon River. Tread on with strength, my soul! [22] Then the horses' hoofs pounded, from the galloping, galloping of his mighty ones. [23] 'Curse Meroz,' says the angel of the LORD, 'curse, curse its inhabitants, since they did not come to the aid of the LORD, to the aid of the LORD among the mighty.' [24] Blessed above women is Jael, wife of Heber the Kenite; above women in the tent may she be blessed. [25] Water he asked; milk she gave; in a bowl fit for nobles she brought him curds. [26] Her hand she put out to the peg, her right hand to the laborer's mallet; she hammered Sisera, she smashed his head, she split and pierced through his temple. [27] Between her feet he sank down, he fell, he lay; between her feet he sank down, he fell; where he sank down, there he fell, destroyed. [28] Out of the window she peered and wailed, Sisera's mother, out through the lattice: 'Why is his chariot taking so long to come? Why are the hoofbeats of his chariots so late?' [29] The wise women among her ladies answer her; she too repeats her own words to herself: [30] 'Surely they are finding the spoil and sharing it out: a womb, two wombs for every man; spoil of dyed garments for Sisera, spoil of dyed garments embroidered, a dyed piece, two embroidered pieces, for the necks of the plunderer.'* [31] Thus let all your enemies perish, LORD! But let those who love him be like the rising of the sun in its might." And the land was at rest for forty years.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Then the children of Israel did evil in the LORD's sight, and the LORD handed them over to Midian for seven years. [2] Midian's hand bore down hard on Israel. Because of Midian the children of Israel made the hollows that are in the mountains for themselves, and the caves and the strongholds. [3] And whenever Israel sowed, Midian would come up, with Amalek and the sons of the east; they would come up against them. [4] They would encamp against them and ruin the crops of the land all the way to Gaza, leaving nothing to live on in Israel, no sheep, no ox, no donkey. [5] For they would come up with their herds and their tents, as thick as locusts; there was no counting them or their camels, and they entered the land to lay it waste. [6] Israel was reduced to great poverty by Midian, and the children of Israel cried to the LORD. [7] And when the children of Israel cried to the LORD because of Midian, [8] the LORD sent a man, a prophet, to the children of Israel, who said to them, "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'It was I who brought you up out of Egypt and led you out of the house of slaves. [9] I rescued you from the hand of Egypt and from the hand of all your oppressors; I drove them out ahead of you and gave you their land. [10] I told you, "I am the LORD your God; do not fear the gods of the Amorites, in whose land you are living." Yet you have not obeyed my voice.'" [11] The angel of the LORD came and sat under the oak in Ophrah that belonged to Joash the Abiezrite. His son Gideon was beating out wheat in the winepress, to keep it hidden from Midian. [12] The angel of the LORD appeared to him and said, "The LORD is with you, you mighty man of valor!" [13] Gideon answered him, "Pardon me, my lord, but if the LORD is with us, why has all this come upon us? Where are all his wonders that our fathers recounted to us, saying, 'Was it not the LORD who brought us up from Egypt?' Now the LORD has cast us off and handed us over to Midian." [14] The LORD turned toward him and said, "Go in this strength you have and rescue Israel from the hand of Midian. Am I not sending you?" [15] He answered him, "Pardon me, Lord, with what shall I rescue Israel? My clan is the poorest in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father's house." [16] The LORD said to him, "I will indeed be with you, and you will strike Midian down as though it were one man." [17] He said to him, "If I have found favor in your sight, then give me a sign that you are the one speaking with me. [18] Please do not go away from here until I come back to you, bring my offering, and set it before you." He said, "I will stay until you come back." [19] Gideon went in and got ready a young goat and unleavened loaves from an ephah of flour. He put the meat in a basket and the broth in a pot, brought them out to him beneath the oak, and offered them. [20] The angel of God told him, "Take the meat and the unleavened loaves, put them on this rock, and pour out the broth." He did so. [21] The angel of the LORD stretched out the end of the staff he held and touched the meat and the unleavened loaves. Fire flared up from the rock and devoured the meat and the loaves, and the angel of the LORD went from his sight. [22] Gideon realized that it was the angel of the LORD, and Gideon said, "Ah, Lord GOD! Now I have seen the angel of the LORD face to face!" [23] The LORD said to him, "Peace to you. Do not be afraid; you will not die." [24] Gideon built an altar to the LORD there and named it The LORD Is Peace. It is still in Ophrah of the Abiezrites to this day. 25 That very night the LORD said to him, "Take the young bull of your father's, the second bull seven years old. Pull down your father's altar of Baal, and cut down the Asherah that stands by it. * 26 Build an altar to the LORD your God on top of this stronghold, in the proper arrangement. Take the second bull and offer a burnt offering on the wood of the Asherah you cut down." * 27 Gideon took ten of his servants and did what the LORD had told him. Since he was too afraid of his father's household and of the men of the town to do it in the daytime, he did it at night. 28 Early in the morning the men of the town got up, and there was Baal's altar pulled down, the Asherah beside it cut down, and the second bull offered on the newly built altar. 29 They asked each other, "Who did this?" They investigated and asked around, and were told, "Gideon son of Joash did this." 30 The men of the town said to Joash, "Bring your son out; he must die, because he pulled down Baal's altar and cut down the Asherah beside it." 31 Joash said to all those standing against him, "Is it you who will plead Baal's case? Will you rescue him? Whoever pleads his case will be put to death before morning. If he is a god, let him plead his own case, since his altar has been pulled down." 32 So that day he was called Jerubbaal, that is to say, "Let Baal plead against him," because he had pulled down his altar. 33 Now all Midian and Amalek and the sons of the east gathered together; they crossed over and encamped in the valley of Jezreel. 34 The Spirit of the LORD put on Gideon like a garment; he sounded the horn, and Abiezer was summoned behind him. 35 He sent messengers through all of Manasseh, and it too was summoned behind him; and he sent messengers into Asher, Zebulun and Naphtali, and they came up to join them. 36 Gideon said to God, "If you are going to rescue Israel by my hand, as you have spoken, 37 see, I am putting a fleece of wool on the threshing floor. If dew is on the fleece only and the whole ground is dry, I will know that you will rescue Israel by my hand, as you have spoken." 38 That is what happened. He got up early the next day, pressed the fleece, and squeezed dew out of the fleece, a bowl full of water. 39 Gideon said to God, "Do not let your anger flare against me, and let me speak only this once more. Let me test just once more with the fleece, please: let the fleece alone be dry, and let there be dew on all the ground." 40 That night God did so: the fleece alone was dry, and on all the ground there was dew.

CHAPTER 7

1 Early in the morning Jerubbaal, that is, Gideon, and all the troops with him encamped by the spring of Harod. Midian's camp lay north of him, by the hill of Moreh in the valley. 2 The LORD said to Gideon, "There are too many troops with you for me to hand Midian over to them; Israel would glorify itself over me, saying, 'My own hand has rescued me.' 3 So now announce in the hearing of the troops: 'Whoever is fearful and trembling may turn back and hurry away from Mount Gilead.'" Twenty-two thousand of the troops turned back, and ten thousand were left. 4 The LORD said to Gideon, "There are still too many troops. Bring them down to the water, and I will sift them for you there. Whoever I tell you, 'This one is to go with you,' is to go with you; and whoever I tell you, 'This one is not to go with you,' is not to go." 5 He brought the troops down to the water, and the LORD told Gideon, "Everyone who laps the water with his tongue the way a dog laps, put him on one side, and everyone who gets down on his knees to drink." * 6 Those who lapped with their hands to their mouths numbered three hundred men; all the rest of the troops got down on their knees to drink water. 7 The LORD told Gideon, "By the three hundred men who lapped I will rescue you and hand Midian over to you. Let all the rest of the troops go home, each to his place." 8 The troops took provisions and their horns in hand, and he dismissed all the men of Israel, each to his tent, keeping only the three hundred men. Midian's camp lay beneath him in the valley. 9 That night the LORD said to him, "Up, go down into the camp, for I have handed it over to you. 10 If you are afraid to go down, go down to the camp with Purah your servant, 11 and listen to what they are saying. After that your hands will be strong and you will go down into the camp." So he went down with Purah his servant to the edge of the armed men who were in the camp. 12 Midian and Amalek and all the sons of the east were spread over the valley as thick as locusts, and their camels were past counting, as many as the sand on the shore of the sea. 13 Gideon arrived, and there was a man recounting a dream to his comrade. "I had a dream," he was saying, "and there was a cake of barley bread rolling over and over into Midian's camp. It came up to the tent and hit it; it fell, it turned it upside down, and the tent collapsed." 14 His comrade replied, "This can only be the sword of Gideon son of Joash, the Israelite. God has handed Midian and the whole camp over to him." 15 When Gideon heard the account of the dream and what it meant, he bowed in worship. He went back to Israel's camp and said, "Up! The LORD has handed Midian's camp over to you." 16 He split the three hundred men into three units, and put horns and empty jars into the hands of all of them, with torches inside the jars. 17 He told them, "Look at me and do likewise. When I reach the edge of the camp, do exactly what I do. 18 When I sound the horn, I and everyone with me, you too sound the horns all around the camp and shout, 'For the LORD and for Gideon!'" 19 Gideon and the hundred men with him reached the edge of the camp at the start of the middle watch, just after the guards had been set. They sounded the horns and smashed the jars they held. 20 All three units sounded the horns and shattered the jars; they gripped the torches in their left hands and the horns for blowing in their right, and they shouted, "A sword for the LORD and for Gideon!" 21 Each man stayed where he stood around the camp, and the whole camp ran; they cried out and fled. 22 As the three hundred horns sounded, the LORD turned each man's sword against his comrade throughout the camp. The army fled as far as Beth-shittah toward Zererah, as far as the edge of Abel-meholah near Tabbath. 23 The men of Israel were called out from Naphtali, Asher and all Manasseh, and they chased after Midian. 24 Gideon sent messengers all through the hill country of Ephraim with the word: "Come down to meet Midian, and take the waters ahead of them as far as Beth-barah, and the Jordan." So all the men of Ephraim were called out, and they took the waters as far as Beth-barah, and the Jordan. [25] They captured Midian's two princes, Oreb and Zeeb; they killed Oreb at the rock of Oreb and Zeeb at the winepress of Zeeb. They kept chasing Midian, and they carried the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon on the far side of the Jordan.

CHAPTER 8

[1] The men of Ephraim said to him, "Why have you treated us this way, not summoning us when you went to fight with Midian?" They argued fiercely with him. [2] He replied, "What have I done now, next to you? Are not Ephraim's gleanings better than Abiezer's whole vintage? [3] Into your hands God handed the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb. What could I do, next to you?" When he said this, their temper toward him cooled. [4] Gideon came to the Jordan and crossed it, he and his three hundred men, worn out but still in pursuit. [5] He said to the men of Succoth, "Please give some loaves of bread to the troops who are following me; they are worn out, and I am chasing Zebah and Zalmunna, the kings of Midian." [6] The officials of Succoth said, "Do you already have the palms of Zebah and Zalmunna in your hand, that we should give your army bread?" [7] Gideon said, "Very well; when the LORD has handed Zebah and Zalmunna over to me, I will flail your flesh with desert thorns and with briers." [8] He went up from there to Penuel and said the same to them, and the men of Penuel answered him just as the men of Succoth had. [9] To the men of Penuel too he said, "When I come back safe, I will pull this tower down." [10] Zebah and Zalmunna were at Karkor, and their forces with them, some fifteen thousand, all that remained of the whole army of the sons of the east; those who had fallen were a hundred and twenty thousand swordsmen. [11] Gideon went up by the route of those who live in tents, east of Nobah and Jogbehah, and attacked the army while the army was off its guard. [12] Zebah and Zalmunna fled; he chased them and seized both kings of Midian, Zebah and Zalmunna, and the whole army he threw into terror. [13] Gideon son of Joash came back from the battle by the pass of Heres. [14] He seized a young man from Succoth and questioned him, and he wrote down for him the names of Succoth's officials and elders, seventy-seven men. [15] He came to the men of Succoth and said, "Look, here are Zebah and Zalmunna, over whom you mocked me, saying, 'Do you already have the palms of Zebah and Zalmunna in your hand, that we should give bread to your exhausted men?'" [16] He took the city's elders, and desert thorns and briers, and with them taught the men of Succoth a lesson. [*17] He pulled down the tower of Penuel and killed the men of the city. [18] He said to Zebah and Zalmunna, "Where are the men you killed at Tabor?" They said, "They were like you; every one had the look of a king's son." [19] He said, "They were my brothers, my mother's sons. As the LORD lives, if you had spared their lives, I would not kill you." [20] He told Jether his firstborn, "Up, kill them!" But the boy did not draw his sword; he was afraid, being still a boy. [21] Zebah and Zalmunna said, "You get up and strike us down, for as the man is, so is his might." So Gideon got up and killed Zebah and Zalmunna, and he took the crescents that hung on their camels' necks. [22] The men of Israel said to Gideon, "Rule over us, both you and your son and your grandson, since you have rescued us from the hand of Midian." [23] Gideon answered them, "I will not rule over you, nor will my son rule over you. The LORD will rule over you." [24] Gideon also said to them, "I have one request to ask of you: let each of you give me an earring from his spoil." (They had golden earrings, since they were Ishmaelites.) [25] They said, "We will give them, gladly." They spread out a cloak, and each man threw onto it an earring from his spoil. [26] The gold earrings he asked for weighed one thousand seven hundred shekels of gold, not counting the crescents, the pendants, and the purple robes the kings of Midian wore, and not counting the chains around their camels' necks. [27] Gideon made it into an ephod and set it up in his town, Ophrah. All Israel went whoring after it there, and it became a trap for Gideon and his household. [28] Thus Midian was brought low before the children of Israel and raised its head no more, and the land was at rest for forty years in Gideon's days. [29] Jerubbaal son of Joash went back to his house and lived there. [30] Gideon had seventy sons, his own offspring, because he had many wives. [31] His concubine at Shechem bore him a son as well, and he named him Abimelech. [32] Gideon son of Joash died at a ripe old age and was buried in his father Joash's tomb at Ophrah of the Abiezrites. [33] No sooner was Gideon dead than the children of Israel turned back and went whoring after the Baals; they set up Baal-berith as their god. [34] The children of Israel did not remember the LORD their God, who had rescued them from the hand of all their enemies round about, [35] and they did not deal kindly with the house of Jerubbaal, Gideon, for all the good he had done to Israel.

CHAPTER 9

[1] Abimelech son of Jerubbaal went to Shechem, to his mother's brothers, and spoke with them and with all the clan of his mother's father's house. He said, [2] "Speak, please, in the hearing of all the leaders of Shechem: 'Which is better for you, to have seventy men, every one of Jerubbaal's sons, ruling over you, or to have one man rule over you?' And keep in mind that I am your own bone and flesh." [*3] His mother's brothers spoke on his behalf, saying all these words in the hearing of all the leaders of Shechem, and their hearts leaned toward Abimelech, for they said, "He is our brother." [4] They gave him seventy silver pieces from the house of Baal-berith, and with it Abimelech hired idle, reckless men, and they followed him. [5] He came to his father's house in Ophrah and killed his brothers, the sons of Jerubbaal, seventy men, upon a single stone. Only Jotham, Jerubbaal's youngest son, survived, because he hid. [6] Then all the leaders of Shechem and all Beth-millo assembled and went and made Abimelech king beside the oak of the pillar at Shechem. [7] When Jotham heard of it, he went and stood on the summit of Mount Gerizim and called out to them in a loud voice: "Hear me, leaders of Shechem, so that God may hear you! [8] The trees went out one day to anoint a king over them. They said to the olive tree, 'Be king over us.' [9] The olive tree answered them, 'Shall I leave my oil, through which gods and men are honored, to go and sway above the trees?' [10] So the trees said to the fig tree, 'Come, you be king over us.' [11] The fig tree answered them, 'Shall I leave my sweetness and my fine fruit to go and sway above the trees?' [12] So the trees said to the vine, 'Come, you be king over us.' [13] The vine answered them, 'Shall I leave my new wine, which gladdens gods and men, to go and sway above the trees?' [14] At last all the trees said to the thornbush, 'Come, you be king over us.' [15] The thornbush answered the trees, 'If you really mean to anoint me king over you, come, shelter in my shade. If not, may fire burst from the thornbush and consume the cedars of Lebanon!' [16] So now, if it was in truth and integrity that you acted when you made Abimelech king, if you did right by Jerubbaal and his house, and if you treated him as the work of his hands deserved, [17] my father, who fought on your behalf, risked his life and rescued you from the hand of Midian, [18] while you today have risen against my father's house, killed his sons, seventy men, upon a single stone, and made Abimelech, his slave woman's son, king over the leaders of Shechem because he is your brother, [19] if, I say, you have acted today in truth and integrity toward Jerubbaal and his house, then be glad in Abimelech, and may he too be glad in you. [20] If not, may fire burst from Abimelech and consume the leaders of Shechem and Beth-millo, and may fire burst from the leaders of Shechem and Beth-millo and consume Abimelech!" [21] Then Jotham ran off and escaped. He went to Beer and settled there, away from his brother Abimelech. [22] Abimelech held power over Israel for three years. [23] God sent an evil spirit between Abimelech and the leaders of Shechem, and the leaders of Shechem betrayed Abimelech, [24] so that the wrong done to the seventy sons of Jerubbaal might come home and their blood be put upon their brother Abimelech, who killed them, and upon the leaders of Shechem, who had made his hands strong to kill his brothers. [25] The leaders of Shechem placed men in ambush against him on the mountaintops, and they robbed everyone who came by them along the road. Abimelech was told of it. [26] Gaal son of Ebed came with his brothers and passed into Shechem, and the leaders of Shechem put their confidence in him. [27] They went out to the fields, harvested their vineyards and trod the grapes, and they held a celebration. They went into their god's house, ate and drank, and cursed Abimelech. [28] Gaal son of Ebed said, "Who is Abimelech, and who is Shechem, that we should serve him? Is he not Jerubbaal's son, and Zebul his deputy? Serve the men of Hamor, Shechem's father! Why should we serve this man? [29] If only someone would put this people under my command! I would get rid of Abimelech." And he said to Abimelech, "Muster your army and come out!" [30] When Zebul, the governor of the city, heard what Gaal son of Ebed had said, his anger flared. [31] He sent messengers to Abimelech secretly to say, "Gaal son of Ebed and his brothers have come to Shechem, and they are turning the city against you. [] [32] So now, set out by night, you and the troops with you, and wait in ambush in the field. [33] In the morning, at sunrise, get up early and make a dash against the city. When he and his troops come out against you, do to him whatever you are able." [34] Abimelech and all the troops with him set out by night and lay in ambush against Shechem in four units. [35] Gaal son of Ebed came out and stood at the opening of the city gate, and Abimelech and his troops got up from their ambush. [36] Gaal saw the troops and said to Zebul, "See, troops are coming down off the mountaintops!" Zebul told him, "You are taking the shadows of the mountains for men." [37] Gaal spoke once more: "Look, troops are coming down from the navel of the land, and one unit is coming by way of the Diviners' Oak." [38] Zebul said to him, "Where is your big talk now, you who said, 'Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him?' Are these not the troops you scorned? Go out now and fight them!" [39] So Gaal went out in front of the leaders of Shechem and fought Abimelech. [40] Abimelech chased him and he fled from him, and many fell slain all the way to the opening of the gate. [41] Abimelech remained at Arumah, while Zebul drove Gaal and his brothers out so they could no longer live in Shechem. [42] The next day the people went out into the fields, and Abimelech was told. [43] He took the troops, split them into three units and set an ambush in the field. When he saw the people coming out of the city, he rose up against them and struck them down. [44] Abimelech and the unit with him charged ahead and took their stand at the opening of the city gate, while the other two units charged everyone in the fields and struck them down. [45] All that day Abimelech fought against the city. He took it and killed the people in it; then he razed the city and sowed salt over it. [46] All the leaders of the tower of Shechem heard of this and went into the stronghold of the house of El-berith. [*] [47] Abimelech received word that all the leaders of the tower of Shechem had gathered there. [48] Abimelech went up Mount Zalmon, he and all his troops. Abimelech took an axe in his hand, chopped off a bough from the trees, hoisted it, and set it on his shoulder. He said to the troops with him, "You have seen what I did; quick, do the same!" [49] So every one of the troops also chopped off a bough and followed Abimelech. They laid them against the stronghold and set the stronghold ablaze over the people inside, and all the people of the tower of Shechem died too, about a thousand men and women. [50] Abimelech went on to Thebez, laid siege to Thebez, and took it. [51] In the middle of the city stood a strong tower, and all the men and women, all the leaders of the city, fled into it; they shut it behind them and went up to the tower's roof. [52] Abimelech came up to the tower and attacked it, and he drew near the tower's door to set it on fire. [53] A woman dropped an upper millstone onto Abimelech's head and broke his skull. [54] Quickly he called to the young man who bore his armor and told him, "Draw your sword and kill me, so they will not say of me, 'A woman killed him.'" His young man ran him through, and he died. [55] Seeing that Abimelech was dead, the men of Israel went off, each to his own place. [56] So God paid back the evil Abimelech had done to his father by killing his seventy brothers, [57] and God brought all the evil of the men of Shechem back on their heads; the curse of Jotham son of Jerubbaal fell on them.

CHAPTER 10

[1] After Abimelech, Tola son of Puah, son of Dodo, a man of Issachar, rose up to rescue Israel. He lived at Shamir in the hill country of Ephraim. [2] For twenty-three years he judged Israel; then he died and was buried at Shamir. [3] Jair the Gileadite rose up after him and judged Israel for twenty-two years. [4] He had thirty sons who rode thirty donkeys, and they had thirty towns in the land of Gilead, called Havvoth-jair to this day. [5] Then Jair died and was buried at Kamon. [6] Once more the children of Israel did evil in the LORD's sight. They served the Baals and the Ashtaroth, and the gods of Syria, of Sidon, of Moab, of the children of Ammon and of the Philistines. They abandoned the LORD and served him no longer. [7] The LORD's anger blazed against Israel, and he sold them into the power of the Philistines and of the children of Ammon, [8] who that year battered and crushed the children of Israel. For eighteen years they did so to all the children of Israel across the Jordan in the land of the Amorites, in Gilead. [9] The children of Ammon even crossed the Jordan to make war on Judah, Benjamin and the house of Ephraim, and Israel was in sore distress. [10] The children of Israel cried to the LORD: "We have sinned against you; we abandoned our God and served the Baals." [11] The LORD answered the children of Israel, "Was it not from Egypt, from the Amorites, from the children of Ammon and from the Philistines that I rescued you? [12] When the Sidonians, Amalek and Maon oppressed you and you cried to me, I rescued you from their hand. [13] But you have abandoned me and served other gods. That is why I will not rescue you again. [14] Go, cry to the gods you have chosen. Let them be the ones to rescue you when you are in distress." [15] The children of Israel said to the LORD, "We have sinned. Do with us whatever you think best; only rescue us, please, today." [16] They got rid of the foreign gods among them and served the LORD, and his soul could bear Israel's trouble no longer. [*] [17] The children of Ammon were summoned and encamped in Gilead, and the children of Israel gathered and encamped at Mizpah. [18] The people, the leaders of Gilead, said to each other, "Whoever will be the first to fight the children of Ammon will be head over all who live in Gilead."

CHAPTER 11

[1] Jephthah the Gileadite was a mighty man of valor; he was the son of a woman who was a prostitute, and Gilead had fathered Jephthah. [2] Gilead's wife bore him sons too, and when his wife's sons were grown, they drove Jephthah away, telling him, "You will have no inheritance in our father's house, because you are another woman's son." [3] Jephthah fled from his brothers and settled in the land of Tob. Idle men collected around Jephthah and went out raiding with him. [4] After a time the children of Ammon went to war with Israel. [5] When the children of Ammon went to war with Israel, the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah from the land of Tob. [6] They told Jephthah, "Come and be our leader, so we can fight the children of Ammon." [7] Jephthah answered the elders of Gilead, "Was it not you who hated me and drove me from my father's house? Why come to me now, when you are in trouble?" [8] The elders of Gilead told Jephthah, "That is why we have come back to you now: go with us, fight the children of Ammon, and become our head, over everyone who lives in Gilead." [9] Jephthah told the elders of Gilead, "If you bring me back to fight the children of Ammon and the LORD hands them over to me, I am the one who will be your head." [10] The elders of Gilead told Jephthah, "The LORD is the one who hears between us, if we do not do exactly as you say." [11] So Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people set him over them as head and leader. Jephthah spoke all his words before the LORD at Mizpah. [12] Jephthah sent messengers to the king of the children of Ammon to say, "What is between you and me, that you have come to me to make war on my land?" [13] The king of the children of Ammon told Jephthah's messengers, "Because Israel seized my land when it came up out of Egypt, from the Arnon to the Jabbok and to the Jordan. Now give those lands back in peace." [14] Jephthah sent messengers once more to the king of the children of Ammon, [15] saying to him, "This is what Jephthah says: Israel did not seize the land of Moab or the land of the children of Ammon. [16] When they came up out of Egypt, Israel traveled through the wilderness as far as the Red Sea and came to Kadesh. [17] Israel sent messengers to the king of Edom: 'Let me pass through your land, please.' But the king of Edom would not hear of it. They sent to the king of Moab too, and he was unwilling. So Israel stayed on at Kadesh. [18] Then it traveled through the wilderness, went around the land of Edom and the land of Moab, came to the eastern side of the land of Moab, and encamped across the Arnon; they did not enter Moab's territory, for the Arnon was Moab's border. [19] Israel sent messengers to Sihon king of the Amorites, the king of Heshbon, and Israel said to him, 'Let us pass through your land, please, to our own place.' [20] But Sihon did not trust Israel to pass through his territory; Sihon gathered all his people, encamped at Jahaz, and made war on Israel. [21] The LORD, the God of Israel, handed Sihon and all his people over to Israel, and they defeated them; and Israel took over the whole land of the Amorites who lived in that land. [22] They took over the whole territory of the Amorites, from the Arnon to the Jabbok and from the wilderness to the Jordan. [23] So now, when the LORD, the God of Israel, has dispossessed the Amorites before his people Israel, are you going to take it over? [24] Do you not take over whatever Chemosh your god gives you to take? So whatever the LORD our God has dispossessed before us, that we will take over. [25] Are you now any better than Balak son of Zippor, king of Moab? Did he ever quarrel with Israel? Did he ever make war on them? [26] For three hundred years Israel has lived in Heshbon and its towns, in Aroer and its towns, and in all the cities along the Arnon. Why did you not take them back in all that time? [27] I have not sinned against you; it is you who wrong me by making war on me. Let the LORD, the Judge, judge today between the children of Israel and the children of Ammon." [28] But the king of the children of Ammon paid no attention to the message Jephthah sent him. [29] The Spirit of the LORD was upon Jephthah. He crossed Gilead and Manasseh, crossed to Mizpah of Gilead, and from Mizpah of Gilead crossed over toward the children of Ammon. [30] Jephthah vowed a vow to the LORD, saying, "If you will surely hand the children of Ammon over to me, [31] whatever comes out the door of my house to meet me when I return safe from the children of Ammon will belong to the LORD, and I will offer it up as a burnt offering."* [32] Jephthah crossed over toward the children of Ammon to fight them, and the LORD handed them over to him. [33] He struck them, from Aroer to where you come to Minnith, twenty cities, and as far as Abel-keramim, a very heavy blow. Thus the children of Ammon were brought low before the children of Israel. [34] Jephthah came to Mizpah, to his house, and there was his daughter coming out to meet him with tambourines and dancing! She was his one and only; apart from her he had no son or daughter. [35] When he saw her he tore his clothes and said, "Ah, my daughter! You have brought me to my knees; you are among those who trouble me. I have opened my mouth to the LORD and cannot go back." [36] She said to him, "My father, you have opened your mouth to the LORD. Do to me what came out of your mouth, now that the LORD has avenged you on your enemies, the children of Ammon." [37] She also said to her father, "Let this be done for me: let me be for two months, and I will go and wander on the mountains and weep over my virginity, I and my friends."* [38] "Go," he said, and let her go for two months. She went with her friends and wept over her virginity on the mountains. [39] When the two months were over, she came back to her father, and he carried out on her the vow he had made. She had not known a man. And it became a practice in Israel: [40] from year to year the daughters of Israel go out to commemorate the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite, four days each year.*

CHAPTER 12

[1] The men of Ephraim were summoned; they crossed toward Zaphon and said to Jephthah, "Why did you cross over to fight the children of Ammon without calling us to go with you? We are going to burn your house down on top of you!" [2] Jephthah told them, "My people and I were in a fierce dispute with the children of Ammon. I called to you, and you did not rescue me from their hand. [3] When I saw that you were not coming to the rescue, I put my life in my hand and crossed over to the children of Ammon, and the LORD handed them over to me. So why have you come up to me today to fight me?" [4] Jephthah gathered all the men of Gilead and fought Ephraim, and the men of Gilead struck Ephraim down, because they had said, "You are fugitives of Ephraim, you Gileadites, in among Ephraim and Manasseh." [5] Gilead took the fords of the Jordan leading to Ephraim. Whenever one of Ephraim's fugitives would say, "Let me cross," the men of Gilead would ask him, "Are you an Ephraimite?" If he answered, "No," [6] they would tell him, "Say Shibboleth," and he would say "Sibboleth," since he could not manage to say it properly. Then they would grab him and slaughter him at the fords of the Jordan. Forty-two thousand of Ephraim fell at that time. [7] Jephthah judged Israel six years. Then Jephthah the Gileadite died, and he was buried in one of the cities of Gilead.* [8] After him, Ibzan from Bethlehem judged Israel. [9] He had thirty sons. Thirty daughters he sent out to marry outside, and thirty daughters he brought in from outside for his sons. He judged Israel for seven years. [10] Ibzan died and was buried at Bethlehem. [11] After him, Elon the Zebulunite judged Israel; for ten years he judged Israel. [12] Elon the Zebulunite died and was buried at Aijalon in the land of Zebulun. [13] After him, Abdon son of Hillel the Pirathonite judged Israel. [14] He had forty sons and thirty grandsons, who rode on seventy donkeys. For eight years he judged Israel. [15] Abdon son of Hillel the Pirathonite died and was buried at Pirathon in the land of Ephraim, in the hill country of the Amalekites.

CHAPTER 13

[1] Once more the children of Israel did evil in the LORD's sight, and the LORD handed them over to the Philistines for forty years. [2] There was a man from Zorah, of the clan of the Danites, named Manoah. His wife was barren; she had never given birth. [3] The angel of the LORD appeared to the woman and told her, "Look, you are barren and have not given birth, but you will conceive and give birth to a son. [4] So take care now not to drink wine or strong drink, and do not eat anything unclean. [5] For you are going to conceive and give birth to a son. No razor is to touch his head, since the boy will be a Nazirite to God from the womb, and he will begin to rescue Israel from the hand of the Philistines." [6] The woman went and spoke to her husband: "A man of God came to me; he looked like the angel of God, most fearsome. I did not ask him where he came from, and he did not tell me his name. [7] He told me, 'You are going to conceive and give birth to a son. So now, drink no wine or strong drink and eat nothing unclean, because the boy will be a Nazirite to God from the womb until the day he dies.'" [8] Manoah pleaded with the LORD: "O Lord, please let the man of God you sent come back to us and teach us what we should do for the boy who is to be born." [9] God heard Manoah's voice, and the angel of God came back to the woman while she was sitting in the field; her husband Manoah was not with her. [10] The woman hurried and ran to tell her husband. She said to him, "The man who came to me that day has just appeared to me!" [11] Manoah got up and went after his wife. He came to the man and asked him, "Are you the man who spoke to the woman?" "I am," he said. [12] Manoah said, "Now when your word comes true, what is to be the rule for the boy, and what is he to do?" [13] The angel of the LORD answered Manoah, "The woman must take care to do all I told her. [14] She must not eat anything that comes from the vine; she must not drink wine or strong drink or eat anything unclean. Everything I commanded her she must observe." [15] Manoah said to the angel of the LORD, "Let us keep you here, please, while we get a young goat ready for you." [16] The angel of the LORD said to Manoah, "Though you keep me, I will not eat of your bread. But if you get a burnt offering ready, offer it to the LORD."

(Manoah did not know that he was the angel of the LORD.) [17] Manoah asked the angel of the LORD, "What is your name, so that we may honor you when your word comes true?" [18] The angel of the LORD said to him, "Why ask my name? It is wonderful."* [19] Manoah took the young goat and the grain offering and offered them on the rock to the LORD, and he did a wonderful thing as Manoah and his wife looked on. [20] As the flame rose from the altar toward the heavens, the angel of the LORD rose up in the altar's flame. Manoah and his wife were looking on, and they fell facedown to the ground. [21] The angel of the LORD did not appear to Manoah and his wife any more. Then Manoah understood that it had been the angel of the LORD. [22] Manoah said to his wife, "We are going to die, surely, because we have seen God." [23] But his wife told him, "If the LORD had been pleased to kill us, he would not have taken a burnt offering and grain offering from our hands, and he would not have shown us all these things or let us hear such things now." [24] The woman gave birth to a son and named him Samson. The boy grew up, and the LORD blessed him. [25] The Spirit of the LORD began to stir him at Mahaneh-dan, between Zorah and Eshtaol.

CHAPTER 14

[1] Samson went down to Timnah and saw there a woman from among the daughters of the Philistines. [2] He came back up and told his father and mother, "There is a woman in Timnah I saw, one of the daughters of the Philistines; now get her for me as a wife." [3] His father and mother said to him, "Is there no woman among your kinsmen's daughters or among all my people, that you are going to take a wife from the uncircumcised Philistines?" Samson told his father, "Get her for me; she is the one who pleases me." [4] His father and mother did not know that this came from the LORD, who was looking for an opening against the Philistines; for at that time the Philistines were ruling Israel. [5] Samson went down with his father and mother to Timnah. As they came to the vineyards of Timnah, there was a young lion roaring as it came at him. [6] The Spirit of the LORD came powerfully upon him, and he ripped the lion apart the way one rips a young goat, with nothing in his hand. But he did not let his father or his mother know what he had done. [7] He went down and spoke with the woman, and she pleased Samson. [8] When he came back some time later to marry her, he turned aside to look at the lion's carcass, and in the lion's body was a swarm of bees, and honey. [9] He scooped it into his palms and walked on, eating as he went. He came to his father and mother and gave them some, and they ate; but he did not tell them that he had scooped the honey out of the lion's body. [10] His father went down to the woman, and Samson held a feast there, since that was what young men did. [11] When the people saw him, they took thirty companions, and they were with him. [12] Samson said to them, "Let me pose a riddle to you. If you can give me the answer within the seven days of the feast, and find it out, I will give you thirty linen garments and thirty sets of clothing. [13] If you cannot give me the answer, you will give me thirty linen garments and thirty sets of clothing." They said to him, "Pose your riddle; let us hear it." [14] He said to them, "From the eater came something to eat; from the strong came something sweet." For three days they could not explain the riddle. [15] On the seventh day they said to Samson's wife, "Entice your husband into telling us the riddle, or we will burn you and your father's house. Was it to make us poor that you invited us here?"* [16] Samson's wife wept on him and said, "You just hate me; you do not love me. You posed a riddle to my people's sons, and to me you have not explained it." He said to her, "I have not explained it to my father or my mother, and I should explain it to you?" [17] She wept on him for the seven days of their feast, and on the seventh day he told her, since she had nagged him so; and she explained the riddle to her people's sons. [18] On the seventh day, before the sun went down, the men of the city said to him, "What is sweeter than honey, and what stronger than a lion?" He said to them, "Had you not plowed with my heifer, you would not have found out my riddle." [19] The Spirit of the LORD came powerfully upon him; he went down to Ashkelon, killed thirty of their men, took their gear, and gave the sets of clothing to those who had explained the riddle. Burning with anger, he went up to his father's house. [20] And Samson's wife went to his companion, the one who had been his friend.

CHAPTER 15

[1] Some time later, at the time of the wheat harvest, Samson went to see his wife, bringing a young goat. He said, "I am going in to my wife in her room," but her father would not let him in. [2] Her father said, "I was sure you hated her, so I gave her to your companion. Is her younger sister not better looking than she is? Take her instead, please." [3] Samson said to them, "This time I will be blameless before the Philistines when I do them harm." [4] Samson went off and caught three hundred foxes. He took torches, turned the foxes tail to tail, and set a torch between every two tails. [5] He lit the torches and turned the foxes loose in the Philistines' standing grain, and he burned up both the stacked sheaves and the standing grain, and the vineyards and olive trees too. [6] The Philistines asked, "Who did this?" They were told, "Samson, the Timnite's son-in-law, because the man took his wife and gave her to his companion." The Philistines went up and burned her and her father. [7] Samson said to them, "Since you act like this, I will not stop until I have taken my revenge on you." [8] He struck them hip and thigh, a great slaughter, and then went down and stayed in the cleft of the rock of Etam. [9] The Philistines came up, encamped in Judah, and spread out over Lehi. [10] The men of Judah asked, "Why have you come up against us?" They answered, "We have come up to tie up Samson and do to him what he did to us." [11] Three thousand men of Judah went down to the cleft of the rock of Etam and said to Samson, "Do you not know that the Philistines are our rulers? What is this you have done to us?" He told them, "As they did to me, so have I done to them." [12] They told him, "We have come down to tie you up and hand you over to the Philistines." Samson said to them, "Swear to me that you yourselves will not fall upon me." [13] "No," they told him, "we will only tie you up and hand you over to them; we will not kill you." They tied him with two new ropes and led him up from the rock. [14] He came to Lehi, and the Philistines came shouting to meet him. The Spirit of the LORD came powerfully upon him; the ropes on his arms became like flax that has been burned in the fire, and his bonds dissolved off his hands. [15] He came upon a fresh donkey's jawbone; he reached out, took it, and killed a thousand men with it. [16] Samson said, "With a donkey's jawbone, heaps upon heaps; with a donkey's jawbone I have killed a thousand men."* [17] As he finished speaking, he flung the jawbone out of his hand, and he named that place Ramath-lehi. [18] He grew very thirsty and called out to the LORD: "You have granted this great victory by your servant's hand. Must I now die of thirst and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised?" [19] God split the hollow place at Lehi, and water flowed out of it. He drank, his spirit came back, and he revived. That is why it was named En-hakkore; it is at Lehi to this day.* [20] He judged Israel for twenty years in the days of the Philistines.

CHAPTER 16

[1] Samson went to Gaza, saw a prostitute there, and went in to her. [2] The Gazites were told, "Samson has come here!" They surrounded the place and waited in ambush for him all night at the city gate. All night they kept still, thinking, "At daybreak we will kill him."* [3] Samson lay until midnight. Then at midnight he rose, seized the doors of the city gate along with both posts, tore them loose, bar and all, put them on his shoulders, and carried them up to the top of the hill opposite Hebron. [4] Afterward he fell in love with a woman in the valley of Sorek named Delilah. [5] The lords of the Philistines went up to her and told her, "Lure him on and see where his great strength comes from and how we can get the better of him, so we can tie him up and humble him. We will each give you eleven hundred pieces of silver." [6] Delilah said to Samson, "Tell me, please, where your great strength comes from, and what you could be tied with to humble you." [7] Samson told her, "If I am tied with seven fresh bowstrings that have not been dried out, I will become weak, like any man."* [8] The lords of the Philistines brought her seven fresh bowstrings that had not been dried out, and she tied him with them. [9] She had men waiting in ambush in the inner room. She called to him, "The Philistines are on you, Samson!" He snapped the bowstrings the way a thread of tow snaps when it comes near fire. So his strength remained unknown. [10] Delilah said to Samson, "See, you have made a fool of me and lied to me. Now tell me, please, what you could be tied with." [11] He told her, "If they tie me up tight with new ropes that have never been put to work, I will become weak, like any man." [12] Delilah took new ropes, tied him with them, and called to him, "The Philistines are on you, Samson!" while the men in ambush waited in the inner room. He snapped them off his arms like thread. [13] Delilah said to Samson, "Up to now you have made a fool of me and lied to me. Tell me what you could be tied with." He told her, "If you weave the seven braids of my head into the web."* [14] She drove in the pin and called to him, "The Philistines are on you, Samson!" He woke from his sleep and pulled up the loom's pin along with the web. [15] She said to him, "How can you say, 'I love you,' when your heart is not with me? Three times now you have made a fool of me and have not told me where your great strength comes from." [16] Day after day she pressed him with her words and pushed him, until his soul was worn out to death. [17] So he opened his whole heart to her. He said to her, "No razor has ever touched my head, since I have been a Nazirite to God from my mother's womb. If I were shaved, my strength would leave me; I would become weak, like any man." [18] Delilah saw that he had opened his whole heart to her, and she sent for the lords of the Philistines with the message, "Come up this one more time; he has opened his whole heart to me." The lords of the Philistines came up to her with the silver in their hands. [19] She lulled him to sleep on her knees, called a man, and had him shave off the seven braids of his head. She began to humble him, and his strength left him. [20] She called, "The Philistines are on you, Samson!" He woke from his sleep and thought, "I will go out as I did the other times and shake myself loose." He did not know that the LORD had left him. [21] The Philistines seized him, put out his eyes, and took him down to Gaza. They bound him with bronze shackles, and he was set to grinding at the mill in the prison. [22] Yet the hair of his head began to grow back once it had been shaved. [23] The lords of the Philistines assembled to offer a great sacrifice to Dagon their god and to celebrate, saying, "Our god has handed Samson our enemy over to us." [24] The people saw him and praised their god, for they said, "Our god has handed over to us our enemy, the one who ravaged our land and piled up our slain." [25] As their hearts grew merry, they said, "Send for Samson to amuse us." They called Samson from the prison, and he provided amusement for them. They stood him between the pillars. [26] Samson said to the boy who was holding his hand, "Let me alone and let me touch the pillars the house stands on, so I can lean on them." [27] The house was filled with men and women, all the lords of the Philistines were there, and on the roof were some three thousand men and women watching Samson's amusement. [28] Samson called to the LORD: "Lord GOD, remember me, please, and strengthen me, please, just this one time, O God, so that I may be avenged on the Philistines with one vengeance for my two eyes." [29] Samson grasped the two middle pillars that held up the house and braced himself against them, one with his right hand and one with his left. [30] Samson said, "Let me die along with the Philistines!" He pushed with all his might, and the house fell on the lords and on all the people inside. Those he killed when he died outnumbered those he had killed while he lived. [31] His brothers and all his father's household came down, took him up, and brought him to be buried between Zorah and Eshtaol in the tomb of his father Manoah. For twenty years he had judged Israel.

CHAPTER 17

[1] In the hill country of Ephraim lived a man named Micah.* [2] He said to his mother, "The eleven hundred pieces of silver taken from you, over which you pronounced a curse, saying it in my hearing too, here, I have the silver; I was the one who took it." His mother said, "May my son be blessed by the LORD!" [3] He returned the eleven hundred pieces of silver to his mother, and his mother said, "I truly consecrate the silver to the LORD from my own hand on behalf of my son, to make a carved image and a cast image. So now I give it back to you." [4] He gave the silver back to his mother, and his mother took two hundred pieces of silver and handed them to the silversmith, who made from it a carved image and a cast image, and it stood in Micah's house. [5] This man Micah had a house of gods. He made an ephod and household idols and consecrated one of his sons, and he became his priest.* [6] At that time Israel had no king; each man did what seemed right in his own eyes. [7] There was a young man from Bethlehem of Judah, from the clan of Judah; he was a Levite and was staying there as a sojourner. [8] The man set out from the town, from Bethlehem of Judah, to sojourn wherever he might find a place. Traveling along, he reached the hill country of Ephraim and Micah's house. [9] Micah asked him, "Where have you come from?" He told him, "I am a Levite from Bethlehem of Judah, and I am on my way to sojourn wherever I may find a place." [10] Micah told him, "Live with me and be a father and a priest for me. I will give you ten pieces of silver a year, a suit of clothes, and your keep." So the Levite went in.* [11] The Levite was content to live with the man, and the young man was to him like one of his own sons. [12] Micah consecrated the Levite; the young man became his priest and lived in Micah's house. [13] Micah said, "Now I know that the LORD will be good to me, since I have the Levite as priest."

CHAPTER 18

[1] At that time Israel had no king. At that time the tribe of the Danites was looking for an inheritance of its own to settle in, since up to then nothing had fallen to them as an inheritance among the tribes of Israel. [2] The children of Dan sent five men from their clan, picked from their whole number, valiant men from Zorah and Eshtaol, to scout the land and search it out. They told them, "Go, search out the land." They reached the hill country of Ephraim, came to Micah's house, and lodged there. [3] While they were by Micah's house, they recognized the young Levite's voice. They turned in there and asked him, "Who brought you here? What are you doing here? What do you have here?" [4] He told them, "This is what Micah has done for me: he has hired me, and I am his priest." [5] They said to him, "Please ask God, so we may know whether the journey we are making will be successful." [6] The priest told them, "Go in peace. The LORD has his eye on the journey you are making." [7] The five men went on and came to Laish. They saw the people there living securely, in the manner of the Sidonians, quiet and trusting; there was no one in the land putting them to shame in anything, no one who held power over them. They were far from the Sidonians and had nothing to do with anyone.* [8] They came back to their brothers at Zorah and Eshtaol, and their brothers asked them, "What news?" [9] They said, "Up, let us go up against them! We have seen the land, and it is very good indeed. And you sit still? Do not hold back from going in to take possession of the land. [10] When you get there you will come to a trusting people, and the land is broad on every side. God has handed it over to you, a place that lacks nothing that is on earth." [11] From there, from Zorah and Eshtaol, six hundred men of the clan of the Danites set out, fitted with weapons of war. [12] They went up and encamped at Kiriath-jearim in Judah. That is why the place is called Mahaneh-dan to this day; it is west of Kiriath-jearim.* [13] From there they crossed into the hill country of Ephraim and arrived at Micah's house. [14] The five men who had gone to scout the land of Laish spoke up and said to their brothers, "Did you know that in these houses there are an ephod, household idols, a carved image and a cast image? Now think about what you will do." [15] They turned in there, came to the young Levite's house, Micah's house, and greeted him. [16] The six hundred men of the children of Dan, fitted with their weapons of war, were standing at the opening of the gate. [17] The five men who had gone to scout the land went up, went in there, and took the carved image, the ephod, the household idols and the cast image, while the priest was standing at the opening of the gate with the six hundred men fitted with weapons of war. [18] These men went into Micah's house and took the carved image, the ephod, the household idols and the cast image, and the priest asked them, "What are you doing?" [19] They told him, "Be still; put your hand on your mouth and come with us. Be a father and a priest for us. Which is better, being priest to one man's household, or being priest to a tribe and a clan in Israel?" [20] The priest was pleased at heart. He took the ephod, the household idols and the carved image and went in among the people. [21] They turned and went off, putting the little ones, the livestock and the valuables at their front. [22] They were a good way from Micah's house when the men in the houses near Micah's house were called out, and they caught up with the children of Dan. [23] They shouted to the children of Dan, who turned their faces around and said to Micah, "What is wrong with you that you have gathered a band?" [24] He said, "My gods that I made you have taken, and the priest, and gone off; what do I have left? So how can you ask me, 'What is wrong with you?'" [25] The children of Dan told him, "Do not let us hear your voice again, or men with bitter spirits will set upon you, and you will lose your life and your household's lives." [26] The children of Dan went on their way, and Micah, seeing that they were stronger than he was, turned and went back home. [27] So they took what Micah had made, and the priest he had, and came upon Laish, a quiet and trusting people. They put them to the sword and burned the city. [28] There was no one to rescue it, since it was far from Sidon and had nothing to do with anyone; it lay in the valley that belongs to Beth-rehob. They rebuilt the city and settled in it. [29] They named the city Dan, after their father Dan, who was born to Israel, though the city's name at first was Laish. [30] The children of Dan set up the carved image for themselves, and Jonathan son of Gershom, son of Manasseh, and his sons were priests to the tribe of the Danites until the time the land went into captivity.* [31]

They kept Micah's carved image that he had made set up for themselves the whole time the house of God was in Shiloh.

CHAPTER 19

[1] In those days, when Israel had no king, a Levite was sojourning in the far reaches of the hill country of Ephraim. He took a concubine for himself from Bethlehem of Judah. [2] His concubine was unfaithful to him and left him for her father's house in Bethlehem of Judah, and she stayed there for a period of four months.* [3] Her husband got up and went after her to speak tenderly to her and bring her back, taking his servant and a pair of donkeys. She took him into her father's house, and when the young woman's father saw him, he was glad to meet him. [4] His father-in-law, the young woman's father, kept him there, and he stayed with him three days. They ate and drank and spent the nights there. [5] On the fourth day they got up early in the morning, and he rose to leave, but the young woman's father said to his son-in-law, "Refresh yourself with a bite of bread, then you can go." [6] So they sat down, the two of them together, and ate and drank. Then the young woman's father said to the man, "Do agree to stay the night, and enjoy yourself." [7] The man got up to leave, but his father-in-law urged him, and he stayed the night there once more. [8] On the fifth day he got up early in the morning to leave, and the young woman's father said, "Refresh yourself, please, and linger until the day wanes." And the two of them ate. [9] The man rose to go, he and his concubine and his servant, but his father-in-law, the young woman's father, said to him, "Look, the day is sinking toward evening; stay the night, please. The day is drawing to a close; spend the night here and enjoy yourself. Tomorrow you can get an early start on your way and go to your tent." [10] But the man was not willing to stay the night. He got up, left, and came as far as opposite Jebus, that is, Jerusalem, with his pair of saddled donkeys and his concubine with him. [11] They were by Jebus and the day was nearly gone, and the servant said to his master, "Come on, let us turn in at this city of the Jebusites and stay the night in it." [12] His master told him, "We will not turn in at a city of foreigners who are not from the children of Israel; we will go on as far as Gibeah." [13] He said to his servant, "Come, let us get close to one of these places and spend the night in Gibeah or Ramah." [14] They went on and kept traveling, and the sun set on them close to Gibeah of Benjamin. [15] They turned in there to spend the night in Gibeah. He went in and sat down in the city square, but no one would take them home for the night. [16] Then, in the evening, an old man came in from his work in the field. He was from the hill country of Ephraim and was sojourning in Gibeah; the men of the place were Benjaminites. [17] He looked up and saw the traveler in the city square, and the old man said, "Where are you headed, and where have you come from?" [18] He told him, "We are traveling from Bethlehem of Judah to the far reaches of the hill country of Ephraim, where I come from. I went to Bethlehem of Judah, and I am on my way to the house of the LORD, but nobody will take me in.* [19] We have straw and feed for our donkeys, and bread and wine as well for me, for your servant woman, and for the young man with your servants; we need nothing." [20] The old man said, "Peace to you. Leave all your needs to me; just do not spend the night in the square." [21] He brought him into his house and fed the donkeys; they washed their feet and ate and drank. [22] While they were enjoying themselves, the men of the city, sons of Belial, closed in on the house and beat on the door. They told the old man who owned the house, "Bring out the man who came into your house, so we can know him."* [23] The man who owned the house went out to them and said, "No, my brothers; do not do evil, please. This man has come into my house; do not commit this outrage. [24] Here are my daughter, a virgin, and his concubine. Let me bring them out to you; abuse them and do to them whatever seems good to you, but to this man do not do this outrageous thing." [25] The men would not listen to him, so the man took hold of his concubine and sent her outside to them. They knew her and abused her the whole night until morning, and let her go as dawn was coming up. [26] At the turn of morning the woman came and collapsed at the door of the man's house where her master was, and lay there till daylight. [27] Her master got up in the morning, opened the doors of the house, and went out to go on his way, and there was the woman, his concubine, collapsed at the door of the house with her hands on the threshold. [28] "Get up," he said to her, "let us go." There was no reply. He put her on the donkey, and the man got up and went home. [29] When he reached his house, he took the knife, seized his concubine, and cut her up limb by limb into twelve pieces, and he sent her through all the territory of Israel. [30] Everyone who saw it said, "Nothing like this has ever happened or been seen since the day the children of Israel came up out of Egypt until now. Think it over, consult, and speak up!"

CHAPTER 20

[1] All the children of Israel came out, from Dan to Beersheba and the land of Gilead too, and the congregation gathered as one man before the LORD at Mizpah. [2] The cornerstones of all the people, of all the tribes of Israel, presented themselves in the assembly of God's people: four hundred thousand men on foot, armed with swords. [3] (The children of Benjamin heard that the children of Israel had gone up to Mizpah.) The children of Israel said, "Speak: how did this wicked thing come about?" [4] The Levite, husband of the woman who had been murdered, answered, "I came into Gibeah of Benjamin with my concubine to spend the night. [5] The leaders of Gibeah rose up against me and surrounded the house around me at night. Me they meant to kill, and my concubine they abused until she died. [6] I took my concubine, cut her in pieces, and sent her through all the territory of Israel's inheritance, because they have done a vile and outrageous deed in Israel. [7] Here you all are, children of Israel; give your word and your advice right here." [8] All the people rose as one man and said, "Not one of us will go to his tent, and not one of us will turn aside to his house. [9] Now this is what we will do to Gibeah: go up against it by lot. [10] From all the tribes of Israel we will take ten men of every hundred, a hundred of every thousand, and a thousand of every ten thousand to get provisions for the troops, so that when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin they may deal with it for every outrage it has done in Israel." [11] So all the men of Israel gathered against the city, joined together as one man. [12] The tribes of Israel sent men throughout the tribe of Benjamin to say, "What is this wickedness that has taken place among you? [13] Now hand over the men, the sons of Belial in Gibeah, so we can put them to death and burn the evil out of Israel." But the children of Benjamin were unwilling to listen to their brothers, the children of Israel. [14] Instead the children of Benjamin gathered from their cities to Gibeah to go out to war with the children of Israel. [15] That day the children of Benjamin from the cities were counted at twenty-six thousand swordsmen, not counting those living in Gibeah, who were counted at seven hundred picked men. [16] From all these troops there were seven hundred picked men restricted in the right hand; each of them could sling a stone at a hair and not miss.* [17] The men of Israel, not including Benjamin, were counted at four hundred thousand swordsmen, every one a man of war. [18] They set out, went up to Bethel and asked God. The children of Israel said, "Which of us is to go up first to the battle with the children of Benjamin?" The LORD said, "Judah first." [19] In the morning the children of Israel set out and encamped against Gibeah. [20] The men of Israel went out to fight Benjamin, and the men of Israel set the battle in order against them at Gibeah. [21] The children of Benjamin came out from Gibeah, and that day they laid twenty-two thousand men of Israel on the ground. [22] But the troops, the men of Israel, took heart and once more set the battle in order at the spot where they had set it on the first day. [23] The children of Israel went up and wept before the LORD till evening. They asked the LORD, "Shall I go into battle again against my brother, the children of Benjamin?" The LORD said, "Go up against him." [24] On the second day the children of Israel advanced on the children of Benjamin. [25] On the second day Benjamin came out from Gibeah to meet them, and laid another eighteen thousand of the children of Israel on the ground, every one of them a swordsman. [26] Then all the children of Israel, all the troops, went up to Bethel and wept. They sat there before the LORD and fasted that day till evening, and they offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before the LORD. [27] The children of Israel asked the LORD (in those days the ark of the covenant of God was there, [28] and Phinehas son of Eleazar, son of Aaron, was standing before it at that time), "Shall I go out once more to battle against my brother, the children of Benjamin, or shall I stop?" The LORD said, "Go up; tomorrow I will hand him over to you." [29] So Israel placed men in ambush around Gibeah. [30] On the third day the children of Israel went up against the children of Benjamin and set themselves in order against Gibeah as before. [31] The children of Benjamin came out to meet the troops and were drawn away from the city. As before, they began striking down some of the troops, killing them on the roads, one going up to Bethel and the other to Gibeah through the countryside: about thirty men of Israel. [32] The children of Benjamin said, "They are falling before us as at first." But the children of Israel had said, "Let us run and draw them away from the city onto the roads." [33] All the men of Israel got up from where they were and formed up at Baal-tamar, while Israel's ambush burst out from its place, from the open ground of Geba.* [34] Ten thousand picked men from all Israel came in front of Gibeah, and the fighting was heavy; but the Benjaminites did not realize that ruin was reaching them. [35] The LORD struck Benjamin down before Israel, and that day the children of Israel destroyed twenty-five thousand one hundred men of Benjamin, every one a swordsman. [36] The children of Benjamin saw that they were defeated. The men of Israel had yielded ground to Benjamin, relying on the ambush they had placed against Gibeah. [37] The ambush moved quickly and charged into Gibeah; the ambush spread out and put the whole city to the sword. [38] The men of Israel had arranged a sign with the ambush: they were to send up a great cloud of smoke from the city. [39] So the men of Israel turned around in the battle. Benjamin had begun striking down the men of Israel, killing about thirty, for they thought, "They are falling before us for sure, as in the first battle." [40] But the cloud began rising from the city, a pillar of smoke, and the Benjaminites looked back, and the whole city was going up toward the heavens! [41] The men of Israel turned back, and the men of Benjamin were struck with panic, for they saw that ruin had reached them. [42] They turned before the men of Israel toward the wilderness road, but the battle clung to them, and those coming from the cities destroyed them in their midst. [43] They surrounded the Benjaminites, chased them, and trampled them down at their resting place, as far as the front of Gibeah toward the sunrise.* [44] Eighteen thousand men fell from Benjamin, all of them valiant men. [45] They turned and fled into the wilderness toward the rock of Rimmon. On the roads they gleaned five thousand men of them, and kept close on their heels to Gidom and struck down two thousand men of them. [46] All of Benjamin who fell that day came to twenty-five thousand swordsmen, all of them valiant men. [47] Six hundred men turned and fled into the wilderness to the rock of Rimmon, and they remained at the rock of Rimmon for four months. [48] The men of Israel came back against the children of Benjamin and put them to the sword, from the whole city to the cattle and everything that was found. Every city they came upon they also sent up in flames.*

CHAPTER 21

[1] The men of Israel had taken an oath at Mizpah: "Not one of us will give his daughter as a wife to Benjamin." [2] The people came to Bethel and sat there before God till evening; they raised their voices and wept loud and long. [3] They said, "LORD, God of Israel, why has this come about in Israel, that today one tribe should be lacking from Israel?" [4] Early the next day the people built an altar there and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings. [5] The children of Israel said, "Who from all the tribes of Israel did not come up to the LORD with the assembly?" For a great oath had been taken about anyone who did not come up to the LORD at Mizpah: "He must be put to death." [6] The children of Israel felt sorry for their brother Benjamin, and they said, "Today one tribe has been lopped off from Israel. [7] How shall we provide wives for those left over, now that we have sworn by the LORD not to give them any of our daughters in marriage?" [8] They said, "Which one of the tribes of Israel failed to come up to the LORD at Mizpah?" And they found that no one had come from Jabesh-gilead to the camp, to the assembly. [9] When the troops were counted, there was not a man there from those living in Jabesh-gilead. [10] So the congregation sent twelve thousand of its valiant men there with these orders: "Go and put those living in Jabesh-gilead to the sword, with the women and the little ones. [11] Here is what you are to do: every male, and every woman who has had relations with a male, you are to devote to destruction." [12] Among those living in Jabesh-gilead they found four hundred young women who were virgins, who had not known a man by lying with a male, and they brought them to the camp at Shiloh, in the land of Canaan. [13] The whole congregation sent and spoke to the children of Benjamin at the rock of Rimmon and offered them peace. [14] At that time Benjamin came back, and they gave them the women they had spared from the women of Jabesh-gilead; but there were not enough for them. [15] The people felt sorry for Benjamin, since the LORD had torn a gap in the tribes of Israel. [16] The elders of the congregation said, "How shall we provide wives for those left over, since the women of Benjamin have been wiped out?" [17] They said, "The survivors of Benjamin must keep their inheritance, so that a tribe is not blotted out of Israel. [18] But we cannot give them wives from among our daughters, because the children of Israel have sworn, 'A curse on whoever gives a wife to Benjamin!'" [19] So they said, "There is the LORD's feast held every year in Shiloh, north of Bethel, east of the road going up from Bethel to Shechem, and south of Lebonah." [20] They instructed the children of Benjamin, "Go, hide in ambush in the vineyards [21] and keep watch. When you see the daughters of Shiloh come out to dance in the dances, come out of the vineyards and each of you snatch a wife for himself from the daughters of Shiloh, and go off to the land of Benjamin. [22] When their fathers or brothers come to us to complain, we will tell them, 'Grant them to us as a favor, for we did not take a wife for every man in the war, and you did not give them to them yourselves, or you would now be guilty.'" [*] [23] The children of Benjamin did this. They carried off wives to match their number from the dancers they had seized, then went back to their inheritance, rebuilt the cities and settled in them. [24] At that time the children of Israel left there, each man for his tribe and his clan; from there each went out to his own inheritance. [25] At that time Israel had no king; each man did what seemed right in his own eyes.

[1] It happened in the days when the judges were judging that a famine came upon the land, and a man went from Bethlehem of Judah to sojourn in the fields of Moab, he with his wife and his two sons. [2] The man's name was Elimelech, his wife's name was Naomi, and his two sons were named Mahlon and Chilion, Ephrathites from Bethlehem of Judah. They came into the fields of Moab and stayed there. [3] Elimelech, the husband of Naomi, died, and she was left, she and her two sons. [4] These took wives for themselves from the women of Moab; one was named Orpah and the second Ruth. And they lived there for about ten years. [5] Then the two of them, Mahlon and Chilion, died as well, and the woman was left bereft of her two boys and of her husband. [6] So she rose up with her daughters-in-law and turned back from the fields of Moab, because she had heard in the fields of Moab that the LORD had visited his people and given them bread. [7] She set out from the place where she had been living, her two daughters-in-law along with her, and they took the road back to the land of Judah. [8] Naomi said to her two daughters-in-law, "Go back, each one to her mother's house. May the LORD deal kindly with you, just as you have dealt with the dead and with me. [] [9] May the LORD give it to you to find rest, each in the house of her husband." And she kissed them, and they raised their voices and wept. [10] They said to her, "No; with you we will go back to your people." [11] Naomi said, "Go back, my daughters; why should you go with me? Are there still sons in my womb, that they might be husbands for you? [12] Go back, my daughters, go your way, for I am too old to belong to a husband. If I were to say, 'There is hope for me,' if I were even to have a husband tonight and bear sons as well, [13] would you wait for them until they grew up? Would you hold yourselves back for them and not be married to a man? No, my daughters; it is much more bitter for me than for you, for the hand of the LORD has gone out against me." [14] They raised their voices and wept once more. Orpah kissed her mother-in-law goodbye, but Ruth held fast to her. [15] Naomi said, "See, your sister-in-law has gone back to her people and to her gods; go back after your sister-in-law." [16] But Ruth said, "Do not urge me to abandon you, to turn back from following after you. Wherever you go I will go, and wherever you spend the night I will spend the night. Your people will be my people, and your God will be my God. [17] Where you die I will die, and there I will be buried. Thus may the LORD do to me, and more besides, if anything except death separates me from you." [18] When Naomi saw that she was set on going with her, she said no more to her. [19] The two of them walked on until they reached Bethlehem. When they entered Bethlehem, the whole town was in an uproar over them, and the women said, "Can this be Naomi?" [20] She told them, "Do not call me Naomi; call me Mara, because the Almighty has made my life very bitter. [] [21] Full I went out, and empty the LORD has brought me back. Why call me Naomi, when the LORD has testified against me and the Almighty has done me harm?" [*] [22] Thus Naomi came back, and with her Ruth the Moabitess, her daughter-in-law, who came back from the fields of Moab. They arrived in Bethlehem as the barley harvest was beginning.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Now Naomi had a kinsman on her husband's side, a mighty man of wealth from the clan of Elimelech; his name was Boaz. [2] Ruth the Moabitess said to Naomi, "Let me go out to the field, please, and gather ears of grain behind anyone in whose sight I find favor." Naomi said to her, "Go, my daughter." [3] She went off, came, and gleaned in the field behind the reapers. As it turned out, the plot of field she happened on belonged to Boaz, who was from the clan of Elimelech. [4] And just then Boaz arrived from Bethlehem. He said to the reapers, "The LORD be with you," and they said to him, "May the LORD bless you." [5] Boaz asked his young man who was set over the reapers, "To whom does this young woman belong?" [6] The young man set over the reapers answered, "She is a young Moabite woman, the one who came back with Naomi from the fields of Moab. [7] She said, 'Please let me glean and gather among the sheaves behind the reapers.' So she came and has stood here from the morning until now; she has hardly rested in the shelter." [] [8] Boaz said to Ruth, "Listen to me, my daughter. Do not go to glean in some other field, and do not move on from here; stay close by my young women here. [9] Watch which field they are reaping and follow behind them. I have ordered the young men not to lay a hand on you, have I not? When you get thirsty, go over to the vessels and drink from what the young men draw." [10] She fell on her face and bowed down to the ground and said to him, "Why have I found favor in your sight, that you should notice me, when I am a foreigner?" [11] Boaz answered her, "Everything you have done for your mother-in-law since your husband died has been told to me in full: how you left your father and mother and the land where you were born and came to a people you had not known before. [12] The LORD repay what you have done, and may a full reward be given you by the LORD, the God of Israel, under whose wings you have come to seek refuge." [13] She said, "Let me find favor in your sight, my lord, since you have comforted me and spoken kindly to your servant, though I am not even like one of your servants." [14] When it was time to eat, Boaz said to her, "Come over here, eat some of the bread and dip your piece in the vinegar." So she sat down beside the reapers, and he passed her some roasted grain. She ate until she was satisfied, and some was left over. [15] When she got up to glean, Boaz gave orders to his young men: "Let her glean even between the sheaves, and do not put her to shame. [16] And pull out some for her from the bundles on purpose and leave it for her to glean, and do not scold her." [17] She gleaned in the field until evening, and she beat out what she had gleaned; it came to about an ephah of barley. [18] She lifted it up and went into the town, and her mother-in-law saw what she had gleaned. Then she brought out what she had saved after eating her fill and gave it to her. [19] Her mother-in-law asked her, "Where did you glean today? Where did you work? May the one who noticed you be blessed." So she told her mother-in-law whom she had worked with: "The man I worked with today is named Boaz." [20] Naomi said to her daughter-in-law, "May he be blessed by the LORD, who has not abandoned his kindness to the living and the dead!" And Naomi told her, "That man is close kin to us; he is one of our redeemers." [] [21] Ruth the Moabitess said, "He also told me, 'Stay close by my young men until they have finished all of my harvest.'" [22] Naomi said to Ruth her daughter-in-law, "It is good, my daughter, for you to go out with his young women, so that no one bothers you in another field." [23] So she stayed close by the young women of Boaz to glean until the barley harvest and the wheat harvest were finished, and she lived with her mother-in-law.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Naomi her mother-in-law said to her, "My daughter, should I not look for a resting place for you, where you will be well off? [2] Is not Boaz, whose young women you were with, our kinsman? See, tonight he will be winnowing barley on the threshing floor. [3] Wash yourself, then, and put on oil, and put your cloak on you and go down to the threshing floor. Do not let the man know you are there until he has finished eating and drinking. [] [4] When he lies down, take note of the place where he is lying; then go in, uncover the place at his feet and lie down, and he will tell you what you should do." [5] She answered her, "Everything you say I will do." [6] She went down to the threshing floor and did everything her mother-in-law had instructed her. [7] Boaz ate and drank, and his heart was glad, and he went to lie down at the edge of the grain pile. Then she came softly, uncovered the place at his feet, and lay down. [8] In the middle of the night the man shuddered and twisted around, and there was a woman lying at his feet! [9] "Who are you?" he said. She said, "I am Ruth, your servant. Spread the corner of your garment over your servant, since you are a redeemer." [] [10] He said, "Blessed are you by the LORD, my daughter. This latest kindness of yours is better than the first, because you have not gone after the young men, poor or rich. [11] So now, my daughter, do not fear. Whatever you ask I will do for you, for everyone at the gate of my people knows that you are a worthy woman. [12] It is true that I am a redeemer; but there is also a redeemer closer in kin than I am. [13] Spend the night here. In the morning, if he will act as redeemer for you, well and good, let him redeem; but if he does not want to redeem you, then I will redeem you myself, as the LORD lives. Lie here until morning." [14] So she lay at his feet till morning, and she got up before a person could make out his neighbor; for he said, "Do not let it be known that the woman came to the threshing floor." [15] And he said, "Bring the shawl that is on you and hold it out." She held it out, and he measured six measures of barley and laid it on her. Then he went into the town. [] [16] She came to her mother-in-law, who asked, "How did it go, my daughter?" She told her everything the man had done for her, 17 and said, "These six measures of barley he gave me, because he said, 'You must not go to your mother-in-law empty-handed.'" 18 Naomi said, "Sit tight, my daughter, until you find out how the matter will fall; for the man will not be at rest until he has brought the matter to an end today."

CHAPTER 4

1 Boaz had gone up to the gate and sat down there, and look, the redeemer Boaz had spoken about was passing by. He said, "Come over, my friend, sit down here." He came over and sat down.* 2 Boaz took ten men from the elders of the town and said, "Sit here," and they sat down. 3 He said to the redeemer, "The piece of land that was our brother Elimelech's, Naomi is selling; she has returned from the fields of Moab. 4 I thought I should let you know and say, 'Buy it before those seated here and before the elders of my people.' If you will redeem it, redeem; but if he will not redeem it, tell me, so I may know. There is no one but you to redeem it, and I am next after you." He said, "I will redeem it."* 5 Boaz said, "On the day you buy the field from Naomi's hand, you must also acquire Ruth the Moabitess, the dead man's wife, in order to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance."* 6 The redeemer said, "Then I cannot redeem it for myself, or I would damage my own inheritance. You take over my redemption for yourself, since I am not able to redeem it." 7 In earlier times in Israel this was how it was done in redeeming and in exchanging, to make every matter binding: a man drew off his sandal and handed it to his neighbor. That was the form of testimony in Israel. 8 So the redeemer told Boaz, "You buy it," and drew off his sandal. 9 Boaz said to the elders and to all the people, "Today you are witnesses that I have bought from Naomi's hand everything that was Elimelech's and everything that was Chilion's and Mahlon's. 10 Ruth the Moabitess too, Mahlon's wife, I have acquired as my wife, to raise up the name of the dead upon his inheritance, so that the name of the dead will not be cut off from among his brothers or from the gate of his place. Today you are witnesses." 11 All the people at the gate, and the elders, said, "We are witnesses. May the LORD make the woman who comes into your house like Rachel and like Leah, who between them built the house of Israel. May you do mightily in Ephrathah and make a name in Bethlehem. 12 May your house become like the house of Perez, whom Tamar bore to Judah, from the seed the LORD will give you by this young woman." 13 Boaz took Ruth and she became his wife. He went in to her, the LORD granted her to conceive, and she gave birth to a son. 14 The women said to Naomi, "Blessed is the LORD, who has not left you today without a redeemer! May his name be proclaimed in Israel. 15 He will be one who brings your life back and who sustains you in your old age, for your daughter-in-law, who loves you and is worth more to you than seven sons, has given birth to him." 16 Naomi took the child and held him to her bosom, and she became his nurse. 17 The neighbor women named him, saying, "A son is born to Naomi!" They called him Obed. He is the father of Jesse, the father of David. 18 These are the generations of Perez: Perez fathered Hezron; 19 Hezron fathered Ram, Ram fathered Amminadab, 20 Amminadab fathered Nahshon, Nahshon fathered Salmon,* 21 Salmon fathered Boaz, Boaz fathered Obed, 22 Obed fathered Jesse, and Jesse fathered David.

CHAPTER 1

1 There was a man from Ramathaim-zophim in the hill country of Ephraim; his name was Elkanah son of Jeroham, son of Elihu, son of Tohu, son of Zuph, an Ephrathite. 2 He had two wives, one named Hannah and the other named Peninnah. Peninnah had children; Hannah had none. 3 Year after year this man would go up from his town to bow down and sacrifice to the LORD of hosts at Shiloh, where Eli's two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, served as priests to the LORD. 4 Whenever the day came for Elkanah to sacrifice, he gave shares to his wife Peninnah and to all her sons and daughters, 5 but to Hannah he gave a double portion, for it was Hannah he loved, though the LORD had shut her womb.* 6 Her rival would taunt her sorely to stir her up, because the LORD had shut her womb. 7 This happened year after year: whenever she went up to the LORD's house, the other woman taunted her, and she would weep and not eat. 8 Her husband Elkanah would say to her, "Hannah, why are you crying? Why will you not eat? Why is your heart so low? Am I not worth more to you than ten sons?" 9 Once, after they had eaten and drunk at Shiloh, Hannah got up. Eli the priest was sitting on his chair beside the doorpost of the LORD's temple. 10 In bitterness of soul she prayed to the LORD, weeping and weeping. 11 She made a vow: "LORD of hosts, if you will only look upon your servant's misery and remember me and not forget your servant, but give your servant a male child, I will give him to the LORD for his whole life, and no razor shall touch his head." 12 As she went on praying at length before the LORD, Eli was watching her mouth. 13 Hannah was speaking within her heart; her lips were moving, but her voice could not be heard, so Eli thought she was drunk. 14 Eli said to her, "How long will you make a drunken show? Get rid of your wine!" 15 Hannah answered, "No, my lord; I am a woman burdened in spirit. Wine and strong drink I have not drunk; I have been pouring out my soul before the LORD. 16 Do not take your servant for a daughter of Belial; it is out of my great distress and provocation that I have been speaking all this time." 17 Eli answered, "Go in peace. May the God of Israel grant what you have asked of him." 18 She said, "May your servant find favor in your sight." The woman went her way and ate, and her face was no longer downcast. 19 Early in the morning they rose and bowed down before the LORD, and then went back home to Ramah.

Elkanah knew his wife Hannah, and the LORD remembered her. [20] When the time came round, Hannah conceived and gave birth to a son. She named him Samuel, "because from the LORD I asked for him." [21] The man Elkanah went up with all his household to offer the yearly sacrifice to the LORD and to pay his vow. [22] Hannah did not go up. She told her husband, "Once the child is weaned, I will bring him, so that he may appear before the LORD and remain there for good." [23] Elkanah her husband told her, "Do what seems best to you. Stay until you have weaned him; only may the LORD confirm his word." So the woman stayed and nursed her son until she weaned him. [24] Once she had weaned him, she took him up with her, along with three bulls, one ephah of flour and a skin of wine, and brought him to the LORD's house at Shiloh. The child was just a child. [25] They slaughtered the bull and brought the child to Eli. [26] She said, "Pardon me, my lord! As surely as you live, my lord, I am the woman who stood here near you praying to the LORD. [27] It was for this boy I prayed, and the LORD has granted me what I asked of him. [28] So I in turn have given him over to the LORD; all the days he lives he is given over to the LORD." And he bowed down there to the LORD.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Hannah prayed and said, "My heart rejoices in the LORD; my horn is raised high by the LORD. My mouth is wide open against my enemies, since I delight in your salvation. [2] No one is holy as the LORD is, for there is no one but you; no rock is like our God. [3] Stop your proud talk, piling it on; let no arrogance leave your mouth, for a God who knows is the LORD, and by him deeds are weighed.* [4] The bows of the mighty are shattered, while the stumbling are wrapped in strength. [5] The well-fed hire themselves out for bread, and the hungry hunger no more. The barren gives birth to seven, and the mother of many pines away. [6] The LORD kills and gives life; he brings down to Sheol and raises up. [7] The LORD makes poor and makes rich; he humbles and he exalts. [8] He lifts the poor up out of the dust; from the dung heap he raises the needy, to have them sit with nobles and inherit a seat of glory. The pillars of the earth belong to the LORD; he has set the world upon them. [9] The feet of his faithful ones he will keep, but the wicked will be silenced in the dark, for it is not by might that a man prevails. [10] Those who contend with the LORD will be broken to pieces; from the heavens he will thunder upon them. The LORD will judge the ends of the earth; he will give strength to his king and lift high the horn of his anointed." [11] Elkanah went home to Ramah, and the boy served the LORD under Eli the priest. [12] The sons of Eli were sons of Belial; they did not know the LORD. [13] This was how the priests dealt with the people: when anyone offered a sacrifice, the priest's servant would come while the meat was cooking, holding a three-pronged fork, [14] and stab it into the basin, the kettle, the caldron or the pot; all that the fork brought up the priest took for himself. That is how they treated all Israel who came there to Shiloh. [15] Even before the fat was burned, the priest's servant would come and tell the man sacrificing, "Hand over meat for the priest to roast; he will not take cooked meat from you, only raw." [16] If the man said to him, "The fat must be burned first; then take whatever you like," he would say, "No, give it now, or I will take it by force."* [17] The young men's sin was very great in the LORD's sight, because the men treated the LORD's offering with scorn. [18] Samuel, meanwhile, was serving before the LORD, a boy wearing a linen ephod. [19] His mother would make him a small robe and bring it to him each year when she came up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice. [20] Eli would bless Elkanah and his wife, saying, "May the LORD give you offspring by this woman in place of the one she asked for and gave over to the LORD." Then they would go back home. [21] The LORD visited Hannah; she conceived and gave birth to three sons and two daughters. And the boy Samuel grew up with the LORD. [22] Eli was very old. He kept hearing all that his sons were doing to all Israel, and that they slept with the women who served at the entrance of the tent of meeting. [23] He said to them, "Why are you doing such things? I hear about your wicked deeds from all these people. [24] No, my sons, the report I hear is not good; you are making the LORD's people transgress. [25] If one man sins against another, God will mediate for him; but if a man sins against the LORD, who will plead for him?" Yet they would not listen to their father's voice, for the LORD was minded to put them to death. [26] The boy Samuel went on growing in stature and in favor, both with the LORD and with men. [27] A man of God came to Eli and said to him, "This is what the LORD says: 'Did I not plainly reveal myself to your father's house when they were in Egypt, belonging to the house of Pharaoh? [28] I chose him out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priest, to go up to my altar, to burn incense and to wear an ephod before me; and to your father's house I gave all the food offerings of the children of Israel.* [29] Why do you trample on my sacrifice and my offering that I commanded for my dwelling? You honor your sons more than me, making yourselves fat on the best of every offering of Israel my people.' [30] So the LORD, the God of Israel, declares: 'I did say that your house and your father's house would walk before me for ever.' But now the LORD declares: 'Far be it from me! Those who honor me I will honor, and those who scorn me will be treated as nothing. [31] The days are coming when I will cut off your arm and the arm of your father's house, so that no one in your house will reach old age. [32] You will look on distress in my dwelling, in all the good that he does for Israel, and never will there be an old man in your house. [33] Any of yours I do not cut off from my altar will be left to wear out your eyes and grieve your soul, and all the offspring of your house will die as grown men. [34] This will be your sign, what comes upon your two sons, Hophni and Phinehas: on a single day both of them will die. [35] I will raise up for myself a faithful priest who will act according to what is in my heart and my soul. I will build him an enduring house, and he will walk before my anointed for ever. [36] Everyone left in your house will come and bow down to him for a bit of silver and a round of bread, and will say, "Please put me in one of the priestly posts, so I can eat a scrap of bread."""

CHAPTER 3

[1] The boy Samuel was serving the LORD under Eli. In those days the word of the LORD was scarce; visions were not widespread. [2] One day Eli, whose eyes had started to grow dim so that he could not see, was lying down in his place. [3] The lamp of God had not yet gone out, and Samuel was lying in the LORD's temple, where the ark of God was. [4] The LORD called to Samuel, and he answered, "Here I am." [5] He ran to Eli and said, "Here I am; you called me." But Eli said, "I did not call. Go back and lie down." So he went and lay down. [6] Once more the LORD called, "Samuel!" Samuel got up, went to Eli, and said, "Here I am; you called me." He said, "I did not call, my son. Go back and lie down." [7] Samuel did not yet know the LORD; the word of the LORD had not yet been revealed to him. [8] The LORD called Samuel a third time. He got up, went to Eli, and said, "Here I am; you called me." Then Eli realized that it was the LORD calling the boy. [9] Eli told Samuel, "Go and lie down. If he calls you, say, 'Speak, LORD; your servant is listening.'" So Samuel went and lay down in his place. [10] The LORD came and stood, and called as before, "Samuel! Samuel!" Samuel said, "Speak; your servant is listening." [11] The LORD said to Samuel, "I am going to do something in Israel that will make both ears of all who hear of it ring. [12] On that day I will bring about against Eli everything I have spoken about his house, from start to finish. [13] I have told him that I am judging his house for ever because of the iniquity he knew about: his sons were bringing a curse on themselves, and he did not rebuke them.* [14] That is why I have sworn to Eli's house that the iniquity of Eli's house will never be atoned for, by sacrifice or by offering." [15] Samuel lay there till morning, and then he opened the doors of the LORD's house. Samuel was afraid to tell Eli about the vision. [16] But Eli called Samuel: "Samuel, my son." He answered, "Here I am." [17] Eli said, "What was it he told you? Do not hide it from me. May God do so to you, and more besides, if you hide from me one word of all he told you." [18] So Samuel told him all of it, keeping nothing from him. Eli said, "He is the LORD; let him do what seems good to him." [19] Samuel grew up, and the LORD was with him; he let none of his words fall to the ground. [20] All Israel from Dan to Beersheba recognized that Samuel had been established as a prophet of the LORD. [21] The LORD continued to appear at Shiloh, for the LORD revealed himself to Samuel at Shiloh through the word of the LORD.

CHAPTER 4

[1] What Samuel said reached all Israel. Israel marched out to meet the Philistines in battle; they encamped by Ebenezer, and the Philistines encamped at Aphek. [2] The Philistines lined up for battle against Israel, and as the fighting spread, Israel was beaten by the Philistines; they killed some four thousand men in the ranks out in the field. [3] When the troops returned to the camp, the elders of Israel said, "Why did the LORD let us be beaten today by the Philistines? Let us fetch the ark of the covenant of the LORD from Shiloh to be with us, so that it may come into our midst and rescue us from our enemies' hand." [4] The people sent to Shiloh, and from there they brought the ark of the covenant of the LORD of hosts, who sits enthroned above the cherubim. Eli's two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, were there with the ark of the covenant of God. [5] When the ark of the covenant of the LORD reached the camp, all Israel let out such a great shout that the ground shook. [6] The Philistines heard the sound of the shout and said, "What is this great shouting in the Hebrews' camp?" They found out that the ark of the LORD had come into the camp, [7] and the Philistines were afraid. "God has come into the camp," they said. "We are in trouble! Nothing like this has happened before now. [8] Woe to us! Who will rescue us from the power of these mighty gods? These are the gods who struck the Egyptians with all kinds of blows in the wilderness. [9] Take courage and be men, Philistines, or you will be slaves to the Hebrews as they have been slaves to you. Be men and fight!" [10] So the Philistines fought. Israel was beaten, and every man fled to his tent. The slaughter was very great: thirty thousand men on foot fell from Israel. [11] The ark of God was taken, and Eli's two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, were killed. [12] A man of Benjamin ran from the battle lines and reached Shiloh that same day, his clothes torn and earth on his head. [13] When he arrived, there was Eli sitting on his chair by the road, keeping watch, because his heart was trembling for the ark of God. The man went into the town to give the news, and the whole town cried out.* [14] Eli heard the noise of the outcry and asked, "What does this noisy uproar mean?" The man came quickly and told Eli. [15] Eli was ninety-eight years old; his eyes had set, and he could not see. [16] The man said to Eli, "I am the one who has come from the battle; I fled from the battle lines today." He asked, "What happened, my son?" [17] The one bringing the news answered, "Israel has run from the Philistines, and there has been a great defeat among the troops as well. Your two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, are dead too, and the ark of God has been taken." [18] When he mentioned the ark of God, Eli fell backward off his chair beside the gate; his neck broke, and he died, for he was old and heavy. For forty years he had judged Israel. [19] His daughter-in-law, Phinehas's wife, was pregnant and near her time. When she heard the report that the ark of God had been taken and that her father-in-law and her husband were dead, she bent down and gave birth, for her labor pains came upon her suddenly. [20] As she was dying, the women attending her said, "Do not be afraid; you have given birth to a son." But she gave no answer and paid no heed. [21] She named the boy Ichabod, saying, "Glory has gone into exile from Israel," because the ark of God had been taken and because of her father-in-law and her husband. [22] She said, "Glory has gone into exile from Israel, because the ark of God has been taken."

CHAPTER 5

[1] The Philistines, having taken the ark of God, carried it from Ebenezer to Ashdod. [2] The Philistines took the ark of God, brought it into Dagon's temple, and set it next to Dagon. [3] Early the next day the people of Ashdod got up, and there was Dagon fallen face down on the ground before the ark of the LORD!

They lifted Dagon and returned him to his place. [4] Early the following morning they got up, and once more Dagon was fallen face down on the ground before the ark of the LORD. Dagon's head and both his hands lay cut off on the threshold; only Dagon's body was left of him. [5] For this reason, to this day, neither Dagon's priests nor anyone who enters Dagon's temple in Ashdod steps on Dagon's threshold. [6] The LORD's hand weighed heavily on the people of Ashdod. He brought devastation on them and struck them with tumors, Ashdod and its territory.* [7] The men of Ashdod saw what was happening and said, "The ark of Israel's God must not remain with us, since his hand is severe on us and on Dagon our god." [8] They sent and summoned all the lords of the Philistines to them and asked, "What are we to do with the ark of Israel's God?" They answered, "Have the ark of Israel's God moved over to Gath." So they moved the ark of the God of Israel there. [9] After they had moved it, the LORD's hand came against that city, and there was a very great panic. He struck the men of the city, from the least to the greatest, and tumors broke out on them. [10] So they sent the ark of God to Ekron. As soon as the ark of God reached Ekron, the Ekronites cried out, "They have brought the ark of Israel's God over to me to kill me and my people!" [11] They sent and summoned all the lords of the Philistines and said, "Send the ark of Israel's God away; let it go back to its own place, so it will not kill me and my people." For a deadly panic had spread through the whole city; God's hand weighed very heavily there. [12] Those who did not die were struck with tumors, and the city's cry for help went up to the heavens.

CHAPTER 6

[1] For seven months the ark of the LORD was in Philistine territory. [2] The Philistines summoned the priests and the diviners and said, "What should we do with the ark of the LORD? Let us know what we should send along with it to its place." [3] They said, "If you send the ark of Israel's God away, do not send it off empty-handed; by all means return a guilt offering to him. Then you will be healed, and it will become clear to you why his hand does not leave you alone." [4] They asked, "What guilt offering should we return to him?" They said, "Five gold tumors and five gold mice, matching the number of the lords of the Philistines, since one plague struck all of you and your lords. [5] Make likenesses of your tumors and likenesses of your mice that are destroying the land, and give glory to Israel's God. Perhaps he will lift his hand from you, your gods and your land. [6] Why harden your hearts the way Egypt and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? When he had made sport of them, did they not let the people go, and they went? [7] So now, get a new cart ready, and two cows that have calves and have never borne a yoke. Harness the cows to the cart, and take their calves away from them back home. [8] Take the ark of the LORD and set it on the cart, and put the gold objects you are returning to him as a guilt offering in a chest beside it. Then send it off on its way. [9] And watch: if it heads up the road to its own territory, to Beth-shemesh, it is he who has brought this great disaster on us. If not, we will know that his hand did not touch us; it was something that just happened to us." [10] The men did this. They took two cows with calves, harnessed them to the cart, and penned up their calves at home. [11] They set the ark of the LORD on the cart, along with the chest holding the gold mice and the likenesses of their tumors. [12] The cows went straight ahead on the road to Beth-shemesh, keeping to the one highway, lowing as they went, turning neither right nor left. The lords of the Philistines followed them as far as the border of Beth-shemesh. [13] The people of Beth-shemesh were harvesting wheat in the valley. They looked up and saw the ark, and they were glad at the sight. [14] The cart came into the field of Joshua the Beth-shemite and stood still there, where there was a large stone. They chopped up the wood of the cart and offered the cows up as a burnt offering to the LORD. [15] The Levites had lifted down the ark of the LORD and the chest with it that held the gold objects, and placed them on the large stone. That day the men of Beth-shemesh offered burnt offerings and sacrificed sacrifices to the LORD. [16] The five lords of the Philistines watched, and then went back to Ekron that same day. [17] These are the gold tumors the Philistines returned to the LORD as a guilt offering: for Ashdod one, for Gaza one, for Ashkelon one, for Gath one, for Ekron one. [18] The gold mice matched the number of all the Philistine cities belonging to the five lords, from fortified city to country village, as far as the great Abel on which they set the ark of the LORD; it is still there to this day in the field of Joshua the Beth-shemite.* [19] He struck down some of the men of Beth-shemesh for looking into the ark of the LORD; he struck down among the people seventy men, fifty thousand men. The people went into mourning because the LORD had struck the people with a great blow.* [20] The men of Beth-shemesh said, "Who can stand before the LORD, this holy God? To whom will he go up from us?" [21] They sent messengers to those living in Kiriath-jearim to say, "The Philistines have sent back the ark of the LORD. Come down and bring it up to your place."

CHAPTER 7

[1] The men of Kiriath-jearim came, brought up the ark of the LORD, and took it into Abinadab's house on the hill. They consecrated his son Eleazar to watch over the ark of the LORD. [2] From the day the ark came to rest at Kiriath-jearim, a long time went by, twenty years, and the whole house of Israel mourned after the LORD. [3] Samuel told the whole house of Israel, "If you are coming back to the LORD with all your heart, get rid of the foreign gods and the Ashtaroth among you. Set your heart firmly on the LORD and serve him alone, and he will rescue you from the hand of the Philistines." [4] The children of Israel got rid of the Baals and the Ashtaroth and served the LORD alone. [5] Samuel said, "Assemble all Israel at Mizpah, and I will pray to the LORD on your behalf." [6] They assembled at Mizpah, drew water and poured it out before the LORD. They fasted that day and confessed there, "We have sinned against the LORD." Samuel judged the children of Israel at Mizpah. [7] The Philistines heard that the children of Israel had assembled at Mizpah, and the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel. Hearing this, the children of Israel were afraid of the Philistines. [8] The children of Israel said to Samuel, "Do not keep silent; keep crying to the LORD our God for us, so that he will rescue us from the hand of the Philistines." [9] Samuel took a suckling lamb and offered it whole as a burnt offering to the LORD. Samuel cried to the LORD on Israel's behalf, and the LORD answered him. [10] While Samuel was offering the burnt offering, the Philistines came near to attack Israel. But that day the LORD thundered against the Philistines with a mighty voice and threw them into a panic, and they were beaten before Israel. [11] The men of Israel went out from Mizpah, chased the Philistines, and struck them down all the way to a point below Beth-car. [12] Samuel took a stone and set it up between Mizpah and Shen. He named it Ebenezer, saying, "Up to here the LORD has helped us." [13] The Philistines were brought low and no longer came into Israel's territory, and the LORD's hand was against the Philistines all Samuel's days. [14] The towns the Philistines had taken from Israel came back to Israel, from Ekron to Gath, and Israel freed their territory from the Philistines' hand. There was peace as well between Israel and the Amorites. [15] Samuel judged Israel throughout his life. [16] Every year he went around on a circuit to Bethel, Gilgal and Mizpah, judging Israel at all these places. [17] Then he would come back to Ramah, since his home was there; there he judged Israel, and there he built an altar to the LORD.

CHAPTER 8

[1] When Samuel had grown old, he set his sons up as judges for Israel. [2] His firstborn was named Joel, and his second son Abijah; they judged at Beersheba. [3] His sons, though, did not follow in his ways. They bent toward profit, accepted bribes, and twisted justice. [4] So all the elders of Israel gathered and came to Samuel at Ramah. [5] They told him, "You have grown old, and your sons do not follow in your ways. Now set over us a king to judge us, as all the nations have." [6] It was displeasing in Samuel's eyes that they said, "Give us a king to judge us," and Samuel prayed to the LORD. [7] The LORD told Samuel, "Listen to what the people are saying to you, all of it; it is not you they have rejected, but me they have rejected as king over them. [8] They are doing to you just what they have always done, from the day I brought them up out of Egypt until today, abandoning me and serving other gods. [9] So now listen to them; but be sure to give them a solemn warning and tell them the rights of the king who will reign over them." [10] Samuel repeated all the LORD's words to the people who were asking him for a king. [11] He said, "This is what the king who reigns over you will claim as his right: your sons he will take and put them in his chariots and among his horsemen, and they will run in front of his chariot. [12] He will set them up as his officers over thousands and officers over fifties, and have them plow his fields, reap his harvest, and make his weapons of war and the fittings for his chariots. [13] Your daughters he will take to make perfumes, to cook, and to bake. [14] Your best fields, vineyards and olive groves he will take and hand over to his servants. [15] He will take a tithe of your seed and your vineyards and hand it over to his officials and his servants. [16] Your male and female servants, your finest young men and your donkeys he will take and set to his own work. [17] He will take a tithe of your flocks, and you yourselves will be his slaves. [18] On that day you will cry out because of the king you chose for yourselves, but the LORD will not answer you on that day." [19] But the people would not listen to Samuel's voice. "No," they said, "we will have a king over us, [20] so that we too may be like all the nations, with our king judging us and going out ahead of us to fight our battles." [21] Samuel heard everything the people said and repeated it in the LORD's hearing. [22] The LORD told Samuel, "Listen to them and give them a king." Then Samuel told the men of Israel, "Go back, each of you to his own town."

CHAPTER 9

[1] There was a man from Benjamin named Kish son of Abiel, son of Zeror, son of Becorath, son of Aphiah, a Benjaminite, a man of substance. [2] He had a son named Saul, a fine young man; not one of the children of Israel was finer than he. He stood head and shoulders above all the people. [3] The donkeys of Saul's father Kish had strayed, and Kish told his son Saul, "Take one of the young men with you and go off in search of the donkeys." [4] He crossed the hill country of Ephraim and crossed the land of Shalishah, but they did not find them. They crossed the land of Shaalim, and they were not there. He crossed the land of the Benjaminites, and they did not find them. [5] When they reached the land of Zuph, Saul said to the young man with him, "Come on, let us go back, or my father will stop worrying about the donkeys and start worrying about us." [6] The young man said to him, "Listen, there is a man of God in this town, a man highly respected; everything he says comes true without fail. Let us go there now; maybe he will tell us which way to take." [7] Saul said to his young man, "Suppose we go, what can we bring the man? The bread in our bags is used up, and we have no present to bring the man of God. What do we have with us?" [8] The young man answered Saul again: "Here, I happen to have a quarter shekel of silver. I will give it to the man of God, and he will tell us which way to go." [9] (In earlier times in Israel, anyone going to consult God would say, "Come, let us go to the seer," because the one called a prophet today used to be called a seer.) [10] Saul told his young man, "Good idea; come on, let us go." And they went to the town where the man of God was. [11] As they were climbing the slope to the town, they came upon some girls going out to draw water, and asked them, "Is the seer here?" [12] They answered, "He is. There, he is ahead of you. Hurry, because he came into town today; the people have a sacrifice today on the high place. [13] As you go into town you will find him before he goes up to the high place to eat. The people will not eat till he arrives, since he is the one who blesses the sacrifice; after that the guests eat. Go on up, then; right now you will find him." [14] So they went up to the town. Just as they came into the town, there was Samuel coming out toward them to go up to the high place. [15] One day before Saul came, the LORD had disclosed this to Samuel: [16] "At this time tomorrow I will send you a man from the land of Benjamin. Anoint him as leader over my people Israel; he will rescue my people from the Philistines' hand. For I have seen my people, because their cry has reached me." [17] As Samuel caught sight of Saul, the LORD said to him, "There is the man I told you about! He is the one who will keep my people in check." [18] Saul came up to Samuel in the middle of the gate and said, "Tell me, please, which is the seer's house?" [19] Samuel answered Saul, "I am the seer. Go up ahead of me to the high place. You are eating with me today; in the morning I will send you off, and I will tell you everything on your mind. [20] As for the donkeys that strayed three days ago, put them out of your mind; they have been found. And on whom is all Israel's desire set? Is it not on you and on all your father's house?" [21] Saul replied, "Am I not a Benjaminite, of the smallest of Israel's tribes, and my clan the most insignificant of all the clans of the tribe of Benjamin? Why do you say such a thing to me?" [22] Samuel took Saul and his young man, led them into the hall, and gave them the place at the head of the guests, who numbered about thirty. [23] Samuel said to the cook, "Bring the portion I handed you, the one I told you to put aside." [24] The cook lifted up the thigh and what went with it and set it in front of Saul. Samuel said, "See, what was kept back is set before you. Eat, for it was kept for you for this occasion, from the time I said, 'I have invited the people.'" So Saul ate with Samuel that day.* [25] They came down from the high place to the town, and Samuel talked with Saul on the roof. [26] They got up early, and at the break of dawn Samuel called to Saul on the roof, "Get up, and I will send you on your way." Saul got up, and the two of them, he and Samuel, went outside. [27] As they were going down to the edge of the town, Samuel said to Saul, "Tell the young man to go on ahead of us." When he had gone on, Samuel said, "But you stop here a moment, and I will let you hear the word of God."

CHAPTER 10

[1] Samuel took the flask of oil, poured it over his head and kissed him, and said, "Is it not because the LORD has anointed you leader over his inheritance? [2] Today, after you leave me, you will come upon two men near Rachel's tomb at Zelzah in the territory of Benjamin. They will tell you, 'The donkeys you set out to look for have been found. Your father has given up the matter of the donkeys and is worried about you, saying, "What am I to do about my son?"' [3] From there you will go on farther and reach the oak of Tabor. Three men will meet you there on their way up to God at Bethel, one with three young goats, one with three loaves of bread, and one with a skin of wine. [4] They will ask how you are and give you two loaves, and you are to take them from their hands. [5] After that you will come to Gibeah of God, where the Philistine garrison is. As you enter the town, you will run into a group of prophets coming down from the high place, with harp, tambourine, flute and lyre in front of them, prophesying. [6] The Spirit of the LORD will come powerfully upon you; you will prophesy along with them and be changed into a different man. [7] Once these signs have happened to you, do whatever lies at hand, for God is with you. [8] Go down ahead of me to Gilgal, and I will come down to you to offer burnt offerings and sacrifice peace offerings. Wait seven days until I come to you; then I will let you know what you are to do." [9] As he turned his back to go from Samuel, God changed his heart into another, and all these signs happened that day. [10] When they came to Gibeah, there was a group of prophets meeting him! The Spirit of God came powerfully upon him, and he prophesied in their midst. [11] When all those who had known him from earlier days saw him prophesying with the prophets, the people asked one another, "What has come over the son of Kish? Is Saul among the prophets too?" [12] A man from there answered, "And who is their father?" That is how the saying arose, "Is Saul among the prophets too?" [13] When he finished prophesying, he went to the high place. [14] Saul's uncle asked him and his young man, "Where did you go?" He said, "Looking for the donkeys. When we saw they were not anywhere, we went to Samuel." [15] Saul's uncle said, "Tell me, please, what Samuel told you." [16] Saul told his uncle, "He let us know for certain that the donkeys had been found." But he said nothing to him about the matter of the kingship Samuel had spoken of. [17] Samuel summoned the people to the LORD at Mizpah. [18] He said to the children of Israel, "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'It was I who brought Israel up from Egypt and rescued you from the power of Egypt and from the power of all the kingdoms that oppressed you.' [19] Yet today you have rejected your God, the one who rescues you from all your troubles and distresses, and you have told him, 'No, set a king over us.' So now, take your places before the LORD by your tribes and your thousands." [20] Samuel had all the tribes of Israel come forward, and the tribe of Benjamin was picked out. [21] He had the tribe of Benjamin come forward by its clans, and the clan of Matri was picked out, and then Saul son of Kish was picked out. They searched for him, but he was not to be found. [22] So they asked the LORD further, "Has the man come here yet?" The LORD said, "Look, he has hidden himself among the baggage." [23] They ran and brought him from there, and when he stood among the people he was head and shoulders above all of them. [24] Samuel said to all the people, "Do you see the man the LORD has chosen? There is no one like him among all the people." All the people shouted, "Long live the king!" [25] Samuel explained to the people the rights of the kingship; he wrote it down in a book and laid it before the LORD. Then Samuel dismissed all the people, each to his home. [26] Saul too went home to Gibeah, and with him went the valiant men whose hearts God had touched. [27] But some sons of Belial said, "How will this fellow rescue us?" They despised him and brought him no gift. But he acted as if he were deaf.*

CHAPTER 11

[1] Nahash the Ammonite came up and laid siege to Jabesh-gilead. All the men of Jabesh said to Nahash, "Make a treaty with us, and we will be your subjects." [2] Nahash the Ammonite told them, "I will make a treaty with you on one condition: that I gouge out the right eye of every one of you and so put disgrace on all Israel." [3] The elders of Jabesh said to him, "Hold off for seven days and let us send messengers throughout Israel's territory. If no one comes to rescue us, we will surrender to you." [4] The messengers came to Gibeah of Saul and told these things in the people's hearing, and all the people raised their voices and wept. [5] And there was Saul coming in from the field behind the oxen. Saul asked, "What is the matter with the people that they are weeping?" They repeated to him what the men of Jabesh had said. [6] As he heard these words, the Spirit of God came powerfully upon Saul, and he burned with fierce anger. [7] He took a pair of oxen, cut them in pieces, and sent them by messengers through all Israel's territory with the word: "Whoever does not come out after Saul and Samuel, this is what will be done to his oxen!" Fear of the LORD fell on the people, and they came out as one man. [8] He counted them at Bezek: the children of Israel were three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand. [9] They told the messengers who had come, "Say this to the men of Jabesh-gilead: 'Tomorrow, by the time the sun grows hot, you will be rescued.'" The messengers came and reported to the men of Jabesh, and they were overjoyed. [10] So the men of Jabesh said, "Tomorrow we will come out to you, and you can do with us whatever seems good to you." [11] The next day Saul arranged the troops in three units. They broke into the middle of the camp during the morning watch and cut down Ammon until the day grew hot. The survivors were so scattered that not two of them were left together. [12] The people said to Samuel, "Who was it that said, 'Is Saul to reign over us?' Hand the men over, and we will put them to death." [13] But Saul said, "Not a man will be put to death today, for today the LORD has worked deliverance in Israel." [14] Samuel told the people, "Come, let us go to Gilgal and make the kingship new there." [15] All the people went to Gilgal, and at Gilgal they made Saul king before the LORD. There they sacrificed peace offerings before the LORD, and there Saul and all the men of Israel celebrated with great joy.

CHAPTER 12

[1] Samuel said to all Israel, "I have listened to you in everything you told me, and I have set a king over you. [2] So now, here is the king going before you. As for me, I am old and gray, and my sons are here among you. I have gone before you from my youth until today. [3] Here I am. Bear witness against me before the LORD and before his anointed: Whose ox have I taken, or whose donkey? Whom have I cheated? Whom have I crushed? From whose hand have I taken a bribe to make me close my eyes to something? I will pay it back to you." [4] They said, "You have not cheated us or crushed us, and you have taken nothing from anyone's hand." [5] He said to them, "The LORD is witness against you, and his anointed is witness today, that you have found nothing in my hand." They said, "He is witness." [6] Samuel said to the people, "It is the LORD who made Moses and Aaron and brought your fathers up from the land of Egypt. [7] So now take your stand, and I will argue my case with you before the LORD over all the LORD's righteous deeds that he did for you and your fathers. [8] When Jacob had gone into Egypt, your fathers cried to the LORD, and the LORD sent Moses and Aaron; they brought your fathers out of Egypt and settled them in this place. [9] But they forgot the LORD their God, and he sold them into the hand of Sisera, the commander of Hazor's army, into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the king of Moab, and these made war on them. [10] They cried to the LORD and said, 'We have sinned; we abandoned the LORD and served the Baals and the Ashtaroth. Now rescue us from our enemies' hand, and we will serve you.' [11] The LORD sent Jerubbaal, Bedan, Jephthah and Samuel, and he rescued you from the hand of your enemies all around, and you lived securely. [*] [12] Yet when you saw Nahash king of the children of Ammon coming against you, you told me, 'No, a king must reign over us,' when the LORD your God was your king. [13] So now, here is the king you chose, the one you asked for. The LORD has put a king over you. [14] If you fear the LORD, serve him, obey his voice and do not defy the LORD's command, then both you and the king who reigns over you will be following the LORD your God. [15] But if you do not obey the LORD's voice and you defy the LORD's command, the LORD's hand will be against you as it was against your fathers. [16] Now then, take your stand and watch this great thing the LORD is about to do before your eyes. [17] Is it not the wheat harvest today? I will call to the LORD, and he will send thunder and rain. Then you will realize and see how great a wrong you did in the LORD's sight by asking for a king." [18] Samuel called to the LORD, and that day the LORD sent thunder and rain, and all the people stood in great fear of the LORD and of Samuel. [19] All the people said to Samuel, "Pray to the LORD your God for your servants, so we will not die, for on top of all our sins we have added this wrong of asking for a king." [20] Samuel told the people, "Do not be afraid. You have done all this wrong; only do not turn away from following the LORD, but serve the LORD with all your heart. [21] Do not turn aside after empty things that can neither profit nor rescue, because they are empty. [22] For his great name's sake the LORD will not cast off his people, since the LORD has been pleased to make you a people for himself. [23] As for me, far be it from me to sin against the LORD by no longer praying for you; I will teach you the good and right way. [24] Just fear the LORD and serve him faithfully with all your heart, for see what great things he has done for you. [25] But if you persist in doing evil, you will be swept away, you and your king alike."

CHAPTER 13

[1] Saul had reigned a year, and when he had reigned two years over Israel, [] [2] Saul picked out for himself three thousand men of Israel: two thousand were with Saul at Michmash and in the hill country of Bethel, and a thousand were with Jonathan at Gibeah of Benjamin. The rest of the troops he sent home, each to his tent. [3] Jonathan attacked the Philistine garrison at Geba, and the Philistines heard about it. Saul had the horn sounded throughout the land, saying, "Let the Hebrews hear!" [4] All Israel heard the news: "Saul has attacked the Philistine garrison, and Israel has now become a stench to the Philistines." The troops were summoned to Saul at Gilgal. [5] The Philistines gathered to fight Israel: thirty thousand chariots, six thousand horsemen, and troops as many as the sand on the seashore. They came up and encamped at Michmash, east of Beth-aven. [6] The men of Israel saw that they were in a tight spot, for the troops were hard pressed, and the troops hid in caves, in thickets, among rocks, in underground vaults and in cisterns. [7] Some Hebrews went across the Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead. Saul was still at Gilgal, and all the troops followed him trembling. [8] He waited seven days, the time Samuel had set, but Samuel did not come to Gilgal, and the troops began slipping away from him. [9] So Saul said, "Bring me the burnt offering and the peace offerings," and he offered up the burnt offering. [10] Just as he finished offering the burnt offering, Samuel arrived. Saul went out to meet him and to greet him. [11] Samuel said, "What have you done?" Saul answered, "I saw that the troops were slipping away from me, and you had not come by the set time, and the Philistines were gathering at Michmash. [12] So I thought, 'Now the Philistines will come down on me at Gilgal, and I have not sought the LORD's favor.' I felt compelled, and I offered the burnt offering." [13] Samuel said to Saul, "You have been foolish. You did not keep the command the LORD your God gave you. Had you done so, the LORD would now have made your kingship over Israel firm for ever. [14] But now your kingship will not last. The LORD has searched out for himself a man after his own heart, and the LORD has appointed him leader over his people, because you did not keep what the LORD commanded you." [15] Samuel got up and went up from Gilgal to Gibeah of Benjamin. Saul counted the troops still with him: about six hundred men. [16] Saul, his son Jonathan, and the troops with them were staying at Geba of Benjamin, while the Philistines were encamped at Michmash. [17] Raiders came out of the Philistine camp in three units: one unit headed along the road to Ophrah, to the land of Shual; [18] one unit headed along the road to Beth-horon; and one unit headed along the road to the border overlooking the valley of Zeboim toward the wilderness. [19] No blacksmith could be found anywhere in the land of Israel, because the Philistines had said, "The Hebrews must not make themselves swords or spears." [20] So all Israel had to go down to the Philistines, each man to have his plowshare, mattock, axe or sickle sharpened. [21] The price was a pim for plowshares and mattocks, and a third of a shekel for forks and axes and for setting the goads. [] [22] So on the day of battle not a sword or spear was in the hands of any of the troops with Saul and Jonathan; only Saul and his son Jonathan had them. [23] The Philistine garrison moved out to the pass of Michmash.

CHAPTER 14

[1] One day Jonathan son of Saul said to the young man who bore his armor, "Come, let us go across to the Philistine garrison over on the far side." He did not let his father know. [2] Saul was sitting at the edge of Gibeah under the pomegranate tree at Migron, and the troops with him numbered about six hundred men. [3] Ahijah son of Ahitub, brother of Ichabod son of Phinehas, son of Eli, the LORD's priest at Shiloh, was carrying an ephod. The troops did not know that Jonathan had left. [4] In the pass that Jonathan meant to cross to reach the Philistine garrison there was a rocky tooth on this side and a rocky tooth on that side; one was named Bozez and the other Seneh. [5] One tooth stood like a pillar on the north, facing Michmash, and the other on the south, facing Geba. [6] Jonathan said to the young man who bore his armor, "Come, let us go across to the garrison of these uncircumcised men. Perhaps the LORD will act for us; nothing keeps the LORD from saving, whether by many or by few." [7] His armor-bearer told him, "Do whatever is in your heart. Turn to it; here I am with you, as your heart is." [8] Jonathan said, "Look, we will go across to the men and let them see us. [9] If they say to us, 'Stay put till we reach you,' we will stand where we are and not go up to them. [10] But if they say, 'Come up to us,' we will go up, for the LORD has handed them over to us; that will be our sign." [11] The two of them let themselves be seen by the Philistine garrison, and the Philistines said, "Look, the Hebrews are coming out of the holes they have been hiding in." [12] The men of the garrison called to Jonathan and his armor-bearer, "Come on up to us, and we will teach you a thing or two!" Jonathan told his armor-bearer, "Climb up behind me, for the LORD has handed them over to Israel." [13] Jonathan clambered up on hands and feet with his armor-bearer behind him. They fell before Jonathan, and his armor-bearer, following him, finished them off. [14] In that first blow Jonathan and his armor-bearer struck down about twenty men, within about half a furrow of a plot of land. [15] Terror spread through the camp, in the field and among all the troops; the garrison and the raiders were terrified too. The ground shook, and it became a terror from God. [16] Saul's lookouts at Gibeah of Benjamin saw the throng melting away, going this way and that. [17] Saul told the troops with him, "Take a count and find out who has left us." They counted, and Jonathan and his armor-bearer were missing. [18] Saul said to Ahijah, "Bring the ark of God here," for the ark of God was with the children of Israel at that time. [] [19] While Saul was still speaking to the priest, the uproar in the Philistine camp kept growing louder and louder. So Saul told the priest, "Hold back your hand." [20] Saul and all the troops with him were called together and went into the battle, and there was each man's sword turned against his neighbor, in very great confusion. [21] The Hebrews who had sided with the Philistines before, who had gone up with them into the camp from all around, now changed over to be with Israel, with Saul and Jonathan. [22] All the men of Israel who had been hiding in the hill country of Ephraim heard that the Philistines were fleeing, and they too went hard after them in the battle. [23] So the LORD rescued Israel that day, and the fighting spread past Beth-aven. [24] The men of Israel were worn down that day, because Saul had bound the troops under an oath: "Cursed is the man who eats food before evening, until I have taken revenge on my enemies." So none of the troops tasted food. [25] The whole army came into the woods, and there was honey on the surface of the field. [26] The troops entered the woods, and there was the honey dripping, yet no one lifted his hand to his mouth, because the troops feared the oath. [27] Jonathan had not heard his father putting the troops under oath. He reached out the tip of the staff in his hand, dipped it into the honeycomb and lifted his hand to his mouth, and his eyes brightened. [] [28] One of the troops spoke up: "Your father strictly bound the troops under oath, saying, 'Cursed is the man who eats food today.'" The troops were exhausted. [29] Jonathan said, "My father has brought trouble on the land. Just look how my eyes have brightened because I tasted this bit of honey. [30] How much better if the troops had eaten their fill today of the spoil they found from their enemies! As it is, the slaughter among the Philistines has not been great." [31] That day they struck down the Philistines from Michmash to Aijalon, and the troops were utterly exhausted. [32] The troops swooped on the spoil. They took sheep, cattle and calves, slaughtered them on the ground, and ate them with the blood. [33] Saul was told, "Look, the troops are sinning against the LORD by eating with the blood." He said, "You have been faithless. Roll a large stone over to me now." [34] Saul said, "Spread out among the troops and tell them, 'Each of you bring me his ox or his sheep, slaughter it here and eat; do not sin against the LORD by eating with the blood.'" That night every one of the troops brought his ox in his hand and slaughtered it there. [35] Saul built an altar to the LORD; it was the first altar he built to the LORD. [36] Saul said, "Let us go down after the Philistines by night and plunder them until daybreak; let us not leave a single man of them." They said, "Do whatever seems good to you." But the priest said, "Let us draw near to God here." [37] Saul asked God, "Shall I go down after the Philistines? Will you hand them over to Israel?" But he gave him no answer that day. [38] Saul said, "Come here, all you cornerstones of the people; find out and see how this sin came about today. [39] For as the LORD lives, who rescues Israel, even if it lies with Jonathan my son, he must die." Not one of all the troops answered him. [40] He told all Israel, "You stand on one side, and I and my son Jonathan will stand on the other." The troops told Saul, "Do whatever seems good to you." [41] Saul said to the LORD, the God of Israel, "Give a perfect lot." Jonathan and Saul were taken, and the troops went free. [*] [42] Saul said, "Cast it between me and Jonathan my son." And Jonathan was taken. [43] Saul said to Jonathan, "Tell me what you did." Jonathan told him, "I only tasted a little honey with the tip of the staff in my hand. Here I am; I will die." [44] Saul said, "May God do so, and more besides; you will surely die, Jonathan!" [45] But the troops said to Saul, "Is Jonathan to die, who has won this great victory in Israel? Never! As the LORD lives, not a hair of his head will fall to the ground, for he has acted with God today." So the troops ransomed Jonathan, and he did not die. [46] Saul went back from chasing the Philistines, and the Philistines went off to their own place. [47] After Saul had taken hold of the kingship over Israel, he fought all his enemies round about: Moab, the children of Ammon, Edom, the kings of Zobah, and the Philistines. Wherever he turned, he dealt out punishment. [48] He fought valiantly; he struck Amalek and rescued Israel from the hand of those who looted it. [49] Saul's sons were Jonathan, Ishvi and Malchi-shua. As for his two daughters, the firstborn was named Merab and the younger Michal. [50] Saul's wife was named Ahinoam daughter of Ahimaaz. His army commander was named Abner son of Ner, Saul's uncle. [51] Kish was Saul's father, and Ner, Abner's father, was the son of Abiel. [52] Fierce war went on with the Philistines all Saul's life, and whenever Saul spotted any strong man or any valiant man, he drafted him for himself.

CHAPTER 15

[1] Samuel said to Saul, "It was I whom the LORD sent to anoint you king over his people Israel. So now, listen to what the LORD says. [2] This is what the LORD of hosts says: 'I have taken account of what Amalek did to Israel, how he lay in wait for him on the road as he came up out of Egypt. [3] Go now and strike Amalek, and devote to destruction everything that is his. Do not spare him; kill men and women alike, children and babies at the breast, cattle and sheep, camels and donkeys.'" [4] Saul summoned the troops and counted them at Telaim: two hundred thousand men on foot, and ten thousand men of Judah. [5] Saul went to the city of Amalek and set an ambush in the ravine. [6] Saul told the Kenites, "Go, get away, go down from among the Amalekites, or I will sweep you away with them; for you dealt kindly with all the children of Israel as they came up out of Egypt." So the Kenites moved away from among Amalek. [7] Saul struck Amalek from Havilah to the approach to Shur, east of Egypt. [8] He captured Agag king of Amalek alive, and all the people he devoted to destruction with the sword. [9] But Saul and the troops spared Agag, along with the best of the sheep and cattle, the second-year animals and the lambs, and everything that was good; they would not devote them to destruction. Anything that was despised and worthless they devoted to destruction. [10] The word of the LORD came to Samuel: [11] "I regret having made Saul king; he has turned away from following me and has not carried out my words." Samuel was angry and cried out to the LORD all night long. [12] Early in the morning Samuel got up to meet Saul. Samuel was told, "Saul went to Carmel and set up a monument for himself there; then he turned and crossed over and went down to Gilgal." [13] Samuel came to Saul, and Saul said to him, "May you be blessed by the LORD! I have carried out the LORD's word." [14] Samuel said, "Then what is this sound of sheep in my ears, and the sound of cattle that I hear?" [15] Saul said, "They brought them from the Amalekites. The troops spared the best of the sheep and cattle to sacrifice to the LORD your God, and the rest we devoted to destruction." [16] Samuel told Saul, "Stop, and I will tell you what the LORD said to me last night." He told him, "Speak." [17] Samuel said, "Small as you may be in your own eyes, are you not head of the tribes of Israel? The LORD anointed you king over Israel. [18] The LORD sent you on your way and told you, 'Go and devote to destruction those sinners, the Amalekites; make war on them until you have finished them off.' [19] Why did you not obey the LORD's voice? Why did you swoop on the spoil and do evil in the LORD's sight?" [20] Saul said to Samuel, "I did obey the LORD's voice! I went the way the LORD sent me; I brought back Agag king of Amalek, and Amalek I devoted to destruction. [21] The troops took some of the spoil, sheep and cattle, the best of what was devoted to destruction, to sacrifice to the LORD your God at Gilgal." [22] Samuel said, "Does the LORD take as much pleasure in burnt offerings and sacrifices as in obedience to the LORD's voice? See, obeying is better than sacrifice, and paying heed than the fat of rams. [23] Rebellion is like the sin of divination, and presumption like iniquity and idolatry. Since you have rejected the LORD's word, he has rejected you as king."* [24] Saul said to Samuel, "I have sinned. I went against the LORD's command and your words, because I was afraid of the troops and listened to them. [25] Now, please, forgive my sin and come back with me, so I can bow down to the LORD." [26] Samuel said to Saul, "I will not go back with you, because you rejected the LORD's word, and the LORD has rejected you as king over Israel." [27] Samuel turned to leave, and Saul caught hold of the edge of his robe, and it ripped. [28] Samuel said to him, "Today the LORD has ripped the kingship of Israel from you and given it to a neighbor of yours who is better than you. [29] Moreover, the Eternal One of Israel does not lie or change his mind, for he is not a man, to change his mind."* [30] Saul said, "I have sinned. But honor me now, please, before the elders of my people and before Israel; come back with me, so I can bow down to the LORD your God." [31] Samuel went back with Saul, and Saul bowed down to the LORD. [32] Samuel said, "Bring Agag king of Amalek to me." Agag came to him cheerfully, thinking, "Surely the bitterness of death has passed."* [33] Samuel said, "As your sword has left women childless, so your mother will be childless among women." And Samuel cut Agag to pieces before the LORD at Gilgal. [34] Then Samuel went to Ramah, and Saul went up to his home at Gibeah of Saul. [35] Samuel never saw Saul again until the day he died, but Samuel mourned for Saul. And the LORD regretted that he had made Saul king over Israel.

CHAPTER 16

[1] The LORD said to Samuel, "How long are you going to grieve for Saul, now that I have rejected him as king over Israel? Fill your horn with oil and set out. I am sending you to Jesse of Bethlehem, because I have picked out a king for myself among his sons." [2] Samuel said, "How can I go? Saul will hear of it and kill me." The LORD said, "Take a heifer from the herd with you and say, 'I have come to offer sacrifice to the LORD.' [3] Invite Jesse to the sacrifice, and I will let you know what to do; you will anoint for me the one I point out to you." [4] Samuel did as the LORD had told him and went to Bethlehem. The town's elders came trembling to meet him and asked, "Is your coming peaceful?" [5] He said, "Peaceful. I have come to offer sacrifice to the LORD. Sanctify yourselves and come with me to the sacrifice." He sanctified Jesse and his sons and invited them to the sacrifice. [6] As they arrived, he looked at Eliab and thought, "Surely here before the LORD is his anointed." [7] But the LORD told Samuel, "Pay no attention to his looks or how tall he stands, for I have rejected him. It is not as man sees: man sees what is before his eyes, but the LORD sees into the heart." [8] Jesse called Abinadab and had him pass in front of Samuel. He said, "The LORD has not chosen this one either." [9] Jesse had Shammah pass by. He said, "Nor has the LORD chosen this one." [10] Jesse had seven of his sons pass in front of Samuel, and Samuel told Jesse, "The LORD has not chosen any of these." [11] Samuel asked Jesse, "Are these all your boys?" He said, "There is still the youngest; he is out looking after the sheep." Samuel told Jesse, "Send for him and fetch him; we will not sit down to eat until he gets here." [12] So he sent and had him brought in. He was ruddy, with fine eyes and good looks. The LORD said, "Get up and anoint him; this is the one." [13] Samuel took the horn of oil and anointed him among his brothers, and from that day on the Spirit of the LORD came powerfully upon David. Then Samuel set out and went to Ramah. [14] The Spirit of the LORD had left Saul, and an evil spirit from the LORD terrified him. [15] Saul's servants told him, "You see, an evil spirit from God is terrifying you. [16] Let our lord give the word to your servants standing before you, and they will look for a man who is skilled at playing the lyre. Whenever the evil spirit from God is on you, he will play with his hand and you will feel better." [17] Saul told his servants, "Find me a man who plays well, then, and bring him to me." [18] One of the young men spoke up: "I have seen a son of Jesse of Bethlehem who is skilled at playing. He is a valiant man, a warrior, wise in speech, a man of fine appearance, and the LORD is with him." [19] So Saul sent messengers to Jesse to say, "Send me your son David, the one with the sheep." [20] Jesse took a donkey with bread, a skin of wine and a young goat, and sent them to Saul by his son David. [21] David came to Saul and stood before him. Saul grew very fond of him, and he became his armor-bearer. [22] Saul sent to Jesse to say, "Let David stay in my service, please; he has found favor in my sight." [23] Whenever the spirit from God was on Saul, David would take the lyre and play with his hand; Saul would get relief and feel better, and the evil spirit would leave him.

CHAPTER 17

[1] The Philistines brought their armies together for war. They gathered at Socoh in Judah and encamped between Socoh and Azekah, at Ephes-dammim. [2] Saul and the men of Israel gathered and encamped in the valley of Elah, and they formed their battle line to meet the Philistines. [3] The Philistines stood on the hill on one side and Israel stood on the hill on the other, with the valley between them. [4] A champion came out of the Philistine camp, Goliath by name, from Gath. He stood six cubits and a span tall. [5] On his head was a bronze helmet, and he wore a coat of scale armor weighing five thousand shekels of bronze. [6] He had bronze guards on his legs, and a bronze javelin was slung between his shoulders. [7] The shaft of his spear was like a weaver's beam, and its iron point weighed six hundred shekels. The man bearing his shield went ahead of him. [8] He stood and called out to Israel's battle lines, "Why come out and line up for battle? Am I not the Philistine, and are you not Saul's slaves? Pick a man for yourselves, and let him come down to me. [9] If he can fight me and kill me, we will be your slaves; but if I beat him and kill him, you will be our slaves and serve us." [10] The Philistine went on, "Today I taunt the battle lines of Israel! Give me a man, and we will fight it out together." [11] Hearing these words of the Philistine, Saul and all Israel were shattered and very much afraid. [12] David was the son of an Ephrathite from Bethlehem of Judah named Jesse, who had eight sons. In Saul's time the man was old, advanced in years among men.* [13] Jesse's three oldest sons had followed Saul to the war. The names of the three sons who went to the war were Eliab the firstborn, Abinadab the second, and Shammah the third. [14] David was the youngest. The three oldest followed Saul, [15] while David went back and forth from Saul's side to tend his father's sheep at Bethlehem. [16] Morning and evening the Philistine came forward and took his stand, for forty days. [17] Jesse told his son David, "Take this ephah of roasted grain and these ten loaves for your brothers, and run them to the camp for your brothers. [18] These ten cheeses take to the commander of their thousand. Check on your brothers' welfare, and bring back some token from them."* [19] Saul and they and all the men of Israel were in the valley of Elah, fighting the Philistines. [20] David got up early in the morning, left the sheep with someone to watch them, picked up the load and set off, as Jesse had instructed him. He reached the camp just as the army was marching out to the battle line, raising the war cry. [21] Israel and the Philistines formed up, battle line against battle line. [22] David left his things with the keeper of the supplies, ran to the battle line, and came and asked his brothers how they were. [23] While he was speaking with them, the champion, the Philistine from Gath named Goliath, came up out of the Philistine lines and said the same words as before, and David heard. [24] All the men of Israel, as soon as they saw the man, ran from him in great fear. [25] The men of Israel said, "Have you seen this man coming up? He comes up to taunt Israel. The man who kills him the king will make very rich; he will give him his daughter and make his father's house exempt in Israel." [26] David asked the men standing with him, "What will be done for the man who kills this Philistine and takes away Israel's disgrace? Who is this uncircumcised Philistine anyway, that he should taunt the battle lines of the living God?" [27] The people gave him the same answer: "That is what will be done for the man who kills him." [28] Eliab, his eldest brother, heard him talking to the men, and Eliab grew angry with David. He said, "Why did you come down? Who did you leave those few sheep with in the wilderness? I know how insolent you are and how wicked your heart is; you came down to see the fighting." [29] David said, "Now what have I done? Was it not just a word?"* [30] He turned from him to someone else and asked the same thing, and the people answered him as before. [31] What David had said was overheard and reported to Saul, and he had him brought. [32] David said to Saul, "Let no one lose heart on his account. Your servant will go and fight this Philistine." [33] Saul told David, "You cannot go out against this Philistine and fight him. You are just a boy, and he has been a warrior since he was a boy." [34] David said to Saul, "Your servant has been tending his father's sheep. Whenever a lion came, or a bear, and carried off a sheep from the flock, [35] I went after it, struck it, and snatched the sheep out of its mouth. If it turned on me, I grabbed it by the beard, struck it and killed it. [36] Lions and bears alike your servant has killed, and this uncircumcised Philistine will be like one of them, since he has taunted the battle lines of the living God." [37] David went on, "The LORD who rescued me from the lion's paw and the bear's paw will rescue me from this Philistine's hand." Saul told David, "Go, and the LORD be with you." [38] Saul dressed David in his own tunic, put a bronze helmet on his head, and dressed him in a coat of mail. [39] David fastened his sword over the tunic and tried to walk, for he had never tried them out. David told Saul, "I cannot walk in these; I am not used to them." And David took them off. [40] He took his staff in his hand, picked out five smooth stones from the stream bed, and put them in his shepherd's bag, in the pouch. With his sling in his hand he went toward the Philistine. [41] The Philistine kept coming, closer and closer to David, with the man bearing the shield ahead of him. [42] The Philistine looked David over and, seeing him, despised him, for he was a mere boy, ruddy and good-looking. [43] The Philistine said to David, "Am I a dog, that you come at me with sticks?" And the Philistine cursed David by his gods. [44] The Philistine said to David, "Come here, and I will give your flesh to the birds of the air and the beasts of the field!" [45] David told the Philistine, "You come against me with sword and spear and javelin, but I come against you in the name of the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel's battle lines, whom you have taunted. [46] Today the LORD will hand you over to me. I will strike you down and take your head from you, and today I will give the corpses of the Philistine army to the birds of the air and the wild beasts of the earth, so that all the earth may know that Israel has a God, [47] and this whole assembly may know that not by sword or spear does the LORD save. The battle belongs to the LORD, and he will hand you over to us." [48] As the Philistine got up and came forward to meet David, David ran quickly to the battle line to meet the Philistine. [49] David reached into his bag, took out a stone, slung it, and hit the Philistine on the forehead. The stone sank into his forehead, and he fell face down on the ground. [50] So with a sling and a stone David overpowered the Philistine; he struck the Philistine down and killed him, and David had no sword in his hand. [51] David ran and stood over the Philistine, took hold of his sword, pulled it out of its sheath, and killed him, cutting off his head with it. The Philistines saw that their hero was dead, and they fled. [52] The men of Israel and Judah rose up with a shout and chased the Philistines as far as the entrance of the valley and the gates of Ekron. Philistine dead lay along the Shaaraim road all the way to Gath and Ekron. [53] The children of Israel returned from their hot pursuit of the Philistines and looted their camp. [54] David took the Philistine's head and brought it to Jerusalem; his weapons he put in his own tent. [55] As Saul watched David going out to meet the Philistine, he asked Abner, the army commander, "Abner, whose son is this boy?" Abner said, "As surely as you live, O king, I do not know." [56] The king said, "Find out whose son this young fellow is." [57] As David came back from killing the Philistine, Abner took him and brought him before Saul, the Philistine's head still in his hand. [58] Saul asked him, "Whose son are you, boy?" David said, "The son of your servant Jesse of Bethlehem."

CHAPTER 18

[1] By the time he finished talking with Saul, Jonathan's soul had become knit to David's soul, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul. [2] From that day Saul kept him and would not let him go back to his father's house. [3] Jonathan and David made a covenant, because Jonathan loved him as his own soul. [4] Jonathan stripped off the robe he had on and gave it to David, with his tunic, and even his sword, his bow and his belt. [5] Wherever Saul sent him, David went out and acted wisely, and Saul put him in charge of the fighting men. All the people approved, and Saul's servants approved too. [6] As they were coming in, when David came back from killing the Philistine, the women came out from all the towns of Israel to meet King Saul, singing and dancing, with tambourines, with rejoicing and with triangles. [7] And the women sang to one another as they made merry: "Saul has killed his thousands, and David his tens of thousands." [8] Saul was furious; this refrain was hateful to him. He said, "To David they have given tens of thousands, and to me only thousands. What is left for him but the kingship?" [9] From that day on Saul kept his eye on David. [10] The next day an evil spirit from God came powerfully upon Saul, and he raved inside the house. David was playing with his hand, as he did every day, and Saul had his spear in his hand.* [11] Saul flung the spear, thinking, "I will pin David to the wall." Twice David dodged out of his way. [12] Saul was afraid of David, since the LORD was with David but had left Saul. [13] So Saul sent him away from his side and made him a commander of a thousand, and he went out and came in at the head of the troops. [14] In all he undertook David acted wisely, and the LORD was with him. [15] Saul saw how very wisely he acted and was in dread of him. [16] But all Israel and Judah loved David, because he was the one who went out and came in at their head. [17] Saul said to David, "Here is Merab, my older daughter; I will give her to you as a wife. Only be a valiant man for me and fight the LORD's battles." For Saul thought, "My hand will not be on him; let the hand of the Philistines be on him." [18] David said to Saul, "Who am I, and what is my life or my father's clan in Israel, that I should become the king's son-in-law?" [19] But when the time came for Saul's daughter Merab to be given to David, she was given as a wife to Adriel of Meholah. [20] Michal, Saul's daughter, was in love with David. When Saul was told, the thing suited him. [21] Saul thought, "I will give her to him so she can be a trap for him, and the hand of the Philistines will be on him." So Saul said to David a second time, "You can be my son-in-law today."* [22] Saul ordered his servants, "Speak to David in secret and say, 'Look, the king is pleased with you, and all his servants love you. Now become the king's son-in-law.'" [23] Saul's servants said these words in David's hearing, and David said, "Does it seem a trifle to you to become the king's son-in-law? I am a poor man and lightly esteemed." [24] Saul's servants told him, "This is what David said." [25] Saul said, "Tell David this: 'The king wants no bride-price but a hundred Philistine foreskins, to be avenged on the king's enemies.'" Saul meant to have David fall at the hands of the Philistines. [26] His servants told David these words, and David was pleased with the idea of becoming the king's son-in-law. Before the time was up, [27] David set out with his men and killed two hundred Philistines. David brought their foreskins and counted them out in full to the king, to become the king's son-in-law. Then Saul gave him his daughter Michal as a wife. [28] Saul saw and realized that the LORD was with David, and that his daughter Michal loved him, [29] and Saul became more afraid of David still. Saul was David's enemy from then on. [30] The princes of the Philistines would come out to fight, and every time they came out, David acted more wisely than all Saul's servants, and his name came to be greatly prized.

CHAPTER 19

[1] Saul told his son Jonathan and all his servants that he meant to kill David. But Saul's son Jonathan was very fond of David, [2] and Jonathan let David know: "My father Saul is looking for a way to kill you. So be careful in the morning; stay in a secret place and hide yourself. [3] I will go out and stand next to my father in the field where you are, and I will talk to my father about you. If I see anything, I will let you know." [4] Jonathan spoke well of David to his father Saul. He said to him, "The king should not sin against his servant David, because he has not sinned against you; what he has done has been greatly to your good. [5] He put his life in his hand and killed the Philistine, and the LORD worked a great deliverance for all Israel. You saw it and were glad. Why then would you sin against innocent blood by killing David for no reason?" [6] Saul listened to Jonathan and swore, "As the LORD lives, he will not be put to death." [7] Jonathan called David and told him all of this. Then Jonathan brought David to Saul, and he was with him as he had been before. [8] War broke out again. David went out and fought the Philistines, struck them a heavy blow, and they ran from him. [9] An evil spirit from the LORD came upon Saul while he was sitting in his house with his spear in hand, and David was playing with his hand. [10] Saul tried to pin David to the wall with the spear, but he slipped out of Saul's way, and the spear struck the wall. David fled and got away that night. [11] Saul sent messengers to David's house to watch for him and kill him in the morning. But Michal, David's wife, warned him, "If you do not get away tonight, tomorrow you will be a dead man." [12] Michal lowered David through the window, and he left, ran away and escaped. [13] Michal took the household idol, laid it on the bed, put a mat of goats' hair at its head, and covered it with a cloak.* [14] When Saul sent messengers to seize David, she said, "He is ill." [15] Saul sent the messengers back to see David, with the order, "Bring him up to me in his bed, so I can kill him." [16] The messengers went in, and there was the household idol in the bed, with the mat of goats' hair at its head! [17] Saul said to Michal, "Why did you deceive me like this and send my enemy away to escape?" Michal answered Saul, "He told me, 'Let me go, or I will kill you!'" [18] David had fled and escaped. He came to

Samuel at Ramah and told him all Saul had done to him, and he and Samuel went and stayed at Naioth. [19] Saul was told, "David is at Naioth in Ramah." [20] Saul sent messengers to seize David. They saw the band of prophets prophesying, with Samuel standing in charge of them, and the Spirit of God came upon Saul's messengers, and they too began to prophesy. [21] Saul was told, and he sent other messengers, and they too prophesied. Saul sent messengers a third time, and they too prophesied. [22] Then he went to Ramah himself. He came to the great cistern at Secu and asked, "Where are Samuel and David?" He was told, "At Naioth in Ramah." [23] He went on there, to Naioth in Ramah, and the Spirit of God came upon him as well; he walked along prophesying until he reached Naioth in Ramah. [24] He too stripped off his clothes and prophesied before Samuel, and he lay naked all that day and all that night. That is why it is said, "Is Saul among the prophets too?"

CHAPTER 20

[1] David fled from Naioth in Ramah and came to Jonathan. "What have I done?" he said. "What is my offense? What is my sin against your father, that he wants to take my life?" [2] He said to him, "Never! You will not die. My father does nothing, big or small, without letting me know. Why would my father hide this from me? It is not so." [3] But David swore once more, "Your father knows full well that I have found favor in your sight, and he thinks, 'Jonathan must not know about this, or he will be hurt.' Yet as surely as the LORD lives and you live, there is only a step between me and death." [4] Jonathan said to David, "Whatever you want, I will do it for you." [5] David told Jonathan, "Tomorrow is the new moon, and I ought to sit at the meal with the king. Let me go, and I will hide in the field until the evening of the third day. [6] If your father notices that I am missing, say, 'David begged me to let him hurry to Bethlehem, his town, because the whole clan has its yearly sacrifice there.' [7] If he says, 'Very well,' your servant is safe. But if he flies into a rage, you will know he has made up his mind to do harm. [8] Deal kindly, then, with your servant, since you have brought your servant into a covenant of the LORD with you. If there is guilt in me, kill me yourself; why take me to your father?" [9] Jonathan said, "Never think it! If I knew for sure that my father had made up his mind to bring harm on you, would I not tell you?" [10] David said to Jonathan, "Who will let me know if your father answers you harshly?" [11] Jonathan told David, "Come, let us go out to the field." The two of them went out to the field. [12] Jonathan said to David, "The LORD, the God of Israel, be witness! When I have sounded out my father by this time tomorrow, or the day after, if he is favorable toward David, will I not send word to you then and let you know? [13] If my father means to do you harm, may the LORD do so to Jonathan, and more besides, if I do not let you know and send you off to go safely on your way. And may the LORD be with you as he was with my father. [14] And if I am still alive, will you not show me the steadfast love of the LORD, so that I do not die? [15] And never cut off your kindness from my house, not even when the LORD has cut off David's enemies, every one, from the face of the earth." [16] So Jonathan made a covenant with the house of David: "May the LORD call David's enemies to account." [17] Jonathan had David swear once again by his love for him, for he loved him as he loved his own soul. [18] Jonathan told him, "Tomorrow is the new moon; you will be missed, since your seat will be empty. [19] On the third day go down quickly to the place where you hid on the day of that business, and wait by the stone Ezel. [20] I will shoot three arrows off to one side of it, as if I were shooting at a mark. [21] Then I will send the boy: 'Go and find the arrows.' If I tell the boy, 'Look, the arrows are on this side of you; pick them up,' then come, for you are safe; there is nothing wrong, as the LORD lives. [22] But if I say to the youngster, 'Look, the arrows are farther on,' then go, for the LORD is sending you away. [23] As for what you and I have said to each other, the LORD is between you and me for ever." [24] So David hid in the field. The new moon came, and the king sat down to the meal to eat. [25] The king sat in his usual seat, the seat by the wall. Jonathan stood up, and Abner sat beside Saul, but David's place was empty. [26] Saul said nothing that day, because he thought, "Something has happened to him; he is not clean. That must be it; he is not clean." [27] But the next day, the second of the month, David's place was empty again. Saul asked his son Jonathan, "Why has Jesse's son not come to the meal, yesterday or today?" [28] Jonathan answered Saul, "David begged me to let him go to Bethlehem. [29] He said, 'Please let me go, because our clan has a sacrifice in the town, and my brother has told me to be there. Now if I have found favor in your sight, let me slip off and see my brothers.' That is why he has not come to the king's table." [30] Saul's anger blazed against Jonathan. He said to him, "You son of a perverse and rebellious woman! Do I not know that you have sided with Jesse's son, to your own shame and the shame of your mother's nakedness? [31] As long as Jesse's son lives on the earth, neither you nor your kingship will stand. Now send and fetch him to me; he is a dead man." [32] Jonathan answered his father Saul, "Why should he be put to death? What has he done?" [33] Saul hurled his spear at him to strike him down, and Jonathan knew that his father had made up his mind to kill David. [34] Jonathan got up from the table in a burning rage and ate nothing on the second day of the month, for he was hurt on David's account, because his father had humiliated him. [35] In the morning Jonathan went out to the field for the meeting with David, a small boy with him. [36] He told his boy, "Run and find the arrows I am shooting." The boy ran, and he shot the arrow past him. [37] When the boy reached the spot where the arrow Jonathan had shot lay, Jonathan called out after the boy, "Is the arrow not farther on, past you?" [38] Jonathan called out after the boy, "Hurry! Quick! Do not stand there!" Jonathan's boy picked up the arrows and came back to his master. [39] The boy had no idea of anything; only Jonathan and David knew what it meant. [40] Jonathan handed his gear to his boy and told him, "Go, take it to the town." [41] The boy left, and David got up from beside the south side of the stone, fell face down on the ground, and bowed three times. They kissed each other and wept together, David most of all.* [42] Jonathan told David, "Go in peace, for the two of us have sworn in the LORD's name, 'The LORD will be between me and you and between my offspring and your offspring for ever.'" Then David got up and left, and Jonathan went into the town.

CHAPTER 21

[1] David went to Nob, to Ahimelech the priest. Ahimelech came out trembling to meet David and asked him, "Why are you by yourself, with no one along?" [2] David told Ahimelech the priest, "The king gave me an order and told me, 'No one must know anything about the business I am sending you on or the orders I have given you.' As for the young men, I have arranged to meet them at a certain place. [3] So now, what do you have at hand? Give me five loaves of bread, or whatever can be found." [4] The priest answered David, "I have no ordinary bread at hand, only holy bread, provided the young men have kept themselves from women." [5] David answered the priest, "Women have certainly been kept from us, as before whenever I set out; the young men's vessels are holy even on a common journey, and how much more today will they be holy in their vessels!" [*6] So the priest gave him holy bread, since there was no bread there but the bread of the Presence, which had been taken away from before the LORD so that hot bread could be put in its place on the day it was removed. [7] One of Saul's servants was there that day, detained before the LORD. His name was Doeg the Edomite, the strongest of Saul's herdsmen. [8] David asked Ahimelech, "Do you have a spear or a sword at hand here? I did not bring my sword or any of my weapons, because the king's business was pressing." [9] The priest said, "The sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom you killed in the valley of Elah, is here, wrapped in a cloth behind the ephod. If you want to take it, take it; there is no other here." David said, "There is none like it. Give it to me." [10] That day David set out and fled from Saul, and went to Achish king of Gath. [11] Achish's servants said to him, "Is this not David, the king of the land? Is he not the one they sang about to each other in the dances, 'Saul has killed his thousands, and David his tens of thousands'?" [12] David took these words to heart and was badly afraid of Achish king of Gath. [13] So he altered his behavior before them and pretended to be mad in their hands; he made marks on the doors of the gate and let spit run down into his beard. [14] Achish told his servants, "You can see the man is mad! Why bring him to me? [15] Am I short of madmen, that you have brought this one to rave at me? Is this fellow to come into my house?"

CHAPTER 22

[1] David left there and escaped to the cave of Adullam. His brothers and his whole family heard of it and went down to him there. [2] Everyone in trouble, everyone with a creditor, and everyone with a bitter soul gathered around him, and he became their leader; some four hundred men were with him. [3] From there David went to Mizpeh in Moab and said to the king of Moab, "Please let my father and mother come out and stay with you until I know what God will do for me." [4] He left them with the king of Moab, and they lived with him the whole time David was in the stronghold. [5] The prophet Gad told David, "Do not stay in the stronghold; leave and go into the land of Judah." David left and went into the forest of Hereth. [6] Saul heard that David and the men with him had been found. Saul was sitting in Gibeah under the tamarisk on the height, spear in hand, with all his servants standing around him. [*7] Saul told the servants standing around him, "Hear this, Benjaminites! Is Jesse's son going to give fields and vineyards to all of you too? Will he make all of you commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds? [8] Is that why you have all conspired against me? No one let me know when my son made a covenant with Jesse's son; none of you cares about me or lets me know that my son has stirred up my servant to lie in wait against me, as he does today." [9] Doeg the Edomite, who was standing with Saul's servants, answered, "I saw Jesse's son come to Nob, to Ahimelech son of Ahitub. [10] Ahimelech asked the LORD for him and gave him provisions; he gave him the sword of Goliath the Philistine too." [11] The king sent for Ahimelech the priest, son of Ahitub, and all his father's house, the priests at Nob, and they all came to the king. [12] Saul said, "Listen, son of Ahitub." He said, "Here I am, my lord." [13] Saul said to him, "Why have you and Jesse's son conspired against me? You gave him bread and a sword and asked God for him, so that he could rise up against me and lie in wait, as he does today." [14] Ahimelech answered the king, "Who among all your servants is as trustworthy as David? He is the king's son-in-law, who has access to your private council, and he is honored in your house. [*15] Was it today that I first began to ask God for him? Not at all! Let the king not lay any charge against his servant or against my whole father's house, for your servant knew nothing about all this, little or much." [16] The king said, "You will surely die, Ahimelech, you and all your father's house." [17] The king told the runners standing around him, "Turn and kill the LORD's priests, because their hand too is with David; they knew he was running away and did not let me know." But the king's servants would not lift a hand to strike down the LORD's priests. [18] The king told Doeg, "You turn and strike down the priests." Doeg the Edomite turned and struck down the priests himself. That day he killed eighty-five men who wore the linen ephod. [19] Nob, the priests' town, he put to the sword: men and women, children and babies, cattle, donkeys and sheep, all put to the sword. [20] One son of Ahimelech son of Ahitub, whose name was Abiathar, escaped and fled to join David. [21] Abiathar told David that Saul had killed the LORD's priests. [22] David told Abiathar, "I knew that day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would be sure to tell Saul. It is I who have brought about the death of every soul in your father's house. [23] Stay with me and do not be afraid. The one who seeks my life seeks yours; you will be under guard with me."

CHAPTER 23

[1] David was told, "The Philistines are attacking Keilah and plundering the threshing floors." [2] David asked the LORD, "Shall I go and strike these Philistines?" The LORD told David,

"Go, strike the Philistines and rescue Keilah." [3] But David's men said to him, "Look, even here in Judah we are afraid. How much more if we go to Keilah against the Philistine lines!" [4] David asked the LORD once again, and the LORD answered him, "Get up, go down to Keilah, for I am handing the Philistines over to you." [5] David and his men went to Keilah and fought the Philistines; he drove off their cattle and struck them a heavy blow. So David rescued the people living in Keilah. [6] When Abiathar son of Ahimelech fled to David at Keilah, he had come down with an ephod in his hand. [7] Saul was told that David had gone to Keilah. Saul said, "God has delivered him into my hand, for he has shut himself in by going into a town with gates and bars." [8] Saul called all the troops to war, to go down to Keilah and besiege David and his men. [9] David learned that Saul was devising harm against him, and he told Abiathar the priest, "Bring the ephod over here." [10] David said, "LORD, God of Israel, your servant has heard for certain that Saul is planning to come to Keilah and destroy the town on my account. [11] Will the leaders of Keilah surrender me to him? Will Saul come down as your servant has heard? LORD, God of Israel, tell your servant, please." The LORD said, "He will come down." [12] David said, "Will the leaders of Keilah surrender me and my men into Saul's hand?" The LORD said, "They will surrender you." [13] So David and his men, about six hundred, got up and left Keilah and went wherever they could. When Saul was told that David had escaped from Keilah, he called off the march. [14] David stayed in the wilderness, in the strongholds, in the hill country in the wilderness of Ziph. Saul searched for him every day, but God did not hand him over to him. [15] David saw that Saul had come out to take his life; David was in the wilderness of Ziph, at Horesh. [16] Saul's son Jonathan set out and came to David at Horesh, and he strengthened his hand in God. [17] He told him, "Do not be afraid; the hand of my father Saul will not find you. You will be king over Israel, and I will be next to you. Even my father Saul knows it." [18] The two of them made a covenant before the LORD. David stayed on at Horesh, and Jonathan went home. [19] The Ziphites went up to Saul at Gibeah and said, "David is hiding among us, is he not, in the strongholds at Horesh, on the hill of Hachilah south of Jeshimon? [20] So now, O king, whenever you wish to come down, come down; our part will be to surrender him into the king's hand." [21] Saul said, "The LORD bless you, for you have taken pity on me. [22] Go, please, and make further preparations. Find out and see where his haunts are and who has seen him there, for I am told that he is very crafty. [23] See and find out all the hiding places where he hides, and come back to me with certain word. Then I will go with you, and if he is in the land, I will search him out among all the thousands of Judah." [24] They set out and went to Ziph ahead of Saul. David and his men were in the wilderness of Maon, in the Arabah south of Jeshimon. [25] Saul and his men went to search, and David was told. So he went down to the rock and stayed in the wilderness of Maon. Saul heard of it and chased after David into the wilderness of Maon. [26] Saul went along this side of the mountain, and David and his men along that side. David was rushing to get away from Saul, as Saul and his men were surrounding David and his men to capture them. [27] Then a messenger came to Saul: "Come quickly! The Philistines have raided the land." [28] So Saul broke off his pursuit of David and went to meet the Philistines. That is why that place is called Sela-hammahlekoth. [29] David went up from there and stayed in the strongholds of En-gedi.

CHAPTER 24

[1] When Saul came back from chasing the Philistines, he was told, "David is in the wilderness of En-gedi." [2] Saul took three thousand picked men from all Israel and went to look for David and his men facing the Rocks of the Wild Goats. [3] He came to the sheepfolds along the road, where there was a cave, and Saul went in to relieve himself. David and his men were sitting far back in the cave. [*4] David's men said to him, "This is the day the LORD spoke of when he told you, 'I am handing your enemy over to you, and you can do to him as you see fit.'" David got up and quietly cut off the corner of Saul's robe. [5] Afterward David's heart troubled him because he had cut off the corner of Saul's robe. [6] He told his men, "The LORD keep me from doing such a thing to my lord, the LORD's anointed, from lifting my hand against him, since he is the LORD's anointed." [7] With these words David held his men back and would not allow them to rise up against Saul. Saul got up, left the cave, and went on his way. [8] Then David also got up, went out of the cave, and called after Saul, "My lord the king!" Saul looked back, and David bowed low with his face to the ground and paid him homage. [9] David said to Saul, "Why do you listen to the talk of men who say, 'David is out to harm you'? [10] Today you have seen with your own eyes how the LORD handed you over to me in the cave. I was told to kill you, but I took pity on you. I said, 'I will not lift my hand against my lord, for he is the LORD's anointed.' [11] See, my father, look at the corner of your robe in my hand! Since I cut off the corner of your robe and did not kill you, recognize and see that there is no evil or rebellion in my hand. I have not sinned against you, yet you are stalking my life to take it. [12] Let the LORD judge between me and you, and let the LORD avenge me on you; but my hand will not be against you. [13] As the ancient proverb puts it, 'From wicked men comes wickedness'; but my hand will not be against you. [14] Whom has the king of Israel come out after? Whom are you chasing? A dead dog, a single flea! [15] May the LORD be the judge and decide between me and you. May he see to it, take up my cause, and judge me free of your hand." [16] When David finished saying these words to Saul, Saul said, "Is this your voice, my son David?" And Saul raised his voice and wept. [17] He said to David, "You are more in the right than I am, for you have done good to me, while I have done evil to you. [18] Today you have shown what good you have done me: the LORD put me into your hand, and you did not kill me. [19] When a man finds his enemy, does he send him safely on his way? May the LORD reward you with good for what you have done for me today. [20] Now I know that you will certainly be king, and the kingship of Israel will be firmly in your hand. [21] So swear to me by the LORD that you will not cut off my descendants after me or destroy my name from my father's house." [22] David swore it to Saul. Saul went home, and David and his men went up to the stronghold.

CHAPTER 25

[1] Samuel died. All Israel assembled and lamented him, and they buried him at his house in Ramah. David set out and went down to the wilderness of Paran. [2] There was a man in Maon whose property was at Carmel, a very wealthy man, owning three thousand sheep and a thousand goats. He was at Carmel shearing his sheep. [3] The man was named Nabal, and his wife Abigail. She was a woman of good sense and lovely to look at, but the man was hard and his deeds were evil; he was a Calebite. [4] David heard in the wilderness that Nabal was shearing his sheep. [5] So David sent ten young men and told them, "Go up to Carmel. When you come to Nabal, greet him for me in my name. [6] Say to him: 'Long life to you! Peace to you, peace to your household, and peace to all that is yours!' [] [7] I hear you have shearers. Your shepherds were with us, and we did them no harm; nothing of theirs went missing the whole time they were in Carmel. [8] Ask your young men and they will tell you. So let my young men find favor with you, since we have come on a good day. Please give your servants and your son David whatever you can spare.'" [9] David's young men arrived and gave Nabal this whole message in David's name, and they waited. [10] Nabal answered David's servants, "Who is David? Who is Jesse's son? Plenty of servants nowadays are breaking away from their masters. [11] Am I to take my bread and my water and the meat I butchered for my shearers and give it to men from who knows where?" [12] David's young men turned back on their way. They went back and came and reported all this to him. [13] David told his men, "Every man put on his sword!" Every man put on his sword, and David also put on his sword. About four hundred men went up behind David, and two hundred stayed with the supplies. [14] One of the young men told Abigail, Nabal's wife, "David sent messengers from the wilderness to give our master his greetings, and he screamed at them. [15] Yet the men treated us very well. We were not harmed, and we did not lose a thing the whole time we went around with them when we were out in the field. [16] Night and day they were a wall around us the whole time we were with them looking after the sheep. [17] So now think it over and see what you can do, because harm has been decided upon for our master and his whole household. He is such a son of Belial that no one can talk to him." [18] Abigail lost no time. She took two hundred loaves, two skins of wine, five sheep ready dressed, five seahs of roasted grain, a hundred raisin cakes and two hundred fig cakes, and loaded them on donkeys. [19] She told her young men, "Go on ahead of me; I will come right behind you." She did not tell her husband Nabal. [20] As she rode the donkey down under cover of the hill, there were David and his men coming down toward her, and she ran into them. [21] David had just been saying, "All for nothing I watched over everything this fellow had in the wilderness, so that none of his belongings went missing! He has paid me back evil for good. [22] May God do so to David's enemies, and more besides, if by morning I leave one male alive of all who are his." [] [23] When Abigail saw David, she quickly got down off the donkey, fell on her face before David, and bowed to the ground. [24] She fell at his feet and said, "Let the guilt be on me, on me, my lord! Please let your servant speak to you; hear what your servant has to say. [25] My lord should pay no attention to this worthless man, Nabal. He is just like his name: Nabal is his name, and folly goes with him. I, your servant, did not see the young men my lord sent. [26] So now, my lord, as the LORD lives and as you live, since the LORD has kept you from bloodshed and from taking matters into your own hand, let your enemies and those out to harm my lord be like Nabal. [27] Now let this present your servant has brought to my lord be given to the young men who follow my lord. [28] Forgive your servant's offense, please. The LORD will surely make for my lord an enduring house, because my lord is fighting the LORD's battles, and no evil will be found in you as long as you live. [29] If anyone rises up to chase you and seek your life, my lord's life will be bound up in the bundle of the living in the care of the LORD your God, but your enemies' lives he will fling away as from the pocket of a sling. [30] When the LORD has done for my lord all the good he has promised you and has made you leader over Israel, [31] my lord will not have this as a stumbling block or a weight on his conscience, that he shed blood for no reason or took vengeance himself. And when the LORD has done well by my lord, remember your servant." [32] David said to Abigail, "Blessed is the LORD, the God of Israel, who sent you today to meet me! [33] Blessed is your good judgment, and blessed are you, for keeping me today from bloodshed and from taking matters into my own hand! [34] For as surely as the LORD, the God of Israel, lives, who kept me from harming you, if you had not come quickly to meet me, not one male would have been left to Nabal by daybreak." [35] David accepted from her what she had brought him, and he told her, "Go home in peace. You see, I have listened to you and granted your request." [36] Abigail came to Nabal, and there he was in his house holding a feast like a king's feast. Nabal's heart was merry, and he was very drunk, so she told him nothing at all, little or much, until daybreak. [37] In the morning, when Nabal had slept off the wine, his wife told him all this, and his heart died within him and he turned to stone. [38] About ten days later the LORD struck Nabal, and he died. [39] When David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, "Blessed is the LORD, who took up my case over the insult I suffered from Nabal and held his servant back from doing wrong! The LORD has brought Nabal's wrongdoing back on his own head." Then David sent word to Abigail, proposing to take her as his wife. [40] David's servants came to Abigail at Carmel and told her, "David has sent us to you to take you as his wife." [41] She rose, bowed with her face to the ground, and said, "Here is your servant, a slave to wash the feet of my lord's servants." [42] Abigail quickly got up and rode off on the donkey, with five of her young women following her. She went with David's messengers and became his wife. [43] David had also married Ahinoam of Jezreel, and both of them became his wives. [44] Saul had given his daughter Michal, David's wife, to Palti son of Laish, from Gallim.

CHAPTER 26

[1] The Ziphites came to Saul at Gibeah and said, "David is hiding on the hill of Hachilah, facing Jeshimon, is he not?" [2] Saul set out and went down to the wilderness of Ziph with three thousand picked men of Israel to search for David in the wilderness of Ziph. [3] Saul encamped on the hill of Hachilah, facing Jeshimon, beside the road. David was staying in the wilderness, and he saw that Saul had come after him into the wilderness. [4] David sent out scouts and found out for certain that Saul had come. [5] David set out and came to the place where Saul was encamped. David saw where Saul lay, and Abner son of Ner, his army commander. Saul was lying inside the ring of the camp, with the troops encamped around him. [6] David spoke to Ahimelech the Hittite and to Abishai son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother: "Who will go down with me into the camp to Saul?" Abishai said, "I will go down with you." [7] So David and Abishai came to the troops by night, and there was Saul lying asleep inside the ring of the camp, his spear stuck in the ground by his head, with Abner and the troops lying around him. [8] Abishai said to David, "Today God has handed your enemy over to you. Now let me pin him to the ground with the spear, just one thrust; I will not need a second." [9] But David told Abishai, "Do not destroy him! Who can lift his hand against the LORD's anointed and be guiltless?" [10] David went on, "As the LORD lives, the LORD will strike him; either his day will come and he will die, or he will go down into battle and be swept away. [11] The LORD keep me from lifting my hand against the LORD's anointed! Now take the spear by his head and the water jug, and let us go." [12] David took the spear and the water jug from by Saul's head, and they went off. No one saw, no one knew, no one woke up; they were all sleeping, for a deep sleep from the LORD had fallen on them. [13] David crossed over to the other side and stood on top of the hill some way off, with a great distance between them. [14] David called out to the troops and to Abner son of Ner, "Abner, will you not answer?" Abner answered, "Who are you, calling to the king?" [15] David said to Abner, "Are you not a man? Who is your equal in Israel? Why then did you not keep watch over your lord the king? One of the people came in to destroy the king your lord. [16] What you have done is not good. As the LORD lives, you deserve to die, all of you, for not keeping watch over your lord, the LORD's anointed. Now look around: where is the king's spear, and the water jug that was by his head?" [17] Saul knew David's voice and said, "Is that your voice, my son David?" David said, "It is my voice, my lord the king." [18] He went on, "Why is my lord chasing after his servant? What have I done? What wrong is in my hand? [19] So now, let my lord the king listen to his servant's words. If the LORD has stirred you up against me, may he accept an offering; but if it is men, a curse on them before the LORD, for they have driven me out today from belonging to the LORD's inheritance, as if to say, 'Go and serve other gods.'[*] [20] So now, do not let my blood fall to the ground far from the LORD's presence; for the king of Israel has come out to look for a single flea, like someone hunting a partridge in the hills." [21] Saul said, "I have sinned. Come back, my son David; I will not harm you again, since my life was precious in your sight today. I have been a fool and have gone very far astray." [22] David answered, "Here is the king's spear! Let one of the young men come over and fetch it. [23] The LORD pays every man back for his righteousness and his faithfulness. Today the LORD handed you over to me, but I would not lift my hand against the LORD's anointed. [24] As your life counted for much in my sight today, so may my life count for much in the LORD's sight, and may he rescue me from every trouble." [25] Saul said to David, "Blessed are you, my son David! You will do great things and will surely succeed." David went on his way, and Saul went back home.

CHAPTER 27

[1] David thought to himself, "One of these days I will be swept away by Saul's hand. The best thing for me is to escape quickly to the land of the Philistines. Saul will give up searching for me anywhere in Israel's territory, and I will be out of his reach." [2] David set out and crossed over with his six hundred men to Achish son of Maoch, king of Gath. [3] David settled with Achish at Gath, he and his men, each with his household; David had his two wives, Ahinoam of Jezreel and Abigail of Carmel, Nabal's widow. [4] Saul was told that David had fled to Gath, and he stopped searching for him. [5] David said to Achish, "If I have found favor in your sight, let me be given a place in one of the towns in the countryside, so I can live there. Why should your servant live in the royal city with you?" [6] That day Achish gave him Ziklag; that is why Ziklag has belonged to the kings of Judah to this day. [7] David lived in Philistine territory for a year and four months.[*] [8] David and his men would go up and raid the Geshurites, the Gezrites and the Amalekites, who had lived in the land from ancient times, toward Shur and as far as the land of Egypt. [9] David would attack the land and leave no man or woman alive; he took the sheep and cattle, the donkeys and camels, and the clothing, and came back to Achish. [10] Achish would ask, "Where did you raid today?" and David would say, "Against the Negev of Judah," or "Against the Negev of the Jerahmeelites," or "Against the Negev of the Kenites." [11] David left no man or woman alive to be brought to Gath, for he thought, "They might report on us and say, 'This is what David did.'" That was his way the whole time he lived in Philistine territory. [12] Achish believed David. He thought, "He has made himself thoroughly hated by his people Israel, so he will be my servant for ever."

CHAPTER 28

[1] At that time the Philistines brought their armies together for war, to fight Israel. Achish said to David, "You understand, of course, that you and your men will march out with me in the army." [2] David said to Achish, "Then you will see what your servant can do." Achish told David, "In that case I will make you keeper of my head for good." [3] Samuel was dead; all Israel had lamented him and buried him in Ramah, his own town. And Saul had put the mediums and the spiritists out of the land.* [4] The Philistines assembled, came, and encamped at Shunem; Saul gathered all Israel, and they encamped at Gilboa. [5] When Saul saw the Philistine army he was afraid, and his heart shook violently. [6] Saul asked the LORD, but the LORD gave him no answer, neither by dreams, nor by Urim, nor by prophets. [7] Saul told his servants, "Look for a woman who is mistress of a spirit, so that I can go to her and consult her." His servants told him, "There is a woman at En-dor who is mistress of a spirit." [8] Saul made himself unrecognizable by putting on other clothes, and he went, with two men along. They came to the woman at night, and he said, "Consult a spirit for me, please, and bring up for me the one I tell you." [9] The woman told him, "You know what Saul did, how he cut off the mediums and the spiritists from the land. Why are you setting a trap for my life, to get me killed?" [10] Saul swore to her by the LORD: "As the LORD lives, you will incur no guilt over this." [11] The woman asked, "Whom shall I bring up for you?" He said, "Bring up Samuel for me." [12] When the woman saw Samuel, she shrieked aloud, and the woman said to Saul, "Why did you trick me? You are Saul!" [13] The king told her, "Do not be afraid. What do you see?" The woman told Saul, "I see a divine being coming up out of the ground."* [14] He asked her, "What is his form?" She said, "An old man is coming up, wrapped in a robe." Saul knew that it was Samuel, and he bowed with his face to the ground and paid homage. [15] Samuel said to Saul, "Why have you disturbed me by bringing me up?" Saul said, "I am in deep distress. The Philistines are at war with me, and God has turned away from me and answers me no more, either through prophets or in dreams. So I have called you to let me know what to do." [16] Samuel said, "Why ask me, when the LORD has turned away from you and become your enemy? [17] The LORD has done for himself just what he said through me: the LORD has torn the kingship from your hand and given it to your neighbor, David. [18] Because you did not obey the LORD's voice and did not carry out his burning anger against Amalek, the LORD has done this to you today. [19] What is more, the LORD will hand Israel over to the Philistines along with you. Tomorrow you and your sons will be with me. Israel's army too the LORD will hand over to the Philistines." [20] Instantly Saul fell full length to the ground, filled with fear at Samuel's words. There was no strength left in him, since he had eaten nothing that whole day and night. [21] The woman came over to Saul, and seeing how terrified he was, she said to him, "Your servant has listened to you; I took my life in my hands and did what you told me. [22] So now please listen to your servant too. Let me set a bit of bread before you. Eat, so that you will have strength when you go on your way." [23] He refused, saying, "I will not eat." But his servants, and the woman as well, pressed him, and he listened to them; he got up from the ground and sat on the couch. [24] The woman had a fattened calf in the house, and she quickly butchered it. She took flour, kneaded it, and baked unleavened bread. [25] She served it to Saul and his servants, and they ate. Then they got up and left that same night.

CHAPTER 29

[1] The Philistines brought all their armies together at Aphek, while Israel was encamped by the spring in Jezreel. [2] The lords of the Philistines were marching past by hundreds and by thousands, and David and his men were marching past at the rear with Achish. [3] The Philistine commanders asked, "What are these Hebrews doing here?" Achish told the Philistine commanders, "This is David, the servant of Saul king of Israel, is it not? He has been with me for days now, years even, and I have found nothing against him from the day he went over to me until today." [4] But the Philistine commanders were angry with him, and the Philistine commanders told him, "Send the man back! Let him go back to the place you gave him. He is not to go down with us into battle, or in the battle he will turn against us. How better could this fellow win back his master's favor than with the heads of these men here? [5] Is this not the David they sang about to one another in the dances, 'Saul has killed his thousands, and David his tens of thousands'?" [6] Achish called David and told him, "As the LORD lives, you are an upright man, and I am glad to have you marching out and coming in with me in the army, for I have found nothing wrong in you from the day you came to me until today. But the lords do not approve of you. [7] So turn back now and go in peace, and do nothing to displease the lords of the Philistines." [8] David said to Achish, "But what have I done? What have you found against your servant from the day I came into your service until now, that I may not go and fight the enemies of my lord the king?" [9] Achish answered David, "I know that you are as good in my sight as an angel of God. It is the Philistine commanders who have said, 'He must not go up with us into battle.' [10] So get up early in the morning with your lord's servants who came with you; get up early, and leave as soon as it is light." [11] So David and his men got up early, leaving in the morning to go back to the land of the Philistines, and the Philistines went up to Jezreel.

CHAPTER 30

[1] On the third day David and his men reached Ziklag. The Amalekites had raided the Negev and Ziklag; they had attacked Ziklag and burned it down, [2] and had carried off the women in it, young and old alike. They killed no one, but drove them off and went on their way. [3] When David and his men came to the town, there it was, burned to the ground, and their wives, sons and daughters carried off as captives. [4] David and the troops with him wept aloud until they had no strength left to weep. [5] David's two wives had been carried off as well, Ahinoam of Jezreel and Abigail, the widow of Nabal of Carmel. [6] David was in great danger, because the troops were talking of stoning him; every one of them was bitter in soul over his sons and daughters. But David took strength in the LORD his God. [7] David told Abiathar the priest, son of Ahimelech, "Bring me the ephod, please," and Abiathar brought the ephod over to David. [8] David asked the LORD, "Shall I go after this band? Will I catch up with them?" He told him, "Go after them; you will certainly catch up with them, and you will certainly carry out a rescue." [9]

So David set off with the six hundred men who were with him, and they came to the Besor ravine, where some stayed behind. [10] David kept up the chase with four hundred men; two hundred stayed behind, too worn out to cross the Besor ravine. [11] In the countryside they came upon an Egyptian and took him to David.
They gave him bread to eat and water to drink, [12] and gave him a slice of fig cake and two raisin cakes. He ate, and his spirit came back to him, for he had had no bread to eat or water to drink for three days and three nights. [13] David asked him, "Whose are you, and where do you come from?" He said, "I am a young Egyptian, slave to an Amalekite. My master left me behind three days ago because I fell ill. [14] We raided the Negev of the Cherethites, the territory of Judah and the Negev of Caleb, and we burned Ziklag down." [15] David asked him, "Will you lead me down to this band?" He said, "Swear to me by God that you will not kill me or turn me over to my master, and I will lead you down to this band." [16] He led him down, and there they were, scattered all over the ground, eating, drinking and dancing because of all the great spoil they had taken from the land of the Philistines and from the land of Judah. [17] David struck them down from dusk until the evening of the following day. Not one of them got away, except four hundred young men who rode off on camels and fled. [18] David recovered everything the Amalekites had taken, and David rescued his two wives. [19] Nothing of theirs was missing, small or great, son or daughter, spoil or anything that had been taken; David brought back everything. [20] David took all the flocks and herds, and they drove them ahead of the other livestock, saying, "This is David's spoil." [21] David came to the two hundred men who had been too worn out to follow David, whom they had left at the Besor ravine. They came out to meet David and the troops with him; David approached the troops and asked how they were. [22] But all the evil and worthless men among those who had gone with David spoke up: "Since they did not go with us, we will not give them any of the spoil we recovered. Each man can have his wife and children; let them take them and go." [23] David said, "My brothers, you must not do that with what the LORD has given us. He has kept us safe and handed over to us the band that came against us. [24] Who would listen to you on this? The share of the one who goes down into battle and the share of the one who stays with the supplies will be the same; they will share alike." [25] From that day on he made it a statute and an ordinance for Israel, as it is to this day. [26] When David reached Ziklag, he sent some of the spoil to the elders of Judah, his friends, with the message, "Here is a blessing for you from the spoil of the LORD's enemies": [27] to those in Bethel, those in Ramoth of the Negev, those in Jattir, [28] those in Aroer, those in Siphmoth, those in Eshtemoa, [29] those in Racal, those in the towns of the Jerahmeelites, those in the towns of the Kenites, [30] those in Hormah, those in Bor-ashan, those in Athach,* [31] those in Hebron, and all the places where David and his men had gone about.

CHAPTER 31

[1] The Philistines fought against Israel. The men of Israel fled before the Philistines, and the slain fell on Mount Gilboa. [2] The Philistines closed in on Saul and his sons, and the Philistines killed Jonathan, Abinadab and Malchi-shua, Saul's sons. [3] The fighting grew heavy around Saul. The archers, the men with bows, found him, and he was gravely wounded by the archers. [4] Saul told his armor-bearer, "Draw your sword and run me through, so these uncircumcised men will not come and run me through and make sport of me." But his armor-bearer would not do it, because he was very afraid. So Saul took the sword and fell on it. [5] When the armor-bearer saw that Saul was dead, he too fell on his sword and died with him. [6] So Saul and his three sons and his armor-bearer, and all his men as well, died together that day. [7]
The men of Israel on the far side of the valley and across the Jordan saw that the men of Israel had fled and that Saul and his sons were dead; they abandoned the towns and fled, and the Philistines came and settled in them. [8] The next day the Philistines came to strip the dead, and they found Saul and his three sons lying fallen on Mount Gilboa. [9] They cut off his head, stripped off his armor, and sent word around the land of the Philistines to spread the good news in the house of their idols and among the people. [10] They placed his armor in the house of the Ashtaroth and nailed his body to the wall of Beth-shan. [11]
The people living in Jabesh-gilead heard what the Philistines had done to Saul. [12] All the valiant men set out, traveled all night, and took Saul's body and his sons' bodies down from the wall of Beth-shan. They came to Jabesh and burned them there. [13] They took their bones and buried them under the tamarisk at Jabesh, and they fasted for seven days.*

CHAPTER 1

[1] After Saul died, David came back from defeating the Amalekites and stayed in Ziklag two days. [2] On the third day a man arrived from the camp, from Saul's side, his clothes torn and earth on his head. When he reached David, he dropped to the ground and paid homage. [3] David asked him, "Where have you come from?" He told him, "I got away from the camp of Israel." [4] David said to him, "What happened? Tell me." He said, "The troops ran from the battle; many of the troops fell and died, and Saul and his son Jonathan are dead as well." [5] David asked the young man who brought him the news, "How do you know that Saul and his son Jonathan are dead?" [6] The young man who brought him the news said, "I just happened to be on Mount Gilboa, and there was Saul propped on his spear, and the chariots and the horsemen had caught up with him. [7] He looked back, saw me, and called to me. I said, 'Here I am.' [8] He asked me,

'Who are you?' I told him, 'I am an Amalekite.' [9] He said to me, 'Come stand over me and kill me, for agony has gripped me, though my life is still all in me.'* [10] So I stood over him and killed him, since I knew he could not live once he had fallen. I took the crown on his head and the band on his arm, and I have brought them here to my lord." [11] David took hold of his clothes and tore them, and all the men with him did the same. [12] They mourned, wept and fasted until evening for Saul and his son Jonathan, for the LORD's people and for the house of Israel, because they had fallen by the sword. [13] David asked the young man who brought him the news, "Where are you from?" He said, "I am the son of a resident foreigner, an Amalekite." [14] David said to him, "How is it you were not afraid to lift your hand to destroy the LORD's anointed?" [15] David called one of the young men and said, "Come here and cut him down." He struck him, and he died. [16] David said to him, "Your blood is on your own head, for your mouth bore witness against you when you said, 'I killed the LORD's anointed.'" [17] David sang this lament over Saul and his son Jonathan, [18] and gave orders to teach the children of Judah "The Bow"; it is written in the Book of Jashar: * [19] "The glory, O Israel, lies slain upon your heights! How the mighty have fallen!* [20] Tell it not in Gath, do not spread the news in the streets of Ashkelon, or the daughters of the Philistines will rejoice, the daughters of the uncircumcised will celebrate. [21] Mountains of Gilboa, may there be no dew or rain on you, no fields of offerings! For there the shield of the mighty was cast away in shame, the shield of Saul, no longer anointed with oil. * [22] From the blood of the slain, from the fat of the mighty, Jonathan's bow never turned back, and Saul's sword never came home empty. [23] Saul and Jonathan, loved and gracious in life, were not divided in death. Swifter than eagles they were, stronger than lions. [24] Daughters of Israel, weep for Saul, who dressed you in scarlet and finery, who decked your clothing with gold ornaments. [25] How the mighty have fallen in the thick of battle! Jonathan lies slain upon your heights. [26] I grieve for you, my brother Jonathan; you were dear to me beyond measure. Your love to me was more wonderful than the love of women. [27] How the mighty have fallen, and the weapons of war are lost!"

CHAPTER 2

[1] Some time later David asked the LORD, "Shall I go up to one of the towns of Judah?" The LORD told him, "Go up." David asked, "Which one shall I go up to?" He said, "Hebron." [2] So David went up there with his two wives, Ahinoam of Jezreel and Abigail, widow of Nabal of Carmel. [3] David also brought up the men who were with him, each with his household, and they settled in the towns around Hebron. [4] The men of Judah came, and there they anointed David king over the house of Judah. David was told, "It was the men of Jabesh-gilead who buried Saul." [5] David sent messengers to the men of Jabesh-gilead to tell them, "The LORD bless you for showing this kindness to your lord Saul by burying him. [6] Now may the LORD show you steadfast love and faithfulness, and I too will treat you well because you have done this. [7] So now, be strong and be valiant men, for your lord Saul is dead, and the house of Judah has anointed me king over them." [8] Meanwhile Abner son of Ner, commander of Saul's army, had taken Ish-bosheth son of Saul and brought him across to Mahanaim. [9] He made him king over Gilead, the Ashurites, Jezreel, Ephraim and Benjamin, over all Israel. [10] Ish-bosheth son of Saul was forty years old when he became king over Israel, and he reigned two years. The house of Judah, though, followed David. [11] David was king in Hebron over the house of Judah for seven years and six months. [12] Abner son of Ner set out from Mahanaim to Gibeon with the servants of Ish-bosheth son of Saul. [13] Joab son of Zeruiah and David's servants set out as well, and they met at the pool of Gibeon. They sat down, one group on this side of the pool and the other on that side. [14] Abner said to Joab, "Let the young men get up and put on a contest before us." Joab said, "Let them get up." [15] They got up and crossed over by count: twelve for Benjamin and Ish-bosheth son of Saul, and twelve of David's servants. [16] Each man grabbed his opponent by the head and drove his sword into his opponent's side, and they fell down together. So that place in Gibeon was named Helkath-hazzurim. [17] The fighting that day was very hard, and Abner and the men of Israel were beaten by David's servants. [18] The three sons of Zeruiah were there, Joab, Abishai and Asahel. Asahel was as quick on his feet as a wild gazelle. [19] Asahel chased after Abner, turning neither right nor left as he followed Abner. [20] Abner looked back and said, "Is that you, Asahel?" He said, "It is." [21] Abner told him, "Turn off to your right or your left, grab one of the young men, and take his gear for yourself." But Asahel would not turn away from him. [22] Abner told Asahel again, "Turn away from me! Why should I strike you to the ground? How could I look your brother Joab in the face?" [23] But he would not turn away. So Abner struck him in the belly with the back end of his spear, and the spear came out behind him. He fell there and died where he lay. Everyone who came to the place where Asahel had fallen and died stopped and stood still. * [24] But Joab and Abishai chased after Abner. The sun was setting as they reached the hill of Ammah, opposite Giah on the road to the wilderness of Gibeon. [25] The children of Benjamin rallied behind Abner, formed a single band, and took their stand on the top of a hill. [26] Abner called out to Joab, "Must the sword devour for ever? Do you not know that it will end in bitterness? How long before you tell the troops to stop chasing their brothers?" [27] Joab said, "As God lives, if you had not spoken, the troops would have given up chasing their brothers as early as this morning."* [28] Joab sounded the horn, and all the troops halted; they chased Israel no further and did not fight any more. [29] Abner and his men marched all that night through the Arabah. They crossed the Jordan, marched the whole length of Bithron, and reached Mahanaim. [30] Joab came back from chasing Abner and gathered all the troops. Nineteen of David's servants were missing, besides Asahel. [31] But David's servants had struck down three hundred and sixty men of Benjamin, of Abner's men, and they died. [32] They carried Asahel off and buried him in his father's tomb at Bethlehem. Joab and his men marched all night and reached Hebron at daybreak.

CHAPTER 3

[1] The war between Saul's house and David's house dragged on. David kept growing stronger, while Saul's house kept growing weaker. [2] Sons were born to David at Hebron: his firstborn was Amnon, by Ahinoam of Jezreel; [3] his second Chileab, by Abigail, widow of Nabal of Carmel; the third Absalom, son of Maacah daughter of Talmai king of Geshur; [4] the fourth Adonijah son of Haggith; the fifth Shephatiah son of Abital; [5] and the sixth Ithream, by David's wife Eglah. These sons were born to David at Hebron. [6] During the war between Saul's house and David's house, Abner was strengthening his own position in Saul's house. [7] Saul had had a concubine named Rizpah, daughter of Aiah. Ish-bosheth said to Abner, "Why did you sleep with my father's concubine?" [8] Abner was furious at what Ish-bosheth said. He said, "Am I a dog's head that belongs to Judah? To this day I keep showing kindness to the house of your father Saul, to his brothers and his friends, and I have not let you fall into David's hand; and today you accuse me of wrongdoing with a woman!* [9] May God do so to Abner, and more besides, if I do not do for David just what the LORD swore to him: [10] to take the kingship away from Saul's house and set up David's throne over Israel and Judah, from Dan to Beersheba." [11] Ish-bosheth could not say another word in reply to Abner, because he was afraid of him. [12] Abner sent messengers to David on his behalf to say, "Whose land is it? Make your covenant with me, and my hand will be with you to bring all Israel round to you."* [13] David said, "Good, I will make a covenant with you. But I ask one thing of you: you will not see my face unless you bring Michal, Saul's daughter, when you come to see me." [14] David sent messengers to Ish-bosheth son of Saul to say, "Give me my wife Michal, whom I betrothed for a hundred Philistine foreskins." [15] Ish-bosheth sent and took her away from her husband, Paltiel son of Laish. [16] Her husband went along with her, weeping behind her all the way to Bahurim. Then Abner told him, "Go back home!" And he went back. [17] Abner had a word with the elders of Israel: "For a long time you have wanted David as your king. [18] Now act, for the LORD has spoken of David, saying, 'By the hand of my servant David I will rescue my people Israel from the hand of the Philistines and from the hand of all their enemies.'" [19] Abner spoke to Benjamin too, in person. Then Abner went on to Hebron to tell David in person everything that Israel and the whole house of Benjamin had agreed on. [20] Abner came to David at Hebron with twenty men, and David held a feast for Abner and the men with him. [21] Abner said to David, "Let me go now and gather all Israel to my lord the king, so they can make a covenant with you, and you will reign over everything you desire." David sent Abner off, and he went away in peace. [22] Just then David's servants and Joab came back from a raid, bringing a great deal of spoil with them. Abner was no longer with David at Hebron, since he had sent him off and he had gone in peace. [23] When Joab and the whole army with him arrived, Joab was told, "Abner son of Ner came to the king, and the king sent him off, and he has gone in peace." [24] Joab went to the king and said, "What have you done? Abner came to you! Why did you send him off, so that he is gone? [25] You know Abner son of Ner: he came to deceive you, to learn your comings and goings and find out everything you are doing." [26] Joab left David and sent messengers after Abner, and they brought him back from the cistern of Sirah, without David's knowledge. [27] When Abner came back to Hebron, Joab drew him aside into the gateway as if to talk with him quietly, and there he stabbed him in the belly. He died for the blood of Asahel, Joab's brother. [28] Later David heard of it and said, "I and my kingship are innocent before the LORD for ever of the blood of Abner son of Ner. [29] May it whirl down on Joab's head and on all his father's house! May Joab's house never be without someone with a discharge, or someone leprous, or one who holds a spindle, or one who falls by the sword, or one who goes short of bread!"* [30] So Joab and his brother Abishai murdered Abner, because he had killed their brother Asahel at Gibeon in the battle. [31] David told Joab and all the troops with him, "Tear your clothes, wrap yourselves in sackcloth, and mourn in front of Abner." King David himself walked behind the bier. [32] They buried Abner at Hebron. The king wept aloud at Abner's grave, and all the people wept. [33] The king chanted a lament for Abner: "Was Abner to die as a fool dies? [34] Your hands were not tied, your feet were not put in bronze chains; you fell as one falls before men of violence." And all the people wept over him once more. [35] All the people came to urge David to eat some food while it was still day, but David swore, "May God do so to me, and more besides, if I taste bread or anything at all before the sun sets!" [36] All the people noted it and approved, as they approved of everything the king did. [37] That day all the people and all Israel knew that it was not the king's doing that Abner son of Ner had been killed. [38] The king said to his servants, "Do you not realize that a prince, a great man, has fallen in Israel today? [39] And today I am weak, though anointed king; these men, the sons of Zeruiah, are too harsh for me. May the LORD pay back the evildoer as his evil deserves!"*

CHAPTER 4

[1] When Saul's son heard that Abner was dead in Hebron, he lost heart, and all Israel was alarmed. [2] Saul's son had two men who were leaders of raiding bands, one named Baanah and the other Rechab, sons of Rimmon of Beeroth, from the children of Benjamin (Beeroth too is reckoned to Benjamin; [3] the people of Beeroth fled to Gittaim and have lived there as sojourners until this day). [4] Saul's son Jonathan had a son who was lame in both feet. He was five years old when the report about Saul and Jonathan came from Jezreel; his nurse picked him up and fled, and in her haste to get away he fell and was crippled. His name was Mephibosheth. [5] Rechab and Baanah, the sons of Rimmon of Beeroth, set out and arrived at Ish-bosheth's house in the heat of the day, while he was lying down for his noonday rest. [6] They went right into the house as though fetching wheat and stabbed him in the belly; then Rechab and his brother Baanah slipped away.* [7] They had come into the house while he lay on his bed in his bedroom, and they struck him, killed him and beheaded him. Taking his head, they traveled all night by way of the Arabah. [8] They brought Ish-bosheth's head to David at Hebron and told the king, "Here is the head of Ish-bosheth, son of Saul your enemy, who sought your life. Today the LORD has avenged my lord the king on Saul and his offspring." [9] David answered Rechab and his brother Baanah, the sons of Rimmon of Beeroth: "As the LORD lives, who has redeemed my life from every trouble, [10] when a man told me, 'Saul is dead,' thinking he was bringing good news, I seized him and had him killed at Ziklag; that was what I gave him for his news. [11] How much more, when wicked men have killed an innocent man in his own house on his bed! Shall I not now demand his blood from your hand and rid the earth of you?" [12] David gave orders to the young men, and they killed them, cut off their hands and feet, and hung them up beside the pool at Hebron. Ish-bosheth's head they took and buried in Abner's tomb at Hebron.

CHAPTER 5

[1] All the tribes of Israel came to David at Hebron and said, "We are your own bone and flesh. [2] In the past, even while Saul was king over us, you were the one leading Israel out and bringing it in. And the LORD told you, 'You will shepherd my people Israel, and you will be leader over Israel.'" [3] All the elders of Israel came to the king at Hebron, and King David made a covenant with them at Hebron before the LORD; and they anointed David king over Israel. [4] David was thirty years old when he became king, and he reigned for forty years. [5] At Hebron he reigned over Judah for seven years and six months, and at Jerusalem he reigned over all Israel and Judah for thirty-three years. [6] The king and his men marched to Jerusalem against the Jebusites who lived in the land. They told David, "You will never get in here; the blind and the lame will drive you off," meaning, "David cannot get in here." [*7] Yet David took the stronghold of Zion, which is the City of David. [8] That day David said, "Whoever would strike the Jebusites must get up through the water shaft to reach the lame and the blind, whom David's soul hates." That is why they say, "The blind and the lame will not come into the house." [*9] David took up residence in the stronghold and named it the City of David. He built up the area all around, from the Millo inward. [10] David kept growing greater and greater, for the LORD God of hosts was with him. [11] Hiram king of Tyre sent messengers to David, along with cedar logs, carpenters and masons, and they built a house for David. [12] David understood that the LORD had confirmed him as king over Israel and had raised his kingship high for the sake of his people Israel. [13] After he came from Hebron, David took more concubines and wives in Jerusalem, and more sons and daughters were born to him. [14] These are the names of the sons born to him in Jerusalem: Shammua, Shobab, Nathan and Solomon, [15] Ibhar, Elishua, Nepheg and Japhia, [16] Elishama, Eliada and Eliphelet. [17] The Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over Israel, and all the Philistines went up to hunt for David. David heard of it and went down to the stronghold. [18] The Philistines had come and spread out over the valley of Rephaim. [19] David asked the LORD, "Shall I go up against the Philistines? Will you hand them over to me?" The LORD told David, "Go up, for I will certainly hand the Philistines over to you." [20] David went to Baal-perazim and struck them down there. He said, "The LORD has burst through my enemies before me as waters burst through." That is why the place was named Baal-perazim. [21] The Philistines abandoned their idols there, and David and his men carried them off. [22] Once more the Philistines came up and spread out over the valley of Rephaim. [23] David asked the LORD, and he said, "Do not go up. Go around to their rear and come at them in front of the balsam trees. [*24] When you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the balsam trees, then move fast, for at that moment the LORD has gone out ahead of you to strike the Philistine army." [25] David did as the LORD had commanded him, and he struck down the Philistines from Geba all the way to Gezer.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Once more David assembled all the picked men of Israel, thirty thousand. [2] David set out with all the people who were with him from Baale-judah, to bring up from there the ark of God, which is called by the name, the name of the LORD of hosts, who sits enthroned above the cherubim. [*3] They loaded the ark of God onto a new cart and brought it out of Abinadab's house on the hill, with Uzzah and Ahio, Abinadab's sons, guiding the new cart. [4] They brought it out of Abinadab's house on the hill with the ark of God, and Ahio was going ahead of the ark. [5] David and the whole house of Israel were making merry before the LORD with all sorts of instruments of cypress wood: lyres, harps, tambourines, rattles and cymbals. [6] When they reached the threshing floor of Nacon, Uzzah reached out to the ark of God and grabbed it, because the oxen had stumbled. [7] The LORD's anger blazed against Uzzah, and God struck him there for his error; he died there beside the ark of God. [8] David was angry that the LORD had burst out against Uzzah, and the place has been called Perez-uzzah to this day. [9] That day David was afraid of the LORD, and he said, "How can the ark of the LORD come to me?" [10] So David would not take the ark of the LORD to be with him in the City of David; instead David turned it aside to the house of Obed-edom the Gittite. [11] The ark of the LORD stayed in the house of Obed-edom the Gittite for three months, and the LORD blessed Obed-edom and his whole household. [12] King David was told, "The LORD has blessed Obed-edom's household and all that he has because of the ark of God." So David went and brought the ark of God up from Obed-edom's house to the City of David with celebration. [13] When the bearers of the ark of the LORD had gone six steps, he sacrificed an ox and a fatling. [14] David danced before the LORD with all his strength, wearing a linen ephod. [15] So David and the whole house of Israel brought up the ark of the LORD with shouts and the sound of the horn. [16] As the ark of the LORD entered the City of David, Michal, Saul's daughter, looked out of the window and saw King David leaping and whirling before the LORD, and in her heart she despised him. [17] They brought in the ark of the LORD and set it up in its place in the tent David had pitched for it, and David offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before the LORD. [18] When David had finished offering the burnt offerings and peace offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD of hosts. [19] He handed out to all the people, the whole crowd of Israel, men and women alike, a ring of bread, a portion of meat and a raisin cake each. Then all the people went off, each to his home. [] [20] David went back to bless his household, and Michal, Saul's daughter, came out to meet him. "How the king of Israel has distinguished himself today," she said, "exposing himself today before the eyes of his servants' slave girls, as some vulgar fellow would shamelessly expose himself!" [21] David told Michal, "It was before the LORD, who chose me over your father and over all his house and appointed me leader over the LORD's people, over Israel. I will make merry before the LORD. [22] I will make myself even more contemptible than this and be low in my own eyes. But by the slave girls you spoke of, by them I will be held in honor." [23] And Michal, Saul's daughter, had no child to the day she died.

CHAPTER 7

[1] When the king was settled in his house and the LORD had given him rest from all his enemies round about, [2] the king said to Nathan the prophet, "Look, I am living in a house of cedar, while the ark of God stays inside curtains." [3] Nathan told the king, "Go and do whatever you have in mind, for the LORD is with you." [4] But that very night the word of the LORD came to Nathan: [5] "Go and say to my servant David, 'This is what the LORD says: Is it you who will build me a house to live in? [6] Since the day I brought the children of Israel up from Egypt until today I have not lived in a house; I have been going about in a tent for my dwelling. [7] Wherever I have gone about among all the children of Israel, did I ever say a word to any of the tribes of Israel whom I commanded to shepherd my people Israel, asking, "Why have you not built me a house of cedar?"' [8] So now, say this to my servant David: 'This is what the LORD of hosts says: I took you from the pasture, from behind the sheep, to be leader over my people Israel. [9] I have been with you everywhere you went, and I have cut off all your enemies before you. I will make you a great name, like the name of the great men of the earth. [10] I will provide a place for my people Israel and plant them there, so that they can live in their own place and be troubled no more. Wicked men will not oppress them any longer as they did at first, [11] ever since the time I appointed judges over my people Israel. I will give you rest from all your enemies. And the LORD declares to you that the LORD will make a house for you. [12] When your days are complete and you lie down with your fathers, I will raise up your seed after you, one who will come from your own body, and I will make his kingship firm. [13] He is the one who will build a house for my name, and I will make the throne of his kingship firm for ever. [14] I will be his father, and he will be my son. If he does wrong, I will correct him with the rod men use and with the strokes dealt by the sons of men; [15] but my steadfast love will not depart from him as I removed it from Saul, whom I removed from before you. [16] Your house and your kingship will stand firm before you for ever; your throne will be made firm for ever.'" [17] Nathan spoke to David in keeping with all these words and with this whole vision. [18] Then King David went in, sat before the LORD, and said, "Who am I, Lord GOD, and what is my house, that you have brought me as far as this? [19] And even this was too small a thing in your sight, Lord GOD; you have also spoken of your servant's house for the distant future. And this is the instruction for mankind, Lord GOD! [] [20] What more can David say to you? You know your servant, Lord GOD. [21] Because of your word and in keeping with your heart you have done all these great things, to let your servant know. [22] That is why you are great, Lord GOD: there is none like you, and there is no God but you, by everything we have heard with our own ears. [23] And who is like your people Israel, the one nation on earth that God went to redeem as a people for himself, to make a name for himself, and to do for you great and fearsome things for your land before your people, whom you redeemed for yourself from Egypt, from nations and their gods? [] [24] You established your people Israel for yourself as your own people for ever, and you, LORD, became their God. [25] So now, LORD God, confirm for ever the word you have spoken about your servant and his house, and do as you have said. [26] Let your name be great for ever, and let it be said, 'The LORD of hosts is God over Israel'; and let the house of your servant David stand firm before you. [27] For you, LORD of hosts, God of Israel, have opened your servant's ear, saying, 'I will build you a house.' That is why your servant has found the heart to pray this prayer to you. [28] And now, Lord GOD, you are God, your words are truth, and you have promised this good thing to your servant. [29] So now be pleased to bless your servant's house, so that it may remain before you for ever; for you, Lord GOD, have spoken, and by your blessing let your servant's house be blessed for ever."

CHAPTER 8

[1] Some time later David defeated the Philistines and brought them low; David took Metheg-ammah out of the Philistines' hand. [] [2] He defeated Moab and measured them off with a cord, making them lie on the ground; he measured two cord lengths to be put to death and one full cord length to be spared. Moab became subject to David and paid tribute. [3] David also defeated Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah, when he went to restore his control at the Euphrates River. [4] David captured from him one thousand seven hundred horsemen and twenty thousand foot soldiers. David hamstrung all the chariot horses, keeping back enough of them for a hundred chariots. [5] The Syrians of Damascus came to the aid of Hadadezer king of Zobah, and David killed twenty-two thousand of the Syrians. [] [6] David stationed garrisons in Syria of Damascus, and the Syrians became subject to David and paid tribute. The LORD gave David victory wherever he went. [7] David took the gold shields that Hadadezer's servants had carried and brought them to Jerusalem. [8] From Betah and Berothai, towns of Hadadezer,

King David took a vast quantity of bronze. [9] Toi king of Hamath heard that David had defeated Hadadezer's entire army, [10] and Toi sent his son Joram to King David to ask after his welfare and congratulate him on having fought Hadadezer and defeated him, for Hadadezer had been at war with Toi. Joram brought with him objects of silver, gold and bronze. [11] King David consecrated these too to the LORD, along with the silver and gold he had consecrated from all the nations he had brought under him: [12] from Syria, Moab, the children of Ammon, the Philistines and Amalek, and from the spoil of Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah. [13] David made a name for himself when he came back from killing eighteen thousand Syrians in the valley of Salt.* [14] He stationed garrisons in Edom; throughout Edom he stationed garrisons, and all Edom became subject to David. The LORD gave David victory wherever he went. [15] David reigned over all Israel, doing what was just and right for all his people. [16] Joab son of Zeruiah commanded the army; Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud was recorder; [17] Zadok son of Ahitub and Ahimelech son of Abiathar were priests; Seraiah was scribe; [18] Benaiah son of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites and Pelethites; and David's sons were priests.*

CHAPTER 9

[1] David asked, "Is anyone still left from Saul's house, so that I may show him kindness for Jonathan's sake?" [2] There was a servant of Saul's house named Ziba, and he was summoned to David. The king asked him, "Are you Ziba?" He said, "At your service." [3] The king asked, "Is there no one left from Saul's house to whom I can show God's kindness?" Ziba told the king, "There is still a son of Jonathan, lame in both feet." [4] The king asked him, "Where is he?" Ziba told the king, "He is at the house of Machir son of Ammiel, in Lo-debar." [5] King David sent and had him brought from the house of Machir son of Ammiel, from Lo-debar. [6] Mephibosheth son of Jonathan, son of Saul, came to David, fell on his face and paid homage. David said, "Mephibosheth!" He said, "Here is your servant." [7] David told him, "Do not be afraid. I will certainly show you kindness for your father Jonathan's sake. I will give you back all the land of your father Saul, and you yourself will eat at my table all the time." [8] He bowed down and said, "What is your servant, that you should take notice of a dead dog like me?" [9] The king summoned Ziba, Saul's servant, and told him, "Everything that belonged to Saul and his whole house I am giving to your master's son. [10] You, your sons and your servants are to farm the land for him and bring in the harvest, so that your master's son has food to eat. But Mephibosheth, your master's son, will always eat at my table." Ziba had fifteen sons and twenty servants. [11] Ziba said to the king, "Your servant will do everything my lord the king commands his servant." "Mephibosheth eats at my table like one of the king's sons."* [12] Mephibosheth had a little son named Mica. Everyone living in Ziba's house served Mephibosheth. [13] Mephibosheth lived in Jerusalem, since he always ate at the king's table. He was lame in both feet.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Some time later the king of the children of Ammon died, and his son Hanun became king after him. [2] David said, "I will show kindness to Hanun son of Nahash, just as his father showed kindness to me." So David sent his servants to comfort him over his father, and David's servants came to the land of the children of Ammon. [3] But the princes of the children of Ammon said to their lord Hanun, "Do you really think David is honoring your father by sending you comforters? Has David not sent his servants to you to explore the city and spy it out and overthrow it?" [4] So Hanun seized David's servants, shaved off half of each one's beard, cut their garments off in the middle at the hips, and sent them away. [5] David was told, and he sent men to meet them, since they were greatly ashamed. The king said, "Stay at Jericho until your beards grow back, and then come back." [6] The children of Ammon saw that they had made themselves a stench to David, so the children of Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-rehob and the Syrians of Zobah, twenty thousand foot soldiers, the king of Maacah with a thousand men, and twelve thousand men from Tob. [7] David heard of it and sent Joab with the whole army of mighty men. [8] The children of Ammon came out and formed their battle line at the entrance of the gate, while the Syrians of Zobah and Rehob and the men of Tob and Maacah were off by themselves in the open field. [9] Joab saw that the battle lines faced him front and rear, so he picked some of Israel's best men and formed them up to face the Syrians. [10] The rest of the troops he put under the command of his brother Abishai, who formed them up to face the children of Ammon. [11] Joab said, "If the Syrians prove too strong for me, you must come to my rescue; and if the children of Ammon prove too strong for you, I will come to rescue you. [12] Be strong, and let us be courageous for our people and for the cities of our God. The LORD will do what seems good to him." [13] Joab and the troops with him advanced to fight the Syrians, and they fled from him. [14] When the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians had fled, they too fled from Abishai and went into the city. So Joab came back from the children of Ammon and went to Jerusalem. [15] The Syrians saw that they had been beaten by Israel, and they regrouped. [16] Hadadezer sent for the Syrians across the River and brought them out, and they came to Helam, led by Shobach, commander of Hadadezer's army. [17] David was told, and he gathered all Israel, crossed the Jordan and came to Helam. The Syrians formed their line against David and fought him. [18] The Syrians fled before Israel, and David killed seven hundred Syrian charioteers and forty thousand horsemen; he also struck down Shobach their army commander, who died there. [19] All the kings who were subject to Hadadezer saw that they had been beaten by Israel, and they made peace with Israel and became subject to them. The Syrians were afraid to help the children of Ammon any more.

CHAPTER 11

[1] In the spring of the year, the time when kings march out, David sent Joab out with his servants and all Israel. They laid waste the children of Ammon and besieged Rabbah, while David stayed in Jerusalem. [] [2] One evening David got up from his couch and was strolling on the roof of the palace, and from the roof he saw a woman bathing. The woman was very lovely to look at. [3] David sent to ask about the woman, and was told, "Is this not Bathsheba daughter of Eliam, the wife of Uriah the Hittite?" [4] David sent messengers and took her. She came to him and he slept with her (she had been purifying herself from her uncleanness), and then she went back home. [] [5] The woman conceived, and she sent word to David: "I am with child." [6] David sent word to Joab: "Send Uriah the Hittite to me." So Joab sent Uriah to David. [7] Uriah came to him, and David asked him how Joab was, how the troops were, and how the war was going. [8] Then David told Uriah, "Go down to your house and wash your feet." Uriah left the palace, and a portion from the king followed him out. [9] But Uriah slept at the door of the palace with all his lord's servants and did not go down to his house. [10] David was told, "Uriah did not go down to his house." David asked Uriah, "Have you not just come from a journey? Why did you not go down to your house?" [11] Uriah told David, "The ark, and Israel and Judah, are living in huts, and my lord Joab and my lord's servants are camped out in the open field. Am I to go to my house to eat and drink and sleep with my wife? As you live, by your very life, I will not do it." [12] David told Uriah, "Stay here today as well, and tomorrow I will send you off." So Uriah stayed in Jerusalem that day and the day after. [13] David invited him, and he ate and drank in his presence, and David got him drunk. In the evening he went out to lie on his bed among his lord's servants, but he did not go down to his house. [14] In the morning David wrote a letter to Joab and sent it with Uriah. [15] In the letter he wrote, "Station Uriah in the front of the hardest fighting, then pull back from him, so that he is struck down and dies." [16] While Joab was keeping watch on the city, he put Uriah at the place where he knew the strongest defenders were. [17] The men of the city came out and fought Joab; some of the troops, some of David's servants, fell, and Uriah the Hittite was killed too. [18] Joab sent David a full report of the fighting. [19] He ordered the messenger, "When you have finished giving the king the full report of the fighting, [20] the king may become angry and ask you, 'Why did you go so close to the city to fight? Did you not know they would shoot from the wall? [21] Who killed Abimelech son of Jerubbesheth? Was it not a woman who dropped an upper millstone on him from the wall, so that he died at Thebez? Why did you go so close to the wall?' Then say, 'Your servant Uriah the Hittite is dead too.'" [22] The messenger set off, came and told David everything Joab had sent him to say. [23] The messenger told David, "The men got the better of us and came out against us in the field, but we pushed them back to the entrance of the gate. [24] Then the archers shot at your servants from the wall. Some of the king's servants died, and your servant Uriah the Hittite is dead too." [25] David told the messenger, "Say this to Joab: 'Do not let this trouble you, for the sword devours one as well as another. Step up your attack on the city and tear it down.' And encourage him." [26] Uriah's wife heard that her husband Uriah was dead, and she mourned for her husband. [27] When the time of mourning was past, David sent and had her brought to his house; she became his wife and bore him a son. But what David had done was evil in the LORD's sight.

CHAPTER 12

[1] The LORD sent Nathan to David. He came to him and said, "There were two men in one town, one rich and the other poor. [2] The rich man had a great many sheep and cattle, [3] but the poor man had nothing at all except one little ewe lamb he had bought. He raised it, and it grew up with him and his children; it ate from his bit of food, drank from his cup and slept in his arms. It was like a daughter to him. [4] A traveler came to the rich man, and he could not bring himself to take one of his own sheep or cattle to prepare for the wayfarer who had come to him. Instead he took the poor man's lamb and prepared it for the man who had come to him." [5] David's anger flared hot against the man, and he told Nathan, "As the LORD lives, the man who did this is a son of death! [6] He must pay for the lamb four times over, because he did this and because he had no pity." [7] Nathan said to David, "You are the man! This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'It was I who anointed you king over Israel, and it was I who rescued you from Saul's hand. [8] I gave you your master's house, and your master's wives into your embrace; I gave you the house of Israel and Judah. And if that were too little, I would have added as much again, and more. [9] Why have you despised the LORD's word by doing what is evil in his sight? Uriah the Hittite you struck down with the sword, his wife you took as your own wife, and him you killed with the sword of the children of Ammon. [10] So now the sword will never leave your house, because you despised me and took the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be your wife.' [11] This is what the LORD says: 'Out of your own house I am going to raise up trouble against you. Before your eyes I will take your wives and give them to your neighbor, and he will lie with your wives under the eyes of this sun. [12] You acted in secret, but I will do this thing before all Israel and before the sun.'" [13] David said to Nathan, "I have sinned against the LORD." Nathan told David, "The LORD for his part has taken away your sin; you will not die. [14] But because by this deed you have given the LORD's enemies great cause to scorn him, the son born to you must die." [] [15] Then Nathan went home. The LORD struck the child that Uriah's wife had borne to David, and he fell gravely ill. [16] David pleaded with God for the boy. David fasted, and he went in and spent the nights lying on the ground. [17] The elders of his household stood over him to raise him up from the ground, but he was unwilling and would not eat food with them. [18] On the seventh day the child died. David's servants were afraid to tell him the child was dead, for they said, "While the child was alive we spoke to him, and he would not listen to us. How can we tell him the child is dead? He may do himself harm." [19] David saw his servants whispering to one another and realized that the child was dead. David asked his servants, "Is the child dead?" They said, "He is dead." [20] David got up from the ground, bathed, put on oil and changed his clothes. He went into the LORD's house and bowed in worship. Then he went home and asked for food; they set it before him and he ate. [21] His servants said to him, "What is this you are doing? While the child was alive you fasted and wept for him, and now that the child is dead you get up and eat!" [22] He said, "While the child was still alive I fasted and wept, because I thought, 'Who knows? The LORD may be gracious to me and the child may live.' [23] But now he is dead; why should I fast? Can I bring him back? I will go to him, but he will not come back to me." [24] David comforted his wife Bathsheba; he went in to her and slept with her. She gave birth to a son and named him Solomon. The LORD loved him, [25] and he sent word through Nathan the prophet, who named him Jedidiah, for the LORD's sake. [26] Joab was fighting against Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and he took the royal city. [27] Joab sent messengers to David with word: "I have fought against Rabbah, and I have taken the city of waters too. [28] Now gather the rest of the troops, lay siege to the city and take it, or I will take the city myself and it will be named after me." [29] So David gathered all the troops, went to Rabbah, fought against it and took it. [30] He took their king's crown from his head; it weighed a talent of gold and held a precious stone, and it was set on David's head. He carried off a vast amount of spoil from the city.* [31] He brought out the people who were in it and put them to work with saws, iron picks and iron axes, and made them pass through the brick kiln. He did this to all the cities of the children of Ammon. Then David and all the troops went back to Jerusalem.*

CHAPTER 13

[1] Some time after this, David's son Absalom had a lovely sister named Tamar, and David's son Amnon fell in love with her. [2] Amnon was so tormented over his sister Tamar that he made himself sick, since she was a virgin, and to Amnon it seemed out of the question to do anything to her. [3] Amnon had a friend named Jonadab, son of Shimeah, David's brother, and Jonadab was a very crafty man. [4] He said to him, "Why are you so worn down, O king's son, morning after morning? Will you not tell me?" Amnon told him, "I am in love with Tamar, my brother Absalom's sister." [5] Jonadab told him, "Lie down on your bed and make yourself out to be sick. When your father comes to see you, tell him, 'Please let my sister Tamar come and give me something to eat. Let her prepare the food where I can see it, and I will eat from her hand.'" [6] So Amnon lay down and made himself out to be sick. When the king came to see him, Amnon said to the king, "Please let my sister Tamar come and make a couple of heart-shaped cakes where I can see, and I will eat from her hand." [7] David sent word home to Tamar: "Go to your brother Amnon's house, please, and prepare some food for him." [8] Tamar went to her brother Amnon's house, where he lay in bed. She took dough, kneaded it, shaped the cakes while he watched, and baked them. [9] She took the pan and served them out in front of him, but he would not eat. Amnon said, "Have everyone leave me," and everyone left him. [10] Then Amnon told Tamar, "Bring the food into the bedroom so I can eat from your hand." Tamar took the cakes she had made and brought them into the bedroom to her brother Amnon. [11] As she was holding them out to him to eat, he grabbed her and said, "Come to bed with me, my sister." [12] She told him, "No, my brother! Do not humble me; nothing like this is done in Israel. Do not commit this outrage! [13] And I, where could I take my disgrace? And you, you would be like one of the outrageous fools in Israel. Now please speak to the king; he will not keep me from you." [14] But he would not listen to her. He overpowered her, humbled her, and lay with her. [15] Then Amnon hated her with an intense hatred; the hatred he felt for her was greater than the love he had felt for her. Amnon told her, "Get up and get out!" [16] She said to him, "No! Sending me away is a greater wrong than the other thing you did to me." But he would not listen to her.* [17] He called the young man who attended him and said, "Get this woman away from me, out of here, and bolt the door after her." [18] She was wearing a long robe with sleeves, since that was how the king's virgin daughters dressed. His attendant put her out and bolted the door after her.* [19] Tamar put ashes on her head and tore the long robe with sleeves she had on; she put her hand on her head and went off, crying out as she went. [20] Her brother Absalom said to her, "Has your brother Amnon been with you? Keep quiet for now, my sister; he is your brother. Do not take this thing to heart." So Tamar stayed, desolate, in her brother Absalom's house. [21] King David heard about all this and was furious. [22] Absalom said nothing to Amnon, good or bad, for Absalom hated Amnon because he had humbled his sister Tamar. [23] Two full years later Absalom had sheepshearers at Baal-hazor near Ephraim, and Absalom invited all the king's sons. [24] Absalom came to the king and said, "Your servant has sheepshearers just now. Will the king and his servants please come with your servant?" [25] The king told Absalom, "No, my son, we must not all go, or we will be a burden to you." Absalom urged him, but he was unwilling to go, though he gave him his blessing. [26] Absalom said, "If not, then please let my brother Amnon go with us." The king asked him, "Why should he go with you?" [27] But Absalom kept urging him, and he let Amnon and all the king's sons go with him. [28] Absalom gave orders to his young men: "Watch for when Amnon's heart is merry with wine. When I tell you, 'Strike Amnon,' kill him. Do not be afraid; it is I who have given you the order, is it not? Be strong and act like valiant men." [29] Absalom's young men did to Amnon as Absalom had ordered. All the king's sons got up, each mounted his mule, and they fled. [30] While they were still on the road, the news reached David: "Absalom has killed all the king's sons; not one of them is left!" [31] The king got up, tore his clothes, and lay on the ground, and all his servants stood by with their clothes torn. [32] But Jonadab son of Shimeah, David's brother, spoke up: "My lord should not think they have killed all the young men, the king's sons; only Amnon is dead. Absalom has had this planned ever since the day Amnon humbled his sister Tamar. [33] So my lord the king should not take it to heart, thinking that all the king's sons are dead; only Amnon is dead."

[34] Absalom fled. The young man on watch looked up and saw a crowd of people coming along the road behind him, down the hillside. [35] Jonadab told the king, "There, the king's sons have come! It is just as your servant said." [36] The moment he finished speaking, the king's sons came in, raised their voices and wept, and the king and all his servants also wept very bitterly. [37]
Absalom fled and went to Talmai son of Ammihud, king of Geshur. And David mourned for his son day after day. [38]
Absalom, having fled and gone to Geshur, stayed there three years. [39] And King David's spirit longed to go out to Absalom, for he had been consoled over Amnon's death.*

CHAPTER 14

[1] Joab son of Zeruiah perceived that the king's heart was set on Absalom. [2] So Joab sent to Tekoa and brought a wise woman from there. He told her, "Pretend to be in mourning. Put on mourning clothes and do not anoint yourself with oil; act like a woman who has been mourning a long time for someone dead. [3] Then go in to the king and speak to him like this." And Joab put the words in her mouth. [4] The woman from Tekoa spoke to the king; she fell face down on the ground, paid homage, and said, "Help, O king!" [5] The king asked her, "What is the matter?" She said, "I am a widow, sad to say; my husband is dead. [6] Your servant had two sons. The two of them got into a fight out in the field with no one to pull them apart, and one struck the other and killed him. [7] Now the whole clan has risen against your servant, saying, 'Hand over the one who struck down his brother, so we can put him to death for the life of the brother he killed, and do away with the heir as well.' So they would put out the one ember I have left, leaving my husband neither name nor survivor on the face of the earth." [8] The king told the woman,
"Go home; I will give orders on your behalf." [9] The woman from Tekoa said to the king, "My lord the king, let the guilt be on me and on my father's house, and let the king and his throne be free of guilt." [10] The king said, "If anyone says anything to you, bring him to me, and he will not trouble you again." [11] She said, "Then let the king remember the LORD your God, so that the avenger of blood will not add to the destruction, and they will not destroy my son." He said, "As the LORD lives, not one hair of your son will fall to the ground." [12] The woman said, "Let your servant say one more word to my lord the king." He said, "Speak." [13] The woman said, "Why then have you planned such a thing against the people of God? In saying this, the king convicts himself, since the king has not brought his banished one back. [14] We all must die; we are like water poured out on the ground that cannot be gathered up again. Yet God does not take away life, but devises plans so that the banished one is not kept away from him.* [15] Now, I have come to say this to my lord the king because the people made me afraid. Your servant thought, 'I will speak to the king; perhaps the king will act on his servant's request. [16] The king will surely listen and rescue his servant from the hand of the man who wants to cut off both me and my son from God's inheritance.' [17] Your servant thought, 'Let the word of my lord the king give me rest,' for my lord the king is like the angel of God in telling good from evil. The LORD your God be with you!" [18] The king answered the woman, "Do not hide from me anything I ask you." The woman said, "Let my lord the king speak." [19] The king said, "Is Joab's hand with you in all of this?"
The woman answered, "As surely as you live, my lord the king, no one can turn right or left from anything my lord the king says.
Yes, it was your servant Joab who gave me orders; he put all these words in your servant's mouth. [20] Your servant Joab did this to put a different face on the matter. But my lord has wisdom like the wisdom of the angel of God, to know everything that goes on in the land." [21] The king said to Joab, "Very well, I am doing this.
Go, bring back the young man Absalom." [22] Joab fell face down on the ground, paid homage, and blessed the king. Joab said, "Today your servant knows that I have found favor in your sight, my lord the king, since the king has done what his servant asked." [23] Joab set off, went to Geshur, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem. [24] The king said, "He must go off to his own house and not see my face." So Absalom went off to his house and did not see the king's face. [25] In all Israel there was no man as handsome as Absalom, none so highly praised; from the sole of his foot to the top of his head there was not a flaw in him. [26]
When he cut his hair (he cut it at the end of every year, since it grew heavy on him, and so he cut it), he would weigh the hair of his head: two hundred shekels by the king's weight.* [27] Absalom had three sons and one daughter named Tamar, a woman of lovely appearance. [28] Absalom lived in Jerusalem for two full years without seeing the king's face. [29] Absalom sent for Joab, to send him to the king, but he would not come to him. He sent once more, a second time, but he would not come. [30] So he told his servants, "Look, Joab's field is beside mine, and he has barley in it. Go and set it on fire." And Absalom's servants set the field on fire. [31] Joab went straight to Absalom's house and asked him,
"Why did your servants set my field on fire?" [32] Absalom answered Joab, "I sent word to you: 'Come here, so I can send you to the king to ask, "Why did I come back from Geshur? I would be better off still there."' Now let me see the king's face, and if there is any guilt in me, let him put me to death." [33] Joab went to the king and told him. He called for Absalom, who came to the king and bowed face down to the ground before the king, and the king kissed Absalom.

CHAPTER 15

[1] Some time later Absalom acquired a chariot and horses, with fifty men to run ahead of him. [2] Absalom would get up early and stand beside the road leading to the gate. Whenever anyone had a case to bring to the king for judgment, Absalom would call him over and ask, "What town are you from?" When he said, "Your servant is from such and such a tribe of Israel," [3] Absalom would tell him, "Look, your case is good and just, but there is nobody on the king's behalf to listen to you." [4] Absalom would go on, "If only I were made judge in the land! Then anyone with a case or a lawsuit could come to me, and I would see that he got justice." [5]
When anyone came up to bow down to him, he would reach out his hand, take hold of him and kiss him. [6] Absalom acted this way toward all Israel who came to the king for judgment, and so Absalom stole the hearts of the men of Israel. [7] At the end of forty years Absalom said to the king, "Please let me go to Hebron and pay the vow I made to the LORD. [] [8] Your servant made a vow while I was living at Geshur in Syria: 'If the LORD really brings me back to Jerusalem, I will serve the LORD.'" [9] The king told him, "Go in peace." So he set off and went to Hebron. [10] But Absalom sent spies through all the tribes of Israel with this message: "The moment you hear the sound of the horn, say, 'Absalom has become king in Hebron!'" [11] Two hundred men from Jerusalem went with Absalom; they had been invited and went along innocently, knowing nothing of the matter. [12] While he offered the sacrifices, Absalom sent for Ahithophel the Gilonite, David's counselor, from his town of Giloh. The conspiracy gathered strength, and the people siding with Absalom grew steadily in number. [13] A messenger came to David and said, "The hearts of the men of Israel have turned to follow Absalom." [14] David said to all his servants who were with him in Jerusalem, "Up, let us run, or none of us will escape from Absalom! Leave quickly, or he will soon overtake us, bring ruin on us, and put the city to the sword." [15] The king's servants told the king, "Whatever my lord the king chooses, your servants are ready." [16] The king set out with his whole household following him, but the king left ten concubines to look after the house. [17] The king set out with all the people following him, and they halted at the last house. [18] All his servants were marching past beside him; all the Cherethites, all the Pelethites, and all the Gittites, six hundred men who had come behind him from Gath, were marching on ahead of the king. [19] The king said to Ittai the Gittite, "Why are you coming with us too? Go back and stay with the king, for you are a foreigner, an exile from your own place as well. [20] You came only yesterday; should I set you wandering with us today, when I am going wherever I can? Go back, and take your brothers back with you. Steadfast love and faithfulness be with you." [21] But Ittai answered the king, "As the LORD lives, and as my lord the king lives, wherever my lord the king may be, for death or for life, there your servant will be." [22] David told Ittai, "Go on, then, march past." So Ittai the Gittite marched past with all his men and all the little ones with him. [23] The whole countryside was weeping aloud as all the people marched past. The king crossed the Kidron valley, and all the people marched on toward the wilderness road. [24] Zadok was there too, and all the Levites with him, carrying the ark of the covenant of God. They set down the ark of God, and Abiathar went up, until all the people had finished marching out of the city. [25] The king told Zadok, "Take the ark of God back into the city. If I find favor in the LORD's sight, he will bring me back and let me see it and its dwelling again. [26] But if he says, 'I take no pleasure in you,' here I am; let him do to me whatever seems good to him." [27] The king also said to Zadok the priest, "Are you not a seer? Go back to the city in peace, with your two sons, your son Ahimaaz and Abiathar's son Jonathan. [] [28] I will be waiting at the plains of the wilderness until word comes from you to let me know." [*] [29] So Zadok and Abiathar took the ark of God back to Jerusalem and stayed there. [30] David went on up the slope of the Mount of Olives, weeping as he climbed, his head covered and his feet bare. All the people with him covered their heads too and went up weeping as they climbed. [31] David was told, "Ahithophel is among the conspirators with Absalom." David said, "LORD, turn Ahithophel's advice into folly, please." [32] As David reached the top, where people would bow down to God, there was Hushai the Archite coming to meet him, his coat torn and earth on his head. [33] David told him, "If you come along with me, you will be a burden to me. [34] But if you go back to the city and tell Absalom, 'I will be your servant, O king; I was your father's servant before, and now I will be yours,' then you can thwart Ahithophel's advice for me. [35] Will not Zadok and Abiathar the priests be there with you? Whatever you hear from the palace, report to Zadok and Abiathar the priests. [36] Their two sons are there with them, Zadok's son Ahimaaz and Abiathar's son Jonathan; send me everything you hear through them." [37] So Hushai, David's friend, came into the city just as Absalom was entering Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 16

[1] David had gone a little past the top when Ziba, Mephibosheth's servant, came to meet him with a pair of saddled donkeys loaded with two hundred loaves of bread, a hundred raisin cakes, a hundred pieces of summer fruit and a skin of wine. [2] The king asked Ziba, "What are these for?" Ziba said, "The donkeys are for the king's household to ride, the bread and summer fruit for the young men to eat, and the wine for anyone who grows faint in the wilderness to drink." [3] The king asked, "Where is your master's son?" Ziba told the king, "He is staying in Jerusalem, because he said, 'Today the house of Israel will give me back my father's kingship.'" [4] The king told Ziba, "Everything that belonged to Mephibosheth is yours." Ziba said, "I bow before you; may I find favor in your sight, my lord the king!" [5] As King David came to Bahurim, a man from the clan of Saul's house came out of there; his name was Shimei son of Gera, and he kept cursing as he came out. [6] He threw stones at David and at all King David's servants, although all the people and all the mighty men were at his right and his left. [7] This is what Shimei said as he cursed: "Get out, get out, you man of blood, you worthless man! [8] The LORD has paid you back for all the blood of Saul's house, in whose place you became king, and the LORD has handed the kingship over to your son Absalom. Here you are in your own disaster, because you are a man of blood!" [9] Abishai son of Zeruiah said to the king, "Why should this dead dog curse my lord the king? Let me go across and cut off his head." [10] But the king said, "What do I have in common with you, sons of Zeruiah? If he curses because the LORD told him, 'Curse David,' who can ask, 'Why do you do this?'" [11] David said to Abishai and all his servants, "My own son, my own flesh and blood, is seeking my life; how much more this Benjaminite now! Let him be; let him curse, for the LORD has told him to. [12] Perhaps the LORD will look on my affliction, and the LORD will repay me with good for his cursing today."* 13 David and his men went on along the road, while Shimei went along the hillside across from him, cursing as he went, throwing stones at him and tossing dust. 14 The king and all the people with him arrived weary, and there he caught his breath.* 15 Absalom and all the people, the men of Israel, entered Jerusalem, and Ahithophel was with him. 16 Hushai the Archite, David's friend, came to Absalom, and Hushai said to Absalom, "Long live the king! Long live the king!" 17 Absalom said to Hushai, "Is this your loyalty to your friend? Why did you not go with your friend?" 18 Hushai told Absalom, "No; the one whom the LORD and this people and all the men of Israel have chosen, his I will be, and with him I will stay. 19 Besides, whom should I serve? Should it not be his son? Just as I served your father, so I will serve you." 20 Absalom said to Ahithophel, "Give us your advice. What should we do?" 21 Ahithophel told Absalom, "Sleep with your father's concubines whom he left to look after the house. All Israel will hear that you have made yourself a stench to your father, and everyone with you will take heart." 22 So they put up a tent for Absalom on the roof, and Absalom slept with his father's concubines in full view of all Israel. 23 In those days the advice Ahithophel gave was treated as if someone had consulted the word of God; that was how all of Ahithophel's advice was regarded, by David and by Absalom alike.

1 Ahithophel said to Absalom, "Let me pick twelve thousand men and set out tonight in pursuit of David. 2 I will come on him while he is weary and his hands are slack, and throw him into a panic; all the people with him will run, and I will strike down the king by himself. 3 I will bring all the people back to you. The return of all of them depends on the man you are after; all the people will then be at peace."* 4 The plan pleased Absalom and all the elders of Israel. 5 But Absalom said, "Call Hushai the Archite as well, and let us hear what he has to say too." 6 Hushai came to Absalom, and Absalom told him, "Ahithophel has said such and such. Shall we act on his word? If not, you speak." 7 Hushai told Absalom, "The advice Ahithophel has given is not good this time." 8 Hushai went on, "You know your father and his men: they are mighty men, and they are bitter of soul, like a bear robbed of her cubs in the wild. Your father is a seasoned warrior; he will not spend the night with the troops. 9 Right now he is hidden in one of the pits or some other place. If some of the troops fall at the outset, whoever hears of it will say, 'There has been a slaughter among the troops following Absalom.' 10 Then even the brave man with a heart like a lion's will lose his nerve completely, for all Israel knows that your father is a mighty man and the men with him are valiant. 11 So this is my advice: let all Israel from Dan to Beersheba be gathered to you, as many as the sand by the sea, and you yourself go into battle. 12 We will come upon him wherever he is to be found and settle on him as dew falls on the ground; not one will be left, neither he nor any of the men with him. 13 If he pulls back into a city, all Israel will bring ropes to that city, and we will drag it down into the valley until not even a pebble of it can be found." 14 Absalom and all the men of Israel said, "The advice of Hushai the Archite is better than Ahithophel's advice." For the LORD had determined to frustrate Ahithophel's good advice, so that the LORD could bring ruin on Absalom. 15 Hushai told Zadok and Abiathar the priests, "Ahithophel advised Absalom and the elders of Israel this way and that, and I have advised this way and that. 16 Now send word quickly and tell David, 'Do not spend the night at the plains of the wilderness; be sure to cross over, or the king and all the people with him will be swallowed up.'" 17 Jonathan and Ahimaaz were staying at En-rogel. A servant girl would go and pass the word to them, and they would go and tell King David, since they could not risk being seen coming into the city. 18 But a young man saw them and told Absalom. The two of them hurried off and came to the house of a man at Bahurim who had a well in his courtyard, and they climbed down into it. 19 The woman took a cover, spread it over the mouth of the well, and scattered grain over it, and nothing was noticed. 20 Absalom's servants came to the woman at the house and asked, "Where are Ahimaaz and Jonathan?" The woman told them, "They went across the brook." They searched and found nothing, and went back to Jerusalem.* 21 When they had gone, the men climbed out of the well and went to tell King David. They told David, "Get up and cross the water quickly, for this is what Ahithophel has advised against you." 22 David and all the people with him got up and crossed the Jordan. By the light of morning not one was missing who had not crossed the Jordan. 23 When Ahithophel saw that his advice had not been taken, he saddled his donkey and went home to his town. He gave orders for his household and hanged himself. He died and was buried in his father's tomb. 24 David came to Mahanaim, and Absalom crossed the Jordan with all the men of Israel. 25 Absalom had put Amasa over the army instead of Joab. Amasa was the son of a man named Ithra the Israelite, who had slept with Abigal daughter of Nahash, sister of Zeruiah, Joab's mother.* 26 Israel and Absalom encamped in the land of Gilead. 27 When David came to Mahanaim, Shobi son of Nahash from Rabbah of the children of Ammon, Machir son of Ammiel from Lo-debar, and Barzillai the Gileadite from Rogelim 28 brought bedding, basins and clay pots, wheat, barley, flour, roasted grain, beans, lentils and parched seeds,* 29 honey, curds, sheep and cheese from the herd, for David and the people with him to eat. For they said, "The people must be hungry, tired and thirsty in the wilderness."

CHAPTER 18

1 David counted the troops who were with him and put commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds over them. 2 David sent out the troops, a third under Joab, a third under Joab's brother Abishai son of Zeruiah, and a third under Ittai the Gittite. The king told the troops, "I am going out with you myself." 3 But the troops said, "You must not go out. If we have to run, they will pay no attention to us; even if half of us die, they will pay no attention to us. But you are worth ten thousand of us. So it is better now for you to be ready to send us help from the city."* [4] The king told them, "I will do whatever you think best." So the king stood beside the gate while all the troops marched out by hundreds and by thousands. [5] The king gave orders to Joab, Abishai and Ittai: "Go easy on the young man Absalom for my sake." All the troops heard the king giving all the commanders orders about Absalom. [6] The troops marched out into the field to meet Israel, and the battle took place in the forest of Ephraim. [7] There the army of Israel was beaten by David's servants, and the slaughter there that day was great: twenty thousand men. [8] The fighting spread out over the whole countryside, and the forest swallowed up more of the troops that day than the sword did. [9] Absalom came upon David's servants. Absalom was riding his mule, and the mule went under the tangled branches of a big oak; his head got caught in the oak, and he was left dangling between heaven and earth as the mule under him kept going. [10] A man saw it and told Joab, "I just saw Absalom hanging in an oak." [11] Joab said to the man who told him, "You saw him! Why did you not knock him to the ground right there? I would have had to give you ten pieces of silver and a belt." [12] The man answered Joab, "Even if I could feel a thousand pieces of silver weighed into my hands, I would not lift my hand against the king's son. We all heard the king command you, Abishai and Ittai, 'Protect, whoever you are, the young man Absalom.'* [13] Otherwise, if I had acted treacherously against his life, since nothing is hidden from the king, you yourself would have kept your distance."* [14] Joab said, "I will not hang around like this with you." He took three spears in his hand and drove them into Absalom's heart while he was still alive in the middle of the oak. [15] Ten young men who bore Joab's armor closed in, struck Absalom and finished him off. [16] Joab sounded the horn, and the troops came back from chasing Israel, because Joab held the troops back. [17] They took Absalom, flung him into a big pit in the forest, and piled a huge heap of stones over him. All Israel fled, each man to his tent. [18] During his lifetime Absalom had taken a pillar and set it up for himself in the King's Valley, for he thought, "I have no son to keep my name remembered." He named the pillar after himself, and it is called Absalom's Monument to this day. [19] Ahimaaz son of Zadok said, "Let me run and bring the king the good news that the LORD has vindicated him against his enemies." [20] Joab told him, "You are not the one to bring news today. You can bring news some other day, but not today, since the king's son is dead." [21] Joab told a Cushite, "Go, tell the king what you have seen." The Cushite bowed to Joab and ran off. [22] Ahimaaz son of Zadok spoke to Joab again: "Whatever happens, let me run too, after the Cushite." Joab said, "Why do you want to run, my son, when you have no news that will bring you a reward?" [23] "Whatever happens, I will run." "Then run," he told him. Ahimaaz ran by the road through the plain and passed the Cushite. [24] David was sitting between the two gates. The watchman went up to the roof of the gate on the wall, looked out, and saw a man running by himself. [25] The watchman called out and told the king. The king said, "If he is by himself, he has news to tell." He came nearer and nearer. [26] Then the watchman saw another man running, and the watchman called down to the gatekeeper, "There is another man running by himself!" The king said, "He too is bringing news." [27] The watchman said, "The way the first one runs looks to me like the way Ahimaaz son of Zadok runs." The king said, "He is a good man; he comes with good news." [28] Ahimaaz called out to the king, "All is well!" He bowed down before the king with his face to the ground and said, "Blessed is the LORD your God, who has handed over the men who lifted their hand against my lord the king!" [29] The king asked, "Is the young man Absalom all right?" Ahimaaz said, "When Joab sent the king's servant, your servant, I saw a great tumult, but I do not know what it was." [30] The king said, "Step aside and stand over here." He stepped aside and waited. [31] Then the Cushite arrived, and the Cushite said, "Good news for my lord the king! Today the LORD has vindicated you against all who rose up against you." [32] The king asked the Cushite, "Is the young man Absalom all right?" The Cushite said, "May the enemies of my lord the king, and all who rise up against you to do you harm, be as that young man is." [33] The king was shaken. He went up to the room over the gate and wept, and as he went he said, "My son Absalom! My son, my son Absalom! If only I had died in your place! O Absalom, my son, my son!"*

CHAPTER 19

[1] Joab was told, "The king is weeping and mourning over Absalom." [2] So the victory that day turned into mourning for all the troops, for that day the troops heard it said, "The king is grieving over his son." [3] That day the troops stole into the city the way troops steal in when they are ashamed of having fled in battle. [4] The king covered his face and cried aloud, "My son Absalom! Absalom, my son, my son!" [5] Joab came into the house to the king and said, "Today you have put to shame all your servants, who today saved your life, the lives of your sons and daughters, the lives of your wives and the lives of your concubines, [6] by loving those who hate you and hating those who love you. You have made it plain today that commanders and servants mean nothing to you. I can see today that if Absalom were alive and all of us dead today, that would suit you fine. [7] So now get up, go out and speak to the heart of your servants. I swear by the LORD that if you do not go out, not one man will stay with you tonight, and that will be worse for you than all the trouble that has come on you from your youth until now." [8] The king got up and took his seat in the gate. All the troops were told, "The king is sitting in the gate," and all the troops came before the king. Israel meanwhile had fled, each man to his tent. [9] All the people throughout the tribes of Israel were quarreling, saying, "The king rescued us from our enemies' hand and delivered us from the Philistines' hand, and now he has fled the land because of Absalom. [10] And Absalom, whom we anointed over us, is dead in battle. So why are you saying nothing about bringing the king back?" [11] King David sent word to Zadok and Abiathar the priests: "Speak to the elders of Judah and say, 'Why should you be the last to bring the king back to his house, when what all Israel is saying has reached the king, even to his house? [12] You are my brothers, my own bone and flesh. Why should you be the last to bring the king back?' [13] And say to Amasa, 'Are you not my own bone and flesh? May God do so to me, and more besides, if you are not commander of my army from now on in place of Joab.'" [14] He won over the hearts of all the men of Judah as one man, and they sent word to the king: "Come back, you and all your servants." [15] So the king came back as far as the Jordan, and Judah came to Gilgal to meet the king and bring the king across the Jordan. [16] Shimei son of Gera, the Benjaminite from Bahurim, hurried down with the men of Judah to meet King David. [17] With him were a thousand men from Benjamin, along with Ziba, the servant of Saul's house, and his fifteen sons and twenty servants. They plunged into the Jordan ahead of the king. [18] They went over at the ford to bring the king's household across and to do whatever he wished. Shimei son of Gera fell down before the king as he was crossing the Jordan* [19] and said to the king, "Let not my lord count it against me as guilt, or remember the wrong your servant did on the day my lord the king left Jerusalem. Let not the king take it to heart. [20] Your servant knows that I have sinned; that is why I have come today, the first of all the house of Joseph, to come down and meet my lord the king." [21] Abishai son of Zeruiah spoke up: "Should not Shimei be put to death for this, since he cursed the LORD's anointed?" [22] David said, "What do I have in common with you, sons of Zeruiah, that you should become an adversary to me today? Is anyone to be put to death in Israel today? Do I not know that today I am king over Israel?" [23] The king told Shimei, "You will not die," and the king swore it to him. [24] Mephibosheth son of Saul came down to meet the king. He had not tended his feet, trimmed his mustache or washed his clothes from the day the king went away until the day he came home safely. [25] When he came to Jerusalem to meet the king, the king asked him, "Why did you not go with me, Mephibosheth?" [26] He said, "My lord the king, my servant tricked me. Your servant said, 'I will saddle the donkey for myself so I can ride on it and go with the king,' for your servant is lame. [27] He has slandered your servant to my lord the king. But my lord the king is like the angel of God; do whatever seems good to you. [28] My father's whole house deserved nothing but death from my lord the king, yet you set your servant among those who eat at your table. What right do I have, then, to keep crying out to the king?" [29] The king told him, "Why go on talking about your affairs? I have said: you and Ziba are to divide the land." [30] Mephibosheth told the king, "Let him take the whole of it, now that my lord the king has come home safely." [31] Barzillai the Gileadite had come down from Rogelim and had crossed the Jordan with the king, to send him on his way over the Jordan. [32] Barzillai was very old, eighty years of age. He had supplied the king with food during his stay at Mahanaim, for he was a man of great wealth. [33] The king said to Barzillai, "Come across with me, and I will provide for you at my side in Jerusalem." [34] Barzillai answered the king, "How many years of life do I have left, that I should go up to Jerusalem with the king? [35] I am eighty years old today. Can I tell good from bad? Can your servant taste what I eat and drink? Can I still hear the voices of men and women singers? Why should your servant be one more burden to my lord the king? [36] Your servant will go just a short way across the Jordan with the king. Why should the king reward me like this? [37] Let your servant go back, please, so I can die in my own town near my father's and mother's grave. But here is your servant Chimham; let him go across with my lord the king, and do for him whatever seems good to you." [38] The king said, "Chimham will go across with me, and I will do for him whatever seems good to you; anything you choose to ask of me I will do for you." [39] All the people crossed the Jordan, and the king crossed. The king kissed Barzillai and blessed him, and he went back to his home. [40] The king went on to Gilgal, and Chimham went with him. All the troops of Judah, and half the troops of Israel as well, brought the king across. [41] Then all the men of Israel came to the king and asked him, "Why have our brothers, the men of Judah, stolen you away and brought the king and his household across the Jordan, and all David's men with him?" [42] All the men of Judah answered the men of Israel, "Because the king is our near kinsman. Why are you angry about this? Have we eaten anything at the king's expense? Has anything been carried off for us?" [43] The men of Israel answered the men of Judah, "We have ten shares in the king, and in David too we have more than you. Why then did you treat us with contempt? Were we not the first to speak of bringing back our king?" But the men of Judah spoke more harshly than the men of Israel.*

CHAPTER 20

[1] There happened to be a worthless man there named Sheba son of Bichri, a Benjaminite. He sounded the horn and said, "We have no share in David, no inheritance in Jesse's son! Every man to his tents, Israel!" [2] So all the men of Israel went up from following David and followed Sheba son of Bichri, but the men of Judah stuck by their king, from the Jordan to Jerusalem. [3] David came to his palace in Jerusalem. The king took the ten concubines he had left to look after the house and put them in a house under guard. He provided for them but did not sleep with them; they were shut away until the day they died, living as widows. [4] The king told Amasa, "Summon the men of Judah to me within three days, and be here yourself." [5] Amasa went to summon Judah, but he took longer than the time set for him. [6] David told Abishai, "Now Sheba son of Bichri will do us more harm than Absalom did. Take your lord's servants and go after him, or he will find fortified towns for himself and slip out of our sight." [7] Joab's men set out after him, with the Cherethites and Pelethites and all the mighty men; they left Jerusalem to go after Sheba son of Bichri. [8] They were at the great stone in Gibeon when Amasa came to meet them. Joab was dressed in his military tunic, with a belt over it and a sword in its sheath strapped to his hip; as he stepped forward, it slipped out. [9] Joab said to Amasa, "Are you well, my brother?" And Joab took Amasa by the beard with his right hand to kiss him. [10] Amasa paid no attention to the sword in Joab's hand, and Joab stabbed him in the belly with it and spilled his insides on the ground. He did not strike him a second time, and he died. Then Joab and his brother Abishai went after Sheba son of Bichri. [11] One of Joab's young men stood by him and called, "Whoever is on Joab's side and whoever is for David, follow Joab!" [12] Amasa lay writhing in his blood in the middle of the road, and when the man saw that all the troops were stopping, he dragged Amasa off the road into the field and threw a cloak over him, since he saw that everyone who came up to him stopped. [13] Once he had been moved off the road, everyone went on after Joab in pursuit of Sheba son of Bichri. [14] Sheba went through all the tribes of Israel to Abel and Beth-maacah, and all the Berites assembled and went in after him too.* [15] They came and besieged him in Abel of Beth-maacah. They threw up a siege ramp against the city, and it stood against the outer wall, and all the troops with Joab were battering the wall to bring it down. [16] A wise woman called out from the city, "Listen, listen! Tell Joab, please, 'Come over here so I can speak with you.'" [17] He came over to her, and the woman asked, "Are you Joab?" He said, "I am." She told him, "Hear what your servant has to say." He said, "I am listening." [18] She said, "In the old days people used to say, 'Let them just ask at Abel,' and that would settle it.* [19] I am one of the peaceable and faithful in Israel. You are trying to destroy a city that is a mother in Israel. Why would you swallow up the LORD's inheritance?" [20] Joab answered, "Far be it from me, far be it, that I should swallow up or destroy! [21] That is not how it is. A man from the hill country of Ephraim, Sheba son of Bichri by name, has lifted his hand against the king, against David. Hand him over, him alone, and I will leave the city." The woman told Joab, "His head will be thrown to you over the wall." [22] The woman went to all the people with her wise counsel, and they cut off the head of Sheba son of Bichri and threw it out to Joab. He sounded the horn, and they scattered from the city, each man to his tent, and Joab went back to the king at Jerusalem. [23] Joab was over the whole army of Israel; Benaiah son of Jehoiada was over the Cherethites and Pelethites; [24] Adoram was over the forced labor; Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud was recorder; [25] Sheva was scribe; Zadok and Abiathar were priests; [26] and Ira the Jairite was also David's priest.*

CHAPTER 21

[1] In David's days there was a famine for three years running, and David sought the LORD's face. The LORD said, "It is on account of Saul and his house of bloodshed, because he put the Gibeonites to death." [2] So the king summoned the Gibeonites and spoke to them. (The Gibeonites were not from the children of Israel but from what was left of the Amorites; the children of Israel had sworn an oath to them, yet Saul had tried to wipe them out in his zeal for the children of Israel and Judah.) [3] David asked the Gibeonites, "What am I to do for you? How can I make atonement, so that you will bless the LORD's inheritance?" [4] The Gibeonites told him, "It is not a question of silver or gold between us and Saul and his house, nor is it for us to put anyone in Israel to death." He said, "Whatever you say, I will do for you." [5] They told the king, "The man who wore us down and who schemed against us, so that we were wiped out and left no place anywhere in Israel's territory, [6] let seven men from among his sons be handed over to us, and we will hang them up before the LORD at Gibeah of Saul, the LORD's chosen." The king said, "I will hand them over." [7] The king spared Mephibosheth son of Jonathan, son of Saul, because of the oath before the LORD that was between them, between David and Saul's son Jonathan. [8] The king took the two sons Rizpah daughter of Aiah had borne to Saul, Armoni and Mephibosheth, and the five sons of Michal daughter of Saul whom she had borne to Adriel son of Barzillai the Meholathite,* [9] and handed them over to the Gibeonites, who hung them up on the hill before the LORD. The seven of them fell together; they were put to death in the first days of the harvest, as the barley harvest was beginning. [10] Rizpah daughter of Aiah took sackcloth and spread it out for herself on the rock, from the start of the harvest until water poured down on them from the sky. She would not let the birds of the air land on them by day or the wild animals come by night. [11] David was told what Rizpah daughter of Aiah, Saul's concubine, had done. [12] So David went and took the bones of Saul and of his son Jonathan from the citizens of Jabesh-gilead, who had carried them off secretly from the square of Beth-shan, where the Philistines had hung them up the day the Philistines struck down Saul at Gilboa. [13] He brought the bones of Saul and of his son Jonathan up from there, and they gathered the bones of those who had been hung up. [14] They buried the bones of Saul and his son Jonathan in the land of Benjamin at Zela, in the tomb of his father Kish, and did everything the king commanded. After that God heeded prayers for the land. [15] Once more there was war between the Philistines and Israel. David went down with his servants, and they fought the Philistines, and David grew tired. [16] Ishbi-benob, one of the descendants of the giants, whose spear weighed three hundred shekels of bronze and who was armed with new armor, meant to kill David.* [17] But Abishai son of Zeruiah came to his rescue, struck the Philistine down and killed him. Then David's men swore to him, "You must never again go out to battle with us, or you will put out the lamp of Israel." [18] Later there was another battle with the Philistines at Gob. That time Sibbecai the Hushathite struck down Saph, one of the descendants of the giants. [19] There was another battle with the Philistines at Gob, and Elhanan son of Jaare-oregim of Bethlehem struck down Goliath the Gittite, whose spear shaft was like a weaver's beam.* [20] There was another battle at Gath, where there was a huge man with six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, twenty-four in all; he too was descended from the giants. [21] He taunted Israel, and Jonathan son of Shimeah, David's brother, struck him down.* [22] These four were descended from the giants in Gath, and they fell at the hand of David and his servants.

CHAPTER 22

[1] David spoke the words of this song to the LORD on the day the LORD rescued him from the grasp of all his enemies and from the grasp of Saul. [2] He said: "The LORD is my crag, my stronghold, the one who sets me free; [3] my God, my rock, in whom I shelter, my shield and the horn of my salvation, my high tower and my refuge, my savior; from violence you save me. [4] To the LORD, who is worthy of praise, I call, and from my enemies I am saved. [5] The waves of death closed around me; the torrents of destruction filled me with terror.* [6] The ropes of Sheol wrapped around me; the traps of death lay in front of me. [7] In my trouble I called to the LORD; to my God I called. From his temple he heard my voice; my cry reached his ears. [8] The earth heaved and shook; the foundations of the heavens trembled and heaved, because he was angry. [9] Smoke rose from his nostrils and consuming fire from his mouth; coals blazed out from it. [10] He bent the heavens and came down, with thick darkness under his feet. [11] He mounted a cherub and flew; he appeared on the wings of the wind. [12] He made darkness his shelter all around him, a gathering of waters, dense clouds of the sky. [13] From the brightness in front of him coals of fire blazed up. [14] The LORD thundered from the heavens; the Most High gave forth his voice. [15] He shot arrows and scattered them, lightning, and threw them into panic. [16] The channels of the sea came into view; the foundations of the world were uncovered at the LORD's rebuke, at the blast of breath from his nostrils. [17] He reached down from on high and took hold of me; he pulled me out of deep waters. [18] He rescued me from my powerful enemy, from those who hated me, for they were too strong for me. [19] They came at me on the day of my disaster, but the LORD was my support. [20] He brought me out into an open place; he rescued me because he took pleasure in me. [21] The LORD dealt with me according to my righteousness; according to the cleanness of my hands he paid me back. [22] For I have kept to the LORD's ways and have not wickedly turned from my God. [23] All his ordinances were before me, and from his statutes I did not turn away. [24] I was blameless toward him and kept myself from my iniquity. [25] The LORD has paid me back according to my righteousness, according to my cleanness before his eyes. [26] To the faithful you show yourself faithful; to the blameless strong man you show yourself blameless; [27] to the pure you show yourself pure, but to the crooked you show yourself cunning. [28] A lowly people you save, but your eyes are on the proud, to bring them low. [29] You are my lamp, LORD; the LORD makes my darkness bright. [30] With you I can charge a troop; with my God I can leap a wall. [31] This God: his way is perfect; the word of the LORD has been tested; he is a shield to all who shelter in him. [32] For who is God but the LORD? Who is a rock but our God? [33] God is my strong fortress; he makes my way perfect.* [34] He makes my feet like a deer's and sets me on my heights. [35] He teaches my hands to make war, so that my arms bend a bow of bronze. [36] You have given me the shield of your salvation, and your humility makes me great.* [37] You widen the path for my steps beneath me, and my ankles do not give way. [38] I chased my enemies and wiped them out; I did not turn back till they were finished. [39] I finished them and smashed them, and they could not get up; they fell beneath my feet. [40] You wrapped me with strength for battle; you made those who rose against me sink down under me. [41] You made my enemies turn their backs to me; those who hated me I put an end to. [42] They looked around, but no one came to save them; to the LORD, but he gave them no answer. [43] I ground them fine as the dust of the earth; like mud in the streets I crushed and stamped on them. [44] You rescued me from the quarrels of my people; you kept me as head of nations; a people I did not know serve me. [45] Foreigners come cringing to me; as soon as they hear of me, they obey me. [46] Foreigners wither away and come out trembling from their fortresses. [47] The LORD lives! Blessed be my rock! Exalted be the God of the rock of my salvation, [48] the God who grants me vengeance and brings peoples down under me, [49] who brings me out from my enemies. You raise me above those who rise against me; you rescue me from the violent man. [50] For this I will praise you, LORD, among the nations, and sing praises to your name. [51] He is a tower of salvation for his king; he shows steadfast love to his anointed, to David and his seed for ever."*

CHAPTER 23

[1] These are David's last words: "The declaration of David son of Jesse, the declaration of the man raised on high, the anointed one of the God of Jacob, Israel's pleasant singer of songs:* [2] The Spirit of the LORD has spoken through me; his word is upon my tongue. [3] The God of Israel has said, the Rock of Israel has told me: 'He who rules over men in righteousness, who rules in the fear of God, [4] is like the morning light when the sun comes up, a morning with no clouds, like the fresh grass from the earth through clear shining after rain.' [5] Is not my house so with God? For he has made with me an everlasting covenant, set in order in every part and kept secure. Will he not make all my salvation and all my desire spring up?* [6] But worthless men are all like thorns tossed aside, for no one picks them up by hand; [7] whoever touches them arms himself with iron and the shaft of a spear, and they are burned up completely in the fire where they lie." [8] These are the names of David's mighty men: Josheb-basshebeth the Tahchemonite, chief of the officers; he was called Adino the Eznite, for eight hundred slain at one time.* [9] After him was Eleazar son of Dodo, son of Ahohi, one of the three mighty men with David when they taunted the Philistines gathered there for battle, while the men of Israel went up and away. [10] He stood his ground and struck down Philistines until his hand grew tired and stuck to the sword. The LORD won a great victory that day, and the troops came back after him only to strip the dead. [11] After him was Shammah son of Agee the Hararite. The Philistines had gathered into a band where there was a plot of field full of lentils, and the troops fled from the Philistines. [12] But he planted himself in the middle of the plot, held it, and struck down the Philistines, and the LORD won a great victory. [13] Three of the thirty chief men went down at harvest time and came to David at the cave of Adullam, while a company of Philistines was encamped in the valley of Rephaim.* [14] At that time David was in the stronghold, and a Philistine garrison was then in Bethlehem. [15] David felt a craving and said, "If only someone would get me a drink of water from the well by the gate of Bethlehem!" [16] The three mighty men broke through the Philistine camp, drew water from the well by the gate of Bethlehem, and carried it back to David. But he would not drink it; he poured it out to the LORD, [17] saying, "LORD, far be it from me to do this! Is it not the blood of the men who went at the risk of their lives?" And he would not drink it. Such were the deeds of the three mighty men. [18] Abishai, Joab's brother, son of Zeruiah, was chief of the three. He swung his spear over three hundred slain, and he won a name among the three.* [19] Was he not the most honored of the three? He became their commander, but he did not reach the three. [20] Benaiah son of Jehoiada, the son of a valiant man from Kabzeel, was a man of great deeds. He struck down the two heroes of Moab. He also went down into a pit on a snowy day and killed a lion.* [21] He struck down an Egyptian, a man of striking appearance. The Egyptian had a spear in his hand, but Benaiah went down to him with a club, wrenched the spear from the Egyptian's hand, and killed him with his own spear. [22] Such were the deeds of Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and he won a name among the three mighty men. [23] He was more honored than the thirty, but he did not reach the three. David put him in charge of his bodyguard. [24] Among the thirty were Asahel, Joab's brother; Elhanan son of Dodo, from Bethlehem; [25] Shammah the Harodite; Elika the Harodite; [26] Helez the Paltite; Ira son of Ikkesh, from Tekoa; [27] Abiezer from Anathoth; Mebunnai the Hushathite; [28] Zalmon the Ahohite; Maharai from Netophah; [29] Heleb son of Baanah, from Netophah; Ittai son of Ribai, from Gibeah of the children of Benjamin; [30] Benaiah from Pirathon; Hiddai from the ravines of Gaash; [31] Abi-albon the Arbathite; Azmaveth the Barhumite; [32] Eliahba the Shaalbonite; the sons of Jashen; Jonathan; [33] Shammah the Hararite; Ahiam son of Sharar the Hararite; [34] Eliphelet son of Ahasbai, son of the Maacathite; Eliam son of Ahithophel the Gilonite; [35] Hezrai from Carmel; Paarai the Arbite; [36] Igal son of Nathan, from Zobah; Bani the Gadite; [37] Zelek the Ammonite; Naharai from Beeroth, armor-bearer to Joab son of Zeruiah; [38] Ira the Ithrite; Gareb the Ithrite; [39] and Uriah the Hittite. Thirty-seven in all.

CHAPTER 24

[1] Once again the LORD's anger burned against Israel, and he stirred David up against them, saying, "Go and count Israel and Judah."* [2] The king told Joab, the army commander who was with him, "Go through all the tribes of Israel, from Dan to Beersheba, and take a census of the people, so I may know how many people there are." [3] Joab said to the king, "May the LORD your God multiply the people a hundredfold, whatever their number, and may the eyes of my lord the king see it! But why does my lord the king want to do this?" [4] But the king's word overruled Joab and the army commanders, so Joab and the army commanders left the king's presence to take a census of the people of Israel. [5] They crossed the Jordan and encamped at Aroer, south of the town in the middle of the valley, toward Gad and on to Jazer. [6] They went on to Gilead and to the land of Tahtim-hodshi; they came to Dan-jaan and around toward Sidon. [7] They came to the fortress of Tyre and all the towns of the Hivites and Canaanites, and they finished up in the Negev of Judah at Beersheba. [8] Having gone through the whole land, they came back to Jerusalem after nine months and twenty days. [9] Joab reported to the king the total from the census of the people: Israel had eight hundred thousand valiant men able to wield a sword, and the men of Judah numbered five hundred thousand. [10] After he had counted the people, David's heart troubled him. David said to the LORD, "I have sinned greatly in what I have done. Now, LORD, take away your servant's guilt, please, for I have acted very foolishly." [11] When David got up in the morning, the word of the LORD had come to Gad the prophet, David's seer: [12] "Go and tell David, 'This is what the LORD says: I am offering you three things. Choose one of them for me to do to you.'" [13] Gad went to David and told him, "Shall seven years of famine come on your land? Or three months of running from your enemies while they chase you? Or three days of plague in your land? Now think it over and decide what answer I should take back to the one who sent me."* [14] David told Gad, "I am in a terrible strait. Let us fall into the LORD's hand, for his mercy is great; but do not let me fall into human hands." [15] So the LORD sent a plague on Israel from that morning until the appointed time, and seventy thousand of the people died, from Dan to Beersheba. [16] When the angel stretched out his hand over Jerusalem to destroy it, the LORD relented over the disaster and told the angel who was destroying the people, "Enough! Now draw back your hand." The angel of the LORD was then at the threshing floor of Araunah the Jebusite. [17] When David saw the angel striking down the people, he said to the LORD, "I am the one who has sinned; I am the one who did wrong. But these sheep, what have they done? Let your hand fall on me and on my father's house." [18] That day Gad came to David and told him, "Go up and set up an altar to the LORD on the threshing floor of Araunah the Jebusite." [19] So David went up as Gad had said, as the LORD had commanded. [20] Araunah looked out and saw the king and his servants crossing over toward him. Araunah went out and bowed to the king with his face to the ground. [21] Araunah asked, "Why has my lord the king come to his servant?" David said, "To buy the threshing floor from you, to build an altar to the LORD, so that the plague on the people may be stopped." [22] Araunah told David, "Let my lord the king take whatever he likes and offer it up. Look, here are the oxen for the burnt offering, and the threshing sledges and the oxen's gear for wood. [23] O king, Araunah gives it all to the king." And Araunah said to the king, "May the LORD your God be pleased with you."* [24] But the king told Araunah, "No, I insist on buying it from you at a price. I will not offer to the LORD my God burnt offerings that cost me nothing." So David bought the threshing floor and the oxen for fifty shekels of silver. [25] David built an altar to the LORD there and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings. Then the LORD heeded prayers for the land, and the plague on Israel was stopped.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Now King David had grown old and was far on in days. They would cover him with garments, yet he could not keep warm. [2] His servants said to him, "Let them look for a young woman, a virgin, for my lord the king. She will wait on the king and be a nurse to him, and she will lie in your bosom, and my lord the king will be warm."* [3] So they looked for a beautiful young woman through all the borders of Israel, found Abishag the Shunammite, and brought her to the king. [4] The girl was exceedingly beautiful; she became a nurse to the king and ministered to him, but the king had no relations with her. [5] Meanwhile Adonijah son of Haggith kept putting himself forward, saying, "I am the one who will be king." He got himself a chariot and horsemen, with fifty men running ahead of him. [6] In all his days his father had never troubled him by asking, "Why have you acted like this?" He was also very fine-looking, and he had been born next after Absalom. [7] He held talks with Joab son of Zeruiah and with Abiathar the priest, and they followed Adonijah and lent him their help. [8] But Zadok the priest, Benaiah son of Jehoiada, Nathan the prophet, Shimei, Rei, and the mighty men who belonged to David did not side with Adonijah. [9] Adonijah offered sacrifices of sheep, cattle and fatlings at the stone of Zoheleth, which lies next to En-rogel. He invited all his brothers, the sons of the king, and all the men of Judah who served the king. [10] Nathan the prophet, Benaiah, the mighty men and his brother Solomon, however, he left uninvited. [11] Then Nathan spoke to Bathsheba, Solomon's mother: "Have you not heard that Adonijah son of Haggith has made himself king, and our lord David knows nothing of it? [12] So come now, let me counsel you, so that you can save your life and the life of your son Solomon. [13] Go, go in to King David and say to him, 'My lord the king, did you not swear to your maidservant, "Solomon your son will reign after me, and he will sit on my throne"? Then why has Adonijah become king?' [14] And look, while you are still there speaking with the king, I will come in behind you and fill out your words." [15] So Bathsheba went in to the king in his room. The king was very old, and Abishag the Shunammite was attending him. [16] Bathsheba bowed low and knelt before the king. The king said, "What is it you want?" [17] She answered him, "My lord, you yourself swore to your maidservant by the LORD your God: 'Solomon your son will reign after me, and he will sit on my throne.' [18] Now, though, Adonijah has become king, and you, my lord the king, are unaware of it. [19] He has sacrificed oxen, fatlings and sheep in great numbers and has invited all the king's sons, along with Abiathar the priest and Joab the army commander, but your servant Solomon he did not invite. [20] As for you, my lord the king, the eyes of all Israel are upon you, waiting for you to declare to them who will sit on the throne of my lord the king after him. [21] Otherwise it will happen, when my lord the king lies down with his fathers, that I and my son Solomon will be treated as offenders." [22] And look, she was still talking with the king when Nathan the prophet came in. [23] The king was told, "Here is Nathan the prophet." He came before the king and bowed down to him, face to the ground. [24] Nathan said, "My lord the king, did you yourself say, 'Adonijah will reign after me, and he will sit on my throne'? [25] For today he went down and sacrificed oxen, fatlings and sheep in great numbers, and he invited all the king's sons, the army commanders and Abiathar the priest. Right now they are eating and drinking in his presence and saying, 'Long live King Adonijah!' [26] But me, your servant, he did not invite, nor Zadok the priest, nor Benaiah son of Jehoiada, nor Solomon your servant. [27] Has this matter come from my lord the king without your letting your servants know who is to sit on the throne of my lord the king after him?" [28] King David answered, "Call Bathsheba for me." She came in before the king and stood in his presence. [29] Then the king took an oath: "As the LORD lives, who has rescued my life from every trouble, [30] just as I swore to you by the LORD, the God of Israel, 'Solomon your son will reign after me, and he will sit on my throne in my stead,' so I will carry it out this very day." [31] Bathsheba bowed low, face to the ground, and knelt before the king, saying, "Let my lord King David live forever!" [32] Then King David said, "Summon Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet and Benaiah son of Jehoiada for me." And they came in before the king. [33] The king told them, "Take your lord's servants with you. Set my son Solomon on my own mule and take him down to Gihon. [34] There Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet are to anoint him king over Israel. Sound the trumpet and say, 'Long live King Solomon!' [35] Then come up behind him, and he is to come in and sit on my throne. He will be king in my stead, for I have appointed him ruler over Israel and Judah." [36] Benaiah son of Jehoiada answered the king, "Amen! So may the LORD, the God of my lord the king, declare it. [37] Just as the LORD was with my lord the king, may he be with Solomon, and may he make his throne greater still than the throne of my lord King David." [38] So Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, Benaiah son of Jehoiada, the Cherethites and the Pelethites went down. They mounted Solomon on King David's mule and led him to Gihon. [39] Zadok the priest took the horn of oil out of the tent and anointed Solomon. They sounded the trumpet, and the whole people cried, "Long live King Solomon!" [40] All the people went up behind him, piping on pipes and rejoicing so greatly that the ground split apart at their noise. [41] Adonijah and all the guests with him heard it just as they had finished their meal. When Joab heard the trumpet's sound, he said, "What is this noise of a city in commotion?" [42] He was still speaking when Jonathan son of Abiathar the priest came. Adonijah said, "Come in, for you are a man of worth, and you are bringing good news." [43] Jonathan answered Adonijah, "No! Our lord King David has made Solomon king.* [44] The king sent Zadok the priest, Nathan the prophet, Benaiah son of Jehoiada, the Cherethites and the Pelethites with him, and they mounted him on the king's mule. [45] Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet anointed him king in Gihon, and from there they came up rejoicing, and the city is in commotion. That is the noise you heard. [46] What is more, Solomon has sat down on the throne of the kingdom. [47] The king's servants also came to bless our lord King David, saying, 'May your God make Solomon's name better than your name and his throne greater than your throne!' And the king bowed down on his bed. [48] And the king spoke thus: 'Blessed is the LORD, the God of Israel, who has today given one to sit on my throne, and my eyes are seeing it.'" [49] At that all Adonijah's guests were seized with trembling; they got up and each man went off on his way. [50] Adonijah, in fear of Solomon, got up and went and grasped the horns of the altar. [51] Solomon received word: "Adonijah fears King Solomon. He has grasped the horns of the altar and says, 'Let King Solomon first swear to me that he will not kill his servant with the sword.'" [52] Solomon said, "If he shows himself a man of worth, not a hair of his will fall to the earth. But if evil is found in him, he will die." [53] King Solomon sent men, who brought him down from the altar. He came and bowed before King Solomon, and Solomon told him, "Go home."

CHAPTER 2

[1] As the time of David's death came near, he gave his son Solomon his charge: [2] "I am going the way all the earth goes. Be strong, then, and be a man. [3] Keep what the LORD your God has entrusted to you: walk in his ways, keep his statutes, his commandments, his rules and his testimonies, as written in the law of Moses, so that you may act wisely in everything you do and in every direction you turn, [4] and so that the LORD may fulfill the word he spoke about me: 'If your sons guard their way, walking before me faithfully with all their heart and all their soul, there will never fail you a man on the throne of Israel.' [5] "You know too what Joab son of Zeruiah did to me, how he treated the two commanders of Israel's armies, Abner son of Ner and Amasa son of Jether. He murdered them, shedding in peacetime the blood of war, and he put the blood of war on the belt at his waist and on the sandals of his feet. [6] Deal with him by your wisdom, and do not let his gray hair go down to Sheol in peace. [7] To the sons of Barzillai the Gileadite, though, show steadfast love; let them be among those who eat at your table, for they stood by me in the same way when I was fleeing from your brother Absalom. [8] You also have with you Shimei son of Gera, the Benjaminite of Bahurim. He cursed me with a bitter curse the day I was going to Mahanaim. Yet when he came down to meet me at the Jordan, I swore to him by the LORD, 'I will not kill you with the sword.' [9] Now do not let him go unpunished. You are a wise man and will know how to deal with him; you must bring his gray hair down to Sheol in blood." [10] Then David lay down with his fathers, and he was buried in the city of David. [11] David reigned over Israel forty years in all: seven years he reigned in Hebron and thirty-three years in Jerusalem. [12] Solomon sat on the throne of his father David, and his rule was made very secure. [13] Adonijah son of Haggith came to Bathsheba, Solomon's mother. She asked, "Is your coming peaceful?" He answered, "Peaceful." [14] He went on, "I have a word for you." "Say it," she said. [15] He said, "You know that the kingship belonged to me, and all Israel looked to me to be king. But the kingship has turned and gone to my brother, because it came to him from the LORD. [16] Now I have one request to ask of you. Do not refuse me." She said, "Go on." [17] He said, "Speak, please, to King Solomon, since he will not refuse you, and ask him to give me Abishag the Shunammite for a wife." [18] "Good," said Bathsheba. "I will speak to the king for you." [19] So Bathsheba went to King Solomon to speak to him for Adonijah. The king stood up to meet her and bowed to her, then sat down on his throne and had a throne placed for the king's mother, and she sat at his right. [20] She said, "There is one small request I am asking of you; do not refuse me." The king told her, "Ask it, mother; I will not refuse you." [21] She said, "Let Abishag the Shunammite be given as wife to your brother Adonijah." [22] King Solomon answered his mother, "Why ask for Abishag the Shunammite for Adonijah? Ask for the kingdom for him too, since he is my elder brother, for him and for Abiathar the priest and for Joab son of Zeruiah!" [23] And King Solomon swore by the LORD: "God do so to me and more, if Adonijah has not uttered this word at the cost of his own life! [] [24] So now, as the LORD lives, who has made me secure and seated me on the throne of my father David, and has built me a house as he said, this very day Adonijah will be put to death." [25] King Solomon gave the order to Benaiah son of Jehoiada, who fell upon him, and he died. [26] To Abiathar the priest the king said, "Go off to Anathoth, to your fields. You are a man worthy of death, but today I will not kill you, because you bore the ark of the Lord GOD before my father David and because you suffered in everything my father suffered." [27] So Solomon drove Abiathar out from serving as priest of the LORD, fulfilling the word of the LORD that he had spoken against the house of Eli at Shiloh. [28] The news came to Joab (for Joab had leaned toward Adonijah, though he had not leaned toward Absalom), and Joab fled to the tent of the LORD and grasped the horns of the altar. [] [29] King Solomon was told, "Joab has fled to the tent of the LORD; he is there beside the altar." So Solomon sent Benaiah son of Jehoiada with the order, "Go, fall upon him." [30] Benaiah went to the tent of the LORD and said to him, "The king says, 'Come out!'" He replied, "No, here I will die." Benaiah brought the king this report: "That is what Joab said, and that is how he answered me." [31] The king told him, "Do just as he said. Fall upon him and bury him; so you will remove from me and from my father's house the blood Joab shed for no cause. [32] The LORD will turn his blood back on his own head, because without my father David's knowledge he fell upon two men more righteous and better than he was and killed them with the sword: Abner son of Ner, Israel's army commander, and Amasa son of Jether, Judah's army commander. [33] Their blood will return on the head of Joab and of his descendants forever. But for David, for his descendants, his house and his throne, there will be peace from the LORD for all time." [34] So Benaiah son of Jehoiada went up, fell upon him and killed him. He was buried at his home in the wilderness. [35] In his place the king set Benaiah son of Jehoiada over the army, and Zadok the priest the king set in Abiathar's place. [36] Next the king sent for Shimei and told him, "Build a house for yourself in Jerusalem and stay there. Do not leave it to go anywhere else. [37] On the day you leave and cross the Kidron Valley, be sure of this: you will die. Your blood will be on your own head." [38] Shimei answered the king, "What you say is good. Your servant will do just as my lord the king has spoken." And Shimei stayed in Jerusalem a long time. [39] Three years later, though, two of Shimei's slaves ran off to Achish son of Maacah, king of Gath. Shimei was informed, "Your slaves are in Gath." [40] So Shimei got up, saddled his donkey and went to Achish at Gath to search for his slaves. Shimei went and brought his slaves back from Gath. [41] Solomon was informed that Shimei had gone from Jerusalem to Gath and returned. [42] The king sent for Shimei and said to him, "Did I not make you swear by the LORD, and warn you, 'On the day you leave and go anywhere, be sure of this: you will die'? And you told me, 'What I have heard is good.' [43] So why have you not kept your oath to the LORD and the order I gave you?" [44] The king also told Shimei, "You yourself know, your heart knows, all the harm you did to my father David. Now the LORD is turning your harm back on your own head. [45] But King Solomon will be blessed, and David's throne will stand firm before the LORD forever." [46] The king gave the order to Benaiah son of Jehoiada; he went out and fell upon him, and he died. And the kingdom was made secure in Solomon's hand.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Solomon became Pharaoh king of Egypt's son-in-law. He took Pharaoh's daughter and brought her to the city of David, until he had completed the building of his own house, the house of the LORD and the wall all around Jerusalem. [2] Only the people kept sacrificing at the high places, for up to those days no house had been built for the name of the LORD. [3] Solomon loved the LORD and walked in the statutes of his father David, except that he sacrificed and burned incense at the high places. [4] The king went to Gibeon to offer sacrifice there, since that was the principal high place; a thousand burnt offerings Solomon offered on that altar. [5] In Gibeon the LORD appeared to Solomon in a dream at night. God said, "Ask: what am I to give you?" [6] Solomon answered, "You showed your servant my father David great steadfast love, as he walked before you in truth and righteousness and with an upright heart toward you. You have kept this great steadfast love for him, giving him a son who sits on his throne, as is the case today. [7] Now, LORD my God, you have made your servant king in my father David's stead, though I am a mere boy who does not know how to go out or come in. [8] And your servant stands among your people whom you chose, a people so great that they cannot be counted or numbered for multitude. [9] So give your servant a listening heart to judge your people, able to tell good from evil. For who can judge this weighty people of yours?"* [10] The request was good in the eyes of the Lord, that Solomon had asked for this. [11] God told him, "Since you asked for this, and did not ask for many days for yourself, or ask for wealth for yourself, or ask for the life of your enemies, but asked for yourself discernment to discern what is right,* [12] I am now doing as you have said. Look, I am giving you a heart wise and understanding, such that none like you has been before you and none like you will rise after you. [13] What you did not ask I am giving you too: wealth as well as honor, so that among kings there will be no one like you as long as you live. [14] And if you walk in my ways, keeping my statutes and commandments as your father David walked, I will prolong your days." [15] Solomon woke up, and it had been a dream. He went to Jerusalem, stood before the ark of the covenant of the Lord, offered up burnt offerings, made peace offerings, and gave a banquet for all his servants. [16] Some time later two prostitutes came to the king and stood before him. [17] One woman said, "Pardon me, my lord. This woman and I share one house, and I gave birth while she was with me in the house. [18] Three days after my delivery this woman gave birth too. We were by ourselves; no outsider was with us in the house, just the two of us. [19] During the night this woman's son died, because she lay on top of him. [20] She got up at midnight and took my son from my side while your maidservant slept. She put him at her breast and put her dead son at my breast. [21] In the morning I got up to nurse my son, and he was dead. But when I examined him in the morning light, he was not the son I had borne." [22] The other woman said, "Not so! My son is the living one, and yours is the dead one." The first kept saying, "Not so! Yours is the dead one, and mine is the living one." So they went on speaking before the king. [23] The king said, "One says, 'This living one is my son, and the dead one is yours,' and the other says, 'Not so! The dead one is your son, and the living one is mine.'" [24] "Get me a sword," said the king. And a sword was brought before the king. [25] Then the king said, "Cut the living child in two; give half to one woman and half to the other." [26] But the woman whose son was alive spoke to the king, for her heart yearned over her son: "Pardon me, my lord! Give her the living child; do not kill him, whatever you do!" The other kept saying, "He will be neither mine nor yours. Cut him!" [27] The king then answered, "Give the first woman the living child, and do not kill him; she is his mother." [28] All Israel heard of the judgment the king had rendered, and they stood in awe of the king, for they saw that God's wisdom was within him for doing justice.

CHAPTER 4

[1] King Solomon was king over the whole of Israel. [2] His officials were these: Azariah son of Zadok, the priest; [3] Elihoreph and Ahijah, sons of Shisha, scribes; Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud, recorder; [4] Benaiah son of Jehoiada was over the army; Zadok and Abiathar were priests; [5] Azariah son of Nathan, over the district officers; Zabud son of Nathan, priest and friend of the king;* [6] Ahishar, over the palace; and Adoniram son of Abda, over the forced labor. [7] Solomon had twelve district officers over all Israel who supplied the king and his household; each was responsible for supplies one month of the year. [8] Their names were these: Ben-hur, in the hill country of Ephraim; [9] Ben-deker, in Makaz, Shaalbim, Beth-shemesh and Elon-beth-hanan; [10] Ben-hesed, in Arubboth (to him belonged Socoh and all the land of Hepher); [11] Ben-abinadab, all the heights of Dor (he had Taphath the daughter of Solomon as his wife); [12] Baana son of Ahilud, Taanach and Megiddo, and all Beth-shean which is beside Zarethan below Jezreel, from Beth-shean to Abel-meholah, as far as the other side of Jokmeam; [13] Ben-geber, in Ramoth-gilead (he had the towns of Jair son of Manasseh, which are in Gilead, and he had the region of Argob, which is in Bashan, sixty great cities with walls and bronze bars); [14] Ahinadab son of Iddo, in Mahanaim; [15] Ahimaaz, in Naphtali (he also had taken Basemath the daughter of Solomon as his wife); [16] Baana son of Hushai, in Asher and Bealoth; [17] Jehoshaphat son of Paruah, in Issachar; [18] Shimei son of Ela, in Benjamin; [19] Geber son of Uri, in the land of Gilead, the land of Sihon king of the Amorites and of Og king of Bashan; and one officer was in the land. [20] Judah and Israel were as many as the sand beside the sea; they ate, they drank, and they were glad. [21] Solomon was ruler over all the kingdoms from the River to the land of the Philistines and as far as the border of Egypt. They brought tribute and were subject to Solomon every day of his life. [] [22] Solomon's food for a single day came to thirty cors of fine flour, sixty cors of meal, [23] ten fattened oxen, twenty oxen from the pasture and a hundred sheep, not counting deer, gazelles, roebucks and fatted birds. [24] For he held sway over all the land beyond the River, from Tiphsah as far as Gaza, over all the kings beyond the River, and he had peace on every side all around. [25] All the days of Solomon, Judah and Israel dwelt securely, each man beneath his own vine and fig tree, from Dan as far as Beersheba. [26] Solomon had forty thousand stalls of horses for his chariots and twelve thousand horsemen. [] [27] Those district officers supplied King Solomon and everyone who came to King Solomon's table, each in his month, and they let nothing run short. [28] The barley and the straw for the horses and swift steeds they also brought to wherever it was needed, each as he was assigned. [*] [29] God gave Solomon wisdom and understanding in great abundance, and a breadth of heart as vast as the sand on the shore of the sea. [30] Solomon's wisdom was greater than the wisdom of all the sons of the east and all the wisdom of Egypt. [31] He was wiser than any man, wiser than Ethan the Ezrahite, and than Heman, Calcol and Darda, the sons of Mahol, and his name became known in all the surrounding nations. [32] He uttered three thousand proverbs, and his songs numbered a thousand and five. [33] He spoke about trees, from the cedar in Lebanon down to the hyssop that springs from the wall. He spoke too about animals, birds, creeping things and fish. [34] From all the peoples men came to listen to Solomon's wisdom, sent by all the kings of the earth who had heard about his wisdom.

CHAPTER 5

[1] When Hiram king of Tyre heard that Solomon had been anointed king in his father's place, he sent his servants to him, for Hiram had been a lover of David all his days. [2] Solomon sent this message to Hiram: [3] "You know that my father David was unable to build a house for the name of the LORD his God, because of the wars that surrounded him, until the LORD placed his enemies beneath the soles of his feet. [4] Now the LORD my God has given me rest all around; there is no adversary and no evil occurrence. [5] So I am planning to build a house for the name of the LORD my God, just as the LORD told my father David: 'Your son, whom I will put on your throne in your place, is the one who will build the house for my name.' [6] Give orders, then, for cedars of Lebanon to be cut for me. My servants will work alongside yours, and I will pay you whatever wages you name for your servants. You know there is no one among us skilled in cutting timber like the Sidonians." [7] Hiram was overjoyed when he heard Solomon's words, and he said, "Blessed is the LORD today, who has given David a wise son over this numerous people!" [8] Hiram sent word to Solomon: "I have heard what you sent to me about. I will meet your every wish concerning the cedar wood and the cypress wood. [] [9] My servants will haul it down from Lebanon to the sea, and I will make it into rafts on the sea to go to the place you tell me. There I will have them taken apart, and you will carry it off. You, in turn, will meet my wish by supplying food for my household." [10] So Hiram kept supplying Solomon with cedar wood and cypress wood, as much as he wanted, [11] while Solomon supplied Hiram with twenty thousand cors of wheat as food for his household and twenty cors of pressed oil. This is what Solomon gave Hiram every year. [] [12] The LORD gave Solomon wisdom, just as he had told him. Hiram and Solomon were at peace, and the two of them made a covenant together. [13] King Solomon conscripted forced laborers from all Israel; the levy came to thirty thousand men. [14] He sent them to Lebanon in relays of ten thousand a month: one month they were in Lebanon and two months at home. Adoniram was over the levy. [15] Solomon also had seventy thousand who carried loads and eighty thousand who hewed stone in the hills, [16] not counting the three thousand three hundred chief officers of Solomon who were over the work and directed the people doing it. [17] By order of the king they quarried large stones, valuable stones, so as to lay the house's foundation with hewn stone. [18] Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders, together with the Gebalites, did the cutting, and they made ready the timber and the stones for building the house. [*]

CHAPTER 6

[1] It was in the four hundred and eightieth year after the children of Israel had come out of the land of Egypt, in the fourth year of Solomon's rule over Israel, in the month Ziv (the second month), that he started building the house of the LORD. [2] The house King Solomon built for the LORD measured sixty cubits in length, twenty in width and thirty in height. [3] The porch before the nave of the house was twenty cubits long, across the width of the house, and ten cubits deep along the front of the house.* [4] For the house he made windows with recessed frames.* [5] Against the wall of the house he built a structure running all around, against the walls of the house surrounding the nave and the inner sanctuary, and he made side rooms all around. [6] The bottom story was five cubits across, the middle one six cubits across and the third seven cubits across, because on the outside he made ledges in the house's wall all around, so that nothing would be fastened into the walls of the house. [7] The house, as it was being built, was built of stone already dressed at the quarry; no hammer, axe or tool of iron was to be heard in the house during its building. [8] The door to the middle side room was on the south side of the house; a winding stair led up to the middle story and from the middle to the third. [9] He built the house and completed it, covering the house with beams and rows of cedar. [10] Against the whole house he built the side structure, five cubits high, and fastened it to the house with cedar timbers. [11] Then the word of the LORD came to Solomon, saying, [12] "As for this house you are building, if you walk in my statutes, carry out my rules and keep all my commandments, walking in them, then I will make good to you my word that I spoke to your father David. [13] I will dwell in the midst of the children of Israel and will not abandon my people Israel." [14] Solomon built the house and completed it. [15] On the inside he built the walls of the house with cedar boards; from the floor of the house up to the walls at the ceiling he covered them inside with wood, and he covered the floor of the house with cypress boards. [16] At the back of the house he built off twenty cubits with cedar boards from the floor up to the walls; this he built inside as an inner sanctuary, the Most Holy Place. [17] The house, that is, the nave in front of it, measured forty cubits. [18] Inside, the house was cedar carved with gourds and open blossoms; everything was cedar, and no stone could be seen. [19] The inner sanctuary he made ready in the interior of the house, to set the ark of the covenant of the LORD there. [20] The front of the inner sanctuary was twenty cubits in length, twenty in width and twenty in height, and he covered it with refined gold; he covered the cedar altar as well. [21] Solomon covered the house inside with refined gold. He stretched gold chains across the front of the inner sanctuary and covered it with gold. [22] The whole house he covered with gold until all of it was complete, and the entire altar belonging to the inner sanctuary he covered with gold. [23] Inside the inner sanctuary he made two cherubim of olive wood, ten cubits tall. [24] One wing of the cherub measured five cubits and the other wing of the cherub five cubits, ten cubits from one wingtip to the other. [25] The second cherub was ten cubits too; the two cherubim were of one size and one shape. [26] The one cherub stood ten cubits high, and the other cherub likewise. [27] He placed the cherubim inside the inner house. The cherubim's wings were outstretched, so that a wing of the one reached one wall and a wing of the second cherub reached the other wall, and their wings met each other, wing to wing, in the center of the house. [28] The cherubim he covered with gold. [29] All around the walls of the house he carved figures of cherubim, palm trees and open blossoms, both inside and out. [30] The floor of the house he covered with gold, both inside and out. [31] At the entrance of the inner sanctuary he made doors of olive wood; the lintel with the doorposts was a fifth part of the wall.* [32] On the two doors of olive wood he carved cherubim, palm trees and open blossoms and covered them with gold, hammering the gold onto the cherubim and onto the palm trees. [33] In the same way he made doorposts of olive wood for the entrance of the nave, a fourth part of the wall, [34] with two doors of cypress wood, the two leaves of one door turning on pivots, and the two leaves of the other door turning on pivots. [35] He carved cherubim, palm trees and open blossoms on them and covered them with gold fitted evenly over the carving. [36] The inner court he built with three rows of hewn stone and a row of cedar beams. [37] The foundation of the LORD's house was laid in the fourth year, in the month Ziv, [38] and in the eleventh year, in the month Bul (the eighth month), the house was completed in every detail and according to its whole design. He spent seven years building it.

CHAPTER 7

[1] His own house Solomon spent thirteen years building, until he had completed all of it. [2] He built the House of the Forest of Lebanon, a hundred cubits in length, fifty in width and thirty in height, on four rows of cedar pillars with cedar beams resting on the pillars. [3] It was covered with cedar above the side rooms that lay on the pillars, forty-five in number, fifteen to a row. [4] There were framed windows in three rows, window opposite window, three times. [5] All the doors and doorposts were squared in their frames, and window was opposite window, three times. [6] The Hall of Pillars he made fifty cubits in length and thirty in width, with a porch at the front and pillars with a canopy before them. [7] He also made the Hall of the Throne, where he would give judgment, the Hall of Judgment, and it was covered with cedar from one floor to the other. [8] The house where he himself would live, in the other court set back from the hall, was of like workmanship. He also made a house like this hall for Pharaoh's daughter, whom Solomon had married. [9] All these were built of valuable stones, cut to measure and trimmed with saws on the inner and outer sides, from foundation up to the coping, and on the outside as far as the great court. [10] The foundation was laid with valuable stones, large stones, some ten cubits and some eight cubits. [11] Above them were valuable stones, cut to measure, and cedar wood. [12] Around the great court were three rows of hewn stone and a row of cedar beams, the same as the inner court of the LORD's house and the porch of the house. [13] King Solomon sent for Hiram and had him brought from Tyre. [14] He was a widow's son from the tribe of Naphtali; his father had been a man of Tyre who worked in bronze. He was full of wisdom, understanding and knowledge for doing every kind of bronze work. He came to King Solomon and carried out all his work. [15] He fashioned the two bronze pillars; each pillar stood eighteen cubits high, and a cord of twelve cubits went around the other. [16] He made two capitals of molten bronze to put on the tops of the pillars, the one capital five cubits high and the other capital five cubits high. [17] For the capitals on the tops of the pillars there were lattices of network and twisted chains like wreaths, seven for one capital and seven for the other. [18] He made the pillars, with two rows of pomegranates all around on the one lattice to cover the capital at the top of the pillar, and he did likewise for the second capital. [19] The capitals at the tops of the pillars in the porch were shaped like lilies, four cubits. [20] On the capitals of the two pillars, above and next to the rounded part beside the lattice, were two hundred pomegranates in rows around the second capital. [21] He erected the pillars at the porch of the nave. He erected the right-hand pillar and named it Jachin, and he erected the left-hand pillar and named it Boaz. [22] The tops of the pillars had lily shapes, and so the work on the pillars was finished. [23] He made the Sea of molten metal, circular, ten cubits from rim to rim and five cubits high, and a cord of thirty cubits would go around it. [] [24] Under its rim gourds went around it on every side, ten to each cubit, encircling the Sea; the gourds were in two rows, cast together with it. [25] It rested on twelve oxen: three looked north, three looked west, three looked south and three looked east. The Sea sat on them, and their hind parts all faced inward. [26] It was a handbreadth thick; its rim was formed like a cup's rim, like a lily flower. Its capacity was two thousand baths. [27] He made the ten bronze stands, each four cubits in length, four in width and three in height. [28] The stands were made this way: they had side panels, and the panels were fixed between the crossbars. [29] On the panels between the crossbars there were lions, oxen and cherubim, and on the crossbars likewise; above and below the lions and oxen were wreaths of hammered work. [30] Every stand had four bronze wheels with bronze axles, and on its four corners were supports; the supports were cast under the basin, with wreaths beside each one. [31] Its mouth, inside the crown and rising above it, was a cubit; the mouth was round, made like a pedestal, a cubit and a half. On its mouth too there were engravings, and the panels were square, not round. [32] The four wheels were beneath the panels, and the wheel axles were attached to the stand. Each wheel was a cubit and a half high. [33] The wheels were built like chariot wheels; axles, rims, spokes and hubs were all of cast metal. [34] Four supports were at the four corners of every stand, made of a piece with the stand. [35] At the top of the stand was a round rim half a cubit high, and on top of the stand its braces and panels were all of a piece with it. [36] On the plates of its braces and on its panels he engraved cherubim, lions and palm trees, as space allowed on each, with wreaths all around. [37] So he made the ten stands; they were all cast alike, with one measure and one shape. [38] He made ten bronze basins; every basin held forty baths and measured four cubits, one basin on each of the ten stands. [39] He placed five stands on the south side of the house and five on the north side, and the Sea he placed on the south side of the house, at the southeast corner. [40] Hiram also made the basins, shovels and sprinkling bowls. So Hiram completed all the work he did for King Solomon on the LORD's house: [41] two pillars; the bowl-shaped capitals on top of the two pillars; the two lattices covering the two bowls of the capitals on top of the pillars; [] [42] four hundred pomegranates for the two lattices, two rows of pomegranates to each lattice, covering the two bowls of the capitals on the pillars; [43] ten stands with ten basins on the stands; [44] one Sea with twelve oxen beneath the Sea; [45] and the pots, shovels and sprinkling bowls. All these vessels Hiram made for King Solomon for the LORD's house were of polished bronze. [46] In the plain of the Jordan the king cast them, in the clay soil between Succoth and Zarethan. [47] Solomon did not weigh any of the vessels, for they were exceedingly many; the weight of the bronze was never ascertained. [48] Solomon also made all the furnishings in the LORD's house: the golden altar; the golden table for the bread of the Presence; [49] the lampstands of refined gold, five on the right and five on the left before the inner sanctuary; the gold flowers, lamps and tongs; [50] the cups, snuffers, sprinkling bowls, dishes and firepans of refined gold; and the gold hinges for the doors of the inner house, the Most Holy Place, and for the doors of the house, the nave. [51] When all the work King Solomon did for the LORD's house was complete, Solomon brought in the holy gifts of his father David, the silver, the gold and the vessels, and placed them in the treasuries of the LORD's house.

CHAPTER 8

[1] Solomon then called together to King Solomon in Jerusalem the elders of Israel, all the tribal heads and the leaders of the fathers' houses of the children of Israel, to bring the ark of the covenant of the LORD up from the city of David, that is, Zion. [2] Every man of Israel gathered to King Solomon at the feast, in the month Ethanim, the seventh month. [3] When all Israel's elders had come, the priests lifted the ark. [4] They carried up the ark of the LORD together with the tent of meeting and all the sacred vessels in the tent; it was the priests and the Levites who carried them up. [5] King Solomon and the whole congregation of Israel that had gathered to him were with him in front of the ark, sacrificing sheep and oxen in numbers too great to count or reckon. [6] The priests brought in the ark of the covenant of the LORD to its place in the inner sanctuary of the house, the Most Holy Place, beneath the cherubim's wings. [7] The cherubim had their wings spread over the place where the ark stood, and so the cherubim formed a covering above the ark and its poles. [8] The poles were long enough that their ends could be seen from the Holy Place before the inner sanctuary, though not from outside; they remain there to this day. [9] Nothing was inside the ark but the two stone tablets Moses had placed there at Horeb, where the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel as they came out of the land of Egypt. [10] As the priests were coming out of the Holy Place, the cloud filled the LORD's house. [11] The priests were unable to stand and minister because of the cloud, since the glory of the LORD filled the LORD's house. [12] Then Solomon spoke: "The LORD has said he would dwell in deep darkness. [13] I have surely built an exalted house for you, a place for your dwelling forever." [] [14] The king turned around and blessed the whole assembly of Israel, as the whole assembly of Israel stood there. [15] He said, "Blessed is the LORD, the God of Israel, who spoke with his own mouth to my father David and has with his own hand carried it out, saying, [16] 'From the day I brought my people Israel out from Egypt, I did not choose a city from any of the tribes of Israel to build a house there for my name to be in; but I chose David to be over my people Israel.' [17] It was in my father David's heart to build a house for the name of the LORD, the God of Israel. [18] But the LORD told my father David, 'Since it was in your heart to build a house for my name, you did well to have it in your heart. [19] Yet you will not be the one to build the house. Your son, who will come forth from your body, will build the house for my name.' [20] The LORD has now carried out the word he spoke. I have taken my father David's place and sit on Israel's throne, just as the LORD said, and I have built the house for the name of the LORD, the God of Israel. [21] There I have set a place for the ark, where the covenant of the LORD is, which he made with our fathers when he brought them out from the land of Egypt." [22] Then Solomon stood before the LORD's altar, facing the whole assembly of Israel, and stretched out his hands toward heaven. [23] He said, "LORD, God of Israel, there is no God like you in the heavens above or on the earth below, who keeps covenant and steadfast love toward your servants who walk before you with their whole heart, [24] you who have kept for your servant my father David what you told him. With your mouth you spoke it, and with your hand you carried it out, as can be seen today. [25] So now, LORD God of Israel, keep for your servant my father David what you told him: 'There will never fail you a man before me sitting on Israel's throne, if only your sons guard their way and walk before me as you have walked before me.' [26] Now, God of Israel, may your word that you spoke to your servant my father David be made sure. [27] "But can God truly dwell on earth? The heavens, even the highest heavens, cannot hold you, much less this house I have built! [28] Still, LORD my God, give heed to your servant's prayer and his request for favor, and hear the cry and the prayer your servant is praying before you today, [29] so that your eyes may be open night and day upon this house, the place of which you said, 'My name will be there,' to hear the prayer your servant prays toward this place. [30] Hear the requests of your servant and of your people Israel as they pray toward this place. Hear from your dwelling place in heaven, and hear and forgive. [31] "When a man wrongs his neighbor and an oath is laid on him to make him swear, and he comes and swears before your altar in this house, [32] then hear from heaven and act. Judge between your servants, condemning the guilty, bringing what he did on his own head, and justifying the righteous, giving to him as his righteousness deserves. [33] "When your people Israel are beaten by an enemy because they sinned against you, and they turn back to you, confess your name, and pray and make their request to you in this house, [34] then hear from heaven, forgive your people Israel's sin, and bring them back to the land you gave their fathers. [35] "When the sky is closed and no rain falls because they sinned against you, and they pray toward this place, confess your name and turn from their sin because you have humbled them, [36] then hear from heaven and forgive the sin of your servants, your people Israel. when you teach them the good way they ought to walk in, and send rain on your land that you gave to your people for an inheritance. [37] "Should there be famine in the land, or plague, blight, mildew, locusts or grasshoppers; should their enemy lay siege to them in the land of their cities; whatever affliction, whatever disease comes, [38] any prayer, any request made by any person or by your whole people Israel, each one aware of the affliction of his own heart and stretching out his hands toward this house, [39] then hear from heaven, your dwelling place, and forgive and act. Repay each person according to all his ways, since you know his heart, for you alone know the hearts of all the children of mankind, [40] so that they may fear you every day they live on the land you gave our fathers. [41] "And the foreigner too, who does not belong to your people Israel but comes from a distant land because of your name [42] (for they will hear of your great name, your mighty hand and your outstretched arm), and he comes and prays toward this house, [43] hear from heaven, your dwelling place, and do everything the foreigner calls to you for, so that all the peoples of the earth may know your name and fear you as your people Israel do, and may know that this house I have built is called by your name. [44] "When your people go out to fight their enemy, wherever you may send them, and they pray to the LORD in the direction of the city you have chosen and the house I have built for your name, [45] then hear from heaven their prayer and their request, and uphold their cause. [46] "When they sin against you (for no one exists who does not sin) and you are angry with them and hand them over to an enemy, and their captors take them captive to the enemy's land, whether distant or near, [47] and then they come to their senses in the land where they were taken captive, and they turn and make their request to you in the land of those who took them captive, saying, 'We have sinned, we have done wrong, we have acted wickedly,' [48] and they turn back to you with all their heart and all their soul in the land of the enemies who took them captive, and they pray to you toward their land that you gave their fathers, the city you chose and the house I have built for your name, [49] then from heaven, your dwelling place, hear their prayer and their request and uphold their cause. [50] Forgive your people, who have sinned against you, and all the transgressions they have committed against you; grant them compassion before their captors, so that they will have compassion on them. [51] For they are your people, your inheritance, whom you brought out from Egypt, out of the furnace for iron. [52] Let your eyes be open to your servant's request and to your people Israel's request, to hear them in all they call to you for. [53] For you set them apart for yourself as an inheritance from all the peoples of the earth, as you said through your servant Moses when you brought our fathers out from Egypt, Lord GOD." [54] When Solomon had finished praying this whole prayer and request to the LORD, he got up from in front of the LORD's altar, where he had been kneeling with his hands stretched out toward heaven. [55] He stood and blessed all the assembly of Israel in a loud voice: [56] "Blessed is the LORD, who has given rest to his people Israel, just as he said. Of all the good word he spoke through his servant Moses, not a single word has fallen short. [57] May the LORD our God be with us as he was with our fathers; may he not leave us or abandon us. [58] May he turn our hearts toward himself, to walk in all his ways and keep his commandments, statutes and rules that he commanded our fathers. [59] And may these words of mine that I have prayed before the LORD be near the LORD our God day and night, so that he upholds his servant's cause and the cause of his people Israel, as each day's need requires, [60] so that all the peoples of the earth will know that the LORD is God and there is none besides. [61] Let your hearts be wholly true to the LORD our God, walking in his statutes and keeping his commandments, as you are today." [62] The king and all Israel with him offered sacrifices before the LORD. [63] As peace offerings that he sacrificed to the LORD, Solomon offered twenty-two thousand oxen and a hundred and twenty thousand sheep. So the king and all the children of Israel dedicated the LORD's house. [64] On that day the king consecrated the center of the court in front of the LORD's house, for there he offered the burnt offering, the grain offering and the fat portions of the peace offerings, because the bronze altar before the LORD was too small to hold the burnt offering, the grain offering and the fat portions of the peace offerings. [65] At that time Solomon celebrated the feast, and all Israel with him, a vast assembly from Lebo-hamath down to the Brook of Egypt, before the LORD our God, seven days and another seven days, fourteen days in all. [66] On the eighth day he dismissed the people. They blessed the king and went home to their tents, rejoicing and glad at heart over all the good the LORD had done for his servant David and for his people Israel.

CHAPTER 9

[1] After Solomon had completed the building of the LORD's house and the king's house and everything Solomon had set his heart on doing, [2] the LORD appeared to Solomon a second time, just as he had appeared to him in Gibeon. [3] The LORD told him, "I have heard the prayer and the request you made before me. This house you built I have made holy, setting my name there forever, and my eyes and my heart will be there always. [4] As for you, if you walk before me as your father David walked, in wholeness of heart and in uprightness, doing everything I have commanded you and keeping my statutes and rules, [5] I will make the throne of your kingship over Israel secure forever, as I told your father David: 'There will never fail you a man on Israel's throne.' [6] But if you or your sons should ever turn back from following me and fail to keep my commandments and statutes that I set before you, and go off to serve other gods and bow down to them, [7] I will cut Israel off from the land I gave them, and the house I made holy for my name I will throw away from my presence; Israel will become a byword and an object of mockery among all the peoples. [8] And this house, which is now exalted: everyone who passes by will be appalled and will hiss, saying, 'Why did the LORD do such a thing to this land and to this house?' [9] And people will answer, 'Because they abandoned the LORD their God, who brought their fathers out from the land of Egypt, and they took hold of other gods, bowing down to them and serving them. That is why the LORD has brought all this evil upon them.'" [10] At the end of twenty years, during which Solomon built the two houses, the LORD's house and the king's house, [11] and since Hiram king of Tyre had furnished Solomon with cedar wood, cypress wood and gold, all he wished, King Solomon gave Hiram twenty towns in the region of Galilee. [12] Hiram came out from Tyre to look at the towns Solomon had given him, but they were not right in his eyes. [13] "What are these towns you have given me, my brother?" he said. And they were named the land of Cabul, as they are to this day. [] [14] Hiram had sent the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold. [15] Here is the account of the forced labor King Solomon conscripted to build the LORD's house, his own house, the Millo and the wall of Jerusalem, and Hazor, Megiddo and Gezer. [16] (Pharaoh king of Egypt had come up, taken Gezer, set it on fire, and killed the Canaanites living in the city; then he gave it as a parting gift to his daughter, Solomon's wife.) [17] Solomon built up Gezer, and Lower Beth-horon, [18] and Baalath, and Tadmor in the wilderness, in the land, [] [19] and all of Solomon's storage towns, the towns for chariots and the towns for horsemen, and whatever Solomon wished to build in Jerusalem, in Lebanon and throughout the land he ruled. [20] As for all the people remaining of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites and Jebusites, who did not belong to the children of Israel, [21] their descendants still left in the land after them, whom the children of Israel had not been able to devote to destruction, Solomon conscripted them as forced laborers, slaves to this day. [22] From the children of Israel, however, Solomon did not make anyone a slave. They were the soldiers, his servants, his officials, his officers, and commanders of his chariots and horsemen. [23] The chief officers over Solomon's work were five hundred and fifty; they directed the people who did the work. [24] As soon as Pharaoh's daughter had gone up from the city of David to the house Solomon built for her, he built the Millo. [25] Three times each year Solomon offered burnt offerings and peace offerings on the altar he built for the LORD, burning incense along with them before the LORD. And so he completed the house. [26] King Solomon also built ships at Ezion-geber, which lies beside Eloth on the shore of the Red Sea, in the land of Edom. [*] [27] Hiram sent his servants with the ships, sailors who knew the sea, to go along with Solomon's servants. [28] They sailed to Ophir, took from there four hundred and twenty talents of gold, and brought it to King Solomon.

CHAPTER 10

[1] The queen of Sheba heard of Solomon's fame, linked with the name of the LORD, and she came to put him to the test with riddles. [2] She arrived in Jerusalem with a very large company, camels carrying spices, a great deal of gold and precious stones. She came to Solomon and talked with him about everything she had in mind. [3] Solomon gave answers to all her questions; there was nothing too obscure for the king to explain to her. [4] When the queen of Sheba observed all Solomon's wisdom and the house he had built, [5] the food on his table, the seating of his servants, the way his attendants stood and how they were dressed, his cupbearers, and the burnt offerings he offered up at the LORD's house, it left her breathless. [6] She told the king, "It was the truth, what I heard in my own country about your affairs and your wisdom. [7] I would not believe the reports until I came and my own eyes saw it, and look, I was not told the half of it. Your wisdom and wealth go beyond the report I heard. [8] How blessed your men are, how blessed these servants of yours who stand before you always and listen to your wisdom! [9] Blessed is the LORD your God, who took pleasure in you and placed you on Israel's throne! Because of the LORD's everlasting love for Israel he made you king, to carry out justice and righteousness." [10] She presented the king with a hundred and twenty talents of gold, spices in great abundance and precious stones. Never again did spices come in such quantity as those the queen of Sheba gave King Solomon. [11] Hiram's ships, too, which carried gold from Ophir, brought in from Ophir great quantities of almug wood and precious stones. [12] From the almug wood the king made supports for the LORD's house and for the king's house, as well as lyres and harps for the singers. Such almug wood has never come again, nor been seen to this day. [13] King Solomon gave the queen of Sheba everything she wished for and asked, apart from what he gave her from his royal generosity. Then she turned and went home to her country, she and her servants. [14] The gold that came to Solomon in a single year weighed six hundred and sixty-six talents, [15] not counting what came from the merchants and the traffic of the traders, from all the kings of Arabia and the governors of the land. [16] King Solomon made two hundred large shields of hammered gold, using six hundred shekels of gold for each shield, [17] and three hundred small shields of hammered gold, using three minas of gold for each shield. The king put them in the House of the Forest of Lebanon. [18] The king also made a great ivory throne and covered it with the finest gold. [19] There were six steps up to the throne, and at the back the throne had a rounded top. There were arms on either side of the seat, with two lions standing next to the arms, [20] and twelve lions stood on the six steps, one at either end of each. Nothing of the kind was ever made in any kingdom. [21] Every drinking vessel of King Solomon was gold, and every vessel of the House of the Forest of Lebanon was refined gold. None were silver; silver was thought of no value in Solomon's days. [22] For the king had ships of Tarshish at sea along with Hiram's ships. Every three years the ships of Tarshish would come in, carrying gold and silver, ivory, apes and peacocks.* [23] King Solomon surpassed all the kings of the earth in wealth and in wisdom. [24] All the earth sought an audience with Solomon to hear the wisdom God had placed in his heart. [25] Each one would bring his gift: objects of silver and objects of gold, clothing, armor, spices, horses and mules, a set amount every year. [26] Solomon amassed chariots and horsemen; he had fourteen hundred chariots and twelve thousand horsemen, and he kept them in the chariot towns and with the king in Jerusalem. [27] The king made silver as plentiful in Jerusalem as stones, and cedars as plentiful as the sycamore trees in the Shephelah. [28] Solomon's horses were brought from Egypt and from Kue; the king's merchants would buy them from Kue for a price.* [29] A chariot brought up from Egypt cost six hundred shekels of silver, and a horse a hundred and fifty. In the same way they were exported through them to all the Hittite kings and the kings of Syria.*

CHAPTER 11

[1] King Solomon loved many foreign women besides Pharaoh's daughter: women of Moab, Ammon, Edom, Sidon and the Hittites, [2] from the nations of which the LORD had told the children of Israel, "Do not go in among them, and they must not come in among you, for they will certainly turn your hearts toward their gods." To these Solomon held fast in love. [3] He had seven hundred royal wives and three hundred concubines, and his wives turned his heart aside. [4] When Solomon grew old, his wives turned his heart after other gods, and his heart was not wholly true to the LORD his God, as his father David's heart had been. [5] Solomon followed Ashtoreth, the goddess of the Sidonians, and Milcom, the abomination of the Ammonites.* [6] Solomon did what was evil in the sight of the LORD and did not wholly follow the LORD as his father David had done. [7] At that time Solomon built a high place on the hill east of Jerusalem for Chemosh, the abomination of Moab, and for Molech, the abomination of the children of Ammon. [8] He did likewise for every one of his foreign wives, who were burning incense and sacrificing to their gods. [9] So the LORD grew angry with Solomon because his heart had turned from the LORD, the God of Israel, who had appeared to him two times [10] and had given him a command about this very matter, that he must not follow other gods. But he did not keep the LORD's command. [11] The LORD said to Solomon, "Because you have done this and have not kept my covenant and the statutes I gave you, I will most certainly tear the kingdom away from you and give it to a servant of yours. [12] But for the sake of your father David I will not do it during your lifetime. From your son's hand I will tear it away. [13] Even so, I will not tear away the whole kingdom; one tribe I will give to your son, for the sake of my servant David and for the sake of Jerusalem, which I chose." [14] The LORD raised up an adversary against Solomon: Hadad the Edomite, of the royal line in Edom. [15] It had happened, when David was in Edom and Joab the army commander went up to bury the dead, that he struck down every male in Edom [16] (for six months Joab and all Israel stayed there, until he had wiped out every male in Edom), [17] but Hadad escaped to Egypt with some Edomites from his father's servants; Hadad was then a small boy. [18] They set out from Midian and came to Paran. Taking men with them from Paran, they went to Egypt, to Pharaoh king of Egypt, who provided him with a house, arranged food for him and gave him land. [19] Hadad won such favor with Pharaoh that he gave him his own wife's sister in marriage, the sister of Queen Tahpenes. [20] Tahpenes' sister bore him his son Genubath, and Tahpenes weaned him within Pharaoh's house. Genubath lived in Pharaoh's house with Pharaoh's sons. [21] While in Egypt, Hadad heard that David had lain down with his fathers and that Joab the army commander had died. So Hadad said to Pharaoh, "Send me off, so that I may go to my own land." [22] Pharaoh asked him,

"What do you lack here with me, that you are now wanting to go to your own land?" "Nothing," he said, "but you must let me go." [23] God raised up another adversary against him, Rezon son of Eliada, who had run away from his lord Hadadezer king of Zobah. [24] He collected men about him and became captain of a marauding band when David slaughtered the men of Zobah. They went to Damascus, lived there and ruled in Damascus. [25] He was Israel's adversary as long as Solomon lived, adding to the trouble Hadad caused; he detested Israel and was king over Syria. [26] Also Jeroboam son of Nebat, an Ephraimite from Zeredah and a servant of Solomon, rebelled against the king. His mother was Zeruah, a widow. [27] This is how he came to rebel against the king. Solomon was building the Millo, closing up the gap in the city of his father David. [28] Jeroboam was a capable and valiant man, and when Solomon saw how the young man got work done, he put him over all the labor force of the house of Joseph. [29] About that time Jeroboam left Jerusalem, and Ahijah the Shilonite, the prophet, came upon him on the road. Ahijah was wearing a new cloak, and the two were by themselves in the open country. [30] Ahijah took hold of the new cloak he had on and ripped it into twelve pieces. [31] He told Jeroboam, "Take ten pieces for yourself, for this is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'I am going to tear the kingdom out of Solomon's hand and give ten tribes to you. [32] One tribe will remain his, for the sake of my servant David and for the sake of Jerusalem, the city I chose from all Israel's tribes. [33] For they have abandoned me and bowed down to Ashtoreth the goddess of the Sidonians, to Chemosh the god of Moab and to Milcom the god of the children of Ammon. They have not walked in my ways or done what is right in my sight, keeping my statutes and rules, as his father David did. [34] Even so, I will not take the whole kingdom from his hand; I will let him remain ruler throughout his life, for the sake of my servant David, whom I chose and who kept my commandments and statutes. [35] From his son's hand, though, I will take the kingship and give it to you: ten tribes. [36] To his son I will give one tribe, so that my servant David may have a lamp before me in Jerusalem for all time, the city I chose for myself to set my name there. [*] [37] You I will take, and you will reign over everything your soul longs for; you will be king over Israel. [38] If you listen to all I command you, walk in my ways and do what is right in my sight, keeping my statutes and commandments as my servant David did, I will be with you. I will build you a lasting house, as I built for David, and I will give Israel to you. [39] For this I will humble David's offspring, though not for all time.'" [40] Solomon tried to kill Jeroboam, but Jeroboam fled at once to Egypt, to Shishak king of Egypt, and stayed in Egypt until Solomon died. [41] As for the rest of the deeds of Solomon, all he did and his wisdom, are they not written in the book of the acts of Solomon? [42] Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel for forty years. [43] Then Solomon lay down with his fathers and was buried in the city of his father David, and his son Rehoboam became king in his place.

CHAPTER 12

[1] Rehoboam went to Shechem, since all Israel had gone to Shechem to make him king. [2] Jeroboam son of Nebat heard about it while he was still in Egypt, where he had fled from King Solomon; Jeroboam had been living in Egypt. [3] They sent for him, and Jeroboam came with the whole assembly of Israel, and they spoke to Rehoboam: [4] "Your father put a hard yoke on us. Now make lighter the hard labor your father imposed and the heavy yoke he laid on us, and we will serve you." [5] He told them, "Go off for three more days, and then return to me." So the people left. [6] King Rehoboam consulted the elders who had attended his father Solomon during his lifetime. "What answer do you advise me to give this people?" he asked. [7] They told him, "If today you become a servant to this people and serve them, and if you answer them with good words, they will be your servants for all time." [8] But he set aside the advice the elders gave him and consulted the young men who had grown up with him and were now attending him. [9] He asked them, "What do you advise? How should we answer this people who told me, 'Make lighter the yoke your father put on us'?" [10] The young men who had grown up with him told him, "Say this to the people who told you, 'Your father made our yoke heavy; you make it lighter for us.' Tell them this: 'My little finger is thicker than my father's waist! [11] My father loaded a heavy yoke on you; well, I will make your yoke heavier. My father punished you with whips; I will punish you with scorpions.'" [12] On the third day Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam, as the king had directed: "Return to me on the third day." [13] The king gave the people a harsh answer. He set aside the advice the elders had given him [14] and spoke to them as the young men had advised: "My father made your yoke heavy; I will make your yoke heavier. My father punished you with whips; I will punish you with scorpions." [15] The king would not listen to the people, because the LORD had brought about this turn of events in order to carry out his word that the LORD had spoken by Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam son of Nebat. [16] All Israel saw that the king refused to listen to them, and the people gave the king this reply: "What share have we in David? We have no inheritance in Jesse's son! To your tents, Israel! Look after your own house now, David!" And Israel went home to their tents. [17] Rehoboam, however, ruled over the children of Israel who lived in the towns of Judah. [18] King Rehoboam sent out Adoram, the man in charge of forced labor, but all Israel pelted him with stones until he died. King Rehoboam managed to get up into his chariot and escape to Jerusalem. [19] And so Israel has been in revolt against the house of David to this day. [20] When all Israel heard that Jeroboam had come back, they sent for him to come to the assembly and made him king over all Israel. No one followed David's house except the tribe of Judah only. [21] Rehoboam arrived in Jerusalem and mustered the whole house of Judah and the tribe of Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand picked fighting men, to make war on the house of Israel and win back the kingdom for Rehoboam son of Solomon. [22] But the word of God came to Shemaiah, the man of God: [23] "Speak to Rehoboam son of Solomon, king of Judah, to all the house of Judah and Benjamin and to the rest of the people, and say, [24] 'This is what the LORD says: Do not go up and do not fight your brothers, the children of Israel. Go back home, every one of you, for this has been brought about by me.'" They obeyed the word of the LORD and went back home, as the LORD had said. [25] Jeroboam fortified Shechem in the hill country of Ephraim and made his home there. From there he went out and fortified Penuel. [26] Jeroboam thought to himself, "As things are, the kingdom will go back to David's house. [27] If this people keep going up to offer sacrifices in the LORD's house in Jerusalem, their hearts will turn back to their lord Rehoboam king of Judah. They will kill me and go back to Rehoboam king of Judah." [28] After taking advice, the king made two golden calves. He told the people, "Going up to Jerusalem is too much for you. Here are your gods, Israel, who brought you up from the land of Egypt!" [29] He set up the one in Bethel and placed the other in Dan. [30] This matter led to sin: the people went before the one calf even as far as Dan. [31] He made houses on high places as well, and appointed priests from among all the people, men who were not Levites.* [32] Jeroboam established a feast on the fifteenth day of the eighth month, like the feast held in Judah, and he offered on the altar. He did this in Bethel, sacrificing to the calves he had made, and in Bethel he installed the priests of the high places he had made. [33] On the fifteenth day of the eighth month, the month he had invented on his own, he went up to offer on the altar he had made in Bethel. He established a feast for the children of Israel and went up to the altar to burn incense.

CHAPTER 13

[1] Just then a man of God arrived at Bethel from Judah by the word of the LORD, as Jeroboam stood beside the altar to burn incense. [2] By the word of the LORD he called out against the altar: "Altar, altar! This is what the LORD says: 'A son named Josiah will be born to David's house, and on you he will sacrifice the priests of the high places who burn incense on you; men's bones will be burned on you.'" [3] That same day he gave a sign: "This is the sign the LORD has declared: the altar will split apart, and the ashes on it will spill out." [4] When King Jeroboam heard what the man of God called out against the altar in Bethel, he thrust out his hand from the altar and said, "Arrest him!" But the hand he had thrust out against him withered, and he could not pull it back. [5] The altar too split apart and the ashes spilled from the altar, as the man of God had signaled by the word of the LORD. [6] The king then said to the man of God, "Please plead with the LORD your God and pray for me, so that my hand may be restored." The man of God pleaded with the LORD, and the king's hand was restored and became as it had been. [7] The king told the man of God, "Come home with me and have something to eat, and I will give you a gift." [8] The man of God answered the king, "Even if you gave me half your house, I would not go with you, and I will not eat bread or drink water here. [9] For the word of the LORD gave me this command: 'Do not eat bread or drink water, and do not go back the way you came.'" [10] So he took a different road and did not go back by the road on which he had come to Bethel. [11] An old prophet lived in Bethel. His son came and told him everything the man of God had done there that day in Bethel, and they also reported to their father what he had said to the king. [12] Their father asked them, "Which road did he take?" His sons had seen the road taken by the man of God who had come from Judah. [13] He told his sons, "Saddle the donkey for me." They saddled the donkey, and he got on it [14] and rode after the man of God. He found him sitting under an oak tree and asked him, "Are you the man of God who came from Judah?" "I am," he said. [15] He told him, "Come home with me and eat some bread." [16] He answered, "I may not turn back with you or go in with you; I will not eat bread or drink water with you here. [17] For a word came to me by the word of the LORD: 'Do not eat bread or drink water there, and do not return by the road you went on.'" [18] The other said to him, "I too am a prophet like you. An angel told me by the word of the LORD, 'Bring him back with you to your house, so that he may eat bread and drink water.'" He was lying to him. [19] So he turned back with him, and he ate bread and drank water in his house. [20] As they sat at the table, the word of the LORD came to the prophet who had brought him back, [21] and he called out to the man of God who had come from Judah, "This is what the LORD says: 'Since you have defied the mouth of the LORD and did not keep the command the LORD your God gave you, [22] but turned back and ate bread and drank water in the place where he told you not to eat bread or drink water, your corpse will not come into your fathers' tomb.'" [23] When he had eaten bread and had drunk, the prophet who had brought him back saddled the donkey for him. [24] He went on his way, and a lion came upon him on the road and killed him. His corpse lay flung on the road, with the donkey standing next to it and the lion standing next to the corpse. [25] Men came by and saw the corpse flung on the road and the lion standing next to the corpse, and they went and reported it in the town where the old prophet lived. [26] The prophet who had brought him back from his way heard it and said, "It is the man of God who defied the mouth of the LORD. The LORD has handed him over to the lion, and it has mauled him and killed him, as the LORD's word to him said." [27] He told his sons, "Saddle the donkey for me," and they saddled it. [28] He went and found the corpse flung on the road, with the donkey and the lion standing next to it. The lion had neither eaten the corpse nor mauled the donkey. [29] The prophet lifted up the corpse of the man of God, put it on the donkey and brought it back; and he came into the old prophet's town to mourn him and bury him. [30] He placed the corpse in his own tomb, and they lamented over him, "Oh, my brother!" [31] After burying him, he told his sons, "When I die, bury me in the tomb where the man of God lies buried. Put my bones next to his bones. [32] For the word he called out by the word of the LORD against the altar in Bethel and against all the houses of the high places in the towns of Samaria will certainly come true." [33] Even after this, Jeroboam did not turn back from his evil way. Once more he made priests for the high places from among all the people; anyone who wished, he consecrated him to be one of the priests of the high places.* [34]

This matter became the sin of Jeroboam's house, enough to cut it off and wipe it from the face of the earth.

CHAPTER 14

[1] About that time Abijah son of Jeroboam became ill. [2] Jeroboam told his wife, "Get up and disguise yourself, so no one will recognize you as Jeroboam's wife, and go to Shiloh. Ahijah the prophet is there, the one who told me I would be king over this people. [3] Take ten loaves with you, some cakes and a jar of honey, and go to him. He will tell you what is going to happen to the boy." [4] Jeroboam's wife did as he said. She set out for Shiloh and came to Ahijah's house. Ahijah could no longer see; his eyes had grown fixed with age. [5] But the LORD had told Ahijah, "Jeroboam's wife is coming to ask you about her son, since he is ill. You are to tell her such and such. When she arrives, she will be acting as if she were someone else." [6] So when Ahijah heard her footsteps coming through the doorway, he said, "Come in, wife of Jeroboam. Why are you acting as if you were someone else? I have been sent to you with a harsh message. [7] Go and tell Jeroboam, 'This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: I raised you up from among the people and made you ruler over my people Israel. [8] I tore the kingdom away from David's house and gave it to you. Yet you have not been like my servant David, who kept my commandments and followed me with his whole heart, doing nothing but what was right in my sight. [9] You have done more evil than all who came before you. You went and made yourself other gods, images of cast metal, to provoke me, and me you have flung behind your back. [10] Because of this I am bringing evil on Jeroboam's house. I will cut off from Jeroboam every male in Israel, bond and free alike, and I will burn up the house of Jeroboam the way one burns up dung until none is left.* [11] Those of Jeroboam's family who die in the town, the dogs will eat; and those who die in the countryside, the birds of the sky will eat. The LORD has spoken.' [12] As for you, get up and go home. The moment your feet enter the town, the child will die. [13] All Israel will lament for him and bury him. He is the only one of Jeroboam's family who will come to a grave, because in Jeroboam's house he alone has been found to have something good toward the LORD, the God of Israel. [14] The LORD will raise up for himself a king over Israel who will cut off Jeroboam's house on that day. And what then? Even now!* [15] The LORD will strike Israel so that it sways like a reed in the water. He will uproot Israel from this good land he gave their fathers and scatter them beyond the River, because they made their Asherim and provoked the LORD.* [16] He will hand Israel over on account of the sins Jeroboam committed and caused Israel to commit." [17] Jeroboam's wife got up, left and went to Tirzah. Just as she stepped over the threshold of the house, the boy died. [18] They buried him, and all Israel lamented for him, as the LORD had said through his servant Ahijah the prophet. [19] As for the rest of the deeds of Jeroboam, how he fought and how he reigned, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel. [20] Jeroboam reigned twenty-two years. Then he lay down with his fathers, and his son Nadab reigned in his place. [21] Rehoboam son of Solomon was king in Judah. He was forty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city the LORD had chosen from all Israel's tribes as the place for his name. His mother was Naamah the Ammonite. [22] Judah did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, and by the sins they committed they stirred up his jealousy more than their fathers had done by all of theirs. [23] They too built themselves high places, sacred pillars and Asherim on every lofty hill and beneath every leafy tree. [24] There were even male cult prostitutes in the land. They copied all the abominations of the nations the LORD had driven out before the children of Israel.* [25] In King Rehoboam's fifth year Shishak king of Egypt came up to attack Jerusalem. [26] He carried off the treasures of the LORD's house and the treasures of the king's house; he carried off everything, including all the gold shields Solomon had made. [27] In their place King Rehoboam made shields of bronze and entrusted them to the commanders of the runners who guarded the entrance of the king's house. [28] Whenever the king went into the LORD's house, the runners would carry them, and afterward they would return them to the runners' chamber. [29] As for the rest of the deeds of Rehoboam and all he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [30] There was continual warfare between Rehoboam and Jeroboam. [31] Rehoboam lay down with his fathers and was buried with them in the city of David. His mother was Naamah the Ammonite. His son Abijam reigned in his place.

CHAPTER 15

[1] In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam son of Nebat, Abijam became king over Judah. [2] He reigned three years in Jerusalem. His mother was Maacah the daughter of Abishalom. [3] He followed all the sins his father had committed before him, and his heart was not wholly true to the LORD his God, as the heart of his father David had been. [4] Still, for David's sake, the LORD his God gave him a lamp in Jerusalem, raising up his son to succeed him and keeping Jerusalem secure. [5] For David had done what was right in the sight of the LORD and had not turned away from anything he commanded him all his life, except in the affair of Uriah the Hittite. [6] There was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam as long as he lived. [7] As for the rest of the deeds of Abijam and all he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? And there was war between Abijam and Jeroboam. [8] And Abijam lay down with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David. And Asa his son reigned in his place. [9] In the twentieth year of Jeroboam king of Israel, Asa became king over Judah, [10] and he reigned forty-one years in Jerusalem. His mother was Maacah the daughter of Abishalom. [11] Asa did what was right in the sight of the LORD, like his father David. [12] He drove the male cult prostitutes out of the land and got rid of all the idols his fathers had made. [13] He even deposed his mother Maacah from her position as queen mother, because she had made a repulsive image for Asherah. Asa cut her image down and burned it in the Kidron Valley. [14] The high places, though, were not removed. Even so, Asa's heart was wholly true to the LORD all his days. [15] Into the LORD's house he brought the holy gifts of his father and his own holy gifts: silver, gold and vessels. [16] Asa and Baasha king of Israel were at war throughout their reigns. [17] Baasha king of Israel marched up against Judah and fortified Ramah, to keep anyone from going out or coming in to Asa king of Judah. [18] Asa then took all the silver and gold remaining in the treasuries of the LORD's house and the treasuries of the king's house and handed it to his servants. King Asa sent them to Ben-hadad son of Tabrimmon son of Hezion, king of Syria, who ruled in Damascus, with this message: [19] "Let there be a covenant between me and you, as between my father and your father. I am sending you a gift of silver and gold. Go and break off your covenant with Baasha king of Israel, so that he will pull back from me." [20] Ben-hadad agreed with King Asa and sent his army commanders against the towns of Israel. He struck Ijon, Dan, Abel-beth-maacah and all Chinneroth, together with the whole land of Naphtali. [21] When Baasha heard about it, he left off fortifying Ramah and stayed in Tirzah. [22] King Asa summoned all Judah, with no one exempted, and they hauled off the stones and timber of Ramah that Baasha had been building with. With them King Asa fortified Geba in Benjamin, and Mizpah. [23] As for the rest of all the deeds of Asa, all his might, all he did and the towns he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? But in his old age he suffered from a disease of the feet. [24] Asa lay down with his fathers and was buried with them in the city of his father David. His son Jehoshaphat reigned in his place. [25] Nadab son of Jeroboam became king over Israel in the second year of Asa king of Judah, and he reigned over Israel two years. [26] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, walking in the way of his father and in the sin by which he had caused Israel to sin. [27] Baasha son of Ahijah, of the house of Issachar, plotted against him, and Baasha struck him down at Gibbethon, a Philistine town, while Nadab and all Israel were laying siege to Gibbethon. [28] Baasha killed him in the third year of Asa king of Judah and took the throne in his place. [29] The moment he became king, he struck down all Jeroboam's house. He did not leave Jeroboam a single living soul, but wiped them out, as the LORD had said through his servant Ahijah the Shilonite. [30] This was because of the sins Jeroboam had committed and caused Israel to commit, and because of how he had provoked the LORD, the God of Israel. [31] As for the rest of the deeds of Nadab and all he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? [32] Asa and Baasha king of Israel were at war throughout their reigns. [33] In the third year of Asa king of Judah, Baasha son of Ahijah became king over all Israel at Tirzah, and he reigned twenty-four years. [34] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, walking in Jeroboam's way and in the sin by which he had caused Israel to sin.

CHAPTER 16

[1] The word of the LORD came to Jehu son of Hanani against Baasha: [2] "I lifted you up from the dust and made you ruler over my people Israel, but you walked in Jeroboam's way and caused my people Israel to sin, provoking me by their sins. [3] Now I am going to sweep away Baasha and his house; I will make your house like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat. [4] Those of Baasha's family who die in the town, the dogs will eat; and those who die in the countryside, the birds of the sky will eat." [5] As for the rest of the deeds of Baasha, what he did and his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? [6] Baasha lay down with his fathers and was buried in Tirzah. His son Elah reigned in his place. [7] The word of the LORD had also come through the prophet Jehu son of Hanani against Baasha and his house, both for all the evil he did in the sight of the LORD, provoking him by the work of his hands and becoming like the house of Jeroboam, and because he had struck it down. [8] In the twenty-sixth year of Asa king of Judah, Elah son of Baasha became king over Israel in Tirzah, and he reigned two years. [9] His servant Zimri, who commanded half his chariots, plotted against him. While he was in Tirzah, getting drunk at the house of Arza, the man in charge of the palace at Tirzah, [10] Zimri came in, struck him and killed him in the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah, and took the throne in his place. [11] As soon as he was king and seated on his throne, he struck down the whole house of Baasha. He did not spare a single male, whether kinsman or friend. [12] So Zimri wiped out all of Baasha's house, as the LORD had said against Baasha through Jehu the prophet, [13] on account of all the sins of Baasha and of his son Elah, the sins they committed and caused Israel to commit, provoking the LORD, the God of Israel, with their idols. [*] [14] As for the rest of the deeds of Elah and all he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? [15] In the twenty-seventh year of Asa king of Judah, Zimri reigned seven days in Tirzah. The army was encamped against Gibbethon, a Philistine town, [16] and the troops in the camp heard the news: "Zimri has plotted and has struck down the king." That very day, in the camp, all Israel made Omri, the army commander, king over Israel. [17] Omri and all Israel with him went up from Gibbethon and laid siege to Tirzah. [18] When Zimri saw that the town had been captured, he went into the stronghold of the king's house, set the king's house on fire over himself and died, [19] because of the sins he had committed, doing what was evil in the sight of the LORD and walking in Jeroboam's way and in the sin Jeroboam committed to make Israel sin. [20] As for the rest of the deeds of Zimri and the plot he carried out, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? [21] At that time the people of Israel split in two. Half the people followed Tibni son of Ginath, wanting to make him king, and the other half followed Omri. [22] The people who followed Omri overpowered those who followed Tibni son of Ginath. Tibni died, and Omri became king. [23] In the thirty-first year of Asa king of Judah, Omri became king over Israel, and he reigned twelve years, six of them in Tirzah. [24] He purchased the hill of Samaria from Shemer for two talents of silver, built on the hill, and named the city he built Samaria, after Shemer, who had owned the hill. [25] Omri did what was evil in the sight of the LORD; he did more evil than all who came before him. [26] He walked in all the ways of Jeroboam son of Nebat and in the sins by which he had caused Israel to sin, provoking the LORD, the God of Israel, with their idols. [27] As for the rest of the deeds of Omri, what he did, and the might that he showed, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? [28] Omri lay down with his fathers and was buried in Samaria. His son Ahab reigned in his place. [29] In the thirty-eighth year of Asa king of Judah, Ahab son of Omri became king over Israel, and Ahab son of Omri reigned over Israel in Samaria twenty-two years. [30] Ahab son of Omri did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, more than all who came before him. [31] As if walking in the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat were a trifling matter, he married Jezebel, daughter of Ethbaal king of the Sidonians, and went on to serve Baal and bow down to him. [32] He set up an altar for Baal in the temple of Baal that he built in Samaria. [33] Ahab also made an Asherah. Ahab did more to provoke the LORD, the God of Israel, than all the kings of Israel before him. [34] In his days Hiel of Bethel rebuilt Jericho. He laid its foundations at the cost of Abiram, his firstborn, and set up its gates at the cost of Segub, his youngest, as the LORD had said through Joshua son of Nun.

CHAPTER 17

[1] Elijah the Tishbite, of the settlers of Gilead, told Ahab, "As the LORD, the God of Israel, lives, in whose presence I stand, there will be neither dew nor rain these years unless I give the word."* [2] Then the word of the LORD came to him: [3] "Leave this place, turn east and hide by the Wadi Cherith, east of the Jordan. [4] You will drink from the wadi, and I have ordered the ravens to provide for you there." [5] He went and did as the LORD had said; he went and stayed by the Wadi Cherith, east of the Jordan. [6] The ravens would bring him bread and meat in the morning and bread and meat in the evening, and he drank from the wadi. [7] Some time later the wadi ran dry, since there had been no rain in the land. [8] Then the word of the LORD came to him: [9] "Get up and go to Zarephath, which belongs to Sidon, and stay there. I have ordered a widow there to provide for you." [10] So he got up and went to Zarephath. As he reached the town gate, there was a widow gathering wood. He called to her, "Please get me a little water in a cup, so I can drink." [11] As she was going off to get it, he called after her, "Please bring me a bit of bread in your hand as well." [12] She answered, "As the LORD your God lives, I have nothing baked, only a handful of flour in the jar and a little oil in the jug. I am gathering a couple of sticks now so I can go in and make it for myself and my son, and we will eat it and die." [13] "Do not be afraid," Elijah told her. "Go and do as you have said. But first make me a little cake from it and bring it out to me, and afterward make something for yourself and your son. [14] For this is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'The jar of flour will not run out and the jug of oil will not be empty until the day the LORD gives rain on the face of the land.'" [15] She went and did as Elijah told her, and there was food for her, for him and for her household for many days. [16] The jar of flour did not run out and the jug of oil was not emptied, as the LORD had said through Elijah. [17] Afterward the son of the woman who owned the house fell ill. His illness grew so severe that he stopped breathing. [18] She said to Elijah, "What have you against me, man of God? Did you come to me to bring my sin to mind and put my son to death?" [19] "Give me your son," he told her. He took him from her arms, carried him up to the upper room where he was lodging, and laid him on his own bed. [20] Then he called out to the LORD, "LORD my God, have you brought evil even on this widow I am staying with, by putting her son to death?" [21] Three times he stretched himself out over the boy, and he called out to the LORD, "LORD my God, please let this boy's soul come back into him!"* [22] The LORD heard Elijah's cry; the boy's soul came back into him, and he lived. [23] Elijah took the boy, brought him down from the upper room into the house and handed him to his mother. "Look, your son is alive," said Elijah. [24] The woman said to Elijah, "Now I know for certain that you are a man of God and that the word of the LORD in your mouth is true."

CHAPTER 18

[1] A long time afterward, in the third year, the word of the LORD came to Elijah: "Go and present yourself to Ahab, and I will send rain on the face of the land." [2] So Elijah went to present himself to Ahab. The famine in Samaria was severe, [3] and Ahab had called Obadiah, the man in charge of the palace. (Obadiah feared the LORD greatly. [4] When Jezebel was killing off the LORD's prophets, Obadiah had taken a hundred prophets and hidden them, fifty in each cave, and kept them supplied with bread and water.) [5] Ahab told Obadiah, "Go through the land to every spring and every wadi. Maybe we can find grass to keep the horses and mules alive, so we will not have to destroy any of the animals." [6] They split the land between them to go through it; Ahab went off in one direction by himself, and Obadiah in another by himself. [7] While Obadiah was on his way, Elijah suddenly met him. Obadiah recognized him, fell on his face and said, "My lord Elijah, is it really you?" [8] "It is," he told him. "Go and tell your lord, 'Elijah is here.'" [9] He said, "What sin have I committed, that you are handing your servant over to Ahab to be put to death? [10] As the LORD your God lives, there is not a nation or kingdom where my lord has not sent to look for you. Whenever they said, 'He is not here,' he made that kingdom or nation swear that they had not found you. [11] And now you tell me, 'Go and tell your lord, "Elijah is here!"' [12] As soon as I leave you, the Spirit of the LORD will carry you off to some place I do not know. Then I will go and tell Ahab, and when he does not find you, he will kill me. Yet I, your servant, have feared the LORD since I was young. [13] Was my lord not told what I did when Jezebel was killing the LORD's prophets? How I hid a hundred of the LORD's prophets, fifty in each cave, and kept them supplied with bread and water? [14] And now you tell me, 'Go and tell your lord, "Elijah is here!"' He will kill me!" [15] Elijah said, "As the LORD of hosts lives, in whose presence I stand, today I will present myself to him." [16] So Obadiah went off to meet Ahab and informed him, and Ahab went to meet Elijah. [17] As soon as Ahab saw Elijah, Ahab said to him, "Is it you, the one who brings trouble on Israel?" [18] He answered, "It is not I who have brought trouble on Israel, but you and your father's house, by abandoning the LORD's commandments and following the Baals. [19] Now send word and gather all Israel to me at Mount Carmel, along with the four hundred and fifty prophets of Baal and the four hundred prophets of Asherah who eat at Jezebel's table." [20] Ahab sent word among all the children of Israel and gathered the prophets at Mount Carmel. [21] Elijah approached all the people and said, "How long will you go limping between two opinions? If the LORD is God, follow him; if Baal is, follow him." The people did not answer him a word.* [22] Elijah said to the people, "I alone remain as a prophet of the LORD, while Baal's prophets number four hundred and fifty men. [23] Have two bulls given to us. Let them pick one bull for themselves, cut it up and place it on the wood, but set no fire under it. I will prepare the other bull and place it on the wood, and I will set no fire under it. [24] Then you will call on the name of your god, and I will call on the name of the LORD. The God who answers with fire, he is God." All the people answered, "That is a good proposal." [25] Elijah told the prophets of Baal, "Pick one bull for yourselves and prepare it first, since there are many of you. Call on the name of your god, but set no fire under it." [26] They took the bull given to them, prepared it and called on Baal's name from morning till noon: "Baal, answer us!" But there was no sound, and no one answered. They kept hopping around the altar they had made. [27] When noon came, Elijah began to taunt them: "Shout louder! He is a god, after all. Maybe he is deep in thought, or he has stepped aside, or he is off on a trip. Maybe he is asleep and has to be woken up!"* [28] They shouted louder and slashed themselves with swords and spears, as was their practice, until blood poured over them. [29] Noon passed, and they raved on until the hour for offering the evening offering, but there was no sound, no one answering, no one paying heed.* [30] Then Elijah told all the people, "Come over to me." All the people came over to him, and he repaired the altar of the LORD, which had been torn down. [31] Elijah took twelve stones, one for each tribe of the sons of Jacob, to whom the word of the LORD had come: "Israel will be your name." [32] With the stones he built an altar in the name of the LORD, and around the altar he dug a trench large enough to hold two seahs of seed. [33] He arranged the wood, cut up the bull and placed it on the wood. Then he said, "Fill four jars with water and pour it over the burnt offering and the wood." [34] "Do it again," he said, and they did it again. "Do it a third time," he said, and they did it a third time. [35] The water flowed all around the altar, and he filled the trench with water as well. [36] At the hour for offering the evening offering, Elijah the prophet stepped forward and said, "LORD, God of Abraham, Isaac and Israel, let it be known today that you are God in Israel, that I am your servant, and that I have done all these things at your command. [37] Answer me, LORD, answer me, so this people will know that you, LORD, are God, and that it is you who have turned their hearts back." [38] The fire of the LORD fell and burned up the burnt offering, the wood, the stones and the dust, and it licked up the water in the trench. [39] When all the people saw this, they fell face down and said, "The LORD, he is God! The LORD, he is God!" [40] Elijah told them, "Seize the prophets of Baal! Do not let one of them get away!" They seized them, and Elijah took them down to the Wadi Kishon and slaughtered them there. [41] Elijah said to Ahab, "Go up, eat and drink, for there is the sound of a roaring rain." [42] So Ahab went up to eat and drink, while Elijah went up to the top of Carmel. He crouched down to the ground and put his face between his knees. [43] "Go up and look out toward the sea," he told his servant. He went up, looked and said, "There is nothing." Seven times Elijah said, "Go back." [44] The seventh time he said, "There is a cloud as small as a man's hand coming up from the sea." Elijah said, "Go up and tell Ahab, 'Hitch up your chariot and go down before the rain holds you back.'" [45] Meanwhile the sky grew dark with clouds and wind, and heavy rain came. Ahab rode off and went to Jezreel. [46] The hand of the LORD came upon Elijah; he tucked his cloak into his belt and ran ahead of Ahab all the way to Jezreel.

CHAPTER 19

[1] Ahab reported to Jezebel everything Elijah had done, including how he had put all the prophets to the sword. [2] Jezebel sent a messenger to Elijah to say, "May the gods do so to me and more, if by this time tomorrow I have not made your life like the life of one of them!" [3] When he saw that, he got up and fled for his life. When he reached Beersheba in Judah, he left his servant there, [4] while he himself went on a day's journey into the wilderness. He came and sat down beneath a broom tree and prayed that he might die. "Enough now, LORD," he said. "Take my life, for I am no better than my fathers." [5] He lay down and fell asleep beneath the broom tree. Suddenly an angel was touching him and saying to him, "Get up and eat." [6] He looked, and by his head lay a loaf baked on hot stones and a jug of water. He ate and drank, then lay down once more. [7] The angel of the LORD returned a second time, touched him and said, "Get up and eat, or the journey will be too much for you." [8] He got up, ate and drank, and on the strength of that food he walked forty days and forty nights as far as Horeb, the mountain of God. [9] There he went into a cave and spent the night. Then the word of the LORD came to him: "What are you doing here, Elijah?" [10] He answered, "I have been fiercely zealous for the LORD, the God of hosts. The children of Israel have abandoned your covenant, torn down your altars and put your prophets to the sword. I alone am left, and now they are out to take my life." [11] He said, "Go out and stand on the mountain in the LORD's presence." And the LORD was passing by. A wind, great and powerful, was splitting mountains and shattering rocks before the LORD, but the LORD was not in the wind. After the wind came an earthquake, but the LORD was not in the earthquake. [12] After the earthquake came a fire, but the LORD was not in the fire. And after the fire, a sound of thin, quiet stillness.* [13] As soon as Elijah heard it, he covered his face with his cloak, went out and stood at the mouth of the cave. Then a voice came to him: "What are you doing here, Elijah?" [14] He answered, "I have been fiercely zealous for the LORD, the God of hosts. The children of Israel have abandoned your covenant, torn down your altars and put your prophets to the sword. I alone am left, and now they are out to take my life." [15] The LORD told him, "Go back the way you came, to the wilderness of Damascus. When you get there, anoint Hazael as king over Syria. [16] Anoint Jehu son of Nimshi as king over Israel, and anoint Elisha son of Shaphat from Abel-meholah as prophet in your place. [17] Whoever escapes Hazael's sword, Jehu will kill; and whoever escapes Jehu's sword, Elisha will kill. [18] But I will leave seven thousand in Israel, all whose knees have not bent to Baal and all whose mouths have not kissed him." [19] So he went from there and found Elisha son of Shaphat plowing. Twelve pairs of oxen were ahead of him, and he was with the twelfth. Elijah went over to him and threw his cloak on him. [20] Elisha left the oxen, ran after Elijah and said, "Let me kiss my father and mother goodbye, and then I will follow you." "Go on back," he said. "What have I done to you?" [21] He turned back from him, took the pair of oxen and slaughtered them. Using the oxen's gear to cook the meat, he gave it to the people, and they ate. Then he got up, followed Elijah and became his attendant.

CHAPTER 20

[1] Ben-hadad king of Syria mustered his whole army. With him were thirty-two kings with horses and chariots; he marched up, laid siege to Samaria and attacked it. [2] He sent messengers into the city to Ahab king of Israel to tell him, "This is what Ben-hadad says: [3] 'Your silver and gold belong to me, and the best of your wives and children belong to me.'" [4] The king of Israel replied, "It is as you say, my lord the king: I am yours, along with everything I have." [5] The messengers returned and said, "This is what Ben-hadad says: 'I sent you word to hand over to me your silver and gold, your wives and your children. [6] Well, tomorrow at this time I will send my servants to you, and they will go through your house and your servants' houses. Whatever is precious in your eyes they will take in hand and carry away.'" [7] The king of Israel summoned all the elders of the land and said, "Take note and see how this man is looking for trouble. He sent to me for my wives and children, my silver and gold, and I did not hold them back from him." [8] All the elders and all the people told him, "Do not listen to him; do not agree." [9] So he told Ben-hadad's messengers, "Say to my lord the king, 'Everything you demanded of your servant the first time I will do, but this demand I cannot meet.'" The messengers left and took back the reply. [10] Then Ben-hadad sent him word: "May the gods do so to me and more, if there is enough dust in Samaria for every one of my followers to have a handful!" [11] The king of Israel answered, "Tell him: 'The one who straps on his armor should not boast like the one who takes it off.'" [] [12] Ben-hadad heard this reply while he and the kings were drinking in their shelters. He told his servants, "Get into position!" And they took up positions against the city. [13] Just then a prophet approached Ahab king of Israel and said, "This is what the LORD says: 'Do you see this whole vast army? Today I am handing it over to you, and you will know that I am the LORD.'" [14] "By whom?" asked Ahab. He answered, "This is what the LORD says: 'By the young men serving the district governors.'" "Who will start the fight?" he asked. "You will," he answered. [15] So Ahab mustered the young men serving the district governors, two hundred and thirty-two of them. After them he mustered the whole army, all the children of Israel, seven thousand. [16] They marched out at noon while Ben-hadad was getting drunk in the shelters with the thirty-two kings who were his allies. [17] The young men serving the district governors went out first. Ben-hadad had sent out men, who reported to him, "Men are marching out of Samaria." [18] He said, "Whether they have come out for peace, take them alive; or whether they have come out for battle, take them alive." [19] These, then, marched out of the city: the young men serving the district governors, and the army behind them. [20] Each one struck down his man. The Syrians fled with Israel in pursuit, but Ben-hadad king of Syria got away on horseback with some horsemen. [21] The king of Israel marched out, struck down the horses and chariots, and inflicted a heavy defeat on the Syrians. [22] The prophet then came to the king of Israel and told him, "Go, build up your strength and think carefully about what to do, for in the spring the king of Syria will march against you." [23] Meanwhile the servants of the king of Syria told him, "Their gods are mountain gods; that is why they overpowered us. But if we fight them on the level ground, we will surely overpower them. [24] Here is what to do: remove the kings, each one from his command, and put governors in their place. [25] Then raise an army for yourself like the army you lost, horse for horse and chariot for chariot, and let us fight them on the level ground. We will surely overpower them." He took their advice and acted on it. [26] In the spring Ben-hadad mustered the Syrians and marched up to Aphek to fight Israel. [27] The children of Israel were mustered and supplied, and they marched out to face them. The children of Israel camped opposite them like two little flocks of goats, while the Syrians covered the land. [28] A man of God approached the king of Israel and said, "This is what the LORD says: 'Because the Syrians have said, "The LORD is a god of the mountains and not a god of the valleys," I will hand this whole vast army over to you, and you will know that I am the LORD.'" [29] For seven days they camped facing each other, and on the seventh day the battle began. The children of Israel struck down a hundred thousand Syrian foot soldiers in a single day. [30] The rest fled to Aphek, into the city, and the wall collapsed on twenty-seven thousand of the men who remained. Ben-hadad also fled into the city and hid in an inner room. [31] His servants told him, "We have heard that the kings of the house of Israel are merciful kings. Let us put sackcloth around our waists and ropes around our heads and go out to the king of Israel. Maybe he will spare your life." [32] So with sackcloth around their waists and ropes around their heads they came to the king of Israel and said, "Your servant Ben-hadad says, 'Please spare my life.'" He said, "Is he still alive? He is my brother." [33] The men were watching for a sign; they quickly seized on his word and said, "Your brother Ben-hadad!" "Go and get him," he said. When Ben-hadad came out to him, he had him get up into his chariot. [] [34] Ben-hadad told him, "I will give back the towns my father took from your father, and you may set up markets for yourself in Damascus as my father did in Samaria." Ahab said, "On these terms I will release you." So he made a covenant with him and released him. [35] By the word of the LORD a man from the sons of the prophets told his companion, "Strike me!" But the man refused to strike him. [36] So he told him, "Because you did not obey the voice of the LORD, as soon as you leave me a lion will kill you." When he left him, a lion came upon him and killed him. [37] He found another man and said, "Strike me!" The man struck him hard and wounded him. [38] Then the prophet went and waited for the king beside the road, disguised with a bandage over his eyes.* [39] As the king went by, he called out to the king, "Your servant went out into the thick of the battle, and a man came over to me with a prisoner and said, 'Guard this man. If he goes missing, it will be your life for his life, or else you will pay a talent of silver.' [40] While your servant was busy with one thing and another, the man disappeared." The king of Israel told him, "That is your sentence; you have pronounced it yourself." [41] At once he pulled the bandage away from his eyes, and the king of Israel recognized him as one of the prophets. [42] He told the king, "This is what the LORD says: 'Because you released from your hand the man I had devoted to destruction, it will be your life for his life and your people for his people.'"* [43] The king of Israel went home sullen and angry and came into Samaria.

CHAPTER 21

[1] Some time after this, the following took place. Naboth the Jezreelite owned a vineyard in Jezreel, next to the palace of Ahab king of Samaria. [2] Ahab spoke to Naboth: "Let me have your vineyard to use as a vegetable garden, since it lies right next to my house. I will give you a better vineyard in its place, or if it suits you better, I will give you its value in silver." [3] Naboth answered Ahab, "The LORD forbid that I should give you what I have inherited from my fathers!" [4] Ahab went home sullen and angry over what Naboth the Jezreelite had told him, "I will not give you what I inherited from my fathers." He lay on his bed with his face turned away and refused to eat. [5] His wife Jezebel came in and asked him, "Why are you in such low spirits that you are not eating?" [6] He told her, "Because I spoke with Naboth the Jezreelite and said, 'Sell me your vineyard for silver, or if you would like, I will give you a vineyard in its place,' and he said, 'I will not give you my vineyard.'" [7] His wife Jezebel said to him, "Is this how you act as king over Israel? Get up, eat something and cheer up. I myself will give you Naboth the Jezreelite's vineyard." [8] She wrote letters in Ahab's name, sealed them with his seal, and sent the letters to the elders and nobles of Naboth's town who lived there with him. [9] In the letters she wrote: "Call a fast and give Naboth a seat at the head of the people. [10] Seat two men, sons of Belial, across from him, and have them testify against him: 'You cursed God and the king.' Then take him out and stone him until he dies."* [11] The men of his town, the elders and nobles living in his town, did as Jezebel had instructed them in the letters she sent them. [12] They called a fast and gave Naboth a seat at the head of the people. [13] Then the two men, sons of Belial, came in and sat across from him, and these worthless men testified against Naboth before the people: "Naboth cursed God and the king." So they took him outside the town and stoned him with stones until he died. [14] Then they sent word to Jezebel: "Naboth was stoned and is dead." [15] The moment Jezebel heard that Naboth had been stoned to death, she told Ahab, "Get up and take over the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he would not sell you for silver. Naboth is no longer alive; he is dead." [16] The moment Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, he got up to go down to Naboth the Jezreelite's vineyard and take it over. [17] Then the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite: [18] "Get up and go down to meet Ahab king of Israel, who is in Samaria. He is now in Naboth's vineyard, where he has gone down to take it over. [19] Tell him, 'This is what the LORD says: Have you murdered and taken over as well?' Then tell him, 'This is what the LORD says: In the place where the dogs licked up Naboth's blood, the dogs will lick up your blood, yes, yours.'" [20] Ahab said to Elijah, "Have you found me, my enemy?" "I have found you," he answered, "because you have sold yourself to do what is evil in the sight of the LORD. [21] I am going to bring evil on you. I will burn you up and cut off from Ahab every male in Israel, bond and free alike. [22] I will make your house like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat and like the house of Baasha son of Ahijah, because of how you have provoked me and caused Israel to sin. [23] About Jezebel too the LORD has spoken: 'The dogs will eat Jezebel by the rampart of Jezreel.' [24] Those of Ahab's family who die in the town, the dogs will eat; and those who die in the countryside, the birds of the sky will eat." [25] (There was truly no one like Ahab, who sold himself to do what was evil in the sight of the LORD, urged on by his wife Jezebel. [26] He acted in the most abominable way by following idols, just as the Amorites had done, whom the LORD drove out before the children of Israel.) [27] When Ahab heard these words, he tore his clothes, put sackcloth on his body and fasted. He lay in sackcloth and walked about subdued. [28] Then the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite: [29] "Have you noticed how Ahab has humbled himself before me? Since he has humbled himself before me, I will not bring the evil in his lifetime; I will bring the evil on his house in his son's lifetime."

CHAPTER 22

[1] Three years passed without war between Syria and Israel. [2] In the third year Jehoshaphat king of Judah went down to the king of Israel. [3] The king of Israel had said to his servants, "Do you know that Ramoth-gilead is ours, and yet we are doing nothing to take it back from the king of Syria?" [4] He asked Jehoshaphat, "Will you go with me to fight at Ramoth-gilead?" Jehoshaphat answered the king of Israel, "I am with you as one; my people are your people, my horses your horses." [5] But Jehoshaphat also said to the king of Israel, "First, please, seek the word of the LORD today." [6] So the king of Israel gathered the prophets, some four hundred men, and asked them, "Should I go to war against Ramoth-gilead, or should I hold back?" "Go up," they said, "for the Lord will hand it over to the king." [7] Jehoshaphat asked, "Is there no other prophet of the LORD here whom we might consult?" [8] The king of Israel told Jehoshaphat, "There is still one man through whom we can consult the LORD, Micaiah son of Imlah. But I hate him, because he never prophesies anything good about me, only evil." Jehoshaphat said, "The king should not say that." [9] So the king of Israel called an official and said, "Bring Micaiah son of Imlah at once." [10] The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, wearing their robes, were each seated on his throne at the threshing floor by the entrance of Samaria's gate, with all the prophets prophesying in front of them. [11] Zedekiah son of Chenaanah had made himself iron horns, and he said, "This is what the LORD says: 'With these you will gore the Syrians until you finish them off.'" [12] All the prophets were prophesying the same: "Go up to Ramoth-gilead and triumph. The LORD will hand it over to the king." [13] The messenger who had gone to call Micaiah told him, "Listen, the prophets are all saying with one voice what is good for the king. Please let your word be like one of theirs, and speak what is good." [14] Micaiah said, "As the LORD lives, whatever the LORD tells me, that is what I will speak." [15] When he came to the king, the king asked him, "Micaiah, should we go to war against Ramoth-gilead, or should we hold back?" He told him, "Go up and triumph. The LORD will hand it over to the king." [16] The king said to him, "How many times must I put you under oath to tell me nothing but the truth in the name of the LORD?" [17] So he said, "I saw all Israel scattered over the mountains like sheep with no shepherd, and the LORD said, 'These have no master. Let each of them go home in peace.'" [18] The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "Did I not tell you he never prophesies good about me, only evil?" [19] Micaiah went on, "Hear then the word of the LORD: I saw the LORD seated on his throne, with all the host of heaven standing around him on his right and on his left. [20] The LORD said, 'Who will lure Ahab into going up to fall at Ramoth-gilead?' One said this and another said that. [21] Then a spirit came out and stood before the LORD and said, 'I will lure him.'[] [22] 'How?' the LORD asked him. He said, 'I will go out and be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets.' The LORD said, 'You will lure him, and you will prevail. Go and do it.' [23] So now, the LORD has put a lying spirit in the mouth of all these prophets of yours. The LORD has decreed evil against you." [24] Zedekiah son of Chenaanah walked up, struck Micaiah on the cheek and said, "Which way did the Spirit of the LORD pass from me to speak with you?" [25] Micaiah answered, "You will find out on the day you go into an inner room to hide." [26] The king of Israel ordered, "Take Micaiah and send him back to Amon, the governor of the city, and to Joash, the king's son. [27] Say, 'The king orders this: Put this man in prison and give him nothing but meager bread and meager water until I return safely.'"[] [28] Micaiah said, "If you ever return safely, the LORD has not spoken through me." And he added, "Listen, all you peoples!" [29] So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah went up to Ramoth-gilead. [30] The king of Israel told Jehoshaphat, "I will disguise myself as I go into battle, but you put on your robes." So the king of Israel disguised himself and went into battle. [31] The king of Syria had ordered his thirty-two chariot commanders, "Do not fight anyone, small or great, except the king of Israel alone." [32] When the chariot commanders saw Jehoshaphat, they thought, "That must be the king of Israel," and they turned aside to attack him. But Jehoshaphat cried out, [33] and when the chariot commanders saw that he was not the king of Israel, they turned away from him. [34] Someone, however, drew his bow without aiming and hit the king of Israel between the plates of his armor. The king told his chariot driver, "Turn around and get me out of the fighting, for I am wounded." [35] The battle raged all that day, and the king was held up in his chariot facing the Syrians. He died at evening, and the blood from his wound ran into the floor of the chariot. [36] As the sun was setting, a shout spread through the camp: "Every man to his town! Every man to his land!" [37] So the king died and was brought to Samaria, and they buried the king in Samaria. [38] They washed the chariot at the pool of Samaria, and the dogs licked up his blood, and the prostitutes washed themselves in it, as the LORD had said.[*] [39] As for the rest of the deeds of Ahab and all he did, and the ivory house that he built and all the cities that he built, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? [40] Ahab lay down with his fathers, and his son Ahaziah reigned in his place. [41] Jehoshaphat son of Asa became king over Judah in the fourth year of Ahab king of Israel. [42] Jehoshaphat was thirty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi. [43] He walked in all the ways of his father Asa without turning from them, doing what was right in the sight of the LORD. The high places, however, were not removed; the people went on sacrificing and burning incense at the high places. [44] Jehoshaphat also kept peace with the king of Israel. [45] As for the rest of the deeds of Jehoshaphat, and his might that he showed, and how he warred, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [46] He also rid the land of the rest of the male cult prostitutes who had remained from the days of his father Asa. [47] At that time Edom had no king; a deputy served as king. [48] Jehoshaphat built ships of Tarshish to sail to Ophir for gold, but they never sailed, because the ships were wrecked at Ezion-geber. [49] Ahaziah son of Ahab then told Jehoshaphat, "Let my servants sail with your servants in the ships," but Jehoshaphat refused. [50] Jehoshaphat lay down with his fathers and was buried with them in the city of his father David, and his son Jehoram reigned in his place. [51] Ahaziah son of Ahab became king over Israel in Samaria in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and he reigned two years over Israel. [52] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, walking in the way of his father, the way of his mother and the way of Jeroboam son of Nebat, who caused Israel to sin. [53] He served Baal and bowed down to him, and he provoked the LORD, the God of Israel, in every way his father had done.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Once Ahab was dead, Moab revolted against Israel. [2] Ahaziah had fallen through the lattice of his upper room in Samaria and was injured. He sent off messengers, telling them, "Go and consult Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron, to find out whether I will get over this injury."* [3] But the angel of the LORD told Elijah the Tishbite, "Get up, go and meet the messengers of the king of Samaria and ask them, 'Is there no God in Israel, that you are going off to consult Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron?' [4] So this is what the LORD says: 'From the bed you have climbed into you will not get up; you will certainly die.'" And Elijah left. [5] The messengers came back to the king, and he asked them, "Why have you returned?" [6] They told him, "A man came up to meet us and said, 'Go back to the king who sent you and tell him, "This is what the LORD says: Is there no God in Israel, that you are sending men to consult Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron? For that reason, from the bed you have climbed into you will not get up; you will certainly die."'" [7] He asked them, "What kind of man was it who came up to meet you and told you this?" [8] "A hairy man," they answered him, "with a leather belt fastened around his waist." "That was Elijah the Tishbite," he said.* [9] The king sent a captain of fifty to him with his fifty men. The captain went up to Elijah, who was sitting on top of a hill, and told him, "Man of God, the king orders you to come down." [10] Elijah answered the captain of fifty, "If I am a man of God, may fire come down from heaven and devour you and your fifty!" And fire came down from heaven and devoured him and his fifty. [11] The king sent him another captain of fifty with his fifty. This one spoke up: "Man of God, this is the king's order: come down at once!" [12] Elijah answered them, "If I am a man of God, may fire come down from heaven and devour you and your fifty!" And the fire of God came down from heaven and devoured him and his fifty. [13] Once more the king sent a captain of fifty with his fifty, a third one. This third captain of fifty went up, fell on his knees in front of Elijah and begged him, "Man of God, please value my life and the lives of these fifty servants of yours. [14] Fire has come down from heaven and devoured the two earlier captains of fifty and their fifties, but now please value my life." [15] The angel of the LORD told Elijah, "Go down with him; do not be afraid of him." So he got up and went down with him to the king. [16] He told the king, "This is what the LORD says: 'You sent messengers to consult Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron. Is it because there is no God in Israel whose word you could seek? For that reason, from the bed you have climbed into you will not get up; you will certainly die.'" [17] And he died, just as the LORD had said through Elijah. Since he had no son, Jehoram became king in his place, in the second year of Jehoram son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah. [18] As for the rest of the deeds of Ahaziah, what he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?

CHAPTER 2

[1] When the LORD was going to take Elijah up to heaven in a whirlwind, Elijah and Elisha were setting out from Gilgal. [2] Elijah told Elisha, "Stay here, please; the LORD has sent me on to Bethel." But Elisha said, "As surely as the LORD lives and as you live, I will not leave you." So they went down to Bethel. [3] The sons of the prophets at Bethel came out to Elisha and asked him, "Are you aware that the LORD is taking your master from over you today?" "I am aware of it," he said. "Say nothing." [4] Elijah told him, "Elisha, stay here, please; the LORD has sent me on to Jericho." He said, "As surely as the LORD lives and as you live, I will not leave you." So they went to Jericho. [5] The sons of the prophets at Jericho approached Elisha and asked him, "Are you aware that the LORD is taking your master from over you today?" "I am aware of it," he said. "Say nothing." [6] Elijah told him, "Stay here, please; the LORD has sent me on to the Jordan." He said, "As surely as the LORD lives and as you live, I will not leave you." So the two of them went on together. [7] Fifty of the sons of the prophets went along and stood some distance away, facing them, while the two stood beside the Jordan. [8] Elijah took his cloak, rolled it up and struck the water with it. The water parted this way and that, and the two of them went across on dry ground. [9] After they had crossed, Elijah told Elisha, "Ask what I may do for you before I am taken away from you." Elisha said, "Let me have, please, a double portion of your spirit."* [10] "What you ask is difficult," he said. "If you see me as I am taken from you, you will have it; if not, you will not." [11] As they kept walking along, talking, a chariot of fire with horses of fire suddenly came between the two of them, and Elijah went up to heaven in the whirlwind. [12] Elisha watched and kept crying out, "My father, my father! Israel's chariots and horsemen!" Then he saw him no more. He seized his own clothes and ripped them in two. [13] He picked up Elijah's cloak, which had fallen from him, and went back and stood on the bank of the Jordan. [14] Taking the cloak of Elijah that had fallen from him, he struck the water and said, "Where is the LORD, the God of Elijah?" When he too struck the water, it parted this way and that, and Elisha went across. [15] The sons of the prophets from Jericho, watching from the other side, said, "Elijah's spirit has settled on Elisha." They came to meet him and bowed to the ground in front of him. [16] They told him, "Look, among your servants are fifty capable men. Please let them go and look for your master. Perhaps the Spirit of the LORD has picked him up and dropped him on some mountain or in some valley." "Do not send them," he said. [17] But they kept pressing him until he was ashamed, and he said, "Send them." They sent fifty men, who looked for three days without finding him. [18] They came back to him at Jericho, where he was staying, and he told them, "Did I not tell you not to go?" [19] The men of the town told Elisha, "Please notice: this town is well situated, as my lord can see, but the water is bad and the land causes miscarriages." [20] "Bring me a new bowl," he said, "and put salt in it." They brought it to him. [21] He went out to the source of the water, threw the salt in, and said, "This is what the LORD says: 'I have healed this water. Never again will death or miscarriage come from it.'" [22] And the water has stayed healed to this day, as Elisha had said. [23] From there he went up to Bethel. As he was going up the road, young boys came out of the town and jeered at him: "Go on up, baldy! Go on up, baldy!" [*] [24] He turned around, looked at them and cursed them in the name of the LORD. Then two she-bears came out of the woods and tore forty-two of the boys. [25] From there he went on to Mount Carmel, and from there he went back to Samaria.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Jehoram son of Ahab became king over Israel in Samaria in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat king of Judah, and he reigned twelve years. [2] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, but not as his father and mother had; he removed the sacred pillar of Baal his father had made. [3] Still he held fast to the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, by which he caused Israel to sin, and did not give them up. [4] Mesha king of Moab was a sheep breeder, and he had to supply the king of Israel with a hundred thousand lambs and the wool of a hundred thousand rams. [] [5] When Ahab died, however, the king of Moab revolted against the king of Israel. [6] At that time King Jehoram set out from Samaria and mustered all Israel. [7] He sent this message to Jehoshaphat king of Judah: "The king of Moab has revolted against me. Will you go with me to make war on Moab?" "I will go," he said. "I am with you as one; my people are your people, my horses your horses." [8] "Which route shall we take?" he asked. "The route through the wilderness of Edom," he answered. [9] So the king of Israel set out with the king of Judah and the king of Edom. After they had circled around for seven days' march, there was no water left for the army or for the animals with them. [10] "Oh no!" said the king of Israel. "The LORD has called these three kings together only to hand them over to Moab!" [11] Jehoshaphat asked, "Is there no prophet of the LORD here, so that we may consult the LORD through him?" One of the king of Israel's servants answered, "Elisha son of Shaphat is here; he used to pour water on Elijah's hands." [12] "The word of the LORD is with him," said Jehoshaphat. So the king of Israel, Jehoshaphat and the king of Edom went down to him. [13] Elisha said to the king of Israel, "What have you to do with me? Go to your father's prophets and your mother's prophets." The king of Israel said to him, "No, it is the LORD who has called these three kings together to hand them over to Moab." [14] Elisha said, "As the LORD of hosts lives, in whose presence I stand, if I did not respect Jehoshaphat king of Judah, I would not so much as look at you or notice you. [15] Now, bring me a harpist." While the harpist was playing, the hand of the LORD came upon him, [16] and he said, "This is what the LORD says: 'Dig this valley full of pits.' [17] For the LORD says this: 'You will see no wind and see no rain, yet this valley will fill with water, and you will drink, you, your cattle and your animals.' [18] And this is only a small thing in the LORD's eyes; he will hand Moab over to you as well. [19] You will strike down every fortified town and every fine town; you will cut down every good tree, block every spring of water and spoil every good field with stones." [20] The next morning, at the hour the grain offering is offered, water suddenly came flowing from the direction of Edom, and the land was filled with water. [21] All Moab had heard that the kings had come up to fight them, so everyone old enough to buckle on a belt, and older, was called up, and they took their stand on the border. [22] When they got up early in the morning and the sun was shining on the water, the Moabites saw the water across from them red like blood. [23] "It is blood!" they said. "The kings must have fought and killed each other. Now, Moab, to the plunder!" [24] But when they reached Israel's camp, the Israelites rose up and struck the Moabites, who fled before them. They advanced into the land, striking down Moab as they went. [25] They demolished the towns; every man threw a stone onto every good field until they covered it; they blocked every spring of water and cut down every good tree. Only Kir-hareseth was left with its stones, and the slingers surrounded it and attacked it. [26] The king of Moab saw that the battle was going against him, so he took seven hundred swordsmen with him to break through to the king of Edom, but they failed. [27] Then he took his firstborn son, who would have succeeded him as king, and offered him up as a burnt offering on the wall. Great wrath against Israel followed, and they pulled back from him and returned to their own land. []

CHAPTER 4

[1] The wife of one of the sons of the prophets appealed to Elisha: "Your servant my husband is dead, and you know how your servant feared the LORD. Now his creditor has come to take my two boys as his slaves." [2] Elisha asked her, "What can I do for you? Tell me, what have you got in the house?" "Your servant has nothing in the house," she said, "except a flask of oil." [3] He said, "Go out and ask all your neighbors for containers, empty containers, and do not get just a few. [4] Then go in and close the door behind you and your sons. Pour oil into all these containers, and as each one fills, set it aside." [5] She left him and closed the door behind her and her sons. They kept handing her the containers while she kept pouring. [6] When the containers were all full, she told her son, "Hand me another container." "There are no more containers," he told her. Then the oil stopped flowing. [7] She went and told the man of God, and he said, "Go and sell the oil and pay off your debt. You and your sons can live on what is left." [8] One day Elisha passed through Shunem, where a woman of standing lived, and she urged him to have a meal. After that, whenever he passed that way, he would stop there for a meal. [9] She said to her husband, "I am sure that this man who keeps passing our way is a holy man of God. [10] Let us build a small walled room on the roof and furnish it for him with a bed, a table, a chair and a lamp. Then whenever he comes to us, he can stay there." [11] One day he came there, went up to the upper room and lay down there. [12] He told his servant Gehazi, "Call this Shunammite woman." He called her, and she stood in front of him. [13] Elisha told him, "Say to her, 'You have gone to all this trouble for us. What can I do for you? Can I speak on your behalf to the king or to the army commander?'" She answered, "I am living among my own people." [14] "What can be done for her, then?" he asked. Gehazi said, "Well, she has no son, and her husband is old." [15] "Call her," he said. He called her, and she stood at the door. [16] He said, "At this time next year you will be holding a son in your arms." "No, my lord," she said. "Man of God, do not deceive your servant." [17] But the woman conceived, and at that same time the next year she gave birth to a son, as Elisha had told her. [18] The child grew, and one day he went out to his father, who was with the reapers. [19] "My head! My head!" he said to his father. His father told a servant, "Carry him to his mother." [20] He picked him up and brought him to his mother. The boy sat on her lap until noon, and then he died. [21] She went up, laid him on the bed of the man of God, closed the door on him and went out. [22] She called to her husband, "Send me one of the servants and one of the donkeys, so I can hurry to the man of God and come back." [23] "Why go to him today?" he asked. "It is not a new moon or a Sabbath." "All is well," she said. [24] She saddled the donkey and told her servant, "Lead on, and go fast. Do not hold back for me unless I tell you." [25] So she went and came to the man of God at Mount Carmel. When the man of God saw her in the distance, he told his servant Gehazi, "Look, it is that Shunammite woman. [26] Run to meet her and ask her, 'Are you well? Is your husband well? Is the boy well?'" "All is well," she said. [27] But when she reached the man of God on the mountain, she clung to his feet. Gehazi came over to push her away, but the man of God said, "Leave her alone! She is in bitter anguish, and the LORD has hidden it from me and has not told me." [28] She said, "Did I ask my lord for a son? Did I not say, 'Do not deceive me'?" [29] Elisha told Gehazi, "Tuck your cloak into your belt, take my staff in your hand and go. If you meet anyone, do not greet him, and if anyone greets you, do not answer. Lay my staff on the boy's face." [30] But the boy's mother said, "As surely as the LORD lives and as you live, I will not leave you." So he got up and went along behind her. [31] Gehazi went on ahead of them and laid the staff on the boy's face, but there was no sound and no response. He went back to meet Elisha and told him, "The boy has not woken up." [32] When Elisha reached the house, there lay the boy dead on his bed. [33] He went in, closed the door on the two of them and prayed to the LORD. [34] Then he got onto the bed and lay on the boy, mouth to mouth, eyes to eyes, hands to hands. As he stretched out over him, the boy's body grew warm. [35] Elisha got up and walked back and forth in the house once, then got onto the bed and stretched out over him again. The boy sneezed seven times and opened his eyes. [36] He called Gehazi and said, "Call the Shunammite." He called her, and when she came to him he said, "Take your son." [37] She came in, fell at his feet and bowed low to the ground. Then she took her son and went out. [38] Elisha went back to Gilgal. There was a famine in the land, and while the sons of the prophets were sitting in front of him, he told his servant, "Put the big pot on and cook some stew for the sons of the prophets." [39] One of them went out to the fields to gather herbs and came upon a wild vine. He picked a lapful of wild gourds from it, came back and cut them up into the pot of stew, not knowing what they were. [40] They served it to the men to eat, but as they started eating the stew, they cried out, "Man of God, there is death in the pot!" And they could not eat it. [41] "Get some flour," he said. He threw it into the pot and said, "Serve it to the people so they can eat." And there was nothing harmful in the pot. [42] A man came from Baal-shalishah bringing the man of God some bread from the firstfruits: twenty barley loaves and some fresh grain in his sack. Elisha said, "Give it to the people to eat." [43] "How can I set this in front of a hundred men?" his servant asked. He said, "Give it to the people to eat, for this is what the LORD says: 'They will eat and have some left.'" [44] So he set it in front of them, and they ate and had some left, as the LORD had said.

[1] Naaman, the army commander of the king of Syria, was a great man in his master's eyes and held in high esteem, for through him the LORD had given Syria victory. He was a valiant warrior, but he was leprous. [2] Syrian raiding parties had gone out and taken captive a young girl from the land of Israel, and she waited on Naaman's wife. [3] She told her mistress, "If only my master could go to the prophet in Samaria! He would rid him of his leprosy." [4] Naaman went and reported to his master, "This is what the girl from the land of Israel said." [5] "Go, by all means," said the king of Syria, "and I will send a letter to the king of Israel." He set off, taking with him ten talents of silver, six thousand shekels of gold and ten sets of clothing. [6] He delivered the letter to the king of Israel. It read: "With this letter I am sending my servant Naaman to you, so that you may rid him of his leprosy." [7] As soon as the king of Israel read the letter, he tore his clothes and said, "Am I God, able to kill and make alive, that this man sends me someone to rid of his leprosy? You can see plainly that he is picking a quarrel with me!" [8] When Elisha the man of God heard that the king of Israel had torn his clothes, he sent word to the king: "Why have you torn your clothes? Let the man come to me, and he will learn that there is a prophet in Israel." [9] So Naaman came with his horses and chariot and stopped at the door of Elisha's house. [10] Elisha sent a messenger out to tell him, "Go and wash in the Jordan seven times, and your flesh will be restored and you will be clean." [11] Naaman went off angry. "I thought," he said, "that he would surely come out to me, stand there, call on the name of the LORD his God, wave his hand over the spot and rid me of the leprosy. [12] Are not Amana and Pharpar, the rivers of Damascus, better than any of the waters of Israel? Could I not wash in them and be clean?" He turned and went off in a fury.* [13] His servants came up to him and said, "My father, if the prophet had told you to do something great, would you not have done it? How much more, then, when he simply tells you, 'Wash and be clean'!"* [14] So he went down and dipped himself in the Jordan seven times, as the man of God had said, and his flesh was restored and became like the flesh of a little boy, and he was clean. [15] Then he went back to the man of God with all his attendants. He stood before him and said, "Now I know that there is no God anywhere in the world except in Israel. Please accept a gift from your servant." [16] He answered, "As the LORD lives, in whose presence I stand, I will accept nothing." Naaman pressed him to take it, but he refused. [17] Naaman said, "If not, then please let your servant be given as much earth as a pair of mules can carry. For your servant will never again offer burnt offering or sacrifice to any god but the LORD. [18] But may the LORD forgive your servant for this one thing: when my master goes into the temple of Rimmon to bow down there, leaning on my arm, and I bow down in the temple of Rimmon, when I bow down in the temple of Rimmon, may the LORD forgive your servant for this." [19] "Go in peace," Elisha told him. And he had gone some distance from him [20] when Gehazi, the servant of Elisha the man of God, said to himself, "My master has let this Syrian Naaman off without accepting what he brought. As the LORD lives, I will run after him and get something from him." [21] So Gehazi hurried after Naaman. When Naaman saw a man running after him, he climbed down from his chariot to meet him and asked, "Is everything all right?" [22] "Everything is all right," he said. "My master sent me to say, 'Two young men from the sons of the prophets have just come to me from the hill country of Ephraim. Please give them a talent of silver and two sets of clothing.'" [23] "Please, take two talents," said Naaman. He insisted, and he tied up two talents of silver in two bags, with two sets of clothing, and handed them to two of his servants, who carried them in front of Gehazi. [24] When he came to the hill, he took them from them and put them away in the house. Then he sent the men off, and they left. [25] He went in and stood before his master. Elisha asked him, "Where have you been, Gehazi?" "Your servant has not been anywhere," he answered. [26] But Elisha said to him, "Was my heart not there when the man turned back from his chariot to meet you? Is this the time to take silver and to take clothing, olive groves and vineyards, sheep and cattle, male and female servants? [27] Naaman's leprosy will cling to you and your descendants forever." And he went out from his presence leprous, white as snow.

CHAPTER 6

[1] The sons of the prophets told Elisha, "As you can see, the place where we live under your oversight is too small for us. [] [2] Let us go to the Jordan, where each of us can get a log, and let us build ourselves a place to live there." "Go," he said. [3] Then one of them said, "Please come along with your servants." "I will come," he answered. [4] So he went with them. They came to the Jordan and began cutting down trees. [5] As one of them was cutting down a log, the iron head fell into the water. "Oh, my lord!" he cried. "It was a borrowed one!" [6] "Where did it fall?" asked the man of God. When he pointed out the spot, Elisha cut a stick, threw it in there and made the iron float. [7] "Lift it out," he said. And the man reached out his hand and took it. [8] The king of Syria was at war with Israel. After conferring with his servants he would say, "My camp will be at such and such a place." [9] But the man of God would send word to the king of Israel: "Beware of passing that place, for the Syrians are going down there." [10] The king of Israel would then send men to the place the man of God had told him about. Time and again Elisha warned him, and he kept on his guard there, more than once or twice. [11] This greatly troubled the heart of the king of Syria. He summoned his servants and demanded, "Tell me! Which of us is on the side of the king of Israel?" [12] One of his servants said, "No one, my lord the king. It is Elisha, the prophet in Israel, who tells the king of Israel the very words you speak in your bedroom." [13] "Go and find out where he is," he ordered, "so I can send men to capture him." He was told, "He is in Dothan." [14] So he sent horses, chariots and a large force there. They arrived by night and encircled the town. [15] Early the next morning the servant of the man of God got up and went outside, and there was an army with horses and chariots encircling the town. "Oh, my lord, what are we to do?" his servant asked him. [16] "Do not be afraid," he answered. "There are more with us than with them." [17] Elisha prayed, "LORD, open his eyes, please, so he can see." The LORD opened the young man's eyes, and he saw the mountain full of horses and chariots of fire surrounding Elisha. [18] As the Syrians came down toward him, Elisha prayed to the LORD, "Please strike these people with blindness." And he struck them with blindness, as Elisha had asked. [19] Elisha told them, "This is not the road, and this is not the town. Follow me, and I will lead you to the man you are looking for." And he led them to Samaria. [20] When they had come into Samaria, Elisha said, "LORD, open these men's eyes so they can see." The LORD opened their eyes, and they saw that they were inside Samaria. [21] On seeing them, the king of Israel asked Elisha, "Shall I strike them down, my father? Shall I strike them down?" [22] "Do not strike them down," he answered. "Do you strike down men you have captured with your own sword and bow? Set food and water before them so they can eat and drink and then go back to their master." [23] So he laid on a great meal for them, and after they had eaten and drunk he sent them away, and they went back to their master. And the Syrian raiding parties stopped coming into Israel's territory. [24] Some time later Ben-hadad king of Syria mustered his whole army, marched up and laid siege to Samaria. [25] A great famine came over Samaria. They kept up the siege until a donkey's head sold for eighty shekels of silver and a quarter of a kab of dove's dung for five shekels of silver. [] [26] One day as the king of Israel was walking along the wall, a woman called out to him, "Save me, my lord the king!" [27] He said, "If the LORD does not save you, where can I find help for you? From the threshing floor? From the winepress?" [28] Then the king asked her, "What is wrong?" She answered, "This woman told me, 'Hand over your son so we can eat him today, and tomorrow we will eat my son.' [29] So we cooked my son and ate him. The next day I told her, 'Hand over your son so we can eat him,' but she has hidden her son." [30] When the king heard what the woman said, he tore his clothes. As he walked along the wall, the people looked, and there underneath, against his body, was sackcloth. [31] He said, "May God do so to me and more, if the head of Elisha son of Shaphat stays on his shoulders today!" [32] Elisha was sitting in his house with the elders sitting there with him. The king sent a man on ahead, but before the messenger reached him, Elisha told the elders, "Do you see how this murderer's son has sent someone to cut off my head? Watch, and when the messenger comes, shut the door and hold it shut against him. Is not the sound of his master's footsteps right behind him?" [33] He was still talking with them when the messenger came down to him and said, "This evil comes from the LORD! Why should I wait for the LORD any longer?"*

CHAPTER 7

[1] Elisha said, "Hear the word of the LORD. This is what the LORD says: 'By this time tomorrow at the gate of Samaria, a seah of fine flour will sell for a shekel, and two seahs of barley for a shekel.'" [2] The officer on whose arm the king leaned answered the man of God, "Even if the LORD were to open windows in the sky, could such a thing happen?" "You will see it with your own eyes," he said, "but you will not eat any of it." [3] Four men with leprosy were at the entrance to the gate, and they said to each other, "Why sit here until we die? [4] If we say, 'Let us go into the city,' there is famine in the city, and we will die there. If we stay here, we will die too. So come on, let us go over to the Syrian camp. If they let us live, we live; if they kill us, then we die." [5] At dusk they got up to go to the Syrian camp. When they reached the edge of the Syrian camp, there was not a man there. [6] For the Lord had made the Syrian army hear the noise of chariots and horses, the noise of a great army, and they said to one another, "The king of Israel has hired the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Egypt to attack us!" [7] So they had got up and fled at dusk, abandoning their tents, their horses and their donkeys. They left the camp as it stood and ran for their lives. [8] When these lepers reached the edge of the camp, they went into a tent, ate and drank, and carried off silver, gold and clothes, which they went and hid. Then they came back, went into another tent, carried things off from it, and went and hid them too. [9] Then they told each other, "What we are doing is not right. Today is a day of good news, and we are keeping it to ourselves. If we wait until morning light, guilt will catch up with us. Come on, let us go and report it at the king's palace." [10] So they went and called out to the city's gatekeepers and told them, "We went into the Syrian camp, and there was no one there, not a voice to be heard, only horses and donkeys tied up, and the tents just as they were." [11] The gatekeepers shouted the news, and it was reported inside the king's palace. [12] The king got up during the night and told his servants, "I will tell you what the Syrians have done to us. They know we are starving, so they have left the camp to hide out in the countryside. They are thinking, 'When they come out of the city, we will capture them alive and get into the city.'" [13] One of his servants answered, "Have some men take five of the horses still left in the city. Look, they are like the whole multitude of Israel that is left in it; they are like the whole multitude of Israel that has perished. Let us send them and find out."* [14] They took two chariots with horses, and the king sent them out after the Syrian army with the order, "Go and find out." [15] They followed them as far as the Jordan, and the whole way was littered with clothing and gear the Syrians had thrown off as they fled in haste. The messengers came back and reported to the king. [16] Then the people went out and plundered the Syrian camp. A seah of fine flour sold for a shekel, and two seahs of barley for a shekel, as the LORD had said. [17] The king had put the officer on whose arm he leaned in charge of the gate, and the people trampled him in the gateway, and he died, just as the man of God had said when the king came down to him. [18] It turned out as the man of God had told the king: "Two seahs of barley will sell for a shekel and a seah of fine flour for a shekel by this time tomorrow at the gate of Samaria." [19] The officer had answered the man of God, "Even if the LORD were to open windows in the sky, could such a thing happen?" And he had replied, "You will see it with your own eyes, but you will not eat any of it." [20] And that is what happened to him: the people trampled him in the gateway, and he died.

CHAPTER 8

[1] Elisha had spoken to the woman whose son he had brought back to life: "Get up and go away with your household, and live as a foreigner wherever you can, because the LORD has summoned a famine, and it is coming on the land for seven years." [2] The woman got up and did as the man of God had said. She and her household went and lived as foreigners in the land of the Philistines for seven years. [3] When the seven years were over, the woman came back from the land of the Philistines and went to appeal to the king for her house and her land. [4] The king happened to be talking with Gehazi, the servant of the man of God. "Tell me," he was saying, "about all the great things Elisha has done." [5] Just as Gehazi was telling the king how Elisha had brought the dead boy back to life, the woman whose son he had revived came to appeal to the king for her house and land. Gehazi said, "My lord the king, this is the woman, and this is her son whom Elisha brought back to life." [6] The king questioned the woman, and she told him the story. Then the king assigned an official to her case, saying, "Give back everything that belonged to her, along with all the income from her land from the day she left the country until now." [7] Elisha went to Damascus at a time when Ben-hadad king of Syria was ill. When the king was told, "The man of God has come all the way here," [8] he said to Hazael, "Take a gift with you and go to meet the man of God. Consult the LORD through him: 'Will I get over this illness?'" [9] Hazael went to meet him, taking along a gift of every fine thing from Damascus, forty camel-loads. He came and stood before him and said, "Your son Ben-hadad king of Syria has sent me to ask you, 'Will I get over this illness?'" [10] Elisha told him, "Go and say to him, 'You will surely recover.' But the LORD has shown me that he will surely die."* [11] He kept his face fixed in a stare until he was ashamed, and then the man of God began to weep. * [12] "Why is my lord weeping?" asked Hazael. "Because I know the evil you will do to the children of Israel," he answered. "You will set fire to their fortified places, kill their young men with the sword, dash their little children to pieces and rip open their pregnant women." [13] Hazael said, "But what is your servant, a dog, that he could do such a great thing?" Elisha answered, "The LORD has shown me that you will be king over Syria." [14] Then he left Elisha and went back to his master, who asked him, "What did Elisha tell you?" He answered, "He told me you would surely recover." [15] But the next day he took the blanket, soaked it in water and spread it over the king's face until he died. And Hazael reigned in his place. [16] In the fifth year of Joram son of Ahab, king of Israel, Jehoshaphat being king of Judah, Jehoram son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, became king. [] [17] He was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. [18] He walked in the ways of the kings of Israel, just as Ahab's house had done, for he was married to Ahab's daughter; he did what was evil in the sight of the LORD. [19] But the LORD was not willing to destroy Judah, for the sake of his servant David, since he had promised to give him and his sons a lamp for all time. [20] During his reign Edom revolted against Judah's rule and made a king for themselves. [21] So Joram went over to Zair with all his chariots. Rising by night, he attacked the Edomites who had surrounded him and the chariot commanders, and the army fled to their tents. [22] And Edom has remained in revolt against Judah's rule to this day. Libnah revolted at that same time as well. [23] As for the rest of the deeds of Joram and all he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [24] Joram lay down with his fathers and was buried with them in the city of David, and his son Ahaziah became king in his place. [25] In the twelfth year of Joram son of Ahab, king of Israel, Ahaziah son of Jehoram, king of Judah, became king. [26] Ahaziah was twenty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem one year. His mother was Athaliah, granddaughter of Omri king of Israel. [] [27] He walked in the way of Ahab's house and did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, as the house of Ahab had, since he was related by marriage to Ahab's house. [28] He joined Joram son of Ahab in war against Hazael king of Syria at Ramoth-gilead, and the Syrians wounded Joram. [29] King Joram returned to Jezreel to recover from the wounds the Syrians had inflicted on him at Ramah when he fought Hazael king of Syria. Ahaziah son of Jehoram, king of Judah, went down to Jezreel to see Joram son of Ahab, because he was ill.

CHAPTER 9

[1] Elisha the prophet summoned one of the sons of the prophets and told him, "Tuck your cloak into your belt, take this flask of oil with you and go to Ramoth-gilead. [2] When you get there, find Jehu son of Jehoshaphat son of Nimshi. Go in, get him up from among his brothers and take him into an inner room. [3] Take the flask of oil, pour it on his head and say, 'This is what the LORD says: I anoint you king over Israel.' Then open the door and run; do not linger." [4] So the young man, the young prophet, went to Ramoth-gilead. [5] When he arrived, the army commanders were sitting there together. "I have a message for you, commander," he said. "For which of us?" asked Jehu. "For you, commander," he answered. [6] Jehu got up and went into the house. The young man poured the oil on his head and told him, "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'I anoint you king over the LORD's people, over Israel. [7] You are to strike down the house of your master Ahab, and I will avenge the blood of my servants the prophets and the blood of all the LORD's servants shed by Jezebel. [8] All of Ahab's house will perish. I will cut off from Ahab every male in Israel, bond or free. [] [9] I will make Ahab's house like the house of Jeroboam son of Nebat and like the house of Baasha son of Ahijah. [10] As for Jezebel, the dogs will eat her on the plot of land at Jezreel, and no one will bury her.'" Then he opened the door and ran. [11] When Jehu went back out to his master's officers, one of them asked him, "Is everything all right? Why did this crazy fellow come to you?" "You know the man and the way he talks," he answered. [12] "Not true!" they said. "Tell us." So he said, "He told me such and such, and said, 'This is what the LORD says: I anoint you king over Israel.'" [13] At once each of them took his cloak and spread it under Jehu on the bare steps. They blew the trumpet and shouted, "Jehu is king!" [] [14] So Jehu son of Jehoshaphat son of Nimshi plotted against Joram. (Joram and all Israel had been guarding Ramoth-gilead against Hazael king of Syria, [15] but King Jehoram had gone back to Jezreel to recover from the wounds the Syrians had inflicted on him in his battle with Hazael king of Syria.) Jehu said, "If you are with me, do not let anyone escape from the town to go and report this in Jezreel." [16] Then Jehu got into a chariot and rode to Jezreel, because Joram was lying ill there, and Ahaziah king of Judah had gone down to see Joram. [17] The lookout standing on the tower in Jezreel saw Jehu's troops approaching and called out, "I see troops!" "Get a horseman," Jehoram ordered. "Send him to meet them and ask, 'Do you come in peace?'" [18] The horseman rode off to meet him and said, "The king asks, 'Do you come in peace?'" "What does peace matter to you?" Jehu answered. "Fall in behind me." The lookout reported, "The messenger has reached them, but he is not coming back." [19] So the king sent out a second horseman. He came to them and said, "The king asks, 'Do you come in peace?'" Jehu answered, "What does peace matter to you? Fall in behind me." [20] The lookout reported, "He has reached them, but he is not coming back either. And the driving is like that of Jehu son of Nimshi; he drives like a maniac." [21] "Hitch up my chariot," Jehoram ordered, and they hitched it up. Jehoram king of Israel and Ahaziah king of Judah rode out, each in his own chariot, to meet Jehu, and they met him at the plot of land that had belonged to Naboth the Jezreelite. [22] When Jehoram saw Jehu, he asked, "Do you come in peace, Jehu?" "How can there be peace," he answered, "while the harlotries and the many sorceries of your mother Jezebel continue?" [23] Jehoram wheeled around and fled, calling out to Ahaziah, "Treason, Ahaziah!" [24] Jehu drew his bow with all his strength and shot Jehoram between the shoulders. The arrow pierced his heart, and he slumped down in his chariot. [25] Jehu said to Bidkar, his officer, "Pick him up and throw him onto the field that belonged to Naboth the Jezreelite. Remember how you and I were riding together behind his father Ahab when the LORD uttered this burden of prophecy against him: [*] [26] 'As surely as I saw the blood of Naboth and the blood of his sons yesterday, declares the LORD, I will repay you on this very plot of land, declares the LORD.' So pick him up and throw him onto that plot, as the LORD said." [27] When Ahaziah king of Judah saw what had happened, he fled along the road to Beth-haggan. Jehu chased him, shouting, "Shoot him too!" They shot him in his chariot on the ascent of Gur near Ibleam, but he fled to Megiddo and died there. [28] His servants took him by chariot to Jerusalem and buried him with his fathers in his tomb in the city of David. [29] In the eleventh year of Joram son of Ahab, Ahaziah had become king over Judah. [30] Then Jehu came to Jezreel. When Jezebel heard about it, she put makeup on her eyes, arranged her hair and looked out of the window. [31] As Jehu came in through the gate, she called out, "Do you come in peace, you Zimri, you murderer of your master?" [32] He looked up at the window and called, "Who is on my side? Who?" Two or three eunuchs looked down at him. [33] "Throw her down!" he said. They threw her down, and some of her blood splattered the wall and the horses, and he trampled her underfoot. [34] Jehu went in and ate and drank. Then he said, "Take care of that cursed woman and bury her, since she was a king's daughter." [35] But when they went out to bury her, all they found were her skull, her feet and the palms of her hands. [36] They went back and told him, and he said, "This is the word of the LORD that he spoke through his servant Elijah the Tishbite: 'On the plot of land at Jezreel the dogs will eat Jezebel's flesh, [37] and Jezebel's corpse will be like dung on the surface of the ground in the plot of land at Jezreel, so that no one will be able to say, "This is Jezebel."'"

CHAPTER 10

[1] Ahab had seventy sons living in Samaria. Jehu wrote letters and sent them to Samaria, to the officials of Jezreel, to the elders and to the guardians of Ahab's sons. They said: [] [2] "Your master's sons are with you, and you have the chariots and horses, a fortified city and weapons. So as soon as this letter reaches you, [3] pick out the best and most upright of your master's sons, put him on his father's throne and fight for your master's house." [4] But they were terrified. "If two kings could not stand up to him," they said, "how can we?" [5] So the palace administrator, the city governor, the elders and the guardians sent this message to Jehu: "We are your servants, and we will do whatever you tell us. We will not make anyone king. Do what seems best to you." [6] He wrote them a second letter: "If you are with me and will obey me, take the heads of your master's sons and come to me at Jezreel by this time tomorrow." The seventy sons of the king were with the leading men of the city, who were bringing them up. [7] As soon as the letter arrived, they took the king's sons and slaughtered all seventy of them. They put their heads in baskets and sent them to Jehu at Jezreel. [8] A messenger came and told him, "They have brought the heads of the king's sons." He said, "Pile them in two heaps at the entrance of the gate until morning." [9] In the morning he went out, stood there and told all the people, "You are blameless. It was I who plotted against my master and killed him. But who struck down all of these? [10] Understand, then, that not one word of the LORD that the LORD spoke against Ahab's house will fall to the ground. The LORD has done what he said through his servant Elijah." [11] Then Jehu struck down everyone in Jezreel who was left of Ahab's house, all his leading men, his close friends and his priests, leaving him not a single survivor. [12] Jehu then set out for Samaria. At Beth-eked of the Shepherds, on the way, [13] he came upon the brothers of Ahaziah king of Judah and asked, "Who are you?" They said, "We are the brothers of Ahaziah, and we have come down to greet the sons of the king and the sons of the queen mother." [14] "Take them alive!" he ordered. They took them alive and slaughtered them at the well of Beth-eked, forty-two men. He did not leave a single one of them. [15] Going on from there, he came upon Jehonadab son of Rechab, who was on his way to meet him. Jehu greeted him and asked, "Is your heart right with mine, as my heart is with yours?" "It is," Jehonadab answered. "If so," said Jehu, "give me your hand." He gave him his hand, and Jehu pulled him up into the chariot beside him. [] [16] "Come along with me," he said, "and see my zeal for the LORD." And they had him ride along in his chariot. [17] On arriving in Samaria, Jehu struck down all who were left of Ahab's family in Samaria until he had destroyed them, as the LORD had told Elijah. [18] Then Jehu assembled all the people and told them, "Ahab served Baal a little; Jehu will serve him a great deal. [19] Now summon all the prophets of Baal, all his worshipers and all his priests to me. Do not let anyone be absent, because I am holding a great sacrifice for Baal. Anyone who is absent will not live." But Jehu was acting deceptively, in order to wipe out the worshipers of Baal. [20] Jehu said, "Consecrate a solemn assembly for Baal." And they announced it. [21] Jehu sent word through all Israel, and all the worshipers of Baal came; not one of them stayed away. They crowded into the temple of Baal until it was full from end to end. [22] Jehu told the keeper of the wardrobe, "Bring out robes for all the worshipers of Baal." And he brought robes out for them. [23] Then Jehu and Jehonadab son of Rechab went into the temple of Baal, and Jehu told the worshipers of Baal, "Look around and make sure there are no servants of the LORD here with you, only worshipers of Baal." [24] They went in to offer sacrifices and burnt offerings. Jehu had posted eighty men outside with this warning: "If anyone lets one of the men I am handing over to you escape, it will be his life for that man's life." [25] As soon as Jehu had finished offering the burnt offering, he ordered the guards and officers, "Go in and kill them! Let no one get out!" They cut them down with the sword, and the guards and officers threw the bodies out and went on into the inner city of the temple of Baal. [*] [26] They brought the sacred pillars out of the temple of Baal and burned them. [27] They demolished the sacred pillar of Baal, demolished the temple of Baal and turned it into a latrine, as it remains to this day. [28] So Jehu rooted Baal out of Israel. [29] Yet Jehu did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, by which he caused Israel to sin: the golden calves at Bethel and at Dan. [30] The LORD told Jehu, "Because you have done well in carrying out what is right in my sight, and have done to Ahab's house all that I had in mind, your descendants to the fourth generation will sit on Israel's throne." [31] But Jehu took no care to walk in the law of the LORD, the God of Israel, with his whole heart. He did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam, by which he caused Israel to sin. [32] In those days the LORD began to cut pieces off Israel. Hazael defeated them all along Israel's borders, [33] from the Jordan eastward: all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, the Reubenites and the Manassites, from Aroer by the Arnon Valley through Gilead and Bashan. [34] As for the rest of the deeds of Jehu and all he did, and all his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? [35] Jehu lay down with his fathers and was buried in Samaria, and his son Jehoahaz became king in his place. [36] Jehu reigned over Israel in Samaria for twenty-eight years.

CHAPTER 11

[1] When Athaliah, Ahaziah's mother, saw that her son was dead, she set about destroying the whole royal family. [2] But Jehosheba, King Joram's daughter and Ahaziah's sister, took Joash son of Ahaziah and stole him away from among the king's sons who were about to be killed. She put him and his nurse in a bedroom. So they hid him from Athaliah, and he was not killed. [3] For six years he stayed hidden with her in the LORD's house while Athaliah ruled the land. [4] In the seventh year Jehoiada sent for the commanders of hundreds of the Carites and of the guard and had them come to him in the LORD's house. He made a covenant with them, put them under oath in the LORD's house, and then showed them the king's son. [] [5] He gave them these orders: "Here is what you are to do. One third of you who come on duty on the Sabbath are to guard the king's palace, [6] one third are to be at the Sur Gate, and one third at the gate behind the guard. You are to keep watch over the house, as a barrier. [7] Your other two companies, all those going off duty on the Sabbath, are to guard the LORD's house around the king. [8] Form a ring around the king, each man with his weapon in his hand. Anyone who comes into your ranks is to be put to death. Stay close to the king wherever he goes." [9] The commanders of hundreds did everything Jehoiada the priest ordered. Each took his men, those coming on duty on the Sabbath along with those going off duty on the Sabbath, and came to Jehoiada the priest. [10] The priest handed the commanders of hundreds the spears and shields of King David that were kept in the LORD's house. [11] The guards took their places, each with his weapon in his hand, from the south side of the house to the north side, around the altar and the house, surrounding the king. [12] Then Jehoiada brought out the king's son, placed the crown on him and gave him the testimony. They proclaimed him king and anointed him, clapping their hands and shouting, "Long live the king!" [] [13] Athaliah heard the noise of the guards and the people, and she went to the people at the LORD's house. [14] She looked, and there was the king, standing by the pillar as the custom was, with the commanders and the trumpeters beside him, and all the people of the land rejoicing and sounding trumpets. Athaliah tore her clothes and screamed, "Treason! Treason!" [15] Jehoiada the priest ordered the commanders of hundreds who were in charge of the troops, "Take her out between the ranks, and kill with the sword anyone who follows her." For the priest had said, "She must not be put to death in the LORD's house." [16] So they seized her, and when she reached the place where the horses enter the palace grounds, she was put to death there. [17] Jehoiada then made a covenant between the LORD and the king and people that they would be the LORD's people, and also between the king and the people. [18] All the people of the land went to the temple of Baal and tore it down. They smashed its altars and images to pieces and killed Mattan the priest of Baal in front of the altars. Then the priest posted guards over the LORD's house. [19] He took the commanders of hundreds, the Carites, the guards and all the people of the land, and together they brought the king down from the LORD's house and went into the palace by way of the gate of the guards. And he took his seat on the throne of the kings. [20] All the people of the land rejoiced, and the city was at peace, because Athaliah had been killed with the sword at the palace. [21] Jehoash was seven years old when he became king.

CHAPTER 12

[1] In the seventh year of Jehu, Jehoash became king, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem. His mother was Zibiah of Beersheba. [2] All his life Jehoash did what was right in the sight of the LORD, as Jehoiada the priest taught him. [3] The high places, however, were not removed; the people went on sacrificing and burning incense at the high places. [4] Jehoash told the priests, "All the money from holy gifts that is brought into the LORD's house, the money for which each man is assessed, the money from persons according to their valuation, and all the money anyone freely decides in his heart to bring into the LORD's house, [*] [5] the priests are to receive, each from the people he deals with, and they are to repair the damaged parts of the house wherever damage is found." [6] But by King Jehoash's twenty-third year, the priests still had not repaired the damage to the house. [7] So King Jehoash called in Jehoiada the priest and the other priests and asked them, "Why are you not repairing the damage to the house? From now on take no more money from the people you deal with; hand it over for the damage to the house." [8] The priests agreed not to take any more money from the people, and also not to be responsible for repairing the damage to the house. [9] Jehoiada the priest took a chest, drilled a hole in its lid and placed it beside the altar on the right as one comes into the LORD's house. The priests who kept the doorway put into it all the money brought into the LORD's house. [10] Whenever they saw that the chest held a lot of money, the royal scribe and the high priest would come up, tie it up in bags and count the money found in the LORD's house. [11] They handed the money, once it was weighed, to the men appointed to oversee the work on the LORD's house. These paid it out to the carpenters and builders working on the LORD's house, [12] to the masons and stonecutters, and for buying timber and hewn stone to repair the damage to the LORD's house, and for every other expense of repairing the house. [13] The money brought into the LORD's house was not used to make silver basins, snuffers, sprinkling bowls, trumpets or any articles of gold or silver for the LORD's house; [14] it was given to the workmen, who used it to repair the LORD's house. [15] They did not require an accounting from the men to whom they gave the money to pay the workmen, because they acted honestly. [16] The money from guilt offerings and sin offerings was not brought into the LORD's house; it belonged to the priests. [17] About that time Hazael king of Syria went up, attacked Gath and captured it. Then Hazael turned to go up against Jerusalem. [18] Jehoash king of Judah took all the holy gifts dedicated by his fathers Jehoshaphat, Jehoram and Ahaziah, kings of Judah, along with his own holy gifts and all the gold to be found in the treasuries of the LORD's house and of the palace, and sent it to Hazael king of Syria. And Hazael withdrew from Jerusalem. [19] As for the rest of the deeds of Joash and all he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [20] His servants rose up and formed a plot, and they struck Joash down at Beth-millo, on the road down to Silla. [21] His servants Jozabad son of Shimeath and Jehozabad son of Shomer struck him, and he died. He was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and his son Amaziah became king in his place.

CHAPTER 13

[1] In the twenty-third year of Joash son of Ahaziah, king of Judah, Jehoahaz son of Jehu became king over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned seventeen years. [2] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD and followed the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, by which he caused Israel to sin; he did not give them up. [3] So the LORD's anger burned against Israel, and for a long time he kept them under the power of Hazael king of Syria and of Ben-hadad son of Hazael. [4] Then Jehoahaz pleaded with the LORD, and the LORD heeded him, for he saw how the king of Syria was oppressing Israel. [5] The LORD gave Israel a deliverer, and they got free of Syria's power. So the children of Israel lived in their tents as they had before. [6] Even so, they did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam's house, by which he caused Israel to sin; they kept walking in them. The Asherah, too, still stood in Samaria. [7] Of the army of Jehoahaz there was left only fifty horsemen, ten chariots and ten thousand foot soldiers, for the king of Syria had destroyed them and made them like dust at threshing time. [8] As for the rest of the deeds of Jehoahaz and all he did, and his might, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? [9] Jehoahaz lay down with his fathers and was buried in Samaria, and his son Joash became king in his place. [10] In the thirty-seventh year of Joash king of Judah, Jehoash son of Jehoahaz became king over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned sixteen years. [11] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD. He did not turn away from any of the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, by which he caused Israel to sin; he kept walking in them. [12] As for the rest of the deeds of Joash and all he did, and the might with which he fought against Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? [13] Joash lay down with his fathers, and Jeroboam took his seat on his throne. Joash was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel. [14] When Elisha was suffering from the illness from which he would die, Joash king of Israel went down to see him and wept over him, crying, "My father, my father! Israel's chariots and horsemen!" [15] Elisha told him, "Get a bow and some arrows," and he got a bow and arrows. [16] "Take the bow in your hand," he told the king of Israel. When he had done so, Elisha put his hands on the king's hands. [17] "Open the east window," he said, and he opened it. "Shoot!" Elisha said, and he shot. Elisha declared, "The LORD's arrow of victory, the arrow of victory over Syria! You will strike the Syrians at Aphek until you have finished them off."* [18] Then he said, "Take the arrows," and the king took them. He told the king of Israel, "Strike the ground." He struck it three times and then stopped. [19] The man of God was angry with him and said, "You should have struck five or six times! Then you would have struck Syria until you had finished it off. Now you will strike Syria only three times." [20] Elisha died and was buried. Moabite raiding parties used to come into the land every spring. [21] Once, as some men were burying a man, they suddenly saw a raiding party, so they threw the man into Elisha's tomb. As soon as the body touched Elisha's bones, the man came to life and stood up on his feet. [22] Hazael king of Syria oppressed Israel throughout the reign of Jehoahaz. [23] But the LORD was gracious to them, showed them compassion and turned toward them because of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. He was unwilling to destroy them and has not yet thrown them out of his presence. [24] Hazael king of Syria died, and his son Ben-hadad became king in his place. [25] Then Jehoash son of Jehoahaz took back from Ben-hadad son of Hazael the towns that Hazael had taken in war from his father Jehoahaz. Three times Joash defeated him, and he recovered the towns of Israel.

CHAPTER 14

[1] In the second year of Joash son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel, Amaziah son of Joash, king of Judah, became king. [2] He was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem. [3] He did what was right in the sight of the LORD, but not as his father David had; in everything he followed the example of his father Joash. [4] The high places, however, were not removed; the people went on sacrificing and burning incense at the high places. [5] Once the kingdom was firmly in his grasp, he executed the servants who had murdered his father the king. [6] But he did not put the murderers' sons to death, in keeping with what is written in the book of the law of Moses, where the LORD commanded: "Fathers are not to be put to death for their sons, and sons are not to be put to death for their fathers; each one is to die for his own sin." [7] He defeated ten thousand Edomites in the Valley of Salt and captured Sela in battle, naming it Joktheel, the name it has to this day. [8] Then Amaziah sent messengers to Jehoash son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu, king of Israel, with this challenge: "Come, let us meet face to face." [9] Jehoash king of Israel sent back this answer to Amaziah king of Judah: "A thistle in Lebanon sent word to a cedar in Lebanon, 'Give your daughter to my son in marriage.' Then a wild animal of Lebanon came by and trampled the thistle. [10] You have certainly defeated Edom, and now your heart has made you proud. Enjoy your glory, but stay home. Why stir up trouble and bring about your own fall, and Judah's with you?" [11] Amaziah, however, would not listen. So Jehoash king of Israel marched up, and he and Amaziah king of Judah met face to face at Beth-shemesh in Judah. [12] Judah was routed by Israel, and every man fled home to his tent. [13] Jehoash king of Israel captured Amaziah king of Judah, son of Jehoash son of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh. Then he went to Jerusalem and broke down the wall of Jerusalem from the Ephraim Gate to the Corner Gate, a stretch of four hundred cubits. [14] He took all the gold and silver and all the articles found in the LORD's house and in the palace treasuries, as well as hostages, and went back to Samaria.* [15] As for the rest of the deeds of Jehoash, what he did, and his might, and how he fought with Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? [16] Jehoash lay down with his fathers and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel, and his son Jeroboam became king in his place. [17] Amaziah son of Joash, king of Judah, outlived Jehoash son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel, by fifteen years. [18] As for the rest of the deeds of Amaziah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [19] A plot was formed against him in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish, but they sent men after him to Lachish and killed him there. [20] They carried him back on horses, and he was buried in Jerusalem with his fathers in the city of David. [21] All the people of Judah took Azariah, who was sixteen years old, and made him king in place of his father Amaziah. [22] He was the one who rebuilt Elath and restored it to Judah after the king lay down with his fathers. [23] In the fifteenth year of Amaziah son of Joash, king of Judah, Jeroboam son of Joash, king of Israel, became king in Samaria, and he reigned forty-one years. [24] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD and did not turn away from any of the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, by which he caused Israel to sin. [25] He restored Israel's border from Lebo-hamath to the Sea of the Arabah, as the LORD, the God of Israel, had said through his servant Jonah son of Amittai, the prophet from Gath-hepher. [26] For the LORD had seen how very bitter Israel's suffering was; there was no one left, bond or free, and no one to help Israel.* [27] The LORD had not said he would blot out Israel's name from under heaven, so he saved them through Jeroboam son of Joash. [28] As for the rest of the deeds of Jeroboam and all he did, and his might, how he fought and how he recovered for Israel Damascus and Hamath, which had belonged to Judah, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel?* [29] Jeroboam lay down with his fathers, the kings of Israel, and his son Zechariah became king in his place.

CHAPTER 15

[1] In the twenty-seventh year of Jeroboam king of Israel, Azariah son of Amaziah, king of Judah, became king. [2] He was sixteen years old when he became king, and he reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jecoliah of Jerusalem. [3] He did what was right in the sight of the LORD, just as his father Amaziah had done in everything. [4] The high places, however, were not removed; the people went on sacrificing and burning incense at the high places. [5] The LORD afflicted the king, and he had leprosy until the day he died. He lived in a separate house, while Jotham, the king's son, was in charge of the palace and governed the people of the land.* [6] As for the rest of the deeds of Azariah and all he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [7] Azariah lay down with his fathers and was buried with them in the city of David, and his son Jotham became king in his place. [8] In the thirty-eighth year of Azariah king of Judah, Zechariah son of Jeroboam reigned over Israel in Samaria six months. [9] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, as his fathers had done; he did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, by which he caused Israel to sin. [10] Shallum son of Jabesh plotted against him, attacked him in front of the people, killed him and became king in his place.* [11] As for the rest of the deeds of Zechariah, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel. [12] So the word the LORD had spoken to Jehu was fulfilled: "Your descendants to the fourth generation will sit on Israel's throne." And that is how it turned out. [13] Shallum son of Jabesh became king in the thirty-ninth year of Uzziah king of Judah, and he reigned one full month in Samaria.* [14] Then Menahem son of Gadi went up from Tirzah to Samaria, attacked Shallum son of Jabesh in Samaria, killed him and became king in his place. [15] As for the rest of the deeds of Shallum, and the conspiracy that he made, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel. [16] At that time Menahem, setting out from Tirzah, attacked Tiphsah and everyone in it and in its territory, because they would not open their gates to him. He sacked it and ripped open all its pregnant women. [17] In the thirty-ninth year of Azariah king of Judah, Menahem son of Gadi became king over Israel, and he reigned ten years in Samaria. [18] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD; as long as he lived he did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, by which he caused Israel to sin. [19] When Pul king of Assyria invaded the land, Menahem paid Pul a thousand talents of silver to win his support and make his own grip on the kingship firm. [20] Menahem raised the silver from Israel by levying it on all the wealthy men, fifty shekels of silver apiece, to pay the king of Assyria. So the king of Assyria withdrew and did not stay in the land. [21] As for the rest of the deeds of Menahem and all he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel? [22] Menahem lay down with his fathers, and his son Pekahiah became king in his place. [23] In the fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah, Pekahiah son of Menahem became king over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned two years. [24] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD; he did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, by which he caused Israel to sin. [25] His officer Pekah son of Remaliah plotted against him and, with fifty Gileadite men, assassinated him in Samaria in the stronghold of the palace, along with Argob and Arieh. He killed him and became king in his place. [*] [26] As for the rest of the deeds of Pekahiah and all he did, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel. [27] In the fifty-second year of Azariah king of Judah, Pekah son of Remaliah became king over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned twenty years. [28] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD; he did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam son of Nebat, by which he caused Israel to sin. [29] During the reign of Pekah king of Israel, Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria came and seized Ijon, Abel-beth-maacah, Janoah, Kedesh, Hazor, Gilead and Galilee, the whole land of Naphtali, and deported the people to Assyria. [30] Then Hoshea son of Elah formed a plot against Pekah son of Remaliah. He attacked him, killed him and became king in his place, in the twentieth year of Jotham son of Uzziah. [31] As for the rest of the deeds of Pekah and all he did, they are written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Israel. [32] In the second year of Pekah son of Remaliah, king of Israel, Jotham son of Uzziah, king of Judah, became king. [33] He was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jerusha the daughter of Zadok. [34] He did what was right in the sight of the LORD, doing just as his father Uzziah had done. [35] The high places, however, were not removed; the people went on sacrificing and burning incense at the high places. He was the one who built the Upper Gate of the LORD's house. [36] As for the rest of the deeds of Jotham, what he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [37] In those days the LORD began sending Rezin king of Syria and Pekah son of Remaliah against Judah. [38] Jotham lay down with his fathers and was buried with them in the city of his father David, and his son Ahaz became king in his place.

CHAPTER 16

[1] In the seventeenth year of Pekah son of Remaliah, Ahaz son of Jotham, king of Judah, became king. [2] Ahaz was twenty years old when he became king, and he reigned in Jerusalem sixteen years. He did not do what was right in the sight of the LORD his God, as his father David had done. [3] He walked in the way of the kings of Israel; he even made his son pass through the fire, copying the abominations of the nations the LORD had driven out before the children of Israel. [4] He offered sacrifices and burned incense at the high places, on the hilltops and beneath every leafy tree. [5] Then Rezin king of Syria and Pekah son of Remaliah, king of Israel, marched up to make war on Jerusalem. They besieged Ahaz but were unable to defeat him. [6] At that time Rezin king of Syria won back Elath for Syria and drove the Judeans out of Elath. The Edomites came into Elath, and they have lived there to this day. [] [7] Ahaz sent messengers to Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria to say, "I am your servant and your son. Come up and rescue me from the power of the king of Syria and the king of Israel, who are attacking me." [8] Ahaz took the silver and gold found in the LORD's house and in the palace treasuries and sent it as a gift to the king of Assyria. [9] The king of Assyria agreed. He marched against Damascus and captured it, deported its people to Kir and put Rezin to death. [10] King Ahaz went to Damascus to meet Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria. When he saw the altar in Damascus, King Ahaz sent Uriah the priest a sketch of the altar and its pattern, with every detail of its construction. [11] Uriah the priest built an altar following all the instructions King Ahaz had sent from Damascus, and Uriah the priest finished it before King Ahaz got back from Damascus. [12] On returning from Damascus, the king saw the altar. He approached it and went up onto it, [13] and he burned his burnt offering and his grain offering, poured out his drink offering and splashed the blood of his peace offerings against the altar. [14] The bronze altar that stood before the LORD he brought from the front of the house, from between his new altar and the LORD's house, and set it on the north side of his altar. [15] King Ahaz then gave Uriah the priest these orders: "On the great altar, burn the morning burnt offering and the evening grain offering, the king's burnt offering and his grain offering, and the burnt offering of all the people of the land with their grain offering and drink offerings. Splash against it all the blood of the burnt offerings and sacrifices. The bronze altar will be for me to seek guidance." [16] Uriah the priest did everything King Ahaz ordered. [17] King Ahaz cut away the side panels of the stands and took the basins off them. He also lowered the Sea from the bronze oxen beneath it and set it on a stone base. [18] Out of deference to the king of Assyria, he removed from the LORD's house the covered way for the Sabbath that had been built at the house and the king's outer entrance. [] [19] As for the rest of the deeds of Ahaz, what he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [20] Ahaz lay down with his fathers and was buried with them in the city of David, and his son Hezekiah became king in his place.

CHAPTER 17

[1] In the twelfth year of Ahaz king of Judah, Hoshea son of Elah became king in Samaria over Israel, and he reigned nine years. [2] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, though not to the extent of the kings of Israel who preceded him. [3] Shalmaneser king of Assyria marched up against him, and Hoshea became his vassal and paid him tribute. [4] But the king of Assyria discovered that Hoshea was plotting against him; he had sent envoys to So king of Egypt and had stopped paying the yearly tribute to the king of Assyria. So the king of Assyria arrested him and put him in prison. [5] The king of Assyria then invaded the whole land, marched up to Samaria and laid siege to it for three years. [6] In Hoshea's ninth year the king of Assyria captured Samaria and deported Israel to Assyria. He settled them in Halah, on the Habor, the river of Gozan, and in the towns of the Medes. [7] All this happened because the children of Israel had sinned against the LORD their God, who had brought them up from the land of Egypt, out from under the power of Pharaoh king of Egypt. They had feared other gods [8] and followed the practices of the nations the LORD had driven out before the children of Israel, as well as the practices the kings of Israel had introduced. [9] The children of Israel secretly did things against the LORD their God that were not right. In all their towns, from watchtower to fortified city, they built themselves high places. [10] They set up sacred pillars and Asherim for themselves on every lofty hill and beneath every leafy tree. [11] There, at all the high places, they burned incense like the nations the LORD had driven into exile before them. They did evil things that provoked the LORD, [12] and they served idols, though the LORD had told them, "You must not do this." [13] The LORD warned Israel and Judah through every prophet and every seer: "Turn back from your evil ways. Keep my commandments and statutes in keeping with the whole law that I commanded your fathers and sent to you through my servants the prophets." [14] But they would not listen. They were as stiff-necked as their fathers, who did not believe in the LORD their God. [15] They rejected his statutes, the covenant he had made with their fathers and the warnings he had given them. They pursued worthless things and became worthless themselves. They followed the nations around them, although the LORD had ordered them not to do as those nations did.* [16] They forsook all the commandments of the LORD their God and made themselves two calves of cast metal. They made an Asherah, bowed down to the whole host of heaven and served Baal.* [17] They made their sons and daughters pass through the fire, practiced divination and looked for omens, and sold themselves to do what was evil in the sight of the LORD, provoking him. [18] So the LORD was furious with Israel and removed them from his presence. Only the tribe of Judah was left. [19] But Judah did not keep the commandments of the LORD their God either; they followed the practices Israel had introduced. [20] The LORD rejected all of Israel's descendants. He humbled them and handed them over to plunderers until he had thrown them out of his presence. [21] When he tore Israel away from David's house, they made Jeroboam son of Nebat king. Jeroboam drew Israel away from following the LORD and led them into great sin. [22] The children of Israel persisted in all the sins Jeroboam had committed and did not turn away from them, [23] until the LORD removed Israel from his presence, as he had warned through all his servants the prophets. So Israel was deported from their own land to Assyria, where they are to this day. [24] The king of Assyria brought people from Babylon, Cuthah, Avva, Hamath and Sepharvaim and settled them in the towns of Samaria to replace the children of Israel. They took over Samaria and lived in its towns. [25] When they first settled there, they did not fear the LORD, so the LORD sent lions among them, and they killed some of them. [26] The king of Assyria was told: "The nations you deported and settled in the towns of Samaria do not know what the god of the land requires. He has sent lions among them, which are killing them, because the people do not know what he requires." [27] So the king of Assyria gave this order: "Send back one of the priests you deported from there. Let him go and live there and teach the people what the god of the land requires." [28] One of the priests who had been deported from Samaria came and lived in Bethel and taught them how to fear the LORD. [29] Nevertheless each nation went on making its own gods, and they set them up in the houses of the high places that the people of Samaria had made, each nation in the towns where it lived. [30] The people from Babylon made Succoth-benoth, those from Cuth made Nergal, those from Hamath made Ashima, [31] the Avvites made Nibhaz and Tartak, and the Sepharvites burned their children in the fire as offerings to Adrammelech and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim. [32] They also feared the LORD, and they appointed from their own number priests for the high places, who officiated for them in the houses of the high places. [33] They feared the LORD, yet they served their own gods in keeping with the practices of the nations from which they had been deported. [34] To this day they keep to their old practices. They do not fear the LORD, nor do they follow their statutes and their ordinances, the law and the commandment the LORD gave the children of Jacob, whom he named Israel. [35] The LORD had made a covenant with them and commanded them: "Do not fear other gods or bow down to them, serve them or sacrifice to them. [36] The LORD, who brought you up from the land of Egypt with great power and an outstretched arm, is the one you must fear; to him you must bow down, and to him you must sacrifice. [37] You must always be careful to keep the statutes and ordinances, the law and the commandment he wrote for you. Do not fear other gods. [38] Do not forget the covenant I have made with you, and do not fear other gods. [39] Rather, fear the LORD your God, and he will rescue you from the power of all your enemies." [40] They would not listen, however, but kept on with their old practices. [41] So these nations feared the LORD while serving their carved images. To this day their children and grandchildren keep doing as their fathers did.

CHAPTER 18

[1] In the third year of Hoshea son of Elah, king of Israel, Hezekiah son of Ahaz, king of Judah, became king. [2] He was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother was Abi the daughter of Zechariah. [3] He did what was right in the sight of the LORD, just as his father David had done in everything. [4] He removed the high places, smashed the sacred pillars and cut down the Asherah. He broke into pieces the bronze serpent Moses had made, because up to that time the children of Israel had been burning incense to it; it was called Nehushtan.* [5] He put his trust in the LORD, the God of Israel. Among all the kings of Judah, none was like him, either after him or before him. [6] He clung to the LORD and did not stop following him; he kept the commandments the LORD had given Moses. [7] The LORD was with him, and he succeeded in whatever he undertook. He rebelled against the king of Assyria and refused to serve him. [8] He defeated the Philistines as far as Gaza and its territory, from watchtower to fortified city. [9] In King Hezekiah's fourth year, the seventh year of Hoshea son of Elah, king of Israel, Shalmaneser king of Assyria marched against Samaria and laid siege to it. [10] At the end of three years they captured it. So Samaria was captured in Hezekiah's sixth year, the ninth year of Hoshea king of Israel. [11] The king of Assyria deported Israel to Assyria and settled them in Halah, on the Habor, the river of Gozan, and in the towns of the Medes. [12] This happened because they had not obeyed the voice of the LORD their God but had broken his covenant, everything Moses the LORD's servant had commanded. They neither listened nor obeyed. [13] In King Hezekiah's fourteenth year, Sennacherib king of Assyria attacked all the fortified towns of Judah and seized them. [14] Hezekiah king of Judah sent this message to the king of Assyria at Lachish: "I have done wrong. Withdraw from me, and I will pay whatever you demand of me." The king of Assyria demanded from Hezekiah king of Judah three hundred talents of silver and thirty talents of gold. [15] Hezekiah handed over all the silver found in the LORD's house and in the palace treasuries. [16] At that time Hezekiah cut away the doors of the LORD's temple and the doorposts that he, Hezekiah king of Judah, had overlaid, and gave them to the king of Assyria. [17] From Lachish the king of Assyria sent the Tartan, the Rab-saris and the Rabshakeh with a large army to King Hezekiah at Jerusalem. They marched up to Jerusalem, and on arriving they took up a position by the channel of the upper pool, on the road to the Launderer's Field.* [18] They called for the king, and Eliakim son of Hilkiah, the palace administrator, Shebna the scribe and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder, went out to them. [19] The Rabshakeh told them, "Tell Hezekiah: 'This is what the great king, the king of Assyria, says: What is this confidence you are trusting in? [20] You claim to have a plan and strength for war, but it is only empty talk. Whom are you trusting in, that you have rebelled against me? [21] Look, you are trusting in Egypt, that splintered reed of a staff, which pierces the hand of anyone who leans on it and goes right through it. That is what Pharaoh king of Egypt is to all who trust in him. [22] And if you tell me, "We trust in the LORD our God," is he not the one whose high places and altars Hezekiah removed, telling Judah and Jerusalem, "You must worship before this altar in Jerusalem"? [23] Come now, make a bargain with my master the king of Assyria: I will give you two thousand horses, if you can put riders on them! [24] How then could you drive back a single officer, even the least of my master's servants, while you trust in Egypt for chariots and horsemen? [25] Besides, have I come up to attack and destroy this place without the LORD? The LORD himself told me, "March up against this land and destroy it."'" [26] Then Eliakim son of Hilkiah, Shebna and Joah told the Rabshakeh, "Please speak to your servants in Aramaic, since we understand it. Do not speak to us in Judean where the people on the wall can hear." [27] But the Rabshakeh replied, "Was it only to your master and to you that my master sent me to say these things? Was it not to the men sitting on the wall, who, like you, will have to eat their own dung and drink their own urine?"* [28] Then the Rabshakeh stood and shouted in Judean, "Hear the word of the great king, the king of Assyria! [29] This is what the king says: 'Do not let Hezekiah fool you. He cannot rescue you from my hand. [30] Do not let Hezekiah persuade you to trust in the LORD by saying, "The LORD will certainly rescue us; this city will not be handed over to the king of Assyria." [31] Do not listen to Hezekiah! This is what the king of Assyria says: Make your peace with me and come out to me. Then every one of you will eat from his own vine and his own fig tree and drink water from his own cistern, [32] until I come and take you to a land like yours, a land of grain and new wine, of bread and vineyards, of olive trees and honey, so that you will live and not die. Do not listen to Hezekiah, for he is misleading you when he says, "The LORD will rescue us." [33] Has the god of any nation ever rescued his land from the power of the king of Assyria? [34] Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena and Ivvah? Did they rescue Samaria from my hand? [35] Which of all the gods of these lands has rescued his land from my hand? How then could the LORD rescue Jerusalem from my hand?'" [36] But the people kept quiet and said not a word in reply, because the king had ordered, "Do not answer him." [37] Then Eliakim son of Hilkiah, the palace administrator, Shebna the scribe and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder, went to Hezekiah with their clothes torn and reported to him what the Rabshakeh had said.

CHAPTER 19

[1] As soon as King Hezekiah heard this, he tore his clothes, put on sackcloth and went into the LORD's house. [2] He sent Eliakim the palace administrator, Shebna the scribe and the senior priests, all wearing sackcloth, to the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz. [3] They told him, "This is what Hezekiah says: 'Today is a day of trouble, of rebuke and of disgrace. Children have come to the moment of birth, and there is no strength to deliver them. [4] Perhaps the LORD your God will hear all the words of the Rabshakeh, whom his master the king of Assyria sent to mock the living God, and will punish him for the words the LORD your God has heard. So offer a prayer for the remnant that still survives.'" [5] When King Hezekiah's servants came to Isaiah, [6] Isaiah told them, "Tell your master this: 'This is what the LORD says: Do not be afraid because of what you have heard, the words with which the king of Assyria's underlings have reviled me. [7] I am going to put a spirit in him so that he will hear a rumor and go back to his own country, and there in his own country I will cut him down with the sword.'" [8] The Rabshakeh went back and found the king of Assyria attacking Libnah, having heard that the king had moved on from Lachish. [9] Then the king received word about Tirhakah king of Cush: "He has set out to fight against you." So he sent messengers to Hezekiah once more with this message:* [10] "Say this to Hezekiah king of Judah: 'Do not let your God, in whom you trust, mislead you by promising that Jerusalem will not be handed over to the king of Assyria. [11] You have heard for yourself what the kings of Assyria have done to all the countries, devoting them to destruction. And will you be rescued? [12] Did the gods of the nations my fathers destroyed rescue them, the gods of Gozan, Haran, Rezeph and the people of Eden in Telassar? [13] Where now is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the king of the city of Sepharvaim, or of Hena or Ivvah?'" [14] Hezekiah took the letter from the messengers and read it. Then he went up to the LORD's house and spread it out in the LORD's presence. [15] Hezekiah prayed before the LORD:

"LORD, God of Israel, enthroned above the cherubim, you alone are God over all the kingdoms of the earth. You made the heavens and the earth. [16] Turn your ear, LORD, and listen; open your eyes, LORD, and look. Hear the words Sennacherib has sent to mock the living God. [17] It is true, LORD, that the kings of Assyria have devastated the nations and their lands. [18] They have thrown their gods into the fire, for they were no gods at all, only the work of men's hands, wood and stone; and so they destroyed them. [19] Now, LORD our God, rescue us, please, from his power, so that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that you alone, LORD, are God." [20] Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent word to Hezekiah: "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'I have heard your prayer to me concerning Sennacherib king of Assyria.' [21] This is the word the LORD has spoken against him: 'The virgin daughter of Zion looks down on you and laughs you to scorn; the daughter of Jerusalem tosses her head behind you. [22] Whom have you mocked and reviled? Against whom have you raised your voice and lifted your eyes on high? Against the Holy One of Israel! [23] Through your messengers you have mocked the Lord. You have said, "With my many chariots I have climbed the mountain heights, the remotest parts of Lebanon. I have felled its tallest cedars and its finest cypresses. I have reached its most distant lodging, its richest forest.* [24] I have dug wells and drunk foreign waters, and with the soles of my feet I have dried up all the streams of Egypt." [25] Have you not heard? Long ago I ordained it; in days of old I planned it, and now I have brought it about, that you should turn fortified cities into piles of rubble. [26] Their people, drained of power, were dismayed and ashamed. They were like plants in the field, like tender green shoots, like grass on the rooftops, scorched before it grows up. [27] I know when you sit and when you go out and come in, and how you rage against me. [28] Because you rage against me and your arrogance has reached my ears, I will put my hook in your nose and my bit in your mouth, and I will make you go back by the road you came.' [29] This will be the sign for you: This year you will eat what grows on its own, and next year what springs up from that. But in the third year sow and reap, plant vineyards and eat their fruit. [30] Once more the surviving remnant of the house of Judah will take root below and bear fruit above. [31] For from Jerusalem a remnant will go out, and from Mount Zion a band of survivors. The zeal of the LORD of hosts will accomplish this.* [32] So this is what the LORD says about the king of Assyria: 'He will not enter this city or shoot an arrow here. He will not come before it with a shield or build a siege ramp against it. [33] He will go back by the road he came, and he will not enter this city, declares the LORD. [34] I will shield this city and save it, for my own sake and for the sake of my servant David.'" [35] That very night the angel of the LORD went out and struck down a hundred and eighty-five thousand men in the Assyrian camp. When the people got up early the next morning, there were all the dead bodies! [36] So Sennacherib king of Assyria broke camp and withdrew. He went home and stayed in Nineveh. [37] One day, while he was worshiping in the temple of his god Nisroch, his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer cut him down with the sword and escaped to the land of Ararat. His son Esarhaddon became king in his place.*

CHAPTER 20

[1] In those days Hezekiah became ill to the point of death. The prophet Isaiah son of Amoz came to him and said, "This is what the LORD says: 'Put your house in order, because you are going to die; you will not recover.'" [2] Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed to the LORD: [3] "I beg you, LORD, remember how I have walked before you faithfully and with my whole heart and have done what is good in your eyes." And Hezekiah wept bitterly. [4] Isaiah had not yet left the middle court when the word of the LORD came to him:* [5] "Go back and tell Hezekiah, the leader of my people, 'This is what the LORD, the God of your father David, says: I have heard your prayer and seen your tears. I will heal you. On the third day from now you will go up to the LORD's house. [6] I will add fifteen years to your life. I will rescue you and this city from the power of the king of Assyria, and I will shield this city for my own sake and for the sake of my servant David.'" [7] Then Isaiah said, "Get a lump of pressed figs." They got it and applied it to the boil, and he recovered.* [8] Hezekiah had asked Isaiah, "What sign will there be that the LORD will heal me and that I will go up to the LORD's house on the third day?" [9] Isaiah answered, "This is the sign from the LORD that the LORD will do what he has promised: Is the shadow to go forward ten steps, or back ten steps?" [10] "It is easy for the shadow to stretch forward ten steps," said Hezekiah. "No, have the shadow go back ten steps." [11] Isaiah the prophet called out to the LORD, and the LORD made the shadow go back the ten steps it had gone down on the stairway of Ahaz. [12] At that time Merodach-baladan son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent Hezekiah letters and a gift, because he had heard of Hezekiah's illness. [13] Hezekiah listened to the envoys and showed them his whole treasure house: the silver, the gold, the spices and the fine oil, his armory and everything in his storehouses. There was nothing in his palace or in all his kingdom that Hezekiah did not show them. [14] Then Isaiah the prophet went to King Hezekiah and asked him, "What did those men say, and where did they come to you from?" "They came from a distant land," Hezekiah said, "from Babylon." [15] "What did they see in your palace?" he asked. Hezekiah answered, "They saw everything in my palace. There is nothing in my storehouses I did not show them." [16] Isaiah said to Hezekiah, "Hear the word of the LORD: [17] 'The time is surely coming when everything in your palace, and everything your fathers have stored up until this day, will be carried off to Babylon. Nothing will be left, says the LORD. [18] And some of your descendants, your own flesh and blood whom you will father, will be taken away, and they will become eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.'" [19] "The word of the LORD you have spoken is good," Hezekiah told Isaiah. For he thought, "Is it not so, if only there is peace and security in my days?" [20] As for the rest of the deeds of Hezekiah and all his might, and how he made the pool and the conduit and brought water into the city, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [21] Hezekiah lay down with his fathers, and his son Manasseh became king in his place.

CHAPTER 21

[1] Manasseh was twelve years old when he became king, and he reigned fifty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother was Hephzibah. [2] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, copying the abominations of the nations the LORD had driven out before the children of Israel. [3] He rebuilt the high places his father Hezekiah had demolished; he set up altars to Baal and made an Asherah, as Ahab king of Israel had done; and he bowed down to the whole host of heaven and served them. [4] He built altars in the LORD's house, the place of which the LORD had said, "In Jerusalem I will set my name." [5] In both courts of the LORD's house he built altars to the whole host of heaven. [6] He made his son pass through the fire, practiced sorcery and divination, and consulted mediums and spiritists. He did a great deal of evil in the sight of the LORD, provoking him.* [7] He took the carved image of Asherah he had made and set it in the house of which the LORD had told David and his son Solomon, "In this house and in Jerusalem, which I chose out of all the tribes of Israel, I will set my name forever. [8] Never again will I make Israel's feet wander from the land I gave their fathers, if only they take care to do all I have commanded them, keeping the whole law my servant Moses gave them." [9] But they would not listen. Manasseh led them astray, so that they did more evil than the nations the LORD had destroyed before the children of Israel. [10] The LORD spoke through his servants the prophets: [11] "Manasseh king of Judah has committed these abominations. He has done more evil than the Amorites who were before him, and with his idols he has led Judah into sin as well. [12] So this is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'I am bringing such evil on Jerusalem and Judah that both ears of everyone who hears of it will tingle. [13] I will stretch over Jerusalem the measuring line used on Samaria and the plumb line used on Ahab's house. I will wipe Jerusalem clean as one wipes a bowl, wiping it and turning it upside down.* [14] I will abandon what remains of my inheritance and hand them over to their enemies; they will be plundered and looted by all their enemies, [15] because they have done evil in my sight and have kept provoking me from the day their fathers came out of Egypt until this very day.'" [16] Manasseh also shed so much innocent blood that he filled Jerusalem with it from end to end, besides the sin he led Judah into, so that they did what was evil in the sight of the LORD. [17] As for the rest of the deeds of Manasseh and all he did, and the sin that he committed, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [18] Manasseh lay down with his fathers and was buried in the garden of his palace, the garden of Uzza, and his son Amon became king in his place. [19] Amon was twenty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem. His mother was Meshullemeth the daughter of Haruz of Jotbah. [20] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, just as his father Manasseh had done. [21] He followed in every way the path his father had walked, serving the idols his father had served and bowing down to them. [22] He forsook the LORD, the God of his fathers, and did not walk in the LORD's way. [23] Amon's servants plotted against him and killed the king in his palace. [24] Then the people of the land killed all who had plotted against King Amon, and they made his son Josiah king in his place. [25] As for the rest of the deeds of Amon, what he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [26] He was buried in his tomb in the garden of Uzza, and his son Josiah became king in his place.

CHAPTER 22

[1] Josiah was eight years old when he became king, and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jedidah the daughter of Adaiah of Bozkath. [2] He did what was right in the sight of the LORD and followed in every way the path of his father David, turning aside neither to the right nor to the left. [3] In his eighteenth year King Josiah sent the scribe Shaphan son of Azaliah son of Meshullam to the LORD's house with these instructions: [4] "Go up to Hilkiah the high priest and have him count the money brought into the LORD's house, which the doorkeepers have collected from the people. [5] Have them hand it over to the men appointed to oversee the work on the LORD's house, and have them pay it to the workmen who are repairing the LORD's house, [6] the carpenters, builders and masons, and use it to buy timber and hewn stone for repairing the house. [7] But they need not account for the money entrusted to them, because they are acting honestly." [8] Hilkiah the high priest told Shaphan the scribe, "I have found the book of the law in the LORD's house." He gave the book to Shaphan, who read it. [9] Then Shaphan the scribe went to the king and reported to him: "Your servants have emptied out the money that was in the house and have handed it over to the men appointed to oversee the work on the LORD's house." [10] Shaphan the scribe also informed the king, "Hilkiah the priest has given me a book." And Shaphan read from it in front of the king. [11] As soon as the king heard what was written in the book of the law, he tore his clothes. [12] He gave these orders to Hilkiah the priest, Ahikam son of Shaphan, Achbor son of Micaiah, Shaphan the scribe and Asaiah the king's servant: [13] "Go and consult the LORD for me, for the people and for all Judah, about what is written in this book that has been found. The LORD's wrath that burns against us is great, because our fathers did not obey the words of this book by doing everything written there concerning us." [14] So Hilkiah the priest, Ahikam, Achbor, Shaphan and Asaiah went to speak to the prophetess Huldah. She was the wife of Shallum son of Tikvah son of Harhas, keeper of the wardrobe, and she lived in Jerusalem, in the Second Quarter.* [15] She told them, "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: 'Tell the man who sent you to me, [16] This is what the LORD says: I am going to bring evil on this place and its people, all that is written in the book the king of Judah has read. [17] Because they have forsaken me and burned incense to other gods, provoking me with everything their hands have made, my wrath will burn against this place and will not be put out.' [18] But to the king of Judah, who sent you to consult the LORD, say this: 'This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says concerning the words you heard: 19 Because your heart was tender and you humbled yourself before the LORD when you heard what I said against this place and its people, that they would become a desolation and a curse, and because you tore your clothes and wept in my presence, I in turn have heard you, declares the LORD. 20 So I will gather you to your fathers, and you will be gathered to your grave in peace. Your eyes will not see all the evil I am going to bring on this place.'" And they took her answer back to the king.

CHAPTER 23

1 Then the king sent word, and all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem gathered to him. 2 The king went up to the LORD's house with all the men of Judah and all who lived in Jerusalem, the priests and the prophets and all the people, from the least to the greatest. He read aloud to them all the words of the book of the covenant that had been found in the LORD's house. 3 The king stood beside the pillar and made a covenant before the LORD to follow the LORD and keep his commandments, testimonies and statutes with all his heart and all his soul, and so to carry out the words of this covenant written in this book. All the people pledged themselves to the covenant. 4 The king ordered Hilkiah the high priest, the priests of second rank and the doorkeepers to take out of the LORD's temple all the articles made for Baal, for Asherah and for the whole host of heaven. He burned them outside Jerusalem in the fields of the Kidron and took the ashes to Bethel. 5 He did away with the idolatrous priests appointed by the kings of Judah to burn incense at the high places in the towns of Judah and around Jerusalem, and those who burned incense to Baal, to the sun and moon, to the constellations and to the whole host of heaven. * 6 He took the Asherah out of the LORD's house to the Kidron Valley outside Jerusalem, burned it there in the Kidron Valley, ground it to powder and scattered the powder over the graves of the common people. 7 He pulled down the quarters of the male cult prostitutes, which were in the LORD's house, where women wove hangings for Asherah. * 8 He brought all the priests in from the towns of Judah and defiled the high places where the priests had burned incense, from Geba to Beersheba. He broke down the high places at the gates, the ones at the entrance of the Gate of Joshua, the city governor, on the left as one goes through the city gate. 9 The priests of the high places did not go up to the LORD's altar in Jerusalem, but they did eat unleavened bread among their brothers. 10 He defiled Topheth in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom so that no one could make a son or daughter pass through the fire to Molech. 11 He did away with the horses the kings of Judah had dedicated to the sun, at the entrance to the LORD's house near the room of an official named Nathan-melech in the precincts, and he burned the chariots of the sun. * 12 The king tore down the altars the kings of Judah had set up on the roof near the upper room of Ahaz, and the altars Manasseh had built in the two courts of the LORD's house. He smashed them there and threw the rubble into the Kidron Valley. 13 The king also defiled the high places east of Jerusalem, south of the Mount of Corruption, which Solomon king of Israel had built for Ashtoreth the abomination of the Sidonians, for Chemosh the abomination of Moab, and for Milcom the abomination of the children of Ammon. * 14 He shattered the sacred pillars, cut down the Asherim and covered the sites with human bones. 15 Even the altar at Bethel, the high place made by Jeroboam son of Nebat, who had caused Israel to sin, even that altar and high place he pulled down. He burned the high place, ground it to powder and burned the Asherah. 16 Then Josiah looked around and saw the tombs there on the hillside. He had the bones taken out of the tombs and burned them on the altar, defiling it, as the LORD had said through the man of God who foretold these things. 17 "What is that marker I see?" the king asked. The men of the town told him, "It is the tomb of the man of God who came from Judah and foretold these very things you have done to the altar of Bethel." 18 "Leave it alone," he said. "Do not let anyone disturb his bones." So they left his bones undisturbed, along with the bones of the prophet who had come from Samaria. 19 Josiah also removed all the houses of the high places in the towns of Samaria that the kings of Israel had built, provoking the LORD. He did to them just what he had done at Bethel. 20 He slaughtered all the priests of those high places on their altars and burned human bones on them. Then he went back to Jerusalem. 21 The king gave this order to all the people: "Celebrate the Passover to the LORD your God, as it is written in this book of the covenant." 22 No Passover like it had been celebrated since the days of the judges who led Israel, nor in all the days of the kings of Israel and the kings of Judah. 23 It was in King Josiah's eighteenth year that this Passover was celebrated to the LORD in Jerusalem. 24 Josiah also got rid of the mediums and spiritists, the household gods, the idols and all the other abominations seen in the land of Judah and in Jerusalem, in order to carry out the words of the law written in the book Hilkiah the priest had found in the LORD's house. 25 Before him there was no king like him who turned to the LORD with all his heart, all his soul and all his strength, following the whole law of Moses, and none like him arose after him. 26 Even so, the LORD did not turn back from the fierceness of his great wrath, which burned against Judah for all the ways Manasseh had provoked him. 27 The LORD said, "I will remove Judah from my presence too, as I removed Israel. I will reject this city I chose, Jerusalem, and the house where I said my name would be." 28 As for the rest of the deeds of Josiah and all he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? 29 During his reign Pharaoh Neco king of Egypt went up to the king of Assyria at the Euphrates River. King Josiah marched out to confront him, and as soon as Neco saw him, he killed him at Megiddo. * 30 His servants carried his body by chariot from Megiddo to Jerusalem and buried him in his own tomb. Then the people of the land took Jehoahaz son of Josiah, anointed him and made him king in his father's place. 31 Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he became king, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. His mother was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. [32] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, as his fathers had done. [33] Pharaoh Neco put him in chains at Riblah in the land of Hamath, so that he might not reign in Jerusalem, and imposed on the land a levy of a hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold. [] [34] Pharaoh Neco made Eliakim son of Josiah king in place of his father Josiah and changed his name to Jehoiakim. Jehoahaz he took away; he went to Egypt and died there. [35] Jehoiakim paid Pharaoh the silver and gold, but to meet Pharaoh's demand he had to tax the land. He collected the silver and gold from the people of the land, each according to his assessment, to pay Pharaoh Neco. [36] Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother was Zebidah the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah. [] [37] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, as his fathers had done.

CHAPTER 24

[1] During Jehoiakim's reign Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon invaded, and Jehoiakim became his vassal for three years. Then he turned against him and rebelled. [2] The LORD sent Chaldean, Syrian, Moabite and Ammonite raiding bands against him. He sent them against Judah to destroy it, as the LORD had said through his servants the prophets. [3] It was certainly by the LORD's command that this happened to Judah, to remove them from his presence for the sins of Manasseh and all he had done, [4] and also for the innocent blood he had shed. He had filled Jerusalem with innocent blood, and the LORD would not forgive. [5] As for the rest of the deeds of Jehoiakim and all he did, are they not written in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Judah? [6] Jehoiakim lay down with his fathers, and his son Jehoiachin became king in his place. [7] The king of Egypt did not march out of his own country again, because the king of Babylon had taken everything that had belonged to the king of Egypt, from the Brook of Egypt to the Euphrates River. [8] Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he became king, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. His mother was Nehushta the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem. [9] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, as his father had done. [10] At that time the officers of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon marched up to Jerusalem, and the city was besieged. [11] Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon himself came to the city while his officers were besieging it. [12] Jehoiachin king of Judah surrendered to the king of Babylon, together with his mother, his servants, his officers and his officials. In the eighth year of his reign the king of Babylon took him prisoner. [13] As the LORD had declared, he removed from there all the treasures of the LORD's house and of the palace, and he cut up all the gold articles Solomon king of Israel had made for the LORD's temple. [14] He deported all Jerusalem: all the officers and all the fighting men, ten thousand captives, and all the craftsmen and smiths. Only the poorest people of the land were left. [*] [15] He deported Jehoiachin to Babylon. He also took into exile from Jerusalem to Babylon the king's mother, his wives, his officials and the leading men of the land. [16] The king of Babylon also deported to Babylon all seven thousand fighting men and a thousand craftsmen and smiths, all of them strong men fit for war. [17] The king of Babylon made Mattaniah, Jehoiachin's uncle, king in his place and changed his name to Zedekiah. [18] Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. [19] He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, just as Jehoiakim had done. [20] It was because of the LORD's anger that all this happened to Jerusalem and Judah, until in the end he thrust them out of his presence. And Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon.

CHAPTER 25

[1] So in the ninth year of Zedekiah's reign, on the tenth day of the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon marched against Jerusalem with his whole army. He encamped against the city and built siege works all around it. [2] The city remained under siege until King Zedekiah's eleventh year. [3] On the ninth day of the month the famine in the city had grown so severe that the people of the land had nothing to eat. [] [4] Then the city wall was broken through, and all the soldiers fled by night through the gate between the two walls near the king's garden, though the Chaldeans surrounded the city. The king set off toward the Arabah, [] [5] but the Chaldean army chased the king and caught up with him in the plains of Jericho. His whole army deserted him and scattered. [6] They captured the king and took him up to the king of Babylon at Riblah, where sentence was pronounced on him. [7] They slaughtered Zedekiah's sons as he watched; then they blinded Zedekiah, bound him with bronze shackles and took him to Babylon. [8] On the seventh day of the fifth month, in the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, Nebuzaradan, captain of the guard and servant of the king of Babylon, came to Jerusalem. [9] He set fire to the LORD's house, the palace and all the houses of Jerusalem; every important building he burned down. [10] The whole Chaldean army under the captain of the guard tore down the walls all around Jerusalem. [11] Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard took into exile the rest of the people still in the city, the deserters who had gone over to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the population. [] [12] But the captain of the guard left behind some of the poorest people of the land to tend the vineyards and work the fields. [13] The Chaldeans broke up the bronze pillars in the LORD's house, the stands and the bronze Sea in the LORD's house, and carried the bronze away to Babylon. [14] They also took away the pots, shovels, snuffers, dishes and all the bronze articles used in the temple service. [15] The captain of the guard took away the firepans and sprinkling bowls, what was of gold as gold and what was of silver as silver. [16] The bronze from the two pillars, the Sea and the stands, which Solomon had made for the LORD's house, was more than could be weighed. [17] Each pillar was eighteen cubits high. The bronze capital on top of it was three cubits high, with a network and pomegranates all around the capital, all of bronze. The second pillar, with its network, was the same. [18] The captain of the guard took as prisoners Seraiah the chief priest, Zephaniah the priest next in rank, and the three doorkeepers. [19] From the city he took the officer in charge of the fighting men, five of those who saw the king's face who were still in the city, the scribe of the army commander who mustered the people of the land, and sixty men of the people of the land who were found in the city. [20] Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard took them all and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. [21] There at Riblah, in the land of Hamath, the king of Babylon had them struck down and executed. So Judah went into exile, away from its land. [22] Over the people he had left behind in the land of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon appointed Gedaliah son of Ahikam son of Shaphan. [23] All the army officers and their men heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah as governor, and they came to Gedaliah at Mizpah: Ishmael son of Nethaniah, Johanan son of Kareah, Seraiah son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jaazaniah son of the Maacathite, together with their men. [24] Gedaliah took an oath to reassure them and their men. "Do not be afraid of the Chaldean officials," he said. "Settle in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and all will go well with you." [25] In the seventh month, however, Ishmael son of Nethaniah son of Elishama, who was of royal blood, came with ten men and struck Gedaliah down, and he died, as did the Judeans and the Chaldeans who were with him at Mizpah. [26] At this all the people, from the least to the greatest, together with the army officers, got up and went to Egypt, because they were afraid of the Chaldeans. [27] In the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoiachin king of Judah, on the twenty-seventh day of the twelfth month, Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year he became king, lifted up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah and released him from prison.* [28] He spoke kindly to him and gave him a seat of honor higher than those of the other kings who were with him in Babylon. [29] So Jehoiachin took off his prison clothes, and for the rest of his life he ate regularly at the king's table. [30] Day by day the king provided him a regular allowance, a portion for each day, as long as he lived.

[21] The sons of Hananiah: Pelatiah and Jeshaiah, the sons of Rephaiah, the sons of Arnan, the sons of Obadiah, the sons of Shecaniah. [22] The sons of Shecaniah: Shemaiah. The sons of Shemaiah: Hattush, Igal, Bariah, Neariah, and Shaphat, six.* [23] The sons of Neariah: Elioenai, Hizkiah, and Azrikam, three. [24] The sons of Elioenai: Hodaviah, Eliashib, Pelaiah, Akkub, Johanan, Delaiah, and Anani, seven.

CHAPTER 4

[1] The sons of Judah: Perez, Hezron, Carmi, Hur, and Shobal. [2] Reaiah the son of Shobal fathered Jahath, and Jahath fathered Ahumai and Lahad. These were the families of the Zorathites. [3] These belonged to the father of Etam: Jezreel, Ishma, and Idbash; and the name of their sister was Hazzelelponi; [] [4] and Penuel was the father of Gedor, and Ezer the father of Hushah. These were the sons of Hur, the firstborn of Ephrathah, the father of Bethlehem. [5] Ashhur the father of Tekoa had two wives, Helah and Naarah. [6] Naarah bore him Ahuzzam, Hepher, Temeni, and Haahashtari. These were the sons of Naarah. [7] The sons of Helah: Zereth, Zohar, and Ethnan. [] [8] Koz fathered Anub and Zobebah, and the families of Aharhel the son of Harum. [9] Jabez was more honorable than his brothers. His mother called him Jabez, for she said, "I bore him with pain." [10] Jabez cried to the God of Israel and said, "Oh, that you would truly bless me and widen my borders, that your hand might be with me, and that you would keep me from harm so that it may not pain me!" And God brought about what he had asked. [] [11] Chelub the brother of Shuhah fathered Mehir, who was the father of Eshton. [12] Eshton fathered Beth-rapha, Paseah, and Tehinnah the father of Ir-nahash. These were the men of Recah. [13] The sons of Kenaz: Othniel and Seraiah. The sons of Othniel: Hathath. [14] Meonothai fathered Ophrah. Seraiah fathered Joab the father of Ge-harashim, for they were craftsmen. [15] The sons of Caleb the son of Jephunneh: Iru, Elah, and Naam. The sons of Elah: Kenaz. [16] The sons of Jehallelel: Ziph, Ziphah, Tiria, and Asarel. [17] The sons of Ezrah: Jether, Mered, Epher, and Jalon. And she conceived Miriam, Shammai, and Ishbah the father of Eshtemoa. [] [18] His Judahite wife bore Jered the father of Gedor, Heber the father of Soco, and Jekuthiel the father of Zanoah. These were the sons of Bithiah the daughter of Pharaoh, whom Mered had taken. [19] The sons of the wife of Hodiah, the sister of Naham, were the father of Keilah the Garmite and Eshtemoa the Maacathite. [20] The sons of Shimon: Amnon, Rinnah, Ben-hanan, and Tilon. The sons of Ishi: Zoheth and Ben-zoheth. [21] The sons of Shelah the son of Judah: Er the father of Lecah, Laadah the father of Mareshah, and the families of the house of linen workers at Beth-ashbea; [22] and Jokim, and the men of Cozeba, and Joash, and Saraph, who ruled in Moab, and Jashubi-lehem. (The records are from long ago.) [23] These were the potters who dwelt at Netaim and Gederah; they stayed there with the king, in his service. [24] The sons of Simeon: Nemuel, Jamin, Jarib, Zerah, and Shaul; [25] Shallum his son, Mibsam his son, Mishma his son. [26] The sons of Mishma: Hammuel his son, Zaccur his son, Shimei his son. [27] Shimei had sixteen sons and six daughters, but his brothers did not have many sons, nor did all their clan increase as much as the sons of Judah. [28] They lived in Beersheba, Moladah, Hazar-shual, [29] Bilhah, Ezem, Tolad, [30] Bethuel, Hormah, Ziklag, [31] Beth-marcaboth, Hazar-susim, Beth-biri, and Shaaraim. These were their cities until the reign of David. [32] Their villages were Etam, Ain, Rimmon, Tochen, and Ashan, five cities, [33] together with all the villages surrounding these cities, as far as Baal. These were their settlements, and they had their own register of genealogy. [34] Meshobab, Jamlech, Joshah the son of Amaziah, [35] Joel, Jehu the son of Joshibiah, son of Seraiah, son of Asiel, [36] Elioenai, Jaakobah, Jeshohaiah, Asaiah, Adiel, Jesimiel, Benaiah, [37] and Ziza the son of Shiphi, son of Allon, son of Jedaiah, son of Shimri, son of Shemaiah: [38] these, mentioned by name, were chiefs in their clans, and their fathers' houses increased greatly. [39] They went toward the approach to Gedor, as far as the east side of the valley, seeking pasture for their flocks. [40] They found fat, good pasture there, and the land was broad on both sides, quiet and undisturbed, for the former inhabitants were descended from Ham. [41] These men listed by name came in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah; they attacked the tents of those people and the Meunites who were there and devoted them to destruction, as it is to this day. Then they settled in their place, for there was pasture there for their flocks. [42] And some of them, five hundred men of the sons of Simeon, went to Mount Seir, led by Pelatiah, Neariah, Rephaiah, and Uzziel, the sons of Ishi. [43] They wiped out the rest of the Amalekites who had escaped, and they have dwelt there until this day.

CHAPTER 5

[1] The sons of Reuben the firstborn of Israel (for he was the firstborn; but since he polluted his father's couch, his right as firstborn went to the sons of Joseph son of Israel, so that he is not listed in the genealogy as firstborn; [2] though Judah prevailed over his brothers and a leader came from him, the birthright belonged to Joseph): [3] the sons of Reuben the firstborn of Israel: Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi. [4] The sons of Joel: Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son, [5] Micah his son, Reaiah his son, Baal his son, [6] Beerah his son, whom Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria took into exile; he was a leader of the Reubenites. [*] [7] And his brothers by their clans, when the record of their generations was drawn up: Jeiel the chief, and Zechariah, [8] and Bela son of Azaz, son of Shema, son of Joel. He dwelt in Aroer, as far as Nebo and Baal-meon. [9] To the east he dwelt as far as where the wilderness begins, reaching from the river Euphrates, for their herds had grown numerous in the land of Gilead. [10] In Saul's days they waged war with the Hagrites, who fell by their hand, and they dwelt in their tents over all the land east of Gilead. [11] The sons of Gad dwelt opposite them in the land of Bashan, as far as Salecah: [12] Joel the chief, Shapham the second, then Janai and Shaphat in Bashan. [13] Their kinsmen by their fathers' houses: Michael, Meshullam, Sheba, Jorai, Jacan, Zia, and Eber, seven. [14] These were the sons of Abihail the son of Huri, son of Jaroah, son of Gilead, son of Michael, son of Jeshishai, son of Jahdo, son of Buz. [15] Ahi the son of Abdiel, son of Guni, was chief of their fathers' house. [16] They dwelt in Gilead, in Bashan and its towns, and in all the open lands of Sharon, as far as they reached. [17] All of them were registered by genealogy in the days of Jotham king of Judah and in the days of Jeroboam king of Israel. [18] The Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh had brave men, men who bore shield and sword, shot with the bow, and were skilled in war: forty-four thousand seven hundred and sixty able to go out to battle. [19] They went to war against the Hagrites, Jetur, Naphish, and Nodab. [20] They received help against them, and the Hagrites and all their allies were handed over to them, because they called to God in the battle; and he let himself be entreated by them, for they had put their trust in him. [21] They took away their livestock: fifty thousand camels, two hundred and fifty thousand sheep, two thousand donkeys, and a hundred thousand human beings. [22] Many fell slain, for the battle was of God. And they dwelt in their place until the exile. [23] The members of the half-tribe of Manasseh dwelt in the land; they were numerous, from Bashan to Baal-hermon, to Senir and Mount Hermon. [24] These were the heads of their fathers' houses: Epher, Ishi, Eliel, Azriel, Jeremiah, Hodaviah, and Jahdiel, strong and brave men, famous men, heads of their fathers' houses. [25] But they broke faith with the God of their fathers and went whoring after the gods of the peoples of the land, whom God had wiped out before them. [26] So the God of Israel roused the spirit of Pul king of Assyria, the spirit of Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, and he took them into exile, the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, and brought them to Halah, Habor, Hara, and the river of Gozan, where they are to this day.

[31] These are the men David set over the singing in the house of the LORD after the ark had found a resting place. [32] They served with singing in front of the tabernacle of the tent of meeting until Solomon built the house of the LORD in Jerusalem, and they stood at their duty according to their regulation. [33] These are the ones who stood in service, they and their sons. From the sons of the Kohathites: Heman the singer, son of Joel, son of Samuel, [34] son of Elkanah, son of Jeroham, son of Eliel, son of Toah, [35] son of Zuph, son of Elkanah, son of Mahath, son of Amasai, [36] son of Elkanah, son of Joel, son of Azariah, son of Zephaniah, [37] son of Tahath, son of Assir, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah, [38] son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi, son of Israel. [39] and his brother Asaph, who stood on his right: Asaph son of Berechiah, son of Shimea, [40] son of Michael, son of Baaseiah, son of Malchijah, [41] son of Ethni, son of Zerah, son of Adaiah, [42] son of Ethan, son of Zimmah, son of Shimei, [43] son of Jahath, son of Gershom, son of Levi. [44] On the left stood their brothers, the sons of Merari: Ethan son of Kishi, son of Abdi, son of Malluch, [45] son of Hashabiah, son of Amaziah, son of Hilkiah, [46] son of Amzi, son of Bani, son of Shemer, [47] son of Mahli, son of Mushi, son of Merari, son of Levi. [48] Their brothers the Levites were assigned to all the service of the tabernacle of the house of God. [49] But Aaron and his sons presented offerings on the altar of burnt offering and on the altar of incense for all the work of the Most Holy Place, and to make atonement for Israel, exactly as Moses the servant of God had commanded. [50] These are the sons of Aaron: Eleazar his son, Phinehas his son, Abishua his son, [51] Bukki his son, Uzzi his son, Zerahiah his son, [52] Meraioth his son, Amariah his son, Ahitub his son, [53] Zadok his son, Ahimaaz his son. [54] And these are their places of residence by their settlements within their territory: to the sons of Aaron of the clan of the Kohathites, since the first lot fell to them, [55] they gave Hebron in the land of Judah and the pasturelands surrounding it; [56] but the city's fields and its villages they gave to Caleb son of Jephunneh. [57] To the sons of Aaron they gave the cities of refuge: Hebron; also Libnah with its pasturelands, Jattir, Eshtemoa with its pasturelands, [58] Hilez with its pasturelands, Debir with its pasturelands,* [59] Ashan with its pasturelands, and Beth-shemesh with its pasturelands; [60] and from the tribe of Benjamin, Geba with its pasturelands, Alemeth with its pasturelands, and Anathoth with its pasturelands. All their cities throughout their families were thirteen cities. [61] To the remaining sons of Kohath ten cities were given by lot from the clan of the tribe, from the half-tribe, the half of Manasseh.* [62] To the sons of Gershom, by their families, were given thirteen cities from the tribe of Issachar, from the tribe of Asher, from the tribe of Naphtali, and from the tribe of Manasseh in Bashan. [63] To the sons of Merari, by their families, were given by lot twelve cities from the tribe of Reuben, from the tribe of Gad, and from the tribe of Zebulun. [64] Thus the children of Israel gave the Levites the cities and their pasturelands. [65] They gave by lot from the tribe of the sons of Judah, the tribe of the sons of Simeon, and the tribe of the sons of Benjamin these cities that are called by name. [66] And some of the clans of the sons of Kohath had cities of their territory out of the tribe of Ephraim. [67] They gave them the cities of refuge: Shechem with its pasturelands in the hill country of Ephraim, Gezer with its pasturelands, [68] Jokmeam with its pasturelands, Beth-horon with its pasturelands, [69] Aijalon with its pasturelands, and Gath-rimmon with its pasturelands; [70] and from the half-tribe of Manasseh, Aner with its pasturelands and Bileam with its pasturelands, for the family of the rest of the sons of Kohath. ## CHAPTER 9

[1] So all Israel was registered by genealogy; and see, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel. And Judah was taken away into exile to Babylon for their unfaithfulness.* [2] Now the first inhabitants in their holdings in their cities were Israel, the priests, the Levites, and the temple servants.* [3] And in Jerusalem dwelt some of the sons of Judah, of the sons of Benjamin, and of the sons of Ephraim and Manasseh: [4] Uthai the son of Ammihud, son of Omri, son of Imri, son of Bani, of the sons of Perez the son of Judah. [5] Of the Shilonites: Asaiah the firstborn, and his sons. [6] Of the sons of Zerah: Jeuel, and their kinsmen, six hundred and ninety. [7] Of the sons of Benjamin: Sallu the son of Meshullam, son of Hodaviah, son of Hassenuah, [8] and Ibneiah the son of Jeroham, and Elah the son of Uzzi, son of Michri, and Meshullam the son of Shephatiah, son of Reuel, son of Ibnijah; [9] and their brothers by their generations, nine hundred and fifty-six. All these men were heads of fathers by their fathers' houses. [10] Of the priests: Jedaiah, Jehoiarib, Jachin, [11] and Azariah son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, the officer in charge of the house of God; [12] and Adaiah the son of Jeroham, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah, and Maasai the son of Adiel, son of Jahzerah, son of Meshullam, son of Meshillemith, son of Immer; [13] and their brothers, heads of their fathers' houses, one thousand seven hundred and sixty, able men for the work of the service of the house of God. [14] Of the Levites: Shemaiah the son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, of the sons of Merari; [15] and Bakbakkar, Heresh, Galal, and Mattaniah the son of Mica, son of Zichri, son of Asaph; [16] and Obadiah son of Shemaiah, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun, and Berechiah son of Asa, son of Elkanah, who dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites. [17] The gatekeepers: Shallum, Akkub, Talmon, Ahiman, and their brothers; Shallum was the head, [18] and until now he has been at the King's Gate on the east side. These were the gatekeepers of the camps of the sons of Levi. [19] Shallum son of Kore, son of Ebiasaph, son of Korah, and his brothers of his father's house, the Korahites, were over the work of the service, guarding the thresholds of the tent, just as their fathers had been over the camp of the LORD, guarding the entrance. [20] And Phinehas son of Eleazar was leader over them in former times; the LORD was with him. [21] Zechariah son of Meshelemiah was gatekeeper at the doorway of the tent of meeting. [22] All those chosen to be gatekeepers at the thresholds numbered two hundred and twelve. They were registered by genealogy in their villages; David and Samuel the seer had established them in their position of trust. [23] So they and their sons had charge of the gates of the house of the LORD, that is, the house of the tent, to keep watch. [24] The gatekeepers stood on the four sides, east, west, north, and south. [25] And their brothers in their villages had to come in from time to time, for seven days at a time, to be with them; [26] for the four chief gatekeepers, who were Levites, held a position of trust and were over the chambers and the treasuries of the house of God. [27] They lodged around the house of God, for the watch was laid on them, and they were in charge of the key, to open it morning by morning. [28] Some of them had charge of the vessels used in the service, for they counted them when they brought them in and counted them when they took them out. [29] Others were appointed over the furnishings and all the holy vessels, and over the fine flour, the wine, the oil, the frankincense, and the spices. [30] And some of the sons of the priests blended the mixture of spices. [31] Mattithiah, one of the Levites, the firstborn of Shallum the Korahite, held the position of trust over the things baked in pans. [32] And some of their brothers, from the sons of the Kohathites, were over the bread set in rows, to get it ready Sabbath by Sabbath.* [33] These are the singers, heads of fathers' houses of the Levites, staying in the chambers and exempt from other duties, for day and night they were occupied with their work. [34] These were heads of fathers' houses of the Levites according to their generations, leaders. They dwelt in Jerusalem.

[35] Jeiel the father of Gibeon dwelt in Gibeon, and his wife's name was Maacah. [36] His firstborn son was Abdon, then Zur, Kish, Baal, Ner, Nadab, [37] Gedor, Ahio, Zechariah, and Mikloth. [38] Mikloth fathered Shimeam. They too dwelt alongside their brothers in Jerusalem, with their brothers. [39] Ner fathered Kish, Kish fathered Saul, and Saul fathered Jonathan, Malchi-shua, Abinadab, and Eshbaal. [40] The son of Jonathan was Merib-baal, and Meri-baal fathered Micah. [41] The sons of Micah: Pithon, Melech, and Tahrea.* [42] Ahaz fathered Jarah, and Jarah fathered
Alemeth, Azmaveth, and Zimri; and Zimri fathered Moza. [43]
Moza fathered Binea; Rephaiah was his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son. [44] Azel had six sons, and these are their names: Azrikam, Bocheru, Ishmael, Sheariah, Obadiah, and Hanan. These were the sons of Azel.

CHAPTER 10

[1] The Philistines made war on Israel, and the men of Israel ran from the Philistines, and the slain fell on Mount Gilboa. [2] The Philistines kept close on the heels of Saul and his sons, and they killed Jonathan, Abinadab, and Malchi-shua, Saul's sons. [3] The fighting grew fierce around Saul; the archers caught him with the bow, and he was in anguish because of the archers. [4] Saul said to the man who carried his weapons, "Pull out your sword and pierce me with it, before these uncircumcised come and abuse me." But the man who carried his weapons was unwilling, for he was very much afraid. So Saul took the sword and threw himself on it. [5] And when the man who carried his weapons saw that Saul had died, he too threw himself on the sword and died. [6] So Saul died, and his three sons, and all his house died together. [7]
And every man of Israel in the valley, when they saw that the army had fled and that Saul and his sons had died, left their cities and ran away; then the Philistines came and settled in them. [8] On the following day the Philistines came to plunder the slain, and they found Saul and his sons lying on Mount Gilboa. [9] They stripped Saul, took his head and his armor, and sent word around the land of the Philistines to bring the good news to their idols and to the people. [10] His armor they placed in the house of their gods, and his skull they fixed in the house of Dagon. [11] But when all Jabesh-gilead heard everything the Philistines had done to Saul, [12] every brave man among them set out and took away Saul's body and the bodies of his sons and brought them to Jabesh. They buried their bones beneath the oak at Jabesh, and they fasted for seven days. [13] Thus Saul died because of the unfaithfulness he had shown toward the LORD, concerning the word of the LORD that he did not keep, and also because he asked a medium to inquire of her. [14] He did not inquire of the LORD. So the LORD killed him and handed the kingdom over to David son of Jesse.

CHAPTER 11

[1] All Israel came together to David at Hebron and said, "See, we are your own bone and flesh. [2] Even before, while Saul was king, you were the one who led Israel out and in. And the LORD your God told you, 'You will be the shepherd of my people Israel, and you will be prince over my people Israel.'" [3] And all the elders of Israel came to the king at Hebron, and David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the LORD; and they anointed David as king over Israel, as the LORD had spoken through Samuel. [4] Then David went with all Israel to Jerusalem, which is Jebus; the Jebusites, the people of the land, were there. [5] The people who lived in Jebus told David, "You shall not enter here."
But David took the stronghold of Zion; it is the City of David. [6] David had said, "Whoever is first to strike the Jebusites will become head and commander." Joab son of Zeruiah was the first to go up, so he became head. [7] David took up residence in the stronghold, and for that reason it was called the City of David. [8]
He built up the city on every side, from the Millo all the way around, while Joab rebuilt the rest of the city. [9] David kept growing ever greater, because the LORD of hosts was with him.
[10] Now these are the heads of the mighty men David had, who gave him strong support in his kingship, together with all Israel, to make him king as the LORD had said about Israel. [11] This is the list of David's mighty men: Jashobeam son of a Hachmonite, head of the officers. He raised his spear over three hundred and slew them at one time.* [12] After him was Eleazar son of Dodo the Ahohite; he was among the three mighty men. [13] He was with David at Pas-dammim when the Philistines had gathered there to fight. There was a field there full of barley, and the people ran from the Philistines. [14] But they stood their ground in the middle of the field, held it, and cut down the Philistines; and the LORD brought about a great deliverance. [15] Three of the thirty leaders went down to the rock to David, into the cave of Adullam, while the Philistine force was camped in the Valley of Rephaim. [16] At that time David was in the stronghold, and a Philistine garrison was at Bethlehem. [17] David felt a craving and said, "If only someone would bring me water to drink from the well at Bethlehem, the one by the gate!" [18] So the three forced their way through the Philistine camp, drew water from the well at Bethlehem by the gate, and took it and brought it to David. But David refused to drink it and poured it out to the LORD. [19] He said, "My God forbid that I should do such a thing! Should I drink the blood of these men, who risked their lives? For they brought it at the risk of their lives." And he refused to drink it.
Such were the deeds of the three mighty men. [20] Abishai, Joab's brother, was the head of the three. He raised his spear over three hundred and slew them, and he won a name with the three. [21] Of the three, he was honored above the two and became their leader, yet he did not reach the three.* [22] Benaiah son of Jehoiada was the son of a brave man from Kabzeel who had done great deeds. He killed the two Ariels of Moab. He also went down into a pit on a snowy day and killed a lion.* [23] And he killed an Egyptian, a huge man five cubits tall. The Egyptian had a spear in his hand like a weaver's beam, but Benaiah went down against him with a club, wrenched the spear from the Egyptian's hand, and killed him with it. [24] Such were the deeds of Benaiah son of Jehoiada, and he won a name with the three mighty men. [25] He was honored more than the thirty, but he did not reach the three. David put him in charge of his guard. [26] The mighty warriors of the army were these: Asahel the brother of Joab, Elhanan son of Dodo from Bethlehem, [27] Shammoth the Harorite, Helez the Pelonite, [28] Ira the son of Ikkesh the Tekoite, Abiezer the Anathothite, [29] Sibbecai the Hushathite, Ilai the Ahohite, [30] Maharai the Netophathite, Heled the son of Baanah the Netophathite, [31] Ithai the son of Ribai of Gibeah of the sons of Benjamin, Benaiah the Pirathonite, [32] Hurai of the brooks of Gaash, Abiel the Arbathite, [33] Azmaveth the Baharumite, Eliahba the Shaalbonite, [34] the sons of Hashem the Gizonite, Jonathan the son of Shagee the Hararite, [35] Ahiam the son of Sachar the Hararite, Eliphal the son of Ur, [36] Hepher the Mecherathite, Ahijah the Pelonite, [37] Hezro the Carmelite, Naarai the son of Ezbai, [38] Joel the brother of Nathan, Mibhar the son of Hagri, [39] Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai the Berothite, the armor-bearer of Joab the son of Zeruiah, [40] Ira the Ithrite, Gareb the Ithrite, [41] Uriah the Hittite, Zabad the son of Ahlai, [42] Adina the son of Shiza the Reubenite, a chief of the Reubenites, and thirty with him, [43] Hanan the son of Maacah, and Joshaphat the Mithnite, [44] Uzzia the Ashterathite, Shama and Jeiel the sons of Hotham the Aroerite, [45] Jediael the son of Shimri, and Joha his brother, the Tizite, [46] Eliel the Mahavite, and Jeribai and Joshaviah the sons of Elnaam, and Ithmah the Moabite, [47] Eliel, Obed, and Jaasiel the Mezobaite.

CHAPTER 12

[1] Now these are the ones who came to David at Ziklag while he was still kept away from Saul son of Kish; they were among the mighty men who helped in battle. [2] They were equipped with bows and could sling stones and shoot arrows with the bow using right or left hand; they were from Saul's brothers, of Benjamin. [3] The chief was Ahiezer, then Joash, the sons of Shemaah the Gibeathite; Jeziel and Pelet, the sons of Azmaveth; Beracah, and Jehu the Anathothite; [4] Ishmaiah the Gibeonite, a mighty man among the thirty and over the thirty; Jeremiah, Jahaziel, Johanan, and Jozabad the Gederathite; [5] Eluzai, Jerimoth, Bealiah, Shemariah, and Shephatiah the Haruphite; [6] Elkanah, Isshiah, Azarel, Joezer, and Jashobeam, the Korahites; [7] and Joelah and Zebadiah, the sons of Jeroham of Gedor. [8] From the Gadites, men broke away to join David at the stronghold in the wilderness, strong warriors, soldiers trained for battle, handling shield and spear, whose faces were like lions' faces and who were swift as gazelles upon the hills: [9] Ezer the chief, Obadiah the second, Eliab the third, [10] Mishmannah the fourth, Jeremiah the fifth, [11] Attai the sixth, Eliel the seventh, [12] Johanan the eighth, Elzabad the ninth, [13] Jeremiah the tenth, Machbannai the eleventh. [14] These, of the sons of Gad, were heads of the army; the least was a match for a hundred, and the greatest for a thousand.* [15] These are the ones who went across the Jordan in the first month, when it was flooding over all its banks, and drove away everyone in the valleys, east and west. [16] And some men from Benjamin and Judah came to David at the stronghold. [17] David went out before them and spoke up: "If you have come to me peaceably to help me, then my heart will be one with yours. But if it is to hand me over to my foes, when there is no wrong in my hands, may the God of our fathers look on it and judge." [18] Then the Spirit clothed Amasai, the head of the officers: "We are yours, David, and with you, son of Jesse! Peace, peace be to you, and peace to whoever helps you, for your God is your help." So David welcomed them and set them among the leaders of the raiding band.* [19] Some from Manasseh also went over to David when he came with the Philistines to fight Saul. Yet they did not help them, because after consulting together the lords of the Philistines sent him off, saying, "At the price of our heads he will go over to his master Saul." [20] When he went to Ziklag, these from Manasseh went over to him: Adnah, Jozabad, Jediael, Michael, Jozabad, Elihu, and Zillethai, heads of thousands in Manasseh. [21] They helped David against the raiding band, for all of them were strong warriors, and they were leaders in the army. [22] Day by day men came to David to help him, until the camp was large, like God's own camp. [23] These are the counts of the heads of those equipped for battle who came to David at Hebron to hand Saul's kingdom over to him, as the LORD had said. [24] The men of Judah carrying shield and spear: six thousand eight hundred, equipped for battle. [25] From the sons of Simeon, strong warriors for battle: seven thousand one hundred. [26] Of the sons of Levi, four thousand six hundred. [27] Jehoiada was the leader of Aaron's house, and with him three thousand seven hundred; [28] and Zadok, a young man, a strong warrior, together with twenty-two leaders of his father's house. [29] From the sons of Benjamin, Saul's brothers: three thousand, for up to then most of them had held to the service of Saul's house. [30] From the sons of Ephraim: twenty thousand eight hundred, strong warriors, men of renown in their fathers' houses. [31] From the half-tribe of Manasseh: eighteen thousand, named one by one to come and make David king. [32] From the sons of Issachar, men who discerned the times and knew what Israel should do: two hundred heads, with all their brothers under their orders. [33] From Zebulun: fifty thousand able to go out in the army, drawn up for battle with every kind of weapon, to help with undivided heart. [34] From Naphtali: a thousand leaders, and with them thirty-seven thousand bearing shield and spear. [35] From the Danites: twenty-eight thousand six hundred, drawn up for battle. [36] From Asher: forty thousand able to go out in the army, drawn up for battle. [37] And from across the Jordan, from the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh: a hundred and twenty thousand, with every kind of weapon for battle. [38] All these fighting men, keeping ranks, came to Hebron with complete devotion to make David king over all Israel; and the rest of Israel too were of a single mind to make David king. [39] They stayed there with David three days, eating and drinking, for their brothers had got things ready for them. [40] And those living near them, even as far as Issachar, Zebulun, and Naphtali, came bringing food on donkeys, camels, mules, and oxen: supplies of flour, fig cakes, raisin cakes, wine and oil, and cattle and sheep in great numbers, for there was gladness in Israel.

CHAPTER 13

[1] David took counsel with the leaders of thousands and of hundreds, with every leader. [2] Then David said to the whole assembly of Israel, "If you think it good, and if this is from the LORD our God, let us send out everywhere to our brothers left in all the regions of Israel, and also to the priests and Levites in the cities where they have pasturelands, to come together to us. [3] And let us bring the ark of our God around to us again, for in Saul's days we did not inquire of it." [4] The whole assembly agreed to do so, because the matter seemed right to all the people. [5] So David called together all Israel, from the Shihor of Egypt as far as Lebo-hamath, to bring the ark of God from Kiriath-jearim. [6] David and all Israel went up to Baalah, to Kiriath-jearim of Judah, to bring up from there the ark of God, the LORD who sits above the cherubim, which is called by his name.* [7] They set the ark of God on a new cart and brought it out of Abinadab's house, with Uzza and Ahio guiding the cart. [8] And David and all Israel were rejoicing before God with all their strength, with song, with lyres and harps, with tambourines, cymbals, and trumpets. [9] They reached the threshing floor of Chidon, and Uzza reached out his hand to steady the ark, for the oxen had stumbled. [10] The LORD's anger flared up against Uzza, and he struck him because he had laid his hand on the ark, and he died there in the presence of God. [11] David was angered that the LORD had burst out against Uzza, and that place has been called Perez-uzza until this day. [12] That day David feared God and said, "How can I bring the ark of God to my place?" [13] So David did not move the ark to himself in the City of David; he had it taken aside to the house of Obed-edom the Gittite. [14] The ark of God stayed with Obed-edom's family in his house for three months, and the LORD blessed Obed-edom's house and everything that belonged to him.

CHAPTER 14

[1] Hiram king of Tyre sent envoys to David, along with cedar logs, stoneworkers, and woodworkers, to build him a house.* [2] Then David understood that the LORD had made him firm as king over Israel, and that his kingdom was lifted high on account of his people Israel. [3] In Jerusalem David took still more wives, and David had more sons and daughters. [4] These are the names of the children he had in Jerusalem: Shammua, Shobab, Nathan, Solomon, [5] Ibhar, Elishua, Elpelet, [6] Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia, [7] Elishama, Beeliada, and Eliphelet. [8] The Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over all Israel, and all the Philistines went up to look for David. When David heard it, he went out to face them. [9] The Philistines had come and spread out in the Valley of Rephaim. [10] David asked God, "Should I go up against the Philistines, and will you hand them over to me?" And the LORD told him, "Go up; I will hand them over to you." [11] They went up to Baal-perazim, and there David defeated them. David said, "By my hand God has broken through my enemies like waters breaking through." That is why they named that place Baal-perazim.* [12] The Philistines abandoned their gods there, and at David's command they were burned up. [13] The Philistines spread out in the valley yet again. [14] So David asked God again, and God told him, "You shall not go up after them. Go around them and come upon them opposite the balsam trees.* [15] As soon as you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the balsam trees, go out to fight, for God will have gone out ahead of you to strike the Philistine army." [16] David did just as God had commanded him, and they cut down the Philistine army from Gibeon all the way to Gezer. [17] So David's fame spread through all lands, and the LORD put the dread of him on every nation.

CHAPTER 15

[1] David made houses for himself in the City of David; he also prepared a place for the ark of God and set up a tent for it. [2] At that time David said, "The ark of God is not to be carried by anyone but the Levites, for the LORD chose them to bear the ark of the LORD and to serve him for all time." [3] And David called all Israel together in Jerusalem to bring the ark of the LORD up to the place he had prepared for it. [4] David brought together the sons of Aaron and the Levites: [5] from the sons of Kohath, Uriel the leader and a hundred and twenty of his brothers; [6] from the sons of Merari, Asaiah the leader and two hundred and twenty of his brothers; [7] from the sons of Gershom, Joel the leader and a hundred and thirty of his brothers; [8] from the sons of Elizaphan, Shemaiah the leader and two hundred of his brothers; [9] from the sons of Hebron, Eliel the leader and eighty of his brothers; [10] from the sons of Uzziel, Amminadab the leader and a hundred and twelve of his brothers. [11] David summoned Zadok and Abiathar the priests, and the Levites Uriel, Asaiah, Joel, Shemaiah, Eliel, and Amminadab, [12] and told them, "You are the heads of the Levites' fathers' houses. Sanctify yourselves, you and your brothers, and bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel to the place I have made ready for it. [13] It was because you were not there the first time that the LORD our God burst out against us, since we did not seek him in the proper way." [14] The priests and Levites sanctified themselves in order to bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel. [15] And the Levites carried the ark of God on their shoulders by its poles, just as Moses had commanded by the word of the LORD. [16] David told the leaders of the Levites to station their brothers as singers with musical instruments, harps, lyres, and cymbals, sounding out and lifting their voices with joy. [17] So the Levites stationed Heman son of Joel; from his brothers, Asaph son of Berechiah; and from the sons of Merari their brothers, Ethan son of Kushaiah; [18] and with them their brothers of the second order: Zechariah, Ben, Jaaziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, Mikneiah, and Obed-edom and Jeiel, the gatekeepers.* [19] The singers Heman, Asaph, and Ethan were to make sound with cymbals of bronze; [20] Zechariah, Aziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Maaseiah, and Benaiah, with harps according to Alamoth; [21] and Mattithiah, Eliphelehu, Mikneiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel, and Azaziah, with lyres according to the Sheminith, to lead. [22] Chenaniah, the leader of the Levites in music, was in charge of the music because he understood it.* [23] Berechiah and Elkanah were doorkeepers for the ark. [24] The priests Shebaniah, Joshaphat, Nethanel, Amasai, Zechariah, Benaiah, and Eliezer sounded the trumpets in front of the ark of God, and Obed-edom and Jehiah were doorkeepers for the ark. [25] Then David, the elders of Israel, and the leaders of thousands went with rejoicing to bring the ark of the covenant of the LORD up from Obed-edom's house. [26] Because God helped the Levites who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, seven bulls and seven rams were sacrificed. [27] David had on a robe of fine linen, and so did all the Levites bearing the ark, the singers, and Chenaniah, leader of the music of the singers; and David had on a linen ephod. [28] All Israel brought the ark of the covenant of the LORD up with shouts of joy, with the blast of the horn, with trumpets and cymbals, sounding harps and lyres. [29] When the ark of the covenant of the LORD reached the City of David, Michal daughter of Saul looked out of the window and saw King David leaping and rejoicing, and in her heart she held him in contempt.

CHAPTER 16

[1] They brought the ark of God in and placed it within the tent David had set up for it, and they presented burnt offerings and peace offerings before God. [2] When David had finished presenting the burnt offerings and the peace offerings, he blessed the people in the LORD's name. [3] Then to every Israelite, man and woman alike, he handed out a loaf of bread, a portion of dates, and a raisin cake. [] [4] He put some of the Levites before the ark of the LORD as ministers, to commemorate, to give thanks, and to praise the LORD God of Israel: [5] Asaph the head, and next to him Zechariah, Jeiel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Mattithiah, Eliab, Benaiah, Obed-edom, and Jeiel, with harps and lyres, while Asaph made sound with cymbals; [6] and the priests Benaiah and Jahaziel with trumpets, continually before the ark of the covenant of God. [7] On that day David for the first time put Asaph and his brothers in charge of giving thanks to the LORD: [8] Give thanks to the LORD; call upon his name; make known among the peoples what he has done! [9] Sing to him; make music to him; speak of all his wondrous works! [10] Boast in his holy name; let the heart of those seeking the LORD be glad! [11] Look to the LORD and his strength; seek his presence always! [12] Remember the wonders he performed, his signs, and the judgments he spoke, [13] you seed of Israel his servant, you sons of Jacob, his chosen! [14] He is the LORD our God; his judgments are through all the earth. [15] Keep his covenant in mind forever, the word he ordained for a thousand generations, [16] which he made with Abraham, and his sworn promise to Isaac, [17] and which he set up for Jacob as a decree, for Israel as a covenant for all time, [18] when he said, "To you I will give the land of Canaan, the share of your inheritance," [19] while you were few in number, only a handful, and strangers in it, [20] going about from nation to nation, from one kingdom to another people. [21] He allowed no man to oppress them, and he reproved kings on their account: [22] "Do not lay a hand on my anointed, and do not harm my prophets!" [23] Sing to the LORD, all the earth; announce his salvation day after day! [24] Tell of his glory among the nations, of his wonders among all peoples! [25] For the LORD is great and highly to be praised, and he is to be feared above all gods. [26] For all the gods of the peoples are idols, but the LORD made the heavens. [27] Honor and majesty are in his presence; strength and joy are in his dwelling. [28] Give to the LORD, you families of the peoples, give to the LORD glory and strength! [29] Give to the LORD the glory his name deserves; bring an offering and come into his presence. Worship the LORD in holy splendor; [30] tremble at his presence, all the earth! The world is firmly set; it will not be shaken. [31] Let the heavens be glad and the earth rejoice; let them say among the nations, "The LORD is King!" [32] Let the sea roar with all that is in it; let the countryside rejoice with everything that is in it! [33] Then the trees of the woods will shout for joy in the presence of the LORD, because he is coming to judge the earth. [34] Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good, for his steadfast love lasts forever! [35] Say also, "Save us, God of our salvation! Gather us together and deliver us from the nations, so that we may give thanks to your holy name and take pride in your praise." [36] Blessed be the LORD God of Israel from age to age! And all the people said "Amen," and praised the LORD. [37] David left Asaph and his brothers there in front of the ark of the covenant of the LORD to serve before the ark always, as each day's duty required; [38] also Obed-edom and their brothers, sixty-eight; and Obed-edom son of Jeduthun and Hosah to be gatekeepers. [] [39] And Zadok the priest and his brothers the priests he left in front of the tabernacle of the LORD at the high place in Gibeon, [40] to present burnt offerings to the LORD on the altar of burnt offering regularly, morning and evening, and to do everything written in the law of the LORD that he gave to Israel. [41] With them were Heman, Jeduthun, and the others chosen and named one by one to give thanks to the LORD, because his steadfast love lasts forever. [42] With them, that is, with Heman and Jeduthun, were trumpets and cymbals for those who sounded aloud, and the instruments for God's song. The sons of Jeduthun were at the gate. [43] And all the people went off, each to his own house, and David went back to bless his household.

CHAPTER 17

[1] Once David was settled in his house, he said to Nathan the prophet, "Here I am, living in a house of cedar, while the ark of the covenant of the LORD stays under curtains." [2] And Nathan told David, "Do whatever you have in mind, for God is with you." [3] But that very night the word of God came to Nathan: [4] "Go, say to David my servant, 'This is what the LORD says: You are not the one to build me the house for me to dwell in. [5] For from the day I brought Israel up until now I have not dwelt in a house; I have gone from tent to tent and from tabernacle to tabernacle. [] [6] In all the places where I have walked about with all Israel, did I ever say a word to any of Israel's judges, whom I commanded to shepherd my people, asking, "Why have you not built me a house of cedar?"' [7] So now, say this to my servant David: 'This is what the LORD of hosts says: I took you from the pastureland, from behind the flock, to be prince over my people Israel. [8] I have been with you everywhere you have gone, and I have cut down all your enemies in front of you. I will make you a name like the names of the great men of the earth. [9] I will set aside a place for my people Israel and plant them there, so that they can live where they are and be troubled no longer. Violent men will not oppress them anymore as they did at first, [10] and from the time I put judges over my people Israel. I will bring all your enemies low. And I tell you that the LORD will build a house for you. [11] When your days are complete and you go to join your fathers, I will raise up your seed after you, one who will come from your sons, and I will make his kingdom firm. [12] He is the one who will build a house for me, and I will make his throne firm forever. [13] I will be a father to him, and he will be a son to me. I will not withdraw my steadfast love from him as I withdrew it from the one who came before you. [14] I will establish him in my house and in my kingdom forever, and his throne will stand firm for all time.'" [15] Nathan told David all these words, exactly according to this whole vision. [16] King David went in, sat down before the LORD, and said, "Who am I, LORD God, and what is my family, that you have brought me as far as this? [17] Yet even this was too little in your sight, O God, and you have spoken about your servant's house far into the future, and have regarded me as a man of high rank, LORD God. [18] What else can David add to you concerning the honor shown your servant? You know your servant. [19] LORD, for the sake of your servant and as your heart desired, you have done all this great thing, making known all these great deeds. [20] LORD, no one is like you, and there is no God but you, in all that our ears have heard. [21] And what other nation on earth is like your people Israel, whom God went out to redeem as a people for himself, to win yourself a name by great and fearsome deeds, driving out nations before your people whom you redeemed out of Egypt? [22] You made your people Israel your own people for all time, and you, LORD, became their God. [23] Now, LORD, may the word you have spoken about your servant and his house stand firm forever; do just as you have said. [24] May it stand firm, and may your name be great forever, so that people say, 'The LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, is Israel's God'; and may the house of your servant David be secure in your presence. [25] For you, my God, have opened your servant's ear that you will build him a house; that is why your servant has found it in his heart to pray to you. [26] And now, LORD, you are the God, and you have spoken this good promise to your servant. [27] So now you have been pleased to bless your servant's house, so that it may remain before you forever; for you, LORD, have blessed it, and blessed it remains forever."

CHAPTER 18

[1] Some time later David attacked the Philistines and brought them low, and he took Gath and its villages from the Philistines' control. [2] He attacked Moab too, and the Moabites became David's servants, paying tribute. [3] David also defeated Hadadezer king of Zobah near Hamath, when he went to set up his power at the river Euphrates. [4] David captured from him a thousand chariots, seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand men on foot. David hamstrung all the chariot horses, but he left a hundred chariot teams. [5] The Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadadezer king of Zobah, and David cut down twenty-two thousand of the Syrians.* [6] David stationed garrisons in Syria of Damascus, and the Syrians became David's servants, paying tribute. The LORD gave David victory everywhere he went. [7] David took the gold shields that Hadadezer's servants had, and brought them to Jerusalem. [8] From Tibhath and Cun, Hadadezer's cities, David took a vast quantity of bronze, from which Solomon made the bronze sea, the pillars, and the bronze vessels. [9] Tou king of Hamath heard that David had defeated the entire army of Hadadezer king of Zobah, [10] and he sent his son Hadoram to King David to ask about his welfare and to bless him for having fought Hadadezer and defeated him, since Hadadezer had been at war with Tou. He sent every kind of object of gold, silver, and bronze. [11] King David consecrated these too to the LORD, along with the silver and gold he had taken from all the nations: from Edom, Moab, the children of Ammon, the Philistines, and Amalek. [12] And Abishai son of Zeruiah killed eighteen thousand Edomites in the Valley of Salt. [13] He stationed garrisons in Edom, and all Edom became David's servants. The LORD gave David victory everywhere he went. [14] David reigned over all Israel, doing what was just and right for all his people. [15] Joab son of Zeruiah commanded the army; Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud was the recorder; [16] Zadok son of Ahitub and Abimelech son of Abiathar were priests; Shavsha was the scribe; [17] Benaiah son of Jehoiada was in charge of the Cherethites and Pelethites; and David's sons were the first men at the king's side.

CHAPTER 19

[1] Some time after this, Nahash king of the children of Ammon died, and his son became king after him. [2] David thought, "I will deal kindly with Hanun son of Nahash, for his father dealt kindly with me." So David sent envoys to comfort him over his father. But when David's servants reached the land of the children of Ammon to comfort Hanun, [3] the leaders of the children of Ammon said to Hanun, "Do you really think David is honoring your father by sending you comforters? Is it not to explore, to overturn, and to spy out the land that his servants have come to you?" [4] Hanun seized David's servants, shaved them, cut their garments off halfway, up to the buttocks, and sent them off. [5] When David was told about the men, he sent people to meet them, for the men were greatly disgraced. The king said, "Remain in Jericho till your beards grow back; then come home." [6] The children of Ammon realized they had made themselves a stench to David, so Hanun and the children of Ammon sent a thousand talents of silver to hire chariots and horsemen for themselves from Aram-naharaim, Aram-maacah, and Zobah. [7] They hired thirty-two thousand chariots, along with the king of Maacah and his army, and these came and camped in front of Medeba. Meanwhile the children of Ammon were mustered from their cities and came out to fight. [8] Hearing this, David sent Joab with the whole army of warriors. [9] The children of Ammon marched out and formed their battle line at the city gate, while the kings who had come stood apart in the open field. [10] Joab saw that the battle lines faced him front and rear, so he picked some of Israel's best men and lined them up to face the Syrians. [11] He put the rest of the troops under the command of his brother Abishai, and they lined up to face the children of Ammon. [12] He said, "If the Syrians prove too strong for me, you come to my rescue; and if the children of Ammon prove too strong for you, I will rescue you. [13] Be strong! Let us be brave for the sake of our people and the cities of our God, and may the LORD do whatever seems good to him." [14] Then Joab and his troops advanced to fight the Syrians, and the Syrians ran from him. [15] And when the children of Ammon saw the Syrians run, they too ran from his brother Abishai and went into the city. So Joab went back to Jerusalem. [16] Seeing that Israel had beaten them, the Syrians sent envoys and called out the Syrians from beyond the River, led by Shophach, commander of Hadadezer's army. [17] David was informed, and he mustered all Israel, crossed the Jordan, and came upon them, drawing up his lines against them. David set his lines in order to meet the Syrians, and they fought him. [18] The Syrians ran from Israel, and David slew seven thousand Syrian chariot crews and forty thousand foot soldiers; he also killed Shophach the army commander. [19] When Hadadezer's servants saw that Israel had beaten them, they made peace with David and became his subjects. After that the Syrians would no longer come to the aid of the children of Ammon.

CHAPTER 20

[1] At the return of the year, the season when kings march out, Joab led the fighting force and laid waste the land of the children of Ammon; then he went and laid siege to Rabbah, while David remained in Jerusalem. Joab attacked Rabbah and tore it down. [2] David took their king's crown from his head; he found it weighed a talent of gold and had a precious stone in it, and it was set on David's head. He brought a very large amount of plunder out of the city. [] [3] He brought out the people who were there and cut them with saws, with iron threshing sledges, and with saws. David treated all the cities of the children of Ammon this way. Then David and all the army went back to Jerusalem. [] [4] Later on, war arose with the Philistines at Gezer. At that time Sibbecai the Hushathite killed Sippai, one of the offspring of the Rephaim, and they were humbled. [] [5] There was fighting with the Philistines once more, and Elhanan son of Jair killed Lahmi, Goliath the Gittite's brother, whose spear shaft was like a weaver's beam. [] [6] And there was fighting yet again at Gath, where there was a giant of a man with six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, twenty-four in all; he too had been born to the Rapha. [7] He defied Israel, and Jonathan son of Shimea, David's brother, killed him. [8] These had been born to the Rapha in Gath, and they fell at the hands of David and his servants.

CHAPTER 21

[1] Satan rose up against Israel and stirred David up to count Israel. [*] [2] David told Joab and the leaders of the people, "Go and count Israel from Beersheba as far as Dan, and report to me so that I may know how many they are." [3] Joab replied, "May the LORD multiply his people a hundred times over! But my lord the king, are they not all servants of my lord? Why does my lord want this? Why should he bring guilt on Israel?" [4] Yet the king's word overruled Joab. So Joab left, traveled through all Israel, and returned to Jerusalem. [5] Joab reported to David the number from the census of the people: all Israel had one million one hundred thousand swordsmen, and Judah four hundred and seventy thousand swordsmen. [6] Levi and Benjamin, however, he did not count among them, because the king's order was repugnant to Joab. [7] This thing was evil in God's sight, and he struck Israel. [8] David said to God, "I have committed a great sin by doing this. Now, I beg you, remove the guilt of your servant, for I have been very foolish." [9] The LORD spoke to Gad, David's seer: [10] "Go and tell David, 'This is what the LORD says: I am setting three things before you. Choose one of them, and I will do it to you.'" [11] Gad went to David and told him, "This is what the LORD says: 'Choose for yourself: [12] three years of famine; or three months of being destroyed by your adversaries, with your enemies' sword catching up with you; or three days of the LORD's sword, plague in the land, with the angel of the LORD bringing destruction through all Israel's territory.' Now decide what reply I should take back to the one who sent me." [13] David told Gad, "I am in a terrible strait. Let me fall into the LORD's hand, because his compassion is very great; but do not let me fall into human hands." [14] So the LORD sent plague on Israel, and seventy thousand men from Israel died. [15] God sent an angel to Jerusalem to destroy it. But as he was destroying, the LORD saw and was grieved over the disaster, and he told the destroying angel, "That is enough! Now hold back your hand." The angel of the LORD was then standing at the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite. [16] David looked up and saw the angel of the LORD standing between the earth and the sky with a sword drawn in his hand, held out over Jerusalem. Then David and the elders, covered in sackcloth, fell face down. [17] David said to God, "Was it not I who ordered the people counted? I am the one who sinned and did terrible wrong. But these sheep, what have they done? LORD my God, please let your hand fall on me and my father's family, but do not let the plague be on your people." [18] The angel of the LORD then told Gad to say to David that David should go up and raise an altar to the LORD at the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite. [19] David went up at Gad's word, which he had spoken in the LORD's name. [20] Ornan, who was threshing wheat, turned around and saw the angel, and his four sons who were with him hid. [21] David came up to Ornan; Ornan looked and saw David, came out of the threshing floor, and bowed down to David, face to the ground. [22] David said to Ornan, "Let me have the place of this threshing floor so I can build an altar to the LORD on it; give it to me for its full price, so that the plague may be stopped from striking the people." [23] Ornan told David, "Take it; let my lord the king do whatever he thinks best. Look, I am giving the oxen for burnt offerings, the threshing boards for wood, and the wheat for a grain offering. I give everything." [24] King David answered Ornan, "No, I insist on buying it at the full price. I will not take what belongs to you for the LORD, or offer a burnt offering that costs nothing." [25] And David paid Ornan six hundred shekels of gold by weight for the place. [26] There David built an altar to the LORD and presented burnt offerings and peace offerings. He called on the LORD, and the LORD answered him by fire from heaven upon the altar of burnt offering. [27] The LORD then gave the angel the order, and he returned his sword to its sheath. [28] At that time, when David saw that the LORD had answered him at the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite, he offered sacrifices there. [29] The tabernacle of the LORD that Moses had made in the wilderness, and the altar of burnt offering, were at that time at the high place in Gibeon; [30] but David was unable to go before it to seek God, because he was terrified of the sword of the angel of the LORD.

CHAPTER 22

[1] And David said, "This is the house of the LORD God, and this the altar of burnt offering for Israel." [2] David ordered that the foreigners living in the land of Israel be brought together, and he set stonecutters to cut squared stones to build the house of God. [3] David laid up large amounts of iron for nails for the doors of the gates and for the fittings, and more bronze than could be weighed, [4] and cedar logs past counting, because the Sidonians and Tyrians had brought David cedar logs in great quantity. [5] For David said, "My son Solomon is young and tender, and the house that is to be built for the LORD must be magnificent beyond measure, famous and glorious in all the lands. So I will get things ready for it." And David made ample preparation before he died. [6] He summoned his son Solomon and commanded him to build a house for the LORD God of Israel. [7] David told Solomon, "My son, I had it in my heart to build a house for the name of the LORD my God. [8] But the word of the LORD came to me: 'You have poured out a great deal of blood and fought great wars. You are not to build a house for my name, for you have poured out much blood on the ground in my sight. [9] But a son is going to be born to you; he will be a man of rest, and I will give him rest from all his enemies on every side. Solomon will be his name, and I will grant Israel peace and quietness in his days. [] [10] He is the one who will build a house for my name. He will be a son to me and I a father to him, and I will make the throne of his kingship over Israel firm forever.' [11] Now, my son, may the LORD be with you, and may you prosper and build the house of the LORD your God, just as he said you would. [12] Only may the LORD grant you discretion and understanding when he gives you charge over Israel, so that you keep the law of the LORD your God. [13] You will prosper if you take care to carry out the statutes and judgments that the LORD commanded Moses for Israel. Be strong and brave; do not fear and do not lose heart. [14] See, with great pains I have laid up for the house of the LORD a hundred thousand talents of gold and a million talents of silver, and more bronze and iron than can be weighed, so much is there. I have also laid up timber and stone, and you will add more. [] [15] And you have plenty of workers: stonecutters, workers in stone and wood, and every sort of expert in every kind of craft, [16] for gold, silver, bronze, and iron past counting. Get up and do it, and may the LORD be with you!" [17] David also ordered all Israel's leaders to help his son Solomon: [18] "The LORD your God is with you, is he not? Has he not given you rest all around? He has handed the inhabitants of the land over to me, and the land has been brought under the LORD and his people. [19] So now devote your heart and soul to seeking the LORD your God. Get up and build the sanctuary of the LORD God, so that the ark of the LORD's covenant and God's holy vessels can be brought into the house built for the LORD's name."

CHAPTER 23

[1] When David had grown old and was full of years, he made his son Solomon king over Israel. [2] He brought together all Israel's leaders, along with the priests and the Levites. [3] The Levites aged thirty and over were counted, and their total by heads, man by man, came to thirty-eight thousand. [4] David said, "Out of these, twenty-four thousand are to direct the work of the house of the LORD, six thousand are to be officials and judges, [5] four thousand are to be gatekeepers, and four thousand are to praise the LORD on the instruments I made for giving praise." [6] David organized them in divisions by the sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. [7] Of the Gershonites: Ladan and Shimei. [8] The sons of Ladan: Jehiel the chief, Zetham, and Joel, three. [9] The sons of Shimei: Shelomoth, Haziel, and Haran, three. These were the heads of the fathers' houses of Ladan. [] [10] The sons of Shimei: Jahath, Zina, Jeush, and Beriah. These four were the sons of Shimei. [] [11] Jahath was the first and Zizah the second; but Jeush and Beriah had few sons, so they were counted as a single father's house, one assignment. [12] The sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel, four. [13] The sons of Amram: Aaron and Moses. Aaron was set apart, he and his sons for all time, to consecrate the most holy things, to burn incense before the LORD, to serve him, and to bless in his name for all time. [*] [14] As for Moses the man of God, his sons were counted with the tribe of Levi. [15] The sons of Moses: Gershom and Eliezer. [16] The sons of Gershom: Shebuel the chief. [17] The sons of Eliezer: Rehabiah the chief. Eliezer had no more sons, but Rehabiah's sons were extremely numerous. [18] The sons of Izhar: Shelomith the chief. [19] The sons of Hebron: Jeriah the chief, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth. [20] The sons of Uzziel: Micah the chief and Isshiah the second. [21] The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Mahli: Eleazar and Kish. [22] Eleazar died without sons; he had only daughters, and their cousins, the sons of Kish, married them. [23] The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jeremoth, three. [24] These were the sons of Levi by fathers' houses, the heads of the fathers' houses as they were registered, counted name by name, head by head, those who did the work for the service of the house of the LORD, aged twenty and over. [25] For David said, "The LORD God of Israel has given his people rest, and he has made his dwelling in Jerusalem forever. [26] So the Levites will no longer have to carry the tabernacle or any of the vessels used in its service." [27] For according to David's last words, the Levites were counted from twenty years old and over. [28] Their place was at the side of Aaron's sons for the service of the house of the LORD, over the courts and the chambers, over the cleansing of every holy thing, and over the work of the service of the house of God; [29] over the bread set in rows, the fine flour for grain offerings, the unleavened wafers, what was baked on the griddle, what was mixed with oil, and every measure of volume and length. [30] And they were to stand morning by morning to give thanks and praise to the LORD, and the same in the evening, [31] and at every presenting of burnt offerings to the LORD on Sabbaths, new moons, and appointed feasts, in the number required for them, always before the LORD. [32] In this way they kept watch over the tent of meeting, watch over the holy place, and watch over the sons of Aaron their brothers in the service of the house of the LORD.

CHAPTER 24

[1] These were the divisions of Aaron's sons. The sons of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. [2] Nadab and Abihu died before their father and left no sons, so Eleazar and Ithamar served as priests. [3] David, along with Zadok from the sons of Eleazar and Ahimelech from the sons of Ithamar, organized them by their assigned turns in their service. [4] More leading men were found among Eleazar's sons than among Ithamar's, so they divided them like this: from Eleazar's sons, sixteen heads of fathers' houses, and from Ithamar's sons, eight, by their fathers' houses. [5] They divided them by lot, these together with those, because there were officials of the sanctuary and officials of God from Eleazar's sons and from Ithamar's sons alike. [6] The scribe Shemaiah son of Nethanel, a Levite, wrote them down before the king, the officials, Zadok the priest, Ahimelech son of Abiathar, and the heads of the fathers' houses of the priests and Levites: one father's house taken for Eleazar, and one taken for Ithamar.* [7] The first lot came out for Jehoiarib, the second for Jedaiah, [8] the third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim, [9] the fifth to Malchijah, the sixth to Mijamin, [10] the seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to Abijah, [11] the ninth to Jeshua, the tenth to Shecaniah, [12] the eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim, [13] the thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshebeab, [14] the fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer, [15] the seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Happizzez, [16] the nineteenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Jehezkel, [17] the twenty-first to Jachin, the twenty-second to Gamul, [18] the twenty-third to Delaiah, the twenty-fourth to Maaziah. [19] This was their order for their service when they entered the house of the LORD, by the regulation they received through Aaron their father, as the LORD God of Israel had commanded him. [20] And for the remaining sons of Levi: from Amram's sons, Shubael; from Shubael's sons, Jehdeiah. [21] As for Rehabiah: of the sons of Rehabiah, Isshiah the chief. [22] Of the Izharites, Shelomoth; of the sons of Shelomoth, Jahath. [23] The sons of Hebron: Jeriah the chief, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, Jekameam the fourth.* [24] The sons of Uzziel: Micah; of the sons of Micah, Shamir. [25] The brother of Micah: Isshiah; of the sons of Isshiah, Zechariah. [26] The sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. The sons of Jaaziah: Beno.* [27] The sons of Merari: of Jaaziah, Beno, Shoham, Zaccur, and Ibri. [28] Of Mahli: Eleazar, who had no sons. [29] Of Kish, the sons of Kish: Jerahmeel. [30] The sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, and Jerimoth. These were the Levites' sons by their fathers' houses. [31] They too cast lots, like their brothers the sons of Aaron, before King David, Zadok, Ahimelech, and the heads of the fathers' houses of the priests and Levites, the chief fathers' house just as its youngest brother.

CHAPTER 25

[1] David and the army leaders also set apart for service some of the sons of Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, who were to prophesy with lyres, harps, and cymbals. This is the list of the men who did the work in their service: [2] From the sons of Asaph: Zaccur, Joseph, Nethaniah, and Asharelah, sons of Asaph, under Asaph's direction, who prophesied at the king's direction. [3] From Jeduthun, the sons of Jeduthun: Gedaliah, Zeri, Jeshaiah, Hashabiah, and Mattithiah, six, under the direction of their father Jeduthun, who prophesied with the lyre, giving thanks and praising the LORD.* [4] From Heman, the sons of Heman: Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, Romamti-ezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth. [5] All these were sons of Heman, the king's seer in the words of God, to lift up his horn; and God gave Heman fourteen sons and three daughters.* [6] All of them were under their father's direction for singing in the house of the LORD with cymbals, harps, and lyres, for the service of God's house, under the king's direction: Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman. [7] Their number, along with their brothers trained in song for the LORD, every one of them an expert, was two hundred and eighty-eight. [8] And they cast lots for their duties, the young as well as the old, the master together with the student. [9] The first lot came out for Asaph, to Joseph; the second to Gedaliah, he with his brothers and sons, twelve; [10] the third to Zaccur, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [11] the fourth to Izri, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [12] the fifth to Nethaniah, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [13] the sixth to Bukkiah, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [14] the seventh to Jesharelah, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [15] the eighth to Jeshaiah, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [16] the ninth to Mattaniah, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [17] the tenth to Shimei, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [18] the eleventh to Azarel, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [19] the twelfth to Hashabiah, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [20] the thirteenth to Shubael, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [21] the fourteenth to Mattithiah, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [22] the fifteenth to Jeremoth, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [23] the sixteenth to Hananiah, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [24] the seventeenth to Joshbekashah, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [25] the eighteenth to Hanani, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [26] the nineteenth to Mallothi, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [27] the twentieth to Eliathah, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [28] the twenty-first to Hothir, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [29] the twenty-second to Giddalti, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [30] the twenty-third to Mahazioth, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve; [31] the twenty-fourth to Romamti-ezer, his sons and his kinsmen, twelve.

CHAPTER 26

[1] The divisions of the gatekeepers. From the Korahites: Meshelemiah son of Kore, one of the sons of Asaph. [2] Meshelemiah had sons: Zechariah the firstborn, Jediael the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth, [3] Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, Eliehoenai the seventh. [4] Obed-edom had sons: Shemaiah the firstborn, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, Sachar the fourth, Nethanel the fifth, [5] Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peullethai the eighth; for God had blessed Obed-edom. [6] To his son Shemaiah sons were also born who were rulers in their fathers' house, for they were strong, capable men. [7] The sons of Shemaiah: Othni, Rephael, Obed, and Elzabad; his brothers Elihu and Semachiah were capable men. [8] All these were descendants of Obed-edom; they, their sons, and their brothers were capable men, strong for the work: sixty-two from Obed-edom. [9] And Meshelemiah had sons and brothers, capable men, eighteen. [10] Hosah, from the sons of Merari, had sons: Shimri the head (he was not the firstborn, but his father made him head), [11] Hilkiah the second, Tebaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth. Hosah's sons and brothers totaled thirteen. [12] To these divisions of the gatekeepers, by their leading men, were given duties alongside their brothers, to serve in the house of the LORD. [13] And they cast lots by their fathers' houses for each gate, the small as well as the great. [14] The lot for the east came out for Shelemiah. Then they cast lots for his son Zechariah, a wise counselor, and his lot came out for the north. [15] For Obed-edom the south, and for his sons the storehouse. [16] For Shuppim and Hosah the west, with the gate of Shallecheth on the ascending road. Watch stood beside watch. [17] There were six Levites daily on the east, four on the north, four on the south, and two and two at the storehouse. [18] At the Parbar on the west, four at the road and two at the Parbar.* [19] These were the gatekeepers' divisions among the Korahites and the sons of Merari. [20] And among the Levites, Ahijah had charge of the treasuries of God's house and the treasuries of the consecrated gifts. [21] The sons of Ladan, the Gershonites descended from Ladan, heads of the fathers' houses of Ladan the Gershonite: Jehieli. [22] Jehieli's sons, Zetham and his brother Joel, had charge of the treasuries of the house of the LORD. [23] From the Amramites, the Izharites, the Hebronites, and the Uzzielites: [24] Shebuel son of Gershom, son of Moses, was the officer in charge of the treasuries. [25] His brothers through Eliezer: his son Rehabiah, his son Jeshaiah, his son Joram, his son Zichri, and his son Shelomith.* [26] This Shelomoth and his brothers had charge of all the treasuries of the consecrated gifts that King David, the heads of the fathers' houses, the leaders of thousands and hundreds, and the army leaders had consecrated. [27] Out of the battles and out of the plunder they had consecrated gifts for the upkeep of the house of the LORD. [28] Everything that Samuel the seer, Saul son of Kish, Abner son of Ner, and Joab son of Zeruiah had consecrated, all the consecrated gifts, were under the hand of Shelomith and his brothers. [29] From the Izharites, Chenaniah and his sons were assigned to the external business over Israel, as officials and judges. [30] From the Hebronites, Hashabiah and his brothers, seventeen hundred capable men, were responsible for Israel west of the Jordan, for all the LORD's work and for the king's service. [31] Among the Hebronites Jeriah was the head, in the genealogies of the Hebronites by fathers' houses. In the fortieth year of David's reign they were sought out, and strong, capable men were found among them at Jazer in Gilead. [32] And his brothers, capable men, numbered two thousand seven hundred, heads of fathers' houses. King David put them in charge of the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, for every matter of God and every matter of the king.

CHAPTER 27

[1] Now the children of Israel by their count, the heads of fathers' houses, the leaders of thousands and hundreds, and their officials who served the king in every affair of the divisions, which came on and went off duty month after month all through the year: each division had twenty-four thousand. [2] In charge of the first division, for the first month, was Jashobeam son of Zabdiel, and his division had twenty-four thousand. [3] He was one of the sons of Perez and head of all the army leaders for the first month. [4] In charge of the division of the second month was Dodai the Ahohite with his division, Mikloth being the officer in charge; his division had twenty-four thousand. [5] The third army leader, for the third month, was Benaiah son of Jehoiada the priest, as head; his division had twenty-four thousand. [6] This Benaiah was a mighty man among the thirty and in command of the thirty; his son Ammizabad was in his division. [7] Fourth, for the fourth month, was Asahel the brother of Joab, followed by his son Zebadiah; his division had twenty-four thousand. [8] Fifth, for the fifth month, the leader was Shamhuth the Izrahite; his division had twenty-four thousand. [9] Sixth, for the sixth month, was Ira son of Ikkesh the Tekoite; his division had twenty-four thousand. [10] Seventh, for the seventh month, was Helez the Pelonite, from the sons of Ephraim; his division had twenty-four thousand. [11] Eighth, for the eighth month, was Sibbecai the Hushathite, from the Zerahites; his division had twenty-four thousand. [12] Ninth, for the ninth month, was Abiezer the Anathothite, from the Benjaminites; his division had twenty-four thousand. [13] Tenth, for the tenth month, was Maharai the Netophathite, from the Zerahites; his division had twenty-four thousand. [14] Eleventh, for the eleventh month, was Benaiah the Pirathonite, from the sons of Ephraim; his division had twenty-four thousand. [15] Twelfth, for the twelfth month, was Heldai the Netophathite, from Othniel; his division had twenty-four thousand. [16] Over the tribes of Israel: the leader of the Reubenites was Eliezer son of Zichri; of the Simeonites, Shephatiah son of Maacah; [17] for Levi, Hashabiah the son of Kemuel; for Aaron, Zadok; [18] for Judah, Elihu, one of David's brothers; for Issachar, Omri the son of Michael; [19] for Zebulun, Ishmaiah the son of Obadiah; for Naphtali, Jerimoth the son of Azriel; [20] for the sons of Ephraim, Hoshea the son of Azaziah; for the half-tribe of Manasseh, Joel the son of Pedaiah; [21] for the half of Manasseh in Gilead, Iddo the son of Zechariah; for Benjamin, Jaasiel the son of Abner; [22] for Dan, Azarel son of Jeroham. These were the leaders of Israel's tribes. [23] David did not count those aged twenty and under, because the LORD had promised to make Israel as many as the stars in the sky. [24] Joab son of Zeruiah started the count but did not complete it. Wrath fell on Israel because of it, and the figure was never entered in the record of King David's chronicles. [25] Azmaveth son of Adiel had charge of the king's treasuries; Jonathan son of Uzziah had charge of the storehouses in the countryside, the cities, the villages, and the towers. [26] Ezri son of Chelub had charge of the field workers who farmed the land. [27] Shimei the Ramathite had charge of the vineyards, and Zabdi the Shiphmite had charge of what the vineyards yielded for the wine stores. [28] Baal-hanan the Gederite had charge of the olive and sycamore trees in the Shephelah, and Joash had charge of the stores of oil. [29] Shitrai the Sharonite had charge of the cattle that grazed in Sharon, and Shaphat son of Adlai had charge of the cattle in the valleys.* [30] Obil the Ishmaelite had charge of the camels, and Jehdeiah the Meronothite had charge of the donkeys. [31] Jaziz the Hagrite had charge of the flocks. All these were officials over King David's possessions. [32] Jonathan, David's uncle, was an adviser, a wise man and a scribe; Jehiel son of Hachmoni was with the king's sons. [33] Ahithophel was adviser to the king, and Hushai the Archite was the king's friend. [34] Ahithophel was succeeded by Jehoiada son of Benaiah and by Abiathar. Joab was the commander of the king's army.

CHAPTER 28

[1] David called together in Jerusalem all Israel's officials: the tribal leaders, the leaders of the divisions serving the king, the leaders of thousands and hundreds, the officials over all the property and herds of the king and his sons, along with the court officials, the mighty men, and every strong warrior. [2] King David stood up on his feet and said, "Listen to me, my brothers and my people. It was in my heart to build a house where the ark of the covenant of the LORD could rest, a footstool for our God's feet, and I got ready to build it. [3] But God told me, 'You will not build a house for my name, because you are a warrior and have poured out blood.' [4] Still, the LORD God of Israel chose me out of my whole father's house to be king over Israel forever. He chose Judah to be leader, and from the house of Judah my father's house, and among my father's sons he was pleased with me and made me king over all Israel. [5] Of all my sons (and the LORD has given me many) he has chosen my son Solomon to sit on the throne of the LORD's kingdom over Israel. [6] He told me, 'Your son Solomon is the one who will build my house and my courts, because I have chosen him as my son, and I will be a father to him. [7] I will make his kingdom firm forever if he holds firmly to doing my commandments and my judgments, as he does now.' [8] So now, before the eyes of all Israel, the LORD's assembly, and in our God's hearing, observe and search out all the commandments of the LORD your God, so that you may keep this good land and hand it on to your sons after you as an inheritance for all time. [9] And you, my son Solomon, know your father's God and serve him with an undivided heart and a willing spirit, because the LORD searches every heart and discerns every plan and thought. If you seek him, he will let himself be found by you; but if you abandon him, he will reject you forever. [10] See now that the LORD has chosen you to build a house as a sanctuary. Be strong and act." [11] David handed his son Solomon the design for the temple porch, its buildings, its storerooms, its upper rooms, its inner rooms, and the room of the mercy seat;* [12] and the design of all that he had in mind for the courts of the house of the LORD, for all the rooms around it, for the treasuries of God's house, and for the treasuries of the consecrated gifts;* [13] for the divisions of the priests and Levites, for all the work of service in the house of the LORD, and for all the vessels used in service in the house of the LORD; [14] the gold by weight for every gold vessel for each service, and the silver by weight for every silver vessel for each service; [15] the weight for the gold lampstands and their gold lamps, each lampstand and its lamps by weight; and for the silver lampstands, each lampstand and its lamps by weight, according to how each lampstand was used; [16] the gold by weight for each table of the bread set in rows, and the silver for the silver tables; [17] pure gold for the forks, the sprinkling bowls, and the pitchers; for the gold bowls, the weight of each bowl; and for the silver bowls, the weight of each bowl; [18] refined gold by weight for the incense altar; and the design for the chariot, the gold cherubim that spread their wings and covered the ark of the LORD's covenant. [19] All of this the LORD gave me to understand in writing by his hand upon me, all the details of the design. [20] David said to his son Solomon, "Be strong and brave, and act. Have no fear and do not lose heart, for the LORD God, my God, is with you. He will not fail you or abandon you before all the work for the service of the house of the LORD is complete. [21] Here are the divisions of the priests and Levites for all the service of God's house. And every willing man with skill for any service will be with you in all the work, and the officials and the whole people are yours to command."

CHAPTER 29

[1] King David said to the whole assembly, "My son Solomon, the only one God has chosen, is young and tender, and the task is great, for the palace is not for a man but for the LORD God. [2] I have made ready for the house of my God with all my might: gold for the gold work, silver for the silver, bronze for the bronze, iron for the iron, and wood for the wood; also onyx stones and stones for setting, stones of antimony and of many colors, every kind of precious stone, and alabaster in quantity. [3] Besides, because of my love for the house of my God, I am giving my own private treasure of gold and silver to the house of my God, beyond all I have made ready for the holy house: [4] three thousand talents of gold, gold of Ophir, and seven thousand talents of refined silver, to cover the walls of the buildings; [5] gold for the gold work and silver for the silver, and for all the work done by craftsmen. Now who will offer willingly to consecrate himself today to the LORD?" [] [6] Then the leaders of the fathers' houses, the leaders of Israel's tribes, the leaders of thousands and hundreds, and the officials over the king's work made their offerings willingly. [7] For the service of God's house they gave five thousand talents and ten thousand darics of gold, ten thousand talents of silver, eighteen thousand talents of bronze, and a hundred thousand talents of iron. [8] Those who owned precious stones gave them to the treasury of the house of the LORD under the hand of Jehiel the Gershonite. [9] The people were glad at their willing giving, for they had given to the LORD freely with an undivided heart, and King David too was very glad. [10] David blessed the LORD before the whole assembly. David said, "Blessed be you, LORD, God of our father Israel, from age to age. [11] Yours, LORD, are greatness and power, glory, victory, and majesty, for all that is in the heavens and on the earth is yours. Yours, LORD, is the kingdom, and you are lifted high as head over everything. [12] Wealth and honor come from your presence; you rule over everything. In your hand are strength and power; it is in your hand to make anyone great and to give strength to all. [13] Now, our God, we thank you and praise your glorious name. [14] Yet who am I, and who are my people, that we should have the strength to give so willingly? Everything comes from you, and we have given you only what comes from your hand. [15] We are strangers and sojourners before you, as all our fathers were. Our days on earth are like a shadow, and there is no hope of staying. [16] LORD our God, all this wealth we have made ready to build you a house for your holy name is from your hand, and all of it is yours. [17] I know, my God, that you examine the heart and delight in integrity. With an honest heart I have willingly given all these things, and now I have seen with joy your people who are here giving willingly to you. [18] LORD, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel our fathers, keep this purpose forever in the thoughts of your people's hearts, and fix their hearts on you. [19] Give my son Solomon an undivided heart to keep your commandments, your testimonies, and your statutes, to carry them all out, and to build the palace I have made ready for." [20] David then told the whole assembly, "Bless the LORD your God now." And the whole assembly blessed the LORD God of their fathers; they bowed low and fell prostrate before the LORD and before the king. [21] On the following day they sacrificed sacrifices to the LORD and presented burnt offerings to the LORD: a thousand bulls, a thousand rams, a thousand lambs, with their drink offerings, and sacrifices in great number for all Israel. [22] They ate and drank in the presence of the LORD that day with great gladness. Then they made David's son Solomon king a second time and anointed him for the LORD as leader, and Zadok as priest. [23] So Solomon sat as king on the LORD's throne in place of his father David. He prospered, and all Israel listened to him. [24] All the officials and the mighty men, as well as all of King David's sons, pledged their allegiance to King Solomon. [] [25] The LORD made Solomon very great in the eyes of all Israel and gave him royal splendor such as no king over Israel before him had had. [26] So David son of Jesse ruled over all Israel. [27] He reigned over Israel forty years in all: seven years in Hebron and thirty-three years in Jerusalem. [28] He died at a ripe old age, full of years, wealth, and honor, and his son Solomon became king after him. [29] The deeds of King David, from beginning to end, are recorded in the words of Samuel the seer, the words of Nathan the prophet, and the words of Gad the seer, [30] together with all his reign and his power, and the times that passed over him, over Israel, and over all the kingdoms of the lands.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Solomon son of David made himself strong in his kingdom; the LORD his God was with him and made him very great. [2] Solomon addressed all Israel: the leaders of thousands and of hundreds, the judges, and every chief in all Israel, the heads of the fathers' houses. [3] Then Solomon and the whole assembly with him went to the high place at Gibeon, because God's tent of meeting, which Moses the LORD's servant had made in the wilderness, was there. [4] (The ark of God, however, David had brought up from Kiriath-jearim to the place he had made ready for it, since he had set up a tent for it in Jerusalem.) [5] The bronze altar made by Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, was there in front of the tabernacle of the LORD, and Solomon and the assembly sought him there. [6] Solomon went up there, to the bronze altar before the LORD at the tent of meeting, and on it he offered a thousand burnt offerings. [7] That night God appeared to Solomon and told him, "Ask! What shall I give you?" [8] Solomon answered God, "You showed great steadfast love to my father David, and you have made me king after him. [9] Now, LORD God, let your promise to my father David come true, for you have made me king over a people as many as the dust of the earth. [10] Give me, then, wisdom and knowledge to go out and come in before this people, for who is able to govern this great people of yours?" [11] God answered Solomon, "Since this is what was in your heart, and you did not ask for riches, wealth, or honor, or for the death of your enemies, or even for a long life, but you asked for wisdom and knowledge so that you can govern my people over whom I made you king, [12] wisdom and knowledge are given to you. And I will give you riches, wealth, and honor too, such as no king before you possessed and none after you will possess." [13] Then Solomon came from the high place at Gibeon, from before the tent of meeting, to Jerusalem, and reigned over Israel.* [14] Solomon built up a force of chariots and horsemen: he had one thousand four hundred chariots and twelve thousand horsemen, and he kept them in the chariot cities and with the king in Jerusalem. [15] The king made silver and gold in Jerusalem as plentiful as stones, and cedar as plentiful as the sycamores in the Shephelah. [16] Solomon's horses came from Egypt and from Kue; the king's merchants got them from Kue for a price.* [17] They would bring a chariot up out of Egypt for six hundred shekels of silver and a horse for a hundred and fifty, and so also, through their agency, they supplied them to all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Syria.*

CHAPTER 2

[1] Solomon gave the word to build a house for the LORD's name and a palace for his own kingship. [2] He assigned seventy thousand men as porters, eighty thousand to cut stone in the hills, and three thousand six hundred to oversee them. [3] Solomon sent this message to Hiram king of Tyre: "Do for me what you did for my father David when you sent him cedar to build himself a house to live in.* [4] See, I am building a house for the name of the LORD my God, to dedicate it to him, to burn fragrant incense in his presence, for the regular arrangement of bread, and for burnt offerings morning and evening, on Sabbaths, new moons, and the appointed feasts of the LORD our God, as Israel must do forever.* [5] The house I am building will be great, because our God is greater than all the gods. [6] But who has the strength to build a house for him, when the heavens, even the highest heavens, cannot hold him? And who am I to build him a house, except to burn sacrifices before him? [7] So send me now a man skilled in working gold, silver, bronze, and iron, and purple, crimson, and violet material, and expert in engraving, to work alongside the skilled workers I have in Judah and Jerusalem, whom my father David provided. [8] Also send me cedar, cypress, and algum logs from Lebanon, because I know that your servants are skilled at cutting the trees of Lebanon. My servants will work together with yours [9] to get plenty of timber ready for me, for the house I am going to build will be great and astonishing. [10] For your servants who cut the timber I will provide twenty thousand cors of crushed wheat, twenty thousand cors of barley, twenty thousand baths of wine, and twenty thousand baths of oil."* [11] Hiram king of Tyre replied in writing and sent it to Solomon: "It is because the LORD loves his people that he has made you their king." [12] And Hiram went on: "Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, maker of heaven and earth, who has given King David a wise son with good sense and understanding to build a house for the LORD and a palace for his kingship. [13] So now I am sending you a skilled man gifted with understanding, Huram-abi,* [14] whose mother is from the daughters of Dan and whose father is a Tyrian. He is expert at working in gold, silver, bronze, iron, stone, and wood, in purple, violet, and crimson material and fine linen; he can engrave any kind of engraving and devise any design given to him, together with your skilled workers and those of my lord David your father. [15] So now let my lord send his servants the wheat, barley, oil, and wine he has spoken of, [16] and we will cut whatever logs you need from Lebanon and float them to you by sea to Joppa; then you can bring them up to Jerusalem." [17] Solomon took a census of all the foreign men living in the land of Israel, after the census his father David had taken; there were a hundred and fifty-three thousand six hundred. [18] He assigned seventy thousand of them to carry loads, eighty thousand to cut stone in the hills, and three thousand six hundred as overseers to keep the people at work.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Solomon then started building the house of the LORD in Jerusalem on Mount Moriah, where the LORD had shown himself to his father David, at the place David had made ready on the threshing floor of Ornan the Jebusite. [2] He started building on the second day of the second month in the fourth year of his reign. [3] These were Solomon's foundation measurements for building God's house: the length, in cubits of the earlier standard, sixty cubits, and the width twenty cubits. [4] The porch at the front ran across the width of the house, twenty cubits, and its height was a hundred and twenty. He covered its interior with pure gold.* [5] He lined the main hall with cypress, covered it with fine gold, and decorated it with palm trees and chains. [6] He adorned the house with precious stones to make it beautiful, and the gold was gold from Parvaim. [7] He covered the house with gold, the beams, the thresholds, its walls and its doors, and carved cherubim on the walls. [8] He made the room of the Most Holy Place. It was twenty cubits long, matching the width of the house, and twenty cubits wide. He covered it with six hundred talents of fine gold. [9] The nails weighed fifty shekels of gold. He also covered the upper rooms with gold. [10] In the room of the Most Holy Place he made two sculpted cherubim, and they covered them with gold. [11] The cherubim's wings together spanned twenty cubits. One wing of the first cherub, five cubits long, reached the wall of the house, and its other wing, also five cubits, reached the wing of the second cherub. [12] One wing of the second cherub, five cubits long, reached the wall of the house, and its other wing, five cubits, met the wing of the first cherub. [13] These cherubim's wings stretched out twenty cubits. They stood upright on their feet, facing the house. [14] He made the veil of violet, purple, and crimson material and fine linen, and wove cherubim into it. [15] At the front of the house he made two pillars thirty-five cubits long, with a capital five cubits high on top of each. [16] He made chains in the inner sanctuary and set them on top of the pillars; and he made a hundred pomegranates and fastened them to the chains.* [17] He erected the pillars in front of the temple, one to the south and one to the north. The southern one he named Jachin, and the northern one Boaz.

CHAPTER 4

[1] He made a bronze altar twenty cubits long, twenty cubits wide, and ten cubits high. [2] He made the sea of cast metal, round, ten cubits from rim to rim and five cubits high; it took a line of thirty cubits to go around it. [3] Beneath it, all the way around, were figures of oxen encircling it, ten to the cubit, going around the sea. The oxen were in two rows, cast in one piece with it. [*] [4] It rested on twelve oxen, three looking north, three looking west, three looking south, and three looking east. The sea sat on top of them, and their rear parts all faced inward. [5] It was a handbreadth thick, and its rim was shaped like the rim of a cup, like a lily flower. It held three thousand baths. [6] He also made ten basins for washing, putting five on the south and five on the north. What belonged to the burnt offering was rinsed in them, but the sea was for the priests to wash in. [7] He made ten gold lampstands as specified for them and set them in the temple, five on the south and five on the north. [8] He made ten tables too and put them in the temple, five on the south and five on the north; and he made a hundred gold bowls. [9] He made the priests' court and the great court with doors for the court, and covered their doors with bronze. [10] He placed the sea on the south side, to the southeast. [11] Hiram also made the pots, the shovels, and the bowls. Thus Hiram completed the work he carried out for King Solomon on God's house: [12] two pillars; the bowl-shaped capitals on top of the two pillars; and the two latticeworks covering the two bowls of the capitals on top of the pillars; [13] and four hundred pomegranates for the two latticeworks, two rows of pomegranates for each latticework, covering the two bowls of the capitals on the pillars. [14] He made the stands and the basins on the stands, [15] the one sea and the twelve oxen beneath it, [16] and the pots, shovels, and forks. All their vessels Huram-abi made of burnished bronze for King Solomon for the house of the LORD. [17] The king had them cast in the Jordan plain, in the clay soil between Succoth and Zeredah. [18] Solomon made all these vessels in such great numbers that the weight of the bronze was never found out. [19] So Solomon made all the furnishings in God's house: the gold altar; the tables on which the bread of the Presence lay; [20] the lampstands with their lamps of pure gold, to be lit in front of the inner sanctuary as required; [21] the flowers, lamps, and tongs of gold, the finest gold; [22] and the snuffers, bowls, ladles, and firepans of pure gold. As for the house's entrance, its inner doors to the Most Holy Place and the doors of the house, the main hall, were of gold.

CHAPTER 5

[1] When all the work Solomon did for the house of the LORD was complete, Solomon brought in what his father David had consecrated: the silver, the gold, and all the vessels he placed in the treasuries of God's house. [2] Solomon then called together in Jerusalem the elders of Israel and all the tribal heads, the leaders of the fathers' houses of the children of Israel, to bring up the ark of the LORD's covenant from the City of David, that is, Zion. [3] Every man of Israel gathered before the king at the feast in the seventh month. [4] When all the elders of Israel had arrived, the Levites lifted up the ark. [5] They carried up the ark, the tent of meeting, and all the holy vessels in the tent; the Levitical priests carried them up. [6] King Solomon and the whole congregation of Israel that had gathered around him in front of the ark were sacrificing sheep and cattle, so many that they could not be listed or counted. [7] The priests brought the ark of the LORD's covenant to its place, into the inner sanctuary of the house, the Most Holy Place, under the cherubim's wings. [8] The cherubim stretched out their wings over the ark's place, and so the cherubim formed a covering above the ark and its poles. [9] The poles were long enough that their ends could be seen from the ark at the front of the inner sanctuary, though not from outside; and they are there to this day. [*] [10] Nothing was inside the ark but the two tablets Moses placed in it at Horeb, where the LORD made a covenant with the children of Israel when they left Egypt. [11] Now the priests came out of the holy place; all the priests who were there had sanctified themselves without regard to their divisions, [12] and the Levitical singers, Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, all of them with their sons and brothers, dressed in fine linen, stood on the east side of the altar with cymbals, harps, and lyres, and with them a hundred and twenty priests sounding trumpets. [13] Then the trumpeters and singers joined as one to make one voice heard praising and thanking the LORD; and as they lifted their voice with trumpets, cymbals, and musical instruments in praise to the LORD, "For he is good, for his steadfast love lasts forever," the house, the house of the LORD, was filled with a cloud, [14] and the priests were unable to stand and serve because of the cloud, since the glory of the LORD filled God's house.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Solomon then said, "The LORD has declared that he would dwell in deep darkness. [2] Yet I have built you an exalted house, a fixed place for your dwelling forever."[] [3] The king turned around and blessed the whole assembly of Israel, as all the assembly of Israel stood there. [4] He said, "Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, who spoke with his own mouth to my father David and has fulfilled it with his own hands, when he said, [5] 'From the day I brought my people out of the land of Egypt, I did not choose any city from all the tribes of Israel to build a house for my name to be there, nor did I choose any man as prince over my people Israel. [6] But I chose Jerusalem for my name to be there, and I chose David to be over my people Israel.' [7] My father David had it in his heart to build a house for the name of the LORD God of Israel. [8] But the LORD told my father David, 'You had it in your heart to build a house for my name, and you did well to have it in your heart. [9] Yet you will not be the one to build the house; your son, who will come out of your own body, is the one who will build the house for my name.' [10] And the LORD has kept the word he spoke: I have taken my father David's place and sit on Israel's throne, just as the LORD said, and I have built the house for the name of the LORD God of Israel. [11] There I have put the ark, which holds the covenant of the LORD that he made with the children of Israel." [12] He then stood before the LORD's altar in front of the whole assembly of Israel and stretched out his hands. [13] Solomon had made a bronze stand five cubits long, five cubits wide, and three cubits high and placed it in the middle of the court. He stood on it, then knelt down in front of the whole assembly of Israel, stretched out his hands toward the sky, [14] and prayed, "LORD God of Israel, there is no God like you in the heavens or on the earth, you who keep the covenant and steadfast love toward your servants who walk before you wholeheartedly, [15] who have kept your promise to your servant, my father David. With your mouth you spoke, and with your hand you have carried it out this very day. [16] So now, LORD God of Israel, keep what you promised your servant, my father David, when you said, 'You will never be without a man in my sight sitting on the throne of Israel, provided your sons take care in their way to walk in my law as you have walked before me.' [17] So now, LORD God of Israel, let the word you spoke to your servant David come true. [18] But can God truly dwell with man on the earth? See, the heavens and the highest heavens cannot hold you; how much less this house I have built! [19] Even so, LORD my God, give heed to your servant's prayer and his plea for mercy, and listen to the cry and the prayer your servant is praying before you, [20] so that your eyes may be open day and night toward this house, the place where you said you would set your name, and that you may listen to the prayer your servant prays toward this place. [21] Listen to the pleas of your servant and your people Israel when they pray toward this place. Hear from heaven, your dwelling place; hear and forgive. [22] When someone wrongs his neighbor and is made to take an oath, and he comes and swears before your altar in this house, [23] then hear from heaven, act, and judge your servants: pay back the guilty by bringing what he has done on his own head, and declare the innocent in the right by rewarding him for his innocence. [24] When your people Israel are beaten by an enemy because they sinned against you, and they turn back, acknowledge your name, and pray and plead before you in this house, [25] then hear from heaven, forgive the sin of your people Israel, and bring them back to the land you gave to them and their fathers. [26] When the sky is closed and there is no rain because they sinned against you, and they pray toward this place, acknowledge your name, and turn away from their sin because you humble them, [27] then hear in heaven and forgive the sin of your servants, your people Israel; teach them the good way they ought to walk, and give rain on your land, which you gave your people as their inheritance. [28] When there is famine in the land, or plague, or blight or mildew, or locusts or caterpillars; when their enemy lays siege to them in the land of their cities; whatever affliction or whatever disease there may be, [29] whatever prayer or plea any person or all your people Israel may make, each one knowing his own affliction and his own grief, and stretching out his hands toward this house, [30] then hear from heaven, the place where you dwell, and forgive, and give to each person according to all he does, since you know his heart (for you alone know the human heart), [31] so that they may fear you and walk in your ways as long as they live on the land you gave our fathers. [32] And when the foreigner, who does not belong to your people Israel, comes from a far land because of your great name, your strong hand, and your outstretched arm, and comes and prays toward this house, [33] then hear from heaven, the place where you dwell, and do all that the foreigner asks of you, so that every people on earth may know your name and fear you as your people Israel do, and may know that your name is called over this house that I have built. [34] When your people go out to fight their enemies by whatever road you send them, and they pray to you facing this city you have chosen and the house I have built for your name, [35] then hear their prayer and their plea from heaven and do justice for them. [36] When they sin against you (for no human being is without sin), and you become angry with them and hand them over to an enemy, and their captors take them away captive to a land far off or near, [37] and they come to their senses in the land where they are held captive, and turn and plead with you in the land of their captivity, saying, 'We have sinned, we have done wrong, we have acted wickedly,' [38] and they turn back to you with all their heart and all their soul in the land of their captivity where they were taken, and pray facing their land, which you gave their fathers, and the city you have chosen and the house I have built for your name, [39] then hear their prayer and their pleas from heaven, the place where you dwell; do justice for them, and forgive your people who sinned against you. [40] Now, my God, I pray, let your eyes be open and your ears attend to the prayer offered in this place. [41] And now rise up, LORD God, and come to your resting place, you and the ark of your might. May your priests, LORD God, be clothed with salvation, and may your faithful ones rejoice in goodness. [42] LORD God, do not reject your anointed one. Remember the steadfast love shown to David your servant."

CHAPTER 7

[1] As soon as Solomon finished his prayer, fire came down from the sky and consumed the burnt offering and the sacrifices, and the glory of the LORD filled the house. [2] The priests were unable to go into the house of the LORD, for the LORD's glory had filled the LORD's house. [3] All the children of Israel watched the fire come down and the LORD's glory upon the house, and they knelt with their faces to the ground on the pavement, worshiped, and gave thanks to the LORD, "For he is good, for his steadfast love lasts forever." [4] The king and all the people then offered sacrifice before the LORD. [5] King Solomon sacrificed twenty-two thousand cattle and a hundred and twenty thousand sheep. In this way the king and all the people dedicated God's house. [6] The priests were standing at their stations, and the Levites with the LORD's musical instruments, which King David had made for thanking the LORD, "for his steadfast love lasts forever," when David praised by their hand. Across from them the priests were sounding trumpets, and all Israel was standing. [7] Solomon consecrated the middle part of the court in front of the house of the LORD, because there he offered the burnt offerings and the fat of the peace offerings, for the bronze altar he had made was not able to hold the burnt offering, the grain offering, and the fat. [8] So at that time Solomon kept the feast for seven days, and with him all Israel, a very large assembly from Lebo-hamath to the Brook of Egypt. [9] On the eighth day they held a solemn gathering; they had observed the altar's dedication for seven days and the feast for seven days. [10] On the twenty-third day of the seventh month he dismissed the people to their tents, rejoicing and glad at heart over the good the LORD had done for David, for Solomon, and for his people Israel. [11] So Solomon completed the house of the LORD and the king's palace; everything Solomon had set his heart on doing in the house of the LORD and in his own house he carried out with success. [12] The LORD appeared to Solomon at night and told him, "I have heard your prayer and chosen this place for myself to be a house of sacrifice. [13] When I close the sky so there is no rain, or order the locust to eat up the land, or send plague among my people, [14] if my people, over whom my name is called, humble themselves, pray, seek my face, and turn back from their evil ways, then I will hear from heaven, forgive their sin, and heal their land. [15] From now on my eyes will be open and my ears will attend to the prayer offered in this place. [16] For I have now chosen this house and made it holy, so that my name may be there forever; my eyes and my heart will be there always. [17] As for you, if you walk before me as your father David walked, doing all I have commanded you and keeping my statutes and judgments, [18] I will make the throne of your kingdom secure, as I covenanted with your father David when I said, 'You will never be without a man to rule over Israel.' [19] But if you turn back and abandon my statutes and commandments that I have set in front of you, and go off and serve other gods and bow down to them, [20] I will pull them up by the roots from my land that I gave them, and this house that I made holy for my name I will throw away from my presence; I will make it a proverb and an object of mockery among all peoples. [21] And as for this house, which was exalted, all who pass by will be astonished and say, 'Why has the LORD treated this land and this house this way?'[*] [22] And people will answer, 'Because they abandoned the LORD God of their fathers, who brought them out of Egypt, and clung to other gods, bowing down to them and serving them. That is why he has brought all this evil upon them.'"

CHAPTER 8

[1] Twenty years passed, during which Solomon built the house of the LORD and his own house. [2] Then Solomon rebuilt the cities Hiram had given him and settled children of Israel in them. [3] Solomon marched to Hamath-zobah and overpowered it. [4] He built Tadmor in the wilderness and all the storage cities he built in Hamath. [5] He built Upper Beth-horon and Lower Beth-horon as fortress cities, with walls, gates, and bars, [6] as well as Baalath and all Solomon's storage cities, all the cities for chariots and the cities for horsemen, and whatever Solomon wished to build in Jerusalem, in Lebanon, and throughout the land under his rule. [7] All the people remaining from the Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites, who were not Israelites, [8] their descendants still left in the land, whom the children of Israel had not wiped out, Solomon conscripted as forced laborers, as they are to this day. [9] But Solomon did not make slaves of any of the children of Israel for his work; they were soldiers, chiefs of his officers, and commanders of his chariots and horsemen. [10] King Solomon's chief officials numbered two hundred and fifty, who had authority over the people. [11] Solomon moved Pharaoh's daughter up from the City of David into the house he had built for her, for he said, "No wife of mine may live in the house of David king of Israel, because the places the ark of the LORD has entered are holy." [12] At that time Solomon offered burnt offerings to the LORD on the LORD's altar that he had built before the porch, [13] day by day as required, presenting offerings by Moses' command on Sabbaths, new moons, and the three yearly appointed feasts: the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the Feast of Weeks, and the Feast of Booths. [14] Following his father David's ruling, he set the divisions of the priests over their service, the Levites over their duties of praise and serving alongside the priests as each day required, and the gatekeepers by their divisions at every gate; for this was the command of David the man of God. [15] They did not depart from the king's command concerning the priests and Levites in anything, including the treasuries. [16] In this way all Solomon's work was carried out, from the day the foundation of the house of the LORD was laid until it was done. So the house of the LORD was completed. [17] Solomon then went to Ezion-geber and to Eloth on the coast in the land of Edom. [18] Hiram sent him ships under the command of his servants, along with servants who knew the sea. Together with Solomon's servants they sailed to Ophir, picked up four hundred and fifty talents of gold, and delivered it to King Solomon.

CHAPTER 9

[1] The queen of Sheba heard the report of Solomon and came to Jerusalem to put Solomon to the test with riddles. She came with a very large company, with camels loaded with spices, much gold, and precious stones. She came to Solomon and talked with him about everything she had in mind. [2] Solomon gave her answers to all her questions; nothing was too hidden for Solomon to explain to her. [3] The queen of Sheba saw Solomon's wisdom and the house he had built, [4] the food on his table, the seating of his officials, the service of his attendants and their dress, his cupbearers and their dress, and the ascent by which he went up to the house of the LORD, and she was left breathless. [5] She told the king, "What I heard in my own country about your affairs and your wisdom was true. [6] I did not believe what they said until I came and saw it with my own eyes; and now I see that I was not told half of your great wisdom. You go beyond the report I heard. [7] How fortunate are your men, and how fortunate these servants of yours who always stand before you and listen to your wisdom! [8] Blessed be the LORD your God, who delighted in you and set you on his throne as king for the LORD your God! Because your God loves Israel and will keep it standing forever, he has made you king over them to carry out justice and righteousness." [9] She presented the king with a hundred and twenty talents of gold, a great quantity of spices, and precious stones. Never were there such spices as the queen of Sheba gave King Solomon. [10] Hiram's servants and Solomon's servants, who brought gold from Ophir, also brought algum wood and precious stones. [11] The king used the algum wood to make steps for the house of the LORD and for the palace, and lyres and harps for the singers; nothing like them had ever been seen in the land of Judah.* [12] King Solomon gave the queen of Sheba everything she wanted and asked for, besides what she had brought to the king. Then she left and went back to her country with her servants. [13] The gold that came to Solomon in a single year weighed six hundred and sixty-six talents, [14] apart from what the traders and merchants brought in. All the kings of Arabia and the governors of the land also brought Solomon gold and silver. [15] King Solomon made two hundred large shields of hammered gold, with six hundred shekels of hammered gold going into each shield, [16] and three hundred small shields of hammered gold, with three hundred shekels of gold going into each shield; and the king placed them in the House of the Forest of Lebanon. [17] The king also made a great ivory throne and covered it with pure gold. [18] The throne had six steps and a gold footstool fastened to it, with arms on both sides of the seat and two lions standing next to the arms. [19] Twelve lions stood on the six steps, one at either end of each step. No such throne was ever made in any kingdom. [20] All King Solomon's drinking cups were gold, and all the vessels of the House of the Forest of Lebanon were pure gold; silver was thought of no value in Solomon's days. [21] For the king had ships going to Tarshish with Hiram's servants, and once every three years the ships of Tarshish would come in carrying gold, silver, ivory, apes, and peacocks.* [22] King Solomon became greater than all the kings of the earth in wealth and wisdom. [23] All the kings of the earth came seeking an audience with Solomon to hear the wisdom God had put into his heart. [24] Year after year each one brought his gift: vessels of silver and gold, clothing, armor, spices, horses, and mules. [25] Solomon had four thousand stalls for horses and chariots and twelve thousand horsemen, and he kept them in the chariot cities and with the king in Jerusalem. [26] He had dominion over all the kings from the River to the land of the Philistines and as far as Egypt's border. [27] The king made silver in Jerusalem as plentiful as stones, and cedar as plentiful as the sycamores in the Shephelah. [28] Horses were brought for Solomon from Egypt and from every land. [29] The rest of Solomon's deeds, from beginning to end, are recorded, are they not, in the words of Nathan the prophet, in the prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the visions of Iddo the seer about Jeroboam son of Nebat? [30] Solomon ruled in Jerusalem over all Israel for forty years. [31] Then Solomon lay down with his fathers and was buried in the city of his father David, and his son Rehoboam became king after him.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Rehoboam went to Shechem, because all Israel had come to Shechem to crown him king. [2] Jeroboam son of Nebat was in Egypt, where he had fled from King Solomon; when he heard the news, Jeroboam came back from Egypt. [3] They sent for him, and Jeroboam came with all Israel, and they told Rehoboam, [4] "Your father put a harsh yoke on us. Now make the harsh labor your father imposed and the heavy yoke he laid on us lighter, and we will serve you." [5] He told them, "Wait three more days, then come back to me." So the people left. [6] King Rehoboam took counsel with the elders who had served his father Solomon while he lived, asking, "What reply do you advise me to give this people?" [7] They told him, "If you will be kind to this people, please them, and speak good words to them, they will be your servants for all time." [8] But he set aside the advice the elders had given him and took counsel with the young men who had grown up with him and were in his service. [9] He asked them, "What do you advise us to reply to this people who said to me, 'Make the yoke your father put on us lighter'?" [10] The young men who had grown up with him told him, "Here is what to tell the people who said to you, 'Your father made our yoke heavy, so make it lighter for us.' Tell them, 'My little finger is thicker than my father's loins. [11] My father loaded a heavy yoke on you, but I will make your yoke heavier. My father punished you with whips, but I will punish you with scorpions.'" [12] On the third day Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam, as the king had told them: "Come back to me on the third day." [13] The king gave them a harsh answer. Setting aside the elders' advice, [14] King Rehoboam spoke to them as the young men had advised: "My father made your yoke heavy, but I will make it heavier. My father punished you with whips, but I will punish you with scorpions." [15] So the king refused to listen to the people, because God had brought this about in order to carry out the word the LORD had spoken through Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam son of Nebat. [16] And all Israel, since the king would not listen to them, the people gave the king this reply: "What portion do we have in David? We have no inheritance in Jesse's son. To your tents, Israel, every man! Now see to your own house, David!" And all Israel went off to their tents.* [17] As for the children of Israel living in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam was their king. [18] King Rehoboam sent out Adoram, the officer over the forced labor, but the children of Israel pelted him with stones until he died. King Rehoboam managed to jump into his chariot and escape to Jerusalem.* [19] And Israel has been in revolt against the house of David until this day.

CHAPTER 11

[1] Rehoboam arrived in Jerusalem and mustered the house of Judah and Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand picked warriors, to make war on Israel and win back the kingdom for Rehoboam. [2] But the LORD's word came to Shemaiah the man of God: [3] "Tell Rehoboam son of Solomon, king of Judah, and all Israel in Judah and Benjamin, [4] 'This is what the LORD says: Do not go up and make war on your brothers. Go back, each of you, to your home, because this has come from me.'" They obeyed the words of the LORD and gave up their march against Jeroboam. [5] Rehoboam made his home in Jerusalem and built up cities in Judah as fortresses. [6] He built Bethlehem, Etam, Tekoa, [7] Beth-zur, Soco, Adullam, [8] Gath, Mareshah, Ziph, [9]

Adoraim, Lachish, Azekah, [10] Zorah, Aijalon, and Hebron, fortress cities in Judah and Benjamin. [11] He reinforced the strongholds, placed commanders in them, and stocked them with food, oil, and wine. [12] In each city he put shields and spears and made them extremely strong. Thus he held Judah and Benjamin. [13] The priests and Levites throughout Israel came over to him from every part of their territory. [14] The Levites abandoned their pasturelands and their property and went to Judah and Jerusalem, because Jeroboam and his sons had cast them out from serving as the LORD's priests, [15] and he installed his own priests for the high places, for the goat demons, and for the calves he had made. [16] Following them, people from every tribe of Israel who had resolved in their hearts to seek the LORD God of Israel came to Jerusalem to sacrifice to the LORD God of their fathers. [17] They gave strength to the kingdom of Judah and supported Rehoboam son of Solomon for three years, for three years they followed the way of David and Solomon. [18] Rehoboam married Mahalath, the daughter of Jerimoth son of David, and Abihail the daughter of Eliab son of Jesse. [ 19] She bore him sons: Jeush, Shemariah, and Zaham. [20] After her he married Maacah daughter of Absalom, and she bore him Abijah, Attai, Ziza, and Shelomith. [21] Rehoboam loved Maacah daughter of Absalom above all his other wives and concubines; he had eighteen wives and sixty concubines and was the father of twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters. [22] Rehoboam named Abijah son of Maacah as head, the leader among his brothers, since he meant to make him king. [23] He acted shrewdly and spread some of his sons through all the regions of Judah and Benjamin, to every fortress city; he supplied them with plenty of food, and he sought many wives for them. [*]

CHAPTER 12

[1] Once Rehoboam's rule was secure and he was strong, he abandoned the law of the LORD, and all Israel with him. [2] In King Rehoboam's fifth year, since they had broken faith with the LORD, Shishak king of Egypt marched against Jerusalem [3] with one thousand two hundred chariots and sixty thousand horsemen; and the people who came with him from Egypt were countless: Libyans, Sukkiim, and Cushites. [* 4] He took the fortress cities of Judah and reached Jerusalem. [5] Shemaiah the prophet came to Rehoboam and the leaders of Judah, who had gathered in Jerusalem because of Shishak, and told them, "This is what the LORD says: You abandoned me, so now I have abandoned you into Shishak's hand." [6] The leaders of Israel and the king humbled themselves and said, "The LORD is in the right." [7] When the LORD saw that they had humbled themselves, his word came to Shemaiah: "Since they have humbled themselves, I will not destroy them. I will soon grant them deliverance, and my wrath will not be poured out on Jerusalem through Shishak. [8] But they will become his servants, so that they learn what it is to serve me and what it is to serve the kingdoms of other lands." [9] Shishak king of Egypt came up against Jerusalem and carried off the treasures of the house of the LORD and the treasures of the palace. He carried off everything, including the gold shields Solomon had made. [10] King Rehoboam made bronze shields to replace them and entrusted them to the commanders of the runners who guarded the entrance to the palace. [11] Each time the king went into the house of the LORD, the runners came and carried the shields, and afterward they returned them to the runners' chamber. [12] Because he humbled himself, the LORD's anger turned away from him, and he was not destroyed altogether; and in Judah there were still good things. [13] King Rehoboam strengthened his position in Jerusalem and continued as king. He was forty-one years old when he became king, and he ruled seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city the LORD had chosen from all the tribes of Israel to set his name there. His mother was Naamah the Ammonite. [14] He did what was evil, because he did not set his heart on seeking the LORD. [15] The deeds of Rehoboam, from beginning to end, are recorded, are they not, in the words of Shemaiah the prophet and of Iddo the seer, in the genealogical record? There was constant war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam. [16] Rehoboam lay down with his fathers and was buried in the City of David, and his son Abijah became king after him.

CHAPTER 13

[1] In King Jeroboam's eighteenth year Abijah became king over Judah. [2] He ruled three years in Jerusalem; his mother was Micaiah daughter of Uriel from Gibeah. War broke out between Abijah and Jeroboam. [* 3] Abijah opened the battle with an army of brave warriors, four hundred thousand picked men, while Jeroboam lined up against him with eight hundred thousand picked men, strong warriors. [4] Abijah stood on Mount Zemaraim in the hill country of Ephraim and called out, "Hear me, Jeroboam and all Israel! [5] Should you not know that the LORD God of Israel gave David the kingdom over Israel forever, to him and his sons, by a covenant of salt? [6] Yet Jeroboam son of Nebat, the servant of Solomon son of David, rose up and revolted against his master; [7] and worthless men, sons of Belial, rallied to him and overpowered Rehoboam son of Solomon, while Rehoboam was young and timid and not strong enough to resist them. [8] And now you intend to resist the LORD's kingdom in the hands of David's sons, because you are a huge crowd and you have the gold calves Jeroboam made for you as gods. [9] Did you not throw out the LORD's priests, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites, and make priests of your own as the peoples of other lands do? Anyone who comes to consecrate himself with a young bull and seven rams can become a priest of what are no gods. [10] But for us, the LORD is our God, and we have not abandoned him. Our priests who serve the LORD are sons of Aaron, and the Levites are at their task. [11] Each morning and each evening they burn burnt offerings and fragrant incense to the LORD; they arrange the bread in rows on the clean table and light the gold lampstand and its lamps evening by evening. We keep the charge of the LORD our God, but you have abandoned him. [12] See, God is with us at our head, with his priests and their battle trumpets to raise the battle cry against you. Children of Israel, do not fight the LORD God of your fathers, for you will not prosper." [13] Meanwhile Jeroboam had sent men around to set an ambush behind them, so that his main force faced Judah while the ambush was at their rear. [14] Judah turned and saw that they were being attacked front and rear. They cried to the LORD, and the priests sounded the trumpets. [15] The men of Judah let out a war cry, and at the war cry of the men of Judah God routed Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah. [16] The children of Israel ran from Judah, and God handed them over to them. [17] Abijah and his army inflicted a crushing defeat on them, and five hundred thousand picked men of Israel lay slain. [18] So the children of Israel were brought low at that time, and the children of Judah won, because they leaned on the LORD God of their fathers. [19] Abijah chased Jeroboam and captured cities from him: Bethel and its villages, Jeshanah and its villages, and Ephrain and its villages.* [20] Jeroboam never again recovered his strength in Abijah's days; the LORD struck him down and he died. [21] But Abijah grew powerful. He married fourteen wives and had twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters. [22] The rest of Abijah's deeds, his conduct and his words, are recorded in the commentary of Iddo the prophet.*

CHAPTER 14

[1] Abijah lay down with his fathers and was buried in the City of David, and his son Asa became king after him. In his days the land was at peace for ten years. [2] Asa did what was good and right in the sight of the LORD his God. [3] He did away with the foreign altars and the high places, smashed the sacred pillars, and cut down the Asherim. [4] He ordered Judah to seek the LORD God of their fathers and to carry out the law and the commandment. [5] He removed the high places and the incense altars from every city of Judah, and the kingdom was at peace under him.* [6] He built fortress cities in Judah, since the land was at peace. No one made war on him during those years, because the LORD had given him rest. [7] He told Judah, "Let us build up these cities and put walls around them, with towers, gates, and bars. The land is still before us because we sought the LORD our God; we sought him, and he has given us peace all around." So they built, and they prospered. [8] Asa's army had three hundred thousand men from Judah, armed with large shields and spears, and two hundred and eighty thousand from Benjamin, bearing small shields and drawing the bow; all of them were strong warriors. [9] Zerah the Cushite marched out against them with a force of a million men and three hundred chariots, and reached Mareshah.* [10] Asa went out to face him, and they formed their battle lines in the Valley of Zephathah near Mareshah. [11] Then Asa called to the LORD his God: "LORD, it is nothing to you to help, whether the mighty or those without strength. Help us, LORD our God, for we rely on you, and in your name we have come against this great crowd. LORD, you are our God; let no mere man hold out against you."* [12] So the LORD routed the Cushites before Asa and Judah, and the Cushites ran. [13] Asa and his troops chased them as far as Gerar. So many Cushites fell that they could not recover, for they were crushed before the LORD and his army. The men of Judah carried off a great deal of plunder. [14] They attacked all the cities around Gerar, because terror from the LORD had fallen on them, and they looted every city, since there was a great deal of plunder in them. [15] They also attacked the tents where the livestock were kept and carried off sheep and camels in large numbers. Then they went back to Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 15

[1] The Spirit of God came on Azariah son of Oded, [2] and he went out to meet Asa and told him, "Hear me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin! The LORD is with you while you are with him. If you seek him, he will let himself be found by you, but if you abandon him, he will abandon you. [3] For a long time Israel was without the true God, without a priest to teach, and without law. [4] But in their trouble they turned back to the LORD God of Israel and sought him, and he let himself be found by them. [5] In those days no one could go out or come in safely, for great confusion troubled everyone living in those lands. [6] Nation was beaten down by nation and city by city, because God harassed them with all kinds of trouble. [7] But as for you, be strong and do not lose heart, for your work will be rewarded." [8] When Asa heard these words, the prophecy of Oded the prophet, he took heart. He got rid of the abominations from the whole land of Judah and Benjamin and from the cities he had taken in the hill country of Ephraim, and he renewed the LORD's altar that stood in front of the LORD's porch.* [9] He called together all Judah and Benjamin, along with the people of Ephraim, Manasseh, and Simeon who were living among them, for many had come over to him from Israel when they saw that the LORD his God was with him. [10] They came together in Jerusalem in the third month of Asa's fifteenth year. [11] That day they sacrificed to the LORD seven hundred cattle and seven thousand sheep from the plunder they had brought. [12] They made a covenant to seek the LORD God of their fathers with all their heart and all their soul, [13] and that anyone, young or old, man or woman, who would not seek the LORD God of Israel must die. [14] They took an oath to the LORD in a loud voice, with shouting and with trumpets and horns. [15] All Judah was glad about the oath, because they had sworn it wholeheartedly and had sought him with all their desire, and he let himself be found by them. So the LORD gave them rest on every side. [16] King Asa also deposed his mother Maacah from her position as queen mother, because she had made a horrid image for Asherah. Asa cut her image down, crushed it, and burned it in the Kidron Valley.* [17] The high places, though, were not taken away from Israel; yet Asa's heart was undivided all his life. [18] He brought into God's house what his father had consecrated and what he himself had consecrated: silver, gold, and vessels. [19] There was no further war until Asa's thirty-fifth year.

CHAPTER 16

[1] In Asa's thirty-sixth year, Baasha king of Israel marched against Judah and built up Ramah to keep anyone from going out to or coming in to Asa king of Judah. [2] Asa took silver and gold out of the treasuries of the house of the LORD and the palace and sent it to Ben-hadad king of Syria, who ruled in Damascus, with this message: [3] "Let there be a treaty between you and me, as between my father and yours. I am sending you silver and gold. Go and break off your treaty with Baasha king of Israel, so that he will pull back from me." [4] Ben-hadad agreed with King Asa and sent his army commanders against the cities of Israel. They attacked Ijon, Dan, Abel-maim, and all Naphtali's storage cities. [5] As soon as Baasha heard this, he quit building up Ramah and abandoned his work. [6] King Asa then brought all Judah, and they hauled away the stones and timbers of Ramah that Baasha had been building with, and he used them to build Geba and Mizpah. [7] At that time Hanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah and told him, "Since you leaned on the king of Syria and not on the LORD your God, the army of the king of Syria has slipped out of your hand. [8] Were the Cushites and Libyans not a vast army with a great many chariots and horsemen? Yet when you leaned on the LORD, he handed them over to you. [9] For the LORD's eyes roam over all the earth, to give strong support to those whose hearts are undivided toward him. You have been foolish in this matter, and from now on you will have wars." [10] Asa was furious with the seer and threw him into the stocks, for he was in a rage at him over this. At the same time Asa crushed some of the people.* [11] Asa's deeds, from beginning to end, are recorded in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel. [12] In the thirty-ninth year of his reign Asa was afflicted in his feet, and his illness became extremely severe; yet even in his illness he did not seek the LORD, only the physicians. [13] Asa lay down with his fathers; he died in the forty-first year of his reign. [14] They buried him in the tomb he had cut out for himself in the City of David. They laid him on a bed filled with spices and all sorts of ointments prepared by skilled perfumers, and they lit a very great fire in his honor.

CHAPTER 17

[1] His son Jehoshaphat became king after him and made himself strong against Israel. [2] He placed forces in every fortress city of Judah and put garrisons in the land of Judah and in the cities of Ephraim his father Asa had taken. [3] The LORD was with Jehoshaphat, for he followed the early ways of his father David and did not seek the Baals. [4] He sought his father's God and followed his commandments rather than the deeds of Israel. [5] So the LORD made the kingdom secure under his control. All Judah gave Jehoshaphat gifts, and he gained great wealth and honor. [6] His heart was emboldened in the LORD's ways, and he also took the high places and the Asherim out of Judah.* [7] In the third year of his reign he sent out his officials Ben-hail, Obadiah, Zechariah, Nethanel, and Micaiah to teach in Judah's cities, [8] accompanied by the Levites Shemaiah, Nethaniah, Zebadiah, Asahel, Shemiramoth, Jehonathan, Adonijah, Tobijah, and Tob-adonijah, and by the priests Elishama and Jehoram. [9] They taught throughout Judah, taking the book of the LORD's law with them; they traveled to every city of Judah and taught the people. [10] A dread of the LORD came over all the kingdoms of the lands surrounding Judah, so that they did not go to war against Jehoshaphat. [11] Some Philistines brought Jehoshaphat presents and a load of silver as tribute, and the Arabs brought him flocks too: seven thousand seven hundred rams and seven thousand seven hundred male goats. [12] Jehoshaphat kept on growing more and more powerful; he built fortresses and storage cities in Judah [13] and had much work in hand in the cities of Judah, with soldiers, strong warriors, in Jerusalem. [14] Here is their count by fathers' houses. From Judah, the leaders of thousands: Adnah the leader, with three hundred thousand strong warriors; [15] beside him Jehohanan the leader, with two hundred and eighty thousand; [16] beside him Amasiah son of Zichri, who offered himself willingly to the LORD, with two hundred thousand strong warriors. [17] From Benjamin: Eliada, a strong warrior, with two hundred thousand armed with bow and shield; [18] beside him Jehozabad, with a hundred and eighty thousand ready for battle. [19] These were the men in the king's service, not counting those the king had stationed in the fortress cities all over Judah.

CHAPTER 18

[1] Jehoshaphat had great wealth and honor, and he became related by marriage to Ahab. [2] Some years later he went down to visit Ahab in Samaria. Ahab slaughtered a great many sheep and cattle for him and the people with him, and urged him to march against Ramoth-gilead. [3] Ahab king of Israel asked Jehoshaphat king of Judah, "Will you come with me against Ramoth-gilead?" He replied, "I am as you are, and my people as yours; we will go with you to the battle." [4] But Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, "First, please, seek the word of the LORD." [5] So the king of Israel brought the prophets together, four hundred men, and asked them, "Should we go to war against Ramoth-gilead, or should I hold back?" They said, "Go up; God will hand it over to the king." [6] Jehoshaphat asked, "Is there not another prophet of the LORD here whom we can consult?" [7] The king of Israel told Jehoshaphat, "There is one more man through whom we can consult the LORD, but I hate him, because he never prophesies anything good about me, only evil all the time. He is Micaiah son of Imlah." Jehoshaphat said, "The king should not talk like that."* [8] So the king of Israel summoned an official and said, "Bring Micaiah son of Imlah at once." [9] The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah, wearing their royal robes, were each seated on his throne at the threshing floor by the entrance of Samaria's gate, with all the prophets prophesying in front of them. [10] Zedekiah son of Chenaanah had made iron horns for himself, and he said, "This is what the LORD says: With these you will gore the Syrians until you have finished them off." [11] All the prophets were prophesying the same thing: "Go up to Ramoth-gilead and be victorious, for the LORD will hand it over to the king." [12] The messenger who had gone to call Micaiah told him, "Listen, the prophets are of one voice in predicting good for the king. Please let your word agree with theirs, and predict good." [13] Micaiah replied, "By the life of the LORD, I will say whatever my God tells me." [14] When he arrived, the king asked him, "Micaiah, should we go to war against Ramoth-gilead, or should I hold back?" He said, "Go up and be victorious; they will be handed over to you." [15] The king said to him, "How often must I put you under oath to tell me only the truth in the LORD's name?" [16] So he said, "I saw all Israel scattered over the mountains like sheep without a shepherd, and the LORD said, 'These have no master. Let each one go home in peace.'" [17] The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "Didn't I tell you he would not prophesy good about me, only evil?" [18] Micaiah went on, "So hear the LORD's word: I saw the LORD seated on his throne, with the whole army of heaven standing to his right and to his left. [19] The LORD asked, 'Who will lure Ahab king of Israel into going up and falling at Ramoth-gilead?' One said this, and another said that. [20] Then a spirit stepped forward, stood in front of the LORD, and said, 'I will lure him.' The LORD asked him, 'How?' [21] He replied, 'I will go and be a lying spirit in the mouths of all his prophets.' And the LORD said, 'You will lure him, and you will prevail. Go and do it.' [22] So now, see, the LORD has put a lying spirit in the mouths of these prophets of yours, and the LORD has decreed evil against you." [23] Zedekiah son of Chenaanah stepped up and slapped Micaiah on the cheek, saying, "Which way did the LORD's Spirit leave me to speak with you?" [24] Micaiah replied, "You will find out on the day you run into an inner room to hide." [25] The king of Israel said, "Seize Micaiah and take him back to Amon the city governor and Joash the king's son, [26] and tell them, 'The king says this: Lock this fellow in prison and give him scant bread and scant water until I come back safely.'"* [27] Micaiah said, "If you ever come back safely, the LORD has not spoken through me." And he added, "Mark this, all you peoples!" [28] So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah marched up to Ramoth-gilead. [29] The king of Israel told Jehoshaphat, "I will go into battle in disguise, but you put on your robes." So the king of Israel disguised himself, and they went into the battle. [30] The king of Syria had ordered his chariot commanders, "Fight no one, small or great, except the king of Israel." [31] When the chariot commanders saw Jehoshaphat, they thought, "This is the king of Israel," and they closed in to attack him. But Jehoshaphat cried out, and the LORD helped him; God lured them away from him. [32] As soon as the chariot commanders realized he was not the king of Israel, they stopped chasing him. [33] Then a man drew his bow without taking aim and hit the king of Israel between the joints of his armor and the breastplate. The king told his chariot driver, "Turn around and get me out of the battle; I am wounded." [34] The fighting raged that day, and the king of Israel kept himself standing in his chariot facing the Syrians until evening; and as the sun went down, he died.

CHAPTER 19

[1] Jehoshaphat king of Judah came back safely to his palace in Jerusalem. [2] Jehu son of Hanani the seer went out to face him and said to King Jehoshaphat, "Is it right to help the wicked and to love those who hate the LORD? For this, wrath from the LORD is upon you. [3] Yet there are good things found in you: you have cleared the Asherim out of the land and have resolved in your heart to seek God." [4] Jehoshaphat stayed in Jerusalem. Then he went out again among the people from Beersheba to the hill country of Ephraim and turned them back to the LORD God of their fathers. [5] He set up judges throughout the land, in each of the fortress cities of Judah. [6] He told the judges, "Watch what you do, for you are not judging on behalf of man but on behalf of the LORD, who is with you when you pronounce a verdict. [7] So let the fear of the LORD be on you; act carefully, for the LORD our God will have nothing to do with wrongdoing, favoritism, or bribery." [8] In Jerusalem, too, Jehoshaphat appointed Levites, priests, and heads of Israel's fathers' houses to judge for the LORD and to settle disputes. Then they returned to Jerusalem.* [9] He instructed them: "You must act this way, in the fear of the LORD, faithfully and wholeheartedly. [10] In every case your brothers living in their cities bring before you, whether it concerns bloodshed or questions of law, commandment, statutes, or judgments, you must warn them not to become guilty before the LORD, or wrath will come on you and your brothers. Act this way and you will not be guilty. [11] Note that Amariah the chief priest is over you in every matter of the LORD, and Zebadiah son of Ishmael, the leader of the house of Judah, in every matter of the king. The Levites will serve as officials before you. Act boldly, and may the LORD be with those who do good."

CHAPTER 20

[1] After these things the children of Moab and the children of Ammon, together with some of the Ammonites, came to make war on Jehoshaphat.* [2] Messengers came and informed Jehoshaphat, "A vast horde is coming against you from beyond the sea, from Syria. They are already at Hazazon-tamar," that is, En-gedi.* [3] Jehoshaphat was frightened and resolved to seek the LORD, and he called for a fast throughout Judah. [4] Judah came together to ask the LORD for help; people came from every city of Judah to seek the LORD. [5] Jehoshaphat stood up in the assembly of Judah and Jerusalem in the house of the LORD, before the new court, [6] and prayed: "LORD God of our fathers, are you not God in heaven? You rule over every kingdom of the nations. Power and strength are in your hand, and no one can hold out against you. [7] Our God, did you not drive out the people living in this land before your people Israel and give it to the seed of Abraham your friend for all time? [8] They settled in it and built a sanctuary in it for your name, saying, [9] 'If evil comes upon us, sword, judgment, plague, or famine, we will stand in front of this house and before you, for your name is in this house, and we will cry to you in our trouble, and you will hear and rescue us.' [10] Look now at the children of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir. You did not allow Israel to invade them when they came out of Egypt; instead they went around them and did not wipe them out. [11] And look how they reward us: they are coming to throw us out of your possession, which you gave us as our inheritance. [12] Our God, will you not bring judgment on them? We are powerless before this vast horde coming against us. We do not know what to do, but our eyes look to you." [13] All Judah was standing before the LORD, along with their little ones, wives, and children. [14] Then, in the middle of the assembly, the Spirit of the LORD came on Jahaziel son of Zechariah, son of Benaiah, son of Jeiel, son of Mattaniah, a Levite from Asaph's sons. [15] He said, "Pay attention, all Judah, people of Jerusalem, and King Jehoshaphat! This is what the LORD says to you: 'Do not fear and do not lose heart because of this vast horde, for the battle does not belong to you but to God. [16] Go down against them tomorrow. They will be coming up by the Ascent of Ziz, and you will meet them at the end of the valley, facing the wilderness of Jeruel. [17] You will not have to fight this battle. Take up your positions, stand firm, and see the salvation the LORD will bring you, Judah and Jerusalem.' Do not fear and do not lose heart. Go out against them tomorrow, and the LORD will be with you." [18] Jehoshaphat knelt down with his face to the ground, and all Judah and the people of Jerusalem fell before the LORD and worshiped him. [19] Then the Levites from the Kohathites and the Korahites rose to praise the LORD God of Israel at the top of their voices. [20] Early in the morning they set out for the wilderness of Tekoa. As they were setting out, Jehoshaphat stood and said, "Hear me, Judah and people of Jerusalem! Believe in the LORD your God and you will be made secure; believe his prophets and you will prosper." [21] After taking counsel with the people, he appointed men to sing to the LORD and to praise him in holy splendor as they marched ahead of the troops, saying, "Give thanks to the LORD, for his steadfast love lasts forever."* [22] The moment they started the shouts of joy and praise, the LORD set ambushes against the children of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir who had come against Judah, and they were beaten. [23] The children of Ammon and Moab turned on the people of Mount Seir to devote them to destruction and wipe them out, and when they had finished off the people of Seir, they helped one another to their own destruction. [24] When Judah reached the lookout point over the wilderness, they turned toward the horde, and there were dead bodies lying on the ground; not one had escaped. [25] Jehoshaphat and his people came to collect the plunder and found among them plenty of goods, dead bodies, and valuable objects, more than they could carry off. It took three days to collect the plunder, there was so much.* [26] On the fourth day they gathered in the Valley of Beracah, because there they blessed the LORD. That is why the place is still called the Valley of Beracah. [27] Then every man of Judah and Jerusalem, with Jehoshaphat leading them, went back to Jerusalem rejoicing, for the LORD had given them joy over their enemies. [28] They entered Jerusalem and came to the house of the LORD with harps, lyres, and trumpets. [29] A dread of God came over all the kingdoms of the lands when they heard how the LORD had fought Israel's enemies. [30] So Jehoshaphat's kingdom was at peace, for his God gave him rest on every side. [31] Jehoshaphat ruled over Judah. He was thirty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother was Azubah daughter of Shilhi. [32] He followed the way of his father Asa and did not depart from it, doing what was right in the LORD's eyes. [33] But the high places were not taken away, and the people had still not fixed their hearts on the God of their fathers. [34] The rest of Jehoshaphat's deeds, from beginning to end, are recorded in the words of Jehu son of Hanani, which were taken up into the book of the kings of Israel. [35] Later Jehoshaphat king of Judah made an alliance with Ahaziah king of Israel, whose conduct was wicked. [36] He joined with him to build ships to sail to Tarshish, and they built the ships at Ezion-geber. [37] Then Eliezer son of Dodavahu from Mareshah prophesied against Jehoshaphat: "Because you made an alliance with Ahaziah, the LORD will break up your works." The ships were wrecked and could not sail to Tarshish.*

CHAPTER 21

[1] Jehoshaphat lay down with his fathers and was buried beside them in the City of David, and his son Jehoram became king after him. [2] Jehoram had brothers, sons of Jehoshaphat: Azariah, Jehiel, Zechariah, Azariah, Michael, and Shephatiah. All these were the sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel.* [3] Their father had given them large gifts of silver, gold, and valuables, along with fortress cities in Judah; but the kingdom he gave to Jehoram, since he was the firstborn. [4] Once Jehoram had taken over his father's kingdom and secured his hold on it, he put all his brothers to the sword, along with some of Israel's leaders. [5] Jehoram was thirty-two when he became king, and he ruled eight years in Jerusalem. [6] He followed the way of the kings of Israel as Ahab's house had done, since he had married Ahab's daughter, and he did what was evil in the LORD's sight. [7] But the LORD did not want to wipe out the house of David, because of the covenant he had made with David and his promise to give him and his sons a lamp always. [8] During his reign Edom revolted against Judah's rule and made a king for themselves. [9] Jehoram crossed over with his commanders and all his chariots. He got up at night and attacked the Edomites who were surrounding him and his chariot commanders. [10] So Edom has remained in revolt against Judah's rule until this day. Libnah revolted from his rule at the same time, because he had abandoned the LORD God of his fathers. [11] He even built high places in the hills of Judah, caused the people of Jerusalem to prostitute themselves, and led Judah astray. [12] A letter reached him from Elijah the prophet, saying, "This is what the LORD God of your father David says: 'You have not followed the ways of your father Jehoshaphat or the ways of Asa king of Judah, [13] but you have followed the way of the kings of Israel and caused Judah and the people of Jerusalem to prostitute themselves as Ahab's house did; and you have also murdered your own brothers, your father's family, men better than you. [14] So now the LORD is about to strike your people, your sons, your wives, and everything you own with a heavy blow, [15] and you yourself with a severe illness, a disease of the bowels, until your bowels come out because of the disease, day after day.'" [16] Then the LORD roused against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines and of the Arabs who lived next to the Cushites. [17] They invaded Judah, broke through, and carried away everything found in the palace, including his sons and wives. Not one son was left to him except Jehoahaz, his youngest. [18] After all this the LORD struck him in the bowels with an incurable disease. [19] Day after day it went on, and at the end of two years his bowels came out because of the disease, and he died in terrible pain. His people did not make a fire in his honor as they had for his fathers. [20] He was thirty-two when he became king and ruled eight years in Jerusalem. He passed away with no one regretting it. They buried him in the City of David, though not in the royal tombs.[]

CHAPTER 22

[1] The people of Jerusalem made his youngest son Ahaziah king after him, because the raiders who had come with the Arabs into the camp had killed all the older ones. So Ahaziah son of Jehoram became king of Judah. [2] Ahaziah was forty-two when he became king, and he ruled one year in Jerusalem. His mother was Athaliah, daughter of Omri. [*3] He too followed the ways of Ahab's house, because his mother advised him to act wickedly. [4] He did evil in the LORD's sight as Ahab's house had done, for after his father's death they became his advisers, to his destruction. [5] Following their advice, he went with Jehoram son of Ahab king of Israel to fight Hazael king of Syria at Ramoth-gilead, where the Syrians wounded Joram. [6] Joram went back to Jezreel to recover from the wounds they had inflicted on him at Ramah in his fight with Hazael king of Syria. And Azariah son of Jehoram king of Judah went down to Jezreel to visit Jehoram son of Ahab, who was ill. [*7] It was God's doing that Ahaziah's visit to Joram led to his downfall. On arriving he went out with Jehoram to meet Jehu son of Nimshi, whom the LORD had anointed to destroy Ahab's house. [8] While Jehu was carrying out judgment on Ahab's house, he came upon the leaders of Judah and the sons of Ahaziah's brothers who were attending Ahaziah, and he killed them. [9] Then he looked for Ahaziah, who was caught hiding in Samaria. They brought him to Jehu and executed him. They gave him burial, saying, "He was the son of Jehoshaphat, who sought the LORD with all his heart." And no one in Ahaziah's house was strong enough to hold the kingdom. [10] When Athaliah, Ahaziah's mother, saw that her son was dead, she set out to wipe out the entire royal family of the house of Judah. [11] But Jehoshabeath the king's daughter took Joash son of Ahaziah, stealing him away from among the king's sons who were about to be murdered, and put him and his nurse in a bedroom. So Jehoshabeath, daughter of King Jehoram and wife of Jehoiada the priest, who was Ahaziah's sister, hid him from Athaliah, and she did not kill him. [12] He stayed with them in God's house, hidden for six years, while Athaliah ruled the land.

CHAPTER 23

[1] In the seventh year Jehoiada gathered his strength and made a pact with the leaders of hundreds: Azariah son of Jeroham, Ishmael son of Jehohanan, Azariah son of Obed, Maaseiah son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat son of Zichri. [2] They went all through Judah and gathered the Levites from every city of Judah and the heads of Israel's fathers' houses, and they came to Jerusalem. [3] The whole assembly made a covenant with the king in God's house. Jehoiada told them, "Here is the king's son! He shall reign, just as the LORD promised concerning David's sons. [4] Here is what you are to do: a third of you priests and Levites coming on duty on the Sabbath will guard the doorways, [5] a third will be at the palace, and a third at the Foundation Gate, while all the people will be in the courts of the house of the LORD. [6] No one is to enter the house of the LORD except the priests and the Levites on duty; they may enter because they are holy, but all the other people must obey the LORD's charge. [7] The Levites are to form a ring around the king, every man with weapon in hand. Anyone who enters the house must be killed. Stay with the king wherever he goes." [8] The Levites and all Judah did everything Jehoiada the priest ordered. Each man took his men, both those coming on duty on the Sabbath and those going off duty on the Sabbath, for Jehoiada the priest had not released the divisions. [9] Jehoiada the priest handed the leaders of hundreds the spears and the shields large and small that had belonged to King David and were kept in God's house. [10] He posted all the people, each man with his weapon in hand, from the south side of the house to the north side, by the altar and the house, all around the king. [11] Then they brought out the king's son, placed the crown on him, gave him the testimony, and proclaimed him king. Jehoiada and his sons anointed him and shouted, "Long live the king!" [12] Athaliah heard the noise of the people running and cheering the king, and she went to the people at the house of the LORD. [13] She looked, and there stood the king beside his pillar at the entrance, with the officers and trumpeters next to the king, and all the people of the land celebrating and sounding trumpets, while the singers with their musical instruments were leading the praise. Athaliah tore her clothes and cried, "Conspiracy! Conspiracy!" [*14] Jehoiada the priest sent out the leaders of hundreds in command of the troops and told them, "Take her out between the ranks, and put to the sword anyone who follows her." For the priest had said, "Do not kill her in the house of the LORD." [15] They seized her, and when she reached the entrance of the Horse Gate at the palace, they killed her there. [16] Jehoiada made a covenant between himself, all the people, and the king, that they would be the LORD's people. [17] Then all the people went to Baal's temple and pulled it down. They smashed its altars and images and killed Mattan, Baal's priest, in front of the altars. [18] Jehoiada placed the offices of the house of the LORD under the Levitical priests, whom David had organized over the house of the LORD, to present the LORD's burnt offerings as written in the law of Moses, with joy and song as David had ordered. [19] He set gatekeepers at the gates of the house of the LORD so that no one unclean in any way could come in. [20] He took the leaders of hundreds, the nobles, the governors of the people, and all the people of the land, and they escorted the king down from the house of the LORD. Passing through the Upper Gate into the palace, they seated the king on the royal throne. [21] All the people of the land celebrated, and the city was calm, now that Athaliah had been killed by the sword.

CHAPTER 24

[1] Joash was seven when he became king, and he ruled forty years in Jerusalem. His mother was Zibiah from Beersheba. [2] Joash did what was right in the LORD's eyes as long as Jehoiada the priest lived. [3] Jehoiada chose two wives for him, and he had sons and daughters. [4] Some time later Joash made up his mind to renew the house of the LORD. [5] He called the priests and Levites together and told them, "Go out to the cities of Judah and collect money from all Israel every year to repair the house of your God. Be quick about it." But the Levites were in no hurry. [6] So the king summoned Jehoiada the chief and asked him, "Why have you not made the Levites bring in from Judah and Jerusalem the levy that Moses the LORD's servant and the assembly of Israel imposed for the tent of the testimony?" [7] For the sons of wicked Athaliah had broken into God's house and had even devoted all the holy things of the house of the LORD to the Baals. [8] At the king's order they made a chest and placed it outside the gate of the house of the LORD. [9] A proclamation went out through Judah and Jerusalem to bring to the LORD the levy that Moses the servant of God had imposed on Israel in the wilderness. [10] All the officials and all the people gladly brought their money and dropped it into the chest until it was full. [11] Whenever the Levites brought the chest to the king's officials and they saw that it held a lot of money, the king's scribe and the chief priest's officer would come, empty the chest, and carry it back to its place. They did this day after day and gathered a great deal of money. [12] The king and Jehoiada handed it to those in charge of the work on the house of the LORD, who hired stonemasons and carpenters to renew the house of the LORD, as well as iron and bronze workers to repair it. [13] The workers did their work, and under their hands the repairs made progress. They restored God's house to its original condition and reinforced it. [14] When they were done, they brought the leftover money to the king and Jehoiada, and it was made into vessels for the house of the LORD: vessels for service and for offerings, ladles, and gold and silver vessels. Burnt offerings were offered regularly in the house of the LORD as long as Jehoiada lived. [15] Jehoiada grew old and full of years, and he died at the age of a hundred and thirty. [16] They buried him with the kings in the City of David, because he had done good in Israel for God and his house. [17] After Jehoiada died, the leaders of Judah came and bowed before the king, and the king listened to them. [18] They abandoned the house of the LORD God of their fathers and served the Asherim and the idols. Because of this guilt, wrath came on Judah and Jerusalem. [19] Still he sent them prophets to bring them back to the LORD; they warned them, but the people would not pay attention. [20] Then the Spirit of God clothed Zechariah son of Jehoiada the priest. He stood up above the people and told them, "This is what God says: 'Why are you breaking the LORD's commandments? You will not prosper. Because you have abandoned the LORD, he has abandoned you.'" [21] But they plotted against him, and at the king's order they stoned him to death in the court of the house of the LORD. [22] King Joash did not remember the loyalty Jehoiada, Zechariah's father, had shown him; he killed his son. And as Zechariah died he said, "May the LORD see this and demand an account!" [23] At the turn of the year the Syrian army marched against Joash. They invaded Judah and Jerusalem, wiped out all the leaders of the people, and sent all the plunder to the king of Damascus. [24] Though the Syrian army came with only a few men, the LORD handed over a very large army to them, because Judah had abandoned the LORD God of their fathers. So they carried out judgment on Joash. [25] When they withdrew, leaving him badly wounded, his servants plotted against him over the blood of the sons of Jehoiada the priest, and they killed him in his bed. So he died, and they buried him in the City of David, but not in the royal tombs. [26] Those who plotted against him were Zabad son of Shimeath the Ammonite woman and Jehozabad son of Shimrith the Moabite woman. [27] His sons, the many oracles against him, and the rebuilding of God's house are recorded in the commentary on the Book of the Kings. And his son Amaziah became king after him.*

CHAPTER 25

[1] Amaziah was twenty-five when he became king, and he ruled twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jehoaddan from Jerusalem. [2] He did what was right in the LORD's eyes, though not wholeheartedly. [3] Once the kingdom was securely his, he executed the servants who had murdered his father the king. [4] Their sons, however, he did not kill, but followed what is written in the law, in the book of Moses, where the LORD commanded, "Fathers are not to die because of sons, and sons are not to die because of fathers; each is to die for his own sin." [5] Amaziah mustered Judah and organized them by fathers' houses under leaders of thousands and leaders of hundreds for all Judah and Benjamin. He counted those twenty years old and over and found three hundred thousand select men fit for war, able to wield spear and shield. [6] He also hired a hundred thousand strong warriors from Israel for a hundred talents of silver. [7] But a man of God came to him and said, "King, the army of Israel must not go with you, for the LORD is not with Israel, not with any of the sons of Ephraim. [8] Even if you go and fight bravely in battle, God will make you stumble before the enemy, for God has the power to help and to bring down." [9] Amaziah asked the man of God, "Then what about the hundred talents I paid the troops of Israel?" The man of God replied, "The LORD can give you far more than that." [10] So Amaziah dismissed the troops who had come to him from Ephraim and sent them home. They were furious with Judah and went home in a burning rage. [11] Amaziah then took heart, led his army out to the Valley of Salt, and killed ten thousand men of Seir. [12] The men of Judah captured another ten thousand alive, took them up to the top of a cliff, and threw them off the top, so that every one of them was smashed. [13] Meanwhile the troops Amaziah had sent back, not letting them go with him to battle, raided the cities of Judah from Samaria to Beth-horon; they killed three thousand people and carried off a great deal of plunder. [14] When Amaziah returned from slaughtering the Edomites, he brought back the gods of the people of Seir, set them up as his own gods, bowed down to them, and burned incense to them. [15] The LORD's anger flared against Amaziah, and he sent him a prophet who asked him, "Why have you consulted the gods of this people, gods that could not rescue their own people from you?" [16] While he was still speaking, the king said to him, "Did we appoint you as royal adviser? Stop, or you will be struck down!" The prophet stopped, but said, "I know that God has decided to destroy you, because you have done this and would not listen to my advice." [17] Amaziah king of Judah, after taking counsel, sent a message to Joash son of Jehoahaz, son of Jehu, king of Israel: "Come, let us meet face to face." [18] Joash king of Israel sent back this reply to Amaziah king of Judah: "A thistle in Lebanon sent word to a cedar in Lebanon, 'Give your daughter to my son for a wife.' Then a wild animal in Lebanon came by and trampled the thistle. [19] You tell yourself that you have beaten Edom, and your heart has become proud and boastful. Stay at home now. Why stir up disaster and fall, you and Judah with you?" [20] But Amaziah would not listen, for this was God's doing, so that he might hand them over to their enemies because they had consulted the gods of Edom. [21] So Joash king of Israel marched out, and he and Amaziah king of Judah met face to face at Beth-shemesh in Judah. [22] Israel routed Judah, and every man ran home to his tent. [23] At Beth-shemesh Joash king of Israel took Amaziah king of Judah, son of Joash, son of Jehoahaz, prisoner and brought him to Jerusalem. He tore down the wall of Jerusalem for four hundred cubits, from the Ephraim Gate to the Corner Gate. [24] He carried off all the gold and silver and all the vessels found in God's house in the care of Obed-edom, along with the palace treasures and hostages, and went back to Samaria. [*] [25] Amaziah son of Joash king of Judah lived fifteen years after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz king of Israel. [26] The rest of Amaziah's deeds, from beginning to end, are recorded, are they not, in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel? [27] From the time Amaziah turned away from following the LORD, people plotted against him in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish; but they sent men after him to Lachish and killed him there. [28] They brought him back on horses and buried him beside his fathers in the city of Judah.

CHAPTER 26

[1] All the people of Judah then took Uzziah, who was sixteen, and made him king in his father Amaziah's place. [2] It was he who rebuilt Eloth and brought it back under Judah after the king lay down with his fathers. [3] Uzziah was sixteen when he became king, and he ruled fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jecoliah from Jerusalem. [4] He did what was right in the LORD's eyes, just as his father Amaziah had done. [5] He gave himself to seeking God during the lifetime of Zechariah, who instructed him in the visions of God; and as long as he sought the LORD, God gave him success. [] [6] He marched out and made war on the Philistines, tore down the walls of Gath, Jabneh, and Ashdod, and built cities near Ashdod and elsewhere among the Philistines. [7] God helped him against the Philistines, against the Arabs living in Gur-baal, and against the Meunites. [8] The Ammonites brought tribute to Uzziah, and his name became known as far as the border of Egypt, because he had grown very powerful. [9] Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem at the Corner Gate, at the Valley Gate, and at the Angle, and he fortified them. [10] He also built towers in the wilderness and cut out many cisterns, for he had large herds in the Shephelah and on the plain. He had farmers and vinedressers in the hills and in the fertile fields, because he was a lover of the land. [11] Uzziah had a fighting army ready to go out to battle in units, mustered and counted by Jeiel the scribe and Maaseiah the officer under the command of Hananiah, one of the king's officers. [12] The total number of the heads of fathers' houses, strong warriors, was two thousand six hundred. [13] Under them was an army of three hundred and seven thousand five hundred men trained for war, a powerful force to help the king against the enemy. [14] Uzziah equipped the whole army with shields, spears, helmets, body armor, bows, and sling stones. [15] In Jerusalem he had devices designed by skilled men and set on the towers and corners for shooting arrows and large stones. His name spread far and wide, for he was helped wonderfully until he was strong. [16] But when he had grown strong, his heart became proud, to his ruin. He broke faith with the LORD his God by going into the LORD's temple to burn incense on the incense altar. [17] Azariah the priest went in after him, together with eighty other priests of the LORD, brave men. [18] They confronted King Uzziah and said to him, "Uzziah, burning incense to the LORD is not your place; it belongs to the priests, the sons of Aaron, who have been consecrated to burn incense. Leave the sanctuary, for you have been unfaithful, and the LORD God will not honor you for this." [19] Uzziah, censer in hand and ready to burn incense, grew angry. And while he was raging at the priests, leprosy appeared on his forehead right in front of the priests in the house of the LORD, beside the incense altar. [20] When Azariah the chief priest and all the other priests looked at him, they saw that he was leprous on his forehead. They rushed him out of there, and he himself was eager to leave, because the LORD had struck him. [21] King Uzziah remained leprous until the day he died. He lived in a separate house as a leper, cut off from the house of the LORD, while his son Jotham had charge of the palace and governed the people of the land. [] [22] The rest of Uzziah's deeds, from beginning to end, were written down by Isaiah the prophet, son of Amoz. [23] Uzziah lay down with his fathers, and they buried him near his fathers in a burial field belonging to the kings, for they said, "He is a leper." And his son Jotham became king after him.

CHAPTER 27

[1] Jotham was twenty-five when he became king, and he ruled sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother was Jerushah daughter of Zadok. [2] He did what was right in the LORD's eyes, just as his father Uzziah had done, except that he did not go into the LORD's temple. But the people kept on acting corruptly. [3] He built the Upper Gate of the house of the LORD and did extensive building on the wall of Ophel. [4] He built cities in the hills of Judah, and in the forests he built strongholds and towers. [5] He went to war against the king of the children of Ammon and defeated them. That year the children of Ammon paid him a hundred talents of silver, ten thousand cors of wheat, and ten thousand of barley; and they paid him the same in the second and third years. [6] Jotham grew powerful because he kept his ways steady before the LORD his God. [7] The rest of Jotham's deeds, all his wars and his ways, are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. [8] He was twenty-five when he became king and ruled sixteen years in Jerusalem. [9] Jotham lay down with his fathers and was buried in the City of David, and his son Ahaz became king after him.

CHAPTER 28

[1] Ahaz was twenty when he became king, and he ruled sixteen years in Jerusalem. Unlike his father David, he did not do what was right in the LORD's eyes. [2] He followed the ways of the kings of Israel and even made metal idols for the Baals. [3] He burned incense in the Valley of Ben-hinnom and burned his sons in the fire, imitating the detestable practices of the nations the LORD had driven out before the children of Israel. [4] He offered sacrifices and burned incense at the high places, on the hilltops, and under every leafy tree. [5] So the LORD his God handed him over to the king of Syria, who defeated him and took many of his people as prisoners to Damascus. He was also handed over to the king of Israel, who inflicted heavy losses on him. [6] In a single day Pekah son of Remaliah killed a hundred and twenty thousand men in Judah, all of them brave men, because they had abandoned the LORD God of their fathers. [7] Zichri, a warrior from Ephraim, killed Maaseiah the king's son, Azrikam the official in charge of the palace, and Elkanah, who ranked next to the king. [8] The children of Israel took two hundred thousand of their own relatives captive, women, sons, and daughters. They also took a great deal of plunder from them and brought it to Samaria. [9] But a prophet of the LORD named Oded was there. He went out to meet the army as it came to Samaria and told them, "See, the LORD God of your fathers was angry with Judah, so he handed them over to you; but you have slaughtered them in a fury that has reached all the way to heaven. [10] And now you mean to make the people of Judah and Jerusalem your slaves, male and female. But are you yourselves not guilty of sins against the LORD your God? [11] So listen to me now and send back the captives you took from your brothers, for the LORD's burning anger is on you." [12] Then some of the leaders of the children of Ephraim, Azariah son of Jehohanan, Berechiah son of Meshillemoth, Jehizkiah son of Shallum, and Amasa son of Hadlai, confronted those returning from the battle. [13] "You must not bring the captives here," they told them, "for you are planning to bring guilt against the LORD upon us, adding to our sins and our guilt. Our guilt is already great, and burning anger hangs over Israel." [14] So the soldiers released the captives and the plunder in front of the officials and the whole assembly. [15] The men who had been named for the task got up and took charge of the captives. From the plunder they clothed all who were naked; they gave them clothes and sandals, food and drink, and anointed them. They put all who were weak on donkeys and took them to their brothers at Jericho, the city of palm trees. Then they went back to Samaria. [16] At that time King Ahaz sent to the kings of Assyria for help, [17] since the Edomites had once again invaded, attacked Judah, and taken prisoners. [18] The Philistines too had raided the towns of the Shephelah and the Negev of Judah and captured Beth-shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, Soco and its villages, Timnah and its villages, and Gimzo and its villages, and they occupied them. [19] For the LORD humbled Judah because of Ahaz king of Israel, since he had let Judah go unrestrained and had been grossly unfaithful to the LORD.* [20] Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria came to him, but he oppressed him rather than strengthening him.* [21] Although Ahaz took a share from the house of the LORD, the palace, and the officials and gave it to the king of Assyria, it did him no good. [22] In his time of trouble this same King Ahaz became even more unfaithful to the LORD. [23] He sacrificed to the gods of Damascus, who had defeated him, thinking, "Since the gods of the kings of Syria help them, I will sacrifice to them so they will help me." But they brought about his downfall and that of all Israel. [24] Ahaz collected the vessels of God's house and broke them up. He shut the doors of the house of the LORD and set up altars for himself on every street corner in Jerusalem. [25] In every city of Judah he built high places to burn incense to other gods, and he provoked the LORD God of his fathers to anger. [26] The rest of his deeds and all his ways, from beginning to end, are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. [27] Ahaz lay down with his fathers and was buried in the city, in Jerusalem; they did not bring him into the tombs of the kings of Israel. And his son Hezekiah became king after him.

CHAPTER 29

[1] Hezekiah was twenty-five when he became king, and he ruled twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother was Abijah daughter of Zechariah. [2] He did what was right in the LORD's eyes, just as his father David had done. [3] In the first month of the first year of his reign he opened the doors of the house of the LORD and repaired them. [4] He brought in the priests and Levites, assembled them in the open square on the east side, [5] and told them, "Listen to me, you Levites! Sanctify yourselves now and sanctify the house of the LORD God of your fathers. Remove the impurity from the holy place. [6] Our fathers were unfaithful and did what was evil in the sight of the LORD our God. They abandoned him, turned their faces away from the LORD's dwelling, and turned their backs on it. [7] They even closed the doors of the porch, put out the lamps, and stopped burning incense and offering burnt offerings in the holy place to the God of Israel. [8] That is why the LORD's wrath fell on Judah and Jerusalem, and he has made them something to tremble at, to be appalled at, and to hiss at, as you can see for yourselves. [9] That is why our fathers fell by the sword, and our sons, daughters, and wives are in captivity. [10] Now I have it in mind to make a covenant with the LORD God of Israel, so that his burning anger will turn away from us. [11] My sons, do not be careless now, for the LORD has chosen you to stand in his presence, to serve him, to be his ministers, and to burn incense." [12] Then the Levites set to work: from the Kohathites, Mahath son of Amasai and Joel son of Azariah; from the sons of Merari, Kish son of Abdi and Azariah son of Jehallelel; from the Gershonites, Joah son of Zimmah and Eden son of Joah; [13] of the sons of Elizaphan, Shimri and Jeiel; of the sons of Asaph, Zechariah and Mattaniah; [14] of the sons of Heman, Jehiel and Shimei; and of the sons of Jeduthun, Shemaiah and Uzziel. [15] They gathered their brothers, sanctified themselves, and went in as the king had ordered, following the words of the LORD, to cleanse the house of the LORD. [16] The priests went into the inner part of the house of the LORD to cleanse it and brought out to the court of the house of the LORD every unclean thing they found in the LORD's temple. The Levites took it and carried it outside to the Kidron Valley. [17] They started the sanctifying on the first day of the first month, and on the eighth day of the month they reached the porch of the LORD. For eight more days they sanctified the house of the LORD, finishing on the sixteenth day of the first month. [18] Then they went in to King Hezekiah and reported, "We have cleansed the whole house of the LORD, the altar of burnt offering and all its vessels, and the table of the bread set in rows and all its vessels. [19] We have also restored and sanctified all the vessels King Ahaz threw aside in his unfaithfulness while he was king. They are now in front of the LORD's altar." [20] Early the next morning King Hezekiah gathered the city officials and went up to the house of the LORD. [21] They brought seven bulls, seven rams, seven lambs, and seven male goats as a sin offering for the kingdom, the sanctuary, and Judah. He ordered the priests, Aaron's descendants, to offer them on the LORD's altar. [22] They slaughtered the bulls, and the priests took the blood and splashed it on the altar; next they slaughtered the rams and splashed their blood on the altar; then they slaughtered the lambs and splashed their blood on the altar. [23] The male goats for the sin offering were brought before the king and the assembly, who laid their hands on them. [24] Then the priests slaughtered them and presented their blood on the altar as a sin offering to make atonement for all Israel, since the king had ordered the burnt offering and the sin offering for all Israel. [25] He stationed the Levites in the house of the LORD with cymbals, harps, and lyres, as David, Gad the king's seer, and Nathan the prophet had commanded; for the command came from the LORD through his prophets. [26] The Levites took their places with David's instruments and the priests with the trumpets. [27] Hezekiah gave the order to offer the burnt offering on the altar. As the burnt offering began, the song to the LORD began too, with the trumpets and the instruments of David king of Israel. [28] The whole assembly bowed in worship while the singers sang and the trumpeters played, and all this went on until the burnt offering was completed. [29] When the offering was completed, the king and everyone with him knelt down and worshiped. [30] King Hezekiah and the officials told the Levites to praise the LORD in the words of David and of Asaph the seer. They sang praises joyfully, bowed down, and worshiped. [31] Hezekiah then said, "Now you have consecrated yourselves to the LORD. Come and bring sacrifices and thank offerings to the house of the LORD." So the assembly brought sacrifices and thank offerings, and all whose hearts were willing brought burnt offerings.* [32] The assembly brought seventy bulls, a hundred rams, and two hundred lambs as burnt offerings; all these were for a burnt offering to the LORD. [33] The animals consecrated as offerings came to six hundred bulls and three thousand sheep. [34] But there were too few priests to skin all the burnt offerings, so their brothers the Levites helped them until the task was done and until the priests had sanctified themselves, because the Levites had been more conscientious than the priests about sanctifying themselves. [35] There were burnt offerings in great quantity, together with the fat of the peace offerings and the drink offerings for the burnt offerings. Thus the service of the house of the LORD was restored. [36] Hezekiah and all the people were glad at what God had done for the people, because it had happened so quickly.

CHAPTER 30

[1] Hezekiah sent word to all Israel and Judah, and also wrote letters to Ephraim and Manasseh, inviting them to come to the house of the LORD in Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover to the LORD God of Israel. [2] The king, his officials, and the whole assembly in Jerusalem had decided to celebrate the Passover in the second month, [3] since they had not been able to celebrate it at the regular time, because not enough priests had sanctified themselves and the people had not assembled in Jerusalem. [4] The plan seemed right to the king and the whole assembly. [5] So they decided to send a proclamation through all Israel, from Beersheba to Dan, calling the people to come to Jerusalem and celebrate the Passover to the LORD God of Israel, for they had not kept it as written with the people gathered in large numbers. [6] At the king's order, runners went throughout Israel and Judah with letters from the king and his officials, which said, "Children of Israel, turn back to the LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, so that he may turn back to those of you who are left, who escaped the hand of the kings of Assyria. [7] Do not be like your fathers and brothers, who were unfaithful to the LORD God of their fathers, so that he made them an object of horror, as you see. [8] Do not be stiff-necked now, as your fathers were. Give your hand to the LORD, come to his sanctuary, which he has consecrated forever, and serve the LORD your God, so that his burning anger may turn away from you.* [9] If you turn back to the LORD, your brothers and sons will be shown compassion by their captors and will return to this land, for the LORD your God is gracious and merciful. He will not turn his face away from you if you return to him." [10] The runners went from town to town through the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, as far as Zebulun, but people laughed at them and ridiculed them. [11] Still, some men from Asher, Manasseh, and Zebulun humbled themselves and came to Jerusalem. [12] In Judah, too, God's hand was on the people to give them a united heart to carry out what the king and officials had ordered by the word of the LORD. [13] A large crowd of people gathered in Jerusalem to celebrate the Feast of Unleavened Bread in the second month, a very large assembly. [14] They set to work and removed the altars in Jerusalem; they took away all the incense altars too and threw them into the Kidron Valley. [15] They slaughtered the Passover lamb on the fourteenth day of the second month. The priests and Levites were ashamed; they sanctified themselves and brought burnt offerings to the house of the LORD. [16] They stood at their regular posts as the law of Moses the man of God prescribed. The priests splashed the blood handed to them by the Levites. [17] Since many in the assembly had not sanctified themselves, the Levites took charge of slaughtering the Passover lambs for all who were unclean, to sanctify them to the LORD. [18] Most of the people, many from Ephraim, Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun, had not purified themselves, and yet they ate the Passover contrary to what was written. But Hezekiah prayed for them, "May the good LORD make atonement for [*] [19] everyone who sets his heart to seek God, the LORD God of his fathers, even if he is not clean by the rules of the sanctuary." [20] The LORD listened to Hezekiah and healed the people. [21] The children of Israel present in Jerusalem celebrated the Feast of Unleavened Bread for seven days with great joy, while the Levites and priests praised the LORD every day, singing to the LORD with instruments of strength. [22] Hezekiah spoke to the heart of all the Levites who showed good insight in the LORD's service. For the seven days of the feast they ate their portion, offered peace offerings, and gave thanks to the LORD God of their fathers. [23] Then the whole assembly agreed to celebrate seven more days, and so they celebrated seven more days joyfully. [24] Hezekiah king of Judah provided the assembly with a thousand bulls and seven thousand sheep, and the officials provided the assembly with a thousand bulls and ten thousand sheep; and a large number of priests sanctified themselves. [25] The whole assembly of Judah rejoiced, along with the priests and Levites, the whole assembly that had come from Israel, and the foreigners who had come from the land of Israel or were living in Judah. [26] There was great joy in Jerusalem, for nothing like it had happened in Jerusalem since the days of Solomon son of David king of Israel. [27] The Levitical priests stood and blessed the people, and God heard their voice; their prayer reached heaven, his holy dwelling.

CHAPTER 31

[1] When all this was over, all Israel who were there went out to the cities of Judah and smashed the sacred pillars, chopped down the Asherim, and demolished the high places and altars throughout Judah and Benjamin, Ephraim and Manasseh, until they had gotten rid of them all. Then all the children of Israel went back to their own cities, each to his own property. [2] Hezekiah organized the priests and Levites into divisions, each man according to his service, priests and Levites alike, for burnt offerings and peace offerings, to serve, to give thanks, and to praise in the gates of the LORD's camp. [3] The king contributed from his own property for the burnt offerings: the morning and evening burnt offerings, and the burnt offerings for Sabbaths, new moons, and appointed feasts, as written in the law of the LORD. [4] He ordered the people living in Jerusalem to provide the share belonging to the priests and Levites, so they could devote themselves to the law of the LORD. [5] As soon as the order went out, the children of Israel generously gave the firstfruits of grain, new wine, oil, honey, and everything the fields produced, and they brought a large tithe of everything. [6] The people of Israel and Judah who lived in the cities of Judah also brought a tithe of cattle and sheep and a tithe of the holy gifts consecrated to the LORD their God, and they piled them in heaps. [7] They started making the heaps in the third month and finished them in the seventh month. [8] When Hezekiah and the officials came and saw the heaps, they blessed the LORD and his people Israel. [9] Hezekiah asked the priests and Levites about the heaps, [10] and Azariah the chief priest, from Zadok's family, answered him, "Ever since people began bringing the contributions to the house of the LORD, we have had enough to eat and plenty to spare, for the LORD has blessed his people; this great amount is what is left over." [*] [11] Hezekiah gave orders to make storerooms in the house of the LORD, and they were made. [12] They brought in the contributions, tithes, and consecrated things in good faith. Conaniah the Levite was put in charge of them, with his brother Shimei next in rank. [13] Jehiel, Azaziah, Nahath, Asahel, Jerimoth, Jozabad, Eliel, Ismachiah, Mahath, and Benaiah were supervisors under Conaniah and his brother Shimei, by order of King Hezekiah and Azariah the officer in charge of God's house. [14] Kore son of Imnah the Levite, the gatekeeper of the East Gate, had charge of the freewill offerings to God, distributing the contribution made to the LORD and the most holy offerings. [15] Eden, Miniamin, Jeshua, Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah assisted him faithfully in the priests' cities, distributing to their brothers by divisions, old and young alike, [16] apart from the males three years old and over recorded in the genealogies: everyone who came into the house of the LORD for the daily duties, for their service in their offices by divisions. [17] The priests were recorded in the genealogies by their fathers' houses, and the Levites twenty years old and over by their offices and divisions. [18] They were registered along with all their little children, wives, sons, and daughters, the whole community, because they were faithful in keeping themselves holy. [19] As for the descendants of Aaron, the priests living in the pasturelands around their cities, men were named in every city to hand out portions to every male among the priests and to everyone registered among the Levites. [20] This is what Hezekiah did throughout Judah. He did what was good, right, and true before the LORD his God. [21] Every work he started in the service of God's house, and in obedience to the law and the commandment, seeking his God, he did with all his heart, and he succeeded.

CHAPTER 32

[1] After these acts of faithfulness, Sennacherib king of Assyria came and marched into Judah. He laid siege to the fortress cities, meaning to break through and take them for himself.* [2] Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib had come and was set on making war against Jerusalem, [3] so he decided with his officials and warriors to block the water of the springs outside the city, and they supported him. [4] A large force of people gathered and blocked all the springs and the stream that ran through the land. "Why should the kings of Assyria come and find plenty of water?" they said. [5] He worked hard to rebuild all the broken sections of the wall, raised towers on it, and built a second wall outside it. He reinforced the Millo in the City of David and made a large number of weapons and shields. [6] He put military commanders over the people, gathered them before him in the square at the city gate, and spoke to their hearts: [7] "Be strong and brave. Do not fear or lose heart before the king of Assyria and the great horde with him, for there are more on our side than on his. [8] He has only an arm of flesh, but we have the LORD our God to help us and to fight our battles." And the people took confidence from the words of Hezekiah king of Judah. [9] After this, while Sennacherib king of Assyria and all his forces were at Lachish, he sent his servants to Jerusalem, to Hezekiah king of Judah and all the people of Judah in Jerusalem, with this message: [10] "This is what Sennacherib king of Assyria says: 'What are you relying on, that you stay in Jerusalem under siege? [11] Hezekiah is deceiving you, is he not, to let you die of hunger and thirst, when he tells you, "The LORD our God will rescue us from the king of Assyria"? [12] Is this not the same Hezekiah who removed the LORD's high places and altars and told Judah and Jerusalem, "You must worship before a single altar and burn incense on it"? [13] Are you not aware of what I and my fathers did to all the peoples of other lands? Could the gods of those nations rescue their lands from me at all? [14] Which of all the gods of the nations my fathers devoted to destruction could rescue his people from me? How then can your God rescue you from me? [15] So do not let Hezekiah fool you or lead you astray like this. Do not believe him, for no god of any nation or kingdom has been able to rescue his people from me or my fathers. How much less will your God rescue you from me!'" [16] Sennacherib's servants said even more against the LORD God and against his servant Hezekiah. [17] He also wrote letters ridiculing the LORD God of Israel and speaking against him: "Just as the gods of the nations of other lands did not rescue their people from me, so Hezekiah's God will not rescue his people from me." [18] They shouted loudly in the language of Judah to the people of Jerusalem on the wall, to frighten and alarm them so they could take the city. [19] They spoke about the God of Jerusalem as if he were one of the gods of the peoples of the earth, made by human hands. [20] King Hezekiah and Isaiah the prophet, son of Amoz, prayed about this and cried out to heaven. [21] The LORD sent an angel who wiped out every strong warrior, leader, and officer in the camp of the king of Assyria. So Sennacherib went home disgraced. When he entered the temple of his god, some of his own offspring cut him down there with the sword.* [22] So the LORD rescued Hezekiah and the people of Jerusalem from Sennacherib king of Assyria and from everyone else, and guided them on every side. [23] Many brought offerings to the LORD in Jerusalem and valuable gifts to Hezekiah king of Judah, and from then on he was held in high regard by all the nations. [24] In those days Hezekiah fell ill and was near death. He prayed to the LORD, who answered him and gave him a sign. [25] But Hezekiah did not respond in keeping with the kindness shown him, because his heart grew proud; so wrath came on him and on Judah and Jerusalem. [26] Then Hezekiah humbled himself for the pride of his heart, he and the people of Jerusalem, and the LORD's wrath did not come on them during Hezekiah's days. [27] Hezekiah had great wealth and honor. He made treasuries for his silver and gold, his precious stones, spices, shields, and all sorts of valuable objects; [28] storehouses for the harvest of grain, new wine, and oil; and stalls for all kinds of livestock and pens for the flocks. [29] He built cities for himself and acquired large numbers of flocks and herds, for God had given him a great deal of property. [30] It was Hezekiah who blocked the upper outlet of the Gihon spring and channeled the water down to the west side of the City of David. Hezekiah succeeded in everything he undertook. [31] But in the case of the envoys from the rulers of Babylon, who had been sent to him to ask about the wonder that had happened in the land, God left him alone to test him, to know everything that was in his heart. [32] The rest of Hezekiah's deeds and his good deeds are recorded in the vision of Isaiah the prophet, son of Amoz, in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel.* [33] Hezekiah lay down with his fathers, and they buried him on the upper level of the tombs of David's descendants. All Judah and the people of Jerusalem honored him at his death. And his son Manasseh became king after him.

CHAPTER 33

[1] Manasseh was twelve when he became king, and he ruled fifty-five years in Jerusalem. [2] He did evil in the LORD's sight, following the detestable practices of the nations the LORD had driven out before the children of Israel. [3] He rebuilt the high places his father Hezekiah had demolished, put up altars to the Baals, made Asherim, and bowed down to the whole army of heaven and served them. [4] He built altars in the house of the LORD, of which the LORD had said, "My name will be in Jerusalem forever." [5] He built altars to the whole army of heaven in both courts of the house of the LORD. [6] He made his sons pass through the fire in the Valley of Ben-hinnom. He practiced fortune-telling, omens, and sorcery, and consulted mediums and spiritists. He did a great deal of evil in the LORD's sight, provoking him to anger. [7] He placed the carved idol he had made in God's house, of which God had told David and his son Solomon, "In this house and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen from all the tribes of Israel, I will set my name forever. [8] I will never again make Israel's feet wander from the land I assigned to your fathers, if only they take care to do everything I have commanded them, the whole law, the statutes, and the judgments given through Moses." [9] But Manasseh led Judah and the people of Jerusalem astray, so that they did worse evil than the nations the LORD had wiped out before the children of Israel. [10] The LORD spoke to Manasseh and his people, but they would not listen. [11] So the LORD brought against them the commanders of the king of Assyria's army. They took Manasseh with hooks, put him in bronze shackles, and led him away to Babylon. [12] In his distress he begged the LORD his God for mercy and humbled himself deeply before the God of his fathers. [13] He prayed to him, and God let himself be moved by him; he heard his plea and brought him back to Jerusalem and to his kingdom. Then Manasseh knew that the LORD is God. [14] After this he built an outer wall for the City of David west of Gihon in the valley, up to the entrance of the Fish Gate and around Ophel, and made it much higher. He also stationed army commanders in all the fortress cities of Judah. [15] He got rid of the foreign gods and the idol from the house of the LORD, as well as all the altars he had built on the temple mount and in Jerusalem, and threw them out of the city. [16] He rebuilt the LORD's altar and offered peace offerings and thank offerings on it, and he told Judah to serve the LORD God of Israel. [17] The people, however, kept sacrificing at the high places, though only to the LORD their God. [18] The rest of Manasseh's deeds, his prayer to his God, and the words of the seers who spoke to him in the name of the LORD God of Israel are recorded in the annals of the kings of Israel. [19] His prayer and how God was moved by him, and all his sin and unfaithfulness, and the sites where he built high places and set up the Asherim and the idols before he humbled himself, are written in the records of Hozai.* [20] Manasseh lay down with his fathers and was buried at his palace, and his son Amon became king after him. [21] Amon was twenty-two when he became king, and he ruled two years in Jerusalem. [22] He did evil in the LORD's sight, as his father Manasseh had done. Amon sacrificed to all the idols his father Manasseh had made, and served them. [23] Unlike his father Manasseh, he did not humble himself before the LORD; instead Amon piled up more and more guilt. [24] His servants plotted against him and killed him in his palace. [25] But the people of the land killed all who had plotted against King Amon and made his son Josiah king after him.

CHAPTER 34

[1] Josiah was eight when he became king, and he ruled thirty-one years in Jerusalem. [2] He did what was right in the LORD's eyes and followed the ways of his father David, turning neither to the right nor to the left. [3] In the eighth year of his reign, while still young, he began to seek the God of his father David, and in the twelfth year he began to cleanse Judah and Jerusalem of the high places, the Asherim, and the carved and cast idols. [4] In his presence they pulled down the altars of the Baals, and he chopped down the incense altars above them. He smashed the Asherim and the carved and cast idols, crushed them to powder, and scattered it on the graves of those who had sacrificed to them. [5] He burned the priests' bones on their altars and so cleansed Judah and Jerusalem. [6] In the cities of Manasseh, Ephraim, and Simeon, and as far as Naphtali, in their ruins on every side,* [7] he pulled down the altars and the Asherim, crushed the idols to powder, and chopped down all the incense altars throughout the land of Israel. Then he returned to Jerusalem. [8] In the eighteenth year of his reign, after he had cleansed the land and the temple, he sent Shaphan son of Azaliah, Maaseiah the city governor, and Joah son of Joahaz the recorder to repair the house of the LORD his God. [9] They went to Hilkiah the high priest and handed over the money brought into God's house, which the Levites who guarded the doorways had collected from Manasseh, Ephraim, and the rest of Israel, and from all Judah and Benjamin. Then they returned to Jerusalem.* [10] They put it in the hands of the men supervising the work on the house of the LORD, and these paid the workers who were repairing and restoring the house of the LORD. [11] They gave it to the carpenters and builders to buy cut stone and timber for the braces and beams of the buildings the kings of Judah had allowed to decay. [12] The men worked honestly. Their supervisors were Jahath and Obadiah, Levites from the sons of Merari, and Zechariah and Meshullam from the Kohathites, who directed the work. The Levites, all who were skilled with musical instruments, [13] were in charge of the laborers and supervised all the workers in every kind of job; some of the Levites were scribes, officials, and gatekeepers. [14] As they were bringing out the money brought into the house of the LORD, Hilkiah the priest discovered the Book of the Law of the LORD given through Moses. [15] Hilkiah spoke up and told Shaphan the scribe, "I have discovered the Book of the Law in the house of the LORD," and he handed the book to Shaphan. [16] Shaphan took the book to the king and reported back to him: "Your servants are doing everything entrusted to them. [17] They have poured out the money found in the house of the LORD and handed it over to the supervisors and the workers." [18] Shaphan the scribe also told the king, "Hilkiah the priest gave me a book," and Shaphan read from it to the king. [19] When the king heard what the law said, he tore his clothes. [20] He gave orders to Hilkiah, Ahikam son of Shaphan, Abdon son of Micah, Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah the king's servant: [21] "Go and consult the LORD for me and for those who remain in Israel and Judah about the words of this book that has been found. Great is the LORD's wrath poured out on us, because our fathers did not keep the LORD's word by doing everything written in this book." [22] So Hilkiah and those whom the king had appointed went to Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tokhath, son of Hasrah, keeper of the wardrobe. She lived in Jerusalem in the Second Quarter, and they spoke to her about this.* [23] She told them, "This is what the LORD God of Israel says: 'Tell the man who sent you to me, [24] This is what the LORD says: I am about to bring evil on this place and its inhabitants, all the curses written in the book that was read to the king of Judah. [25] Because they have abandoned me and burned incense to other gods, provoking me to anger with everything they have made, my wrath will pour out on this place and will not be put out.' [26] But tell the king of Judah, who sent you to consult the LORD: 'This is what the LORD God of Israel says about the words you heard: [27] Because your heart was responsive and you humbled yourself before God when you heard what he said against this place and its people, and because you humbled yourself before me, tore your clothes, and wept in my presence, I have heard you, says the LORD. [28] I will gather you to your fathers, and you will be laid in your grave in peace. Your eyes will not see all the evil I am going to bring on this place and its people.'" And they took her answer back to the king. [29] Then the king sent for all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem and gathered them. [30] The king went up to the house of the LORD with all the men of Judah, the people of Jerusalem, the priests, the Levites, and all the people, from the least to the greatest. He read aloud to them all the words of the Book of the Covenant that had been found in the house of the LORD. [31] The king stood in his place and made a covenant before the LORD to follow the LORD and keep his commandments, testimonies, and statutes with all his heart and soul, carrying out the words of the covenant written in this book. [32] He had everyone in Jerusalem and Benjamin commit themselves to it, and the people of Jerusalem acted in keeping with the covenant of God, the God of their fathers. [33] Josiah removed every abomination from all the territory of the children of Israel and had everyone in Israel serve the LORD their God. As long as he lived they did not turn away from following the LORD God of their fathers.

CHAPTER 35

[1] Josiah celebrated a Passover to the LORD in Jerusalem; the Passover lamb was slaughtered on the fourteenth day of the first month. [2] He assigned the priests to their duties and strengthened them for the service of the house of the LORD. [3] He told the Levites, who instructed all Israel and were set apart to the LORD, "Place the holy ark in the house built by Solomon son of David, king of Israel. It is no longer a load for your shoulders. Serve the LORD your God and his people Israel now. [4] Get yourselves ready by fathers' houses in your divisions, as directed in writing by David king of Israel and by his son Solomon. [5] Take your stand in the holy place, by the family groups of your brothers, the lay people, so that each has a share of a Levitical father's house.* [6] Slaughter the Passover lamb, sanctify yourselves, and make preparations for your brothers, acting by the word of the LORD given through Moses." [7] Josiah then supplied the lay people, all who were there, with flock animals, thirty thousand lambs and young goats for the Passover offerings, as well as three thousand bulls; these came from the king's own property. [8] His officials also gave willingly to the people, the priests, and the Levites. Hilkiah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, the officers of God's house, gave the priests two thousand six hundred Passover animals and three hundred bulls. [9] And Conaniah, with his brothers Shemaiah and Nethanel, and Hashabiah, Jeiel, and Jozabad, the leaders of the Levites, provided the Levites with five thousand Passover animals and five hundred bulls. [10] When the service was ready, the priests took their places and the Levites their divisions, as the king had ordered. [11] They slaughtered the Passover lamb, and the priests splashed the blood handed to them while the Levites did the skinning. [12] They set aside the burnt offerings to distribute to the family groups of the lay people, to present to the LORD as written in the book of Moses; and they did the same with the bulls. [13] They roasted the Passover lamb over the fire as prescribed and boiled the holy offerings in pots, kettles, and pans, then hurried them out to all the lay people. [14] After that they made preparations for themselves and for the priests, since the priests, Aaron's descendants, were busy until nightfall offering burnt offerings and fat; so the Levites made preparations for themselves and for the priests, Aaron's descendants. [15] The singers, Asaph's descendants, were at their posts as David, Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun the king's seer had ordered, and the gatekeepers were at every gate. They did not have to leave their duties, because their brothers the Levites made preparations for them. [16] So the whole service of the LORD was carried out that day, celebrating the Passover and offering burnt offerings on the LORD's altar, as King Josiah had ordered. [17] The children of Israel who were there celebrated the Passover at that time, and the Feast of Unleavened Bread for seven days. [18] No Passover like this one had been celebrated in Israel since the days of Samuel the prophet; none of the kings of Israel had ever celebrated a Passover like the one Josiah celebrated, with the priests, the Levites, all Judah and Israel who were present, and the people of Jerusalem. [19] This Passover was celebrated in the eighteenth year of Josiah's reign. [20] After all this, when Josiah had restored the temple, Neco king of Egypt marched up to fight at Carchemish on the Euphrates, and Josiah went out to confront him. [21] Neco sent messengers to him saying, "What quarrel is there between you and me, king of Judah? I am not marching against you today, but against the house I am at war with, and God has told me to hurry. Cease opposing God, who is with me, or he will destroy you."[22] But Josiah would not turn back from him; he disguised himself to fight him. He paid no attention to Neco's words from God's mouth, but went to fight on the plain of Megiddo. [23] Archers shot King Josiah, and the king told his servants, "Get me away from here, I am badly wounded." [24] His servants lifted him out of his chariot, put him in his second chariot, and took him to Jerusalem, where he died. He was buried in his fathers' tombs, and all Judah and Jerusalem grieved for Josiah. [25] Jeremiah composed laments for Josiah, and to this day all the singing men and singing women speak of Josiah in their laments. They made this a custom in Israel, and the laments are written in the Laments. [26] The rest of Josiah's deeds and his good deeds, in keeping with what is written in the law of the LORD, [27] and his deeds from beginning to end, are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

CHAPTER 36

[1] The people of the land took Josiah's son Jehoahaz and made him king in Jerusalem after his father. [2] Jehoahaz was twenty-three when he became king, and he ruled three months in Jerusalem. [3] The king of Egypt removed him from the throne in Jerusalem and laid on the land a levy of a hundred talents of silver and one talent of gold. [4] The king of Egypt made Jehoahaz's brother Eliakim king over Judah and Jerusalem and changed his name to Jehoiakim. Neco took his brother Jehoahaz and carried him off to Egypt. [5] Jehoiakim was twenty-five when he became king, and he ruled eleven years in Jerusalem. He did evil in the sight of the LORD his God. [6] Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon marched against him and put him in bronze shackles to take him to Babylon. [7] Nebuchadnezzar also took some of the vessels of the house of the LORD to Babylon and placed them in his temple there. [8] The rest of Jehoiakim's deeds, the abominations he committed, and what was found against him, are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. And his son Jehoiachin became king after him. [9] Jehoiachin was eight when he became king, and he ruled three months and ten days in Jerusalem. He did evil in the LORD's sight. [10] At the turn of the year King Nebuchadnezzar sent for him and had him brought to Babylon, together with the valuable vessels of the house of the LORD, and he made his brother Zedekiah king over Judah and Jerusalem. [11] Zedekiah was twenty-one when he became king, and he ruled eleven years in Jerusalem. [12] He did evil in the sight of the LORD his God and did not humble himself before Jeremiah the prophet, who spoke the LORD's word. [13] He also rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar, who had made him take an oath in God's name. He became stiff-necked and hardened his heart and would not turn to the LORD God of Israel. [14] All the leaders of the priests and the people, too, became more and more unfaithful, following all the abominable practices of the nations, and they defiled the house of the LORD that he had made holy in Jerusalem. [15] The LORD God of their fathers sent word to them through his messengers again and again, because he had pity on his people and on his dwelling. [16] But they ridiculed God's messengers, scorned his words, and mocked his prophets, until the LORD's wrath rose up against his people and there was no healing. [17] So he brought against them the king of the Chaldeans, who put their young men to the sword in their sanctuary and spared no one, young man or young woman, old or gray-haired. God handed them all over to him. [18] He carried off to Babylon all the vessels of God's house, large and small, the treasures of the house of the LORD, and the treasures of the king and his officials. [19] They set fire to God's house, tore down Jerusalem's wall, burned all its palaces, and destroyed everything of value in it. [20] He took into exile in Babylon the survivors of the sword, and they became slaves to him and his sons until the Persian kingdom came to power. [21] This fulfilled the LORD's word spoken through Jeremiah, until the land had enjoyed its Sabbaths. All the time it lay desolate it kept Sabbath, until seventy years were complete.* [22] In the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, to fulfill the LORD's word spoken through Jeremiah, the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia to send a proclamation throughout his kingdom, and to put it in writing as well: [23] "This is what Cyrus king of Persia says: 'The LORD God of heaven has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he has appointed me to build him a house in Jerusalem, in Judah. Whoever among you belongs to his people, may the LORD his God be with him; let him go up.'"

CHAPTER 1

[1] In the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, to fulfill the LORD's word spoken through Jeremiah, the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia to send a proclamation throughout his kingdom, and to put it in writing as well: [2] "This is what Cyrus king of Persia says: 'The LORD God of heaven has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he has appointed me to build him a house in Jerusalem, in Judah. [3] Whoever among you belongs to his people, may his God be with him; let him go up to Jerusalem in Judah and build the house of the LORD God of Israel; he is the God who dwells in Jerusalem. [4] And let every survivor, in any place where he is living as a foreigner, be supported by the people of that place with silver and gold, goods and livestock, along with freewill offerings for the house of God in Jerusalem.'" [5] So the heads of the fathers' houses of Judah and Benjamin set out, with the priests and the Levites, all whose spirit God had stirred, to go up and build the house of the LORD in Jerusalem. [6] And all their neighbors helped them with vessels of silver, with gold, goods, livestock, and valuable things, in addition to all that was given as freewill offerings. [7] King Cyrus also brought out the vessels of the house of the LORD that Nebuchadnezzar had taken away from Jerusalem and placed in the temple of his gods. [8] Cyrus king of Persia had them brought out under the supervision of Mithredath the treasurer, who counted them out to Sheshbazzar, the prince of Judah. [9] This was the count: thirty gold basins, a thousand silver basins, twenty-nine knives,* [10] thirty gold bowls, four hundred and ten silver bowls of a second kind, and a thousand other vessels.* [11] In all, the gold and silver vessels numbered five thousand four hundred. Sheshbazzar brought them all up when the exiles came up from Babylon to Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 2

[1] These are the people of the province who came up out of the captivity of the exiles whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had taken away to Babylon; they returned to Jerusalem and Judah, each to his own town. [2] They came with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum, and Baanah. The count of the men of the people of Israel: [3] the sons of Parosh, two thousand one hundred and seventy-two; [4] the sons of Shephatiah, three hundred and seventy-two; [5] the sons of Arah, seven hundred and seventy-five; [6] the sons of Pahath-moab, of the sons of Jeshua and Joab, two thousand eight hundred and twelve; [7] the sons of Elam, one thousand two hundred and fifty-four; [8] the sons of Zattu, nine hundred and forty-five; [9] the sons of Zaccai, seven hundred and sixty; [10] the sons of Bani, six hundred and forty-two; [11] the sons of Bebai, six hundred and twenty-three; [12] the sons of Azgad, one thousand two hundred and twenty-two; [13] the sons of Adonikam, six hundred and sixty-six; [14] the sons of Bigvai, two thousand and fifty-six; [15] the sons of Adin, four hundred and fifty-four; [16] the sons of Ater, of Hezekiah, ninety-eight; [17] the sons of Bezai, three hundred and twenty-three; [18] the sons of Jorah, one hundred and twelve; [19] the sons of Hashum, two hundred and twenty-three; [20] the sons of Gibbar, ninety-five; [21] the sons of Bethlehem, one hundred and twenty-three; [22] the men of Netophah, fifty-six; [23] the men of Anathoth, one hundred and twenty-eight; [24] the sons of Azmaveth, forty-two; [25] the sons of Kiriath-arim, Chephirah and Beeroth, seven hundred and forty-three; [26] the sons of Ramah and Geba, six hundred and twenty-one; [27] the men of Michmas, one hundred and twenty-two; [28] the men of Bethel and Ai, two hundred and twenty-three; [29] the sons of Nebo, fifty-two; [30] the sons of Magbish, one hundred and fifty-six; [31] the sons of the other Elam, one thousand two hundred and fifty-four; [32] the sons of Harim, three hundred and twenty; [33] the sons of Lod, Hadid and Ono, seven hundred and twenty-five; [34] the sons of Jericho, three hundred and forty-five; [35] the sons of Senaah, three thousand six hundred and thirty. [36] The priests: the sons of Jedaiah, of the house of Jeshua, nine hundred and seventy-three; [37] the sons of Immer, one thousand and fifty-two; [38] the sons of Pashhur, one thousand two hundred and forty-seven; [39] the sons of Harim, one thousand and seventeen. [40] The Levites: the sons of Jeshua and Kadmiel, of the sons of Hodaviah, seventy-four. [41] The singers: the sons of Asaph, one hundred and twenty-eight. [42] The sons of the gatekeepers: the sons of Shallum, the sons of Ater, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Akkub, the sons of Hatita and the sons of Shobai, in all one hundred and thirty-nine. [43] The temple servants: the sons of Ziha, the sons of Hasupha, the sons of Tabbaoth,* [44] the sons of Keros, the sons of Siaha, the sons of Padon, [45] the sons of Lebanah, the sons of Hagabah, the sons of Akkub, [46] the sons of Hagab, the sons of Shalmai, the sons of Hanan, [47] the sons of Giddel, the sons of Gahar, the sons of Reaiah, [48] the sons of Rezin, the sons of Nekoda, the sons of Gazzam, [49] the sons of Uzza, the sons of Paseah, the sons of Besai, [50] the sons of Asnah, the sons of Meunim, the sons of Nephusim, [51] the sons of Bakbuk, the sons of Hakupha, the sons of Harhur, [52] the sons of Bazluth, the sons of Mehida, the sons of Harsha, [53] the sons of Barkos, the sons of Sisera, the sons of Temah, [54] the sons of Neziah and the sons of Hatipha. [55] The sons of Solomon's servants: the sons of Sotai, the sons of Sophereth, the sons of Peruda, [56] the sons of Jaalah, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel, [57] the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth-hazzebaim and the sons of Ami. [58] All the temple servants and the sons of Solomon's servants were three hundred and ninety-two. [59] The following came up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addan, and Immer, but they were unable to prove their fathers' houses or their lineage, whether they were of Israel: [60] the sons of Delaiah, the sons of Tobiah and the sons of Nekoda, six hundred and fifty-two. [61] And from the sons of the priests: the sons of Habaiah, the sons of Hakkoz, and the sons of Barzillai, who had married one of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite and took their name. [62] They looked for their entry in the genealogical register but could not find it, so they were excluded from the priesthood as unclean.* [63] The governor ordered them not to eat any of the most holy food until a priest arose who could consult Urim and Thummim.* [64] The entire assembly numbered forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty, [65] not counting their male and female slaves, of whom there were seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven; they also had two hundred singing men and women. [66] They had seven hundred and thirty-six horses, two hundred and forty-five mules, [67] four hundred and thirty-five camels, and six thousand seven hundred and twenty donkeys. [68] When they reached the house of the LORD in Jerusalem, some of the heads of the fathers' houses gave freewill offerings for the house of God, to rebuild it on its site. [69] As each was able, they gave to the building fund sixty-one thousand darics of gold, five thousand minas of silver, and a hundred garments for the priests.* [70] The priests, the Levites, some of the people, the singers, the gatekeepers, and the temple servants settled in their towns, and all Israel in their towns.

CHAPTER 3

[1] When the seventh month arrived and the children of Israel were settled in their towns, the people came together in Jerusalem as one man. [2] Jeshua son of Jozadak and his brothers the priests, along with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and his brothers, set to work and built the altar of the God of Israel to offer burnt offerings on it, as written in the law of Moses the man of God. [3] They put the altar back on its foundations, because fear of the peoples of the lands was on them, and offered burnt offerings on it to the LORD, the morning and evening burnt offerings. [4] They celebrated the Feast of Booths as written and offered the daily burnt offerings in the number required by the regulation for each day. [5] After that they offered the regular burnt offering, the offerings for the new moons and for all the LORD's sacred appointed feasts, and the offerings of everyone who brought a freewill offering to the LORD. [6] They began offering burnt offerings to the LORD on the first day of the seventh month, though the foundation of the LORD's temple had not yet been laid. [7] They paid money to the stonecutters and carpenters, and gave food, drink, and oil to the people of Sidon and Tyre to bring cedar logs by sea from Lebanon to Joppa, as Cyrus king of Persia had authorized. [8] In the second month of the second year after they arrived at the house of God in Jerusalem, Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak started the work, together with the rest of their brothers, the priests and Levites, and all who had returned from captivity to Jerusalem. They appointed Levites twenty years old and over to supervise the work on the house of the LORD. [9] Jeshua with his sons and brothers, and Kadmiel and his sons, the sons of Judah, stood together to supervise those working on God's house, with the sons of Henadad and their sons and brothers, the Levites. [10] When the builders laid the foundation of the LORD's temple, the priests in their robes were stationed with trumpets, and the Levites, the sons of Asaph, with cymbals, to praise the LORD as David king of Israel had directed. [11] They sang responsively, praising and thanking the LORD: "For he is good; his steadfast love for Israel lasts forever." And all the people gave a great shout of praise to the LORD, because the foundation of the house of the LORD had been laid.* [12] But many of the older priests, Levites, and heads of fathers' houses, who had seen the first house, wept aloud when they saw the foundation of this house laid, while many others shouted for joy at the top of their voices. [13] No one could tell the sound of the joyful shouting from the sound of the people's weeping, because the people were shouting so loudly; and the noise could be heard far away.

CHAPTER 4

[1] The enemies of Judah and Benjamin heard that the returned exiles were building a temple for the LORD God of Israel, [2] so they approached Zerubbabel and the heads of the fathers' houses and said, "Let us build alongside you, for like you we seek your God, and we have been sacrificing to him ever since the days of Esarhaddon king of Assyria, who brought us here."* [3] But Zerubbabel, Jeshua, and the other heads of Israel's fathers' houses answered them, "It is not for you and us together to build a house for our God; we alone will build it for the LORD God of Israel, as King Cyrus, the king of Persia, ordered us." [4] From then on the people of the land discouraged the people of Judah and made them afraid to build. [5] They bribed advisers to work against them and foil their plans throughout the reign of Cyrus king of Persia and into the reign of Darius king of Persia. [6] At the start of the reign of Ahasuerus they lodged an accusation against the people of Judah and Jerusalem. [7] And in the time of Artaxerxes, Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of his colleagues wrote to Artaxerxes king of Persia. The letter was written in Aramaic script and translated into Aramaic.* [8] Rehum the commander and Shimshai the scribe wrote a letter to King Artaxerxes against Jerusalem, as follows:* [9] From Rehum the commander, Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their colleagues, the Dinaites, the Apharsathchites, the Tarpelites, the Apharsites, the Archevites, the Babylonians, the Susanchites, the Dehavites, and the Elamites,* [10] and the other peoples that the great and honorable Osnappar deported and resettled in the city of Samaria and elsewhere in the province Beyond the River, and so on.* [11] Here is a copy of the letter they sent him: "To King Artaxerxes, from your servants, the men of the province Beyond the River, and so on. [12] The king should know that the Jews who came up from you to us have gone to Jerusalem and are rebuilding that rebellious and evil city. They are completing the walls and repairing the foundations. [13] And now the king should know that if this city is rebuilt and its walls completed, they will not pay tribute, duty, or toll, and in the end the royal treasury will suffer. [14] Since we eat the salt of the palace and it is not proper for us to see the king dishonored, we are sending to inform the king,* [15] so that a search may be made in the record books of your fathers. In the record books you will find out and learn that this city is a rebellious city, troublesome to kings and provinces, and that revolt has been stirred up within it since ancient times. That is why this city was destroyed. [16] We are informing the king that if this city is rebuilt and its walls completed, you will be left with no share in the province Beyond the River." [17] The king sent this reply: "To Rehum the commander, Shimshai the scribe, and the rest of their colleagues living in Samaria and elsewhere in the province Beyond the River: Greetings, and so on. [18] The letter you sent us has been read to me word for word. [19] I issued an order, a search was carried out, and it was found that this city has a long history of rising up against kings, and that rebellion and revolt have taken place in it. [20] Powerful kings have ruled over Jerusalem and governed the whole province Beyond the River, and tribute, duty, and toll were paid to them. [21] So now issue an order to stop these men, so that this city is not rebuilt until I give the order. [22] Be careful not to neglect this matter. Why let the damage grow to the injury of the kings?" [23] As soon as the copy of King Artaxerxes' letter was read to Rehum, Shimshai the scribe, and their colleagues, they hurried to the Jews in Jerusalem and forced them to stop by armed force. [24] So work on the house of God in Jerusalem came to a halt and stayed halted until the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Then the prophets Haggai and Zechariah son of Iddo prophesied to the Jews in Judah and Jerusalem in the name of the God of Israel, who was over them. [2] So Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak set to work and began rebuilding the house of God in Jerusalem, and the prophets of God were with them, supporting them. [3] At that time Tattenai, governor of the province Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their colleagues came to them and asked, "Who authorized you to rebuild this house and complete this structure?" [4] We told them, accordingly, the names of the men who were constructing this building.* [5] But their God was watching over the elders of the Jews, and they were not stopped until a report could reach Darius and a written reply be sent back about it. [6] Here is a copy of the letter that Tattenai, governor of the province Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and his colleagues the Apharsachites in the province Beyond the River sent to King Darius.* [7] They sent him a report, and this is what was written in it: "To King Darius: All peace! [8] The king should know that we went to the province of Judah, to the house of the great God. It is being built with huge stones, and beams are being set into the walls. The work is being carried out with care and is making progress under their hands. [9] We questioned those elders and asked them, 'Who authorized you to rebuild this house and complete this structure?' [10] We also asked their names so that we could inform you, writing down the names of the men in charge. [11] This is the reply they gave us: 'We are servants of the God of heaven and earth, and we are rebuilding the house built many years ago, which a great king of Israel built and completed. [12] But because our fathers angered the God of heaven, he handed them over to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, the Chaldean, who tore down this house and took the people into exile in Babylon. [13] But in the first year of Cyrus king of Babylon, King Cyrus issued a decree to rebuild this house of God. [14] King Cyrus even took out of the temple in Babylon the gold and silver vessels of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the temple in Jerusalem and carried to the temple in Babylon, and they were handed over to a man named Sheshbazzar, whom he had appointed governor. [15] He told him, "Take these vessels, go and place them in the temple in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be rebuilt on its site." [16] So this Sheshbazzar came and laid the foundations of the house of God in Jerusalem. From then until now it has been under construction and is still not complete.' [17] So now, if it pleases the king, let a search be made in the royal archives there in Babylon to see whether King Cyrus did issue a decree to rebuild this house of God in Jerusalem. Then let the king send us his decision on this matter."

CHAPTER 6

[1] So King Darius issued a decree, and a search was made in the archives in Babylon, where the treasures were kept. [2] A scroll was found at Ecbatana, in the fortress in the province of Media, and this was written in it: "Memorandum: [3] In the first year of King Cyrus, the king issued a decree about the house of God in Jerusalem: Let the house be rebuilt as a place for offering sacrifices, and let its foundations be retained. It is to be sixty cubits high and sixty cubits wide, [4] with three layers of large stones and one layer of new timber. The expenses are to be paid by the royal treasury. [5] Also the gold and silver vessels of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took from the temple in Jerusalem and carried to Babylon, are to be given back and returned to the temple in Jerusalem, each to its place; you are to put them in the house of God." [6] "Therefore, Tattenai, governor of the province Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and your colleagues the Apharsachites in the province Beyond the River, stay away from there. [7] Do not interfere with the work on this house of God. Let the governor of the Jews and the Jewish elders rebuild this house of God on its site. [8] And I hereby decree what you are to do for these elders of the Jews in rebuilding this house of God: their expenses are to be paid promptly and in full from the royal revenue, out of the taxes of the province Beyond the River, so that the work does not stop. [9] Whatever they need, young bulls, rams, and lambs for burnt offerings to the God of heaven, and wheat, salt, wine, and oil, as requested by the priests in Jerusalem, must be given to them every day without fail, [10] so that they can offer sacrifices pleasing to the God of heaven and pray for the life of the king and his sons. [11] I further decree that if anyone changes this order, a beam is to be pulled from his house, and he is to be raised up and fastened on it, and his house is to be made a rubbish heap because of this.* [12] May the God who has made his name dwell there overthrow any king or people who reaches out a hand to change this or to destroy this house of God in Jerusalem. I, Darius, have issued the decree; let it be carried out diligently." [13] Then Tattenai, governor of the province Beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their colleagues carried out diligently what King Darius had ordered. [14] So the elders of the Jews went on building and made progress through the prophesying of Haggai the prophet and Zechariah son of Iddo. They finished building by the command of the God of Israel and by the decree of Cyrus, Darius, and Artaxerxes king of Persia. [15] This house was completed on the third day of the month Adar, in the sixth year of King Darius's reign. [16] Then the children of Israel, the priests, the Levites, and the rest of the returned exiles, joyfully celebrated the dedication of this house of God. [17] For the dedication of this house of God they offered a hundred bulls, two hundred rams, and four hundred lambs, and as a sin offering for all Israel twelve male goats, one for each tribe of Israel. [18] And they installed the priests in their divisions and the Levites in their groups for the service of God in Jerusalem, as written in the book of Moses. [19] The returned exiles celebrated the Passover on the fourteenth day of the first month. [20] The priests and Levites had purified themselves as one man; all of them were clean. They slaughtered the Passover lamb for all the returned exiles, for their brothers the priests, and for themselves. [21] It was eaten by the children of Israel who had come back from exile and by all who had separated themselves from the defilement of the nations of the land to join them in seeking the LORD God of Israel. [22] For seven days they joyfully celebrated the Feast of Unleavened Bread, because the LORD had filled them with joy by changing the attitude of the king of Assyria toward them, so that he supported them in the work on the house of God, the God of Israel.*

CHAPTER 7

[1] After these events, during the reign of Artaxerxes king of Persia, Ezra son of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah, [2] the son of Shallum, the son of Zadok, the son of Ahitub, [3] the son of Amariah, the son of Azariah, the son of Meraioth, [4] the son of Zerahiah, the son of Uzzi, the son of Bukki, [5] the son of Abishua, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the chief priest, [6] this Ezra came up from Babylon. He was a scribe skilled in the law of Moses, which the LORD God of Israel had given. The king granted him everything he requested, because the hand of the LORD his God was upon him.* [7] Some of the children of Israel, along with priests, Levites, singers, gatekeepers, and temple servants, also came up to Jerusalem in the seventh year of King Artaxerxes. [8] Ezra arrived in Jerusalem in the fifth month of the king's seventh year. [9] He had set the first day of the first month for the journey up from Babylon, and he arrived in Jerusalem on the first day of the fifth month, because the good hand of his God was upon him. [10] For Ezra had determined in his heart to study the law of the LORD, to practice it, and to teach its statutes and judgments in Israel. [11] Here is a copy of the letter King Artaxerxes gave to Ezra the priest and scribe, a man learned in matters of the LORD's commandments and statutes for Israel: [12] "Artaxerxes, king of kings, to Ezra the priest, scribe of the law of the God of heaven: Perfect peace, and so on.* 13 I decree that anyone in my kingdom from the people of Israel, including their priests and Levites, who wishes to go to Jerusalem may go with you. 14 You are being sent by the king and his seven advisers to look into conditions in Judah and Jerusalem with regard to the law of your God, which is in your hand, 15 and to take with you the silver and gold that the king and his advisers have freely given to the God of Israel, whose dwelling is in Jerusalem, 16 along with all the silver and gold you may obtain throughout the province of Babylon, and the freewill offerings of the people and priests for the house of their God in Jerusalem. 17 With this money, then, be sure to buy bulls, rams, and lambs, together with their grain offerings and drink offerings, and offer them on the altar of the house of your God in Jerusalem. 18 You and your brothers may do whatever seems best with the remaining silver and gold, in keeping with the will of your God. 19 Deliver to the God of Jerusalem all the vessels entrusted to you for the service of the house of your God. 20 Anything else needed for the house of your God that you may have to supply, you may supply from the royal treasury. 21 I, King Artaxerxes, decree to all the treasurers of the province Beyond the River: whatever Ezra the priest, scribe of the law of the God of heaven, asks of you must be provided promptly, 22 up to a hundred talents of silver, a hundred cors of wheat, a hundred baths of wine, a hundred baths of oil, and salt without any limit. 23 Whatever the God of heaven has commanded must be done carefully for the house of the God of heaven. Why should wrath fall on the king's realm and his sons? 24 We also notify you that you have no authority to impose tribute, duty, or toll on any of the priests, Levites, singers, gatekeepers, temple servants, or other workers of this house of God. 25 And you, Ezra, by the wisdom of your God that you possess, appoint magistrates and judges to judge all the people of the province Beyond the River, all who know the laws of your God; and teach those who do not know them. 26 Anyone who will not obey the law of your God and the law of the king must be punished promptly, whether by death, banishment, confiscation of property, or imprisonment."* 27 Blessed be the LORD God of our fathers, who put it into the king's heart to bring honor to the house of the LORD in Jerusalem, 28 and who has shown me steadfast love before the king, his advisers, and all the king's powerful officials. Because the hand of the LORD my God was on me, I took courage and gathered leaders from Israel to go up with me.

CHAPTER 8

1 These are the heads of their fathers' houses and the genealogical record of those who came up with me from Babylon during the reign of King Artaxerxes: 2 of the sons of Phinehas, Gershom; of the sons of Ithamar, Daniel; of the sons of David, Hattush; 3 of the sons of Shecaniah, of the sons of Parosh, Zechariah, and with him a hundred and fifty men enrolled by genealogy; 4 of the sons of Pahath-moab, Eliehoenai the son of Zerahiah, and with him two hundred men; 5 of the sons of Shecaniah, the son of Jahaziel, and with him three hundred men;* 6 of the sons of Adin, Ebed the son of Jonathan, and with him fifty men; 7 of the sons of Elam, Jeshaiah the son of Athaliah, and with him seventy men; 8 of the sons of Shephatiah, Zebadiah the son of Michael, and with him eighty men; 9 of the sons of Joab, Obadiah the son of Jehiel, and with him two hundred and eighteen men; 10 of the sons of Shelomith, the son of Josiphiah, and with him a hundred and sixty men;* 11 of the sons of Bebai, Zechariah the son of Bebai, and with him twenty-eight men; 12 of the sons of Azgad, Johanan the son of Hakkatan, and with him a hundred and ten men; 13 of the sons of Adonikam, the last ones, whose names are these: Eliphelet, Jeiel and Shemaiah, and with them sixty men; 14 of the sons of Bigvai, Uthai and Zaccur, and with them seventy men. 15 I assembled them at the river that flows toward Ahava, and we camped there for three days. When I looked over the people and the priests, I found no Levites there. 16 So I summoned Eliezer, Ariel, Shemaiah, Elnathan, Jarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zechariah, and Meshullam, who were leaders, and Joiarib and Elnathan, who were teachers, 17 and sent them to Iddo, the leader at the place called Casiphia. I told them what to say to Iddo and his brothers, the temple servants at Casiphia, so that they would bring us attendants for the house of our God. 18 Because the good hand of our God was on us, they brought us a man of insight from the sons of Mahli son of Levi, son of Israel, namely Sherebiah, with his sons and brothers, eighteen men; 19 and Hashabiah, together with Jeshaiah from the sons of Merari, with his brothers and their sons, twenty men; 20 and from the temple servants, whom David and the officials had assigned to help the Levites, two hundred and twenty temple servants, all of them listed by name. 21 There by the river Ahava I proclaimed a fast, so that we might humble ourselves before our God and ask him for a safe journey for us, our little ones, and all our possessions. 22 I was ashamed to ask the king for soldiers and horsemen to guard us from enemies on the road, because we had told the king, "The hand of our God is on everyone who seeks him, for good, but his power and his anger are against all who abandon him." 23 So we fasted and asked our God about this, and he answered our prayer. 24 Then I selected twelve of the leading priests, Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and ten of their brothers, 25 and I weighed out to them the silver, the gold, and the vessels, the contribution for the house of our God given by the king, his advisers, his officials, and all Israel who were there. 26 Into their hands I weighed out six hundred and fifty talents of silver, silver vessels weighing a hundred talents, a hundred talents of gold, 27 twenty gold bowls worth a thousand darics, and two vessels of fine shining bronze, as valuable as gold.* 28 I told them, "You are holy to the LORD, and so are the vessels. The silver and gold are a freewill offering to the LORD God of your fathers. 29 Watch over them carefully until you weigh them out in the chambers of the house of the LORD in Jerusalem before the leading priests, the Levites, and the heads of Israel's fathers' houses." 30 So the priests and Levites received the silver, gold, and vessels that had been weighed out, to take them to Jerusalem to the house of our God. 31 On the twelfth day of the first month we left the river Ahava to go to Jerusalem. The hand of our God was on us, and he protected us from enemies and from those lying in wait along the road. [32] We arrived in Jerusalem and rested there three days. [33] On the fourth day, in the house of our God, the silver, gold, and vessels were weighed out into the hands of Meremoth son of Uriah the priest. With him were Eleazar son of Phinehas and the Levites Jozabad son of Jeshua and Noadiah son of Binnui. [34] Everything was checked by number and by weight, and the total weight was recorded at that time. [35] Then the exiles who had returned from captivity offered burnt offerings to the God of Israel: twelve bulls for all Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, and, as a sin offering, twelve male goats. All this was a burnt offering to the LORD. [36] They also delivered the king's orders to the royal satraps and to the governors of the province Beyond the River, who then gave their support to the people and to the house of God.

CHAPTER 9

[1] After these things were done, the leaders approached me and said, "The people of Israel, the priests, and the Levites have not kept themselves apart from the peoples of the lands and their abominations, from the Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites, Jebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians, and Amorites. [2] They have taken some of their daughters as wives for themselves and their sons, and so the holy seed has mingled with the peoples of the lands. And the leaders and officials have led the way in this unfaithfulness." [3] When I heard this report, I tore my tunic and my cloak, pulled out hair from my head and beard, and sat down stunned. [4] Then all who trembled at the words of the God of Israel because of the exiles' unfaithfulness gathered around me, while I sat there stunned until the evening offering. [5] At the time of the evening offering I got up from my humiliation, with my tunic and cloak torn, and dropped to my knees and stretched out my hands to the LORD my God. [] [6] I said, "My God, I am too ashamed and humiliated to lift my face to you, my God, because our sins are piled higher than our heads, and our guilt has reached up to the heavens. [7] Since the days of our fathers until now our guilt has been great. Because of our sins, we, our kings, and our priests have been handed over to the kings of the lands, to the sword, to captivity, to plunder, and to humiliation, as is the case today. [8] But now, for a brief moment, the LORD our God has been gracious to us by leaving us a remnant that escaped and by giving us a peg in his holy place, so that our God might brighten our eyes and give us a little relief in our slavery. [] [9] Slaves we are, yet our God has not abandoned us in our slavery. He has shown us steadfast love before the kings of Persia, giving us new life to rebuild the house of our God and restore its ruins, and giving us a wall of protection in Judah and Jerusalem. [10] And now, our God, what can we say after this? For we have abandoned your commandments, [11] which you gave through your servants the prophets when you said, 'The land you are entering to take possession of is a land polluted by the impurity of the peoples of the lands, by their abominations, with which they have filled it from one end to the other in their uncleanness. [12] So do not give your daughters to their sons or take their daughters for your sons, and never seek their peace or their good, so that you may be strong, eat the good things of the land, and leave it to your children as an inheritance forever.' [13] After all that has happened to us because of our evil deeds and our great guilt, though you, our God, have held back punishment below what our sins deserved and have given us a remnant like this, [14] are we to break your commandments again and intermarry with the peoples who commit these abominations? Would you not be so angry with us that you would wipe us out, leaving no remnant or survivor? [15] LORD God of Israel, you are righteous, for we are left as a remnant that has escaped, as we are today. Here we are before you in our guilt, though because of it no one can stand in your presence."

CHAPTER 10

[1] While Ezra was praying and confessing, weeping and throwing himself down before the house of God, a very large crowd of Israelites, men, women, and children, gathered around him, and the people wept bitterly. [2] Shecaniah son of Jehiel, one of the sons of Elam, spoke up and said to Ezra, "We have broken faith with our God by marrying foreign women from the peoples of the land. Yet even so, there is still hope for Israel. [3] So now let us make a covenant with our God to send away all these wives and their children, following the advice of the Lord and of those who tremble at the commandment of our God. Let it be done in keeping with the law. [*] [4] Get up, for this matter is your responsibility, and we are with you. Be strong and take action." [5] So Ezra got up and made the leading priests, the Levites, and all Israel take an oath to act on this proposal, and they took the oath. [6] Ezra then left his place before the house of God and went to the room of Jehohanan son of Eliashib. While he was there he ate no food and drank no water, because he was mourning over the unfaithfulness of the exiles. [7] A proclamation was issued throughout Judah and Jerusalem for all the exiles to gather in Jerusalem. [8] Anyone who failed to appear within three days would forfeit all his property, by decision of the officials and elders, and would himself be expelled from the assembly of the exiles. [9] So within the three days all the men of Judah and Benjamin gathered in Jerusalem. It was the twentieth day of the ninth month. All the people sat in the open square before the house of God, shivering because of the matter and because of the downpour. [10] Ezra the priest stood up and told them, "You have broken faith by marrying foreign women, adding to Israel's guilt. [11] Now make confession to the LORD God of your fathers and do what pleases him. Separate yourselves from the peoples of the land and from your foreign wives." [12] The whole assembly answered in a loud voice, "Yes! We must do as you say. [13] But there are many people here, and it is the rainy season; we cannot stand out in the open. Besides, this is not a task that can be done in a day or two, for we have sinned greatly in this matter. [14] Let our officials act for the whole assembly. Then let everyone in our towns who has married a foreign woman come at a set time, along with the elders and judges of each town, until our God's fierce anger over this matter turns away from us." [15] Only

Jonathan son of Asahel and Jahzeiah son of Tikvah stood against this, with Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levite backing them. [16] So the returned exiles did as proposed. Ezra the priest chose men who were heads of fathers' houses, one for each fathers' house, all of them named. On the first day of the tenth month they sat down to investigate the matter, [17] and by the first day of the first month they had finished dealing with all the men who had married foreign women. [18] Among the descendants of the priests, these were found to have married foreign women: from the sons of Jeshua son of Jozadak and his brothers, Maaseiah, Eliezer, Jarib, and Gedaliah. [19] They gave their hand in pledge to send away their wives, and for their guilt they offered a ram from the flock as a guilt offering. [20] Of the sons of Immer: Hanani and Zebadiah. [21] Of the sons of Harim: Maaseiah, Elijah, Shemaiah, Jehiel and Uzziah. [22] Of the sons of Pashhur: Elioenai, Maaseiah, Ishmael, Nethanel, Jozabad and Elasah. [23] Of the Levites: Jozabad, Shimei, Kelaiah (that is, Kelita), Pethahiah, Judah and Eliezer. [24] Of the singers: Eliashib. Of the gatekeepers: Shallum, Telem and Uri. [25] And of Israel: of the sons of Parosh, Ramiah, Izziah, Malchijah, Mijamin, Eleazar, Malchijah and Benaiah. [26] Of the sons of Elam: Mattaniah, Zechariah, Jehiel, Abdi, Jeremoth and Elijah. [27] Of the sons of Zattu: Elioenai, Eliashib, Mattaniah, Jeremoth, Zabad and Aziza. [28] Of the sons of Bebai: Jehohanan, Hananiah, Zabbai and Athlai. [29] Of the sons of Bani: Meshullam, Malluch, Adaiah, Jashub, Sheal and Ramoth. [30] Of the sons of Pahath-moab: Adna, Chelal, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattaniah, Bezalel, Binnui and Manasseh. [31] Of the sons of Harim: Eliezer, Isshijah, Malchijah, Shemaiah, Simeon, [32] Benjamin, Malluch and Shemariah. [33] Of the sons of Hashum: Mattenai, Mattattah, Zabad, Eliphelet, Jeremai, Manasseh and Shimei. [34] Of the sons of Bani: Maadai, Amram, Uel, [35] Benaiah, Bedeiah, Cheluhi, [36] Vaniah, Meremoth, Eliashib, [37] Mattaniah, Mattenai, Jaasai, [38] Bani, Binnui, Shimei, [39] Shelemiah, Nathan, Adaiah, [40] Machnadebai, Shashai, Sharai, [41] Azarel, Shelemiah, Shemariah, [42] Shallum, Amariah and Joseph. [43] Of the sons of Nebo: Jeiel, Mattithiah, Zabad, Zebina, Jaddai, Joel and Benaiah. [44] All these had married foreign women, and some of them had wives by whom they had children.*

CHAPTER 1

[1] The words of Nehemiah son of Hacaliah. In the month of Kislev, in the twentieth year, I was in Susa the citadel,* [2] when Hanani, one of my brothers, arrived with some men from Judah. I asked them about the Jews who had escaped, those who were left from the captivity, and about Jerusalem. [3] They told me, "The survivors there in the province, those left from the captivity, are in serious trouble and humiliation. Jerusalem's wall is torn down, and its gates have been set on fire." [4] When I heard these things, I sat down and wept. For some days I mourned, fasting and praying before the God of heaven. [5] I said, "Please, LORD God of heaven, great and fearsome God, who keeps his covenant and steadfast love with those who love him and obey his commandments, [6] let your ear be attentive and your eyes open to hear your servant's prayer, which I pray before you now day and night on behalf of your servants the children of Israel. I confess the sins we children of Israel have committed against you; I and my father's family have sinned. [7] We have acted very wickedly toward you and have not kept the commandments, statutes, and judgments you gave your servant Moses. [8] Remember, I pray, what you told your servant Moses: 'If you are unfaithful, I will scatter you among the peoples, [9] but if you come back to me and keep my commandments and carry them out, then even if your scattered people are at the farthest edge of the sky, I will gather them from there and bring them to the place I have chosen for my name to dwell.' [10] They are your servants and your people, whom you redeemed with your great power and your mighty hand. [11] Lord, please let your ear be attentive to your servant's prayer and to the prayer of your servants who delight in revering your name. Give your servant success today, and let him find compassion in this man's presence." At that time I was the king's cupbearer.

CHAPTER 2

[1] In the month of Nisan, in King Artaxerxes' twentieth year, when wine was set before him, I took the wine and handed it to the king. I had never before looked sad in his presence. [2] The king asked me, "Why do you look so sad when you are not ill? This can only be sadness of heart." I was terribly afraid, [3] but I told the king, "May the king live forever! How can I help looking sad when the city where my fathers are buried lies in ruins and its gates have been burned down?" [4] The king asked me, "What is it you want?" Then I prayed to the God of heaven [5] and answered the king, "If it pleases the king, and if your servant has pleased you, send me to Judah, to the city where my fathers are buried, so I can rebuild it." [6] The king, with the queen seated beside him, asked me, "How long will you be gone, and when will you come back?" The king was pleased to send me, and I gave him a set time. [7] I also said to the king, "If it pleases the king, may I have letters to the governors of the province Beyond the River, so they will grant me safe passage until I reach Judah, [8] and a letter to Asaph, keeper of the king's forest, so he will give me timber for beams for the gates of the fortress beside the temple, for the city wall, and for the house I will live in." The king granted my requests, because the good hand of my God was upon me. [9] So I went to the governors of the province Beyond the River and handed them the king's letters. The king had also sent army officers and horsemen with me. [10] When Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the Ammonite official heard about this, they were very much upset that someone had come to promote the welfare of the children of Israel. [11] I arrived in Jerusalem, and after I had been there three days, [12] I got up during the night with a few men. I had told no one what my God had put in my heart to do for Jerusalem. The only animal with me was the one I was riding.

13 By night I went out through the Valley Gate toward the Dragon Spring and the Dung Gate, inspecting the walls of Jerusalem, which had been torn down, and its gates, which had been burned.* 14 Then I moved on to the Fountain Gate and the King's Pool, but there was not enough room for the animal I was riding to get through. 15 So I went up the valley by night, inspecting the wall. Then I turned back and came in again through the Valley Gate. 16 The officials did not know where I had gone or what I was doing, because I had not yet said anything to the Jews, the priests, the nobles, the officials, or the others who would be doing the work. 17 Then I told them, "You see the trouble we are in, with Jerusalem lying in ruins and its gates burned. Come, let us rebuild Jerusalem's wall, and we will no longer be a disgrace." 18 I told them how the hand of my God had been good to me and what the king had said to me. They replied, "Let us get up and build!" So they put their hands to the good work. 19 But when Sanballat the Horonite, Tobiah the Ammonite official, and Geshem the Arab heard about it, they laughed at us and ridiculed us. "What are you doing?" they asked. "Are you rebelling against the king?" 20 I answered them,
"The God of heaven will make us succeed. We his servants will get up and build, but you have no share, no claim, and no memorial in Jerusalem."

CHAPTER 3

1 Eliashib the high priest and his fellow priests set to work and rebuilt the Sheep Gate. They dedicated it and hung its doors, and they dedicated the wall as far as the Tower of the Hundred and the Tower of Hananel. 2 The men of Jericho built the section next to it, and Zaccur son of Imri built next to them. 3 The sons of Hassenaah rebuilt the Fish Gate. They set its beams in place and hung its doors, with its bolts and bars. 4 Beside them Meremoth son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz, did repairs. Beside him Meshullam son of Berechiah, son of Meshezabel, did repairs, and beside him Zadok son of Baana did repairs. 5 Beside them the men of Tekoa did repairs, but their nobles would not put their shoulders to the work of their lord.* 6 Joiada son of Paseah and Meshullam son of Besodeiah repaired the Old Gate. They set its beams in place and hung its doors, with its bolts and bars. 7 Beside them repairs were done by Melatiah the Gibeonite and Jadon the Meronothite, men from Gibeon and Mizpah, which were under the authority of the governor of the province Beyond the River. 8 Beside him Uzziel son of Harhaiah, one of the goldsmiths, did repairs, and beside him Hananiah, one of the perfume makers. They restored Jerusalem up to the Broad Wall.
9 Beside them Rephaiah son of Hur, ruler of half the district of Jerusalem, did repairs. 10 Beside them Jedaiah son of Harumaph did repairs across from his own house, and beside him Hattush son of Hashabneiah did repairs. 11 Malchijah son of Harim and Hasshub son of Pahath-moab repaired a second section as well as the Tower of the Ovens. 12 Beside him Shallum son of Hallohesh, ruler of the other half of the district of Jerusalem, did repairs, together with his daughters. 13 Hanun and the people of Zanoah repaired the Valley Gate. They rebuilt it and hung its doors, with its bolts and bars, and they repaired a thousand cubits of the wall up to the Dung Gate. 14 Malchijah son of Rechab, ruler of the district of Beth-haccherem, repaired the Dung Gate. He rebuilt it and hung its doors, with its bolts and bars. 15 Shallun son of Col-hozeh, ruler of the district of Mizpah, repaired the Fountain Gate. He rebuilt it, put a roof over it, and hung its doors, with its bolts and bars. He also repaired the wall of the Pool of Shelah beside the king's garden, up to the stairs that lead down from the City of David. 16 Beyond him Nehemiah son of Azbuk, ruler of half the district of Beth-zur, did repairs up to a point across from the tombs of David, up to the man-made pool and the House of the Warriors. 17 Beyond him the Levites did repairs under Rehum son of Bani, and beside him Hashabiah, ruler of half the district of Keilah, did repairs for his district. 18 Beyond him their brothers did repairs under Bavvai son of Henadad, ruler of the other half of the district of Keilah. 19 Beside him Ezer son of Jeshua, ruler of Mizpah, repaired a second section, across from the ascent to the armory at the angle. 20 Beyond him Baruch son of Zabbai worked eagerly on a second section, from the angle up to the entrance of the house of Eliashib the high priest. 21 Beyond him Meremoth son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz, repaired a second section, from the entrance of Eliashib's house to the far end of it. 22 Beyond him repairs were done by the priests, the men from the surrounding region. 23 Beyond them Benjamin and Hasshub did repairs across from their house, and beyond them Azariah son of Maaseiah, son of Ananiah, did repairs beside his own house. 24 Beyond him Binnui son of Henadad repaired a second section, from Azariah's house up to the angle and the corner. 25 Palal son of Uzai worked across from the angle and the tower jutting out from the king's upper palace near the courtyard of the guard. Beyond him Pedaiah son of Parosh did repairs. 26 The temple servants living on Ophel did repairs up to a point across from the Water Gate on the east and the jutting tower.* 27 Beyond him the men of Tekoa repaired a second section, from across from the great jutting tower up to the wall of Ophel. 28 Above the Horse Gate the priests did repairs, each one across from his own house. 29 Beyond them Zadok son of Immer did repairs across from his house, and beyond him Shemaiah son of Shecaniah, keeper of the East Gate, did repairs. 30 Beyond him Hananiah son of Shelemiah and Hanun, Zalaph's sixth son, repaired a second section. Beyond them Meshullam son of Berechiah did repairs across from his living quarters. 31 Beyond him Malchijah, one of the goldsmiths, did repairs up to the house of the temple servants and the merchants, across from the Muster Gate, and up to the upper room at the corner. 32 Between the upper room at the corner and the Sheep Gate the goldsmiths and merchants did repairs.

CHAPTER 4

1 When Sanballat heard that we were rebuilding the wall, he flew into a rage and was furious, and he ridiculed the Jews. 2 In front of his associates and the army of Samaria he said, "What are these pathetic Jews up to? Will they restore their wall by themselves? Will they offer sacrifices? Will they finish it in a day? Can they bring the stones back to life from those heaps of burned rubble?" [3] Tobiah the Ammonite, standing beside him, said, "Whatever they are building, if a fox climbed up on it, it would knock their stone wall down!" [4] Listen, our God, for we are scorned. Bring their insults back on their own heads, and hand them over to be plundered in a land where they are captives. [5] Do not cover over their guilt, and do not wipe their sin from your sight, for they have provoked you in front of the builders. [6] So we rebuilt the wall until the whole of it was joined together to half its height, because the people worked with all their heart. [7] But when Sanballat, Tobiah, the Arabs, the Ammonites, and the people of Ashdod heard that the repair of Jerusalem's walls was moving ahead and that the gaps were being closed, they were furious. [8] All of them plotted together to come and attack Jerusalem and throw it into confusion. [9] But we prayed to our God and posted a guard day and night to protect ourselves from them. [10] Meanwhile the people of Judah said, "The strength of the laborers is giving out, and there is so much rubble that we cannot rebuild the wall." [11] And our enemies said, "Before they know it or see us, we will be right among them, and we will kill them and put an end to the work." [12] The Jews who lived near them came and told us ten times over, "From every place where you turn, they will be upon us."* [13] So I posted people in the lowest places behind the wall, in the open places, stationing them by families with their swords, spears, and bows.* [14] After I looked things over, I stood up and said to the nobles, the officials, and the rest of the people, "Do not be afraid of them. Remember the Lord, great and fearsome, and fight for your brothers, your sons and daughters, your wives, and your homes." [15] When our enemies heard that we knew of their plot and that God had foiled it, all of us went back to the wall, each to his own work. [16] From that day on, half my men did the work while the other half held spears, shields, bows, and body armor. The officers stood behind all the people of Judah [17] who were building the wall. Those who carried loads did their work with one hand and held a weapon in the other. [18] Each of the builders worked with his sword fastened at his side, and the trumpeter stayed beside me. [19] I told the nobles, the officials, and the rest of the people, "The work is large and spread out, and we are scattered along the wall, far apart from one another. [20] Wherever you hear the trumpet sound, rally to us there. Our God will fight for us!" [21] So we kept at the work, with half the men holding spears, from the first light of dawn until the stars came out. [22] At that time I also told the people, "Every man and his servant should spend the night inside Jerusalem, so they can serve as guards by night and workers by day." [23] Neither I, my brothers, my men, nor the guards with me ever took off our clothes; each kept his weapon at hand, even for water.*

CHAPTER 5

[1] A loud cry of complaint went up from the people and their wives against their fellow Jews. [2] Some were saying, "We and our sons and daughters are numerous; let us get grain so we can eat and stay alive." [3] Others were saying, "We are pledging our fields, our vineyards, and our houses to get grain during the famine." [4] Still others said, "We have had to borrow money on our fields and vineyards to pay the king's tax. [5] Our flesh is the same as our brothers' flesh, and our children are as good as theirs; yet we are having to sell our sons and daughters as slaves. Some of our daughters have already been enslaved, and we are powerless, because our fields and vineyards now belong to others." [6] When I heard their outcry and these complaints, I was furious. [7] After thinking it over, I confronted the nobles and officials and told them, "You are exacting interest from your own brothers!" And I called a large assembly to deal with them.* [8] I told them, "As far as we could, we have bought back our Jewish brothers who were sold to the nations. Now you are selling your own brothers, only for them to be sold back to us!" They kept quiet and could find nothing to say. [9] I went on, "What you are doing is not right. Should you not walk in the fear of our God, to avoid the reproach of our enemies the nations? [10] I myself, my brothers, and my men are also lending them money and grain. Let us put a stop to this exacting of interest. [11] Give back to them today their fields, vineyards, olive groves, and houses, and also the hundredth part of the money, grain, new wine, and oil that you have been exacting from them." [12] They replied, "We will give it back and demand nothing more from them. We will do as you say." Then I summoned the priests and made the nobles and officials take an oath to do what they had promised. [13] I also shook out the fold of my robe and said, "In this way may God shake out of his house and his property anyone who does not keep this promise. So may he be shaken out and left with nothing!" The whole assembly said "Amen" and praised the LORD. And the people did as they had promised. [14] Furthermore, from the time I was appointed their governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year until the thirty-second year of King Artaxerxes, twelve years in all, neither I nor my brothers ate the food allotted to the governor. [15] The earlier governors before me had placed a heavy load on the people, taking food and wine from them in addition to forty shekels of silver. Even their servants domineered over the people. But because of the fear of God I did not act that way. [16] Instead I kept at the work on this wall; we acquired no land, and all my men gathered there for the work. [17] Besides, a hundred and fifty Jews and officials ate at my table, as well as those who came to us from the surrounding nations. [18] Each day one ox, six choice sheep, and poultry were prepared for me, and every ten days a large supply of all kinds of wine. In spite of all this I never demanded the food allotted to the governor, because the burden of labor on these people was heavy. [19] Remember me with favor, my God, for all I have done for this people.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Sanballat, Tobiah, Geshem the Arab, and the rest of our enemies heard that I had rebuilt the wall and that not a gap remained in it, though I had not yet hung the doors in the gates. [2]

Then Sanballat and Geshem sent me this message: "Come, let us meet together in one of the villages on the plain of Ono." But they were plotting to harm me. [3] So I sent messengers to them with this reply: "I am carrying on a great work and cannot come down. Why should the work come to a standstill while I leave it to go down to you?" [4] Four times they sent me the same message, and each time I gave them the same answer. [5] The fifth time, Sanballat sent his servant to me with the same message, holding an unsealed letter [6] in which was written: "It is reported among the nations, and Gashmu confirms it, that you and the Jews are planning a revolt; that is why you are rebuilding the wall. According to these reports, you are about to become their king. [7] You have even appointed prophets to announce about you in Jerusalem, 'There is a king in Judah!' Such reports will surely get back to the king. So come, let us talk this over together." [8] I sent him this reply: "Nothing like what you describe has happened. You are making it all up out of your own head." [9] They were all trying to frighten us, thinking, "Their hands will grow too weak for the work, and it will never be finished." But now, God, strengthen my hands. [10] One day I went to the house of Shemaiah son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabel, who was confined at home. He said, "Let us meet in the house of God, inside the temple, and let us close the temple doors, because men are coming to kill you; at night they are coming to kill you." [11] But I said, "Should a man like me run away? And could someone like me go into the temple and save his life? I will not go!" [12] I realized that God had not sent him; he had uttered this prophecy against me because Tobiah and Sanballat had paid him. [13] He had been paid to make me afraid, so that I would act this way and commit a sin, and they would have grounds for a bad report to discredit me. [14] Remember Tobiah and Sanballat, my God, for what they have done, and also the prophetess Noadiah and the other prophets who kept trying to frighten me. [15] The wall was completed on the twenty-fifth day of Elul, in fifty-two days. [16] When all our enemies heard about it, and all the surrounding nations saw it, they lost all their self-confidence, for they realized that this work had been accomplished with the help of our God. [17] Also during that time the nobles of Judah were sending many letters to Tobiah, and letters from Tobiah were coming to them. [18] For many in Judah were bound to him by oath, since he was son-in-law to Shecaniah son of Arah, and his son Jehohanan had married the daughter of Meshullam son of Berechiah. [19] They kept telling me about his good deeds and then reporting to him what I said. And Tobiah kept sending letters to intimidate me.

CHAPTER 7

[1] Once the wall had been rebuilt and I had hung the doors, and the gatekeepers, singers, and Levites had been assigned, [2] I gave my brother Hanani, together with Hananiah the commander of the fortress, charge over Jerusalem, because Hananiah was a trustworthy man who feared God more than most. [3] I told them, "The gates of Jerusalem must not be opened until the sun is hot, and while the gatekeepers are still on duty, have them shut and bar the doors. Appoint residents of Jerusalem as guards, some at their posts and some in front of their own houses." [4] The city was spacious and large, but there were few people in it, and houses had not yet been rebuilt. [5] Then my God put it into my heart to assemble the nobles, the officials, and the people to be registered by genealogy. I found the genealogical record of those who had come up first, and this is what I found written in it: [6] These are the people of the province who came up out of the captivity of the exiles whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had taken away; they returned to Jerusalem and Judah, each to his own town. [7] They came with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Bigvai, Nehum, and Baanah. The count of the men of the people of Israel: [8] the sons of Parosh, two thousand one hundred and seventy-two; [9] the sons of Shephatiah, three hundred and seventy-two; [10] the sons of Arah, six hundred and fifty-two; [11] the sons of Pahath-moab, of the sons of Jeshua and Joab, two thousand eight hundred and eighteen; [12] the sons of Elam, one thousand two hundred and fifty-four; [13] the sons of Zattu, eight hundred and forty-five; [14] the sons of Zaccai, seven hundred and sixty; [15] the sons of Binnui, six hundred and forty-eight; [16] the sons of Bebai, six hundred and twenty-eight; [17] the sons of Azgad, two thousand three hundred and twenty-two; [18] the sons of Adonikam, six hundred and sixty-seven; [19] the sons of Bigvai, two thousand and sixty-seven; [20] the sons of Adin, six hundred and fifty-five; [21] the sons of Ater, of Hezekiah, ninety-eight; [22] the sons of Hashum, three hundred and twenty-eight; [23] the sons of Bezai, three hundred and twenty-four; [24] the sons of Hariph, one hundred and twelve; [25] the sons of Gibeon, ninety-five; [26] the men of Bethlehem and Netophah, one hundred and eighty-eight; [27] the men of Anathoth, one hundred and twenty-eight; [28] the men of Beth-azmaveth, forty-two; [29] the men of Kiriath-jearim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, seven hundred and forty-three; [30] the men of Ramah and Geba, six hundred and twenty-one; [31] the men of Michmas, one hundred and twenty-two; [32] the men of Bethel and Ai, one hundred and twenty-three; [33] the men of the other Nebo, fifty-two; [34] the sons of the other Elam, one thousand two hundred and fifty-four; [35] the sons of Harim, three hundred and twenty; [36] the sons of Jericho, three hundred and forty-five; [37] the sons of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, seven hundred and twenty-one; [38] the sons of Senaah, three thousand nine hundred and thirty. [39] The priests: the sons of Jedaiah, of the house of Jeshua, nine hundred and seventy-three; [40] the sons of Immer, one thousand and fifty-two; [41] the sons of Pashhur, one thousand two hundred and forty-seven; [42] the sons of Harim, one thousand and seventeen. [43] The Levites: the sons of Jeshua, of Kadmiel, of the sons of Hodevah, seventy-four. [44] The singers: the sons of Asaph, one hundred and forty-eight. [45] The gatekeepers: the sons of Shallum, the sons of Ater, the sons of Talmon, the sons of Akkub, the sons of Hatita, the sons of Shobai, one hundred and thirty-eight. [46] The temple servants: the sons of Ziha, the sons of Hasupha, the sons of Tabbaoth, [47] the sons of Keros, the sons of Sia, the sons of Padon, [48] the sons of Lebana, the sons of Hagaba, the sons of Shalmai, [49] the sons of Hanan, the sons of Giddel, the sons of Gahar, [50] the sons of Reaiah, the sons of Rezin, the sons of Nekoda, [51] the sons of Gazzam, the sons of Uzza, the sons of Paseah, [52] the sons of Besai, the sons of Meunim, the sons of Nephushesim, [53] the sons of Bakbuk, the sons of Hakupha, the sons of Harhur, [54] the sons of Bazlith, the sons of Mehida, the sons of Harsha, [55] the sons of Barkos, the sons of Sisera, the sons of Temah, [56] the sons of Neziah, the sons of Hatipha. [57] The sons of Solomon's servants: the sons of Sotai, the sons of Sophereth, the sons of Perida, [58] the sons of Jaala, the sons of Darkon, the sons of Giddel, [59] the sons of Shephatiah, the sons of Hattil, the sons of Pochereth-hazzebaim, the sons of Amon. [60] All the temple servants and the sons of Solomon's servants were three hundred and ninety-two. [61] The following came up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer, but they were unable to prove their fathers' house or their lineage, whether they were of Israel: [62] the sons of Delaiah, the sons of Tobiah, the sons of Nekoda, six hundred and forty-two. [63] And from the priests: the sons of Hobaiah, the sons of Hakkoz, and the sons of Barzillai, who had married one of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite and took their name. [64] They looked for their entry in the genealogical register but it could not be found, so they were excluded from the priesthood as unclean. [65] The governor ordered them not to eat any of the most holy food until a priest arose who could consult Urim and Thummim. [66] The entire assembly numbered forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty, [67] not counting their male and female slaves, of whom there were seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven; they also had two hundred and forty-five singing men and women. [68] They had seven hundred and thirty-six horses, two hundred and forty-five mules, [69] four hundred and thirty-five camels, and six thousand seven hundred and twenty donkeys. [70] Some of the heads of fathers' houses made contributions for the work. The governor gave to the treasury a thousand darics of gold, fifty bowls, and five hundred and thirty garments for priests.* [71] Some of the heads of fathers' houses gave to the building fund twenty thousand darics of gold and two thousand two hundred minas of silver. [72] The rest of the people gave twenty thousand darics of gold, two thousand minas of silver, and sixty-seven garments for priests. [73] The priests, the Levites, the gatekeepers, the singers, some of the people, the temple servants, and all Israel settled in their towns. When the seventh month arrived, the children of Israel were settled in their towns.

CHAPTER 8

[1] All the people came together as one man in the square in front of the Water Gate, and they asked Ezra the scribe to bring out the book of the law of Moses, which the LORD had given to Israel. [2] On the first day of the seventh month Ezra the priest brought the law before the assembly, men and women and everyone old enough to listen with understanding. [3] Facing the square in front of the Water Gate, he read from it aloud from dawn until noon to the men, the women, and those who could understand, and all the people listened closely to the book of the law. [4] Ezra the scribe stood on a high wooden stand built for the occasion. On his right stood Mattithiah, Shema, Anaiah, Uriah, Hilkiah, and Maaseiah, and on his left Pedaiah, Mishael, Malchijah, Hashum, Hashbaddanah, Zechariah, and Meshullam. [5] Ezra opened the book where all the people could see it, since he stood higher than all of them, and when he opened it, all the people rose to their feet. [6] Ezra praised the LORD, the great God, and all the people lifted their hands and answered, "Amen! Amen!" Then they knelt and worshiped the LORD with their faces to the ground. [7] The Levites Jeshua, Bani, Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, and Pelaiah explained the law to the people as they stood in their places. [8] They read from the book of the law of God, making it clear and explaining the meaning, so that the people understood what was read. [9] Then Nehemiah the governor, Ezra the priest and scribe, and the Levites who were instructing the people told all of them, "Today is holy to the LORD your God. Do not mourn or weep." For all the people had been weeping as they listened to the words of the law. [10] He told them, "Go and enjoy rich food and sweet drinks, and send portions to those who have nothing ready, for today is holy to our Lord. Do not be sad, for the joy of the LORD is your strength." [11] The Levites quieted all the people, saying, "Hush, for today is holy. Do not be sad." [12] So all the people went off to eat and drink, to send portions, and to celebrate joyfully, because they now understood the words that had been explained to them. [13] On the second day the heads of the fathers' houses of all the people, along with the priests and Levites, gathered around Ezra the scribe to study the words of the law. [14] They found written in the law, which the LORD had given through Moses, that the children of Israel were to live in booths during the feast of the seventh month, [15] and that they should announce and spread this word through all their towns and in Jerusalem: "Go out into the hill country and bring back branches of olive and wild olive, myrtle, palm, and other leafy trees to make booths, as it is written." [16] So the people went out and brought back branches and made booths for themselves on their roofs, in their courtyards, in the courts of the house of God, in the square by the Water Gate, and in the square by the Ephraim Gate. [17] The whole assembly that had come back from captivity built booths and lived in them. From the days of Joshua son of Nun until that day the children of Israel had not celebrated like this. And their joy was very great. [18] Ezra read from the book of the law of God every day, from the first day to the last. They celebrated the feast for seven days, and on the eighth day, as required, there was a solemn assembly.

CHAPTER 9

[1] On the twenty-fourth day of the same month the children of Israel came together, fasting, wearing sackcloth, and with earth on their heads. [2] Those of Israelite descent separated themselves from all foreigners, and they stood and confessed their sins and the guilt of their fathers. [3] Standing where they were, they read from the book of the law of the LORD their God for a quarter of the day, and for another quarter they made confession and worshiped the LORD their God. [4] Jeshua, Bani, Kadmiel,

Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani stood on the Levites' stairs and cried out loudly to the LORD their God. [5] Then the Levites Jeshua, Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabneiah, Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah said, "Rise and bless the LORD your God from age to age! May your glorious name be blessed, which is lifted high above all blessing and praise. [6] You are the LORD, you alone. You made the heavens, the highest heavens with all their army, the earth and all that is on it, the seas and all that is in them. You give life to them all, and the army of heaven worships you. [7] You are the LORD God who chose Abram, brought him out of Ur of the Chaldeans, and named him Abraham. [8] You found his heart faithful toward you and made a covenant with him to give the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Jebusites, and Girgashites to his offspring. And you have kept your promise, because you are righteous. [9] You saw how our fathers suffered in Egypt and heard their cry at the Red Sea. [10] You did signs and wonders against Pharaoh, all his officials, and all the people of his land, because you knew how arrogantly they treated our fathers. You made a name for yourself that remains to this day. [11] You split the sea in front of them, and they crossed through the middle of it on dry ground; but you hurled their pursuers into the depths, like a stone into raging waters. [12] By day you led them with a pillar of cloud, and by night with a pillar of fire, to light up the road they were to travel. [13] You came down on Mount Sinai and spoke with them from heaven. You gave them just judgments and reliable laws, good statutes and commandments. [14] You made your holy Sabbath known to them and gave them commandments, statutes, and law through your servant Moses. [15] When they were hungry, you gave them bread from heaven; when they were thirsty, you brought water out of the rock for them. You told them to go in and take possession of the land you had sworn with raised hand to give them. [16] But they, our fathers, became arrogant and stiff-necked and would not obey your commandments. [17] They refused to listen and did not remember the wonders you had done among them. They became stiff-necked and in their rebellion chose a leader to go back to their slavery. But you are a God ready to forgive, gracious and merciful, slow to anger and rich in steadfast love, and you did not abandon them. [18] Even when they cast an image of a calf for themselves and said, 'This is your God who brought you up out of Egypt,' and committed terrible blasphemies, [19] you in your great mercy did not abandon them in the wilderness. The pillar of cloud did not leave them by day to guide them on their way, nor the pillar of fire by night to light up the road they were to travel. [20] You gave your good Spirit to teach them. You did not hold back your manna from their mouths, and you gave them water when they were thirsty. [21] For forty years you provided for them in the wilderness, and they lacked nothing. Their clothes did not wear out, and their feet did not swell. [22] You gave them kingdoms and peoples, assigning them every border region. They took over the land of Sihon, the land of the king of Heshbon, and the land of Og king of Bashan. [23] You made their children as numerous as the stars in the sky, and you brought them into the land you had told their fathers to enter and possess. [24] So their children went in and took possession of the land. You humbled before them the Canaanites who lived in the land and handed them over to them, together with their kings and the peoples of the land, to deal with as they wished. [25] They captured fortified cities and rich land; they took over houses filled with every good thing, wells already dug, vineyards, olive groves, and fruit trees in plenty. They ate until they were full and grew fat, and they reveled in your great goodness. [26] But they were disobedient and rebelled against you; they threw your law behind their backs. They killed your prophets, who had warned them to turn them back to you, and they committed terrible blasphemies. [27] So you handed them over to their enemies, who oppressed them. But when they were oppressed they cried out to you, and you heard from heaven, and in your great mercy you gave them deliverers who rescued them from their enemies. [28] Yet as soon as they had rest, they went back to doing evil in your sight, and you left them in the hands of their enemies, who ruled over them. When they cried out to you again, you heard from heaven, and in your mercy you rescued them time after time. [29] You warned them in order to bring them back to your law, but they acted arrogantly and would not obey your commandments. They sinned against your judgments, by which a person who does them will live. They stubbornly turned their shoulders away, stiffened their necks, and refused to listen. [30] For many years you were patient with them. By your Spirit you warned them through your prophets, but they would not pay attention. So you handed them over to the peoples of the lands. [31] Yet in your great mercy you did not put an end to them or abandon them, for you are a gracious and merciful God. [32] So now, our God, the great, mighty, and fearsome God, who keeps covenant and steadfast love, do not regard as small all the hardship that has come on us, on our kings, our officials, our priests, our prophets, our fathers, and all your people, from the days of the kings of Assyria until today. [33] In all that has happened to us you have been in the right; you have acted faithfully, while we have done wrong. [34] Our kings, officials, priests, and fathers did not keep your law; they paid no attention to your commandments or to the testimonies you warned them with. [35] Even while they were in their own kingdom, enjoying your great goodness to them in the broad and rich land you gave them, they did not serve you or turn away from their wicked ways. [36] See, today we are slaves; we are slaves in the very land you gave our fathers so that they could eat its fruit and its good things. [37] Its abundant harvest goes to the kings you have placed over us because of our sins. They rule over our bodies and our livestock as they please, and we are in great distress. [38] In view of all this, we are making a binding agreement in writing, and our officials, our Levites, and our priests are putting their names on the sealed document."*

CHAPTER 10

[1] Those who set their seal were: Nehemiah the governor, son of Hacaliah, and Zedekiah, [2] Seraiah, Azariah, Jeremiah, [3] Pashhur, Amariah, Malchijah, [4] Hattush, Shebaniah, Malluch, [5] Harim, Meremoth, Obadiah, [6] Daniel, Ginnethon, Baruch, [7] Meshullam, Abijah, Mijamin, [8] Maaziah, Bilgai, Shemaiah. These were the priests. [9] And the Levites: Jeshua the son of Azaniah, Binnui of the sons of Henadad, Kadmiel; [10] and their brothers, Shebaniah, Hodiah, Kelita, Pelaiah, Hanan, [11] Mica, Rehob, Hashabiah, [12] Zaccur, Sherebiah, Shebaniah, [13] Hodiah, Bani, Beninu. [14] The heads of the people: Parosh, Pahath-moab, Elam, Zattu, Bani, [15] Bunni, Azgad, Bebai, [16] Adonijah, Bigvai, Adin, [17] Ater, Hezekiah, Azzur, [18] Hodiah, Hashum, Bezai, [19] Hariph, Anathoth, Nebai, [20] Magpiash, Meshullam, Hezir, [21] Meshezabel, Zadok, Jaddua, [22] Pelatiah, Hanan, Anaiah, [23] Hoshea, Hananiah, Hasshub, [24] Hallohesh, Pilha, Shobek, [25] Rehum, Hashabnah, Maaseiah, [26] Ahiah, Hanan, Anan, [27] Malluch, Harim, Baanah. [28] The rest of the people, the priests, Levites, gatekeepers, singers, temple servants, and all who had separated themselves from the peoples of the lands for the sake of the law of God, together with their wives, sons, and daughters, all who were able to understand, [29] joined their brothers, their nobles, and bound themselves with a curse and an oath to follow God's law given through Moses the servant of God, and to obey carefully all the commandments, judgments, and statutes of the LORD our Lord. [30] We will not give our daughters in marriage to the peoples of the land or take their daughters for our sons. [31] When the peoples of the land bring goods or grain to sell on the Sabbath, we will not buy from them on the Sabbath or on any holy day. Every seventh year we will let the land rest and will cancel every debt. [32] We also took on ourselves the duty of giving a third of a shekel each year for the service of the house of our God: [33] for the bread set in rows, the regular grain offering and the regular burnt offering, the offerings on the Sabbaths, new moons, and appointed feasts, the holy offerings, the sin offerings to make atonement for Israel, and all the work of the house of our God. [34] We, the priests, the Levites, and the people, have cast lots for supplying wood, to bring it to the house of our God by fathers' houses at set times each year, to burn on the altar of the LORD our God, as written in the law. [35] We will also bring to the house of the LORD each year the firstfruits of our soil and the firstfruits of every fruit tree, [36] and, as written in the law, the firstborn of our sons and our livestock, and the firstborn of our herds and flocks, bringing them to the house of our God, to the priests who serve there. [37] We will bring the first of our dough, our contributions, the fruit of every tree, new wine, and oil to the priests, to the storerooms of the house of our God, and the tithe of our produce to the Levites, for the Levites are the ones who collect the tithes in all the towns where we farm. [38] A priest descended from Aaron is to accompany the Levites when they receive the tithes, and the Levites are to bring a tenth of the tithes up to the house of our God, to the storerooms of the treasury. [39] The children of Israel and the Levites are to bring the contributions of grain, new wine, and oil to the storerooms, where the vessels of the sanctuary are kept and where the ministering priests, the gatekeepers, and the singers stay. We will not neglect the house of our God.

CHAPTER 11

[1] The leaders of the people settled in Jerusalem, and the rest of the people cast lots to bring one in ten of them to live in Jerusalem, the holy city, while the other nine stayed in the other towns. [2] The people blessed all the men who volunteered to live in Jerusalem. [3] These are the heads of the province who settled in Jerusalem, though in the towns of Judah each person lived on his own property in their towns: Israelites, priests, Levites, temple servants, and descendants of Solomon's servants. [4] Some of the people of Judah and Benjamin settled in Jerusalem. From Judah: Athaiah son of Uzziah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mahalalel, of the descendants of Perez; [5] and Maaseiah the son of Baruch, the son of Col-hozeh, the son of Hazaiah, the son of Adaiah, the son of Joiarib, the son of Zechariah, the son of the Shilonite. [6] The descendants of Perez living in Jerusalem totaled four hundred and sixty-eight able men. [7] From Benjamin: Sallu son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshaiah; [8] and following him Gabbai and Sallai, nine hundred and twenty-eight. [9] Joel son of Zichri was the officer over them, and Judah son of Hassenuah was second in command of the city. [10] Of the priests: Jedaiah the son of Joiarib, Jachin, [11] Seraiah son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, the officer in charge of the house of God, [12] and their brothers who did the work in the temple, eight hundred and twenty-two; and Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah, [13] and his brothers, heads of fathers' houses, two hundred and forty-two; and Amashsai the son of Azarel, the son of Ahzai, the son of Meshillemoth, the son of Immer, [14] and their brothers, able warriors, a hundred and twenty-eight. Their officer was Zabdiel son of Haggedolim. [15] Of the Levites: Shemaiah the son of Hasshub, the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah, the son of Bunni; [16] and Shabbethai and Jozabad, two of the leaders of the Levites, who had charge of the outside work of the house of God; [17] and Mattaniah son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, the leader who started the thanksgiving in prayer; Bakbukiah, second among his brothers; and Abda son of Shammua, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun. [18] The Levites in the holy city totaled two hundred and eighty-four. [19] The gatekeepers, Akkub, Talmon, and their brothers, who stood guard at the gates, numbered a hundred and seventy-two. [20] The rest of the Israelites, with the priests and Levites, were in all the towns of Judah, each on his own inheritance. [21] The temple servants lived on Ophel, with Ziha and Gishpa in charge of them. [22] The officer of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Mica, one of Asaph's descendants, the singers responsible for the service of the house of God. [23] They were under a royal order that regulated the singers' daily activities. [24] Pethahiah son of Meshezabel, a descendant of Zerah son of Judah, was the king's agent in every matter concerning the people. [25] As for the villages and their fields, some of the people of Judah lived in Kiriath-arba and its towns, Dibon and its towns, and Jekabzeel and its villages, [26] in Jeshua, in Moladah, in Beth-pelet, [27] in Hazar-shual, in Beersheba and its towns, [28] in Ziklag, in Meconah and its towns, [29] in En-rimmon, in Zorah, in Jarmuth, [30] Zanoah, Adullam, and their villages, Lachish and its fields, and Azekah and its towns. So they settled from Beersheba all the way to the Valley of Hinnom. [31] The people of Benjamin lived from Geba onward, in Michmash, Aija, Bethel and its towns, [32] Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, [33] Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim, [34] Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat, [35] Lod, and Ono, the Valley of Craftsmen. [36] Some of the divisions of the Levites from Judah were assigned to Benjamin.

CHAPTER 12

[1] These are the priests and Levites who came up with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and with Jeshua: Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra, [2] Amariah, Malluch, Hattush, [3] Shecaniah, Rehum, Meremoth, [4] Iddo, Ginnethoi, Abijah, [5] Mijamin, Maadiah, Bilgah, [6] Shemaiah, Joiarib, Jedaiah, [7] Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah, Jedaiah. These were the leaders of the priests and their brothers in Jeshua's time. [8] The Levites were Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, and Mattaniah, who with his brothers was in charge of the thanksgiving songs. [9] Their brothers Bakbukiah and Unni stood across from them in the services. [10] Jeshua fathered Joiakim, Joiakim fathered Eliashib, Eliashib fathered Joiada, [11] Joiada fathered Jonathan, and Jonathan fathered Jaddua. [12] In the time of Joiakim, these priests were heads of fathers' houses: of Seraiah, Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah; [13] of Ezra, Meshullam; of Amariah, Jehohanan; [14] of Melicu, Jonathan; of Shebaniah, Joseph; [15] of Harim, Adna; of Meraioth, Helkai; [16] of Iddo, Zechariah; of Ginnethon, Meshullam; [17] of Abijah, Zichri; of Miniamin, of Moadiah, Piltai; [18] of Bilgah, Shammua; of Shemaiah, Jehonathan; [19] of Joiarib, Mattenai; of Jedaiah, Uzzi; [20] of Sallai, Kallai; of Amok, Eber; [21] of Hilkiah, Hashabiah; of Jedaiah, Nethanel. [22] In the days of Eliashib, Joiada, Johanan, and Jaddua, the heads of the fathers' houses of the Levites were registered, and those of the priests, up to the reign of Darius the Persian. [23] The heads of the fathers' houses of the Levites were registered in the book of the chronicles up to the time of Johanan son of Eliashib. [24] The leaders of the Levites were Hashabiah, Sherebiah, and Jeshua son of Kadmiel, with their brothers standing across from them to give praise and thanks, one section answering another, as David the man of God had ordered. [25] Mattaniah, Bakbukiah, Obadiah, Meshullam, Talmon, and Akkub were gatekeepers who stood guard at the storerooms by the gates. [26] They served in the time of Joiakim son of Jeshua, son of Jozadak, and in the time of Nehemiah the governor and Ezra the priest and scribe. [27] For the dedication of Jerusalem's wall they searched out the Levites from wherever they lived and brought them to Jerusalem to celebrate the dedication joyfully with songs of thanks and with music of cymbals, harps, and lyres. [28] The singers were brought together from the district around Jerusalem and from the villages of the Netophathites, [29] from Beth-gilgal, and from the area of Geba and Azmaveth, for the singers had built villages for themselves around Jerusalem. [30] After the priests and Levites had purified themselves, they purified the people, the gates, and the wall. [31] I had the leaders of Judah go up on top of the wall, and I assigned two large choirs to give thanks and walk in procession. One went to the right along the top of the wall toward the Dung Gate. [32] Behind them walked Hoshaiah and half the leaders of Judah, [33] with Azariah, Ezra, Meshullam, [34] Judah, Benjamin, Shemaiah, and Jeremiah, [35] along with some priests with trumpets: Zechariah son of Jonathan, son of Shemaiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Micaiah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph, [36] and his brothers Shemaiah, Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, Judah, and Hanani, with the musical instruments of David the man of God. Ezra the scribe led the way before them. [37] At the Fountain Gate they went straight up the stairs of the City of David on the ascent of the wall, past the house of David, to the Water Gate on the east. [38] The second choir went the opposite way, and I followed them along the top of the wall with half the people, past the Tower of the Ovens to the Broad Wall, [39] over the Ephraim Gate, the Old Gate, the Fish Gate, the Tower of Hananel, and the Tower of the Hundred, as far as the Sheep Gate; and they came to a halt at the Gate of the Guard. [40] Then the two choirs that gave thanks took their places in the house of God, and so did I, together with half the officials, [41] and the priests, Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, and Hananiah, with trumpets; [42] and Maaseiah, Shemaiah, Eleazar, Uzzi, Jehohanan, Malchijah, Elam, and Ezer. The singers sang out under the direction of Jezrahiah. [43] On that day they offered great sacrifices and rejoiced, because God had given them great joy. The women and children rejoiced too, and the rejoicing in Jerusalem could be heard far away. [44] That day men were put in charge of the storerooms for the contributions, firstfruits, and tithes, to bring into them from the fields around the towns the portions the law required for the priests and Levites; for Judah was glad about the priests and Levites who were serving. [45] They performed the service of their God and the service of purification, as did the singers and gatekeepers, as David and his son Solomon had ordered. [46] For long ago, in the days of David and Asaph, there had been directors for the singers and for songs of praise and thanks to God. [47] So in the days of Zerubbabel and of Nehemiah all Israel provided the daily portions for the singers and gatekeepers. They also set aside the portion for the Levites, and the Levites set aside the portion for the descendants of Aaron.

CHAPTER 13

[1] On that day the book of Moses was read aloud to the people, and it was found written there that no Ammonite or Moabite may ever enter the assembly of God, [2] because they had not met the children of Israel with food and water but had hired Balaam to curse them, though our God turned the curse into a blessing. [3] When the people heard this law, they excluded from Israel all who were of foreign descent. [4] Before this, Eliashib the priest, who had been put in charge of the storerooms of the house of our God, was closely associated with Tobiah, [5] and he had provided him with a large room where they used to store the grain offerings, the frankincense, the vessels, and the tithes of grain, new wine, and oil prescribed for the Levites, singers, and gatekeepers, as well as the contributions for the priests. [6] While all this was going on I was not in Jerusalem, for in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon I had returned to the king. Some time later I asked the king's permission [7] and came back to Jerusalem. There I discovered the evil Eliashib had done for Tobiah by providing him a room in the courts of the house of God. [8] I was very angry and threw all of Tobiah's household belongings out of the room. [9] I gave orders to purify the rooms, and then I put back into them the vessels of the house of God, along with the grain offerings and the frankincense. [10] I also learned that the portions due the Levites had not been given to them, and that the Levites and singers responsible for the service had all gone back to their own fields. [11] So I confronted the officials and asked them, "Why is the house of God neglected?" Then I called the Levites together and put them back at their posts. [12] And all Judah brought the tithes of grain, new wine, and oil into the storerooms. [13] I put Shelemiah the priest, Zadok the scribe, and a Levite named Pedaiah in charge of the storerooms, with Hanan son of Zaccur, son of Mattaniah, as their assistant, because these men were considered trustworthy. They were responsible for distributing the supplies to their brothers. [14] Remember me for this, my God, and do not blot out the faithful deeds I have done for the house of my God and its services. [15] In those days I saw people in Judah treading winepresses on the Sabbath and bringing in sacks of grain and loading them on donkeys, along with wine, grapes, figs, and all kinds of loads, which they were bringing into Jerusalem on the Sabbath day. I warned them against selling food on that day. [16] People from Tyre who lived in the city were bringing in fish and all kinds of merchandise and selling them on the Sabbath to the people of Judah, and in Jerusalem itself. [17] I confronted the nobles of Judah and said to them, "What is this wicked thing you are doing, desecrating the Sabbath day? [18] Is this not just what your fathers did, so that our God brought all this trouble on us and on this city? And now you are stirring up more wrath against Israel by desecrating the Sabbath!" [19] So when evening shadows fell on the gates of Jerusalem before the Sabbath, I ordered the doors to be shut and not opened until the Sabbath was over. I posted some of my own men at the gates so that no load could be brought in on the Sabbath day. [20] Once or twice the merchants and sellers of all kinds of goods spent the night outside Jerusalem. [21] But I warned them, "Why are you spending the night by the wall? If you do this again, I will use force against you." From then on they stopped coming on the Sabbath. [22] I ordered the Levites to purify themselves and to come and guard the gates in order to keep the Sabbath day holy. Remember me for this too, my God, and have mercy on me in keeping with your great steadfast love. [23] In those days I also saw Jews who had married women from Ashdod, Ammon, and Moab. [24] Half their children spoke the language of Ashdod or the language of one of the other peoples, and they did not know how to speak the language of Judah. [25] I confronted them and called down curses on them. I beat some of the men and pulled out their hair, and I made them take an oath in God's name: "You must not give your daughters in marriage to their sons, or take their daughters as wives for your sons or for yourselves. [26] Was it not because of marriages like these that Solomon king of Israel sinned? Among the many nations there was no king like him. He was loved by his God, and God made him king over all Israel, yet even he was led into sin by foreign women. [27] Must we now hear that you too are doing all this great evil, breaking faith with our God by marrying foreign women?" [28] One of the sons of Joiada son of Eliashib the high priest was son-in-law to Sanballat the Horonite, so I drove him away from me. [29] Remember them, my God, for they have defiled the priesthood and the covenant of the priesthood and of the Levites. [30] So I purified them of everything foreign and assigned duties to the priests and Levites, each to his own task. [31] I also made provision for the wood offering at set times and for the firstfruits. Remember me with favor, my God.

CHAPTER 1

[1] This took place in the time of Ahasuerus, the Ahasuerus who ruled a hundred and twenty-seven provinces stretching from India to Cush. [2] In those days, as King Ahasuerus sat on his royal throne in Susa the citadel, [3] in the third year of his reign he held a feast for all his officials and servants. The army of Persia and Media, the nobles, and the governors of the provinces were present before him, [4] as he showed off the wealth of his glorious kingdom and the costly splendor of his greatness for a long time, a hundred and eighty days. [5] At the end of those days the king held a seven-day feast in the garden court of the royal palace for all the people in Susa the citadel, from the most important to the least. [6] There were curtains of white linen and violet hung by cords of fine linen and purple on silver rods and marble columns, and couches of gold and silver on a mosaic pavement of porphyry, marble, mother-of-pearl, and colored stones. [*7] Drinks were served in gold cups, each one different from the next, and there was plenty of royal wine, in keeping with the king's bounty. [8] The drinking followed the rule that there was to be no compulsion, for the king had ordered all the stewards of his household to serve each man what he wanted. [9] Queen Vashti also held a feast for the women in King Ahasuerus's royal palace. [10] On the seventh day, when the king was in high spirits from the wine, he ordered Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagtha, Zethar, and Carkas, the seven eunuchs who attended King Ahasuerus, [11] to bring Queen Vashti before the king, wearing her royal crown, to display her beauty to the peoples and the officials, for she was very beautiful. [12] But Queen Vashti refused to come when the eunuchs brought the king's order. The king was furious, and his anger burned within him. [13] The king consulted the wise men who understood the times, for it was the king's custom to consult all who were experts in law and justice. [14] Closest to him were Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, and Memucan, the seven officials of Persia and Media who had access to the king and held the highest rank in the kingdom. [15] "By law, what should be done to Queen Vashti," he asked, "since she has not obeyed the order of King Ahasuerus brought by the eunuchs?" [16] Memucan answered in the presence of the king and the officials, "Queen Vashti has done wrong not only against the king but against all the officials and all the peoples in every province of King Ahasuerus. [17] For what the queen has done will become known to all the women, and they will look down on their husbands and say, 'King Ahasuerus ordered Queen Vashti brought before him, but she would not come.' [18] This very day the noblewomen of Persia and Media who have heard about the queen's behavior will say the same to all the king's officials, and there will be no end of contempt and anger. [19] If it pleases the king, let him issue a royal decree, and let it be recorded in the laws of Persia and Media so that it cannot be repealed, that Vashti is never again to appear before King Ahasuerus. Let the king give her royal position to someone else who is better than she. [20] Then when the king's decree is proclaimed throughout his vast kingdom, all women will honor their husbands, from the greatest to the least." [21] The king and the officials liked this advice, and the king did what Memucan proposed. [22] He sent letters to all the royal provinces, to each province in its own script and to each people in its own language, declaring that every man should be ruler over his own household and should speak in the language of his own people.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Some time later, when King Ahasuerus's anger had cooled, he remembered Vashti, what she had done, and what had been decreed against her. [2] Then the king's personal attendants proposed, "Let a search be made for beautiful young virgins for the king. [3] Let the king appoint commissioners in every province of his realm to bring all the beautiful young virgins to the harem in Susa the citadel. Let them be placed under the care of Hegai, the king's eunuch in charge of the women, and let them be given their beauty treatments. [4] And let the young woman who pleases the king become queen in place of Vashti." The king liked this advice and acted on it. [5] In Susa the citadel there lived a Jew named Mordecai son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, a Benjaminite, [6] who had been taken into exile from Jerusalem among those deported with Jeconiah king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had carried into exile. [7] Mordecai had raised Hadassah, also called Esther, his uncle's daughter, because she had no father or mother. The young woman had a lovely figure and was beautiful, and when her father and mother died, Mordecai had taken her as his own daughter. [8] When the king's order and decree had been proclaimed, many young women were brought to Susa the citadel and placed under Hegai's care. Esther too was taken to the king's palace and put in the care of Hegai, who was in charge of the women. [9] The young woman pleased him and gained his favor. He promptly gave her the beauty treatments and her special food, assigned her seven select attendants from the king's palace, and moved her and her attendants to the best quarters in the harem. [10] Esther had not revealed her people or her family background, because Mordecai had ordered her not to reveal it. [11] Each day Mordecai walked back and forth in front of the courtyard of the harem to find out how Esther was doing and what was happening to her. [12] Before each young woman's turn came to go in to King Ahasuerus, she had to complete twelve months of the beauty treatment prescribed for the women: six months with oil of myrrh and six months with spices and cosmetics. [13] Then the young woman would go in to the king this way: she was given whatever she asked for to take with her from the harem to the king's palace. [14] She would go in at evening and in the morning return to a second harem under the care of Shaashgaz, the king's eunuch in charge of the concubines. She would not go in to the king again unless he was pleased with her and summoned her by name. [15] When the turn came for Esther, the daughter of Abihail, Mordecai's uncle, who had adopted her as his daughter, to go in to the king, she asked for nothing except what Hegai, the king's eunuch in charge of the women, suggested. And Esther gained the favor of everyone who saw her. [16] Esther was taken to King Ahasuerus in his royal palace in the tenth month, the month of Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign. [17] The king loved Esther more than all the other women, and she won his favor and approval more than all the other virgins. So he placed the royal crown on her head and made her queen in place of Vashti. [18] The king then held a great feast, Esther's feast, for all his officials and servants. He proclaimed a holiday throughout the provinces and gave gifts with royal generosity. [19] When the virgins were assembled a second time, Mordecai was sitting at the king's gate. [20] Esther still had not revealed her family background or her people, just as Mordecai had ordered her, for Esther continued to follow Mordecai's instructions as she had done when he was raising her. [21] During those days, while Mordecai was sitting at the king's gate, Bigthan and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs who guarded the entrance, grew angry and plotted to assassinate King Ahasuerus. [22] Mordecai learned of the plot and told Queen Esther, and Esther reported it to the king, giving Mordecai the credit. [23] The report was investigated and found to be true, and the two men were hanged on a gallows. This was recorded in the book of the chronicles in the king's presence.*

CHAPTER 3

[1] After these events King Ahasuerus honored Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, promoting him and giving him a seat of honor higher than that of all the other officials with him. [2] All the king's servants at the king's gate knelt down and bowed to Haman, because the king had commanded it. But Mordecai would not kneel down or bow. [3] The king's servants at the king's gate asked Mordecai, "Why do you disobey the king's command?" [4] Day after day they spoke to him, but he refused to listen. So they told Haman, to see whether Mordecai's reason would be accepted, for he had told them he was a Jew. [5] When Haman saw that Mordecai would not kneel down or bow to him, he was enraged. [6] But he scorned the idea of laying hands on Mordecai alone, since they had told him who Mordecai's people were. Instead Haman looked for a way to wipe out all the Jews, Mordecai's people, throughout the whole kingdom of Ahasuerus. [7] In the first month, the month of Nisan, in the twelfth year of King Ahasuerus, they cast pur, that is, the lot, in Haman's presence, day after day and month after month, until it fell on the twelfth month, the month of Adar. [8] Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, "There is a certain people dispersed and scattered among the peoples in every province of your kingdom. Their laws are different from those of all other peoples, and they do not keep the king's laws. It is not in the king's interest to tolerate them. [9] If it pleases the king, let a decree be written to destroy them, and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver into the hands of the officials in charge of the king's business, for the royal treasuries." [10] So the king took the signet ring off his hand and gave it to Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the enemy of the Jews. [11] "Keep the money," the king told Haman, "and the people too; do with them whatever you like." [12] On the thirteenth day of the first month the royal scribes were called in, and everything Haman ordered was written down to the king's satraps, the governors of each province, and the officials of each people, to each province in its own script and to each people in its own language. It was written in King Ahasuerus's name and sealed with the king's signet ring. [13] The letters were sent by runners to all the king's provinces with the order to destroy, kill, and annihilate all the Jews, young and old, women and little children, on a single day, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, the month of Adar, and to seize their goods as plunder. [14] A copy of the text was to be issued as law in every province and made known to all the peoples, so they would be ready for that day. [15] At the king's command the runners went out in haste, and the decree was issued in Susa the citadel. The king and Haman sat down to drink, while the city of Susa was thrown into confusion.

CHAPTER 4

[1] When Mordecai found out all that had been done, he tore his clothes, put on sackcloth and ashes, and went out into the city, wailing loudly and bitterly. [2] He went only as far as the king's gate, because no one dressed in sackcloth was allowed to enter it. [3] In every province where the king's command and decree arrived, there was great mourning among the Jews, with fasting, weeping, and wailing. Many lay in sackcloth and ashes. [4] When Esther's maids and eunuchs came and told her about it, the queen was overcome with distress. She sent clothes for Mordecai to put on instead of his sackcloth, but he refused them. [5] Then Esther summoned Hathach, one of the king's eunuchs assigned to attend her, and ordered him to find out from Mordecai what was happening and why. [6] So Hathach went out to Mordecai in the city square in front of the king's gate. [7] Mordecai told him everything that had happened to him, including the exact amount of money Haman had promised to pay into the royal treasuries for the destruction of the Jews. [8] He also gave him a copy of the text of the decree for their destruction that had been published in Susa, to show to Esther and explain to her, and he told him to urge her to go to the king to beg for mercy and plead with him for her people. [9] Hathach went back and reported to Esther what Mordecai had said. [10] Then Esther told Hathach to say to Mordecai, [11] "All the king's servants and the people of the royal provinces know that for any man or woman who approaches the king in the inner court without being summoned, there is only one law: death, unless the king extends the gold scepter to that person and spares his life. And thirty days have passed since I was summoned to go to the king." [12] When Esther's words were reported to Mordecai, [13] Mordecai sent back this answer to Esther: "Do not think that because you are in the king's palace you alone of all the Jews will escape. [14] If you keep silent at this time, relief and deliverance for the Jews will arise from another place, but you and your father's family will perish. And who knows whether you have come to royal position for such a time as this?" [15] Esther sent this reply to Mordecai: [16] "Go and gather all the Jews to be found in Susa, and fast for me. Do not eat or drink for three days, night or day. My maids and I will fast as you do. After that I will go to the king, even though it is against the law. And if I perish, I perish." [17] Mordecai went off and did everything Esther had instructed him.

CHAPTER 5

[1] On the third day Esther dressed in her royal attire and took her stand in the inner court of the palace, opposite the king's hall. The king was seated on his royal throne in the throne room, facing its entrance. [2] As soon as the king saw Queen Esther standing in the court, she gained his favor, and he extended to her the gold scepter in his hand. Esther came forward and touched the end of the scepter. [3] "What troubles you, Queen Esther?" the king asked her. "What is it you want? Up to half the kingdom, it will be given to you." [4] Esther answered, "If it pleases the king, let the king come today with Haman to a feast I have prepared for him." [5] The king said, "Bring Haman at once, so we can do what Esther asks." So the king and Haman went to the feast Esther had prepared. [6] While they were drinking wine, the king asked Esther, "What is your petition? It will be granted to you. And what is your request? Up to half the kingdom, it will be done." [7] Esther replied, "This is my petition and my request: [8] If I have found favor with the king, and if it pleases the king to grant my petition and carry out my request, let the king and Haman come to the feast I will prepare for them, and tomorrow I will do as the king has asked." [9] Haman left that day happy and in high spirits. But when he saw Mordecai at the king's gate, and Mordecai neither rose nor showed any fear of him, Haman was furious with Mordecai. [10] Yet Haman controlled himself and went home. He sent for his friends and his wife Zeresh, [11] and Haman boasted to them about the glory of his wealth, his many sons, and every way the king had honored him and raised him above the officials and servants of the king. [12] "Besides," Haman added, "Queen Esther invited no one but me to accompany the king to the feast she prepared. And I am invited by her again tomorrow along with the king. [13] But none of this satisfies me as long as I see Mordecai the Jew sitting at the king's gate." [14] His wife Zeresh and all his friends told him, "Have a gallows built, fifty cubits high, and in the morning ask the king to have Mordecai hanged on it. Then go with the king to the feast and enjoy yourself." Haman liked the suggestion and had the gallows built.

CHAPTER 6

[1] That night sleep escaped the king, so he ordered the book of records, the chronicles, to be brought, and they were read to the king. [2] In it was found the record that Mordecai had reported Bigthana and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs who guarded the entrance, who had plotted to assassinate King Ahasuerus. [3] "What honor or recognition has Mordecai received for this?" the king asked. His personal attendants answered, "Nothing has been done for him." [4] The king asked, "Who is in the court?" Haman had just entered the outer court of the palace to speak to the king about hanging Mordecai on the gallows he had set up for him. [5] The king's attendants told him, "Haman is standing in the court." "Let him come in," the king said. [6] When Haman entered, the king asked him, "What should be done for the man the king takes pleasure in honoring?" Haman thought to himself, "Who is there the king would rather honor than me?" [7] So Haman answered the king, "For the man the king takes pleasure in honoring, [8] have them bring a royal robe the king himself has worn and a horse the king himself has ridden, one with a royal crest placed on its head. [9] Let the robe and the horse be entrusted to one of the king's most noble officials, and let them dress the man the king takes pleasure in honoring and lead him on the horse through the city square, calling out before him, 'This is what is done for the man the king takes pleasure in honoring!'" [10] The king told Haman, "Go at once, take the robe and the horse as you have said, and do this for Mordecai the Jew, who sits at the king's gate. Do not leave out anything you have suggested." [11] So Haman took the robe and the horse. He dressed Mordecai and led him on horseback through the city square, calling out before him, "This is what is done for the man the king takes pleasure in honoring!" [12] Afterward Mordecai went back to the king's gate, but Haman rushed home, grieving, with his head covered. [13] Haman told his wife Zeresh and all his friends everything that had happened to him. His advisers and his wife Zeresh said to him, "Since Mordecai, before whom you have started to fall, is of Jewish descent, you cannot win against him; you will certainly fall before him." [14] While they were still talking with him, the king's eunuchs arrived and hurried Haman off to the feast Esther had prepared.

CHAPTER 7

[1] So the king and Haman went to dine with Queen Esther. [2] On this second day, as they were drinking wine, the king again asked Esther, "What is your petition, Queen Esther? It will be granted to you. And what is your request? Up to half the kingdom, it will be done." [3] Queen Esther answered, "If I have found favor with you, O king, and if it pleases the king, grant me my life; that is my petition. And spare my people; that is my request. [4] For I and my people have been sold to be destroyed, killed, and annihilated. If we had merely been sold as slaves, men and women, I would have kept quiet, for the distress would not be worth the damage to the king." [5] King Ahasuerus asked Queen Esther, "Who is he? Where is the man who has dared to do such a thing?" [6] Esther said, "An adversary and enemy, this evil Haman!" Haman was terrified before the king and queen. [7] The king got up in a rage, left his wine, and went out into the palace garden. But Haman stayed behind to beg Queen Esther for his life, for he saw that the king had already decided his doom. [8] Just as the king returned from the palace garden to the banquet hall, Haman was falling on the couch where Esther was reclining. The king exclaimed, "Will he even molest the queen while she is with me in my own house?" As soon as the words left the king's mouth, they covered Haman's face. [9] Then Harbonah, one of the eunuchs attending the king, said, "There is a gallows fifty cubits high standing by Haman's house. He had it set up for Mordecai, who spoke up to save the king." The king said, "Hang him on it!" [10] So they hanged Haman on the gallows he had set up for Mordecai, and the king's anger died down.

CHAPTER 8

[1] That same day King Ahasuerus gave Queen Esther the estate of Haman, the enemy of the Jews. Mordecai came into the king's presence, because Esther had revealed how he was related to her. [2] The king took off his signet ring, which he had recovered from Haman, and gave it to Mordecai. And Esther put Mordecai in charge of Haman's estate. [3] Esther once again pleaded with the king, falling at his feet and weeping. She begged him to put an end to the evil scheme of Haman the Agagite, which he had devised against the Jews. [4] The king extended the gold scepter to Esther, and she got up and stood before the king. [5] "If it pleases the king," she said, "and if I have found favor with him, if he thinks it the right thing to do and if he is pleased with me, let an order be written to revoke the letters Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite devised and wrote to destroy the Jews in all the king's provinces. [6] For how can I bear to see the disaster that will fall on my people? How can I bear to see the destruction of my family?" [7] King Ahasuerus told Queen Esther and Mordecai the Jew, "I have given Haman's estate to Esther, and they have hanged him on the gallows because he tried to attack the Jews. [8] Now write another decree in the king's name on behalf of the Jews, as you see fit, and seal it with the king's signet ring, for no document written in the king's name and sealed with his signet ring can be revoked." [9] At once the royal scribes were summoned, on the twenty-third day of the third month, the month of Sivan. They wrote down everything Mordecai ordered, to the Jews and to the satraps, governors, and officials of the hundred and twenty-seven provinces from India to Cush, to each province in its own script and to each people in its own language, and also to the Jews in their own script and language. [10] Mordecai wrote in King Ahasuerus's name, sealed the letters with the king's signet ring, and sent them by mounted couriers riding swift royal steeds bred from the stud.* [11] In these letters the king permitted the Jews in every city to assemble and defend their lives, to destroy, kill, and annihilate any armed force of any people or province that might attack them, along with their children and women, and to seize their goods as plunder, [12] on a single day in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, the month of Adar. [13] A copy of the text was to be issued as law in every province and made known to all the peoples, so that the Jews would be ready on that day to take revenge on their enemies. [14] The couriers, riding the swift royal steeds, raced out, spurred on by the king's command. And the decree was also issued in Susa the citadel. [15] Mordecai left the king's presence wearing royal garments of violet and white, a large gold crown, and a robe of fine linen and purple. And the city of Susa celebrated with shouts of joy. [16] For the Jews it was a time of light and happiness, joy and honor. [17] In every province and every city where the king's command and decree arrived, the Jews had joy and gladness, with feasting and a holiday. And many of the peoples of the land became Jews, because fear of the Jews had seized them.

CHAPTER 9

[1] On the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, the month of Adar, when the king's command and decree were to be carried out, the very day the enemies of the Jews had hoped to overpower them, the tables were turned and the Jews overpowered those who hated them. [2] The Jews assembled in their cities in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus to attack those who sought to harm them. No one could stand against them, because fear of them had seized all the peoples. [3] All the officials of the provinces, the satraps, the governors, and the king's administrators supported the Jews, because fear of Mordecai had seized them. [4] Mordecai was powerful in the palace, and his reputation spread through all the provinces, as the man Mordecai became more and more powerful. [5] The Jews struck down all their enemies with the sword, killing and destroying them, and they did what they pleased to those who hated them. [6] In Susa the citadel the Jews killed and destroyed five hundred men. [7] and Parshandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha, [8] Poratha, Adalia, Aridatha, [9] Parmashta, Arisai, Aridai, and Vaizatha, [10] the ten sons of Haman son of Hammedatha, the enemy of the Jews. But they did not touch the plunder. [11] The number of those killed in Susa the citadel was reported to the king that same day. [12] The king said to Queen Esther, "The Jews have killed and destroyed five hundred men and the ten sons of Haman in Susa the citadel. What must they have done in the rest of the royal provinces! Now what is your petition? It will be granted to you. And what more do you request? It will be done." [13] Esther answered, "If it pleases the king, let the Jews in Susa be permitted to act tomorrow as well, in keeping with today's decree, and let the ten sons of Haman be hanged on the gallows." [14] The king ordered that this be done. A decree was issued in Susa, and Haman's ten sons were hanged. [15] The Jews in Susa assembled again on the fourteenth day of the month of Adar, and they killed three hundred men in Susa. But they did not touch the plunder. [16] The other Jews in the king's provinces also assembled to defend their lives and gained relief from their enemies. They killed seventy-five thousand of those who hated them, but they did not touch the plunder. [17] This happened on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar, and on the fourteenth they rested and made it a day of feasting and joy. [18] The Jews in Susa, however, had assembled on the thirteenth and the fourteenth, so on the fifteenth they rested and made it a day of feasting and joy. [19] That is why rural Jews, who live in villages without walls, observe the fourteenth day of the month of Adar as a day of joy and feasting, a holiday on which they send gifts of food to one another. [20] Mordecai recorded these events and sent letters to all the Jews throughout the provinces of King Ahasuerus, near and far, [21] requiring them to celebrate the fourteenth and fifteenth days of the month of Adar every year [22] as the days when the Jews got relief from their enemies, and as the month when their sorrow was turned into joy and their mourning into a holiday. He told them to observe these as days of feasting and joy, sending food to one another and gifts to the poor. [23] So the Jews accepted as a custom what they had begun to do, as Mordecai had written to them. [24] For Haman son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the enemy of all the Jews, had plotted against the Jews to destroy them and had cast pur, that is, the lot, to crush and destroy them. [25] But when the matter came before the king, he gave written orders that the evil scheme Haman had devised against the Jews should come back on his own head, and that he and his sons should be hanged on the gallows. [26] That is why these days are called Purim, from the word pur. So because of everything written in this letter, and because of what they had seen and what had happened to them, [27] the Jews established the custom and bound themselves, their descendants, and all who joined them, to observe without fail these two days every year, as prescribed and at the set time. [28] These days are to be remembered and observed in every generation, by every family, in every province and every city. These days of Purim must never cease to be celebrated among the Jews, and the memory of them must never die out among their descendants. [29] Then Queen Esther, daughter of Abihail, along with Mordecai the Jew, wrote with full authority to confirm this second letter about Purim. [30] Letters were sent to all the Jews in the hundred and twenty-seven provinces of Ahasuerus's kingdom, with words of peace and truth, [31] to establish these days of Purim at their set times, as Mordecai the Jew and Queen Esther had decreed for them and as they had decreed for themselves and their descendants, concerning their times of fasting and lamentation. [32] Esther's command confirmed these regulations about Purim, and it was recorded in writing.

CHAPTER 10

[1] King Ahasuerus laid a tax on the land and on the coastlands of the sea. [2] All his powerful and mighty deeds, together with a full account of Mordecai's greatness, to which the king had raised him, are they not recorded in the book of the chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia? [3] For Mordecai the Jew ranked second only to King Ahasuerus. He was a great man among the Jews and well regarded by his many fellow Jews, because he worked for the good of his people and spoke up for the welfare of all his descendants.

CHAPTER 1

[1] There lived in the land of Uz a man named Job, and that man was blameless and upright, fearing God and turning from evil. [2] To him were born seven sons and three daughters. [3] His possessions were seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred pairs of oxen and five hundred she-donkeys, with a great many servants besides; and that man was greater than all the sons of the east. [4] His sons would go and make a feast at the house of each one in turn, on his own day, and they would send for their three sisters, inviting them to eat and drink with them. [5] When the round of feast days was complete, Job would send for them and sanctify them. He rose early in the morning and offered up burnt offerings for every one of them, for Job said, "It may be that my sons have sinned and cursed God in their hearts." Job did so at all times. [] [6] One day the sons of God came to take their stand before the LORD, and Satan too came in among them. [] [7] The LORD said to Satan, "From where do you come?" And Satan answered the LORD, "From roving about on the earth and walking around in it." [8] Then the LORD said to Satan, "Have you set your mind on my servant Job? There is none like him on earth: a man blameless and upright, who fears God and turns from evil." [9] Satan answered the LORD and said, "Is it without cause that Job fears God? [10] Have you not fenced him in on every side, him and his house and everything he owns? The work of his hands you have blessed, and his flocks and herds have burst out over the land. [11] But put out your hand now and strike all he has, and he will curse you to your very face." [12] And the LORD said to Satan, "See, everything he has is in your power; only against him do not put out your hand." Then Satan left the presence of the LORD. [13] The day came when his sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine at the house of their eldest brother, [14] and a messenger came to Job and said, "The oxen were plowing, and the donkeys were feeding at their side, [15] when the Sabeans swooped down and carried them off. They put the servants to the sword, and I, only I by myself, escaped to tell you." [16] He was still speaking when another came and said, "Fire from God fell from the sky and blazed among the sheep and the servants and devoured them; I, only I by myself, escaped to tell you." [17] He was still speaking when another came and said, "The Chaldeans set out in three bands, rushed upon the camels and carried them off; they put the servants to the sword, and I, only I by myself, escaped to tell you." [18] He was still speaking when another came and said, "Your sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine at the house of their eldest brother, [19] and suddenly a mighty wind came in from beyond the desert and struck the four corners of the house. It fell on the young people, and they are dead; I, only I by myself, escaped to tell you." [20] At this Job rose, tore his robe and shaved his head; then he fell to the ground and bowed in worship. [21] He said, "Naked I came from my mother's womb, and naked I will go back there. The LORD gave and the LORD has taken; may the name of the LORD be blessed." [22] Through all this Job did not sin, nor did he ascribe anything unseemly to God.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Again the day came when the sons of God came to take their stand before the LORD, and Satan too came among them to take his stand before the LORD. [2] The LORD said to Satan, "From where do you come?" And Satan answered the LORD, "From roving about on the earth and walking around in it." [3] Then the LORD said to Satan, "Have you set your mind on my servant Job? There is none like him on earth: a man blameless and upright, who fears God and turns from evil. He still clings to his integrity, though you stirred me up against him to swallow him up for no cause." [4] Satan answered the LORD and said, "Skin for skin! Everything a man has he will give for his life. [5] But put out your hand now and strike his bone and his flesh, and he will curse you to your very face." [6] And the LORD said to Satan, "See, he is in your power; only preserve his life." [7] Then Satan left the presence of the LORD and struck Job with loathsome sores from the sole of his foot to the top of his head. [8] Job took a potsherd to scratch himself with, as he sat in the midst of the ashes. [9] His wife said to him, "Do you still cling to your integrity? Curse God and die." [10] He said to her, "You speak as one of the senseless women would speak. Shall we receive the good from God, and not receive the evil?" In all this Job did not sin with his lips. [11] When Job's three friends heard of all this harm that had come on him, they set out each from his place, Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite, having arranged together to come and grieve with him and console him. [12] Seeing him from far off, they did not know him; and they lifted up their voices and wept. Each of them tore his robe, and they tossed dust upon their heads toward heaven. [13] They sat with him on the ground seven days and seven nights, and no one spoke a word to him, for they saw how very great his pain was.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Afterward Job opened his mouth and cursed his day. [2] Job spoke out and said: [3] "Let the day I was born in perish, and the night that said, 'A boy has been conceived!' [4] That day, let it turn to darkness; may God on high not inquire after it, and may no light beam upon it. [5] May darkness and deep darkness reclaim it; may a cloud dwell over it; may all that blackens the day terrify it.* [6] That night, may gloom take hold of it; may it have no joy among the days of the year, nor enter into the number of the months. [7] See, may that night be childless; may no glad cry come into it. [8] Let them curse it who curse the day, who are skilled at rousing Leviathan.* [9] May its twilight stars grow dark; may it look for light and have none, and never see the eyelids of the dawn, [10] because it did not close the doors of the womb that bore me, and did not hide trouble from my eyes. [11] Why did I not die as I left the womb, come out of the belly and expire? [12] Why were there knees to receive me, and why breasts for me to suck? [13] For by now I would be lying down in quiet; I would be asleep and at rest, [14] with kings and counselors of the earth who built for themselves places that lie desolate, [15] or with princes who owned gold, who filled their houses with silver. [16] Or I would not be, like a stillborn hidden away, like babies that never saw light. [17] There the wicked stop their raging, and there those whose strength is spent find rest. [18] There the captives are at ease together; they no longer hear the shout of the slave driver. [19] Small and great alike are there, and the slave is free of his master. [20] Why does he give light to the wretched, and life to those bitter of soul, [21] who wait for death and it does not come, who dig for it more than for buried treasure, [22] who are glad to the point of exulting, who rejoice when they find the grave, [23] to a man whose way is concealed, and whom God has fenced about? [24] For my sighing comes ahead of my food, and my groanings are poured out like water. [25] For the fear I feared has overtaken me, and what I was afraid of has come to me. [26] I have no peace, no quiet, no rest; and agitation comes."

CHAPTER 4

[1] Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said: [2] "Should someone attempt a word with you, would it weary you? But who can restrain himself from speaking? [3] Look, you have taught many, and you have made feeble hands strong. [4] Your words have kept the stumbler on his feet, and you have braced the knees that buckled. [5] But now it comes to you, and you grow weary; it reaches you, and you are terrified. [6] Is not your piety your confidence, and the blamelessness of your ways your hope? [7] Think now: who has ever perished being innocent? Where were the upright ever wiped out? [8] As far as I have seen, those who plow iniquity and sow mischief harvest it. [9] At the breath of God they perish; at the blast of his nostrils they are finished. [10] The lion roars, the fierce lion growls, yet the teeth of the young lions are broken. [11] The mighty lion perishes for want of prey, and the whelps of the lioness are scattered. [12] A word came stealing to me; my ear received a whisper of it. [13] In the unsettling thoughts of night visions, when deep sleep falls upon men, [14] fear came on me, and trembling, and it set all my bones shaking. [15] A spirit glided past my face; the hair on my body bristled. [16] It stood, but I could not discern its look; a shape was before my eyes; there was a hush, and then I heard a voice: [17] 'Can mortal man be in the right before God, or a man be clean before his Maker? [18] See, he does not rely on his servants, and his angels he charges with folly;* [19] how much more those who dwell in clay houses, whose base is in the dust, who are crushed sooner than a moth! [20] Between morning and evening they are beaten to pieces; unnoticed, they perish for ever. [21] Is not their tent cord plucked up within them? They die, and that without wisdom.'

CHAPTER 5

[1] "Cry out, then! Is there anyone to answer you? To which of the holy ones will you turn? [2] Surely resentment kills the fool, and envy puts the simple to death. [3] I myself have seen a fool putting down roots, but all at once I cursed his abode. [4] His sons are far from safety; they are trampled in the gate with none to rescue them. [5] His harvest the hungry devour, taking it even from among the thorns, and the thirsty gasp for their wealth.* [6] For misfortune does not grow out of the dust, and trouble does not sprout from the soil; [7] rather, man is born for trouble, just as sparks fly high.* [8] But I, I would seek God, and before God I would set my case, [9] who does great deeds past finding out, wonders that cannot be counted, [10] who sends rain upon the earth and pours water over the open fields, [11] setting the lowly in a high place, and those who mourn are raised up to safety. [12] He thwarts the schemes of the cunning, so that their hands cannot carry them out. [13] He traps the wise in their own cunning, and the plans of the wily are brought to a hasty end. [14] In daylight they meet with darkness; at noon they feel their way as though it were night. [15] So he saves the poor from the sword of their mouths, and from the hand of the strong. [16] So there is hope for the poor, and wickedness closes its mouth. [17] See, happy is the man whom God corrects; so do not spurn the chastening of the Almighty. [18] For he causes pain, and he bandages; he smites, and his hands make whole. [19] In six troubles he will rescue you; in seven, harm will not reach you. [20] In famine he ransoms you from death, and in battle from the power of the sword. [21] From the scourge of the tongue you will be hidden, and you will not be afraid of ruin when it comes. [22] At ruin and hunger you will laugh, and the wild beasts of the earth you will not fear. [23] For you will have a covenant with the stones of the field, and the wild animals will be at peace with you. [24] You will know that your tent is at peace; you will visit your homestead and find nothing amiss. [25] You will know that your seed is numerous, and your offspring like the grass of the land. [26] You will come to your grave in ripe old age, as a shock of grain goes up in its time. [27] See, this is what we have probed; so it stands. Listen to it and take it to heart for yourself."

CHAPTER 6

[1] Then Job answered and said: [2] "If only my anguish could be weighed, and all my disaster put with it on the balance! [3] Surely now it would outweigh the sand of the seas; that is why my words have been wild. [4] For the arrows of the Almighty are within me, and my spirit drinks in their venom; God's terrors are lined up against me. [5] Does a wild donkey bray when it has grass? Does an ox bellow over its feed? [6] Is bland food eaten without salt? Is there any taste in the juice of mallow?* [7] My soul refuses to touch them; they are like food that sickens me. [8] If only my request would be granted, and God would give me what I long for: [9] that God would be willing to crush me, that he would set his hand free and cut me off! [10] This would still be my comfort, and I would jump for joy in unsparing pain, that I have not concealed the words of the Holy One. [11] What strength do I have, that I should wait? What is my end, that I should hold out? [12] Is my strength that of stones? Is my flesh made of bronze? [13] Is it not that I have no help within me, and success has been driven far from me? [14] The one who melts in despair should have kindness from his friend, even if he forsakes the fear of the Almighty.* [15] My brothers have proved treacherous as a wadi, like the bed of streams that run dry, [16] that are darkened by ice, in which the snow conceals itself. [17] When the heat strikes them they fade; when it is warm they are gone from their place. [18] Caravans wind off their route; they go up into the empty waste and are lost. [19] The caravans of Tema look for them; the travelers of Sheba count on them. [20] They are put to shame because they had trusted; they arrive there and are confounded. [21] For you have now become like it; you see something dreadful and you are afraid.* [22] Have I said, 'Give to me,' or, 'Pay a bribe for me out of your wealth,' [23] or, 'Rescue me from the enemy's hand,' or, 'Ransom me from the grip of tyrants'? [24] Instruct me, and I will keep quiet; show me where I have erred. [25] How sharp are words that are right! But your rebuking, what does it rebuke? [26] Do you think to rebuke words, while the speeches of a desperate man are for the wind? [27] You would even cast lots for an orphan and haggle over your friend. [28] So now, please, look at me; I would not lie to your face. [29] Turn, please; let there be no wrong; turn again, for my righteousness is still at issue here. [30] Is there wrong on my tongue? Can my palate not tell what is ruinous?

CHAPTER 7

[1] "Does not man have a term of hard service on earth, and are not his days like a hireling's days? [2] As a slave pants for the shade and a hireling looks for his pay, [3] so I have been made to inherit months of emptiness, and nights of trouble have been counted out to me. [4] If I lie down, I say, 'When will I get up?' But the night is long, and I have my fill of tossing till twilight. [5] My flesh is clothed with maggots and clods of dust; my skin crusts over and festers again. [6] My days go faster than a weaver's shuttle, and they are spent without hope. [7] Remember, my life is but wind; my eye will not see good again. [8] The eye that sees me now will see me no longer; your eyes will look for me, and I will not be there. [9] A cloud fades and goes; so one who goes down to Sheol does not come back up. [10] He will not return to his house again, and his place will no longer know him. [11] So I, for my part, will not hold back my mouth; in the distress of my spirit I will speak, in my soul's bitterness I will complain. [12] Am I the sea, or a sea dragon, that you post a watch over me? [13] When I think, 'My bed will console me, my couch will share the load of my complaint,' [14] then you scare me with dreams and terrify me through visions, [15] and my soul prefers strangling, death rather than these bones. [16] I loathe it; I would not live forever. Leave me be, for my days are a vapor. [17] What is man, that you make so much of him, and that you set your heart on him, [18] that you inspect him every morning and put him to the test every moment? [19] How long until you look away from me, and leave me alone long enough to swallow my spit? [20] Have I sinned? What do I do to you, you watcher of mankind? Why have you set me up as your mark, so that I have become a burden to myself?* [21] And why do you not forgive my transgression and pass over my iniquity? For soon I will lie down in the dust; you will search for me, and I will be gone."

CHAPTER 8

[1] Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said: [2] "How long will you talk like this, while the words of your mouth are a blustering wind? [3] Does God twist justice, or does the Almighty twist what is right? [4] If your sons sinned against him, then he gave them over to the power of their transgression. [5] If you yourself will look early to God and seek the favor of the Almighty, [6] if you are pure and upright, then even now he will stir himself on your behalf and restore the dwelling of your righteousness. [7] Your beginning may have been small, but your end would greatly increase. [8] For ask, please, of the generation of old, and give heed to what their fathers discovered; [9] for we are of yesterday and know nothing, because our days on earth are a shadow. [10] Will they not instruct you and speak to you, and bring forth words from their heart? [11] Does the papyrus shoot up without a marsh? Does the reed grow without water? [12] While it is still in flower and uncut, it dries up ahead of any grass. [13] So are the ways of all who forget God; the hope of the godless will come to nothing. [14] What he relies on snaps, and what he trusts is a spider's house. [15] He leans against his house, and it will not stand; he grips it, and it will not hold. [16] He is lush before the sun, and his shoots go out over his garden. [17] His roots are wrapped around a pile of stones; he gazes on a house of stones. [18] If he is uprooted from his place, it will disown him: 'I never saw you.' [19] Look, that is the delight of his way, and from the soil others will sprout. [20] Look, God does not spurn the blameless, nor does he grasp the hand of evildoers. [21] He will yet fill your mouth with laughing and your lips with a glad shout. [22] Those who hate you will be clothed in shame, and the tent of the wicked will be gone."

CHAPTER 9

[1] Then Job answered and said: [2] "Truly I know it is so; but how can a man be in the right with God? [3] Should one wish to dispute with him, he could not answer him one time in a thousand. [4] Wise in heart and mighty in power is he; who ever stiffened his neck against him and came away whole? [5] It is he who uproots mountains before they are aware, who overturns them in his wrath, [6] who jolts the earth out of its place so that its pillars quake, [7] who speaks to the sun and it does not shine, who puts a seal over the stars, [8] who by himself spreads out the heavens and walks upon the waves of the sea, [9] who made the Bear and Orion, the Pleiades and the inner rooms of the south, [] [10] who does great deeds past finding out, and wonders beyond counting. [11] If he goes past me, I do not see him; if he glides on, I do not notice him. [12] If he seizes, who can hinder him? Who can say to him, 'What are you doing?' [13] God does not hold back his anger; beneath him the helpers of Rahab lie bowed. [] [14] How then could I answer him, picking out my words to reason with him? [15] Even if I were right, I could give no answer; I would have to beg mercy of my judge. [16] If I called and he replied to me, I would not trust that he was giving ear to my voice, [17] he who bruises me with a storm and adds to my wounds for no cause. [18] He does not allow me to get my breath back, but sates me with bitter things. [19] If it is a test of strength, here he is, the mighty one! If it is a case at law, who will summon me? [20] Were I right, my own mouth would condemn me; were I blameless, it would declare me crooked. [21] Blameless I am; I have no regard for myself; I reject my life. [22] It is all the same; that is why I say, 'He brings to an end the blameless and the wicked alike.' [23] If a whip brings sudden death, he laughs at the trial of the innocent. [24] The land is handed over to the power of the wicked; he veils the faces of its judges. If not he, who then is it? [25] My days are faster than a courier; they run off without seeing any good. [26] They slip past like skiffs of reed, like an eagle that swoops down on its food. [27] If I say, 'I will forget my complaint; I will drop my gloomy look and brighten up,' [28] I shrink from all my pains, for I know you will not count me innocent. [29] I am to be held guilty; why then should I toil for nothing? [30] If I scrub myself with snow and make my hands clean with lye, [31] even then you will dip me in the pit, and my own clothes will loathe me. [32] For he is not a man like me, that I could answer him, that we could go to court together. [33] There is no arbiter between us who might set his hand upon us both. [] [34] Let him remove his rod from me, and let the terror of him not dismay me; [35] then I would speak and not be afraid of him; for I am not so in myself." []

CHAPTER 10

[1] "My soul is sick of my life; I will let my complaint run free; I will speak in my soul's bitterness. [2] I will say to God, 'Do not count me guilty; tell me why you bring a charge against me. [3] Is it good to you that you should oppress, that you should spurn the labor of your hands and favor the scheme of the wicked? [4] Are your eyes eyes of flesh? Do you see the way a man sees? [5] Are your days as a mortal's days, or your years like a man's years, [6] that you go looking for my iniquity and hunt for my sin, [7] when you know I am not guilty, and no one can rescue from your hand? [8] Your hands fashioned and formed me, wholly, all around, and yet you swallow me up. [9] Remember, please, that you shaped me like clay; and will you return me to dust? [10] Did you not pour me out as milk, and curdle me as cheese? [11] With skin and flesh you dressed me, and with bones and sinews you knit me together. [12] Life and steadfast love you have given me, and your care has kept my spirit. [13] Yet these things you stored away in your heart; I know that this was with you. [14] If I sinned, you would keep watch over me and would not clear me of my iniquity. [15] If I am wicked, woe to me! And if I am in the right, I cannot raise my head, sated with shame and seeing my misery. [16] Should it rise up, you hunt me as a lion would, and again you work wonders against me. [17] You renew your witnesses against me and heap up your anger toward me; wave after wave of hosts is with me. [*] [18] Why then did you bring me out from the womb? I should have perished with no eye to see me, [19] and been as if I had never existed, carried off from the womb to the grave. [20] Are my days not few? Then stop, and turn from me, so that I may brighten a little [21] before I go, and do not come back, to a land of darkness and deep darkness, [22] a land of gloom like blackness itself, of deep darkness and no order, where the light is as blackness.'"

CHAPTER 11

[1] Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said: [2] "Is a flood of words to go unanswered, and is a man of lips to be found in the right? [3] Shall your empty boasts silence men, and shall you scoff with no one to shame you? [4] For you say, 'My doctrine is pure, and I am clean in your sight.' [5] But if only God would speak, and open his lips against you, [6] and make known to you the secrets of wisdom, for sound wisdom has two sides! Know, then, that God exacts of you less than your iniquity. [] [7] Can you find out the deep things of God? Can you get to the boundary of the Almighty? [8] It is as high as heaven; what can you do? It is deeper than Sheol; what can you know? [9] Its measure is longer than the earth and wider than the sea. [10] If he sweeps by and shuts someone up, and summons an assembly, who can stop him? [11] For he knows men who are false; he sees iniquity, and does he not take note? [12] But a hollow man will get sense when a wild donkey's colt is born a man. [] [13] If you yourself prepare your heart and stretch out your palms to him, [14] if there is iniquity in your hand, remove it far off, and let no wrong live in your tents. [15] Then indeed you will raise your face free of stain; you will stand firm and have no fear. [16] For you will forget your trouble; you will recall it as water that has flowed away. [17] Your life will rise brighter than noonday; though it is dark, it will be like the morning. [18] You will be confident, for there is hope; you will search around and rest in safety. [19] You will lie down with no one to frighten you, and many will court your favor. [20] But the eyes of the wicked will waste away; every refuge will be gone from them, and their hope is the breathing out of life."

CHAPTER 12

[1] Then Job answered and said: [2] "Truly you are the people, and with you wisdom will die! [3] I too have a mind, as you do; I do not fall short of you. Who does not know things like these? [4] I am a joke to my friends, I who called on God and he answered me; the righteous, blameless man is a joke. [5] In the mind of one who is at ease there is contempt for disaster; it is ready for those whose feet are slipping. [] [6] The tents of plunderers are untroubled, and those who provoke God are secure, who carry their god in their hand. [] [7] But ask the beasts, and they will teach you, the birds of the heavens, and they will inform you; [8] or talk to the earth, and it will teach you, and the fish of the sea will recount it to you. [9] Which of all these does not know that the hand of the LORD has done this? [10] In his hand is the life of every living thing and the breath of all mankind. [11] Does not the ear try words, just as the palate tastes food? [12] With the aged is wisdom, and with length of days, understanding. [13] With him are wisdom and power; he has counsel and understanding. [14] If he tears down, there is no rebuilding; if he shuts a man in, there is no opening. [15] If he holds back the waters, they dry up; if he lets them loose, they overwhelm the earth. [16] With him are strength and sound wisdom; both the one who strays and the one who leads astray belong to him. [17] He leads counselors off barefoot, and judges he turns into fools. [18] He undoes the fetters of kings and ties a loincloth about their waists. [19] He leads priests off barefoot and topples those long secure. [20] He silences the speech of trusted men and takes away the judgment of elders. [21] He pours scorn upon princes and slackens the belt of the mighty. [22] He lays bare deep things from out of the darkness and brings deep darkness out into the light. [23] He makes nations grow, and he destroys them; he spreads nations wide, and he leads them off. [24] He strips the chiefs of the earth's people of their sense and sends them wandering in a wasteland with no road. [25] They feel their way in darkness with no light, and he makes them reel like a drunken man.

CHAPTER 13

[1] "See, my eye has seen it all; my ear has heard it and grasped it. [2] What you know I know as well; I do not fall short of you. [3] But it is to the Almighty that I would speak; I long to plead my case with God. [4] You, however, are plasterers of lies; physicians of no worth, all of you. [5] If only you would keep entirely quiet, and it would count as wisdom in you! [6] Hear my reasoning, please, and attend to the pleas of my lips. [7] Will you speak falsehood on God's behalf, and talk deceit for him? [8] Will you take his side? Will you argue the case for God? [9] Would it go well with you if he examined you? Or will you fool him as one fools a man? [10] He will certainly rebuke you if you secretly take sides. [11] Will his majesty not strike you with fear, and his dread fall on you? [12] Your memorable sayings are proverbs of ash; your bulwarks are bulwarks of clay. [13] Be quiet, leave me alone, and I will speak, and let whatever may come upon me. [14] Why should I carry my flesh in my teeth and take my life in my hand? [15] Though he slay me, I will hope in him; yet I will argue my ways before his face. [*] [16] This too will be my salvation, for no godless man can come before him. [17] Listen closely to what I say, and let my statement enter your ears. [18] Look now, I have prepared my case; I know that I will be found in the right. [19] Who is it that will bring a charge against me? For then I would fall silent and die. [20] Only two things do not do to me, and then I will not hide from your face: [21] take your hand far off from me, and let not your terror dismay me. [22] Then call, and I will reply; or let me speak, and you answer me. [23] How many are my iniquities and my sins? Let me know my transgression and my sin. [24] Why do you conceal your face and regard me as your enemy? [25] Will you torment a windblown leaf? Will you chase after dry chaff? [26] For you write down bitter charges against me and make me heir to the iniquities of my youth. [27] You put my feet in the stocks and keep a watch on all my ways; you trace a line around the soles of my feet, [28] while man wears away like a rotten thing, like a garment eaten by moths.

CHAPTER 14

[1] "Man, born of a woman, is short of days and full of turmoil. [2] Like a flower he springs up and is cut off; he flits like a shadow and does not stay. [3] Yet on such a one you fix your eyes, and you bring me into judgment with you? [4] Who can bring what is clean out of what is unclean? No one. [5] If his days are decided and the number of his months lies with you, and you have set his bounds that he cannot cross, [6] then turn your gaze from him and let him cease, until, like a hired hand, he has the pleasure of his day. [7] For a tree there is hope: if it is cut down, it will shoot up again, and its new growth will not cease. [8] Though its root ages in the ground and its stump dies in the soil, [9] from the smell of water it will bud and send out branches like a sapling. [10] But a man dies and lies prostrate; a man expires, and where is he? [11] Waters run out of a lake, and a river drains away and dries up; [12] so man lies down and does not get up; till the heavens are gone they will not wake, nor be stirred from their sleep. [13] If only you would hide me in Sheol, conceal me until your wrath turns back, appoint me a set time and then remember me! [14] If a man dies, shall he live again? All the days of my hard service I would wait, till my release came. [*] [15] You would call, and I would answer you; you would yearn for the work of your hands. [16] For now you count my steps; would you not then stop watching for my sin? [17] My transgression would be sealed in a pouch, and you would plaster over my iniquity. [18] Yet a mountain falls and wastes away, and a rock is shifted from its place; [19] water grinds down stones, its floods sweep away the soil of the land; so you make the hope of man perish. [20] You overpower him for good, and he departs; you alter his face and send him off. [21] His sons are honored, and he does not know it; they are humbled, and he is not aware of them. [22] Only his own flesh pains him, and his own soul mourns for him."

CHAPTER 15

[1] Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said: [2] "Does a wise man answer with knowledge of wind and fill his belly with the east wind, [3] arguing with talk that does not profit, with words that do no good? [4] You are even undermining the fear of God and cutting short devotion before God. [5] For your iniquity instructs your mouth, and you pick the tongue of the cunning. [6] It is your own mouth that condemns you, not I; your own lips bear witness against you. [7] Were you born the first of mankind? Were you brought to birth before the hills? [8] Do you listen in at God's council, and keep wisdom all to yourself? [9] What do you know that we do not? What do you grasp that is not with us too? [10] Gray hair and old age are here among us, men older in days than your father. [11] Are God's consolations too little for you, a word dealt gently with you? [12] Why does your heart sweep you away, and why do your eyes flash, [13] so that you turn your spirit against God and send words like these out of your mouth? [14] What is man, that he should be clean, or one born of woman, that he should be in the right? [15] See, he does not rely on his holy ones, and the heavens are not clean in his eyes; [16] how much less one who is loathsome and corrupt, a man who drinks wrongdoing like water! [17] I will tell you; hear me, and what I have seen I will recount, [18] what wise men have made known and did not conceal, received from their fathers, [19] to whom alone the land was given, when no stranger went about among them: [20] All his days the wicked man is in torment, through the number of years stored up for the tyrant. [21] The noise of terrors fills his ears; while he is at peace the destroyer falls on him. [22] He has no faith that he will come back out of darkness, and he is watched for by the sword. [23] He roams about for bread: 'Where is it?' He knows the day of darkness is close at hand. [24] Distress and anguish dismay him; they overwhelm him like a king set for the attack, [25] because he stretched out his hand against God and made himself great against the Almighty, [26] charging at him with outstretched neck, with the thick bosses of his shields, [27] because he has covered his face with his fatness and laid fat upon his thighs, [28] and has dwelt in ruined cities, in houses no one should inhabit, marked out to become rubble. [29] He will not grow rich, his wealth will not stand, and his yield will not bend to the ground. [30] He will not get away from darkness; a flame will wither his shoots, and by the breath of his mouth he will be carried away. [31] Let him not rely on what is empty, led astray, for emptiness will be his recompense. [32] Before his day it will be paid in full, and his palm frond will not be green. [33] He will drop his sour grapes like a vine, and shed his blossom like an olive tree. [34] For the band of the godless is sterile, and fire devours the tents of the bribe. [35] They conceive mischief and bring forth iniquity, and their belly hatches deceit."

CHAPTER 16

[1] Then Job answered and said: [2] "I have heard plenty of things like this; miserable comforters are you all! [3] Will words of wind ever end? What goads you to keep answering? [4] I too could talk as you do, if you were in my place; I could join words together against you and wag my head at you. [5] I could encourage you with my mouth, and the comfort of my lips would hold back your pain. [6] If I speak, my pain is not held back; and if I refrain, what of it leaves me? [7] But now he has exhausted me; you have made all my household desolate. [8] You have seized me, and it has become a witness; my gauntness has risen against me and testifies to my face. [9] His wrath has torn me and borne a grudge against me; he grinds his teeth at me; my foe whets his eyes against me. [10] Men have opened their mouths wide at me; they strike my cheek in contempt; they band together against me. [11] God delivers me to the ungodly and tosses me into the hands of the wicked. [12] I was at peace, and he broke me apart; he took me by the neck and smashed me; he set me up as his mark. [13] His arrows ring me round; he pierces my kidneys without mercy; he spills my gall on the ground. [14] He breaches me, breach after breach; he rushes at me like a warrior. [15] I have stitched sackcloth over my skin and laid my horn in the dust. [16] My face is flushed from weeping, and deep darkness lies on my eyelids, [17] though there is no violence in my hands and my prayer is pure. [18] Earth, do not cover up my blood, and let there be no place to rest for my cry. [19] Even now, see, my witness is in heaven, and he who vouches for me is on high. [20] My friends scorn me; to God my eye drips tears, [*] [21] that he would argue a man's case with God, as a son of man does for his neighbor. [22] For a few years will come, and then I will go the road from which I will not return.

CHAPTER 17

[1] "My spirit is broken, my days are extinguished; the graves are waiting for me. [2] Are there not mockers all around me? My eye must linger on their provocation. [] [3] Set down a pledge, I beg you; stand surety for me with yourself. Who else will clasp hands with me? [4] For you have hidden their hearts from insight; so you will not let them be exalted. [5] Whoever informs on friends for a share of the spoil, his children's eyes will waste away. [] [6] He has set me up as a byword among the peoples, a man in whose face they spit. [7] My eye has dimmed with sorrow, and all my members are like a shadow. [8] At this the upright are aghast, and the innocent rouses himself against the godless. [9] Yet the righteous keeps hold of his way, and the one with clean hands gains strength upon strength. [10] But all of you, turn and come again, please; I will not find a wise man among you. [11] My days have gone by; my plans are torn apart, the very wishes of my heart. [12] They make night into day; 'Light is close,' they say, before the face of darkness. [13] If I look to Sheol as my home, if in the dark I spread out my bed, [14] if I call to the pit, 'You are my father,' and to the maggot, 'My mother,' and, 'My sister,' [15] where then is my hope? My hope, who can see it? [16] Will they go down to the bars of Sheol? Shall we sink together into the dust?"

CHAPTER 18

[1] Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said: [2] "How long will you hunt for words? Get some understanding, and after that we will speak. [] [3] Why are we thought of as beasts, counted unclean in your sight? [4] You who rip yourself apart in your rage, is the earth to be abandoned on your account, or the rock shifted from its place? [5] Yes, the light of the wicked goes out, and the flame of his fire does not shine. [6] In his tent the light turns dark, and his lamp over him is snuffed out. [7] His vigorous strides are hemmed in, and his own scheme brings him down. [8] For his own feet lead him into a net, and he steps onto its webbing. [9] A trap grips him by the heel; a snare holds him fast. [10] A cord is concealed for him on the ground, and a trap for him along the way. [11] Terrors startle him all around and dog his every step. [12] His strength goes hungry, and disaster waits ready at his side. [13] It eats away pieces of his skin; the firstborn of death eats away his limbs. [] [14] He is ripped from the tent he relied on and paraded off to the king of terrors. [15] In his tent dwell those who are none of his; brimstone is strewn over his home. [16] Below, his roots dry up; above, his branch is cut off. [17] His remembrance vanishes from the land, and he has no name abroad. [18] They thrust him out of light into darkness and drive him from the world. [19] He has no offspring or kin among his people, and no survivor where he once stayed. [20] At his day those in the west are aghast, and those in the east are gripped by horror. [21] Surely these are the homes of the unjust, and this the place of one who does not know God."

[1] Then Job answered and said: [2] "How long will you grieve my soul and grind me down with words? [3] Ten times now you have insulted me; you are not ashamed to treat me harshly. [4] Even if I have indeed gone astray, my straying stays with me. [5] If you really mean to exalt yourselves over me and make my shame a case against me, [6] then know that it is God who has wronged me and thrown his net around me. [7] Look, I shout, 'Violence!' and get no answer; I cry for help, and there is no justice. [8] He has fenced off my road so that I cannot pass, and he lays darkness over my paths. [9] He has stripped my glory from me and removed the crown from my head. [10] He tears me down on all sides, and I am gone; he has pulled up my hope like a tree. [11] His anger burns against me, and he reckons me among his foes. [12] His troops advance together; they raise up their road against me and camp all around my tent. [13] My brothers he has removed far from me, and my acquaintances are utter strangers to me. [14] My kinsmen have fallen away, and my intimates have forgotten me. [15] Those who lodge in my house and my maidservants regard me as a stranger; I have become an alien in their sight. [16] I summon my servant, and he does not answer; I have to beg him with my own mouth. [17] My breath is repugnant to my wife, and I am loathsome to the sons of my own body. [18] Even little children scorn me; when I get up, they talk against me. [19] All the men of my inner circle detest me, and those I loved have turned on me. [20] My bones stick to my skin and my flesh, and I have slipped away by the skin of my teeth. [21] Pity me, pity me, you my friends, for the hand of God has struck me! [22] Why do you pursue me as God does? Why are you never sated with my flesh? [23] "Oh, that my words were written down now! Oh, that they were engraved in a book, [24] with a pen of iron and with lead, carved in the rock for all time! [25] For I know that my Redeemer lives, and at the last he will rise up upon the dust. [] [26] And after my skin has been thus destroyed, yet from my flesh I shall see God, [] [27] whom I shall see for myself, and my own eyes shall behold, and no other. My heart is spent within me! [] [28] If you say, 'How shall we hound him?' and, 'The root of the matter lies in him,' [29] be afraid of the sword yourselves, for wrath brings the penalties of the sword, so that you may know there is a judgment."[]

CHAPTER 20

[1] Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said: [2] "That is why my unsettled thoughts drive me to reply, on account of the turmoil in me. [3] I hear a reproof that puts me to shame, and a spirit from my understanding gives me an answer. [4] Do you know this, from of old, since man was set upon the earth, [5] that the exulting of the wicked is short-lived, and the gladness of the godless lasts but a moment? [6] Even if his stature rises to the heavens and his head touches the clouds, [7] he will perish for ever like his own dung; those who saw him will ask, 'Where is he?' [8] Like a dream he flies off and cannot be found; he is chased away like a vision of the night. [9] The eye that glimpsed him will not do so again, and his place will no longer look upon him. [10] His sons will have to court the favor of the poor, and his own hands will return his wealth. [11] His bones are full of his youth, but it will lie down with him in the dust. [12] Though wickedness tastes sweet in his mouth, though he tucks it under his tongue, [13] though he spares it and will not let it go, but keeps it back in his palate, [14] his food turns sour in his bowels; it becomes the gall of cobras inside him. [15] He gulps down riches and throws them up again; God drives them out of his belly. [16] He will suck the venom of cobras; the viper's tongue will slay him. [17] He will not gaze upon the streams, the rivers flowing with honey and curds. [18] He will give back what he toiled for and not swallow it down; he will get no joy from the gains of his trade. [19] For he oppressed the poor and left them destitute; he seized a house he had not built. [20] Because he knew no contentment in his belly, he will not escape with anything he craved. [21] Nothing was left over from his eating; so his prosperity will not last. [22] In the fullness of his abundance he will be in straits; the whole power of the wretched will fall upon him. [23] To fill his belly, God will send against him his burning anger and rain it down on him as his food. [*] [24] He may flee from the iron weapon, but a bow of bronze will shoot him through. [25] He draws it, and it comes out of his back; the flashing tip comes from his gall; terrors are upon him. [26] Total darkness lies in wait for his treasures; a fire no one has blown will eat him up; it will consume whatever survives in his tent. [27] The heavens will expose his iniquity, and the earth will stand up against him. [28] The produce of his house will be carried off, washed away on the day of his wrath. [29] Such is the wicked man's portion from God, the inheritance appointed him by God."

CHAPTER 21

[1] Then Job answered and said: [2] "Hear, oh hear what I say, and let that be the consolation you offer. [3] Put up with me while I speak, and once I have spoken, go on mocking. [4] As for me, is my complaint addressed to a man? Why then should my spirit not be short? [5] Turn to me and be astonished, and put your hand over your mouth. [6] Even when I think of it I am alarmed, and a shudder grips my flesh. [7] Why do the wicked go on living, reach old age, and even grow strong in might? [8] Their seed is firmly settled in their sight, with them, and their offspring before their eyes. [9] Their homes are at peace, free of fear, and no rod of God is on them. [10] Their bull mates and does not fail; their cow gives birth and does not lose her calf. [11] They let their little ones run out like a flock, and their children skip about. [12] They lift their voices to tambourine and lyre and make merry to the sound of the flute. [13] They live out their days in good things, and in an instant they go down to Sheol. [14] And they say to God, 'Keep away from us! We have no wish to know your ways. 15 Who is the Almighty, that we should serve him? What would we gain by entreating him?' 16 See, their good fortune is not in their own hand; far from me be the counsel of the wicked! 17 How often is the lamp of the wicked snuffed out, and their ruin comes upon them, and he deals out sorrows in his anger? 18 How often are they like straw before the wind, like chaff whisked off by the storm? 19 You say, 'God stores up a man's iniquity for his sons.'

Let him pay back the man himself, so that he knows it. 20 Let his own eyes see his ruin, and let him drink of the Almighty's wrath.
21 For what does he care about his house after he is gone, when the number of his months has been cut short? 22 Will anyone teach God knowledge, when it is he who judges those on high? 23
One man dies in the fullness of his strength, wholly at ease and untroubled, 24 his pails brimming with milk, and the marrow of his bones well moistened.* 25 Another dies with a bitter soul, having never tasted anything good. 26 Together they lie down in the dust, and maggots cover them both. 27 See, I know what you are thinking, and the schemes by which you would do me violence. 28 For you say, 'Where is the house of the nobleman?
Where is the tent the wicked lived in?' 29 Have you never asked those who pass along the road? Do you not recognize their accounts, 30 that the evil man is spared on the day of disaster, that they are led away on the day of wrath?* 31 Who will confront him with his way to his face? Who will repay him for what he has done? 32 He is borne to the grave, and men keep watch over his tomb. 33 The clods of the valley lie sweet on him; everyone trails after him, and before him there were countless others. 34 So how can you comfort me with emptiness, when your answers remain nothing but treachery?"

CHAPTER 22

1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said: 2 "Can a man be of benefit to God? Surely one who is wise benefits himself. 3 Does the Almighty take pleasure in your being righteous, or is it gain to him if you make your ways blameless? 4 Is it for your fear of him that he reproves you and goes to court with you? 5 Is your evil not great, and your iniquities without limit? 6 For you took pledges from your brothers without reason and stripped the clothing off the naked. 7 To the weary you gave no water to drink, and from the hungry you withheld bread. 8 The land belonged to the man of might, and the favored man settled in it.
9 You turned widows away empty, and the arms of the orphans were broken. 10 So snares surround you, and sudden terror throws you into panic, 11 or darkness, so that you cannot see, and a deluge of waters covers you. 12 Is not God high in the heavens?
See the topmost stars, how high they are! 13 So you say, 'What does God know? Does he judge through the dark cloud? 14 Thick clouds hide him so that he cannot see, as he walks along the circle of the heavens.' 15 Will you keep to the old road that men of iniquity have walked, 16 who were seized before their time, their foundations poured out like a river? 17 They said to God, 'Keep away from us,' and, 'What can the Almighty do to them?' 18 Yet it was he who filled their houses with good; far from me be the counsel of the wicked! 19 The righteous look on and are glad, and the innocent laugh at them, saying, 20 'Surely our foes are wiped out, and fire has eaten up their remnant.'* 21 Make friends with him, I urge you, and be at peace; that way good will come to you.
22 Accept instruction from his mouth, and store up his sayings in your heart.* 23 If you come back to the Almighty, you will be restored; if you put wrong far away from your tent, 24 if you throw your gold into the dust and the gold of Ophir among the rocks of the streambeds, 25 then the Almighty will be your gold, your silver in heaps. 26 Then indeed you will take delight in the Almighty and raise your face to God. 27 You will entreat him, and he will listen to you, and you will fulfill your vows. 28 You will make a decision, and it will be established for you, and light will beam upon your paths. 29 When they are brought down, you will say, 'Lift up!' and he will save the lowly of eye.* 30 He will rescue one who is not innocent, who will be rescued by the cleanness of your hands."*

CHAPTER 23

1 Then Job answered and said: 2 "Today too my complaint is defiant; the hand on me weighs heavier than my groaning.* 3 If only I knew how to find him, how to reach his seat! 4 I would set out my case in his presence and fill my mouth with arguments. 5
I would learn the words he would answer me, and grasp what he would tell me. 6 Would he oppose me with his great power? No, he would surely give me a hearing. 7 There the upright could argue with him, and I would escape for ever from my judge. 8 If I go east, he is not there; if west, I cannot make him out; 9 if north, where he works, I do not glimpse him; if he veers to the south, I do not see him. 10 But he knows the way I take; when he has tested me, I will come out like gold. 11 My foot has kept close to his steps; I have held to his way and not swerved. 12 From the command of his lips I have not departed; more than my portion of bread I have stored up the words of his mouth.* 13 But he is one, and who can turn him? What his soul desires, he does.* 14
For he will finish what he has set for me, and he has many such plans. 15 That is why I am dismayed before him; I think of it and I am afraid of him. 16 God has made my heart weak, and the Almighty has dismayed me, 17 for I have not been silenced by the darkness, nor by the thick gloom that covers my face.*

CHAPTER 24

1 "Why does the Almighty not keep set times, and why do those who know him never see his days? 2 Some move boundary markers; they steal flocks and graze them. 3 They lead off the orphan's donkey; they take the widow's ox in pledge. 4 They thrust the needy from the road; the poor of the land must all hide themselves together. 5 See, like wild donkeys in the desert they go out to their work, seeking prey; the wasteland gives him food for his children. 6 They harvest his fodder in the field and glean the vineyard of the wicked.* 7 Naked, they pass the night without a garment, with no covering against the cold. 8 They are drenched by mountain downpours and hug the rock for want of shelter. 9
The orphan is torn from the breast, and they take pledges from the poor. [10] Naked, they go about without clothes, and hungry, they carry sheaves. [11] Within the terraces they press oil; they tread the winepresses and are thirsty. [12] From out of the city men groan, and the soul of the wounded cries for help; yet God does not charge it as wrong.* [13] These are among those who rebel against light; they do not recognize its ways or remain in its paths. [14] At daybreak the murderer gets up and kills the poor and needy, and at night he acts the thief. [15] The adulterer's eye watches for dusk, thinking, 'No eye will see me,' and he puts a mask on his face. [16] In the darkness they break into houses; in the daytime they lock themselves in; they have nothing to do with the light. [17] For to them all, morning is deep darkness; they are friends with the terrors of deep darkness. [18] He is swept along on the surface of the water; their share of the land is cursed; he does not turn toward the road of the vineyards.* [19] As drought and heat carry off snow water, so Sheol carries off those who have sinned. [20] The womb forgets him; the maggot feasts on him; he is no longer remembered, and wrongdoing is snapped like a tree. [21] He feeds on the barren who bear no children, and does the widow no good. [22] Yet by his power he drags off the mighty; he rises up, and none has assurance of life. [23] He grants them safety, and they lean on it, yet his eyes are on their ways. [24] They are lifted high, and in a little while they are no more; they are laid low and gathered up like all the rest, and cut off like the tops of ears of grain. [25] If it is not so, who can show me to be a liar and turn my words to nothing?"

CHAPTER 25

[1] Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said: [2] "Rule and awe are his; he establishes peace in his heights. [3] Is there any counting his troops? Upon whom does his light not dawn? [4] How then can a mortal be in the right with God, or one born of a woman be clean? [5] Look, even the moon has no brightness, and the stars are not clean in his sight; [6] how much less man, a maggot, and the son of man, a worm!"

CHAPTER 26

[1] Then Job answered and said: [2] "What help you have been to the powerless! What rescue for the arm without strength! [3] What advice you have given to the one who lacks wisdom, and what abundant insight you have displayed! [4] With whose help have you spoken these words, and whose breath has gone out from you? [5] The shades writhe below, beneath the waters and their inhabitants.* [6] Sheol lies bare before him, and Abaddon has nothing to cover it.* [7] He stretches out the north over the void and hangs the earth on nothing at all. [8] He wraps up the waters in his clouds, and the cloud does not burst beneath their weight. [9] He shuts off the view of his throne, spreading his cloud across it.* [10] He has traced a circle on the surface of the waters, at the edge where light meets darkness. [11] The pillars of the heavens quake and are stunned at his rebuke. [12] With his power he stirred up the sea, and with his skill he shattered Rahab.* [13] By his breath the skies were made clear; his hand ran through the fleeing serpent. [14] Look, these are but the outskirts of his ways, and how faint a whisper is all we hear of him! But who can comprehend the thunder of his might?"

CHAPTER 27

[1] And Job went on with his discourse and said: [2] "As God lives, who has denied me justice, and the Almighty, who has embittered my soul, [3] for as long as my breath remains in me, and the breath of God is in my nostrils, [4] my lips shall not speak wrong, nor my tongue murmur falsehood. [5] Never will I grant that you are right; until I breathe my last I will not give up my integrity. [6] My righteousness I grip and will not release; my heart does not reproach me for any of my days. [7] May my enemy be like the wicked, and my opponent like the unjust. [8] For what is the hope of the godless when God cuts him off, when God draws out his life?* [9] Will God listen to his cry when trouble comes on him? [10] Will he delight himself in the Almighty, and call upon God at every time? [11] I will instruct you concerning the hand of God; what is in the Almighty's mind I will not conceal. [12] Look, you have all seen it for yourselves; why then have you become so utterly vain? [13] Here is the wicked man's portion from God, the inheritance tyrants get from the Almighty: [14] If his sons multiply, it is for the sword, and his offspring will not have their fill of bread. [15] Those he leaves behind will be buried by the plague, and his widows will not mourn. [16] Though he amasses silver like dust and lays up garments like mounds of clay, [17] he may lay them up, but the righteous will put them on, and the innocent will share out the silver. [18] The house he builds is like a moth's, like a hut put up by a watchman. [19] He goes to bed rich, but he will not be gathered; he opens his eyes, and he is gone.* [20] Terrors catch him like floodwaters; by night a storm steals him away. [21] The east wind picks him up, and off he goes; it whirls him out of his place. [22] It flings itself on him and does not spare; he flees in haste from its grip. [23] It claps its hands at him and hiss him out of his place.

CHAPTER 28

[1] "There is indeed a mine for silver, and a place for gold that they refine. [2] Iron is drawn out of the earth, and copper is poured from the ore. [3] Man sets an end to darkness, and to the furthest bound he searches out the ore in gloom and deep darkness. [4] He cuts a shaft away from where men dwell, in places forgotten by the foot; far from men they dangle and swing.* [5] The earth, from which bread comes forth, is overturned beneath as if by fire. [6] Its rocks are where sapphires are found, and it has dust of gold. [7] That path no bird of prey knows, and the eye of the falcon has not spotted it. [8] Proud beasts have not set foot on it, and the lion has not prowled along it. [9] Man lays his hand on the flint rock and overturns the mountains from their roots. [10] He carves out tunnels through the rock, and his eye beholds every treasure. [11] He dams the sources of the rivers, and what was hidden he brings into the light. [12] But wisdom, where is it to be found? Where is the place where understanding dwells? [13] Man does not know what it is worth, and it is not to be had in the land of the living. [14] The deep says, 'It is not in me,' and the sea says, 'It is not beside me.' [15] It cannot be gotten for solid gold, nor can its price be weighed in silver. [16] It cannot be set in the balance with the gold of Ophir, with costly onyx or with sapphire. [17] Neither gold nor glass can equal it, nor can it be exchanged for vessels of pure gold. [18] Coral and crystal do not deserve a mention; the worth of wisdom is beyond pearls. * [19] Topaz from Cush cannot be likened to it; it cannot be weighed against pure gold. [20] So where does wisdom come from? Where is the place where understanding dwells? [21] It is concealed from the eyes of every living thing and hidden from the birds of the heavens. [22] Abaddon and Death say, 'We have heard a report of it with our ears.' [23] It is God who discerns the way to it, and he it is who knows its place. [24] For he gazes to the ends of the earth and beholds all that is beneath the heavens. [25] When he fixed the weight of the wind and apportioned the waters by measure, [26] when he set a limit for the rain and a path for the thunder's flash, [27] then he saw it and recounted it; he set it in place and probed it through. [28] And to man he said, 'See, the fear of the Lord is wisdom, and turning away from evil is understanding.'

CHAPTER 29

[1] And Job went on with his discourse and said: [2] "If only I were as in months of old, as in the days when God watched over me, [3] when his lamp shone above my head, and by his light I made my way through the dark, [4] as I was in my autumn days, when God's intimate counsel rested on my tent, [5] while the Almighty was yet with me, and my young ones were about me, [6] when my steps were washed in curds, and the rock beside me poured out rivers of oil! * [7] When I went out to the city gate and set up my seat in the open square, [8] the young men saw me and stepped aside, and the aged got up and remained standing; [9] chiefs stopped talking and put a hand over their mouths; [10] the voices of the nobles fell silent, and their tongues clung to their palates. [11] The ear that heard me called me happy, and the eye that saw me spoke in my favor, [12] for I delivered the poor man who cried out, and the orphan with none to help him. [13] The blessing of the dying came upon me, and I made the widow's heart shout for joy. [14] I wore righteousness, and it wore me; my justice was my cloak and my turban. [15] Eyes I was to the blind, and feet to the lame. [16] To the needy I was a father, and I investigated the cause of the stranger. [17] I shattered the jaws of the wrongdoer and plucked the prey out of his teeth. [18] And I thought, 'I will die in my own nest, and like the sand I will make my days many.' * [19] My root lay open to the waters, and the dew lodged all night on my branch. [20] My glory stayed fresh within me, and my bow kept renewing itself in my hand. [21] They heard me and waited expectantly, and kept quiet for my counsel. [22] When I had spoken they did not speak again; my words fell on them drop by drop. [23] They waited for me as for showers, and opened their mouths as for the late rain. [24] When I smiled on them they could hardly believe it, and they did not let the light of my face fall. [25] I chose their road and sat at the head; I lived like a king among his troops, like one who consoles those who mourn.

CHAPTER 30

[1] "But now they laugh at me, men younger than I in years, whose fathers I would have disdained to set with the dogs of my flock. [2] And what was the strength of their hands to me? Their vigor was gone. [3] Withered with want and famine, they gnaw the dry ground, in the gloom of ruin and wasteland. * [4] They pick mallow from among the brush, and the root of the broom bush is their food. [5] They are banished from the midst of men, who shout at them as at a thief. [6] They must dwell on the slopes of the ravines, in holes in the ground and among the rocks. [7] They bray among the shrubs; they huddle beneath the nettles. [8] A senseless brood, a nameless brood, they were scourged out of the land. [9] And now I am the theme of their song; I have become a byword among them. [10] They detest me, they stand aloof from me, and they do not spare my face their spit. [11] Because God has loosed his cord and humbled me, they have thrown off the bridle in my presence. * [12] At my right hand the brood rises; they push my feet aside and heap up their ruinous ramps against me. [13] They tear up my path; they promote my downfall, though no one helps them. [14] They come in as through a wide breach; amid the wreckage they roll in. [15] Terrors are turned loose on me; they hound my dignity like the wind, and my welfare has vanished like a cloud. [16] And now my soul pours itself out within me; days of misery have laid hold of me. [17] By night my bones are bored through within me, and my gnawing pains do not lie down to rest. [18] With great force my clothing is twisted out of shape; it grips me like the neck of my tunic. [19] He has cast me into the mud, and I have become like dust and ash. [20] I cry to you for help, and you do not answer me; I stand up, and you only look at me. [21] You have changed into a cruel one toward me; with the strength of your hand you persecute me. [22] You lift me onto the wind and let it carry me off, and you toss me about in the roaring storm. * [23] For I know you will return me to death, to the house where all the living meet. [24] Yet does a man not reach out his hand when he is in ruins, or cry out for help in his calamity? * [25] Did I not weep for him whose day was hard? Did my soul not grieve for the poor? [26] But when I looked for good, evil came; when I hoped for light, darkness came. [27] My insides churn and do not rest; days of misery confront me. [28] I go about darkened, though not by the sun; I rise in the assembly and cry for help. [29] I have become a brother of jackals, a companion of ostriches. [30] My skin turns black and peels off me, and my bones burn with fever. [31] So my lyre is given to mourning, and my flute to the voice of weepers.

CHAPTER 31

[1] "I have made a covenant with my eyes; how then could I look closely at a virgin? [2] What would be the portion from God above, the inheritance from the Almighty on high? [3] Is it not ruin for the unjust, and misfortune for those who do iniquity? [4] Does he not see my ways and number all my steps? [5] If I have gone along with falsehood, or my foot has rushed toward deceit, [6] let him weigh me on a just balance, and let God know that I am blameless! [7] If my step has strayed from the way, and my heart has followed my eyes, and any spot has stuck to my hands, [8] then let me sow and someone else eat, and let my produce be rooted out. [9] If my heart has been lured by a woman, and I have lurked at my neighbor's door, [10] then let my wife grind grain for another man, and let others crouch over her. [11] For that would be a wicked deed; it would be an iniquity for the judges. [12] For it would be a fire burning all the way to Abaddon, and it would root out all my increase. [13] If I have brushed aside the right of my servant or my maid when they had a grievance with me, [14] what then would I do when God arose? When he examined me, what would I answer him? [15] Did not the One who made me in the womb make him too? Did not one and the same fashion us in the womb? [16] If I have refused the poor what they wanted, or caused the widow's eyes to grow weary, [17] or eaten my bit of bread by myself, and the orphan has not shared it [18] (for from my youth he grew up with me as with a father, and from my mother's womb I was her guide), [19] if I have seen someone dying for want of clothes, or a poor man with nothing to cover him, [20] if his loins did not bless me, and he was not warmed with the wool of my sheep, [21] if I have shaken my fist at the orphan because I saw my backing in the gate, [22] then let my shoulder drop from its socket, and my arm be snapped from its joint. [23] For disaster from God was a dread to me, and before his majesty I could not do such things. [24] If I have put my hope in gold, or called fine gold my security, [25] if I have delighted in the greatness of my wealth, and in how much my hand had acquired, [26] if I have gazed at the sun as it shone, or at the moon advancing in its glory, [27] and my heart was secretly lured, and my mouth kissed my hand, [28] this too would be an iniquity for the judges, for I would have been false to God above. [29] If I have been glad at the downfall of my enemy, or gloated when harm found him [30] (no, I have not allowed my mouth to sin by demanding his life with a curse), [31] if the men of my tent have not said, 'Who can find one who has not been fed from his meat?' [32] (no stranger had to lodge in the street; I kept my doors open to the wayfarer), [33] if I have hidden my transgressions as Adam did, burying my iniquity in my breast, [*] [34] because I stood in fear of the great crowd and the scorn of the clans dismayed me, so that I kept quiet and stayed indoors— [35] If only I had someone to give me a hearing! Here is my mark; let the Almighty answer me! Let my accuser put his charge in writing! [36] I would surely wear it on my shoulder; I would tie it around me like a crown. [37] I would give him a full count of my steps; like a prince I would come near him. [38] If my land has cried out against me and its furrows have wept all together, [39] if I have consumed its produce without payment, or caused the death of its owners, [40] then let thistles come up in place of wheat, and foul weeds in place of barley." The words of Job are finished.

CHAPTER 32

[1] So these three men ceased answering Job, since he was righteous in his own sight. [2] Then Elihu son of Barachel the Buzite, of the clan of Ram, burned with anger. He was angry with Job for making himself out to be in the right rather than God. [3] He was angry too with his three friends, because they had not found an answer and yet had declared Job guilty. [4] Elihu had held back from speaking to Job, because they were older in years than he. [5] But when Elihu saw that the three men had no answer in their mouths, his anger burned. [6] And Elihu son of Barachel the Buzite spoke up and said: "I am young in days, and you are old; so I was timid and afraid to tell you what I know. [7] I thought, 'Age should speak, and length of years should teach wisdom.' [8] But it is a spirit in man, the breath of the Almighty, that makes them understand. [9] It is not the old who are wise, nor the aged who grasp what is just. [10] So I say, 'Hear me; I too will tell you what I know.' [11] See, I waited while you spoke; I gave ear to your arguments while you hunted for words. [12] I paid close attention to you, and look, not one of you refuted Job; none of you answered what he said. [13] Beware of saying, 'We have found wisdom; God may defeat him, not man.' [14] He has not directed his words at me, and I will not reply to him with your arguments. [15] They are dumbfounded; they answer no longer; words have left them. [16] Shall I wait because they do not speak, because they stand there and no longer reply? [17] I too will answer my share; I too will tell what I know. [18] For I am filled with words; the spirit in my belly constrains me. [19] My belly is like wine that is sealed up; like new wineskins it is about to split. [20] I must speak to get relief; I must open my lips and reply. [21] I will not take anyone's side, nor give flattering titles to any man. [22] For I do not know how to flatter; else my Maker would quickly take me away.

CHAPTER 33

[1] "Now then, Job, hear what I have to say, and give ear to all my words. [2] Look, I have opened my mouth; my tongue is forming words in my palate. [3] My words spring from the uprightness of my heart, and my lips speak with sincerity what they know. [4] The Spirit of God has made me, and the breath of the Almighty gives me life. [5] Answer me if you can; lay out your case before me; take your position. [6] See, I am the same as you before God; I too was nipped off from clay. [7] So no fear of me should alarm you, and no pressure from me will be heavy upon you. [8] You have indeed said in my ears, and I heard the sound of the words: [9] 'I am clean and free of transgression; I am spotless, and there is no iniquity in me. [10] Look, he invents complaints against me; he regards me as his foe. [11] He sets my feet in the stocks; he keeps a watch on all my ways.' [12] Here you are not in the right, I tell you, for God is greater than man. [13] Why do you quarrel with him because he gives no account of any of his doings? [14] For God speaks in one way, and in two, though man does not notice it. [15] In a dream, in a vision of the night, when deep sleep falls on men, while they slumber upon their beds, [16] then he uncovers the ears of men and seals the warning given them, [17] to turn a man away from what he does and to keep pride hidden from a man. [18] He spares his soul from the pit, and his life from perishing by the weapon. [] [19] A man is also chastened with pain upon his bed, and with continual strife in his bones, [] [20] so that his life recoils from bread, and his soul from choice food. [21] His flesh wastes until it cannot be seen, and his bones, once hidden, poke out. [22] His soul comes close to the pit, and his life to the bringers of death. [23] If there is an angel at his side, a mediator, one out of a thousand, to tell a man what is right for him,* [24] then he shows him grace and says, 'Spare him from going down to the pit; I have found a ransom.' [25] His flesh grows fresher than a child's; he goes back to the days of his youth. [26] He entreats God, and God is pleased with him; he sees his face with a shout of joy, and God gives back to the man his righteousness. [27] He sings out before men and says, 'I sinned and twisted what was right, and I was not paid back for it.' [28] He has ransomed his soul from passing into the pit, and his life will look upon the light. [29] Look, God does all these things two or three times with a man, [30] to turn back his soul from the pit, so that he may be lit with the light of life. [31] Take heed, Job, and hear me; keep quiet, and I will speak. [32] If you have words, answer me; speak up, for I would like to see you justified. [33] If not, you listen to me; keep quiet, and I will teach you wisdom."

[1] Elihu went on and said: [2] "Hear my words, you wise ones; give ear to me, you who know. [3] For the ear tries words just as the palate tastes food. [4] Let us select for ourselves what is just; let us determine among ourselves what is good. [5] For Job says, 'I am in the right, and God has denied me justice. [6] Despite my right I am made a liar; my arrow wound cannot be healed, though I have not transgressed.' [7] What man is there like Job, who drinks mockery like water, [8] who keeps company with those who do iniquity and goes about with men of wickedness? [9] For he has said, 'A man gains nothing by being on good terms with God.' [10] So hear me, you men of sense: far be it from God to act wickedly, and from the Almighty to do wrong! [11] For he pays a man back for his work, and brings upon each one what his conduct merits. [12] Truly God does no wrong, and the Almighty does not twist justice. [13] Who gave him charge over the earth? Who placed the whole world in his care? [14] If he set his heart on it, and drew back to himself his spirit and his breath, [15] all flesh would perish together, and man would return to dust. [16] If you have understanding, hear this; give ear to what I say. [17] Shall one who hates justice govern? Or will you condemn him who is righteous and mighty, [18]* who says to a king, 'You worthless one!' and to princes, 'You wicked!' [19] who does not take the side of rulers or favor the rich over the poor, for all of them are the work of his hands? [20] In an instant they die; in the middle of the night the people are shaken and pass on, and the mighty are taken away, though not by human hand. [21] For his eyes are on the ways of man, and he sees all his steps. [22] There is no darkness and no deep darkness where those who do iniquity can conceal themselves. [23] For he does not need to consider a man further, that he should go before God for judgment. [24] He smashes the mighty without investigation and puts others in their place. [25] So he takes note of their deeds; he overthrows them by night, and they are crushed. [26] He strikes them as wicked men where others can see, [27] because they turned away from following him and paid no attention to any of his ways, [28] causing the cry of the poor to reach him, so that he hears the cry of the oppressed. [29] If he stays silent, who can condemn? If he hides his face, who can behold him, whether it be a nation or a single man, [30] so that the godless may not rule, and there may be none to ensnare the people? [31] For has anyone said to God, 'I have suffered for it; I will not sin again; [32] show me what I cannot see; if I have done iniquity, I will not do it again'? [33] Should he repay you as you please, because you reject it? You must choose, not I; so tell what you know. [34] Men of understanding will say to me, and so will any wise man who hears me: [35] 'Job talks without knowledge, and his words are without insight.' [36] Would that Job were tested to the limit, for answering like men of iniquity!* [37] For he adds rebellion on top of his sin; he claps his hands among us and piles up his words against God."

CHAPTER 35

[1] And Elihu went on and said: [2] "Do you consider this just, when you say, 'I am more in the right than God'? [3] For you ask, 'What good does it do you? How am I better off than if I had sinned?' [4] I will give you an answer, you and your friends along with you. [5] Lift your eyes to the heavens and look; observe the clouds, set high above you. [6] If you sin, what do you do to him? If your transgressions multiply, how do you affect him? [7] If you are righteous, what are you giving him? What does he take from your hand? [8] Your wickedness concerns a man like you, and your righteousness a son of man. [9] Under the weight of oppression men cry out; they shout for help under the arm of the powerful. [10] But none of them says, 'Where is God my Maker, who gives songs in the night, [11] who teaches us more than the beasts of the land and gives us more wisdom than the birds of the heavens?' [12] There they cry, but he gives no answer, because of the pride of the wicked. [13] Surely God does not listen to emptiness, and the Almighty pays it no regard. [14] How much less when you say you do not see him, that your case is before him and you are waiting for him! [15] And now, since his anger has not punished, and he does not much heed arrogance,* [16] Job opens his mouth in vain and heaps up words without knowledge."

CHAPTER 36

[1] Elihu continued and said: [2] "Be patient with me a little longer, and I will show you, for there are still words to say for God. [3] I will bring my knowledge from far away, and I will ascribe righteousness to my Maker. [4] For truly my words are no lie; one complete in knowledge is here with you. [5] See, God is mighty and does not despise anyone; mighty is he in strength of understanding. [6] He does not let the wicked live, but he grants justice to the afflicted. [7] He does not take his eyes off the righteous; he sets them with kings upon the throne for ever, and they are lifted high. [8] And if they are bound with chains and held captive in cords of affliction, [9] then he shows them what they have done, and their transgressions, how they have behaved proudly. [10] He opens their ear to correction and tells them to turn back from iniquity. [11] If they hear and serve him, they will end their days in good things and their years in delights. [12] But if they do not hear, they will pass away by the weapon and die for lack of knowledge. [13] The godless in heart harbor anger; they do not cry for help when he fetters them. [14] Their soul dies in youth, and their life among the cult prostitutes.* [15] He rescues the afflicted by means of their affliction and opens their ear by oppression. [16] He would also have lured you from the mouth of distress into a broad place with no cramping beneath it, and your table would have been set with rich food. [17] But you are taken up with the judgment due the wicked; judgment and justice have hold of you. [18] Take care that wrath does not entice you into scoffing, and do not let a large ransom lead you astray.* [19] Will your cry for help keep you from distress, or all the force of your strength? [20] Do not pant for the night, when peoples are cut off where they stand. [21] Be on your guard; do not turn to iniquity, for you have preferred it to affliction. [22] See, God acts loftily in his power; who teaches like him? [23] Who has appointed his way for him? Who can say, 'You have done wrong'? [24] Remember to exalt his work, which men have celebrated in song. [25] All men have gazed on it; mortals see it from far off. [26] See, God is great beyond our knowing; the count of his years cannot be searched out. [27] For he draws up the drops of water, which distill into rain from his mist, [28] which the clouds pour down and drip upon man in abundance. [29] Can anyone understand how the clouds spread out, or the crashing from his pavilion? [30] See, he scatters his lightning about him, and he covers the roots of the sea. [31] For by these he judges the peoples; he gives food in plenty. [32] He wraps his hands in the lightning and orders it to hit its target. [33] Its thunder announces him; the cattle also announce what is coming up.*

CHAPTER 37

[1] "At this too my heart pounds and leaps out of its place. [2] Hear, oh hear the roar of his voice, and the rumble that goes out from his mouth. [3] Under all the heavens he sends it forth, and his lightning to the edges of the earth. [4] After it his voice roars; he thunders with his majestic voice, and he does not restrain the lightnings when his voice is heard. [5] God thunders marvelously with his voice; he does great things that we cannot comprehend. [6] For he says to the snow, 'Fall to the earth,' and to the shower of rain, the shower of his mighty rains. [7] He puts a seal on every man's hand, so that all men he has made may know his work. [8] Then the animals go into hiding and remain in their dens. [9] Out of its chamber the storm comes, and cold from the north winds. [10] By the breath of God ice is formed, and the broad waters are frozen hard. [11] He weighs down the thick cloud with moisture; the clouds spread his lightning abroad. [12] By his direction they wheel about, round and round, to carry out all he commands them over the face of the inhabited world. [13] Whether as a rod, or for his land, or for steadfast love, he causes it to come. [14] Give ear to this, Job; stop and consider God's wonders. [15] Do you know how God gives them his orders and makes the lightning flash from his cloud? [16] Do you understand the hovering of the clouds, the wonders of the One perfect in knowledge, [17] you whose clothes are warm when the land is still because of the south wind? [18] Can you, with him, spread out the skies, hard as a mirror of molten metal? [19] Tell us what to say to him; we cannot draw up our case because of the darkness. [20] Shall it be told him that I would speak? Would a man ask to be swallowed up? [21] And now men cannot look on the light when it shines in the skies, once the wind has passed and swept them clean. [22] Out of the north comes golden splendor; God is clothed in awesome majesty. [23] The Almighty, we cannot reach him; he is exalted in power, and in justice and great righteousness he does not oppress. [24] That is why men fear him; he does not regard any who are wise in their own heart."*

CHAPTER 38

[1] And the LORD answered Job from the storm and said: [2] "Who is this who makes counsel dark with words that lack knowledge? [3] Gird your loins like a man, now; I will ask you, and you will teach me. [4] Where were you when I founded the earth? Speak, if you have insight. [5] Who set its dimensions, seeing you know? Who stretched a measuring line across it? [6] Into what were its footings sunk, or who set down its cornerstone, [7] while the morning stars were singing together and all the sons of God were shouting for joy? [8] Who closed in the sea behind doors when it gushed forth, issuing from the womb, [9] when I made clouds its clothing and dense darkness its swaddling cloth, [10] when I broke off my boundary for it and fixed bolts and doors, [11] and said, 'You may come this far and no further, and here your proud waves are to halt'? [12] Since your days began, have you given orders to the morning, or taught the dawn its place, [13] so that it might seize the skirts of the earth and shake the wicked out of it? [14] It is transformed like clay beneath a seal, and things stand out like a garment. [15] The wicked are denied their light, and the raised arm is broken. [16] Have you gone down to the sources of the sea, or walked about in the recesses of the deep? [17] Have the gates of death been shown to you? Have you seen the gates of deep darkness? [18] Have you grasped the expanse of the earth? Tell me, if you know it all. [19] Which is the road to where light lives? And darkness, where is its home, [20] that you could lead it to its domain and know the paths to its dwelling? [21] You know it, for you were born back then, and your days are very many! [22] Have you entered the storehouses of the snow, or looked on the storehouses of the hail, [23] which I hold in reserve for a time of distress, for a day of battle and war? [24] Which is the road to where the light is parceled out, where the east wind is spread over the earth? [25] Who has carved a channel for the downpour and a path for the thunder's flash, [26] to send rain on land where no one lives, on a desert with no man in it, [27] to soak the barren wasteland and make the shoots of grass spring up? [28] Has the rain a father? Who fathered the drops of the dew? [29] Out of whose womb came the ice? Who gave birth to the hoarfrost of the heavens, [30] when the waters hide themselves as under stone and the surface of the deep is locked fast? [31] Can you bind the chains of the Pleiades or loosen the ropes of Orion? [32] Can you bring out the Mazzaroth at their appointed time, or lead the Bear along with her cubs?* [33] Do you know the laws of the heavens? Can you fix their dominion on the earth? [34] Can you raise your voice to the clouds and make an abundance of water cover you? [35] Can you send lightning bolts on their way, so that they report to you, 'Here we are'? [36] Who has placed wisdom in the inward parts, or given understanding to the mind?* [37] Who has the wisdom to number the clouds? Who can tilt the water jars of the heavens, [38] when the dust is fused into a mass and the clods cling together? [39] Do you hunt the prey for the lioness, or fill the appetite of the young lions, [40] when they lie low in their dens or wait in ambush in the thicket? [41] Who gets the raven its provision, when its young cry out to God and stray about without food?

CHAPTER 39

[1] "Do you know when the wild goats of the rocks give birth? Do you keep watch while the deer are calving? [2] Can you number the months they complete? Do you know the time they give birth, [3] when they bow down, bring forth their young and send away their pangs? [4] Their young thrive and grow up in the open; they go out and do not come back to them. [5] Who let the wild donkey go free? Who untied the ropes of the swift donkey, [6] whose home I made the wilderness, and the salt flats his dwelling place? [7] He scorns the noise of the town; he does not hear a driver's shouting. [8] He ranges the mountains for his pasture and looks for anything green. [9] Is the wild ox willing to be your servant? Will he stay the night by your feeding trough?* [10] Can you tie the wild ox in the furrow with a rope? Will he break up the clods of the valleys after you? [11] Will you depend on him because his strength is great, and hand over your heavy work to him? [12] Will you count on him to bring back your seed and gather it to your threshing floor? [13] The ostrich's wings beat gladly, but is hers the pinion and plumage of the stork?* [14] For she abandons her eggs to the earth and lets them warm in the dust, [15] forgetting that a foot might crush them, or a wild animal tread on them. [16] She is hard on her young as though they were not her own; she does not worry that her labor may be for nothing, [17] for God has withheld wisdom from her and allotted her no understanding. [18] Yet when she lifts herself up to run, she mocks the horse and its rider. [19] Do you give the horse his might? Do you clothe his neck with a quivering mane?* [20] Do you make him spring like a locust? The splendor of his snorting is terrible. [21] He paws the valley floor and delights in his strength; he charges out to face the weapons. [22] He laughs at fear and is not alarmed; he does not shy away from the sword. [23] Above him the quiver rattles, with the glinting spear and the javelin. [24] In a frenzy of excitement he devours the ground; he cannot be held when the trumpet blows. [25] At each blast of the trumpet he says, 'Aha!' From far off he scents the battle, the thunder of commanders and the war cry. [26] Is it by your understanding that the hawk soars and spreads its wings to the south? [27] Is it at your command that the eagle mounts up and makes its nest on high? [28] On the cliff he lives and lodges, on the jagged rock, his fortress. [29] From there he searches for food; his eyes spot it from a distance. [30] His young ones slurp up blood, and wherever the slain are, he is there."

CHAPTER 40

[1] The LORD went on to answer Job and said: [2] "Shall one who finds fault contend with the Almighty? Let him who reproves God give an answer." [3] And Job answered the LORD and said: [4] "See, I am of small account; what could I answer you? I lay my hand upon my mouth. [5] Once I have spoken, and I will not reply; twice, and I will say no more." [6] And the LORD answered Job from the storm and said: [7] "Gird your loins like a man, now; I will ask you, and you will teach me. [8] Would you even set aside my justice? Would you condemn me so as to be in the right yourself? [9] Have you an arm like God's? Can you thunder with a voice like his? [10] Then deck yourself with majesty and loftiness; put on splendor and glory. [11] Let loose the fury of your anger; look at every proud one and abase him. [12] Look at every proud one and bring him low; crush the wicked where they stand. [13] Bury them together in the dust; bind their faces in the place of hiding. [14] Then I myself will praise you, for your own right hand can save you. [15] See now Behemoth, whom I made as I made you; he feeds on grass like cattle.* [16] Look, his strength is in his loins, and his might in the muscles of his belly. [17] He bends his tail like a cedar; the sinews of his thighs are woven together. [18] His bones are pipes of bronze, his limbs like rods of iron. [19] He is first among the ways of God; his Maker brings his sword near. [20] For the hills bring him their produce, and all the wild beasts play there. [21] Beneath the lotus plants he lies down, hidden among the reeds of the swamp.* [22] The lotus plants screen him with their shade; the willows of the brook enclose him. [23] Look, if the river surges, he is not frightened; he stays calm though the Jordan rushes against his mouth. [24] Can anyone capture him by his eyes, or pierce his nose with a snare?

CHAPTER 41

[1] "Can you draw out Leviathan with a fishhook, or press down his tongue with a cord?* [2] Can you thread a rope through his nose, or bore through his jaw with a hook? [3] Will he plead with you at length? Will he speak gently to you? [4] Will he strike a covenant with you, for you to take him as a servant for life? [5] Will you make a pet of him like a bird, or tie him up for your girls? [6] Will partners haggle over him? Will they portion him out among the merchants?* [7] Can you riddle his hide with harpoons, or his head with fish spears? [8] Put your hand on him once; think of the fight, and you will never do it again! [9] Look, any hope of mastering him is false; is a man not laid flat by the mere sight of him? [10] None is fierce enough to stir him up. Who then can take his stand before me? [11] Who has given me anything first, that I should repay him? Whatever is under the whole heaven is mine. [12] I will not be silent about his limbs, his mighty power and the beauty of his build. [13] Who can strip off his outer coat? Who can come within a double bridle?* [14] Who can pry open the doors of his face? His teeth are ringed with terror. [15] His pride is his rows of shields, closed up with a tight seal. [16] They are set so close to one another that no breath can get between them. [17] Each is joined fast to the next; they grip one another and cannot be parted. [18] His sneezing flashes out light, and his eyes are like the eyelids of dawn. [19] Flaming torches pour from his mouth; sparks of fire shoot out. [20] Smoke streams from his nostrils, as from a seething pot over burning reeds. [21] His breath sets coals ablaze, and flame issues from his mouth. [22] Strength resides in his neck, and dismay leaps ahead of him. [23] The folds of his flesh are welded together, firmly set on him and immovable. [24] His heart is solid as stone, solid as a nether millstone. [25] When he rears up, the mighty are terrified; at the crashing they are beside themselves.* [26] A sword that strikes him has no effect, nor spear, nor dart, nor lance. [27] He regards iron as straw, and bronze as wood gone rotten. [28] No arrow will put him to flight; sling stones become chaff to him. [29] A club seems to him like chaff; he laughs at the whirring of the javelin. [30] His underside is jagged potsherds; he leaves a trail in the mud like a threshing sledge. [31] He sets the depths churning like a cauldron; he makes the sea like a pot of ointment. [32] He leaves a glistening path behind him; one would take the deep for white-haired. [33] Nothing on the earth is his equal, a creature made without fear. [34] He looks on all that is lofty; he is king over all the sons of pride."

CHAPTER 42

[1] And Job answered the LORD and said: [2] "I know that you can do everything, and no purpose of yours can be thwarted. [3] 'Who is this who hides counsel without knowledge?' So I have spoken of what I did not understand, things too wonderful for me, which I did not know. [4] 'Listen, please, and I will speak; I will ask you, and you will teach me.' [5] By the hearing of the ear I had heard of you, but now my own eye has seen you. [6] So I despise myself, and I repent in dust and ashes."* [7] When the LORD had spoken these words to Job, the LORD said to Eliphaz the Temanite, "My anger burns against you and your two friends, because you have not spoken what is right about me, as my servant Job has. [8] Now then, take seven bulls and seven rams, go to my servant Job and offer a burnt offering for yourselves, and my servant Job will pray for you; for I will accept him and not deal with you as your folly deserves. For you have not spoken what is right about me, as my servant Job has." [9] Then Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite went and did what the LORD had told them, and the LORD accepted Job. [10] And the LORD restored the fortunes of Job when he prayed for his friends, and the LORD gave Job twice as much as he had before. [11] Then all his brothers and sisters and all who had known him before came to him and ate bread with him in his house. They consoled him and comforted him over all the trouble the LORD had brought on him, and each of them gave him a piece of money and a ring of gold.* [12] So the LORD blessed the end of Job's life more than its beginning. He came to have fourteen thousand sheep, six thousand camels, a thousand pairs of oxen and a thousand she-donkeys. [13] And he had seven sons and three daughters. [14] The first he named Jemimah, the second Keziah, and the third Keren-happuch. [15] Nowhere in the land were there women as lovely as Job's daughters, and their father gave them an inheritance along with their brothers. [16] After this Job lived a hundred and forty years and saw his sons and his sons' sons to the fourth generation. [17] And Job died, old and satisfied with days.

PSALM 1

[1] Blessed is the man who has not walked in the counsel of the wicked, nor stood in the way of sinners, nor sat in the seat of mockers; [2] but in the law of the LORD is his delight, and in his law he meditates by day and by night. [3] He will be like a tree transplanted beside channels of water, that gives its fruit in its time, whose leaf does not fade; and in everything he does he succeeds. [4] Not so are the wicked; rather, they are like chaff that the wind scatters. [5] So the wicked will not stand up in the judgment, nor sinners in the assembly of the righteous; [6] for the LORD knows the way of the righteous, but the way of the wicked ends in ruin.

PSALM 2

[1] Why do the nations rage in tumult, and the peoples devise what is empty? [2] The kings of the earth take up position, and rulers sit in council together, against the LORD and against his anointed: [3] "Let us break their chains apart and fling their cords from us." [4] The One enthroned in the heavens laughs; the Lord mocks at them. [5] Then he will address them in his anger and alarm them in his hot displeasure: [6] "As for me, I have set my King in place on Zion, my holy mountain." [7] Let me recount the decree: the LORD said to me, "You are my Son; today I have begotten you. [8] Ask it of me, and I will make the nations your inheritance, and the far ends of the earth your holding. [9] You will break them with an iron rod; like a potter's jar you will smash them."* [10] So now, you kings, show insight; accept correction, you judges of the earth. [11] Serve the LORD in fear, and rejoice with trembling. [12] Kiss the Son, lest he be angry and you perish from the way, for his wrath is quickly kindled. Blessed are all who take refuge in him.*

PSALM 3

A Psalm of David, when he fled from Absalom his son.

[1] O LORD, how numerous my adversaries have become! Many are those who rise against me. [2] Many say of my soul, "There is no deliverance for him in God." Selah.* [3] But you, O LORD, are a shield around me, my glory, and the One who raises my head. [4]

With my voice I call out to the LORD, and he answers me from his holy mountain. Selah. [5] I lay down and fell asleep; I awoke, because the LORD upholds me. [6] I will not fear the myriads of people who have set themselves against me on every side. [7] Rise up, O LORD; save me, my God! For you have struck all my enemies on the jaw; the teeth of the wicked you have shattered. [8] To the LORD belongs salvation; upon your people be your blessing. Selah.

PSALM 4

To the choirmaster: on Neginoth. A Psalm of David. *

[1] When I call, answer me, O God of my righteousness! In my straits you made room for me; be gracious to me and hear my prayer. [2] Sons of men, how long will my glory be turned into disgrace? How long will you love what is empty and chase after falsehood? Selah. [3] Know this: the LORD has set apart for himself the godly one; the LORD will hear when I call to him. * [4] Tremble, and do not sin; speak with your heart on your bed, and keep silent. Selah. [5] Bring sacrifices of righteousness, and trust in the LORD. [6] There are many who say, "Who will let us see good?" Raise over us the light of your face, O LORD. [7] You have put more joy in my heart than they have when their grain and their new wine increase. [8] In peace I will lie down and at once fall asleep, for you alone, O LORD, settle me in safety.

PSALM 5

To the choirmaster: for Nehiloth. A Psalm of David. *

[1] Turn your ear to my words, O LORD; take note of my sighing. [2] Pay attention to the sound of my cry, my King and my God, for to you I am praying. [3] O LORD, in the morning you will hear my voice; in the morning I lay my plea before you and wait expectantly. [4] For you are not a God who takes pleasure in wickedness; evil will not stay as your guest. [5] Boasters will not take their stand before your eyes; you hate all who practice iniquity. [6] You make liars perish; a man of bloodshed and deceit the LORD detests. [7] But as for me, by the greatness of your steadfast love I will come into your house; I will bow toward your holy temple in reverence for you. [8] O LORD, lead me in your righteousness because of those who lie in wait for me; make your way level before me. * [9] For in their mouth there is nothing firm; within, they are destruction; their throat is an opened tomb; they make their tongue smooth. [10] Declare them guilty, O God; let them fall through their own schemes; for their many transgressions thrust them out, because they have defied you. [11] But let all who seek refuge in you be glad; let them sing for joy forever, and may you spread your protection over them; and let those who love your name rejoice in you. [12] For you, O LORD, bless the righteous one; with favor you encircle him as with a large shield.

PSALM 6

To the choirmaster: on Neginoth, on the Sheminith. A Psalm of David. *

[1] O LORD, do not reprove me in your anger, and do not chasten me in your fury. [2] Show me grace, O LORD, for I am withering; heal me, O LORD, for my bones are dismayed. [3] My soul too is dismayed exceedingly; and you, O LORD—how long? [4] Return, O LORD, set my soul free; save me because of your steadfast love. [5] For in death there is no mention of you; in Sheol who will thank you? * [6] I am worn out with my sighing; night after night I make my bed swim; I melt my couch with my tears. [7] My eye is wasted from vexation; it has aged because of all my adversaries. [8] Get away from me, all you who do iniquity, for the LORD has heard the voice of my weeping. [9] The LORD has heard my supplication; the LORD will receive my prayer. [10] All my enemies will be put to shame and sorely dismayed; they will turn back, suddenly ashamed.

PSALM 7

A Shiggaion of David, which he sang to the LORD concerning the words of Cush, a Benjamite. *

[1] O LORD my God, I have taken refuge in you; save me from all my pursuers and rescue me, [2] or like a lion he will tear my soul, ripping it apart with no one to rescue. [3] O LORD my God, if I have done this, if there is wrongdoing on my hands, [4] if I have paid back evil to him who was at peace with me, or plundered my foe without cause, * [5] then let the enemy chase my soul and seize it, let him tread my life into the earth and make my glory dwell in the dust. Selah. [6] Rise up, O LORD, in your anger; lift yourself against the rage of my adversaries; awaken for me the judgment you have commanded. [7] May the congregation of the peoples surround you, and above it return to the heights. [8] The LORD will judge the peoples. Judge me, O LORD, by my righteousness and by the integrity within me. [9] Let the wickedness of the wicked come to an end, and make the righteous firm; for the One who tries hearts and inmost being is the righteous God. * [10] My shield rests upon God, the Savior of the upright in heart. [11] God is a judge who is righteous, a God who shows indignation every day. [12] If one does not turn, he will whet his sword; he has strung his bow and readied it. * [13] He has prepared for him deadly weapons; he makes his arrows into flaming shafts. [14] Look, he travails with wickedness; he is pregnant with trouble and gives birth to a lie. [15] He has dug a pit and hollowed it out, and he falls into the ditch he was making. [16] His trouble comes back on his own head, and on his own crown his violence descends. [17] I will thank the LORD as his righteousness deserves, and sing praises to the name of the LORD Most High.

PSALM 8

To the choirmaster: on the Gittith. A Psalm of David. *

[1] O LORD, our Lord, how majestic is your name through all the earth! You have placed your splendor above the heavens. [2] From the mouths of children and infants you have founded strength on account of your adversaries, to put an end to enemy and avenger. [3] When I see your heavens, the work of your fingers, the moon and the stars that you have fixed in place, [4] what is frail man, that you keep him in mind, or the son of man, that you look after him? [5] You have made him only a little lower than the angels, and with glory and honor you crown him.* [6] You give him dominion over the works of your hands; all things you have set beneath his feet: [7] flocks and cattle, every one, and even the animals of the open field, [8] the birds of the sky and the fish of the sea, all that travels the paths of the seas. [9] O LORD, our Lord, how majestic is your name through all the earth!

PSALM 9

*To the choirmaster: on Muth-labben. A Psalm of David.

[1] I will thank the LORD with all my heart; I will tell of all your marvelous works. [2] I will be glad and celebrate in you; I will make music to your name, O Most High. [3] When my enemies retreat, they stumble and are lost before your face. [4] For you have upheld my right and my cause; you sat on the throne as a righteous judge. [5] You rebuked the nations, you destroyed the wicked; their name you wiped out forever and ever. [6] As for the enemy, they are finished, ruins forever; you tore down their cities; their very memory has perished. [7] But the LORD sits as King forever; he has prepared his throne for judgment. [8] He will judge the world with righteousness; he will render judgment for the peoples in uprightness. [9] So the LORD will be a high refuge for the crushed, a high refuge in times of distress. [10] And those who know your name will put their trust in you, for you have not abandoned those who seek you, O LORD. [11] Sing praise to the LORD, who dwells in Zion; make known his deeds among the peoples. [12] For the One who requires blood remembers them; he has not forgotten the outcry of the afflicted. [13] Have mercy on me, O LORD; look at what I suffer from those who hate me, you who raise me from the gates of death, [14] so that I may tell all your praises in the gates of the daughter of Zion and rejoice in your salvation. [15] The nations have sunk down in the pit they dug; in the net they hid their own foot is caught. [16] The LORD is known by the judgment he has carried out; the wicked is ensnared in the work of his own hands. Higgaion. Selah.* [17] The wicked will turn back to Sheol, all the nations who forget God. [18] For the needy one will not be forgotten forever; the hope of the afflicted will not perish for all time. [19] Rise up, O LORD; let not mortal man grow strong; let the nations be judged in your presence. [20] Set terror upon them, O LORD; let the nations know they are only mortals. Selah.

PSALM 10

[1] Why, O LORD, do you stand at a distance? Why do you hide in times of distress? [2] Through the arrogance of the wicked the poor is hotly pursued; let them be caught in the plots they have devised. [3] For the wicked man boasts of his soul's craving, and the greedy one blesses himself while he scorns the LORD.* [4] The wicked, with his nose held high, does not inquire; "There is no God" is the sum of his schemes. [5] His ways stand firm at all times; your judgments are high above, out of his view; all his adversaries he puffs at. [6] He says in his heart, "I will not be moved; for generation after generation I will be free from harm." [7] His mouth is filled with curses, with deceit and oppression; beneath his tongue lie trouble and iniquity. [8] He waits in ambush near the villages; in secret places he kills the innocent; his eyes spy out the helpless. [9] He lies in wait in secret like a lion in its lair; he lies in wait to catch the poor; he catches the poor by dragging him into his net. [10] He is crushed and bows down, and the helpless fall by his mighty ones.* [11] He says in his heart, "God has forgotten; he has hidden his face; he will never look." [12] Rise up, O LORD! O God, raise your hand; do not forget the humble. [13] Why has the wicked scorned God? He says in his heart, "You will not demand an account." [14] You have seen it, for you observe trouble and grief, to repay it with your hand; to you the helpless entrusts himself; you have been the helper of the orphan. [15] Shatter the arm of the wicked; and as for the evil man, search out his wickedness until you find nothing more. [16] The LORD is King forever and ever; nations have vanished from his land. [17] You have heard, O LORD, the longing of the humble; you will make their heart firm; you will turn your ear [18] to vindicate the orphan and the crushed, so that man from the earth may no longer cause terror.

PSALM 11

To the choirmaster. Of David.

[1] In the LORD I have taken refuge. How can you say to my soul, "Flee to your mountain like a bird"? [2] For see, the wicked are bending the bow; they have set their arrow on the string to shoot from the darkness at the upright in heart. [3] When the foundations are being torn down, what is the righteous to do? [4] The LORD is in his holy temple; the LORD, his throne is in the heavens; his eyes behold, his eyelids examine the children of men. [5] The LORD examines the righteous, but the wicked and the lover of violence his soul hates. [6] He will rain down snares on the wicked; fire and sulfur and a burning wind are the share of their cup. [7] For the LORD is righteous; he loves righteous acts; the upright will behold his face.

PSALM 12

To the choirmaster: on the Sheminith. A Psalm of David.

[1] Help, O LORD, for the godly man has ceased; the faithful have disappeared from among the children of men. [2] They speak emptiness, each to his neighbor; with smooth lips, with a double heart, they speak. [3] May the LORD cut off every smooth lip, the tongue that utters boasts, [4] those who have said, "By our tongue we will be strong; our lips are with us; who is master over us?" [5] "Because of the plunder of the afflicted, because of the groaning of the needy, now I will rise," says the LORD; "I will place him in the safety for which he longs."* [6] The sayings of the LORD are pure sayings, silver smelted in a furnace of earth, refined seven times. [7] You, O LORD, will guard them; you will preserve him from this generation forever. [8] On every side the wicked walk about, when worthlessness is lifted high among the children of men.

PSALM 13

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

[1] How long, O LORD, will you forget me, forever? How long will you hide your face from me? [2] How long shall I lay up plans in my soul, grief in my heart by day? How long will my enemy be lifted above me? [3] Look on me, answer me, O LORD my God; light up my eyes, lest I fall asleep in death, [4] lest my enemy say, "I have prevailed over him," and my adversaries rejoice when I totter. [5] But I, in your steadfast love I have trusted; my heart will exult in your salvation. [6] I will sing to the LORD, for he has treated me generously.

PSALM 14

To the choirmaster. Of David.

[1] The fool has said in his heart, "There is no God." They act corruptly, they do detestable deeds; no one does good. [2] The LORD has looked down from the heavens upon the children of men to see whether there is anyone who has insight, anyone seeking God. [3] All have turned away; together they have become foul; no one does good, not even one. [4] Do they not know, all the doers of iniquity, who devour my people as they devour bread and do not call on the LORD? [5] There they trembled in terror, for God is in the generation of the righteous. [6] You would shame the plan of the afflicted, but the LORD is his shelter. [7] If only the salvation of Israel would come from Zion! When the LORD restores the fortunes of his people, let Jacob exult, let Israel be glad.*

PSALM 15

A Psalm of David.

[1] O LORD, who may lodge in your tent? Who may settle on your holy mountain? [2] The one who walks with integrity and practices righteousness and speaks the truth in his heart; [3] who has not gone about slandering with his tongue, has not done harm to his companion, and has not heaped insult on his neighbor; [4] in whose eyes a reprobate is despised, while he honors those who fear the LORD; who swears to his own harm and does not retract; [5] who has not given his money at interest or accepted a bribe against the innocent. Whoever does these things will never be moved.

PSALM 16

*A Michtam of David.

[1] Guard me, O God, for I have taken refuge in you. [2] You have said to the LORD, O my soul, "You are my Lord; I have no good except in you."* [3] As for the holy ones who are in the land, they are the majestic ones; all my delight is in them.* [4] Many will be the sorrows of those who hurry after another god; I will not pour out their libations of blood, nor lift their names to my lips. [5] The LORD is the portion of my share and my cup; you uphold my lot. [6] Measuring lines have fallen for me in delightful places; yes, a lovely inheritance is mine. [7] I will bless the LORD, who has counseled me; even at night my inmost being admonishes me. [8] I have placed the LORD before me continually; since he is at my right hand, I will not be moved. [9] So my heart rejoices and my glory is glad; my flesh as well will rest secure. [10] For you will not leave my soul to Sheol, nor will you give up your Holy One to see corruption.* [11] You will make me know the way of life; abundance of joys is in your presence, delights at your right hand forever.

PSALM 17

A Prayer of David.

[1] Hear, O LORD, what is right; listen to my cry; give ear to my prayer, which does not come from deceitful lips. [2] May my judgment go out from your presence; may your eyes see with equity. [3] You have examined my heart; you have inspected it at night; you have refined me and found nothing; I purposed that my mouth should not overstep. [4] As for human deeds, by the word of your lips I have kept watch against the ways of the violent. [5] My steps have kept hold of your tracks; my feet have not wavered. [6] I have called on you, for you will answer me, O God; turn your ear to me, hear my speech. [7] Make marvelous your steadfast love, you who save by your right hand those who seek refuge from those who rise up against them. [8] Guard me like the pupil of the eye; hide me under the shadow of your wings [9] from the presence of the wicked who ravage me, enemies against my life who close in around me. [10] Their fat they have closed up; with their mouth they speak proudly. [11] They have tracked our steps; now they have surrounded us; they fix their eyes to bring us down to the earth. [12] He is like a lion that longs to tear, like a young lion crouching in hiding places. [13] Rise, O LORD, go out to meet him, make him bow! Rescue my soul from the wicked by your sword,* [14] from men by your hand, O LORD, from men of the world, whose share is in this life. Their belly you fill with your stored-up treasure; they have plenty of sons, and they leave what remains to their children.* [15] As for me, in righteousness I will see your face; I will be satisfied, when I awake, with your form.

PSALM 18

To the choirmaster. Of David the servant of the LORD, who spoke to the LORD the words of this song on the day when the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies and from the hand of Saul.

[1] He said: "I love you, O LORD, my strength.* [2] The LORD is my crag and my stronghold and the one who rescues me; my God, my rock, in whom I seek shelter; my shield and the horn of my salvation, my high retreat. [3] To the LORD, who is to be praised, I call, and from my enemies I am saved. [4] The ropes of death were wound about me; floods of destruction filled me with terror.* [5] The ropes of Sheol encircled me; the traps of death came to meet me. [6] In my trouble I called on the LORD and cried out to my God for help; he heard my voice from his temple, and my cry came before him, into his ears. [7] Then the earth heaved and shook; the foundations of the mountains quivered and rocked, because his anger burned. [8] Smoke rose from his nostrils, and fire from his mouth devoured; coals were kindled by it. [9] He bent the heavens and descended, with dense darkness beneath his feet. [10] He mounted a cherub and flew; he swooped on the wings of the wind. [11] He made darkness his hiding place, his shelter around him: darkness of waters, thick clouds of the skies. [12] From the radiance before him his clouds passed through, hail and fiery coals. [13] The LORD thundered in the heavens; the Most High gave forth his voice, hail and fiery coals. [14] He let fly his arrows and scattered them; he hurled lightning bolts in abundance and threw them into confusion. [15] Then the beds of the waters appeared, and the foundations of the world were uncovered at your rebuke, O LORD, at the blast of the wind of your nostrils. [16] He reached down from on high and took hold of me; he pulled me out of great waters. [17] He rescued me from my powerful enemy and from those who hated me, for they were stronger than I. [18] They came against me on the day of my disaster, but the LORD became my support. [19] He brought me out into a spacious place; he set me free, because he took pleasure in me. [20] The LORD rewarded me according to my righteousness; he paid me back according to the purity of my hands. [21] For I have guarded the ways of the LORD and have not acted wickedly against my God. [22] For all his ordinances were in front of me, and I did not set his statutes aside. [23] I was blameless with him, and I guarded myself from my own iniquity. [24] And so the LORD repaid me for my righteousness, for the purity of my hands before his eyes. [25] With the faithful you prove faithful; with a blameless man you prove blameless; [26] with the pure you prove pure; but with the crooked you prove shrewd. [*] [27] For you rescue a lowly people, but eyes that are lifted high you humble. [28]

For you make my lamp shine; the LORD my God lights up my darkness. [29] For with you I can rush a troop, and with my God I can spring over a wall. [30] As for God, his way is blameless; the word of the LORD is refined; he is a shield for all who seek refuge in him. [31] For who is God apart from the LORD? And who is a rock besides our God? [32] God is the one who belts strength around me and makes my way blameless, [33] who makes my feet like those of the does and gives me a footing on my heights, [34] who teaches my hands for battle, so that my arms bend a bow of bronze. [35] You have given me your shield of salvation; your right hand has supported me, and your gentleness makes me great. [*] [36] You give my steps wide room under me, and my ankles have not slipped. [37] I chased my enemies and caught them, and did not turn back until I had finished them off. [38] I shattered them so that they could not rise; they fell beneath my feet. [39] You armed me with strength for the battle; you made my assailants sink down under me. [40] You made my enemies show me their backs, and I destroyed those who hated me. [41] They called for help, but no one saved them; they called to the LORD, but he gave them no answer. [42] I ground them fine as dust on the face of the wind; like mud in the streets I poured them out. [43]
You set me free from the quarrels of the people; you appointed me head of the nations; a people I did not know serve me. [44] At the mere report they obey me; sons of foreigners cringe before me. [45] Sons of foreigners wither and come out trembling from their fortresses. [46] The LORD is alive! Blessed be my rock, and may the God of my salvation be exalted, [47] the God who grants me vengeance and brings down peoples beneath me, [48] who rescues me from my enemies; indeed, you raise me above my assailants; from the violent man you deliver me. [49] For this I will praise you among the nations, O LORD, and make music to your name. [50] He makes great the victories of his king and shows steadfast love to his anointed, to David and his seed forever."

PSALM 19

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

[1] The heavens recount the glory of God, and the expanse announces the work of his hands. [] [2] One day pours out speech to the next, and night to night imparts knowledge. [3] There is no speech, and there are no words; their voice is not heard. [] [4] Yet their measuring line has gone out into all the earth, and their words to the edge of the world. For the sun he has pitched a tent in them, [5] and it is like a bridegroom coming out from his canopy; it rejoices like a warrior to run its path. [6] From one end of the heavens it rises, and its circuit reaches to their other end; nothing is hidden from its heat. [7] The law of the LORD is blameless, bringing back the soul; the testimony of the LORD is trustworthy, giving wisdom to the simple; [8] the precepts of the LORD are upright, making the heart glad; the commandment of the LORD is clear, giving light to the eyes; [9] the fear of the LORD is pure, standing forever; the judgments of the LORD are truth; they are righteous, all together. [10] They are more desirable than gold, than much refined gold, and sweeter than honey and the flow of the combs. [11] Your servant too is warned by them; in guarding them there is much reward. [12] Errors, who can perceive them? Declare me innocent of hidden faults. [*] [13]
Also hold back your servant from willful sins; do not let them rule over me. Then I will be complete and clear of great transgression. [14] May the sayings of my mouth and the musing of my heart find favor before you, O LORD, my rock and my redeemer.

PSALM 20

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

[1] May the LORD answer you on the day of distress; may the name of the God of Jacob protect you on high. [2] May he send your help from the holy place and sustain you from Zion. [3] May he remember all your grain offerings and find your burnt offering rich. Selah. [4] May he give you what your heart wants and bring all your counsel to pass. [5] Let us shout for joy at your victory and raise our banners in the name of our God; may the LORD fulfill all your requests. [6] Now I know that the LORD has saved his anointed; he will answer him from his holy heavens with the mighty saving acts of his right hand. [7] These boast of chariots and those of horses, but we will make mention of the name of the LORD our God. [8] They have sunk to their knees and fallen, but we have risen and stand firm. [9] O LORD, save!
May the King answer us in the day we call. [*]

PSALM 21

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

[1] O LORD, the king rejoices in your strength, and how greatly he delights in your salvation! [2] The desire of his heart you have granted him, and the request of his lips you have not refused.
Selah. [3] For you go before him with blessings of good; you place on his head a crown of pure gold. [4] Life he asked of you, and you gave it to him, length of days forever and ever. [5] Great is his glory through your salvation; majesty and splendor you bestow on him. [6] For you make him a blessing forever; you gladden him with joy before your face. [7] For the king trusts in the LORD, and by the steadfast love of the Most High he will not be moved. [8]
Your hand will reach all your enemies; your right hand will reach those who hate you. [9] You will make them like a blazing oven at the time of your presence; the LORD in his anger will swallow them, and fire will devour them. [10] Their fruit you will wipe out from the earth, and their seed from the children of men. [11]
Though they stretched out evil against you and plotted a scheme, they will not prevail. [12] For you will make them turn their shoulder; with your bowstrings you will aim at their faces. [13] Rise up, O LORD, in your strength; we will sing and make music to your might.

PSALM 22

To the choirmaster: according to Aijeleth Shahar. A Psalm of David. *

[1] My God, my God, why have you forsaken me? Why so far from my salvation, from the words of my roaring? * [2] My God, I call by day, and you do not answer; and by night, and there is no silence for me. [3] But you are holy, seated as King upon the praises of Israel. [4] Our fathers trusted in you; they trusted, and you set them free. [5] They cried out to you and escaped; they trusted in you and were not disappointed. [6] But I am a worm, and no man, a reproach of mankind and despised by the people. [7] All who see me ridicule me; they part their lips, they shake their head: [8] "He committed himself to the LORD; let him bring him to safety; let him rescue him, since he takes pleasure in him!" * [9] Yet it was you who drew me from the womb, who made me feel secure at my mother's breasts. [10] Upon you I was thrown from the womb; since my mother's belly you have been my God. [11] Do not stay far from me, for distress is near, and there is no one to help. [12]
Many bulls have encircled me; mighty ones of Bashan have hemmed me in. [13] They have opened their mouths against me, a lion tearing and roaring. [14] Like water I am poured out, and all my bones have come apart; my heart has become like wax, melted in the middle of my insides. [15] My strength has dried up like a shard of pottery, and my tongue clings to my jaws; and you set me down in the dust of death. [16] For dogs surround me; a company of evildoers encloses me; they pierced my hands and my feet. * [17] I can number all my bones; they look and stare at me.
[18] They share out my garments among themselves, and over my clothing they throw lots. [19] But you, O LORD, do not stay far away; my strength, hurry to help me! [20] Rescue my soul from the sword, my only life from the paw of the dog! * [21] Save me from the lion's mouth; and from the horns of the wild oxen you have answered me. * [22] I will tell of your name to my brothers; in the middle of the assembly I will praise you. [23] You who fear the LORD, praise him; all the seed of Jacob, honor him; be in awe of him, all the seed of Israel. [24] For he has not despised or loathed the misery of the afflicted one, and he has not hidden his face from him; when he cried to him for help, he listened. [25] My praise in the great assembly is from you; I will fulfill my vows in front of those who fear him. [26] The afflicted will eat and be filled; those who seek him will praise the LORD. Let your heart live forever! [27] All the ends of the earth will remember and return to the LORD, and all the clans of the nations will bow down before you. [28] For kingship is the LORD's, and he is ruler among the nations. [29] All the fat ones of the earth have eaten and bowed down; before him all who go down to the dust will kneel, even the one who could not keep his soul alive. * [30] Offspring will serve him; it will be recounted of the Lord to the next generation. [31]
They will come and announce his righteousness to a people still to be born, that he has acted.

PSALM 23

A Psalm of David.

[1] The LORD is my shepherd; I shall lack nothing. [2] In grassy pastures he makes me lie down; beside waters of rest he leads me. *
[3] My soul he brings back; he guides me in tracks of righteousness for the sake of his name. [4] Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for you are with me;
your rod and your staff, they comfort me. * [5] You set out a table before me in front of my adversaries; you have anointed my head with oil; my cup runs over. [6] Surely goodness and steadfast love will pursue me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the LORD for length of days. *

PSALM 24

A Psalm of David.

[1] To the LORD belongs the earth and its fullness, the world and those who live in it; [2] for it is he who founded it on the seas and set it firm on the rivers. [3] Who will go up the mountain of the LORD? And who will rise up in his holy place? [4] The one clean of hands and pure of heart, who has not lifted up his soul to emptiness and has not sworn with deceit. * [5] He will carry away a blessing from the LORD, and righteousness from the God of his salvation. [6] This is the generation of those who inquire of him, who seek your face, O Jacob. Selah. * [7] Raise your heads, you gates, and be lifted up, you everlasting doors, so that the King of glory may come in. [8] Who is this King of glory? The LORD, strong and a warrior, the LORD, a warrior in battle. [9] Raise your heads, you gates, and lift them up, you everlasting doors, so that the King of glory may come in. [10] Who is he, this King of glory?
The LORD of hosts, he is the King of glory. Selah.

PSALM 25

Of David. *

[1] To you, O LORD, I lift up my soul. [2] My God, in you I have trusted; do not let me be shamed; do not let my enemies triumph over me. [3] Yes, none who hope in you will be shamed; those who act treacherously for nothing will be shamed. [4] Your ways, O

LORD, make known to me; your paths, teach me. [5] Make me walk in your truth and teach me, for you are the God of my salvation; on you I wait all day. [6] Remember your compassion, O LORD, and your steadfast love, for they are from everlasting. [7] The sins of my youth and my transgressions do not remember; according to your steadfast love remember me, because of your goodness, O LORD. [8] The LORD is good and upright; that is why he shows sinners the way. [9] He guides the humble in justice and teaches the humble his way. [10] Every path of the LORD is steadfast love and truth for those who keep his covenant and his testimonies. [11] For the sake of your name, O LORD, forgive my iniquity, for it is great. [12] Who then is the man who fears the LORD? He will teach him the way he should choose. [13] His soul will lodge in good things, and his seed will possess the land. [14] The intimate counsel of the LORD belongs to those who fear him, and his covenant, to make it known to them. [15] My eyes are continually on the LORD, for he will pull my feet from the net. [16] Turn toward me and show me grace, for I am lonely and afflicted. [17] The distresses of my heart have widened; lead me out of my anguish. [18] See my affliction and my trouble, and take away all my sins. [19] See my enemies, for they are many, and they hate me with violent hatred. [20] Keep my soul and rescue me; let me not be shamed, for I have taken refuge in you. [21] Let integrity and uprightness watch over me, for I hope in you. [22] Ransom Israel, O God, from all his distresses.

[1] Vindicate me, O LORD, for I have walked in my integrity; in the LORD I have trusted, and I will not slip. [*] [2] Test me, O LORD, and try me; smelt my inmost being and my heart. [3] For your steadfast love is in front of my eyes, and I have walked about in your truth. [4] I have not sat with men of falsehood, and with those who hide what they are I do not go. [5] I have hated the gathering of evildoers, and with the wicked I will not sit. [6] I will wash my hands in innocence and walk around your altar, O LORD, [7] to make the sound of thanksgiving heard and to tell of all your wonders. [8] O LORD, I love the habitation of your house and the place where your glory dwells. [9] Do not sweep my soul away with sinners, or my life with men of bloodshed, [10] in whose hands are evil devices, and whose right hand is filled with bribes. [11] But I will walk in my integrity; ransom me and show me grace. [12] My foot has stood on level ground; in the assemblies I will bless the LORD.

[1] The LORD is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The LORD is the fortress of my life; whom shall I dread? [2] When evildoers came near me to eat my flesh, my adversaries and my enemies against me, they stumbled and fell. [3] If an army camps against me, my heart will not be afraid; if war rises up against me, in this I am confident. [4] One thing I have asked from the LORD; it is what I will seek: to live in the house of the LORD all the days of my life, to look upon the delight of the LORD and to inquire in his temple. [5] For he will treasure me in his shelter on the evil day; he will hide me in the secret place of his tent; on a rock he will raise me up. [6] And now my head will be high above my enemies around me, and in his tent I will sacrifice offerings with shouts of joy; I will sing and make music to the LORD. [7] Hear my voice, O LORD, when I call out; have mercy on me and answer me. [8] To you my heart has said, "Seek my face." Your face, O LORD, I do seek. [] [9] Do not hide your face from me; do not push your servant aside in anger; you have been my help. Do not abandon me and do not leave me, O God of my salvation. [10] Though my father and my mother have left me, the LORD will gather me in. [11] Show me your way, O LORD, and lead me in a straight path because of those who lie in wait for me. [12] Do not hand me over to the desire of my adversaries, for false witnesses have stood up against me, and those who breathe out violence. [13] Unless I had believed that I would see the goodness of the LORD in the land of the living... [] [14] Look to the LORD in hope; be strong, and let your heart be bold; yes, look to the LORD in hope.

[1] To you, O LORD, I call; my rock, do not turn a deaf ear to me, for if you keep silent toward me, I will be like those who go down into the pit. [2] Hear the sound of my supplications when I cry to you, when I raise my hands toward your holy sanctuary. [*] [3] Do not haul me off with the wicked and with those who do iniquity, who speak peace to their neighbors, yet evil is in their hearts. [4] Give them what their deeds deserve, as the evil of their actions deserves; as the work of their hands deserves, give to them; pay them back their due. [5] For they pay no attention to the works of the LORD or to what his hands have done; he will break them down and not rebuild them. [6] Blessed be the LORD, for he has heard the sound of my supplications. [7] The LORD is my strength and my shield; my heart trusted in him, and I was helped; my heart leaps for joy, and with my song I will thank him. [8] The LORD is strength for them, and he is a stronghold of salvation for his anointed. [9] Save your people and bless your inheritance; be their shepherd and carry them forever.

PSALM 29

[1] Give to the LORD, O sons of the mighty, give to the LORD glory and strength. [] [2] Give to the LORD the glory due his name; bow down to the LORD in holy splendor. [3] The voice of the LORD is upon the waters; the God of glory has thundered; the LORD is upon great waters. [4] The voice of the LORD comes with power; the voice of the LORD comes with majesty. [5] The voice of the LORD shatters cedars; the LORD shatters the cedars of Lebanon. [6] He makes them leap like a calf, Lebanon and Sirion like a young wild ox. [] [7] The voice of the LORD splits flames of fire. [8] The voice of the LORD makes the wilderness writhe; the LORD makes the wilderness of Kadesh writhe. [9] The voice of the LORD makes the does writhe in labor and strips the forests, and in his temple everything says, "Glory!" [10] The LORD was seated over the flood; the LORD is seated as King forever. [11] The LORD will give strength to his people; the LORD will bless his people with peace.

PSALM 30

[1] I will extol you, O LORD, for you have lifted me up and have not made my enemies glad over me. [2] O LORD my God, I cried out to you, and you healed me. [3] O LORD, you have brought my soul up from Sheol; you have preserved my life, that I should not go down to the pit. [] [4] Make music to the LORD, you his godly ones, and give thanks to his holy name. [] [5] For his anger lasts a moment, his favor a lifetime; in the evening weeping may come to lodge, but in the morning, a shout of joy. [6] As for me, I said in my ease, "I will never be moved." [7] O LORD, by your favor you made my mountain stand firm; you hid your face, and I was terrified. [8] To you, O LORD, I called, and to the Lord I made supplication: [9] "What gain is there in my blood, in my going down to the pit? Will dust give you thanks? Will it tell of your truth? [10] Hear, O LORD, and have mercy on me; O LORD, be a helper to me." [11] You have turned my lament into dancing for me; you have taken off my sackcloth and wrapped me in joy, [12] so that my glory may make music to you and not keep silent. O LORD my God, I will thank you forever.

PSALM 31

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

[1] In you, O LORD, I have sought refuge; let me never be ashamed; in your righteousness set me free. [2] Turn your ear to me; quickly rescue me; be for me a rock of shelter, a house of fortresses to save me. [3] For you are my crag and my fortress; for the sake of your name you will lead me and guide me. [4] You will bring me out of the net they have hidden for me, for you are my stronghold. [5] Into your hand I entrust my spirit; you have ransomed me, O LORD, God of truth. [*] [6] I hate those who cling to empty vanities, but as for me, I trust in the LORD. [7] I will rejoice and be glad in your steadfast love, for you have seen my misery; you have known the anguish of my soul, [8] and you have not shut me up in the hand of the enemy; you have made my feet stand in a wide place. [9] Show me grace, O LORD, for I am in trouble; my eye is worn out with vexation, my soul and my belly as well. [10] For my life is consumed in grief and my years in groaning; my strength stumbles because of my iniquity, and my bones are worn away. [11] Because of all my adversaries I have become a disgrace, above all to my neighbors, and a terror to those who know me; those who see me outside run away from me. [12] I am forgotten like a dead man, out of the heart; I have become like a ruined vessel. [13] For I have heard the slander of many, terror all around, as they conspire together against me; they scheme to take my life. [14] But as for me, I have trusted in you, O LORD; I have said, "You are my God." [15] My times are in your hand; rescue me from the hand of my enemies and from my pursuers. [16] Let your face shine upon your servant; save me in your steadfast love. [17] O LORD, let me not be ashamed, for I have called on you; let the wicked be ashamed; let them be silenced in Sheol. [18] Let lying lips be struck dumb, which speak arrogantly against the righteous with pride and scorn. [19] How great is your goodness, which you have treasured up for those who fear you, which you have done for those who seek refuge in you before the children of men! [20] You hide them in the secret place of your presence from the plots of man; you conceal them in a shelter from the quarreling of tongues. [21] Blessed be the LORD, for he has made his steadfast love wonderful to me in a fortified city. [22] As for me, I said in my haste, "I am cut off from your sight." Yet you heard the sound of my supplications when I cried out to you. [23] Love the LORD, all his godly ones! The LORD guards the faithful and repays in full the one who acts proudly. [24] Be strong and let your heart be bold, all you who wait for the LORD.

PSALM 32

A Maschil of David. [*]

[1] Blessed is the one whose transgression is lifted away, whose sin is covered. [] [2] Blessed is the man to whom the LORD does not reckon iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no guile. [3] When I was silent, my bones wore away with my groaning all the day. [4] For by day and by night your hand weighed heavy on me; my vitality was turned into the dry heat of summer. Selah. [] [5] My sin I made known to you, and my iniquity I did not hide; I said, "I will confess my transgressions to the LORD," and you lifted away the iniquity of my sin. Selah. [6] For this let every godly one pray to you at a time of finding; surely, in the flood of great waters, they will not reach him. [7] You are my hiding place; you guard me from distress; with shouts of deliverance you surround me. Selah. [8] I will give you insight and teach you in the way you are to go; I will counsel you, my eye upon you. [9] Do not be like a horse, like a mule, without understanding, whose gear of bit and bridle is for holding them in, or they will not come near you. [*] [10] Many pains belong to the wicked, but the one who trusts in the LORD, steadfast love surrounds him. [11] Rejoice in the LORD and be glad, you righteous; shout for joy, all who are upright in heart.

PSALM 33

[1] Sing for joy in the LORD, you righteous; praise is lovely from the upright. [2] Praise the LORD with the lyre; on a ten-stringed harp make music to him. [3] Sing a new song to him; play well with a shout of joy. [4] For the word of the LORD is right, and all his work is in faithfulness. [5] He loves righteousness and justice; the steadfast love of the LORD fills the earth. [6] By the word of the LORD the heavens were made, and by the breath of his mouth all their host. [7] He heaps up the waters of the sea as in a mound; he lays up the deeps in treasuries. [8] Let the whole earth fear the LORD; let all who live in the world be in awe of him. [9] For he spoke, and it was; he commanded, and it stood. [10] The LORD has broken up the counsel of the nations; he has thwarted the designs of the peoples. [11] The counsel of the LORD stands firm forever, the designs of his heart from generation to generation. [12] Blessed is the nation whose God is the LORD, the people he chose for his own inheritance. [13] From the heavens the LORD looks down; he sees all the children of men. [14] From his dwelling place he watches all who live on the earth, [15] he who shapes the heart of them all, who understands all their deeds. [16] No king is saved by a great army; a warrior is not rescued by great strength. [17] A horse is a deceptive hope for deliverance; for all its great strength it cannot save. [18] Look, the eye of the LORD is toward those who fear him, toward those who wait for his steadfast love, [19] to rescue their soul from death and to keep them alive in time of famine. [20] Our soul has waited for the LORD; he is our help and our shield. [21] For in him our heart is glad, for in his holy name we have trusted. [22] May your steadfast love, O LORD, be over us, just as we have waited for you.

PSALM 34

Of David, when he changed his behavior before Abimelech, who drove him out, and he went away. *

[1] I will bless the LORD at every time; his praise will be in my mouth always. [2] In the LORD my soul will boast; the humble will hear and rejoice. [3] Make the LORD great with me, and let us lift high his name together. [4] I inquired of the LORD, and he answered me, and from all my terrors he set me free. [5] They looked to him and shone, and their faces will not be put to shame. [6] This afflicted man called, and the LORD heard, and from all his distresses he saved him. [7] The angel of the LORD camps around those who fear him and sets them free. [8] Taste and see that the LORD is good; blessed is the man who seeks refuge in him. [9] Fear the LORD, you his holy ones, for there is no lack for those who fear him. [10] Young lions go without and are hungry, but those who seek the LORD will not lack any good thing. [11] Come, sons, listen to me; the fear of the LORD I will teach you. [12] Who is the man who takes pleasure in life, who loves days in which to see good? [13] Guard your tongue from evil and your lips from speaking deceit. [14] Depart from evil and do good; look for peace and chase after it. [15] The eyes of the LORD are toward the righteous, and his ears toward their cry for help. [16] The face of the LORD is set against evildoers, to cut off their remembrance from the earth. [17] They cried out, and the LORD heard and rescued them from all their distresses. [18] The LORD is near to the broken in heart, and the crushed in spirit he saves. [19] Many are the evils of the righteous one, but from them all the LORD rescues him. [20] He guards all his bones; not one of them has been broken. [21] Evil will bring death to the wicked, and those who hate the righteous will be held guilty. * [22] The LORD ransoms the soul of his servants, and none who seek refuge in him will be held guilty.

[1] Plead my case, O LORD, against those who contend with me; fight those who fight me. [2] Grasp shield and buckler, and stand up as my help. [3] Draw out the spear and bar the way against my pursuers; say to my soul, "I am your salvation." [4] May those who seek my soul be shamed and humiliated; may those who plan my harm be driven back and disgraced. [5] May they be like chaff in front of the wind, with the angel of the LORD pushing them. [6] May their way be darkness and slick ground, with the angel of the LORD chasing them. [7] For for no reason they hid for me the pit of their net; for no reason they dug it for my soul. [8] Let destruction come on him when he does not know it, and let the net he hid catch him; into that destruction let him fall. [9] And my soul will rejoice in the LORD; it will delight in his salvation. [10] All my bones will say, "O LORD, who is like you, who rescues the afflicted from one stronger than he, the afflicted and the needy from the one who plunders him?" [11] Violent witnesses stand up; they question me about things I do not know. [12] They pay me back evil in place of good; bereavement for my soul. [13] As for me, when they were ill, sackcloth was my clothing; I afflicted my soul with fasting, and my prayer kept returning to my chest. [14] As for a friend, as for a brother of mine, I walked about; like one mourning a mother I bowed low, dressed in dark clothes. [15] But when I stumbled they were glad and gathered; the smiters gathered against me, people I did not know; they tore and would not be silent. * [16] Among profane ones who mock for a bite of bread, they ground their teeth against me. * [17] Lord, how long will you watch? Bring my soul back from their ravages, my only life from the young lions. [18] I will thank you in the great assembly; among a numerous people I will praise you. [19] Let not my lying enemies rejoice over me; let not those who hate me for no reason narrow their eyes. [20] For they do not speak of peace, and against the quiet ones of the land they plot deceitful words. [21] They have opened their mouth wide against me; they have said, "Aha! Aha! Our eye has seen it." [22] You have seen, O LORD; do not keep silent; Lord, do not stay far from me. [23] Rouse yourself, wake up to my judgment, my God and my Lord, to my cause. [24] Judge me according to your righteousness, O LORD my God, and let them not rejoice over me. [25] Let them not say in their heart, "Aha, just as we wished!" Let them not say, "We have devoured him." [26] Let them be ashamed and humiliated together who rejoice at my harm; let them be dressed in shame and dishonor who make themselves great against me. [27] Let them sing for joy and be glad who take pleasure in my righteousness, and let them say always, "May the LORD be magnified, who takes pleasure in the peace of his servant." [28] And my tongue will murmur your righteousness, your praise all day long.

PSALM 36

To the choirmaster. Of David the servant of the LORD.

[1] An oracle of transgression to the wicked within my heart: there is no dread of God before his eyes. * [2] For he flatters himself in his own eyes too much to discover his iniquity and hate it. * [3] The words of his mouth are wickedness and deceit; he has stopped being wise and doing good. [4] On his bed he devises wickedness; he takes his stand on a way that is not good; evil he does not refuse. [5] O LORD, your steadfast love is in the heavens, your faithfulness up to the skies. [6] Your righteousness is like the mountains of God, your judgments like the great deep; man and beast you preserve, O LORD. [7] How precious is your steadfast love, O God! And the children of men find refuge in the shadow of your wings. [8] They are filled from the rich fare of your house, and from the stream of your delights you give them drink. [9] For with you is the spring of life; in your light we see light. [10] Extend your steadfast love to those who know you, and your righteousness to the upright of heart. [11] Let no foot of pride come against me, and let no hand of the wicked make me wander. [12] There the doers of iniquity lie fallen; they have been pushed down and are not able to rise.

[1] Do not get heated because of evildoers; do not envy those who commit injustice. [2] For like grass they will quickly be cut down, and like green growth they will wither. [3] Trust in the LORD and do good; live in the land and feed on faithfulness.* [4] Take delight in the LORD, and he will grant you the requests of your heart. [5] Roll your way onto the LORD; trust in him, and he will act. [6] He will make your righteousness shine out like the light, and your justice like the noon. [7] Be silent before the LORD and wait longingly for him; do not get heated over the one who succeeds in his way, over the man who carries out evil plots. [8] Let go of anger and abandon fury; do not get heated; it leads only to doing evil. [9] For evildoers will be cut off, but those who hope in the LORD will possess the land. [10] A little longer, and the wicked will be gone; you will look closely at his place, and he will not be there. [11] But the humble will possess the land and take delight in great peace. [12] The wicked schemes against the righteous and grinds his teeth at him; [13] the Lord laughs at him, for he has seen that his day is coming. [14] The wicked have unsheathed the sword and bent their bow to bring down the afflicted and the needy, to slay those who walk uprightly. [15] Their sword will go into their own heart, and their bows will be shattered. [16] The little of the righteous is better than the wealth of many wicked. [17] For the arms of the wicked will be shattered, but the LORD supports the righteous. [18] The LORD knows the days of the blameless, and their inheritance will be forever. [19] They will not be shamed in an evil time, and in days of famine they will be satisfied. [20] But the wicked will perish, and the enemies of the LORD are like the glory of the pastures; they are consumed; in smoke they are consumed.* [21] The wicked borrows and does not pay back, but the righteous shows grace and gives. [22] For those he blesses will possess the land, and those he curses will be cut off. [23] From the LORD a man's steps are made firm, and he takes pleasure in his way.* [24] When he falls, he will not be hurled down, for the LORD holds his hand. [25] I was young and have also grown old, yet I have not seen a righteous man abandoned or his children seeking bread. [26] All day he shows grace and lends, and his offspring are for a blessing. [27] Depart from evil and do good, and remain forever. [28] For the LORD loves justice and will not abandon his godly ones; they are kept forever, but the seed of the wicked will be cut off. [29] The righteous will possess the land and live in it forever. [30] The mouth of the righteous murmurs wisdom, and his tongue speaks what is just. [31] The law of his God is in his heart; his steps will not slide. [32] The wicked keeps watch on the righteous and seeks to kill him. [33] The LORD will not leave him in his hand nor condemn him when he is judged. [34] Hope in the LORD and keep his way, and he will raise you up to possess the land; when the wicked are cut off, you will look on. [35] I have seen a wicked man, a tyrant, spreading himself out like a luxuriant native tree.* [36] Then he passed on, and look, he was gone; I searched for him, but he was not found. [37] Watch the blameless and look at the upright, for the man of peace has a future. [38] But transgressors will be destroyed together; the future of the wicked will be cut off. [39] The salvation of the righteous comes from the LORD, their stronghold in a time of distress. [40] The LORD helps them and rescues them; he rescues them from the wicked and saves them, for they have sought refuge in him.

PSALM 38

*A Psalm of David, to bring to remembrance.

[1] O LORD, do not reprove me in your fury, nor chasten me in your hot anger. [2] For your arrows have come down into me, and your hand has pressed down on me. [3] There is nothing sound in my flesh because of your indignation; there is no peace in my bones because of my sin. [4] For my iniquities have passed over my head; like a heavy load, they weigh too much for me. [5] My wounds reek and rot because of my folly. [6] I am bent over, bowed down to the utmost; all day I walk about in dark mourning. [7] For my loins are full of burning, and nothing in my flesh is sound.* [8] I am numb and crushed exceedingly; I roar because of the groaning of my heart. [9] Lord, all my desire is in front of you, and my sighing is not hidden from you. [10] My heart pounds; my strength has left me; and the light of my eyes, even that is no longer with me. [11] My loved ones and my friends stand back from my affliction, and my near ones stand at a distance. [12] Those who seek my soul set traps; those who seek my harm speak of destruction and murmur deceits all day. [13] But I, like a deaf man, do not hear, and like a mute man, I do not open my mouth. [14] I am like a man who does not hear and in whose mouth there are no arguments. [15] For on you, O LORD, I have waited; you will answer, O Lord my God. [16] For I said, "Do not let them rejoice over me; when my foot slips, they make themselves great against me." [17] For I am ready to stumble, and my pain is continually in front of me. [18] For I declare my iniquity; I am anxious because of my sin. [19] But my enemies are alive and powerful, and those who hate me falsely are many. [20] And those who pay back evil in place of good oppose me, because I pursue what is good. [21] Do not abandon me, O LORD; my God, do not stay far from me. [22] Hurry to help me, O Lord, my salvation.

PSALM 39

*To the choirmaster: to Jeduthun. A Psalm of David.

[1] I said, "I will watch my ways so as not to sin with my tongue; I will keep a muzzle on my mouth as long as the wicked is in front of me." [2] I was dumb with silence; I kept quiet, away from good, and my pain was stirred. [3] My heart was hot inside me; in my sighing a fire blazed; I spoke with my tongue: [4] "Let me know, O LORD, my end, and the measure of my days, what it is; let me know how transient I am. [5] Look, you have made my days handbreadths, and my span is like nothing before you. Surely all mankind, even standing firm, is only breath. Selah.* [6] Surely a man walks about as a shadow; surely for breath they make an uproar; he piles up and does not know who will gather.* [7] And now, what am I waiting for, Lord? My hope is in you. [8] From all my transgressions rescue me; do not make me the reproach of the fool. [9] I have become mute; I will not open my mouth, for you are the one who has acted. [10] Take your blow away from me; by the attack of your hand I am finished. [11] With rebukes for iniquity you correct a man, and like a moth you melt away what he treasures; surely all mankind is breath. Selah. [12] Hear my prayer, O LORD, and listen to my cry; do not be deaf to my tears, for I am a stranger with you, a sojourner like all my fathers. [13] Look away from me, so that I may smile again, before I go and am no more."*

PSALM 40

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

[1] I waited and waited for the LORD, and he bent down to me and heard my cry for help. [2] He brought me up out of the roaring pit, out of the muddy clay, and set my feet on a rock; he made my steps firm. [3] He put in my mouth a new song, praise to our God; many will see and fear and trust in the LORD. [4] Blessed is the man who has made the LORD his confidence, and has not turned to the arrogant or to those who swerve into falsehood. [5] You have done many things, O LORD my God, your wonders and your plans for us; there is no one to set beside you. If I would declare and speak of them, they are too many to number. [6] In sacrifice and offering you took no pleasure; ears you have dug for me; burnt offering and sin offering you did not ask for.* [7] Then I said, "Look, I have come; in the scroll of the book it is written about me. [8] To do your will, my God, is my delight, and your law is in the middle of my inward parts." [9] I have proclaimed the good news of righteousness in the great assembly; look, I do not hold back my lips, O LORD; you know it.* [10] Your righteousness I have not covered within my heart; your faithfulness and your salvation I have declared; I have not hidden your steadfast love and your truth from the great assembly. [11] You, O LORD, will not hold back your compassion from me; your steadfast love and your truth will always guard me. [12] For evils past counting have closed around me; my iniquities have caught up with me, and I am unable to see; they outnumber the hairs of my head, and my heart has abandoned me. [13] Be willing, O LORD, to rescue me; O LORD, hurry to help me. [14] Let them be ashamed and humiliated together who seek my soul to snatch it away; let them be driven back and disgraced who take pleasure in my harm. [15] Let them be desolate on account of their shame, those who say to me, "Aha! Aha!" [16] Let all who seek you rejoice and be glad in you; let those who love your salvation say always, "The LORD be magnified!" [17] But I am afflicted and needy; the Lord thinks of me. You are my help and the one who rescues me; my God, do not hold back.

PSALM 41

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

[1] Blessed is the one who pays attention to the weak; in an evil day the LORD will rescue him. [2] The LORD will protect him and preserve his life; he will be blessed in the land; and you will not hand him over to the desire of his enemies. [3] The LORD will support him on the couch of illness; in his sickness you turn over all his bed.* [4] As for me, I said, "O LORD, show me grace; heal my soul, for I have sinned against you." [5] My enemies say evil about me: "When will he die and his name be gone?" [6] And if one comes to visit, he speaks falsehood; his heart collects wickedness for itself; he goes outside and speaks of it. [7] All who hate me whisper together about me; against me they plot what is evil for me: [8] "A thing of destruction is poured out on him; and now that he has lain down, he will not get up again."* [9] Even the man of my peace, in whom I trusted, who ate my bread, has lifted his heel high against me.* [10] But you, O LORD, show me grace and raise me up, and I will pay them back. [11] By this I know that you take pleasure in me, that my enemy will not cheer over me. [12] And as for me, in my integrity you have held me fast, and you set me before your face forever. [13] Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, from everlasting and to everlasting! Amen and Amen.*

PSALM 42

To the choirmaster. A Maschil of the sons of Korah.

[1] As the doe longs for channels of water, so my soul longs for you, O God. [2] My soul is thirsty for God, for the living God; when may I come and appear before God? [3] My tears have been bread for me by day and by night, while all day they say to me, "Where is your God?" [4] These things I remember, and I pour out my soul within me: how I would pass on with the crowd and walk with them to the house of God, with a voice of joyful shouting and thanks, a multitude celebrating the feast. [5] Why are you cast down, my soul, and why do you moan within me? Wait for God, for I will yet thank him for the salvation of his presence.* [6] My God, my soul is cast down within me; so I remember you from the land of the Jordan and the Hermons, from Mount Mizar.* [7] Deep calls out to deep at the sound of your cataracts; all your breakers and your billows have swept over me. [8] By day the LORD will command his steadfast love, and at night his song will be with me, a prayer to the God of my life. [9] I will say to God, my crag, "Why have you forgotten me? Why must I walk about in mourning under the oppression of the enemy?" [10] With a shattering in my bones my adversaries reproach me, as they say to me all day, "Where is your God?" [11] Why are you cast down, my soul, and why do you moan within me? Wait for God, for I will yet thank him, the salvation of my face and my God.

PSALM 43

[1] Judge me, O God, and plead my case against an unfaithful nation; from the deceitful and unjust man rescue me. [2] For you are the God of my strength; why have you cast me off? Why must I walk about in mourning under the oppression of the enemy? [3] Send your light and your truth; they will lead me; they will bring me to your holy mountain and to your dwellings. [4] And I will go to the altar of God, to God, the joy of my gladness, and I will thank you on the lyre, O God, my God. [5] Why are you cast down, my soul, and why do you moan within me? Wait for God, for I will yet thank him, the salvation of my face and my God.

PSALM 44

To the choirmaster. A Maschil of the sons of Korah.

[1] O God, with our ears we have heard; our fathers have recounted to us the deed you worked in their days, in days of long ago. [2] You, by your hand, dispossessed nations, and planted them; you brought harm on peoples, and let them spread out. [] [3] For it was not by their sword that they took the land, and their arm did not save them; but your right hand and your arm and the light of your face, for you favored them. [4] You are he, my King, O God; command the victories of Jacob. [5] By you we gore our adversaries; by your name we tread down those who rise against us. [6] For I will not rely on my bow, and my sword will not give me victory. [7] For you saved us from our adversaries, and those who hate us you put to shame. [8] In God we have boasted all the day, and your name we will thank forever. Selah. [9] But you have cast us off and disgraced us, and you do not march out with our armies. [10] You make us retreat before the adversary, and those who hate us plunder at will. [11] You hand us over like sheep for food, and among the nations you have scattered us. [12] You sell your people for no wealth and have not grown rich by their price. [13] You make us a disgrace to our neighbors, scorn and ridicule to those all around us. [14] You make us a proverb among the nations, a shaking of the head among the peoples. [15] All day my humiliation is in front of me, and the shame of my face covers me, [16] because of the voice of the one who reproaches and blasphemes, because of the enemy and the one who takes revenge. [17] All this has come on us, though we have not forgotten you and have not dealt falsely with your covenant. [18] Our heart has not turned back, and our steps have not turned aside from your way, [19] yet you have crushed us in a place of jackals and covered us over with the shadow of death. [] [20] If we had forgotten the name of our God and stretched out our palms to a strange god, [21] would God not search this out? For he knows the hidden things of the heart. [22] But for your sake we are put to death all day; we are counted as sheep for slaughter. [23] Awake! Why are you sleeping, Lord? Wake up! Do not cast us off forever. [24] Why do you hide your face, forgetting our misery and our oppression? [25] For our soul is bowed down to the dust; our belly cleaves to the earth. [26] Rise up, a help for us, and ransom us because of your steadfast love.

PSALM 45

To the choirmaster: according to Shoshannim. A Maschil of the sons of Korah. A Song of love. [*]

[1] My heart is stirring with a good word; I speak my works for the king; my tongue is the pen of a ready scribe. [2] You are fairer than the sons of men; grace is poured out on your lips; so God has blessed you forever. [3] Strap your sword on your thigh, O mighty one, your splendor and your majesty. [4] In your majesty prosper and ride on, for the cause of truth and humility and righteousness, and let your right hand teach you awesome things. [] [5] Your arrows are sharpened; peoples fall beneath you; they are in the heart of the king's enemies. [6] Your throne, O God, is forever and ever; a scepter of uprightness is the scepter of your kingdom. [] [7] You have loved righteousness and hated wickedness; that is why God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of joy beyond your companions. [8] Myrrh and aloes and cassia are all your robes; from palaces of ivory stringed instruments have made you glad. [*] [9] Daughters of kings are among your precious ones; the queen stands at your right hand in gold of Ophir. [10] Hear, daughter, and see, and turn your ear; forget your people and the house of your father, [11] and the king will long for your beauty; for he is your lord, so bow to him. [12] And the daughter of Tyre with a gift, the richest of the people, will seek your favor. [13] The king's daughter is all splendor within; her robe is of gold-woven work. [14] In colorful embroidery she is brought to the king; virgins after her, her companions, are brought to you. [15] They are brought with joy and gladness; they come into the king's palace. [16] Instead of your fathers will be your sons; you will set them as princes in all the land. [17] I will make your name remembered in every generation; so peoples will thank you forever and ever.

PSALM 46

To the choirmaster: according to Alamoth. A Song of the sons of Korah. [*]

[1] God is for us a refuge and strength, a help in distresses, readily found. [*] [2] So we will not be afraid when the earth changes and when the mountains totter into the heart of the seas, [3] when its waters roar and churn, when the mountains shake at its pride. Selah. [4] There is a river; its streams make the city of God glad, the holy place of the dwellings of the Most High. [5] God is in her midst; she will not totter; God will help her at the turning of the morning. [6] Nations roared, kingdoms were shaken; he gave out his voice; the earth melts. [7] The LORD of hosts is with us; a high refuge for us is the God of Jacob. Selah. [8] Come, look at the deeds of the LORD, who has set desolations in the earth. [9] He brings wars to an end to the far edge of the earth; he shatters the bow and snaps the spear; the chariots he burns in the fire. [10] "Be still, and know that I am God; I will be exalted among the nations, I will be exalted in the earth." [11] The LORD of hosts is with us; a high refuge for us is the God of Jacob. Selah.

PSALM 47

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

[1] All peoples, clap your hands; shout to God with a joyful cry. [2] For the LORD Most High is to be feared, a great King over the whole earth. [3] He subdues peoples beneath us and nations beneath our feet. [4] He has chosen our inheritance for us, the pride of Jacob, whom he loves. Selah. [5] God has gone up amid shouting, the LORD amid the sound of the ram's horn. [6] Make music to God, make music; make music to our King, make music. [7] For God is King of all the earth; make music with a Maschil. [*] [8] God rules as King over the nations; God is seated on his holy throne. [9] The nobles of the peoples are gathered as the people of the God of Abraham; for to God belong the shields of the earth; he is greatly exalted.

PSALM 48

A Song. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

[1] Great is the LORD and much to be praised, in the city of our God, his holy mountain. [2] Lovely in its height, the joy of all the earth, is Mount Zion, in the far north, the city of the great King. [] [3] God, in her strongholds, has shown himself to be a high refuge. [4] For look, the kings met together; they passed on together. [5] They looked, and then they were amazed; they were dismayed and rushed away. [6] Trembling took hold of them there, pain like that of a woman giving birth, [7] as with an east wind you break the ships of Tarshish. [8] Just as we heard, so we have seen, in the city of the LORD of hosts, in the city of our God; God will make her firm forever. Selah. [9] We have thought on your steadfast love, O God, inside your temple. [10] Like your name, O God, so is your praise to the ends of the earth; your right hand is filled with righteousness. [11] Let Mount Zion rejoice; let the daughters of Judah be glad because of your judgments. [12] Go about Zion and circle her; number her towers. [13] Pay close attention to her ramparts; pass through her citadels, so that you can recount it to a later generation. [14] For this is God, our God, forever and ever; he will lead us until death. []

PSALM 49

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

[1] Hear this, all peoples; listen, all who live in the world, [2] both the common and the high-born, rich and needy together. [3] My mouth will speak wisdom, and the musing of my heart is understanding. [4] I will turn my ear to a parable; I will unfold my riddle on the lyre. [5] Why should I be afraid in evil days, when the iniquity of those who dog my heels encircles me, [] [6] those who rely on their wealth and boast of the greatness of their riches? [7] Truly no man can ransom a brother, nor give to God his ransom, [8] for the ransom of their soul is too costly, and one must abandon it forever, [9] that he should go on living always and never see the pit. [10] For he will see that the wise die; the fool and the senseless perish together and leave their wealth to others. [11] Their inward thought is that their houses are forever, their dwellings from generation to generation; they have called lands after their own names. [12] But man in his honor will not lodge overnight; he is like the beasts that are cut off. [13] This is the way of the foolishly confident, and of those after them who take pleasure in their words. Selah. [] [14] Like sheep they are set down in Sheol; death will be their shepherd, and the upright will have dominion over them in the morning; their form will wear away in Sheol, far from its lofty dwelling. [15] But God will ransom my soul from the grip of Sheol, for he will take me. Selah. [16] Do not fear when a man grows rich, when the glory of his house becomes great. [17] For in his death he will take nothing; his glory will not follow him down. [18] Though in his lifetime he blessed his soul, and men praise you when you do well for yourself, [19] he will come to the generation of his fathers, who will never again see light. [20] Man in his honor, yet without understanding, is like the beasts that are cut off.

PSALM 50

A Psalm of Asaph.

[1] God, even God the LORD, has spoken, and has called the earth from the sunrise to its setting. [2] From Zion, perfect in beauty, God has shone out. [3] Our God will come and will not be silent; fire devours before him, and around him a fierce tempest rages. [4] He summons the heavens above and the earth, to judge his people: [5] "Gather my godly ones to me, who cut a covenant with me over sacrifice." [6] And the heavens announce his righteousness, for God, he is judge. Selah. [7] "Listen, my people, and I will speak; Israel, I will bear witness against you: God, your God, am I. [8] It is not over your sacrifices that I reprove you, and your burnt offerings are before me always. [9] I will not accept a bull from your house or he-goats from your pens. [10] For every animal of the forest belongs to me, the beasts on a thousand hills. [11] I know every bird of the mountains, and whatever moves in the field is with me. [12] Were I hungry, I would not say so to you, for the world is mine and all that fills it. [13] Will I eat the meat of mighty bulls, or drink the blood of he-goats? [14] Sacrifice thanksgiving to God, and fulfill your vows to the Most High; [15] and call on me on the day of distress; I will rescue you, and you will honor me." [16] But to the wicked God has said: "What business do you have recounting my statutes and taking my covenant on your mouth? [17] You hate correction and toss my words behind you. [18] If you see a thief, you are friendly with him, and you share your portion with adulterers. [19] Your mouth you send out for evil, and your tongue harnesses deceit. [20] You sit and speak against your brother; against the son of your mother you lay a fault. [21] These things you have done, and I kept quiet; you imagined that I was just like you. I will reprove you and set it out in order before your eyes. [22] Understand this, you who forget God, or I will tear you, and there will be no one to rescue. [23] The one who sacrifices thanksgiving honors me, and to the one who sets his way aright I will show the salvation of God."

PSALM 51

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David, when Nathan the prophet came to him, after he had gone in to Bathsheba.

[1] Show me favor, O God, according to your steadfast love; in the greatness of your compassion wipe out my transgressions. [2]

Wash me fully clean of my iniquity, and purify me from my sin. [3] For I myself know my transgressions, and my sin is in front of me continually. [4] Against you, you alone, I have sinned, and what is evil in your eyes I have done, so that you are in the right when you speak and pure when you judge.* [5] Indeed, in iniquity I was born, and in sin my mother conceived me. [6] Indeed, you take pleasure in truth in the innermost being; in the hidden place you make wisdom known to me. [7] Purge me of sin with hyssop, and I will be clean; wash me, and I will be whiter than snow. [8] Make me hear joy and gladness; may the bones you crushed rejoice. [9] Turn your face away from my sins, and wipe away all my iniquities. [10] Create for me a pure heart, O God, and renew a steadfast spirit within me. [11] Do not cast me out from before you, nor take your Holy Spirit from me.* [12] Bring back to me the joy of your salvation, and sustain me with a willing spirit. [13] I will teach transgressors your ways, and sinners will turn back to you. [14] Rescue me from bloodguilt, O God, God of my salvation; my tongue will shout for joy over your righteousness. [15] Lord, open my lips, and my mouth will make known your praise. [16] For you take no delight in sacrifice, or I would offer it; with burnt offering you are not pleased. [17] The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit; a heart broken and crushed, O God, you will not despise. [18] In your favor do good to Zion; rebuild the walls of Jerusalem. [19] Then you will delight in righteous sacrifices, in burnt offering and whole offering; then they will offer up bulls on your altar.

PSALM 52

To the choirmaster. A Maschil of David, when Doeg the Edomite came and told Saul, "David has come to the house of Ahimelech."

[1] Why do you glory in evil, you mighty man? The steadfast love of God lasts all day long. [2] Your tongue devises ruin; it is like a whetted razor, you who practice deceit. [3] You love evil rather than good, falsehood rather than speaking what is right. Selah. [4] You love every word that swallows up, you tongue of deceit. [5] So God will tear you down for good; he will seize you and pluck you out of your tent, and root you out of the land of the living. Selah. [6] The righteous will see it and be afraid, and they will laugh at him, saying: [7] "Here is the man who did not make God his refuge, but relied on his great wealth and made himself strong in his destruction." [8] But I am like a flourishing olive tree in the house of God; I trust in God's steadfast love for ever and ever. [9] I will give you thanks forever for what you have done; I will wait for your name, for it is good, before your godly ones.

PSALM 53

*To the choirmaster: according to Mahalath. A Maschil of David.

[1] The fool says in his heart, "There is no God." They have become corrupt and done abominable wrong; not one of them does good. [2] God looked down from heaven upon the sons of men, to see whether any had understanding, any who sought God. [3] Each of them has fallen away; all alike have turned foul; no one does good, not a single one. [4] Do the workers of iniquity know nothing, they who devour my people as they would eat bread, and do not call upon God? [5] There they were seized with dread where no dread had been; for God has scattered the bones of the one who besieges you. You have put them to shame, because God has despised them.* [6] Oh, that out of Zion would come the salvation of Israel! When God restores the fortunes of his people, Jacob will rejoice and Israel be glad.*

PSALM 54

To the choirmaster: on Neginoth. A Maschil of David, when the Ziphites came and said to Saul, "Is not David hiding among us?"

[1] O God, by your name save me, and by your strength defend my cause. [2] Hear my prayer, O God; listen to the words of my mouth. [3] For strangers have risen up against me, and violent men seek my soul; they do not keep God before them. Selah. [4] But see, God is my help; the Lord is among those who sustain my soul. [5] He will turn the evil back on my foes; in your truth, destroy them. [6] Freely I will sacrifice to you; I will praise your name, O LORD, for it is good. [7] For out of every distress he has rescued me, and my eye has looked with satisfaction on my enemies.

PSALM 55

[1] Listen, O God, to my prayer, and do not hide from my plea. [2] Pay heed to me and answer me; I wander about in my complaint and groan, [3] at the noise of the enemy, at the pressure of the wicked; for they drop trouble on me, and in wrath they nurse hatred against me. [4] My heart is in anguish within me, and the terrors of death have fallen on me. [5] Fear and trembling have come over me, and shuddering covers me. [6] And I said, "Who will give me wings like the dove? I would fly away and settle down. [7] Yes, I would flee far off; I would spend the night in the desert. Selah. [8] I would hasten my escape from the rushing wind, from the tempest." [9] Confound them, O Lord, split their tongues, for I see violence and strife in the city. [10] Day and night they make their rounds on its walls, and iniquity and mischief are within it. [11] Ruin is within it; oppression and fraud never leave its marketplace. [12] For it is not an enemy who reproaches me; that I could endure. It is not one who hates me who lifts himself up against me; from him I could hide. [13] But it is you, a man of my own rank, my companion, my close friend. [14] Together we enjoyed sweet fellowship; into the house of God we walked among the crowd. [15] May death take them by surprise; may they go down to Sheol alive, for wickedness is in their dwellings, among them.* [16] But I will call upon God, and the LORD will save me. [17] Evening, morning and noon I pour out my complaint and groan, and he hears my voice. [18] He has ransomed my soul in safety from the battle waged against me, for many were in conflict with me.* [19] God will hear and bring them low, he who has been enthroned from of old, Selah, those who never change and do not fear God.* [20] He has put out his hand against those who were at peace with him; he has broken his covenant. [21] His speech was smoother than cream, but his heart was set on war; his words were softer than oil, yet they were drawn swords. [22] Cast your burden upon the LORD, and he will hold you up;

never will he allow the righteous to be shaken. [23] And you, O God, will cast them down into the pit of ruin; bloodthirsty and treacherous men will not reach half their days. But as for me, I will trust in you.

PSALM 56

To the choirmaster: according to Jonath-elem-rechokim. A Michtam of David, when the Philistines seized him in Gath. *

[1] Show me favor, O God, for man tramples on me; all day long the fighter presses hard on me. [2] My foes trample on me all day long, for many are those who fight against me arrogantly. * [3] On the day I fear, I will trust in you. [4] In God, whose word I praise, in God I have put my trust; I will not fear. What can flesh do to me? [5] All day they wrest my words; every plan they make against me is for harm. [6] They gather together, they lie in hiding; they mark my footsteps, just as they have lain in wait for my soul. [7] For their iniquity, will they escape? In anger bring down the peoples, O God. [8] You have counted my wanderings; put my tears in your flask. Are they not in your record? * [9] Then my enemies will turn back on the day I call; this I know: God is on my side. [10] In God, whose word I praise, in the LORD, whose word I praise, [11] in God I trust; I will not be afraid. What can man do to me? [12] Your vows are binding on me, O God; I will pay thank offerings to you. [13] For you have rescued my soul from death; have you not kept my feet from slipping, so that I may walk before God in the light of the living?

PSALM 57

To the choirmaster: according to Al-taschith. A Michtam of David, when he fled from Saul, in the cave. *

[1] Show me favor, O God, show me favor, for my soul shelters in you; under the shadow of your wings I will shelter until the ruin has passed. [2] I will call to God Most High, to God who completes what concerns me. [3] He will send from heaven and save me; he rebukes the one who tramples on me. Selah. God will send forth his steadfast love and his truth. [4] My soul is among lions; I lie among those who are ablaze, sons of men whose teeth are spears and arrows, and whose tongue is a sharp sword. * [5] Rise high above the heavens, O God; may your glory be over all the earth. [6] They spread a net for my feet; my soul was bent low. They dug a pit in my path; into the midst of it they fell. Selah. [7] Firm is my heart, O God, firm is my heart; I will sing and play music. [8] Wake up, my glory! Wake up, harp and lyre! I will rouse the dawn. [9] I will praise you among the peoples, O Lord; I will sing of you among the nations. [10] For great as the heavens is your steadfast love, and your truth reaches to the clouds. [11] Rise high above the heavens, O God; may your glory be over all the earth.

PSALM 58

To the choirmaster: according to Al-taschith. A Michtam of David.

[1] Is it righteousness you speak, when you keep silent? Do you judge with equity, you sons of men? * [2] No; in your heart you work out wrongs, and in the land you deal out the violence of your hands. [3] The wicked are alienated from the womb; from birth they wander off, speaking lies. [4] Their poison is like the poison of a snake, like a deaf adder that shuts its ear, [5] which will not listen to the voice of the enchanters, of the one who casts spells with skill. [6] O God, smash the teeth in their mouths; break off the jaw-teeth of the young lions, O LORD. [7] Let them melt away like waters that flow off; when he aims his arrows, let them be as though blunted. [8] Like a slug that melts as it moves along, let them pass away; like a woman's miscarriage, may they not see the sun. [9] Before your pots can feel the thorns, whether raw or burning, he will whirl them away. * [10] The righteous one will rejoice when he sees vengeance; he will bathe his feet in the blood of the wicked. [11] Then men will say, "Truly there is fruit for the righteous; truly there is a God who judges in the earth."

PSALM 59

To the choirmaster: according to Al-taschith. A Michtam of David, when Saul sent men and they watched the house in order to kill him.

[1] Rescue me from my enemies, my God; lift me out of reach of those who rise against me. [2] Rescue me from those who do iniquity, and save me from bloodthirsty men. [3] For look, they ambush my soul; strong men gather against me, not for any transgression or sin of mine, O LORD. [4] Through no guilt of mine they run and take their positions; rouse yourself to meet me, and see! [5] And you, O LORD God of hosts, God of Israel, wake up to punish all the nations; spare none who treacherously do wickedness. Selah. [6] They come back at evening; they snarl like a dog and roam the city. [7] See how they pour out words with their mouths; swords are in their lips, for who, they think, is listening? [8] But you, O LORD, will laugh at them; you will mock all the nations. [9] Because of his strength I will keep watch for you, for God is my high refuge. * [10] The God of my steadfast love will go before me; God will let me look down on my foes. * [11] Do not slay them, lest my people forget; scatter them by your might and bring them low, O Lord, our shield. [12] For the sin of their mouths, the words of their lips, let them be trapped in their arrogance, and for the curse and the falsehood they tell. [13] Finish them in wrath, finish them so that they are gone; and let them know that God rules over Jacob to the ends of the earth. Selah. [14] And they come back at evening; they snarl like a dog and roam the city. [15] They roam about to eat; if they are not filled, they linger through the night. * [16] But I will sing of your power; in the morning I will shout for joy at your steadfast love, for you have been a high refuge to me and a place to flee in the day of my trouble. [17] My Strength, to you I will sing praise; for God is my high refuge, my God of steadfast love.

PSALM 60

To the choirmaster: according to Shushan-eduth. A Michtam of David, for teaching, when he fought against Aram-naharaim and Aram-zobah, and Joab returned and struck down twelve thousand of Edom in the Valley of Salt. *

[1] O God, you have cast us off; you have broken through us; you were angry. Turn back to us! [2] You made the land shake; you tore it open. Mend its fractures, for it is tottering. [3] You have shown your people hardship; you have made us drink wine that makes us reel. [4] You have given those who fear you a banner, to be lifted up because of the truth. Selah. [] [5] So that your beloved ones may be rescued, save by your right hand and answer me. [6] God has spoken in his holiness: "I will exult; I will portion out Shechem and measure off the Valley of Succoth. [7] Gilead belongs to me, and Manasseh belongs to me; Ephraim is the stronghold of my head; Judah is my scepter. [8] Moab is my washpot; upon Edom I cast my sandal; Philistia, raise a shout over me!" [] [9] Who will bring me into the fortified city? Who has led me to Edom? [10] Is it not you, O God, who have cast us off, you who do not march out, O God, with our armies? [11] Grant us help against the foe, for vain is the deliverance of man. [12] Through God we will do mighty deeds, and he it is who will tread down our foes.

PSALM 61

To the choirmaster: on Neginah. Of David.

[1] Hear, O God, my cry; attend to my prayer. [2] From the end of the earth I call out to you as my heart grows weak; lead me up onto a rock too high for me. [3] For you have been my refuge, a tower of strength in the face of the enemy. [4] I will dwell in your tent forever; I will find shelter under the cover of your wings. Selah. [5] For you, O God, have heard my vows; you have given me the inheritance of those who fear your name. [6] You will add days to the king's days; his years will be like generation upon generation. [7] He will sit enthroned before God forever; appoint steadfast love and truth to preserve him. [8] So I will sing of your name forever, paying my vows day by day.

PSALM 62

To the choirmaster: according to Jeduthun. A Psalm of David.

[1] Only for God my soul waits in stillness; from him is my salvation. [2] Only he is my rock and my salvation, my high refuge; I will not be greatly shaken. [3] How long will you all set upon one man to kill him, as if he were a leaning wall, a fence about to fall? [4] They plot only to push him down from his height; they take pleasure in falsehood. With their mouths they bless, but in their hearts they curse. Selah. [5] Only for God wait in stillness, my soul, for from him comes my hope. [6] Only he is my rock and my salvation, my high refuge; I will not be shaken. [7] Upon God rest my salvation and my glory; the rock of my strength, my refuge, is in God. [8] Trust in him at every time, you people; pour out your hearts before him; God is our refuge. Selah. [9] Surely the sons of men are a breath, the sons of man are a lie; on the scales they go up; together they are lighter than a breath. [*] [10] Put no trust in oppression, and do not become vain through plunder; when wealth grows, do not set your heart on it. [11] Once God has spoken; twice I have heard it: that strength belongs to God, [12] and that steadfast love belongs to you, O Lord; for you repay each man according to his deeds.

PSALM 63

A Psalm of David, when he was in the wilderness of Judah.

[1] O God, you are my God; I seek you at dawn; my soul thirsts for you, my flesh longs for you, in a land dry and weary, where there is no water. [] [2] Thus I have gazed on you in the holy place, to see your strength and your glory. [3] For your steadfast love is better than life; my lips will extol you. [4] So I will bless you all my life; in your name I will raise my hands. [5] As with marrow and fatness my soul will be filled, and with lips that sing for joy my mouth will praise you, [6] when I call you to mind upon my bed and through the watches of the night I meditate on you. [7] For you have been a help to me, and in the shade of your wings I shout for joy. [8] My soul holds fast to you; your right hand holds me up. [9] But those who seek my soul for ruin will go into the lowest parts of the earth. [10] They will be handed over to the sword; they will be the prey of jackals. [] [11] But the king will be glad in God; all who swear by him will boast, for the mouth of liars will be shut.

PSALM 64

[1] Hear my voice, O God, as I complain; guard my life from the terror of the enemy. [2] Hide me from the secret counsel of the wicked, from the tumult of those who do iniquity, [3] who whet their tongue like a sword and fit their arrow, a bitter word, [4] to shoot in hidden places at the blameless; suddenly they shoot at him, without fear. [5] They make firm for themselves an evil matter; they talk of laying snares in secret; they say, "Who will see them?" [6] They search out wrongs: "We have finished a carefully searched-out scheme." The inner self of man and his heart are deep. [*] [7] But God will shoot at them; with an arrow they will suddenly be struck. [8] They will make him stumble, their own tongue against them; all who look on them will shake the head. [9] And all men will fear and declare the deed of God, and they will consider his work. [10] The righteous will be glad in the LORD and find refuge in him; all the upright in heart will boast.

PSALM 65

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David. A Song.

[1] To you silence is praise, O God, in Zion, and to you the vow shall be fulfilled. [] [2] O hearer of prayer, to you all flesh comes. [3] Words of iniquities have prevailed against me; our transgressions, you make atonement for them. [] [4] Blessed is the man you choose and bring near, that he may dwell in your courts! We will be filled with the good things of your house, of your holy temple. [5] By fearsome deeds you answer us in righteousness, O God of our salvation, the trust of all the ends of the earth and of the distant sea, [6] who by his power sets the mountains firm, girded about with might, [7] who quiets the roar of the seas, the roar of their waves, and the uproar of the peoples, [8] so that the dwellers at the earth's ends stand in awe of your signs; you make the outgoings of morning and evening ring with joy. [9] You care for the land and give it drink; you make it very rich; the stream of God is full of water; you prepare their grain, for so you have made it ready. [10] You water its furrows abundantly, settling its ridges; you make it soft with showers and bless what sprouts in it. [11] You have crowned the year with your goodness, and your paths drip with fatness. [12] The pastures of the wilderness drip, and the hills wrap themselves in rejoicing. [13] The meadows are clothed with flocks, the valleys are wrapped in grain; they shout aloud, they even sing.

PSALM 66

To the choirmaster. A Song. A Psalm.

[1] Raise a joyful shout to God, all the earth! [2] Sing out the glory of his name; make his praise glorious! [3] Say to God, "How fearsome are your deeds! Through the greatness of your strength your enemies feign submission to you. [4] All the earth worships you and sings to you; they sing of your name." Selah. [5] Come and see the works of God, fearsome in his doings toward the sons of men. [6] He changed the sea into dry ground; they crossed the river on foot. There let us rejoice in him, [7] who rules forever by his strength, whose eyes watch over the nations; let not the rebellious lift themselves up. Selah. [8] Bless our God, you peoples, and make the sound of his praise heard, [9] who has set our soul among the living and has not allowed our feet to slip. [10] For you have tried us, O God; you have refined us as one refines silver. [11] You led us into the net; you put a heavy weight upon our loins. [12] You made men ride over our heads; we came through fire and water, but you brought us out into abundance.* [13] I will enter your house with burnt offerings; I will fulfill my vows to you, [14] the vows my lips opened to make and my mouth spoke in my distress. [15] Burnt offerings of fatlings I will offer up to you, with the incense of rams; I will prepare bulls with goats. Selah. [16] Come, listen, all who fear God, and I will recount what he has done for my soul. [17] To him I cried with my mouth, and he was exalted with my tongue. [18] If I had looked on iniquity in my heart, the Lord would not hear. [19] But God has indeed heard; he has paid heed to the voice of my prayer. [20] Blessed be God, who has not turned aside my prayer, nor his steadfast love from me!

PSALM 67

[1] God be gracious to us and bless us; may he make his face shine among us, Selah, [2] to make known your way in the earth, among all nations your salvation. [3] May the peoples give you thanks, O God; may all the peoples give you thanks. [4] May the nations rejoice and shout for joy, for you judge the peoples with fairness and lead the nations upon the earth. Selah. [5] May the peoples give you thanks, O God; may all the peoples give you thanks. [6] The land has given its produce; God, our own God, will bless us. [7] God will bless us, and all the ends of the earth will fear him.
