[1] Let God arise, let his enemies be scattered, and let those who hate him flee before him! [2] As smoke is blown away, blow them away; as wax melts in the presence of fire, may the wicked perish in the presence of God. [3] But let the righteous be glad; let them exult before God; let them rejoice with gladness! [4] Sing to God, make music to his name; cast up a way for him who rides through the deserts; the LORD is his name, so exult before him.* [5] Father of the fatherless and judge for the widows is God in his holy dwelling. [6] God gives the lonely a household to live in; he brings out prisoners into prosperity, but the rebellious live in a scorched land.* [7] O God, when you went forth before your people, when you strode through the wasteland, Selah, [8] the earth shook; even the heavens dropped rain at the presence of God; yonder Sinai trembled at the presence of God, the God of Israel. [9] You sent down a generous rain, O God; you strengthened your inheritance when it was worn out. [10] Your company made its home there; in your goodness, O God, you made provision for the afflicted. [11] The Lord gives the word; great is the company of women who proclaim the news:* [12] "Kings of armies run away, they run away!" And the woman at home shares out the plunder. [13] Even if you lie down among the sheepfolds, there are wings of a dove overlaid with silver, and its pinions with yellow gold.* [14] When the Almighty scattered kings in the land, it snowed on Zalmon. [15] The mountain of Bashan is a mountain of God; the mountain of Bashan is a mountain of peaks. [16] Why do you look on in envy, you peaked mountains, at the mount God has chosen to dwell on? Indeed, the LORD will dwell there for all time.* [17] The chariots of God number twenty thousand, thousands upon thousands; the Lord is among them, as at Sinai, in the holy place. [18] You went up on high; you took captives captive; you received gifts among men, even the rebellious, so that the LORD God might dwell there.* [19] Blessed be the Lord, who carries our load day after day, God our salvation. Selah.* [20] Our God is a God who saves, and with GOD the Lord are the ways out from death.* [21] Surely God will crush the head of his enemies, the hairy scalp of the one who goes on in his guilt. [22] The Lord has said, "From Bashan I will bring them back; I will bring them back from the depths of the sea, [23] so that you may dip your foot in blood, and the tongue of your dogs may have its share of the enemies." [24] Your processions have been seen, O God, the processions of my God, my King, in the sanctuary. [25] Singers went first, players of strings after, amid maidens beating tambourines. [26] In the congregations bless God, the LORD, you who come from Israel's spring! [27] There is little Benjamin ruling them, the princes of Judah with their company, the princes of Zebulun, the princes of Naphtali. [28] Your God has ordained your strength; be strong, O God, you who have worked for us. [29] From your temple above Jerusalem kings will bring you tribute. [30] Rebuke the beast of the reeds, the band of bulls with the calves of the peoples, till each submits with bars of silver; scatter the peoples who take pleasure in wars.* [31] Envoys will come out of Egypt; Cush will run to hold out its hands to God. [32] Kingdoms of the earth, sing to God; make music to the Lord, Selah, [33] to him who rides upon the heaven of heavens of old; listen, he gives forth his voice, a voice of strength. [34] Give strength to God; his majesty is over Israel, and his might is in the clouds. [35] Fearsome is God from your holy places; the God of Israel is he who gives strength and power to the people. Blessed be God!

PSALM 69

To the choirmaster: according to Shoshannim. Of David.

[1] Save me, O God, for the waters have come in up to my throat.* [2] I have sunk in deep mud, and there is no place to stand; I have come into the depths of the waters, and the current overwhelms me. [3] I am worn out from crying; my throat is scorched; my eyes give out while I wait for my God. [4] Those who hate me for no reason outnumber the hairs of my head; strong are those who would silence me, my enemies without cause. What I did not steal I must then give back.* [5] O God, you know my foolishness, and my guilt is not concealed from you. [6] Do not let those who hope in you be ashamed because of me, Lord GOD of hosts; do not let those who seek you be humiliated because of me, O God of Israel. [7] For on your account I have endured reproach; shame has covered my face. [8] I have become a stranger to my brothers and an alien to my mother's children. [9] For the zeal of your house has eaten me up, and the insults of those who insult you have fallen upon me. [10] When I wept, with fasting for my soul, that became an insult to me. [11] When I put on sackcloth for clothing, I became a proverb to them. [12] Those sitting in the gate talk of me, and the drinkers of strong drink make songs about me. [13] But as for me, my prayer goes to you, O LORD, in a time of favor; O God, in your great steadfast love answer me with the truth of your salvation. [14] Pull me out of the mud, and let me not sink; let me be rescued from those who hate me and from the depths of the waters. [15] Let not the torrent of waters overwhelm me, nor the deep swallow me, nor the pit shut its mouth over me. [16] Answer me, O LORD, for good is your steadfast love; in your great compassion turn toward me. [17] And do not hide your face from your servant, for I am in trouble; make haste to answer me. [18] Come near to my soul and redeem it; set me free because of my foes. [19] You know my reproach, my shame, my dishonor; my adversaries are all in your sight. [20] Reproach has broken my heart, and I am deathly ill. I hoped for sympathy, but there was none, and for comforters, and found none. [21] They put gall in my food, and in my thirst they made me drink vinegar.* [22] May their table before them become a trap, and for those at ease a snare.* [23] May their eyes grow dim so they do not see, and make their loins shake continually. [24] Pour out your wrath upon them, and let the heat of your anger catch them. [25] May their camp be laid waste; in their tents may there be no one living. [26] For the one you have struck they pursue, and they talk about the pain of those you have pierced. [27] Put guilt upon their guilt, and let them not enter into your righteousness. [28] May they be wiped out of the book of the living and not be written with the righteous. [29] But I am lowly and in pain; may your salvation, O God, lift me to safety. [30] I will praise the name of God in song; I will make him great with thanksgiving. [31] And it will please the LORD more than an ox, or a bull that has horns and divided hoofs. [32] The lowly will see it and rejoice; you who seek God, may your hearts live! [33] For the LORD hears the needy and does not despise his own who are bound. [34] May heaven and earth praise him, the seas and all that stirs in them. [35] For God will save Zion and rebuild the cities of Judah; and they will live there and take possession of it. [36] The descendants of his servants will inherit it, and those who love his name will settle there.

PSALM 70

*To the choirmaster. Of David, to bring to remembrance.

[1] O God, come to rescue me! O LORD, hurry to my help! [2] May those who seek my soul be put to shame and confusion; may those who desire my hurt be driven back and humiliated. [3] May those who say, "Aha, aha!" turn back on account of their shame. [4] May all who seek you exult and rejoice in you; may those who love your salvation always say, "Let God be magnified!" [5] But I am lowly and poor; O God, hurry to me! You are my help and my rescuer; O LORD, do not linger.

PSALM 71

[1] In you, O LORD, I have sought refuge; let me never be put to shame. [2] By your righteousness rescue me and set me free; turn your ear to me and save me. [3] Be for me a rock to dwell in, where I can always go; you have commanded my salvation, for you are my crag and my stronghold. [4] My God, deliver me from the hand of the wicked, from the clutch of the wrongdoer and the cruel. [5] For you are my hope, Lord GOD, my confidence since my youth. [6] On you I have relied from the womb; from my mother's belly you drew me out; my praise is always about you.* [7] I have been like a wonder to many, but you are my strong shelter. [8] My mouth is full of your praise, of your glory all day long. [9] Do not throw me aside in my old age; when my strength fails, do not abandon me. [10] For my enemies talk about me, and those who watch for my soul plot together, [11] saying, "God has abandoned him; chase him and catch him, for no one will rescue him." [12] O God, do not stay far from me; my God, hurry to my help! [13] May those who oppose my soul be shamed and brought to an end; may those who seek my hurt be covered with reproach and dishonor. [14] As for me, I will always hope, and I will add to all your praise. [15] My mouth will recount your righteousness, your salvation all day long, though I cannot know their sum. [16] I will go in the strength of the Lord GOD; I will call to mind your righteousness, yours only. [17] O God, since my youth you have taught me, and until now I proclaim your wonders. [18] And even to old age and gray hair, O God, do not abandon me, until I proclaim your arm to the next generation, your power to everyone who is to come. [19] And your righteousness, O God, is high as the heavens; you have done great things. O God, who is like you? [20] You who have shown me many hard troubles will give me life again, and from the depths of the earth you will bring me up again. [21] You will multiply my greatness and turn again to comfort me. [22] I too will thank you with the harp for your truth, my God; I will make music to you on the lyre, O Holy One of Israel. [23] My lips will sing for joy as I make music to you, and my soul too, which you have ransomed. [24] My tongue also will speak of your righteousness all day, for those who seek my harm have been shamed and abashed.

Of Solomon.

[1] Give the king your judgments, O God, and your righteousness to the son of the king. [2] He will judge your people in righteousness, and your lowly ones with justice. [3] The mountains will bring peace to the people, and the hills, through righteousness. [4] He will vindicate the lowly among the people, save the sons of the poor, and crush the oppressor. [5] They will fear you as long as the sun lasts, and while the moon shines, generation after generation. [] [6] He will come down like rain upon cut grass, like showers sprinkling the land. [7] In his days the righteous will flourish, with peace in plenty until the moon is gone. [8] And he will rule from sea to sea, and from the River to the ends of the earth. [9] Before him the dwellers of the desert will bow, and his enemies will lick the dust. [10] The kings of Tarshish and of the islands will bring presents; the kings of Sheba and Seba will offer tribute. [11] Yes, all kings will bow down before him; all nations will serve him. [12] For he will rescue the poor who cry out, the lowly one who has no one to help. [13] He will take pity on the weak and the poor, and the souls of the poor he will save. [14] From oppression and violence he will redeem their soul, and their blood will be precious in his eyes. [15] So may he live, and may the gold of Sheba be given him; may they pray for him always and bless him all day long. [16] May there be plenty of grain in the land, up on the mountaintops; may its fruit rustle like Lebanon, and may those of the city blossom like the grass of the earth. [] [17] May his name last forever; as long as the sun his name will flourish; may men be blessed in him; may all nations call him happy. [18] Blessed be the LORD God, the God of Israel, who alone works wonders. [19] And blessed be his glorious name forever; and may the whole earth be filled with his glory. Amen and Amen. [20] Here end the prayers of David the son of Jesse. [*]

PSALM 73

A Psalm of Asaph.

[1] Surely God is good to Israel, to such as are pure in heart. [2] As for me, my feet had all but strayed; my steps had almost slid away. [3] For I envied the arrogant as I saw the peace of the wicked. [4] For there are no torments in their death; their body is well fed. [] [5] They do not share in the toil of mortals, nor are they struck like the rest of men. [6] So pride is the chain around their neck; a garment of violence covers them. [7] Their eye bulges with fat; the fancies of their heart run over. [8] They scoff and speak in wickedness of oppression; from on high they speak. [9] They have set their mouth against the heavens, and their tongue struts through the earth. [10] So his people turn back to this place, and they drink up waters in full measure. [] [11] And they say, "How can God know? Is there knowledge with the Most High?" [12] See, such are the wicked: ever at ease, they pile up wealth. [13] Surely for nothing have I kept my heart clean and washed my hands in innocence. [14] For I have been struck all day long, and my rebuke comes every morning. [15] Had I said, "I will talk this way," I would have been false to the generation of your sons. [16] When I tried to understand this, it seemed wearisome in my eyes, [17] until I came into God's holy places; then I discerned their end. [18] Surely you put them on slippery ground; you cast them down to ruins. [19] How they are made desolate in an instant! They are finished, brought to an end by terrors. [20] As a dream after waking, O Lord, so when you rouse yourself you will scorn their image. [] [21] For my heart was soured, and I was stabbed in my inmost being; [] [22] I was senseless and without knowledge; I was a beast before you. [23] Yet I am always with you; you have taken hold of my right hand. [24] By your counsel you will lead me, and afterward you will take me into glory. [25] Whom have I in the heavens? And with you, there is nothing on earth I desire. [26] My flesh and my heart may waste away, but God is the rock of my heart and my portion forever. [27] For see, those far from you will perish; you put an end to everyone who strays from you like a harlot. [28] But for me it is good to draw near to God; I have made the Lord GOD my shelter, to tell of all your works.

PSALM 74

A Maschil of Asaph.

[1] Why, O God, have you rejected us forever? Why does your anger fume against the flock of your pasture? [2] Remember your congregation, which you bought in days of old, which you redeemed as the tribe of your inheritance, this Mount Zion where you have lived. [3] Raise your feet toward the endless ruins, all the evil the enemy has done in the holy place. [4] Your foes have roared within your meeting place; they have set up their emblems as signs. [5] It looks as when one raises axes high in a thicket of trees. [] [6] And now its carvings, all together, they beat down with axe and hammers. [7] They have sent your sanctuary up in flames; to the ground they have defiled the dwelling of your name. [8] They said in their hearts, "Let us oppress them all together." They have burned every meeting place of God in the land. [9] Our signs we do not see; there is no prophet anymore, nor anyone among us who knows for how long. [10] Until when, O God, will the foe revile? Shall the enemy scorn your name for good? [11] Why do you draw back your hand, your right hand? Take it from your bosom and destroy them! [12] But God is my King from ancient times, who does saving deeds in the middle of the earth. [13] You split the sea by your might; you shattered the heads of the dragons upon the waters. [14] You smashed the heads of Leviathan; you gave him as food to the people of the desert. [] [15] You broke open fountain and stream; you dried up mighty rivers. [16] Yours is the day, and yours the night as well; you set in place the light and the sun. [17] You fixed all the borders of the earth; summer and winter, you made them. [18] Remember this: the enemy has reviled, O LORD, and a senseless people has scorned your name. [19] Do not hand over the soul of your dove to the beast; do not forget the life of your poor forever. [20] Have regard for the covenant, for the dark corners of the land are full of the dwellings of violence. [21] Let not the crushed one go back disgraced; let the poor and needy praise your name. [22] Rise up, O God, defend your cause; remember the fool's reproach against you all day long. [23] Do not forget the clamor of your foes, the tumult of your opponents that rises ever higher.

PSALM 75

To the choirmaster: according to Al-taschith. A Psalm of Asaph. A Song.

[1] We thank you, O God, we thank you; your name is near; they recount your wonders. [2] "When I seize the set time, I myself will judge rightly. [3] The earth and all who live in it are melting; I have made its pillars firm. Selah. [4] I said to the boasters, 'Do not boast,' and to the wicked, 'Do not raise the horn; [5] do not raise your horn on high or speak with a stiff neck.'" [6] For lifting up comes neither from the east nor from the west, nor from the desert; [*] [7] but it is God who judges; this one he puts down, and that one he raises. [8] For a cup is in the LORD's hand, with wine that foams, well mixed, and he pours from it; surely its dregs all the wicked of the earth will drain and drink. [9] But I will proclaim it forever; I will make music to the God of Jacob. [10] And all the horns of the wicked I will cut down; the horns of the righteous will be raised high.

PSALM 76

To the choirmaster: on Neginoth. A Psalm of Asaph. A Song.

[1] God is known in Judah; in Israel his name is great. [2] In Salem is his tent, and his dwelling in Zion. [3] There he shattered the fiery shafts of the bow, shield and sword and war. Selah. [4] You are resplendent, more glorious than the mountains of prey. [5] The bold of heart have been stripped; they slept their sleep, and all the men of strength could not find their hands. [6] At your rebuke, O God of Jacob, chariot and horse sank into deep sleep. [7] You, fearsome are you! And who can stand in your presence when you are angry? [8] From the heavens you sounded out judgment; the earth was afraid and grew quiet [9] when God rose up for judgment, to save all the lowly of the earth. Selah. [10] For the wrath of man will praise you; the rest of wrath you will wrap around you. [*] [11] Vow, and fulfill your vows to the LORD your God; let all around him bring tribute to the One to be feared. [12] He cuts short the breath of princes; he is fearsome to the kings of the earth.

PSALM 77

To the choirmaster: according to Jeduthun. A Psalm of Asaph.

[1] My voice goes to God, and I will cry out; my voice goes to God, and he will listen to me. [2] In the day of my distress I sought the Lord; at night my hand was stretched out and did not tire; my soul would not be comforted. [3] I think of God, and I groan; I ponder, and my spirit faints. Selah. [4] You have held my eyes awake; I am troubled and cannot speak. [5] I have thought about the days of old, the years of long ago. [6] I call to mind my music in the night; with my heart I reflect, and my spirit searches diligently: [7] "Will the Lord reject forever? Will he be favorable no more? [8] Is his steadfast love gone for good? Has his word failed for generation after generation? [9] Has God forgotten to show favor? Has he shut up his compassion in anger?" Selah. [10] Then I said, "It is my affliction, that the right hand of the Most High has changed." [*] [11] I will call to mind the works of the LORD; indeed, I will remember your wonders of long ago. [12] I will ponder all your work and reflect on your deeds. [13] O God, your way is in the holy place; what god is as great as God? [14] You are the God who does wonders; you have made your strength known among the peoples. [15] You redeemed your people with your arm, the sons of Jacob and Joseph. Selah. [16] The waters saw you, O God, the waters saw you and were in anguish; the deeps too shook. [17] The clouds poured down water; the skies sent out thunder; your arrows went flying here and there. [18] The sound of your thunder was in the whirlwind; flashes lit up the world; the earth shook and quaked. [19] Through the sea was your way, and your paths through mighty waters, and your footprints were not seen. [20] You guided your people like a flock by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

A Maschil of Asaph.

[1] Listen, my people, to my law; bend your ears to the words of my mouth. [2] I will open my mouth with a parable; I will utter dark sayings from long ago, [3] things we have heard and come to know, which our fathers recounted to us. [4] We will not conceal them from their sons; to a later generation we will recount the praises of the LORD, his strength, and the wonders he has performed. [5] For he set up a testimony in Jacob and placed a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers to teach to their sons, [6] that a later generation might know them, sons who were yet to be born, and that they might arise and recount them to their sons, [7] so that they would put their confidence in God and not forget the deeds of God, but keep his commandments, [8] and not be like their fathers, a generation stubborn and defiant, a generation whose heart was not firm and whose spirit was not true to God. [9] The sons of Ephraim, armed and shooting with bows, turned back in the day of battle. [10] They did not keep the covenant of God, and they refused to walk in his law. [11] They forgot what he had done, the wonders he had let them see. [12] Before their fathers he worked marvels in the land of Egypt, the field of Zoan. [13] He divided the sea and brought them across, and he made the waters stand up like a heap. [14] By day he guided them with the cloud, and through the whole night with the light of fire. [15] He split rocks in the desert and gave them drink in plenty, as from the great deep. [16] He brought out streams from the rock and caused waters to flow down like rivers. [17] But they kept on sinning against him still more, defying the Most High in the parched land. [18] They put God to the test in their hearts, demanding food for their appetite. [19] They spoke against God, saying, "Is God able to spread a table in the desert? [20] True, he struck the rock so that water gushed and streams flowed in floods; but can he give bread too, or supply meat for his people?" [21] So when the LORD heard, he was furious; fire blazed against Jacob, and anger too went up against Israel, [22] for they did not believe God or rely on his salvation. [23] And he gave command to the clouds above and opened the doors of the heavens; [24] he rained manna upon them to eat and gave them the grain of the heavens. [25] Each man ate the bread of the mighty; he sent them food to the full.* [26] He set the east wind going in the heavens and led out the south wind by his strength. [27] He rained flesh upon them like dust, and birds on the wing like the sand of the seas; [28] he made them drop in the middle of their camp, around their dwellings. [29] And they ate and were filled to the full; he gave them what they longed for. [30] They had not yet turned from their craving, while their food was still in their mouths, [31] when the anger of God went up against them; he slew the strongest among them and laid low the chosen men of Israel. [32] In spite of all this they sinned still, and they did not believe in his wonders.

[33] So he ended their days in emptiness, and their years in sudden dread. [34] Whenever he slew them, they would inquire after him; they would turn and seek God early. [35] They would remember that God was their rock, and God Most High their redeemer. [36]
Yet they deceived him with their mouths, and with their tongues they lied to him. [37] Their heart was not firm toward him, nor were they true to his covenant. [38] But he, full of compassion, made atonement for iniquity and did not destroy; often he held back his anger and did not rouse all his wrath.* [39] He remembered that they were flesh, a breath that goes away and does not return. [40] How many times they defied him in the desert and pained him in the wasteland! [41] They tested God again and again and provoked the Holy One of Israel.* [42] They did not remember his hand, the day he ransomed them from the foe, [43] how he put his signs in Egypt and his marvels in the field of Zoan. [44] He changed their rivers to blood, and their streams too, so that they could not drink. [45] He sent among them swarms of flies that ate them up, and frogs that ruined them. [46] He handed their produce to the grasshopper, and the fruit of their toil to the locust. [47] He destroyed their vines with hail, and their sycamore figs with frost. [48] He gave up their cattle to the hail, and their herds to flashes of lightning. [49] He let loose on them his burning anger, wrath and fury and trouble, a company of messengers of harm. [50] He made a way for his anger; he did not keep their soul from death, but gave their life up to the pestilence. [51] He struck down all the firstborn in Egypt, the first of their vigor in the tents of Ham. [52] But he brought out his people like sheep and led them through the wilderness like a flock. [53] He guided them securely, and they did not fear, but the sea overwhelmed their enemies. [54] And he brought them to his holy territory, to this mountain his right hand had gained. [55] He cast out the nations before them and apportioned them as an inheritance by line, and settled the tribes of Israel in their tents. [56] But they tested and defied God Most High and did not observe his testimonies. [57]
They fell away and were faithless like their fathers; they turned like a bow that cannot be trusted. [58] They angered him with their high places and stirred his jealousy with their carved idols. [59]
When God heard, he was furious and wholly rejected Israel. [60]
He forsook the tabernacle at Shiloh, the tent he had set up among men. [61] He handed over his strength to captivity, and his glory into the foe's hand. [62] He delivered his people to the sword and was furious with his inheritance. [63] Fire consumed his young men, and his maidens were not praised in song. [64] His priests fell by the sword, and his widows could not lament. [65] Then the Lord woke as from sleep, like a warrior shouting from wine. [66]
He beat back his foes; he gave them lasting disgrace. [67] He spurned the tent of Joseph and did not choose the tribe of Ephraim; [68] he chose instead the tribe of Judah, Mount Zion, which he loved. [69] And he built his sanctuary like the high places, like the earth that he founded for all time. [70] And he chose David his servant and took him from the pens of the sheep; [71] from tending the ewes with young he brought him to shepherd Jacob his people and Israel his inheritance. [72] And he shepherded them with an upright heart and led them with skillful hands.

PSALM 79

A Psalm of Asaph.

[1] O God, nations have entered your inheritance; they have defiled your holy temple; they have made Jerusalem a heap of ruins. [2] They have given the dead bodies of your servants to the birds of the sky for food, the flesh of your godly ones to the animals of the earth. [3] They have spilled their blood like water around Jerusalem, and no one buries them. [4] We have become a scorn to our neighbors, a joke and a laughingstock to those around us. [5] Until when, O LORD? Will you be angry for good?
Will your jealousy blaze like fire? [6] Pour out your fury on the nations that do not know you, on the kingdoms that do not call upon your name, [7] for they have eaten up Jacob and made his pasture desolate. [8] Do not hold against us the iniquities of those before us; let your mercies hurry to meet us, for we are brought very low. [9] Help us, God of our salvation, for the sake of the glory of your name; rescue us and make atonement for our sins for your name's sake. [10] Why should the nations say, "Where is their God?" Let the vengeance for your servants' spilled blood be known among the nations in our sight. [11] Let the sighing of the captive come before you; by the greatness of your arm, keep alive the children of death. [12] And pay back to our neighbors seven times into their lap the taunts with which they have taunted you, O Lord. [13] And we, your people and the flock of your pasture, will thank you forever; to generation after generation we will recount your praise.

PSALM 80

*To the choirmaster: according to Shoshannim-eduth. A Psalm of Asaph.

[1] Listen, Shepherd of Israel, who leads Joseph like a flock; you who sit enthroned between the cherubim, shine out! [2] Before Ephraim, Benjamin and Manasseh, rouse your might and come to our salvation. [3] Bring us back, O God; let your face shine, and we will be saved. [4] LORD God of hosts, how long will you smoke with anger against your people's prayer?* [5] You have fed them the bread of tears and given them tears to drink by the measure.* [6] You make us a cause of contention to our neighbors, and our enemies laugh at us. [7] O God of hosts, bring us back; let your face shine, and we will be saved. [8] A vine you brought out of Egypt; you drove out nations and planted it. [9] You prepared room before it; it struck its roots deep and filled the land. [10] Its shade covered the mountains, and its boughs the cedars of God.

11 It stretched out its branches to the sea, and its shoots toward the River. 12 Why have you torn down its fences, so that everyone passing by picks its fruit? 13 The wild boar out of the woods tears at it, and the creatures of the field graze on it. 14 God of hosts, return, we beg you; look from heaven and see, and take care of this vine, 15 the root your right hand planted, and the son you made strong for yourself.* 16 It is burned with fire and cut down; at the rebuke of your face they perish. 17 May your hand rest on the man at your right hand, on the son of man you strengthened for yourself. 18 And we will not turn away from you; revive us, and we will call upon your name. 19 LORD God of hosts, bring us back; let your face shine, and we will be saved.

PSALM 81

To the choirmaster: on the Gittith. Of Asaph.

1 Shout for joy to God our strength; raise a shout to the God of Jacob. 2 Lift up a song and strike the tambourine, the sweet lyre along with the harp. 3 Sound the horn at the new moon, at the full moon, for the day of our feast. 4 For this is a statute for Israel, a rule of the God of Jacob. 5 He made it a testimony in Joseph when he went out over the land of Egypt. A speech I did not know I heard:* 6 "I took the load off his shoulder; his hands were set free from the basket. 7 You called in trouble, and I set you free; I answered you from the secret place of thunder; I proved you at the waters of Meribah. Selah. 8 Listen, my people, and I will warn you; Israel, if you would only hear me! 9 Let there be no foreign god among you, and do not worship an alien god. 10 I am the LORD your God, who brought you up from the land of Egypt; open wide your mouth, and I will fill it. 11 But my people did not heed my voice, and Israel was not willing to have me. 12
So I sent them off in the hardness of their hearts, to walk by their own plans. 13 If only my people were listening to me, if Israel would walk in my ways, 14 in a moment I would humble their enemies and turn my hand against their foes. 15 Those who hate the LORD would come cringing to him, and their time would be forever. 16 And he would feed them with the fat of the wheat, and with honey out of the rock I would satisfy you."

PSALM 82

A Psalm of Asaph.

1 God takes his stand in the congregation of God; among the gods he gives judgment.* 2 Until when will you judge with injustice and lift up the faces of the wicked? Selah. 3 Defend the poor and the orphan; vindicate the afflicted and the needy. 4 Set free the poor and the needy; rescue them from the grip of the wicked. 5 They neither know nor understand; in darkness they walk to and fro; all the foundations of the earth totter. 6 I said,
"You are gods; sons of the Most High are you all. 7 Yet like men you will die, and like one of the princes you will fall." 8 Rise, O God, judge the earth, for you will take all the nations as your inheritance.

PSALM 83

A Song. A Psalm of Asaph.

1 O God, do not keep still; do not be silent, and do not be quiet, O God. 2 For see, your enemies roar, and those who hate you have raised their heads. 3 Against your people they plot cunningly; they take counsel together against your hidden ones. 4
They have said, "Come, let us cut them off from being a nation, so that the name of Israel is remembered no longer." 5 For with one mind they have plotted together; against you they make a covenant: 6 the tents of Edom and the Ishmaelites, Moab and the Hagrites, 7 Gebal, Ammon and Amalek, Philistia with those who live in Tyre; 8 Asshur too has joined itself to them; they have become the strength of the children of Lot. Selah. 9 Deal with them as with Midian, as with Sisera and Jabin at the river Kishon, 10 who perished at En-dor and became manure for the soil. 11
Make their nobles like Oreb and like Zeeb, and all their rulers like Zebah and like Zalmunna, 12 who said, "Let us take for ourselves the dwellings of God as our possession." 13 My God, make them like a tumbleweed, like straw before the wind. 14 Like fire that burns up the woods, like flame that scorches the mountains, 15 so chase them with your gale and dismay them with your storm wind. 16 Cover their faces with disgrace, so that they will seek your name, O LORD. 17 May they be put to shame and dismayed for ever; may they be humiliated and perish, 18 and let them know that you, whose name is the LORD, you only are the Most High over all the earth.

PSALM 84

To the choirmaster: on the Gittith. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

1 How beloved are your dwellings, O LORD of hosts! 2 My soul yearns, even wastes away, for the courts of the LORD; my heart and my flesh sing for joy to the living God. 3 The sparrow too has found a house, and the swallow a nest of her own, where she has set her young, at your altars, O LORD of hosts, my King and my God. 4 Blessed are they who live in your house; they will praise you continually. Selah. 5 Blessed is the man whose strength is in you, in whose heart are the highways.* 6 As they pass through the Valley of Baca they turn it into a spring; the early rain, too, clothes it with blessings.* 7 They go from strength to strength;
each one appears before God in Zion. 8 LORD God of hosts, hear my prayer; listen, God of Jacob. Selah. 9 Look upon our shield, O God; regard the face of your anointed. 10 For better is one day in your courts than a thousand; I would choose to stand at the door of the house of my God rather than live in the tents of wickedness. 11 For the LORD God is sun and shield; the LORD bestows grace and glory; no good thing will he hold back from those who walk uprightly. 12 LORD of hosts, blessed is the man who trusts in you!

PSALM 85

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of the sons of Korah.

1 You have been favorable to your land, O LORD; you have restored the fortunes of Jacob.* 2 You have lifted away the iniquity of your people; you have covered all their sin. Selah. 3
You have gathered up all your wrath; you have turned from the heat of your anger. 4 Turn us back, God of our salvation, and break off your displeasure with us. [5] Will you be angry with us for all time? Will you prolong your anger to generation after generation? [6] Will you not turn and give us life again, that your people may be glad in you? [7] Let us see your steadfast love, O LORD, and give us your salvation. [8] I will listen for what God the LORD will say, for he will speak peace to his people and to his godly ones; only let them not return to foolishness. [9] Surely near to those who fear him is his salvation, that glory may dwell in our land. [10] Steadfast love and truth meet; righteousness and peace kiss. [11] Truth sprouts from the earth, and righteousness gazes down from the heavens. [12] The LORD will indeed give what is good, and our land will give its yield. [13] Righteousness will walk before him and set his steps on the way.

PSALM 86

A Prayer of David.

[1] Turn your ear, O LORD, answer me, for I am poor and needy. [2] Guard my soul, for I am godly; you are my God; save your servant, who trusts in you. [3] Show me favor, O Lord, for I call to you all day long. [4] Make your servant's soul rejoice, for to you, O Lord, I raise my soul. [5] For you, Lord, are good and forgiving, rich in steadfast love toward all who call upon you. [6] Listen, O LORD, to my prayer, and pay heed to the sound of my pleading. [7] On the day of my distress I will call to you, for you answer me. [8] Among the gods there is none like you, O Lord, nor any deeds like yours. [9] All the nations you have made will come and worship before you, O Lord, and will give glory to your name. [10] For you are great and you do marvels; you are God, you alone. [11] Show me your way, O LORD; I will walk in your truth; make my heart one to fear your name. [12] I will praise you, O Lord my God, with my whole heart, and give glory to your name forever. [13] For your steadfast love toward me is great, and you have rescued my soul from the lowest Sheol. [*] [14] O God, the proud have risen against me, a gang of violent men seeks my soul, and they have not put you before them. [15] But you, Lord, are a God merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and rich in steadfast love and truth. [16] Turn toward me and show me favor; give your strength to your servant and save the son of your handmaid. [17] Work for me a sign of goodness, that those who hate me may see and be ashamed, because you, O LORD, have helped me and comforted me.

PSALM 87

A Psalm of the sons of Korah. A Song.

[1] His foundation is on the holy mountains. [2] The LORD loves Zion's gates above all the dwellings of Jacob. [3] Glorious things are spoken about you, O city of God. Selah. [4] I will name Rahab and Babylon among those who know me; see, Philistia and Tyre, with Cush: "This one was born there." [] [5] And of Zion it will be said, "Each and every man was born in her," and the Most High himself will make her firm. [6] The LORD will record as he registers the peoples, "This one was born there." Selah. [7] And singers, as well as dancers: "All my fountains are in you." []

PSALM 88

A Song. A Psalm of the sons of Korah. To the choirmaster: according to Mahalath Leannoth. A Maschil of Heman the Ezrahite. [*]

[1] LORD, God of my salvation, by day I have cried out, and in the night, in your presence. [2] May my prayer come before you; turn your ear to my cry. [3] For my soul has had its fill of evils, and my life has come close to Sheol. [4] I am reckoned with those who go down into the pit; I am like a man without strength, [5] free among the dead, like the slain lying in the grave, whom you no longer remember, cut off from your hand. [6] You have laid me in the lowest pit, in dark places, in the deeps. [7] Your fury presses hard on me, and with all your waves you have afflicted me. Selah. [8] You have put my friends far away from me; you have made me a horror to them; I am shut up and cannot get out. [9] My eye wastes away from affliction; every day I call on you, O LORD; I stretch out my hands to you. [10] Is it for the dead that you will do wonders? Will the shades rise and praise you? Selah. [] [11] Will your steadfast love be recounted in the grave, your faithfulness in Abaddon? [] [12] Will your marvels be known in the dark, your righteousness in the land where all is forgotten? [13] But as for me, I cry to you, O LORD; in the morning my prayer meets you. [14] Why, O LORD, do you reject my soul? Why do you hide your face from me? [15] I am afflicted and dying from my youth; I suffer your terrors; I am helpless. [] [16] Your fierce wrath has passed over me; your terrors have put an end to me. [17] They encircle me like water all day; all together they close around me. [18] Friend and neighbor you have put far from me; my acquaintances are darkness. []

PSALM 89

A Maschil of Ethan the Ezrahite.

[1] Of the steadfast love of the LORD I will sing forever; to generation after generation I will make your faithfulness known with my mouth. [2] For I said, "Steadfast love will be built forever; in the heavens you will make your faithfulness firm." [3] "I have cut a covenant with my chosen one; I have sworn to David my servant: [4] 'Forever I will establish your seed, and I will build your throne for generation after generation.'" Selah. [5] And the heavens will praise your wonders, O LORD, your faithfulness too in the congregation of the holy ones. [6] For who in the clouds can be ranked with the LORD? Who among the sons of the mighty is like the LORD, [] [7] a God dreaded greatly in the council of the holy ones, and feared above all who surround him? [8] LORD God of hosts, who is strong like you, O LORD? Your faithfulness is all around you. [9] You rule over the pride of the sea; when its waves lift up, you calm them. [10] You crushed Rahab like a slain man; with your strong arm you scattered your enemies. [11] Yours are the heavens, and yours the earth as well; the world and its fullness, you founded them. [12] North and south, you created them; Tabor and Hermon sing for joy at your name. [13] You have an arm with strength; strong is your hand, high is your right hand. [14] Righteousness and justice are the base of your throne; steadfast love and truth go before you. [15] Blessed is the people who know the festal shout; O LORD, they walk in the light of your face. [16] In your name they rejoice all the day, and through your righteousness they are lifted up. [17] For you are the splendor of their strength, and by your favor our horn is raised high. [18] For our shield is the LORD's, and our king belongs to the Holy One of Israel. [19] Once you spoke in a vision to your godly ones and said: "I have granted help to a mighty man; I have raised up one chosen from among the people. [20] I found David my servant; with my holy oil I anointed him. [21] My hand will stay firm with him, and my arm will strengthen him. [22] No enemy will get the better of him, and no son of wickedness will humble him. [23] I will beat down his foes before him and strike those who hate him. [24] My faithfulness and my steadfast love will be with him, and in my name his horn will be lifted high. [25] I will put his hand upon the sea, and his right hand upon the rivers. [26] He will call to me, 'You are my Father, my God, and the rock of my salvation.' [27] And I will make him firstborn, highest over the kings of the earth. [28] Forever I will keep my steadfast love for him, and my covenant with him will stand firm. [29] I will make his seed endure forever, and his throne like the days of the heavens. [30] If his sons abandon my law and do not walk by my judgments, [31] if they violate my statutes and do not keep my commandments, [32] then I will visit their transgression with the rod, and their iniquity with blows, [33] but my steadfast love I will not break off from him, nor prove false in my faithfulness. [34] I will not profane my covenant or change what has passed my lips. [35] Once I have sworn by my holiness: I will not lie to David. [36] His seed will last forever, and his throne like the sun before me. [37] Like the moon it will be established forever, and the witness in the clouds is faithful." Selah. [38] But you have cast off and spurned; you are furious with your anointed. [39] You have repudiated the covenant with your servant; you have defiled his crown to the ground. [40] You have breached all his walls; you have turned his fortresses into rubble. [41] Everyone who travels the road plunders him; he has become a scorn to his neighbors. [42] You have raised the right hand of his foes; you have made all his enemies glad. [43] You have even turned back the edge of his sword and have not held him up in the battle. [44] You have put an end to his brightness and thrown his throne down to the earth. [45] You have cut short the days of his youth; you have wrapped him in shame. Selah. [46] How long, O LORD? Will you hide for good? Will your wrath burn on like fire? [47] Remember what my span of life is; for what futility you have created all the sons of men! [48] Who is the man who will live and not see death, who will rescue his soul from the hand of Sheol? Selah. [49] Where are your steadfast loves of old, O Lord, that you swore to David in your faithfulness? [50] Remember, Lord, the scorn heaped on your servants, how I bear in my bosom the scorn of all the many peoples, [51] with which your enemies have scorned, O LORD, with which they have scorned the footsteps of your anointed. [52] Blessed be the LORD forever! Amen and Amen.

PSALM 90

A Prayer of Moses, the man of God.

[1] Lord, you have been a dwelling for us in generation after generation. [2] Before the mountains were brought forth, before you gave birth to the earth and the world, from eternity to eternity you are God. [3] You turn mortal man back to dust, and you say, "Return, you sons of men."* [4] For a thousand years in your eyes are as yesterday once it has gone by, and as a watch in the night. [5] You flood them away; they are a sleep; in the morning they are like grass that sprouts. [6] In the morning it blooms and sprouts; at evening it is cut down and withers. [7] For we are finished by your anger, and by your fury we are dismayed. [8] You have placed our iniquities in front of you, our hidden sins in the light of your presence. [9] For all our days decline in your wrath; we finish our years like a murmur.* [10] The days of our years, in them are seventy years, or with strength eighty years; yet their boast is labor and sorrow, for it passes quickly, and we fly off. [11] Who knows the strength of your anger, and your wrath as the fear of you deserves? [12] Teach us, then, to count our days, so that we may bring in a heart of wisdom. [13] Turn back, O LORD! How long? Relent concerning your servants. [14] Fill us in the morning with your steadfast love, so that we may shout for joy and rejoice all our days. [15] Gladden us according to the days you have afflicted us, the years we have seen trouble. [16] May your deeds appear to your servants, and your majesty upon their sons. [17] And may the beauty of the Lord our God rest on us; make firm for us the work of our hands; yes, the work of our hands, make it firm.

PSALM 91

[1] Whoever dwells in the secret place of the Most High will abide in the shadow of the Almighty. [2] I will say to the LORD, "My refuge and my stronghold, my God, in whom I put my trust." [3] For he will rescue you from the trap of the fowler, from the pestilence that destroys. [4] With his feathers he will cover you, and beneath his wings you will take shelter; his truth is shield and rampart. [5] You will not be afraid of terror by night or of the arrow that flies by day, [6] of pestilence that walks in the gloom, or of plague that ravages at midday. [7] A thousand will fall at your side, ten thousand at your right hand; to you it will not come near. [8] Only with your eyes you will look on and see the payback of the wicked. [9] For you, O LORD, are my refuge. The Most High you have made your dwelling;* [10] no harm will happen to you, and no plague will approach your tent. [11] For he will give his angels charge over you, to keep you in all your ways. [12] On their hands they will carry you, so that you will not strike your foot on a stone. [13] On lion and adder you will tread; you will trample down young lion and serpent. [14] "Because he has clung to me in love, I will rescue him; I will lift him high, for he knows my name. [15] He will call me, and I will answer him; with him I will be in distress; I will deliver him and give him honor. [16] With long life I will satisfy him, and I will let him see my salvation."

PSALM 92

A Psalm. A Song for the Sabbath day.

[1] It is good to thank the LORD and to make music to your name, O Most High, [2] to proclaim your steadfast love in the morning and your faithfulness in the nights, [3] on the ten strings and on the harp, to the sound of the lyre. [4] For you have made me glad, O LORD, by what you have done; I will shout for joy at the works of your hands. [5] How great are your deeds, O LORD!
Your plans go very deep. [6] A senseless man cannot know, and a fool cannot grasp this: [7] when the wicked spring up like grass and all who do iniquity blossom, it is that they may be destroyed for all time. [8] But you are on high forever, O LORD. [9] For see, your enemies, O LORD, see, your enemies will perish; all who do iniquity will be scattered. [10] But you have raised my horn like the wild ox's; I am anointed with fresh oil.* [11] My eye has looked down on my watchful foes; my ears have heard about the evildoers who rise against me. [12] The righteous will blossom like the palm; like a cedar in Lebanon he will grow tall. [13] Those planted in the house of the LORD will blossom in the courts of our God. [14] Even in old age they will still yield fruit; they will be rich and green, [15] to make known that the LORD is upright; he is my rock, and there is no wrong in him.

PSALM 93

[1] The LORD is King; he has put on majesty; the LORD has put on strength, he has belted it on. The world also is made firm; it will not be shaken. [2] Your throne stands firm from long ago; from eternity you are. [3] The rivers have raised, O LORD, the rivers have raised their voice; the rivers raise their crashing. [4] Above the voices of many waters, the mighty breakers of the sea, mighty on high is the LORD. [5] Your testimonies are fully trustworthy; holiness is fitting for your house, O LORD, for endless days.

PSALM 94

[1] God of vengeance, O LORD, God of vengeance, shine out! [2] Lift yourself up, Judge of the earth; pay back to the proud what they have earned. [3] Until when will the wicked, O LORD, until when will the wicked triumph? [4] They pour forth insolent speech; all who do iniquity talk big. [5] Your people, O LORD, they crush, and your inheritance they oppress. [6] Widow and stranger they slay, and orphans they murder. [7] And they say,
"The LORD does not see; the God of Jacob pays no attention." [8] Take note, you senseless among the people! Fools, when will you have insight? [9] Does the one who planted the ear not hear? Does the one who shaped the eye not see? [10] Does the one who corrects nations not punish, the one who teaches man knowledge? [11] The LORD knows the thoughts of man, that they are a vapor. [12] Blessed is the man you correct, O LORD, and instruct from your law, [13] to give him quiet from days of evil, until a pit is dug for the wicked. [14] For the LORD will not abandon his people, nor forsake his inheritance; [15] for judgment will turn back to righteousness, and all the upright of heart will go after it. [16] Who will rise for me against the wicked? Who will take a stand for me against those who do iniquity? [17] Unless the LORD had helped me, my soul would almost have dwelt in silence. [18] If I said, "My foot is slipping," your steadfast love, O LORD, supported me. [19] When my worries multiply within me, your comforts delight my soul. [20] Can the throne of ruin be your partner, one that shapes trouble by decree? [21] They gather against the soul of the righteous and condemn innocent blood. [22] But the LORD has been my high refuge, and my God the rock where I take shelter. [23] And he will turn their iniquity back on them and cut them off in their own evil; the LORD our God will cut them off.

PSALM 95

[1] Come, let us sing out to the LORD; let us raise a shout to the rock of our salvation. [2] Let us come into his presence with thanksgiving; with songs let us shout to him. [3] For the LORD is a great God, and a great King over all gods. [4] The deep places of the earth are in his hand, and the heights of the mountains belong to him. [5] His is the sea, for he made it, and the dry ground his hands shaped. [6] Come, let us bow down and bend low; let us kneel before the LORD who made us. [7] For he is our God, and we are the people he pastures and the flock under his hand.
Today, if you will hear his voice, [8] "Do not harden your hearts as at Meribah, as in the day of Massah in the desert,* [9] where your fathers tested me, tried me, even though they had seen my deeds.
[10] Forty years I was disgusted with that generation, and I said, 'They are a people who wander in heart, and they do not know my ways.' [11] Therefore I swore in my anger, 'They will not come into my rest.'"

PSALM 96

[1] Sing a new song to the LORD; sing to the LORD, all the earth.
[2] Sing to the LORD, bless his name; announce his salvation day after day. [3] Recount his glory among the nations, his marvels among all peoples. [4] For great is the LORD and worthy of much praise; fearsome is he above all gods. [5] For all the gods of the peoples are worthless idols, but it is the LORD who made the heavens. [6] Honor and majesty are before him; strength and beauty are in his holy place. [7] Give to the LORD, you clans of the peoples, give to the LORD glory and strength. [8] Give to the LORD the glory of his name; bring a grain offering and come into his courts.* [9] Worship the LORD in holy array; tremble at his presence, all the earth. [10] Say among the nations, "The LORD is King! The world too is made firm; it will not be shaken; he will judge the peoples with fairness." [11] May the heavens rejoice and the earth be glad; may the sea thunder, and everything in it; [12] may the fields be jubilant, and all that is in them; then all the trees of the woods will shout for joy [13] in the presence of the LORD, for he is coming, he is coming to judge the earth; he will judge the world with righteousness and the peoples with his truth.

PSALM 97

[1] The LORD is King; let the earth be glad; let the many islands rejoice. [2] Cloud and deep darkness surround him; righteousness and justice are the base of his throne. [3] Fire goes ahead of him and burns up his foes on every side. [4] His lightning flashes light the world; the earth has seen and trembled. [5] The mountains melt like wax at the presence of the LORD, at the presence of the Lord of the whole earth. [6] The heavens proclaim his righteousness, and all peoples have seen his glory. [7] Ashamed are all who serve carved images, who boast in worthless idols; worship him, all you gods! [8] Zion has heard and rejoiced, and the daughters of Judah are glad, because of your judgments, O LORD. [9] For you, O LORD, are the Most High over all the earth; you are lifted far above all gods. [10] You who love the LORD, hate what is evil! He guards the souls of his godly ones; from the hand of the wicked he rescues them. [11] Light is sown for the righteous man, and joy for the upright of heart. [12] Be glad in the LORD, you righteous, and give thanks at the remembrance of his holiness.

PSALM 98

A Psalm.

[1] Sing a new song to the LORD, for he has done marvels; his right hand and his holy arm have brought him salvation. [2] The LORD has made his salvation known; before the eyes of the nations he has revealed his righteousness. [3] He has remembered his steadfast love and his faithfulness toward the house of Israel; all the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God. [4] Raise a shout to the LORD, all the earth; burst out, shout for joy, and make music. [5] Make music to the LORD with the lyre, with the lyre and the sound of song. [6] With trumpets and the sound of the ram's horn, shout before the King, the LORD. [7] Let the sea thunder, and all within it, the world and those who live in it. [8] Let the rivers clap their hands; together let the mountains shout for joy [9] before the LORD, for he is coming to judge the earth; he will judge the world in righteousness and the peoples with fairness.

PSALM 99

[1] The LORD is King; let the peoples tremble! He sits enthroned on the cherubim; let the earth shake! [2] Great is the LORD in Zion, and high is he over all the peoples. [3] Let them praise your name, great and fearsome; holy is he! [4] And the strength of the King loves justice; you have set equity firm; justice and righteousness in Jacob you have done. [5] Lift high the LORD our God, and worship at his footstool; holy is he! [6] Moses and Aaron among his priests, and Samuel among those who call on his name, called to the LORD, and he answered them. [7] In the pillar of cloud he spoke to them; they kept his testimonies and the statute he gave them. [8] LORD our God, you answered them; you were to them a God who forgives, yet one who avenged their deeds. [9] Lift high the LORD our God, and worship at his holy mountain; for holy is the LORD our God.

PSALM 100

A Psalm for thanksgiving.

[1] Raise a shout to the LORD, all the earth! [2] Serve the LORD with joy; come into his presence with a ringing song. [3] Know that the LORD is God! He made us, and we are his; his people and the flock he pastures. [*] [4] Come into his gates with thanksgiving, into his courts with praise; give thanks to him, bless his name. [5] For the LORD is good; his steadfast love is forever, and his faithfulness to generation after generation.

PSALM 101

A Psalm of David.

[1] Of steadfast love and justice I will sing; to you, O LORD, I will make music. [2] I will give careful thought to a blameless way. When will you come to me? Inside my house I will walk with integrity of heart. [3] I will not put any worthless thing before my eyes. The deeds of those who turn aside I hate; they will not cling to me. [*] [4] A crooked heart will be far from me; evil I will not know. [5] The one who slanders his neighbor in secret, I will put an end to him; the one with haughty eyes and a swollen heart, I will not tolerate him. [6] My eyes are on the faithful in the land, so that they may live with me; whoever walks in a blameless way, he is the one who will serve me. [7] Whoever works deceit will not live inside my house; whoever speaks lies will not remain before my eyes. [8] Each morning I will put to silence all the wicked of the land, cutting off from the city of the LORD all who do evil.

PSALM 102

A Prayer of one afflicted, when he grows faint and pours out his complaint before the LORD.

[1] LORD, hear my prayer; let my cry for help reach you. [2] Do not hide your face from me on the day I am in distress; turn your ear to me; on the day I call, hurry and answer me. [3] For my days come to an end in smoke, and my bones are charred like a hearth. [4] My heart is struck like grass and has dried up, for I have forgotten to eat my food. [5] At the sound of my groaning my bones stick to my flesh. [6] I resemble a pelican of the wilderness; I am like an owl of the desolate places. [7] I keep watch, and I am like a solitary bird upon a roof. [8] My enemies revile me all day long; those who rage against me make an oath of my name. [9] For I have eaten ashes as my bread and mixed my drink with tears, [10] because of your indignation and your anger; for you picked me up and cast me away. [11] My days are like a shadow stretched out, and I—like grass I dry up. [12] But you, LORD, sit enthroned forever, and the memory of you lasts from generation to generation. [13] You will rise up and show mercy to Zion, for it is the time to favor her; yes, the set time has come. [14] For your servants delight in her stones and feel pity for her dust. [15] So the nations will fear the name of the LORD, and all the kings of the earth will fear your glory. [16] For the LORD has built Zion; he has appeared in his glory. [17] He has turned toward the prayer of the destitute and has not scorned their prayer. [18] Let this be written down for a later generation, so that a people not yet created may praise the LORD. [19] For he has looked down from his holy height; from heaven the LORD has looked upon the earth, [20] to hear the groaning of the captive, to release those doomed to death, [21] that they may tell of the name of the LORD in Zion and of his praise in Jerusalem, [22] when the peoples are gathered together, and the kingdoms, to serve the LORD. [23] He has brought my strength low on the way; he has cut short my days.* [24] I said, "My God, do not take me up in the middle of my days—your years run through all generations." [25] Long ago you founded the earth, and the heavens are what your hands have made. [26] They will perish, but you will stand; all of them will wear out like a garment. Like clothing you will change them, and they will be gone. [27] But you remain the same, and your years will never come to an end. [28] The children of your servants will live on, and their descendants will be established before you.

Of David.

[1] Bless the LORD, O my soul, and all my inmost being, bless his holy name. [2] Bless the LORD, O my soul, and forget none of his benefits— [3] who pardons all your iniquity and heals all your sicknesses, [4] who redeems your life from the pit and crowns you with steadfast love and tender mercies, [5] who satisfies your desire with good things, so that your youth renews itself like the eagle's.* [6] The LORD does righteous deeds and brings justice to all the oppressed. [7] He made his ways known to Moses, his deeds to the children of Israel. [8] The LORD is merciful and gracious, slow to anger and rich in steadfast love. [9] He will not always accuse, and he will not keep his anger forever. [10] He has not done to us according to our sins, nor paid us back according to our iniquities. [11] For as the heavens are high above the earth, so mighty is his steadfast love toward those who fear him. [12] As far as east is from west, so far has he put our transgressions away from us. [13] As a father shows compassion to his children, the LORD shows compassion to those who fear him. [14] For he knows how we are made; he is mindful that we are dust. [15] Man—his days are like grass; he blooms like a flower of the field; [16] when the wind passes over it, it is gone, and its place recognizes it no longer. [17] But the steadfast love of the LORD is from everlasting to everlasting upon those who fear him, and his righteousness reaches to their children's children, [18] to those who keep his covenant and remember to carry out his precepts. [19] The LORD has set up his throne in the heavens, and his kingdom has dominion over all. [20] Bless the LORD, you his angels, you mighty ones strong in power who do his word, listening to the voice of his word. [21] Bless the LORD, all you his hosts, you his servants who carry out his will. [22] Bless the LORD, all you his works, in every place of his dominion. Bless the LORD, O my soul.

PSALM 104

[1] Bless the LORD, O my soul. LORD my God, you are exceedingly great; you have clothed yourself with splendor and majesty. [2] You wrap yourself in light like a robe; you stretch out the heavens like a curtain. [3] He sets the beams of his upper rooms in the waters; he makes the clouds his chariot; he goes about on the wings of the wind. [4] He makes his messengers winds, his servants a blazing fire.* [5] He founded the earth upon its bases; it will not be shaken forever and ever. [6] With the deep you covered it like a robe; above the mountains the waters stood. [7] At your rebuke they fled; at the voice of your thunder they rushed away. [8] Mountains rose, valleys went down, to the place you had appointed for them.* [9] You fixed a limit they will not cross; they will not turn back to cover the earth. [10] He sends out springs into the ravines; they run between the hills. [11] They water every creature of the field; the wild donkeys satisfy their thirst. [12] By them the birds of the sky make their home; from among the leaves they sing. [13] He waters the mountains from his upper rooms; the earth is filled with the fruit of your works. [14] He makes the grass sprout for the cattle and plants for man to tend, bringing food out of the earth, [15] and wine to gladden the human heart, making faces shine with oil, and bread that sustains the human heart. [16] The trees of the LORD drink their fill, the cedars of Lebanon which he planted, [17] where birds make their nests; the stork—her home is in the fir trees. [18] The lofty mountains belong to the wild goats; the rocks are a shelter for the rock badgers. [19] He made the moon for the seasons; the sun knows when to set. [20] You make darkness, and night comes, in which all the animals of the forest stir. [21] The young lions roar after prey and seek their food from God. [22] The sun rises; they slip away and lie down in their lairs. [23] Then man goes out to his work, to his labor till evening. [24] How many are your works, LORD! You made them all with wisdom; the earth is filled with your creatures. [25] There is the sea, vast and wide on every side; in it are moving things beyond number, living things small and large. [26] There ships travel, and Leviathan, whom you formed to frolic in it. [27] All of them wait for you to give them their food at the right time. [28] You give to them, and they gather it; you open your hand, and they are filled with good. [29] You hide your face, and they are terrified; you take away their breath, and they die and go back to their dust. [30] You send out your Spirit, and they are created; and you make new the face of the ground.* [31] Let the glory of the LORD be forever; let the LORD rejoice in his works— [32] he who looks at the earth and it trembles, who touches the mountains and they smoke. [33] I will sing to the LORD all my life; I will make music to my God as long as I exist. [34] Let my meditation be sweet to him; I will be glad in the LORD. [35] May sinners vanish from the earth, and may the wicked be no more.* Bless the LORD, O my soul. Hallelujah!

PSALM 105

[1] Give thanks to the LORD, call upon his name; among the peoples make his deeds known. [2] Sing to him, make music to him; speak of all his wonders. [3] Make your boast in his holy name; let the heart of those who seek the LORD be glad. [4] Seek the LORD and his strength; seek his face always. [5] Remember the wonders he has done, his marvels and the judgments from his mouth, [6] you offspring of Abraham his servant, you sons of Jacob, his chosen ones! [7] He is the LORD our God; his judgments are over all the earth. [8] He is mindful of his covenant forever, of the word he ordained for a thousand generations, [9] the covenant he made with Abraham, his sworn oath to Isaac, [10] which he established for Jacob as a decree, for Israel as a covenant

for all time, [11] saying, "To you I will give the land of Canaan, the share of your inheritance," [12] when they were but a handful of men, very few, and strangers in it, [13] going about from nation to nation, from one kingdom to another people. [14] He let no one oppress them, and he rebuked kings on their account: [15] "Do not touch my anointed ones; do no harm to my prophets." [16] He summoned a famine upon the land and broke every staff of bread. [17] He sent a man before them—Joseph, sold as a slave. [18] They hurt his feet with shackles; his soul came into iron, [] [19] until the time his word came true; the word of the LORD refined him. [20] The king sent and set him loose; the ruler of peoples let him go free. [21] He made him master of his household and ruler over all he owned, [22] to bind his officials as he pleased and to make his elders wise. [23] So Israel came to Egypt; Jacob lived as a sojourner in the land of Ham. [24] And he made his people exceedingly fruitful and made them mightier than their foes. [25] He turned their hearts to hate his people, to act with cunning against his servants. [26] He sent his servant Moses, and Aaron whom he had chosen. [27] They performed his signs among them, and wonders in the land of Ham. [28] He sent darkness and it grew dark, and they did not defy his word. [] [29] He changed their waters into blood and killed their fish. [30] Their land teemed with frogs, even in the rooms of their kings. [31] He spoke, and swarms of flies came, gnats in all their borders. [32] He gave them hail in place of rain, flaming fire in their land. [33] He struck their vines and their fig trees and broke the trees throughout their borders. [34] He spoke, and locusts came, and grasshoppers beyond counting, [35] and they ate up every plant in their land and ate the fruit of their soil. [36] He struck every firstborn in their land, the first of all their strength. [37] Then he led them out with silver and gold, and not one among his tribes stumbled. [38] Egypt rejoiced when they left, for fear of them had fallen on it. [39] He spread out a cloud as a screen, and fire to light up the night. [40] They asked, and he brought quail and filled them with bread from heaven. [41] He opened the rock, and water poured out; it ran in the dry land like a river. [42] For he remembered his holy word and his servant Abraham. [43] And he led out his people with rejoicing, his chosen ones with shouts of joy. [44] He gave them the lands of the nations, and they inherited what the peoples had labored for, [45] so that they would keep his decrees and observe his laws. Hallelujah!

PSALM 106

[1] Hallelujah! Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good, for his steadfast love endures forever. [2] Who can tell the mighty acts of the LORD or proclaim all his praise? [3] How blessed are those who guard justice, who do what is right at all times! [4] Remember me, LORD, when you show favor to your people; come to me with your salvation, [5] that I may see the good of your chosen ones, rejoice in the joy of your nation, and boast along with your inheritance. [6] We have sinned, we and our fathers; we have done wrong and acted wickedly. [7] Our fathers in Egypt gave no thought to your wonders; they did not remember your many acts of steadfast love, but rebelled at the sea, at the Red Sea. [] [8] But he saved them for the sake of his name, to make his might known. [9] He rebuked the Red Sea and it dried up, and he led them through the deeps as through a desert. [10] He saved them from the hand of the hater and redeemed them from the power of the enemy. [11] The waters covered their foes; not a single one of them remained. [12] Then they believed his words and sang his praise. [13] But soon they forgot his works; they did not wait for his counsel. [14] They gave way to craving in the wilderness and put God to the test in the wasteland. [15] He gave them their request but sent a wasting sickness upon their soul. [16] They envied Moses in the camp, and Aaron, the holy one of the LORD. [17] The earth opened up and swallowed Dathan and closed over the band of Abiram. [18] Fire burned among their band; flame consumed the wicked. [19] At Horeb they made a calf and worshiped a molten image. [20] They traded their glory for the likeness of a grass-eating ox. [21] They forgot God, their deliverer, who had done great things in Egypt, [22] wonders in the land of Ham, fearful deeds at the Red Sea. [23] And he said he would destroy them—had not Moses, his chosen one, stood in the breach before him to turn back his wrath from destroying. [24] Then they spurned the desirable land; they put no faith in his word. [25] They grumbled in their tents and would not listen to the voice of the LORD. [26] So he lifted up his hand against them, that he would make them fall in the wilderness, [] [27] and make their descendants fall among the nations and scatter them across the lands. [28] They attached themselves to Baal of Peor and ate sacrifices to the dead. [29] They stirred up his anger with their deeds, and a plague broke out upon them. [30] Then Phinehas rose and intervened, and the plague was held back. [31] And this was credited to him as righteousness, for generation after generation, forever. [32] They also provoked him at the waters of Meribah, and it went ill with Moses because of them, [33] for they rebelled against his spirit, and he spoke thoughtlessly with his lips. [*] [34] They did not destroy the peoples as the LORD had told them, [35] but mixed with the nations and learned their ways. [36] They served their idols, and these became a snare to them. [37] They offered their sons and their daughters as sacrifices to demons; [38] they shed innocent blood, the blood of their sons and daughters, whom they sacrificed to Canaan's idols, so that the land was defiled with bloodshed. [39] So they made themselves unclean by their works and prostituted themselves by their deeds. [40] Then the LORD's anger burned against his people, and he loathed his inheritance. [41] He handed them over to the nations, and those who hated them ruled them. [42] Their enemies oppressed them, and they were humbled beneath their hand. [43] Many times he rescued them, but they rebelled with their schemes and sank down in their iniquity. [44] Yet he saw their distress when he heard their cry of pleading. [45] He remembered his covenant for their sake and relented according to the greatness of his steadfast love. [46] He made them objects of compassion before all who held them captive. [47] Save us, LORD our God, and gather us out of the nations, so that we may give thanks to your holy name and make our boast in your praise. [48] Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, from everlasting to everlasting! And all the people shall say, "Amen." Hallelujah!

PSALM 107

[1] Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good, for his steadfast love endures forever. [2] So let the redeemed of the LORD say it, those he has redeemed from the hand of the adversary [3] and gathered out of the lands, from east and from west, from north and from the sea. [*] [4] They strayed in the wilderness, on a desert track; they found no city to settle in. [5] They were hungry and thirsty; their life was ebbing away within them. [6] Then in their trouble they cried out to the LORD, and he rescued them from their distresses. [7] He guided them along a straight road, to reach a city where they could live. [8] Let them thank the LORD for his steadfast love, for his wonders done for the sons of men. [9] For he has satisfied the thirsting soul and filled the hungry soul with good things. [10] Some sat in darkness and in the shadow of death, bound in misery and in iron, [11] for they had defied the words of God and despised the counsel of the Most High. [12] So he bowed their hearts down with toil; they fell, and no one helped. [13] Then in their trouble they cried out to the LORD, and he saved them from their distresses. [14] He led them out of darkness and the shadow of death and snapped their chains. [15] Let them thank the LORD for his steadfast love, for his wonders done for the sons of men. [16] For he shatters gates of bronze and cuts in two the bars of iron. [17] Fools suffered affliction because of their rebellious way and because of their iniquities. [18] They loathed every kind of food and came near the gates of death. [19] Then in their trouble they cried out to the LORD, and he saved them from their distresses. [20] He sent out his word and healed them; he rescued them from their pits. [21] Let them thank the LORD for his steadfast love, for his wonders done for the sons of men. [22] Let them sacrifice thank offerings and recount his works with joyful shouts. [23] Some went down to the sea in ships, plying their trade on the mighty waters; [24] they saw the works of the LORD, his wonders in the deep. [25] He spoke, and he stirred up a storm wind that raised the waves of the sea. [26] They rose up to the sky and dropped down to the depths; their courage melted in their peril. [27] They reeled and lurched like drunken men, and all their skill came to nothing. [28] Then in their trouble they cried out to the LORD, and he brought them out of their distresses. [29] He turned the storm into a calm, and its waves fell silent. [30] They were glad when things grew quiet, and he brought them to the harbor they longed for. [31] Let them thank the LORD for his steadfast love, for his wonders done for the sons of men. [32] Let them extol him in the congregation of the people and praise him where the elders sit. [33] He changes rivers into desert and springs of water into parched ground, [34] fruitful land into salt flats, because of the evil of its inhabitants. [35] He changes desert into pools of water and dry land into flowing springs. [36] He settles the hungry there, and they build a city to live in. [37] They sow fields and plant vineyards and gather a fruitful yield. [38] He blesses them, and they become very numerous, and he does not let their livestock dwindle. [39] Then they are reduced and bowed down by oppression, trouble and grief. [40] He pours contempt upon nobles and makes them wander in a pathless wasteland. [41] But he lifts the needy out of affliction and makes their families like flocks. [42] The upright see and are glad, and all injustice closes its mouth. [43] Who is wise? Let him take note of these things, and let them ponder the steadfast love of the LORD.

PSALM 108

A Song. A Psalm of David.

[1] My heart is firm, O God; I will sing and make music—yes, with my glory. [2] Wake up, harp and lyre! I will rouse the dawn. [3] I will thank you among the peoples, LORD; I will praise you in song among the nations. [4] For your steadfast love is great, higher than the heavens, and your faithfulness reaches the skies. [5] Rise high above the heavens, O God, and let your glory be over all the earth, [6] so that those you love may be rescued; save by your right hand and answer me. [7] God has spoken in his holiness: "I will rejoice; I will parcel out Shechem and measure off the Valley of Succoth. [8] Gilead belongs to me, Manasseh belongs to me; Ephraim is the defense of my head; Judah is my ruler's staff. [9] Moab is my basin for washing; upon Edom I throw my sandal; over Philistia I raise a shout of triumph." [10] Who will bring me to the fortified city? Who will lead me as far as Edom? [11] Have you not rejected us, O God? Will you not go out, O God, with our armies? [12] Grant us help against the enemy, for human deliverance is worthless. [13] With God we will act mightily, and he will trample our foes.

PSALM 109

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

[1] God whom I praise, do not be silent! [2] For a wicked mouth and a deceitful mouth have opened against me; they have talked to me with a lying tongue. [3] With hateful words they surround me and attack me for no reason. [4] In return for my love they act as my accusers—but I am all prayer. [5] They have laid evil on me in exchange for good, and hatred in exchange for my love. [6] Set a wicked man over him; let an accuser stand at his right. [*] [7] When he is tried, may he come out guilty, and may his prayer be counted as sin. [8] May his days be few; may someone else take his office. [9] May his children become orphans and his wife a widow. [10] May his children wander on and on and beg, seeking a living far from their ruins. [11] May the creditor lay a snare for all he owns, and may strangers plunder what he has toiled for. [12] May no one continue kindness to him, nor anyone take pity on his orphans. [13] May his descendants be cut off; in the next generation may their name be erased. [14] May the iniquity of his fathers be remembered before the LORD, and may his mother's sin never be erased. [15] May they always be before the LORD, and may he cut off their memory from the earth, [16] because he did not remember to show kindness but hounded the poor and needy and the brokenhearted, to kill them. [17] He loved cursing, and it has come to him; he had no delight in blessing, and it has stayed far from him. [18] He put on cursing like his robe; it seeped into his body like water, and like oil into his bones. [19] May it be like a cloak he wraps around him, like a sash he always ties on. [20] May this be the LORD's payment to my accusers, to those who speak evil against my soul. [21] But you, O GOD the Lord, act on my behalf for the sake of your name; since your steadfast love is good, rescue me. [22] For I am afflicted and needy, and my heart is wounded within me. [23] Like a shadow when it stretches out I fade away; I am shaken out like a locust. [24] My knees give way from fasting; my body is thin and has lost its fat. [25] I have become an object of scorn to them; when they look at me, they wag their heads. [26] Help me, LORD my God; save me in keeping with your steadfast love, [27] so they will know that this is your hand, that you, LORD, have done it. [28] They may curse, but you will bless; when they rise up they will be ashamed, but your servant will be glad. [29] May my accusers be dressed in disgrace and wrapped in their shame as in a cloak. [30] With my mouth I will give great thanks to the LORD; among the multitude I will praise him. [31] For he stands at the right hand of the needy one, to save him from those who pass sentence on his soul.

PSALM 110

A Psalm of David.

[1] The LORD said to my Lord, "Sit at my right hand, until I make your enemies your footstool." [] [2] From Zion the LORD will extend your mighty scepter. Rule among your enemies! [3] Your people will offer themselves freely on the day of your power; in the splendor of holiness, from the womb of the dawn, yours is the dew of your youth. [] [4] The LORD has sworn and will not change his mind: "You are a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek." [5] The Lord at your right hand shatters kings on the day of his anger. [6] He will execute judgment among the nations, filling them with corpses; he will crush the head over the broad earth. [*] [7] He will drink from the stream beside the road; therefore he will raise his head high.

PSALM 111

[1] Hallelujah! With all my heart I will thank the LORD, in the company of the upright and in the assembly. [2] The works of the LORD are great, searched out by all who take pleasure in them. [3] His work is splendor and majesty, and his righteousness stands forever. [4] He has caused his wonders to be remembered; gracious and merciful is the LORD. [5] He provides food for those who fear him; he will remember his covenant forever. [6] He has made known to his people the might of his works by giving them the heritage of the nations. [7] What his hands do is faithful and just; all his precepts can be relied on. [8] They stand firm forever and ever, carried out in truth and uprightness. [9] He sent redemption to his people; he has ordained his covenant forever. His name is holy and fearsome. [10] The beginning of wisdom is the fear of the LORD; good insight belongs to all who practice them. His praise stands forever.

PSALM 112

[1] Hallelujah! How blessed is the man who fears the LORD, who takes great delight in his commandments! [*] [2] His descendants will be powerful in the land; the generation of the upright will be blessed. [3] Wealth and riches are in his house, and his righteousness stands forever. [4] For the upright, light rises in the darkness—gracious, merciful and righteous. [5] Good comes to the man who shows favor and lends; he manages his affairs with justice. [6] For he will never be moved; the righteous will be remembered forever. [7] He does not fear evil tidings; his heart is firm, trusting in the LORD. [8] His heart is steady; he will not fear, until he gazes on his foes. [9] He has distributed freely, he has given to the needy; his righteousness stands forever; his horn will be lifted high in honor. [10] The wicked man sees it and is angry; he grinds his teeth and wastes away; the longing of the wicked will come to nothing.

PSALM 113

[1] Hallelujah! Give praise, you servants of the LORD; praise the name of the LORD! [2] May the name of the LORD be blessed from now on and forever. [3] From where the sun rises to where it sets, the name of the LORD is worthy of praise. [4] The LORD is exalted over all nations; his glory is above the heavens. [5] Who is like the LORD our God, who is seated on high, [6] who bends low to look upon the heavens and the earth? [7] He lifts the poor out of the dust and raises the needy from the ash heap, [8] to give him a seat with nobles, with the nobles of his people. [9] He settles the childless woman in her house as a joyful mother of children. Hallelujah!

PSALM 114

[1] When Israel came out of Egypt, the house of Jacob from a people of foreign speech, [2] Judah became his holy place, Israel his domain. [3] The sea looked and fled; the Jordan turned back. [4] The mountains leaped like rams, the hills like young sheep. [5] What is it with you, O sea, that you flee? O Jordan, that you turn back? [6] O mountains, that you leap like rams? O hills, like young sheep? [7] Tremble, O earth, before the Lord, before the God of Jacob, [8] who turns the rock into a pool of water, the flint into a spring of water.

PSALM 115

[1] Not to us, LORD, not to us, but to your name give glory, because of your steadfast love, because of your faithfulness. [2] Why should the nations say, "Where, then, is their God?" [3] Our God is in heaven; whatever he wishes, he does. [4] Their idols are silver and gold, made by human hands. [5] They have a mouth but cannot speak, eyes but cannot see; [6] they have ears but cannot hear, a nose but cannot smell; [7] they have hands but cannot feel, feet but cannot walk; no sound comes from their throat. [8] Those who make them will become like them, and so will all who trust in them. [9] Israel, trust in the LORD—he is their help and their shield. [10] House of Aaron, trust in the LORD—he is their help and their shield. [11] You who fear the LORD, trust in the LORD—he is their help and their shield. [12] The LORD has remembered us and will bless—he will bless the house of Israel, he will bless the house of Aaron; [13] he will bless those who fear the LORD, the small together with the great. [14] May the LORD give you increase, you and your children. [15] May you be blessed by the LORD, the Maker of heaven and earth. [16] The heavens—the heavens belong to the LORD, but the earth he has given to the sons of men. [17] It is not the dead who praise the LORD, nor any who go down into the silence. [18] But we will bless the LORD from now on and forever. Hallelujah!

PSALM 116

[1] I love the LORD because he has listened to my voice and my pleading. [2] Because he has turned his ear to me, I will call on him all my days. [3] The cords of death were wrapped around me, the anguish of Sheol took hold of me; I met with distress and grief. [4] Then I called on the name of the LORD: "Please, LORD, rescue my soul!" [5] The LORD is gracious and righteous; our God is merciful. [6] The LORD watches over the simple; when I was brought low, he saved me. [7] Come back to your rest, my soul, for the LORD has been good to you. [8] For you have rescued my soul from death, my eye from tears, my foot from stumbling. [9] I will walk before the LORD in the lands of the living. [10] I believed, therefore I spoke: "I am deeply afflicted."* [11] In my haste I said, "Everyone is a liar." [12] How can I repay the LORD for all his goodness to me? [13] I will raise the cup of salvation and call upon the name of the LORD. [14] I will fulfill my vows to the LORD—yes, in the presence of all his people. [15] Costly in the eyes of the LORD is the death of his faithful ones. [16] Please, LORD—for I am your servant; I am your servant, the son of your maidservant; you have untied my bonds. [17] To you I will offer a thank offering and call upon the name of the LORD. [18] I will fulfill my vows to the LORD—yes, in the presence of all his people— [19] in the courts of the LORD's house, in your midst, Jerusalem. Hallelujah!

PSALM 117

[1] Praise the LORD, all nations! Laud him, all peoples! [2] For his steadfast love toward us is strong, and the LORD's faithfulness lasts forever. Hallelujah!

PSALM 118

[1] Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good, for his steadfast love endures forever. [2] Let Israel now say, "His steadfast love endures forever." [3] Let the house of Aaron now say, "His steadfast love endures forever." [4] Let those who fear the LORD now say, "His steadfast love endures forever." [5] From my distress I called to the LORD; the LORD answered me and brought me into a spacious place. [6] The LORD is for me; I will not be afraid. What can a man do to me? [7] The LORD is for me as my helper, and I will look upon those who hate me. [8] Better to take shelter in the LORD than to rely on man. [9] Better to take shelter in the LORD than to rely on nobles. [10] All nations encircled me; in the name of the LORD I cut them off.* [11] They encircled me, yes, they encircled me; in the name of the LORD I cut them off. [12] They swarmed around me like bees; they were snuffed out like a fire of thorns; in the name of the LORD I cut them off. [13] You pushed me hard to make me fall, but the LORD helped me. [14] The LORD is my strength and my song, and he has become my salvation.* [15] A sound of joyful shouting and salvation is in the tents of the righteous: "The right hand of the LORD acts mightily; [16] the right hand of the LORD is lifted high; the right hand of the LORD acts mightily." [17] I will not die, but live, and tell of the deeds of the LORD. [18] The LORD has disciplined me hard, but he has not handed me over to death. [19] Open the gates of righteousness for me; I will go in through them and thank the LORD. [20] This is the LORD's gate; the righteous will go in through it. [21] I thank you that you answered me and have become my salvation. [22] The stone that the builders rejected has become the head of the corner. [23] This came from the LORD; it is wonderful in our eyes. [24] This is the day the LORD has made; let us be glad and rejoice in it. [25] Save us, we pray, O LORD! O LORD, we pray, grant us success!* [26] Blessed is he who comes in the name of the LORD! From the house of the LORD we bless you. [27] The LORD is God, and he has shone on us. Tie the festival sacrifice with ropes to the horns of the altar. [28] You are my God, and I will thank you; my God, I will exalt you. [29] Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good, for his steadfast love endures forever.

PSALM 119

[1] How blessed are those whose way is without blame, who walk in the LORD's law!* [2] How blessed are those who guard his testimonies, who seek him with all their heart! [3] They do no wrong; they walk in his ways. [4] You have laid down your precepts, to be kept with all care. [5] If only my ways were firm in keeping your statutes! [6] Then I would not be ashamed, as I fix my eyes on all your commandments. [7] I will thank you with an honest heart as I learn your righteous judgments. [8] Your statutes I will keep; do not abandon me completely. [9] How will a young man keep his course clean? By guarding it as your word directs. [10] With all my heart I have sought you; let me not wander from your commandments. [11] I have treasured your word in my heart so that I will not sin against you. [12] Blessed are you, LORD; teach me your statutes. [13] With my lips I recount all the judgments you have spoken. [14] I rejoice in the way of your testimonies as much as in all wealth. [15] I will ponder your precepts and keep my eyes on your paths. [16] In your statutes I will find delight; I will not forget your word. [17] Be good to your servant, so that I may live and keep your word. [18] Uncover my eyes, so that I may see wonderful things from your law. [19] I am a stranger on the earth; do not hide your commandments from me. [20] My soul is worn out with longing for your judgments at every moment. [21] You rebuke the arrogant, accursed ones who wander from your commandments. [22] Take scorn and contempt off me, for I have kept your testimonies. [23] Though rulers sit and talk together against me, your servant ponders your statutes. [24] Yes, your testimonies are my delight; they are my advisers. [25] My soul lies in the dust; give me life according to your word. [26] I recounted my ways and you answered me; teach me your statutes. [27] Help me grasp the way of your precepts, and I will ponder your wonders. [28] My soul drips away with grief; make me strong according to your word. [29] Keep the false way far from me, and be gracious to me with your law. [30] The way of faithfulness I have chosen; your judgments I have placed before me. [31] I hold fast to your testimonies; LORD, do not let me be ashamed. [32] I run in the way of your commandments, for you widen my heart. [33] Teach me, LORD, the way of your statutes, and I will keep it to the end. [34] Give me insight, and I will observe your law and keep it with all my heart. [35] Guide me along the path of your commandments, for in it I take delight. [36] Bend my heart toward your testimonies and not toward greed. [37] Turn my eyes from gazing at what is worthless; give me life in your ways. [38] Fulfill your word to your servant, which leads to the fear of you.* [39] Remove the disgrace I dread, for your judgments are good. [40] Look, I long for your precepts; in your righteousness give me life. [41] May your acts of steadfast love reach me, LORD, your salvation as you have spoken; [42] then I will have a word to answer the one who taunts me, for I trust in your word. [43] Do not snatch the word of truth entirely from my mouth, for I have put my hope in your judgments. [44] I will keep your law always, forever and ever. [45] I will walk about in freedom, for I have searched out your precepts. [46] I will speak of your testimonies before kings and not be ashamed. [47] I will find my delight in your commandments, which I love. [48] I will raise my hands to your commandments, which I love, and I will ponder your statutes. [49] Remember your word to your servant, by which you have given me hope. [50] This is my comfort in my affliction: your word has given me life. [51] The arrogant mock me without restraint, yet I have not swerved from your law. [52] I remember your judgments of long ago, LORD, and I find comfort. [53] Burning anger grips me because of the wicked who abandon your law. [54] Your statutes have been my songs in the house where I sojourn. [55] In the night I remember your name, LORD, and I keep your law. [56] This has been my lot: I have kept your precepts. [57] The LORD is my portion; I have said I will keep your words. [58] I have sought your face with all my heart; be gracious to me according to your promise. [59] I thought about my ways and turned my feet back to your testimonies. [60] I hastened and did not linger in keeping your commandments. [61] The ropes of the wicked are wound around me, yet I have not forgotten your law. [62] In the middle of the night I get up to thank you for your righteous judgments. [63] I am a friend to all who fear you, to those who keep your precepts. [64] Your steadfast love, LORD, fills the earth; teach me your statutes. [65] You have done good to your servant, LORD, as your word said. [66] Teach me good discernment and knowledge, for I trust your commandments. [67] Before I was afflicted I was straying, but now I keep your word. [68] You are good, and you do good; teach me your statutes. [69] The arrogant have plastered me with lies, but with all my heart I keep your precepts. [70] Their heart is dull as fat, but I delight in your law. [71] It was good for me to be afflicted, so that I could learn your statutes. [72] The law from your mouth is better to me than thousands of gold and silver pieces. [73] Your hands made me and formed me; give me insight so that I may learn your commandments. [74] May those who fear you see me and be glad, for I have hoped in your word. [75] I know, LORD, that your judgments are right, and that you afflicted me in faithfulness. [76] Please let your steadfast love be my comfort, as you promised your servant. [77] Let your compassion come to me so that I may live, for your law is my delight. [78] May the arrogant be ashamed, for they have wronged me with lies; but I will ponder your precepts. [79] May those who fear you turn to me, those who know your testimonies. [80] May my heart be whole in your statutes, so that I will not be ashamed. [81] My soul wastes away for your salvation; I hope in your word. [82] My eyes are worn out looking for your word; I ask, "When will you comfort me?" [83] Though I have become like a wineskin in the smoke, I have not forgotten your statutes.* [84] How many are your servant's days? When will you bring judgment on those who hound me? [85] The arrogant have dug pits for me; they do not follow your law. [86] All your commandments are trustworthy; they hound me with lies—help me! [87] They nearly finished me off on earth, but I did not forsake your precepts. [88] Give me life in keeping with your steadfast love, and I will keep the testimony from your mouth. [89] Your word, LORD, stands forever, fixed in the heavens. [90] Your faithfulness lasts from generation to generation; you set the earth in place, and it stands. [91] By your ordinances they stand today, for everything serves you. [92] Had your law not been my delight, I would have perished in my affliction. [93] I will never forget your precepts, for through them you have given me life. [94] I belong to you; save me, for I have searched out your precepts. [95] The wicked wait to destroy me, but I give heed to your testimonies. [96] I have seen an end to every perfection, but your commandment is boundless. [97] How I love your law! All day long it is what I ponder. [98] Your commandment makes me wiser than my enemies, for it is always with me. [99] I have more insight than all who teach me, because your testimonies are what I ponder. [100] I discern more than the elders, for I have kept your precepts. [101] I have kept my feet from every evil road so that I may keep your word. [102] I have not departed from your judgments, for you are the one who has taught me. [103] How pleasant your word is to my palate, more than honey to my mouth! [104] I gain discernment from your precepts; that is why I hate every road of falsehood. [105] Your word is a lamp for my foot and a light for my path. [106] I have sworn an oath and will carry it out: to keep your righteous judgments. [107] I am deeply afflicted; LORD, give me life according to your word. [108] LORD, please accept the willing offerings of my mouth, and teach me your judgments. [109] My life is always in my hands, yet I do not forget your law. [110] The wicked have set a trap for me, but I have not wandered from your precepts. [111] Your testimonies are my inheritance forever; they are the joy of my heart. [112] I have set my heart on doing your statutes, forever, to the very end. [113] I hate those who are divided in heart, but your law I love. [114] You are my shelter and my shield; I put my hope in your word. [115] Get away from me, you evildoers, so that I may keep the commandments of my God. [116] Sustain me as you have promised, and I will live; do not let me be ashamed of my hope. [117] Support me, and I will be safe and will always look to your statutes. [118] You spurn all who wander from your statutes, for their deceit is a lie. [119] You remove all the wicked of the earth like dross; that is why I love your testimonies. [120] My flesh shudders in dread of you; I stand in fear of your judgments. [121] I have done what is just and right; do not abandon me to my oppressors. [122] Guarantee your servant's welfare; do not let the arrogant oppress me. [123] My eyes are worn out looking for your salvation and for your righteous word. [124] Treat your servant according to your steadfast love, and teach me your statutes. [125] I am your servant; give me insight so that I may know your testimonies. [126] It is time for the LORD to act; they have broken your law. [127] That is why I love your commandments more than gold, more than pure gold. [128] That is why I consider all your precepts right in every matter; I hate every road of falsehood. [129] Your testimonies are wonderful; that is why my soul keeps them. [130] The opening of your words sheds light; it gives insight to the simple. [131] I open my mouth and pant, because I long for your commandments. [132] Turn toward me and be gracious to me, as you do for those who love your name. [133] Make my steps firm by your word, and let no evil rule over me. [134] Ransom me from the oppression of men, so that I may keep your precepts. [135] Let your face shine on your servant, and teach me your statutes. [136] My eyes pour down streams of water because your law is not kept. [137] You are righteous, LORD, and your judgments are right. [138] You have laid down your testimonies in righteousness and in great faithfulness. [139] My zeal wears me out, because my enemies forget your words. [140] Your word is well tested, and your servant loves it. [141] I am small and looked down on, yet I have not forgotten your precepts. [142] Your righteousness is righteous forever, and your law is truth. [143] Distress and hardship have come upon me, yet your commandments are my delight. [144] Your testimonies are right forever; give me insight, and I will live. [145] I call out with all my heart; answer me, LORD; I will keep your statutes. [146] I call out to you; save me, and I will keep your testimonies. [147] Before dawn I rise and cry for help; I have put my hope in your word. [148] My eyes are open before the night watches, so I can ponder your word. [149] Hear my voice in keeping with your steadfast love; LORD, give me life in keeping with your judgments. [150] Those who chase after wickedness come near; they are far from your law. [151] Yet you are near, LORD, and all your commandments are true. [152] From long ago I have known from your testimonies that you established them forever. [153] See my affliction and rescue me, for I have not forgotten your law. [154] Take up my case and redeem me; give me life according to your word. [155] Salvation is far from the wicked, because they have not sought your statutes. [156] Your mercies are many, LORD; give me life in keeping with your judgments. [157] Many hound me and oppose me, yet I have not turned from your testimonies. [158] I see the faithless and am disgusted, for they do not keep your word. [159] See how I love your precepts! LORD, give me life according to your steadfast love. [160] The whole of your word is truth, and every righteous judgment of yours lasts forever. [161] Rulers hound me without cause, but my heart trembles at your word. [162] I rejoice over your word like one who takes much plunder. [163] Falsehood I hate and detest; your law I love. [164] Seven times each day I praise you because of your righteous judgments. [165] Those who love your law have great peace; nothing causes them to stumble. [166] I wait for your salvation, LORD, and I carry out your commandments. [167] My soul keeps your testimonies, and I love them very much. [168] I keep your precepts and your testimonies, for all my ways lie open before you. [169] May my cry reach your presence, LORD; give me insight according to your word. [170] May my plea come before you; rescue me according to your promise. [171] Let my lips overflow with praise, for you teach me your statutes. [172] Let my tongue sing of your word, for all your commandments are right. [173] Let your hand be there to help me, for I have chosen your precepts. [174] I long for your salvation, LORD; your law is my delight. [175] Let my soul live so that it may praise you, and may your judgments help me. [176] I have strayed like a lost sheep; seek your servant, for I have not forgotten your commandments.

PSALM 120

A Song of Ascents. *

[1] To the LORD I called in my distress, and he answered me. [2] LORD, rescue my soul from lips that lie, from a tongue that deceives. [3] What will he give you, and what more will he add to you, you deceitful tongue? [4] Sharp arrows of a warrior, with red-hot coals of broom wood! [5] Woe to me, for I live as a stranger in Meshech; I dwell beside the tents of Kedar. [6] Long enough has my soul lived with those who hate peace. [7] I am for peace; but when I speak, they are for war.

PSALM 121

A Song of Ascents.

[1] I raise my eyes toward the mountains—where does my help come from? [2] My help is from the LORD, the Maker of heaven and earth. [3] He will not allow your foot to slide; your guardian will not doze. [4] Look—the guardian of Israel neither dozes nor sleeps. [5] The LORD is your guardian; the LORD is your shade beside your right hand. [6] By day the sun will not strike you, nor the moon at night. [7] The LORD will guard you from all harm; he will guard your life. [8] The LORD will guard your going out and your coming in, from now on and forever.

PSALM 122

A Song of Ascents. Of David.

[1] I rejoiced when they said to me, "Let us go to the LORD's house." [2] Our feet are standing inside your gates, Jerusalem— [3] Jerusalem, built as a city joined closely together, [4] to which the tribes go up, the tribes of the LORD—a testimony to Israel—to give thanks to the name of the LORD. [5] For there the thrones of judgment stand, the thrones of David's house. [6] Ask for the peace of Jerusalem: "May those who love you be at ease. [7] May there be peace inside your ramparts, ease within your citadels." [8] For the sake of my brothers and friends, let me say, "Peace be inside you." [9] For the sake of the house of the LORD our God I will seek your welfare.

PSALM 123

[1] To you I raise my eyes, you who sit enthroned in heaven. [2] Look—as the eyes of servants are on their master's hand, as the eyes of a maid are on her mistress's hand, so our eyes are on the LORD our God until he shows us favor. [3] Show us favor, LORD, show us favor, for we have had our fill of contempt. [4] Our soul is more than full of the mockery of the complacent, of the contempt of the arrogant.

PSALM 124

A Song of Ascents. Of David.

[1] Had it not been the LORD who was for us—let Israel say it now— [2] had it not been the LORD who was for us when men rose up against us, [3] they would have swallowed us alive when their anger burned against us; [4] the waters would have swept us away; the torrent would have passed over our soul; [5] the surging waters would have passed over our soul. [6] Blessed is the LORD, who did not hand us over as prey for their teeth! [7] Our soul has slipped free like a bird from the hunters' trap; the trap is broken, and we have slipped free. [8] Our help is in the name of the LORD, the Maker of heaven and earth.

PSALM 125

[1] Those who trust in the LORD are like Mount Zion; it cannot be shaken but stands forever. [2] Jerusalem—mountains are around her, and the LORD is around his people from now on and forever. [3] For the scepter of wickedness will not rest on the portion of the righteous, so that the righteous will not put their hands to wrongdoing. [4] LORD, do good to the good and to those who are upright in heart. [5] But those who turn aside onto their twisted paths the LORD will lead off with the evildoers. Peace upon Israel!

[1] When the LORD brought back the captives of Zion, we were as people dreaming. [*] [2] Then our mouth was full of laughter and our tongue of joyful song; then it was said among the nations, "The LORD has done great things for these people." [3] The LORD has done great things for us; we were full of joy. [4] LORD, restore our fortunes like the streambeds of the Negev. [5] Those who sow with tears will reap with songs of joy. [6] One who goes out weeping, carrying the seed to sow, will surely come back singing for joy, carrying his sheaves.

PSALM 127

A Song of Ascents. Of Solomon.

[1] If the LORD does not build the house, its builders toil over it for nothing; if the LORD does not guard the city, the watchman keeps awake for nothing. [2] It is for nothing that you rise early and stay up late, eating the bread of hard toil; for so he gives to his beloved sleep. [*] [3] Look—sons are an inheritance from the LORD; the fruit of the womb is a reward. [4] Like arrows in a warrior's hand, so are the sons of one's youth. [5] How blessed is the man whose quiver is full of them! They will not be shamed when they speak with enemies in the gate.

PSALM 128

[1] How blessed is everyone who fears the LORD and walks in his ways! [2] You will eat what your hands have worked for; you will be blessed, and all will go well with you. [3] Your wife will be like a vine heavy with fruit in the inner rooms of your house; your sons like olive saplings around your table. [4] Look—this is how the man who fears the LORD will be blessed. [5] May the LORD bless you out of Zion, and may you see the good of Jerusalem all the days of your life, [6] and may you see your children's children. Peace upon Israel!

PSALM 129

[1] "Many a time they have attacked me since my youth"—let Israel say it now— [2] "many a time they have attacked me since my youth, yet they have not overcome me. [3] Plowmen plowed across my back; they drew their furrows long." [4] The LORD is righteous; he has cut the ropes of the wicked in two. [5] May all who hate Zion be shamed and driven back. [6] May they be like grass on the roofs, which dries up before it can shoot up, [7] which does not fill the reaper's hand or the lap of the one who binds sheaves, [8] and those passing by do not say, "The LORD's blessing be on you! We bless you in the LORD's name!"

PSALM 130

A Song of Ascents.

[1] From the depths I call to you, LORD. [2] Lord, listen to my voice! Let your ears pay attention to the sound of my pleading. [3] If you, LORD, kept count of iniquities—Lord, who could stand? [4] But forgiveness is with you, so that you may be feared. [5] I wait for the LORD; my soul waits, and I put my hope in his word. [6] My soul looks for the Lord more than watchmen for the morning—yes, more than watchmen for the morning. [7] Israel, put your hope in the LORD, for with the LORD is steadfast love, and with him is abundant redemption. [8] He himself will redeem Israel from all its iniquities.

PSALM 131

A Song of Ascents. Of David.

[1] LORD, my heart is not proud, and my eyes are not haughty; I do not concern myself with matters too great and too wondrous for me. [2] Surely I have made my soul calm and still, like a weaned child on its mother; like the weaned child, so is my soul within me. [*] [3] Israel, hope in the LORD from now on and forever.

PSALM 132

A Song of Ascents.

[1] Remember, LORD, for David's sake, all his afflictions, [2] how he swore an oath to the LORD and made a vow to the Mighty One of Jacob: [3] "I will not go into the tent that is my house or climb onto the couch of my bed, [4] I will not allow my eyes to sleep or my eyelids to slumber, [5] until I find a place for the LORD, a dwelling for the Mighty One of Jacob." [6] See, we heard of it in Ephrathah; in the fields of Jaar we found it. [*] [7] "Let us go into his dwelling place; let us bow down at his footstool!" [8] Rise up, LORD, and come to your resting place, you and the ark of your might. [9] May your priests put on righteousness, and may your faithful ones sing for joy. [10] For your servant David's sake, do not turn away the face of your anointed one. [11] The LORD swore to David a sure oath that he will not go back on: "From the fruit of your body I will set someone on your throne. [12] If your sons keep my covenant and the testimonies I will teach them, their sons too will sit on your throne forever." [13] For the LORD has chosen Zion; he has longed for it as his home: [14] "This is my resting place forever and ever; here I will live, for I have longed for it. [15] I will richly bless her provisions; her poor I will fill with bread. [16] I will dress her priests in salvation, and her faithful ones will sing aloud for joy. [17] There I will make a horn grow for David; I have set out a lamp for my anointed one. [18] I will dress his enemies in shame, but upon him his crown will gleam."

PSALM 133

A Song of Ascents. Of David.

[1] Look how good and how delightful it is for brothers to live together as one! [2] It is like the fine oil on the head, flowing down upon the beard, Aaron's beard, flowing down upon the collar of his garments; [*] [3] like the dew of Hermon that comes down on the mountains of Zion. For there the LORD has ordained the blessing—life forever.

PSALM 134

A Song of Ascents.

[1] Come now, bless the LORD, all you servants of the LORD, who stand through the nights in the house of the LORD! [2] Raise your hands toward the holy place and bless the LORD! [3] May the LORD, the Maker of heaven and earth, bless you from Zion!

PSALM 135

[1] Hallelujah! Praise the name of the LORD; praise him, you servants of the LORD, [2] who stand in the LORD's house, in the courts of the house of our God. [3] Praise the LORD, for the LORD is good; make music to his name, for it is lovely. [4] For the LORD chose Jacob for his own, Israel as his special treasure. [5] For I know that the LORD is great, and our Lord is greater than all gods. [6] All that the LORD desires he does, in the heavens and on the earth, in the seas and all the depths. [7] He brings up the mists from the ends of the earth; he makes lightning for the rain; he brings the wind out of his storehouses. [8] He struck Egypt's firstborn, from man to beast. [9] He sent signs and wonders into your midst, Egypt, upon Pharaoh and all his servants. [10] He struck many nations and slew powerful kings— [11] Sihon king of the Amorites, Og king of Bashan, and all the kingdoms of Canaan— [12] and he gave their land as a heritage, a heritage for Israel his people. [13] LORD, your name is forever; LORD, your remembrance is from generation to generation. [14] For the LORD will judge in favor of his people and take pity on his servants. [15] The idols of the nations are silver and gold, made by human hands. [16] They have a mouth but cannot speak, eyes but cannot see; [17] they have ears but cannot hear, and there is no breath at all in their mouths. [18] Those who make them will become like them, and so will all who trust in them. [19] House of Israel, bless the LORD! House of Aaron, bless the LORD! [20] House of Levi, bless the LORD! You who fear the LORD, bless the LORD! [21] Blessed from Zion be the LORD, who dwells in Jerusalem! Hallelujah!

PSALM 136

[1] Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good, for his steadfast love endures forever. [2] Give thanks to the God of gods, for his steadfast love endures forever. [3] Give thanks to the Lord of lords, for his steadfast love endures forever. [4] to him who alone works great wonders, for his steadfast love endures forever. [5] to him who made the heavens by his understanding, for his steadfast love endures forever. [6] to him who stretched out the earth upon the waters, for his steadfast love endures forever. [7] to him who made the great lights, for his steadfast love endures forever. [8] the sun to govern the day, for his steadfast love endures forever. [9] the moon and the stars to govern the night, for his steadfast love endures forever. [10] to him who struck Egypt through their firstborn, for his steadfast love endures forever. [11] and led Israel out from their midst, for his steadfast love endures forever. [12] with a mighty hand and an arm stretched out, for his steadfast love endures forever. [13] to him who cut the Red Sea into parts, for his steadfast love endures forever. [*] [14] and brought Israel across through the middle of it, for his steadfast love endures forever. [15] but tossed Pharaoh and his army into the Red Sea, for his steadfast love endures forever. [16] to him who guided his people in the wilderness, for his steadfast love endures forever. [17] to him who struck great kings, for his steadfast love endures forever. [18] and killed majestic kings, for his steadfast love endures forever. [19] Sihon king of the Amorites, for his steadfast love endures forever. [20] and Og king of Bashan, for his steadfast love endures forever. [21] and gave their land as a heritage, for his steadfast love endures forever. [22] a heritage to Israel his servant, for his steadfast love endures forever. [23] who remembered us when we were brought low, for his steadfast love endures forever. [24] and snatched us away from our foes, for his steadfast love endures forever. [25] who gives bread to all flesh, for his steadfast love endures forever. [26] Give thanks to the God of heaven, for his steadfast love endures forever.

PSALM 137

[1] Beside the rivers of Babylon—there we sat and wept as we remembered Zion. [2] On the willows in the middle of it we hung up our lyres. [*] [3] For there our captors demanded songs from us, and our tormentors wanted joy: "Sing for us one of Zion's songs!" [4] How can we sing the LORD's song on foreign soil? [5] If

I forget you, Jerusalem, may my right hand forget. [6] May my tongue stick to my palate if I do not remember you, if I do not lift Jerusalem above my chief joy. [7] Remember, LORD, against the sons of Edom the day of Jerusalem, when they said, "Strip it, strip it to its foundations!" [8] Daughter of Babylon, you who are to be devastated, how blessed is the one who pays you back what you have dealt out to us! [9] How blessed is the one who takes your little ones and smashes them against the rock!

[1] I will thank you with all my heart; before the gods I will make music to you. [2] I will bow down toward your holy temple and thank your name because of your steadfast love and your faithfulness, for you have magnified your word above all your name.* [3] On the day I called, you answered me; you made me bold, with strength in my soul. [4] All the kings of the earth will thank you, LORD, for they have heard the words of your mouth, [5] and they will sing of the LORD's ways, for the glory of the LORD is great. [6] For the LORD is high, yet he sees the lowly; but the haughty he knows from a distance. [7] If I walk through the middle of distress, you keep me alive; against the anger of my enemies you send out your hand, and your right hand saves me. [8] The LORD will complete what concerns me; LORD, your steadfast love is forever. Do not let go of the works of your hands.

PSALM 139

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

[1] LORD, you have examined me and you know me. [2] You know when I sit and when I rise; you perceive my thoughts from far away. [3] You measure my going and my lying down, and you are familiar with all my ways. [4] For there is not yet a word on my tongue, and look, LORD, you know all of it. [5] Behind and in front you have enclosed me, and you have placed your hand upon me. [6] Knowledge like this is too wonderful for me; it is lofty—I cannot reach it. [7] Where could I go from your Spirit? Where could I flee from your presence? [8] If I climb up to heaven, you are there; if I spread my bed in Sheol, look, you are there. [9] If I lift up the wings of the dawn and settle at the far end of the sea, [10] there too your hand will guide me, and your right hand will take hold of me. [11] If I say, "Surely darkness will overwhelm me, and the light around me will become night," [12] even darkness is not too dark for you; the night is as bright as the day; darkness is as light. [13] For you shaped my innermost being; you wove me in my mother's womb. [14] I thank you, for I am made in an awesome and wondrous way. Your works are wonderful, and my soul knows it well. [15] My bones were not hidden from you when I was made in the secret place, skillfully embroidered in the depths of the earth. [16] My unformed substance your eyes saw; in your book all of them were written, days that were formed, when as yet there was none of them.* [17] How precious your thoughts are to me, O God! How great is their total! [18] Were I to count them, they would outnumber the sand. I awake, and I am still with you. [19] If only you would kill the wicked, O God! Men of blood, get away from me! [20] They speak of you with evil scheming; your enemies take up your name falsely. [21] LORD, do I not hate those who hate you, and loathe those who rise against you? [22] With a perfect hatred I hate them; they have become enemies to me. [23] Examine me, O God, and know my heart; test me and know my troubled thoughts. [24] See whether there is any grievous way in me, and lead me in the everlasting way.*

PSALM 140

To the choirmaster. A Psalm of David.

[1] Rescue me, LORD, from the evil man; protect me from the man of violence, [2] those who plan evil in their hearts and every day stir up wars. [3] They have sharpened their tongues like a snake; adder's poison is under their lips. Selah. [4] Keep me, LORD, from the hands of the wicked; protect me from the man of violence, who plans to trip my steps. [5] The arrogant have hidden a trap and ropes for me; they have spread a net beside the road; they have laid snares for me. Selah. [6] I say to the LORD, "You are my God; listen, LORD, to the sound of my pleading." [7] GOD the Lord, my strong salvation, you have shielded my head on the day of weapons. [8] LORD, do not grant the desires of the wicked; do not let his scheme succeed, or they will be lifted up. Selah. [9] As for the heads of those who encircle me, let the trouble their lips cause cover them. [10] May burning coals drop on them; may they be thrown into the fire, into watery pits, never to rise. [11] Let no man of slander be secure in the land; let evil hunt down the violent man with blow upon blow. [12] I know that the LORD will uphold the cause of the afflicted and the right of the needy. [13] Surely the righteous will thank your name; the upright will live before your face.

PSALM 141

A Psalm of David.

[1] LORD, I call on you; come quickly to me! Listen to my voice when I call to you. [2] May my prayer stand before you as incense, the raising of my hands as the evening sacrifice. [3] Post a guard, LORD, at my mouth; watch over the door of my lips. [4] Do not let my heart turn toward anything evil, to carry out deeds of wickedness with men who do evil; and let me not taste their choice foods. [5] Let the righteous strike me—that is kindness; let him correct me—that is oil on my head; my head will not refuse it. For my prayer is still against their wicked deeds.* [6] Their judges are flung down from the sides of the cliff, and they will hear my words, for they are pleasant. [7] As when someone plows and splits the ground, so our bones are scattered at the mouth of Sheol. [8] But my eyes are on you, GOD the Lord; in you I take refuge; do not pour out my soul. [9] Guard me from the grip of the trap they have set for me and from the snares of evildoers. [10] Let the wicked fall into their own nets together, while I pass safely by.

PSALM 142

A Maschil of David, when he was in the cave. A Prayer.

[1] With my voice to the LORD I cry out; with my voice to the LORD I make my plea. [2] Before him I pour out my lament; before him I make my distress known. [3] When my spirit grows faint within me, you know my path. On the way I walk they have hidden a snare for me. [4] Look to my right and see—no one acknowledges me; there is no place of escape for me; no one cares about my soul. [5] I cry out to you, LORD; I say, "You are my shelter, my share in the land of the living." [6] Listen to my cry, for I am very weak; rescue me from those who chase me, for they are stronger than I. [7] Lead my soul out of confinement, so that I may thank your name. The righteous will gather around me, because you will be good to me.

PSALM 143

A Psalm of David.

[1] LORD, hear my prayer; listen to my pleading; answer me in your faithfulness, in your righteousness. [2] Do not bring your servant into judgment, for no living person is righteous in your sight. [3] For the enemy has hunted my soul; he has beaten my life down to the ground; he has made me sit in dark places like those who died long ago. [4] So my spirit grows faint within me; within me my heart is desolate. [5] I remember the days long past; I reflect on all your doings; I ponder what your hands have made. [6] I spread out my hands to you; my soul longs for you like a parched land. Selah. [7] Hurry, answer me, LORD; my spirit is failing. Do not hide your face from me, or I will be like those who go down into the pit. [8] In the morning let me hear of your steadfast love, for I trust in you. Show me the way I should walk, for to you I raise my soul. [9] Rescue me from my enemies, LORD; I have fled to you for refuge. * [10] Teach me to do what pleases you, for you are my God. May your good Spirit lead me on level land. [11] LORD, for the sake of your name give me life; in your righteousness lead my soul out of distress. [12] And in your steadfast love silence my enemies and destroy all who oppress my soul, for I am your servant.

[1] Blessed be the LORD, my rock, who teaches my hands to fight and my fingers to make war; [2] my steadfast love and my fortress, my high tower and my rescuer, my shield, in whom I take refuge, who brings my people under me. * [3] LORD, what is man, that you take notice of him, the son of man, that you give him a thought? [4] Man is like a vapor; his days are like a shadow passing by. [5] LORD, lower your heavens and come down; touch the mountains, and they will smoke. [6] Send lightning and scatter them; shoot your arrows and throw them into confusion. [7] Reach down your hands from above; set me free and rescue me from the mighty waters, from the hand of foreigners, [8] whose mouth speaks deceit, and whose right hand is a lying right hand. [9] O God, I will sing you a new song; on a ten-stringed harp I will make music to you, [10] you who give salvation to kings, who set your servant David free from the evil sword. [11] Set me free and rescue me from the hand of foreigners, whose mouth speaks deceit, and whose right hand is a lying right hand. [12] May our sons be like saplings grown tall in their youth, our daughters like corner pillars carved in palace style. [13] May our barns be full, supplying every kind of food; may our sheep increase by thousands, by tens of thousands in our fields. [14] May our cattle be heavy with young; may there be no breach and no going into exile, and no cry of distress in our squares. * [15] How blessed are the people for whom it is so! How blessed are the people whose God is the LORD!

PSALM 145

A Song of Praise. Of David.

[1] I will lift you high, my God, the King, and bless your name forever and ever. [2] Each day I will bless you and praise your name forever and ever. [3] The LORD is great and highly to be praised; his greatness cannot be searched out. [4] Generation to generation will praise your works and tell of your mighty acts. [5] I will reflect on the glorious splendor of your majesty and on the accounts of your wonders. [6] They will speak of the power of your fearsome deeds, and I will recount your greatness. [7] They will pour out the memory of your great goodness and sing joyfully of your righteousness. [8] The LORD is gracious and merciful, slow to anger and great in steadfast love. [9] The LORD is good to everyone, and his compassion rests on all his works. [10] All your works will thank you, LORD, and your faithful ones will bless you. [11] They will tell of the glory of your kingdom and speak of your might, [12] to make his mighty deeds known to the sons of men, and the glorious splendor of his kingdom. [13] Your kingdom is a kingdom for all ages, and your rule lasts through every generation. * [14] The LORD supports all who are falling and lifts up all who are bent low. [15] The eyes of all wait for you, and you give them their food at its proper time. [16] You open your hand and satisfy every living thing with what it desires. [17] The LORD is righteous in all his ways and kind in all his deeds. * [18] The LORD is close to all who call on him, to all who call on him in truth. [19] He does the will of those who fear him; he hears their cry and saves them. [20] The LORD guards all who love him, but all the wicked he will wipe out. [21] My mouth will speak the LORD's praise, and let all flesh bless his holy name forever and ever.

PSALM 146

[1] Hallelujah! My soul, praise the LORD! [2] I will praise the LORD all my life; I will make music to my God as long as I exist. [3] Do not trust in nobles, in a human being, who has no power to save. [4] His breath goes out, he goes back to his ground; on that day his plans come to nothing. [5] How blessed is the one whose help is the God of Jacob, whose hope rests on the LORD his God, [6] the Maker of heaven and earth, the sea and everything in them, who keeps faith forever, [7] who brings justice for the oppressed and gives bread to the hungry. The LORD releases the prisoners; [8] the LORD gives sight to the blind; the LORD lifts up those bent low; the LORD loves the righteous; [9] the LORD guards the strangers; he sustains the orphan and the widow, but he makes the way of the wicked crooked. [10] The LORD will be King forever, your God, Zion, from generation to generation. Hallelujah!

PSALM 147

[1] Hallelujah! How good it is to make music to our God; how pleasant—praise is fitting. [2] The LORD is building Jerusalem; he is gathering the scattered ones of Israel. [3] He heals those whose hearts are broken and bandages their wounds. [4] He determines the number of the stars; he calls each of them by name. [5] Our Lord is great and mighty in strength; there is no counting his understanding. [6] The LORD raises up the afflicted; he throws the wicked down to the ground. [7] Sing to the LORD with thanks; make music to our God on the lyre, [8] who covers the sky with clouds, who provides rain for the earth, who makes the mountains sprout grass. [9] He gives the animals their food, and to the young ravens when they call. [10] He takes no delight in the might of the horse, no pleasure in the legs of a man; [11] the LORD takes pleasure in those who fear him, who wait for his steadfast love. [12] Jerusalem, praise the LORD! Zion, praise your God! [13] For he has made the bars of your gates strong; he has blessed your sons within you. [14] He sets peace within your borders; he fills you with the best of wheat. [15] He sends his command to the earth; his word runs quickly.* [16] He spreads snow like wool and strews frost like ashes. [17] He throws down his ice like crumbs; who can stand against his cold? [18] He sends his word and melts them; he makes his wind blow, and the waters run. [19] He makes his word known to Jacob, his statutes and his judgments to Israel. [20] He has done this for no other nation; his judgments they do not know. Hallelujah!

PSALM 148

[1] Hallelujah! Praise the LORD from the heavens; praise him in the high places! [2] Praise him, all you his angels; praise him, all you his hosts! [3] Praise him, sun and moon; praise him, all stars of light! [4] Praise him, heavens of heavens, and you waters above the heavens! [5] Let them praise the LORD's name, for he gave the command and they were created. [6] He set them in place forever and ever; he gave a decree that will not pass away. [7] Praise the LORD from the earth, you great sea creatures and all the depths, [8] fire and hail, snow and fog, storm wind that carries out his word, [9] mountains and every hill, fruit trees and every cedar, [10] wild animals and all cattle, creeping things and birds on the wing, [11] kings of the earth and all nations, rulers and all judges of the earth, [12] young men and young women too, the old together with the young! [13] Let them praise the LORD's name, for his name alone is lifted high; his splendor is over earth and heaven. [14] He has lifted up a horn for his people, praise for all his faithful ones, for the children of Israel, the people close to him. Hallelujah!

PSALM 149

[1] Hallelujah! Sing a new song to the LORD, his praise in the congregation of the faithful. [2] May Israel rejoice in the one who made him; may the sons of Zion delight in their King. [3] May they praise his name with dance, making music to him with drum and lyre. [4] For the LORD is pleased with his people; he beautifies the humble with salvation. [5] May the faithful exult in glory; may they shout for joy upon their beds. [6] May the exaltations of God be in their throat, and a two-edged sword in their hand,* [7] to carry out vengeance on the nations, punishments on the peoples, [8] to bind their kings in chains and their nobles in iron shackles, [9] to carry out against them the judgment that is written. This is the honor of all his faithful ones. Hallelujah!

PSALM 150

[1] Hallelujah! Praise God in his holy place; praise him in the firmament of his power! [2] Praise him for his mighty acts; praise him as befits his surpassing greatness! [3] Praise him with the blast of the trumpet; praise him with harp and lyre!* [4] Praise him with drum and dance; praise him with strings and flute! [5] Praise him with ringing cymbals; praise him with crashing cymbals! [6] Let all that breathes praise the LORD! Hallelujah!

CHAPTER 1

[1] Proverbs of Solomon son of David, king of Israel: [2] for knowing wisdom and discipline, for grasping words of discernment, [3] for taking in the discipline of insight: righteousness, justice and equity, [4] for giving shrewdness to the simple, knowledge and good sense to the young. [5] A wise man will listen and grow in learning, and one who understands will gain direction, [6] for understanding proverb and parable, the sayings of the wise and their riddles. [7] The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge; wisdom and discipline fools hold in contempt. [8] Listen, my son, to the discipline of your father, and do not abandon the teaching of your mother;* [9] for they are a graceful wreath on your head and a necklace about your neck. [10] My son, if sinners try to lure you, do not give in. [11] If they say, "Come along with us; let us lie in ambush for blood; let us waylay the innocent for no reason; [12] like Sheol let us swallow them alive, and whole, as those who go down into the pit; [13] we will find every precious treasure; we will fill our houses with spoil; [14] throw in your lot with us; we will all share one purse," [15] my son, do not go along the road with them; keep your foot from their path; [16] for their feet rush to evil, and they hasten to spill blood. [17] For it is useless to spread the net in the eyes of any winged creature; [18] but these lie in ambush for their own blood; they lurk for their own lives. [19] So are the paths of all who grab at unjust gain; it takes the life of those who possess it. [20] Wisdom cries aloud in the street; in the squares she raises her voice;* [21] at the head of the bustling streets she calls; at the openings of the city gates she utters her sayings: [22] "How long, you simple, will you love being simple? How long will scoffers delight in their scoffing and fools hate knowledge? [23] Turn at my rebuke; see, I will let my spirit flow out to you; I will make my words known to you. [24] Since I called and you refused, I held out my hand and no one took notice, [25] since you brushed aside all my counsel and wanted none of my rebuke, [26] I in turn will laugh at your disaster; I will mock when what you dread arrives, [27] when what you dread arrives like a tempest, and your disaster sweeps in like a whirlwind, when trouble and distress come upon you. [28] Then they will call me, but I will not answer; they will look for me early, but will not find me. [29] Since they hated knowledge and did not choose the fear of the LORD, [30] would not accept my counsel and spurned all my rebuke, [31] they will eat the fruit of their way and have their fill of their own devices. [32] For the turning away of the simple will slay them, and the ease of fools will ruin them; [*] [33] but he who listens to me will dwell secure and be at rest from the dread of harm."

CHAPTER 2

[1] My son, if you accept my words and store up my commands within you, [2] turning your ear to wisdom and bending your heart to understanding, [3] if indeed you cry out for discernment and lift up your voice for understanding, [4] if you look for her as for silver and hunt for her as for buried treasure, [5] then you will grasp the fear of the LORD and come upon the knowledge of God. [6] For the LORD gives wisdom; from his mouth come knowledge and understanding. [7] He stores up sound wisdom for the upright; he is a shield to those whose walk is blameless, [8] protecting the paths of justice and guarding the way of his faithful ones. [9] Then you will discern righteousness and justice and equity, every good path. [10] For wisdom will enter your heart, and knowledge will delight your soul; [11] discretion will keep watch over you; understanding will protect you, [12] rescuing you from the way of evil, from the man who speaks twisted things, [13] from those who leave the straight paths to walk in dark ways, [14] who are glad to do evil and revel in the twistedness of the wicked, [15] whose paths are crooked, and who go astray in their tracks; [16] rescuing you from the strange woman, from the foreigner whose words are smooth, [17] who has left the companion of her youth and forgotten the covenant of her God; [18] for her house sinks down to death, and her tracks to the shades. [19] None who go to her return, nor do they regain the paths of life. [20] So you will walk in the way of good men and keep to the paths of the righteous. [21] For the upright will live in the land, and the blameless will be left in it; [22] but the wicked will be cut off from the land, and the faithless rooted out of it.

CHAPTER 3

[1] My son, do not forget my teaching; let your heart keep my commands, [2] for they will add to you length of days, years of life and peace. [3] Let not steadfast love and faithfulness forsake you; bind them about your neck; write them on the tablet of your heart. [4] Then you will find favor and good repute in the eyes of God and man. [5] Trust in the LORD with all your heart, and do not rely on your own understanding. [6] In all your ways know him, and he will make your paths straight. [7] Do not be wise in your own sight; fear the LORD and depart from evil. [8] This will be health to your navel and moisture to your bones. [] [9] Honor the LORD from your wealth and from the firstfruits of all your produce; [10] then your barns will be filled to plenty, and your vats will burst with new wine. [11] My son, do not despise the LORD's discipline, and do not resent his correction; [12] for the LORD corrects the one he loves, as a father the son in whom he delights. [13] Happy is the man who finds wisdom, the man who obtains understanding; [14] for her gain is better than gain of silver, and her return better than gold. [15] She is more precious than pearls, and nothing you desire can equal her. [16] Long life is in her right hand; in her left are riches and honor. [17] Her ways are pleasant ways, and all her paths are peace. [18] She is a tree of life to those who take hold of her, and those who hold her fast are called happy. [19] The LORD founded the earth by wisdom; he set the heavens in place by understanding. [20] By his knowledge the depths burst open, and the skies drop dew. [21] My son, do not let them slip from your eyes; guard sound wisdom and discretion, [22] and they will be life to your soul and adornment for your neck. [23] Then you will go on your way in safety, and your foot will not strike against anything. [24] If you lie down, you will not be afraid; you will lie down, and your sleep will be pleasant. [25] Do not fear sudden panic, or the storm that strikes the wicked when it comes; [26] for the LORD will be your confidence and will guard your foot from the snare. [] [27] Do not keep back good from those it belongs to when your hand is able to do it. [28] Do not tell your neighbor, "Go, and come again; tomorrow I will give," when you have it with you. [29] Do not devise harm against your neighbor while he lives beside you in trust. [30] Do not dispute with a man for no reason, if he has done you no evil. [31] Do not be jealous of a violent man, and choose none of his ways; [32] for the crooked are an abomination to the LORD, but his intimate counsel is with the upright. [33] The LORD's curse is in the house of the wicked, but the home of the righteous he blesses. [34] Toward the scorners he is scornful, but to the humble he shows favor. [35] The wise will inherit honor, but fools get shame as their portion.

[1] Listen, sons, to a father's discipline, and give heed so as to gain understanding; [2] for I am giving you sound learning; do not abandon my teaching. [3] When I was a son with my father, tender, the only one before my mother, [4] he taught me and told me, "Let your heart hold on to my words; keep my commands and you will live. [5] Acquire wisdom, acquire understanding; do not forget, and do not swerve from the sayings of my mouth. [6] Do not abandon her, and she will preserve you; love her, and she will watch over you. [7] The beginning of wisdom is this: acquire wisdom, and with all your acquiring, acquire understanding. [*] [8] Hold her high, and she will lift you up; she will bring you honor when you embrace her. [9] She will set a graceful wreath on your head; she will present you with a crown of splendor." [10] Listen, my son, and accept my sayings, and the years of your life will multiply. [11] In the way of wisdom I have instructed you; I have guided you along straight tracks. [12] As you walk, your stride will not be cramped, and if you run, you will not trip. [13] Grip discipline and do not let it go; keep her, for she is your life. [14] Do not set foot on the path of the wicked, and do not go along the way of evildoers. [15] Shun it, do not travel on it; turn from it and go on past. [16] For they cannot sleep unless they have done wrong; they are robbed of sleep unless they bring someone down. [17] For they feed on the bread of wickedness and drink the wine of violence. [18] But the path of the righteous is like the light of dawn, which shines brighter and brighter until full day. [19] The way of the wicked is like thick darkness; they do not know what trips them up. [20] My son, attend to my words; turn your ear to what I say. [21] Do not let them depart from your eyes; keep them deep within your heart. [22] For they are life to whoever finds them, and health to his whole body. [23] More than anything you guard, keep watch over your heart, for from it are the outflowings of life. [24] Remove from yourself a twisted mouth, and keep crooked lips far from you. [25] Let your eyes look straight forward, and your eyelids gaze right before you. [26] Weigh carefully the path of your feet, and all your ways will be sure. [27] Do not swerve to the right or the left; keep your foot away from evil.

[1] My son, give heed to my wisdom; bend your ear to my understanding, [2] that you may hold on to discretion and your lips may preserve knowledge. [3] For the lips of the strange woman drip with honey, and her palate is smoother than oil; [4] but in the end she is bitter as wormwood, sharp as a two-edged sword. [5] Her feet descend to death; her steps lay hold on Sheol. [6] She never weighs the path of life; her tracks stray, and she is unaware of it. [7] So now, sons, hear me, and do not depart from the sayings of my mouth. [8] Keep your road far away from her; do not come near the doorway of her house, [9] or you will hand over your splendor to others and your years to one who is cruel, [10] or strangers will feast on your strength and your hard-won earnings end up in a foreigner's house, [11] and at the last you will moan, when your flesh and body are spent, [12] and you will say, "How I hated discipline, and how my heart scorned correction! [13] I did not heed the voice of my teachers or bend my ear to those who instructed me. [14] I came close to complete ruin in the midst of the gathered assembly." [15] Drink water from your own cistern, flowing water from within your own well. [16] Should your springs overflow out of doors, your streams of water in the public squares? [17] Let them belong to you alone, and not to strangers along with you. [18] May your fountain be blessed, and find your joy in the wife of your youth, [19] a lovely hind, a graceful doe; let her breasts content you at all times; be ever captivated by her love. [20] Why, my son, should you be captivated by a strange woman and clasp the bosom of a foreigner? [21] For the ways of a man lie open before the eyes of the LORD, and he weighs all his tracks. [22] The wicked man's own iniquities will trap him, and he will be gripped by the cords of his sin. [23] He will die for want of discipline, and through his great folly he will be led astray.

CHAPTER 6

[1] My son, if you have stood surety for your neighbor, if you have given your hand in pledge for a stranger, [2] you have been trapped by what you said, caught by the words of your mouth. [3] Then do this, my son, and get yourself free, for you have fallen into your neighbor's power: go, humble yourself, and plead urgently with your neighbor. [4] Allow your eyes no sleep and your eyelids no slumber; [5] free yourself like a gazelle from the hunter's hand, like a bird from the hand of the fowler. [6] Go to the ant, you lazybones; watch her ways and grow wise. [7] She has no commander, no overseer or ruler, [8] yet in summer she gets her food ready and in harvest she gathers what she will eat. [9] How long, lazybones, will you lie there? When will you get up from your sleep? [10] A bit of sleep, a bit of slumber, a bit of folding the hands to lie down, [11] and poverty will come on you like a prowler, and need like a man with a shield. [12] A worthless man, a man of iniquity, walks about with a twisted mouth, [13] winking his eyes, scraping his feet, making signs with his fingers; [14] with deceit in his heart he devises evil at all times; he lets loose quarrels. [15] So disaster will come on him all at once; suddenly he will be shattered, with no remedy. [16] There are six things the LORD hates, and seven that his soul abhors: [17] haughty eyes, a lying tongue, hands that spill innocent blood, [18] a heart that devises wicked plans, feet that hurry to run to evil, [19] a false witness who breathes out lies, and one who sows quarrels among brothers. [20] My son, observe the command of your father, and do not abandon the teaching of your mother. [21] Bind them upon your heart continually; fasten them about your neck. [22] When you walk about, it will guide you; when you lie down, it will keep watch over you; and when you wake, it will speak with you. [23] For the command is a lamp and the teaching a light, and the reproofs of discipline are the way of life, [24] guarding you from the evil woman, from the smooth tongue of the foreigner. [25] Do not crave her beauty in your heart, and do not let her take you captive with her eyelashes; [26] for by a harlot a man is brought down to a loaf of bread, but another man's wife stalks a precious life.* [27] Can a man scoop fire into his lap without his clothing catching fire? [28] Can a man tread on live coals without his feet being burned? [29] So it is with one who goes in to his neighbor's wife; no one who touches her will escape punishment. [30] Men do not scorn a thief when he steals to fill his stomach because he is hungry; [31] but if he is found out, he must pay back seven times; he must hand over all the goods of his house. [32] The man who commits adultery with a woman has no sense; whoever does it ruins his own soul. [33] Blows and shame are what he will get, and his reproach will never be erased. [34] For jealousy stirs a man's fury, and he will show no mercy on the day of revenge. [35] He will not look at any ransom, nor will he be satisfied, however many gifts you offer.

CHAPTER 7

[1] My son, hold on to my words and lay up my commands within you. [2] Keep my commands and live, and keep my teaching like the pupil of your eye. [3] Tie them on your fingers; write them on the tablet of your heart. [4] Call wisdom, "My sister," and name understanding your kinswoman, [5] so that they may guard you from the strange woman, from the foreigner with her smooth words. [6] For at the window of my house, through my lattice, I looked down, [7] and among the simple, among the young men, I caught sight of a youth with no sense, [8] crossing the street near her corner and heading along the road to her house, [9] at dusk, in the evening of the day, in the black of night and the darkness. [10] And see, a woman comes out to meet him, in a harlot's attire, with a guarded heart. [11] She is noisy and defiant; her feet never stay at home. [12] One moment in the street, the next in the squares, she lurks by every corner. [13] She takes hold of him and kisses him, and with a bold face she tells him, [14] "Peace offerings were due from me; today I have fulfilled my vows. [15] That is why I came out to meet you, looking eagerly for your face, and I have found you. [16] I have spread my couch with coverlets, with striped cloth of Egyptian linen. [17] I have sprinkled my bed with myrrh, aloes and cinnamon. [18] Come, let us drink our fill of love till morning; let us enjoy ourselves with lovemaking. [19] For the man is not at home; he has gone on a distant journey. [20] He took the bag of silver with him; he will not be home until the full moon."* [21] She sways him with her many persuasions; with her smooth lips she compels him. [22] All at once he follows her, like an ox going to slaughter, or as one in fetters to the correction of a fool,* [23] until an arrow splits his liver; like a bird rushing into a snare, he does not know it will cost him his life. [24] So now, sons, hear me, and attend to the sayings of my mouth. [25] Do not let your heart veer off into her ways; do not wander onto her paths. [26] For many are the wounded she has laid low, and mighty are all whom she has slain. [27] Her house is the road to Sheol, leading down to the rooms of death.

CHAPTER 8

[1] Is wisdom not calling? Is understanding not lifting up her voice? [2] At the top of the high places along the road, where the paths cross, she has taken her stand; [3] beside the gates at the entrance of the town, at the doorways, she cries out: [4] "To you, men, I am calling; my voice goes out to the sons of man. [5] You simple, gain shrewdness; you fools, get a heart of understanding. [6] Hear, for I speak of noble things, and my lips open to say what is right; [7] for my mouth will speak truth, and wickedness is loathsome to my lips. [8] Every saying of my mouth is righteous; nothing in them is twisted or perverse. [9] To one who understands they are all straightforward, and right to those who have found knowledge. [10] Choose my discipline instead of silver, and knowledge in place of fine gold; [11] for wisdom is better than pearls, and no treasure you could wish for can match her. [12] I, wisdom, make my home with shrewdness, and I discover knowledge and discretion. [13] To fear the LORD is to hate evil. Pride and arrogance, the evil way and the twisted mouth, I hate. [14] Counsel belongs to me, and sound wisdom; I am understanding; I have strength. [15] Through me kings rule, and rulers decree justice; [16] through me princes govern, and nobles, all who judge in righteousness. [17] I love those who love me, and those who seek me early find me. [18] With me are riches and honor, lasting wealth and righteousness. [19] My fruit is better than gold, than pure gold, and what I yield surpasses choice silver. [20] I walk along the way of righteousness, along the paths of justice, [21] giving those who love me wealth as their inheritance and filling their storehouses. [22] The LORD possessed me as the first of his way,* before his deeds of long ago. [23] I was set up from eternity, from the start, before the earth began. [24] When there were no depths I was born, when there were no fountains heavy with water. [25] Before the mountains were sunk in place, ahead of the hills, I was born, [26] before he had made the land and its fields, or the first specks of the world's dust. [27] When he set the heavens in place, I was there; when he traced a circle over the face of the deep, [28] when he made the clouds above firm, when the springs of the deep gushed out, [29] when he fixed its boundary for the sea, so that the waters would not overstep his word, when he laid out the foundations of the earth, [30] then I was at his side as a master workman, and I was his delight every day, playing before him at all times,* [31] playing in his inhabited world, and delighting in the sons of man. [32] So now, sons, hear me: happy are those who keep my ways. [33] Listen to discipline and grow wise; do not cast it aside. [34] Happy is the man who listens to me, keeping watch at my doors day after day, waiting beside my doorposts. [35] For whoever finds me has found life and wins favor from the LORD; [36] but whoever misses me does harm to his own soul; all who hate me are in love with death."

CHAPTER 9

[1] Wisdom has built her house; she has carved out her seven pillars. [2] She has butchered her meat and mixed her wine; she has laid her table too. [3] She has sent out her maidens; she calls out from the heights of the town: [4] "Let all who are simple turn aside here!" To the one who has no sense she says, [5] "Come, eat my food and drink the wine I have mixed. [6] Forsake folly and live; go forward in the way of understanding." [7] He who corrects a scoffer brings insult on himself, and he who rebukes the wicked gets a stain. [8] Do not reprove a scoffer, or he will hate you; reprove a wise man, and he will love you. [9] Instruct a wise man, and he becomes wiser; teach a righteous man, and he gains in learning. [10] The beginning of wisdom is the fear of the LORD, and to know the Holy One is understanding.* [11] For through me your days will be many, and years of life will be added for you. [12] If you are wise, your wisdom is to your own good; if you scoff, you alone will carry it. [13] Lady Folly is noisy; she is simple-minded and knows nothing at all. [14] She sits at the doorway of her house, on a seat at the heights of the town, [15] calling out to those who pass along, who are going straight on their paths: [16] "Let all who are simple turn aside here!" And to one who has no sense she says, [17] "Stolen waters are sweet, and bread eaten in hiding tastes good." [18] But he does not know that the shades are there, that her guests are down in the depths of Sheol.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Proverbs of Solomon. A wise son brings joy to his father, but a foolish son is his mother's sorrow. [2] Treasures won by wickedness are of no profit, but righteousness rescues from death. [3] The LORD does not let the soul of the righteous go hungry, but he pushes aside the craving of the wicked. [4] A slack palm makes a man poor, but the hand of the diligent makes him rich. [5] A son who gathers in summer acts wisely; a son who sleeps at harvest acts shamefully. [6] Blessings rest on the head of the righteous, but the mouth of the wicked hides violence. [7] The memory of the righteous is a blessing, but the name of the wicked will decay. [8] The wise in heart accepts commands, but a babbling fool will be thrown down. [9] He who walks in integrity walks secure, but he who makes his ways crooked will be found out. [10] He who winks his eye brings trouble, and a babbling fool will be thrown down.* [11] The mouth of the righteous is a spring of life, but the mouth of the wicked hides violence. [12] Hatred stirs up quarrels, but love covers every transgression. [13] Wisdom is found on the lips of the discerning, but a rod is meant for the back of one without sense. [14] The wise lay up knowledge, but the mouth of a fool is ruin close at hand. [15] A rich man's wealth is his fortified city; poverty is the ruin of the poor. [16] The earnings of the righteous lead to life; the income of the wicked, to sin. [17] One who keeps discipline is a path to life, but one who abandons correction leads astray. [18] He who hides hatred has lying lips, and he who spreads a slander is a fool. [19] When words are many, transgression is not lacking, but one who restrains his lips is prudent. [20] The tongue of the righteous is pure silver; the heart of the wicked is worth very little. [21] The lips of the righteous shepherd many, but fools die for want of sense. [22] It is the LORD's blessing that makes rich, and he adds no toil to it. [23] To a fool, doing wrong is like a joke, and wisdom is the same to a man of understanding. [24] The thing the wicked fears is what comes upon him, but what the righteous long for will be given. [25] When the storm has passed, the wicked are gone, but the righteous have a foundation for ever. [26] As vinegar is to the teeth and smoke to the eyes, so is the lazy man to those who send him. [27] The fear of the LORD lengthens days, but the years of the wicked are shortened. [28] The expectation of the righteous is joy, but the hope of the wicked will come to nothing. [29] The way of the LORD is a refuge to the blameless, but ruin to those who do iniquity. [30] The righteous will never be shaken, but the wicked will not remain in the land. [31] The mouth of the righteous bears the fruit of wisdom, but the twisted tongue will be cut out. [32] The lips of the righteous know what pleases, but the mouth of the wicked knows only perversity.

CHAPTER 11

[1] Dishonest scales are an abomination to the LORD, but an accurate weight pleases him. [2] When pride comes, then disgrace comes, but with the humble is wisdom. [3] The integrity of the upright guides them, but the crookedness of the treacherous destroys them. [4] Wealth is of no use on the day of wrath, but righteousness rescues from death. [5] The righteousness of the blameless keeps his road straight, but the wicked falls through his own wickedness. [6] The righteousness of the upright sets them free, but the treacherous are trapped by their own desires. [7] When the wicked man dies, his hope dies with him, and the expectation placed in strength comes to nothing. [8] The righteous man is pulled out of distress, and the wicked goes in instead. [9] The godless ruins his neighbor with his mouth, but the righteous are rescued by knowledge. [10] The city celebrates when the righteous prosper, and when the wicked perish there is a shout of joy. [11] Through the blessing of the upright a city is raised up, but through the mouth of the wicked it is torn down. [12] One who belittles his neighbor has no sense, but a man of understanding holds his peace. [13] A gossip going about gives away secrets, but one who is trustworthy in spirit keeps a thing covered. [14] Where there is no guidance a people falls, but in a wealth of counselors there is victory. [15] He who stands surety for a stranger will suffer harm for it, but he who hates handshake pledges is safe. [16] A gracious woman holds on to honor, and ruthless men hold on to riches. [17] A man of kindness benefits himself, but a cruel man brings trouble on his own flesh. [18] The wicked man earns wages that deceive, but one who sows righteousness has a sure reward. [19] Steadfast righteousness leads to life, but one who chases evil goes to his death. [20] Those whose hearts are twisted are an abomination to the LORD, but those whose way is blameless please him. [21] Be sure of this: the wicked will not escape punishment, but the seed of the righteous will go free.* [22] Like a gold ring in a pig's snout is a beautiful woman lacking discretion. [23] The longing of the righteous brings only good; the hope of the wicked, only wrath. [24] One gives freely and yet grows richer; another holds back more than is right and only comes to need. [25] A soul that blesses will be enriched, and one who gives water will be watered himself. [26] People curse the man who hoards grain, but blessing crowns the head of the one who sells it. [27] He who earnestly seeks good is looking for favor, but whoever hunts for evil, it will come to him. [28] He who relies on his wealth will fall, but the righteous will sprout like green foliage. [29] He who brings trouble on his household will inherit wind, and the fool will be a slave to the wise in heart. [30] The fruit of the righteous is a tree of life, and one who captures souls is wise. [31] If the righteous is repaid on earth, how much more the wicked and the sinner!*

CHAPTER 12

[1] Whoever loves discipline loves knowledge, but one who hates correction is stupid. [2] A good man wins favor from the LORD, but he condemns a man who devises schemes. [3] No one is made secure by wickedness, but the root of the righteous will not be shaken. [4] A wife of strength is her husband's crown, but one who acts shamefully is like decay in his bones.* [5] The plans of the righteous are just; the guidance of the wicked is treachery. [6] The words of the wicked are an ambush for blood, but the mouth of the upright rescues them. [7] The wicked are overturned and are gone, but the house of the righteous stays standing. [8] A man is commended for his insight, but one with a twisted heart is held in contempt. [9] Better to be lightly esteemed and have a servant than to play the great man and have no bread. [10] The righteous man cares for the life of his animal, but even the tender mercies of the wicked are cruel. [11] One who tills his ground will be filled with bread, but one who chases empty things has no sense. [12] The wicked covet the plunder of evil men, but the root of the righteous gives its yield. [13] In the transgression of the lips lies an evil snare, but the righteous man gets out of trouble. [14] From the fruit of his mouth a man has his fill of good, and what his hands have done is paid back to him. [15] A fool thinks his own way is right, but one who listens to advice is wise. [16] A fool shows his vexation the same day, but a shrewd man ignores an insult. [17] He who speaks truth tells what is just, but a false witness tells lies. [18] There is one whose rash words are like sword thrusts, but the tongue of the wise brings healing. [19] Truthful lips stand firm for ever, but a lying tongue lasts only an instant. [20] There is deceit in the hearts of those who plot evil, but joy for those who give counsel for peace. [21] No trouble comes upon the righteous, but the wicked have their fill of harm. [22] Lying lips are an abomination to the LORD, but those who act faithfully please him. [23] A shrewd man keeps his knowledge hidden, but the heart of fools blurts out folly. [24] The diligent hand will govern, but the slack hand will end in forced labor. [25] Anxiety in a man's heart weighs it down, but a good word cheers it up. [26] The righteous man guides his neighbor, but the way of the wicked sends them astray.* [27] The lazy man does not roast his prey, but a diligent man's possessions are precious. [28] On the way of righteousness there is life, and along its path there is no death.

CHAPTER 13

[1] A wise son listens to his father's discipline, but a scoffer pays no heed to a reprimand. [2] By the fruit of his mouth a man enjoys good things, but the appetite of the treacherous is for violence. [3] One who guards his mouth keeps his life; one who flings his lips open comes to ruin. [4] The lazy man's soul craves and gets nothing, but the soul of the diligent is fed to the full. [5] A righteous man hates a lying word, but a wicked man brings stench and disgrace. [6] Righteousness protects the one whose way is blameless, but wickedness brings down the sinner. [7] There is one who acts rich and has nothing, and one who acts poor and has great wealth. [8] A man's riches are the ransom for his life, but a poor man never hears a threat. [9] The light of the righteous shines gladly, but the lamp of the wicked goes out. [10] Insolence produces nothing but quarreling, but wisdom is with those who accept advice. [11] Wealth got from emptiness will shrink, but one who gathers by hand will see it grow. [12] Hope put off makes the heart sick, but a longing fulfilled is a tree of life. [13] One who scorns the word brings ruin on himself, but one who reveres the command will be repaid. [14] The teaching of the wise is a spring of life, for escaping the snares of death. [15] Good insight wins favor, but the way of the treacherous is harsh. [16] Every shrewd man acts with knowledge, but a fool parades his folly. [17] A wicked messenger stumbles into trouble, but a faithful envoy brings healing. [18] Poverty and shame come to one who neglects discipline, but one who heeds correction is honored. [19] Desire attained is sweet to the soul, but turning from evil is loathsome to fools. [20] One who walks with the wise will become wise, but the companion of fools will come to harm. [21] Trouble chases sinners, but the righteous are rewarded with good. [22] A good man leaves an inheritance for his grandchildren, but the wealth of the sinner is laid up for the righteous. [23] The fallow ground of the poor yields plenty of food, but some are swept off through injustice.* [24] One who holds back his rod hates his son, but one who loves him is quick to discipline him. [25] The righteous man eats until his soul is satisfied, but the belly of the wicked goes empty.

CHAPTER 14

[1] The wise among women builds up her house, but folly pulls it down with her own hands. [2] One who walks uprightly fears the LORD, but one whose ways are crooked despises him. [3] In a fool's mouth is a rod for his pride, but the lips of the wise protect them. [4] Where there are no oxen the feeding trough is empty, but by the strength of an ox comes a rich harvest. [5] A faithful witness does not lie, but a false witness pours out lies. [6] A scoffer looks for wisdom and there is none, but knowledge comes easily to one with understanding. [7] Get away from a foolish man, for on his lips you will find no knowledge. [8] The wisdom of the shrewd is to discern his way, but the folly of fools is deception. [9] Fools make light of guilt, but among the upright there is goodwill. [10] The heart knows its own bitterness, and no stranger has a part in its joy. [11] The house of the wicked will be wiped out, but the tent of the upright will thrive. [12] There is a way that looks straight to a man, but in the end it leads to death. [13] Even while laughing the heart may be in pain, and joy may end in sorrow. [14] One whose heart turns away will have his fill of his own ways, and a good man will be filled from what is his. [15] The simple man trusts every word, but the shrewd man considers his steps. [16] The wise man is cautious and turns from evil, but the fool is arrogant and careless. [17] One quick to anger acts foolishly, and a man who schemes is hated. [18] The simple inherit folly, but the shrewd wear knowledge as a crown. [19] The evil bow before the good, and the wicked at the gates of the righteous. [20] The poor man is disliked even by his neighbor, but many are the friends of the rich. [21] One who looks down on his neighbor sins, but happy is the one who is kind to the poor. [22] Do those who plot evil not go astray? But those who plan good find steadfast love and faithfulness. [23] All hard work brings gain, but mere talk leads only to poverty. [24] Their riches are a crown to the wise, but the folly of fools remains folly. [25] A truthful witness saves lives, but one who pours out lies is a deceiver. [26] In the fear of the LORD a man has strong confidence, and his children will have a place of refuge. [27] The fear of the LORD is a spring of life, for escaping the snares of death. [28] A great population is a king's splendor, but a lack of people is a ruler's ruin. [29] One who is slow to anger has great understanding, but one who is short-tempered lifts folly high. [30] A calm heart gives life to the body, but envy rots the bones. [31] One who oppresses the poor insults his Maker, but one who is kind to the needy honors him. [32] The wicked man is thrown down by his own wrongdoing, but the righteous man finds refuge even in his death. [33] Wisdom rests quietly in the heart of the discerning, but what is inside fools becomes known. [34] Righteousness lifts a nation high, but sin is a reproach to any people. [*] [35] A king takes pleasure in a servant who acts wisely, but his fury is upon one who acts shamefully.

CHAPTER 15

[1] A soft answer turns away fury, but a hurtful word makes anger rise. [2] The tongue of the wise puts knowledge to good use, but the mouth of fools gushes folly. [3] The eyes of the LORD are everywhere, keeping watch on the evil and the good. [4] A soothing tongue is a tree of life, but a twisted one crushes the spirit. [5] A fool spurns his father's discipline, but whoever accepts correction shows good sense. [6] The house of the righteous holds great treasure, but the revenue of the wicked brings trouble. [7] The lips of the wise scatter knowledge abroad, but the heart of fools is not right. [8] The LORD detests the sacrifice of the wicked, but the prayer of the upright is his pleasure. [9] The LORD detests the way of the wicked, but he loves the one who pursues righteousness. [10] Harsh discipline awaits the one who leaves the path; whoever hates correction will die. [11] Sheol and Abaddon are open before the LORD; how much more the hearts of the children of men! [*] [12] A scoffer does not like being corrected; he will not go to the wise. [13] A glad heart makes the face cheerful, but by sorrow of heart the spirit is crushed. [14] The heart of the discerning seeks out knowledge, but the mouth of fools grazes on folly. [15] All the days of the poor are hard, but a glad heart is a feast without end. [16] Better a little with the fear of the LORD than a large fortune and trouble with it. [17] Better a dish of greens with love than a fatted ox with hatred. [18] A hot-tempered man stirs up conflict, but one who is slow to anger quiets strife. [19] The road of the lazy is like a thornbush hedge, but the path of the upright is a built-up highway. [20] A wise son gladdens his father, but a foolish man scorns his mother. [21] Folly is a delight to one who has no sense, but a man of understanding keeps a straight course. [22] Without counsel plans go wrong, but with many advisers they succeed. [23] A man takes joy in a fitting reply, and a word at the right time, how good it is! [24] For the prudent the path of life leads upward, to keep him from Sheol below. [25] The LORD pulls down the house of the proud, but he keeps the widow's boundary in place. [26] The LORD detests evil plans, but gracious words are pure. [27] One greedy for unjust gain brings trouble on his household, but one who hates bribes will live. [28] The heart of the righteous weighs its answers, but the mouth of the wicked spews out evil. [29] The LORD is far off from the wicked, but he listens to the prayer of the righteous. [30] Bright eyes gladden the heart, and good news puts fat on the bones. [31] The ear that heeds life-giving correction will make its home among the wise. [32] One who rejects discipline despises himself, but one who listens to correction gains a heart of understanding. [33] The fear of the LORD is training in wisdom, and before honor comes humility.

CHAPTER 16

[1] The plans of the heart belong to man, but the answer of the tongue is from the LORD. [2] All a man's ways are clean in his own sight, but the LORD weighs the spirits. [3] Commit your works to the LORD, and your plans will be established. [4] The LORD has made everything for its purpose, even the wicked for the day of trouble. [*] [5] The LORD detests everyone who is arrogant in heart; be sure of this, he will not escape punishment. [6] Through steadfast love and faithfulness iniquity is atoned for, and through the fear of the LORD men turn from evil. [7] When a man's ways please the LORD, he makes even his enemies live at peace with him. [8] Better a little with righteousness than large revenues gained unjustly. [9] A man's heart plots out his way, but the LORD makes his steps firm. [10] A divine verdict is on the lips of a king; his mouth does not betray justice. [11] Honest scales and balances belong to the LORD; all the weights in the bag are his doing. [12] Kings detest wrongdoing, for a throne is made firm by righteousness. [13] Kings take delight in honest lips, and they love one who speaks uprightly. [14] A king's fury is a herald of death, but a wise man will pacify it. [15] When a king's face shines, there is life, and his favor is like a cloud bringing the spring rain. [16] How much better to acquire wisdom than gold! To acquire understanding is to be preferred over silver. [17] The highway of the upright avoids evil; whoever watches his way guards his life. [18] Pride goes ahead of ruin, and a lofty spirit ahead of stumbling. [19] Better to be humble in spirit among the lowly than to share plunder with the proud. [20] Whoever pays attention to the word will find good, and happy is the one who trusts in the LORD. [21] The wise in heart is called discerning, and sweet speech adds to persuasiveness. [22] Understanding is a spring of life to those who have it, but folly is the discipline of fools. [23] A wise man's heart makes his mouth prudent and adds persuasiveness to his lips. [24] Kind words are a honeycomb, sweet to the soul and healing for the bones. [25] There is a way that looks straight to a man, but in the end it leads to death. [26] A worker's appetite works for him, for his hunger drives him on. [27] A worthless man digs up trouble, and his speech is like a scorching flame. [28] A crooked man sows strife, and a gossip separates close friends. [29] A violent man lures his neighbor and leads him down a path that is not good. [30] He who winks his eyes is plotting perversity; he who presses his lips together has carried out evil. [31] Gray hair is a splendid crown; it is gained by a righteous life. [32] Better a patient man than a warrior, and one who rules his temper than one who takes a city. [33] The lot is cast into the lap, but its every decision is from the LORD.

CHAPTER 17

[1] Better a dry morsel and quiet with it than a house full of feasting with quarrels. [2] A servant with insight will rule over a son who acts shamefully, and will have a share of the inheritance among the brothers. [3] The crucible is for silver and the furnace for gold, but the LORD tests hearts. [4] A wrongdoer pays attention to wicked lips; a liar listens closely to a ruinous tongue. [5] One who mocks the poor insults his Maker; one who rejoices at disaster will not escape punishment. [6] Grandchildren are the crown of the aged, and fathers are the glory of their sons. [7] Lofty speech does not suit a fool; still less do lying lips suit a noble. [8] A bribe is a magic stone in the eyes of the one who gives it; wherever he turns, he succeeds. [9] One who covers over an offense seeks love, but one who repeats a matter drives close friends apart. [10] A reprimand sinks deeper into a discerning man than a hundred lashes into a fool. [11] An evil man is bent only on rebellion, so a merciless messenger will be sent after him. [12] Sooner meet a she-bear robbed of her cubs than a fool in his folly. [13] Whoever pays back evil for good, evil will never leave his house. [14] Starting a quarrel is like opening a floodgate, so drop the matter before the dispute breaks out. [15] Acquitting the wicked and condemning the righteous, the LORD detests them both. [16] Why should a fool have money in his hand to buy wisdom, when he has no mind for it? [17] A friend loves at every time, and a brother is born for the day of trouble. [18] A man without sense gives his hand in pledge and puts up surety for his neighbor. [19] One who loves transgression loves a quarrel; one who builds his gate high invites ruin. [20] A man with a crooked heart does not find good, and one with a twisted tongue falls into trouble. [21] Whoever begets a fool has grief, and the father of a senseless son has no joy. [22] A joyful heart is good medicine, but a crushed spirit dries up the bones. [23] The wicked man accepts a bribe in secret to bend the paths of justice. [24] The discerning man keeps wisdom in view, but a fool's eyes wander to the ends of the earth. [25] A foolish son is a vexation to his father and bitterness to the mother who bore him. [26] To fine the righteous is not good either, nor to flog nobles for their uprightness. [27] One who holds back his words has knowledge, and one who is cool of spirit is a man of understanding. [28] Even a fool who keeps silent is counted wise; when he closes his lips he is thought intelligent.

CHAPTER 18

[1] One who isolates himself pursues his own desires; he quarrels with all sound wisdom.* [2] A fool has no delight in understanding, only in airing his own opinions. [3] When a wicked man comes, contempt comes with it, and with disgrace comes scorn. [4] The words of a man's mouth are deep waters, a bubbling brook, a spring of wisdom. [5] It is not good to favor the wicked or to turn aside the righteous in judgment. [6] A fool's lips walk into a quarrel, and his mouth invites a beating. [7] The mouth of a fool is his undoing, and his lips are a trap for his soul. [8] The words of a gossip are like choice morsels; they go down into the inmost parts. [9] One who is slack in his work is brother to the one who destroys. [10] The name of the LORD is a fortified tower; the righteous man runs to it and is lifted out of reach. [11] A rich man's wealth is his fortified city, like a towering wall, as he imagines it. [12] Before ruin a man's heart is proud, but humility goes ahead of honor. [13] Whoever gives an answer before he listens, it is folly and shame to him. [14] A man's spirit will endure sickness, but a crushed spirit, who can bear it? [15] A discerning heart gains knowledge, and the ear of the wise looks for knowledge. [16] A man's gift opens the way for him and brings him into the presence of the great. [17] The first to state his case seems right, until the other comes and questions him. [18] Casting the lot ends quarrels and settles things between the powerful. [19] A brother wronged is harder to win than a fortified city, and disputes are like the bolts of a citadel. [20] A man's stomach is filled with the fruit of his mouth; he is filled with the produce of his lips. [21] Death and life lie in the grip of the tongue, and those who love it will eat its fruit. [22] One who finds a wife finds something good and receives favor from the LORD. [23] The poor man makes pleas for mercy, but the rich man answers with harshness. [24] A man with many companions comes to ruin, but there is a friend more loyal than a brother.*

CHAPTER 19

[1] Better a poor man walking in integrity than one with twisted lips who is a fool. [2] A soul without knowledge is not good either, and one who hurries his steps goes wrong. [3] A man's own folly overturns his way, and yet his heart rages against the LORD. [4] Wealth adds many friends, but a poor man is parted from his friend. [5] A false witness will not escape punishment, and one who pours out lies will not get away. [6] Many court the favor of a man of rank, and everyone is a friend to the man who gives gifts. [7] All a poor man's brothers hate him; how much more do his friends keep their distance from him! He chases them with words, and they are all he has.* [8] One who gains sense loves his own soul; one who holds on to understanding will prosper. [9] A false witness will not escape punishment, and one who pours out lies will perish. [10] Luxury does not suit a fool, still less a slave ruling over princes. [11] A man's good sense makes him slow to anger, and it is his glory to overlook an offense. [12] A king's rage is like a lion's growl, but his favor is like dew upon the grass. [13] A foolish son is his father's ruin, and a wife's quarreling is a leak that never stops dripping. [14] House and riches are inherited from fathers, but a sensible wife comes from the LORD. [15] Sloth throws one into deep sleep, and an idle soul goes hungry. [16] One who keeps the command keeps his soul; one who is careless of his ways will die. [17] One who is kind to the poor lends to the LORD, and he will repay him for his deed. [18] Discipline your son while there is still hope, and do not set your heart on putting him to death.* [19] A man of great temper must pay the penalty; if you bail him out, you will have to do it again. [20] Listen to advice and accept discipline, so that you may be wise in the end. [21] Many are the plans in a man's heart, but it is the purpose of the LORD that will stand. [22] What is desirable in a man is his kindness, and better a poor man than a liar. [23] The fear of the LORD leads to life; one who has it rests content, untouched by harm. [24] The lazy man dips his hand in the bowl and will not even lift it back to his mouth. [25] Beat a scoffer, and the simple will learn shrewdness; correct a discerning man, and he will gain knowledge. [26] One who mistreats his father and chases away his mother is a son who brings shame and disgrace. [27] Stop listening to instruction, my son, and you will wander from the words of knowledge. [28] A worthless witness makes a mockery of justice, and the mouth of the wicked gulps down iniquity. [29] Penalties are ready for scoffers, and beatings for the backs of fools.

CHAPTER 20

[1] Wine is a mocker, strong drink a brawler, and whoever is led astray by it is not wise. [2] A king's terror is like a lion's growl; whoever angers him forfeits his own life. [3] It is honorable for a man to stay out of a dispute, but every fool will start a quarrel. [4]
The lazy man does not plow in the autumn; at harvest he looks for a crop and there is nothing. [5] The purpose in a man's heart is like deep water, but a man of understanding will draw it out. [6]
Many a man announces his own loyalty, but who can find a man who is trustworthy? [7] The righteous man walks in his integrity; happy are his children after him! [8] A king seated on the throne of justice sifts out all evil with his eyes. [9] Who can say, "I have kept my heart clean; I am free of my sin"? [10] Two kinds of weights and two kinds of measures, the LORD detests them both. [11] Even a child shows by what he does whether his conduct is pure and upright. [12] The ear that hears and the eye that sees, the LORD has made both of them. [13] Do not love sleep, or you will grow poor; keep your eyes open, and you will have bread to the full. [14]
"It is bad, it is bad," says the buyer; then he goes off and brags. [15]
There is gold, and plenty of corals, but lips that speak knowledge are a rare jewel. [16] Take the garment of one who has stood surety for a stranger, and hold it in pledge for a foreign woman. [17] Bread won by deceit tastes sweet to a man, but afterward his mouth will be full of grit. [18] Plans are made firm through counsel; wage war with wise guidance. [19] One who goes around gossiping betrays secrets; so do not mix with one who cannot keep his lips closed. [20] If one curses his father or his mother, his lamp will go out in the blackest darkness. [*] [21] An inheritance seized hastily at the start will not be blessed in the end. [22] Do not say, "I will pay back evil"; wait for the LORD, and he will rescue you. [23] The LORD detests two kinds of weights, and dishonest scales are not good. [24] A man's steps come from the LORD; how then can anyone understand his own way? [25] It is a trap for a man to blurt out, "Holy!" and only afterward to think over his vows. [26] A wise king sifts out the wicked and drives the threshing wheel over them. [27] The spirit of man is the lamp of the LORD, searching out all his inmost parts. [28] Steadfast love and faithfulness guard the king, and he holds up his throne by steadfast love. [29] The glory of young men is their strength, and the splendor of the old is their gray hair. [30] Bruising wounds scour away evil, and blows scour the inmost parts.

CHAPTER 21

[1] Like streams of water is a king's heart in the LORD's hand; he directs it wherever he pleases. [2] A man's every way is straight in his own sight, but the LORD weighs hearts. [3] To do righteousness and justice is more acceptable to the LORD than sacrifice. [4] Lofty eyes and a swollen heart, the lamp of the wicked, are sin. [5] The plans of the diligent lead only to profit, but everyone who rushes ends only in lack. [6] Treasures gained by a lying tongue are a vapor blown away by those who seek death. [7]
The violence of the wicked drags them off, for they will not do what is just. [8] The way of a guilty man is twisted, but the work of the pure is straight. [9] Better to live on a corner of the rooftop than in a shared house with a quarrelsome wife. [10] The soul of the wicked craves evil; his neighbor finds no mercy in his sight. [11]
When a scoffer is fined, the simple gains wisdom; when the wise is taught, he takes in knowledge. [12] The Righteous One observes the house of the wicked; he hurls the wicked into ruin. [*] [13] Whoever closes his ear to the outcry of the poor will cry out himself and not be answered. [14] A secret gift calms anger, and a bribe tucked in the cloak, fierce wrath. [15] When justice is done, it is joy to the righteous but terror to those who do iniquity. [16] A man who strays from the path of insight will come to rest in the company of the shades. [17] One who loves pleasure will end up poor; one who loves wine and oil will never grow rich. [18] The wicked becomes a ransom for the righteous, and the faithless for the upright. [19] Better to live in a desert land than with a quarrelsome and ill-tempered wife. [20] Desirable treasure and oil are in the home of the wise, but a foolish man gulps them down.
[21] One who pursues righteousness and kindness finds life, righteousness and honor. [22] A wise man goes up against the city of the mighty and pulls down the stronghold they trust in. [23]
One who keeps watch over his mouth and tongue keeps his soul out of trouble. [24] The proud, haughty man, "Scoffer" is his name; he acts with overbearing pride. [25] The lazy man's craving will kill him, for his hands refuse to labor. [26] All day long he is full of craving, but the righteous man gives without holding back. [27] The sacrifice of the wicked is detestable; how much more when he brings it with a wicked motive! [28] A lying witness will perish, but the man who listens will speak on and on. [29] A wicked man puts on a hard face, but the upright man gives thought to his way. [30] No wisdom, no understanding and no counsel can stand against the LORD. [31] The horse is made ready for the day of battle, but victory belongs to the LORD.

CHAPTER 22

[1] A name is more desirable than great riches, and good favor is better than silver and gold. [2] Rich and poor have this in common: the LORD made them all. [3] A shrewd man sees danger and hides, but the simple go right on and suffer for it. [4] The result of humility and the fear of the LORD is riches, honor and life. [5] Thorns and traps lie in the path of the crooked; one who guards his soul stays far from them. [6] Train a child in keeping with his way; even when he grows old he will not turn from it. [7]
The rich man lords it over the poor, and the borrower becomes the lender's slave. [8] One who sows wrongdoing will harvest trouble, and the rod of his rage will come to an end. [9] One with a bountiful eye will be blessed, for he shares his bread with the poor. [10] Throw out the scoffer, and conflict will leave; strife and insult will stop. [11] One who loves a pure heart and has gracious speech will have the king for a friend. [12] The eyes of the LORD protect knowledge, but he overturns the words of the faithless. [13]
The lazy man says, "There is a lion out there! I will be murdered in the street!" [14] The mouth of a strange woman is a deep pit; the one the LORD is angry with will fall in. [15] Folly is tied fast to the heart of a child, but the rod of discipline will remove it far from him. [16] Oppressing the poor to enrich oneself, or giving to the rich, leads only to poverty. [17] Turn your ear and listen to the words of the wise, and set your heart on my knowledge; [18] for it is a pleasant thing if you keep them deep within you, if all of them are ready on your lips. [19] So that your confidence may be in the LORD, I have taught you today, yes, you. [20] Have I not written for you excellent things of counsel and knowledge, * [21] to teach you what is right and true, so that you can bring back a true report to those who sent you? [22] Do not rob the poor because he is poor, or crush the needy in the gate; [23] for the LORD will take up their case and take the life of those who rob them. [24] Do not make friends with a man given to anger, or go about with a hot-tempered man, [25] or you may learn his ways and set a trap for your own soul. [26] Do not be among those who give their hand in pledge, who stand surety for debts. [27] If you have nothing to pay with, why should your bed be taken out from under you? [28] Do not shift the ancient boundary marker that your fathers set up. [29] Do you see a man skilled in his work?

He will serve before kings; he will not serve before obscure men.

CHAPTER 23

[1] When you sit down to dine with a ruler, take careful note of what is in front of you, [2] and put a knife to your throat if you have a big appetite. [3] Do not crave his fine food, for it is food that deceives. [4] Do not wear yourself out to get rich; have the sense to stop. [5] When you let your eyes fly to it, it is no more; for it will surely sprout wings and fly off like an eagle toward the sky. [6] Do not eat the food of a stingy man, and do not crave his fine food; [7] for as he thinks within himself, so he is. "Eat and drink," he tells you, but his heart is not with you. * [8] You will throw up the little you have eaten and will have wasted your pleasant words. [9] Do not talk in the ears of a fool, for he will scorn the wisdom of your words. [10] Do not shift the ancient boundary marker, and do not encroach on the fields of the orphans; [11] for their Redeemer is mighty; he will take up their case against you. [12] Bring your heart to discipline and your ears to the words of knowledge. [13] Do not withhold discipline from a child; if you strike him with the rod, he will not die. [14] Strike him with the rod, and you will rescue his soul from Sheol. [15] My son, if your heart is wise, then my heart too will rejoice; [16] my inmost being will exult when your lips speak what is right. [17] Do not let your heart be jealous of sinners, but live in the fear of the LORD all the day; [18] for surely there is a future, and your hope will not be cut off. [19] Listen, my son, and become wise, and keep your heart on the right path. [20] Do not join those who drink too much wine or those who gorge themselves on meat; [21] for the drunkard and the glutton will become poor, and drowsiness dresses a man in rags. [22] Listen to your father, who gave you life, and do not scorn your mother when she is old. [23] Buy truth and do not sell it, wisdom and discipline and understanding. [24] The father of a righteous man will rejoice greatly; whoever fathers a wise son will be glad of him. [25] May your father and mother rejoice, and may she who gave you birth be glad. [26] My son, give your heart to me, and let your eyes keep my ways. * [27] For a harlot is a deep pit, and a foreign woman a narrow well. [28] She lies in ambush like a bandit and multiplies the faithless among men. [29] Who has woe? Who has misery? Who has quarrels? Who has complaints? Who has bruises for no reason? Who has bloodshot eyes? [30] Those who stay late over wine, those who go looking for mixed wine. [31] Do not look at wine when it is red, when it sparkles in the cup and goes down so easily. [32] In the end it bites like a snake and strikes like a viper. [33] Your eyes will see strange sights, and your heart will speak twisted things. [34] You will be like one sleeping in the middle of the sea, like one lying at the top of the rigging. [35] "They hit me," you will say, "but I was not hurt; they beat me, but I did not know it. When will I wake up? I will look for another drink."

CHAPTER 24

[1] Do not be jealous of evil men, and do not long to be in their company; [2] for their hearts devise violence, and their lips speak of mischief. [3] A house is built through wisdom and made firm through understanding; [4] through knowledge its rooms are filled with every precious and pleasing treasure. [5] A wise man is mighty, and a man of knowledge adds to his strength; [6] for with wise guidance you will wage your war, and with plenty of counselors comes victory. [7] Wisdom is out of a fool's reach; at the gate he keeps his mouth shut. [8] One who schemes to do evil will be known as a mastermind of mischief. [9] The plotting of folly is sin, and men detest a scoffer. [10] If you lose heart in the day of trouble, your strength is slight. [11] Rescue those who are being dragged off to death; hold back those who are staggering to the slaughter. [12] If you say, "But we knew nothing of this," does not he who weighs hearts perceive it? Does not he who guards your soul know it? Will he not repay each man as his deeds deserve? [13]
My son, eat honey, for it is good; honey from the comb is sweet to your taste. [14] Know that wisdom is like this for your soul; if you find it, there is a future, and your hope will not be cut off. [15] Do not lie in ambush, wicked man, by the home of the righteous; do not raid his dwelling place; [16] for the righteous may fall seven times, yet he gets up again, but the wicked are brought down by trouble. [17] Do not gloat when your enemy falls, and do not let your heart rejoice when he stumbles, [18] or the LORD will see and be displeased, and turn his anger away from him. [19] Do not be upset because of evildoers, and do not be jealous of the wicked; [20] for the evil man has no future; the lamp of the wicked will go out. [21] My son, fear the LORD and the king; do not get involved with those who are given to change; * [22] for their disaster will spring up suddenly, and who knows the ruin both of them can bring? [23] These too are sayings of the wise. It is not good to show favoritism in judging. [24] Whoever tells the guilty, "You are innocent," will be cursed by peoples and denounced by nations; [25] but it will go well with those who convict him, and a rich blessing will come on them. [26] One who gives an honest reply kisses the lips. * [27] Put your outdoor work in order and get your fields ready; after that, build your house. [28] Do not testify against your neighbor without reason, and do not mislead with your lips. [29] Do not say, "I will treat him as he treated me; I will pay the man back for what he did." [30] I went past the field of a lazy man, past the vineyard of a man with no sense, [31] and look, it was all overgrown with thistles; weeds covered the ground, and its stone wall lay in ruins. [32] I observed it and took it to heart; I looked and learned a lesson: [33] a bit of sleep, a bit of slumber, a bit of folding the hands to lie down, [34] and poverty will come on you like a prowler, and need like a man with a shield.

CHAPTER 25

[1] These too are proverbs of Solomon, which the men of Hezekiah king of Judah transcribed. [2] It is God's glory to hide a thing, and the glory of kings to investigate a thing. [3] Like the heavens in height and the earth in depth, the heart of kings cannot be searched out. [4] Remove the dross from silver, and out comes a vessel for the silversmith; [5] remove the wicked from the king's presence, and his throne will be made firm by righteousness. [6] Do not exalt yourself before the king, or take your stand where the great men stand; [7] for it is better to be told, "Come up here," than to be humbled before a noble whom your eyes have seen. [8] Do not rush out to go to court, for what will you do at the end, when your neighbor has put you to shame? [9] Argue out your dispute with your neighbor, but do not give away someone else's secret, [10] or whoever hears it will put you to shame, and the slander against you will never go away. [11] Golden apples in silver settings: such is a word aptly spoken. [12] A gold earring and an ornament of fine gold: such is a wise man's correction to an ear that listens. [13] Like the coolness of snow in the harvest season is a trustworthy messenger to those who send him; he revives the soul of his masters. [14] Clouds and wind but no rain: such is a man who brags of a gift he never gives. [15] With patience a ruler can be persuaded, and a soft tongue can break a bone. [16] If you find honey, eat just what you need, or you will be stuffed with it and throw it up. [17] Set foot in your neighbor's house only rarely, or he will grow weary of you and hate you. [18] A war club, a sword or a sharp arrow: such is a man who testifies falsely against his neighbor. [19] A bad tooth and a slipping foot: such is reliance on the faithless in a time of trouble. [20] Like one who strips off his coat on a cold day, like vinegar poured on soda, is one who sings songs to a heavy heart. [21] If your enemy is hungry, feed him bread, and if he is thirsty, give him water to drink; [22] for you will be heaping burning coals on his head, and the LORD will repay you. [23] The north wind gives birth to rain, and a sly tongue to angry looks. [24] Better to live on a corner of the rooftop than in a shared house with a quarrelsome wife. [25] Cold water to a weary soul: such is good news from a distant land. [26] A trampled spring, a fouled well: such is a righteous man who gives way before the wicked. [27] Eating too much honey is not good, so to seek one's own glory is not glory.* [28] A city breached and without walls: such is a man who has no restraint over his spirit.

CHAPTER 26

[1] As snow does not belong in summer, nor rain in harvest, so honor does not belong to a fool. [2] As a sparrow flits about and a swallow darts here and there, so a curse without cause will come back to him who utters it.* [3] The whip is for the horse, the bridle for the donkey, and the rod for the backs of fools. [4] Do not answer a fool in keeping with his folly, or you yourself will be like him. [5] Answer a fool in keeping with his folly, or he will be wise in his own sight. [6] One who sends a message through a fool cuts off his own feet and drinks down violence. [7] As the legs of a lame man dangle, so does a proverb in the mouth of fools. [8] As one who ties a stone into a sling, so is one who gives honor to a fool. [9] As a thorn lodged in a drunkard's hand, so is a proverb in the mouth of fools. [10] As an archer who wounds all, so is one who hires a fool or hires whoever passes by.* [11] As a dog goes back to its vomit, so a fool goes back to his folly. [12] Do you see a man who thinks himself wise? There is more hope for a fool than for him. [13] The lazy man says, "There is a lion on the road, a lion in the open streets!" [14] The door turns on its hinge, and the lazy man turns on his bed. [15] The lazy man dips his hand in the bowl; he is too tired to lift it back to his mouth. [16] The lazy man is wiser in his own sight than seven who can give a sensible reply. [17] Like someone grabbing a dog by the ears is a passerby who gets worked up over a quarrel that is not his. [18] Like a madman shooting firebrands, arrows and death [19] is the man who deceives his neighbor and then says, "Was I not only joking?" [20] Without wood a fire goes out, and without a gossip a quarrel dies down. [21] As charcoal is to embers and wood to fire, so a quarrelsome man is to kindling strife. [22] The words of a gossip are like choice morsels; they go down into the inmost parts. [23] Like a glaze of silver dross over a clay pot are fervent lips with an evil heart. [24] One who hates conceals it with his lips, but inside he harbors deceit. [25] Though his voice is charming, do not trust him, for seven abominations fill his heart. [26] His hatred may be hidden by trickery, but his wickedness will be laid bare before the assembly. [27] Whoever digs a pit will fall into it, and a stone will roll back on the one who sets it rolling. [28] A lying tongue hates those it has crushed, and a flattering mouth brings ruin.

CHAPTER 27

[1] Do not brag about tomorrow, for you do not know what a day will bring. [2] Let someone else praise you, not your own mouth; an outsider, and not your own lips. [3] Stone is heavy and sand is a burden, but a fool's vexation weighs more than both. [4] Fury is cruel and anger overwhelming, but who can stand up to jealousy? [5] Better is an open reprimand than hidden love. [6] The wounds a friend gives can be trusted, but an enemy multiplies kisses. [7] A full stomach turns away even honey from the comb, but to a hungry stomach anything bitter is sweet. [8] Like a bird wandering from its nest is a man wandering from his place. [9] Oil and perfume make the heart rejoice, and so does the sweetness of a friend's sincere advice. [10] Do not abandon your own friend or your father's friend, and do not go to your brother's house on the day of your disaster; better a neighbor close by than a brother far off. [11] Become wise, my son, and gladden my heart, so that I can answer anyone who taunts me. [12] A shrewd man sees danger and hides; the simple go right on and suffer for it. [13] Take the garment of one who has stood surety for a stranger, and hold it in pledge for a foreign woman. [14] If someone blesses his neighbor in a loud voice early in the morning, it will be reckoned to him as a curse. [15] A leak that keeps dripping on a day of downpour and a quarrelsome wife are much the same; [16] to restrain her is to restrain the wind, and his right hand grasps oil.* [17] As iron sharpens iron, so a man sharpens the face of his friend. [18] One who tends a fig tree will eat its figs, and one who looks after his master will be honored. [19] As water reflects a face, so a man's heart reflects the man. [20] Sheol and Abaddon are never filled, and the eyes of man are never filled. [21] The crucible is for silver and the furnace for gold, and a man is tested by the praise he is given. [22] Even if you pound a fool in a mortar, grinding him with a pestle among the grain, his folly will not leave him. [23] Make sure you know how your flocks are faring, and pay close attention to your herds; [24] for wealth does not last for ever, and does a crown pass on from generation to generation? [25] When the hay is cleared and new grass shows, and the plants of the hills are gathered in, [26] the lambs will provide your clothing, and the goats the price of a field. [27] There will be goats' milk enough to feed you, to feed your household and to nourish your maidservants.

CHAPTER 28

[1] The wicked run when no one is chasing them, but the righteous are as confident as a lion. [2] When a land rebels, it has many rulers, but through a man of understanding and knowledge order is maintained long. [3] A poor man who oppresses the needy is a driving rain that leaves no food. [4] Those who abandon the law praise the wicked, but those who keep the law fight against them. [5] Evil men do not grasp what is just, but those who seek the LORD grasp it all. [6] Better a poor man walking in integrity than a rich man whose ways are crooked. [7] One who keeps the law is a discerning son, but one who keeps company with gluttons disgraces his father. [8] Whoever swells his wealth by interest and usury gathers it for one who is kind to the poor. [9] If one turns his ear away from hearing the law, even his prayer is detestable. [10] Whoever misleads the upright into an evil way will fall into his own pit, but the blameless will inherit good things. [11] A rich man is wise in his own sight, but a poor man with understanding sees through him. [12] When the righteous win, there is great splendor, but when the wicked rise up, people go into hiding. [13] One who covers up his transgressions will not prosper, but one who confesses and forsakes them will obtain mercy. [14] Happy is the man who is always reverent, but one who hardens his heart will fall into trouble. [15] A growling lion and a prowling bear: such is a wicked ruler over a poor people. [16] A ruler who lacks understanding is a great oppressor, but one who hates ill-gotten gain will live long. [17] A man weighed down by the blood of another will flee to the pit; let no one hold him back.* [18] One who walks blamelessly will be kept safe, but one whose ways are crooked will fall at once. [19] One who tills his ground will have plenty of bread, but one who chases empty things will have plenty of poverty. [20] A faithful man will be rich in blessings, but one in a hurry to get rich will not escape punishment. [21] Partiality is not good, yet a man will do wrong for a mere piece of bread. [22] A greedy man rushes after wealth and does not realize that poverty is coming on him. [23] One who reproves a man will in the end win more favor than one who has a flattering tongue. [24] Whoever robs his father or his mother and says, "That is no transgression," is partner to a destroyer. [25] A greedy man stirs up conflict, but one who trusts in the LORD will prosper. [26] One who trusts in his own heart is a fool, but one who walks in wisdom will be kept safe. [27] One who gives to the poor will not be in need, but one who shuts his eyes to them will receive many curses. [28] When the wicked rise up, people hide, but when they perish, the righteous multiply.

CHAPTER 29

[1] One who is often reproved yet stays stiff-necked will suddenly be broken, with no remedy. [2] When the righteous grow many, the people are glad, but when the wicked rule, the people sigh. [3] One who loves wisdom brings joy to his father, but one who keeps company with harlots wastes his wealth. [4] Through justice a king gives the land stability, but a man who levies contributions ruins it. [5] A man who flatters his neighbor is spreading a net for his feet. [6] An evil man is snared in his transgression, but the righteous man sings for joy and is glad. [7] The righteous man knows what is due to the poor; the wicked man has no such understanding. [8] Scoffers stir up a city, but wise men turn back anger. [9] When a wise man goes to court with a fool, the fool storms and scoffs, and there is no peace. [10] Men of blood hate one who is blameless, but the upright seek his life. [11] A fool gives full vent to his temper, but a wise man quietly holds it back. [12] If a ruler pays attention to lies, all his officials become wicked. [13] The poor man and the oppressor have this in common: the LORD gives light to the eyes of them both. [14] A king who judges the poor faithfully will have his throne made firm for ever. [15] The rod and correction bring wisdom, but a child left to himself disgraces his mother. [16] When the wicked multiply, transgression multiplies, but the righteous will see them fall. [17] Discipline your son, and he will give you peace; he will bring delights to your soul. [18] Where there is no vision, the people cast off restraint; but happy is the one who keeps the law.* [19] A servant is not corrected by mere words; he may understand, but he will not reply. [20] Do you see a man hasty with his words? There is more hope for a fool than for him. [21] One who pampers his servant from youth will find him a son in the end.* [22] A man of anger stirs up conflict, and a hot-tempered man commits many transgressions. [23] A man's pride will humble him, but one who is humble in spirit will gain honor. [24] One who shares with a thief hates his own soul; he hears the oath and says nothing. [25] Fear of man lays a snare, but one who trusts in the LORD is kept safe on high. [26] Many seek an audience with a ruler, but justice for a man comes from the LORD. [27] The righteous detest an unjust man, and the wicked detest one whose way is upright.

CHAPTER 30

[1] The words of Agur son of Jakeh, the oracle. This man declares to Ithiel, to Ithiel and Ucal: [] [2] Surely I am more stupid than any man; I do not have a man's understanding. [3] I have not learned wisdom, and I have no knowledge of the Holy One. [4] Who has gone up to heaven and come back down? Who has gathered the wind in the hollow of his hands? Who has bundled the waters in a cloak? Who has set up all the ends of the earth? What is his name, and what is his son's name? Tell me, if you know! [5] Every word of God has been refined; he is a shield to those who take refuge in him. [6] Add nothing to his words, or he will reprove you and you will be proved a liar. [7] Two things I ask of you; do not refuse me before I die: [8] Remove falsehood and lying far from me; give me neither poverty nor riches; feed me with the bread that is my portion, [9] or I may become full and deny you and say, "Who is the LORD?" or I may become poor and steal and defile the name of my God. [10] Do not slander a slave to his master, or he will curse you and you will pay for it. [11] There is a breed that curses its father and does not bless its mother; [12] a breed that is clean in its own eyes, yet is not washed of its filth; [13] a breed whose eyes are so haughty, whose eyelids are raised so high! [14] a breed whose teeth are swords and whose fangs are knives, to devour the poor off the earth and the needy from among mankind. [15] The leech has two daughters, "Give!" and "Give!" Three things are never satisfied; four never say, "Enough": [] [16] Sheol, the barren womb, land that never has enough water, and fire that never says, "Enough." [17] The eye that ridicules a father and scorns to obey a mother will be pecked out by the ravens of the valley and eaten by the young eagles. [18] Three things are too marvelous for me, four I do not comprehend: [19] the way of an eagle in the heavens, the way of a snake upon a rock, the way of a ship in the depths of the sea, and the way of a man with a young woman. [20] This is the way of an adulterous woman: she eats, wipes her mouth and says, "I have done nothing wrong." [21] Under three things the earth quakes, and under four it cannot endure: [22] a slave who becomes king, a fool who is stuffed with food, [23] an unloved woman when she gets a husband, and a maidservant who displaces her mistress. [24] Four things on earth are little, yet they are wise beyond the wise: [25] the ants are a people without strength, yet they lay up their food in summer; [26] the rock badgers are a people without might, yet they make their houses in the crags; [] [27] the locusts have no king, yet they all march out in formation; [28] the lizard can be caught with the hand, yet it lives in the palaces of kings. [] [29] Three things are stately in their tread, four are stately as they go: [30] the lion, mighty among beasts, which retreats before nothing; [31] the strutting rooster, the he-goat, and a king against whom there is no rising up. [*] [32] If you have acted foolishly by exalting yourself, or if you have been scheming, clap your hand over your mouth. [33] For churning milk brings out butter, wringing the nose brings out blood, and stirring up anger brings out strife.

CHAPTER 31

[1] The words of Lemuel, a king, the oracle his mother taught him: [2] What, my son? What, son of my womb? What, son of my vows? [3] Do not spend your strength on women, or your ways on those who ruin kings. [4] It is not for kings, Lemuel, not for kings to drink wine, nor for princes to ask, "Where is strong drink?" [5] or they will drink and forget what is decreed and twist the rights of all the oppressed. [6] Give strong drink to the one who is perishing, and wine to those whose soul is bitter; [7] let them drink and forget their poverty, and remember their misery no more. [8] Speak up for the one who cannot speak, for the rights of all who are passing away. [9] Speak up, judge with righteousness, and uphold the cause of the poor and needy. [10] A wife of strength, who can find her? Her value is far beyond pearls. [*] [11] Her husband's heart trusts in her, and he will not lack for gain. [12] She brings him good and not harm every day of her life. [13] She seeks out wool and flax and works with willing hands. [14] She is like the ships of the trader; she brings her food from far away. [15] She gets up while it is still night and gives food to her household and a share to her maidservants. [16] She weighs up a field and acquires it; from what her hands have earned she plants a vineyard. [17] She wraps her waist in strength and makes her arms vigorous. [18] She sees that her trading goes well; her lamp does not go out at night. [19] She sets her hands to the distaff, and her palms grasp the spindle. [20] She holds out her palm to the poor and stretches out her hands to the needy. [21] She has no fear of the snow for her household, for her whole household is dressed in scarlet. [22] She makes herself quilted coverings; her clothes are fine linen and purple. [23] Her husband is well known at the gates, where he takes his seat with the elders of the land. [24] She makes linen garments and sells them, and supplies belts to the merchant. [25] Strength and dignity are her clothing, and she laughs at the time to come. [26] She opens her mouth in wisdom, and the teaching of kindness is on her tongue. [27] She keeps an eye on the doings of her household and does not eat the bread of laziness. [28] Her sons stand up and call her happy; her husband too, and he praises her: [29] "Many daughters have done nobly, but you have risen above them all." [30] Charm is deceptive and beauty is a vapor, but a woman who fears the LORD is the one to be praised. [31] Give her the fruit of her hands, and let her deeds praise her in the gates.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Words of the Preacher, son of David, king in Jerusalem. [] [2] "Vanity of vanities," says the Preacher, "vanity of vanities! Everything is vanity." [] [3] What does a man gain by all the labor he labors at under the sun? [4] One generation departs and another arrives, but the earth remains for ever. [5] The sun comes up and the sun goes down, and it hastens, panting, to the place where it comes up again. [6] The wind goes toward the south and swings around to the north; around and around it goes, and the wind comes back again on its rounds. [7] All the streams flow to the sea, but the sea is never full; to the place where the streams flow, there they flow again. [8] All things are wearisome, more than one can express. The eye never has its fill of seeing, nor the ear its fill of hearing. [9] What has been is what will be, and what has been done is what will be done; there is nothing new under the sun. [10] Is there anything of which one can say, "See, this is new"? It existed long ago, in ages before our time. [11] No one remembers those of former times, and those yet to come will not be remembered either by those who come after them. [12] I, the Preacher, have been king over Israel in Jerusalem. [13] I set my heart to inquire and to explore by wisdom all that is done under heaven. It is an unhappy business that God has given the sons of men to occupy them. [14] I have looked at all the works that are done under the sun, and see, everything is vanity and a chasing of the wind. [*] [15] What is bent cannot be straightened, and what is missing cannot be numbered. [16] I said to myself, "Look, I have grown great and increased in wisdom beyond all who ruled over Jerusalem before me, and my heart has had great experience of wisdom and knowledge." [17] So I set my heart to know wisdom and to know madness and folly; I perceived that this too is a chasing of the wind. [18] For in much wisdom is much grief, and the one who increases knowledge increases sorrow.

CHAPTER 2

[1] I said to myself, "Come now, I will test you with pleasure; enjoy yourself." But this too proved to be vanity. [2] I said of laughter, "It is mad," and of pleasure, "What use is it?" [3] I explored in my heart how to stimulate my body with wine, my heart still guiding me with wisdom, and how to lay hold on folly, until I might see what is good for the sons of men to do under heaven during the few days of their life. [4] I undertook great works: I built houses for myself and planted vineyards for myself. [5] I made gardens and orchards for myself and planted all kinds of fruit trees in them. [6] I made pools of water for myself, to irrigate a forest of growing trees. [7] I bought male and female slaves, and I had slaves born in my household. I also owned more herds and flocks than any who had been in Jerusalem before me. [8] I amassed silver and gold for myself, and the treasure of kings and provinces. I acquired men singers and women singers, and the delights of the sons of men, many concubines. [] [9] So I grew great and outstripped all who had been before me in Jerusalem; my wisdom also remained with me. [10] Nothing my eyes desired did I keep from them. I did not refuse my heart any pleasure, for my heart took delight in all my labor, and this was my reward for all my labor. [11] Then I considered all that my hands had done and the labor I had spent in doing it, and see, everything was vanity and a chasing of the wind, and there was nothing to be gained under the sun. [12] So I turned to consider wisdom, madness and folly; for what can the man do who comes after the king? Only what has been done already. [13] And I saw that wisdom excels folly as light excels darkness. [14] The wise man has eyes in his head, while the fool walks in the dark. And yet I perceived that the same fate overtakes them both. [15] Then I said to myself, "What happens to the fool will happen to me too. Why then have I been so exceedingly wise?" And I said to myself that this too is vanity. [16] For the wise man, like the fool, is not remembered for long, since in days to come both will have long been forgotten. How the wise man dies, just as the fool does! [17] So I hated life, because the work that is done under the sun weighed on me as evil; for everything is vanity and a chasing of the wind. [18] I hated all the labor I had labored at under the sun, since I must leave it to the man who comes after me. [19] And who knows if he will be a wise man or a fool? Yet he will have control over all the labor I have labored at and spent my wisdom on under the sun. This too is vanity. [20] So I turned my heart over to despair concerning all the labor I had labored at under the sun. [21] For a man may labor with wisdom, knowledge and skill, and then he must leave everything as a portion to someone who has not labored for it. This too is vanity and a great evil. [22] For what does a man have from all his labor and the strain of his heart with which he labors under the sun? [23] All his days are pain, and his work is grief; even at night his mind does not rest. This too is vanity. [24] There is nothing better for a man than that he should eat and drink and find enjoyment in his labor. This too, I saw, comes from the hand of God. [25] For who can eat, or who can have pleasure, apart from me? [] [26] For to the man who pleases him God gives wisdom, knowledge and joy, but to the sinner he gives the work of gathering and heaping up, only to hand it over to the one who pleases God. This too is vanity and a chasing of the wind.

CHAPTER 3

[1] For everything there is a season, and a time for every purpose under heaven: [2] a time to give birth and a time to die; a time to plant and a time to pull up what was planted; [3] a time to kill and a time to heal; a time to tear down and a time to build up; [4] a time to weep and a time to laugh; a time to lament and a time to dance; [5] a time to scatter stones and a time to gather stones together; a time to embrace and a time to refrain from embracing; [6] a time to search and a time to give up as lost; a time to keep and a time to cast away; [7] a time to rip and a time to mend; a time to be silent and a time to speak; [8] a time to love and a time to hate; a time of war and a time of peace. [9] What does the worker gain from his labor? [10] I have seen the business that God has given the sons of men to occupy them. [11] He has made everything fitting in its time; he has also set eternity in their heart, yet so that man cannot find out the work God has done from the beginning to the end. [] [12] I perceived that there is nothing better for them than to be glad and to do good as long as they live; [13] and also that everyone should eat and drink and enjoy the good of all his labor: this is God's gift. [14] I perceived that whatever God does endures for ever; nothing can be added to it and nothing taken from it; and God has done it so that men should fear him. [15] What is now has been before, and what will be has been already; and God seeks what has been driven away. [] [16] I saw something more under the sun: in the place of judgment, wickedness was there, and in the place of righteousness, wickedness was there. [17] I said to myself, "God will judge both the righteous and the wicked, for there is a time there for every purpose and for every deed." [18] I said to myself concerning the sons of men, "God is proving them, to show them that they are but beasts." [19] For what befalls the sons of men befalls the beasts; one and the same fate befalls them: as one dies, so dies the other. They all have the same breath, and man has no advantage over the beast, for everything is vanity. [20] All are going to one place. All are from the dust, and to the dust all return. [21] Who knows the spirit of the sons of men, which goes upward, and the spirit of the beast, which goes downward into the earth?* [22] So I saw that there is nothing better than for a man to enjoy his work, since that is his lot. For who can bring him to see what will come after him?

[1] Then I looked again at all the oppression that goes on under the sun: see, the tears of the oppressed, and they have no comforter; on the side of their oppressors is power, and they have no comforter. [2] And I judged the dead, who died long ago, more fortunate than the living, who are alive still. [3] But better off than both is the one who has never existed, who has not seen the evil deeds that are done under the sun. [4] And I saw that all labor and all achievement springs from a man's rivalry with his neighbor. This too is vanity and a chasing of the wind. [5] The fool folds his hands and devours his own flesh. [6] Better one handful with quiet than two handfuls with labor and a chasing of the wind. [7] Again I saw vanity under the sun: [8] There is a man all alone, without a companion; he has no son or brother, yet his labor never ends, and his eyes are never content with wealth. "For whom am I laboring," he asks, "and denying myself good things?" This too is vanity and an unhappy business. [9] Two are better off than one, for they have a good return for their labor. [10] If either of them falls, the other can lift his companion up; but pity the one who is by himself when he falls, with no one to lift him up! [11] Again, when two lie down side by side, they keep warm; but how can one keep warm alone? [12] And though one may be overpowered, two can withstand him; a cord of three strands is not quickly broken. [13] Better a poor youth who is wise than an old and foolish king who no longer knows how to take advice. [14] For the youth came out of prison to become king, even though he had been born poor in his kingdom. [15] I saw all the living who move about under the sun siding with the youth, the second one, who would rise in his place. [16] There was no end of all the people, all whom he led; yet those who come later will not be glad in him. This too is vanity and a chasing of the wind.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Watch your feet when you go to the house of God; to come near to listen is better than the sacrifice fools offer, for they do not know that they do wrong.* [2] Do not be hasty with your mouth, and let not your heart rush to utter a word before God; for God is in heaven and you are on earth, so let your words be few. [3] For a dream comes from a great deal of business, and a fool's voice from a great many words. [4] When you vow a vow to God, do not delay in paying it, for he has no pleasure in fools; pay what you vow. [5] Better not to vow at all than to vow and not pay. [6] Do not let your mouth lead your flesh into sin, and do not tell the messenger that it was an error. Why should God be angry at what you say and destroy the work of your hands?* [7] For with many dreams come vanities and words in plenty; but as for you, fear God. [8] If in a province you see the poor oppressed and justice and righteousness taken away by force, do not be amazed at it; for one official is watched by a higher one, and still higher ones are over them both. [9] And the produce of the land is for everyone; even the king is served from the field.* [10] Whoever loves money will never have his fill of money, nor whoever loves wealth his fill of gain. This too is vanity. [11] As goods multiply, so do those who consume them; and what benefit are they to their owner, but to feast his eyes on them? [12] The sleep of the worker is sweet, whether he eats little or much; but the full stomach of the rich man will not let him sleep. [13] There is a grievous evil I have seen under the sun: wealth hoarded by its owner to his own hurt. [14] That wealth is lost through some misfortune, and he has a son, but there is nothing left in his hand. [15] As he came from his mother's womb, so he will go again, naked as he came, and he will take nothing for his labor that he can carry away in his hand. [16] This too is a grievous evil: just as he came, so he will go. And what does he gain, he who labors for the wind? [17] Besides, all his days he eats in darkness, with much vexation, sickness and resentment. [18] See, this is what I have found good and fitting: to eat and drink and enjoy the good of all the labor one labors at under the sun during the few days of life God has given him, for that is his lot. [19] Moreover, when God gives any man wealth and possessions and the power to enjoy them, to accept his lot and be glad in his labor, this is God's gift. [20] For he will not dwell much on the days of his life, because God keeps him occupied with gladness of heart.*

CHAPTER 6

[1] There is an evil I have seen under the sun, and it weighs heavily on mankind: [2] a man to whom God gives wealth, possessions and honor, so that he lacks nothing his soul could wish for, yet God does not give him the power to enjoy them, and a stranger enjoys them instead. This is vanity, a grievous affliction. [3] If a man has a hundred children and lives many years, however many the days of his years, but his soul does not have its fill of good things and he has no burial either, I say a stillborn child is better off than he. [4] For it comes in vanity and goes off into darkness, and in darkness its name is hidden. [5] It has never seen the sun or known anything; yet it has more rest than he. [6] Even if he should live a thousand years twice, yet not enjoy good, do not all go to the same place? [7] All a man's labor is for his mouth, and still his soul is never filled. [8] For what does the wise man have more than the fool? What does the poor man gain by knowing how to conduct himself before the living? [9] Better what the eyes can see than the roving of the soul. This too is vanity and a chasing of the wind. [10] Whatever exists has already been named, and it is known what man is; he cannot dispute with one stronger than himself. [11] The more words there are, the more vanity there is. What does man gain from it? [12] For who knows what is good for man in life, during the few days of his life of vanity, which he passes like a shadow? Who can tell man what will happen under the sun after he is gone?

CHAPTER 7

[1] A good name is better than fine perfume, and the day of death better than the day one is born. [2] It is better to go to a house of mourning than to go to a house of banqueting, for that is the end of all mankind, and the living will take it to heart. [3] Grief is better than laughter, for a sad face is good for the heart. [4] The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning, but the heart of fools is in the house of pleasure. [5] Better to heed a wise man's rebuke than to listen to the singing of fools. [6] For as the crackle of thorns under the pot, so is the laughter of the fool. This too is vanity. [7] Surely extortion turns a wise man into a fool, and a bribe corrupts the heart. [8] Better the end of a thing than its beginning; better a patient spirit than a proud spirit. [9] Do not be quick in spirit to become angry, for anger lodges in the bosom of fools. [10] Do not say, "Why were the old days better than these?" For it is not wisdom that prompts you to ask this. [11] Wisdom is good along with an inheritance, and a benefit to those who see the sun. [12] For wisdom gives protection just as money gives protection; but the advantage of knowledge is this: wisdom preserves the life of the one who has it. [13] Look at what God has done: who can straighten what he has bent? [14] In the day of prosperity be glad, and in the day of adversity consider: God has made the one as well as the other, so that man cannot find out anything that will come after him. [15] In my days of vanity I have seen it all: a righteous man perishing in his righteousness, and a wicked man living long in his wickedness. [16] Do not be overly righteous, and do not be excessively wise; why should you ruin yourself? [17] Do not be overly wicked, and do not be a fool; why should you die before your time? [18] It is good to hold on to the one and not let your hand go from the other; for one who fears God will come through them both. [19] Wisdom makes the wise man more powerful than ten rulers in a city. [20] Surely there is not a righteous man on earth who does good and never sins. [21] Do not take to heart every word people say, or you may hear your servant cursing you. [22] For your own heart knows that you too have often cursed others. [23] All this I put to the test by wisdom. I said, "I will become wise," but it was beyond me. [24] Whatever exists is far off and deep, exceedingly deep; who can discover it? [25] I turned my heart to know, to explore and to seek out wisdom and the sum of things, and to know the wickedness of folly and the madness of foolishness. [26] And I find something more bitter than death: the woman whose heart is traps and snares, and whose hands are chains. The one who pleases God will escape from her, but the sinner will be captured by her. [27] "See, this is what I have found," says the Preacher, "adding one thing to another to discover the sum, [*] [28] which my soul still searches for but has not found: one man in a thousand I have found, but a woman among all these I have not found. [29] This alone I have found: God made man upright, but they have searched out many schemes."

CHAPTER 8

[1] Who is like the wise man? Who knows the meaning of a thing? A man's wisdom brightens his face and changes its hardness. [2] I say, obey the king's command, because of the oath of God. [3] Do not hurry to leave his presence; do not persist in an evil cause, for he will do whatever he wishes. [4] For the king's word is supreme, and who can say to him, "What are you doing?" [5] One who obeys the command will come to no harm, and a wise heart will know the proper time and procedure. [6] For there is a proper time and procedure for every matter, for man's misery weighs heavily on him. [7] For he does not know what is to come; who can tell him how it will happen? [8] No man has authority over the wind to restrain the wind, and no one has authority over the day of his death; there is no release in wartime, and wickedness will not save those who practice it. [*] [9] All this I saw as I gave my heart to every work done under the sun, while one man lords it over another to his hurt. [10] Then I saw the wicked buried; they used to go in and out of the holy place, and they were forgotten in the city where they had acted so. This too is vanity. [11] Because the sentence on an evil deed is not carried out speedily, the hearts of the sons of men are fully set on doing evil. [12] Though a sinner does evil a hundred times and lives a long time, yet I know that it will go well with those who fear God, who stand in awe before him. [13] But it will not go well with the wicked, and he will not lengthen his days like a shadow, because he does not stand in awe before God. [14] There is a vanity that takes place on earth: there are righteous men who receive what the deeds of the wicked deserve, and there are wicked men who receive what the deeds of the righteous deserve. I said that this too is vanity. [15] So I commended joy, for man has nothing better under the sun than to eat and drink and be glad, and this will go with him in his labor through the days of life God gives him under the sun. [16] When I gave my heart to know wisdom and to observe the business that is done on earth, how one's eyes see no sleep by day or by night, [17] then I saw all the work of God, that no one can grasp the work that is done under the sun. However much a man labors to search it out, he will not grasp it; and even if a wise man claims to know, he cannot grasp it.

CHAPTER 9

[1] For I took all this to heart and examined it all: that the righteous and the wise and their deeds are in God's hand. Whether it will be love or hatred, man does not know; all lies ahead of them. [2] Everything is alike for everyone: one fate befalls the righteous and the wicked, the good, the clean and the unclean, the one who offers sacrifice and the one who does not. As is the good man, so is the sinner; as is the one who takes an oath, so is the one who is afraid to swear. [3] This is an evil in all that is done under the sun: that one fate befalls them all. Moreover, the hearts of the sons of men are full of evil, and madness is in their hearts while they live, and afterward they go to the dead. [4] But whoever is joined with all the living has hope; for a living dog is better than a dead lion. [*] [5] For the living know that they will die, but the dead know nothing; they have no more reward, for the memory of them is forgotten. [6] Their love, their hatred and their jealousy have long since perished, and never again will they have a share in anything that is done under the sun. [7] Go, eat your bread with joy and drink your wine with a merry heart, for God has already approved what you do. [8] Let your clothes be white at all times, and let your head never lack oil. [9] Enjoy life with the wife you love all the days of your life of vanity that he has given you under the sun, all your days of vanity; for that is your lot in life and in the labor you labor at under the sun. [10] Whatever your hand finds to do, do it with your might, for there is no work or reckoning or knowledge or wisdom in Sheol, the place you are going. [11] Once more I saw under the sun that the race does not go to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, nor bread to the wise, nor wealth to the intelligent, nor favor to the learned; for time and chance come to them all. [12] For man does not know his time either. Like fish caught in a cruel net, and like birds seized in a trap, so the sons of men are ensnared at an evil time, when it falls on them without warning. [13] I also saw this example of wisdom under the sun, and it impressed me greatly: [14] There was a little city with only a few men in it, and a mighty king came against it, besieged it and built great siege works against it. [15] Now there was found in it a poor wise man, and he saved the city by his wisdom; yet nobody remembered that poor man. [16] So I said, "Wisdom is better than strength." Yet the poor man's wisdom is despised, and his words go unheeded. [17] The quiet words of the wise are better heeded than the shouting of a ruler among fools. [18] Wisdom is better than the weapons of war, but one sinner can destroy a great deal of good.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Dead flies make the perfumer's oil stink and ferment; so a little folly outweighs wisdom and honor. [2] The wise man's heart inclines to his right, but the fool's heart to his left. [3] Even as the fool walks along the road, he lacks sense, and he shows everyone that he is a fool. [4] If the ruler's anger rises against you, do not leave your post, for composure lays great offenses to rest. [5] There is an evil I have seen under the sun, a kind of error that proceeds from the ruler: [6] folly is placed in many high positions, while the rich sit in lowly places. [7] I have seen slaves on horseback, and princes going on foot like slaves. [8] One who digs a pit may fall into it, and one who breaks through a wall may be bitten by a serpent. [9] One who quarries stones may be injured by them; one who splits logs may be endangered by them. [10] If the iron is dull and the edge is not whetted, more strength must be exerted; but wisdom is an advantage that brings success. [11] If the serpent bites before it is charmed, there is no gain for the charmer. [12] The words of a wise man's mouth win favor, but the lips of a fool devour him. [13] His talk begins in folly and ends in wicked madness. [14] The fool piles up words, yet no one knows what will happen; who can tell him what will come after him? [15] The labor of fools wears them out, since one of them does not even know the way to town. [16] Woe to you, land, whose king is a lad and whose princes feast in the morning! [17] Happy are you, land, whose king is of noble birth and whose princes eat at the right time, for strength and not for drinking! [18] Through sloth the roof beams sink, and through idle hands the house lets in the rain. [19] Bread is made for laughter, and wine makes life merry, and money meets every need. [20] Do not curse the king even in your thoughts, and do not curse the rich even in your bedchamber, for a bird of the air may carry your voice, and a winged creature may report what you said.

CHAPTER 11

[1] Cast your bread upon the surface of the waters, for after many days you will find it again. [2] Divide your portion among seven, or even eight, for you do not know what calamity may come upon the land. [3] When the clouds are full, they pour out rain on the earth; and if a tree falls to the south or to the north, wherever the tree falls, there it lies. [4] One who keeps watching the wind will never sow, and one who keeps looking at the clouds will never reap. [5] Just as you do not know the path of the wind, or how bones take shape in the womb of a pregnant woman, so you do not know the work of God, who makes all things. [*] [6] Sow your seed in the morning, and do not hold back your hand in the evening; for you do not know which will succeed, this one or that, or whether both will do equally well. [7] Light is sweet, and it is pleasing for the eyes to behold the sun. [8] So if a man lives many years, let him rejoice in all of them; yet let him remember that the days of darkness will be many. All that comes is vanity. [9] Rejoice, young man, in your youth, and let your heart cheer you in the days of your young manhood; walk in the ways of your heart and in the sight of your eyes, but know that for all these things God will bring you to judgment. [10] Banish vexation from your heart and put away pain from your body, for youth and the dawn of life are vanity.

CHAPTER 12

[1] Remember your Creator in the days of your youth, before the evil days come and the years arrive of which you will say, "I have no pleasure in them"; [2] before the sun and the light, the moon and the stars are darkened, and the clouds come back after the rain; [3] in the day when the guards of the house shake, and the strong men stoop, and the grinding women cease because they are few, and those who gaze through the windows grow dim; [4] when the doors on the street are closed and the sound of the mill fades, when one rises at the sound of a bird, and all the daughters of song sink low; [5] when they fear heights and dangers on the road; when the almond tree blossoms, and the grasshopper drags itself along, and the caper berry fails; for man is going to his everlasting home, and the mourners go about the streets; [6] before the silver cord is snapped and the golden bowl is broken, before the jar is shattered at the spring and the wheel is broken at the cistern, [] [7] and the dust goes back to the earth as it was, and the spirit goes back to God who gave it. [8] "Vanity of vanities," says the Preacher; "everything is vanity." [9] Besides being wise, the Preacher went on teaching the people knowledge; he pondered, explored and arranged many proverbs. [10] The Preacher sought to find words that delight, and to write honestly words of truth. [11] The sayings of the wise are like goads, and like firmly fixed nails are the collected sayings; they are given by one shepherd. [12] Beyond these, my son, take warning: there is no end to the making of many books, and much study wearies the body. [13] The conclusion of the matter, now that all has been heard: fear God and keep his commands, for this is the whole of man.* [14] For God will bring every deed into judgment, including every secret thing, whether good or evil.

[1] The Song of Songs, which belongs to Solomon. [2] May he kiss me with the kisses of his mouth! For your love is sweeter than wine.* [3] Your perfumes have a pleasing scent; your name is perfume poured out; so the young women love you. [4] Take me with you; let us hurry. The king has led me into his rooms. We will be glad and rejoice in you; we will celebrate your love above wine. How right they are to love you! [5] I am black and beautiful, daughters of Jerusalem, like the tents of Kedar, like the hangings of Solomon. [6] Do not look at me for being dark, because the sun has gazed on me. My mother's sons were angry at me; they made me keeper of the vineyards, but my own vineyard I have not kept. [7] Tell me, you whom my soul loves, where do you pasture your flock? Where do you make it lie down at midday? Why should I be like one who is veiled beside the flocks of your companions?* [8] If you do not know, fairest of women, follow the tracks of the flock and graze your young goats by the shepherds' tents. [9] I compare you, my love, to a mare among the chariots of Pharaoh.* [10] Your cheeks are lovely between the ornaments, your neck with its strings of beads. [11] We will make you circlets of gold studded with silver. [12] While the king was on his couch, my nard sent out its scent. [13] My beloved is a pouch of myrrh to me, resting all night between my breasts. [14] My beloved is a spray of henna blossoms to me, in the vineyards of En-gedi. [15] Look how fair you are, my love! Look how fair! Your eyes are doves. [16] Look how handsome you are, my beloved, how charming! Our bed is green with leaves. [17] The beams of our house are cedar; our rafters are of fir.

CHAPTER 2

[1] I am a rose of Sharon, a lily of the valleys.* [2] As a lily among thorns, so is my love among the young women. [3] As an apple tree among the trees of the wood, so is my beloved among the young men. I took great delight in sitting in his shade, and his fruit was sweet to my palate. [4] He brought me into the banqueting house, and his banner over me was love. [5] Sustain me with raisin cakes, refresh me with apples, for I am sick with love. [6] His left hand is beneath my head, and his right hand holds me close. [7] I make you swear, daughters of Jerusalem, by the gazelles or by the hinds of the field, that you will not stir up or awaken love until it pleases. [8] Hark! My beloved! See, he is coming, leaping across the mountains, springing over the hills. [9] My beloved is like a gazelle or a young deer. See, he is standing behind our wall, looking in at the windows, glancing through the lattice. [10] My beloved spoke and said to me, "Rise up, my love, my beautiful one, and come away. [11] For look, the winter is over; the rain is over and gone. [12] Blossoms have appeared in the land; the time of singing has come, and the voice of the turtledove is heard in our land.* [13] The fig tree is ripening its early figs, and the vines are in bloom and give off their scent. Rise up, my love, my beautiful one, and come away." [14] My dove, in the clefts of the rock, in the hiding places of the cliff, let me see your form, let me hear your voice; for your voice is sweet, and your form is lovely. [15] Catch the foxes for us, the little foxes that spoil the vineyards, for our vineyards are in blossom. [16] My beloved belongs to me, and I to him; he grazes his flock among the lilies. [17] Until the day blows cool and the shadows flee away, turn back, my beloved, and be like a gazelle or a young deer on the mountains of Bether.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Upon my bed, through the nights, I looked for the one my soul loves; I looked for him but could not find him. [2] "I will get up now and roam through the city, through the streets and the squares; I will look for the one my soul loves." I looked for him but could not find him. [3] The watchmen making their rounds in the city came upon me. "Have you seen the one my soul loves?" [4] I had hardly gone past them when I found the one my soul loves. I held him and would not release him until I had brought him to my mother's house, to the room of the one who conceived me. [5] I make you swear, daughters of Jerusalem, by the gazelles or by the hinds of the field, that you will not stir up or awaken love until it pleases. [6] Who is this coming up from the desert like pillars of smoke, scented with myrrh and frankincense, with every powder of the trader? [7] See, it is Solomon's couch! Sixty warriors are around it, of the warriors of Israel, [8] all of them gripping swords, skilled in battle, each with his sword at his side against the terrors of the night. [9] King Solomon made himself a palanquin of timber from Lebanon. [10] Its posts he made of silver, its back of gold, its seat of purple; its inside was lovingly fitted out by the daughters of Jerusalem. [11] Come out, daughters of Zion, and gaze on King Solomon, with the crown his mother set on his head on the day of his wedding, the day his heart rejoiced.

CHAPTER 4

[1] Look how fair you are, my love, look how fair! Your eyes behind your veil are doves. Your hair is like a flock of goats flowing down the slopes of Gilead. [2] Your teeth are like a flock of shorn ewes that have come up from the washing; all of them bear twins, and not one among them has lost its young. [3] Your lips are like a scarlet thread, and your mouth is lovely. Your cheeks behind your veil are like halves of a pomegranate. [4] Your neck is like David's tower, built in courses, on which hang a thousand bucklers, all of them shields of warriors. * 5 Your two breasts are like two fawns, twins of a gazelle, that graze among the lilies. 6 Until the day blows cool and the shadows flee away, I will go to the mountain of myrrh and the hill of frankincense. 7 You are altogether fair, my love; there is no flaw in you. 8 Come with me from Lebanon, my bride; with me from Lebanon come. Look down from the peak of Amana, from the peak of Senir and Hermon, from the lairs of lions, from the mountains of the leopards. 9 You have captured my heart, my sister, my bride; you have captured my heart with a single glance of your eyes, with a single bead of your necklace. 10 How beautiful is your love, my sister, my bride! How much sweeter your love than wine, and the scent of your oils than any spice! 11 Your lips drip nectar, my bride; honey and milk lie under your tongue, and the scent of your garments is like the scent of Lebanon. 12 A locked garden is my sister, my bride, a locked spring, a sealed fountain. 13 Your branches are an orchard of pomegranates with the finest fruits, henna with nard, 14 nard and saffron, cane and cinnamon, with every tree of frankincense, myrrh and aloes, with all the finest spices: 15 a garden fountain, a well of fresh water, and streams pouring down from Lebanon. 16 Awake, north wind, and come, south wind! Blow upon my garden, and let its spices flow out. Let my beloved come into his garden and eat its choice fruits.

CHAPTER 5

1 I have entered my garden, my sister, my bride; I have plucked my myrrh along with my spice, I have eaten my honeycomb along with my honey, I have drunk my wine along with my milk. Eat, friends, and drink; drink your fill, dear ones. 2 I slept, but my heart was wakeful. Hark! My beloved is knocking: "Open to me, my sister, my love, my dove, my perfect one, for my head is wet with dew, my hair with the drops of the night." 3 I have put off my tunic; must I put it on again? I have bathed my feet; must I dirty them? 4 My beloved thrust his hand through the latch opening, and my heart stirred within me for him. 5 I got up to open to my beloved, and my hands dripped myrrh, my fingers liquid myrrh, upon the handles of the lock. 6 I opened to my beloved, but my beloved had turned and gone on. My soul failed me when he spoke. I looked for him but could not find him; I called him, but he gave no answer. 7 The watchmen making their rounds in the city came upon me; they beat me and bruised me; the guards of the walls stripped my cloak from me. 8 I make you swear, daughters of Jerusalem: if you find my beloved, what will you say to him? That I am sick with love. 9 How is your beloved better than any other, fairest of women? How is your beloved better than any other, that you make us swear so? 10 My beloved is radiant and ruddy, distinguished among ten thousand. 11 His head is purest gold; his locks are clustered like palm fronds, black as the raven. 12 His eyes are like doves by the water brooks, washed in milk, sitting by brimming pools. 13 His cheeks are like beds of spice, mounds of sweet herbs; his lips are lilies that drip liquid myrrh. 14 His arms are golden rods inlaid with beryl; his body is polished ivory overlaid with sapphires. * 15 His legs are columns of alabaster, set on pedestals of pure gold. His bearing is like Lebanon, choice as its cedars. 16 His mouth is sweetness itself; he is altogether lovely. This is my beloved, and this is my friend, daughters of Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 6

1 Where has your beloved gone, fairest of women? Where has your beloved turned, so that we may look for him with you? 2 My beloved has gone down into his garden, to the beds of spice, to graze his flock in the gardens and to pick lilies. 3 I belong to my beloved, and my beloved belongs to me; he grazes his flock among the lilies. 4 You are beautiful as Tirzah, my love, comely as Jerusalem, majestic as an army with banners. 5 Turn your eyes from me, for they unsettle me. Your hair is like a flock of goats flowing down from Gilead. 6 Your teeth are like a flock of ewes that have come up from the washing; all of them bear twins, and not one among them has lost its young. 7 Your cheeks behind your veil are like halves of a pomegranate. 8 There may be sixty queens and eighty concubines, and young women beyond counting; 9 but my dove, my perfect one, is unique, the only one of her mother, the favorite of the one who bore her. The young women saw her and called her happy; the queens and concubines saw her and sang her praise. 10 Who is this who gazes down like the dawn, beautiful as the moon, pure as the sun, majestic as an army with banners? 11 I went down to the walnut grove to look at the fresh growth of the valley, to see whether the vine had sprouted, whether the pomegranates had blossomed. 12 Before I knew it, my soul had set me among the chariots of my noble people. * 13 Come back, come back, Shulammite; come back, come back, so that we may gaze at you. Why should you gaze at the Shulammite, as at the dance of the two camps? *

CHAPTER 7

1 How beautiful are your feet in sandals, noble daughter! The curves of your thighs are like jewels, the work of a skilled artist's hands. 2 Your navel is a round goblet that never lacks spiced wine. Your waist is a mound of wheat bordered with lilies. 3 Your two breasts are like two fawns, twins of a gazelle. 4 Your neck is like an ivory tower. Your eyes are the pools of Heshbon beside the gate of Bath-rabbim. Your nose is like the tower of Lebanon that faces toward Damascus. 5 Your head rises upon you like Carmel, and the hair of your head is like purple thread; a king is caught in its locks. 6 How fair and how delightful you are, O love, among all delights! 7 Your stature is like that of a palm tree, and your breasts like its clusters of fruit. 8 I said, "I will go up the palm tree and lay hold of its branches." May your breasts be like the clusters of the vine, and the fragrance of your breath like apples, 9 and your palate like the finest wine, flowing smoothly to my beloved, gliding over the lips of sleepers. 10 I belong to my beloved, and his longing is for me. 11 Come, my beloved, let us go out to the countryside; let us spend the night in the villages. 12 Let us rise early and go to the vineyards; let us see if the vine has sprouted, if its blossoms have opened, if the pomegranates have bloomed. There I will give you my love. 13 The mandrakes send out their scent, and over our doors are all kinds of choice fruits, fresh and long kept, which I have stored up for you, my beloved.

CHAPTER 8

[1] If only you were a brother to me, who nursed at my mother's breasts! Then if I met you outdoors I would kiss you, and none would think less of me. [2] I would lead you and bring you to my mother's house, she who would teach me; I would give you spiced wine to drink, the nectar of my pomegranates. [3] His left hand is beneath my head, and his right hand holds me close. [4] I make you swear, daughters of Jerusalem: why stir up or awaken love until it pleases? [5] Who is this coming up from the desert, leaning upon her beloved? Under the apple tree I roused you; there your mother travailed with you, there she who bore you was in labor. [6] Set me as a seal upon your heart, as a seal upon your arm; for love is strong as death, its jealousy relentless as Sheol. Its flashes are flashes of fire, the very flame of the LORD.* [7] Many waters cannot quench love, and rivers cannot sweep it away. If a man offered all the wealth of his house for love, he would be scorned with contempt. [8] We have a little sister, and she has no breasts yet. What shall we do for our sister on the day she is spoken for? [9] If she is a wall, we will build a silver battlement upon her; but if she is a door, we will board her up with planks of cedar. [10] I am a wall, and my breasts are like towers; so in his eyes I became like one who finds peace. [11] Solomon had a vineyard in Baal-hamon; he leased out the vineyard to tenants; each was to pay a thousand pieces of silver for its fruit. [12] My vineyard, my very own, is in front of me. The thousand are for you, Solomon, and two hundred for those who tend its fruit. [13] You who sit in the gardens, friends are listening for your voice; let me hear it. [14] Make haste, my beloved, and be like a gazelle or a young deer on the mountains of spices.

CHAPTER 1

[1] The vision of Isaiah the son of Amoz, which he saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, kings of Judah. [2] Hear, O heavens, and listen, O earth, for the LORD has spoken: "Sons I have reared and raised up high, and they have rebelled against me. [3] An ox knows its owner, and a donkey the feeding trough of its master; Israel does not know, my people give it no thought." [4] Woe to a nation that sins, a people heavy with iniquity, a brood of evildoers, sons who deal ruinously! They have abandoned the LORD, they have scorned the Holy One of Israel, they have become estranged and gone backward. [5] Why be struck again, that you go on adding rebellion? The entire head is given over to sickness, and the entire heart is faint. [6] From the sole of the foot up to the head there is no sound spot in it: wounds, welts and fresh open sores, not squeezed out, not bandaged, not soothed with oil. [7] Your land is a waste, your cities burned with fire; your fields, right in front of you strangers are eating them up, and it lies waste as if overturned by strangers. [8] The daughter of Zion is left behind like a shelter in a vineyard, like a night hut in a field of cucumbers, like a city under siege. [9] Had the LORD of hosts not left us a small remnant of survivors, we would have been as Sodom, we would have become like Gomorrah. [10] Listen to the word of the LORD, rulers of Sodom! Give ear to the law of our God, people of Gomorrah! [11] "What use to me is the abundance of your sacrifices?" says the LORD. "I am sated with burnt offerings of rams and the fat of fatted cattle; the blood of bulls and lambs and goats gives me no pleasure. [12] When you come to show yourselves before me, who asked this of you, this tramping through my courts? [13] Stop bringing worthless grain offerings; your incense is an abomination to me. New moon and Sabbath and the summoning of assemblies: I cannot bear wickedness together with sacred assembly. [14] My soul hates your new moons and your appointed feasts; they have become a load on me that I am tired of carrying. [15] So when you stretch out your hands, I will turn my eyes away from you; even if you pray and pray, I am not listening. Your hands are full of blood. [16] Wash, purify yourselves; take your evil deeds out of my sight; stop doing evil, [17] learn to do what is good. Pursue justice, put the oppressor right; give the fatherless their rights, take up the widow's case. [18] "Come now, and let us argue the matter out," says the LORD. "If your sins are like scarlet, they will be white as snow; if they are red as crimson, they will be like wool. [19] If you are willing and listen, you will eat the good things of the land; [20] but if you refuse and rebel, you will be consumed by the sword." For the mouth of the LORD has spoken it. [21] See how she has turned prostitute, the faithful town! Once full of justice, where righteousness spent the night, and now murderers. [22] Your silver has turned to dross; your wine is cut with water. [23] Your rulers are rebellious and keep company with thieves; all of them love a bribe and chase after payoffs. They do not uphold the fatherless, and the widow's lawsuit never reaches them. [24] Therefore this is the declaration of the Lord, the LORD of hosts, the Mighty One of Israel: "Woe! I will be rid of my foes and take vengeance on my enemies. [25] I will bring my hand back upon you, refine away your dross as with potash, and take out all your impurities. [26] I will give you back judges like those of old and counselors like those at the start. After that you will be named City of Righteousness, Faithful Town." [27] Zion will be redeemed through justice, and her returning ones through righteousness. [28] Yet rebels and sinners alike will be shattered, and those who abandon the LORD will come to an end. [29] For they will be ashamed of the oaks you delighted in, and you will be disgraced over the gardens you chose. [30] You will be like an oak with withering leaves, like a garden that has no water. [31] The mighty man will turn into tow, and what he made into a spark; the two will burn up together, and no one will put it out.

CHAPTER 2

[1] The word that Isaiah son of Amoz saw about Judah and Jerusalem. [2] In the last days the mountain of the LORD's house will stand firm at the top of the mountains and be raised higher than the hills, and all the nations will stream toward it. [3] Many peoples will come and say, "Come, let us climb the mountain of the LORD, to the house of Jacob's God, so that he may teach us from his ways and we may walk in his paths." For the law will go out from Zion, and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem. [4] He will judge between the nations and settle matters for many peoples. They will hammer their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning knives; nation will not raise a sword against nation, and they will no longer train for war. [5] House of Jacob, come, let us walk in the light of the LORD. [6] Indeed, you have cast off your people, the house of Jacob, for they are filled with what comes from the east, with soothsayers like the Philistines, and they clasp hands with the offspring of foreigners. [7] Their land has been filled with silver and gold, and their treasures are endless; their land has been filled with horses, and their chariots are endless too. [8] Their land is full of worthless idols; they bow down before what their hands have made, before the things their fingers fashioned. [9] So people are bowed down and each man is brought low; do not pardon them! [10] Go into the rock, hide yourself in the dust, away from the dread of the LORD and the splendor of his majesty. [11] Proud human eyes will be lowered, the arrogance of men will be bowed down, and on that day the LORD alone will be lifted high. [12] For the LORD of hosts has a day in store against everything proud and towering, against everything raised up, and it will be laid low; [13] against all the cedars of Lebanon, lofty and towering, and against all the oaks of Bashan; [14] against all the high mountains and against all the uplifted hills; [15] against every tall tower and every fortified wall; [16] against all the ships of Tarshish and against all the delightful vessels.* [17] Human haughtiness will be bowed down and the pride of men laid low, and on that day the LORD alone will be lifted high. [18] As for the idols, they will vanish completely. [19] People will go into caves in the rocks and holes in the ground, away from the dread of the LORD and the splendor of his majesty, when he arises to make the earth shudder. [20] On that day people will fling their silver idols and their gold idols, which they made to bow down to, to the burrowing moles and to the bats, [21] so as to go into the crevices of the rocks and the clefts of the cliffs, away from the dread of the LORD and the splendor of his majesty, when he arises to make the earth shudder. [22] Have done with man, whose breath is in his nostrils; for what is he worth?

CHAPTER 3

[1] For look, the Lord, the LORD of hosts, is about to remove from Jerusalem and from Judah every prop and stay: every supply of bread and every supply of water; [2] the hero and the fighting man, the judge and the prophet, the diviner and the elder, [3] the commander of fifty and the dignitary, the counselor, the skilled sorcerer and the clever enchanter. [4] I will set boys over them as their princes, and the capricious will rule over them.* [5] The people will be oppressed, man by man, each by his neighbor; the young will bully the old, and the lowly the honored. [6] A man will grab his brother in his father's house: "You own a cloak; be our ruler, and let this ruin be in your charge." [7] On that day he will protest, "I will not be the one to bind up wounds. There is no bread in my house and no cloak; do not set me up as ruler of the people." [8] Jerusalem has tottered and Judah has collapsed, because their words and their actions are against the LORD, provoking the eyes of his glory. [9] The expression on their faces testifies against them; they announce their sin like Sodom and make no secret of it. Woe to their souls, for they have repaid themselves with evil! [10] Say of the righteous that it will go well, for they will eat the fruit of what they have done. [11] Woe to the wicked! It will go badly, for what his own hands have done will be done to him. [12] As for my people, a child is their taskmaster and women govern them. My people, those who lead you lead you astray, and they have muddled the way you should go. [13] The LORD rises to argue his case; he stands up to judge the peoples. [14] The LORD comes in judgment against the elders of his people and its princes: "You are the ones who have stripped the vineyard bare; what you robbed from the poor is in your houses. [15] What right have you to crush my people and grind the faces of the poor?" declares the Lord GOD of hosts. [16] The LORD said: Since the daughters of Zion are proud and walk about with necks stretched high and eyes flirting, stepping daintily as they go and making the ornaments on their feet jingle, [17] the Lord will make the scalps of the daughters of Zion scabby, and the LORD will expose their foreheads. [18] On that day the Lord will take away the beauty of their anklets, their sun-shaped and moon-shaped ornaments; [19] the drops, the bangles and the veils; [20] the turbans, the step chains, the sashes, the perfume bottles and the charms; [21] the finger rings and the nose rings; [22] the fine robes, the overgarments, the wraps and the purses; [23] the hand mirrors, the linen undergarments, the headdresses and the light shawls. [24] There will be stench where there was perfume, a rope where there was a sash, baldness where the hair was carefully arranged, a binding of sackcloth where there was a fine robe, a burn mark where there was beauty. [25] Your men will fall by the sword, and your strength in war. [26] Her gates will moan and grieve; stripped bare, she will sit on the ground.

CHAPTER 4

[1] On that day seven women will lay hold of a single man and say, "We will eat our own food and wear our own clothing; only let your name be called over us. Take our reproach away!" [2] On that day the branch of the LORD will be beauty and glory, and the fruit of the land will be the pride and the splendor of Israel's escaped remnant.* [3] Then whoever is left in Zion, whoever remains behind in Jerusalem, will be called holy, everyone written down for life in Jerusalem, [4] once the Lord has washed off the filth of the daughters of Zion and rinsed the bloodstains of Jerusalem out of her midst by a spirit of judgment and a spirit of burning. [5] The LORD will create over the whole site of Mount Zion and over those assembled there a cloud and smoke by day and the glow of a blazing fire by night; over all the glory there will be a canopy. [6] It will be a shelter, giving shade from the heat by day, and a refuge and hiding place from storm and rain.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Let me sing now for my beloved one, a song of my beloved about his vineyard. My beloved had a vineyard on a very fertile hill. [] [2] He dug it over, cleared away its stones and planted it with choice vines. He built a tower in the middle of it and cut out a wine vat there too. He looked for it to yield grapes, but what it yielded was wild grapes. [3] So now, you who live in Jerusalem and you people of Judah, judge, I ask you, between me and my vineyard. [4] What else could be done for my vineyard that I have not done for it? When I looked for it to yield grapes, why did it yield wild grapes? [5] Now then, let me tell you what I am going to do to my vineyard: I will take away its hedge, and it will be grazed; I will tear down its wall, and it will be trampled. [6] I will make it a wasteland, unpruned and unhoed, overgrown with thorns and briers, and I will order the clouds not to let rain fall on it. [7] The vineyard of the LORD of hosts is the house of Israel, and the people of Judah are the garden he delighted in. He looked for justice, and there was bloodshed; for righteousness, and there was an outcry. [] [8] Woe to you who join house onto house and bring field next to field, until no room is left and you are settled alone in the middle of the land! [9] The LORD of hosts has said in my hearing: Surely many houses will become a ruin, large and lovely houses with no one living in them. [10] Ten acres of vineyard will produce a single bath, and a homer of seed will bring in only an ephah. [11] Woe to those who get up early in the morning to run after strong drink, who linger into the evening twilight while wine sets them aflame! [12] Harp and lyre, tambourine and flute, and wine make up their banquets, but they pay no attention to the deeds of the LORD and do not look at the work of his hands. [13] That is why my people are going into exile without knowing it; their honored men are dying of hunger, and their crowds are dried up with thirst. [14] That is why Sheol has stretched its throat wide and opened its mouth without limit, and down into it go her nobility and her masses, her noise and all who revel in her. [15] Mankind is bowed down and every man is humbled, and the eyes of the proud are lowered. [16] Yet the LORD of hosts is lifted high through justice, and the holy God proves himself holy through righteousness. [17] Then lambs will feed there as in their own pasture, and strangers will eat among the ruins left by the fat ones. [18] Woe to those who haul iniquity along with ropes of emptiness and sin as with the harness of a cart, [19] who say, "Let him be quick! Let him speed up his work so that we can see it. Let the purpose of the Holy One of Israel come close and arrive, so that we can know it!" [20] Woe to those who say that evil is good and good is evil, who put darkness for light and light for darkness, who put bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter! [21] Woe to those who are wise in their own eyes and shrewd in their own estimation! [22] Woe to those who are heroes at drinking wine and champions at mixing strong drink, [23] who declare the guilty innocent in return for a bribe and strip the innocent of their right! [24] So, just as a tongue of fire eats up stubble and dry grass shrivels in the flame, their root will rot and their blossom will blow away like dust, because they have thrown off the law of the LORD of hosts and despised the word of the Holy One of Israel. [25] That is why the anger of the LORD has blazed against his people. He has stretched out his hand against them and struck them down; the mountains shook, and their dead bodies lay like garbage in the streets. Even so his anger has not turned back; his hand is still stretched out. [26] He will lift up a banner for nations far off and whistle for them from the ends of the earth, and look, they come, fast and swift! [27] None of them grows tired or stumbles, none dozes or sleeps; no belt is loose at their waist, no sandal strap snapped. [28] Their arrows are sharp, all their bows strung; their horses' hooves seem like flint, their wheels like a whirlwind. [29] They roar like a lion, like young lions they roar; they growl and seize their prey, carry it away, and no one can rescue it. [30] On that day they will growl over it like the roaring of the sea. If anyone looks over the land, there is darkness and distress; even the light is darkened by its clouds.

CHAPTER 6

[1] In the year King Uzziah died, I saw the Lord seated on a throne, high and exalted, and the hem of his robe filled the temple. [2] Above him stood seraphim, each of them with six wings: with two he covered his face, with two he covered his feet, and with two he was flying. [3] They called out to one another: "Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of hosts; all the earth is filled with his glory!" [4] At the sound of the one who called, the posts of the thresholds shook, and the house filled with smoke. [5] And I said, "Woe to me! I am finished. I am a man with unclean lips, and I live among a people with unclean lips, and my eyes have seen the King, the LORD of hosts!" [6] Then one of the seraphim flew to me holding a glowing coal, which he had taken from the altar with tongs. [7] He touched it to my mouth and said, "Look, this has touched your lips. Your iniquity is removed, and your sin is atoned for." [8] Then I heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send? Who will go for us?" And I said, "Here I am. Send me!" [9] He said, "Go and tell this people: 'Listen and listen, but never understand; look and look, but never perceive.' [10] Dull the heart of this people, stop up their ears and paste over their eyes, so that they will not see with their eyes, or hear with their ears, or understand with their heart, and turn back and be healed." [11] I asked, "How long, Lord?" He answered, "Until the cities lie in ruins with no one living in them, the houses with no one inside, and the ground is laid waste and desolate, [12] until the LORD has sent the people far away and the abandoned places in the land are many. [13] Even if a tenth part remains in it, it will be burned again, like a terebinth or an oak that leaves a stump when it is felled. The holy seed is its stump."

CHAPTER 7

1 It happened in the days of Ahaz son of Jotham, son of Uzziah, king of Judah, that Rezin king of Syria and Pekah son of Remaliah, king of Israel, marched up to Jerusalem to make war on it, but they were not able to fight their way into it. 2 The house of David received word: "Syria has taken up position in Ephraim." Then his heart and the heart of his people trembled, the way the trees of the forest tremble in the wind. 3 The LORD said to Isaiah, "Go out now, you and your son Shear-jashub, to meet Ahaz at the end of the channel from the upper pool, by the road to the Washer's Field.* 4 Tell him: 'Take care to stay calm.
Do not be afraid, and do not lose heart over these two stubs of smoking firewood, over the burning anger of Rezin and Syria and of the son of Remaliah. 5 Syria, along with Ephraim and the son of Remaliah, has plotted harm against you. They say, 6 "Let us march against Judah, terrify it and break through its walls for ourselves, and put the son of Tabeel on the throne there as king." 7 This is what the Lord GOD says: It will not stand; it will not happen. 8 For the head of Syria is Damascus, and the head of Damascus is Rezin. Within sixty-five years Ephraim will be too broken to be a people. 9 The head of Ephraim is Samaria, and the head of Samaria is the son of Remaliah. If you will not believe, you will certainly not be established.'"* 10 The LORD spoke to Ahaz once more: 11 "Ask for a sign from the LORD your God, whether deep down in Sheol or high up above." 12 Ahaz replied,
"I will not ask; I will not test the LORD." 13 Then Isaiah said,
"Listen now, house of David! Is it not enough for you to wear out people, that you wear out my God too? 14 Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign: Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel.* 15 Curds and honey will be his food when he knows how to reject what is evil and choose what is good. 16 Before the boy knows how to reject the evil and choose the good, the land of the two kings you dread will be abandoned. 17 The LORD will bring on you, on your people and on your father's house days unlike any since Ephraim broke away from Judah: he will bring the king of Assyria." 18 On that day the LORD will whistle for the fly at the far end of the channels of Egypt and for the bee in the land of Assyria. 19 They will come and settle, every one of them, in the steep gorges and the cracks in the rocks, on all the thorn bushes and at all the watering holes. 20 On that day the Lord will use a razor hired from beyond the River, the king of Assyria, to shave the head and the hair of the legs, and it will take off the beard too. 21 On that day a man will keep alive one young cow and two sheep, 22 and they will give so much milk that he will eat curds; everyone left in the land will live on curds and honey. 23 On that day every place that once held a thousand vines worth a thousand silver pieces will be given over to thorns and briers. 24 Men will go there with bow and arrows, because the whole land will be thorns and briers. 25 And the hills once worked with the hoe, you will not go there for fear of the thorns and briers; they will become places where cattle are let loose and sheep trample.

CHAPTER 8

1 The LORD said to me, "Get yourself a large tablet and write on it in ordinary letters: 'For Maher-shalal-hash-baz.'"* 2 So I took trustworthy witnesses to testify for me: Uriah the priest and Zechariah son of Jeberechiah. 3 I went to the prophetess, and she became pregnant and gave birth to a son. The LORD told me, "Name him Maher-shalal-hash-baz, 4 because before the boy can say 'Father' or 'Mother', the riches of Damascus and the loot of Samaria will be carried away to the king of Assyria." 5 Once more the LORD spoke to me: 6 "This people has refused the gently flowing waters of Shiloah and takes delight in Rezin and the son of Remaliah. 7 So now the Lord is about to bring against them the waters of the River, strong and abundant, the king of Assyria with all his glory. It will rise over all its channels and overflow all its banks. 8 It will sweep through Judah, flooding and surging forward until it reaches the neck; its outspread wings will cover the full width of your land, O Immanuel." 9 Be broken, you peoples, and be shattered! Listen, all you far corners of the earth:
get ready for battle and be shattered; get ready for battle and be shattered!* 10 Draw up your plans, and they will come to nothing; give your orders, and they will not stand, for God is with us. 11 The LORD spoke to me in this way, with his strong hand upon me, and instructed me not to follow the way of this people: 12 "Do not call conspiracy everything this people calls conspiracy; do not be afraid of what frightens them, and do not tremble at it. 13 It is the LORD of hosts you must treat as holy;
he is the one to fear, he is the one to dread. 14 He will become a sanctuary, and a stone that people strike their foot on, a rock that makes both houses of Israel stumble, a trap and a snare for those who live in Jerusalem. 15 Many of them will stumble over it; they will fall and be broken, be snared and be caught." 16 Tie up the testimony; seal up the law among my disciples. 17 I will wait for the LORD, who hides his face from the house of Jacob; I will look eagerly for him. 18 Here I am, with the children the LORD has given me; we are signs and portents in Israel from the LORD of hosts, who lives on Mount Zion. 19 When people say to you, "Consult the mediums and the spiritists, who whisper and murmur," should not a people consult its God? Why consult the dead on behalf of the living? 20 To the law and to the testimony!
If they do not speak in line with this word, there is no dawn for them. 21 They will wander through the land, distressed and starving; and in their hunger they will rage and curse their king and their God, and look up toward heaven. 22 Then they will look at the earth, and there will be trouble and darkness, the gloom of anguish, and they will be thrust into deep darkness.

CHAPTER 9

1 But there will be no more gloom for the land that was in distress. In earlier times he humbled the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, but in later times he will bring honor to the way of the sea, the land across the Jordan, Galilee of the nations.*
2 The people walking in darkness have seen a great light; on those living in the land of the shadow of death a light has dawned. 3
You have made the nation numerous, you have increased its joy;
they rejoice in your presence as people rejoice at harvest time, as men celebrate when they share out the plunder. [] [4] For you have broken the yoke that burdened them, the bar across their shoulders, the rod of their taskmaster, as on the day of Midian. [5] Every soldier's boot that stamped in the battle din and every cloak soaked in blood will be destined for burning, fuel for the fire. [6] For a child is born to us, a son is given to us; and the government shall rest upon his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace. [] [7] His government and its peace will keep growing without end, on David's throne and over his kingdom, to set it firm and support it with justice and righteousness from this time on and forever. The zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this. [8] The Lord has sent a message against Jacob, and it has landed on Israel. [9] All the people will come to know it, Ephraim and those who live in Samaria, who speak with pride and a swollen heart: [10] "The bricks have collapsed, but we will rebuild with cut stone; the sycamore figs are felled, but we will replace them with cedars." [11] So the LORD has raised Rezin's foes high against him and spurred on his enemies: [12] the Syrians from the east and the Philistines from the west, and they have devoured Israel with gaping mouths. Even so his anger has not turned back; his hand is still stretched out. [13] But the people have not returned to the one who struck them, and they have not sought the LORD of hosts. [14] So the LORD cut off from Israel head and tail, palm frond and bulrush, all in one day. [15] The head is the elder and the dignitary; the tail is the prophet who teaches falsehood. [16] The leaders of this people have misled them, and those they lead are thrown into confusion. [17] That is why the Lord takes no pleasure in their young men and shows no pity to their fatherless and widows, for all of them are godless and wicked, and every mouth speaks disgraceful folly. Even so his anger has not turned back; his hand is still stretched out. [18] Wickedness blazes like a fire that eats up thorns and briers; it sets the forest thickets alight, and they roll up in billows of smoke. [19] By the fury of the LORD of hosts the land is scorched, and the people have become fuel for the fire; no one spares his own brother. [20] They grab on the right but still go hungry; they eat on the left but are never full; each one eats the flesh of his own arm: [21] Manasseh feeds on Ephraim, and Ephraim on Manasseh, and together they turn on Judah. Even so his anger has not turned back; his hand is still stretched out.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Woe to those who issue wicked statutes, to the clerks who are forever writing out hardship, [2] turning the needy away from a fair hearing and robbing the poor among my people of their rights, so that widows become their prey and the fatherless their loot! [3] What will you do on the day of reckoning, when the storm of ruin comes from far away? To whom will you run for help, and where will you leave your riches? [4] Nothing remains but to cower among the captives or fall among the slain. Even so his anger has not turned back; his hand is still stretched out. [5] Woe to Assyria, rod of my anger! The club in their hand is my fury. [6] I send him against a godless nation; I give him orders against the people who provoke my wrath, to carry off plunder and seize loot and to tread them down like mud in the streets. [7] But this is not what he has in mind; this is not what his heart is planning. What is in his heart is to destroy, to cut off nations, and not just a few. [8] For he says, "Are not my officers kings, every one of them? [9] Has not Calno fared like Carchemish, Hamath like Arpad, Samaria like Damascus? [10] Since my hand has seized the kingdoms of the idols, whose images outnumbered those of Jerusalem and Samaria, [11] will I not treat Jerusalem and her idols the way I treated Samaria and her images?" [12] When the Lord has completed all his work on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem, I will punish the king of Assyria for the fruit of his swollen heart and the glory of his lofty looks. [13] For he says, "I did this by the power of my own hand and by my own wisdom, because I am clever. I have moved the borders of nations and looted their stores; like a strong man I have toppled those who sat enthroned. [14] My hand reached into the riches of the peoples as into a nest; as one gathers up abandoned eggs, I gathered up the whole earth, and not one creature flapped a wing, opened its beak or let out a peep." [15] Can an axe brag against the man who swings it? Can a saw exalt itself over the one who pulls it? It would be as if a rod were to swing the hands that raise it, or a staff were to raise up one who is not wood! [16] So the Lord, the LORD of hosts, will send a wasting sickness on his well-fed warriors, and under his glory a fire will be lit, burning like a blaze. [17] The Light of Israel will turn into a fire, and his Holy One into a flame; in a single day it will burn up and consume his thorns and his briers. [18] It will destroy the splendor of his forest and his fertile fields, soul and body alike, and it will be like a sick man wasting away. [19] The trees left in his forest will be so few that a child could count them and write them down. [20] On that day the remnant of Israel and the survivors of the house of Jacob will never again rely on the one who struck them; they will truly rely on the LORD, the Holy One of Israel. [21] A remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob, to the Mighty God. [22] Though your people Israel are as many as the sand of the sea, only a remnant within them will return. Destruction has been decided, overflowing with righteousness. [23] The Lord GOD of hosts is about to carry out the destruction he has decided upon in the midst of the whole land. [24] So this is what the Lord GOD of hosts says: "My people living in Zion, do not fear the Assyrian, though he beats you with a rod and raises his staff against you the way Egypt did. [25] In just a very little while my fury will be spent, and my anger will turn to their destruction." [26] The LORD of hosts will lash him with a whip, as when he struck down Midian at the rock of Oreb; he will hold his staff out over the sea and raise it as he did in Egypt. [27] On that day his load will be lifted off your shoulder and his yoke off your neck, and the yoke will be broken because of the fatness. [*] [28] He has reached Aiath and gone through Migron; at Michmash he stores his baggage. [29] They have gone through the pass: "We will camp tonight at Geba." Ramah shakes with fear; Gibeah of Saul has run away. [30] Scream out loud, daughter of Gallim! Hear it, Laishah! Poor Anathoth! [31] Madmenah is in flight; the people of Gebim are running for cover. [32] This very day he will stop at Nob and shake his fist at the mount of the daughter of Zion, the hill of Jerusalem. [33] Look, the Lord, the LORD of hosts, is about to hack off the branches with a dreadful crash; the highest trees will be felled, and the lofty ones will come down. [34] He will chop down the forest thickets with iron, and Lebanon will fall before the Mighty One.

CHAPTER 11

[1] A shoot will spring up from the stump of Jesse, and a branch will grow out of his roots and bear fruit. [2] The Spirit of the LORD will rest on him: a spirit of wisdom and insight, a spirit of counsel and strength, a spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the LORD. [3] He will take delight in the fear of the LORD. He will not judge by what his eyes see or give his verdict by what his ears hear; [4] instead, he will judge the poor with righteousness and give fair decisions for the humble of the land. He will strike the earth with the rod of his mouth and put the wicked to death with the breath of his lips. [5] Righteousness will be the sash around his waist, and faithfulness the sash around his hips. [6] The wolf will live as a guest with the lamb, the leopard will lie down beside the young goat; calf, young lion and fattened ox will be together, and a small child will lead them. [7] Cow and bear will feed side by side, their young will lie down together, and the lion will eat straw as the ox does. [8] A baby still nursing will play by the cobra's hole, and a child just weaned will put his hand into the viper's nest. [9] No one will do harm or ruin anywhere on my holy mountain, for the earth will be filled with the knowledge of the LORD as the waters fill the sea. [10] On that day the root of Jesse will stand as a banner for the peoples; the nations will seek him out, and the place where he rests will be glorious. [11] On that day the Lord will put out his hand a second time to reclaim the remnant of his people that is left, from Assyria and Egypt, from Pathros and Cush, from Elam and Shinar, from Hamath and from the islands of the sea. [12] He will lift up a banner for the nations; he will gather the exiles of Israel and collect the scattered ones of Judah from the four corners of the earth. [13] Ephraim's jealousy will vanish, and Judah's enemies will be cut off; Ephraim will no longer envy Judah, and Judah will no longer be hostile to Ephraim. [14] They will swoop down on the slopes of the Philistines to the west; together they will plunder the people of the east. Edom and Moab will be in their grasp, and the children of Ammon will be subject to them. [15] The LORD will utterly destroy the tongue of the Egyptian sea; with his scorching wind he will sweep his hand over the River and break it up into seven streams, so that people can walk across in sandals. [16] There will be a highway for the remnant of his people that is left from Assyria, just as there was for Israel when they came up out of the land of Egypt.

CHAPTER 12

[1] On that day you will say: "I praise you, O LORD. Though you were angry with me, your anger has turned away, and you comfort me. [2] Look, God is my salvation; I will trust and not be afraid. For the LORD, the LORD, is my strength and my song, and he has become my salvation."* [3] You will draw water joyfully from the springs of salvation. [4] On that day you will say: "Thank the LORD, call on his name; tell the peoples what he has done, remind them that his name is lifted high. [5] Sing to the LORD, for he has acted gloriously; let this be known throughout the earth. [6] Shout aloud and sing for joy, you who live in Zion, for the Holy One of Israel is great among you."

CHAPTER 13

[1] The oracle about Babylon that Isaiah son of Amoz saw.* [2] On a bare hilltop hoist a banner; shout out to them, beckon with the hand, so that they may enter the gates of the nobles. [3] I have given orders to those I have set apart; I have called up my warriors for my anger, those who exult in my triumph. [4] Listen! A roar on the mountains, like that of a vast people! Listen! An uproar of kingdoms, of nations gathering! The LORD of hosts is mustering an army for war. [5] They are coming from a faraway land, from the edge of the sky, the LORD and the instruments of his fury, to ruin the whole land. [6] Howl, for the day of the LORD is close; it comes like devastation from the Almighty. [7] Because of this every hand will go limp, and every man's heart will melt. [8] They will be terrified; cramps and pains will grip them, they will writhe like a woman giving birth. They will gape at one another, their faces burning red. [9] Look, the day of the LORD is coming, merciless, with fury and blazing anger, to turn the land into a wasteland and wipe out the sinners in it. [10] The stars in the sky and their constellations will not give off their light; the sun will be dark when it rises, and the moon will not let its light shine. [11] I will punish the world for its evil and the wicked for their iniquity; I will end the pride of the insolent and humble the arrogance of tyrants. [12] I will make human beings rarer than pure gold, mankind rarer than the gold of Ophir. [13] So I will make the heavens shudder, and the earth will be shaken from its place by the fury of the LORD of hosts on the day of his burning anger. [14] Like a hunted gazelle, like sheep with no one to round them up, each one will head back to his own people, each one flee to his own land. [15] Anyone who is found will be run through, and anyone who is caught will fall by the sword. [16] Their little ones will be smashed while they look on, their houses looted and their wives raped. [17] I am about to stir up the Medes against them, who care nothing for silver and find no pleasure in gold. [18] Their bows will cut down the young men; they will show no mercy to the fruit of the womb and will not look with pity on children. [19] Babylon, the jewel of kingdoms, the proud splendor of the Chaldeans, will be like Sodom and Gomorrah when God overturned them. [20] No one will ever live there again or settle there through all generations; no Arab will pitch a tent there, and no shepherds will bed down their flocks there. [21] Desert creatures will lie down there, its houses will be filled with jackals, ostriches will make their home there, and wild goats will dance there.* [22] Hyenas will howl in its fortresses and jackals in its luxurious palaces. Its time is about to come, and its days will not be extended.

CHAPTER 14

[1] The LORD will show compassion to Jacob; he will choose Israel once more and settle them in their own land. Foreigners will join them and attach themselves to the house of Jacob. [2] Peoples will take them and escort them to their own place, and the house of Israel will possess those peoples as male and female servants in the LORD's land. They will take captive their captors and rule over their oppressors. [3] When the LORD gives you rest from your suffering and turmoil and from the cruel slavery forced on you, [4] you will raise this taunt over the king of Babylon: "See how the oppressor has come to an end, how the fury has stopped! [] [5] The LORD has snapped the staff of the wicked, the scepter of the rulers, [6] which kept beating the peoples in fury with blow after blow, and trampled the nations in anger with relentless persecution. [7] All the earth is at rest and quiet; people burst into shouts of joy. [8] Even the junipers and the cedars of Lebanon gloat over you: 'Ever since you were laid low, no one has come up to cut us down.' [9] Sheol below is all astir over you, ready to greet you when you come; for your sake it wakes the shades, all the chiefs of the earth, and makes all the kings of the nations get up from their thrones. [10] They all respond and say to you, 'So you too have become weak like us! You have become one of us!' [11] Your pride has been brought down to Sheol, together with the noise of your harps; maggots are your bed beneath you, and worms your blanket. [12] How you have fallen from heaven, O Day Star, son of the dawn! How you have been felled to the ground, you who brought the nations down! [] [13] You said to yourself, 'I will climb up to the heavens; I will raise my throne higher than the stars of God; I will sit enthroned on the mount of assembly, on the farthest heights of the north. [14] I will go up above the tops of the clouds; I will be like the Most High.' [15] But no, you are brought down to Sheol, to the lowest depths of the pit. [16] Those who see you will gaze at you and study you closely: 'Is this the man who shook the earth and made kingdoms tremble, [17] who turned the world into a desert, tore down its cities and never let his prisoners go home?' [18] All the kings of the nations, every one of them, lie in honor, each in his own resting place. [19] But you have been thrown out of your tomb like a rejected branch, covered with the slain, with those pierced by the sword who go down to the stones of the pit, like a body trampled underfoot. [20] You will not share their burial, for you ruined your own land and killed your own people. Let the descendants of evildoers never be mentioned again! [21] Get a place ready to slaughter his sons for the iniquity of their fathers, so that they do not rise up and take over the earth and cover the face of the world with cities." [22] "I will rise up against them," declares the LORD of hosts, "and I will wipe out from Babylon its name and its survivors, its children and its descendants," declares the LORD. [23] "I will turn it into a home for hedgehogs and into swamps, and I will sweep it clean with the broom of destruction," declares the LORD of hosts. [24] The LORD of hosts has taken an oath: "Just as I have intended, so it will happen; just as I have planned, so it will stand. [25] I will crush Assyria in my land and stamp on him on my mountains. His yoke will be taken off them, and his load lifted from their shoulders." [26] This is the plan decided for the whole earth, and this is the hand stretched out over all the nations. [27] The LORD of hosts has made his plan; who can thwart it? His hand is stretched out; who can turn it back? [28] This oracle came in the year King Ahaz died: [29] Do not rejoice, Philistia, all of you, because the rod that struck you is broken; for out of the snake's root a viper will spring, and its offspring will be a flying fiery serpent. [*] [30] The firstborn of the poor will find pasture, and the needy will lie down secure; but I will kill your root with hunger, and it will slay what is left of you. [31] Howl, you gate! Cry out, you city! Melt in terror, Philistia, all of you! For smoke is coming from the north, and not one straggles from its ranks. [32] How will anyone answer the envoys of that nation? "The LORD has founded Zion, and the afflicted among his people will find shelter in her."

CHAPTER 15

[1] The oracle about Moab. In one night Ar of Moab is ravaged and ruined; in one night Kir of Moab is ravaged and ruined. [2] They go up to the temple and to Dibon, to the high places, to weep; Moab howls over Nebo and over Medeba. Every head is shaved bald, every beard cut short. [*] [3] In their streets they put on sackcloth; on their rooftops and in their squares everyone howls, dissolving in tears. [4] Heshbon and Elealeh scream; their cry is heard all the way to Jahaz. That is why Moab's armed men shout in alarm; his soul shakes within him. [5] My heart cries out over Moab; her refugees run as far as Zoar and Eglath-shelishiyah. They climb the slope of Luhith in tears; on the road to Horonaim they raise a cry over their destruction. [6] The waters of Nimrim are dried up; the grass has withered, the young plants are gone, nothing green is left. [7] So they carry off across the Ravine of the Poplars the wealth they have acquired and the goods they have stored up. [8] The cry has echoed all around the borders of Moab; its wailing reaches Eglaim, its wailing reaches Beer-elim. [9] The waters of Dimon are full of blood, but I will bring even more upon Dimon: a lion against the fugitives of Moab and against those who remain in the land.

CHAPTER 16

[1] Send a lamb as tribute to the ruler of the land, from Sela across the desert to the mount of the daughter of Zion. [2] Like birds flapping about, like a nest scattered, the daughters of Moab will be at the fords of the Arnon. [3] "Offer advice, give a ruling; make your shadow like night at the full height of noon. Shelter the outcasts; do not give away the refugee. [4] Let my outcasts stay with you, Moab; be a hiding place for them from the destroyer." When the oppressor is gone and the ravaging has stopped, when the one who tramples has disappeared from the land, [5] a throne will be set firm in steadfast love, and on it in faithfulness, in the tent of David, will sit one who judges, who looks for justice and is quick to do what is right. [6] We have heard of Moab's pride, how exceedingly proud he is: his arrogance, his pride, his insolence, and his empty boasts. [7] So Moab howls for Moab, all of them howl; you moan for the raisin cakes of Kir-hareseth, utterly crushed. [8] The fields of Heshbon wither, and so does the vine of Sibmah; the rulers of the nations have trampled down its finest clusters, which once reached as far as Jazer and trailed into the desert; its shoots spread out and crossed over the sea. [9] So I weep as Jazer weeps for the vine of Sibmah; I soak you with my tears, Heshbon and Elealeh, for the shout of battle has fallen on your summer fruit and your harvest. [10] Gladness and joy are gone from the orchard; no one sings or cheers in the vineyards; no one treads out wine in the vats, for I have silenced the shouting. [11] So my insides throb for Moab like a harp, and my inmost self for Kir-heres. [12] When Moab shows up and wears himself out at the high place, when he goes into his sanctuary to pray, it will do him no good. [13] That is the word the LORD spoke long ago about Moab. [14] But now the LORD says: "In three years, counted as a hired man counts them, Moab's glory and all its great population will be held in contempt, and the few left will be weak and insignificant."

CHAPTER 17

[1] The oracle about Damascus. Look, Damascus is about to stop being a city; it will become a pile of rubble. [2] The cities of Aroer will be abandoned and left to flocks, which will lie down there with no one to frighten them. [3] Ephraim will lose its fortress and Damascus its kingdom, and what is left of Syria will be like the glory of the children of Israel, declares the LORD of hosts. [4] On that day Jacob's glory will dwindle, and his well-fed body will grow thin. [5] It will be like a reaper gathering up standing grain and harvesting the ears with his arm, like someone collecting ears of grain in the Valley of Rephaim. [6] Some gleanings will remain, as when an olive tree is beaten: two or three olives at the very top, four or five on the branches of the fruit tree, declares the LORD, the God of Israel. [7] On that day people will look to their Maker and turn their eyes to the Holy One of Israel. [8] They will not look to the altars their hands built or pay attention to what their fingers made, the Asherim and the incense altars.* [9] On that day their fortified cities will be like the abandoned places of the forest and the hilltops that were left behind before the children of Israel, and all will be desolate. [10] You have forgotten the God who saves you and have not remembered the Rock where you take refuge. So you set out pleasant plants and sow cuttings from a foreign vine. [11] The day you plant them you get them to grow, and the next morning you make your seed bud; yet the harvest will flee away on the day of disease and pain that has no cure.* [12] Woe! The tumult of many peoples, roaring like the roar of the seas! The uproar of nations, crashing like the crash of mighty waters! [13] The nations crash like the crashing of many waters, but he rebukes them and they run far away, driven like chaff on the hills before the wind, like a rolling thistle before the storm wind. [14] In the evening, sudden terror! By morning, they are gone. This is what those who plunder us receive, the share of those who rob us.

CHAPTER 18

[1] Woe to the land of buzzing wings beyond the rivers of Cush, [2] that sends envoys by sea in papyrus boats over the water! Go, swift messengers, to a nation tall and smooth-skinned, to a people dreaded near and far, a nation mighty and conquering, whose land is cut through by rivers.* [3] All you who live in the world, you who dwell on the earth: when a banner is raised on the mountains, watch; when the trumpet sounds, listen! [4] For this is what the LORD told me: "I will stay quiet and look on from my dwelling, like the glowing heat in bright sunshine, like a cloud of dew in the heat of harvest." [5] For before the harvest, once the budding is done and the blossom turns into a ripening grape, he will cut off the shoots with pruning knives and hack away and remove the spreading branches. [6] They will all be abandoned to the birds of prey on the mountains and to the wild animals; the birds of prey will feed on them all summer, and all the wild animals all winter. [7] At that time gifts will be brought to the LORD of hosts from a people tall and smooth-skinned, from a people dreaded near and far, a nation mighty and conquering, whose land is cut through by rivers; they will be brought to Mount Zion, the place of the name of the LORD of hosts.

CHAPTER 19

[1] The oracle about Egypt. Look, the LORD rides on a swift cloud and comes to Egypt. The idols of Egypt shake before him, and Egypt's heart melts inside it. [2] "I will set Egyptian against Egyptian; brother will fight brother and neighbor fight neighbor, city against city and kingdom against kingdom. [3] Egypt's spirit will be drained within it, and I will throw its plans into confusion. They will consult the idols and the ghosts, the mediums and the spiritists. [4] I will give Egypt into the hands of a cruel master, and a powerful king will rule them," declares the Lord, the LORD of hosts. [5] The water of the sea will run dry, and the river will dry up and be parched. [6] The canals will reek, the channels of Egypt will shrink and dry out, and the reeds and rushes will rot away. [7] The bare places along the Nile, at the mouth of the Nile, and every field planted by the Nile will dry up, blow away and vanish. [8] The fishermen will moan and grieve, all who cast hooks in the Nile, and those who throw nets on the water will waste away. [9] Those who work combed flax will be dismayed, and the weavers of white linen too. [10] The pillars of the land will be crushed, and all the wage earners sick at heart. [11] The officials of Zoan are utter fools; the wisest of Pharaoh's advisers give stupid advice. How can you tell Pharaoh, "I am one of the wise, a descendant of ancient kings"? [12] Where are your wise men now? Let them tell you and make known what the LORD of hosts has planned against Egypt. [13] The officials of Zoan have turned into fools, the officials of Memphis are deluded; those who are the cornerstones of its tribes have sent Egypt astray. [14] The LORD has poured into her a spirit of dizziness, and they have made Egypt reel in all she does, like a drunk reeling in his vomit. [15] Nothing Egypt tries will succeed, whether head or tail, palm frond or bulrush. [16] On that day the Egyptians will be like women; they will shake with fear before the hand that the LORD of hosts raises against them. [17] The land of Judah will become a terror to Egypt; whoever hears it mentioned will be afraid because of what the LORD of hosts is planning against them. [18] On that day five cities in Egypt will speak the language of Canaan and swear loyalty to the LORD of hosts. One of them will be called the City of Destruction.* [19] On that day there will be an altar to the LORD in the heart of Egypt and a sacred pillar to the LORD at its border. [20] It will serve as a sign and a witness to the LORD of hosts in the land of Egypt. When they cry out to the LORD because of their oppressors, he will send them a savior who will fight for them and rescue them. [21] So the LORD will make himself known to Egypt, and on that day the Egyptians will know the LORD. They will worship him with sacrifices and grain offerings; they will make vows to the LORD and keep them. [22] The LORD will strike Egypt, strike and heal; they will turn back to the LORD, and he will listen to their prayers and heal them. [23] On that day a highway will run from Egypt to Assyria. Assyrians will come to Egypt and Egyptians to Assyria, and the Egyptians will worship together with the Assyrians. [24] On that day Israel will be the third, along with Egypt and Assyria, a blessing in the middle of the earth, [25] for the LORD of hosts has blessed them, saying, "Blessed are Egypt my people, Assyria the work of my hands, and Israel my inheritance."

CHAPTER 20

[1] In the year the commander in chief came to Ashdod, sent by Sargon king of Assyria, and fought against Ashdod and took it,* [2] at that time the LORD spoke through Isaiah son of Amoz: "Go, untie the sackcloth from around your waist and pull the sandals off your feet." He did so, and went about naked and barefoot. [3] Then the LORD said, "Just as my servant Isaiah has gone naked and barefoot for three years, a sign and an omen concerning Egypt and Cush, [4] so the king of Assyria will march off the captives of Egypt and the exiles of Cush, young and old alike, naked and barefoot, their buttocks uncovered, to Egypt's shame. [5] Those who looked to Cush for hope and boasted in Egypt will be terrified and disgraced. [6] On that day the people who live on this coast will say, 'Look what has happened to those we hoped in, the ones we ran to for help and rescue from the king of Assyria! How can we escape now?'"

CHAPTER 21

[1] The oracle about the wilderness by the sea. Like storm winds blowing across the Negev, it comes from the desert, from a land of terror. [2] A grim vision has been shown to me: the betrayer keeps betraying, the destroyer keeps destroying. Attack, Elam! Besiege, Media! I am putting an end to all the groaning she has caused. [3] That is why my body is racked with pain; pangs have gripped me like the pangs of a woman giving birth. I am too bent over to hear, too shaken to see. [4] My mind staggers; shuddering overwhelms me; the twilight I longed for has turned into terror for me. [5] The table is set, the rugs are laid out, they eat, they drink. Get up, you officers, grease the shields! [6] For this is what the Lord told me: "Go, post a lookout, and have him report whatever he sees. [7] When he sees riders, horsemen in pairs, riders on donkeys, riders on camels, let him be alert, fully alert." [8] Then the lookout called out like a lion: "Lord, day after day I stand on the watchtower, and every night I stay at my post.* [9] Look, here comes a man in a chariot, with horsemen in pairs!" Then he spoke up: "Babylon has fallen, has fallen! All the images of her gods lie smashed on the ground." [10] You, my threshed one, child of my threshing floor, what I have heard from the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, I have announced to you. [11] The oracle about Dumah. Someone is calling to me from Seir, "Watchman, how much of the night is left? Watchman, how much of the night?" [12] The watchman answers, "Morning is coming, but night as well. If you want to ask, ask; come back again." [13] The oracle about Arabia. In the thickets of Arabia you will spend the night, you caravans of the Dedanites. [14] Bring water to meet the thirsty, you who live in the land of Tema; come with bread to meet the refugees. [15] They are running from swords, from the drawn sword and the bent bow, and from the heat of battle. [16] For the Lord told me this: "Within one year, counted as a hired man counts it, all the splendor of Kedar will be gone. [17] Few of the archers will be left, the warriors of the children of Kedar, for the LORD, the God of Israel, has spoken."

CHAPTER 22

[1] The oracle about the valley of vision. What is wrong with you, that all of you have climbed up on the roofs, [2] you city full of commotion, noisy and partying town? Your dead were not cut down by the sword or killed in battle. [3] Your leaders all ran away together and were captured without a bow being drawn; all of you who were found were taken prisoner together, though they had fled far off. [4] So I said, "Turn your eyes away from me and let me weep bitter tears. Do not press me with comfort over the ruin of my dear people." [5] For the Lord GOD of hosts has a day of panic, trampling and bewilderment in the valley of vision, a day of walls torn down and of cries echoing to the mountains. [6] Elam picked up the quiver, with charioteers and horsemen, and Kir stripped the cover off the shield. [7] Your finest valleys were filled with chariots, and horsemen were posted at the gate. [8] He took away Judah's protection. On that day you turned your eyes to the weapons in the House of the Forest. [9] You saw how many gaps there were in the walls of the city of David; you stored up water in the lower pool; [10] you took a count of the houses in Jerusalem and knocked houses down to strengthen the wall. [11] Between the two walls you built a reservoir for the water of the old pool. But you did not look to the one who made it, or give any thought to the one who formed it long ago. [12] On that day the Lord GOD of hosts called for weeping and lament, for shaving the head and putting on sackcloth. [13] Instead there was joy and merrymaking, oxen killed and sheep slaughtered, meat eaten and wine drunk. "Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die." [14] The LORD of hosts has revealed this in my hearing: "This iniquity will never be atoned for you until the day you die," says the Lord GOD of hosts. [15] This is what the Lord GOD of hosts says: "Go to this official, to Shebna, the man in charge of the palace, and say: [16] 'What are you doing here, and who gave you leave to be here, that you have cut out a tomb for yourself here, cutting your grave high up and carving out a home for yourself in the rock? [17] Watch out! The LORD is about to throw you far away, you strong man; he is going to grab hold of you, [18] roll you up tight like a ball and hurl you into a wide open country. There you will die, and there your glorious chariots will remain, you disgrace to your master's house! [19] I will push you out of your office, and you will be pulled down from your position. [20] On that day I will summon my servant Eliakim son of Hilkiah. [21] I will dress him in your robe, tie your sash securely around him and hand your authority over to him. He will be a father to those who live in Jerusalem and to the house of Judah. [22] I will lay the key of the house of David on his shoulder; what he opens no one will shut, and what he shuts no one will open. [23] I will drive him like a peg into a firm place, and he will be a seat of honor for his father's family. [24] All the weight of his father's family will hang on him, its offspring and its offshoots, all the smaller vessels, from the bowls to every kind of jar. [25] On that day,' declares the LORD of hosts, 'the peg driven into a firm place will give way; it will be broken off and fall, and the load hanging on it will be cut down.' The LORD has spoken."

[1] The oracle about Tyre. Howl, you ships of Tarshish, for Tyre is destroyed, left without house or harbor! Word of it reached them from the land of Kittim. [2] Be still, you who live on the coast, you whom the merchants of Sidon, sailing over the sea, have made rich. [3] Over the great waters came the grain of Shihor; the harvest of the Nile was her income, and she became the trading center of the nations. [4] Be ashamed, Sidon, for the sea has spoken, the fortress of the sea: "I have not been in labor or given birth; I have not raised young men or brought up young women." [5] When the news reaches Egypt, they will be in anguish over the news about Tyre. [6] Cross over to Tarshish; howl, you who live on the coast! [7] Is this your merry city, whose beginnings go back to ancient times, whose feet took her to settle in faraway lands? [8] Who planned this against Tyre, the city that handed out crowns, whose traders were princes and whose merchants were honored throughout the earth? [9] The LORD of hosts planned it, to bring down the pride of all her glory and to humble all who were honored on earth. [10] Overflow your land like the Nile, daughter of Tarshish; there is no longer any restraint.* [11] The LORD has stretched out his hand over the sea and shaken kingdoms; he has given an order concerning Canaan, to destroy its fortresses.* [12] He said, "You will celebrate no more, crushed virgin daughter of Sidon. Get up, cross over to Kittim; even there you will find no rest." [13] Look at the land of the Chaldeans, this people that no longer exists! Assyria has turned it over to the creatures of the desert. They put up their siege towers, tore down her palaces and made her a heap of ruins.* [14] Howl, you ships of Tarshish, for your fortress is destroyed! [15] On that day Tyre will be forgotten for seventy years, the span of one king's life. At the end of those seventy years Tyre will be like the prostitute in the song: [16] "Pick up a harp and walk through the city, you forgotten prostitute; play it well, sing song after song, so that you will be remembered." [17] At the end of seventy years the LORD will deal with Tyre. She will go back to earning her wages and will sell herself to all the kingdoms on the face of the earth. [18] But her profits and her earnings will be set apart for the LORD. They will not be stored away or hoarded; her profits will go to those who live in the LORD's presence, to give them plenty of food and fine clothing.

CHAPTER 24

[1] Look, the LORD is about to empty the earth and make it a waste; he will turn its face upside down and scatter those who live on it. [2] It will be the same for people and priest, for servant and master, for maid and mistress, for buyer and seller, for lender and borrower, for the one who charges interest and the one who pays it. [3] The earth will be completely emptied and completely looted, for the LORD has spoken this word. [4] The earth dries up and wilts; the world fades and wilts; the high and mighty of the earth's people waste away. [5] The earth is defiled by those who live on it, for they have broken the laws, overstepped the statute and violated the everlasting covenant. [6] That is why a curse eats up the earth and its people bear the guilt; that is why the earth's inhabitants are scorched and only a few are left. [7] The new wine dries up, the vine shrivels, and all the light-hearted groan. [8] The cheerful tambourines are silent, the noise of the revelers has stopped, the joyful harp is still. [9] No more do they sing as they drink their wine; strong drink tastes bitter to those who drink it. [10] The city of chaos lies broken; every house is barred, and no one goes in. [11] In the streets they cry out for wine; all joy has turned to gloom, and gladness has been driven from the earth. [12] Only ruin is left in the city, and its gate is smashed to pieces. [13] This is how it will be on the earth and among the peoples: like an olive tree that has been beaten, like the gleanings left when the grape harvest is over. [14] They raise their voices, they shout for joy; from the west they cry out about the majesty of the LORD. [15] So glorify the LORD in the east; in the coastlands of the sea, glorify the name of the LORD, the God of Israel.* [16] From the ends of the earth we hear songs: "Glory to the righteous!" But I say, "I waste away, I waste away! Woe to me! Traitors betray; traitors betray with treachery."* [17] Terror and pit and trap await you, you who live on the earth! [18] Whoever runs from the sound of terror will fall into the pit, and whoever climbs out of the pit will be caught in the trap. The floodgates of heaven are open, and the foundations of the earth are shaking. [19] The earth is broken to bits, the earth is torn apart, the earth is shaken to and fro. [20] The earth reels like a drunk, it sways like a shack in the wind; its rebellion weighs it down, and it will fall and never rise again. [21] On that day the LORD will punish the army of heaven in the heavens above and the kings of the earth down on the earth. [22] They will be herded together like prisoners in a pit, locked up in a dungeon, and after many days they will be punished. [23] The moon will blush and the sun be put to shame, for the LORD of hosts will reign on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem, and his glory will be before his elders.

CHAPTER 25

1 LORD, you are my God; I will lift you high and praise your name, for you have done wonderful things, plans made long ago, faithful and true. 2 You have turned the city into a pile of rubble, the fortified town into ruins; the foreigners' stronghold is no longer a city and will never be rebuilt. 3 So a powerful people will honor you, and cities of ruthless nations will revere you. 4 You have been a refuge for the poor, a refuge for the needy in their distress, a shelter from the rainstorm and shade from the heat. For the breath of the ruthless is like a rainstorm beating on a wall, 5 like heat in a parched land. You quiet the uproar of foreigners; as heat is cooled by the shade of a cloud, so the song of the ruthless is hushed. 6 On this mountain the LORD of hosts will prepare for all peoples a banquet of rich foods, a banquet of wine aged on its dregs, rich foods full of marrow, finely strained wines. 7 On this mountain he will swallow up the shroud that covers all peoples, the sheet that is spread over all the nations. 8 He will swallow up death forever. The Lord GOD will wipe the tears from every face and take away his people's disgrace from the whole earth, for the LORD has spoken. * 9 On that day they will say, "Look, this is our God! We waited for him, and he will save us. This is the LORD; we waited for him. Let us rejoice and be glad because he has saved us." 10 For the hand of the LORD will rest on this mountain, but Moab will be trampled down where he stands, as straw is trampled in the water of a dung pit. * 11 He will stretch out his hands in it as a swimmer stretches out his hands to swim, but the LORD will bring down his pride along with the tricks of his hands. 12 He will bring down the high fortifications of your walls, lay them low and throw them to the ground, into the dust.

CHAPTER 26

1 On that day this song will be sung in the land of Judah: "Ours is a strong city; God makes salvation its walls and ramparts. 2 Open up the gates and let the righteous nation come in, the nation that stays faithful. 3 You keep in perfect peace the one whose mind is fixed on you, because he trusts in you. * 4 Trust in the LORD for all time, for in the LORD, the LORD himself, we have a Rock of ages. * 5 He has humbled those who live on the heights; he brings down the towering city, brings it down to the ground and throws it into the dust. 6 Feet trample it down, the feet of the oppressed, the footsteps of the poor." 7 The way of the righteous is straight; you who are upright make level the path of the righteous. 8 Yes, LORD, walking in the way of your judgments, we wait for you; our soul longs for your name and for the memory of you. 9 My soul yearns for you in the night; my spirit within me seeks you at dawn. For when your judgments come upon the earth, the people of the world learn righteousness. 10 Though grace is shown to the wicked, he does not learn righteousness; even in a land of honesty he does wrong and fails to see the majesty of the LORD. 11 LORD, your hand is raised high, but they do not see it. Let them see your zeal for the people and be put to shame; let the fire reserved for your enemies consume them. * 12 LORD, you will set peace in place for us, for everything we have achieved, you have done for us. 13 LORD our God, masters other than you have ruled over us, but your name alone is the one we honor. 14 They are dead and will not live again; they are shades and will not rise. Therefore you punished them and wiped them out; you erased every memory of them. * 15 You have made the nation bigger, LORD, you have made the nation bigger; you have won glory for yourself; you have extended all the borders of the land. * 16 LORD, in their trouble they looked for you; when you disciplined them, they could only whisper a prayer. 17 As a pregnant woman near the time of birth writhes and screams in her labor pains, so were we in your presence, LORD. 18 We were pregnant, we writhed in pain, but it was as though we gave birth to wind. We have brought no salvation to the earth, and the inhabitants of the world have not been born. * 19 Your dead will live; my dead bodies will rise. You who lie in the dust, wake up and shout for joy! For your dew is a dew of light, and the earth will give birth to the shades. * 20 Go, my people, into your rooms and close the doors behind you; hide for a short while until the fury has gone by. 21 For the LORD is about to come out of his dwelling to punish the people of the earth for their iniquity. The earth will uncover the blood spilled on it and will no longer hide its dead.

CHAPTER 27

1 On that day the LORD will punish with his sword, his fierce, great and mighty sword, Leviathan the gliding serpent, Leviathan the coiling serpent; he will slay the monster that lives in the sea. 2 On that day, sing of a delightful vineyard: * 3 "I, the LORD, watch over it; I water it continually. I guard it night and day so that no one can harm it. 4 I am not angry. If only there were thorns and briers confronting me! I would go to war against them and set them all on fire. 5 Or else let him cling to me for protection; let him make peace with me, yes, make peace with me." 6 In days to come Jacob will put down roots; Israel will bud and flower and cover the whole world with fruit. * 7 Has the LORD struck Israel as he struck those who struck him? Has Israel been slain as his slayers were slain? 8 By measured exile, by sending her away, you contended with her; he drove her out with his harsh blast on the day the east wind blew. 9 So by this Jacob's iniquity will be atoned for, and this is the full result of removing his sin: when he makes all the altar stones like crumbled chalk, no Asherim or incense altars will be left standing. 10 For the fortified city stands alone, an empty settlement abandoned like the wilderness; calves graze there, they lie down there and strip its branches bare. 11 When its twigs dry out, they snap off, and women come and use them for kindling. For this is a people without discernment; so their Maker will have no compassion on them, and the one who formed them will show them no grace. 12 On that day the LORD will beat out the grain from the flowing River to the Brook of Egypt, and you, children of Israel, will be gathered up one by one. [13] On that day a great trumpet will sound, and those lost in the land of Assyria and those exiled in the land of Egypt will come and bow down to the LORD on the holy mountain in Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 28

[1] Woe to the haughty crown of Ephraim's drunkards, to the withering flower of its glorious splendor, set on the head of the fertile valley of men knocked flat by wine! [2] Look, the Lord has someone strong and mighty; like a hailstorm, a destructive gale, like a downpour of mighty, flooding waters, he will throw it to the ground by force. [3] The haughty crown of Ephraim's drunkards will be stamped underfoot, [4] and the withering flower of its glorious splendor, set on the head of the fertile valley, will be like an early fig before summer: whoever spots it swallows it the moment he has it in his hand. [5] On that day the LORD of hosts himself will be a glorious crown and a beautiful wreath for the remnant of his people, [6] a spirit of justice for the one who sits as judge, and strength for those who drive the battle back to the gate. [7] But these too stagger from wine and lurch from strong drink: priest and prophet stagger from strong drink and are befuddled by wine; they lurch from strong drink, they stagger while seeing visions, they totter when giving verdicts. [8] Every table is covered with vomit and filth; not a clean spot is left. [9] "Who is he trying to teach knowledge? To whom is he explaining his message? To children just weaned from milk, just taken from the breast? [10] For it is rule on rule, rule on rule, line on line, line on line, a little here, a little there."* [11] Very well, with stammering lips and in a foreign language he will speak to this people, [12] to whom he once said, "Here is rest; let the weary rest; here is a place of repose." But they would not listen. [13] So the word of the LORD to them will be rule on rule, rule on rule, line on line, line on line, a little here, a little there, so that they will go and fall backward, be injured, trapped and captured. [14] So listen to the word of the LORD, you mockers who govern this people in Jerusalem! [15] You say, "We have cut a covenant with death and made a pact with Sheol; when the overwhelming scourge sweeps by, it will not touch us, for we have made a lie our shelter and hidden ourselves behind falsehood." [16] So this is what the Lord GOD says: "Look, I am setting a stone in Zion as a foundation, a tested stone, a valuable cornerstone, firmly laid; whoever believes will not hurry away. [17] I will make justice the measuring line and righteousness the level; hail will wash away the shelter of lies, and water will flood the hiding place. [18] Your covenant with death will be canceled and your pact with Sheol will not hold; when the overwhelming scourge sweeps by, you will be beaten down by it. [19] Every time it sweeps by, it will carry you off; morning after morning it will pass through, by day and by night. Merely to understand the message will bring sheer terror." [20] The bed is too short to stretch out in, the blanket too narrow to wrap around you. [21] For the LORD will rise up as he did at Mount Perazim; he will rouse himself as in the Valley of Gibeon, to do his work, his strange work, and carry out his task, his unfamiliar task. [22] So stop your mocking, or your chains will be pulled tighter, for I have heard from the Lord GOD of hosts that destruction has been decided against the whole land. [23] Listen and hear my voice; pay attention and hear what I say. [24] Does the plowman keep on plowing every day to plant seed? Does he keep breaking up and harrowing his soil? [25] Once he has leveled the surface, does he not scatter dill, sow cumin, put wheat in its rows, barley in its plot, and spelt along its edges?* [26] His God teaches him the right way and instructs him. [27] Dill is not threshed with a sledge, nor is a cartwheel driven over cumin; dill is beaten out with a stick, and cumin with a rod. [28] Bread grain must be crushed, yet no one goes on threshing it forever; he drives his cartwheel and his horses over it, but he does not grind it to powder. [29] This too comes from the LORD of hosts, whose counsel is wonderful and whose wisdom is great.

CHAPTER 29

[1] Woe to Ariel, Ariel, the town where David camped! Add one year to another; let the festivals come round in turn.* [2] Then I will bring distress on Ariel; there will be mourning and lament, and she will be to me like an Ariel. [3] I will set up camp around you on every side; I will besiege you with towers and put up siege works against you. [4] Brought down low, you will speak from the ground, and your words will mumble up from the dust; your voice will come out of the earth like a ghost's, and your words will chirp from the dust. [5] But the horde of your enemies will become like fine dust, the horde of the ruthless like drifting chaff. And suddenly, in an instant, [6] the LORD of hosts will come to you with thunder, earthquake and a mighty roar, with whirlwind and storm and the flame of a consuming fire. [7] Then the horde of all the nations that make war on Ariel, all who attack her and her fortress and press her hard, will be like a dream, a vision in the night. [8] As a hungry man dreams he is eating but wakes up and is still empty, as a thirsty man dreams he is drinking but wakes up faint and still parched, so will it be for the horde of all the nations that make war on Mount Zion. [9] Stop and be amazed; blind yourselves and stay blind! They are drunk, but not from wine; they stagger, but not from strong drink. [10] For the LORD has poured over you a spirit of deep sleep; he has closed your eyes, the prophets, and covered your heads, the seers. [11] For you this whole vision is like the words of a sealed scroll. If you hand it to someone who can read and say, "Read this, please," he answers, "I can't; it is sealed." [12] And if you hand the scroll to someone who cannot read and say, "Read this, please," he answers, "I don't know how to read." [13] The Lord said: "These people come near with their mouths and honor me with their lips, but their hearts are far away from me; their fear of me is only a rule taught by men. [14] That is why I will once more amaze this people with wonder after wonder; the wisdom of their wise will vanish, and the insight of their clever will disappear." [15] Woe to those who go to great depths to hide their plans from the LORD, who do their work in the dark and say, "Who can see us? Who will know?" [16] You turn things upside down! Is the potter to be thought of as clay? Can the thing made say of its maker, "He did not make me"? Can the pot say of the potter, "He knows nothing"? [17] In just a very short time, will not Lebanon be turned into a fertile field, and the fertile field seem like a forest? [18] On that day the deaf will hear the words of a scroll, and out of gloom and darkness the eyes of the blind will see. [19] The humble will rejoice in the LORD more and more, and the needy among men will exult in the Holy One of Israel. [20] The ruthless will be gone, the mocker will disappear, and all who are eager to do wrong will be cut off, [21] those who with a word make a man out to be guilty, who set traps for the one who defends justice at the gate, and with empty arguments deny the innocent his rights. [22] So this is what the LORD, who redeemed Abraham, says about the house of Jacob: "Jacob will no longer be put to shame; his face will no longer turn pale. [23] When he sees his children among him, the work of my hands, they will keep my name holy; they will acknowledge the holiness of the Holy One of Jacob and stand in awe of the God of Israel. [24] Those who wander in spirit will gain understanding, and those who grumble will accept teaching."

CHAPTER 30

[1] "Woe to the rebellious children," declares the LORD, "who make plans that are not mine, who make an alliance not prompted by my Spirit, heaping sin upon sin; [] [2] who start off down to Egypt without consulting me, to seek safety under Pharaoh's protection and take shelter in Egypt's shade! [3] Pharaoh's protection will turn to your shame, and the shelter of Egypt's shade to your humiliation. [4] For his officials are at Zoan, and his envoys have arrived at Hanes. [5] Everyone will be put to shame because of a people who are useless to them, who bring no help or benefit, only shame and disgrace." [6] The oracle about the animals of the Negev. Through a land of hardship and distress, home of lioness and lion, of viper and flying fiery serpent, they carry their wealth on the backs of donkeys and their treasures on the humps of camels, to a people who can be of no use to them. [7] Egypt's help is useless and empty; that is why I have named her "Rahab who sits still." [] [8] Now go and write it on a tablet in their presence and record it in a scroll, so that it may stand for days to come, for all time and forever. [9] For these are a rebellious people, deceitful children, children unwilling to listen to the law of the LORD. [10] They say to the seers, "Stop seeing!" and to the visionaries, "Do not show us visions of what is right! Tell us pleasant things; give us visions of fantasies. [11] Get out of the way, turn off the path, and stop confronting us with the Holy One of Israel!" [12] So this is what the Holy One of Israel says: "Since you reject this word and rely on oppression and deceit and lean on them, [13] this iniquity will be for you like a crack in a high wall, bulging out and ready to fall, which crashes down suddenly, all at once. [14] It will shatter like a potter's jar, smashed so ruthlessly that not one fragment will be left among its pieces big enough to scoop embers from the hearth or dip water from a cistern." [15] This is what the Lord GOD, the Holy One of Israel, says: "In turning back and resting you will be saved; in quietness and trust lies your strength." But you would not have it. [16] You said, "No, we will escape on horses." So you will escape! "We will ride off on fast horses." So your pursuers will be fast! [17] A thousand of you will run at the threat of one; at the threat of five all of you will run, until you are left like a pole on top of a mountain, like a banner on a hill. [18] That is why the LORD waits to be gracious to you; that is why he rises up to have mercy on you. For the LORD is a God of justice; blessed are all who wait for him. [19] For a people will live in Zion, in Jerusalem; you will weep no more. He will surely show you grace at the sound of your cry; the moment he hears it, he will answer you. [20] Though the Lord gives you bread of hardship and water of oppression, your Teacher will no longer hide away; your own eyes will see your Teacher. [] [21] Whether you turn to the right or to the left, your ears will hear a voice behind you saying, "This is the way; walk in it." [22] Then you will treat as unclean your idols overlaid with silver and your images covered with gold; you will throw them away like a stained cloth and say to them, "Away with you!" [23] He will send rain for the seed you sow in the ground, and the food the ground produces will be rich and abundant. On that day your cattle will graze in wide pastures. [24] The oxen and donkeys that work the soil will eat salted fodder, winnowed with shovel and fork. [25] On every high mountain and every towering hill streams of water will flow, on the day of the great slaughter, when the towers fall. [26] The moonlight will be as bright as sunlight, and the sunlight will be seven times brighter, like the light of seven full days, on the day the LORD bandages his people's fractures and heals the wounds he inflicted. [27] Look, the name of the LORD is coming from far away, blazing with anger, with thick clouds of smoke rising; his lips are full of fury, his tongue like a consuming fire. [28] His breath is like a flooding river that rises up to the neck, to shake the nations in the sieve of destruction and put in the jaws of the peoples a bit that leads them astray. [] [29] You will sing as on the night when a holy festival is celebrated, and your hearts will be glad as when people go up with flutes to the mountain of the LORD, to the Rock of Israel. [30] The LORD will make his majestic voice heard and show his arm coming down in raging anger, in the flame of a consuming fire, with cloudburst, thunderstorm and hail. [31] The voice of the LORD will shatter Assyria; he will strike with the rod. [32] Every blow of the punishing rod that the LORD brings down on him will be accompanied by tambourines and harps, as he fights against them in battle with his arm swinging. [33] For Topheth was prepared long ago; it has been made ready for the king. Its pit has been made deep and wide, with plenty of fire and wood; the breath of the LORD, like a stream of burning sulfur, sets it ablaze.

CHAPTER 31

[1] Woe to those who go down to Egypt for help, who lean on horses and put their trust in chariots because there are so many of them and in horsemen because they are so strong, but do not turn their eyes to the Holy One of Israel or consult the LORD! [2] Yet he too is wise and can bring disaster; he does not take back his words. He will rise up against the house of the wicked and against those who help evildoers. [3] The Egyptians are human, not God; their horses are flesh, not spirit. When the LORD stretches out his hand, the helper will trip and the one he helps will fall; they will all come to an end together. [4] For this is what the LORD told me: "As a lion, a young lion, growls over its prey, and though a whole band of shepherds is called out against it, it is not frightened by their shouts or cowed by their uproar, so the LORD of hosts will come down to do battle on Mount Zion and on its hill. [5] Like birds hovering overhead, the LORD of hosts will shield Jerusalem; he will shield it and rescue it, pass over it and set it free." [6] Turn back to the one against whom the children of Israel have rebelled so deeply. [7] For on that day every one of you will throw away the silver idols and gold idols that your sinful hands have made for you. [8] "Assyria will fall by a sword that is not of man; a sword not of mortals will devour him. He will run from the sword, and his young men will be put to forced labor. [9] His stronghold will collapse in terror, and his officers will panic at the sight of the banner," declares the LORD, whose fire is in Zion and whose furnace is in Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 32

[1] Look, a king will reign with righteousness, and princes will govern with justice. [2] Each one will be like a shelter from the wind and a refuge from the storm, like streams of water in a dry land, like the shadow of a massive rock in a parched country. [3] The eyes of those who see will no longer be shut, and the ears of those who hear will pay attention. [4] The mind of the rash will grasp knowledge, and the tongue of those who stammer will speak quickly and plainly. [5] No longer will the fool be called noble or the scoundrel be thought of as honorable. [6] For the fool speaks foolishness, and his mind plots wickedness: to act godlessly, to spread error about the LORD, to leave the hungry empty and keep water from the thirsty. [7] The scoundrel's methods are wicked; he invents evil schemes to destroy the poor with lies, even when the needy one's cause is just. [8] But the noble man makes noble plans, and he stands firm by noble deeds. [9] You women who live at ease, get up and listen to my voice! You daughters who feel so secure, hear what I say! [10] In little more than a year you who feel so secure will shudder, for the grape harvest will fail and the fruit harvest will not come. [11] Tremble, you women at ease; shudder, you who feel secure! Strip off your clothes, bare yourselves and put sackcloth around your waists. [12] Beat your breasts over the pleasant fields and the fruitful vines,* [13] over my people's land, overgrown with thorns and briers, yes, over all the houses of merriment in the reveling city. [14] The palace will be deserted and the noisy city abandoned; citadel and watchtower will become caves forever, a delight for wild donkeys and a pasture for flocks, [15] until the Spirit is poured out on us from above, and the desert becomes a fertile field, and the fertile field seems like a forest. [16] Then justice will live in the desert, and righteousness will make its home in the fertile field. [17] Righteousness will produce peace, and the result of righteousness will be quiet and security forever. [18] My people will live in peaceful pastures, in secure homes, in undisturbed places of rest. [19] But hail will come down on the forest, and the city will be brought utterly low. [20] Blessed are you who sow your seed by every stream and let the ox and the donkey roam free!

CHAPTER 33

[1] Woe to you, destroyer, though you yourself have not been destroyed; woe to you, betrayer, though no one has betrayed you! When you finish destroying, you will be destroyed; when you are done betraying, you will be betrayed. [2] LORD, show us grace; we have waited for you. Be their arm every morning, our salvation in time of trouble. [3] At the noise of the uproar the peoples run away; when you rise up, the nations scatter. [4] Your plunder is gathered up as caterpillars strip a field; people swarm over it like locusts. [5] The LORD is exalted, for he lives on high; he has filled Zion with justice and righteousness. [6] He will be the security of your times, a rich store of salvation, wisdom and knowledge; the fear of the LORD is his treasure. [7] Listen, their heroes cry aloud in the streets; the messengers of peace weep bitter tears. [8] The highways are deserted; no travelers are on the roads. He has broken the covenant, he despises the cities, he has no regard for anyone. [9] The land dries up and wastes away; Lebanon is shamed and decays; Sharon has become like the Arabah, and Bashan and Carmel drop their leaves. [10] "Now I will rise up," says the LORD. "Now I will lift myself up; now I will be exalted. [11] You are pregnant with chaff and give birth to straw; your own breath is a fire that will eat you up. [12] The peoples will be burned down to lime, like cut thorns thrown into the fire. [13] You who are far away, hear what I have done; you who are near, recognize my power!" [14] The sinners in Zion are terrified; trembling grips the godless: "Which of us can live with the consuming fire? Which of us can live with everlasting flames?" [15] The one who walks in righteousness and speaks what is right, who rejects profit gained by extortion, who keeps his hands from taking a bribe, who blocks his ears so as not to hear of bloodshed and closes his eyes so as not to look at evil, [16] that man will live on the heights; mountain fortresses will be his refuge; he will be given his bread, and his water will never fail. [17] Your eyes will see the king in his splendor and look on a land that stretches into the distance. [18] Your mind will think back on the terror: "Where is the one who counted? Where is the one who weighed the tribute? Where is the one who took stock of the towers?"* [19] You will no longer see that arrogant people, a people whose speech is too hard to make out, whose stammering language no one understands. [20] Look at Zion, the city of our festivals! Your eyes will see Jerusalem, an untroubled home, a tent that will never be moved; its stakes will never be pulled up, and not one of its ropes will be snapped. [21] There the LORD will be our mighty one, a place of wide rivers and streams where no galley with oars will go and no stately ship will sail. [22] For the LORD is our judge, the LORD is our lawgiver, the LORD is our king; he is the one who will save us. [23] Your rigging hangs slack; it cannot hold the mast in its socket or keep the sail spread. Then a great amount of plunder will be divided; even the lame will carry off loot.* [24] No one living there will say, "I am sick"; the people who live there will have their iniquity forgiven.

CHAPTER 34

[1] Draw near, nations, and hear; peoples, pay attention! Let the earth and everything in it listen, the world and all that springs from it. [2] For the LORD's anger is against all the nations, and his rage against all their armies; he has devoted them to destruction, he has handed them over for slaughter. [3] Their slain will be flung out, the stench of their corpses will go up, and the mountains will dissolve with their blood. [4] The whole host of the heavens will rot away, and the heavens will roll up like a scroll; all their host will wither, as foliage withers from the vine, like shriveled fruit from the fig tree. [5] For my sword has drunk its fill in the heavens; see, it comes down upon Edom, upon the people I have devoted to destruction, for judgment. [6] The LORD has a sword; it is filled with blood, greasy with fat, with the blood of lambs and goats, with the fat of rams' kidneys. For the LORD has a sacrifice in Bozrah, a vast slaughter in the land of Edom. [7] Wild oxen will go down along with them, young bulls together with mighty bulls; their land will drink its fill of blood, and their dust will be fattened with fat.* [8] For the LORD has a day of vengeance, a year of repayment for Zion's cause. [9] Its torrents will be changed into pitch, its dust into sulfur, and its land will turn into burning pitch. [10] Night and day it will not go out; its smoke will rise forever. Generation after generation it will lie desolate; for ages upon ages no one will pass through it. [11] The pelican and the hedgehog will take it over, the owl and the raven will make their home in it. He will stretch over it the measuring line of chaos and the plumb stones of emptiness.* [12] As for its nobles, nothing will be left there for them to call a kingdom, and all its princes will come to nothing. [13] Thorns will spring up in its fortified palaces, nettles and brambles in its strongholds; it will become a lair for jackals, a home for ostriches.* [14] Desert creatures will meet up with hyenas, and the wild goat will call out to its companion; there too the night creature will settle down and find itself a place to rest.* [15] There the owl will build her nest, lay her eggs, hatch them and gather her brood under her shade; there too the kites will flock together, each with its mate. [16] Look in the book of the LORD and read: not one of these will be lacking, not one will be without her mate. For my mouth has given the command, and his Spirit has gathered them.* [17] He himself has cast the lot for them, and his hand has divided it out to them by the line. They will hold it as their own forever; generation after generation they will live in it.

CHAPTER 35

[1] The wilderness and the parched land will be glad because of them; the desert will rejoice and burst into bloom like the crocus.* [2] It will blossom profusely and rejoice, yes, with rejoicing and glad shouts. The glory of Lebanon will be granted to it, the splendor of Carmel and Sharon. They will see the glory of the LORD, the splendor of our God. [3] Make the slack hands strong, and steady the knees that give way. [4] Tell those whose hearts are racing, "Be strong, have no fear. See, your God! Vengeance is coming, God's repayment; he himself is coming to save you." [5] Then blind eyes will be opened, and deaf ears unsealed. [6] Then the lame will leap like a deer, and the mute tongue will shout for joy; for water will burst out in the wilderness, and torrents in the desert. [7] The scorching sand will turn into a pool, and the thirsty ground into springs of water; in the jackals' lair, where they lay down, grass will give way to reeds and papyrus. [8] A highway will be there, a road, and it will be named the Way of Holiness; nothing unclean will travel on it. It will be theirs; those who walk the road, even fools, will not lose their way. [9] No lion will be there, no violent beast will climb onto it; none will be found there. But the redeemed will walk on it. [10] The ransomed of the LORD will come back and enter Zion with shouts of joy, everlasting gladness crowning their heads; joy and gladness will overtake them, and sorrow and sighing will run away.

CHAPTER 36

[1] In King Hezekiah's fourteenth year, Sennacherib king of Assyria attacked all the fortified towns of Judah and seized them. [2] From Lachish the king of Assyria sent the Rabshakeh with a large army to King Hezekiah at Jerusalem. He took up a position by the channel of the upper pool, on the road to the Launderer's Field.* [3] Eliakim son of Hilkiah, the palace administrator, Shebna the scribe and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder, went out to him. [4] The Rabshakeh told them, "Tell Hezekiah: 'This is what the great king, the king of Assyria, says: What is this confidence you are trusting in? [5] I say that your plan and strength for war are only empty talk. Whom are you trusting in, that you have rebelled against me? [6] Look, you are trusting in Egypt, that splintered reed of a staff, which pierces the hand of anyone who leans on it and goes right through it. That is what Pharaoh king of Egypt is to all who trust in him. [7] And if you tell me, "We trust in the LORD our God," is he not the one whose high places and altars Hezekiah removed, telling Judah and Jerusalem, "You must worship before this altar"? [8] Come now, make a bargain with my master the king of Assyria: I will give you two thousand horses, if you can put riders on them! [9] How then could you drive back a single officer, even the least of my master's servants, while you trust in Egypt for chariots and horsemen? [10] Besides, have I come up to attack and destroy this land without the LORD? The LORD himself told me, "March up against this land and destroy it."'" [11] Then Eliakim, Shebna and Joah told the Rabshakeh, "Please speak to your servants in Aramaic, since we understand it. Do not speak to us in Judean where the people on the wall can hear." [12] But the Rabshakeh replied, "Was it only to your master and to you that my master sent me to say these things? Was it not to the men sitting on the wall, who, like you, will have to eat their own dung and drink their own urine?"* [13] Then the Rabshakeh stood and shouted in Judean, "Hear the words of the great king, the king of Assyria! [14] This is what the king says: 'Do not let Hezekiah fool you. He cannot rescue you. [15] Do not let Hezekiah persuade you to trust in the LORD by saying, "The LORD will certainly rescue us; this city will not be handed over to the king of Assyria."' [16] Do not listen to Hezekiah! This is what the king of Assyria says: 'Make your peace with me and come out to me. Then every one of you will eat from his own vine and his own fig tree and drink water from his own cistern, [17] until I come and take you to a land like yours, a land of grain and new wine, a land of bread and vineyards. [18] Do not let Hezekiah mislead you by saying, "The LORD will rescue us." Has the god of any nation rescued his land from the power of the king of Assyria? [19] Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim? Did they rescue Samaria from my hand? [20] Which of all the gods of these lands has rescued his land from my hand? How then could the LORD rescue Jerusalem from my hand?'" [21] But they kept quiet and said not a word in reply, because the king had ordered, "Do not answer him." [22] Then Eliakim son of Hilkiah, the palace administrator, Shebna the scribe and Joah son of Asaph, the recorder, went to Hezekiah with their clothes torn and reported to him what the Rabshakeh had said.

CHAPTER 37

[1] As soon as King Hezekiah heard this, he tore his clothes, put on sackcloth and went into the LORD's house. [2] He sent Eliakim the palace administrator, Shebna the scribe and the senior priests, all wearing sackcloth, to the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz. [3] They told him, "This is what Hezekiah says: 'Today is a day of trouble, of rebuke and of disgrace. Children have come to the moment of birth, and there is no strength to deliver them. [4] Perhaps the LORD your God will hear the words of the Rabshakeh, whom his master the king of Assyria sent to mock the living God, and will punish him for the words the LORD your God has heard. So offer a prayer for the remnant that still survives.'" [5] When King Hezekiah's servants came to Isaiah, [6] Isaiah told them, "Tell your master this: 'This is what the LORD says: Do not be afraid because of what you have heard, the words with which the king of Assyria's underlings have reviled me. [7] See, I am going to put a spirit in him so that he will hear a rumor and go back to his own country, and there in his own country I will cut him down with the sword.'" [8] The Rabshakeh went back and found the king of Assyria attacking Libnah, having heard that the king had moved on from Lachish. [9] Then the king received word about Tirhakah king of Cush: "He has set out to fight against you." When he heard it, he sent messengers to Hezekiah with this message: [10] "Say this to Hezekiah king of Judah: 'Do not let your God, in whom you trust, mislead you by promising that Jerusalem will not be handed over to the king of Assyria. [11] See, you have heard for yourself what the kings of Assyria have done to all the countries, devoting them to destruction. And will you be rescued? [12] Did the gods of the nations my fathers destroyed rescue them, the gods of Gozan, Haran, Rezeph and the people of Eden in Telassar? [13] Where now is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, the king of the city of Sepharvaim, or of Hena or Ivvah?'" [14] Hezekiah took the letter from the messengers and read it. Then he went up to the LORD's house and spread it out in the LORD's presence. [15] And Hezekiah prayed to the LORD: [16] "LORD of hosts, God of Israel, enthroned above the cherubim, you alone are God over all the kingdoms of the earth. You made the heavens and the earth. [17] Turn your ear, LORD, and listen; open your eyes, LORD, and look. Hear all the words Sennacherib has sent to mock the living God. [18] It is true, LORD, that the kings of Assyria have devastated all the countries and their lands. [19] They have thrown their gods into the fire, for they were no gods at all, only the work of men's hands, wood and stone; and so they destroyed them. [20] Now, LORD our God, rescue us from his power, so that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that you alone are the LORD." [21] Then Isaiah son of Amoz sent word to Hezekiah: "This is what the LORD, the God of Israel, says: Because you have prayed to me concerning Sennacherib king of Assyria, [22] this is the word the LORD has spoken against him: 'The virgin daughter of Zion looks down on you and laughs you to scorn; the daughter of Jerusalem tosses her head behind your back. [23] Whom have you mocked and reviled? Against whom have you raised your voice and lifted your eyes so high? Against the Holy One of Israel! [24] Through your servants you have mocked the Lord. You have said, "With my many chariots I have climbed the mountain heights, the remotest parts of Lebanon. I will fell its tallest cedars and its finest cypresses. I will reach its most distant height, its richest forest. [25] I have dug wells and drunk water, and with the soles of my feet I have dried up all the streams of Egypt."* [26] Have you not heard? Long ago I ordained it; in days of old I planned it, and now I have brought it about, that you should turn fortified cities into piles of rubble. [27] Their people, drained of power, were dismayed and ashamed. They were like plants in the field, like tender green shoots, like grass on the rooftops, like a field scorched before the grain grows up. [28] I know when you sit and when you go out and come in, and how you rage against me. [29] Because you rage against me and your arrogance has reached my ears, I will put my hook in your nose and my bit in your mouth, and I will make you go back by the road you came.' [30] This will be the sign for you: This year you will eat what grows on its own, and next year what springs up from that. But in the third year sow and reap, plant vineyards and eat their fruit. [31] Once more the surviving remnant of the house of Judah will take root below and bear fruit above. [32] For from Jerusalem a remnant will go out, and from Mount Zion a band of survivors. The zeal of the LORD of hosts will accomplish this. [33] So this is what the LORD says about the king of Assyria: He will not enter this city or shoot an arrow here. He will not come before it with a shield or build a siege ramp against it. [34] He will go back by the road he came, and he will not enter this city, declares the LORD. [35] I will shield this city and save it, for my own sake and for the sake of my servant David." [36] Then the angel of the LORD went out and struck down a hundred and eighty-five thousand men in the Assyrian camp. When the people got up early the next morning, there were all the dead bodies! [37] So Sennacherib king of Assyria broke camp and withdrew. He went home and stayed in Nineveh. [38] One day, while he was worshiping in the temple of his god Nisroch, his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer cut him down with the sword and escaped to the land of Ararat. His son Esarhaddon became king in his place.*

CHAPTER 38

1 In those days Hezekiah fell ill and was near death. The prophet Isaiah son of Amoz came to him and told him, "This is what the LORD says: Give final instructions to your household, for you are dying; you will not live." 2 Hezekiah turned his face toward the wall and prayed to the LORD. 3 He said, "I beg you, LORD, please remember how I have walked before you faithfully and with an undivided heart, and how I have done what is good in your eyes." And Hezekiah wept with great weeping. 4 Then the word of the LORD came to Isaiah: 5 "Go and tell Hezekiah,
'This is what the LORD, the God of your father David, says: I have heard your prayer, I have seen your tears. See, I am adding fifteen years to your days. 6 I will rescue you and this city from the grasp of the king of Assyria, and I will shield this city. 7 And this will be your sign from the LORD that the LORD will do what he has promised: 8 See, I am going to make the shadow on the steps of Ahaz, which has gone down with the sun, turn back ten steps.'" So the sun turned back ten steps on the steps it had gone down.* 9 A writing by Hezekiah king of Judah when he had been ill and had come through his illness: 10 I said, "In the middle of my days I must go off through the gates of Sheol; I am robbed of the remainder of my years." 11 I said, "I will not see the LORD, the LORD in the land of the living; I will no longer look on any human being among those who dwell in the place where all has ceased.* 12 My home is pulled up and carried away from me like a shepherd's tent; I have rolled up my life like a weaver;
he cuts me loose from the loom. Between day and night you make an end of me. 13 I lay still until morning; like a lion he crushes all my bones. Between day and night you make an end of me. 14 Like a swift or a crane I twitter, I moan like a dove; my eyes are worn out from gazing on high. Lord, I am hard pressed; stand surety for me!* 15 What am I to say? He has spoken to me, and he himself has acted. I will go softly all my years because of the bitterness of my soul. 16 Lord, by such things people live, and in all of them is my spirit's life. Restore me to health and keep me alive! 17 See, my bitter, bitter grief was for my welfare; you in your love have held my life back from the pit of ruin, for you have thrown all my sins behind your back. 18 For Sheol does not give you thanks, death does not praise you; those who go down to the pit do not hope in your faithfulness. 19 The living, only the living, give you thanks, as I do today; fathers tell their children about your faithfulness. 20 The LORD is there to save me, so we will play my songs on strings all the days of our life at the house of the LORD." 21 Now Isaiah had said, "Have them take a cake of figs and rub it on the boil, so that he may live." 22 And Hezekiah had asked, "What is the sign that I will go up to the house of the LORD?"

CHAPTER 39

1 At that time Merodach-baladan son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a gift to Hezekiah, having heard that he had been ill and had regained his strength. 2 Hezekiah was delighted with the envoys and showed them his treasure house:
the silver and the gold, the spices and the fine oil, his entire armory and everything to be found in his storerooms. There was nothing in his palace or in all his domain that Hezekiah did not show them. 3 Then the prophet Isaiah came to King Hezekiah and asked him, "What did these men say, and where have they come to you from?" Hezekiah answered, "They came to me from a distant land, from Babylon." 4 He asked, "What did they see in your house?" Hezekiah said, "They saw everything in my house; there is nothing in my storerooms that I did not show them." 5 Then Isaiah told Hezekiah, "Listen to the word of the LORD of hosts: 6 See, days are coming when everything in your house, and all that your fathers have stored up until this day, will be carried off to Babylon; not a thing will remain, says the LORD. 7 And some of your own descendants, who will come from you and whom you will father, will be taken away, and they will serve as eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon." 8 Hezekiah said to Isaiah, "The word of the LORD that you have spoken is good." For he thought, "There will be peace and security in my lifetime."*

CHAPTER 40

1 "Comfort, comfort my people," says your God. 2 "Speak tenderly to Jerusalem and call out to her that her hard service is over, that her iniquity has been paid off, that she has received from the LORD's hand double for all her sins." 3 A voice cries:
"In the wilderness prepare the way of the LORD; make straight in the desert a highway for our God.* 4 Every valley will be raised, and every mountain and hill brought down; the uneven ground will become flat, and the rugged places a plain. 5 Then the glory of the LORD will be revealed, and all flesh together will see it, for the mouth of the LORD has spoken." 6 A voice says, "Call out!" And he said, "What am I to call out?" All flesh is grass, and all its beauty is like the wildflower.* 7 Grass dries up, the flower withers, when the breath of the LORD blows on it; the people are indeed grass. 8 Grass dries up, the flower withers, but the word of our God stands forever. 9 Climb up on a high mountain, O Zion, herald of good news; raise your voice with power, O Jerusalem, herald of good news; raise it, have no fear; tell the cities of Judah, "See, your God!"* 10 See, the Lord GOD is coming in strength, and his arm rules on his behalf; see, his reward is with him, and his recompense goes ahead of him. 11
Like a shepherd he will pasture his flock; he will gather the lambs in his arms and carry them close to his heart, and he will guide the ewes that are nursing. 12 Who has measured the waters in the hollow of his hand, and marked off the heavens by the span, and taken the dust of the earth in a measuring bowl, and weighed the mountains on a scale and the hills in a pair of balances? 13 Who has gauged the Spirit of the LORD, or as his adviser taught him anything? 14 Whom did he consult so that he would gain insight?
Who instructed him in the path of justice, taught him knowledge, and made known to him the way of understanding?
15 Look, the nations are like a drop from a bucket, and they count as the dust on a scale; look, he picks up the coastlands like fine powder. [16] Lebanon would not suffice for fuel, nor its animals suffice for a burnt offering. [17] All the nations are as nothing before him; he counts them as less than nothing and void. [18] To whom, then, will you compare God? What image will you set beside him? [19] The idol? A craftsman casts it, a smith plates it with gold and forges silver chains for it. [20] The one too poor for such a contribution chooses a piece of wood that will not rot; he looks for a skilled craftsman to set up an idol that will not wobble. [21] Do you not know? Do you not hear? Has it not been declared to you from the beginning? Have you not grasped it since the earth was founded? [22] He is the one who sits enthroned above the circle of the earth, and its inhabitants are like grasshoppers; he stretches out the heavens like a veil and spreads them out like a tent to live in. [23] He reduces rulers to nothing and makes the judges of the earth into emptiness. [24] They are hardly planted, hardly sown, their stalk has hardly rooted in the ground, when he blows on them and they dry up, and a gale sweeps them away like straw. [25] "To whom, then, will you compare me, that I should be his equal?" says the Holy One. [26] Raise your eyes upward and look: who created these? He who leads out their host by number and calls each of them by name; because his might is so great and his power so strong, not one is missing. [27] Why do you say, Jacob, and why do you declare, Israel, "My way is hidden from the LORD, and my right is ignored by my God"? [28] Do you not know? Have you not heard? The LORD is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth. He does not grow tired or weary; his understanding cannot be fathomed. [29] He gives strength to the weary and multiplies power for those who have no vigor. [30] Young men may grow tired and weary, and choice youths may stumble and fall, [31] but those who wait for the LORD will gain new strength; they will rise up on wings like eagles; they will run and not grow weary, they will walk and not grow tired.

CHAPTER 41

[1] Be silent before me, coastlands, and let the peoples gather fresh strength; let them come near, then let them speak; together let us approach for judgment. [2] Who has roused one from the east and called him in righteousness to follow at his feet? He hands over nations to him and makes him tread down kings; his sword turns them to dust, his bow to wind-blown chaff.* [3] He chases them and moves on unharmed, along a road his feet have never trodden. [4] Who has worked and accomplished this, summoning the generations from the start? I, the LORD, am the first, and with the last ones I am he. [5] The coastlands saw it and took fright; the ends of the earth are trembling; they have come near and arrived. [6] They help one another, and each says to his brother, "Courage!" [7] The craftsman cheers on the smith, the one who smooths with the hammer cheers on the one who pounds the anvil, saying of the soldering, "It is good," and he fixes it firm with nails so that it will not wobble. [8] But you, Israel, my servant, Jacob, whom I have chosen, offspring of Abraham my friend, [9] you whom I grasped from the ends of the earth and summoned from its remotest parts, and to whom I said, "You are my servant; I chose you and have not rejected you": [10] have no fear, for I am with you; do not look around in alarm, for I am your God. I make you strong, yes, I help you, yes, I hold you up with my righteous right hand. [11] See, all who rage against you will be shamed and humiliated; those who quarrel with you will become as nothing and perish. [12] You will look for the men who quarrel with you and not find them; the men who make war on you will be as nothing, as nothing at all. [13] For I am the LORD your God, who grasps your right hand, who says to you, "Have no fear; I myself will help you." [14] Have no fear, worm Jacob, you men of Israel; I myself will help you, declares the LORD; your Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel. [15] See, I am making you into a threshing sledge, sharp and new, with many teeth; you will thresh mountains and pulverize them, and turn hills into chaff. [16] You will winnow them, the wind will carry them off, and the gale will scatter them; but you will rejoice in the LORD, you will boast in the Holy One of Israel. [17] The poor and the needy look for water and there is none; their tongues are parched with thirst. I, the LORD, will answer them; I, the God of Israel, will not abandon them. [18] I will open up rivers on the bare hills, and springs in the middle of the valleys; I will turn the wilderness into a pool of water, and dry land into flowing springs. [19] I will plant in the wilderness the cedar, the acacia, the myrtle and the olive; I will set in the desert the cypress, the elm and the box tree side by side,* [20] so that people may see and know, may take note and comprehend together, that the LORD's hand has done this, that the Holy One of Israel has created it. [21] Bring in your case, says the LORD; put forward your arguments, says the King of Jacob. [22] Let them bring them in and tell us what is going to happen. The earlier things, what were they? Tell us, so that we may take them to heart and know how they turned out; or announce to us the things to come. [23] Tell us what is coming later on, so that we may know that you are gods. Yes, do something good or do harm, so that we may stare in alarm and see it together. [24] See, you are less than nothing, and what you do is worth nothing; whoever chooses you is an abomination. [25] I roused one from the north, and he has come, from the sunrise, one who will call on my name; he will come upon rulers as if they were mud, as a potter tramples clay. [26] Who announced it from the beginning, so that we could know, or long before, so that we could say, "He is right"? No one announced it, no one made it heard, no one heard a word from you. [27] I was first to tell Zion, "Look, here they are!" and to Jerusalem I give a bearer of good news. [28] But when I look, there is no one; among them there is no counselor who could give an answer when I question them. [29] See, they are all a sham; their deeds amount to nothing; their cast images are wind and empty air.

CHAPTER 42

[1] Behold, my servant, whom I hold up, my chosen one, in whom my soul delights; I have put my Spirit on him; he will carry justice out to the nations. [2] He will not shout or raise his voice, nor let it be heard in the street. [3] A crushed reed he will not snap off, and a faintly glowing wick he will not put out; faithfully he will bring out justice. [4] He will not burn dim or be crushed until he has set justice in place on the earth; and the coastlands will wait for his law. [5] This is what God, the LORD, says, who created the heavens and stretched them out, who spread out the earth and all that springs from it, who gives breath to the people on it and spirit to those who walk upon it: [6] "I, the LORD, have called you in righteousness; I will grasp you by the hand and guard you, and I will make you a covenant for the people, a light for the nations, [7] to open the eyes that are blind, to lead captives out of the dungeon, and out of the prison those who sit in darkness. [8] I am the LORD; that is my name. My glory I will not hand over to another, nor my praise to carved images. [9] See, the earlier things have come about, and now I announce new ones; before they sprout up I let you hear of them." [10] Sing a new song to the LORD, his praise from the end of the earth, you who go down to the sea and all that is in it, you coastlands and those who live there. [11] Let the wilderness and its towns raise their voices, the settlements where Kedar lives; let the inhabitants of Sela shout for joy, let them call out from the mountaintops. [12] Let them give the LORD glory and proclaim his praise in the coastlands. [13] The LORD marches out like a hero; like a warrior he rouses his zeal. He gives a shout, yes, he raises the battle cry; over his enemies he prevails. [14] "I have kept silent for a long time;

I have stayed quiet and held myself back. Now, like a woman giving birth, I will groan, I will gasp and pant at once. [15] I will lay waste mountains and hills and dry up all their greenery; I will turn rivers into islands and dry up the pools. [16] I will lead the blind along a road they do not know; on paths they have not known I will guide them. I will make the darkness ahead of them into light and the rough places into level ground. These are the things I will do for them, and I will not leave them. [17] Those who trust in carved idols, who tell cast images, 'You are our gods,' will be driven back in utter shame. [18] Listen, you deaf! You blind, look up and see! [19] Who is blind but my servant, or deaf like the messenger I send? Who is blind like the one at peace with me, blind like the servant of the LORD?* [20] You have seen much, but you pay no heed; his ears are open, yet he does not listen."* [21] The LORD was pleased, for his righteousness' sake, to make the law great and glorious. [22] Yet this is a people robbed and plundered, all of them snared in holes and shut away in prisons; they have become loot with no one to rescue them, plunder with no one to say, "Give it back!" [23] Which of you will listen to this, pay attention and hear from now on? [24] Who handed Jacob over for plunder and Israel to the robbers? Was it not the LORD, against whom we have sinned? They would not walk in his ways, nor would they listen to his law. [25] So he poured out on him the fury of his anger and the violence of war; it set him ablaze all around, yet he did not understand; it burned him, yet he gave it no thought.

CHAPTER 43

[1] But now this is what the LORD says, he who created you, Jacob, he who shaped you, Israel: "Have no fear, for I have redeemed you; I have called you by your name; you belong to me. [2] When you cross through the waters, I will be with you; when you cross the rivers, they will not sweep over you. When you walk through fire, you will not be scorched, and the flame will not set you alight. [3] For I am the LORD your God, the Holy
One of Israel, your Savior. I hand over Egypt as your ransom, Cush and Seba in exchange for you. [4] Because you are precious in my sight, you are honored and I love you, I hand over people in exchange for you, and nations in return for your life. [5] Have no fear, for I am with you; from the east I will bring your offspring, and from the west I will gather you. [6] I will tell the north, 'Hand them over!' and the south, 'Do not hold them back! Bring my sons from far away and my daughters from the end of the earth, [7] everyone who bears my name, whom I created for my glory, whom I shaped, yes, whom I made.'" [8] Lead out the people who are blind though they have eyes, who are deaf though they have ears. [9] All the nations have assembled together, and the peoples have gathered. Which of them can announce this and let us hear the former things? Let them produce their witnesses to prove them right, or let them listen and say, "That is true." [10] "You are my witnesses," declares the LORD, "you and my servant whom I have chosen, so that you may know and trust me and grasp that I am he. Before me no god was formed, and after me there will be none. [11] I, I am the LORD, and apart from me there is no savior.
[12] It was I who announced and saved and made it heard, and there was no foreign god among you. You are my witnesses," declares the LORD, "and I am God. [13] From the first day on I am he; no one can snatch anything from my hand. When I act, who can turn it back?" [14] This is what the LORD says, your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: "For your sake I send to Babylon and bring all of them down as fugitives, the Chaldeans in the ships in which they rejoiced.* [15] I am the LORD, your Holy One, Israel's Creator, your King." [16] This is what the LORD says, who opened a way through the sea and a path through the mighty waters, [17] who led out chariot and horse, army and strong man together; they lay down and did not get up again, they were snuffed out, put out like a wick: [18] "Do not dwell on the earlier things, and pay no attention to what is long past. [19] See, I am doing something new; even now it is sprouting up; do you not recognize it? I will make a road in the wilderness and rivers in the wasteland. [20] The wild animals will honor me, the jackals and the ostriches, because I put water in the wilderness, rivers in the wasteland, to give drink to my people, my chosen, [21] the people I shaped for myself so that they would recount my praise. [22] Yet it is not me you have called on, Jacob; rather, you have grown tired of me, Israel. [23] You have not brought me sheep for your burnt offerings, nor honored me with your sacrifices. I have not loaded you down with grain offerings, nor tired you out with frankincense. [24] You have not bought me fragrant cane with silver, nor filled me with the fat of your sacrifices. Instead you have loaded me down with your sins, you have tired me out with your iniquities. [25] I, I am the one who wipes out your transgressions for my own sake, and your sins I will not remember. [26] Remind me, let us go to court together;
you state your case, so that you may be proved in the right. [27]

Your first father sinned, and your spokesmen rebelled against me. [28] So I will defile the princes of the sanctuary, and I will hand Jacob over to destruction and Israel to scorn."

CHAPTER 44

[1] "But now listen, Jacob my servant, Israel whom I have chosen. [2] This is what the LORD says, who made you and shaped you from the womb, who will help you: Have no fear, Jacob my servant, Jeshurun whom I have chosen.* [3] For I will pour water on the thirsty ground and streams on the dry land; I will pour out my Spirit on your offspring and my blessing on your descendants. [4] They will shoot up among the grass like poplars beside channels of water. [5] One will say, 'I belong to the LORD'; another will call on the name of Jacob; another will write on his hand, 'The LORD's,' and will take up the name of Israel." [6] This is what the LORD says, the King of Israel and his Redeemer, the LORD of hosts: "I am the first and I am the last, and apart from me there is no God. [7] Who is like me? Let him call it out, let him announce it and lay it out before me, from the time I set up the ancient people; let them announce what is coming and what is still to come. [8] Do not be in dread and do not be afraid. Did I not let you hear it long ago and announce it? You are my witnesses. Is there any God apart from me? There is no Rock; I know of none." [9] Those who shape idols are all of them nothing, and the things they treasure are of no use; their witnesses neither see nor know, so they will be put to shame. [10] Who would shape a god or cast an idol that is of no use at all? [11] See, all who join in it will be put to shame; the craftsmen are mere humans. Let them all assemble and take their stand; they will be in dread and put to shame together. [12] The ironworker takes a tool and works over the coals; he shapes the idol with hammers and works it with his strong arm. He gets hungry and his strength gives out; he drinks no water and grows tired. [13] The woodworker stretches out a line and outlines it with a marker; he works it with chisels and outlines it with a compass. He makes it in the shape of a man, with human beauty, to sit in a shrine. [14] He goes out to cut down cedars, or he takes a cypress or an oak and lets it grow sturdy among the trees of the forest; he plants a laurel, and the rain makes it grow. [15] Then it serves people for fuel; he takes some of it and warms himself, he lights a fire and bakes bread. He also makes a god of it and bows down; he makes it into an idol and falls down before it. [16] Half of it he burns in the fire; over that half he eats meat, he roasts a roast and has his fill. He also warms himself and says, "Ah, I am warm, I can see the blaze!" [17] And from the rest he makes a god, his idol; he falls down before it and bows low, he prays to it and says, "Save me, for you are my god!" [18] They do not know or understand, for their eyes are smeared over so that they cannot see, and their hearts so that they cannot grasp. [19] No one stops to think, no one has the knowledge or sense to say, "Half of it I burned in the fire; I even baked bread on its coals and roasted meat and ate it. Am I to make what is left into an abomination? Am I to bow down to a lump of wood?" [20] He feeds on ashes; a deceived heart has misled him, and he cannot rescue himself or say, "Is not this thing in my right hand a lie?" [21] Keep these things in mind, Jacob, and you, Israel, for you are my servant. I shaped you; you are a servant to me. Israel, I will not forget you. [22] I have wiped away your transgressions like a cloud bank, your sins like a mist. Come back to me, for I have redeemed you. [23] Shout for joy, you heavens, for the LORD has acted; shout aloud, you depths of the earth! Burst into song, you mountains, you forest and every tree in it! For the LORD has redeemed Jacob, and he will show his glory in Israel. [24] This is what the LORD says, your Redeemer, who shaped you from the womb: "I am the LORD, the maker of everything, who stretched out the heavens alone, who spread out the earth by myself,* [25] who foils the omens of babblers and makes fools of diviners, who sends the wise into retreat and turns their knowledge into folly, [26] who makes the word of his servant come true and carries out the plan of his messengers, who says of Jerusalem, 'She will be lived in,' and of the towns of Judah, 'They will be rebuilt, and I will raise up their ruins'; [27] who says to the deep, 'Dry up! I will make your rivers dry'; [28] who says of Cyrus, 'He is my shepherd, and he will carry out everything I wish,' saying of Jerusalem, 'Let her be rebuilt,' and of the temple, 'Let your foundations be laid.'"

CHAPTER 45

[1] This is what the LORD says to his anointed, to Cyrus, whose right hand I have gripped, to beat down nations before him and to strip the belts from the waists of kings, to open doors ahead of him so that gates will not stay shut: [2] "I myself will go ahead of you and flatten the hill country; I will smash the bronze doors and hack through the iron bars. [3] I will hand you treasures hidden in darkness and riches stored in secret places, so that you may know that it is I, the LORD, the God of Israel, who call you by your name. [4] For the sake of my servant Jacob and Israel my chosen one, I summoned you by your name; I gave you a title of honor, though you did not know me. [5] I am the LORD, and there is no one else; apart from me there is no God. I will strap your belt on you, though you did not know me, [6] so that from the sunrise to its setting people may know that there is none but me. I am the LORD, and there is no one else. [7] I form light and create darkness, I bring about peace and create calamity; I am the LORD, who does all these things.* [8] Drip down from above, you heavens, and let the clouds run with righteousness; let the earth open up so that salvation may bear fruit, and let it make righteousness sprout along with it. I, the LORD, have created it. [9] Woe to the one who quarrels with his Maker, a shard among the shards of the ground! Will the clay ask the one shaping it, 'What are you making?' or will your handiwork say, 'He has no hands'? [10] Woe to the one who asks a father, 'What are you fathering?' or a woman, 'What are you in labor with?'" [11] This is what the LORD says, the Holy One of Israel and the one who shaped him: "Ask me about the things to come concerning my children, and give me orders about the work of my hands! [12] It was I who made the earth and created mankind on it; my own hands stretched out the heavens, and I gave orders to all their host. [13] It was I who roused him in righteousness, and I will make all his roads smooth. He will rebuild my city and let my exiles go free, not for a price and not for a bribe," says the LORD of hosts. [14] This is what the LORD says: "The wealth of Egypt and the trade of Cush, and the Sabeans, tall men, will cross over to you and will be yours. They will walk behind you; they will cross over in chains and bow down to you. They will pray to you: 'God is with you alone, and there is no one else; there are no other gods.'" [15] Truly you are a God who hides himself, O God of Israel, the Savior. [16] They are shamed, yes, humiliated, every one of them; the makers of idols walk away together in disgrace. [17] Israel is saved by the LORD with a salvation that lasts for ages; you will never be shamed or humiliated, for all ages to come. [18] For this is what the LORD says, who created the heavens (he is God!), who shaped the earth and made it (he set it firm; he did not create it to be a wasteland, he shaped it to be lived in): "I am the LORD, and there is no one else. [19] I did not speak in hiding, somewhere in a land of darkness; I did not tell the offspring of Jacob, 'Seek me for nothing.' I, the LORD, speak what is righteous and declare what is upright. [20] Assemble and come; draw near together, you survivors of the nations! Those who carry around their wooden idols know nothing; they pray to a god that cannot save. [21] Speak up, present your case; yes, let them consult together. Who made this heard long ago, who announced it from ancient times? Was it not I, the LORD? There is no other God apart from me, a righteous God and a Savior; there is none but me. [22] Turn to me and be saved, all you ends of the earth! For I am God, and there is no one else. [23] I have sworn by myself; a word in righteousness has gone out from my mouth and will not come back: to me every knee will bow, every tongue will swear allegiance. [24] 'Only in the LORD,' it will be said of me, 'are righteousness and strength.' To him people will come, and all who raged against him will be put to shame. [*] [25] In the LORD all the offspring of Israel will be justified, and in him they will boast."

CHAPTER 46

[1] Bel crouches down, Nebo bends low; their idols are consigned to animals and cattle. The things you used to carry in procession are now loaded up, a burden for weary beasts. [2] They bend low and crouch down together; they cannot save the load, and they themselves go off into captivity. [3] "Listen to me, house of Jacob, all who remain of the house of Israel, you who have been carried since you were in the belly, borne along since you left the womb: [4] right up to your old age I am he, and until your hair turns gray I will carry you. I have made you and I will bear you; I will carry you and I will rescue you. [5] To whom will you compare me or make me equal? To whom will you liken me, as if we were alike? [6] Some pour gold out of a purse and weigh silver on the scales; they hire a smith, who makes it into a god, and they fall down and worship it. [7] They hoist it onto their shoulders and carry it, then set it down in its place, and there it stands; it does not budge from its spot. Someone may cry out to it, but it does not answer; it does not save him from his distress. [8] Remember this and be men; bring it back to mind, you rebels. [9] Remember the earlier things from long ago, for I am God, and there is no one else; I am God, and there is none like me. [10] From the beginning I announce the end, and from ancient times what has not yet been done; I say, 'My plan will stand, and everything I wish I will do.' [11] I call a bird of prey from the east, from a distant land the man to carry out my plan. I have spoken, and I will bring it about; I have planned it, and I will do it. [12] Listen to me, you stubborn-hearted, who are far from righteousness: [13] I am bringing my righteousness near, it is not far away, and my salvation will not be late. I will grant salvation in Zion, and to Israel my splendor."

CHAPTER 47

[1] "Get down and sit in the dust, virgin daughter of Babylon; sit on the ground with no throne, daughter of the Chaldeans! For no one will call you soft and pampered anymore. [2] Take the hand mill and grind flour; lift off your veil, strip off your skirt, bare your legs, wade through rivers. [3] Your nakedness will be exposed, your shame will be in full view. I will take vengeance, and I will not meet with anyone." [4] Our Redeemer, whose name is the LORD of hosts, is the Holy One of Israel. [5] "Sit in silence and go into the dark, daughter of the Chaldeans, for no one will call you queen of kingdoms anymore. [6] I was angry with my people; I let my inheritance be defiled and handed them over to you. You showed them no compassion; even on the old you laid your yoke very heavily. [7] You said, 'I will be queen forever,' and so you did not take these things to heart or think about how it would end. [8] So now listen to this, you lover of luxury, who sit there without a care, who say to yourself, 'I am, and there is none but me; I will never sit as a widow or know what it is to lose my children.' [9] Both of these will come upon you in a moment, in a single day: loss of children and widowhood. They will come upon you in full force, for all your many sorceries and the great might of your spells. [10] You felt safe in your wickedness; you said, 'No one sees me.' Your wisdom and your knowledge have led you off course, and you said to yourself, 'I am, and there is none but me.' [11] But disaster will come upon you that you will not know how to charm away; calamity will fall on you that you cannot buy off; ruin will come upon you suddenly, before you know it. [12] Keep at your spells, then, and your many sorceries, which you have toiled over since your youth; maybe you can gain something by them, maybe you can make people tremble. [13] You are worn out by all your counselors. Let them stand up and save you, those who map out the heavens, who stare at the stars, who announce month by month what is going to happen to you. [14] See, they have become like straw; fire burns them up. They cannot rescue themselves from the grip of the flame. This is no coal to warm oneself by, no fire to sit beside! [15] That is what they will be to you, those you have toiled with, your traders from your youth; each one wanders off his own way, and there is no one to save you.

CHAPTER 48

[1] "Listen to this, house of Jacob, you who bear the name of Israel and came out of the waters of Judah, who take oaths by the name of the LORD and invoke the God of Israel, yet not truthfully and not rightly. [2] For they name themselves after the holy city and lean on the God of Israel, whose name is the LORD of hosts.
[3] The earlier things I announced long ago; they came out of my mouth and I made them heard; then suddenly I acted and they happened. [4] Since I knew how hard you are, that your neck is an iron sinew and your forehead bronze, [5] I told you long ago;
before it happened I let you hear it, so that you could not say,
'My idol did these things; my carved image and my cast image ordered them.' [6] You have heard it; now look at all of it. Will you not admit it? From now on I am letting you hear new things, hidden things you have not known. [7] They are being created now, not long ago; before today you never heard of them, so that you cannot say, 'Yes, I knew them already.' [8] You have not heard, you have not known, and from long ago your ear has not been open. For I knew how utterly treacherous you would be, and that you were named a rebel from the womb. [9] For my name's sake I hold back my anger, and for the sake of my praise I restrain it toward you, so as not to cut you off. [10] See, I have refined you, though not as silver; I have tested you in the furnace of affliction.
[11] For my own sake, for my own sake I act; for how could it be profaned? My glory I will not hand over to another. [12] Listen to me, Jacob, Israel whom I called: I am he; I am the first, and I am also the last. [13] My own hand laid the earth's foundation, and my right hand spread out the heavens; when I summon them, they stand up together. [14] Gather together, all of you, and listen!
Which of them announced these things? The one the LORD loves will carry out his will against Babylon, and his arm will be against the Chaldeans. [15] I, I myself have spoken; yes, I have called him. I have brought him, and he will succeed in his way. [16] Come close to me and listen to this: from the beginning I have not spoken in secret; from the time it came about, I have been there." And now the Lord GOD has sent me, and his Spirit.* [17]
This is what the LORD says, your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: "I am the LORD your God, who teaches you for your good, who guides you on the road you should take. [18] If only you had heeded my commandments! Your peace would have been like a river, and your righteousness like the waves of the sea; [19] your offspring would have been like the sand, and those born from your body like its grains; their name would never be cut off or wiped out from my presence." [20] Leave Babylon, run from the Chaldeans! With shouts of joy announce it, make it heard, send it out to the end of the earth; say, "The LORD has redeemed his servant Jacob!" [21] They were not thirsty when he led them through the wastelands; he made water flow for them from the rock; he split the rock and water poured out. [22] "There is no peace for the wicked," says the LORD.

CHAPTER 49

[1] Hear me, you coastlands; pay attention, you distant peoples!
The LORD called me before I was born; from my mother's womb he spoke my name. [2] He made my mouth like a sharpened sword and hid me in the shadow of his hand; he made me a polished arrow and kept me hidden in his quiver. [3] He said to me, "You are my servant, Israel, in whom I will display my glory." [4] But I said, "I have toiled for nothing; I have used up my strength for emptiness and vanity. Yet my cause is with the LORD, and my reward is with my God." [5] And now the LORD says, he who formed me in the womb to be his servant, to bring Jacob back to him and to gather Israel to him (for I am honored in the LORD's eyes, and my God has become my strength): [6] he says, "It is too small a thing for you to be my servant to raise up the tribes of Jacob and bring back the survivors of Israel; I will also make you a light for the nations, so that my salvation may reach the end of the earth." [7] This is what the LORD says, the Redeemer of Israel and his Holy One, to the one whose life is despised, to the one the nation loathes, to the servant of rulers:
"Kings will see and stand up, princes will see and bow low, because of the LORD, who is faithful, the Holy One of Israel, who has chosen you." [8] This is what the LORD says: "In a time of favor I have answered you, on a day of salvation I have helped you; I will guard you and make you a covenant for the people, to raise up the land and to hand out the desolate inheritances, [9] telling the prisoners, 'Come out,' and those in darkness, 'Come into the open.' They will graze along the roads, and every bare hill will be their pasture. [10] They will not be hungry or thirsty, and neither scorching heat nor sun will strike them, for the one who pities them will guide them and lead them to springs of water. [11] I will turn all my mountains into a road, and my highways will be built up. [12] See, these are coming from far away, see, these from the north and from the west, and these from the land of Sinim."* [13] Shout for joy, you heavens; be glad, you earth; burst into song, you mountains! For the LORD has comforted his people and shows compassion to his afflicted ones. [14] But Zion said, "The LORD has abandoned me; the Lord has forgotten me." [15] "Can a woman forget the baby at her breast, and feel no compassion for the child she bore? Even if these should forget, I will not forget you. [16] See, I have carved you on the palms of my hands; your walls are always before me. [17] Your children are hurrying home; those who demolished you and laid you waste are leaving you. [18] Raise your eyes and look all around:
they are all gathering and coming to you. As I live," declares the LORD, "you will wear them all like jewelry; you will tie them on as a bride does. [19] For your ruins, your desolate places, your devastated land, will now be too cramped for those who live there, and those who devoured you will be far away. [20] The children born in your time of bereavement will yet say in your hearing, 'This place is too cramped for me; make room for me so that I can settle.' [21] Then you will say to yourself, 'Who fathered these for me? I was bereaved and barren, exiled and driven away.
Who raised these? I was left all alone; where did these come from?'" [22] This is what the Lord GOD says: "See, I will raise my hand toward the nations and lift up my signal to the peoples; they will bring your sons in their arms, and your daughters will be carried on their shoulders. [23] Kings will be your guardians, and their princesses your nurses. They will bow down to you with their faces to the ground and lick the dust from your feet. Then you will know that I am the LORD; those who wait for me will not be disappointed." [24] Can plunder be taken away from a warrior, or the captives of a righteous man get away? [25] Yet this is what the LORD says: "Even the warrior's captives will be taken away, and the tyrant's plunder will get away. I myself will oppose those who oppose you, and I myself will save your children. [26] I will make your oppressors eat their own flesh, and they will get drunk on their own blood as on new wine. Then all flesh will know that I, the LORD, am your Savior and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob."

CHAPTER 50

[1] This is what the LORD says: "Where is the bill of divorce for your mother, with which I sent her away? Or to which of my creditors did I sell you? See, you were sold because of your iniquities, and your mother was sent away because of your transgressions. [2] Why was there no one there when I came? Why did no one answer when I called? Is my hand too short to ransom, or do I lack the strength to rescue? See, with a rebuke I dry up the sea and turn rivers into a wilderness; their fish rot for want of water and die of thirst. [3] I dress the heavens in darkness and make sackcloth their covering." [4] The Lord GOD has given me the tongue of a disciple, so that I may know how to hold up the weary with a word. Morning after morning he wakes me, he wakes my ear to listen like a disciple. [5] The Lord GOD has opened my ear, and I did not rebel; I did not draw back. [6] I offered my back to those who beat me and my cheeks to those who tore out my beard; I did not hide my face from insults and spit. [7] But the Lord GOD helps me, and so I have not been humiliated; so I have made my face like flint, and I know I will not be put to shame. [8] The one who declares me in the right is close by. Who will bring charges against me? Let us stand up face to face. Who is my accuser? Let him come forward to meet me. [9] See, the Lord GOD helps me; who is it that will declare me guilty? See, they will all fall apart like a garment; the moth will devour them. [10] Who among you fears the LORD and listens to the voice of his servant? Whoever walks in the dark, with no light at all, let him trust in the name of the LORD and lean on his God. [11] See, all you who light a fire and arm yourselves with firebrands: walk in the glow of your own fire and among the firebrands you have kindled! This is what you will get from my hand: you will lie down in torment.

CHAPTER 51

[1] "Listen to me, you who chase after righteousness, you who seek the LORD: look at the rock you were cut from, and at the quarry pit you were dug from. [2] Look at Abraham your father and at Sarah who gave birth to you; for when I called him he was only one, but I blessed him and made him many." [3] For the LORD will comfort Zion; he will comfort all her ruins. He will make her wilderness like Eden and her desert like the garden of the LORD; joy and gladness will be found there, thanksgiving and the sound of music. [4] "Pay attention to me, my people; listen to me, my nation; for law will go out from me, and I will set my justice in place as a light for the peoples. [5] My righteousness is near, my salvation is on its way, and my arms will judge the peoples; the coastlands wait for me and put their hope in my arm. [6] Raise your eyes to the heavens and look at the earth below; for the heavens will vanish like smoke, the earth will wear out like a garment, and its inhabitants will die like gnats. But my salvation will last forever, and my righteousness will never be shattered. [7] Listen to me, you who know what is right, you people who have my law in your hearts: do not fear human scorn, and do not be shaken by their insults. [8] For the moth will eat them up like a garment, and the grub will devour them like wool; but my righteousness will last forever, and my salvation for all generations." [9] Wake up, wake up, clothe yourself with strength, arm of the LORD! Wake up as in days long past, in generations of old. Was it not you who hacked Rahab to pieces, who pierced the dragon?* [10] Was it not you who dried up the sea, the waters of the great deep, who turned the depths of the sea into a road for the redeemed to cross? [11] The ransomed of the LORD will come back and enter Zion with shouts of joy, everlasting gladness crowning their heads; joy and gladness will overtake them, and sorrow and sighing will run away. [12] "I, I am the one who comforts you. Who are you to be afraid of mortal man, of a son of man who is treated like grass, [13] and to forget the LORD your Maker, who stretched out the heavens and founded the earth, and to live in constant dread all day long of the oppressor's fury, as he gets ready to destroy? Where is the oppressor's fury now? [14] The one who is bent low will soon be let loose; he will not die and go down to the pit, nor will he go without bread. [15] For I am the LORD your God, who churns up the sea so that its waves roar; the LORD of hosts is his name. [16] I have put my words in your mouth and sheltered you in the shadow of my hand, to plant the heavens and found the earth, and to tell Zion, 'You are my people.'" [17] Wake yourself up, wake yourself up, get up, Jerusalem, you who have drunk from the LORD's hand the cup of his fury; you have drunk the goblet that makes people stagger, you have drained it dry. [18] Of all the sons she bore, there is none to guide her; of all the sons she raised, there is none to take her by the hand. [19] These two things have struck you (who will mourn with you?): ruin and destruction, famine and sword. By whom shall I comfort you? [20] Your sons have collapsed; they lie at the corner of every street like an antelope caught in a net, filled with the fury of the LORD, the rebuke of your God. [21] So please listen to this, you afflicted one, drunk but not with wine: [22] This is what your Lord says, the LORD, your God who defends his people's cause: "See, I have taken out of your hand the cup that makes you stagger, the goblet of my fury; you will never drink from it again. [23] I will put it into the hands of your tormentors, who said to you, 'Lie down flat so we can walk over you'; and you made your back like the ground, like a street for them to walk on."

CHAPTER 52

[1] Wake up, wake up, clothe yourself with your strength, Zion; put on your splendid garments, Jerusalem, holy city! For the uncircumcised and the unclean will never again come into you. [2] Shake off the dust, get up and take your seat, Jerusalem; free yourself from the chains on your neck, captive daughter of Zion!
[3] For this is what the LORD says: "You were sold for nothing, and you will be redeemed without silver." [4] For this is what the Lord GOD says: "Long ago my people went down to Egypt to live there as foreigners, and Assyria has oppressed them for no reason. [5] So now what do I have here?" declares the LORD. "My people have been taken away for nothing; their rulers howl," declares the LORD, "and all day long my name is constantly reviled. [6] Therefore my people will know my name; therefore on that day they will know that I am the one who speaks: here I am." [7] How lovely on the mountains are the feet of the messenger who brings good news, who announces peace, who brings good tidings, who announces salvation, who tells Zion,
"Your God reigns!" [8] Listen! Your watchmen raise their voices; together they shout for joy, for with their own eyes they see the LORD returning to Zion. [9] Burst out together in shouts of joy, you ruins of Jerusalem! For the LORD has comforted his people; he has redeemed Jerusalem. [10] The LORD has stripped bare his holy arm in full view of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth will see our God's salvation. [11] Leave, leave, go out from there; do not touch anything unclean! Get out from the midst of her; keep yourselves pure, you who carry the vessels of the LORD. [12] For you will not go out in a rush, nor will you leave like fugitives; for the LORD will go ahead of you, and the God of Israel will guard you from behind. [13] Behold, my servant will act with insight; he will be raised high and lifted up and greatly exalted. [14] Just as many were horrified at you (so disfigured was his appearance, beyond that of any man, his form beyond that of the sons of men), [15] so he will sprinkle many nations; kings will close their mouths because of him. For they will see what they had never been told, and they will understand what they had never heard.*

CHAPTER 53

[1] Who has believed what we heard? And to whom has the arm of the LORD been revealed? [2] He grew up before him like a young shoot, like a root out of parched ground. He had no stately form or majesty for us to look at him, no appearance for us to be drawn to him. [3] He was despised and shunned by men, a man of pains who knew sickness well; like one from whom people hide their faces, he was despised, and we thought nothing of him. [4] Yet it was our sicknesses he bore, and our pains he carried; but we regarded him as stricken, struck down by God and afflicted. [5]
But he was pierced for our transgressions, he was crushed for our iniquities; the punishment that won our peace was laid on him, and by his stripes we are healed.* [6] All of us have wandered off like sheep; each of us has turned to his own way, and the LORD has laid on him the iniquity of us all. [7] He was oppressed and humbled himself, yet he did not open his mouth; like a lamb led off to slaughter, like a ewe that is silent before her shearers, he did not open his mouth. [8] Through oppression and judgment he was taken away; and who of his generation gave it a thought, that he was cut off from the land of the living, stricken for the transgression of my people?* [9] They assigned him a grave with the wicked, and with a rich man in his death, though he had done no violence and there was no deceit in his mouth. [10] Yet it was the LORD's will to crush him; he made him suffer. When you make his soul a guilt offering, he will see offspring, he will lengthen his days, and the LORD's purpose will succeed in his hand.* [11] After the travail of his soul he will see and be satisfied; through his knowledge the Righteous One, my servant, will make many righteous, and he himself will carry their iniquities.*
[12] So I will give him a share among the many, and he will divide the plunder with the mighty, because he poured out his soul to death and was counted among the transgressors; he bore the sin of many and intercedes for the transgressors.

CHAPTER 54

[1] "Shout for joy, barren woman who never gave birth; burst into song and cry out, you who were never in labor! For the desolate woman has more children than the woman with a husband," says the LORD. [2] "Make the space for your tent wider, and let the curtains of your dwellings be spread out; do not hold back.
Lengthen your ropes and drive your tent pegs firm. [3] For you will spread out to the right and the left; your offspring will take over nations and resettle the deserted cities. [4] Have no fear, for you will not be put to shame; do not feel humiliated, for you will not be disgraced. You will forget the shame of your youth and no longer remember the disgrace of your widowhood. [5] For your husband is your Maker, whose name is the LORD of hosts; your Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel, who is called the God of all the earth. [6] For the LORD has called you back like a wife abandoned and crushed in spirit, like a wife married young and then rejected," says your God. [7] "For a short moment I abandoned you, but with deep compassion I will bring you back.
[8] In a surge of anger I hid my face from you for a moment, but with steadfast love that lasts forever I will have compassion on you," says the LORD, your Redeemer. [9] "To me this is like the waters of Noah: as I swore that the waters of Noah would never again pass over the earth, so I have sworn not to be angry with you or rebuke you. [10] Though the mountains move away and the hills are shaken, my steadfast love will not move away from you, and my covenant of peace will not be shaken," says the LORD, who has compassion on you. [11] "Afflicted one, battered by storms and without comfort, see, I am setting your stones in antimony and laying your foundations with sapphires.* [12] I will make your battlements of rubies, your gates of glittering gems, and your whole outer wall of precious stones. [13] All your children will be taught by the LORD, and your children will have abundant peace. [14] You will be firmly founded in righteousness. Keep far from oppression, for you will have nothing to fear, and from terror, for it will not come near you. [15]
If anyone does attack you, it is not my doing; whoever attacks you will fall because of you. [16] See, I am the one who created the smith who fans the coals into flame and turns out a weapon fit for its work; and I am the one who created the destroyer to wreak havoc. [17] No weapon forged against you will succeed, and you will prove guilty every tongue that rises to accuse you. This is the inheritance of the servants of the LORD, and their vindication comes from me," declares the LORD.

CHAPTER 55

[1] "Come, all who are thirsty, come to the water; and you who have no silver, come, buy grain and eat! Come, buy grain without silver, wine and milk with no cost. [2] Why weigh out silver for what is not bread, and your earnings for what does not fill you? Listen closely to me and eat what is good, and you will delight in the richest fare. [3] Turn your ear and come to me; listen, so that your soul may live. I will make an everlasting covenant with you, the sure steadfast love shown to David. [*] [4] See, I made him a witness to the peoples, a leader and commander of the peoples. [5] See, you will summon a nation you do not know, and a nation that does not know you will come running to you, because of the LORD your God, the Holy One of Israel, for he has made you glorious." [6] Seek the LORD while he lets himself be found; call on him while he is close. [7] Let the wicked man leave his way, and the evil man his thoughts; let him come back to the LORD, so that he may show him compassion, and to our God, for he will forgive generously. [8] "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, and your ways are not my ways," declares the LORD. [9] "As high as the heavens are above the earth, so high are my ways above your ways, and my thoughts above your thoughts. [10] For just as the rain and the snow fall from the sky and do not go back there without first watering the earth and making it bear and sprout, giving seed to the sower and bread to the one who eats, [11] so will my word be that goes out from my mouth: it will not come back to me empty, but will do what I desire and succeed in what I sent it to do. [12] For you will go out in joy and be led along in peace; the mountains and the hills will burst into song ahead of you, and all the trees of the field will clap their hands. [13] In place of the thornbush the cypress will grow, in place of the nettle the myrtle will grow; and this will bring renown to the LORD, a lasting sign that will never be cut down."

CHAPTER 56

[1] This is what the LORD says: "Uphold justice and do what is right, for my salvation is about to come, and my righteousness about to be revealed. [2] Blessed is the man who does this, the son of man who grips it tight, who observes the Sabbath and does not profane it, and who holds his hand back from doing any evil." [3] The foreigner who has attached himself to the LORD must not say, "The LORD will certainly cut me off from his people"; and the eunuch must not say, "I am only a dried-up tree." [4] For this is what the LORD says: "To the eunuchs who observe my Sabbaths, who choose what I take pleasure in and keep a firm grip on my covenant, [5] I will give within my house and within my walls a monument and a name better than sons and daughters; I will give each of them a lasting name that will never be cut off. [6] And the foreigners who attach themselves to the LORD to serve him, to love the name of the LORD and to be his servants, all who observe the Sabbath and do not profane it and keep a firm grip on my covenant, [7] I will bring them to my holy mountain and give them joy in my house of prayer; their burnt offerings and sacrifices will find acceptance on my altar; for my house will be called a house of prayer for all the peoples." [8] The Lord GOD declares, he who gathers the scattered ones of Israel: "I will gather still more to him besides those already gathered." [9] Come and devour, all you animals of the field, all you animals in the forest! [10] His watchmen are blind, all of them, they know nothing; they are all mute dogs unable to bark, dozing, lying around, fond of sleep. [11] The dogs have a fierce appetite; they never know when they have had enough. And these are shepherds who cannot discern; they have all turned off down their own road, each one after his own profit, to the last man. [12] "Come," they say, "I will fetch wine, and let us guzzle strong drink; tomorrow will be like today, only far better!"

CHAPTER 57

[1] The righteous man dies, and no one takes it to heart; the faithful are swept away, and no one understands that the righteous man is swept away from the coming evil. [2] He enters into peace; those who walk straight ahead find rest on their beds. [3] "But you, come over here, you children of a sorceress, offspring of an adulterer and of a woman who prostitutes herself! [4] Whom are you making fun of? At whom do you gape with your mouths and stick out your tongues? Are you not a brood of rebellion, offspring of deceit, [5] you who burn with lust among the oaks, under every leafy tree, who slaughter children in the ravines, under the overhanging rocks? [6] Your share is among the smooth stones of the ravine; they, they are your lot. To them you have poured out drink offerings and brought grain offerings. Should I relent in the face of these things? [7] On a high and towering mountain you have laid out your bed; you also went up there to offer sacrifice. [8] Behind the door and the doorpost you have placed your reminder. For, turning away from me, you have uncovered your bed, climbed onto it and made it wide; you have struck a bargain with them; you have loved their bed; you have gazed on their nakedness. [9] You traveled to the king with oil and piled up your perfumes; you sent your envoys far away and sank down even to Sheol. [*] [10] You grew tired from your long journeys, yet you never said, 'It is no use.' You found your strength renewed, and so you did not weaken. [11] Whom did you dread and fear, that you were false and did not remember me or give me a thought? Is it not because I have kept silent, and that for a long time, that you do not fear me? [12] I will expose your 'righteousness' and your deeds, and they will be of no help to you. [13] When you cry for help, let your collection of idols rescue you! The wind will carry off every one of them, a puff of air will sweep them away. But whoever takes refuge in me will inherit the land and possess my holy mountain." [14] And it will be said, "Build it up, build it up, clear the road! Take every obstacle out of my people's road." [15] For this is what the high and exalted One says, he who lives forever, whose name is Holy: "I live in a high and holy place, and also with the crushed and humble in spirit, to give new life to the spirit of the humble and new life to the heart of the crushed. [16] For I will not bring charges forever, nor will I always be angry; for then the spirit would grow faint before me, and the breath of the souls I have made. [17] Because of the iniquity of his greed I was angry and struck him; I hid my face and was angry, yet he kept on going astray in the way of his own heart. [18] I have seen his ways, yet I will heal him; I will guide him and give comfort back to him and to those who mourn for him, [19] creating the fruit of the lips. Peace, peace to the one far away and to the one near," says the LORD, "and I will heal him." [20] But the wicked are like the churning sea, which cannot settle down, and its waters churn up mire and mud. [21] "There is no peace for the wicked," says my God.

CHAPTER 58

[1] "Shout from the throat, do not hold back; raise your voice like a trumpet. Tell my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins. [2] Day after day they seek me and take pleasure in knowing my ways, as if they were a nation that had done what is right and had not abandoned the justice of its God. They ask me for righteous rulings; they take pleasure in drawing near to God. [3] 'Why have we fasted,' they say, 'if you do not see it? Why have we humbled ourselves if you take no notice?' See, on your fast day you pursue your own business and drive all your laborers hard. [4] See, your fasting ends in quarrels and brawls and in striking out with a wicked fist. You cannot fast as you do today and expect your voice to be heard on high. [5] Is this the kind of fast I choose, a day for a person to humble himself? Is it for hanging one's head like a bulrush and lying down on sackcloth and ashes? Is this what you call a fast, a day the LORD will accept? [6] Is not this the fast I choose: to untie the knots of wickedness, to loosen the cords of the yoke, to set the crushed free and to snap every yoke? [7] Is it not to break your bread with the hungry and take the homeless poor into your house, to clothe the naked when you see them, and not to turn away from your own flesh and blood? [8] Then your light will burst out like the dawn, and your healing will sprout up quickly; your righteousness will march ahead of you, and the glory of the LORD will guard you from behind. [9] Then you will call, and the LORD will answer; you will cry for help, and he will say, 'Here I am.' If you get rid of the yoke among you, the pointing finger and the malicious talk, [10] if you give of yourself to the hungry and satisfy the needs of the afflicted, then your light will rise in the darkness, and your gloom will become like midday. [11] The LORD will guide you always; he will satisfy you in sun-scorched places and give strength to your bones. You will be like a well-watered garden, like a spring whose water never runs dry. [12] Some of your people will rebuild the ancient ruins; you will raise up foundations laid generations ago. You will be called the Mender of Broken Walls, the Restorer of Streets to Live In. [13] If you hold back your foot on the Sabbath from doing as you please on my holy day, if you call the Sabbath a delight and the LORD's holy day honorable, and if you honor it by not going your own ways, not pursuing your own business, not talking idly, [14] then you will find your delight in the LORD, and I will make you ride on the heights of the land and feed you with the inheritance of your father Jacob; for the mouth of the LORD has spoken."

CHAPTER 59

[1] See, the LORD's hand is not too short to save, nor his ear too heavy to hear; [2] it is your iniquities that have driven a wedge between you and your God, and your sins have hidden his face from you so that he does not listen. [3] For your hands are stained with blood and your fingers with iniquity; your lips have spoken lies, your tongue murmurs injustice. [4] No one sues in righteousness, no one goes to court honestly. They rely on empty words and speak what is worthless; they conceive mischief and give birth to wickedness. [5] They hatch adders' eggs and weave spiders' webs; whoever eats their eggs dies, and when one is cracked, a snake hatches out. [6] Their webs will not make clothing; they cannot wrap themselves in what they produce. Their works are works of wickedness, and violent deeds are in their hands. [7] Their feet run toward evil, and they rush to shed innocent blood; their thoughts are wicked thoughts, ruin and destruction lie along their highways. [8] They do not know the way of peace, and there is no justice in their tracks; they have twisted their paths, and no one who treads them knows peace. [9] That is why justice is far from us and righteousness does not reach us; we long for light, but see, there is darkness; for brightness, but we walk in deep gloom. [10] Like the blind we feel our way along the wall, we feel our way like people without eyes; we stumble at midday as if it were dusk; among the robust we are like the dead. [11] We all growl like bears and moan and moan like doves; we long for justice, but there is none; for salvation, but it is far from us. [12] For our transgressions are many in your sight, and our sins testify against us; our transgressions are with us, and we know our iniquities: [13] rebelling and denying the LORD, turning our backs on our God, talking oppression and revolt, conceiving lying words and muttering them from the heart. [14] Justice is driven back, and righteousness stands far away; for truth has stumbled in the town square, and honesty cannot get in. [15] Truth has gone missing, and whoever turns from evil is plundered. The LORD saw it, and it was evil in his sight that there was no justice. [16] He saw that there was no one, and was appalled that there was no one to step in; so his own arm won the victory for him, and his own righteousness held him up. [17] He put on righteousness like a coat of armor and the helmet of salvation on his head; he put on garments of vengeance as his clothing and wrapped himself in zeal like a cloak. [18] As their deeds deserve, so he will repay: fury to his foes, retribution to his enemies; to the coastlands he will pay back retribution. [19] From the west they will fear the name of the LORD, and from the sunrise his glory; for he will come like a narrow, rushing river that the Spirit of the LORD drives along. [*] [20] "A Redeemer will come to Zion, to those in Jacob who turn back from transgression," declares the LORD. [21] "And as for me, this is my covenant with them," says the LORD: "My Spirit, who is on you, and my words, which I have put in your mouth, will not leave your mouth, or the mouths of your offspring, or the mouths of their offspring," says the LORD, "from now on and forever."

CHAPTER 60

[1] Get up, shine out, for your light has come, and the glory of the LORD has dawned upon you. [2] For see, darkness covers the earth, and deep gloom the peoples; but the LORD will dawn upon you, and his glory will appear over you. [3] Nations will come to your light, and kings to the brilliance of your dawn. [4] Raise your eyes and look all around: they are all gathering and coming to you. Your sons will come from far away, and your daughters will be carried on the hip. [5] Then you will look and be radiant; your heart will throb and swell, for the riches of the sea will be turned over to you, the wealth of the nations will come to you. [6] Droves of camels will cover your land, young camels from Midian and Ephah; all those from Sheba will come, bearing gold and frankincense and announcing the praises of the LORD. [7] All the flocks of Kedar will be herded to you; the rams of Nebaioth will be at your service; they will go up on my altar as an acceptable offering, and I will adorn my glorious house. [8] Who are these flying along like a cloud, like doves to their dovecotes? [9] Surely the coastlands are waiting for me, with the ships of Tarshish in the lead, to bring your children from far away, and their silver and gold with them, to honor the name of the LORD your God, the Holy One of Israel, because he has made you glorious. [10] Foreigners will rebuild your walls, and their kings will serve you; for in my anger I struck you, but in my favor I have shown you compassion. [11] Your gates will stand open always; they will not be shut day or night, so that the wealth of the nations can be brought to you, with their kings led along. [12] For the nation or kingdom that will not serve you will perish; those nations will be utterly destroyed. [13] The glory of Lebanon will come to you, the cypress, the elm and the box tree together, to adorn the site of my sanctuary, and I will make the place where my feet rest glorious. [14] The children of those who oppressed you will come bowing low to you, and all who despised you will fall down at your feet; they will call you the City of the LORD, Zion of the Holy One of Israel. [15] Instead of being abandoned and hated, with no one traveling through, you will be made a source of pride forever, a joy for one generation after another. [16] You will drink the milk of nations and be nursed at the breasts of kings, and you will know that I, the LORD, am your Savior, your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob. [17] For bronze I will bring gold, for iron I will bring silver; for wood, bronze, and for stones, iron. I will make peace your governor and righteousness your overseer. [18] No more will violence be heard of in your land, nor ruin and destruction within your borders; you will name your walls Salvation and your gates Praise. [19] No longer will the sun be your light by day, nor will the moon shine on you for brightness; the LORD will be your light forever, and your God will be your splendor. [20] Your sun will never set again, and your moon will not wane; for the LORD will be your light forever, and your days of mourning will be over. [21] All your people will be righteous; they will own the land forever. They are the shoot I planted, the work of my hands, for the display of my glory. [22] The least of them will become a thousand, the smallest a mighty nation. I am the LORD; when the time is right, I will bring it about swiftly.

CHAPTER 61

[1] The Spirit of the Lord GOD is on me, because the LORD has anointed me to bring good news to the humble. He has sent me to bandage the brokenhearted, to announce freedom to the captives and release to those in chains; [2] to announce the year of the LORD's favor and the day of our God's vengeance; to comfort all who mourn; [3] to provide for those who mourn in Zion, giving them a garland instead of ashes, oil of gladness instead of mourning, a cloak of praise instead of a fainting spirit. They will be called oaks of righteousness, planted by the LORD to display his glory. [4] They will rebuild the ruins of long ago and raise up the places devastated in former times; they will restore the ruined cities, desolate for generation after generation. [5] Strangers will stand and tend your flocks, and foreigners will work your fields and your vineyards. [6] But you will be called priests of the LORD; people will speak of you as servants of our God. You will feed on the wealth of the nations and boast in their riches. [7] Instead of your shame you will have a double share, and instead of disgrace they will shout for joy over their portion. So in their land they will possess a double share; joy that lasts forever will be theirs. [8] For I, the LORD, love justice and hate robbery and wrongdoing. I will faithfully give them their recompense and make a lasting covenant with them. [9] Their offspring will be renowned among the nations, and their descendants among the peoples; all who see them will recognize that they are the offspring the LORD has blessed. [10] I rejoice and rejoice in the LORD; my soul is glad in my God, for he has dressed me in garments of salvation and wrapped me in a robe of righteousness, like a bridegroom who wears a garland like a priest, like a bride who adorns herself with her jewels. [11] For as the soil makes its plants come up, and as a garden makes its seeds sprout, so the Lord GOD will make righteousness and praise sprout before all the nations.

CHAPTER 62

[1] For Zion's sake I will not hold my peace, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not stay still, until her righteousness shines out like the dawn and her salvation like a blazing torch. [2] The nations will see your righteousness, and all kings your glory; you will be called by a new name, which the LORD's own mouth will pronounce. [3] You will be a splendid crown in the LORD's hand, a royal turban in the palm of your God. [4] No longer will you be called Forsaken, nor your land be called Desolate; instead you will be called Hephzibah, and your land Beulah, for the LORD takes delight in you, and your land will be wedded.* 5 For as a young man marries a virgin, so your sons will marry you; and as a bridegroom is glad over his bride, so your God will be glad over you. 6 On your walls, Jerusalem, I have posted watchmen; all day and all night they will never fall silent. You who keep the LORD reminded, give yourselves no rest, 7 and give him no rest until he establishes Jerusalem and makes her the praise of the earth. 8 The LORD has sworn by his right hand and by his powerful arm:

"Never again will I give your grain as food to your enemies, and never again will foreigners drink the new wine you toiled for; 9 those who harvest the grain will eat it and praise the LORD, and those who gather the grapes will drink the wine in my holy courts." 10 Pass through, pass through the gates; clear the way for the people! Build it up, build up the highway, rid it of stones; raise a signal over the peoples! 11 See, the LORD has made it heard to the end of the earth: "Tell the daughter of Zion, 'See, your salvation is coming; see, his reward is with him, and his recompense goes ahead of him.'" 12 They will be called the Holy People, the Redeemed of the LORD; and you will be called Sought After, the City Not Forsaken.

CHAPTER 63

1 Who is this coming from Edom, from Bozrah, with garments dyed red, this one resplendent in his clothing, marching in his great strength? "It is I, who speak in righteousness, mighty to save." 2 Why is your clothing red, and your garments like those of one who treads the winepress? 3 "I have trodden the winepress all alone; of the peoples no one was with me. I trod them in my anger and trampled them in my fury; their juice spattered my garments, and I have stained all my clothes. 4 For the day of vengeance was in my heart, and the year of my redeemed had arrived. 5 I looked, and there was no one to help; I was appalled that no one gave support; so my own arm won me the victory, and my fury held me up. 6 I trampled peoples in my anger, made them drunk in my fury, and brought their lifeblood down to the ground." 7 I will call to mind the LORD's acts of steadfast love, the LORD's praiseworthy deeds, in keeping with all the LORD has done for us, and the great goodness he has shown the house of Israel, in keeping with his compassion and the abundance of his steadfast love. 8 He said, "They are my people indeed, children who will not be false," and so he became their Savior. 9
In all their distress he was afflicted, and the angel of his presence saved them; in his love and his mercy he redeemed them; he lifted them and carried them all the days of old.* 10 But they rebelled and grieved his Holy Spirit; so he turned into their enemy and himself fought against them. 11 Then he remembered the days of old, of Moses and his people: Where is the one who brought them up from the sea with the shepherds of his flock? Where is the one who placed his Holy Spirit among them, 12 who made his glorious arm march at Moses' right hand, who split the waters before them to win himself an everlasting name, 13 who led them through the depths? Like a horse in open country, they did not stumble. 14 Like cattle going down into the valley, they were given rest by the Spirit of the LORD. That is how you led your people, to win yourself a glorious name. 15 Look down from heaven and see, from your lofty dwelling, holy and glorious.
Where are your zeal and your mighty acts? The yearning of your heart and your compassion are held back from me. 16 For you are our Father, though Abraham does not know us and Israel does not recognize us; you, LORD, are our Father; "Our Redeemer from of old" is your name. 17 Why, LORD, do you let us stray from your ways and harden our hearts so that we do not fear you? Come back for the sake of your servants, the tribes that are your inheritance. 18 Your holy people held possession only a little while; our foes have trampled your sanctuary. 19 We have long been like people you never ruled, like those who were never called by your name.

CHAPTER 64

1 If only you would rip open the heavens and come down, so that the mountains would shake before you,* 2 as when fire sets brushwood ablaze and fire makes water boil, to make your name known to your foes, so that the nations would quake before you!
3 When you did fearsome deeds we did not expect, you came down, and the mountains shook before you. 4 Since ancient times no one has heard, no ear has caught, no eye has seen any God but you, who acts on behalf of the one who waits for him. 5
You come to meet the one who gladly does what is right, those who remember you in your ways. See, you were angry, and we sinned; we have been in them a long time, and will we be saved? 6
We have all become like someone unclean, and all our righteous acts are like a stained garment. We all wither like a leaf, and our iniquities sweep us away like the wind. 7 No one calls on your name or stirs himself to hold on to you, for you have hidden your face from us and let us melt away in the grip of our iniquities. 8 Yet, LORD, you are our Father; we are the clay, and you are the one who shapes us; all of us are the work of your hand. 9 Do not be angry beyond measure, LORD, and do not remember iniquity forever. Please look on us: we are all your people. 10 Your holy cities have turned into wilderness; Zion is a wilderness, Jerusalem a desolate waste. 11 Our holy and splendid house, where our fathers praised you, has been burned with fire, and all the things we treasured lie in ruins. 12 After all this, LORD, will you hold yourself back? Will you keep silent and afflict us beyond measure?

CHAPTER 65

1 "I let myself be consulted by those who did not ask; I let myself be found by those who did not look for me. To a nation that was not called by my name I said, 'Here I am, here I am.' 2 All day long I have held out my hands to a rebellious people, who walk a road that is not good, following their own notions; 3 a people who keep provoking me to my face, offering sacrifices in gardens and burning incense on bricks; 4 who sit among the tombs and spend their nights in hidden places; who eat pork, with a broth of unclean meat in their pots; 5 who say, 'Stay where you are, do not come near me, for I am too holy for you.' These people are smoke in my nostrils, a fire that burns all day. 6 See, it stands written before me: I will not keep quiet, but I will pay back, yes, I will pay it back into their laps, [7] your iniquities and your fathers' iniquities together," says the LORD. "Because they burned incense on the mountains and insulted me on the hills, I will measure out into their laps full payment for what they did before." [8] This is what the LORD says: "As when juice is found in a cluster of grapes and someone says, 'Do not ruin it, there is a blessing in it,' so I will act for my servants' sake and not destroy them all. [9] I will bring out offspring from Jacob, and from Judah one who will inherit my mountains; my chosen ones will take possession of it, and my servants will live there. [10] Sharon will become pastureland for flocks, and the Valley of Achor a place for cattle to lie down, for my people who have sought me. [11] But you who abandon the LORD, who forget my holy mountain, who spread a table for Fortune and fill bowls of mixed wine for Destiny, * [12] I will destine you for the sword, and you will all kneel down to be slaughtered; because I called and you did not answer, I spoke and you did not listen; you did what is evil in my sight and chose what I take no pleasure in." [13] So this is what the Lord GOD says: "See, my servants will eat, but you will go hungry; see, my servants will drink, but you will go thirsty; see, my servants will rejoice, but you will be put to shame. [14] See, my servants will shout for joy from a glad heart, but you will cry out from an aching heart and howl from a broken spirit. [15] You will leave your name behind as a curse word for my chosen ones, and the Lord GOD will put you to death; but his servants he will call by a different name. [16] So whoever invokes a blessing in the land will bless himself by the God of truth, and whoever takes an oath in the land will swear by the God of truth; for the troubles of the past will be forgotten and hidden from my eyes. [17] For see, I am creating new heavens and a new earth; the former things will not be remembered or come to mind. [18] Instead, be glad and rejoice forever in what I am creating; for see, I am creating Jerusalem to be a delight and her people a joy. [19] I will rejoice over Jerusalem and be glad over my people; never again will the sound of weeping or the sound of crying be heard in her. [20] Never again will there be in her a baby who lives only a few days, or an old man who does not live out his years; for one who dies at a hundred will still be a youth, and the sinner who reaches a hundred will be held accursed. [21] They will build houses and live in them; they will plant vineyards and eat their fruit. [22] They will not build for someone else to live in, or plant for someone else to eat; for my people's days will be like the days of a tree, and my chosen ones will wear out the work of their own hands. [23] They will not toil for nothing or bear children for sudden disaster; for they will be offspring blessed by the LORD, they and their descendants with them. [24] Before they call I will answer; while they are still speaking I will hear. [25] The wolf and the lamb will graze side by side, the lion will eat straw like the ox, and dust will be the snake's food. They will do no harm and cause no ruin anywhere on my holy mountain," says the LORD.

CHAPTER 66

[1] This is what the LORD says: "The heavens are my throne, and the earth is the footstool for my feet. What kind of house would you build for me, and what place could be my resting place? [2] My hand made all these things, and so all these things came into being," declares the LORD. "But this is the one I will look to: the one who is lowly and broken in spirit, and who trembles at my word. [3] The one who slaughters an ox is like one who murders a man; the one who sacrifices a lamb, like one who breaks a dog's neck; the one who presents a grain offering, like one who offers pig's blood; the one who burns frankincense as a memorial, like one who blesses an idol. They have chosen their own ways, and they take delight in their detestable things; [4] so I too will choose harsh treatment for them and bring on them what they dread. For I called and no one answered, I spoke and they did not listen; they did what is evil in my sight and chose what I take no pleasure in." [5] Listen to the word of the LORD, you who tremble at his word: "Your own brothers who hate you and push you away because of my name have said, 'Let the LORD show his glory, so we can see your joy!' But they are the ones who will be put to shame. [6] Listen! An uproar from the city! A sound from the temple! It is the sound of the LORD paying back his enemies what they deserve. [7] Before she went into labor, she gave birth; before her pains came on her, she delivered a boy. [8] Who has ever heard of such a thing? Who has ever seen anything like it? Can a land be brought to birth in a single day, or a nation be born all at once? Yet no sooner was Zion in labor than she gave birth to her children. [9] Would I bring a child to the point of birth and not let it be born?" says the LORD. "Would I, who let it be born, close up the womb?" says your God. [10] "Rejoice with Jerusalem and be glad over her, all you who love her; share her great joy, all you who mourn over her, [11] so that you may nurse and be filled at her comforting breast, so that you may drink deeply and delight in the abundance of her glory." [12] For this is what the LORD says: "See, I will make peace flow to her like a river, and the wealth of nations like a torrent in flood; you will nurse and be carried on her hip and bounced on her knees. [13] As a mother comforts her child, so I will comfort you, and in Jerusalem you will be comforted. [14] You will see this, and your heart will rejoice, and your bones will spring up like new grass. The LORD's hand will be made known to his servants, and his anger to his enemies. [15] For see, the LORD will come with fire, and his chariots will be like the whirlwind, to repay his anger with fury and his rebuke with flames of fire. [16] For with fire and with his sword the LORD will bring judgment on all flesh, and many will be those slain by the LORD. [17] Those who consecrate and purify themselves to go into the gardens, following one in the middle, who eat pork and detestable things and mice, will come to an end together," declares the LORD. [18] "And I know their deeds and their thoughts. The time is coming to gather all nations and languages, and they will come and see my glory. * [19] I will put a sign among them, and I will send some of their survivors to the nations: to Tarshish, Pul and Lud, who are archers, to Tubal and Javan, to the far-off coastlands that have not heard of my fame or seen my glory. They will proclaim my glory among the nations. [20] And they will bring all your brothers from all the nations as an offering to the LORD, on horses, in chariots and wagons, on mules and camels, to my holy mountain Jerusalem," says the LORD, "just as the children of Israel bring the grain offering in a clean vessel to the house of the LORD.* [21] And I will also take some of them as priests and Levites," says the LORD. [22] "For just as the new heavens and the new earth that I am making will endure before me," declares the LORD, "so will your offspring and your name endure. [23] Month after month at the new moon, and week after week on the Sabbath, all flesh will come to bow down before me," says the LORD. [24] "Then they will go out and look at the corpses of those who rebelled against me; for their worm will never die, and their fire will never go out, and they will be a horror to all flesh."

CHAPTER 1

[1] The words of Jeremiah the son of Hilkiah, from among the priests who were at Anathoth in the land of Benjamin. [2] The word of the LORD came to him in the days of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah, in the thirteenth year that he reigned. [3] It came as well in the days of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, up to the end of the eleventh year of Zedekiah the son of Josiah, king of Judah, up to the exile of Jerusalem in the fifth month. [4] Now the word of the LORD came to me, saying, [5] "Before I shaped you in the belly I knew you, and before you came forth from the womb I consecrated you; a prophet to the nations I made you." [6] Then I said, "Ah, Lord GOD! See, I do not know how to speak; I am just a boy." [7] But the LORD said to me, "Do not say, 'I am just a boy.' To all to whom I send you, you will go, and all that I command you, you will speak. [8] Do not fear their faces, for I am with you to rescue you," declares the LORD. [9] Then the LORD put out his hand and made it touch my mouth, and the LORD said to me, "See, I have placed my words in your mouth. [10] Look, today I have set you over the nations and over the kingdoms, to root up and to pull down, to destroy and to overthrow, to build and to plant." [11] The word of the LORD came to me: "What do you see, Jeremiah?" I said, "The rod of an almond tree is what I see." [12] And the LORD said to me, "You have seen well, for I am watching over my word to perform it."* [13] A second time the word of the LORD came to me: "What do you see?" I said, "A pot set boiling is what I see, and its face is tipped from the north." [14] And the LORD said to me, "Out of the north the disaster will be let loose upon all the inhabitants of the land. [15] For look, I am calling all the clans of the kingdoms of the north," declares the LORD, "and they will come and set each his throne at the opening of the gates of Jerusalem, against all its walls on every side, and against all the cities of Judah. [16] I will speak my judgments against them for all their evil, because they abandoned me, made offerings to other gods, and bowed down to what their own hands had made. [17] As for you, tie up your waist, rise and tell them everything I command you. Do not be shattered before them, or I will shatter you before them. [18] And I, look, I make you today a fortified city, a pillar of iron and walls of bronze against the whole land, against the kings of Judah, against its officials, against its priests, and against the people of the land. [19] They will make war on you, but they will not overcome you, for I am with you to rescue you," declares the LORD.

CHAPTER 2

[1] The word of the LORD came to me, saying, [2] "Go and cry in the hearing of Jerusalem: 'Thus says the LORD: I remember for you the steadfast love of your youth, the love of your betrothal, when you followed me in the wilderness, in a land that was not sown.* [3] Israel was holiness to the LORD, the first of his harvest; all who ate of him incurred guilt, and evil came upon them,' declares the LORD." [4] Hear the word of the LORD, house of Jacob and every clan of the house of Israel. [5] Thus says the LORD: "What wrong did your fathers find in me, that they moved far away from me, went after emptiness, and became empty? [6] They did not ask, 'Where is the LORD, who brought us up out of the land of Egypt, who led us through the wilderness, through a land of desert and ravines, a land of drought and the shadow of death, a land no one crossed and where no human lived?' [7] I brought you into a land of orchards, to eat its fruit and its goodness; but you came in and made my land unclean, and my inheritance you turned into an abomination. [8] The priests never asked, 'Where is the LORD?' Those who handle the law did not know me, the shepherds rebelled against me, the prophets prophesied by Baal, and they walked after things that are of no use. [9] That is why I will yet bring a charge against you," declares the LORD, "and against your children's children I will bring a charge. [10] For cross over to the coastlands of Kittim and look; send to Kedar and observe closely; see whether such a thing has ever happened. [11] Has a nation ever exchanged its gods, even though they are no gods? Yet my people have exchanged their glory for what is of no use. [12] Be astonished at this, O heavens; bristle with horror, be laid utterly waste," declares the LORD, [13] "for my people have committed two evils: me they have abandoned, the fountain of living waters, to hew out cisterns for themselves, broken cisterns that hold no water. [14] Is Israel a slave? Or was he born a servant in the household? Why has he become plunder? [15] Over him young lions have roared; they have let out their voice. They have made his land a waste; his cities are burned down, with no one living in them. [16] Even the men of Memphis and Tahpanhes have cropped the crown of your head. [17] Is this not what you have done to yourself, by abandoning the LORD your God at the time he was leading you on the way? [18] So now, what business do you have on the way to Egypt, to drink the water of the Shihor?

And what business do you have on the way to Assyria, to drink the water of the River? [19] Your own evil will chasten you, and your turnings away will rebuke you. Know, then, and see how evil and bitter it is that you abandoned the LORD your God, and that dread of me is not in you," declares the Lord GOD of hosts. [20] "For long ago I broke your yoke; I snapped your bonds; and you said, 'I will not transgress.' But on every lofty hill and under every leafy tree you lay down as a harlot. [] [21] Yet I had planted you as a choice vine, all of it true seed. How then have you changed on me into the wild shoots of a foreign vine? [22] Though you wash with natron and use much soap, the stain of your iniquity remains before me," declares the Lord GOD. [23] "How can you say, 'I have not made myself unclean; after the Baals I have not gone'? Look at your path in the valley; know what you have done, you swift young she-camel, crisscrossing her tracks, [24] a wild donkey at home in the wilderness, snuffing the wind in the desire of her soul! Her lust, who can turn it back? None who seek her need tire themselves; in her month they will find her. [25] Keep your foot from going bare and your throat from thirst. But you said, 'It is no use! No, for I love strangers, and after them I will go.' [26] As a thief is shamed when he is found out, so the house of Israel is shamed, they, their kings, their officials, their priests and their prophets, [27] who say to a piece of wood, 'You are my father,' and to a stone, 'You gave me birth.' For they have turned to me the back of the neck and not the face; yet in the time of their disaster they say, 'Rise up and save us!' [28] Then where are your gods that you made for yourself? Let them rise up, if they can save you in your time of disaster; for your gods have become as many as your cities, O Judah. [29] Why do you bring a case against me? All of you have rebelled against me," declares the LORD. [30] "For nothing I struck your sons; they would not accept discipline. Your sword devoured your prophets like a ravaging lion. [31] You of this generation, see the word of the LORD! Have I been a wilderness to Israel, or a land of deep gloom? Why do my people say, 'We roam at will; we will not come to you anymore'? [32] Can a virgin forget her ornaments, or a bride her sash? Yet my people have forgotten me days without number. [33] How well you make your way to seek love! So even the wicked women you have taught your ways. [34] Even on your skirts is found the lifeblood of the innocent poor; not for breaking in did you find them. Yet for all these things [] [35] you say, 'I am innocent; surely his anger has turned from me.' Look, I will enter into judgment with you because you say, 'I have not sinned.' [36] Why do you take it so lightly, changing your course? Of Egypt too you will be ashamed, as you were ashamed of Assyria. [37] From that one also you will go out with your hands on your head, for the LORD has rejected the ones you trust, and you will not succeed with them.

CHAPTER 3

[1] "It is said: If a man sends his wife away and she leaves him and belongs to another man, will he go back to her again? Would that land not be utterly defiled? But you have played the harlot with many lovers, and yet return to me," declares the LORD. [2] "Raise your eyes to the bare hills and look: where have you not been lain with? Beside the roads you sat for them like an Arab in the desert, and you defiled the land with your whoring and your evil. [3] So the showers were held back, and the late rain did not come; yet you had the forehead of a prostitute; you would not be ashamed. [4] Did you not just now cry to me, 'My father, you are the friend of my youth; [5] will he hold a grudge forever, will he keep watch over it to the end?' See, you have spoken so, yet you have done the evil things and had your way." [6] In the days of King Josiah the LORD said to me, "Did you see what she did, faithless Israel? She went up onto every high mountain and beneath every leafy tree and played the harlot there. [7] And I said, 'After she has done all this, she will come back to me.' But she did not come back, and her sister, treacherous Judah, saw it. [8] And I saw that, for all the adulteries of faithless Israel, I had sent her away and given her a bill of divorce; yet treacherous Judah her sister was not afraid, but she too went and played the harlot. [9] Through the lightness of her harlotry she defiled the land, committing adultery with stone and with wood. [10] Even in all this her treacherous sister Judah did not come back to me with all her heart, but only in pretense," declares the LORD. [11] Then the LORD said to me, "Faithless Israel has proved herself more righteous than treacherous Judah. [12] Go and call out these words toward the north, and say, 'Come back, faithless Israel,' declares the LORD. 'I will not look on you with a fallen face, for I am merciful,' declares the LORD; 'I will not hold a grudge forever. [13] Only acknowledge your iniquity, that against the LORD your God you rebelled, and you scattered your ways to strangers beneath every leafy tree, and my voice you did not obey,' declares the LORD. [14] Come back, O backsliding children," declares the LORD, "for I am a husband to you. I will take you, one from a city and two from a clan, and bring you to Zion. [*] [15] I will give you shepherds after my heart, who will feed you with knowledge and understanding. [16] And when you multiply and are fruitful in the land in those days," declares the LORD, "people will no longer say, 'The ark of the covenant of the LORD.' It will not come up on the heart; they will not remember it or miss it, and it will not be made anymore. [17] At that time Jerusalem will be called the throne of the LORD, and all the nations will gather to it, to the name of the LORD at Jerusalem, and they will no longer walk after the stubbornness of their evil heart. [18] In those days the house of Judah will walk along with the house of Israel, and together they will come out of the land of the north to the land I gave your fathers to inherit. [19] "I myself said, 'How I would place you among the sons and give you a delightful land, a heritage most beautiful of the hosts of nations!' And I said, 'You will call me My Father, and you will not turn back from following me.' [20] But as a woman betrays her companion, so you have betrayed me, O house of Israel," declares the LORD. [21] A sound is heard on the bare hills, the weeping and pleading of the children of Israel, for they have twisted their way; they have forgotten the LORD their God. [22] "Come back, O backsliding children; I will heal your turnings away." "Look, we come to you, for you are the LORD our God. [23] Surely the hills are a lie, the clamor on the mountains; surely in the LORD our God is Israel's salvation. [24] From our youth the shameful thing has eaten up what our fathers labored for, their flocks and their herds, their sons and their daughters. [25] Let us lie down in our shame, and let our humiliation cover us; for against the LORD our God we have sinned, we and our fathers, from our youth until this day, and we have not listened to the voice of the LORD our God."

CHAPTER 4

[1] "If you will turn back, O Israel," declares the LORD, "turn back to me; and if you remove your vile things from before my face and no longer stray, [2] and if you swear, 'As the LORD lives,' in truth, in justice and in righteousness, then nations will bless themselves by him, and in him they will boast." [3] For thus says the LORD to the men of Judah and to Jerusalem: "Break up for yourselves the fallow ground, and do not sow among thorns. [4] Be circumcised to the LORD, and remove the foreskins of your heart, men of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that my wrath does not go forth like fire and burn with no one to quench it, because of the evil of your deeds." [5] Make it known in Judah, and let it be heard in Jerusalem; say, "Sound the horn throughout the land; cry out with a full voice and say, 'Gather together, and let us go into the fortified cities.' [6] Lift up a banner toward Zion; take refuge, do not stand still; for I am bringing evil from the north, and a great shattering. [7] A lion has come up from his thicket; a destroyer of nations is on the move; he has left his place to make your land a waste; your cities will be ruins with no one living in them. [8] Because of this, wrap yourselves in sackcloth, mourn and howl, for the burning anger of the LORD has not turned back from us." [9] "In that day," declares the LORD, "the heart of the king and the heart of the officials will perish; the priests will be stunned and the prophets dumbfounded." [10] Then I said, "Ah, Lord GOD! Truly you have utterly deceived this people and Jerusalem, saying, 'Peace will be yours,' while the sword is touching the throat." [11] At that time it will be said to this people and to Jerusalem, "A searing wind off the bare heights in the desert, on the way to the daughter of my people, not for winnowing and not for cleansing, [12] a wind too full for that comes at my bidding. Now I too will speak my sentences against them." [13] See, like clouds he comes up, his chariots like the storm wind; swifter than eagles are his horses. Woe to us, we are devastated! [14] Wash your heart clean of evil, Jerusalem, so that you may be saved. How long will your thoughts of iniquity lodge within you? [15] For a voice reports from Dan and announces disaster from the hill country of Ephraim: [16] "Tell it to the nations, look! Announce it against Jerusalem: watchers are coming from a distant land; they shout their voice against the cities of Judah. [17] Like guards of a field they surround her, because she rebelled against me," declares the LORD. [18] "Your conduct and your deeds have done these things to you. This is your evil; yes, it is bitter; yes, it reaches to your heart." [19] My bowels, my bowels! I writhe! O walls of my heart! My heart is in turmoil within me; I cannot be silent, for you have heard, O my soul, the sound of the horn, the shout of battle. [20] Disaster on disaster is announced, for the whole land is devastated; in an instant my tents are devastated, my curtains in a moment. [21] How long must I see the banner, must I hear the sound of the horn? [22] "For my people are fools; me they do not know. Stupid children are they, without understanding. Skilled they are at doing evil, but how to do good they do not know." [23] I looked at the earth, and there it was, formless and void; and to the heavens, and their light was not there. [24] I looked at the mountains, and see, they were trembling, and all the hills swayed back and forth. [25] I looked, and see, there was no human being, and every bird of the heavens had fled. [26] I looked, and see, the garden land was a desert, and all its cities were torn down before the LORD, before the heat of his anger. [27] For thus says the LORD: "All the land will become a waste, yet I will not make a complete end. [28] Because of this the earth will mourn and the heavens above grow black; for I have spoken, I have planned it, I have not relented, and I will not turn back from it." [29] At the noise of horsemen and bowmen the whole city flees; they go into the thickets and up among the crags; every city is abandoned, and no one lives in them. [30] And you, devastated one, what will you do? Though you clothe yourself in crimson, though you deck yourself with gold ornaments, though you widen your eyes with paint, you beautify yourself for nothing. Your lovers spurn you; they seek your life. [31] For I hear a sound like a woman in labor, distress like one bearing her first child, the voice of the daughter of Zion gasping, spreading out her hands: "Woe is me, for my soul is fainting before killers!"

CHAPTER 5

[1] "Go up and down through the streets of Jerusalem, and look and take note; search her open squares to see if you can find a man, if there is one who acts justly and seeks truth, so that I may pardon her. [2] Even when they say, 'As the LORD lives,' they are in fact swearing to a lie." [3] O LORD, are your eyes not on truth? You struck them, but they did not grieve; you wiped them out, but they would not accept correction. They have set their faces harder than stone; they would not turn back. [4] And I said, "These are just the poor; they act foolishly, for they do not know the way of the LORD, the judgment of their God. [5] Let me go to the great ones and speak with them, for surely they know the way of the LORD, the judgment of their God." But they too, all together, had broken the yoke and snapped the bonds. [6] That is why a lion from the forest strikes them, a wolf of the desert plains ravages them, a leopard keeps watch over their cities; whoever goes out from them is torn to pieces, for their rebellions are many, their turnings away are numerous. [7] "Why should I forgive you for this? Your sons have abandoned me and sworn by what are not gods. I fed them full, and they committed adultery and crowded into the harlot's house. [8] They are well-fed horses, roaming in heat; each neighs for his neighbor's wife. [9] Shall I not punish for these things?" declares the LORD. "On a nation such as this shall my soul not take vengeance? [10] Go up into her terraces and ruin them, but make no complete end; take away her tendrils, for they are not the LORD's. [11] For they have been utterly faithless to me, the house of Israel and the house of Judah," declares the LORD. [12] They have lied about the LORD and said, "Not he! No evil will come on us; sword and famine we will not see. [13] The prophets will be wind; the word is not in them. So may it be done to them!" [14] So thus says the LORD, the God of hosts: "Because you speak this word, look, I am making my words in your mouth a fire, and this people the wood, and it will consume them. [15] Look, I am bringing upon you a nation from far away, O house of Israel," declares the LORD. "It is a lasting nation, a nation from of old, a nation whose tongue you do not know, and you will not understand what it says. [16] Its quiver is like an open grave; all of them are warriors. [17] It will devour your harvest and your food; it will devour your sons and your daughters; it will devour your sheep and your cattle; it will devour your vine and your fig tree; your fortified cities in which you trust it will smash with the sword. [18] "Yet even in those days," declares the LORD, "I will not make a complete end of you. [19] And when you say, 'Why has the LORD our God done all this to us?' you will tell them, 'Just as you abandoned me and served foreign gods in your land, so you will serve strangers in a land not your own.'" [20] Announce this in the house of Jacob, and make it heard in Judah: [21] "Hear this, you foolish and senseless people, who have eyes and do not see, who have ears and do not hear. [22] Do you not fear me?" declares the LORD. "Will you not tremble before me, who placed the sand as the limit of the sea, a perpetual statute that it cannot pass? Its waves toss, but they cannot prevail; they roar, but they cannot cross it. [23] But this people has a heart that is stubborn and defiant; they have turned away and gone. [24] They do not say in their heart, 'Let us fear the LORD our God, who gives rain, the autumn rain and the spring rain, in its time, who guards for us the weeks appointed for harvest.' [25] Your iniquities have turned these away, and your sins have kept the good from you. [26] For among my people are found wicked men; they watch like fowlers lying low; they set a trap; it is men they catch. [27] As a basket is full of birds, so their houses are full of deceit; that is how they have become great and rich. [28] They have grown fat, they are sleek; they also overflow with deeds of evil. They do not plead the case, the case of the orphan, so that they may prosper, nor do they defend the right of the needy. [29] Shall I not punish for these things?" declares the LORD. "On a nation such as this shall my soul not take vengeance? [30] A horrifying and appalling thing has come about in the land: [31] the prophets prophesy falsely, the priests rule at their direction, and my people love to have it so. But what will you do at the end of it?"

CHAPTER 6

[1] "Take refuge, children of Benjamin, out from the midst of Jerusalem! In Tekoa blow the horn, and over Beth-haccherem raise a signal; for evil looks down from the north, and a great shattering. [2] The comely one, the delicate one, the daughter of Zion, I will cut off.* [3] To her shepherds will come with their flocks; they will pitch tents against her all around; they will graze, each one his own patch. [4] 'Consecrate war against her! Up, let us attack at noon!' 'Woe to us, for the day is turning, for the shadows of evening stretch out!' [5] 'Up, let us attack by night and destroy her strongholds!'" [6] For thus says the LORD of hosts: "Cut down trees and pile up a ramp against Jerusalem. This is the city to be punished; it is all oppression within her. [7] As a well keeps its water flowing, so she keeps her evil flowing; violence and ruin are heard in her; before me continually are sickness and blows. [8] Take warning, Jerusalem, or my soul will turn away from you, or I will make you a waste, a land without inhabitant." [9] Thus says the LORD of hosts: "They will glean the remnant of Israel thoroughly like a vine; turn your hand back again over the shoots, like a grape gatherer." [10] To whom shall I speak and testify, so that they will listen? See, their ear is uncircumcised; they cannot listen. See, the word of the LORD has become to them a reproach; they have no pleasure in it. [11] But I am filled with the wrath of the LORD; I am tired of holding it back. "Pour it on the child in the street and on the circle of young men as well; for husband and wife alike will be taken, the elder with him who is full of days. [12] Their houses will pass to others, fields and wives together, for I will stretch out my hand against the inhabitants of the land," declares the LORD. [13] "For from the least of them to the greatest, every one is greedy for profit, and from prophet to priest, every one practices deceit. [14] They heal the wound of my people lightly, saying, 'Peace, peace!' when there is no peace. [15] Were they ashamed when they did abomination? Not at all ashamed were they, and they did not know how to blush. So they will fall among the fallen; at the time I punish them they will stumble," says the LORD. [16] Thus says the LORD: "Stand by the roads and look, and ask for the paths of old, where the good way is, and walk in it, and find rest for your souls. But they said, 'We will not walk in it.' [17] And I raised up watchmen over you: 'Pay attention to the sound of the horn!' But they said, 'We will not pay attention.' [18] Therefore hear, you nations; and you, congregation, know what is among them. [19] Hear, O earth! See, I am bringing evil on this people, the fruit of their own devices, for to my words they have not paid attention, and my law, they have spurned it. [20] Why does incense come to me from Sheba, and fragrant cane from a far country? Your burnt offerings win no acceptance, and your sacrifices do not please me." [21] So thus says the LORD: "See, I am setting obstacles before this people, and they will stumble on them, fathers and sons together; a neighbor and his friend will perish." [22] Thus says the LORD: "Look, a people is coming from the land of the north, and a great nation is stirred up from the farthest parts of the earth. [23] Bow and javelin they seize; they are ruthless and will show no pity. Their noise thunders like the sea, and they ride upon horses, drawn up like a man for war against you, O daughter of Zion!" [24] We have heard the news of it; our hands hang limp; distress has gripped us, pangs like a woman giving birth. [25] Do not go out to the field or walk on the road, for the enemy has a sword; terror is on every side. [26] Daughter of my people, wrap yourself in sackcloth and roll about in ashes; mourn as for an only son, a lament most bitter, for suddenly the destroyer will come upon us. [27] "I have set you as an assayer among my people, a fortress, so that you may know and assay their way. [28] All of them are the most stubborn of rebels, peddlers of slander; bronze and iron, all of them are corrupt. [29] The bellows puff; by the fire the lead is spent; in vain the smelting goes on, for the evil are not drawn out. [30] Rejected silver they are called, for the LORD has rejected them."

CHAPTER 7

[1] The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, [2] "Stand at the gate of the house of the LORD and call out this word there: 'Hear the word of the LORD, all Judah, you who come in through these gates to bow down to the LORD.'" [3] Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Improve your ways and your doings, and I will let you live in this place. [4] Do not put your trust in lying words: 'The temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD, the temple of the LORD are these!' [5] For if you really make your ways and your doings good, if you really do justice between a man and his neighbor, [6] if you do not oppress the stranger, the orphan and the widow, and do not shed innocent blood in this place, and do not go after other gods to your own hurt, [7] then I will let you live in this place, in the land I gave to your fathers, from forever to forever. [8] See, you put your trust in lying words that are of no use. [9] What? Steal, murder, commit adultery, swear to a lie, make offerings to Baal, and go after other gods that you have not known, [10] and then come and stand before me in this house that is called by my name and say, 'We are rescued!' so that you may go on doing all these abominations? [11] A cave of bandits, is that what this house called by my name has become in your eyes? I myself, look, I have seen it," declares the LORD. [12] "Go now to my place that was at Shiloh, where I let my name dwell at the first, and see what I did to it for the evil of my people Israel. [13] And now, since you have done all these deeds," declares the LORD, "and I spoke to you, rising early and speaking, yet you did not listen, and I called you, yet you did not answer, [14] I will do to the house called by my name, in which you put your trust, and to the place I gave to you and your fathers, just as I did to Shiloh. [15] I will throw you out from before my face, as I threw out all your brothers, the whole seed of Ephraim. [16] "As for you, do not pray for this people; do not lift up for them a cry or a prayer, and do not plead with me, for I am not listening to you. [17] Do you not see what they are doing in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem? [18] The sons gather wood, the fathers light the fire, and the women knead dough to make cakes for the queen of heaven; and they pour out drink offerings to other gods so as to provoke me. [19] Is it me they are provoking?" declares the LORD. "Is it not themselves, to the shame of their own faces?" [20] So thus says the Lord GOD: "See, my anger and my wrath are being poured out on this place, on man and beast, on the trees of the field and the fruit of the ground; it will burn and will not go out." [21] Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Heap your burnt offerings on your sacrifices and eat the meat. [22] For I did not speak with your fathers, nor did I command them, on the day I brought them out of the land of Egypt, about matters of burnt offering and sacrifice. [23] This is what I did command them: 'Listen to my voice, and I will be your God and you will be my people; walk in every way I command you, so that it may be well with you.' [24] But they did not listen or turn their ear; they walked in their own plans, in the stubbornness of their evil heart, and they went backward and not forward. [25] From the day your fathers came out of the land of Egypt to this day, I have sent you all my servants the prophets, day after day, rising early and sending them. [26] But they did not listen to me or turn their ear; they hardened their neck and did more evil than their fathers. [27] "You will speak all these words to them, but they will not listen to you; you will call to them, but they will not answer you. [28] Say to them, 'This is the nation that has not listened to the voice of the LORD its God and has not accepted discipline. Truth has perished; it has been cut off from their mouth. [29] Shear off your crown of hair and throw it away; take up a lament on the bare heights, for the LORD has rejected and abandoned the generation that roused his wrath.' [30] "For the children of Judah have done what is evil in my eyes," declares the LORD. "They have placed their vile things in the house called by my name, to make it unclean. [31] They have built the high places of Topheth in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom to burn their sons and their daughters in the fire, a thing I did not command, and it never came into my mind. [32] Therefore the days are coming," declares the LORD, "when it will no more be called Topheth or the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, but the Valley of Slaughter; they will bury in Topheth for lack of room. [33] The dead bodies of this people will become food for the birds of the heavens and the beasts of the earth, with no one to scare them off. [34] I will silence in the towns of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem the sound of rejoicing and the sound of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, for the land will become a waste.

CHAPTER 8

[1] "At that time," declares the LORD, "they will bring out from their graves the bones of the kings of Judah, the bones of its officials, the bones of the priests, the bones of the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [2] They will spread them out to the sun and the moon and all the host of the heavens, which they loved and served and went after, which they consulted and bowed down to. They will not be gathered up or buried; they will be dung on the surface of the ground. [3] Death will be preferred to life by all who are left of this evil clan, who remain in all the places to which I have driven them," declares the LORD of hosts. [4] "Say to them, 'Thus says the LORD: Do people fall and not get up? Does one turn away and not turn back? [5] Why then has this people, Jerusalem, turned away in an endless turning away? They cling to deceit; they refuse to turn back. [6] I paid attention and listened; what they speak is not right. No one relents of his evil, saying, "What have I done?" Every one turns to his own running, like a horse charging into battle. [7] Even the stork in the sky knows her seasons; the turtledove, the swift and the thrush observe the time of their coming; but my people do not know the judgment of the LORD. [8] How can you say, "We are wise, and the law of the LORD is with us"? Surely, look, the lying pen of the scribes has made it into a lie. [9] The wise are put to shame; they are shattered and caught. See, the word of the LORD they have rejected; so what wisdom do they have? [10] So I will give their wives to others and their fields to those who will take possession; for from the least to the greatest, every one is greedy for profit; from prophet to priest, every one practices deceit. [11] They heal the wound of the daughter of my people lightly, saying, "Peace, peace!" when there is no peace. [12] Were they ashamed when they did abomination? Not at all ashamed were they, and they did not know how to blush. So they will fall among the fallen; at the time of their punishment they will stumble, says the LORD. [13] I will surely sweep them away, declares the LORD. No grapes on the vine, no figs on the fig tree, and the leaf has withered; what I gave them will pass away from them.'"* [14] Why are we sitting here? Gather together, and let us go into the fortified cities and be silenced there; for the LORD our God has silenced us and made us drink poisoned water, because we have sinned against the LORD. [15] We hoped for peace, but nothing good came; for a time of healing, and see, terror! [16] From Dan is heard the snorting of his horses; at the sound of the neighing of his mighty steeds the whole land trembles. They have come and devoured the land and all that is in it, the city and those who live in it. [17] "For see, I am sending among you snakes, vipers that no charm can stop, and they will bite you," declares the LORD. [18] O my comfort in sorrow! My heart is faint within me. [19] Listen! The cry of the daughter of my people from a far-off land: "Is the LORD not in Zion? Is her King not in her?" "Why have they provoked me with their carved images, with foreign nothings?" [20] "Harvest has passed, summer is over, and we have not been saved." [21] Over the shattering of the daughter of my people I am shattered; I go about in mourning; horror has gripped me. [22] Is there no balm in Gilead, no physician there? Why then has the healing of the daughter of my people not come up?

CHAPTER 9

[1] Oh that my head were waters, and my eyes a fountain of tears, so I could weep day and night for the slain of the daughter of my people! [2] Oh that someone would give me in the wilderness a lodging for travelers, so that I could leave my people and go away from them! For they are all adulterers, a crowd of traitors. [3] "They bend their tongue, their bow of falsehood; and not for truth have they grown strong in the land; for from evil to evil they go on, and me they do not know," declares the LORD. [4] "Each of you, be on guard against his neighbor, and trust no brother; for every brother is a cheating supplanter, and every neighbor goes around slandering. [5] Each deceives his neighbor, and no one speaks the truth; they have trained their tongue to speak falsehood; they wear themselves out doing wrong. [6] Your dwelling is in the middle of deceit; through deceit they refuse to know me," declares the LORD. [7] So thus says the LORD of hosts: "See, I will smelt them and test them, for what else can I do because of the daughter of my people? [8] Their tongue is a murderous arrow; it speaks deceit. With his mouth a man speaks peace to his neighbor, but inside he sets an ambush for him. [9] Shall I not punish for these things?" declares the LORD. "On a nation such as this shall my soul not take vengeance? [10] For the mountains I will raise weeping and wailing, and for the pastures of the wilderness a lament, for they are scorched, with no one passing through, and the sound of livestock is not heard; from the birds of the heavens to the beasts, they have fled; they are gone. [11] I will make Jerusalem rubble heaps, a lair of jackals, and the cities of Judah I will make a waste with no inhabitant." [12] Who is the wise man who can understand this, and to whom has the mouth of the LORD spoken, so that he can explain it? Why has the land perished, scorched like a desert with no one passing through? [13] The LORD said, "Because they have abandoned my law that I put before them, and have not listened to my voice or walked by it, [14] but have gone after the stubbornness of their heart and after the Baals, as their fathers taught them, [15] therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: See, I am feeding them, this people, with wormwood, and I will make them drink poisoned water. [16] I will scatter them among nations that neither they nor their fathers have known, and I will send the sword after them until I have finished them off." [17] Thus says the LORD of hosts: "Take note, and call for the women who keen, that they may come; send for the skilled women, that they may come; [18] let them hurry and raise a lament over us, so that our eyes run with tears and our eyelids flow with water. [19] For a sound of lament is heard from Zion: 'How we are devastated! We are deeply ashamed, for we have left the land, for they have thrown down our dwellings.'" [20] Hear, you women, the word of the LORD, and let your ear take in the word of his mouth; teach your daughters a lament, and each woman her neighbor a dirge. [21] For death has climbed in through our windows; it has come into our strongholds, to cut off the child from the street, the young men from the squares. [22] Speak: "Thus declares the LORD: The dead bodies of men will fall like dung on the face of the field, like a sheaf behind the reaper, and no one gathers it." [23] Thus says the LORD: "Let not the wise man boast of his wisdom, let not the strong man boast of his strength, let not the rich man boast of his wealth; [24] but let the one who boasts boast of this: that he understands and knows me, that I am the LORD, who practices steadfast love, justice and righteousness in the earth; for in these things I take delight," declares the LORD. [25] "The days are coming," declares the LORD, "when I will punish everyone who is circumcised only in the foreskin: [26] Egypt and Judah and Edom, the children of Ammon and Moab, and all who have the corners of their hair cut, who live in the desert; for all the nations are uncircumcised, and the whole house of Israel is uncircumcised of heart."

CHAPTER 10

[1] Hear the word that the LORD speaks to you, O house of Israel. [2] Thus says the LORD: "Do not get used to the way of the nations, and do not be terrified by the signs of the heavens, though the nations are terrified by them. [3] For the statutes of the peoples are emptiness: it is a tree someone cuts from the forest, the work of a craftsman's hands with the chisel. [4] With silver and gold they beautify it; with nails and hammers they make it firm so that it will not totter. [5] Like a scarecrow in a melon field they are, and they do not speak; they must be carried, for they do not walk. Do not be afraid of them, for they cannot do evil, and doing good is not in them either." [6] There is none like you, O LORD; great are you, and great is your name in might. [7] Who would not fear you, King of the nations? For it is fitting for you; among all the wise of the nations, and in all their royal realms, there is none like you. [8] They are one and all stupid and foolish; the teaching of nothings is wood. [9] Hammered silver is brought from Tarshish and gold from Uphaz, the work of a craftsman and of a smelter's hands; violet and purple are their clothing; all of them are the work of skilled men. [10] But the LORD is the true God; he is the living God and the everlasting King. At his anger the earth quakes, and nations cannot endure his indignation. [11] This is what you are to say to them: "The gods that did not make the heavens and the earth will perish from the earth and from beneath these heavens."[*] [12] He is the Maker of the earth by his strength, the one who fixed the world in place by his wisdom; by his insight he spread out the heavens. [13] When he gives forth his voice, the waters in the heavens are in uproar; he lifts the mists from the edge of the earth; he makes lightning flashes for the rain and sends the wind out from his treasuries. [14] All mankind is senseless, lacking knowledge; every metalsmith is disgraced by his carved image, for what he casts is a fraud, and there is no breath in them. [15] They are mere breath, a work of mockery; when the time comes to punish them, they will perish. [16] The Portion of Jacob is not like these, for he is the Shaper of all things, and Israel is the tribe of his inheritance; the LORD of hosts is his name. [17] Pick up your bundle from the land, you who live under siege! [18] For thus says the LORD: "See, this time I am slinging out the inhabitants of the land, and I will press them hard, so that they will find it so." [19] Woe to me because of my shattering! My blow is incurable. But I said, "Surely this is a sickness, and I must bear it." [20] My tent is ruined, and all my cords are snapped; my sons have gone out from me and are no more; there is no one to pitch my tent again or to raise my curtains. [21] For the shepherds are stupid and do not inquire of the LORD; so they have not acted wisely, and all their flock is scattered. [22] Hark, a report! Look, it comes, a great quaking out of the land of the north, to make the cities of Judah a waste, a lair of jackals. [23] I know, O LORD, that a man's way is not his own; it is not in a man who walks to direct his steps. [24] Discipline me, O LORD, but in just measure; not in your anger, or you will make me small. [25] Pour out your wrath on the nations that do not know you and on the clans that do not call on your name; for they have eaten Jacob, eaten him and finished him off, and laid his pasture waste.

CHAPTER 11

[1] The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, [2] "Listen to the words of this covenant, and speak them to the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [3] Tell them, 'Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Cursed be the man who will not listen to the words of this covenant, [4] which I commanded your fathers on the day I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the furnace of iron, saying, "Listen to my voice and do them, just as I command you; then you will be my people, and I will be your God," [5] so that I may establish the oath I swore to your fathers, to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, as it is today.'" I answered, "Amen, LORD." [6] Then the LORD said to me, "Call out all these words in the towns of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem: 'Listen to the words of this covenant and carry them out. [7] For I earnestly warned your fathers on the day I brought them up from the land of Egypt, and to this day, rising early and warning: "Listen to my voice." [8] But they did not listen or turn their ear; each walked in the stubbornness of his evil heart. So I brought on them all the words of this covenant, which I had commanded them to do but which they did not do.'" [9] The LORD said to me, "A conspiracy is found among the men of Judah and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [10] They have gone back to the iniquities of their forefathers, who refused to listen to my words; and they have gone after other gods to serve them. The house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken my covenant which I made with their fathers. [11] So thus says the LORD: See, I am bringing on them evil from which they will not be able to get out; they will cry out to me, but I will not listen to them. [12] The cities of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem will go and cry out to the gods to whom they make offerings, but these will give them no help at all in their time of evil. [13] For your gods have become as many as your cities, O Judah, and as many as the streets of Jerusalem are the altars you have set up to the shame, altars for making offerings to Baal. [14] "As for you, do not pray for this people or raise a cry or a prayer for them; for I will not be listening when they call to me because of their evil. [15] What does my beloved want in my house, when she has carried out her schemes, the many? Can holy flesh take your evil away from you? Then you would exult.[*] [16] A leafy olive tree, fair with beautiful fruit, the LORD named you. With the sound of a great roar he has set fire to it, and its branches are broken. [17] The LORD of hosts, who planted you, has decreed evil against you, for the evil the house of Israel and the house of Judah have done to themselves, provoking me by making offerings to Baal." [18] The LORD let me know, and I knew; then you showed me what they were doing. [19] But I was like a gentle lamb led to the slaughter; I did not know that they had devised plans against me: "Let us ruin the tree with its fruit, and cut him off from the land of the living, so that his name is no longer remembered." [20] But you, LORD of hosts, who judge righteously, who examine the heart and the mind, let me see your vengeance upon them, for to you I have laid open my case. [21] So thus says the LORD about the men of Anathoth who are seeking your life and saying, "You must not prophesy in the name of the LORD, or you will die at our hands": [22] so thus says the LORD of hosts: "See, I will punish them. Their young men will die by the sword; their sons and their daughters will die by hunger. [23] No remnant will be left of them, for I will bring evil on the men of Anathoth, the year of their punishment."

CHAPTER 12

[1] You are in the right, O LORD, whenever I argue my case with you; yet I would speak with you of matters of justice. Why does the way of the wicked succeed? Why do all the faithless live in peace? [2] You planted them, and they took root; they go on and produce fruit. You are near in their mouth, but far from their inmost self. [3] Yet you, LORD, know me; you see me and you examine my heart, how it is with you. Pull them out like sheep for slaughter, and consecrate them for the day of killing. [4] How long must the land mourn, and the plants of every field dry up? For the evil of those who live in it, beasts and birds are swept off, since they said, "He will not see how we end." [5] "If you have raced with men on foot and they have tired you, how can you compete with horses? And if in a peaceful land you feel safe, what will you do in the thickets of the Jordan?* [6] For even your brothers and your father's house, even they have betrayed you; even they shout after you at full voice. Do not trust them, though they say good things to you. [7] "I have left my house; I have cast off my inheritance; I have given the darling of my soul into the hand of her enemies. [8] My inheritance has turned on me like a lion in the forest; she has roared at me; therefore I have come to hate her. [9] Is my inheritance a speckled bird of prey to me, with birds of prey circling against her? Go, gather every wild beast; bring them to eat. [10] Many shepherds have ruined my vineyard; they have trampled my plot; they have turned my delightful plot into a desolate wilderness. [11] It has been made a waste; it mourns to me, desolate. All the land lies waste, for no one takes it to heart. [12] Over all the bare heights in the desert the destroyers have come, for the sword of the LORD devours from one end of the land to the other; there is no peace for any flesh. [13] They sowed wheat and harvested thorns; they wore themselves out and gained nothing. Be ashamed of your produce, because of the burning anger of the LORD." [14] Thus says the LORD about all my evil neighbors who strike at the inheritance I gave my people Israel to possess: "See, I will uproot them from their land, and the house of Judah I will uproot from among them. [15] Then, after I have uprooted them, I will once more have compassion on them and bring them back, each to his inheritance and each to his land. [16] And if they will truly learn the ways of my people, to swear by my name, 'As the LORD lives,' just as they taught my people to swear by Baal, then they will be built up in the midst of my people. [17] But if they do not listen, I will uproot that nation, uproot and destroy it," declares the LORD.

CHAPTER 13

[1] This is what the LORD said to me: "Go and get yourself a linen loincloth and put it on your hips, but do not let it go into water." [2] So I got the loincloth, as the LORD had said, and put it on my hips. [3] And the word of the LORD came to me a second time, saying, [4] "Take the loincloth you bought, the one on your hips, and get up, go to the Euphrates and hide it there in a crevice of the rock." [5] So I went and hid it at the Euphrates, just as the LORD had commanded me. [6] Many days later the LORD said to me, "Get up, go to the Euphrates and take from there the loincloth I commanded you to hide there." [7] So I went to the Euphrates and dug and took the loincloth from the spot where I had hidden it; and there was the loincloth, spoiled, not fit for anything. [8] Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying, [9] "Thus says the LORD: Just so will I spoil the pride of Judah and the great pride of Jerusalem. [10] This evil people, who refuse to listen to my words, who walk in the stubbornness of their heart and have gone after other gods to serve them and bow down to them, will become like this loincloth, which is fit for nothing. [11] For as the loincloth clings to a man's hips, so I made the whole house of Israel and the whole house of Judah cling to me," declares the LORD, "to be my people, a name, a praise and an adornment; but they did not listen. [12] "Speak this word to them: 'Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Every jar is to be filled with wine.' And they will say to you, 'Do we not know very well that every jar is to be filled with wine?' [13] Then say to them, 'Thus says the LORD: See, I am filling all the inhabitants of this land with drunkenness, the kings who sit for David on his throne, the priests, the prophets and all who live in Jerusalem. [14] I will smash them one against another, the fathers and the sons together,' declares the LORD. 'I will show no pity, I will not spare, I will have no compassion that would keep me from destroying them.'" [15] Listen and pay attention; do not be haughty, for the LORD has spoken. [16] Give glory to the LORD your God before he brings darkness, before your feet stumble on the mountains at dusk; you will hope for light, and he will make it the shadow of death and turn it into deep gloom. [17] But if you will not listen, my soul will weep in hiding over your pride; my eye will weep and weep and stream with tears, for the LORD's flock has been carried captive. [18] Tell the king and the queen mother, "Sit down low, for from your heads has come down your glorious crown." [19] The towns of the Negev are shut, with no one to open them; Judah is taken into exile, all of it, taken into exile completely. [20] Raise your eyes and look at those coming from the north. Where is the flock that was given to you, your beautiful sheep? [21] What will you say when he sets over you, as head, those you yourself trained to be your allies? Will not pains seize you like a woman in childbirth? [22] And if you say in your heart, "Why have these things happened to me?" it is for the greatness of your iniquity that your skirts have been stripped off and your heels treated with violence. [23] Can a Cushite change his skin, or a leopard its spots? Then you too can do good, you who are schooled in doing evil.* [24] I will scatter them like stubble blown away by the desert wind. [25] This is your lot, the share I have measured out for you, declares the LORD, because you forgot me and put your trust in the lie. [26] I myself will pull your skirts up over your face, and your disgrace will be seen. [27] Your adulteries and your neighings, your shameless whoring on the hills in the field: I have seen your vile acts. Woe to you, Jerusalem! You will not be clean. How much longer?

CHAPTER 14

[1] The word of the LORD which came to Jeremiah on the matter of the droughts: [2] "Judah mourns, and her gates droop; they sit darkened on the ground, and the outcry of Jerusalem rises. [3] Their nobles send their young servants for water; they go to the pits and find no water; they come back with their jars empty; they are ashamed and humiliated, and they cover their heads. [4] Because of the ground, which is dismayed since there has been no rain in the land, the plowmen are ashamed; they cover their heads. [5] Even the doe in the open field gives birth and leaves her fawn, for there is no grass. [6] Wild donkeys stand on the bare heights, panting for air like jackals; their eyes fail, for there is no herbage." [7] Though our iniquities bear witness against us, O LORD, act for the sake of your name; for many are our turnings away; against you we have sinned. [8] Hope of Israel, its Savior in the time of distress, why are you like a stranger in the land, like a traveler who stops only to spend the night? [9] Why are you like a man bewildered, like a warrior unable to save? Yet you are among us, O LORD, and your name is called upon us; do not abandon us. [10] Thus says the LORD of this people: "So they have loved to wander; they have not held back their feet. So the LORD takes no pleasure in them; now he will remember their iniquity and punish their sins." [11] And the LORD said to me, "Do not pray on behalf of this people for their welfare. [12] Though they fast, I am not listening to their cry; though they offer burnt offering and grain offering, I take no pleasure in them. Instead, by sword, famine and pestilence I will finish them off." [13] And I said, "Ah, Lord GOD! The prophets keep saying to them, 'You will not see a sword, and you will have no famine; rather, I will give you lasting peace in this place.'" [14] Then the LORD said to me, "Lies are what the prophets prophesy in my name. I did not send them or command them or speak to them. A lying vision, divination, worthlessness and the deceit of their own hearts is what they prophesy to you. [15] So thus says the LORD about the prophets who prophesy in my name, though I did not send them, and who say, 'Sword and famine will not be in this land': By sword and by famine these prophets will come to their end. [16] And the people to whom they prophesy will be thrown out into the streets of Jerusalem because of famine and sword, with no one to bury them, they, their wives, their sons and their daughters; I will pour out their evil on them. [17] "Say this word to them: 'Let my eyes stream with tears night and day, and let them not stop; for the virgin daughter of my people has been shattered with a great shattering, a blow that is very grievous. [18] If I go out into the field, look, the slain of the sword! If I come into the city, look, the sicknesses of famine! For both prophet and priest wander into a land they do not know.'" [19] Have you rejected Judah completely? Do you loathe Zion? Why have you struck us so that there is no healing for us? We hoped for peace, but nothing good came; for a time of healing, and see, terror! [20] We know, O LORD, our wickedness, the iniquity of our fathers; for we have sinned against you. [21] For your name's sake, do not reject us; do not treat with contempt the throne of your glory. Remember, and do not break your covenant with us. [22] Is there among the nothings of the nations one who brings rain? Or do the heavens give showers? Is it not you, O LORD our God? We hope in you, for you are the one who has made all these things.

CHAPTER 15

[1] Then the LORD said to me, "Though Moses and Samuel were to stand before me, my soul would not go out to this people. Send them away from my presence, and let them go out. [2] And when they say to you, 'Where should we go?' tell them, 'Thus says the LORD: Whoever is for death, to death; whoever is for the sword, to the sword; whoever is for famine, to famine; whoever is for captivity, to captivity.' [3] I will appoint over them four families," declares the LORD: "the sword to kill, dogs to drag off, and the birds of the heavens and the beasts of the earth to eat and to destroy. [4] I will make them a horror to every kingdom of the earth because of Manasseh the son of Hezekiah, king of Judah, for what he did in Jerusalem. [5] Who will show you compassion, Jerusalem, or who will mourn for you? Who will turn aside to ask how you are? [6] You have cast me off," declares the LORD; "backward you keep going. So I have stretched out my hand against you and ruined you; I am tired of relenting. [7] I have winnowed them with a fork in the gates of the land; I have made them childless; I have destroyed my people; from their ways they did not turn back. [8] Their widows have become more to me than the sand of the seas; I have brought on them, against the mother of young men, a destroyer at midday; I have made agitation and terrors fall on her suddenly. [9] The mother of seven grows faint; she has breathed out her soul; her sun has set while it was still day; she is ashamed and humiliated. And what is left of them I will give to the sword before their enemies," declares the LORD. [10] Woe to me, my mother, that you gave birth to me, a man of strife and a man of quarrel to all the land! I have not lent, and they have not lent to me, yet every one of them curses me. [11] The LORD said, "Surely I will release you for good; surely I will make the enemy entreat you in the time of evil and in the time of trouble.* [12] Can anyone break iron, iron from the north, or bronze?* [13] Your riches and your treasures I will hand over as plunder, not for a price, for all your sins, in all your borders. [14] I will make you pass over with your enemies into a land you do not know; for fire has been lit in my anger; against you it will burn." [15] You know, O LORD; remember me and attend to me, and avenge me on those who pursue me. Do not, in your slowness to anger, take me away; know that for your sake I bear insult. [16] Your words were found, and I devoured them; your word was to me a delight and the joy of my heart, for your name is called upon me, O LORD God of hosts. [17] I have not sat in the circle of those who make merry, nor have I exulted; because of your hand I sat alone, for you had filled me with indignation. [18] Why has my pain become endless and my wound incurable, refusing healing? You are truly to me like a deceptive brook, like waters that are not reliable. [19] So thus says the LORD: "If you turn back, I will restore you, and before me you will stand; if you bring out what is precious from what is worthless, you will be as my mouth. Let them turn to you, but you are not to turn to them. [20] I will make you for this people a fortified wall of bronze; they will make war on you, but they will not overcome you, for I am with you to save you and rescue you," declares the LORD. [21] "I will rescue you from the hand of the wicked and ransom you from the palm of the ruthless."

CHAPTER 16

[1] The word of the LORD came to me, saying, [2] "Do not take a wife for yourself, and do not have sons or daughters in this place. [3] For thus says the LORD about the sons and daughters born in this place, and about the mothers who bear them and the fathers who beget them in this land: [4] They will die deaths of disease; they will not be mourned or buried; they will become dung on the surface of the ground. By sword and famine they will be finished off, and their dead bodies will become food for the birds of the heavens and the beasts of the earth. [5] "For thus says the LORD: Do not go into a house where there is a funeral meal; do not go to mourn or show them sympathy; for I have withdrawn my peace from this people," declares the LORD, "the steadfast love and the compassion. [6] Great and small will die in this land; they will not be buried, no one will mourn for them, and no one will gash himself or shave his head for them. [7] No one will break bread for them in mourning, to comfort anyone over the dead, and no one will give them the cup of consolation to drink for a father or a mother. [8] Nor are you to go into a house of feasting to sit with them to eat and drink. [9] For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: See, I will silence in this place, before your eyes and in your days, the sound of rejoicing and the sound of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride. [10] "When you tell this people all these words and they ask you, 'Why has the LORD decreed against us all this great evil? What is our iniquity, and what is our sin that we have committed against the LORD our God?' [11] then tell them, 'It is because your fathers abandoned me,' declares the LORD, 'and went after other gods, served them and bowed down to them, but me they abandoned and my law they did not keep; [12] and you have done worse than your fathers, for look, each of you is walking after the stubbornness of his evil heart, refusing to listen to me. [13] So I will throw you out of this land into a land you have not known, neither you nor your fathers, and there you will serve other gods day and night, because I will not grant you favor.' [14] "Therefore the days are coming," declares the LORD, "when it will no longer be said, 'As the LORD lives, who brought the children of Israel up out of the land of Egypt,' [15] but rather, 'As the LORD lives, who brought the children of Israel up out of the land of the north and out of all the lands to which he had driven them.' And I will bring them back to their land, which I gave to their fathers. [16] "See, I am sending for many fishermen," declares the LORD, "and they will fish them out; after that I will send for many hunters, and they will hunt them down on every mountain and every hill and in the crevices of the rocks. [17] For my eyes are upon all their ways; they are not hidden from my face, and their iniquity is not concealed from before my eyes. [18] But first I will repay their iniquity and their sin double, because they have profaned my land with the corpses of their vile idols, and with their abominations they have filled my inheritance." [19] O LORD, my strength and my stronghold, my refuge in the day of trouble, to you nations will come from the ends of the earth and say, "Nothing but lies did our fathers inherit, emptiness, and in them nothing of use. [20] Can a man make gods for himself? They are not gods!" [21] "So see, I will let them know; this once I will let them know my hand and my strength, and they will know that my name is the LORD."

CHAPTER 17

[1] "Judah's sin is written with an iron stylus; with a diamond point it is carved on the tablet of their heart and on the horns of your altars, [2] as their sons remember their altars and their Asherim by the leafy trees, on the high hills, [3] my mountain in the open country. Your wealth, all your treasures, I will give as plunder, your high places, because of sin, throughout your borders. [4] And you will let go, through your own fault, of your inheritance which I gave you; I will make you serve your enemies in a land you do not know; for you have lit a fire in my anger that will burn forever." [5] Thus says the LORD: "Cursed is the man who trusts in man and makes flesh his strength, whose heart turns aside from the LORD. [6] He will be like a bush in the desert; he will not see when good comes; he will live in the scorched places of the wilderness, in a salt land with no one living in it. [7] "Blessed is the man who trusts in the LORD, and the LORD is his confidence. [8] He will be like a tree planted by water, sending out its roots by the stream; it does not see when heat comes, and its leaves stay lush; in a year of drought it does not worry, and it does not cease from bearing fruit." [9] The heart is more deceitful than all else, and desperately sick; who can understand it? [10] "I, the LORD, search the heart and examine the inmost being, to give each man according to his ways, according to the fruit of his deeds." [11] A partridge that hatches what it did not lay: so is the one who gains wealth unjustly; in the middle of his days it will leave him, and at his end he will be a fool. [12] A throne of glory, on high from the first, is the place of our sanctuary. [13] O LORD, Hope of Israel, all who abandon you will be shamed; those who turn away from me will be written in the dust, for they have abandoned the LORD, the fountain of living waters. [14] Heal me, LORD, and I will be healed; save me, and I will be saved, for you are my praise. [15] Look, they are saying to me, "Where is the word of the LORD? Let it come, then!" [16] But I have not run away from being a shepherd after you, nor have I longed for the day of disaster; you know. What came out of my lips was in front of your face. [17] Do not become a terror to me; you are my refuge in the day of evil. [18] Let my pursuers be ashamed, but let me not be ashamed; let them be shattered, but let me not be shattered. Bring on them the day of evil, and with a double shattering shatter them. [19] Thus the LORD said to me:

"Go and stand in the gate of the sons of the people, through which the kings of Judah come in and go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem, [20] and say to them, 'Hear the word of the LORD, kings of Judah and all Judah and all inhabitants of Jerusalem who come in through these gates. [21] Thus says the LORD: Be careful, for your lives' sake, not to carry a load on the Sabbath day or bring it in through the gates of Jerusalem. [22] Do not take a load out of your houses on the Sabbath day or do any work; keep the Sabbath day holy, as I commanded your fathers. [23] But they did not listen or turn their ear; they hardened their neck so as not to hear and not to accept discipline. [24] Yet if you truly listen to me, declares the LORD, and bring no load through the gates of this city on the Sabbath day, but keep the Sabbath day holy by doing no work on it, [25] then through the gates of this city will come kings and officials sitting on David's throne, riding in chariots and on horses, they and their officials, the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and this city will be inhabited forever. [26] And they will come from the towns of Judah and the surroundings of Jerusalem, from the land of Benjamin, from the lowland, from the hill country and from the Negev, bringing burnt offering and sacrifice, grain offering and frankincense, and bringing thanksgiving to the house of the LORD. [27] But if you do not listen to me, to keep the Sabbath day holy and not carry a load as you come in through the gates of Jerusalem on the Sabbath day, then I will set fire to its gates, and it will consume the strongholds of Jerusalem and will not be put out.'"

CHAPTER 18

[1] The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD, saying: [2] "Rise and go down to the house of the potter; there I will let you hear my words." [3] I went down to the potter's house, and there he was, working at the wheels. [4] And when the vessel he was making of clay was spoiled in the potter's hand, he made it again into another vessel, as it seemed right to the potter to make. [5] Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying: [6] "Can I not do with you, house of Israel, as this potter does? declares the LORD. See, as the clay in the potter's hand, so are you in my hand, house of Israel. [7] At one moment I speak about a nation or a kingdom, to uproot, to tear down and to destroy; [8] but if that nation I spoke against turns back from its evil, I will relent of the evil I had planned to do to it. [9] At another moment I speak about a nation or a kingdom, to build and to plant; [10] but if it does evil in my eyes by not listening to my voice, I will relent of the good I had said I would do for it. [11] So now, speak to the men of Judah and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem: 'Thus says the LORD: See, I am forming evil against you and devising a plan against you. Turn back, each from his evil way, and improve your ways and your doings.' [12] But they say, 'It is no use! We will go after our own plans, and each of us will act by the stubbornness of his evil heart.' [13] "So thus says the LORD: Ask among the nations: who has heard things like these? A most horrible thing the virgin Israel has done. [14] Does the snow of Lebanon fail from the rock of the field? Are the cold, flowing waters from afar plucked up?* [15] Yet my people have forgotten me; they make offerings to nothingness. They have been made to stumble in their ways, the age-old paths, to walk on byways, a road not built up, [16] to make their land a horror, a thing to hiss at forever; all who pass by it will be appalled and shake their heads. [17] Like the east wind I will scatter them before the enemy; my back and not my face I will show them in the day of their disaster." [18] And they said, "Come, let us make plans against Jeremiah, for law will not be lost from the priest, nor counsel from the wise, nor the word from the prophet. Come, let us strike him with the tongue and not heed any of his words." [19] Heed me, O LORD, and listen to the voice of my adversaries. [20] Is evil to be paid back for good? For they have dug a pit for my soul. Remember how I stood before you to speak good on their behalf, to turn your wrath from them. [21] So hand their sons over to famine, and pour them out by the power of the sword. Let their wives be bereaved and widowed, let their men be slain by death, their young men struck by the sword in battle. [22] Let a cry be heard from their houses when you bring a raiding band upon them suddenly; for they have dug a pit to catch me and hidden traps for my feet. [23] But you, LORD, know all their counsel against me for death. Do not make atonement for their iniquity, and do not wipe out their sin from before you; let them be made to stumble before you; in the time of your anger deal with them.

CHAPTER 19

[1] Thus says the LORD: "Go and get a potter's earthenware jug, and take with you some of the elders of the people and of the elders of the priests, [2] and go out to the Valley of the Son of Hinnom at the opening of the Potsherd Gate, and call out there the words I will speak to you.* [3] Say, 'Hear the word of the LORD, kings of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem. Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: See, I am bringing evil on this place, such that the ears of anyone who hears of it will ring. [4] For they have abandoned me and made this place alien; they have made offerings in it to other gods whom neither they nor their fathers nor the kings of Judah knew, and they have filled this place with the blood of innocents. [5] They have built the high places of Baal to burn their sons in the fire as burnt offerings to Baal, a thing I did not command or speak of, and it never came into my mind. [6] Therefore the days are coming, declares the LORD, when this place will no more be called Topheth or the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, but the Valley of Slaughter. [7] In this place I will drain away the counsel of Judah and Jerusalem; I will make them fall by the sword before their enemies and by the hand of those who seek their life, and I will give their dead bodies as food to the birds of the heavens and the beasts of the earth. [8] I will make this city a horror and a thing to hiss at; all who pass by it will be appalled and hiss over all its blows. [9] I will make them eat the flesh of their sons and the flesh of their daughters; each will eat his neighbor's flesh in the siege and the straits into which their enemies and those who seek their life will squeeze them.' [10] "Then break the jug before the eyes of the men who go with you, [11] and say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts: Just so will I break this people and this city, as one breaks a potter's vessel that can no longer be repaired. In Topheth they will bury, for lack of room to bury. [12] That is what I will do to this place, declares the LORD, and to its inhabitants, making this city like Topheth. [13] The houses of Jerusalem and the houses of the kings of Judah will be defiled like the place of Topheth, all the houses on whose roofs they made offerings to all the host of the heavens and poured out drink offerings to other gods.'" [14] When Jeremiah came back from Topheth, where the LORD had sent him to prophesy, he stood in the court of the house of the LORD and said to all the people, [15] "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: See, I am bringing on this city and on all its towns all the evil I have spoken against it, because they have hardened their neck so as not to listen to my words."

CHAPTER 20

[1] Pashhur the son of Immer, the priest, who was chief overseer in the house of the LORD, heard Jeremiah prophesy these words. [2] And Pashhur beat Jeremiah the prophet and put him in the stocks at the upper Gate of Benjamin, in the house of the LORD. [3] On the next day Pashhur released Jeremiah from the stocks, and Jeremiah said to him, "Pashhur is not the name the LORD calls you, but Magor-missabib.* [4] For thus says the LORD: See, I will make you a terror to yourself and to all who love you; they will fall by the sword of their enemies as your eyes watch. All Judah I will give into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he will carry them into exile to Babylon and strike them with the sword. [5] And I will give all the riches of this city, all its produce and all its valuables, and all the treasures of the kings of Judah, into the hand of their enemies; they will plunder them, take them and carry them to Babylon. [6] As for you, Pashhur, and all who live in your house, you will go into captivity; to Babylon you will come, and there you will die and there be buried, you and all who love you, to whom you have prophesied falsely." [7] You deceived me, O LORD, and I was deceived; you were stronger than I, and you prevailed. I have become a laughingstock all the day; every one of them mocks me. [8] For each time I speak, I cry out, I shout, "Violence and ruin!" For the word of the LORD has become to me an insult and a scorn all the day. [9] And if I say, "I will not mention him or speak anymore in his name," there is in my heart something like a burning fire shut up in my bones; I am weary of holding it in, and I cannot. [10] For I have heard the whispering of many, "Terror on every side! Denounce him! Let us denounce him!" All the men I am at peace with watch for my stumbling: "Perhaps he will be lured, and we can overpower him and take our revenge on him." [11] But the LORD is with me as a dread warrior; therefore my pursuers will stumble and not prevail. They will be greatly shamed, for they will not succeed, an everlasting disgrace that will not be forgotten. [12] O LORD of hosts, who test the righteous, who see the heart and the mind, let me see your vengeance on them, for to you I have laid open my case.* [13] Sing to the LORD; praise the LORD! For he has rescued the soul of the needy from the hand of evildoers. [14] Cursed be the day on which I was born! The day my mother bore me, may it not be blessed! [15] Cursed be the man who brought my father the news, "A son has been born to you, a male!" and made him very glad. [16] May that man be like the towns the LORD overthrew without relenting; may he hear a cry in the morning and a battle shout at noontime, [17] because he did not kill me from the womb, so that my mother would have been my grave and her womb great with child forever. [18] Why did I come out of the womb at all, to see trouble and grief and to finish my days in shame?

CHAPTER 21

[1] The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD when King Zedekiah sent to him Pashhur the son of Malchiah and the priest Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah, with this message: [2] "Inquire of the LORD on our behalf, because Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon is fighting against us. Perhaps the LORD will act with us in keeping with all his wonders, so that he goes up from us." [3] Jeremiah answered them, "Say this to Zedekiah: [4] 'Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: See, I am turning back the weapons of war in your hands, with which you fight the king of Babylon and the Chaldeans who are besieging you outside the wall, and I will gather them into the heart of this city. [5] I myself will fight against you with outstretched hand and strong arm, in anger, in fury and in great indignation. [6] I will strike the inhabitants of this city, man and beast alike; they will die by a great pestilence. [7] After that, declares the LORD, I will give Zedekiah king of Judah and his servants and the people, those left in this city from the pestilence, the sword and the famine, into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, into the hand of their enemies and the hand of those seeking their life. He will strike them with the edge of the sword; he will not take pity on them, will not spare, will have no compassion.' [8] "And to this people say, 'Thus says the LORD: Look, I am placing before you the way of life and the way of death. [9] Whoever remains in this city will die by sword, famine and pestilence; but whoever goes out and falls away to the Chaldeans who besiege you will live, and he will have his life as a prize of war. [10] For I have set my face against this city for evil and not for good, declares the LORD; into the hand of the king of Babylon it will be given, and he will burn it with fire.' [11] "And to the house of the king of Judah: 'Hear the word of the LORD, [12] house of David! Thus says the LORD: Judge justly every morning, and rescue the robbed from the hand of the oppressor, so that my wrath does not go forth like fire and burn with no one to quench it, because of the evil of your deeds. [13] I am against you, inhabitant of the valley, rock of the plain, declares the LORD, you who say, "Who can come down upon us? Who can get into our lairs?" [14] I will punish you as the fruit of your deeds deserves, declares the LORD; I will set fire to her forest, and it will consume all that is around her.'"

CHAPTER 22

[1] Thus says the LORD: "Go down to the house of the king of Judah and speak this word there: [2] say, 'Hear the word of the LORD, king of Judah, who sit on David's throne, you and your servants and your people who come in through these gates. [3]

Thus says the LORD: Practice justice and righteousness, and rescue the robbed from the hand of the oppressor. Do not mistreat or do violence to the stranger, the orphan or the widow, and do not shed innocent blood in this place. [4] For if you truly carry out this word, then through the gates of this house will come kings sitting for David on his throne, riding in chariots and on horses, he and his servants and his people. [5] But if you do not listen to these words, by myself I swear, declares the LORD, this house will become a ruin.'" [6] For thus says the LORD about the house of the king of Judah: "Gilead you are to me, the top of Lebanon; yet I will surely make you a desert, towns uninhabited. [7] I will set apart destroyers against you, each man with his weapons; they will cut down your finest cedars and cast them into the fire. [8] "Many nations will pass by this city and say to one another, 'Why has the LORD dealt like this with this great city?' [9] And they will say, 'Because they abandoned the covenant of the LORD their God and bowed down to other gods and served them.'" [10] Do not weep for the dead, and do not grieve for him; weep bitterly for the one who goes away, for he will return no more to see the land where he was born. [11] For thus says the LORD about Shallum the son of Josiah, king of Judah, who became king in place of Josiah his father and who went out from this place: "He will not come back here again. [] [12] In the place to which they have exiled him, there he will die, and this land he will not see again." [13] "Woe to him who builds his house by unrighteousness and his upper rooms by injustice, who makes his neighbor serve for nothing and does not give him his pay, [14] who says, 'I will build myself a wide house with airy upper rooms,' and cuts windows in it, paneled with cedar and painted with vermilion. [15] Does it make you a king, that you strive in cedar? Your father, did he not eat and drink and do justice and righteousness? Then it was well with him. [16] He judged the case of the poor and needy; then it was well. Is that not what knowing me is? declares the LORD. [17] But your eyes and your heart are on nothing but your unjust gain, on shedding innocent blood, and on oppression and crushing, to do them." [18] So thus says the LORD about Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah: "They will not mourn for him, 'Ah, my brother!' or 'Ah, sister!' They will not mourn for him, 'Ah, lord!' or 'Ah, his splendor!' [19] With the burial of a donkey he will be buried, dragged and flung out beyond the gates of Jerusalem." [20] "Climb Lebanon and cry out; in Bashan give out your voice; cry out from Abarim, for all your lovers are shattered. [21] I spoke to you when you were at ease; you said, 'I will not listen.' This has been your way since your youth: you have not listened to my voice. [22] The wind will shepherd all your shepherds, and your lovers will go into captivity; then you will be ashamed and humiliated for all your evil. [23] You who live in Lebanon, nesting in the cedars, how you will groan when pangs come on you, anguish like a woman in labor!" [24] "As I live, declares the LORD, though Coniah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, were a signet ring on my right hand, even from there I would tear you off [] [25] and give you into the hand of those who seek your life, into the hand of those you fear, into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and of the Chaldeans. [26] I will fling you, and the mother who bore you, into another land where you were not born, and there you will die. [27] But to the land they long in their soul to return to, there they will not return." [28] Is this man Coniah a despised, shattered jar, a vessel no one wants? Why are he and his offspring flung out and thrown into a land they have not known? [29] O land, land, land, hear the word of the LORD! [30] Thus says the LORD: "Write this man down as childless, a man who will not succeed in his days; for none of his offspring will succeed in sitting on the throne of David and ruling again in Judah."

CHAPTER 23

[1] "Woe to shepherds who ruin and scatter the flock of my pasture!" declares the LORD. [2] So thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, against the shepherds who tend my people: "You have scattered my flock and pushed them away, and you have not attended to them. See, I will attend to you for the evil of your deeds, declares the LORD. [3] I myself will gather the remnant of my flock from all the lands where I have driven them, and bring them back to their pasture, and they will be fruitful and increase. [4] I will set over them shepherds who will tend them; they will fear no more, nor be terrified, nor will any be lost, declares the LORD. [5] "The days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will raise up for David a righteous Branch, and he will reign as king and deal wisely, and he will practice justice and righteousness in the land. [] [6] In his days Judah will be saved and Israel will live in safety; and this is the name by which he will be called: The LORD is our righteousness. [] [7] "Therefore the days are coming, declares the LORD, when they will no longer say, 'As the LORD lives, who brought the children of Israel up out of the land of Egypt,' [8] but rather, 'As the LORD lives, who brought up and led the seed of the house of Israel out of the land of the north and out of all the lands to which I had driven them.' And they will live on their own soil." [9] About the prophets: My heart is broken inside me; all my bones tremble; I have become like a drunk man, like a man whom wine has overcome, because of the LORD and because of his holy words. [10] For the land is full of adulterers; because of the curse the land mourns, the pastures of the desert have dried up. Their running is evil, and their strength is not right. [11] "For both prophet and priest are profane; even in my house I have found their evil, declares the LORD. [12] So their way will become to them like slippery places in the gloom; they will be pushed and fall in it; for I will bring evil on them, the year of their punishment, declares the LORD. [13] In the prophets of Samaria I saw something unseemly: they prophesied by Baal and made my people Israel go astray. [14] But in the prophets of Jerusalem I have seen something horrible: committing adultery and walking in falsehood; they strengthen the hands of evildoers, so that none turns back from his evil. They have all become to me like Sodom, and her inhabitants like Gomorrah." [15] So thus says the LORD of hosts about the prophets: "See, I am feeding them wormwood, and I will make them drink poisoned water; for from the prophets of Jerusalem profaneness has gone out into all the land." [16] Thus says the LORD of hosts: "Do not listen to the words of the prophets who prophesy to you; they are filling you with empty hopes. They speak a vision of their own heart, not from the mouth of the LORD. [17] They keep on saying to those who despise me, 'The LORD has spoken: Peace will be yours'; and to everyone who walks in the stubbornness of his heart they say, 'Evil will not come upon you.'" [18] For who has stood in the council of the LORD, that he should see and hear his word? Who has heeded his word and listened? [19] Look, the storm of the LORD! Wrath has gone forth, a whirling storm; it will whirl onto the head of the wicked. [20] The anger of the LORD will not turn back until he has done and carried out the purposes of his heart. In the last days you will understand it fully. [21] "I did not send the prophets, yet they ran; I did not speak to them, yet they prophesied. [22] If they had stood in my council, they would have let my people hear my words and turned them back from their evil way and from the evil of their deeds. [23] "Am I a God at hand, declares the LORD, and not a God far off? [24] Can a man hide himself in secret places so that I do not see him? declares the LORD. Is it not I who fill the heavens and the earth? declares the LORD. [25] I have heard what the prophets say who prophesy falsehood in my name: 'I had a dream, I had a dream!' [26] How long will this go on in the heart of the prophets who prophesy falsehood, prophets of their own heart's deceit, [27] who plan to make my people forget my name by their dreams which they tell each other, as their fathers forgot my name through Baal? [28] Let the prophet who has a dream tell a dream; but let him who has my word speak my word faithfully. What does straw have in common with wheat? declares the LORD. [29] Is not my word just like fire, declares the LORD, and like a hammer that shatters a rock? [30] Therefore I am against the prophets, declares the LORD, who steal my words, each from his neighbor. [31] I am against the prophets, declares the LORD, who take up their own tongue and say, 'He declares.' [32] I am against those who prophesy false dreams, declares the LORD, and recount them and lead my people astray with their lies and their boasting, though I did not send them or command them; they are of no benefit at all to this people, declares the LORD. [33] "When this people, or a prophet or a priest, asks you, 'What is the burden of the LORD?' say to them, 'What burden? I will cast you off, declares the LORD.'* [34] As for the prophet, the priest or the people who say, 'The burden of the LORD,' I will punish that man and his house. [35] This is how you are to speak, each to his neighbor and each to his brother: 'What did the LORD answer?' and 'What did the LORD say?' [36] But 'the burden of the LORD' you must not mention again, for the burden will be each man's own word, and you have twisted the words of the living God, the LORD of hosts, our God. [37] This is how you are to speak to the prophet: 'What did the LORD answer you?' and 'What did the LORD say?' [38] But if you say, 'The burden of the LORD,' then thus says the LORD: Because you have spoken this word, 'The burden of the LORD,' though I sent to you saying, 'Do not say, The burden of the LORD,' [39] therefore, see, I will surely forget you and throw you away from my presence, you and the city which I gave to you and your fathers.* [40] I will lay on you an everlasting reproach and an everlasting humiliation that will not be forgotten."

CHAPTER 24

[1] The LORD let me see: there were two baskets of figs set in front of the temple of the LORD, after Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had taken into exile from Jerusalem Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and the officials of Judah, the craftsmen and the smiths, and had brought them to Babylon. [2] One basket had figs that were very good, like early figs; the other basket had figs that were very bad, too bad to be eaten. [3] The LORD said to me, "What do you see, Jeremiah?" I said, "Figs: the good figs very good, and the bad very bad, too bad to be eaten." [4] Then the word of the LORD came to me, saying: [5] "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Like these good figs, so I will look with favor on the exiles of Judah whom I sent out of this place to the land of the Chaldeans. [6] I will set my eye on them for good and bring them back to this land; I will build them up and not tear them down; I will plant them and not uproot them. [7] I will give them a heart to know me, that I am the LORD; they will be my people and I will be their God, for they will turn back to me with all their heart. [8] "And like the bad figs, too bad to be eaten, yes, thus says the LORD, so I will treat Zedekiah king of Judah and his officials and the remnant of Jerusalem left in this land, and those who are living in the land of Egypt. [9] I will make them a horror, an evil, to all the kingdoms of the earth, a reproach and a proverb, a taunt and a curse in all the places where I drive them. [10] I will send among them the sword, the famine and the pestilence until they are consumed from off the land I gave to them and to their fathers."

CHAPTER 25

[1] The word that came to Jeremiah about all the people of Judah in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah (it was the first year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon), [2] which Jeremiah the prophet spoke to all the people of Judah and to all who lived in Jerusalem: [3] "From the thirteenth year of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah, up to this day, these twenty-three years, the word of the LORD has come to me, and I have spoken to you, rising early and speaking, but you have not listened. [4] And the LORD sent you all his servants the prophets, rising early and sending them, but you did not listen or turn your ear to hear, [5] saying, 'Turn back, each of you, from his evil way and from the evil of your deeds, and live on the land the LORD gave to you and to your fathers, from forever to forever. [6] Do not go after other gods to serve them and bow down to them, and do not provoke me with the work of your hands, and I will do you no evil.' [7] But you did not listen to me, declares the LORD, so as to provoke me with the work of your hands, to your own hurt. [8] "So thus says the LORD of hosts: Because you have not listened to my words, [9] see, I am sending for all the clans of the north, declares the LORD, and for Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, my servant, and I will bring them against this land and its inhabitants and against all these nations around; I will devote them to destruction and make them a horror and a thing to hiss at, ruins forever.* 10 I will remove from them the sound of rejoicing and the sound of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the sound of the millstones and the light of the lamp. 11 All this land will become a ruin and a horror, and these nations will serve the king of Babylon seventy years. 12 And when seventy years have been fulfilled, I will punish the king of Babylon and that nation, declares the LORD, for their iniquity, and the land of the Chaldeans, and make it a desolation forever. 13 I will bring on that land all my words which I have spoken against it, all that is written in this book, which Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations. 14 For they too will be enslaved by many nations and great kings, and I will repay them according to their deeds and the work of their hands." 15 For this is what the LORD, the God of Israel, said to me: "Take this cup of the wine of wrath from my hand and make all the nations to whom I send you drink it. 16 They will drink and reel and go mad because of the sword I am sending among them." 17 I took the cup from the hand of the LORD and made all the nations drink to whom the LORD had sent me: 18 Jerusalem and the towns of Judah, its kings and its officials, to make them a ruin, a horror, a thing to hiss at and a curse, as it is today; 19 Pharaoh king of Egypt and his servants, his officials and all his people; 20 all the mixed multitude; all the kings of the land of Uz; all the kings of the land of the Philistines: Ashkelon, Gaza, Ekron and what remains of Ashdod; 21 Edom, Moab and the children of Ammon; 22 all the kings of Tyre and all the kings of Sidon, and the kings of the coastland beyond the sea; 23 Dedan, Tema, Buz, and all who clip the corners of their hair;* 24 all the kings of Arabia and all the kings of the mixed multitude who live in the desert; 25 all the kings of Zimri, all the kings of Elam and all the kings of the Medes; 26 all the kings of the north, near and far, each with his neighbor, and all the kingdoms of the world on the face of the ground. And the king of Sheshach will drink after them.* 27 "Say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Drink and get drunk and vomit; fall and do not rise, because of the sword I am sending among you.' 28 And if they refuse to take the cup from your hand and drink, say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts: You will surely drink! 29 For see, I am starting to bring evil on the city that is called by my name, and you, will you go completely unpunished? You will not go unpunished, for I am calling a sword against all the inhabitants of the earth, declares the LORD of hosts.' 30 "As for you, prophesy all these words against them and tell them: 'The LORD roars from on high, and from his holy dwelling he utters his voice; he roars mightily against his fold. A shout like those who tread grapes he raises against all the inhabitants of the earth. 31 The clamor reaches to the end of the earth, for the LORD has a dispute with the nations; he enters into judgment with all flesh; the wicked he gives to the sword, declares the LORD.' 32 "Thus says the LORD of hosts: See, evil goes out from nation to nation, and a great tempest is roused from the remotest parts of the earth. 33 The slain of the LORD will be on that day from one end of the earth to the other. They will not be mourned or gathered or buried; they will be dung on the surface of the ground. 34 "Howl, you shepherds, and cry; roll in ashes, you lords of the flock, for your days for slaughter have been fulfilled, and your scatterings, and you will fall like a precious vessel. 35 Flight will vanish from the shepherds, and escape from the lords of the flock. 36 Hark, the cry of the shepherds, and the howl of the lords of the flock! For the LORD is devastating their pasture, 37 and the peaceful pastures are silenced before the burning anger of the LORD. 38 Like a young lion he has left his thicket, for their land has become a horror because of the fierceness of the oppressor and because of his burning anger."

CHAPTER 26

1 In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came from the LORD: 2 "Thus says the LORD: Stand in the court of the house of the LORD, and speak to all the towns of Judah that come to bow down in the house of the LORD all the words I command you to speak to them; do not leave out a word. 3 It may be they will listen and turn, each from his evil way, and I will relent of the evil I am planning to do to them for the evil of their deeds. 4 Say to them, 'Thus says the LORD: If you do not listen to me by walking in my law, which I have put before you, 5 by listening to the words of my servants the prophets, whom I send to you, rising early and sending them, though you have not listened, 6 then I will make this house like Shiloh, and this city I will make a curse for all the nations of the earth.'" 7 The priests, the prophets and all the people heard Jeremiah speak these words in the house of the LORD. 8 When Jeremiah had finished speaking everything the LORD had commanded him to speak to all the people, the priests, the prophets and all the people took hold of him and said, "You will surely die! 9 Why have you prophesied in the name of the LORD that this house will be like Shiloh and this city will be laid waste, with no one living in it?" And all the people gathered around Jeremiah in the house of the LORD. 10 When the officials of Judah heard of these things, they came up from the king's house to the house of the LORD and took their seats at the entrance of the New Gate of the house of the LORD. 11 The priests and the prophets said to the officials and all the people, "A sentence of death for this man! For he has prophesied against this city, as you heard with your ears." 12 Jeremiah said to all the officials and all the people, "It is the LORD who sent me to prophesy against this house and this city all the words you have heard. 13 So now, improve your ways and your doings and listen to the voice of the LORD your God, and the LORD will relent of the evil he has spoken against you. 14 As for me, look, I am in your hand; do to me what is good and right in your eyes. 15 But know for sure that if you kill me, you are putting innocent blood on yourselves, on this city and on its inhabitants; for truly the LORD sent me to you to speak all these words in your hearing." 16 Then the officials and all the people said to the priests and the prophets, "No sentence of death for this man! For he has spoken to us in the name of the LORD our God." 17 Some men from among the elders of the land stood up and said to the whole assembly of the people, [18] "Micah the Morashtite was prophesying in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, and he said to all the people of Judah, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts: Zion will be plowed like a field, Jerusalem will become heaps of rubble, and the mountain of the house high places of a forest.'* [19] Did Hezekiah king of Judah and all Judah put him to death? Did he not fear the LORD and entreat the face of the LORD, so that the LORD relented of the evil he had spoken against them? But we are doing great evil against our own souls." [20] There was another man too who prophesied in the name of the LORD, Uriah the son of Shemaiah, from Kiriath-jearim; he prophesied against this city and this land words just like all those of Jeremiah. [21] King Jehoiakim and all his warriors and all the officials heard his words, and the king sought to kill him; but Uriah heard, was afraid, fled and came to Egypt. [22] So King Jehoiakim sent men to Egypt, Elnathan the son of Achbor and men with him, into Egypt. [23] They brought Uriah out from Egypt and took him to King Jehoiakim, and he struck him with the sword and threw his corpse into the burial ground of the common people. [24] However, the hand of Ahikam the son of Shaphan was with Jeremiah, so that he was not handed over to the people to be killed.

CHAPTER 27

[1] In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: * [2] This is what the LORD said to me: "Make for yourself bonds and yoke bars and put them on your neck. [3] And send them to the king of Edom, the king of Moab, the king of the children of Ammon, the king of Tyre and the king of Sidon by the hand of the messengers who have come to Jerusalem to Zedekiah king of Judah. [4] Command them to say to their masters, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: This is what you are to tell your masters: [5] I made the earth, and man and beast on the face of the earth, by my great strength and my outstretched arm, and I give it to whoever is right in my eyes. [6] And now I myself have given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, my servant; even the wild animals I have given him to serve him. [7] All the nations will serve him, his son and his son's son, until the time of his own land comes as well; then many nations and great kings will make him serve them. [8] And the nation or the kingdom that does not serve him, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and does not put its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, that nation I will punish with sword, famine and pestilence, declares the LORD, until I have finished them off by his hand. [9] As for you, do not listen to your prophets, your diviners, your dreams, your soothsayers or your sorcerers, who say to you, "You will not serve the king of Babylon." [10] For they prophesy a lie to you, so as to remove you far from your land, so that I will drive you out and you will perish. [11] But the nation that brings its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon and serves him, I will let it remain on its own soil, declares the LORD; it will work it and live on it.'" [12] And to Zedekiah king of Judah I spoke all these same words: "Bring your necks under the yoke of the king of Babylon; serve him and his people, and live. [13] Why should you die, you and your people, by sword, famine and pestilence, as the LORD has spoken about the nation that will not serve the king of Babylon? [14] Do not listen to the words of the prophets who say to you, 'You will not serve the king of Babylon,' for it is a lie they prophesy to you. [15] For I did not send them, declares the LORD, and they prophesy falsely in my name, so that I will drive you out and you will perish, you and the prophets who prophesy to you." [16] To the priests and to all this people I spoke, saying, "Thus says the LORD: Do not listen to the words of your prophets who prophesy to you, 'See, the vessels of the house of the LORD will now shortly be brought back from Babylon,' for it is a lie they prophesy to you. [17] Do not listen to them; serve the king of Babylon and live. Why should this city become a ruin? [18] If they are prophets, and if the word of the LORD is with them, let them plead now with the LORD of hosts that the vessels still left in the house of the LORD, in the house of the king of Judah and in Jerusalem, may not go to Babylon. [19] For thus says the LORD of hosts about the pillars, the sea, the stands and the rest of the vessels left in this city, [20] which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon did not take when he exiled Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, from Jerusalem to Babylon, with all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem; [21] yes, thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, about the vessels left in the house of the LORD and the house of the king of Judah and Jerusalem: [22] To Babylon they will be brought, and there they will stay until the day I attend to them, declares the LORD; then I will bring them up and return them to this place."

CHAPTER 28

[1] In that year, at the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fourth year, in the fifth month, the prophet Hananiah the son of Azzur, from Gibeon, said to me in the house of the LORD before the eyes of the priests and all the people: [2] "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon. [3] Within two years' time I will bring back to this place all the vessels of the house of the LORD which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon took from this place and carried to Babylon. [4] And Jeconiah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the exiles of Judah who went to Babylon, I will bring back to this place, declares the LORD, for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon." [5] Then the prophet Jeremiah spoke to the prophet Hananiah before the eyes of the priests and of all the people standing in the house of the LORD. [6] The prophet Jeremiah said, "Amen! So may the LORD do! May the LORD establish your words which you have prophesied, by bringing back the vessels of the house of the LORD and all the exiles from Babylon to this place. [7] Only listen now to this word which I am speaking in your ears and in the ears of all the people: [8] The prophets who were before me and before you from long ago prophesied against many lands and against great kingdoms about war, evil and pestilence. [9] The prophet who prophesies peace, when the word of the prophet comes true, then that prophet will be known as one whom the LORD has truly sent." [10] Then the prophet Hananiah took the yoke bar off the neck of the prophet Jeremiah and broke it. [11] And Hananiah spoke before the eyes of all the people: "Thus says the LORD: Just so will I break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon within two years' time from the neck of all the nations." And the prophet Jeremiah went on his way. [12] After the prophet Hananiah had broken the yoke bar from the neck of the prophet Jeremiah, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [13] "Go and say to Hananiah, 'Thus says the LORD: Yoke bars of wood you have broken, but you will make in their place yoke bars of iron. [14] For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: A yoke of iron I have put on the neck of all these nations, to serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and they will serve him; even the wild animals I have given him.'" [15] And the prophet Jeremiah said to the prophet Hananiah, "Listen, Hananiah! The LORD did not send you, and you have made this people trust in a lie. [16] So thus says the LORD: See, I am sending you off the face of the ground. This year you will die, for you have spoken rebellion against the LORD." [17] The prophet Hananiah died in that year, in the seventh month.

CHAPTER 29

[1] These are the words of the letter which the prophet Jeremiah sent from Jerusalem to the rest of the elders of the exile, and to the priests, the prophets and all the people, whom Nebuchadnezzar had exiled from Jerusalem to Babylon, [2] after King Jeconiah had gone out from Jerusalem, with the queen mother, the court officials, the officials of Judah and Jerusalem, the craftsmen and the smiths. [3] It was sent by the hand of Elasah the son of Shaphan and Gemariah the son of Hilkiah, whom Zedekiah king of Judah sent to Babylon, to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. It read: [4] "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, to all the exiles whom I have exiled from Jerusalem to Babylon: [5] Build houses and settle down; plant gardens and eat what they produce. [6] Marry wives and father sons and daughters; take wives for your sons and give your daughters to men, so they may bear sons and daughters. Increase there; do not become few. [7] Seek the welfare of the city where I have exiled you, and pray to the LORD on its behalf, for in its welfare you will find your welfare. [8] For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Do not let your prophets who are among you and your diviners deceive you, and do not listen to the dreams you encourage them to dream. [9] For it is falsehood that they prophesy to you in my name; I did not send them, declares the LORD. [10] "For thus says the LORD: Only when seventy years are fulfilled for Babylon will I attend to you, and I will carry out for you my good word, to bring you back to this place. [11] For I myself know the thoughts I am thinking about you, declares the LORD, thoughts of peace and not of harm, to give you a future and a hope. [*12] And you will call me, and come and pray to me, and I will hear you. [13] You will seek me and find me, when you search for me with all your heart. [14] I will let myself be found by you, declares the LORD, and I will restore your fortunes and gather you from all the nations and from all the places where I have driven you, declares the LORD; and I will bring you back to the place from which I exiled you. [*15] "Because you have said, 'The LORD has raised up prophets for us in Babylon,' [16] for thus says the LORD about the king who sits on David's throne and about all the people living in this city, your brothers who did not go out with you into exile; [17] thus says the LORD of hosts: See, I am sending among them the sword, the famine and the pestilence, and I will make them like horrid figs that are too bad to be eaten. [18] I will chase them with the sword, the famine and the pestilence, and make them a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth, a curse and an object of dismay, a thing to hiss at and a reproach among all the nations where I have driven them, [19] because they did not listen to my words, declares the LORD, which I sent to them by my servants the prophets, rising early and sending them; and you did not listen, declares the LORD. [20] So you, hear the word of the LORD, all you exiles whom I sent from Jerusalem to Babylon: [21] Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, about Ahab the son of Kolaiah and Zedekiah the son of Maaseiah, who prophesy a lie to you in my name: See, I am giving them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and he will kill them before your eyes. [22] And from them a curse will be taken up by all the exiles of Judah in Babylon: 'The LORD make you like Zedekiah and like Ahab, whom the king of Babylon roasted in the fire!' [23] because they have done a disgraceful thing in Israel: they have committed adultery with their neighbors' wives and spoken in my name a lying word which I did not command them. I am he who knows, and I am witness, declares the LORD." [24] And to Shemaiah the Nehelamite you are to say: [25] "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Because you sent letters in your own name to all the people in Jerusalem, to the priest Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah, and to all the priests, saying, [26] 'The LORD has made you priest instead of Jehoiada the priest, to be overseers in the house of the LORD for every man who is mad and plays the prophet, so that you put him in the stocks and the collar. [27] So now, why have you not reprimanded Jeremiah of Anathoth, who plays the prophet among you? [28] For he has sent to us in Babylon, saying, "It will be a long time; build houses and settle down, plant gardens and eat what they produce."'" [29] The priest Zephaniah read this letter in the ears of the prophet Jeremiah. [30] Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying, [31] "Send to all the exiles: 'Thus says the LORD about Shemaiah the Nehelamite: Because Shemaiah has prophesied to you though I did not send him, and has led you to trust in a lie, [32] therefore thus says the LORD: See, I will punish Shemaiah the Nehelamite and his offspring; he will have no man living among this people, and he will not see the good I am going to do for my people, declares the LORD, because he has spoken rebellion against the LORD.'"

CHAPTER 30

[1] The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2] "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Write for yourself in a book all the words I have spoken to you. [3] For see, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will restore the fortunes of my people Israel and Judah, says the LORD; I will bring them back to the land I gave to their fathers, and they will take possession of it." [4] And these are the words which the LORD spoke about Israel and about Judah: [5] "For thus says the LORD: A sound of trembling we have heard, of dread, and no peace. [6] Ask, please, and see whether a male gives birth. Why then do I see every man with his hands on his loins like a woman in labor, and every face turned pale? [7] Alas! For great is that day; there is none like it. It is a time of distress for Jacob, yet out of it he will be saved.* [8] "It will come about on that day, declares the LORD of hosts, that I will break his yoke from your neck and snap your bonds, and foreigners will no more enslave him. [9] But they will serve the LORD their God and David their king, whom I will raise up for them. [10] "And you, my servant Jacob, do not be afraid, declares the LORD, and do not lose heart, Israel; for see, I will save you from afar, and your seed from the land of their captivity. Jacob will return and be quiet and secure, with no one to make him tremble. [11] For I am with you, declares the LORD, to save you; I will make a complete end of all the nations among which I scattered you, but with you I will not make a complete end. I will discipline you as justice requires, and I will certainly not let you go unpunished. [12] "For thus says the LORD: Your shattering is incurable; your wound is grievous. [13] No one takes up your case; for your sore there is no medicine, no new skin for you. [14] All your lovers have forgotten you; they do not look for you; for I have struck you with an enemy's blow, a cruel one's discipline, for the greatness of your iniquity, because your sins are numerous. [15] Why cry out over your shattering, your incurable pain? For the greatness of your iniquity, because your sins are numerous, I have done these things to you. [16] Yet all who devour you will be devoured, and all your foes, every one, will go into captivity; your plunderers will become plunder, and all who loot you I will give up as loot. [17] For I will bring up new flesh for you and heal you of your wounds, declares the LORD, because they have called you an outcast: 'That is Zion; no one seeks her out.' [18] "Thus says the LORD: See, I will restore the fortunes of the tents of Jacob and have compassion on his dwellings; the city will be built on its mound, and the stronghold will sit where it belongs. [19] From them will come thanksgiving and the sound of people celebrating. I will multiply them, and they will not be diminished; I will make them honored, and they will not be made small. [20] His sons will be as of old, his assembly will be established before me, and I will punish all his oppressors. [21] His mighty one will be from himself, and his ruler will come out from his midst; I will bring him near, and he will draw close to me; for who would dare of himself to come near to me? declares the LORD.* [22] So you will be my people, and I will be your God." [23] Look, the storm of the LORD! Wrath has gone forth, a raging storm; it will whirl onto the head of the wicked. [24] The burning anger of the LORD will not turn back until he has done and carried out the purposes of his heart. In the last days you will understand this.

CHAPTER 31

[1] "At that time, declares the LORD, I will be God to all the clans of Israel, and they will be a people to me." [2] Thus says the LORD: "A people that escaped the sword found favor in the wilderness, Israel, when it went to find rest."* [3] From far away the LORD appeared to me: "With an everlasting love I have loved you; therefore I have drawn you with steadfast love.* [4] I will build you again, and you will be built, virgin Israel. Again you will take up your tambourines and go out in the dance of the merrymakers. [5] Again you will plant vineyards on the mountains of Samaria; planters will plant and enjoy the fruit. [6] For there is a day when watchmen will call out on Mount Ephraim, 'Get up, and let us go up to Zion, to the LORD our God!'" [7] For thus says the LORD: "Shout with joy for Jacob, and cry out at the head of the nations; announce, praise and say, 'Save, O LORD, your people, the remnant of Israel!' [8] See, I am bringing them from the land of the north and gathering them from the remote parts of the earth, the blind and the lame among them, the woman with child and the one giving birth, together; a great assembly, they will return here. [9] With weeping they will come, and with supplications I will lead them; I will bring them to streams of water by a level road on which they will not stumble; for I have become a father to Israel, and Ephraim is my firstborn. [10] "Hear the word of the LORD, you nations, and announce it in the distant coastlands; say, 'The one who scattered Israel will gather him and guard him as a shepherd guards his flock.' [11] For the LORD has ransomed Jacob and redeemed him from the hand of one too strong for him. [12] They will come and shout for joy on the heights of Zion, and they will stream to the goodness of the LORD, to the grain, the new wine and the oil, and to the young of flock and herd; their soul will be like a well-watered garden, and they will not languish anymore. [13] Then the virgin will rejoice in the dance, young men and old men together; I will turn their mourning into gladness, comfort them, and make them rejoice after their grief. [14] I will drench the soul of the priests with fatness, and my people will be filled with my goodness, declares the LORD." [15] Thus says the LORD: "A voice is heard in Ramah, lamentation, weeping most bitter: Rachel weeping for her sons; she refuses to be comforted for her sons, because they are no more."* [16] Thus says the LORD: "Hold back your voice from weeping and your eyes from tears, for your labor will be rewarded, declares the LORD; they will come back from the land of the enemy. [17] There is hope for your latter end, declares the LORD; your sons will come back to their own borders. [18] "I have clearly heard Ephraim grieving: 'You disciplined me, and I took the discipline, like a calf not trained to the yoke. Turn me back, and I will turn back, for you are the LORD my God. [19] For after I turned away, I relented; and after I came to know myself, I slapped my thigh. I was ashamed and humiliated too, because I carried the reproach of my youth.' [20] Is Ephraim my dear son? Is he a child of delight? For as often as I speak against him, I remember him still; so my bowels yearn for him; I will surely have mercy on him, declares the LORD. [21] "Set up road signs for yourself; put up guideposts; set your mind on the highway, the way you went. Come back, virgin Israel, come back to these your towns. 22 How long will you turn this way and that, you turning-away daughter? For the LORD has created a new thing in the land: a woman will encompass a man."* 23 Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Again they will say this word in the land of Judah and in its towns, when I restore their fortunes: 'May the LORD bless you, dwelling of righteousness, holy mountain!' 24 Judah and all its towns will live in it together, the farmers and those who travel with the flocks. 25 For I satisfy the weary soul, and every languishing soul I fill." 26 Upon this I woke and looked, and my sleep had been pleasant to me. 27 "The days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Judah with the seed of man and the seed of beast. 28 And just as I watched over them to uproot and tear down, to overthrow, destroy and bring evil, so I will watch over them to build and to plant, declares the LORD. 29 In those days they will no more say, 'The fathers ate sour grapes, and the sons' teeth are set on edge.' 30 Rather, each will die for his own iniquity; every man who eats the sour grapes, his teeth will be set on edge. 31 "The days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah,* 32 not like the covenant I made with their fathers on the day I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, my covenant that they broke, though I was a husband to them, declares the LORD.* 33 But this is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the LORD: I will put my law within them and write it on their hearts; I will be their God, and they will be my people. 34 No longer will each man teach his neighbor and each his brother, saying, 'Know the LORD,' for they will all know me, from the least of them to the greatest, declares the LORD; for I will forgive their iniquity, and their sin I will remember no more." 35 Thus says the LORD, who gives the sun as light by day, the statutes of moon and stars as light by night, who stirs the sea so that its waves roar, the LORD of hosts is his name: 36 "If these statutes ever give way before me, declares the LORD, then the seed of Israel too will cease from being a nation before me for all time." 37 Thus says the LORD: "If the heavens above can be measured and the foundations of the earth below be explored, then I too will reject all the seed of Israel for all they have done, declares the LORD." 38 "See, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when the city will be built for the LORD, from the Tower of Hananel to the Corner Gate.* 39 The measuring line will go out again, straight on over the hill Gareb, and it will turn to Goah. 40 And the whole valley of corpses and ashes, and all the fields up to the brook Kidron, to the corner of the Horse Gate on the east, will be holy to the LORD; it will not be uprooted or thrown down again forever."*

CHAPTER 32

1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah; it was the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar. 2 At that time the army of the king of Babylon was laying siege to Jerusalem, and the prophet Jeremiah was confined in the court of the guard that was in the house of the king of Judah, 3 where Zedekiah king of Judah had confined him, saying, "Why are you prophesying, 'Thus says the LORD: See, I am giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he will take it; 4 and Zedekiah king of Judah will not get away from the hand of the Chaldeans, for he will certainly be handed over to the king of Babylon, and his mouth will speak with his mouth and his eyes will see his eyes; 5 he will lead Zedekiah to Babylon, and there he will be until I attend to him, declares the LORD; though you fight the Chaldeans, you will not succeed'?" 6 And Jeremiah said, "The word of the LORD came to me: 7 'See, Hanamel the son of Shallum your uncle is coming to you to say, "Buy for yourself my field at Anathoth, for the right of redemption to buy it belongs to you."' 8 And Hanamel my uncle's son came to me, as the LORD had said, to the court of the guard and said to me, 'Buy, please, my field at Anathoth in the land of Benjamin, for the right of inheritance is yours and the redemption is yours; buy it for yourself.' Then I knew that it was the word of the LORD. 9 "So I bought the field at Anathoth from Hanamel my uncle's son and weighed out the silver to him, seventeen shekels of silver. 10 I wrote it in the deed and sealed it, called in witnesses, and weighed the silver on the scales. 11 Then I took the deed of purchase, the sealed one with the terms and the regulations, and the open one, 12 and gave the deed of purchase to Baruch the son of Neriah, son of Mahseiah, before the eyes of Hanamel my cousin, and before the eyes of the witnesses who had written in the deed of purchase, before the eyes of all the Jews sitting in the court of the guard.* 13 And I commanded Baruch in front of them: 14 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Take these documents, this deed of purchase, both the sealed one and this open one, and place them in a clay jar so that they will last many days. 15 For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Houses, fields and vineyards will yet be bought again in this land.' 16 "After I had given the deed of purchase to Baruch the son of Neriah, I prayed to the LORD: 17 'Ah, Lord GOD! It is you who made the heavens and the earth by your great power and your outstretched arm; nothing is too hard for you. 18 You show steadfast love to thousands, yet you repay the iniquity of fathers into the bosom of their sons after them; the great and mighty God, the LORD of hosts is his name, 19 great in counsel and mighty in deed, whose eyes are open on all the ways of the sons of men, to give each according to his ways and according to the fruit of his deeds; 20 who set signs and wonders in the land of Egypt, and to this day in Israel and among mankind, and made a name for yourself, as at this day. 21 You brought your people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with a strong hand and an outstretched arm and with great terror. 22 You gave them this land, which you swore to their fathers to give them, a land flowing with milk and honey. 23 They came in and possessed it, but they did not listen to your voice or walk in your law; of all you commanded them to do, they did nothing. So you have made all this evil befall them. 24 Look, the siege ramps have reached the city to capture it, and the city is given into the hand of the Chaldeans fighting against it because of the sword, the famine and the pestilence. What you spoke has happened; see, you are watching it. [25] And yet you, Lord GOD, have said to me, "Buy the field for silver and call in witnesses," while the city is given into the hand of the Chaldeans.'" [26] Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying: [27] "See, I am the LORD, the God of all flesh; is any matter too hard for me? [28] So thus says the LORD: See, I am giving this city into the hand of the Chaldeans and into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and he will take it. [29] The Chaldeans who are fighting against this city will come in and set this city on fire and burn it, with the houses on whose roofs they made offerings to Baal and poured out drink offerings to other gods so as to provoke me. [30] For the children of Israel and the children of Judah have done only evil in my eyes from their youth; for the children of Israel have only provoked me with the work of their hands, declares the LORD. [31] For this city has roused my anger and my wrath from the day they built it until this day, so that I will remove it from before my face, [32] because of all the evil the children of Israel and the children of Judah have done to provoke me, they, their kings, their officials, their priests and their prophets, the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [33] They have turned to me the back and not the face; though I taught them, rising early and teaching, they did not listen to take correction. [34] They placed their vile things in the house called by my name, to make it unclean. [35] They built the high places of Baal in the Valley of the Son of Hinnom, to make their sons and their daughters pass through the fire to Molech, a thing I did not command them, and it never came into my mind that they should do this abomination and make Judah sin. [36] "And now, therefore, thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, about this city of which you are saying, 'It is given into the hand of the king of Babylon by sword, by famine and by pestilence': [37] See, I will gather them from all the lands where I have driven them in my anger and my fury and great indignation; I will bring them back to this place and let them live in safety. [38] They will be a people to me, and I will be God to them. [39] I will give them one heart and one way, to fear me always, for their own good and that of their sons after them. [40] I will make with them an everlasting covenant: I will not turn back from following them to do them good, and I will put the fear of me in their hearts so that they do not turn away from me. [41] I will rejoice over them to do them good, and I will plant them in this land in faithfulness, with all my heart and with all my soul. [42] "For thus says the LORD: Just as I have brought on this people all this great evil, so I am bringing on them all the good I am speaking about them. [43] And the field will be bought in this land of which you say, 'It is a waste, without man or beast; it is given into the hand of the Chaldeans.' [44] Fields will be bought for silver, deeds written and sealed and witnesses called, in the land of Benjamin, in the surroundings of Jerusalem, in the towns of Judah, the towns of the hill country, the towns of the lowland and the towns of the Negev; for I will restore their fortunes, declares the LORD."

CHAPTER 33

[1] And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah a second time, while he was still confined in the court of the guard: [2] "Thus says the LORD who does it, the LORD who forms it so as to establish it, the LORD is his name: [3] Call to me and I will answer you, and I will tell you great things and hidden things you have not known. [] [4] For thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, about the houses of this city and the houses of the kings of Judah which are torn down for use against the siege ramps and against the sword: [5] They are coming to fight the Chaldeans, and to fill them with the corpses of men whom I have struck in my anger and my wrath, since I have hidden my face from this city because of all their evil. [6] See, I will bring up for it new flesh and healing; I will heal them and reveal to them an abundance of peace and truth. [7] I will restore the fortunes of Judah and the fortunes of Israel, and build them as at the first. [8] I will purify them from all their iniquity with which they sinned against me, and pardon all their iniquities with which they sinned against me and rebelled against me. [9] It will be for me a name of joy, a praise and an adornment before all the nations of the earth, who will hear of all the good I am doing for them; and they will fear and tremble because of all the good and all the peace I am doing for it. [10] "Thus says the LORD: Once more there will be heard in this place, of which you say, 'It is a ruin, without man and without beast,' in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem that are laid waste, without man, without inhabitant, without beast, [11] the sound of rejoicing and the sound of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the voice of those who say, 'Give thanks to the LORD of hosts, for the LORD is good, for his steadfast love endures forever!' as they bring thanksgiving into the house of the LORD. For I will restore the fortunes of the land as at the first, says the LORD. [12] "Thus says the LORD of hosts: Again there will be in this place, which is a ruin without man or beast, and in all its towns, a pasture for shepherds who rest their flocks. [13] In the towns of the hill country, in the towns of the lowland, in the towns of the Negev, in the land of Benjamin, in the surroundings of Jerusalem and in the towns of Judah, the flocks will again pass under the hands of the one who counts them, says the LORD. [14] "The days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will carry out the good word I have spoken to the house of Israel and to the house of Judah. [15] In those days and at that time I will make a Branch of righteousness spring up for David, and he will practice justice and righteousness in the land. [16] In those days Judah will be saved and Jerusalem will live in safety; and this is what she will be called: The LORD is our righteousness. [] [17] "For thus says the LORD: There will not be cut off from David a man sitting on the throne of the house of Israel, [18] and from the Levitical priests there will not be cut off a man before me to offer burnt offerings, to burn grain offerings and to make sacrifices every day." [19] The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying, [20] "Thus says the LORD: If you can break my covenant of the day and my covenant of the night, so that there is no day and night in their season, [21] then my covenant with David my servant can also be broken, so that he has no son to reign on his throne, and my covenant with the Levitical priests, my ministers. [22] As the host of the heavens cannot be numbered and the sand of the sea cannot be measured, so will I multiply the seed of David my servant and the Levites who serve me." [23] The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying, [24] "Have you not noticed what this people has said: 'The two clans the LORD chose, he has rejected them'? So they despise my people, as if it were no longer a nation before them. [25] Thus says the LORD: If I have not established my covenant with day and night, the statutes of heaven and earth, [26] then I will also reject the seed of Jacob and of David my servant, so as not to take from his seed rulers over the seed of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. For I will restore their fortunes and have mercy on them."

CHAPTER 34

[1] The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD while Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, with all his army and all the kingdoms of the earth under the rule of his hand and all the peoples, was making war on Jerusalem and on all its towns: [2] "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Go and say to Zedekiah king of Judah, tell him, 'Thus says the LORD: See, I am handing this city over to the king of Babylon, and he will set it on fire. [3] And you yourself will not get away from his hand; you will certainly be seized and handed over to him. Your eyes will look into the eyes of the king of Babylon, his mouth will speak with your mouth, and you will go to Babylon.' [4] But hear the word of the LORD, Zedekiah king of Judah! Thus says the LORD about you: 'You will not die by the sword. [5] In peace you will die; and as they burned spices for your fathers, the earlier kings who came before you, so they will burn them for you and lament for you, "Alas, lord!" For it is I who have spoken the word, declares the LORD.'"* [6] So Jeremiah the prophet spoke all these words to Zedekiah king of Judah in Jerusalem, [7] while the army of the king of Babylon was fighting against Jerusalem and against all the towns of Judah that were left, against Lachish and against Azekah; for these alone remained of the cities of Judah as fortified cities. [8] This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD after King Zedekiah had cut a covenant with all the people in Jerusalem to proclaim liberty to them, [9] so that each would let his Hebrew slave, male or female, go free, and no one would hold a fellow Jew, his brother, as a slave. [10] All the officials and all the people who had entered the covenant listened: each would let his male slave and his female slave go free and no longer hold them as slaves. They listened and let them go. [11] But afterward they turned back and brought back the male and female slaves they had let go free, and forced them into servitude as male and female slaves. [12] So the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [13] "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: I myself cut a covenant with your fathers on the day I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slaves, saying, [14] 'At the end of seven years each of you is to let go his Hebrew brother who has been sold to you; he will serve you six years, and then you are to let him go free from you.' But your fathers did not listen to me or turn their ear. [15] You yourselves had turned back today and done what is right in my eyes by proclaiming liberty, each to his neighbor, and you cut a covenant before me in the house that is called by my name. [16] But you turned around and profaned my name: each of you brought back his male and female slaves, whom you had let go free at their own wish, and you forced them to be your male and female slaves again. [17] "So thus says the LORD: You have not listened to me by proclaiming liberty, each to his brother and each to his neighbor. See, I am proclaiming a liberty for you, declares the LORD, to the sword, to the pestilence and to the famine, and I will make you a horror to all the kingdoms of the earth. [18] And I will make the men who transgressed my covenant, who did not carry out the words of the covenant they cut before me, like the calf they cut in two and passed between its pieces: [19] the officials of Judah and the officials of Jerusalem, the court officials, the priests, and all the people of the land who passed between the pieces of the calf. [20] I will give them into the hand of their enemies and the hand of those who seek their life; their corpses will become food for the birds of the heavens and the beasts of the earth. [21] And Zedekiah king of Judah and his officials I will give into the hand of their enemies and the hand of those who seek their life, into the hand of the army of the king of Babylon, which has gone up from you. [22] See, I am giving the order, declares the LORD, and I will bring them back to this city; they will fight against it, take it and burn it with fire, and I will make the towns of Judah a waste with no one living there."

CHAPTER 35

[1] The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the days of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah: [2] "Go to the household of the Rechabites, speak with them, bring them to the house of the LORD, into one of the rooms, and give them wine to drink." [3] So I took Jaazaniah the son of Jeremiah, son of Habazziniah, with his brothers and all his sons and the whole household of the Rechabites, [4] and brought them into the house of the LORD, to the room of the sons of Hanan the son of Igdaliah, the man of God, which was next to the room of the officials, above the room of Maaseiah the son of Shallum, keeper of the threshold. [5] I set before the men of the Rechabite household bowls full of wine, and cups, and said to them, "Drink wine." [6] But they said, "We do not drink wine, for Jonadab the son of Rechab, our father, gave us a command: 'You are not to drink wine, you or your sons, ever. [7] No house are you to build, no seed are you to sow, no vineyard are you to plant or own; rather you are to live in tents all your days, so that you may live many days on the face of the land where you are sojourners.' [8] And we have listened to the voice of Jonadab the son of Rechab, our father, in all he commanded us, so that we drink no wine all our days, we, our wives, our sons and our daughters, [9] and we build no houses to live in; vineyard, field and seed we do not have. [10] We have lived in tents, and have listened and done all that Jonadab our father commanded us. [11] But when Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came up into the land, we said, 'Come, let us go to Jerusalem, away from the army of the Chaldeans and the army of Syria.' And so we have been living in Jerusalem." [12] Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, saying: [13] "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Go and say to the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Will you not accept instruction by listening to my words? declares the LORD. [14] The words of Jonadab the son of Rechab are kept, which he commanded his sons, to drink no wine; and they have not drunk to this day, for they have listened to their father's command. But I have spoken to you, rising early and speaking, and you have not listened to me. [15] I have sent to you all my servants the prophets, rising early and sending them, to say, 'Turn back, each from his evil way, improve your deeds, and do not go after other gods to serve them; then you will live on the land I gave to you and to your fathers.' But you did not turn your ear or listen to me. [16] Yes, the sons of Jonadab the son of Rechab have carried out the command their father gave them, but this people has not listened to me. [17] So thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel: See, I am bringing on Judah and on all the inhabitants of Jerusalem all the evil I have spoken against them, because I spoke to them and they did not listen, I called to them and they did not answer." [18] To the household of the Rechabites Jeremiah said, "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Since you have listened to the command of Jonadab your father, kept all his commands, and done all that he commanded you, [19] therefore thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: There will not be cut off from Jonadab the son of Rechab a man standing before me for all days."

CHAPTER 36

[1] In the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2] "Take for yourself a scroll and write on it all the words I have spoken to you against Israel and against Judah and against all the nations, from the day I first spoke to you, from the days of Josiah, until today. [3] Perhaps the house of Judah will hear of all the evil I am planning to do to them, so that each will turn back from his evil way, and I can forgive their iniquity and their sin." [4] So Jeremiah called Baruch the son of Neriah, and Baruch wrote on a scroll, from Jeremiah's dictation, all the words of the LORD which he had spoken to him. [5] Jeremiah gave Baruch this command: "I am held back; I cannot go into the house of the LORD. [6] So you go in and read from the scroll that you wrote at my dictation the words of the LORD, in the ears of the people in the house of the LORD on a fast day; read them also in the ears of all Judah who come in from their towns. [7] Perhaps their supplication will fall before the LORD and each will turn back from his evil way; for great is the anger and the wrath the LORD has spoken against this people." [8] Baruch the son of Neriah did all that Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, reading from the book the words of the LORD in the house of the LORD. [9] In the fifth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah, in the ninth month, they called a fast before the LORD for all the people in Jerusalem and all the people who had come from the towns of Judah into Jerusalem. [10] And Baruch read from the book the words of Jeremiah in the house of the LORD, in the room of Gemariah the son of Shaphan the scribe, in the upper court at the entrance of the New Gate of the house of the LORD, in the ears of all the people. [11] Micaiah the son of Gemariah, son of Shaphan, heard all the words of the LORD from the book, [12] and went down to the king's house, into the scribe's room; and there all the officials were seated: Elishama the scribe, Delaiah the son of Shemaiah, Elnathan the son of Achbor, Gemariah the son of Shaphan, Zedekiah the son of Hananiah and all the officials. [13] Micaiah reported to them all the words he had heard when Baruch read from the book in the ears of the people. [14] So all the officials sent Jehudi the son of Nethaniah, son of Shelemiah, son of Cushi, to Baruch to say, "The scroll you read from in the ears of the people, take it in your hand and come." So Baruch the son of Neriah took the scroll in his hand and came to them. [15] They said to him, "Sit down and read it in our ears." And Baruch read it in their ears. [16] When they had heard all the words, they looked at one another in fear and said to Baruch, "We must certainly report all these words to the king." [17] And they asked Baruch, "Tell us now, how did you write all these words? From his mouth?" [18] Baruch said to them, "With his mouth he would call out all these words to me, and I wrote them in the book with ink." [19] The officials said to Baruch, "Go and hide, you and Jeremiah; let no one know where you are." [20] Then they went in to the king in the court, after putting the scroll in the room of Elishama the scribe, and they told all the words in the ears of the king. [21] The king sent Jehudi to get the scroll, and he took it from the room of Elishama the scribe; and Jehudi read it in the ears of the king and in the ears of all the officials standing around the king. [22] The king was sitting in the winter house, in the ninth month, with the fire in the brazier burning before him. [23] Each time Jehudi had read three or four columns, he would cut it off with a scribe's knife and throw it into the fire in the brazier, until the entire scroll was gone in the fire on the brazier. [24] Yet they were not afraid and did not tear their clothes, neither the king nor any of his servants who heard all these words. [25] Elnathan, Delaiah and Gemariah even urged the king not to burn the scroll, but he would not listen to them. [26] The king commanded Jerahmeel the king's son, Seraiah the son of Azriel and Shelemiah the son of Abdeel to arrest Baruch the scribe and Jeremiah the prophet; but the LORD hid them. [27] After the king had burned the scroll with the words that Baruch had written at Jeremiah's dictation, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [28] "Take another scroll again and write on it all the earlier words that were on the first scroll, which Jehoiakim king of Judah burned. [29] And about Jehoiakim king of Judah say, 'Thus says the LORD: You burned this scroll, saying, "Why did you write on it that the king of Babylon will surely come and ruin this land and make man and beast cease from it?" [30] So thus says the LORD about Jehoiakim king of Judah: No one of his will sit on the throne of David, and his dead body will be thrown out to the heat by day and the frost by night. [31] I will punish him, his offspring and his servants for their iniquity, and I will bring on them, on the inhabitants of Jerusalem and on the men of Judah, all the evil I have spoken to them, but they did not listen.'" [32] So Jeremiah took another scroll and gave it to Baruch the son of Neriah, the scribe, who wrote on it at Jeremiah's dictation all the words of the book which Jehoiakim king of Judah had burned in the fire; and besides them many words like them were added.

CHAPTER 37

[1] King Zedekiah the son of Josiah reigned instead of Coniah the son of Jehoiakim; Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had made him king in the land of Judah. [2] Yet neither he, nor his servants, nor the people of the land listened to the words of the LORD that he spoke by the hand of Jeremiah the prophet. [3] King Zedekiah sent Jehucal the son of Shelemiah and the priest Zephaniah the son of Maaseiah to the prophet Jeremiah to say, "Pray, please, on our behalf to the LORD our God." [4] Jeremiah was still going in and out among the people, for they had not yet put him in the prison house. [5] Pharaoh's army had come out from Egypt, and the Chaldeans besieging Jerusalem heard the report about them and went up from Jerusalem. [6] And the word of the LORD came to the prophet Jeremiah: [7] "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: This is what you are to say to the king of Judah, who sent you to me to consult me: 'See, Pharaoh's army, which has come out to help you, is going back to its land, to Egypt. [8] The Chaldeans will return and fight against this city; they will take it and burn it with fire.' [9] Thus says the LORD: Do not fool yourselves by saying, 'The Chaldeans will certainly go away and leave us,' for they will not go. [10] Even if you were to strike down the whole Chaldean army that is fighting you, and only wounded men were left among them, each in his tent, they would get up and burn this city with fire." [11] When the Chaldean army had gone up from Jerusalem before Pharaoh's army, [12] Jeremiah went out from Jerusalem to go into the land of Benjamin, to receive his portion there in the midst of the people.* [13] But when he was at the Benjamin Gate, an officer of the watch named Irijah the son of Shelemiah, son of Hananiah, was there, and he arrested the prophet Jeremiah, saying, "You are going over to the Chaldeans!" [14] Jeremiah said, "Lies! I am not going over to the Chaldeans." But he would not listen to him; Irijah arrested Jeremiah and brought him to the officials. [15] The officials were angry at Jeremiah; they beat him and put him in the jail at the house of Jonathan the scribe, for they had turned it into the prison. [16] So Jeremiah went into the dungeon house, into the vaults, and Jeremiah stayed there many days. [17] Then King Zedekiah sent and took him, and the king asked him privately in his house, "Is there a word from the LORD?" Jeremiah said, "There is," and he said, "Into the hand of the king of Babylon you will be given." [18] Jeremiah also said to King Zedekiah, "How have I sinned against you, your servants or this people, that you have put me in the jail? [19] And where are your prophets who prophesied to you, 'The king of Babylon will not come against you and against this land'? [20] Now please listen, my lord the king; let my supplication fall before you; do not send me back to the house of Jonathan the scribe, or I will die there." [21] So King Zedekiah commanded, and they placed Jeremiah in the court of the guard, and a round loaf of bread from the bakers' street was given him each day until all the bread in the city was used up. So Jeremiah stayed in the court of the guard.

CHAPTER 38

[1] Shephatiah the son of Mattan, Gedaliah the son of Pashhur, Jucal the son of Shelemiah and Pashhur the son of Malchiah heard the words Jeremiah was speaking to all the people: [2] "Thus says the LORD: Whoever stays in this city will die by sword, by famine and by pestilence, but whoever goes out to the Chaldeans will live; he will have his life as a prize of war and will live. [3] Thus says the LORD: This city will certainly be handed over to the army of the king of Babylon, and he will take it." [4] And the officials said to the king, "This man must be put to death, because he is weakening the hands of the fighting men left in this city, and the hands of all the people, by speaking to them words like these. For this man is not seeking peace for this people, but evil." [5] King Zedekiah said, "Look, he is in your hand; for the king can do nothing against you." [6] So they took Jeremiah and cast him into the cistern of Malchiah the king's son, which was in the court of the guard, lowering Jeremiah with ropes. In the cistern there was no water, only mud, and Jeremiah sank into the mud. [7] Ebed-melech the Cushite, a eunuch in the king's house, heard that they had put Jeremiah into the cistern; the king was then sitting in the Gate of Benjamin. [8] Ebed-melech went out of the king's house and spoke to the king: [9] "My lord the king, these men have acted wickedly in all they have done to the prophet Jeremiah, whom they have cast into the cistern; he will die where he lies because of the famine, for there is no more bread in the city." [10] The king commanded Ebed-melech the Cushite, "Take thirty men from here with you and bring the prophet Jeremiah up from the cistern before he dies." [11] Ebed-melech took the men with him and went into the king's house, to the place beneath the storeroom, and took from there old scraps of cloth and old rags, and let them down by ropes to Jeremiah in the cistern. [12] Ebed-melech the Cushite said to Jeremiah, "Put these old scraps and rags under your armpits, under the ropes." Jeremiah did so. [13] And they pulled Jeremiah up with the ropes and brought him up out of the cistern; and Jeremiah stayed in the court of the guard. [14] King Zedekiah sent and took the prophet Jeremiah to himself at the third entrance in the house of the LORD, and the king said to Jeremiah, "I am asking you a thing; hide nothing from me." [15] Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, "If I tell you, will you not certainly kill me? And if I advise you, you will not listen to me." [16] But King Zedekiah swore to Jeremiah in secret, "As the LORD lives, who made for us this soul, I will not kill you, nor will I give you into the hand of these men who are seeking your life." [17] Then Jeremiah said to Zedekiah, "Thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel: If you do indeed go out to the officials of the king of Babylon, your soul will live; this city will not be burned with fire, and you and your household will live. [18] But if you do not go out to the officials of the king of Babylon, this city will be handed over to the Chaldeans, they will burn it with fire, and you will not get away from their hand." [19] King Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "I am afraid of the Jews who have fallen away to the Chaldeans, that they may hand me over to them and they will treat me harshly." [20] Jeremiah said, "They will not hand you over. Listen, please, to the voice of the LORD in what I am telling you, so that it may go well with you and your soul may live. [21] But if you refuse to go out, this is the word the LORD has shown me: [22] See, all the women left in the house of the king of Judah are being brought out to the officials of the king of Babylon, and they are saying, 'Your trusted friends have deceived you and overcome you; your feet have sunk in the mud, and they have turned back.' [23] All your wives and your sons they will bring out to the Chaldeans, and you will not get away from their hand; you will be seized by the hand of the king of Babylon, and you will burn this city with fire." [24] Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "No one must know of these words, and you will not die. [25] If the officials hear that I have spoken with you, and they come to you and say, 'Tell us what you said to the king; hide nothing from us, and we will not kill you; and what did the king say to you?' [26] then say to them, 'I was laying my supplication before the king not to send me back to the house of Jonathan to die there.'" [27] All the officials did come to Jeremiah and ask him, and he told them just what the king had commanded. So they left off speaking with him, for the matter had not been heard. [28] So Jeremiah stayed in the court of the guard until the day Jerusalem was taken. And it came about when Jerusalem was captured,*

CHAPTER 39

[1] In the ninth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came with all his army to Jerusalem, and they laid siege to it. [2] In the eleventh year of Zedekiah, in the fourth month, on the ninth of the month, a breach was made in the city. [3] And all the officials of the king of Babylon came and took their seats in the Middle Gate: Nergal-sharezer, Samgar-nebo, Sarsechim the Rab-saris, Nergal-sharezer the Rab-mag, and all the rest of the officials of the king of Babylon.* [4] When Zedekiah king of Judah and all the fighting men saw them, they fled and left the city by night by the road of the king's garden, through the gate between the two walls, and he went out along the road to the Arabah. [5] The Chaldean army pursued them and caught up with Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho; they took him and brought him up to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and he pronounced judgments upon him. [6] At Riblah the king of Babylon slaughtered Zedekiah's sons before his eyes; all the nobles of Judah, too, the king of Babylon slaughtered. [7] Zedekiah's eyes he blinded, and he bound him with bronze fetters to bring him to Babylon. [8] The house of the king and the houses of the people the Chaldeans burned with fire, and the walls of Jerusalem they tore down. [9] The rest of the people left in the city, and the deserters who had fallen away to him, and the rest of the people who remained, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried into exile to Babylon. [10] But some of the poor among the people, who had nothing, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard left in the land of Judah, and at that time he gave them vineyards and fields. [11] Concerning Jeremiah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon gave an order by the hand of Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard: [12] "Take him, keep your eyes on him, and do him no harm at all; rather, do with him whatever he tells you." [13] So Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard, Nebushazban the Rab-saris, Nergal-sharezer the Rab-mag, and all the chief officers of the king of Babylon sent [14] and took Jeremiah from the court of the guard and handed him over to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, to take him home. So he stayed among the people. [15] The word of the LORD had come to Jeremiah while he was confined in the court of the guard: [16] "Go and say to Ebed-melech the Cushite, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: See, I am bringing my words upon this city for evil and not for good, and they will happen before your eyes on that day. [17] But I will rescue you on that day, declares the LORD, and you will not be given into the hand of the men you dread. [18] For I will surely save you; you will not fall by the sword; you will have your life as a prize of war, because you trusted in me, declares the LORD.'"

CHAPTER 40

[1] The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD after Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had released him at Ramah, when he took him there bound in fetters among all the exiles of Jerusalem and Judah who were being exiled to Babylon. [2] The captain of the guard took Jeremiah and said to him, "The LORD your God spoke this evil against this place, [3] and the LORD has brought it and done just as he said; for you sinned against the LORD and did not listen to his voice, and so this thing has happened to you. [4] And now, see, today I free you from the fetters on your hands. If it is good in your eyes to come with me to Babylon, come, and I will keep my eye on you; but if it is bad in your eyes to come with me to Babylon, stay. Look, the whole land is before you; wherever it is good and right in your eyes to go, go there." [5] And while Jeremiah had not yet turned back, he said, "Return to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babylon has appointed over the towns of Judah, and live with him among the people; or go wherever it is right in your eyes to go." Then the captain of the guard gave him provisions and a gift and sent him off.* [6] So Jeremiah came to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam at Mizpah and lived with him among the people who were left in the land. [7] All the commanders of the forces in the countryside, they and their men, heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah the son of Ahikam over the land and had put in his charge men, women and little ones, from the poor of the land, those who had not been exiled to Babylon. [8] So they came to Gedaliah at Mizpah: Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, Johanan and Jonathan the sons of Kareah, Seraiah the son of Tanhumeth, the sons of Ephai the Netophathite, and Jezaniah the son of the Maacathite, they and their men. [9] Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, took an oath to them and their men: "Do not be afraid of serving the Chaldeans. Live in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and it will be well with you. [10] As for me, see, I am staying at Mizpah to stand before the Chaldeans who come to us; but you, gather wine, summer fruit and oil, put them in your containers, and live in your towns that you have taken over." [11] Likewise all the Jews in Moab, among the children of Ammon, in Edom and in all the lands heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant to Judah and had appointed over them Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan. [12] So all the Jews returned from all the places where they had been scattered and came to the land of Judah, to Gedaliah at Mizpah; and they gathered wine and summer fruit in great quantity. [13] Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces in the countryside came to Gedaliah at Mizpah [14] and said to him, "Are you aware that Baalis king of the children of Ammon has sent Ishmael the son of Nethaniah to strike you dead?" But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam did not believe them. [15] Then Johanan the son of Kareah said to Gedaliah in secret at Mizpah, "Let me go and kill Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and no one will know. Why should he take your life and scatter all the Jews gathered around you, so that the remnant of Judah perishes?" [16] But Gedaliah the son of Ahikam said to Johanan the son of Kareah, "Do not do this thing, for what you are saying about Ishmael is a lie."

CHAPTER 41

[1] In the seventh month Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, son of Elishama, of royal descent and one of the king's chief officers, came with ten men to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam at Mizpah; and they ate a meal together there at Mizpah. [2] Then Ishmael the son of Nethaniah got up, with the ten men who were with him, and struck Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, with the sword and killed him, the man whom the king of Babylon had appointed over the land. [3] Ishmael also struck down all the Jews who were with him, that is, with Gedaliah, at Mizpah, and the Chaldeans found there, the fighting men. [4] The day after he had killed Gedaliah, when no one yet knew, [5] men came from Shechem, from Shiloh and from Samaria, eighty men, with beards shaved, clothes torn and bodies gashed, carrying grain offerings and incense in their hands to bring to the house of the LORD. [6] Ishmael the son of Nethaniah went out from Mizpah to meet them, weeping as he walked; and when he met them, he said to them, "Come to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam." [7] But as soon as they came inside the city, Ishmael the son of Nethaniah slaughtered them and threw them into the cistern, he and the men who were with him. [8] Ten men were found among them who said to Ishmael, "Do not kill us, for we have hidden stores in the field, wheat and barley, oil and honey." So he held back and did not kill them among their brothers. [9] The cistern into which Ishmael threw all the corpses of the men he had struck down alongside Gedaliah was the one King Asa had made because of Baasha king of Israel; Ishmael the son of Nethaniah filled it with the slain. [*] [10] Ishmael took captive all the rest of the people in Mizpah, the king's daughters and all the people left in Mizpah, whom Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had entrusted to Gedaliah the son of Ahikam; Ishmael the son of Nethaniah took them captive and set off to cross over to the children of Ammon. [11] When Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces with him heard of all the evil Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had done, [12] they took all the men and went to fight Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, and they found him by the great pool at Gibeon. [13] And when all the people with Ishmael saw Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces with him, they rejoiced. [14] All the people Ishmael had taken captive from Mizpah turned around, came back and went to Johanan the son of Kareah. [15] But Ishmael the son of Nethaniah got away from Johanan with eight men and went to the children of Ammon. [16] Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces with him then took from Mizpah all the rest of the people whom he had brought back from Ishmael the son of Nethaniah, after Ishmael had struck down Gedaliah the son of Ahikam: men, fighting men, women, little ones and eunuchs, whom he brought back from Gibeon. [17] They went and stayed at Geruth Chimham near Bethlehem, on their way to go into Egypt [18] away from the Chaldeans; for they were afraid of them, because Ishmael the son of Nethaniah had struck down Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babylon had appointed over the land.

CHAPTER 42

[1] Then all the commanders of the forces, Johanan the son of Kareah and Jezaniah the son of Hoshaiah, and all the people from least to greatest, approached [2] and said to the prophet Jeremiah, "Let our supplication fall before you, and pray on our behalf to the LORD your God, for all this remnant; for we are left as a few out of many, as your eyes see us, [3] so that the LORD your God may tell us the way we should go and the thing we should do." [4] The prophet Jeremiah said to them, "I have heard. See, I will pray to the LORD your God as you have said, and every word the LORD answers you I will make known to you; I will not hold back a word from you." [5] They said to Jeremiah, "May the LORD be a true and faithful witness against us if we do not act just as the LORD your God sends you to tell us. [6] Whether good or evil, it is the voice of the LORD our God, to whom we are sending you, that we will listen to, so that it may be well with us when we listen to the voice of the LORD our God." [7] Ten days later the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah. [8] He called Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces with him and all the people from least to greatest, [9] and said to them, "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, to whom you sent me to lay your supplication before him: [10] If you will really stay in this land, I will build you up and not tear you down, I will plant you and not uproot you; for I relent of the evil I have done to you. [11] Do not fear the king of Babylon, whom you fear; do not fear him, declares the LORD, for I am with you to save you and rescue you from his hand. [12] I will show you compassion, and he will have compassion on you and let you return to your own soil. [13] But if you say, 'We will not stay in this land,' and do not listen to the voice of the LORD your God, [14] saying, 'No, we will go into the land of Egypt, where we will not see war or hear the sound of the horn or hunger for bread, and there we will live,' [15] then hear now the word of the LORD, remnant of Judah. Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: If you have truly set your faces to go into Egypt and you go to live there as sojourners, [16] the sword you fear will overtake you there in the land of Egypt, and the famine you dread will cling to you there in Egypt, and there you will die. [17] All the men who set their faces to go to Egypt to sojourn there will die by sword, famine and pestilence; none of them will survive or escape from the evil I am bringing on them. [18] For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: As my anger and my wrath were poured out on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so my wrath will be poured out on you when you go to Egypt; you will become an execration and a horror, a curse and a taunt, and you will never see this place again. [19] The LORD has spoken to you, remnant of Judah: Do not go to Egypt. Know for sure that I have testified to you today. [20] For you have gone astray at the cost of your souls; you yourselves sent me to the LORD your God, saying, 'Pray for us to the LORD our God, and whatever the LORD our God says, tell us so, and we will do it.'* [21] Today I have told you, but you have not listened to the voice of the LORD your God in anything he sent me to you to say. [22] So now know for sure that by sword, famine and pestilence you will die in the place where you want to go to sojourn."

CHAPTER 43

[1] Now when Jeremiah finished telling all the people all the words of the LORD their God, all these words with which the LORD their God had sent him to them, [2] Azariah the son of Hoshaiah, Johanan the son of Kareah and all the insolent men said to Jeremiah, "Falsehood is what you are speaking! The LORD our God did not send you to say, 'Do not go into Egypt to sojourn there.' [3] Rather, Baruch the son of Neriah is stirring you up against us, to hand us over to the Chaldeans, to kill us or exile us to Babylon." [4] So Johanan the son of Kareah, all the commanders of the forces and all the people did not listen to the voice of the LORD to stay in the land of Judah. [5] Johanan the son of Kareah and all the commanders of the forces took the whole remnant of Judah who had come back from all the nations where they had been scattered, to live in the land of Judah: [6] the men, the women and the little ones, the king's daughters and every soul that Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard had left with Gedaliah the son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, and the prophet Jeremiah and Baruch the son of Neriah. [7] They went into the land of Egypt, for they did not listen to the voice of the LORD, and they came to Tahpanhes. [8] And the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah at Tahpanhes: [9] "Take in your hand large stones and bury them in the mortar, in the brickwork at the entrance to Pharaoh's house in Tahpanhes, before the eyes of men of Judah, * [10] and say to them, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: See, I am sending for Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, my servant, and I will set his throne above these stones I have buried, and he will spread his canopy over them. [11] He will come and strike the land of Egypt: whoever is for death, to death; whoever is for captivity, to captivity; whoever is for the sword, to the sword. [12] I will set fire to the houses of the gods of Egypt; he will burn them and take them captive; he will wrap the land of Egypt around himself as a shepherd wraps his garment around himself, and he will go out from there in peace. * [13] He will shatter the standing pillars of Beth-shemesh in the land of Egypt, and the houses of the gods of Egypt he will burn with fire.'"

CHAPTER 44

[1] The word that came to Jeremiah about all the Jews living in the land of Egypt, those living at Migdol, at Tahpanhes, at Memphis and in the land of Pathros: [2] "Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: You yourselves have seen all the evil I brought on Jerusalem and on all the towns of Judah; and see, they are a ruin today, with no one living in them, [3] because of the evil they did to provoke me, going to make offerings and to serve other gods whom they had not known, they, you and your fathers. [4] I sent you all my servants the prophets, rising early and sending them, to say, 'Please do not do this abominable thing which I hate!' [5] But they did not listen or turn their ear, to turn back from their evil and not make offerings to other gods. [6] So my wrath and my anger poured out and burned in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem, and they became a ruin and a waste, as they are today. [7] And now thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the God of Israel: Why are you doing great evil against your own souls, to cut off from yourselves man and woman, child and infant, out of the midst of Judah, leaving yourselves no remnant, [8] provoking me with the works of your hands by making offerings to other gods in the land of Egypt, where you have come to sojourn, so that you are cut off and become a curse and a reproach among all the nations of the earth? [9] Have you forgotten the evils of your fathers, the evils of the kings of Judah and the evils of his wives, your own evils and the evils of your wives, which they did in the land of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem? [10] To this day they have not been crushed in spirit, nor have they feared, nor walked in my law and my statutes, which I set before you and before your fathers. [11] So thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: See, I am setting my face against you for evil, to cut off all Judah. [12] I will take the remnant of Judah who set their faces to go into the land of Egypt to sojourn there, and they will all come to an end; in the land of Egypt they will fall; by sword and by famine they will come to an end, from least to greatest; by sword and by famine they will die, and they will become an execration and a horror, a curse and a taunt. [13] I will punish those who live in the land of Egypt just as I punished Jerusalem, with sword, famine and pestilence, [14] and of the remnant of Judah who have come to sojourn there in the land of Egypt there will be no survivor or fugitive to return to the land of Judah, where they long to return and live; for they will not return, except some who escape." [15] Then all the men who knew that their wives were making offerings to other gods, and all the women standing by, a great assembly, and all the people living in the land of Egypt, in Pathros, answered Jeremiah: [16] "The word you have spoken to us in the name of the LORD, we are not listening to you. [17] Instead, we will surely do every word that has gone out of our mouth: we will make offerings to the queen of heaven and pour out drink offerings to her, as we did, we and our fathers, our kings and our officials, in the towns of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem; then we had our fill of bread, we were well, and we saw no evil. [18] But from the time we stopped making offerings to the queen of heaven and pouring out drink offerings to her, we have lacked everything, and we have been coming to an end by sword and by famine." [19] "And when we make offerings to the queen of heaven and pour out drink offerings to her, was it without our husbands that we made cakes for her, to portray her, and poured out drink offerings to her?"* [20] Then Jeremiah said to all the people, to the men and the women and all the people who were answering him with this word: [21] "The offerings you made in the towns of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem, you and your fathers, your kings and your officials and the people of the land, did the LORD not remember them, and did it not come into his mind? [22] The LORD could bear it no longer, because of the evil of your deeds and because of the abominations you did; so your land has become a ruin, a horror and a curse, without inhabitant, as it is today. [23] Because you made offerings and sinned against the LORD and did not listen to the voice of the LORD, and did not walk in his law, his statutes and his testimonies, this evil has befallen you, as it is today." [24] Jeremiah also said to all the people and to all the women, "Hear the word of the LORD, all Judah in the land of Egypt: [25] Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: You and your wives have spoken with your mouths and fulfilled it with your hands: 'We will surely carry out our vows that we have vowed, to make offerings to the queen of heaven and pour out drink offerings to her.' Go ahead, keep your vows, carry out your vows! [26] So hear the word of the LORD, all Judah living in the land of Egypt: See, I have sworn by my great name, says the LORD, that my name will no more be called on in the mouth of any man of Judah in all the land of Egypt, saying, 'As the Lord GOD lives.' [27] See, I am watching over them for evil and not for good; all the men of Judah in the land of Egypt will come to an end by sword and by famine until they are finished. [28] Those who escape the sword will return from the land of Egypt to the land of Judah, few in number; and the whole remnant of Judah who came to the land of Egypt to sojourn there will know whose word will stand, mine or theirs. [29] And this will be the sign for you, declares the LORD, that I am punishing you in this place, so that you may know that my words against you will surely stand for evil: [30] Thus says the LORD: See, I am giving Pharaoh Hophra king of Egypt into the hand of his enemies and the hand of those who seek his life, as I gave Zedekiah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, his enemy who was seeking his life."

CHAPTER 45

[1] The word that the prophet Jeremiah spoke to Baruch the son of Neriah when he wrote these words in a book at Jeremiah's dictation, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah: [2] "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, about you, Baruch: [3] You said, 'Woe is me now, for the LORD has added sorrow to my pain! I am weary with my groaning, and I find no rest.' [4] This is what you are to say to him: Thus says the LORD: See, what I built I am tearing down, and what I planted I am uprooting, and that is the whole land. [5] And you, are you seeking great things for yourself? Do not seek them! For see, I am bringing evil on all flesh, declares the LORD; but I will give you your life as a prize of war in all the places where you go."

CHAPTER 46

[1] What came as the word of the LORD to the prophet Jeremiah about the nations. [2] For Egypt: about the army of Pharaoh Neco king of Egypt, which was at the river Euphrates at Carchemish, and which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon struck down in the fourth year of Jehoiakim the son of Josiah, king of Judah: [3] "Get ready small shield and large, and draw near for battle! [4] Hitch the horses; mount up, horsemen! Stand in position with helmets on; scour the lances; put on the armor! [5] Why do I see them terrified, falling back? Their warriors are crushed; they have fled headlong without looking back. Terror on every side! declares the LORD. [6] Let the swift not flee, nor the warrior escape; in the north, by the river Euphrates, they stumble and fall. [7] Who is this that rises like the Nile, like rivers whose waters toss? [8] Egypt rises like the Nile, like rivers whose waters toss; and he said, 'I will rise up and cover the earth; I will destroy cities and those who live in them.' [9] Go up, horses! Drive madly, chariots! Let the warriors go out, Cush and Put who grasp the shield, and the Lydians who grasp and bend the bow. [10] That day is for the Lord GOD of hosts a day of vengeance, to take vengeance on his adversaries. The sword will devour and be satisfied and be drenched with their blood; for the Lord GOD of hosts has a sacrifice in the land of the north, by the river Euphrates. [11] Go up to Gilead and take balm, virgin daughter of Egypt! In vain you have multiplied medicines; there is no new flesh for you. [12] The nations have heard of your disgrace, and your outcry has filled the earth; for warrior stumbles over warrior; both of them fall together." [13] The word which the LORD spoke to the prophet Jeremiah about the coming of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon to strike the land of Egypt: [14] "Announce it in Egypt, make it heard in Migdol, make it heard in Memphis and in Tahpanhes; say, 'Stand ready and prepare yourself, for the sword devours all around you.' [15] Why is your mighty one swept away? He did not stand, for the LORD pushed him down.* [16] He made many stumble; indeed, each fell on his neighbor, and they said, 'Up! Let us go back to our own people and to the land of our birth, away from the oppressing sword.' [17] They called out there, 'Pharaoh king of Egypt is just a loud noise; he let the appointed time slip by.' [18] As I live, declares the King, whose name is the LORD of hosts, like Tabor among the mountains and like Carmel by the sea, so one will come. [19] Make for yourself an exile's baggage, you who dwell as the daughter of Egypt! For Memphis will become a waste, burned and without inhabitant. [20] A very pretty heifer is Egypt; a horsefly from the north is coming, coming.* [21] Even her hired men in her midst are like fattened calves, for they too have turned back and fled together; they did not hold their ground, for the day of their disaster has come on them, the time of their punishment. [22] Her sound goes like a snake's, for they come on in strength and come against her with axes, like woodcutters. [23] They will cut down her forest, declares the LORD, though it is impenetrable, for they are more numerous than locusts; they are beyond counting. [24] The daughter of Egypt is put to shame; she is given into the hand of a people from the north." [25] The LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, has said: "See, I am punishing Amon of Thebes, and Pharaoh and Egypt and her gods and her kings, Pharaoh and those who trust in him. [26] I will give them into the hand of those who seek their life, into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon and the hand of his servants. Afterward she will be inhabited as in days of old, declares the LORD. [27] And you, my servant Jacob, do not be afraid, and do not lose heart, Israel; for see, I will save you from afar, and your seed from the land of their captivity. Jacob will return and be quiet and secure, with no one to make him tremble. [28] You, my servant Jacob, do not be afraid, declares the LORD, for I am with you; I will make a complete end of all the nations to which I drove you, but with you I will not make a complete end. I will discipline you as justice requires, and I will certainly not let you go unpunished."

CHAPTER 47

[1] What came as the word of the LORD to the prophet Jeremiah about the Philistines, before Pharaoh struck Gaza. [2] "Thus says the LORD: Look, waters are rising from the north and will become a flooding torrent; they will flood the land and everything in it, the city and those who live in it. Men will cry out, and all who live in the land will howl. [3] At the sound of the pounding hoofs of his mighty steeds, at the rattle of his chariots and the rumble of his wheels, fathers do not look back for their sons, because their hands hang limp, [4] because of the day that comes to destroy all the Philistines, to cut off from Tyre and Sidon every helper who survives; for the LORD is destroying the Philistines, the remnant of the coastland of Caphtor. [5] Baldness has come upon Gaza; Ashkelon is silenced, the remnant of their valley. How long will you gash yourself? [6] Ah, sword of the LORD! How long until you are quiet? Gather yourself into your sheath; rest and be still! [7] How can it be quiet, when the LORD has given it orders? Against Ashkelon and against the seacoast, there he has appointed it."

CHAPTER 48

[1] For Moab. Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: "Woe to Nebo, for it is devastated! Kiriathaim is shamed, it is taken; the high fortress is shamed and dismayed.* [2] There is no more praise for Moab; in Heshbon they have devised evil against her: 'Come, let us cut her off from being a nation!' You also, Madmen, will be silenced; after you the sword will go. [3] Hark! A cry from Horonaim: 'Ruin and great shattering!' [4] Moab is shattered; her little ones make their cry heard.* [5] For up the ascent of Luhith they go with weeping upon weeping; for on the way down to Horonaim they have heard the distress of the cry of shattering. [6] Flee, save your lives! Become like a bush in the wilderness! [7] For because you trusted in your works and your treasures, you too will be taken; and Chemosh will go out into exile, his priests and his officials together. [8] The destroyer will come against every city, and no city will escape; the valley will perish and the tableland be ruined, as the LORD has said. [9] Give wings to Moab, for she would fly away; her towns will become a waste, with no one living in them.* [10] Cursed be he who does the work of the LORD with slackness, and cursed be he who keeps back his sword from blood. [11] Moab has been at ease since his youth; he has settled on his dregs and has not been emptied from vessel to vessel, nor has he gone into exile; so his taste stays in him, and his scent has not changed. [12] Therefore the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will send him men who tilt jars, and they will tilt him and empty his vessels and smash their jars.* [13] And Moab will be ashamed of Chemosh, as the house of Israel was ashamed of Bethel, their confidence. [14] How do you say, 'We are mighty men, valiant men for war'? [15] Moab is devastated, his towns have gone up in smoke, and the pick of his young men have gone down to the slaughter, declares the King, whose name is the LORD of hosts. [16] The disaster of Moab is near to come, and his evil hurries very fast. [17] Grieve for him, all who are around him, all who know his name; say, 'How the strong staff is broken, the rod of splendor!' [18] Come down from glory and sit in thirst, you who dwell as the daughter of Dibon! For the destroyer of Moab has come up against you; he has ruined your fortresses. [19] Stand by the road and watch, you who dwell in Aroer! Ask the man fleeing and the woman escaping; say, 'What has happened?' [20] Moab is shamed, for it is shattered; howl and cry out! Tell it by the Arnon that Moab is devastated. [21] Judgment has come to the land of the tableland, to Holon, to Jahzah and to Mephaath, [22] to Dibon, to Nebo and to Beth-diblathaim, [23] to Kiriathaim, to Beth-gamul and to Beth-meon, [24] to Kerioth, to Bozrah, and to all the towns of the land of Moab, far and near. [25] The horn of Moab is hacked off, and his arm is broken, declares the LORD. [26] Make him drunk, for he has made himself great against the LORD; let Moab splash in his vomit, and he too will become a laughingstock. [27] Was Israel not a laughingstock to you? Was he caught among thieves, that every time you spoke of him you would shake your head? [28] Abandon the towns and dwell among the crags, inhabitants of Moab! Be like a dove that nests on the far side of the mouth of a chasm. [29] We have heard of Moab's pride, very proud he is, his loftiness and his pride and his arrogance and the haughtiness of his heart. [30] I myself know his fury, declares the LORD; his idle talk is not right; what they have done is not right. [31] That is why I howl for Moab, for all Moab I cry out; over the men of Kir-heres one groans. [32] With more than the weeping for Jazer I weep for you, vine of Sibmah! Your tendrils passed over the sea, they reached to the sea of Jazer; on your summer fruit and your vintage a destroyer has fallen. [33] Joy and gladness are taken away from the garden land, from the land of Moab; I have stopped the wine from the vats; no one treads with shouting; the shout is no shout. [34] From the cry of Heshbon to Elealeh, to Jahaz they have let out their voice, from Zoar to Horonaim and Eglath-shelishiyah; for even the waters of Nimrim have become desolate. [35] I will put an end in Moab, declares the LORD, to the one who goes up to the high place and makes offerings to his gods. [36] So my heart wails for Moab like flutes, my heart wails like flutes for the men of Kir-heres; so the abundance he made has perished. [37] For every head is bald and every beard clipped; on all hands are cuts, and on the loins sackcloth. [38] On all the roofs of Moab and in its squares, everywhere there is mourning; for I have broken Moab like a vessel no one cares for, declares the LORD. [39] How it is shattered! Howl! How Moab has turned his back in shame! Moab has become a laughingstock and a terror to all around him." [40] For thus says the LORD: "See, like an eagle he will swoop and spread out his wings against Moab. [41] Kerioth is captured, the strongholds are seized; and the heart of Moab's warriors on that day will be like the heart of a woman in her pangs. [42] Moab will be destroyed from being a people, because he made himself great against the LORD. [43] Terror and pit and trap are upon you, inhabitant of Moab, declares the LORD. [44] Whoever flees from the terror will fall into the pit, and whoever climbs out of the pit will be caught in the trap; for I will bring upon her, upon Moab, the year of their punishment, declares the LORD. [45] In the shadow of Heshbon fugitives stand, powerless; for fire has gone forth from Heshbon, a flame from the midst of Sihon; it consumes the brow of Moab, the crown of the sons of uproar. [46] Woe to you, Moab! The people of Chemosh are lost; for your sons are taken into captivity, and your daughters into exile. [47] But I will restore the fortunes of Moab in the end of days, declares the LORD." Up to here is the judgment of Moab.

CHAPTER 49

[1] For the children of Ammon. Thus says the LORD: "Has Israel no sons? Has he no heir? Why then has their king inherited Gad, and his people taken up residence in its towns? [] [2] Therefore, see, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will make the shout of war heard against Rabbah of the children of Ammon; it will become a desolate heap, and its daughters will be burned with fire; then Israel will dispossess those who dispossessed him, says the LORD. [3] Howl, Heshbon, for Ai is devastated! Cry out, daughters of Rabbah; wrap yourselves in sackcloth, mourn, and run back and forth among the walls! For their king will go into exile, his priests and his officials together. [4] Why do you boast of the valleys, your flowing valley, you turning-away daughter, who trusts in her treasures: 'Who will come against me?' [5] See, I am bringing terror upon you, declares the Lord GOD of hosts, from all who surround you; you will be driven out, each straight ahead, with no one to gather the fugitives. [6] But after this I will restore the fortunes of the children of Ammon, declares the LORD." [7] For Edom. Thus says the LORD of hosts: "Is there wisdom no more in Teman? Has counsel vanished from the discerning? Has their wisdom gone sour? [8] Flee, turn back, dwell deep down, inhabitants of Dedan! For I will bring the disaster of Esau upon him, the time I punish him. [9] If grape pickers came to you, would they leave no gleanings? If thieves came at night, they would ruin only as much as they wanted. [10] But I myself have stripped Esau; I have laid bare his secret places, and he cannot hide. His seed is ruined, with his brothers and his neighbors, and he is no more. [11] Leave your orphans; I will keep them alive; and let your widows trust in me." [12] For thus says the LORD: "See, those who were not sentenced to drink the cup will surely drink it; and are you the one to go entirely unpunished? You will not go unpunished, for you will surely drink. [13] For by myself I have sworn, declares the LORD, that Bozrah will become a horror, a reproach, a ruin and a curse, and all her towns will be ruins forever." [14] I have heard news from the LORD, and a messenger has been sent among the nations: "Gather together and come against her, and rise up for battle! [15] For see, I have made you small among the nations, despised among men. [16] The terror you inspired has deceived you, the pride of your heart, you who dwell in the clefts of the rock, who hold the height of the hill. Though you make your nest as high as the eagle's, from there I will bring you down, declares the LORD. [17] Edom will become a horror; everyone who passes by it will be appalled and will hiss over all its blows. [18] As with the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah and their neighbors, says the LORD, no man will live there, no son of man will sojourn in it. [19] Look, like a lion he comes up from the thickets of the Jordan against the ever-flowing pasture; for in an instant I will make him run from it, and whoever is chosen I will appoint over it. For who is like me? Who will summon me? And who is the shepherd who can stand before me? [] [20] So hear the counsel the LORD has taken against Edom, and the plans he has planned against the inhabitants of Teman: Surely the little ones of the flock will be dragged off; surely their pasture will be appalled over them. [21] At the sound of their fall the earth quakes; there is a cry, its sound is heard at the Red Sea. [22] See, like an eagle he will go up and swoop, and spread out his wings against Bozrah; and the heart of Edom's warriors on that day will be like the heart of a woman in her pangs." [23] For Damascus. "Hamath and Arpad are shamed, for they have heard evil news; they melt away; at sea there is anxiety; it cannot be quiet. [24] Damascus has gone limp; she turns to flee, and trembling has gripped her; distress and pains have seized her like a woman giving birth. [25] How has the city of praise not been abandoned, the town of my joy! [*] [26] Therefore her young men will fall in her squares, and all the fighting men will be silenced on that day, declares the LORD of hosts. [27] I will set fire to the wall of Damascus, and it will consume the strongholds of Ben-hadad." [28] For Kedar and the kingdoms of Hazor, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon struck. Thus says the LORD: "Get up, go up against Kedar, and destroy the sons of the east! [29] Their tents and their flocks they will take; their curtains and all their vessels and their camels they will carry off for themselves, and they will shout to them, 'Terror on every side!' [30] Flee, wander far off, dwell deep down, inhabitants of Hazor, declares the LORD! For Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon has taken counsel against you and devised a plan against you. [31] Get up, go up against a nation at ease, living in security, declares the LORD, which has neither gates nor bars; they dwell alone. [32] Their camels will become plunder, and the multitude of their livestock spoil; I will scatter to every wind those who clip the corners of their hair, and from every side I will bring their disaster, declares the LORD. [33] Hazor will become a lair of jackals, a waste forever; no man will live there, no son of man will sojourn in it." [34] What came as the word of the LORD to the prophet Jeremiah about Elam, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah: [35] "Thus says the LORD of hosts: See, I am breaking the bow of Elam, the first of their strength. [36] I will bring on Elam four winds from the four ends of the heavens and scatter them to all these winds; there will be no nation to which the outcasts of Elam will not come. [37] I will shatter Elam before their enemies and before those who seek their life; I will bring evil on them, my burning anger, declares the LORD, and I will send the sword after them until I have finished them off. [38] I will set my throne in Elam and wipe out from there king and officials, declares the LORD. [39] And it will come about in the end of days that I will restore the fortunes of Elam, declares the LORD."

CHAPTER 50

[1] The word which the LORD spoke about Babylon, about the land of the Chaldeans, by the hand of the prophet Jeremiah: [2] "Announce it among the nations and make it heard; raise a banner, make it heard, hide nothing; say, 'Babylon is taken; Bel is shamed; Merodach is shattered; her images are shamed, her idols are shattered.' [3] For a nation has come up against her from the north; it will make her land a waste, and there will be no one living in it; from man to beast they have fled; they are gone. [4] In those days and at that time, declares the LORD, the children of Israel will come, they and the children of Judah together, walking and weeping as they go, and the LORD their God they will seek. [5] They will ask the way to Zion, their faces toward it: 'Come, let us join ourselves to the LORD in an everlasting covenant that will not be forgotten.' [6] My people have been lost sheep; their shepherds led them astray, turning them loose on the mountains; from mountain to hill they went; they forgot their resting place. [7] All who found them ate them up, and their foes said, 'We are not guilty, because they sinned against the LORD, the pasture of righteousness, the hope of their fathers, the LORD.' [8] Wander out of the midst of Babylon, go out of the land of the Chaldeans, and be like the he-goats in front of the flock. [9] For see, I am rousing and bringing up against Babylon an assembly of great nations from the land of the north; they will line up against her; from there she will be taken. Their arrows are like those of a skilled warrior who does not come back empty. [10] Chaldea will become plunder; all who plunder her will have their fill, declares the LORD. [11] Though you are glad, though you exult, you who plunder my inheritance, though you frisk like a heifer at the threshing and neigh like stallions, [12]* your mother will be deeply shamed; she who bore you will blush. See, the last of the nations: a wilderness, a dry land and a desert! [13] Because of the wrath of the LORD she will not be inhabited but will be entirely a waste; everyone who passes by Babylon will be appalled and hiss over all her blows. [14] Line up against Babylon all around, all you who bend the bow; shoot at her, do not spare an arrow, for she has sinned against the LORD. [15] Shout against her all around! She has given her hand; her towers have fallen, her walls are thrown down. For this is the vengeance of the LORD; take vengeance on her; as she has done, do to her. [16] Cut off from Babylon the sower and the one who grasps the sickle at harvest time; before the oppressing sword each will turn to his own people, each will flee to his own land. [17] Israel is a scattered sheep, chased by lions. First the king of Assyria devoured him, and now at the last Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon has crunched his bones. [18] So thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: See, I am punishing the king of Babylon and his land, as I punished the king of Assyria. [19] I will bring Israel back to his pasture; he will graze on Carmel and in Bashan, and on the hill country of Ephraim and in Gilead his soul will be satisfied. [20] In those days and at that time, declares the LORD, the iniquity of Israel will be searched for, and there will be none, and the sins of Judah, and they will not be found; for I will pardon those I leave as a remnant. [21] Go up against the land of Merathaim, against it, and against the inhabitants of Pekod; put them to the sword and devote them to destruction, declares the LORD; do all that I have commanded you. [22]* A sound of war in the land, and a great shattering! [23] How the hammer of the whole earth is cut down and broken! How Babylon has become a horror among the nations! [24] I laid a trap for you, and you were caught, Babylon, before you knew it; you were found and seized, for you picked a fight with the LORD. [25] The LORD has opened his storehouse and brought out the weapons of his indignation; for the Lord GOD of hosts has work to do in the land of the Chaldeans. [26] Come against her from the farthest border; open her granaries; heap her up like piles of grain and devote her to destruction; let her have no remnant. [27] Put all her bulls to the sword; let them go down to the slaughter. Woe to them, for their day has come, the time of their punishment! [28] Hark! Fugitives and escapees from the land of Babylon, to announce in Zion the vengeance of the LORD our God, vengeance for his temple. [29] Call together archers against Babylon, all who bend the bow; camp against her all around; let no one escape. Repay her according to her work; just as she has done, do to her; for she has been insolent toward the LORD, toward the Holy One of Israel. [30] Therefore her young men will fall in her squares, and all her fighting men will be silenced on that day, declares the LORD. [31] I am against you, O insolent one, declares the Lord GOD of hosts; for your day has come, the time when I punish you. [32] The insolent one will stumble and fall, with no one to lift him up; and I will set fire to his towns, and it will consume all around him. [33] Thus says the LORD of hosts: The children of Israel are oppressed, and the children of Judah together; all their captors hold them fast; they refuse to release them. [34] Their Redeemer is strong; the LORD of hosts is his name. He will surely plead their case, so as to give rest to the earth and unrest to the inhabitants of Babylon. [35] A sword on the Chaldeans, declares the LORD, and on the inhabitants of Babylon, on her officials and on her wise men! [36] A sword on the babblers, and they will act as fools! A sword on her warriors, and they will be shattered! [] [37] A sword on her horses and on her chariots and on all the mixed multitude in her midst, and they will become women! A sword on her treasures, and they will be plundered! [38] A drought on her waters, and they will dry up! For it is a land of carved images, and they are crazed over their terrors. [39] So wild beasts of the desert will live there with jackals, and ostriches will live in her; she will never again be inhabited, nor dwelt in from generation to generation. [] [40] As when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah and their neighbors, declares the LORD, no man will live there, no son of man will sojourn in it. [41] See, a people comes from the north, a great nation, and many kings are roused from the remotest parts of the earth. [42] Bow and javelin they seize; they are ruthless and will show no pity. Their noise thunders like the sea, and they ride upon horses, drawn up like a man for war against you, O daughter of Babylon! [43] The king of Babylon has heard the news of them, and his hands hang limp; distress has gripped him, pangs like a woman giving birth. [44] Look, like a lion he comes up from the thickets of the Jordan against the ever-flowing pasture; for in an instant I will make them run from it, and whoever is chosen I will appoint over it. For who is like me? Who will summon me? And who is the shepherd who can stand before me? [45] So hear the counsel the LORD has taken against Babylon, and the plans he has planned against the land of the Chaldeans: Surely the little ones of the flock will be dragged off; surely their pasture will be appalled over them. [46] At the sound, 'Babylon is taken!' the earth quakes, and a cry is heard among the nations."

CHAPTER 51

[1] Thus says the LORD: "See, I am stirring up a destroying wind against Babylon and against the inhabitants of Leb-kamai. [] [2] I will send winnowers to Babylon who will winnow her and strip her land bare; for they will be against her all around on the day of evil. [3] Against the one who bends, let the archer bend his bow, and against the one who raises himself in his armor. Do not spare her young men; devote her whole army to destruction. [] [4] The slain will fall in the land of the Chaldeans, and the pierced in her streets. [5] For Israel and Judah are not widowed of their God, the LORD of hosts, though their land is full of guilt toward the Holy One of Israel. [6] Flee out of the midst of Babylon, and let each save his soul! Do not perish in her iniquity, for it is the time of the LORD's vengeance; he is paying her back what she has earned. [7] Babylon was a golden cup in the LORD's hand, making all the earth drunk; the nations drank of her wine; therefore the nations go mad. [8] Suddenly Babylon has fallen and is broken; howl over her! Get balm for her pain; it may be she can be healed. [9] We tried to heal Babylon, but she was not healed. Leave her, and let us each go to his own land; for her judgment reaches to the heavens and rises up to the clouds. [10] The LORD has brought our righteousness to light; come, let us tell in Zion the work of the LORD our God. [11] Polish the arrows! Fill the quivers! The LORD has roused the spirit of the kings of the Medes, for his plan is against Babylon, to destroy it; for it is the vengeance of the LORD, vengeance for his temple. [12] Raise a banner toward the walls of Babylon; make the guard strong; station watchmen; set ambushes! For the LORD has both planned and carried out what he spoke against the inhabitants of Babylon. [13] You who dwell on many waters, abundant in treasures, your end has come, the measure of your plunder. [14] The LORD of hosts has sworn by his soul: Surely I will fill you with men like locusts, and they will raise over you the shout of the grape treaders. [15] He is the Maker of the earth by his strength, the one who fixed the world in place by his wisdom; by his insight he spread out the heavens. [16] When he gives forth his voice, the waters in the heavens are in uproar; he lifts the mists from the edge of the earth; he makes lightning flashes for the rain and sends the wind out from his treasuries. [17] All mankind is senseless, lacking knowledge; every metalsmith is disgraced by his carved image, for what he casts is a fraud, and there is no breath in them. [18] They are mere breath, a work of mockery; when the time comes to punish them, they will perish. [19] The Portion of Jacob is not like these, for he is the Shaper of all things and of the tribe of his inheritance; the LORD of hosts is his name. [] [20] You are my hammer, my weapons of war: with you I smash nations, with you I destroy kingdoms. [21] With you I smash horse and rider; with you I smash chariot and charioteer. [22] With you I smash man and woman; with you I smash old man and boy; with you I smash the young man and the virgin. [23] With you I smash the shepherd and his flock; with you I smash the plowman and his yoke of oxen; with you I smash governors and deputies. [24] But I will repay Babylon and all the inhabitants of Chaldea for all their evil that they have done in Zion, before your eyes, declares the LORD. [25] I am against you, O mountain of the destroyer, declares the LORD, you who destroy the whole earth; I will stretch out my hand against you, roll you down from the crags, and make you a burned-out mountain. [26] They will not take from you a stone for a corner or a stone for foundations, for you will be a desolation forever, declares the LORD. [27] Raise a banner in the land; blow the horn among the nations; consecrate nations against her; call against her the kingdoms of Ararat, Minni and Ashkenaz; appoint a marshal against her; bring up horses like bristling locusts. [28] Consecrate nations against her, the kings of the Medes, their governors and all their deputies, and every land of his dominion. [29] The land quakes and writhes, for the plans of the LORD stand against Babylon, to make the land of Babylon a waste with no inhabitant. [30] The warriors of Babylon have stopped fighting; they sit in the strongholds; their might has dried up; they have become women. Her dwellings are burned, her bars broken. [31] Runner runs to meet runner, messenger to meet messenger, to tell the king of Babylon that his city is taken from end to end, [32] that the fords are seized, the reed marshes burned with fire, and the fighting men are terrified. [33] For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: The daughter of Babylon is like a threshing floor at the time it is trodden; yet a little while and the time of harvest will come for her." [34] "Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon has eaten me up; he has thrown me into confusion; he has set me down as an empty vessel; he has swallowed me like a sea monster; he has filled his belly with my delights; he has rinsed me out. [35] Let the violence done to me and to my flesh be on Babylon," the one who dwells in Zion will say. "Let my blood be on the inhabitants of Chaldea," Jerusalem will say. [36] So thus says the LORD: "See, I will plead your case and avenge you; I will dry up her sea and make her spring run dry. [37] Babylon will become heaps of rubble, a lair of jackals, a horror and a thing to hiss at, with no inhabitant. [38] Together they roar like young lions; they growl like lions' whelps. [39] When they are heated, I will set out their drinking feast and make them drunk, so that they exult; then they will sleep an everlasting sleep and not wake, declares the LORD. [40] I will bring them down like lambs to the slaughter, like rams with he-goats. [41] How Sheshach has been captured, and the praise of all the earth taken! How Babylon has become a horror among the nations! [] [42] The sea has come up over Babylon; she is covered by the roar of its waves. [43] Her towns have become a waste, a dry land and a desert, a land where no man lives, and no son of man passes through it. [44] I will punish Bel in Babylon and bring out of his mouth what he swallowed; nations will no longer flow to him; even the wall of Babylon has fallen. [45] Go out of the midst of her, my people, and let each save his soul from the burning anger of the LORD! [46] Do not let your heart be faint, and do not fear at the rumor heard in the land, when a rumor comes in one year, and after it another rumor in the next, and violence is in the land, ruler against ruler. [47] Therefore, see, the days are coming when I will punish the carved images of Babylon; all her land will be shamed, and all her slain will fall in her midst. [48] Then the heavens and the earth and all that is in them will shout for joy over Babylon, for from the north the destroyers will come to her, declares the LORD. [49] Babylon too must fall for the slain of Israel, as for Babylon have fallen the slain of all the earth. [50] You who have escaped the sword, go, do not stand still! Remember the LORD from far off, and let Jerusalem come up into your heart. [51] We are ashamed, for we have heard insult; disgrace has covered our faces, for foreigners have come into the sanctuaries of the house of the LORD. [52] Therefore, see, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will punish her carved images, and throughout her land the wounded will groan. [53] Though Babylon should climb to the heavens, though she should fortify her lofty stronghold, from me destroyers will come to her, declares the LORD. [54] Hark, a cry from Babylon, and a great shattering from the land of the Chaldeans! [55] For the LORD is devastating Babylon and silencing her great voice; their waves roar like many waters; the din of their voice rings out. [56] For a destroyer has come against her, against Babylon; her warriors are captured; their bows are shattered; for the LORD is a God of recompense; he will surely repay. [57] I will make her officials and her wise men drunk, her governors, her deputies and her warriors; they will sleep an everlasting sleep and not wake, declares the King, whose name is the LORD of hosts. [58] Thus says the LORD of hosts: The broad walls of Babylon will be utterly razed and her lofty gates burned with fire; so peoples labor for emptiness, and nations weary themselves for the fire." [59] The word that Jeremiah the prophet commanded Seraiah the son of Neriah, son of Mahseiah, when he went with Zedekiah king of Judah to Babylon in the fourth year of his reign. Seraiah was the quartermaster. [*] [60] Jeremiah wrote in a single book all the evil that would come on Babylon, all these words written about Babylon. [61] Jeremiah said to Seraiah, "When you come to Babylon, see to it that you read all these words, [62] and say, 'O LORD, you yourself have spoken about this place, that you would cut it off, so that there would be no one living in it, from man to beast, for it will be desolate forever.' [63] When you have finished reading this book, tie a stone to it and throw it into the middle of the Euphrates, [64] and say, 'So will Babylon sink and not rise, because of the evil I am bringing upon her; and they will grow weary.'" Up to here are the words of Jeremiah.

CHAPTER 52

[1] Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem; his mother's name was Hamutal the daughter of Jeremiah, from Libnah. [2] He did evil in the sight of the LORD, just as Jehoiakim had done. [3] For it was on account of the anger of the LORD that this happened in Jerusalem and Judah, until he had thrown them out from his presence. Then Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon. [4] In the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, on the tenth of the month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came against Jerusalem, he and all his army; they camped against it and built a siege wall around it. [5] The city remained under siege until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. [6] In the fourth month, on the ninth of the month, the famine grew strong in the city, and there was no bread for the people of the land. [7] Then the city was broken into, and all the fighting men fled and left the city by night by way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the king's garden, while the Chaldeans were around the city; and they went along the road to the Arabah. [8] The Chaldean army pursued the king and caught up with Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho, and all his army scattered from him. [9] They took the king and brought him up to the king of Babylon at Riblah in the land of Hamath, and he pronounced judgments upon him. [10] The king of Babylon slaughtered Zedekiah's sons before his eyes, and he slaughtered all the officials of Judah as well at Riblah. [11] Zedekiah's eyes he blinded, and he bound him with bronze fetters; and the king of Babylon brought him to Babylon and put him in the house of custody until the day of his death. [12] In the fifth month, on the tenth of the month, that is, the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard, who stood before the king of Babylon, came into Jerusalem. [13] He burned the house of the LORD and the house of the king, and all the houses of Jerusalem, every great house, he burned with fire. [14] And the whole Chaldean army that was with the captain of the guard tore down all the walls around Jerusalem. [15] Some of the poor of the people and the rest of the people left in the city, the deserters who had fallen away to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the craftsmen, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard carried into exile.* [16] But some of the poor of the land Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard left behind as vinedressers and plowmen. [17] The bronze pillars that were in the house of the LORD, the stands, and the bronze sea in the house of the LORD the Chaldeans broke up, and they carried all their bronze to Babylon. [18] And the pots, the shovels, the snuffers, the basins, the ladles and all the bronze vessels used in the service they took. [19] The captain of the guard also took the small bowls, the firepans, the basins, the pots, the lampstands, the ladles and the libation bowls, what was of gold for its gold and what was of silver for its silver. [20] The two pillars, the one sea, and the twelve bronze bulls beneath the stands, which King Solomon had made for the house of the LORD: there was no weighing the bronze of all these vessels. [21] As for the pillars, eighteen cubits was the height of one pillar, a cord of twelve cubits went around it, and its thickness was four fingers; it was hollow. [22] A capital of bronze was on it; the height of the one capital was five cubits, with latticework and pomegranates on the capital all around, all of bronze; and the second pillar was like these, with pomegranates. [23] There were ninety-six pomegranates on the sides; all the pomegranates on the latticework all around numbered a hundred. [24] The captain of the guard took Seraiah the head priest and Zephaniah the second priest and the three keepers of the threshold; [25] and from the city he took one eunuch who was over the fighting men, seven men of those who saw the king's face who were found in the city, the scribe of the commander of the army, who mustered the people of the land, and sixty men of the people of the land who were found inside the city. [26] Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard took them and led them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. [27] The king of Babylon struck them and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. So Judah went into exile from its land. [28] This is the people whom Nebuchadnezzar exiled: in the seventh year, three thousand twenty-three Jews; [29] in the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar, from Jerusalem, eight hundred thirty-two souls; [30] in the twenty-third year of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuzaradan the captain of the guard exiled seven hundred forty-five Jews. All the souls were four thousand six hundred. [31] In the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-fifth of the month, Evil-merodach king of Babylon, in the year he became king, lifted the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah and brought him out of the prison house. [32] He spoke good things with him and set his throne above the thrones of the kings who were with him in Babylon. [33] And he changed his prison clothes, and he ate bread before him regularly all the days of his life. [34] As for his allowance, a continual allowance was given him by the king of Babylon, each day's portion in its day, until the day of his death, all the days of his life.

[1] How she sits alone, the city that was full of people! She has become like a widow, she who was great among the nations; a princess among the provinces has become a slave at forced labor. [2] Bitterly she weeps in the night, her tears upon her cheek; she has no comforter among all who loved her; all her friends have dealt treacherously with her; they have turned into her enemies. [3] Judah has gone into exile out of affliction and great servitude; she lives among the nations and finds no resting place; all who chase her have caught up with her between the straits. [4] The roads of Zion are in mourning, for none come to the festival; all her gates are ruined; her priests sigh; her young women are afflicted, and as for her, it is bitter to her. [5] Her foes have become her masters; her enemies prosper; for the LORD has made her grieve over the abundance of her rebellions; her little ones have gone into captivity before the foe. [6] And from the daughter of Zion all her glory has gone out; her officials have become like stags that find no pasture; they have walked without strength before the pursuer. [7] Jerusalem remembers, in the days of her affliction and her homelessness, all her treasures that were hers from days of old; when her people fell into the hand of the foe and no one helped her, the foes looked at her; they mocked at her downfall.* [8] Jerusalem has sinned a sin; that is why she has become a filthy thing; all who honored her despise her, for they have seen her nakedness; she herself groans and turns her back. [9] Her filthiness is in her skirts; she gave no thought to her end; so she has come down in an astonishing way, with no one to comfort her. "Look, O LORD, at my affliction, for the enemy has made himself great!" [10] The foe has stretched out his hand over all her treasures; for she has seen nations come into her sanctuary, those you commanded not to enter your assembly. [11] All her people are groaning, searching for bread; they have given their treasures for food to bring back the soul. "Look, O LORD, and see how despised I have become!" [12] "Does it mean nothing to you, all you who pass by on the road? Look and see if there is any pain like my pain that was inflicted on me, which the LORD brought upon me in the day of his burning anger. [13] "From on high he sent fire; into my bones he made it go down; he spread a net for my feet and turned me back; he made me desolate, sick all day long. [14] "The yoke of my rebellions is bound fast; by his hand they are woven together; they have come up onto my neck; he has made my strength stumble. The Lord has given me into hands I cannot rise up against.* [15] "The Lord has thrown aside all my mighty men in my midst; he called an assembly against me to shatter my young men; the Lord has trodden the winepress of the virgin daughter of Judah. [16] "For these things I am weeping; my eye, my eye streams with water; for far from me is a comforter who could restore my soul. My children are desolate, for the enemy has prevailed." [17] Zion spreads out her hands; there is none to comfort her. The LORD has commanded against Jacob that his neighbors be his foes; Jerusalem has become a filthy thing among them. [18] "The LORD is in the right, for I have rebelled against his mouth. Hear, all you peoples, and see my pain: my young women and my young men have gone into captivity. [19] "I called to my lovers; they betrayed me. My priests and my elders breathed their last in the city as they searched for food for themselves to bring back their soul. [20] "Look, O LORD, for I am in distress; my bowels are in turmoil; my heart is turned over within me, for I have been very rebellious. Outside the sword bereaves; inside, it is like death. [21] "They have heard how I groan, with no one to comfort me; all my enemies have heard of my calamity; they rejoice that you have done it. You will bring the day you have announced, and they will be like me. [22] "Let all their evil come before you, and deal with them as you have dealt with me for all my rebellions; for many are my groans, and my heart is sick."

CHAPTER 2

[1] How the Lord in his anger has clouded over the daughter of Zion! He has thrown down from heaven to earth the beauty of Israel, and has not remembered his footstool on the day of his anger. [2] The Lord has swallowed without pity all the pastures of Jacob; in his fury he has thrown down the fortresses of the daughter of Judah; he has brought them to the ground; he has profaned the kingdom and its officials. [3] In burning anger he has hacked off every horn of Israel; he has drawn back his right hand in the face of the enemy; he has burned in Jacob like a flaming fire consuming all around. [4] He has bent his bow like an enemy, standing with his right hand like a foe; he has killed all that was delightful to the eye; in the tent of the daughter of Zion he has poured out his wrath like fire. [5] The Lord has become like an enemy; he has swallowed Israel; he has swallowed all its palaces, ruined its fortresses, and multiplied in the daughter of Judah moaning and lamentation. [6] He has stripped his booth like a garden; he has ruined his meeting place. The LORD has made festival and Sabbath forgotten in Zion, and in the fury of his anger he has spurned king and priest. [*7] The Lord has cast off his altar, repudiated his sanctuary; he has handed over to the enemy the walls of her palaces; they have raised a shout in the house of the LORD as on a festival day. [8] The LORD planned to ruin the wall of the daughter of Zion; he stretched out a line; he did not turn his hand back from swallowing; he made rampart and wall mourn; together they waste away. [9] Her gates have sunk into the earth; he has ruined and shattered her bars. Her king and her officials are among the nations; there is no law; her prophets too find no vision from the LORD. [10] They sit on the ground, they are silent, the elders of the daughter of Zion; they have thrown dust on their heads; they have wrapped themselves in sackcloth; the young women of Jerusalem have bowed their heads to the ground. [11] My eyes are worn out with tears; my bowels are in turmoil; my liver is poured out on the ground over the shattering of the daughter of my people, as child and infant faint in the squares of the city. [12] They keep saying to their mothers, "Where are grain and wine?" as they faint like the wounded in the squares of the city, as their soul is poured out on their mothers' bosom. [13] What can I testify to you, what can I compare to you, daughter of Jerusalem? What can I liken to you to comfort you, virgin daughter of Zion? For your shattering is great as the sea; who can heal you? [14] Your prophets have seen for you emptiness and whitewash; they did not uncover your iniquity so as to restore your fortunes, but they saw for you oracles of emptiness and seduction. [15] All who pass along the way clap their hands at you; they hiss and wag their heads at the daughter of Jerusalem: "Is this the city that was called the perfection of beauty, the joy of all the earth?" [16] All your enemies open their mouths wide against you; they hiss and grind their teeth; they say, "We have swallowed her! Ah, this is the day we waited for; we have reached it, we have seen it!" [17] The LORD has done what he purposed; he has fulfilled his word, which he commanded from days of old; he has thrown down without pity; he has let the enemy rejoice over you; he has lifted high the horn of your foes. [18] Their heart cried out to the Lord: O wall of the daughter of Zion, let tears flow like a torrent by day and night! Give yourself no rest; do not let the daughter of your eye be still. [19] Get up, cry out in the night, at the start of the watches! Pour out your heart like water before the face of the Lord; lift up your palms to him for the soul of your little ones, who faint from hunger at the head of every street. [20] Look, O LORD, and see! To whom have you done this? Must women eat their fruit, the little ones they have nursed? Must priest and prophet be killed in the sanctuary of the Lord? [21] On the ground in the streets lie boy and old man; my young women and my young men have fallen by the sword; you have killed on the day of your anger; you have slaughtered without pity. [22] You have called, as on a festival day, my terrors from all around; and on the day of the anger of the LORD there was no one who escaped or survived; those I nursed and raised my enemy has finished off.

CHAPTER 3

[1] I am the man who has seen affliction by the rod of his fury. [2] Me he has driven and made to walk in darkness and not in light. [3] Surely against me he turns his hand again and again, all the day. [4] He has worn out my flesh and my skin; he has shattered my bones. [5] He has built against me and encircled me with poison and hardship. [6] In dark places he has made me sit, like the dead of long ago. [7] He has walled me in, and I cannot go out; he has made my bronze chain heavy. [8] Even when I cry and shout for help, he shuts out my prayer. [9] He has walled up my ways with dressed stone; he has twisted my paths. [10] A bear lying in wait he is to me, a lion in hiding. [11] He has turned my ways aside and pulled me to pieces; he has made me desolate. [12] He bent his bow and set me up like a mark for the arrow. [13] He has sent into my inmost parts the arrows of his quiver. [14] I have become a laughingstock to all my people, the theme of their song all day long. [15] He has sated me with bitterness; he has made me drink

my fill of wormwood. [16] He has made my teeth grind on gravel; he has made me cower in ashes. [17] My soul has been rejected from peace; I have forgotten what is good. [18] And I said, "Gone is my endurance, and my hope from the LORD." [19] Remember my affliction and my homelessness, the wormwood and the poison. [20] My soul remembers it well and sinks down within me. [21] This I bring back to my mind; therefore I have hope: [22] The steadfast love of the LORD is why we are not consumed, for his compassions do not fail.* [23] They are new every morning; great is your faithfulness. [24] "The LORD is my portion," my soul says; "therefore I will wait for him." [25] Good is the LORD to those who wait for him, to the soul that seeks him. [26] It is good to wait in silence for the salvation of the LORD. [27] It is good for a man that he bear a yoke in his youth. [28] Let him sit alone and be silent, for he has laid it upon him. [29] Let him put his mouth in the dust; there may yet be hope. [30] Let him offer his cheek to the one who strikes him; let him be filled full with insult. [31] For the Lord does not reject forever. [32] Though he brings grief, he will show compassion according to the greatness of his steadfast love. [33] For it is not from his heart that he afflicts or grieves the sons of men. [34] To crush underfoot all the prisoners of the land, [35] to deny a man justice before the face of the Most High, [36] to wrong a man in his lawsuit, the Lord does not look on with approval. [37] Who has spoken and it came to be, if the Lord did not command it? [38] Do not evil things and good come out of the mouth of the Most High? [39] Why should a living man complain, a man, about the punishment for his sins? [40] Let us test and search out our ways, and turn back to the LORD. [41] Let us lift up our hearts along with our palms to God in the heavens: [42] "We have transgressed and rebelled, and you have not forgiven. [43] "You have covered yourself with anger and pursued us; you have killed without pity. [44] "You have covered yourself with a cloud, so that prayer cannot get through. [45] "Offscouring and refuse you have made us in the midst of the peoples. [46] "All our enemies have opened their mouths wide against us. [47] "Terror and pit have come upon us, ruin and shattering." [48] My eye streams with rivers of water over the shattering of the daughter of my people. [49] My eye flows and will not stop, without a pause, [50] until the LORD looks down and sees from the heavens. [51] My eye deals harshly with my soul because of all the daughters of my city. [52] Those who are my enemies for no reason have hunted me like a bird. [53] They silenced my life in the pit and threw stones at me. [54] Water flowed over my head; I said, "I am cut off." [55] I called on your name, O LORD, from the lowest pit. [56] You heard my voice: "Do not close your ear to my plea for relief, to my cry!" [57] You came near on the day I called you; you said, "Do not be afraid!" [58] You have taken up the cases of my soul, O Lord; you have redeemed my life. [59] You have seen, O LORD, the wrong done to me; judge my cause. [60] You have seen all their vengeance, all their plots against me. [61] You have heard their taunts, O LORD, all their plots against me, [62] the lips and the murmurings of those who rise against me, against me all day long. [63] Look at their sitting and their rising; I am their song. [64] You will pay them back, O LORD, according to the work of their hands. [65] You will give them a covering over the heart; your curse be on them! [66] You will pursue them in anger and wipe them out from under the heavens of the LORD.

CHAPTER 4

[1] How the gold has grown dim, how the good gold has changed! The holy stones lie scattered at the head of every street. [2] The precious sons of Zion, weighed against fine gold, how they are reckoned as clay jars, the work of a potter's hands! [3] Even jackals offer the breast; they nurse their cubs; but the daughter of my people has become cruel, like ostriches in the desert.* [4] The tongue of the infant clings to its palate from thirst; children ask for bread, and no one spreads it out for them. [5] Those who ate dainties are destitute in the streets; those reared in crimson cling to dunghills. [6] For the iniquity of the daughter of my people is greater than the sin of Sodom, which was overthrown as in a moment, and no hands were laid on her. [7] Her Nazirites were brighter than snow, whiter than milk; their bodies were ruddier than coral, their cut like sapphire. [8] Their appearance is darker than black; they are not known in the streets; their skin has shrunk on their bones; it has dried up like wood. [9] Better off were the slain of the sword than the slain of hunger, who pine away, stricken, for lack of the fruits of the field. [10] The hands of tender-hearted women have cooked their own children; they became their food in the shattering of the daughter of my people. [11] The LORD has given full vent to his wrath; he has poured out his burning anger; he has lit a fire in Zion, and it has consumed her foundations. [12] The kings of the earth did not believe, nor did any who live in the world, that foe and enemy would come in through the gates of Jerusalem. [13] It was because of the sins of her prophets, the iniquities of her priests, who shed within her the blood of the righteous. [14] They staggered blind in the streets, so defiled with blood that none could touch their clothes. [15] "Turn away! Unclean!" they called to them; "Turn away, turn away, do not touch!" When they fled and wandered, they said among the nations, "They will stay here no longer." [16] The face of the LORD has divided them; he will look on them no more; they showed no regard for the priests and no favor to the elders. [17] Still our eyes wear themselves out looking for help, in vain; in our watching we watched for a nation that could not save. [18] They tracked our steps, so that we could not walk in our squares; our end drew near, our days were full, for our end had come. [19] Our pursuers were swifter than the eagles of the heavens; on the mountains they chased us hotly; in the desert they lay in wait for us. [20] The breath of our nostrils, the anointed of the LORD, was captured in their pits, of whom we said, "In his shade we will live among the nations."* [21] Rejoice and be glad, daughter of Edom, who dwell in the land of Uz! To you too the cup will pass; you will get drunk and lay yourself bare. [22] Your iniquity has been punished in full, daughter of Zion; he will not exile you again. He will punish your iniquity, daughter of Edom; he will expose your sins.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Remember, O LORD, what has come upon us; look and see our reproach. [2] Our inheritance has passed to strangers, our homes to aliens. [3] Orphans we have become, fatherless; our mothers are like widows. [4] Our water we drink for silver; our wood comes to us at a price. [5] Our pursuers are on our necks; we are weary and given no rest. [6] To Egypt we have given the hand, and to Assyria, to get enough bread. [7] Our fathers sinned and are gone, and we carry their iniquities. [8] Slaves rule over us; there is no one to snatch us out of their hand. [9] With our lives at stake we bring in our bread, because of the sword of the wilderness. [10]
Our skin is hot as an oven with the fever of famine. [11] Women in Zion were ravished, young women in the towns of Judah. [12]
Officials were hanged by their hands; elders were given no respect. [13] Young men had to carry the mill, and boys stumbled under the wood. [14] The elders have stopped sitting at the gate, the young men their music. [15] The joy of our heart has stopped; our dancing has turned into mourning. [16] The crown of our head has fallen; woe to us, for we have sinned! [17] For this our heart is faint; for these things our eyes are dim, [18] for Mount Zion, which lies desolate; foxes roam over it. [19] But you, O LORD, are enthroned forever; your throne is from generation to generation. [20] Why do you forget us forever, abandon us for length of days? [21] Turn us back to you, O LORD, and we will turn back; renew our days as of old; [22] unless you have utterly rejected us and are exceedingly angry with us.*

CHAPTER 1

[1] It was in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, on the fifth of the month, while I was among the exiles beside the river Chebar, that the heavens opened and I saw visions of God. [2] On the fifth of the month (it was the fifth year of King Jehoiachin's exile), [3] the word of the LORD came indeed to Ezekiel the priest, son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans beside the river Chebar; and there the hand of the LORD came upon him. [4] As I looked, behold, a storm wind was coming out of the north: a huge cloud and fire catching hold of itself, with a radiance surrounding it, and in its center, in the center of the fire, something that shone like amber.* [5] Out of its center came the form of four living creatures, and this is how they looked: they had a human form. [6] Every one of them had four faces, and every one of them had four wings. [7] Their legs were straight, and their feet had soles like the hoof of a calf; they glittered with the look of polished bronze.
[8] Human hands were under their wings on all four sides, and all four had faces and wings in this way: [9] their wings were joined to one another; they did not turn when they moved, but each went straight forward. [10] As for the form of their faces, they had a human face, and the four had a lion's face on the right, and the four had an ox's face on the left, and the four had an eagle's face.
[11] Thus were their faces. Their wings were spread upward; each had two that joined with the wings of the other, and two covering their bodies. [12] Each went straight forward; where the spirit was to go, there they went, without turning as they moved.
[13] The look of the living creatures was like coals of fire burning, like the look of torches; the fire went back and forth among the creatures, and the fire had a radiance, and lightning came out of the fire. [14] The living creatures darted to and fro, looking like flashes of lightning. [15] While I watched the living creatures, I saw a wheel on the ground beside the creatures, one for each of their four faces. [16] The wheels and their construction looked like the glint of beryl, and all four had the same form; their look and their construction were like a wheel inside a wheel. [17] When they moved, they went toward any of their four sides without turning as they went. [18] Their rims were tall and fearsome, and the rims of all four were covered with eyes all around. [19] Whenever the living creatures moved, the wheels moved beside them, and when the creatures rose from the ground, the wheels rose. [20] Where the spirit was to go, they went, there the spirit was to go; and the wheels rose together with them, because the spirit of the living creature was in the wheels. [21] When the creatures went, the wheels went; when they stopped, the wheels stopped; and when they rose from the ground, the wheels rose together with them, because the spirit of the living creature was in the wheels. [22] Above the heads of the living creature was the form of an expanse, with the glint of fearsome crystal, stretched out above, over their heads. [23] Beneath the expanse their wings were held out straight, each toward the other; each creature had two wings covering its body on this side and two covering it on that side. [24]
As they moved I heard the noise of their wings, like the noise of mighty waters, like the voice of the Almighty, a roar like the noise of an army camp. Whenever they stopped, they lowered their wings. [25] Then a voice sounded from above the expanse over their heads; when they stopped, they lowered their wings. [26] Above the expanse over their heads was the form of a throne, looking like sapphire stone, and seated above on the form of the throne was a form that looked like a man. [27] From what looked like his waist upward I saw something shining like amber, looking like fire enclosed all around; and from what looked like his waist downward I saw what looked like fire, with radiance surrounding him. [28] Like the look of the rainbow in the clouds on a rainy day, so was the look of the radiance around him. Such was the appearance of the form of the glory of the LORD. When I saw it I fell face down, and I heard a voice speaking.

CHAPTER 2

[1] He said to me, "Son of man, get up on your feet, and I will speak to you."* [2] While he was speaking to me, the Spirit came into me and stood me on my feet, and I heard the one who was speaking to me. [3] He told me, "Son of man, I am sending you to the children of Israel, to rebel nations who have rebelled against me; they and their fathers have revolted against me up to this very day. [4] The sons are hard-faced and hard-hearted, and I am sending you to them. You are to tell them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD.' [5] Whether they listen or hold back (for they are a house of rebellion), they will know that there has been a prophet in their midst. [6] As for you, Son of man, have no fear of them or of their words, though thistles and thorns surround you and you sit among scorpions. Have no fear of their words and do not be shaken by their faces, for they are a house of rebellion. [7] Speak my words to them, whether they listen or hold back, for they are rebellion itself. [8] "But you, Son of man, listen to what I am telling you: do not be rebellious like that house of rebellion. Open your mouth and eat what I am giving you." [9] When I looked, there was a hand reached out toward me, and in it, a scroll. [10] He unrolled it in front of me; it had writing inside and out, and what was written on it was dirges, moaning and woe.

CHAPTER 3

[1] He said to me, "Son of man, eat what is in front of you. Eat this scroll; then go and speak to the house of Israel." [2] I opened my mouth, and he fed me the scroll. [3] He said to me, "Son of man, feed your stomach and fill your insides with this scroll I am giving you." So I ate it, and in my mouth it was sweet as honey. [4] Then he said to me, "Son of man, go now to the house of Israel and speak my words to them. [5] You are not being sent to a people of unintelligible speech and difficult tongue, but to the house of Israel, [6] not to many peoples of unintelligible speech and difficult tongue whose words you cannot make out. If I sent you to those, they would listen to you. [7] But the house of Israel will refuse to listen to you, because they refuse to listen to me; the whole house of Israel is hard of brow and stubborn of heart. [8] See, I have made your face as hard as their faces, and your brow as hard as their brows. [9] I have made your brow like diamond, harder than flint. Have no fear of them and do not be shaken by their faces, for they are a house of rebellion." [10] He said to me, "Son of man, take into your heart all the words I speak to you, and hear them with your ears. [11] Go now to the exiles, to the sons of your people; speak to them and tell them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD,' whether they listen or hold back." [12] Then the Spirit lifted me, and behind me I heard the noise of a great quaking: "Blessed be the glory of the LORD from its place!" [13] It was the noise of the living creatures' wings brushing against one another, and the noise of the wheels alongside them, the noise of a great quaking. [14] The Spirit lifted me and carried me off, and I went bitter, my spirit burning, while the hand of the LORD pressed hard on me. [15] I came to the exiles at Tel-abib who lived beside the river Chebar, and I sat where they were living; for seven days I sat there among them, stunned. [16] When seven days were over, the word of the LORD came to me: [17] "Son of man, I have appointed you a watchman for the house of Israel. When you hear a word from my mouth, give them warning from me. [18] If I tell the wicked man, 'You will surely die,' and you give him no warning and do not speak up to warn the wicked man away from his wicked way so that he may live, that wicked man will die for his iniquity, but I will hold you responsible for his blood. [19] But if you have warned the wicked man and he does not turn from his wickedness and from his wicked way, he will die for his iniquity, but you will have saved your life. [20] And if a righteous man turns away from his righteousness and does wrong, and I put a stumbling block in front of him, he will die. Because you gave him no warning, he will die for his sin, and the righteous things he did will not be remembered; but I will hold you responsible for his blood. [21] But if you have warned the righteous man not to sin, and he does not sin, he will surely live because he was warned, and you will have saved your life." [22] There the hand of the LORD came upon me, and he said to me, "Get up and go out to the valley, and there I will speak to you." [23] So I got up and went out to the valley, and there stood the glory of the LORD, like the glory I had seen beside the river Chebar; and I fell face down. [24] The Spirit came into me and stood me on my feet. He spoke to me and told me, "Go and shut yourself in your house. [25] As for you, Son of man, they are going to put ropes on you and tie you up with them, so that you cannot go out among them. [26] I will make your tongue stick to the roof of your mouth, and you will be speechless and unable to be a reprover to them, for they are a house of rebellion. [27] But when I speak with you, I will open your mouth, and you will tell them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD.' Whoever listens, let him listen; whoever holds back, let him hold back; for they are a house of rebellion.

CHAPTER 4

[1] "Now you, Son of man, get yourself a brick and set it in front of you, and scratch on it a city, Jerusalem. [2] Lay siege to it: build siege works against it, heap up a ramp against it, set up camps against it, and position battering rams around it on every side. [3] Then get yourself an iron griddle and put it up as an iron wall between you and the city. Fix your face toward it; it will be under siege, and you will besiege it. This is to be a sign for the house of Israel. [4] "Next, lie down on your left side and put the iniquity of the house of Israel on it; for as many days as you lie on it, you will carry their iniquity. [5] I have counted out for you the years of their iniquity as a number of days, three hundred and ninety days, and you will carry the iniquity of the house of Israel. [6] When you have finished these, you are to lie down again, this time on your right side, and carry the iniquity of the house of Judah forty days; a day for a year, a day for a year I have assigned you. [7] Fix your face toward the siege of Jerusalem with your arm bare, and prophesy against it. [8] And see, I am putting ropes on you so that you cannot roll from one side to the other until you finish the days of your siege. [9] "Get yourself wheat and barley, beans and lentils, millet and spelt; put them into a single jar and make them into bread for yourself. You are to eat it for as many days as you lie on your side, three hundred and ninety days. [10] The food you eat will be weighed out, twenty shekels a day; you will eat it at set times. [11] Water too you will drink by measure, a sixth of a hin; you will drink it at set times. [12] Eat it like a barley cake, and bake it on human excrement before their eyes." [13] And the LORD said, "That is how the children of Israel will eat their bread, unclean, among the nations to which I will banish them." [14] But I said, "Ah, Lord GOD! My soul has never been made unclean. From my youth until now I have not eaten anything that died on its own or was mangled by animals, and no tainted meat has entered my mouth." [15] He answered me, "Very well, I am allowing you cow dung in place of human excrement; you may make your bread over it." [16] Then he said to me, "Son of man, I am about to break the staff of bread in Jerusalem. They will eat bread by weight and in anxiety, and drink water by measure and in horror, [17] so that they will run short of bread and water and stare aghast at one another and rot away in their iniquity.

CHAPTER 5

[1] "And you, Son of man, get a sharp sword and use it as a barber's razor; run it over your head and your beard. Then take scales for weighing and divide the hair. [2] One third you will burn in the fire inside the city when the days of the siege are finished; one third you will take and strike with the sword around the city; and one third you will scatter to the wind, and I will unsheathe a sword after them. [3] Take from there a few strands and tie them up in the fold of your garment. [4] From these too take some and throw them into the fire and burn them up; from it fire will spread to the whole house of Israel. [5] "Thus says the Lord GOD: This is Jerusalem. I placed her in the center of the nations, with lands surrounding her. [6] Yet she defied my judgments more wickedly than the nations, and my statutes more than the lands surrounding her; for they rejected my judgments and did not walk in my statutes. [7] So thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have been more unruly than the nations around you, and have not walked in my statutes or carried out my judgments, nor even acted according to the judgments of the nations that are all around you, [*] [8] therefore thus says the Lord GOD: See, I myself am against you, and I will carry out judgments among you before the eyes of the nations. [9] Because of all your abominations I will do to you what I have not done before and will never do the like again. [10] So fathers will eat sons within you, and sons will eat their fathers. I will carry out judgments on you and scatter all that is left of you to every wind. [11] Therefore, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, because you defiled my sanctuary with all your vile things and all your abominations, I in turn will cut you down; my eye will not spare and I will show no pity. [12] One third of you will die by pestilence and waste away by famine inside you; one third will fall by the sword around you; and one third I will scatter to every wind, and unsheathe a sword after them. [13] "So my anger will run its course; I will vent my wrath on them and be satisfied. And when I have finished venting my wrath on them, they will know that I, the LORD, spoke in my zeal. [14] I will make you a ruin and an object of scorn among the nations around you, before the eyes of every passerby. [15] You will be a scorn and a byword, a lesson and an object of horror to the nations around you, when I carry out judgments on you in anger and wrath and with raging punishments. I, the LORD, have spoken. [16] When I shoot at them the deadly arrows of famine, arrows that destroy, which I will shoot to destroy you, I will add famine upon you and break your staff of bread. [17] I will send famine and savage beasts on you, and they will leave you childless; pestilence and bloodshed will sweep through you, and I will bring the sword against you. I, the LORD, have spoken."

CHAPTER 6

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, turn your face toward the mountains of Israel and prophesy against them. [3] Say, 'Mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD! Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains and the hills, to the ravines and the valleys: See, I myself am bringing a sword against you, and I will wipe out your high places. [4] Your altars will be laid waste and your incense altars smashed, and I will throw down your slain in front of your idols. [5] I will lay the dead bodies of the children of Israel in front of their idols and scatter your bones around your altars. [6] Wherever you live, the cities will be ruined and the high places laid waste, so that your altars are ruined and left desolate, your idols smashed and gone, your incense altars hacked down, and what you have made wiped away. [7] The slain will fall among you, and you shall know that I am the LORD. [8] "'But I will leave some of you alive: you will have survivors of the sword among the nations when you are scattered among the lands. [9] Your survivors will remember me among the nations where they are taken captive, how I was crushed by their unfaithful heart that turned from me and by their eyes that played the harlot after their idols. They will be disgusted with themselves for the evil they did in all their abominations. [10] And they shall know that I am the LORD; it was not for nothing that I spoke of bringing this evil on them.' [11] "Thus says the Lord GOD: Clap your hands and stamp your feet and say, 'Alas for all the wicked abominations of the house of Israel!' For by sword, famine and pestilence they will fall. [12] The one far away will die by pestilence, the one nearby will fall by the sword, and the one who remains and is spared will die by famine. So I will vent my wrath on them. [13] And you shall know that I am the LORD, when their slain lie among their idols around their altars, on every lofty hill, on every mountain peak, beneath every luxuriant tree and beneath every leafy oak, the places where they presented soothing aromas to all their idols. [14] I will stretch out my hand against them and make the land a desolate waste, from the wilderness to Diblah, in every place they live. Then they shall know that I am the LORD." [*]

CHAPTER 7

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "You, Son of man, thus says the Lord GOD to the land of Israel: An end! The end has come on the four corners of the land! [3] Now the end is on you; I will let loose my anger against you, judge you by your ways, and lay on you all your abominations. [4] My eye will not spare you and I will show no pity; I will lay your ways on you, and your abominations will be among you. Then you shall know that I am the LORD. [5] "Thus says the Lord GOD: Disaster! A disaster like no other! It is coming! [6] An end is coming; the end is coming! It has roused itself against you. See, it is coming! [7] Your doom has come for you, you who live in the land. The time is coming, the day is near: panic, not joyful cries, on the mountains.* 8 Very soon now I will pour my wrath on you and vent my anger against you; I will judge you by your ways and lay on you all your abominations. 9 My eye will not spare, and I will show no pity; I will lay your ways on you, and your abominations will be among you. Then you shall know that I am the LORD who strikes. 10 "Here is the day! See, it is coming! Your doom has gone forth; the rod has flowered, arrogance has sprouted. 11 Violence has grown into a rod of wickedness. Nothing will be left of them, nothing of their crowd, nothing of their wealth, and no eminence among them.* 12 The time has come, the day has struck. The buyer should not be glad, nor the seller grieve, for wrath is on all her crowd. 13 The seller will not get back what he sold, even if they are still alive, for the vision concerning all her crowd will not be revoked, and because of his iniquity none will hold on to his life. 14 "They have sounded the trumpet and prepared everything, but no one goes out to battle, because my wrath is on all her crowd. 15 Outside is the sword, inside are pestilence and famine. Whoever is in the field will die by the sword, and whoever is in the city will be eaten up by famine and pestilence. 16 Even if some of them escape and survive, they will be on the mountains like doves of the valleys, all of them moaning, each for his iniquity. 17 Every hand will hang limp, and every knee will drip with water. 18 They will wrap themselves in sackcloth and shuddering will cover them; shame will be on every face and every head will be shaved bald. 19 They will fling their silver in the streets, and their gold will become a thing unclean. Their silver and gold cannot rescue them on the day of the LORD's wrath. They will not satisfy their hunger or fill their stomachs with it, for it was what made them stumble into iniquity. 20 His beautiful ornament he set in majesty, but with it they made their abominable images, their vile things. That is why I am making it unclean to them. 21 I will hand it over to foreigners as plunder and to the wicked of the earth as spoil, and they will profane it. 22 I will turn my face away from them, and they will profane my treasured place; violent men will come into it and profane it. 23 "Forge the chain, for the land is full of crimes of bloodshed, and the city is full of violence. 24 I will bring in the most wicked of the nations, and they will take over their houses. I will end the pride of the mighty, and their sanctuaries will be profaned. 25 Terror is coming; they will look for peace, and there will be none. 26 Calamity will follow calamity, report will follow report. They will look for a vision from a prophet; instruction will fail from the priest, and counsel from the elders. 27 The king will mourn, the prince will be clothed in despair, and the hands of the people of the land will shake. I will treat them according to their ways and judge them by their own standards. Then they shall know that I am the LORD."

CHAPTER 8

1 It was in the sixth year, in the sixth month, on the fifth of the month: I was sitting in my house, and the elders of Judah were sitting in front of me, when the hand of the Lord GOD fell on me there. 2 I looked, and behold, a form that looked like fire. From what looked like his waist down there was fire, and from his waist up something like a radiance, like the shine of amber.* 3 He reached out what looked like a hand and seized me by a lock of my hair; the Spirit lifted me up between earth and sky and brought me, in visions of God, to Jerusalem, to the doorway of the inner gate that faces north, where stood the seat of the image of jealousy that stirs up jealousy. 4 And there was the glory of the God of Israel, just like the vision I had seen in the valley. 5 He said to me, "Son of man, raise your eyes toward the north." I raised my eyes toward the north, and there, to the north of the altar gate, at the entry, was this image of jealousy. 6 He said to me, "Son of man, do you see what they are doing, the great abominations the house of Israel is committing here, so that I must go far from my sanctuary? Yet you will see greater abominations still." 7 Then he brought me to the doorway of the court, and when I looked, there was a hole in the wall. 8 He said to me, "Son of man, dig through the wall." I dug through the wall, and there was a doorway. 9 He said to me, "Go in and see the evil abominations they are committing here." 10 So I went in and looked, and there, engraved on the wall all around, was every kind of creeping thing and loathsome animal, and all the idols of the house of Israel. 11 Seventy men from the elders of the house of Israel were standing in front of them, with Jaazaniah son of Shaphan standing in their midst, each with his censer in his hand, and a fragrant cloud of incense was rising. 12 He said to me, "Son of man, have you seen what the elders of the house of Israel are doing in the darkness, each in the room of his carved images? For they say, 'The LORD does not see us; the LORD has abandoned the land.'" 13 And he told me, "You will see them committing greater abominations still." 14 Then he brought me to the doorway of the gate of the LORD's house on the north side, and there sat women weeping for Tammuz. 15 He said to me, "Do you see this, Son of man? You will see greater abominations than these still." 16 Then he brought me into the inner court of the LORD's house, and there, at the doorway of the temple of the LORD, between the vestibule and the altar, were about twenty-five men, their backs to the temple of the LORD and their faces to the east, bowing eastward to the sun. 17 He said to me, "Do you see this, Son of man? Is it a small matter to the house of Judah to commit the abominations they are committing here, that they must also fill the land with violence and provoke me again and again? See, they are putting the branch to their nose.* 18 So I too will deal with them in wrath. My eye will not spare and I will show no pity; they may shout in my ears with a loud voice, but I will not listen to them."

CHAPTER 9

1 Then he shouted in my ears with a loud voice: "Draw near, you who are to punish the city, each with his weapon of ruin in his hand!" 2 At that, six men came by way of the upper gate that faces north, each with his shattering weapon in his hand, and with them one man dressed in linen who had a scribe's writing case at his side. They came in and stood next to the bronze altar. 3 The glory of the God of Israel had risen from above the cherub where it had been, up to the threshold of the house. He called to the man dressed in linen with the scribe's writing case at his side, [4] and the LORD told him, "Pass through the city, through Jerusalem, and put a mark on the foreheads of the men who sigh and groan over all the abominations done within it."[*] [5] To the others he said, as I listened, "Pass through the city behind him and strike. Do not let your eye spare, and show no pity. [6] Old man, young man and girl, little ones and women, kill them to the last; but do not touch anyone who has the mark on him. Start at my sanctuary." So they started with the elders who were in front of the house. [7] He said to them, "Defile the house and fill the courts with the slain. Go!" So they went out and struck people down in the city. [8] While they were striking them down and I alone was left, I fell face down and cried out, "Ah, Lord GOD! Will you destroy everyone left of Israel as you pour out your wrath on Jerusalem?" [9] He answered me, "The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah is great beyond measure. The land is filled with bloodshed and the city filled with injustice, for they say, 'The LORD has abandoned the land; the LORD does not see.' [10] So my eye too will not spare, and I will show no pity; I will bring their conduct down on their heads." [11] Then the man dressed in linen with the writing case at his side reported back: "I have done just as you commanded me."

CHAPTER 10

[1] I looked, and behold, above the expanse over the heads of the cherubim was something like a sapphire stone; what could be seen of it was like the form of a throne, appearing above them. [2] He spoke to the man dressed in linen: "Go in between the whirling wheels beneath the cherub; fill both your hands with burning coals from between the cherubim and scatter them over the city." And he went in as I watched. [3] The cherubim were standing to the south of the house when the man went in, and the cloud filled the inner court. [4] Then the glory of the LORD rose from above the cherub to the threshold of the house; the house was filled with the cloud, and the court was filled with the radiance of the glory of the LORD. [5] The noise of the cherubim's wings could be heard all the way to the outer court, like the voice of God Almighty when he speaks. [6] When he commanded the man dressed in linen, "Take fire from between the whirling wheels, from between the cherubim," the man went in and stood next to a wheel. [7] One cherub reached out his hand from between the cherubim to the fire between the cherubim, lifted some and placed it in the hands of the man dressed in linen, who took it and went out. [8] Under the cherubim's wings could be seen the form of a human hand. [9] As I looked, there were four wheels next to the cherubim, a wheel next to each cherub, and the wheels looked like the glint of beryl stone. [10] In appearance all four had the same form, like a wheel inside a wheel. [11] When they moved, they moved in any of their four directions without turning as they went; wherever the front faced, they followed it, without turning as they went. [12] Their whole bodies, their backs, their hands and their wings, as well as the wheels, were covered with eyes all around, the wheels that the four of them had. [13] The wheels, as I heard, were called "the whirling wheel." [14] Every one had four faces: the first was the face of the cherub, the second a human face, the third a lion's face, and the fourth an eagle's face. [15] Then the cherubim rose. This was the living creature I had seen beside the river Chebar. [16] Whenever the cherubim moved, the wheels moved alongside them, and when the cherubim raised their wings to rise from the ground, the wheels did not turn away from beside them either. [17] When the cherubim stopped, the wheels stopped; when they rose, the wheels rose with them, because the spirit of the living creature was in them. [18] Then the glory of the LORD left the threshold of the house and took its stand above the cherubim. [19] The cherubim raised their wings and rose from the ground before my eyes as they went out, with the wheels alongside them. They stopped at the entrance of the east gate of the LORD's house, and the glory of the God of Israel was above them. [20] This was the living creature I had seen beneath the God of Israel beside the river Chebar, and I realized that they were cherubim. [21] Every one had four faces and four wings, and under their wings was the form of human hands. [22] As for the form of their faces, they were the very faces I had seen beside the river Chebar, both their appearance and the creatures themselves. Each went straight forward.

CHAPTER 11

[1] The Spirit lifted me and brought me to the east gate of the LORD's house, the one that faces east, and there at the doorway of the gate were twenty-five men. Among them I saw Jaazaniah son of Azzur and Pelatiah son of Benaiah, leaders of the people. [2] He said to me, "Son of man, these are the men who plot iniquity and give evil advice in this city. [3] They say, 'The time is not near to build houses. This city is the cauldron and we are the meat.'[] [4] So prophesy against them, prophesy, Son of man!" [5] The Spirit of the LORD fell on me, and he told me, "Say, Thus says the LORD: That is what you are saying, house of Israel, and I know what rises up in your spirit. [6] You have multiplied your slain in this city and filled its streets with the slain. [7] So thus says the Lord GOD: The slain you laid inside it are the meat, and this city is the cauldron; but you I will bring out of it. [8] It is the sword you feared, and the sword is what I will bring on you, declares the Lord GOD. [9] I will bring you out of it and hand you over to foreigners and carry out judgments on you. [10] By the sword you will fall; at the border of Israel I will judge you, and you shall know that I am the LORD. [11] This city will not be a cauldron for you, nor will you be the meat inside it; at the border of Israel I will judge you. [12] And you shall know that I am the LORD, in whose statutes you did not walk and whose judgments you did not carry out; instead you acted by the judgments of the nations around you." [13] As I was prophesying, Pelatiah son of Benaiah died. I fell face down and cried out with a loud voice, "Ah, Lord GOD! Are you making an end of what is left of Israel?" [14] The word of the LORD came to me: [15] "Son of man, your brothers, your own brothers, your relatives who have the right of redemption, and the whole house of Israel, all of them, are the ones of whom the people of Jerusalem have said, 'Keep far away from the LORD; this land has been given to us as our possession.' [16] So say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Though I sent them far away among the nations and scattered them among the lands, yet I have been to them a sanctuary for a little while in the lands where they have gone.' [17] So say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: I will gather you from the peoples and collect you from the lands where you have been scattered, and I will give you the land of Israel.' [18] They will come there and clear out of it all its vile things and all its abominations. [19] I will give them one heart and put a new spirit within you; I will remove the heart of stone from their flesh and give them a heart of flesh, [20] so that they will walk in my statutes and keep my judgments and carry them out. They will be my people, and I will be their God. [21] But those whose heart walks after their vile things and their abominations, I will bring their conduct down on their heads, declares the Lord GOD." [22] Then the cherubim raised their wings, with the wheels alongside them, and the glory of the God of Israel was above them. [23] The glory of the LORD went up from the middle of the city and stopped on the mountain east of the city. [24] The Spirit lifted me and brought me in the vision, by the Spirit of God, to Chaldea, to the exiles. Then the vision I had seen left me. [25] And I told the exiles everything the LORD had shown me.

CHAPTER 12

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, you live in the middle of a house of rebellion; they have eyes for seeing but do not see, and ears for hearing but do not hear, because they are a house of rebellion. [3] So you, Son of man, pack your gear for exile and go off into exile by daylight while they watch. Go as an exile from your place to another place while they watch; perhaps they will see it, though they are a house of rebellion. [4] Bring your gear out by daylight while they watch, like gear for exile, and in the evening go out yourself while they watch, the way people go out into exile. [5] While they watch, dig through the wall and take your gear out through it. [6] While they watch, lift it onto your shoulder and take it out in the darkness. Cover your face so that you do not see the ground, for I have made you a sign for the house of Israel." [7] I did just as I had been commanded. By daylight I brought out my gear like gear for exile, and in the evening I dug through the wall with my hand. In the darkness I took it out, lifting it onto my shoulder while they watched. [8] In the morning the word of the LORD came to me: [9] "Son of man, did not the house of Israel, that house of rebellion, ask you, 'What are you doing?' [10] Tell them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: This oracle concerns the prince in Jerusalem and the whole house of Israel who are among them.' [11] Say, 'I am a sign for you: what I have done will be done to them; into exile, into captivity they will go.' [12] The prince who is among them will lift his gear onto his shoulder in the darkness and go out; they will dig through the wall to take it out through it. He will cover his face so that he does not see the ground with his own eyes. [13] I will spread my net over him, and he will be caught in my snare; I will bring him to Babylon, the land of the Chaldeans, but he will not see it, and there he will die. [14] All those around him, his aides and all his troops, I will scatter to every wind, and I will unsheathe a sword after them. [15] Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I disperse them among the nations and scatter them through the lands. [16] But I will leave a few of them, spared from sword, famine and pestilence, so that they may tell of all their abominations among the nations they come to; and they shall know that I am the LORD." [17] The word of the LORD came to me: [18] "Son of man, eat your bread trembling, and drink your water shaking and anxious. [19] Then say to the people of the land, 'Thus says the Lord GOD about those who live in Jerusalem, on the soil of Israel: They will eat their bread in anxiety and drink their water in horror, so that her land will be stripped of everything in it because of the violence of all who live there. [20] The cities that are lived in will be ruined and the land become a desolation, and you shall know that I am the LORD.'" [21] The word of the LORD came to me: [22] "Son of man, what is this saying you people have about the land of Israel: 'The days go by, and every vision fails'? [23] So tell them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: I will put a stop to this saying; they will not quote it in Israel again.' Tell them instead, 'The days are near, and the word of every vision. [24] For no longer will there be any empty vision or smooth divination inside the house of Israel. [25] For I am the LORD; I will speak, and whatever word I speak will be done, without further delay. In your own days, house of rebellion, I will speak a word and do it, declares the Lord GOD.'" [26] The word of the LORD came to me: [27] "Son of man, look, the house of Israel says, 'The vision he is seeing is for many days ahead; he is prophesying about distant times.' [28] So tell them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: No word of mine will be delayed any longer; whatever word I speak will be done, declares the Lord GOD.'"

CHAPTER 13

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel who are prophesying; say to those who prophesy from their own minds, 'Hear the word of the LORD! [3] Thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the senseless prophets who follow their own spirit and have seen nothing! [4] Like foxes among the ruins your prophets have been, Israel. [5] You did not go up into the gaps or repair the wall around the house of Israel so that it could stand firm in the battle on the day of the LORD. [6] They have seen emptiness and lying divination. They say, "Declares the LORD," though the LORD did not send them, and then they expect him to fulfill the word. [7] Is it not an empty vision you have seen, and a lying divination you have spoken, when you say, "Declares the LORD," and I have not spoken?' [8] "So thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have spoken emptiness and seen lies, therefore see, I am against you, declares the Lord GOD. [9] My hand will be against the prophets who see emptiness and divine lies. They will have no place in the council of my people, they will not be recorded in the roll of the house of Israel, and they will not come into the land of Israel. And you will know that I am the Lord GOD. [10] Precisely because they have misled my people, saying 'Peace' where there is no peace, and when someone puts up a flimsy wall, there they are, coating it with whitewash, [11] tell those who coat it with whitewash that it will fall. A drenching rain will come; you, great hailstones, will fall; and a storm wind will tear it apart. [12] When the wall has fallen, will not people ask you, 'Where is the coating you smeared on it?' [13] "So thus says the Lord GOD: In my wrath I will let a storm wind burst out, in my anger a drenching rain will come, and great hailstones in wrath to make an end. [14] I will tear down the wall you coated with whitewash and flatten it to the ground, so that its foundation is exposed; it will fall, you will be finished off inside it, and you shall know that I am the LORD. [15] So I will vent my wrath on the wall and on those who coated it with whitewash, and I will tell you, 'The wall is gone, and gone are those who coated it, [16] those prophets of Israel who prophesied about Jerusalem and saw for her visions of peace where there was no peace, declares the Lord GOD.' [17] "You, Son of man, turn your face against the daughters of your people who prophesy from their own minds. Prophesy against them [18] and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the women who sew bands on all the joints of the hands and make veils for heads of every size to hunt down souls! Will you hunt the souls of my people and keep your own souls alive?* [19] You have profaned me among my people for handfuls of barley and scraps of bread, killing souls who should not die and keeping alive souls who should not live, by lying to my people, who listen to lies. [20] "'So thus says the Lord GOD: See, I am against your bands with which you hunt souls there as though they were birds; I will rip them off your arms and set free the souls you hunt as though they were birds. [21] I will rip off your veils too and rescue my people from your hand; they will no longer be prey in your hand, and you shall know that I am the LORD. [22] Because by lies you have broken the heart of the righteous man, whom I had not caused pain, and have encouraged the wicked man not to turn from his wicked way and live, [23] therefore you will no longer see emptiness or practice divination. I will rescue my people from your hand, and you shall know that I am the LORD.'"

CHAPTER 14

[1] Some men from the elders of Israel came and sat down in front of me. [2] Then the word of the LORD came to me: [3] "Son of man, these men have lifted their idols up into their hearts and placed the stumbling block of their iniquity in front of their faces. Should I really let them consult me? [4] So speak to them and tell them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: When anyone of the house of Israel lifts his idols up into his heart and places the stumbling block of his iniquity in front of his face, and then comes to the prophet, I the LORD will give him an answer myself, in keeping with the mass of his idols, [5] so as to grip the house of Israel by their heart, for they have all turned away from me through their idols.' [6] "So tell the house of Israel, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Repent and turn back from your idols; turn your faces back from all your abominations. [7] For when anyone of the house of Israel or of the foreigners who live in Israel turns away from following me, lifting his idols up into his heart and placing the stumbling block of his iniquity in front of his face, and then comes to the prophet to consult me through him, I the LORD will give him an answer myself. [8] I will turn my face against that man and make him a sign and a proverb; I will cut him off from among my people, and you shall know that I am the LORD. [9] If the prophet is enticed and speaks a word, it is I, the LORD, who have enticed that prophet; I will stretch out my hand against him and wipe him out from among my people Israel. [10] They will bear their iniquity; the iniquity of the one who consults will be just like the iniquity of the prophet, [11] so that the house of Israel will stray from me no more and no longer defile themselves with all their transgressions. They will be my people and I will be their God, declares the Lord GOD.'" [12] The word of the LORD came to me: [13] "Son of man, if a land sins against me by being unfaithful, and I stretch out my hand against it, break its staff of bread, send famine on it, and cut off both man and beast from it, [14] and these three men were in it, Noah, Daniel and Job, they would save only their own lives by their righteousness, declares the Lord GOD. [15] If I send savage beasts through the land to leave it childless, so that it becomes a desolation with no one passing through because of the beasts, [16] and these three men were in it, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they would not save sons or daughters; they alone would be saved, while the land became a desolation. [17] Or if I bring a sword on that land and say, 'Sword, pass through the land,' and I cut off both man and beast from it, [18] and these three men were in it, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they would not save sons or daughters; they alone would be saved. [19] Or if I send pestilence into that land and pour out my wrath on it with bloodshed, to cut off both man and beast from it, [20] and Noah, Daniel and Job were in it, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, they would not save son or daughter; by their righteousness they would save only their own lives. [21] "For thus says the Lord GOD: How much more when I send my four terrible judgments against Jerusalem, sword and famine, savage beasts and pestilence, to cut off both man and beast from it! [22] And yet some survivors will be left in it, sons and daughters who are brought out. They are going to come out to you, and when you see their ways and their deeds, you will be consoled over the evil I brought on Jerusalem, over everything I brought on it. [23] They will console you when you see their ways and their deeds, and you will know that it was not without reason that I did all I did in it, declares the Lord GOD."

CHAPTER 15

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, in what way is the wood of the vine better than any other wood, the vine branch that is among the trees of the forest? [3] Is any of its wood taken to make something useful? Do people even take a peg from it to hang some utensil on? [4] No, it is thrown into the fire as fuel. When the fire has eaten up both its ends and its middle is scorched, is it good for any work? [5] Even when it was whole it could not be made into anything; how much less, once the fire has eaten it and it is scorched, can it still be made into anything! [6] "So thus says the Lord GOD: Like the wood of the vine among the trees of the forest, which I have handed over to the fire as fuel, so I have handed over the people who live in Jerusalem. [7] I will turn my face against them. They have come out of one fire, but fire will eat them up; and you shall know that I am the LORD, when I turn my face against them. [8] I will make the land a desolation because they have been unfaithful, declares the Lord GOD."

CHAPTER 16

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, confront Jerusalem with her abominations. [3] Say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD to Jerusalem: By origin and birth you are from the land of the Canaanite; your father was the Amorite and your mother a Hittite. [4] As for your birth: on the day you were born no one cut your cord, no one washed you in water to clean you, no one rubbed you with salt or wrapped you in cloths. [5] No eye looked on you with pity to do even one of these things for you out of compassion; instead you were thrown out on the open ground, so despised were you on the day you were born. [6] "'Then I passed by you and saw you kicking about in your blood, and I said to you in your blood, "Live!" I said to you in your blood, "Live!" [7] I made you flourish like a plant of the field. You grew and became tall and reached the height of beauty; your breasts took shape and your hair grew long, yet you were naked and bare. [8] "'I passed by you again and saw you, and you were at the age for love. So I spread the edge of my garment over you and covered your nakedness; I swore an oath to you and entered into a covenant with you, declares the Lord GOD, and you became mine. [9] I bathed you with water, washed the blood off you, and anointed you with oil. [10] I dressed you in embroidered cloth and put sandals of goatskins on your feet; I wound fine linen around you and covered you with silk.* [11] I decked you with jewelry: I put bracelets on your arms and a necklace around your neck, [12] a ring in your nose, earrings on your ears, and a splendid crown on your head. [13] So you were decked in gold and silver, and your clothes were fine linen, silk and embroidered cloth; fine flour, honey and oil were your food. You became extremely beautiful and rose to be a queen. [14] Your fame spread among the nations because of your beauty, for it was perfect by the splendor I had put on you, declares the Lord GOD. [15] "'But you relied on your beauty and, trading on your fame, you played the harlot; you lavished your harlotries on every passerby; it was his for the taking. [16] You took some of your clothes and made yourself gaudy high places and played the harlot on them; such things should not happen and never will. [17] You took your splendid jewelry of my gold and my silver that I had given you, made yourself male images and played the harlot with them. [18] You took your embroidered clothes to cover them, and you set my oil and my incense before them. [19] My bread that I gave you, the fine flour, oil and honey I fed you, you set before them as a soothing aroma. That is what happened, declares the Lord GOD. [20] You took your sons and your daughters whom you had borne for me and sacrificed them to the images to be eaten. Were your harlotries not enough, [21] that you slaughtered my sons and gave them over, making them pass through the fire to the images? [22] In all your abominations and harlotries you never remembered the days of your youth, when you were naked and bare, kicking about in your blood. [23] "'After all your wickedness (woe, woe to you, declares the Lord GOD!) [24] you built yourself a mound and set up a raised shrine for yourself in every public square. [25] At every street corner you built your raised shrine and made your beauty abominable, offering yourself to every passerby and multiplying your harlotries. [26] You played the harlot with the Egyptians, your well-endowed neighbors, and multiplied your harlotries to provoke me. [27] So I stretched out my hand against you, cut back your allowance, and gave you over to the desire of those who hate you, the daughters of the Philistines, who were ashamed of your lewd ways. [28] You played the harlot with the Assyrians because you were never satisfied; you played the harlot with them and still were not satisfied. [29] You multiplied your harlotry with the land of traders, Chaldea, and even then you were not satisfied. [30] "'How sick is your heart, declares the Lord GOD, that you do all these things, the work of a domineering harlot! [31] When you built your mound at every street corner and set up your raised shrine in every public square, you were unlike a harlot, because you scoffed at a fee. [32] Adulterous wife, who takes in strangers in place of her husband! [33] All harlots are given a gift, but you gave your gifts to all your lovers and bribed them to come to you from all around for your harlotries. [34] So in your harlotries you were the reverse of other women: no one chased after you for harlotry, and you paid a fee while no fee was paid to you. You were the reverse.' [35] "So, harlot, hear the word of the LORD! [36] Thus says the Lord GOD: Because your lust was poured out and your nakedness exposed in your harlotries with your lovers, and because of all your abominable idols and the blood of your sons that you gave to them,* [37] therefore see, I am going to gather all your lovers whom you pleased, all whom you loved together with all whom you hated; I will gather them against you from all around and expose your nakedness to them, and they will see all your nakedness. [38] I will judge you with the judgments of women who commit adultery and shed blood, and I will bring on you the blood of wrath and jealousy. [39] I will hand you over to them, and they will tear down your mound and demolish your raised shrines; they will strip off your clothes, take your splendid jewelry, and leave you naked and bare. [40] They will bring up a mob against you; they will stone you with stones and hack you to pieces with their swords. [41] They will burn down your houses and carry out judgments on you before the eyes of many women. I will put a stop to your harlotry, and you will no longer pay any fee. [42] Then I will rest my wrath on you, my jealousy will turn away from you, and I will be calm and no longer angry. [43] Because you did not remember the days of your youth but enraged me with all these things, I in turn will bring your conduct down on your head, declares the Lord GOD. Did you not add this lewdness to all your abominations? [44] "See, everyone who quotes proverbs will quote this one about you: 'Like mother, like daughter.' [45] You are your mother's daughter, who despised her husband and her sons; you are your sisters' sister, who despised their husbands and their sons. Your mother was a Hittite and your father an Amorite. [46] Your older sister is Samaria, who lives with her daughters on your left; and your younger sister, who lives on your right, is Sodom with her daughters. [47] You did not merely walk in their ways and copy their abominations; in a very little while you were more corrupt than they in all your ways. [48] As I live, declares the Lord GOD, your sister Sodom and her daughters never did what you and your daughters have done. [49] This was the iniquity of your sister Sodom: she and her daughters had pride, plenty of food and carefree ease, but she did not lend a hand to the poor and needy. [50] They became proud and committed abomination before me, so I removed them when I saw it. [51] Samaria did not commit half your sins. You have multiplied your abominations beyond theirs, and by all the abominations you have done you have made your sisters look righteous. [52] You too must bear your disgrace, for you have argued in your sisters' favor; because of your sins, in which you were more abominable than they, they are more righteous than you. So you too must be ashamed and bear your disgrace, since you made your sisters look righteous. [53] "I will restore their fortunes, the fortunes of Sodom and her daughters and the fortunes of Samaria and her daughters, and your own fortunes along with theirs, [] [54] so that you bear your disgrace and are ashamed of all you did when you became a consolation to them. [55] Your sisters, Sodom and her daughters, will return to what they were before, and Samaria and her daughters will return to what they were before, and you and your daughters will return to what you were before. [56] Was not your sister Sodom a byword on your lips in the days of your pride, [57] before your wickedness was exposed? Now you are like her, an object of scorn to the daughters of Syria and all her neighbors, and to the daughters of the Philistines, who despise you on every side. [] [58] You must bear your lewdness and your abominations, declares the LORD. [59] "For thus says the Lord GOD: I will deal with you as you have dealt, you who despised the oath by breaking the covenant. [60] Yet I will remember my covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish an everlasting covenant with you. [61] Then you will remember your ways and be ashamed when you take your sisters, the older and the younger, and I give them to you as daughters, though not on the basis of your covenant. [62] I will establish my covenant with you, and you shall know that I am the LORD, [63] so that you will remember and be ashamed, and never again open your mouth because of your disgrace, when I make atonement for you for all you have done, declares the Lord GOD."

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, put a riddle and tell a parable to the house of Israel. [3] Say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: The great eagle, with great wings and long feathers, thick with plumage of many colors, came to Lebanon and took hold of the top of the cedar. [4] He snapped off the highest of its shoots, brought it to a land of traders, and put it in a city of merchants. [5] Then he took some of the seed of the land and put it in a field for sowing; he took it to a place of abundant water and set it there like a willow. [*] [6] It sprouted and grew into a vine, spreading but not tall, with its branches turning toward him and its roots staying beneath him. So it became a vine; it put out branches and sent out boughs. [7] But there was another great eagle, with great wings and thick plumage; and this vine stretched its roots toward him and sent out its branches toward him from the beds where it was planted, for him to water it. [8] It had been planted in a good field beside abundant water, to put out branches and bear fruit and be a noble vine.' [9] Say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Will it thrive? Will he not tear out its roots and strip off its fruit so that it withers, all its freshly sprouted leaves withering? No great strength or many people will be needed to pull it up by its roots. [10] It has been planted, yes, but will it thrive? When the east wind strikes it, will it not wither away completely, wither on the beds where it sprouted?'" [11] The word of the LORD came to me: [12] "Say to the house of rebellion, 'Do you not know what these things mean?' Say, 'The king of Babylon came to Jerusalem, took its king and its leaders, and brought them back with him to Babylon. [13] He took one of the royal line, made a covenant with him and bound him by an oath; and he took away the leading men of the land, [14] so that the kingdom would be kept low and not raise itself up, but would survive by keeping his covenant. [15] But he rebelled against him by sending his messengers to Egypt to get horses and a large army. Will he thrive? Will the one who does such things escape? Can he break a covenant and still escape? [16] As I live, declares the Lord GOD, in the place of the king who made him king, whose oath he despised and whose covenant he broke, there with him in Babylon he will die. [17] Pharaoh with his great army and huge horde will do nothing for him in the war when ramps are heaped up and siege works built to cut off many lives. [18] He despised the oath by breaking the covenant; though he had given his hand on it, he did all these things. He will not escape.' [19] "So thus says the Lord GOD: As I live, my oath that he despised and my covenant that he broke, I will bring down on his head. [20] I will spread my net over him, and he will be caught in my snare; I will bring him to Babylon and enter into judgment with him there for the unfaithfulness he committed against me. [21] All the fugitives among all his troops will fall by the sword, and the survivors will be scattered to every wind. Then you will know that I, the LORD, have spoken. [22] "Thus says the Lord GOD: I myself will take a sprig from the lofty top of the cedar and set it out; from the highest of its shoots I will snap off a tender one, and I myself will plant it on a mountain high and towering. [23] On Israel's high mountain I will plant it, and it will put out boughs and bear fruit and be a noble cedar. Birds of every kind will live under it; every winged thing will nest in the shade of its branches. [24] And all the trees of the field shall know that I am the LORD: I bring down the tall tree and raise up the low tree, I dry up the green tree and make the dry tree bud. I, the LORD, have spoken, and I will do it."

CHAPTER 18

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "What do you people mean by quoting this proverb about the land of Israel: 'The fathers eat sour grapes, and the sons' teeth are set on edge'? [*] [3] As I live, declares the Lord GOD, you will not quote this proverb in Israel anymore. [4] All souls belong to me; the soul of the father and the soul of the son alike belong to me. The soul that sins is the one that will die. [5] "Suppose a man is righteous and practices justice and righteousness. [6] He does not eat at the mountain shrines or lift his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel; he does not defile his neighbor's wife or approach a woman in her impurity; [7] he wrongs no one, but returns what was pledged for a debt; he does not rob; he gives his bread to the hungry and clothes the naked; [8] he does not lend at interest or take a profit; he keeps his hand from wrongdoing and judges truly between one man and another; [9] he walks in my statutes and keeps my judgments, acting faithfully. Such a man is righteous; he will surely live, declares the Lord GOD. [10] "But suppose he has a son who is violent, who sheds blood and does any of these things [11] (though the father did none of them): he eats at the mountain shrines, defiles his neighbor's wife, [12] wrongs the poor and needy, robs, does not return a pledge, lifts his eyes to the idols, commits abomination, [13] lends at interest and takes a profit. Will he live? He will not live. He has done all these abominations; he will surely be put to death; his blood will be on him. [14] "But suppose this man has a son who sees all the sins his father has done; he sees, and does not do the like. [15] He does not eat at the mountain shrines or lift his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel; he does not defile his neighbor's wife; [16] he wrongs no one, takes no pledge, and does not rob, but gives his bread to the hungry and clothes the naked; [17] he keeps his hand from harming the poor, takes no interest or profit, carries out my judgments and walks in my statutes. He will not die for his father's iniquity; he will surely live. [18] His father, because he extorted, robbed his brother and did what is not good among his people, will die for his own iniquity. [19] "Yet you ask, 'Why does the son not bear the iniquity of the father?' Because the son has practiced justice and righteousness and has kept all my statutes and carried them out, he will surely live. [20] The soul that sins is the one that will die. A son will not bear the iniquity of the father, nor will a father bear the iniquity of the son. The righteousness of the righteous man will be credited to him, and the wickedness of the wicked man will be charged to him. [21] "But if the wicked man turns from all the sins he has committed, keeps all my statutes and practices justice and righteousness, he will surely live; he will not die. [22] None of the transgressions he committed will be remembered against him; because of the righteousness he has practiced he will live. [23] Do I take any pleasure in the death of the wicked, declares the Lord GOD? Is it not rather that he turn from his ways and live? [24] But if a righteous man turns from his righteousness and does wrong, doing all the abominations that the wicked man does, will he live? None of the righteous things he has done will be remembered; because of the unfaithfulness he has shown and the sin he has committed, because of these he will die. [25] "Yet you say, 'The way of the Lord is not fair.' Listen, house of Israel: is it my way that is not fair? Is it not your ways that are unfair? [26] When a righteous man turns from his righteousness and does wrong, he dies because of it; for the wrong he has done he dies. [27] And when a wicked man turns from the wickedness he has committed and practices justice and righteousness, he keeps his soul alive. [28] Because he took notice and turned from all the transgressions he had committed, he will surely live; he will not die. [29] Yet the house of Israel says, 'The way of the Lord is not fair.' Are my ways not fair, house of Israel? Is it not your ways that are unfair? [30] "So I will judge each of you by his ways, house of Israel, declares the Lord GOD. Repent and turn from all your transgressions, so that iniquity will not become a stumbling block for you. [31] Throw off all the transgressions you have committed, and make yourselves a new heart and a new spirit. Why should you die, house of Israel? [32] For I take no pleasure in the death of the one who dies, declares the Lord GOD. So turn back, and live!"

CHAPTER 19

[1] "Now you, raise a lament over the princes of Israel [2] and say: 'What was your mother? A lioness among lions! She lay down among the young lions and raised her cubs. [3] She reared one of her cubs, and he became a young lion; he learned to tear the prey; he ate men. [4] The nations heard of him; he was caught in their pit, and they led him with hooks to the land of Egypt. [5] When she saw that she had waited and her hope was gone, she took another of her cubs and made him a young lion. [6] He roamed among the lions and became a young lion; he learned to tear the prey; he ate men. [7] He knew their widows and ruined their cities; the land and everything in it was stunned at the noise of his roaring. [8] Then the nations from the provinces all around came against him; they spread their net over him, and he was caught in their pit. [9] With hooks they put him in a cage and brought him to the king of Babylon; they brought him into fortresses so that his voice would be heard no more on the mountains of Israel. [10] "'Your mother was like a vine in your blood, planted beside the water, fruitful and full of branches because of the abundant water. [11] It had strong boughs fit for rulers' scepters; it grew tall, reaching up among the clouds, and it stood out for its height and its many branches. [12] But it was torn up in fury and thrown to the ground; the east wind dried up its fruit; its strong boughs were snapped off and dried up, and fire ate them up. [13] Now it is planted in the wilderness, in a dry and thirsty land. [14] Fire has gone out from a bough of its branches and eaten up its fruit, so that no strong bough is left on it, no scepter for ruling.' This is a lament, and it has served as a lament."

CHAPTER 20

[1] It was in the seventh year, in the fifth month, on the tenth of the month, that some men from the elders of Israel came to consult the LORD and sat down in front of me. [2] The word of the LORD came to me: [3] "Son of man, speak to the elders of

Israel and tell them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Is it to consult me that you have come? As I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will not let you consult me.' [4] Will you judge them? Will you judge them, Son of man? Make them aware of the abominations of their fathers. [5] Tell them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: On the day I chose Israel, I raised my hand in an oath to the descendants of the house of Jacob and revealed myself to them in the land of Egypt; I raised my hand to them and said, I am the LORD your God. [6] That day I raised my hand to them, swearing to bring them out of the land of Egypt into a land I had scouted out for them, flowing with milk and honey, the jewel of all lands. [7] And I told them, Throw away, every one of you, the vile things you look at, and do not defile yourselves with the idols of Egypt; I am the LORD your God. [8] But they rebelled against me and refused to listen to me; they did not throw away, any of them, the vile things they looked at, nor did they abandon the idols of Egypt. So I thought of pouring out my wrath on them and venting my anger against them there in the land of Egypt. [9] Yet I acted for my name's sake, so that it would not be profaned before the eyes of the nations they were living among, before whose eyes I had revealed myself to them, bringing them out of the land of Egypt. [10] I brought them out of the land of Egypt and took them into the wilderness. [11] I gave them my statutes and taught them my judgments, which give life to the person who carries them out. [12] I also gave them my Sabbaths to be a sign between me and them, so that they would know that I am the LORD who makes them holy. [13] But in the wilderness the house of Israel rebelled against me. They did not walk in my statutes; they rejected my judgments, which give life to the person who carries them out; and my Sabbaths they profaned badly. So I thought of pouring out my wrath on them in the wilderness to wipe them out. [14] Yet I acted for my name's sake, so that it would not be profaned before the eyes of the nations before whose eyes I had brought them out. [15] And in the wilderness I raised my hand to them, swearing that I would not bring them into the land I had given, flowing with milk and honey, the jewel of all lands, [16] because they rejected my judgments, did not walk in my statutes and profaned my Sabbaths, for their heart kept going after their idols. [17] Yet my eye pitied them, so that I did not destroy them; I did not wipe them out in the wilderness. [18] "'In the wilderness I told their sons, Do not walk in your fathers' statutes or keep their judgments or defile yourselves with their idols. [19] I am the LORD your God: walk in my statutes, and keep my judgments and carry them out. [20] Keep my Sabbaths holy, and let them be a sign between me and you, so that you will know that I am the LORD your God. [21] But the sons rebelled against me. They did not walk in my statutes or keep my judgments by carrying them out, which give life to the person who carries them out; they profaned my Sabbaths. So I thought of pouring out my wrath on them and venting my anger against them in the wilderness. [22] Yet I held back my hand and acted for my name's sake, so that it would not be profaned before the eyes of the nations before whose eyes I had brought them out. [23] And in the wilderness I raised my hand to them, swearing to scatter them among the nations and disperse them through the lands, [24] because they did not carry out my judgments, but rejected my statutes and profaned my Sabbaths, and their eyes were fixed on their fathers' idols. [25] So I too gave them statutes that were not good, and judgments by which they could not live. [26] I defiled them through their own gifts when they offered up every firstborn of the womb, so that I might fill them with horror, in order that they might know that I am the LORD.'* [27] "So, Son of man, speak to the house of Israel and tell them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: In this too your fathers insulted me, by being unfaithful to me. [28] When I brought them into the land I had raised my hand to give them, wherever they spotted a high hill or any leafy tree, there they offered their sacrifices, there they presented their provoking offerings, there they put their soothing aromas, and there they poured out their drink offerings. [29] I said to them, What is the high place you go to?' And it is called Bamah to this day.* [30] "So say to the house of Israel, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Are you defiling yourselves in your fathers' ways and playing the harlot after their vile things? [31] When you present your gifts and offer up your sons in the fire, you are defiling yourselves with all your idols to this very day. And am I to let you consult me, house of Israel? As I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will not let you consult me. [32] What has entered your minds will never come about, when you say, Let us be like the nations, like the clans of the lands, worshiping wood and stone. [33] "'As I live, declares the Lord GOD, with a strong hand and an outstretched arm and with wrath poured out, I will be king over you. [34] I will bring you out from the peoples and gather you from the lands where you are scattered, with a strong hand and an outstretched arm and with wrath poured out. [35] I will bring you into the wilderness of the peoples, and there I will enter into judgment with you face to face. [36] Just as I entered into judgment with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I enter into judgment with you, declares the Lord GOD. [37] I will make you pass under the rod and bring you into the bond of the covenant.* [38] I will purge from among you those who rebel and revolt against me; I will bring them out of the land where they live as foreigners, but they will not enter the land of Israel. Then you shall know that I am the LORD. [39] "'And you, house of Israel, thus says the Lord GOD: Go and worship your idols, every one of you, now and afterward, if you will not listen to me; but my holy name you will no longer profane with your gifts and your idols. [40] For on my holy mountain, on Israel's high mountain, declares the Lord GOD, there the whole house of Israel, all of them in the land, will serve me. There I will welcome them, and there I will ask for your contributions and the best of your gifts, with all your holy offerings. [41] As a soothing aroma I will welcome you when I bring you out from the peoples and gather you from the lands where you have been scattered, and I will show myself holy through you before the eyes of the nations. [42] And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I bring you to the soil of Israel, to the land I raised my hand to give to your fathers. [43] There you will remember your ways and all the deeds by which you defiled yourselves, and you will be disgusted with yourselves for all the evil you have done. [44] And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I deal with you for my name's sake and not by your evil ways or your corrupt deeds, house of Israel, declares the Lord GOD.'" [45] The word of the LORD came to me: [46] "Son of man, turn your face toward the south; let your words drip toward the south, and prophesy against the forest land of the Negev. [47] Say to the forest of the Negev, 'Hear the word of the LORD. Thus says the Lord GOD: I am going to set a fire in you, and it will eat up every green tree in you and every dry tree. The blazing flame will not be put out, and every face from the south to the north will be scorched by it. [48] All flesh will see that I, the LORD, have kindled it; it will not be put out.'" [49] Then I said, "Ah, Lord GOD! They are saying about me, 'Isn't he just a teller of parables?'"

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, turn your face toward Jerusalem; let your words drip against the sanctuaries, and prophesy against the land of Israel. [3] Tell the land of Israel, 'Thus says the LORD: I am against you. I will draw my sword from its sheath and cut off from you righteous and wicked alike. [4] Since I will cut off from you righteous and wicked alike, my sword will go out of its sheath against all flesh from the south to the north. [5] And all flesh will know that I, the LORD, have drawn my sword from its sheath; it will not go back again.' [6] "You, Son of man, groan! With shaking loins and bitter grief, groan before their eyes. [7] When they ask you, 'Why are you groaning?' tell them, 'Because of the news that is coming. Every heart will melt, every hand hang limp, every spirit grow faint and every knee drip with water. It is coming and it will happen, declares the Lord GOD.'" [8] The word of the LORD came to me: [9] "Son of man, prophesy and say, 'Thus says the Lord: Say: A sword, a sword, sharpened and polished too, [10] sharpened for slaughter, polished to gleam like lightning! Or shall we rejoice? The rod of my son despises every tree.* [11] It has been handed over to be polished, to be gripped in the hand; this is the sword, sharpened and polished, to put into the hand of the killer.' [12] Cry out and howl, Son of man, for it is against my people, against all the princes of Israel; they have been handed over to the sword along with my people. So beat your thigh. [13] For it is a testing; and what if even the rod that despises shall be no more? declares the Lord GOD.* [14] "So you, Son of man, prophesy and clap your hands. Let the sword strike twice, three times; it is a sword for the slain, the sword for the great slaughter that hems them in, [15] so that hearts melt and many stumble. At all their gates I have put the glittering point of the sword. Ah, it is made to gleam like lightning, sharpened for slaughter!* [16] Slash to the right, take position, slash to the left, wherever your blade is pointed. [17] I too will clap my hands and let my wrath come to rest. I, the LORD, have spoken." [18] The word of the LORD came to me: [19] "You, Son of man, lay out two roads for the sword of the king of Babylon to come by, both starting from the same land. Put up a signpost; put it at the head of the road to a city. [20] Lay out a road for the sword to come to Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and to Judah, to fortified Jerusalem. [21] For the king of Babylon has stopped at the parting of the way, at the head of the two roads, to seek an omen: he shakes the arrows, he consults the teraphim, he inspects the liver. [22] In his right hand is the omen for Jerusalem: to set up battering rams, to give the command for slaughter, to raise the war cry, to set battering rams against the gates, to heap up a ramp, to build siege works. [23] To them it will look like a false omen, since they have sworn oaths upon oaths; but he will bring their iniquity to mind, so that they are captured. [24] "So thus says the Lord GOD: 'Because you have brought your iniquity to mind by having your transgressions exposed, so that your sins show in all your deeds, because you have been brought to mind, you will be seized by force. [25] And you, profane and wicked prince of Israel, whose day has come, the time of the final punishment,* [26] thus says the Lord GOD: Take off the turban and lift off the crown! Nothing will stay as it is: raise the low and lower the high. [27] A ruin, a ruin, a ruin I will make it! This too will not be, until he comes to whom the right belongs; to him I will give it.'* [28] "You, Son of man, prophesy and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD about the children of Ammon and their taunts: Say: A sword, a sword is drawn, polished for slaughter, to devour, to gleam like lightning, [29] while they see empty visions for you and divine lies for you, to lay you on the necks of the slain, the wicked whose day has come, the time of the final punishment. [30] Put it back in its sheath! In the place where you were created, in the land of your birth, I will judge you. [31] I will pour out my fury on you; with the fire of my wrath I will blow on you, and I will hand you over to brutish men, craftsmen of destruction. [32] You will be fuel for the fire; your blood will be in the middle of the land; you will be remembered no more, for I, the LORD, have spoken.'"

CHAPTER 22

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "You, Son of man, will you judge? Will you judge the city of bloodshed? Then confront her with all her abominations. [3] Say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: You city that sheds blood inside yourself so that your time comes, and that makes idols for yourself to become defiled! [4] By the blood you have shed you have become guilty, and by the idols you have made you have become defiled. You have brought your days near; you have reached the end of your years. So I have made you an object of scorn to the nations and of mockery to all the lands. [5] Those near and those far from you will mock you, you of the defiled name, full of tumult. [6] "'Look at the princes of Israel within you: each one uses his power to shed blood. [7] Within you father and mother are treated lightly; in your midst the foreigner is oppressed; within you the orphan and the widow are mistreated. [8] You have despised my holy things and profaned my Sabbaths. [9] Within you are slanderers bent on shedding blood; within you they eat at the mountain shrines; in your midst they practice lewdness. [10] Within you they expose their fathers' nakedness; within you they force women who are unclean from their impurity. [11] One man commits abomination with his neighbor's wife, another lewdly defiles his daughter-in-law, and another within you forces his sister, his father's daughter. [12] Within you they take bribes to shed blood. You take interest and profit and exploit your neighbors by extortion, and me you have forgotten, declares the Lord GOD. [13] "'So I strike my hands together at the dishonest gain you have made and at the blood shed in your midst. [14] Will your heart hold out, will your hands be strong, in the days when I deal with you? I, the LORD, have spoken, and I will do it. [15] I will scatter you among the nations and disperse you through the lands and burn your uncleanness out of you. [16] And you shall be profaned by your own doing before the eyes of the nations, and you shall know that I am the LORD.'"* [17] The word of the LORD came to me: [18] "Son of man, the house of Israel has turned into dross for me. All of them are bronze, tin, iron and lead inside the furnace; they are the dross of silver. [19] So thus says the Lord GOD: 'Because all of you have turned into dross, I am going to gather you inside Jerusalem. [20] As people gather silver, bronze, iron, lead and tin into a furnace to blow fire on it and melt it, so I will gather you in my anger and my wrath, put you in and melt you. [21] I will collect you and blow on you with the fire of my wrath, and you will be melted inside it. [22] As silver is melted in a furnace, so you will be melted inside it, and you will know that I, the LORD, have poured out my wrath on you.'" [23] The word of the LORD came to me: [24] "Son of man, tell her, 'You are a land not cleansed, not rained on in the day of fury.' [25] There is a conspiracy of her prophets within her; like a roaring lion ripping its prey, they devour souls, they seize wealth and valuables, they make many widows within her.* [26] Her priests do violence to my law and profane my holy things; they make no distinction between holy and common, they do not teach the difference between unclean and clean, and they shut their eyes to my Sabbaths, so that I am profaned among them. [27] Her princes within her are like wolves ripping their prey, shedding blood and destroying souls to make dishonest gain. [28] Her prophets coat it all over for them with whitewash, seeing emptiness and divining lies for them, saying, 'Thus says the Lord GOD,' when the LORD has not spoken. [29] The people of the land practice extortion and commit robbery; they mistreat the poor and needy and unjustly oppress the foreigner. [30] I looked among them for a man who would repair the wall and stand in the gap before me on behalf of the land, so that I would not destroy it, but I did not find one. [31] So I have poured out my fury on them; with the fire of my wrath I have finished them off. Their conduct I have brought down on their heads, declares the Lord GOD."

CHAPTER 23

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, there were two women, daughters of the same mother. [3] They played the harlot in Egypt, played the harlot when they were young; there their breasts were fondled, and there their virgin nipples were caressed. [4] The older was named Oholah, and her sister Oholibah. They became mine and bore sons and daughters. As for their names, Oholah is Samaria and Oholibah is Jerusalem. [5] "Oholah played the harlot while she belonged to me; she was infatuated with her lovers, the Assyrians, her neighbors, [6] dressed in blue, governors and commanders, all of them attractive young men, horsemen mounted on horses. [7] She gave her harlotries to them, the elite of Assyria, all of them, and with everyone she was infatuated with, with all their idols, she defiled herself. [8] She did not give up the harlotry she had brought from Egypt, for in her youth they had lain with her, caressed her virgin nipples and poured out their lust on her. [9] So I handed her over to her lovers, to the Assyrians she was infatuated with. [10] They exposed her nakedness, took away her sons and her daughters, and killed her with the sword. She became a byword among women, and judgments were carried out on her. [11] "Her sister Oholibah saw it, yet she was even more corrupt in her infatuation than her sister, and her harlotries outdid her sister's harlotries. [12] She was infatuated with the Assyrians, governors and commanders, her neighbors, clothed in full splendor, horsemen mounted on horses, all of them attractive young men. [13] I saw that she had defiled herself; both of them went the same way. [14] But she carried her harlotries further. She saw men carved on the wall, images of Chaldeans drawn in red, [15] with belts around their waists and long turbans hanging from their heads, all of them looking like officers, the likeness of Babylonians from Chaldea, the land of their birth. [16] The moment she laid eyes on them, she became infatuated with them and sent messengers to them in Chaldea. [17] The Babylonians came to her, to the bed of love, and defiled her with their harlotry; and after she had been defiled by them, she turned away from them in disgust. [18] She exposed her harlotries and exposed her nakedness, and I turned away from her in disgust, just as I had turned away from her sister. [19] Still she multiplied her harlotries, remembering the days of her youth when she played the harlot in the land of Egypt. [20] She was infatuated with their paramours there, whose members were like those of donkeys and whose emission was like that of horses. [21] So you longed again for the lewdness of your youth, when the Egyptians caressed your nipples for the sake of your young breasts. [22] "So, Oholibah, thus says the Lord GOD: 'I am going to stir up your lovers against you, the ones you turned away from in disgust, and bring them against you from all around: [23] the Babylonians and all the Chaldeans, Pekod, Shoa and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them, attractive young men, governors and commanders all of them, officers and men of note, all mounted on horses. [24] They will come against you with weapons, chariots and wheels, and a host of peoples; they will set themselves against you all around with buckler, shield and helmet. I will hand judgment over to them, and they will judge you by their own judgments. [25] I will direct my jealousy against you, and they will deal with you in fury: they will cut off your nose and your ears, and whatever is left of you will fall by the sword. They will take your sons and your daughters, and whatever is left of you will be eaten up by fire. [26] They will strip off your clothes and take your splendid jewelry. [27] So I will put a stop to your lewdness and the harlotry you brought from the land of Egypt; you will not lift your eyes toward them or remember Egypt anymore.' [28] "For thus says the Lord GOD: 'I am going to hand you over to those you hate, to those you turned away from in disgust. [29] They will deal with you in hatred, take away everything you have worked for and leave you naked and bare; the nakedness of your harlotries will be exposed, your lewdness and your harlotries. [30] These things will be done to you because you played the harlot after the nations and defiled yourself with their idols. [31] You have walked in your sister's way, so I will put her cup in your hand.' [32] "Thus says the Lord GOD: 'You will drink your sister's cup, deep and wide; it will bring you laughter and scorn, so much does it hold. [33] You will be filled with drunkenness and grief, a cup of horror and ruin, the cup of your sister Samaria. [34] You will drink it and drain it, gnaw its broken pieces and tear at your breasts, for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD.' [35] "So thus says the Lord GOD: 'Because you forgot me and threw me behind your back, you must also bear your lewdness and your harlotries.'" [36] Then the LORD said to me, "Son of man, will you judge Oholah and Oholibah? Then confront them with their abominations. [37] For they have committed adultery and there is blood on their hands; with their idols they have committed adultery, and they have even offered up to them as food the sons they bore to me. [38] Moreover they have done this to me: on that same day they defiled my sanctuary and profaned my Sabbaths. [39] After slaughtering their sons for their idols, on that same day they came into my sanctuary to profane it. That is what they did inside my house. [40] "They even sent for men to come from far away; a messenger was sent to them, and they came. For them you bathed, painted your eyes and decked yourself in jewelry. [41] You sat on a splendid couch with a table set in front of it, on which you had put my incense and my oil. [42] The noise of a carefree crowd was with her, and along with men from the common mass, Sabeans were brought from the wilderness; they put bracelets on the women's hands and splendid crowns on their heads. * [43] Then I said of the one worn out by adulteries, 'Now they will commit harlotries with her, and she with them.' [44] They went in to her as one goes in to a harlot; so they went in to Oholah and Oholibah, the lewd women. [45] But righteous men will judge them with the judgment due to adulteresses and the judgment due to women who shed blood, for they are adulteresses and there is blood on their hands. [46] "For thus says the Lord GOD: 'Bring up a mob against them and hand them over to terror and plunder. [47] The mob will stone them with stones and cut them down with their swords; they will kill their sons and their daughters and burn down their houses. [48] So I will put a stop to lewdness in the land, and all women will be warned not to practice lewdness as you have. [49] Your lewdness will be paid back on you, and you will bear the sins of your idols; and you will know that I am the Lord GOD.'"

CHAPTER 24

[1] In the ninth year, in the tenth month, on the tenth of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, write down the date, this very day's date. On this very day the king of Babylon has closed in on Jerusalem. [3] Tell the house of rebellion a parable; say to them, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Put the cauldron on, put it on, and pour water into it as well. [4] Collect the pieces into it, all the good pieces, thigh and shoulder; fill it with the best bones. [5] Take the pick of the flock, and stack the bones underneath it too. Bring it to a rolling boil; let its bones cook inside it as well. [6] "'So thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the city of bloodshed, to the cauldron whose corrosion is in it and whose corrosion has not come out of it! Empty it piece by piece, without casting lots for it. [7] For the blood she shed is still inside her; she set it on the bare rock; she did not pour it out on the ground for the dust to cover it. [8] To rouse wrath and take vengeance, I have set her blood on the bare rock so that it cannot be covered. [9] So thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the city of bloodshed! I too will make the pile of wood large. [10] Pile on the logs, light the fire, finish cooking the meat, mix in the spices, and let the bones be charred. [11] Then stand it empty on its coals so that it gets hot and its bronze glows, so that its impurity melts inside it and its corrosion is burned away. [12] She has worn herself out with toil, yet her thick corrosion does not come off her; into the fire with her corrosion! [13] Your uncleanness is lewdness. Because I tried to cleanse you and you would not be cleansed from your uncleanness, you will not be clean again until I have let my wrath come to rest on you. [14] I, the LORD, have spoken: it is coming, and I will do it. I will not let it go, I will not pity, and I will not relent. By your ways and your deeds you will be judged, declares the Lord GOD.'" [15] The word of the LORD came to me: [16] "Son of man, I am about to take from you the delight of your eyes at a single stroke. But you must not mourn or weep, and your tears must not flow. [17] Sigh, but in silence; hold no mourning for the dead. Wrap your turban on and put your sandals on your feet; do not cover your upper lip or eat the bread that men bring." [18] I spoke to the people in the morning, and in the evening my wife died; and the next morning I did as I had been commanded. [19] The people asked me, "Won't you tell us what these things you are doing mean for us?" [20] I told them, "The word of the LORD came to me: [21] 'Say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: I am about to profane my sanctuary, the pride of your power, the delight of your eyes and the longing of your soul; and the sons and daughters you left behind will fall by the sword. [22] Then you will do just as I have done: you will not cover your upper lip or eat the bread that men bring. [23] Your turbans will stay on your heads and your sandals on your feet; you will not mourn or weep, but you will rot away in your iniquities and groan to one another. [24] Ezekiel will be a sign for you; you will do just as he has done. When it comes, you will know that I am the Lord GOD.' [25] "And you, Son of man, on the day I take from them their stronghold, their joy and splendor, the delight of their eyes and the longing of their soul, their sons and their daughters, [26] on that day a survivor will come to you to bring you the news in person. [27] On that day your mouth will be opened to the survivor; you will speak and no longer be speechless. So you will be a sign for them, and they shall know that I am the LORD."

CHAPTER 25

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, turn your face toward the children of Ammon and prophesy against them. [3] Tell the children of Ammon, 'Hear the word of the Lord GOD. Thus says the Lord GOD: Because you said "Aha!" over my sanctuary when it was profaned, over the soil of Israel when it was laid waste, and over the house of Judah when they went into exile, [4] I am going to hand you over to the people of the East as their possession. They will pitch their camps among you and set up their dwellings in you; they will eat your fruit and drink your milk. [5] I will make Rabbah a pasture for camels and the land of the children of Ammon a fold for flocks. Then you shall know that I am the LORD. [6] For thus says the Lord GOD: Because you clapped your hands and stamped your feet and gloated with all the scorn of your soul over the soil of Israel, [7] I have stretched out my hand against you and will hand you over as spoil to the nations; I will cut you off from the peoples and wipe you out of the lands. I will destroy you, and you shall know that I am the LORD.' [8] "Thus says the Lord GOD: 'Because Moab and Seir say, "Look, the house of Judah is just like all the nations," [9] I am going to open up the flank of Moab, stripping it of its cities, its cities from end to end, the jewel of the land: Beth-jeshimoth, Baal-meon and Kiriathaim. [10] Along with the children of Ammon I will hand it over to the people of the East as their possession, so that the children of Ammon will not be remembered among the nations. [11] I will carry out judgments on Moab, and they shall know that I am the LORD.' [12] "Thus says the Lord GOD: 'Because Edom took revenge on the house of Judah and incurred great guilt by avenging itself on them, [13] thus says the Lord GOD: I will stretch out my hand against Edom and cut off man and beast from it; I will make it a ruin from Teman, and as far as Dedan they will fall by the sword. [14] I will lay my vengeance on Edom by the hand of my people Israel, and they will deal with Edom in keeping with my anger and my wrath; and they will know my vengeance, declares the Lord GOD.' [15] "Thus says the Lord GOD: 'Because the Philistines acted in revenge and took vengeance with scorn of soul, to destroy out of age-old hostility, [16] thus says the Lord GOD: I am going to stretch out my hand against the Philistines; I will cut off the Cherethites and wipe out what is left of the seacoast. [17] I will carry out great vengeance on them with raging punishments, and they shall know that I am the LORD, when I lay my vengeance on them.'"

CHAPTER 26

[1] In the eleventh year, on the first of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, because Tyre has said about Jerusalem, 'Aha! The gateway of the peoples is shattered; it has swung open to me. I will be filled now that she lies in ruins,' [3] thus says the Lord GOD: 'I am against you, Tyre. I will bring up many nations against you, as the sea brings up its waves. [4] They will ruin the walls of Tyre and tear down her towers; I will scrape her dust off her and make her a bare rock. [5] She will be a place for drying nets in the middle of the sea, for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD. She will become spoil for the nations, [6] and her daughters on the mainland will be killed by the sword. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.' [7] "For thus says the Lord GOD: 'I am going to bring against Tyre from the north Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, king of kings, with horses, chariots and horsemen, and a vast army. [8] Your daughters on the mainland he will kill with the sword. He will build siege works against you, heap up a ramp against you, and raise a wall of shields against you. [9] He will aim the blows of his battering ram at your walls and tear down your towers with his axes. [10] His horses will be so many that their dust will cover you; your walls will shake at the noise of horsemen, wheels and chariots when he comes in through your gates the way men enter a city that is breached. [11] With his horses' hoofs he will trample all your streets; your people he will kill with the sword, and your strong pillars will come down to the ground. [12] They will plunder your riches and seize your merchandise; they will tear down your walls and wreck your fine houses, and throw your stones, your timber and your dust into the water. [13] I will silence the noise of your songs, and the sound of your lyres will no longer be heard. [14] I will make you a bare rock, a place for drying nets. You will never be rebuilt, for I, the LORD, have spoken, declares the Lord GOD.' [15] "Thus says the Lord GOD to Tyre: 'Will not the coastlands quake at the noise of your fall, when the wounded groan and the slaughter goes on within you? [16] All the princes of the sea will step down from their thrones, take off their robes and strip off their embroidered garments. They will wrap themselves in trembling and sit on the ground, trembling every moment, aghast at you. [17] They will raise a lament over you and say to you, How you have perished, you who were peopled from the seas, the city of renown, who was strong on the sea, she and those who lived in her, who spread their terror over all her inhabitants! [18] Now the coastlands tremble on the day of your fall; the coastlands by the sea are terrified at your passing.' [19] "For thus says the Lord GOD: 'When I make you a ruined city, like cities no one lives in, when I bring up the deep over you and the mighty waters cover you, [20] then I will bring you down with those who go down to the pit, to the people of long ago; I will make you live in the world below, among ruins from long ago, with those who go down to the pit, so that you are not lived in; and I will give splendor in the land of the living. [21] I will make you a thing of terror, and you will be no more; you will be searched for but never found again, declares the Lord GOD.'"

CHAPTER 27

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "You, Son of man, raise a lament over Tyre. [3] Say to Tyre, who sits at the gateways of the sea, trader to the peoples on many coastlands, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Tyre, you have said, I am perfect in beauty. [4] Your territory is in the heart of the seas; your builders made your beauty perfect. [5] Out of fir trees from Senir they built all your planks; they took a cedar from Lebanon to make you a mast. [6] From oaks of Bashan they made your oars; your deck they made of ivory set in boxwood from the coastlands of Kittim. [*7] Your sail was embroidered fine linen from Egypt, serving as your flag;

your awning was blue and purple from the coastlands of Elishah. [8] The people of Sidon and Arvad were your oarsmen; your own skilled men, Tyre, were on board as your sailors. [9] The elders of Gebal and its skilled men were on board to caulk your seams. All the ships of the sea and their seamen were in you to deal in your merchandise. [10] "'Persia, Lud and Put were in your army as your warriors; they hung shield and helmet in you; they gave you your splendor. [11] The men of Arvad and your army manned your walls all around, and the Gammadim were in your towers; they hung their quivers on your walls all around; they made your beauty perfect. [12] "'Tarshish did business with you because of your vast wealth of every kind; they paid for your goods with silver, iron, tin and lead. [13] Javan, Tubal and Meshech traded with you; they gave human lives and bronze utensils in exchange for your merchandise. [14] From Beth-togarmah they paid for your goods with horses, war horses and mules. [15] The men of Dedan traded with you; many coastlands were markets under your hand; they paid you tribute in ivory tusks and ebony. [16] Syria did business with you because of your many products; they paid for your goods with turquoise, purple, embroidered work, fine linen, coral and rubies.* [17] Judah and the land of Israel traded with you; they gave wheat from Minnith, pannag, honey, oil and balm in exchange for your merchandise.* [18] Damascus did business with you because of your many products and your vast wealth of every kind, with wine from Helbon and white wool. [19] Dan and Javan from Uzal paid for your goods; wrought iron, cassia and calamus were among your merchandise.* [20] Dedan traded with you in saddle blankets for riding. [21] Arabia and all the chiefs of Kedar were dealers under your hand; in lambs, rams and goats they did business with you. [22] The traders of Sheba and Raamah traded with you; they paid for your goods with the finest of all spices, every kind of precious stone, and gold. [23] Haran, Canneh and Eden, the traders of Sheba, Asshur and Chilmad traded with you. [24] They traded with you in fine clothing, in cloaks of blue and embroidered work, and in carpets of many colors, tied with cords and firmly made, in your marketplace. [25] The ships of Tarshish carried your merchandise for you. So you were filled and grew very heavy in the heart of the seas. [26] "'Your oarsmen brought you out onto the mighty waters; the east wind has shattered you in the heart of the seas. [27] Your riches, your goods, your merchandise, your seamen and your sailors, those who caulk your seams and those who deal in your merchandise, and all your warriors in you, with the whole crowd on board, will sink into the heart of the seas on the day of your fall. [28] At the sound of your sailors' cry the open lands will quake. [29] Everyone who pulls an oar will come down from their ships; the seamen and all the sailors of the sea will stand on the shore. [30] They will raise their voices over you and cry bitterly; they will throw dust on their heads and wallow in ashes. [31] They will shave themselves bald for you and put on sackcloth; they will weep over you with bitter souls and bitter mourning. [32] In their wailing they will raise a lament for you and chant over you: Who was ever like Tyre, like the one now silent in the middle of the sea? [33] When your goods came ashore from the seas, you satisfied many peoples; with your vast riches and merchandise you made the kings of the earth rich. [34] Now you are shattered by the seas, in the depths of the waters; your merchandise and all the crowd on board have gone down with you. [35] All who live on the coastlands are aghast at you; their kings bristle with horror, their faces convulsed. [36] The traders among the peoples whistle at you; you have become a thing of terror, and you will be no more forever.'"

CHAPTER 28

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, say to the prince of Tyre, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Because your heart has grown proud and you have said, I am a god; I sit on the throne of gods in the heart of the seas, though you are a man and not God, yet you consider your mind as the mind of God. [3] You are indeed wiser than Daniel; no secret is too dark for you. [4] By your wisdom and understanding you have made yourself rich, piling up gold and silver in your treasuries. [5] By your great skill in trading you have multiplied your riches, and your heart has grown proud because of your riches. [6] So thus says the Lord GOD: Because you consider your mind as the mind of God, [7] I am going to bring foreigners against you, the most brutal of the nations; they will draw their swords against your beautiful wisdom and profane your splendor. [8] They will bring you down to the pit, and you will die the death of the slain in the heart of the seas. [9] Will you still say, I am a god, in front of the one who kills you, when you are a man and not God, in the hands of those who pierce you? [10] You will die the death of the uncircumcised at the hands of foreigners, for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD.'" [11] The word of the LORD came to me: [12] "Son of man, raise a lament over the king of Tyre and tell him, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: You were the seal of perfection, full of wisdom and flawless in beauty. [13] You were in Eden, the garden of God; every precious stone adorned you: carnelian, topaz and diamond, beryl, onyx and jasper, sapphire, turquoise and emerald, and gold. Your settings and mountings were crafted for you; on the day you were created they were made ready.* [14] You were an anointed cherub who shields, and I placed you there; you were on the holy mountain of God; you walked about among the stones of fire.* [15] You were blameless in your ways from the day you were created until wrongdoing was found in you. [16] Through your widespread trade you were filled inside with violence, and you sinned; so I drove you in disgrace from the mountain of God and destroyed you, shielding cherub, from among the stones of fire. [17] Your heart grew proud because of your beauty; you corrupted your wisdom for the sake of your splendor. I threw you to the ground; I made you a spectacle before kings, for them to stare at you. [18] By your many iniquities, by the dishonesty of your trade, you profaned your sanctuaries. So I brought fire out from within you, and it devoured you; I turned you to ashes on the ground before the eyes of all who watched. [19] All among the peoples who knew you are aghast at you; you have become a thing of terror, and you will be no more forever.'" [20] The word of the LORD came to me: [21] "Son of man, turn your face toward Sidon and prophesy against her. [22] Say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: I am against you, Sidon, and I will display my glory within you. They shall know that I am the LORD when I carry out judgments in her and show myself holy in her. [23] I will send pestilence into her and bloodshed into her streets; the slain will fall inside her by the sword that is against her on all sides. Then they shall know that I am the LORD. [24] "'No longer will the house of Israel have a stinging brier or a piercing thorn among all their neighbors who despise them. Then they will know that I am the Lord GOD.' [25] "Thus says the Lord GOD: 'When I gather the house of Israel from the peoples where they have been scattered and show myself holy through them before the eyes of the nations, they will live on their own soil, which I gave to my servant Jacob. [26] They will live on it in safety, build houses and plant vineyards; they will live in safety when I carry out judgments on all their neighbors who despise them. Then they shall know that I am the LORD their God.'"

CHAPTER 29

[1] In the tenth year, in the tenth month, on the twelfth of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, turn your face against Pharaoh king of Egypt and prophesy against him and against all Egypt. [3] Speak out and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: I am against you, Pharaoh king of Egypt, great monster sprawled among your streams, who says, My Nile is mine; I made it for myself.' [4] I will put hooks in your jaws and make the fish of your streams cling to your scales; I will haul you up from among your streams, with all the fish of your streams clinging to your scales. [5] I will fling you into the wilderness, you and all the fish of your streams; you will fall on the open field and not be gathered up or collected. To the animals of the earth and the birds of the sky I have given you as food. [6] Then all who live in Egypt shall know that I am the LORD, because they have been a reed for a staff to the house of Israel. [7] When they took hold of you by the hand, you splintered and ripped open all their shoulders; when they leaned on you, you snapped and made all their loins shake. [8] So thus says the Lord GOD: I am going to bring a sword on you and cut off man and beast from you. [9] The land of Egypt will become a desolate ruin, and they shall know that I am the LORD. Because he said, The Nile is mine; I made it, [10] I am against you and against your streams, and I will turn the land of Egypt into a total ruin, a desolation, from Migdol to Syene and up to the border of Cush. [11] No human foot will pass through it and no animal's foot will pass through it; no one will live there for forty years. [12] I will make the land of Egypt a desolation among desolate lands, and her cities will lie desolate forty years among ruined cities. I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them through the lands. [13] "'For thus says the Lord GOD: When forty years are over I will gather the Egyptians from the peoples where they were scattered. [14] I will restore the fortunes of Egypt and bring them back to the land of Pathros, the land of their birth, and there they will be a lowly kingdom. [15] It will be the lowliest of kingdoms and will never again lift itself above the nations; I will make them so small that they will not rule over the nations. [16] It will never again be the house of Israel's ground of trust; instead it will bring to mind their iniquity of turning to them for help. Then they will know that I am the Lord GOD.'" [17] In the twenty-seventh year, in the first month, on the first of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [18] "Son of man, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon worked his army hard in a great campaign against Tyre; every head was rubbed bald and every shoulder worn raw, yet neither he nor his army got any pay from Tyre for the campaign he waged against it. [19] So thus says the Lord GOD: I am going to give the land of Egypt to Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. He will carry off its wealth, take its spoil and seize its plunder, and that will be the pay for his army. [20] As his wages for the work he did against it, I have given him the land of Egypt, because they acted for me, declares the Lord GOD. [21] "On that day I will make a horn sprout for the house of Israel, and I will let you open your mouth among them. Then they shall know that I am the LORD."

CHAPTER 30

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, prophesy and say, 'Thus says the Lord GOD: Wail, "Alas for the day!" [3] For a day is near, the day of the LORD is near; a day of clouds it will be, a time for the nations. [4] A sword will come against Egypt, and Cush will writhe in anguish when the slain fall in Egypt, when her riches are carried off and her foundations torn down. [5] Cush, Put and Lud, all the foreign mix, Cub, and the sons of the land of the covenant will fall with them by the sword. [6] "'Thus says the LORD: Those who prop up Egypt will fall, and her proud strength will come down; from Migdol to Syene they will fall in her by the sword, declares the Lord GOD. [7] They will lie desolate among desolate lands, and her cities will be among ruined cities. [8] Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I set Egypt on fire and all who help her are shattered. [9] On that day messengers will go out from me in ships to frighten complacent Cush, and anguish will come on them on the day of Egypt; it is surely coming! [10] "'Thus says the Lord GOD: I will put a stop to the hordes of Egypt by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. [11] He and his army with him, the most brutal of the nations, will be brought in to ruin the land; they will draw their swords against Egypt and fill the land with the slain. [12] I will turn the streams into dry ground and sell the land into the hands of evil men; by the hands of foreigners I will lay waste the land and everything in it. I, the LORD, have spoken. [13] "'Thus says the Lord GOD: I will destroy the idols and put an end to the images in Memphis; there will no longer be a prince from the land of Egypt, and I will put fear into the land of Egypt. [14] I will lay waste Pathros, set Zoan on fire and carry out judgments on Thebes. [15] I will pour out my wrath on Pelusium, Egypt's fortress, and cut off the hordes of Thebes. [16] I will set Egypt on fire; Pelusium will writhe in agony, Thebes will be breached, and Memphis will face foes in broad daylight. [17] The young men of Aven and Pi-beseth will fall by the sword, and the cities themselves will go into captivity. [18] At Tahpanhes the day will turn dark when I break the yokes of Egypt there and her proud strength comes to an end in her; a cloud will cover her, and her daughters will go into captivity. [19] So I will carry out judgments on Egypt, and they shall know that I am the LORD.'" [20] In the eleventh year, in the first month, on the seventh of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [21] "Son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and it has not been bound up for healing or wrapped in a bandage to make it strong enough to hold a sword. [22] So thus says the Lord GOD: I am against Pharaoh king of Egypt. I will break his arms, the strong one and the one already broken, and make the sword drop from his hand. [23] I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them through the lands. [24] I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon and put my sword in his hand, but Pharaoh's arms I will break, and he will groan before him like a man mortally wounded. [25] I will strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, while Pharaoh's arms drop down. Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I put my sword in the hand of the king of Babylon and he stretches it out over the land of Egypt. [26] I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them through the lands. Then they shall know that I am the LORD."

CHAPTER 31

[1] In the eleventh year, in the third month, on the first of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, say to Pharaoh king of Egypt and to his hordes: 'Who can compare with you in your greatness? [3] Consider Assyria, a cedar in Lebanon with lovely branches, a forest of shade, lofty in height, its top among the clouds. [*] [4] Waters made it grow, the deep made it tall; its streams ran all around the place where it was planted and sent their channels out to all the trees of the field. [5] So it grew taller than all the trees of the field; its boughs grew many and its branches long because of the abundant water as it spread out. [6] All the birds of the sky made their nests in its boughs, all the animals of the field bore their young under its branches, and all the great nations lived in its shade. [7] It was lovely in its greatness, in the reach of its branches, for its roots went down to abundant water. [8] The cedars in the garden of God could not hide it; the fir trees could not match its boughs, and the plane trees were nothing beside its branches; no tree in the garden of God equaled its beauty. [9] I made it lovely with its many branches, and all the trees of Eden in the garden of God envied it. [10] "'So thus says the Lord GOD: Because you grew so tall, and it set its top among the clouds, and its heart was proud of its height, [11] I handed it over to the mightiest of the nations; he will surely deal with it. For its wickedness I have cast it out. [12] Foreigners, the most brutal of the nations, cut it down and abandoned it. On the mountains and in all the valleys its branches fell, and its boughs lay shattered in all the ravines of the land; all the peoples of the earth went out from its shade and abandoned it. [13] On its fallen trunk all the birds of the sky settle, and all the animals of the field are among its branches, [14] so that no trees beside the waters may grow so tall or set their tops among the clouds, and none of the well-watered trees may rise up to them in height. For all of them are handed over to death, to the world below, among the sons of men, with those who go down to the pit. [15] "'Thus says the Lord GOD: On the day it went down to Sheol I caused mourning; I covered the deep over it; I held back its streams, and the abundant waters were stopped. I dressed Lebanon in black for it, and all the trees of the field wilted over it. [16] At the noise of its fall I made the nations quake, when I brought it down to Sheol with those who go down to the pit; and all the trees of Eden, the choicest and best of Lebanon, all the well-watered trees, were consoled in the world below. [17] They too went down to Sheol with it, to those slain by the sword, as did those who were its arm, who had lived in its shade among the nations. [18] "'Which of the trees of Eden, then, was like you in glory and greatness? Yet you will be brought down with the trees of Eden to the world below; you will lie among the uncircumcised, with those slain by the sword. This is Pharaoh and all his hordes, declares the Lord GOD.'"

CHAPTER 32

[1] In the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, on the first of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, raise a lament over Pharaoh king of Egypt and tell him: 'You thought of yourself as a young lion among the nations, but you are like a monster in the seas; you thrash about in your rivers, churn the water with your feet and muddy their streams. [3] Thus says the Lord GOD: I will spread my net over you with a throng of many peoples, and they will haul you up in my dragnet. [4] I will throw you onto the land and hurl you onto the open field; I will let all the birds of the sky settle on you and give the animals of the whole earth their fill of you. [5] I will lay your flesh on the mountains and fill the valleys with your rotting remains. [6] I will water the land with what flows from you, your blood, up to the mountains, and the ravines will be full of you. [7] When I snuff you out, I will cover the sky and darken its stars; I will cover the sun with a cloud, and the moon will not give its light. [8] All the shining lights in the sky I will darken over you, and I will bring darkness over your land, declares the Lord GOD. [9] "'I will disturb the hearts of many peoples when I bring your ruin among the nations, to lands you have never known. [10] I will leave many peoples aghast at you, and their kings will bristle with horror over you when I swing my sword before their faces; on the day of your fall they will tremble every moment, each man for his own life. [11] "'For thus says the Lord GOD: The sword of the king of Babylon will come against you. [12] I will make your hordes fall by the swords of warriors, all of them the most brutal of the nations; they will shatter the pride of Egypt, and all her hordes will be wiped out. [13] I will destroy all her cattle from beside the abundant waters; no human foot will churn them anymore, and no hoof of cattle will churn them. [14] Then I will let their waters settle and make their streams flow like oil, declares the Lord GOD. [15] When I turn the land of Egypt into a desolation, a land stripped of everything in it, when I strike down all who live there, then they shall know that I am the LORD. [16] This is a lament, and they will chant it; the daughters of the nations will chant it; over Egypt and all her hordes they will chant it, declares the Lord GOD.'" [17] In the twelfth year, on the fifteenth of the month, the word of the LORD came to me: [18] "Son of man, wail over the hordes of Egypt and send them down, her and the daughters of mighty nations, to the world below, with those who go down to the pit: [19] 'Are you lovelier than anyone else? Go down and lie with the uncircumcised!' [20] They will fall among those slain by the sword. The sword has been handed over; drag her off with all her hordes. [21] From inside Sheol the mightiest warriors will speak of him and his helpers: 'They have come down, they lie there, the uncircumcised, slain by the sword.' [22] "Assyria is there with all her throng, his graves surrounding him, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, [23] whose graves are set in the farthest depths of the pit. Her throng is around her grave, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, the ones who spread terror in the land of the living. [24] "Elam is there with all her hordes around her grave, all of them slain, fallen by the sword, who went down uncircumcised to the world below, who spread their terror in the land of the living; and they bear their disgrace with those who go down to the pit. [25] Among the slain they have made a bed for her with all her hordes, his graves surrounding him, all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword; for terror of them was spread in the land of the living, and they bear their disgrace with those who go down to the pit. He has been placed among the slain. [26] "Meshech and Tubal are there with all her hordes, his graves surrounding him, all of them uncircumcised, slain by the sword, for they spread their terror in the land of the living. [27] They do not lie with the fallen warriors of the uncircumcised, who went down to Sheol with their weapons of war, with their swords placed under their heads; their iniquities rest on their bones, because the terror of those warriors was in the land of the living. [28] And you too will be shattered among the uncircumcised and lie with those slain by the sword. [29] "Edom is there, her kings and all her chiefs, who despite their might have been laid with those slain by the sword; they lie with the uncircumcised and with those who go down to the pit. [30] "All the princes of the north are there, and all the Sidonians, who went down with the slain in shame, for all the terror their might inspired; they lie uncircumcised with those slain by the sword and bear their disgrace with those who go down to the pit. [31] "Pharaoh will see them and be consoled over all his hordes, Pharaoh and all his army, slain by the sword, declares the Lord GOD. [32] For I have put my terror in the land of the living, and he will be laid among the uncircumcised with those slain by the sword, Pharaoh and all his hordes, declares the Lord GOD."*

CHAPTER 33

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, speak to the sons of your people and tell them: Suppose I bring the sword against a land, and the people of the land pick a man from among them and set him as their watchman, [3] and he sees the sword coming against the land and sounds the trumpet to warn the people. [4] If anyone hears the sound of the trumpet but ignores the warning, and the sword comes and takes him, his blood will be on his own head. [5] He heard the trumpet sound but ignored the warning; his blood will be on himself. Had he heeded the warning, he would have saved his life. [6] But if the watchman sees the sword coming and does not sound the trumpet, so that the people are not warned, and the sword comes and takes a life from among them, that one is taken away for his iniquity, but I will hold the watchman responsible for his blood. [7] "As for you, Son of man, I have appointed you a watchman for the house of Israel; when you hear a word from my mouth, give them warning from me. [8] If I tell the wicked man, 'Wicked man, you will surely die,' and you do not speak up to warn the wicked man away from his way, that wicked man will die for his iniquity, but I will hold you responsible for his blood. [9] But if you warn the wicked man to turn from his way and he does not turn from his way, he will die for his iniquity, but you will have saved your life. [10] "You, Son of man, tell the house of Israel: This is what you people say: 'Our transgressions and our sins weigh on us, and we are rotting away because of them. How can we live?' [11] Tell them: As I live, declares the Lord GOD, I take no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but in the wicked turning from his way and living. Turn back, turn back from your evil ways! Why should you die, house of Israel? [12] "You, Son of man, tell the sons of your people: The righteousness of the righteous man will not save him on the day he transgresses; and the wickedness of the wicked man will not make him fall on the day he turns from his wickedness; nor will the righteous man be able to live by his righteousness on the day he sins. [13] If I tell the righteous man that he will surely live, but he relies on his righteousness and does wrong, none of his righteous deeds will be remembered; because of the wrong he has done, he will die. [14] And if I tell the wicked man, 'You will surely die,' but he turns from his sin and practices justice and righteousness, [15] if the wicked man returns a pledge, gives back what he has stolen, and walks in the statutes that give life, doing no wrong, he will surely live; he will not die. [16] None of the sins he has committed will be remembered against him; he has practiced justice and righteousness; he will surely live. [17] "Yet the sons of your people say, 'The way of the Lord is not fair,' when it is their own way that is not fair. [18] When a righteous man turns from his righteousness and does wrong, he will die because of it. [19] And when a wicked man turns from his wickedness and practices justice and righteousness, he will live because of it. [20] Yet you say, 'The way of the Lord is not fair.' House of Israel, I will judge each of you by his ways." [21] In the twelfth year of our exile, in the tenth month, on the fifth of the month, a survivor from Jerusalem came to me and said, "The city has been struck down." [22] The hand of the LORD had come upon me the evening before the survivor arrived, and he had opened my mouth by the time the man came to me in the morning. So my mouth was opened, and I was speechless no longer. [23] The word of the LORD came to me: [24] "Son of man, the people living in those ruins on the soil of Israel are saying, 'Abraham was just one man, yet he took possession of the land; we are many, so the land has surely been given to us to possess.' [25] So tell them, Thus says the Lord GOD: You eat meat with the blood in it, lift your eyes to your idols and shed blood; and you expect to possess the land? [26] You lean on your sword, you do abominable things, and each of you defiles his neighbor's wife; and you expect to possess the land? [27] Tell them this: Thus says the Lord GOD: As I live, those in the ruins will fall by the sword; those in the open field I will give to the animals to be eaten; and those in the strongholds and caves will die of pestilence. [28] I will make the land a desolate ruin; her proud strength will come to an end, and the mountains of Israel will be so desolate that no one crosses them. [29] Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I make the land a desolate ruin because of all the abominations they have committed. [30] "As for you, Son of man, the sons of your people are talking about you by the walls and in the doorways of their houses; they say to one another, each to his brother, 'Come and hear what word has come from the LORD.' [31] They come to you as crowds do and sit in front of you as my people and hear your words, but they will not act on them. With their mouths they express much love, but their heart is set on their own profit. [*] [32] To them you are just like a love song sung by someone with a lovely voice who plays an instrument well; they hear your words, but they do not act on them. [33] When it comes (and it surely will come), they will know that a prophet has been in their midst."

CHAPTER 34

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel. Prophesy and tell them, the shepherds: Thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the shepherds of Israel, who have been tending only themselves! Is it not the flock the shepherds should tend? [3] You eat the fat, you dress in the wool, you slaughter the fatlings, but you do not tend the flock. [4] You have not built up the weak, you have not healed the sick, you have not bandaged the injured, you have not brought back the strays, you have not searched for the lost; instead you have ruled over them with force and brutality. [5] So they were scattered for lack of a shepherd; scattered, they became food for all the animals of the field. [6] My sheep strayed across all the mountains and over every high hill; over the whole face of the earth my flock was scattered, and no one went looking or searched for them. [7] "So, shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: [8] As I live, declares the Lord GOD, because my flock has become prey, my flock has become food for all the animals of the field for lack of a shepherd, and my shepherds have not looked for my flock, but the shepherds have tended themselves and not tended my flock, [9] so, shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: [10] Thus says the Lord GOD: I am against the shepherds, and I will demand my flock from their hand and stop them from tending the flock; the shepherds will no longer tend themselves. I will rescue my flock from their mouths, and it will no longer be food for them. [11] "For thus says the Lord GOD: Here I am; I myself will search for my flock and look after them. [12] As a shepherd looks after his flock on the day he is with his scattered sheep, so I will look after my flock; I will rescue them from every place where they were scattered on a day of cloud and gloom. [13] I will bring them out from the peoples, gather them from the lands, and bring them to their own soil. I will tend them on the mountains of Israel, by the streams and in every inhabited place in the land. [14] I will tend them in good pasture, and their grazing land will be on Israel's high mountains; there they will lie down in good grazing land and feed on rich pasture on the mountains of Israel. [15] I myself will tend my flock and give them rest, declares the Lord GOD. [16] I will search for the lost, bring back the strays, bandage the injured and build up the sick; but the fat and the strong I will destroy. I will tend them with justice. [17] "As for you, my flock, thus says the Lord GOD: I am going to judge between one sheep and another, between the rams and the male goats. [18] Is it not enough for you to graze on the good pasture, that you must trample the rest of your pasture with your feet? Or to drink the clear water, that you must muddy the rest with your feet? [19] And my flock has to eat what your feet have trampled and drink what your feet have muddied. [20] "So thus says the Lord GOD to them: Here I am; I myself will judge between the fat sheep and the lean sheep. [21] Because you shove with flank and shoulder and butt all the weak ones with your horns until you have scattered them far and wide, [22] I will rescue my flock, and they will no longer be prey; I will judge between one sheep and another. [23] I will set over them one shepherd, my servant David, and he will tend them; he will tend them and be their shepherd. [24] I, the LORD, will be their God, and my servant David a prince among them. I, the LORD, have spoken. [25] "I will make a covenant of peace with them and rid the land of savage beasts, so that they can live safely in the wilderness and sleep in the woods. [26] I will make them and the places around my hill a blessing; I will send down the rain at its proper time, showers of blessing they will be. [27] The trees of the field will give their fruit and the land its produce, and they will be safe on their soil. And they shall know that I am the LORD, when I break the bars of their yoke and rescue them from the hand of those who enslaved them. [28] They will no longer be plunder for the nations, and the animals of the land will not eat them; they will live in safety, with no one to frighten them. [29] I will raise up for them a planting of renown; they will no longer be carried off by famine in the land or bear the taunts of the nations anymore. [*] [30] Then they will know that I, the LORD their God, am with them, and that they, the house of Israel, are my people, declares the Lord GOD. [31] You are my flock, the flock of my pasture; you are men, and I am your God, declares the Lord GOD."

CHAPTER 35

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, turn your face against Mount Seir and prophesy against it. [3] Tell it, Thus says the Lord GOD: I am against you, Mount Seir; I will stretch out my hand against you and make you a desolate ruin. [4] I will turn your cities into rubble, and you will become a desolation; and you shall know that I am the LORD. [5] Because you kept up an age-old hostility and handed the children of Israel over to the sword in the time of their disaster, at the time of the final punishment,* [6] therefore, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will make you blood, and blood will chase you; since you did not hate blood, blood will chase you.* [7] I will make Mount Seir a desolate ruin and cut off from it everyone who comes and goes. [8] I will fill its mountains with its slain; on your hills, in your valleys and in all your ravines those slain by the sword will fall. [9] I will make you a desolation forever, and your cities will not be restored; and you shall know that I am the LORD.* [10] "Because you said, 'These two nations and these two lands will be mine, and we will take possession of them,' even though the LORD was there, [11] therefore, as I live, declares the Lord GOD, I will deal with you in keeping with the anger and jealousy you showed in your hatred of them, and I will make myself known among them when I judge you. [12] And you shall know that I am the LORD. I have heard all the insults you uttered against the mountains of Israel, saying, 'They lie desolate; they have been handed to us to devour.' [13] You boasted against me with your mouth and heaped up your words against me; I heard it all. [14] Thus says the Lord GOD: While all the earth rejoices, I will make you a desolation. [15] Just as you rejoiced over the inheritance of the house of Israel because it lay desolate, so I will deal with you: you will become a desolation, Mount Seir, and all Edom, every part of it. Then they shall know that I am the LORD."

CHAPTER 36

[1] "You, Son of man, prophesy to the mountains of Israel and say: Mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD. [2] Thus says the Lord GOD: Because the enemy said about you, 'Aha! The ancient heights have become ours to possess,' [3] therefore prophesy and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Precisely because they ravaged you and hounded you from all around, so that you became a possession of the rest of the nations, and you have become the talk of gossiping tongues and the slander of the people,* [4] therefore, mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD. Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains and the hills, to the ravines and the valleys, to the desolate wastes and the abandoned cities that have become plunder and a laughingstock to the rest of the nations around them; [5] therefore thus says the Lord GOD: In the fire of my jealousy I have spoken against the rest of the nations and against all of Edom, who with wholehearted glee and scorn of soul claimed my land as their possession, so that its pasture would be plunder. [6] So prophesy about the land of Israel and say to the mountains and the hills, to the ravines and the valleys, Thus says the Lord GOD: See, I have spoken in my jealousy and my wrath, because you have endured the taunts of the nations. [7] So thus says the Lord GOD: I raise my hand and swear that the nations around you will themselves endure their own taunts. [8] "But you, mountains of Israel, will put out your branches and bear your fruit for my people Israel, for they are soon to come home. [9] For I am on your side; I will turn toward you, and you will be plowed and sown. [10] I will multiply people on you, the whole house of Israel, every bit of it; the cities will be lived in and the ruins rebuilt. [11] I will multiply man and beast on you, and they will increase and be fruitful. I will settle you as you were in earlier times and treat you better than at your beginning. Then you shall know that I am the LORD. [12] I will have people walk on you, my people Israel; they will possess you, you will be their inheritance, and you will never again leave them childless. [13] "Thus says the Lord GOD: Because people say to you, 'You devour men and leave your nations childless,' [14] therefore you will no longer devour men or leave your nations childless, declares the Lord GOD.* [15] I will no longer let you hear the taunts of the nations; you will no longer bear the scorn of the peoples or make your nations stumble, declares the Lord GOD." [16] The word of the LORD came to me: [17] "Son of man, when the house of Israel was living on their own soil, they defiled it by their conduct and their deeds; in my sight their conduct was like the uncleanness of a woman in her impurity. [18] So I poured out my wrath on them for the blood they had shed on the land and for the idols with which they had defiled it. [19] I scattered them among the nations, and they were dispersed through the lands; I judged them by their conduct and their deeds. [20] But wherever they went among the nations, they profaned my holy name, because it was said of them, 'These are the LORD's people, yet they had to leave his land.' [21] I was concerned for my holy name, which the house of Israel had profaned among the nations where they went. [22] "So say to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: It is not for your sake that I am acting, house of Israel, but for the sake of my holy name, which you have profaned among the nations where you went. [23] I will show the holiness of my great name, which has been profaned among the nations, which you have profaned in their midst. And the nations shall know that I am the LORD, declares the Lord GOD, when I show myself holy through you before their eyes. [24] I will take you out of the nations, gather you from all the lands and bring you to your own soil. [25] I will sprinkle clean water on you, and you will be clean; from all your uncleanness and from all your idols I will cleanse you. [26] I will give you a new heart and put a new spirit within you; I will take the heart of stone out of your flesh and give you a heart of flesh. [27] I will put my Spirit within you and make you walk in my statutes, and you will keep my judgments and carry them out. [28] You will live in the land I gave to your fathers; you will be my people, and I will be your God. [29] I will save you from all your uncleanness. I will summon the grain and multiply it, and I will not lay famine on you. [30] I will multiply the fruit of the trees and the produce of the fields, so that you never again suffer the disgrace of famine among the nations. [31] Then you will remember your evil ways and your deeds that were not good, and you will be disgusted with yourselves for your iniquities and your abominations. [32] It is not for your sake that I am acting, declares the Lord GOD; be sure of that. Be ashamed and confounded because of your ways, house of Israel. [33] "Thus says the Lord GOD: On the day I cleanse you from all your iniquities, I will resettle the cities, and the ruins will be rebuilt. [34] The desolate land will be farmed, instead of lying desolate before the eyes of everyone who passes by. [35] People will say, 'This land that lay desolate has become like the garden of Eden, and the cities that were ruined, desolate and torn down are fortified and lived in.' [36] Then the nations left around you shall know that I, the LORD, have rebuilt what was torn down and replanted what was desolate. I, the LORD, have spoken, and I will do it. [37] "Thus says the Lord GOD: This too I will let the house of Israel ask me to do for them: I will make their men as numerous as a flock. [38] Like the flock for holy offerings, like the flocks of Jerusalem at her appointed feasts, so the ruined cities will be full of flocks of people. Then they shall know that I am the LORD."*

CHAPTER 37

[1] The hand of the LORD came upon me; he brought me out by the Spirit of the LORD and set me down in the middle of the valley, and it was full of bones. * [2] He led me back and forth among them all around; there were a great many of them on the floor of the valley, and they were very dry. [3] He asked me, "Son of man, can these bones live?" I said, "Lord GOD, you know." [4] He said to me, "Prophesy over these bones and tell them, 'Dry bones, hear the word of the LORD. [5] Thus says the Lord GOD to these bones: I am going to make breath enter you, and you will live. [6] I will lay sinews on you, bring flesh up on you, cover you over with skin and put breath in you, and you will live; and you shall know that I am the LORD.'" [7] So I prophesied as I had been commanded. While I was prophesying there was a noise, and behold, a rattling, and the bones came together, each bone to its bone. [8] As I watched, sinews appeared on them, flesh came up, and skin covered them over; but there was no breath in them. [9] Then he said to me, "Prophesy to the breath; prophesy, Son of man, and tell the breath, Thus says the Lord GOD: Come from the four winds, breath, and blow into these slain, so that they may live." [10] I prophesied as he had commanded me, and the breath entered them; they came to life and stood up on their feet, a vast, vast army. [11] Then he said to me, "Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. They are saying, 'Our bones are dried up, our hope is gone; we are cut off completely.' [12] So prophesy and tell them, Thus says the Lord GOD: I am going to open your graves and bring you up out of your graves, my people, and bring you to the land of Israel. [13] And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I open your graves and bring you up out of your graves, my people. [14] I will put my Spirit in you, and you will live, and I will settle you on your own soil. Then you will know that I, the LORD, have spoken and will do it, declares the LORD." [15] The word of the LORD came to me: [16] "You, Son of man, take a stick and write on it, 'For Judah and for the children of Israel, his companions.' Then take another stick and write on it, 'For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and for all the house of Israel, his companions.' [17] Then bring them together, one to the other, into a single stick, so that they become one in your hand. [18] When the sons of your people ask you, 'Won't you tell us what you mean by these?' [19] tell them, Thus says the Lord GOD: I am going to take the stick of Joseph that is in Ephraim's hand, and the tribes of Israel, his companions, and join them to it, to the stick of Judah, and make them a single stick; they will be one in my hand. [20] Hold the sticks you have written on in your hand before their eyes, [21] and tell them, Thus says the Lord GOD: I am going to take the children of Israel from among the nations where they have gone, gather them from all around and bring them to their own soil. [22] I will make them one nation in the land, on the mountains of Israel, and one king will be king over all of them; they will no longer be two nations or be split into two kingdoms ever again. [23] They will no longer defile themselves with their idols, their vile things or any of their transgressions. I will save them from all their dwelling places where they sinned and cleanse them, and they will be my people and I will be their God. * [24] "My servant David will be king over them, and they will all have one shepherd. They will walk in my judgments and keep my statutes and carry them out. [25] They will live in the land I gave to my servant Jacob, where your fathers lived; they and their sons and their sons' sons will live there forever, and David my servant will be their prince forever. [26] I will make a covenant of peace with them, an everlasting covenant it will be with them. I will establish them and multiply them and put my sanctuary in their midst forever. [27] My tabernacle will be over them; I will be their God, and they will be my people. * [28] Then the nations shall know that I am the LORD who makes Israel holy, when my sanctuary is in their midst forever."

CHAPTER 38

[1] The word of the LORD came to me: [2] "Son of man, turn your face toward Gog, of the land of Magog, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy against him. [3] Say, Thus says the Lord GOD: I am against you, Gog, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. [4] I will turn you about, put hooks in your jaws and bring you out with your whole army, horses and horsemen, every one splendidly equipped, a huge throng with buckler and shield, all of them gripping swords; [5] Persia, Cush and Put along with them, all with shield and helmet; [6] Gomer with all its hordes, Beth-togarmah from the remotest north with all its hordes, many peoples with you. [7] "Get ready, be fully prepared, you and all the throng gathered around you, and be their commander. [8] After many days you will be called to duty. In the final years you will come against a land brought back from the sword, whose people have been gathered out of many peoples onto the mountains of Israel, which had long lain in ruins. They were brought out from the peoples, and now all of them live in safety. [9] You will advance, coming on like a storm; like a cloud you will cover the land, you and all your hordes, and many peoples with you. [10] "Thus says the Lord GOD: On that day ideas will rise in your mind, and you will hatch an evil plan. [11] You will say, 'I will go up against a land of open villages; I will fall on a peaceful people living in safety, all of them living without walls, without bars or gates,' [12] to take plunder and seize spoil, to turn your hand against ruins now resettled and against a people gathered from the nations, who have gained cattle and goods and live at the navel of the earth. [13] Sheba and Dedan and the merchants of Tarshish with all its young lions will ask you, 'Is it to take plunder that you have come? Is it to seize spoil that you have gathered your throng, to carry off silver and gold, to take away cattle and goods, to take great plunder?' [14] "So prophesy, Son of man, and tell Gog, Thus says the Lord GOD: On that day, when my people Israel are living in safety, will you not take note of it? [15] You will come from your place in the remotest north, you and many peoples with you, all of them mounted on horses, a huge throng and a mighty army. [16] You will come up against my people Israel like a cloud covering the land. In the final days I will bring you against my land, so that the nations may know me when I show myself holy through you, Gog, before their eyes. [17] "Thus says the Lord GOD: Are you the one I spoke of in former days through my servants the prophets of Israel, who prophesied in those days, for years, that I would bring you against them? [18] On that day, the day Gog comes against the land of Israel, declares the Lord GOD, my fury will rise up in my nostrils. [19] In my jealousy and in my blazing wrath I declare: on that day there will be a great earthquake in the land of Israel. [20] The fish of the sea and the birds of the sky, the animals of the field and every creeping thing that creeps on the ground, and every human being on the face of the earth will quake before me. The mountains will be thrown down, the steep places will collapse, and every wall will fall to the ground. [21] I will summon a sword against him throughout all my mountains, declares the Lord GOD; each man's sword will be turned against his brother. [22] I will enter into judgment with him by pestilence and bloodshed; I will rain down on him and his hordes and the many peoples with him a flooding downpour, hailstones, fire and sulfur. [23] So I will show myself great and holy and make myself known before the eyes of many nations, and they shall know that I am the LORD."

CHAPTER 39

[1] "You, Son of man, prophesy against Gog and say, Thus says the Lord GOD: I am against you, Gog, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. [2] I will turn you about and drive you on; I will bring you up from the remotest north and lead you against the mountains of Israel. [] [3] I will knock your bow out of your left hand and make your arrows fall from your right hand. [4] On the mountains of Israel you will fall, you and all your hordes and the peoples with you; to birds of prey of every winged kind and to the animals of the field I have given you as food. [5] On the open field you will fall, for I have spoken, declares the Lord GOD. [6] I will send fire on Magog and on those who live in safety on the coastlands, and they shall know that I am the LORD. [7] "I will make my holy name known among my people Israel, and I will never again let my holy name be profaned; and the nations shall know that I am the LORD, the Holy One in Israel. [8] See, it is coming and it will be done, declares the Lord GOD. This is the day I have spoken of. [9] "Then the people who live in the cities of Israel will go out and light fires with the weapons and burn them, bucklers and shields, bows and arrows, clubs and spears; for seven years they will keep fires going with them. [10] They will not have to gather wood from the field or cut any from the forests, because they will keep their fires going with the weapons. They will plunder those who plundered them and loot those who looted them, declares the Lord GOD. [11] "On that day I will give Gog a burial site there in Israel, the Valley of the Travelers, east of the sea; it will block the travelers' way. There Gog and all his horde will be buried, and it will be called the Valley of Hamon-gog. [] [12] The house of Israel will spend seven months burying them, to cleanse the land. [13] All the people of the land will bury them, and it will bring them renown on the day I display my glory, declares the Lord GOD. [14] They will appoint men to work full-time, going through the land and, with the help of travelers, burying those left lying on the face of the land, to cleanse it. When the seven months are over they will carry out a search. [15] As they go through the land, whenever one of them sees a human bone, he will set up a marker next to it until the gravediggers have buried it in the Valley of Hamon-gog. [16] (A city too will be named Hamonah.) So they will cleanse the land. [17] "You, Son of man, thus says the Lord GOD: Tell every winged kind of bird and every animal of the field, 'Gather and come! Assemble from all around to my sacrifice that I am slaughtering for you, a great sacrifice on the mountains of Israel; you will eat flesh and drink blood. [18] You will eat the flesh of warriors and drink the blood of the princes of the earth, of rams, lambs and goats, and of bulls, all of them fatlings of Bashan. [19] You will eat fat until you are full and drink blood until you are drunk at the sacrifice I am slaughtering for you. [20] At my table you will have your fill of horses and riders, of warriors and fighting men of every kind,' declares the Lord GOD. [21] "I will set my glory among the nations, and all the nations will see the judgment I carry out and the hand I lay on them. [22] From that day on the house of Israel shall know that I am the LORD their God. [23] And the nations will know that the house of Israel went into exile for their iniquity, because they were unfaithful to me; so I hid my face from them and handed them over to their foes, and all of them fell by the sword. [24] I dealt with them as their uncleanness and their transgressions deserved, and I hid my face from them. [25] "So thus says the Lord GOD: Now I will restore the fortunes of Jacob and have compassion on the whole house of Israel, and I will be jealous for my holy name. [] [26] They will bear their disgrace and all the unfaithfulness they showed me, when they live safely on their own soil with no one to frighten them, [] [27] when I bring them back from the peoples and gather them from the lands of their enemies and show myself holy through them before the eyes of many nations. [28] Then they shall know that I am the LORD their God, who sent them into exile among the nations and then gathered them to their own soil; I will not leave any of them behind there. [29] Never again will I hide my face from them, for I will have poured out my Spirit on the house of Israel, declares the Lord GOD."

CHAPTER 40

[1] In the twenty-fifth year of our exile, at the start of the year, on the tenth of the month, in the fourteenth year after the city had been struck, on that same day the hand of the LORD came upon me and he brought me there. [2] In visions of God he brought me to the land of Israel and set me on a very high mountain, on whose south side was something like the buildings of a city. [3] He brought me there, and behold, there was a man who looked like bronze, holding a linen cord and a measuring reed in his hand, standing in the gate. [4] The man said to me, "Son of man, look with your eyes, listen with your ears, and pay close attention to everything I am going to show you, for that is why you have been brought here, so that I may show it to you. Tell the house of Israel everything you see." [5] There was a wall surrounding the house on the outside, and the measuring reed in the man's hand was six cubits long, each cubit being a cubit plus a handbreadth. He measured the thickness of the wall, one reed, and its height, one reed. [] [6] Next he came to the gate facing east, climbed its steps and measured the threshold of the gate, one reed deep, and the other threshold, one reed deep. [7] The side rooms were one reed long and one reed wide each, with five cubits between the side rooms; and the threshold of the gate next to the vestibule of the gate, toward the inside, was one reed. [8] He measured the vestibule of the gate toward the inside: one reed. [9] He measured the vestibule of the gate: eight cubits, with its jambs two cubits; the vestibule of the gate was toward the inside. [10] There were three side rooms on each side of the east gate; all three had one measurement, and the jambs on either side had one measurement. [11] He measured the width of the gateway entrance, ten cubits, and the length of the gate, thirteen cubits. [12] In front of the side rooms was a barrier one cubit deep on either side, and the side rooms were six cubits on either side. [13] He measured the gate from the roof of one side room to the roof of the other: twenty-five cubits wide, from doorway to facing doorway. [14] He reckoned the jambs at sixty cubits, and the court extended up to the jamb all around the gate. [] [15] From the front of the gate at the entrance to the front of the vestibule of the gate on the inside it was fifty cubits. [16] The side rooms and their jambs had narrow windows facing inward all around the gate, and the vestibules likewise; windows ran all around facing inward, and the jambs had palm trees. [] [17] Then he brought me into the outer court, where I saw chambers and a pavement laid all around the court; thirty chambers faced onto the pavement. [18] The pavement ran beside the gates, matching the length of the gates; this was the lower pavement. [19] He measured the width from the front of the lower gate to the outer front of the inner court: a hundred cubits, both on the east and on the north. [20] Next he measured the length and width of the gate of the outer court that faced north. [21] Its side rooms, three on either side, its jambs and its vestibule had the same measurements as the first gate: fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. [22] Its windows, its vestibule and its palm trees had the same measurements as the gate facing east; seven steps went up to it, with its vestibule in front of them. [23] The inner court had a gate facing the north gate, as with the east gate; he measured from gate to gate: a hundred cubits. [24] Then he led me southward, and there was a gate on the south side. He measured its jambs and its vestibule, and they had the same measurements as the others. [25] It and its vestibule had windows all around, like the other windows; it was fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. [26] Seven steps went up to it, with its vestibule in front of them, and it had palm trees on its jambs, one on either side. [27] The inner court had a gate on the south; he measured from gate to gate toward the south: a hundred cubits. [28] Then he brought me into the inner court by the south gate and measured the south gate; it had the same measurements as the others. [29] Its side rooms, jambs and vestibule had the same measurements as the others, and it and its vestibule had windows all around; it was fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. [30] All around were vestibules twenty-five cubits long and five cubits wide. [31] Its vestibule faced the outer court, with palm trees on its jambs, and eight steps went up to it. [32] Then he brought me into the inner court on the east side and measured the gate; it had the same measurements as the others. [33] Its side rooms, jambs and vestibule had the same measurements as the others, and it and its vestibule had windows all around; it was fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. [34] Its vestibule faced the outer court, with palm trees on its jambs on either side, and eight steps went up to it. [35] Then he brought me to the north gate and measured it; it had the same measurements as the others, [36] as did its side rooms, jambs and vestibule, and it had windows all around; it was fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. [37] Its jambs faced the outer court, with palm trees on its jambs on either side, and eight steps went up to it. [38] A chamber with its doorway at the jambs of the gates was where the burnt offering was washed. [39] In the vestibule of the gate stood two tables on one side and two tables on the other, for slaughtering the burnt offering, the sin offering and the guilt offering. [40] On the outside wall, as one went up to the entrance of the north gate, were two tables, and on the other side, at the vestibule of the gate, two tables. [41] So there were four tables on one side and four tables on the other, beside the gate: eight tables in all, for slaughtering. [42] There were also four tables of cut stone for the burnt offering, a cubit and a half long, a cubit and a half wide and a cubit high; on these were laid the implements used to slaughter the burnt offering and the sacrifice. [43] Hooks a handbreadth long were fixed all around inside, and the meat of the offering was to go on the tables. [] [44] Outside the inner gate, in the inner court, were chambers for the singers, one beside the north gate facing south, and one beside the east gate facing north. [45] He told me, "This chamber facing south is for the priests who are in charge of the house, [46] and the chamber facing north is for the priests who are in charge of the altar. These are the sons of Zadok, the ones among the sons of Levi who draw near to the LORD to serve him." [47] He measured the court: a hundred cubits long and a hundred cubits wide, a square; and the altar stood in front of the house. [48] Then he brought me to the vestibule of the house and measured the jambs of the vestibule, five cubits on either side; and the width of the gate was three cubits on either side. [49] The vestibule was twenty cubits long and eleven cubits wide, and it was reached by steps; beside the jambs stood pillars, one on either side. [*]

[1] Next he brought me to the temple and measured the jambs: six cubits wide on one side and six cubits wide on the other, the width of the tent. [2] The entrance was ten cubits wide, and the sides of the entrance were five cubits on one side and five cubits on the other. He measured its length, forty cubits, and its width, twenty cubits. [3] Then he went in and measured the jamb of the entrance, two cubits; the entrance, six cubits; and the width of the entrance, seven cubits. [4] He measured its length, twenty cubits, and its width, twenty cubits, across the front of the temple, and he told me, "This is the Most Holy Place." [5] He measured the wall of the house: six cubits; and the width of the side chambers: four cubits, all the way around the house. [6] The side chambers were arranged in three stories, chamber above chamber, thirty in each story. All around the wall of the house there were ledges for the side chambers to rest on, so that they were supported without being fastened into the wall of the house.* [7] The side chambers widened as they rose from story to story, because the structure around the house rose story by story all the way around. So the house grew wider toward the top, and from the lowest story one went up through the middle story to the highest. [8] I also saw that the house had a raised platform all around; the foundations of the side chambers were a full reed, six long cubits. [9] The outer wall of the side chambers was five cubits thick. The open space between the side chambers of the house [10] and the chambers was twenty cubits wide, all the way around the house. [11] The side chambers had doorways onto the open space, one doorway on the north and one on the south; the open space was five cubits wide all around. [12] The building facing the separate area on the west side was seventy cubits wide; its wall was five cubits thick all around, and it was ninety cubits long.* [13] He measured the house: a hundred cubits long; and the separate area and the building with its walls: a hundred cubits long; [14] and the width of the front of the house together with the separate area on the east: a hundred cubits. [15] He measured the length of the building facing the separate area at the rear, with its galleries on either side: a hundred cubits. The inner temple and the vestibules of the court, [16] the thresholds, the narrow windows and the galleries around all three of them, facing the threshold, were paneled in wood all around, from the floor up to the windows, and the windows were covered, [17] up to the space above the doorway, to the inner house and on the outside, and on all the wall around, inside and outside, according to measure. [18] It was decorated with cherubim and palm trees, a palm tree between each cherub and the next. Each cherub had two faces: [19] a human face turned toward the palm tree on one side and a young lion's face turned toward the palm tree on the other. They were carved over the whole house, all around. [20] Cherubim and palm trees were carved from the floor to above the doorway, and on the wall of the temple. [21] The doorposts of the temple were square, and in front of the holy place the appearance was the same as the other. [22] The altar was made of wood, three cubits high and two cubits long; its corners, its length and its sides were wood. He told me, "This is the table that stands before the LORD." [23] Both the temple and the holy place had double doors. [24] The doors each had two leaves, two swinging leaves: two for one door and two for the other. [25] Carved on them, on the doors of the temple, were cherubim and palm trees like those carved on the walls, and a wooden canopy was over the front of the vestibule outside.* [26] On the sides of the vestibule were narrow windows and palm trees on either side, and so too on the side chambers of the house and the canopies.

CHAPTER 42

[1] Then he led me out to the outer court toward the north and brought me to the chambers facing the separate area and facing the building on the north. [2] The front was a hundred cubits long on the north side, where the doorway was, and fifty cubits wide. [3] Facing the twenty cubits of the inner court, and facing the pavement of the outer court, gallery faced gallery in three stories. [4] In front of the chambers was a passage ten cubits wide running inward, a path one cubit wide, and their doorways were on the north. [5] The upper chambers were narrower, because the galleries took more space from them than from the lower and middle chambers of the building. [6] They were in three stories and had no pillars like the pillars of the courts; so the upper chambers were set back more from the ground than the lower and middle ones. [7] An outer wall ran parallel to the chambers, toward the outer court, in front of the chambers; it was fifty cubits long. [8] For the chambers along the outer court were fifty cubits long, while those facing the temple were a hundred cubits. [9] Below these chambers was the entry from the east side, for anyone entering them from the outer court. [10] Along the thickness of the court wall toward the east, facing the separate area and the building, there were chambers, [11] with a passage in front of them. They looked like the chambers on the north; they were the same length and width, with the same exits, layouts and doorways. [12] Like the doorways of the chambers on the south was a doorway at the head of the passage, the passage in front of the matching wall to the east, for those entering them. [13] He told me, "The north chambers and the south chambers facing the separate area are the holy chambers where the priests who draw near to the LORD are to eat the most holy things. There they will lay the most holy things, the grain offering, the sin offering and the guilt offering, because the place is holy. [14] Once the priests have entered, they must not go out from the holy place to the outer court without leaving there the garments they minister in, for these are holy. They must put on other garments before going near the area for the people." [15] When he had finished measuring the inner house, he led me out by the gate facing east and measured the area all around. [16] He measured the east side with the measuring reed: five hundred reeds by the measuring reed all around.* [17] He measured the north side: five hundred reeds by the measuring reed all around. [18] He measured the south side: five hundred reeds by the measuring reed. [19] He turned to the west side and measured five hundred reeds by the measuring reed. [20] He measured it on all four sides. It had a wall all around, five hundred long and five hundred wide, to separate the holy from the common.*

CHAPTER 43

[1] He led me to the gate, the one facing east, [2] and behold, the glory of the God of Israel was coming from the east. His voice was like the roar of mighty waters, and the land was lit up by his glory. [3] What I saw was like the vision I had seen when I came to destroy the city, and like the vision I had seen beside the river Chebar; and I fell face down. [4] The glory of the LORD came into the house through the gate facing east. [5] The Spirit lifted me and brought me into the inner court, and the glory of the LORD filled the house. [6] I heard someone speaking to me from inside the house, while the man stood next to me. [7] He said to me, "Son of man, this is the place of my throne and the place for the soles of my feet, where I will live among the children of Israel forever. Never again will the house of Israel defile my holy name, neither they nor their kings, with their harlotry and with the corpses of their kings at their high places, [8] setting their threshold next to my threshold and their doorpost next to my doorpost, with only a wall between me and them. They defiled my holy name by the abominations they committed, so I finished them off in my anger. [9] Now let them remove their harlotry and their kings' corpses far from me, and I will live among them forever. [10] "You, Son of man, describe the house to the house of Israel, so that they will be ashamed of their iniquities, and let them measure its plan. [11] If they are ashamed of all they have done, make known to them the design of the house, its layout, its exits and entrances, its entire design and all its statutes, its entire design and all its laws; write it down before their eyes, so that they may keep its entire design and all its statutes and carry them out. [12] This is the law of the house: on the top of the mountain, its whole territory all around will be most holy. This, then, is the law of the house. [13] "These are the measurements of the altar in cubits (a cubit being a cubit plus a handbreadth): its base, a cubit high and a cubit wide, with a rim of one span around its edge. This is the height of the altar: [] [14] from the base on the ground up to the lower ledge, two cubits, the ledge being a cubit wide; and from the smaller ledge up to the larger ledge, four cubits, that ledge being a cubit wide; [15] the altar hearth, four cubits; and rising from the altar hearth, four horns. [] [16] The altar hearth was twelve cubits long and twelve wide, square on all four sides. [17] The ledge was fourteen cubits long and fourteen wide on all four sides, with a rim half a cubit around it and its base a cubit all around. Its steps are to face east." [18] He said to me, "Son of man, thus says the Lord GOD: These are the statutes for the altar on the day it is built, so that burnt offerings may be offered on it and blood sprinkled on it. [19] To the Levitical priests of the line of Zadok, who draw near to me to serve me, declares the Lord GOD, you are to give a young bull for a sin offering. [20] Take some of its blood and put it on the four horns of the altar, on the four corners of the ledge and on the rim all around; so you will cleanse it from sin and make atonement for it. [21] Then take the bull for the sin offering and burn it in the designated place of the house, outside the sanctuary. [22] On the second day offer a male goat without blemish as a sin offering, and they will cleanse the altar as they cleansed it with the bull. [23] When you have finished cleansing it, offer a young bull without blemish and a ram without blemish from the flock. [24] Present them before the LORD; the priests are to throw salt on them and offer them up as a burnt offering to the LORD. [25] For seven days you are to provide a male goat each day as a sin offering; a young bull and a ram from the flock, without blemish, are also to be provided. [26] For seven days they will make atonement for the altar and cleanse it, and so consecrate it. [*] [27] When these days are over, from the eighth day on the priests will offer your burnt offerings and your peace offerings on the altar, and I will accept you, declares the Lord GOD."

CHAPTER 44

[1] Then he brought me back toward the outer gate of the sanctuary, the one facing east, and it was shut. [2] The LORD said to me, "This gate is to stay shut. It must not be opened, and no one may come in through it, because the LORD, the God of Israel, has come in through it; so it is to stay shut. [3] Only the prince, because he is prince, may sit in it to eat bread before the LORD. He is to come in by way of the vestibule of the gate and go out the same way." [4] Then he brought me by way of the north gate to the front of the house. I looked, and the glory of the LORD filled the house of the LORD, and I fell face down. [5] The LORD said to me, "Son of man, pay close attention, look with your eyes and listen with your ears to everything I tell you about all the statutes of the house of the LORD and all its laws. Pay close attention to the entrance of the house and to all the exits of the sanctuary. [6] Say to the rebels, to the house of Israel, Thus says the Lord GOD: You have had more than enough of all your abominations, house of Israel, [7] bringing foreigners, uncircumcised in heart and uncircumcised in flesh, into my sanctuary to profane my house while you offered my food, the fat and the blood. They have broken my covenant on top of all your abominations. [8] You have not taken charge of my holy things yourselves; instead you have put others in charge of my sanctuary for you. [9] Thus says the Lord GOD: No foreigner uncircumcised in heart and uncircumcised in flesh, none of the foreigners who are among the children of Israel, may come into my sanctuary. [10] "As for the Levites who went far away from me when Israel strayed, who strayed from me after their idols, they will bear their iniquity. [11] They will serve in my sanctuary as guards at the gates of the house and as servants of the house; they will slaughter the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people and stand before them to serve them. [12] Because they served them in front of their idols and became a stumbling block of iniquity to the house of Israel, I have raised my hand in an oath concerning them, declares the Lord GOD, that they will bear their iniquity. [13] They will not come near me to serve me as priests or come near any of my holy things, the most holy things; they will bear their disgrace and the abominations they committed. [14] Yet I will put them in charge of the house, of all the work to be done there and all that has to be done in it. [15] "But the Levitical priests, the sons of Zadok, who kept charge of my sanctuary when the children of Israel strayed from me, will come near me to serve me; they will stand before me to offer me the fat and the blood, declares the Lord GOD. [16] They will come into my sanctuary and approach my table to serve me, and they will keep my charge. [17] When they come in through the gates of the inner court they are to wear linen clothing; no wool may be on them while they serve in the gates of the inner court and inside the house. [18] Linen turbans are to be on their heads and linen undergarments around their waists; they must not wear anything that makes them sweat. [19] When they go out to the outer court, to the outer court where the people are, they are to take off the garments they served in and leave them in the holy chambers, and put on other garments, so as not to pass holiness to the people through their garments.* [20] They must not shave their heads or let their hair hang loose; they are to keep the hair of their heads trimmed. [21] No priest may drink wine when he is to enter the inner court. [22] They must not marry a widow or a divorced woman, but only virgins of the line of the house of Israel, or a widow who was a priest's widow. [23] They are to teach my people the difference between holy and common and make them know the difference between unclean and clean. [24] In a dispute they are to take their stand as judges and judge it by my judgments. They are to keep my laws and my statutes at all my appointed feasts and keep my Sabbaths holy. [25] A priest must not make himself unclean by going near a dead person; only for a father or mother, son or daughter, brother or unmarried sister may they make themselves unclean. [26] After he has been cleansed, seven days are to be counted off for him. [27] On the day he goes into the holy place, into the inner court, to serve in the holy place, he is to offer his sin offering, declares the Lord GOD. [28] "As for their inheritance, I am their inheritance. Give them no possession in Israel; I am their possession. [29] They will eat the grain offering, the sin offering and the guilt offering, and everything devoted in Israel will be theirs.* [30] The best of all the firstfruits of every kind and every contribution of every kind from all your contributions will go to the priests. You are also to give the priest the first of your coarse meal, so that a blessing may rest on your house. [31] The priests must not eat anything, bird or animal, that has died on its own or been mangled by beasts."

CHAPTER 45

[1] "When you divide the land by lot as an inheritance, you are to set aside a contribution for the LORD, a holy portion of the land, twenty-five thousand long and ten thousand wide; its whole territory all around will be holy.* [2] Out of this, a square five hundred by five hundred will be for the sanctuary, with fifty cubits of open land surrounding it. [3] From this measured area measure off a strip twenty-five thousand long and ten thousand wide; in it will stand the sanctuary, the Most Holy Place. [4] It will be the holy portion of the land, belonging to the priests who serve in the sanctuary and draw near to serve the LORD; it will be a place for their houses and a holy place for the sanctuary. [5] A further area twenty-five thousand long and ten thousand wide will belong to the Levites who serve the house, as their possession, for twenty chambers. [6] "Next to the holy contribution you are to assign the city as its possession an area five thousand wide and twenty-five thousand long; it will belong to the whole house of Israel. [7] "The prince is to have land on either side of the holy contribution and the possession of the city, bordering the holy contribution and the possession of the city, westward on the west side and eastward on the east side, matching in length one of the tribal portions from the western border to the eastern border. [8] This land will be his possession in Israel. My princes will no longer oppress my people; they will give the land to the house of Israel by their tribes. [9] "Thus says the Lord GOD: Enough, princes of Israel! Get rid of violence and plunder, and practice justice and righteousness; stop driving my people off their land, declares the Lord GOD. [10] You are to have honest scales, an honest ephah and an honest bath. [11] The ephah and the bath are to be of one standard, the bath holding a tenth of a homer and the ephah a tenth of a homer; the homer is to be the standard for both. [12] The shekel is to be twenty gerahs; twenty shekels plus twenty-five shekels plus fifteen shekels will make your mina.* [13] "This is the contribution you are to present: a sixth of an ephah from every homer of wheat and a sixth of an ephah from every homer of barley; [14] and the set portion of oil, measured by the bath, is a tenth of a bath from every cor (ten baths make a homer, or a cor, for ten baths are a homer); [15] and one sheep out of every flock of two hundred from the well-watered lands of Israel, for grain offering, burnt offering and peace offerings, to make atonement for them, declares the Lord GOD. [16] All the people of the land are bound to this contribution for the prince in Israel. [17] The prince will be responsible for the burnt offerings, the grain offering and the drink offering at the feasts, the new moons and the Sabbaths, at all the appointed feasts of the house of Israel; he is to provide the sin offering, the grain offering, the burnt offering and the peace offerings to make atonement for the house of Israel. [18] "Thus says the Lord GOD: In the first month, on the first of the month, take a young bull without blemish and cleanse the sanctuary from sin. [19] The priest is to take some of the blood of the sin offering and put it on the doorposts of the house, on the four corners of the altar's ledge and on the doorposts of the gate of the inner court. [20] Do the same on the seventh of the month for anyone who sins by mistake or through ignorance; so you will make atonement for the house. [21] "In the first month, on the fourteenth of the month, you are to keep the Passover, a feast lasting seven days, during which unleavened bread is eaten.* [22] On that day the prince is to provide a young bull as a sin offering for himself and for all the people of the land. [23] On each of the seven days of the feast he is to provide seven young bulls and seven rams without blemish as a burnt offering to the LORD, and a male goat each day as a sin offering. [24] As a grain offering he is to provide an ephah for each bull and an ephah for each ram, with a hin of oil for each ephah. [25] In the seventh month, on the fifteenth of the month, at the feast, he is to provide the same for seven days: the same sin offering, burnt offering, grain offering and oil.

CHAPTER 46

[1] "Thus says the Lord GOD: The gate of the inner court facing east is to stay shut during the six working days, but on the Sabbath day it is to be opened, and on the day of the new moon it is to be opened. [2] The prince is to come in from outside by way of the vestibule of the gate and take his stand at the doorpost of the gate. The priests will offer his burnt offering and his peace offerings, and he will bow down at the threshold of the gate and then go out; but the gate is not to be shut until evening. [3] On the Sabbaths and the new moons the people of the land are to bow down before the LORD at the entrance of that gate. [4] The burnt offering the prince offers to the LORD on the Sabbath day is to be six lambs without blemish and a ram without blemish. [5] The grain offering with the ram is to be an ephah, and with the lambs whatever he chooses to give, with a hin of oil for each ephah. [6]
On the day of the new moon he is to offer a young bull without blemish, and six lambs and a ram, all without blemish. [7] He is to provide a grain offering of an ephah with the bull and an ephah with the ram, and with the lambs whatever he can afford, with a hin of oil for each ephah. [8] When the prince comes in, he is to enter by way of the vestibule of the gate and leave the same way. [9]
"When the people of the land come before the LORD at the appointed feasts, whoever comes in by the north gate to worship is to leave by the south gate, and whoever comes in by the south gate is to leave by the north gate. No one is to go back through the gate he came in by; each is to go straight out the opposite way. [10] The prince is to be among them, going in when they go in and going out when they go out. [11] "At the feasts and appointed festivals the grain offering is to be an ephah with a bull and an ephah with a ram, and with the lambs whatever one chooses to give, with a hin of oil for each ephah. [12] When the prince provides a freewill offering, whether a burnt offering or peace offerings as a freewill offering to the LORD, the gate facing east is to be opened for him, and he is to offer his burnt offering and his peace offerings just as he does on the Sabbath day. Then he will go out, and once he has gone out the gate is to be shut. [13]
"Every day you are to provide a year-old lamb without blemish as a burnt offering to the LORD; you are to provide it morning after morning. [14] With it, morning after morning, you are to provide a grain offering of a sixth of an ephah and a third of a hin of oil to moisten the fine flour, a grain offering to the LORD;
these are perpetual statutes, to be kept continually. [15] So morning after morning they are to provide the lamb, the grain offering and the oil as a continual burnt offering. [16] "Thus says the Lord GOD: If the prince gives a gift out of his inheritance to one of his sons, it will belong to his sons; it is their possession by inheritance. [17] But if he gives a gift out of his inheritance to one of his servants, it will be the servant's until the year of release and then return to the prince; his inheritance belongs to his sons alone.* [18] The prince must not take any of the people's inheritance by forcing them off their possession. He is to give his sons their inheritance from his own possession, so that none of my people is driven away from his possession." [19] Then he brought me through the entrance beside the gate into the holy chambers for the priests that faced north, and I saw a place there at the far western end. [20] He told me, "This is the place where the priests are to boil the guilt offering and the sin offering and bake the grain offering, so that they do not carry them out to the outer court and pass holiness to the people." [21] Then he brought me out to the outer court and led me around its four corners, and in each corner of the court there was another court. [22] In the four corners of the court were enclosed courts, forty cubits long and thirty wide; all four corner courts were the same size.* [23] A row of masonry ran around each of the four, with hearths built under the rows all around. [24] He told me, "These are the kitchens where those who serve at the house are to boil the people's sacrifices."

CHAPTER 47

[1] He brought me back to the entrance of the house, and I saw water flowing out from beneath the threshold of the house eastward, for the house faced east; the water was coming down from beneath the south side of the house, south of the altar. [2]
Then he took me out by way of the north gate and led me around outside to the outer gate that faces east, and there the water was trickling out on the south side. [3] The man went out eastward with a measuring line in his hand and measured off a thousand cubits; then he led me through the water, which came up to the ankles. [4] He measured off another thousand and led me through the water, which came up to the knees. He measured off another thousand and led me through water up to the waist. [5]
He measured off another thousand, and it was a river I could not cross, for the water had risen; it was deep enough to swim in, a river no one could cross. [6] He asked me, "Son of man, do you see this?" Then he took me back along the riverbank. [7] When I had come back, I saw on the bank of the river a great many trees on either side. [8] He said to me, "This water flows out to the eastern region, goes down into the Arabah and comes to the sea; when it pours into the sea, the sea's water will be made fresh. [9] Wherever the river flows, every living creature that swarms will live, and fish will be abundant, because this water goes there and makes the sea's water fresh; everything will live wherever the river goes.
[10] Fishermen will stand along it from En-gedi to En-eglaim; it will be a place for drying nets. Its fish will be of every kind, as plentiful as the fish of the Great Sea. [11] But its swamps and marshes will not be made fresh; they will be left for salt. [12] Along the river, on both banks, every kind of tree for food will grow.
Their leaves will not wilt and their fruit will not run out; every month they will bear new fruit, because their water flows from the sanctuary. Their fruit will be for food and their leaves for healing." [13] Thus says the Lord GOD: "These are the borders by which you are to divide the land as an inheritance among the twelve tribes of Israel, with Joseph receiving two portions.* [14]
You are to inherit it equally, each the same as his brother; I raised my hand in an oath to give it to your fathers, and this land will fall to you as your inheritance. [15] "This is to be the border of the land. On the north side: from the Great Sea by way of Hethlon to the entrance of Zedad,* [16] Hamath, Berothah, and Sibraim, which lies between the territory of Damascus and the territory of Hamath, up to Hazer-hatticon on the border of Hauran. [17] So the border will run from the sea to Hazar-enan, on the border of Damascus, with the territory of Hamath to the north. That is the north side. [18] "On the east side the border runs between Hauran and Damascus, and along the Jordan between Gilead and the land of Israel; measure from the northern border down to the eastern sea. That is the east side.* [19] "On the south side, toward the Negev, it runs from Tamar to the waters of Meribath-kadesh, then along the Brook to the Great Sea. That is the south side, toward the Negev.* [20] "On the west side the Great Sea will be the border up to a point opposite the entrance of Hamath. That is the west side. [21] "You are to divide this land among yourselves by the tribes of Israel. [22] Allot it as an inheritance for yourselves and for the foreigners living among you who have had children among you. You are to treat them like native-born children of Israel; along with you they will receive an inheritance by lot among the tribes of Israel. [23] In whichever tribe the foreigner lives, there you are to give him his inheritance, declares the Lord GOD.

CHAPTER 48

[1] "These are the names of the tribes. At the northern end, beside the Hethlon road to the entrance of Hamath, up to Hazar-enan on the border of Damascus, with Hamath to the north, and running from the east side to the west: Dan, one portion. [2] Bordering the territory of Dan, from the east side to the west side: Asher, one portion. [3] Bordering the territory of Asher, from the east side to the west side: Naphtali, one portion. [4] Bordering the territory of Naphtali, from the east side to the west side: Manasseh, one portion. [5] Bordering the territory of Manasseh, from the east side to the west side: Ephraim, one portion. [6] Bordering the territory of Ephraim, from the east side to the west side: Reuben, one portion. [7] Bordering the territory of Reuben, from the east side to the west side: Judah, one portion. [8] "Bordering the territory of Judah, from the east side to the west side, will be the contribution you are to set aside, twenty-five thousand wide and as long as one of the tribal portions from the east side to the west side, with the sanctuary in its center. [9] The contribution you set aside for the LORD is to be twenty-five thousand long and ten thousand wide. [10] This holy contribution will belong to the priests: twenty-five thousand long on the north, ten thousand wide on the west, ten thousand wide on the east and twenty-five thousand long on the south, with the sanctuary of the LORD in its center. [11] It is for the consecrated priests, the sons of Zadok, who kept my charge and did not stray when the children of Israel strayed, as the Levites strayed. [12] It will be theirs as a special portion out of the contribution of the land, a most holy place, bordering the territory of the Levites. [13] Beside the territory of the priests the Levites will have an area twenty-five thousand long and ten thousand wide; the full length twenty-five thousand and the width ten thousand. [14] They must not sell or trade any of it, and this best part of the land must not change hands, for it is holy to the LORD. [15] "The five thousand left in width along the twenty-five thousand will be for the city's common use, for houses and for open land, with the city in its center. [16] Its measurements are these: the north side four thousand five hundred, the south side four thousand five hundred, the east side four thousand five hundred and the west side four thousand five hundred. [17] The city's open land will be two hundred and fifty on the north, two hundred and fifty on the south, two hundred and fifty on the east and two hundred and fifty on the west. [18] What is left of the length beside the holy contribution, ten thousand on the east and ten thousand on the west, will run alongside the holy contribution; its produce will feed those who work in the city. [19] Those who work in the city, drawn from all the tribes of Israel, will farm it. [20] The whole contribution will be twenty-five thousand by twenty-five thousand; you are to set aside the holy contribution as a square, together with the possession of the city. [21] "What is left on either side of the holy contribution and the possession of the city will belong to the prince. From the twenty-five thousand of the contribution eastward to the eastern border, and from the twenty-five thousand westward to the western border, alongside the tribal portions, it will be the prince's; the holy contribution and the sanctuary of the house will be in its center. [22] So the possession of the Levites and the possession of the city will lie in the middle of what belongs to the prince; what lies between the territory of Judah and the territory of Benjamin will belong to the prince. [23] "As for the remaining tribes: from the east side to the west side, Benjamin, one portion. [24] Bordering the territory of Benjamin, from the east side to the west side: Simeon, one portion. [25] Bordering the territory of Simeon, from the east side to the west side: Issachar, one portion. [26] Bordering the territory of Issachar, from the east side to the west side: Zebulun, one portion. [27] Bordering the territory of Zebulun, from the east side to the west side: Gad, one portion. [28] Bordering the territory of Gad, on the south side toward the Negev, the border will run from Tamar to the waters of Meribath-kadesh, then along the Brook to the Great Sea. [29] This is the land you are to allot as an inheritance to the tribes of Israel, and these are their portions, declares the Lord GOD. [30] "These are the exits of the city. On the north side, which measures four thousand five hundred, [31] the gates of the city, named after the tribes of Israel, will be three on the north: one gate for Reuben, one for Judah and one for Levi. [32] On the east side, four thousand five hundred, three gates: one gate for Joseph, one for Benjamin and one for Dan. [33] On the south side, measuring four thousand five hundred, three gates: one gate for Simeon, one for Issachar and one for Zebulun. [34] On the west side, four thousand five hundred, their three gates: one gate for Gad, one for Asher and one for Naphtali. [35] All the way around it will measure eighteen thousand. And from that day on the city's name will be, The LORD Is There."*

CHAPTER 1

[1] In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came against Jerusalem and laid siege to it. [2] The Lord handed Jehoiakim king of Judah over to him, along with part of the vessels of the house of God. He carried them off to the land of Shinar, to the house of his god, and put the vessels in the treasury of his god. [3] The king then instructed Ashpenaz, his chief official, to bring in some of the children of Israel, from the royal line and from the nobility: [4] young men with no defect, handsome in appearance, versed in every kind of wisdom, well informed, quick to learn and fit to serve in the king's palace, who were to be taught the writings and the language of the Chaldeans. [5] The king allotted them a daily ration from the king's fine food and from the wine he drank, and they were to be trained for three years, after which they would enter the king's service. [6] Among these, from the sons of Judah, were Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah. [7] The chief official gave them new names: Daniel he named Belteshazzar, Hananiah Shadrach, Mishael Meshach, and Azariah Abednego. [8] But Daniel made up his mind not to defile himself with the king's fine food or with the wine he drank, and he asked the chief official to allow him not to defile himself. [9] God granted Daniel favor and compassion with the chief official, [10] but the chief official told Daniel, "I am afraid of my lord the king, who has allotted your food and drink. What if he sees you looking more haggard than the other young men your age? You would make me forfeit my head to the king." [11] So Daniel said to the guard whom the chief official had put in charge of Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah, [12] "Please try your servants for ten days: let us be given vegetables to eat and water to drink. [13] Then compare our appearance with the appearance of the young men who eat the king's fine food, and treat your servants according to what you see." [14] He agreed to this and tried them for ten days. [15] When the ten days were over, they looked better and better fed than all the young men who ate the king's fine food. [16] So the guard kept taking away their fine food and the wine they were to drink and gave them vegetables. [17] To these four young men God gave knowledge and insight into all writings and wisdom, and Daniel could understand visions and dreams of every kind. [18] When the time the king had set for bringing them in was up, the chief official brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar. [19] The king talked with them, and among them all no one was found equal to Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah; so they entered the king's service. [20] In every matter requiring wisdom and understanding that the king asked them about, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and enchanters throughout his kingdom. [21] And Daniel remained there until the first year of King Cyrus.

CHAPTER 2

[1] In the second year of Nebuchadnezzar's reign, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams; his spirit was disturbed and his sleep left him. [2] The king ordered that the magicians, enchanters, sorcerers and Chaldeans be called to tell the king what he had dreamed. They came in and stood before the king. [3] The king told them, "I had a dream, and my spirit is disturbed to know what the dream was." [4] The Chaldeans spoke to the king in Aramaic: "O king, live forever! Tell the dream to your servants, and we will reveal the interpretation."* [5] The king replied to the Chaldeans, "My decision is firm: if you do not tell me the dream and its interpretation, you will be cut to pieces and your houses turned into rubbish heaps. [6] But if you reveal the dream and its interpretation, you will receive gifts, a reward and great honor from me. So reveal the dream and its interpretation to me." [7] They replied a second time, "Let the king tell the dream to his servants, and we will reveal the interpretation." [8] The king replied, "I know for sure that you are stalling for time, because you see that my decision is firm: [9] if you do not tell me the dream, there is one sentence for you all. You have agreed among yourselves to tell me lies and deceptions until the situation changes. So tell me the dream, and then I will know that you can reveal its interpretation to me." [10] The Chaldeans answered the king, "There is not a man on earth who can reveal what the king asks; no king, however great and mighty, has ever asked anything like this of any magician, enchanter or Chaldean. [11] What the king asks is too hard, and no one can reveal it to the king except the gods, who do not live among mortals." [12] At this the king flew into a rage and was furious, and he ordered that all the wise men of Babylon be destroyed. [13] So the decree was issued that the wise men were to be killed, and men went looking for Daniel and his companions to kill them. [14] Then Daniel spoke with wisdom and tact to Arioch, commander of the king's guard, who had gone out to kill the wise men of Babylon. [15] He asked Arioch, the king's officer, "Why is the decree from the king so harsh?" Then Arioch explained the matter to Daniel. [16] Daniel went in and asked the king to give him time, and he would reveal the interpretation to the king. [17] Then Daniel went home and explained the matter to his companions Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah, [18] urging them to ask the God of heaven for mercy concerning this mystery, so that Daniel and his companions would not be destroyed along with the rest of the wise men of Babylon. [19] Then the mystery was revealed to Daniel in a night vision, and Daniel blessed the God of heaven. [20] Daniel said: "May the name of God be blessed from everlasting to everlasting, for wisdom and power belong to him. [21] He alters times and seasons; he deposes kings and sets kings up; he gives wisdom to the wise and knowledge to the discerning. [22] He reveals things deep and hidden; he knows what lies in darkness, and light dwells with him. [23] I thank and praise you, God of my fathers, for you have given me wisdom and power, and now you have told me what we asked of you; you have told us what the king asked." [24]

So Daniel went to Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon, and said to him, "Do not destroy the wise men of Babylon. Take me in to the king, and I will reveal the interpretation to the king." [25] Arioch hurriedly took Daniel in to the king and said, "I have found a man among the exiles from Judah who can tell the king the interpretation." [26] The king said to Daniel, who was called Belteshazzar, "Can you really tell me the dream I saw and its interpretation?" [27] Daniel replied to the king, "No wise men, enchanters, magicians or astrologers can reveal to the king the mystery he has asked about. [28] But there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and he has shown King Nebuchadnezzar what is to happen in the latter days. This was your dream and the visions that passed through your head as you lay in bed: [29] As you lay in bed, O king, your thoughts turned to what was going to happen afterward, and the revealer of mysteries has shown you what is to happen. [30] As for me, this mystery has been revealed to me, not because I have more wisdom than anyone else alive, but so that the king may be told the interpretation and that you may understand the thoughts of your heart. [31] "You were looking, O king, and there before you stood a huge statue. This statue, enormous and dazzling, stood in front of you, and it was frightening to look at. [32] The head of the statue was of fine gold, its chest and arms of silver, its belly and thighs of bronze, [33] its legs of iron, and its feet part iron and part clay. [34] As you watched, a stone was cut out, but not by human hands; it struck the statue on its feet of iron and clay and smashed them. [35] Then the iron, the clay, the bronze, the silver and the gold were all smashed at once and became like chaff on threshing floors in summer; the wind swept them away so that not a trace of them could be found. But the stone that struck the statue became a great mountain and filled the whole earth. [36] "That was the dream; now we will tell the king its interpretation. [37] You, O king, are king of kings, to whom the God of heaven has given the kingdom, the power, the strength and the glory. [38] Wherever the sons of men live, he has placed in your hand the animals of the field and the birds of the sky, and made you ruler over them all. You are that head of gold. [39] After you another kingdom will rise, lower than yours, and then a third kingdom, of bronze, which will rule over the whole earth. [40] Then there will be a fourth kingdom, strong as iron; just as iron smashes and shatters everything, and as iron crushes, so it will smash and crush all these. [41] And just as you saw the feet and toes partly of potter's clay and partly of iron, it will be a divided kingdom; yet some of the strength of iron will be in it, since you saw the iron mixed with soft clay. [42] As the toes of the feet were part iron and part clay, so the kingdom will be partly strong and partly fragile. [43] And as you saw the iron mixed with soft clay, they will mingle with the seed of men, but they will not hold together, one with the other, just as iron does not mix with clay. [44] In the days of those kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that will never be destroyed, and its sovereignty will not be left to another people. It will crush all these kingdoms and bring them to an end, and it will stand forever, [45] just as you saw that a stone was cut from the mountain, not by human hands, and that it smashed the iron, the bronze, the clay, the silver and the gold. The great God has shown the king what is to happen hereafter. The dream is true, and its interpretation can be trusted." [46] Then King Nebuchadnezzar fell face down and bowed before Daniel, and he ordered that an offering and fragrant incense be presented to him. [47] The king said to Daniel, "Your God is truly the God of gods and the Lord of kings and a revealer of mysteries, since you have been able to reveal this mystery." [48] Then the king promoted Daniel, gave him many lavish gifts, made him ruler over the entire province of Babylon and put him at the head of all the wise men of Babylon. [49] At Daniel's request the king appointed Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego to administer the province of Babylon, while Daniel himself remained at the king's court.

CHAPTER 3

[1] King Nebuchadnezzar made a gold statue, sixty cubits tall and six cubits wide, and set it up on the plain of Dura in the province of Babylon. [2] King Nebuchadnezzar then sent word to assemble the satraps, prefects and governors, the counselors, treasurers, judges and magistrates, and all the provincial officials, to attend the dedication of the statue King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. [3] So the satraps, prefects and governors, the counselors, treasurers, judges and magistrates, and all the provincial officials assembled for the dedication of the statue King Nebuchadnezzar had set up, and they stood in front of the statue Nebuchadnezzar had set up. [4] A herald called out loudly, "This is the order for you, peoples, nations and languages: [5] the moment you hear the sound of horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe and every kind of music, you must fall down and worship the gold statue that King Nebuchadnezzar has set up. [6] Anyone who does not fall down and worship will immediately be thrown into a furnace of blazing fire." [7] So the moment all the peoples heard the sound of horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp and every kind of music, all the peoples, nations and languages fell down and worshiped the gold statue King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. [8] Just then some Chaldeans came forward and denounced the Jews. [9] They said to King Nebuchadnezzar, "O king, live forever! [10] You, O king, issued a decree that everyone who hears the sound of horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe and every kind of music must fall down and worship the gold statue, [11] and that anyone who does not fall down and worship will be thrown into a furnace of blazing fire. [12] There are some Jews whom you put in charge of the affairs of the province of Babylon, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, and these men, O king, take no notice of you. They do not serve your gods or worship the gold statue you have set up." [13] Nebuchadnezzar, furious with rage, ordered Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego brought in, and these men were brought before the king. [14] Nebuchadnezzar said to them, "Is it on purpose, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, that you do not serve my gods or worship the gold statue I have set up? [15] Now, if you are ready, the moment you hear the sound of horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe and every kind of music, to fall down and worship the statue I made, very well. But if you do not worship, you will immediately be thrown into a furnace of blazing fire; and what god is there who can rescue you from my hands?" [16] Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego answered King Nebuchadnezzar, "We have no need to give you an answer on this matter. [17] If so it must be, our God whom we serve is able to rescue us from the furnace of blazing fire, and he will rescue us from your hand, O king. [18] But even if he does not, be it known to you, O king, that we will not serve your gods or worship the gold statue you have set up." [19] Then Nebuchadnezzar was so full of rage that the look on his face changed toward Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. He gave orders to heat the furnace seven times hotter than it was normally heated, [20] and he ordered some of the strongest men in his army to tie up Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego and throw them into the furnace of blazing fire. [21] So these men were tied up, still wearing their cloaks, trousers, caps and other clothing, and thrown into the furnace of blazing fire. [22] Since the king's order was so harsh and the furnace so extremely hot, the flames of the fire killed the men who carried Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego up. [23] And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, fell, still tied up, into the furnace of blazing fire. [24] Then King Nebuchadnezzar was startled and leaped to his feet. He asked his counselors, "Wasn't it three men we tied up and threw into the fire?" They answered the king, "Certainly, O king." [25] He answered and said, "Look! I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they are not hurt; and the appearance of the fourth is like a son of the gods."[*] [26] Then Nebuchadnezzar went up to the opening of the furnace of blazing fire and called out, "Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, servants of the Most High God, come out! Come here!" So Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego came out of the fire. [27] The satraps, prefects, governors and royal counselors crowded around and saw that the fire had had no power over the bodies of these men: not a hair on their heads was singed, their cloaks were unchanged, and there was no smell of fire on them. [28] Nebuchadnezzar said, "Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, who sent his angel and rescued his servants who trusted in him! They defied the king's order and handed over their bodies rather than serve or worship any god except their own God. [29] So I issue a decree that any people, nation or language that says anything against the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego will be cut to pieces and their houses turned into rubbish heaps, for there is no other god who can rescue like this." [30] Then the king made Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego prosper in the province of Babylon.

CHAPTER 4

[1] King Nebuchadnezzar, to all peoples, nations and languages who live in the whole earth: May you have abundant peace![] [2] I am pleased to tell of the signs and wonders the Most High God has done for me. [3] How great are his signs, how mighty his wonders! His kingdom is a kingdom everlasting, and his dominion lasts from generation to generation. [4] I, Nebuchadnezzar, was living at ease in my house, prospering in my palace. [5] I had a dream that frightened me; as I lay in bed, the images and the visions that passed through my head terrified me. [6] So I issued a decree to bring all the wise men of Babylon before me to tell me the interpretation of the dream. [7] The magicians, enchanters, Chaldeans and astrologers came in, and I told them the dream, but they could not tell me its interpretation. [8] Finally Daniel came in before me (he is called Belteshazzar, after the name of my god, and the spirit of the holy gods is in him), and I told him the dream: [9] "Belteshazzar, chief of the magicians, I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in you and that no mystery is too difficult for you. Tell me the visions I saw in my dream and their interpretation. [10] These were the visions that passed through my head as I lay in bed: I looked, and there was a tree in the middle of the earth, and it was very tall. [11] The tree grew large and strong; its top reached the sky, and it could be seen to the ends of the whole earth. [12] Its foliage was lovely and its fruit plentiful, and there was food on it for all. The animals of the field took shelter under it, the birds of the sky lived in its branches, and every living creature fed from it. [13] In the visions that passed through my head as I lay in bed I looked, and there was a watcher, a holy one, coming down from heaven.[] [14] He called out loudly and said: 'Chop down the tree and lop off its branches; strip off its foliage and scatter its fruit. Let the animals flee from under it and the birds from its branches. [15] But leave the stump with its roots in the ground, with a band of iron and bronze around it, in the grass of the field. Let him be drenched with the dew of heaven and share the plants of the earth with the animals. [16] Let his mind be changed from that of a man and the mind of an animal be given to him, and let seven times pass over him. [17] This sentence is by decree of the watchers, the decision by command of the holy ones, so that the living may know that the Most High is ruler over the kingdom of men; he gives it to whomever he wishes and sets over it the lowliest of men.' [18] This is the dream that I, King Nebuchadnezzar, saw. Now you, Belteshazzar, tell me its interpretation, since none of the wise men of my kingdom can tell me what it means; but you can, because the spirit of the holy gods is in you." [19] Then Daniel, who was called Belteshazzar, was dumbfounded for a moment, and his thoughts terrified him. The king said, "Belteshazzar, do not let the dream or its interpretation frighten you." Belteshazzar answered, "My lord, if only the dream were about those who hate you, and its meaning about your enemies! [20] The tree you saw, which grew large and strong, whose top reached the sky and which could be seen by the whole earth, [21] whose foliage was lovely and whose fruit was plentiful, with food on it for all, under which the animals of the field lived and in whose branches the birds of the sky made their homes, [22] that tree is you, O king! You have grown large and strong; your greatness has grown until it reaches the sky, and your dominion extends to the ends of the earth. [23] And as for the king seeing a watcher, a holy one, coming down from heaven and saying, 'Chop down the tree and destroy it, but leave the stump with its roots in the ground, with a band of iron and bronze around it, in the grass of the field; let him be drenched with the dew of heaven and share the lot of the animals of the field until seven times pass over him,' [24] this is the interpretation, O king, and this is the decree of the Most High that has come upon my lord the king: [25] You will be driven away from people and will live with the animals of the field; you will be given grass to eat like cattle and be drenched with the dew of heaven, and seven times will pass over you, until you acknowledge that the Most High is ruler over the kingdom of men and gives it to whomever he wishes. [26] And since the command was given to leave the stump with the tree's roots, your kingdom will remain yours once you acknowledge that Heaven rules. [27] So, O king, let my advice be acceptable to you: break off your sins by doing what is right, and your iniquities by showing mercy to the oppressed. Perhaps then your prosperity will continue." [28] All this happened to King Nebuchadnezzar. [29] Twelve months later, as he was walking on the roof of the royal palace of Babylon, [30] the king said, "Is this not great Babylon, which I have built as the royal residence by my mighty power and for the glory of my majesty?" [31] The words were still on the king's lips when a voice came down from heaven: "This is the word for you, King Nebuchadnezzar: The kingdom has been taken from you. [32] You will be driven away from people and will live with the animals of the field; you will be given grass to eat like cattle, and seven times will pass over you, until you acknowledge that the Most High is ruler over the kingdom of men and gives it to whomever he wishes." [33] Immediately the word against Nebuchadnezzar was carried out. He was driven away from people and ate grass like cattle; his body was drenched with the dew of heaven until his hair grew as long as eagles' feathers and his nails like the claws of birds. [34] When that time was over, I, Nebuchadnezzar, raised my eyes toward heaven, and my reason came back to me. I blessed the Most High, and I praised and glorified the One who lives forever: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, and his kingdom lasts from generation to generation. [35] All who live on the earth count for nothing; he does as he pleases with the host of heaven and with those who live on the earth. No one can hold back his hand or say to him, "What have you done?" [36] At that moment my reason came back to me, and my majesty and splendor came back to me for the glory of my kingdom. My counselors and nobles sought me out, I was reestablished over my kingdom, and even greater majesty was given to me. [37] Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise, exalt and glorify the King of heaven, for all his works are true and his ways just, and he is able to bring low those who walk in pride.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Belshazzar the king made a great banquet for a thousand of his nobles, and in the presence of the thousand he drank wine. [2] As he tasted the wine, Belshazzar ordered that the gold and silver vessels be brought which Nebuchadnezzar his father had carried out of the temple in Jerusalem, so that the king and his nobles, his wives and his concubines could drink from them. [3] So they brought the gold vessels that had been carried out of the temple, the house of God that was in Jerusalem; and the king and his nobles, his wives and his concubines drank from them. [4] They drank the wine and gave praise to the gods of gold and silver, bronze, iron, wood and stone. [5] In that same hour the fingers of a human hand appeared and were writing on the plaster of the wall of the king's palace, across from the lampstand; and the king was watching the palm of the hand that wrote. [6] Then the king's face lost its color, and his thoughts alarmed him; the joints of his loins were loosened, and his knees struck one against the other. [7] The king cried aloud for the enchanters, the Chaldeans and the astrologers to be brought in. The king said to the wise men of Babylon, "Anyone who reads this writing and declares its interpretation to me shall be clothed in purple and have a chain of gold around his neck, and he shall rule as third in the kingdom." [8] Then all the king's wise men came in, but they were not able to read the writing or to make its interpretation known to the king. [9] Then King Belshazzar was greatly alarmed, his face grew pale, and his nobles were perplexed. [10] Because of what the king and his nobles had said, the queen came into the banquet house. The queen said, "O king, live forever! Let not your thoughts alarm you, and let not your face grow pale. [11] There is a man in your kingdom who has the spirit of the holy gods in him. In your father's days light, understanding and wisdom like the wisdom of the gods were found in him; and King Nebuchadnezzar your father, your father the king, appointed him chief of the magicians, enchanters, Chaldeans and astrologers, [12] because an extraordinary spirit, knowledge and understanding to interpret dreams, explain riddles and loosen knots were found in this Daniel, to whom the king gave the name Belteshazzar. Now let Daniel be summoned, and he will declare the interpretation." [13] So Daniel was brought in before the king. The king said to Daniel, "Are you that Daniel who is one of the exiles from Judah, whom my father the king brought out of Judah? [14] I have heard about you, that the spirit of the gods is in you, and that light, understanding and extraordinary wisdom have been found in you. [15] The wise men and the enchanters have just been brought before me to read this writing and make its interpretation known to me, but they were not able to declare the interpretation of the matter. [16] But I have heard about you, that you are able to give interpretations and loosen knots. Now if you are able to read the writing and make its interpretation known to me, you shall be clothed in purple and have a chain of gold around your neck, and you shall rule as third in the kingdom." [17] Then Daniel answered before the king, "Let your gifts be for yourself, and give your rewards to someone else. Still, I will read the writing to the king and make the interpretation known to him. [18] As for you, O king, the Most High God gave Nebuchadnezzar your father kingship and greatness, honor and majesty. [19] Because of the greatness he gave him, all peoples, nations and languages trembled and were afraid before him. Whom he pleased he put to death, and whom he pleased he let live; whom he pleased he raised up, and whom he pleased he brought low. [20] But when his heart was exalted and his spirit grew hard so that he acted with arrogance, he was deposed from his royal throne, and his honor was taken away from him. [21] He was driven out from among the children of men, his heart was made like that of the animals, and he lived among the wild donkeys. He was fed grass like oxen, and his body was drenched with the dew of heaven, until he knew that the Most High God rules over the kingdom of men and appoints over it whomever he pleases. [22] And you, Belshazzar, his son, have not humbled your heart, even though you knew all this. [23] Instead you have exalted yourself against the Lord of heaven. The vessels of his house were brought before you, and you and your nobles, your wives and your concubines drank wine from them. You praised the gods of silver and gold, bronze, iron, wood and stone, which do not see or hear or know; but the God who holds your breath in his hand and to whom all your ways belong you have not glorified. [24] So from his presence the palm of the hand was sent, and this writing was inscribed. [25] And this is the writing that was inscribed: MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN. [26] This is the interpretation of the matter: MENE, God has numbered your kingdom and brought it to its end; [27] TEKEL, you have been weighed on the scales and found deficient; [28] PERES, your kingdom has been split and given to the Medes and the Persians." [29] Then at Belshazzar's word they clothed Daniel in purple, put a chain of gold around his neck, and proclaimed concerning him that he should rule as third in the kingdom. [30] On that same night Belshazzar the Chaldean king was slain. [31] And Darius the Mede received the kingdom when he was about sixty-two years old.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Darius saw fit to appoint over the kingdom a hundred and twenty satraps to be stationed throughout the whole kingdom, [2] and above them three high officials, one of whom was Daniel; the satraps were to report to them so that the king would not suffer loss. [3] This Daniel began to stand out above the high officials and the satraps, because an exceptional spirit was in him, and the king intended to put him in charge of the whole kingdom. [4] So the high officials and the satraps tried to find some grounds for a charge against Daniel in his handling of the kingdom, but they could find no grounds and no corruption, because he was trustworthy; no negligence or corruption could be found in him. [5] Then these men said, "We will never find any grounds for a charge against this Daniel, unless we find something against him in connection with the law of his God." [6] So these high officials and satraps rushed in a body to the king and said to him, "King Darius, live forever! [7] All the high officials of the kingdom, the prefects and satraps, the counselors and governors, have agreed that the king should issue a decree and put an injunction in force: for thirty days, anyone who makes a request of any god or man except you, O king, is to be thrown into the lions' den. [8] Now, O king, issue the injunction and sign the document so that it cannot be altered, in keeping with the law of the Medes and Persians, which cannot be repealed." [9] So King Darius signed the document, the injunction. [10] When Daniel learned that the document had been signed, he went home. In his upper room the windows were open toward Jerusalem, and three times a day he got down on his knees, praying and giving thanks before his God, just as he had always done. [11] Then these men rushed in together and found Daniel making requests and pleading before his God. [12] So they went to the king and spoke about the royal injunction: "Did you not sign an injunction that for thirty days anyone who makes a request of any god or man except you, O king, would be thrown into the lions' den?" The king answered, "The matter is settled, in keeping with the law of the Medes and Persians, which cannot be repealed." [13] Then they told the king, "Daniel, one of the exiles from Judah, takes no notice of you, O king, or of the injunction you signed; three times a day he makes his request." [14] When the king heard this, he was deeply distressed; he set his mind on saving Daniel, and he worked until sunset to rescue him. [15] Then these men rushed in together to the king and said, "Remember, O king, that by the law of the Medes and Persians no injunction or decree the king issues can be altered." [16] So the king gave the order, and Daniel was brought and thrown into the lions' den. The king said to Daniel, "Your God, whom you serve without ceasing, may he rescue you!" [17] A stone was brought and placed over the opening of the den, and the king sealed it with his own signet ring and the signet rings of his nobles, so that nothing could be changed in Daniel's case. [18] Then the king went back to his palace and spent the night without eating; no diversions were brought to him, and sleep escaped him. [19] At daybreak, as soon as it was light, the king got up and hurried to the lions' den. [20] When he came near the den he called to Daniel in an anguished voice. The king said to Daniel, "Daniel, servant of the living God, has your God, whom you serve without ceasing, been able to rescue you from the lions?" [21] Daniel answered the king, "O king, live forever! [22] My God sent his angel and shut the lions' mouths, and they have not harmed me, because I was found innocent before him; and before you too, O king, I have committed no crime." [23] The king was overjoyed and ordered Daniel to be lifted out of the den. So Daniel was lifted out of the den, and not a wound was found on him, because he had trusted in his God. [24] At the king's order, the men who had denounced Daniel were brought and thrown into the lions' den, they, their sons and their wives; and before they reached the floor of the den the lions overpowered them and crushed all their bones. [25] Then King Darius wrote to all the peoples, nations and languages living in the whole earth: "May you have abundant peace! [26] I issue a decree that throughout my royal dominion people must tremble and fear before the God of Daniel. For he is the living God, who endures forever; his kingdom will never be destroyed, and his dominion will last to the end. [27] He rescues and saves; he performs signs and wonders in heaven and on earth; he has rescued Daniel from the power of the lions." [28] So this Daniel prospered during the reign of Darius and the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

CHAPTER 7

[1] In the first year of Belshazzar king of Babylon, Daniel had a dream, and visions passed through his head as he lay in bed. Then he wrote down the dream, giving the main points of the matter. [2] Daniel said: "I was watching in my vision during the night, and suddenly the four winds of heaven were churning up the great sea. [3] Four huge beasts came up out of the sea, each one different from the others. [4] The first was like a lion, with an eagle's wings. As I watched, its wings were torn off; it was lifted from the ground and made to stand on two feet like a human being, and a human mind was given to it. [5] Then I saw another beast, a second one, resembling a bear. It was raised up on one side and had three ribs in its mouth between its teeth, and it was told, 'Get up and eat your fill of flesh!' [6] After that I looked, and there was another beast, like a leopard, with four bird's wings on its back. This beast had four heads, and it was given authority to rule. [7] After that, as I watched in the night visions, there was a fourth beast, terrifying, frightening and enormously strong. It had huge iron teeth; it devoured and crushed, and stamped on whatever was left with its feet. It was different from all the beasts before it, and it had ten horns. [8] While I was studying the horns, another horn, a small one, came up among them, and three of the first horns were torn out by the roots before it. This horn had eyes like human eyes and a mouth that spoke boastfully. [9] As I watched, thrones were set up, and the Ancient of Days sat down. His clothing was as white as snow, and the hair of his head like clean wool; his throne was fiery flames, and its wheels blazing fire. [10] A river of fire was streaming out from before him.

Thousands upon thousands ministered to him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood in attendance before him.
The court was seated, and the books were opened. [11] Then I kept watching because of the noise of the boastful words the horn was speaking. I watched until the beast was slain and its body destroyed and handed over to be burned with fire. [12] As for the rest of the beasts, their authority was taken away, but they were allowed to live on for a season and a time. [13] I kept looking in the visions of the night, and there, with the clouds of heaven, came one like a son of man. He came to the Ancient of Days, and they brought him near before him. [*] [14] To him were given dominion, glory and a kingdom, so that all peoples, nations and languages would serve him. His dominion is an everlasting dominion that will not pass away, and his kingdom is one that will never be destroyed. [15] As for me, Daniel, my spirit was troubled within me, and the visions that passed through my head terrified me. [16] I went up to one of those standing there and asked him what all this really meant. So he told me and explained to me what these things meant: [17] 'These huge beasts, four in number, are four kings who will rise from the earth. [18] But the saints of the Most High will receive the kingdom and will possess the kingdom forever, for ever and ever.' [19] Then I wanted to know the real meaning of the fourth beast, which was different from all the rest and utterly terrifying, with its iron teeth and bronze claws, which devoured and crushed and stamped on whatever was left with its feet; [20] and of the ten horns on its head, and of the other horn that came up, before which three fell, the horn that had eyes and a mouth that spoke boastfully and looked bigger than the others.
[21] As I watched, this horn waged war against the saints and was overpowering them, [22] until the Ancient of Days came and judgment was given for the saints of the Most High, and the time arrived for the saints to take possession of the kingdom. [23] This is what he said: 'The fourth beast is a fourth kingdom that will appear on earth. It will be different from all the other kingdoms; it will devour the whole earth, trample it and crush it. [24] The ten horns are ten kings who will rise from this kingdom. After them another will rise, different from the earlier ones, and he will put down three kings. [25] He will speak words against the Most High and wear out the saints of the Most High; he will try to change the set times and the law, and they will be handed over to him for a time, times and half a time. [26] But the court will be seated, and his dominion will be taken away, to be destroyed and wiped out for good. [27] Then the kingdom, the dominion and the greatness of the kingdoms under all of heaven will be given to the people of the saints of the Most High. His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions will serve and obey him.' [28] This is the end of the account. As for me, Daniel, my thoughts terrified me greatly and my face turned pale, but I kept the matter to myself."

CHAPTER 8

[1] In the third year of King Belshazzar's reign a vision appeared to me, Daniel, after the one that had appeared to me earlier. [2] I saw in the vision, and while I was looking I was in Susa the fortress, in the province of Elam; I saw in the vision that I was beside the Ulai canal. [3] I raised my eyes and saw a ram standing beside the canal. It had two horns, and both horns were long, but one was longer than the other, and the longer one grew up later. [4] I watched the ram charging toward the west, the north and the south. No beast could withstand him, and no one could rescue from his power. He did whatever he pleased and became great. [5] While I was pondering this, a male goat came from the west over the whole surface of the earth without touching the ground, and the goat had a prominent horn between his eyes. [6] He came toward the ram with the two horns that I had seen standing beside the canal and charged at him in furious strength. [7] I saw him reach the ram; he was enraged at him, struck the ram and shattered his two horns, and the ram had no strength to withstand him. He knocked him to the ground and trampled on him, and no one could rescue the ram from his power. [8] The male goat became very great, but at the height of his strength the great horn was broken off, and in its place four prominent horns came up toward the four winds of heaven. [9] From one of them came a little horn, which grew extremely great toward the south, toward the east and toward the beautiful land. [10] It grew until it reached the host of heaven, and it threw some of the host and some of the stars down to the ground and trampled them. [11] It set itself up even against the Prince of the host; by it the continual offering was taken away from him, and the place of his sanctuary was overthrown. [] [12] Because of transgression a host was given over to it, together with the continual offering; it flung truth to the ground, and it prospered in whatever it did. [13] Then I heard a holy one speaking, and another holy one said to that one who was speaking, "How long will the vision be, about the continual offering and the transgression that makes desolate, the giving over of both sanctuary and host to be trampled?" [14] He said to me, "For two thousand three hundred evenings and mornings; then the sanctuary will be restored to its right condition." [15] While I, Daniel, was seeing the vision and trying to understand it, there stood in front of me one who looked like a man. [16] And I heard a human voice between the banks of the Ulai calling out, "Gabriel, explain the vision to this man." [17] He came close to where I was standing, and as he came I was terrified and fell face down. But he said to me, "Understand, son of man, that the vision concerns the time of the end." [18] While he was speaking to me, I sank into a deep sleep with my face to the ground; but he touched me and stood me up where I had been standing. [19] He said, "I am going to let you know what will happen in the last part of the wrath, for it concerns the appointed time of the end. [20] The ram you saw with the two horns stands for the kings of Media and Persia. [21] The hairy goat is the king of Greece, and the great horn between his eyes is the first king. [22] As for the horn that was broken and the four that rose up in its place, four kingdoms will rise from his nation, but without his power. [23] In the last part of their reign, when the transgressors have filled up their measure, a king will arise, hard-faced and a master of intrigue. [24] His power will be mighty, but not by his own power; he will cause astounding destruction and succeed in whatever he does; he will destroy mighty men and the people of the holy ones. [25] By his cunning he will make deceit prosper under his hand; he will exalt himself in his heart, and without warning he will destroy many. He will even rise up against the Prince of princes, but he will be broken, and not by human hand. [26] The vision of the evenings and the mornings that has been told is true; but you must keep the vision secret, for it concerns the distant future." [27] I, Daniel, was exhausted and lay ill for some days. Then I got up and carried on with the king's business; but I was dismayed by the vision, and no one could explain it.

CHAPTER 9

[1] In the first year of Darius the son of Ahasuerus, a Mede by descent, who had been made king over the kingdom of the Chaldeans, [2] in the first year of his reign I, Daniel, perceived in the books the number of years that, according to the word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah the prophet, were to be fulfilled for the ruins of Jerusalem, namely seventy years. [3] Then I set my face toward the Lord God, seeking him with prayer and supplications, with fasting, sackcloth and ashes. [4] I prayed to the LORD my God and made confession. I said, "Ah, Lord, the great and awesome God, who keeps the covenant and steadfast love toward those who love him and keep his commandments: [5] we have sinned and committed iniquity, we have done wickedly and rebelled, and turned aside from your commandments and from your judgments. [6] Nor have we listened to your servants the prophets, who in your name spoke to our kings, our princes and our fathers and to all the people of the land. [7] Righteousness is yours, O Lord, and ours is shame of face, as it is this day: ours, the men of Judah, the inhabitants of Jerusalem and all Israel, those near and those far off, in all the lands where you have banished them because of the treachery they committed against you. [8] O LORD, shame of face is ours, our kings', our princes' and our fathers', for we have sinned against you. [9] Mercies and pardon belong to the Lord our God, though we have rebelled against him; [10] we have not listened to the voice of the LORD our God, to walk in his laws that he set before us by the hand of his servants the prophets. [11] All Israel has transgressed your law and turned aside, refusing to listen to your voice. Therefore the curse and the sworn oath that are written in the law of Moses, the servant of God, have been poured out on us, for we have sinned against him. [12] He has confirmed his word that he spoke against us and against our judges who ruled us, by bringing on us a great calamity; for under all the heavens nothing has been done like what has been done in Jerusalem. [13] As it is written in the law of Moses, all this calamity has come on us; yet we have not entreated the face of the LORD our God by turning back from our iniquities and paying heed to your truth. [14] Therefore the LORD has kept the calamity in readiness and has brought it on us; for the LORD our God is righteous in all his works that he has done, but we have not listened to his voice. [15] And now, O Lord our God, who brought your people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand and made yourself a name, as it is this day: we have sinned, we have acted wickedly. [16] O Lord, according to all your righteous deeds, let your anger and your fury turn back, I pray, from your city Jerusalem, your holy mountain; because for our sins and for the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and your people have become an object of scorn to all around us. [17] Now then, O our God, hear the prayer of your servant and his supplications, and for the Lord's sake let your face shine on your sanctuary that lies desolate. [18] Incline your ear, O my God, and hear; open your eyes and look at our desolations and at the city over which your name is called. For we do not present our supplications before you because of our righteous acts, but because of your abundant mercies. [19] O Lord, hear! O Lord, forgive! O Lord, listen and act! Do not delay, for your own sake, O my God; for your name is called over your city and over your people." [20] While I was yet speaking and praying, confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my supplication before the LORD my God on behalf of the holy mountain of my God, [21] while I was yet speaking in prayer, the man Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, came near to me in swift flight at about the time of the evening offering. [22] He instructed me and spoke with me, saying, "Daniel, I have now come out to give you insight and understanding. [23] When you began your supplications a word went out, and I have come to declare it, for you are greatly loved. Therefore consider the word and understand the vision. [24] Seventy weeks have been determined upon your people and upon your holy city, to finish the transgression, to bring sins to an end, to make atonement for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal up vision and prophet, and to anoint the Most Holy. [25] Know, then, and understand: from the issuing of the word to restore and rebuild Jerusalem until Messiah the Prince there shall be seven weeks and sixty-two weeks; it shall be built again with square and moat, but in times of distress.* 26 After the sixty-two weeks Messiah shall be cut off, but not for himself; and the people of the prince who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its end shall be with a flood, and war shall last until the end; desolations are determined.* 27 He shall make a strong covenant with many for one week, and in the middle of the week he shall cause sacrifice and offering to cease. And on the wing of abominations shall come one who makes desolate, until the decreed full end is poured out on the desolator."*

CHAPTER 10

1 In the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a message was revealed to Daniel, whose name was called Belteshazzar. The message was truth, and it concerned a great warfare. He understood the message, and he had understanding of the vision. 2 In those days I, Daniel, was in mourning for three whole weeks. 3 I did not eat any pleasant food, neither meat nor wine came into my mouth, and I did not anoint myself at all until the three whole weeks were completed. 4 On the twenty-fourth day of the first month I was on the bank of the great river, the Tigris, 5 and I raised my eyes and looked, and there before me was a certain man dressed in linen, whose waist was girded with gold of Uphaz. 6 His body was like beryl, his face like the appearance of lightning, his eyes like torches of fire, his arms and feet like the gleam of polished bronze, and the sound of his words like the noise of a multitude. 7 Only I, Daniel, saw the vision; the men who were with me did not see it, but a great terror fell on them, and they ran away to hide. 8 So I was left by myself and saw this great vision. No strength was left in me; my vigor was turned to ruin, and I kept no strength. 9 Then I heard the sound of his words, and when I heard the sound of his words I sank into a stupor on my face, with my face to the ground. 10 Then a hand touched me and set me, trembling, on my knees and on the palms of my hands. 11 And he said to me, "Daniel, man greatly loved, give heed to the words that I am about to speak to you, and stand where you stood, for now I have been sent to you." When he said this to me, I stood up trembling. 12 He said to me, "Do not fear, Daniel, for from the first day that you set your heart to understand and to humble yourself before your God, your words were heard, and I have come because of your words. 13 But the prince of the kingdom of Persia stood against me twenty-one days. Then Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me, and I remained there beside the kings of Persia. 14 I have come to make you understand what is to happen to your people at the end of the days, for the vision is still for those days." 15 While he was speaking these words with me, I set my face toward the ground and was speechless. 16 Then one with the likeness of the sons of men was touching my lips; and I opened my mouth and spoke, saying to the one standing before me, "My lord, because of the vision my pangs have come upon me, and I have kept no strength. 17 How can such a servant of my lord speak with such a lord as you? As for me, from now on no strength remains in me, and no breath is left in me." 18 Again the one with the appearance of a man touched me, and he strengthened me. 19 He said, "Do not fear, man greatly loved. Peace to you; be strong, be strong!" And as he spoke with me I gained strength and said, "Let my lord speak, for you have strengthened me." 20 Then he said, "Do you know why I have come to you? Now I will go back to fight with the prince of Persia; and when I go out, the prince of Greece will come. 21 However, I will tell you what is written in the book of truth. There is no one who holds firmly with me against these, except Michael your prince.

CHAPTER 11

1 As for me, in the first year of Darius the Mede, I took my stand to be a support and a protection for him. 2 And now I will declare the truth to you. Three more kings are going to arise in Persia, and the fourth will gain far greater wealth than all of them. When he has become strong through his wealth, he will rouse them all against the kingdom of Greece. 3 Then a powerful king will arise; he will rule a vast dominion and act as he pleases. 4 But no sooner has he arisen than his kingdom will be broken and divided toward the four winds of heaven, not to his posterity, nor with the dominion that he had exercised; for his kingdom will be plucked up and go to others apart from these. 5 The king of the south will become strong, but one of his commanders will become stronger than he and will rule; his rule will be a great dominion. 6 At the end of some years they will join in alliance; the daughter of the king of the south will come to the king of the north to make an agreement. But she will not retain the strength of her arm, and he and his arm will not stand; she will be handed over, together with those who brought her, the one who begot her, and the one who supported her in those times. 7 But a shoot from her roots will arise in his place. He will come against the army and enter the stronghold of the king of the north, act against them and prevail. 8 Their gods also, with their molten images and their precious vessels of silver and gold, he will carry away captive to Egypt; and for some years he will stand off from the king of the north. 9 Then that one will enter the realm of the king of the south, but will go back to his own land. 10 His sons will wage war and gather a multitude of great forces; one of them will surely come on, sweep through like a flood and pass over, and again he will carry the war as far as his stronghold. 11 Then the king of the south, enraged, will march out and fight against him, against the king of the north. He will muster a great multitude, but that multitude will be given into the other's hand. 12 When the multitude has been carried off, his heart will grow proud; he will bring down tens of thousands, yet he will not prevail. 13 For the king of the north will again muster a multitude larger than the first, and at the end of the times, after some years, he will surely come on with a great army and abundant supplies. 14 In those times many will rise against the king of the south, and the violent men of your own people will exalt themselves to fulfill the vision, but they will stumble. 15 So the king of the north will come and heap up a siege mound and capture a fortified city. The forces of the south will not stand, nor even his picked troops; they will have no strength to stand. [16] But the one who comes against him will do as he pleases, and none will stand before him. He will take his stand in the glorious land, and destruction will be in his hand. [17] He will set his face to come with the power of his entire kingdom, bringing terms of an agreement with him, and he will carry them out. He will give him the daughter of women to destroy it; but it will not stand, nor will it be for him. [18] Afterward he will turn his face toward the coastlands and capture many. But a commander will bring his scorn to an end for him; indeed, he will pay him back his scorn. [19] Then he will turn his face toward the strongholds of his own land, but he will stumble and fall, and he will be found no more. [20] In his place one will arise who sends an oppressor through the splendor of the kingdom; but within a few days he will be broken, though not in anger and not in battle. [21] In his place a despised man will arise, to whom the honor of royalty has not been given. He will come in quietly and take hold of the kingdom through intrigues. [22] Flooding forces will be swept away before him and broken, and the prince of the covenant as well. [23] After an alliance is made with him he will practice deceit; he will rise up and become mighty with a small number of people. [24] Quietly he will come into the richest places of the province and do what neither his fathers nor his fathers' fathers did: he will scatter plunder, spoil and wealth among them, and devise his schemes against strongholds, but only for a time. [25] He will rouse his strength and his courage against the king of the south with a large army; and the king of the south will go to battle with a very large and powerful army, but he will not stand, for schemes will be devised against him. [26] Those who eat from his table of delicacies will ruin him; his army will be swept away, and many will fall down slain. [27] The two kings, their hearts bent on evil, will speak lies at one table; but it will not succeed, for the end is yet to come at the appointed time. [28] He will return to his land with great riches, his heart set against the holy covenant; he will take action and then return to his own land. [29] At the appointed time he will return and come into the south, but this time it will not be as it was before. [30] Ships of Kittim will come against him, and he will be disheartened and withdraw. He will vent his indignation against the holy covenant and take action; he will turn back and give heed to those who forsake the holy covenant. [31] Forces from him will take their stand and profane the sanctuary, the stronghold; they will do away with the continual offering and set up the abomination that makes desolate. [32] Those who act wickedly against the covenant he will corrupt with smooth words, but the people who know their God will show strength and act. [33] The wise among the people will instruct many, though for a time they will stumble by sword and flame, by captivity and plunder. [34] When they stumble, they will be helped with a little help, and many will attach themselves to them with flattery. [35] And some of the wise will stumble, so as to refine them, to purge them and to make them white until the time of the end, for it is still to come at the appointed time. [36] The king will act as he pleases; he will exalt and magnify himself above every god, and against the God of gods he will speak marvelous things. He will succeed until the indignation is completed, for what has been decreed will be done. [37] He will not give heed to the gods of his fathers or to the one desired by women; he will not give heed to any god, for he will magnify himself above them all.* [38] In their place he will honor a god of strongholds; a god his fathers never knew he will honor with gold and silver, with costly stones and treasures. [39] He will deal with the strongest fortresses with the help of a foreign god. Whoever acknowledges him he will heap with honor; he will make them rulers over many and parcel out land for a price. [40] At the time of the end the king of the south will push against him, and the king of the north will rush on him like a whirlwind with chariots, horsemen and many ships; he will enter countries, sweep through them like a flood and pass on. [41] He will come into the glorious land, and many will stumble; but these will be delivered from his hand: Edom, Moab and the leading part of the children of Ammon. [42] He will stretch out his hand against the countries, and the land of Egypt will have no escape. [43] He will have power over the hidden treasures of gold and silver and over all the precious things of Egypt, and Libyans and Cushites will follow in his steps. [44] But news from the east and the north will alarm him, and he will set out in great rage to destroy and to devote many to destruction. [45] He will pitch his palatial tents between the seas and the glorious holy mountain; yet he will come to his end, with no one to help him.

CHAPTER 12

[1] "At that time Michael will arise, the great prince who stands over the sons of your people. There will be a time of trouble such as has not happened from the time there was a nation until then. But at that time your people will be rescued, everyone whose name is found written in the book. [2] Many who sleep in the dust of the ground will wake, some to everlasting life and others to disgrace and everlasting contempt.* [3] Those who are wise will shine like the brightness of the firmament, and those who turn many to righteousness like the stars, for ever and ever. [4] But you, Daniel, keep these words secret and seal the book until the time of the end. Many will rush here and there, and knowledge will multiply." [5] Then I, Daniel, looked, and I saw two others standing, one on this side of the river bank and the other on that side of the river bank. [6] One of them said to the man dressed in linen, who was above the waters of the river, "How long will it be until these wonders come to an end?" [7] And the man dressed in linen, who was above the waters of the river, raised his right hand and his left hand to heaven, and I heard him swear by the One who lives forever that it would be for a time, times and half a time, and that when the power of the holy people has been completely shattered, all these things will be completed. [8] I heard, but I could not understand, so I asked, "My lord, what will be the end of these things?" [9] He answered, "Go on your way, Daniel, because these words are kept secret and sealed until the time of the end. [10] Many will be purified, made spotless and refined, but the wicked will go on doing wickedly; none of the wicked will understand, but the wise will understand. [11] From the time the continual offering is taken away and the desolating abomination is set up, there will be one thousand two hundred and ninety days. [12] Blessed is the one who waits and reaches the one thousand three hundred and thirty-five days. [13] As for you, go your way until the end; you will rest, and at the end of the days you will rise to receive your allotted inheritance."

CHAPTER 1

[1] The word of the LORD that came to Hosea the son of Beeri in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel. [2] The beginning of the LORD's speaking through Hosea. The LORD said to Hosea, "Go, take for yourself a wife of harlotry and children of harlotry, for the land has gone utterly into harlotry, turning from following the LORD." [3] So he went and took Gomer the daughter of Diblaim, and she conceived and bore him a son. [4] Then the LORD said to him, "Name him Jezreel, for yet a little while, and I will visit the blood of Jezreel on the house of Jehu, and I will bring to an end the kingdom of the house of Israel. [5] On that day I will break the bow of Israel in the Valley of Jezreel." [6] She conceived again and bore a daughter, and he said to him, "Name her Lo-ruhamah, for I will no longer show compassion to the house of Israel, that I should ever forgive them.* [7] Yet on the house of Judah I will have compassion, and I will save them by the LORD their God; not by bow will I save them, nor by sword or battle, nor by horses or horsemen." [8] Then she weaned Lo-ruhamah, and she conceived and bore a son. [9] And he said, "Name him Lo-ammi, for you are not my people, and I am not yours." [10] Yet the children of Israel will become as many as the sand of the sea, which no one can measure or count; and in the very place where it was said to them, "You are not my people," it will be said to them, "Sons of the living God."* [11] Then the children of Judah and the children of Israel will be gathered as one; they will set over themselves a single head and will come up from the land, for the day of Jezreel will be great.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Say to your brothers, "Ammi," and to your sisters, "Ruhamah." [2] Bring a case against your mother, bring a case, for she is not my wife, and I am not her husband; let her remove her harlotries from her face, and her adulteries from between her breasts, [3] or I will strip her naked and expose her as on the day she was born; I will make her like the wilderness, turn her into a dry land, and let her die of thirst. [4] Her children I will not pity, for they are children of harlotry. [5] Their mother has played the harlot; the one who conceived them has behaved shamefully. For she said, "Let me go after my lovers, the ones who supply my bread and my water, my wool and my flax, my oil and my drink." [6] Therefore, see, I am fencing in your way with thorns, and I will wall up her wall, so that she will not find her paths. [7] She will run after her lovers and not overtake them; she will search for them and not find them. Then she will say, "Let me go and return to my husband, the first one, for I was better off then than I am now." [8] Yet she did not realize that it was I who gave her the grain, the new wine and the oil, and who heaped up silver for her, and gold, which they made into Baal. [9] So I will turn and take back my grain at its proper time and my new wine at its set season; I will strip away my wool and my flax, given to cover her nakedness. [10] And now I will expose her shame before her lovers' eyes, and no one will deliver her out of my hand. [11] I will put a stop to all her joy, her festivals, her new moons, her Sabbaths and every one of her appointed feasts. [12] I will lay waste her vines and her fig trees, which she called "my wages, given to me by my lovers." I will make them a thicket, and the beasts of the field will eat them up. [13] I will call her to account for the days of the Baals, when she burned incense to them and adorned herself with her rings and her jewelry and went after her lovers, and me she forgot, declares the LORD. [14] Therefore, see, I am going to win her over; I will lead her into the wilderness and speak to her heart. [15] From there I will give her her vineyards, and make the Valley of Achor a door of hope; and there she will respond as she did in the days of her youth, as on the day she came up out of the land of Egypt. [16] "And on that day," declares the LORD, "you will call me 'My husband,' and you will not call me 'My Baal' anymore.* [17] I will remove the names of the Baals from her mouth, and their names will not be mentioned again. [18] And on that day I will make a covenant for them with the beasts of the field, the birds of the heavens and the creeping things of the ground; bow and sword and battle I will break off from the land, and I will make them lie down in security. [19] I will betroth you to me forever; I will betroth you to me with righteousness and with justice, with steadfast love and with compassion. [20] I will betroth you to me with faithfulness, and you will know the LORD. [21] "On that day I will answer," declares the LORD, "I will answer the heavens, and they will answer the earth; [22] the earth will answer the grain, the new wine and the oil, and they will answer Jezreel. [23] I will sow her for myself in the land; I will show compassion to Lo-ruhamah, and I will say to Lo-ammi, 'You are my people,' and he will say, 'My God.'"

CHAPTER 3

[1] The LORD said to me again, "Go, love a woman loved by a companion and committing adultery, as the LORD loves the children of Israel, while they turn to other gods and love cakes of raisins." [2] So I bought her for myself for fifteen pieces of silver and a homer of barley and a lethech of barley. [3] Then I told her, "Many days you are to remain for me; you must not play the harlot or be with any man, and I too will be the same toward you." [4] For many days the children of Israel will remain with no king and no prince, no sacrifice and no pillar, no ephod and no teraphim. [5] After that the children of Israel will turn back and seek the LORD their God and David their king; they will come trembling to the LORD and to his goodness at the end of the days.

CHAPTER 4

[1] Listen to the word of the LORD, children of Israel, for the LORD has a dispute with those who live in the land, because there is no faithfulness, there is no steadfast love, and there is no knowledge of God in the land. [2] Cursing and lying, killing, stealing and adultery have broken out, and blood touches blood. [3] That is why the land dries up and everyone living in it withers, with the beasts of the field and the birds of the heavens; even the fish of the sea are taken away. [4] Yet let no one accuse, and let no one rebuke; for your people are like those who quarrel with a priest. [5] By day you will stumble, and by night the prophet will stumble along with you; and I will destroy your mother. [6] My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge. Since you have spurned knowledge, I will spurn you as my priest; since you have forgotten the law of your God, I in turn will forget your children. [7] As they grew in number, so they sinned against me; I will exchange their glory for shame. [8] The sin of my people is their food, and they set their appetite on their iniquity. [9] So it will be: as with the people, so with the priest; I will visit their ways on them and pay them back for their deeds. [10] They will eat, but not be filled; they will play the harlot, but not multiply, because they have left off heeding the LORD. [11] Harlotry, wine and new wine take away the heart. [12] My people ask counsel of their piece of wood, and their rod declares to them; for a spirit of harlotry has led them astray, and they have gone whoring away from under their God. [13] They sacrifice on the tops of the mountains and burn incense on the hills, beneath oak and poplar and terebinth, since their shade is good. So your daughters play the harlot, and your daughters-in-law commit adultery. [14] I will not punish your daughters for playing the harlot, nor your daughters-in-law for committing adultery, because the men themselves slip away with harlots and offer sacrifices with cult prostitutes; and a people that does not understand will be brought to ruin. [15] If you, Israel, play the harlot, do not let Judah become guilty. Do not go to Gilgal, do not go up to Beth-aven, and do not take the oath "As the LORD lives!" [16] For Israel has been stubborn, like a stubborn heifer; will the LORD now graze them like a lamb in an open meadow? [17] Ephraim is tied to idols; let him be. [18] Their drinking is over; they keep on playing the harlot; her rulers love, they love disgrace. [19] A wind has bound her up in its wings, and they will be put to shame because of their sacrifices.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Listen to this, priests; take heed, house of Israel; house of the king, give ear! For this judgment is yours: you have been a trap at Mizpah and a net stretched over Tabor. [2] The rebels have sunk deep into slaughter, but I am a rebuke to them all. [3] I am the one who knows Ephraim, and Israel is not concealed from me; for you, Ephraim, have now played the harlot, and Israel has become unclean. [4] Their deeds will not let them turn back to their God, for a spirit of harlotry is in their midst, and the LORD they do not know. [5] The pride of Israel bears witness against him to his face; Israel and Ephraim will stumble in their iniquity, and Judah too will stumble with them. [6] They will come with their sheep and their cattle to seek the LORD, and they will not find him; he has pulled away from them. [7] They have betrayed the LORD, for they have fathered foreign children; now a new moon will devour them with their portions. [8] Sound the ram's horn in Gibeah, the trumpet in Ramah; raise the war cry at Beth-aven: "Behind you, Benjamin!" [9] Ephraim will be a ruin on the day of reproof; among the tribes of Israel I have made known what will surely be. [10] Judah's princes are like men who shift a boundary marker; I will pour out my fury on them like water. [11] Ephraim is oppressed and crushed by judgment, because he was bent on walking after the command. [12] So I am as a moth to Ephraim, and as decay to the house of Judah. [13] Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah his sore; then Ephraim went to Assyria and sent to King Jareb. But he cannot heal you or take your sore away. [14] For I will be as a lion to Ephraim, as a young lion to the house of Judah. I myself will tear them and walk off; I will carry them away, with no one to deliver. [15] I will go back to my place until they bear their guilt and seek my face; in their distress they will search for me eagerly.

CHAPTER 6

[1] "Come, let us return to the LORD; for it is he who has torn, and he will heal us; he has struck, and he will bandage us. [2] He will bring us back to life after two days; on the third day he will raise us up, and we will live in his presence. [3] Let us know him; let us pursue the knowledge of the LORD. As certain as the dawn is his coming forth; he will come to us like the rain, like the late rain watering the land." [4] What can I do with you, Ephraim? What can I do with you, Judah? Your steadfast love is like a morning cloud, like dew that rises early and is gone. [5] That is why I have cut them down by the prophets and killed them by the words of my mouth; and the judgments on you go out like light. [6] For it is steadfast love I want, not sacrifice, and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings. [7] But they, like Adam, have broken the covenant; there they betrayed me. [8] Gilead is a town of those who work iniquity, marked with bloody footprints. [9] Like raiders lying in wait for a man, so is the band of priests; they murder along the road to Shechem; surely they have done a shameful thing. [10] I have seen something horrible in the house of Israel: there Ephraim plays the harlot, and Israel has made itself unclean. [11] You too, Judah, have a harvest set for you, when I restore the fortunes of my people.

CHAPTER 7

[1] Whenever I would heal Israel, Ephraim's iniquity is laid bare, and Samaria's evil deeds; for they practice deceit: a thief gets in, a band of raiders strips the street. [2] They never tell themselves that I remember all their wickedness; now their deeds hem them in; they are right before my face. [3] They delight the king with their wickedness, and the princes with their lies. [4] All of them are adulterers, like an oven fired by a baker, who leaves off stoking it from the kneading of the dough until it has risen. [5] On our king's day the princes made themselves sick with fever from wine; he joined hands with mockers. [6] For they have brought their heart near like an oven in their plotting; all night their baker sleeps; by morning it burns like a flaming fire. [7] They are all as hot as an oven, and they consume their judges; all their kings have fallen; not one of them calls to me. [8] Ephraim blends himself in among the peoples; Ephraim has become a flat cake left unturned. [9] Foreigners have eaten up his strength, and he does not realize it; gray hair has crept over him, and he does not realize it. [10] The pride of Israel bears witness against him to his face, yet they have not returned to the LORD their God, nor sought him in spite of all this. [11] Ephraim has become like a dove, easily fooled and senseless; to Egypt they call, to Assyria they go. [12] Wherever they go, I will cast my net over them; I will bring them down like the birds of the sky; I will discipline them as was announced to their assembly. [13] Woe to them, for they have fled from me! Destruction is theirs, for they have revolted against me! I would have redeemed them, but they tell lies about me. [14] They have not cried out to me with their heart when they howl on their beds; they gather themselves together for grain and new wine; they turn aside against me. [15] It was I who trained them and strengthened their arms, yet they plot evil against me. [16] They turn back, but not to the Most High; they have become like a slack bow. Their leaders will fall by the sword for the rage of their tongue; for this they will be mocked in the land of Egypt.*

CHAPTER 8

[1] Set the horn to your lips! Like an eagle one comes over the house of the LORD, because they have broken my covenant and rebelled against my law. [2] To me they cry out, "My God, we know you, we, Israel!" [3] Israel has thrown away what is good; an enemy will chase him. [4] They set up kings, but not from me; they appointed princes, but without my knowledge. Of their silver and their gold they made idols for themselves, to their own cutting off. [5] He has cast off your calf, Samaria; my anger burns against them. How long will they be unable to attain innocence? [6] For it too came from Israel: a craftsman made it, and it is no God; the calf of Samaria will become splinters. [7] For they sow the wind, and they will reap the whirlwind. A stalk with no ear, it will make no meal; and if it did make any, foreigners would swallow it. [8] Israel is swallowed up; already they are among the nations like a pot nobody wants. [9] For they have gone up to Assyria, a wild donkey wandering alone; Ephraim has paid for lovers. [10] Even though they pay among the nations, now I will gather them in; and they will begin to dwindle under the burden of the king of princes. [11] Because Ephraim has multiplied altars for sinning, his altars have become for him occasions of sin. [12] I write for him the many things of my law, but they are regarded as foreign. [13] They offer up sacrifices as gifts to me, sacrifice flesh and eat it; the LORD finds no pleasure in them. Now he will call their iniquity to mind and punish their sins; back to Egypt they will go. [14] Israel has forgotten the one who made him and has built palaces; Judah has added fortified city after city; yet I will send fire upon his cities, and it will eat up their strongholds.

CHAPTER 9

[1] Israel, do not be glad; do not rejoice to the point of exultation like the peoples, for you have gone whoring away from your God, loving a harlot's fee on every grain floor. [2] Neither threshing floor nor winepress will give them food, and the new wine will disappoint her. [3] They will not go on living in the LORD's land; Ephraim will return to Egypt, and in Assyria unclean food will be what they eat. [4] They will pour no wine to the LORD, nor will their sacrifices be pleasing to him; for them they will be like bread eaten in mourning, which makes everyone who eats it unclean. Their bread will be for their own appetite; it will not enter the house of the LORD. [5] What will you do when the day of the appointed feast comes, when the day of the LORD's festival arrives? [6] For look, they have gone, fleeing the devastation; Egypt will collect them, Memphis will bury them. Their prized silver will be overrun by nettles, and thorns will fill their tents. [7] The days of reckoning are here; the days of repayment are here; let Israel know it! "The prophet is a fool, the inspired man is out of his mind," so great is your iniquity, so great your hostility. [8] Ephraim was a watchman with my God; yet the prophet is a fowler's snare on all his ways, and hostility in the house of his God. [9] They have sunk deep in corruption, as in the days of Gibeah; he will call their iniquity to mind and punish their sins. [10] Finding Israel was like finding grapes in the desert; seeing your fathers was like seeing the earliest figs on a fig tree in its first season. But they went to Baal-peor and gave themselves over to the Shameful One, and they became as vile as what they loved. [11] Ephraim's glory will fly off like a bird: there will be no giving birth, no carrying in the womb, no conceiving. [12] And though they raise their children, I will bereave them until no one is left. Woe to them indeed when I depart from them! [13] Ephraim, as I have seen, is like Tyre, planted in a meadow; yet Ephraim will bring out his children to the slayer. [14] Give them, O LORD — what will you give? Give them a womb that miscarries and breasts that are dry. [15] All their evil is found in Gilgal; it was there I began to hate them. For their wicked deeds I will drive them from my house; never again will I love them; every one of their princes is in revolt. [16] Ephraim has been struck; their root has withered, and fruit they will not produce. Even if they do bear children, I will slay the cherished fruit of their womb. [17] My God will spurn them because they would not listen to him, and they will roam among the nations.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Israel is a sprawling vine, bearing fruit for himself. As his fruit multiplied, so did his altars; as his land prospered, so they adorned their sacred pillars. [2] Their heart is slippery; now they must answer for their guilt. He himself will smash their altars and lay waste their sacred pillars. [3] Soon they will be saying, "There is no king for us, since we did not fear the LORD; and a king, what would he do for us?" [4] They talk and talk, swear false oaths, and cut covenants; so justice sprouts like a poisonous plant in the furrows of a field. [5] The inhabitants of Samaria will be in dread for the calves of Beth-aven; for its people will mourn over it, and its idol priests will writhe over it, over its glory, because it has gone into exile from them.* [6] It too will be carried to Assyria as tribute for King Jareb. Ephraim will be seized with shame, and Israel will be ashamed of his own counsel. [7] As for Samaria, her king is cut off like a chip of wood on the face of the water. [8] The high places of Aven will be wiped out, the sin of Israel; thorn and thistle will come up over their altars. Then they will say to the mountains, "Cover us," and to the hills, "Fall upon us." [9] From the days of Gibeah you have been sinning, Israel; there they have remained. Will not war against the sons of injustice catch up with them in Gibeah? [10] When I desire, I will discipline them; and peoples will be gathered against them when they are bound to their two iniquities.* [11] Ephraim is a trained heifer that loves to thresh, but I have come upon her fair neck; I will put Ephraim to the yoke; Judah will plow; Jacob will break up his clods. [12] Sow for yourselves with a view to righteousness; reap according to steadfast love; plow up new ground for yourselves; it is time to seek the LORD, until he comes and showers righteousness on you. [13] You have plowed wickedness; injustice is what you reaped; you have eaten the fruit of lies, for you put your trust in your own way, in the great number of your fighting men. [14] So an uproar will break out among your people, and all your strongholds will be laid waste, just as Shalman laid waste Beth-arbel in the day of battle, when a mother was dashed to pieces along with her children. [15] This is what Bethel will bring on you, because of your evil upon evil. When dawn breaks, the king of Israel will be completely cut off.

CHAPTER 11

[1] When Israel was a boy, I loved him, and out of Egypt I called my son. [2] They called to them, and they walked away from them; to the Baals they kept sacrificing, and to images they kept burning incense. [3] And I, I taught Ephraim to walk, taking them up in my arms; but they never knew that I was the one healing them. [4] I drew them along with ropes fit for people, with cords of love; I was to them like those who lift the yoke off their jaws, and I bent down to him to feed him. [5] He will not go back to the land of Egypt; Assyria will be his king instead, because they would not turn back. [6] The sword will whirl through his cities, and consume the bars of his gates, and devour them because of their own schemes. [7] My people are bent on turning away from me; though they call them to the Most High, none at all exalts him. [8] How could I give you up, Ephraim, or surrender you, Israel? How could I make you like Admah, or set you like Zeboiim? My heart turns over within me; all my compassion is stirred. [9] I will not carry out my fierce anger; I will not destroy Ephraim again; for God am I, and not a human being, the Holy One in your midst, and I will not come in rage. [10] They will follow the LORD, who roars like a lion; when he roars, children will hurry in trembling from the west. [11] They will come trembling like a bird from Egypt, like a dove from the land of Assyria, and I will settle them in their houses, declares the LORD. [12] Ephraim has hemmed me in with lies, the house of Israel with deceit; and Judah still roams with God, and with the Holy One is faithful.*

CHAPTER 12

[1] Ephraim grazes on wind and runs after the east wind; the whole day long he heaps up lies and violence. A covenant is cut with Assyria, and oil is taken down to Egypt. [2] The LORD has a dispute with Judah as well; he will call Jacob to account for his ways and pay him back for what he has done. [3] Before birth he seized his brother's heel, and in his full strength he wrestled with God. [4] He wrestled with the angel and won; he wept and pleaded with him for favor. At Bethel he found him, and there he spoke with us — [5] the LORD, the God of hosts; the LORD is the name by which he is remembered. [6] So you, return to your God; keep steadfast love and justice, and wait for your God continually. [7] A trader, false scales in his hand: cheating is what he loves. [8] And Ephraim said, "Surely I have become rich; I have found wealth for myself. In all my labors they will find in me no iniquity that would be sin." [9] But I have been the LORD your God since the land of Egypt; once more I will make you dwell in tents, as in the days of the appointed feast. [10] I spoke to the prophets; I gave vision upon vision, and by the hand of the prophets I told parables. [11] Is there iniquity in Gilead? Surely they are worthless. In Gilgal they sacrifice bulls; their altars too are like heaps of stones in the furrows of the field. [12] Jacob fled to the country of Syria; Israel served for a wife, and for a wife he kept sheep. [13] Through a prophet the LORD led Israel up out of Egypt, and through a prophet Israel was watched over. [14] Ephraim has provoked bitter anger; therefore his Lord will let his blood remain on him and will turn his insults back on him.

CHAPTER 13

[1] Whenever Ephraim spoke, people trembled; he was lifted high in Israel. Then he became guilty through Baal, and he died. [2] Now they keep adding to their sin; they have cast images for themselves from their silver, idols shaped by their own skill, every one of them a craftsman's work. "Those who sacrifice," they say of them, "are men who kiss calves!" [3] Therefore they will be like the morning cloud, like dew that vanishes early, like chaff blown off the threshing floor, like smoke from a window. [4] Yet I have been the LORD your God since the land of Egypt; you are to know no god besides me, and apart from me there is no savior. [5] I knew you in the wilderness, in a land of scorching drought. [6] As they grazed they grew full; they grew full, and their heart grew proud; so they forgot me. [7] So to them I have become like a lion; I will lie in wait like a leopard by the road. [8] I will meet them like a bear robbed of her cubs and tear open the casing of their heart; there I will devour them like a lioness; the wild beast will rip them apart. [9] You are destroyed, Israel, because you are against me, against your help. [10] Where now is your king, that he may save you in all your cities? And your judges, of whom you said,

"Give me a king and princes"? [11] In my anger I give you a king, and in my fury I take him away. [12] Ephraim's iniquity is tied up in a bundle; his sin is kept in storage. [13] The pangs of a woman in labor will come on him; he is an unwise son, for at the right time he does not present himself at the opening of the womb. [14] I will ransom them from the power of Sheol; I will redeem them from death. O death, where are your plagues? O Sheol, where is your destruction? Compassion is hidden from my eyes. [*] [15] Though he thrives among his brothers, an east wind is coming, the wind of the LORD, rising out of the wilderness; his spring will run dry and his well be drained. It will loot the storehouse of every costly thing. [16] Samaria will be held guilty, because she has defied her God. By the sword they will fall; their infants will be smashed, and their women with child torn open.

CHAPTER 14

[1] Turn back, O Israel, to the LORD your God; your iniquity has made you fall. [2] Bring words with you as you return to the LORD. Say to him, "Forgive all iniquity and accept what is good, so that we may offer our lips as bulls. [3] Assyria cannot save us; we will not mount horses, and never again will we call the work of our hands 'Our gods.' For it is with you that the orphan finds compassion." [4] I will heal them of their turning away; I will love them freely, for my anger has turned back from him. [5] I will be as dew for Israel; he will flower like the lily and send down his roots like Lebanon. [6] His young branches will spread; his beauty will be like that of the olive tree, and his scent like Lebanon's. [7]
Those who live in his shade will come back; they will bring grain to life and bloom like the vine; his fame will be like the wine of Lebanon. [8] Ephraim will say, "What more have I to do with idols?" I have answered him, and I will watch over him. I am like a green cypress; from me your fruit is found. [9] Whoever is wise will grasp these things; whoever has discernment will know them. For the LORD's ways are straight: the righteous walk in them, but rebels stumble in them.

CHAPTER 1

[1] The word of the LORD that came to Joel the son of Pethuel. [2] Listen to this, elders; pay attention, all who live in the land! Has anything like this happened in your days, or in your fathers' days? [3] Recount it to your children; your children to theirs, and theirs to the next generation. [4] What the gnawing locust left, the swarming locust has eaten; what the swarming locust left, the creeping locust has eaten; and what the creeping locust left, the stripping locust has eaten. [*] [5] Rouse yourselves, drunkards, and weep! Howl, all who drink wine, over the sweet wine, for it has been snatched from your lips. [6] A nation has invaded my land, strong and without number; it has teeth like a lion's and the jaws of a lioness. [7] It has turned my vine into a ruin and my fig tree into stumps; it has peeled it bare and flung it aside; its branches show white. [8] Mourn like a virgin girded with sackcloth for the husband of her youth. [9] Cut off from the house of the LORD are grain offering and drink offering; the priests, the LORD's ministers, are in mourning. [10] The field is devastated; the soil grieves; for the grain is ruined, the new wine is dried up, the oil gives out. [11] Hang your heads, you farmers; howl, you vine-growers, over the wheat and the barley, for the field's harvest is lost. [12] The vine is withered, the fig tree droops; the pomegranate, the palm too, and the apple tree, all the trees of the field have dried up. Yes, joy has shriveled away from the sons of men. [13] Gird on sackcloth and mourn, priests; howl, you who serve at the altar. Come, lie all night in sackcloth, servants of my God, for grain offering and drink offering are kept back from the house of your God. [14] Set apart a fast as holy; call a solemn gathering; bring together the elders, all the people of the land, to the house of the LORD your God, and cry out to the LORD. [15] Ah, that day! For the day of the LORD is near; like ruin from the Almighty it is coming. [16] Has not our food been taken away while we watch, and gladness and joy from the house of our God? [17] Under their clods the seeds have shriveled; the storehouses stand empty, the granaries are pulled down, because the grain has failed. [18] How the animals moan! The herds of cattle wander bewildered, for they have nowhere to graze; even the flocks of sheep bear the punishment. [19] To you, O LORD, I call out, because fire has devoured the grazing lands of the wilderness and flame has set every tree of the field ablaze. [20] Even the wild animals long for you, for the streams of water are dried up, and fire has eaten up the open pastures.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Blow the horn in Zion; raise the battle cry on my holy mountain! Let all who live in the land shake, for the day of the LORD is coming; it is close at hand: [2] a day of darkness and deep gloom, a day of cloud and murky darkness. As dawn spreads across the mountains, so comes a people numerous and strong; never has its like been seen from of old, nor will it be again after it, for years to come, generation after generation. [3] Ahead of it fire consumes, and after it a flame blazes. The land ahead of it is like the garden of Eden; after it, a wasteland of ruin; and nothing gets away from it. [4] They look like horses, and they gallop like cavalry. [5] They bound over the mountaintops with a clatter like chariots, with a roar like a blaze of fire eating up stubble, like a strong people drawn up for battle. [6] Peoples are in agony at its approach; every face turns ashen. [7] Like mighty men they charge; like fighting men they scale the wall; each goes forward on his own course, and they never change their ranks. [8] They do not crowd each other; each one keeps to his own track; they fall upon the weapons yet are not cut short. [9] They rush upon the city, they race along the wall, they climb up into the houses; like a thief they come in through the windows. [10] Before them the earth shakes and the heavens quake; sun and moon turn dark, and the stars hold back their brightness. [11] The LORD raises his voice at the head of his army, for his camp is vast, and mighty is he who carries out his word. The day of the LORD is great and exceedingly fearful; who can bear it? [12] "Even now," declares the LORD, "turn back to me with your whole heart, with fasting, weeping and lament. [13] Tear your heart, not your clothing." Turn back to the LORD your God, for he is gracious and full of compassion, long-suffering and rich in steadfast love, and he relents from bringing harm. [14] Who can tell? He may turn and change his mind and leave behind him a blessing: grain offering and drink offering for the LORD your God. [15] Blow the horn in Zion; proclaim a holy fast; summon a sacred assembly. [16] Gather the people, consecrate the assembly, bring together the elders, gather the little children and babies at the breast; let the bridegroom go out from his room and the bride from her bridal chamber. [17] Let the priests, who minister to the LORD, weep between the porch and the altar and say, "Have pity on your people, O LORD; do not make your inheritance a disgrace, for the nations to rule over them. Why should it be said among the peoples, 'Where is their God?'"* [18] And the LORD was moved with jealousy for his land and took pity on his people. [19] The LORD answered his people: "I am about to send you grain, new wine and oil, and you will have your fill of them; never again will I make you a disgrace among the nations. [20] The northerner I will drive far from you and banish into a parched and desolate land, his vanguard into the eastern sea and his rear guard into the western sea. His stink will rise, his stench will go up, for he has done great things." [21] Have no fear, O land; be glad and rejoice, for the LORD has done mighty things. [22] Do not be afraid, wild animals, for the wilderness pastures are turning green; the trees bear their fruit, and fig and vine yield their strength. [23] And you, children of Zion, rejoice and be glad in the LORD your God, for he has given you the early rain in righteousness, and has brought down rain for you, early rain and late rain, in the first month.* [24] The threshing floors will be heaped with grain, and the presses will spill over with new wine and oil. [25] I will make up to you for the years that the swarming locust ate, the creeping locust, the stripping locust and the gnawing locust, my great army that I sent among you. [26] You will eat and eat until you are full, and you will praise the name of the LORD your God, who has done wonders for you; never again will my people be shamed. [27] And you will know that I am in the midst of Israel, that I am the LORD your God and there is no other; and my people will never be put to shame again. [28] After this I will pour out my Spirit on all flesh: your sons and daughters will prophesy; your old men will dream dreams; your young men will see visions.* [29] Even on the menservants and the maidservants I will pour out my Spirit in those days. [30] I will set signs in the sky and on the earth: blood, fire and pillars of smoke. [31] The sun will turn to darkness and the moon to blood before the coming of the day of the LORD, great and fearsome. [32] Then whoever calls on the name of the LORD will escape; for on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem there will be a rescued remnant, just as the LORD has said, even among the survivors whom the LORD calls.

CHAPTER 3

[1] For see, in those days and at that time, when I restore the fortunes of Judah and Jerusalem, [2] I will assemble all the nations and lead them down to the Valley of Jehoshaphat, and there I will go to trial with them over my people, my inheritance Israel, whom they scattered among the nations; and they carved up my land. [3] They threw lots over my people; they handed over a boy for a harlot and sold a girl for wine to drink. [4] What are you to me, Tyre and Sidon and all the districts of Philistia? Are you repaying me for some deed? If you are repaying me, I will swiftly, quickly bring your deed back on your own head. [5] You took my silver and my gold and brought my precious and beautiful things into your temples. [6] The children of Judah and of Jerusalem you sold to the Greeks, to remove them far from their own land. [7] I am going to rouse them out of the place to which you sold them, and bring your deed back on your own head. [8] And I will sell your sons and daughters into the hands of the children of Judah, who will sell them to the Sabeans, a nation far off; the LORD has spoken. [9] Announce this among the nations: Sanctify a war! Wake up the warriors! Let all the fighting men come near and march up! [10] Hammer your plowshares into swords and your pruning knives into spears; let the weakling say, "I am a warrior." [11] Make haste and come, all you nations round about; gather yourselves there. O LORD, send down your mighty ones! [12] Let the nations be roused and go up to the Valley of Jehoshaphat, for there I will take my seat to judge all the nations on every side. [13] Swing the sickle, for the harvest is ripe; come, trample, for the press is full; the vats spill over, so great is their evil. [14] Throngs upon throngs in the valley of decision! For near is the day of the LORD in the valley of decision. [15] Sun and moon turn dark, and the stars hold back their brightness. [16] The LORD will roar from Zion and thunder his voice from Jerusalem; heavens and earth will shake. But the LORD will be a shelter for his people, a fortress for the children of Israel. [17] And you will know that I, the LORD, am your God, dwelling in Zion, my holy mountain; Jerusalem will be holy ground, and no stranger will pass through it anymore. [18] In that day the mountains will drip with sweet wine and the hills flow with milk, and water will flow in all the ravines of Judah; a spring will go out from the house of the LORD and give water to the Valley of Shittim. [19] Egypt will be a wasteland and Edom a barren desert, for the violence against the children of Judah, in whose land they poured out innocent blood. [20] But Judah will remain forever, and Jerusalem for generation after generation. [21] I will clear their blood that I have not cleared; for the LORD dwells in Zion.*

CHAPTER 1

[1] The words of Amos, one of the sheep breeders from Tekoa — what he saw about Israel in the days of Uzziah king of Judah and in the days of Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel, two years before the earthquake. [2] He said: The LORD will roar from Zion and raise his voice from Jerusalem; the shepherds' meadows will mourn, and the summit of Carmel will wither. [3] Thus says the LORD: For three transgressions of Damascus, and for four, I will not turn it back, because they threshed Gilead with iron sledges.* [4] So I will send fire on the house of Hazael, and it will eat up the strongholds of Ben-hadad. [5] I will shatter the bar of Damascus's gate; I will cut off the ruler who sits in the Valley of Aven and the one who wields the scepter from Beth-eden; and the people of Syria will be carried away captive to Kir, says the LORD. [6] Thus says the LORD: For three transgressions of Gaza, and for four, I will not turn it back, because they took into exile an entire population and handed them over to Edom. [7] So I will send fire on the wall of Gaza, and it will eat up her strongholds. [8] From Ashdod I will cut off the one who sits enthroned, and from Ashkelon the one who wields the scepter; I will turn my hand against Ekron, and what is left of the Philistines will perish, says the Lord GOD. [9] Thus says the LORD: For three transgressions of Tyre, and for four, I will not turn it back, because they handed an entire population over to Edom, with no thought for the covenant between brothers. [10] So I will send fire on the wall of Tyre, and it will eat up her strongholds. [11] Thus says the LORD: For three transgressions of Edom, and for four, I will not turn it back, because he chased his brother with the sword and smothered his compassion; his anger kept on tearing, and his fury he nursed forever. [12] So I will send fire on Teman, and it will eat up the strongholds of Bozrah. [13] Thus says the LORD: For three transgressions of the children of Ammon, and for four, I will not turn it back, because they tore open Gilead's women with child in order to push out their own borders. [14] So I will set fire to the wall of Rabbah, and it will eat up her strongholds, while the war cry goes up on the day of battle and the storm rages on the day of the whirlwind. [15] Their king will go into captivity, he along with his officials, says the LORD.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Thus says the LORD: For three transgressions of Moab, and for four, I will not turn it back, because he burned the bones of the king of Edom to lime. [2] So I will send fire on Moab, and it will eat up the strongholds of Kerioth; amid the din Moab will die, with the war cry and the blast of the horn. [3] From within her I will cut off the one who judges, and all her officials I will slay along with him, says the LORD. [4] Thus says the LORD: For three transgressions of Judah, and for four, I will not turn it back, because they cast aside the law of the LORD and failed to keep his statutes; they were led astray by their lies, the same lies their fathers followed. [5] So I will send fire on Judah, and it will eat up the strongholds of Jerusalem. [6] Thus says the LORD: For three transgressions of Israel, and for four, I will not turn it back, because for silver they sell the righteous, and the needy for the price of a pair of sandals. [7] They pant after the dust of the earth on the heads of the poor and shove the humble out of the way; son and father go to the same girl, to profane my holy name. [8] Beside every altar they sprawl on clothes seized as pledges, and they drink wine paid as fines in the house of their God. [9] Yet I wiped out the Amorite ahead of them, tall as cedars and sturdy as oaks; I destroyed his fruit from above and his roots from below. [10] I myself brought you up from the land of Egypt and guided you through the wilderness forty years, so that you could possess the Amorite's land. [11] From among your sons I raised up prophets, and from among your young men Nazirites. Is this not so, children of Israel? declares the LORD. [12] Yet you gave the Nazirites wine to drink and told the prophets, "Do not prophesy." [13] See, I am going to make the ground give way beneath you, as a cart sways when it is loaded with sheaves.* [14] The swift will find no place to flee; the strong will not muster his strength; the warrior will not save his life. [15] The bowman will not hold his place; the fast runner will not get away; the horseman will not save his life. [16] Even the most courageous of the warriors will run away naked on that day, declares the LORD.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Listen to this word which the LORD has spoken against you, children of Israel, against the entire clan that I led up out of the land of Egypt: [2] Of all the clans of the earth, you alone have I known; that is why I will call you to account for all your iniquities. [3] Will two walk together without having arranged it? [4] Does a lion roar in the thicket when it has no prey? Does a young lion growl from its den if it has taken nothing? [5] Does a bird drop onto a trap on the ground when no snare is set for it? Does a trap spring up from the ground without catching anything? [6] If a horn sounds in a city, do the people not tremble? If calamity strikes a city, has not the LORD done it? [7] For the Lord GOD does not do a thing unless he has disclosed his counsel to his servants the prophets. [8] A lion has roared; who would not be afraid? The Lord GOD has spoken; who would not prophesy? [9] Make it heard in the strongholds of Ashdod and in the strongholds of the land of Egypt, and say, "Gather on the mountains of Samaria and look at the wild disorder inside her and the oppression in her midst." [10] "They have no idea how to act honestly," declares the LORD, "they who pile up violence and plunder in their strongholds." [11] Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD: A foe will encircle the land; he will strip your strength from you, and your strongholds will be looted. [12] Thus says the LORD: Just as a shepherd snatches out of a lion's mouth a pair of legs or a bit of an ear, so will the children of Israel be snatched out, those who sit in Samaria in the corner of a couch and on the silk cushions of a bed. [13] Listen, and bear witness against the house of Jacob, declares the Lord GOD, the God of hosts: [14] in the day I call Israel to account for his transgressions, I will call the altars of Bethel to account as well; the horns of the altar will be hacked off and drop to the ground. [15] I will smash the winter house together with the summer house; the ivory houses will be ruined, and the great houses will be swept away, declares the LORD.

CHAPTER 4

[1] Listen to this word, you cows of Bashan up on Samaria's mountain, you who wrong the poor and grind down the needy and keep telling your lords, "Bring drinks, let us drink!" [2] By his holiness the Lord GOD has sworn: The days are surely coming on you when you will be dragged away with hooks, and those who are left with fishing barbs. [3] Through the gaps in the wall you will go out, each one straight ahead, and you will be flung toward Harmon, declares the LORD. [4] Off to Bethel, then, and sin; to Gilgal, and sin all the more! Bring your sacrifices every morning and your tithes every third day. [5] Send up a thank offering of leavened bread in smoke, and announce your freewill gifts, broadcast them; for this is what you love, children of Israel, declares the Lord GOD. [6] For my part, I gave you clean teeth in all your cities and want of bread in all your towns; but you did not come back to me, declares the LORD. [7] And I kept back the rain from you while the harvest was still three months off; I would let it rain on one town and not on another; one plot got rain, and the plot that got none withered. [8] People from two or three towns would stagger to one town to drink water and not have enough; but you did not come back to me, declares the LORD. [9] I struck you with scorching and with mildew; the cutting locust ate up the abundance of your gardens and your vineyards, your figs and your olives; but you did not come back to me, declares the LORD. [10] I let loose among you a pestilence like that of Egypt; I slew your young men with the sword, and your horses were taken captive; I made the stench of your camps go up into your very nostrils; but you did not come back to me, declares the LORD. [11] I brought ruin among you as God ruined Sodom and Gomorrah, and you were like a stick snatched out of the blaze; but you did not come back to me, declares the LORD. [12] That is why I will deal with you this way, Israel; and since I will do this to you, get ready to meet your God, Israel! [13] For look: the one who forms the mountains and creates the wind, who tells man what his thoughts are, who turns the dawn to darkness and treads on the heights of the earth — the LORD, the God of hosts, is his name.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Listen to this word, the lament I raise over you, house of Israel: [2] The virgin Israel has fallen and will rise no more; she is left lying on her own ground, and there is none to raise her. [3] For thus says the Lord GOD: The city that sends out a thousand will keep a hundred, and the one that sends out a hundred will keep ten, for the house of Israel. [4] For thus says the LORD to the house of Israel: Seek me, and live. [5] Do not look to Bethel, do not enter Gilgal, do not cross over to Beersheba; for Gilgal will surely be carried off, and Bethel will become nothing. [6] Seek the LORD and you will live; otherwise he will sweep like fire through the house of Joseph, and it will burn, and Bethel will have no one to quench it. [7] You who change justice into wormwood and fling righteousness to the ground! [8] It is he who made the Pleiades and Orion; he changes the shadow of death into morning and darkens day into night; he summons the waters of the sea and spills them over the face of the land. The LORD is his name. [] [9] He makes ruin flash out against the strong, and ruin falls upon the fortress. [10] They hate whoever rebukes in the gate, and they detest whoever speaks blamelessly. [11] So then, since you tread down the poor and extract a grain tax from him, you may build houses of dressed stone, but you will never live in them; you may plant lovely vineyards, but you will never drink their wine. [12] I know your many transgressions and your countless sins: you oppress the righteous, accept hush money, and push the needy aside in the gate. [13] So in times like these the sensible keep quiet, for the times are evil. [14] Pursue good, not evil, so that you may live; then the LORD, the God of hosts, will truly be with you, just as you say he is. [15] Hate what is evil, love what is good, and set justice firmly in place in the gate; perhaps the LORD, the God of hosts, will show favor to the remnant of Joseph. [16] Therefore thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, the Lord: There will be wailing in every square, and in every street they will cry, "Alas! Alas!" They will call the farmer to mourn, and the professional mourners to wail. [17] There will be wailing in every vineyard, for I will pass through your midst, says the LORD. [18] Woe to those who crave the day of the LORD! Why do you want the day of the LORD? It will be darkness, not light. [19] It will be like a man fleeing from a lion only to run into a bear, or who gets home, rests his hand on the wall, and is bitten by a snake. [20] Will not the day of the LORD be darkness rather than light, pitch-black with not a gleam of brightness? [21] I hate your festivals, I reject them; your sacred gatherings give me no pleasure. [22] If you bring me burnt offerings, and your grain offerings, I will not accept them; I will not give a glance to the peace offerings of your fatted beasts. [23] Spare me the din of your songs; I will not listen to the playing of your harps. [24] Instead, let justice surge like the waters, and righteousness like a stream that never runs dry. [25] Was it sacrifices and grain offerings that you brought me in the wilderness those forty years, house of Israel? [26] Yet you have carried Sikkuth your king and Kiyyun your images, the star of your god, which you made for yourselves. [] [27] So I will drive you into exile beyond Damascus, says the one whose name is the LORD, the God of hosts.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Woe to the complacent in Zion, and to those who trust in the mountain of Samaria, the distinguished men of the foremost nation, to whom the house of Israel resorts! [2] Go across to Calneh and take a look; from there travel to great Hamath, and go down to Gath of the Philistines. Are they any better than these kingdoms? Is their land any bigger than yours? [3] They thrust the day of calamity far off, yet bring near the throne of violence. [4] They lie on ivory beds and lounge on their couches; they dine on lambs taken from the flock and calves from inside the stall. [5] They improvise to the sound of the harp; like David they devise instruments of song for themselves. [6] They gulp wine from basins and rub on the choicest oils, but they feel no pain over Joseph's collapse. [7] So now they will lead the way into exile, and the feasting of the loungers will be over. [8] The Lord GOD has sworn by his own life, declares the LORD, the God of hosts: I loathe Jacob's pride and detest his fortresses; I will give up the city and all that fills it. [9] If ten men remain in a single house, they too will die. [10] When a kinsman, the one who is to burn him, lifts him to bring the bones out of the house, he will call to someone in the back of the house, "Is there anyone else with you?" and he will answer, "No one." Then he will say, "Quiet! The name of the LORD must not be mentioned." [11] For look, the LORD gives the order: the big house will be battered to rubble, and the little house to pieces. [12] Can horses gallop over crags? Can anyone plow them with oxen? Yet you have changed justice into venom and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood.* [13] You are glad about Lo-debar and boast, "Was it not by our own might that we seized Karnaim?"* [14] For see, house of Israel, declares the LORD, the God of hosts, I am raising up a nation against you, and it will squeeze you from Lebo-hamath down to the brook of the Arabah.

CHAPTER 7

[1] The Lord GOD let me see this: he was shaping a swarm of locusts just when the second crop began to come up, the second crop that follows the king's mowing. [2] When they had finished eating up the greenery of the land, I said, "Lord GOD, pardon, please! How will Jacob survive? He is so small." [3] The LORD changed his mind about this. "It will not happen," the LORD said. [4] The Lord GOD let me see this: the Lord GOD was summoning fire to contend in judgment; it consumed the great deep and was consuming the allotted land. [5] Then I said, "Lord GOD, hold back, please! How will Jacob survive? He is so small." [6] The LORD changed his mind about this as well. "This will not happen either," said the Lord GOD. [7] He let me see this: the Lord was standing on a wall made true with a plumb line, and a plumb line was in his hand.* [8] The LORD asked me, "What do you see, Amos?" I answered, "A plumb line." Then the Lord said, "I am setting a plumb line among my people Israel; I will not overlook them again. [9] Isaac's high places will be laid desolate, Israel's sanctuaries will be wrecked, and I will rise up with the sword against the house of Jeroboam." [10] Amaziah, the priest of Bethel, then sent a message to Jeroboam king of Israel: "Amos is conspiring against you right inside the house of Israel; the land cannot endure all his words. [11] For this is what Amos says: 'Jeroboam will die by the sword, and Israel will surely be carried away captive from its land.'" [12] And Amaziah said to Amos, "Seer, go, run away to the land of Judah; earn your bread there and do your prophesying there. [13] But never prophesy again at Bethel, for it is the king's sanctuary and a royal house." [14] Amos answered Amaziah, "I am not a prophet, and I am not a prophet's son; I am a cattle herder and one who tends sycamore figs.* [15] The LORD took me from behind the flock and told me, 'Go and prophesy to my people Israel.' [16] So now, hear the word of the LORD. You say, 'Do not prophesy against Israel, and do not preach against the house of Isaac.' [17] Therefore thus says the LORD: 'Your wife will become a harlot in the city; your sons and your daughters will fall by the sword; your land will be portioned out with a line; and you yourself will die on unclean soil; and Israel will surely be carried away captive from its land.'"

CHAPTER 8

[1] The Lord GOD let me see this: a basket of summer fruit. [2] He asked, "What do you see, Amos?" I answered, "A basket of summer fruit." Then the LORD said to me, "The end has come for my people Israel; I will not overlook them again.* [3] On that day the songs of the temple will become howling, declares the Lord GOD. Many will be the corpses, cast out in every place. Hush!" [4] Listen to this, you who trample the needy and would do away with the poor of the land, [5] you who say, "When will the new moon be past, so we can sell our grain, and the Sabbath, so we can put out the wheat, shrinking the ephah, inflating the shekel, rigging the scales to cheat, [6] so we can buy the poor with silver and the needy for a pair of sandals, and sell the refuse of the wheat?" [7] By the pride of Jacob the LORD has sworn: I will not forget a single thing they have done, ever. [8] Shall not the land quake over this, and all who live in it grieve? It will all rise like the Nile, heave, and subside like the river of Egypt.* [9] On that day, declares the Lord GOD, I will make the sun set at midday and bring darkness over the land while it is still day. [10] I will change your festivals into grief and every song of yours into a dirge; I will bring sackcloth upon all loins and shave every head bald; I will make it like grieving for an only son, and its end a day of bitterness. [11] The days are coming, declares the Lord GOD, when I will send hunger into the land: not hunger for bread or thirst for water, but for hearing the words of the LORD. [12] People will reel from sea to sea and wander from the north to the sunrise, searching for the word of the LORD, and they will not find it. [13] On that day beautiful young women and young men will collapse from thirst. [14] Those who take oaths by the guilt of Samaria, saying, "By the life of your god, Dan!" and "By the life of the way to Beersheba!" will fall and not get up again.*

CHAPTER 9

[1] I saw the Lord standing on the altar, and he said: Strike the tops of the pillars, so that the thresholds quake, and break them off over the heads of all of them; whoever remains I will slay with the sword. No fugitive among them will flee; no survivor among them will slip away. [2] Though they burrow down to Sheol, my hand will pull them out from there; though they climb to the heavens, I will haul them down from there. [3] Though they conceal themselves on Carmel's summit, I will hunt them down there and seize them; though they hide out of my sight on the sea floor, I will order the serpent there to bite them. [4] Though they are marched off captive by their enemies, I will order the sword there to slay them. I will keep my eye on them for harm, not for good. [5] The Lord GOD of hosts is the one who touches the earth so that it melts and all its inhabitants grieve, and it all heaves like the Nile and subsides like the river of Egypt. [6] He builds his lofty chambers in the sky and sets his arch over the earth; he summons the waters of the sea and spills them over the face of the land. The LORD is his name. [7] Are you not to me like the sons of the Cushites, children of Israel? declares the LORD. Did I not bring Israel up out of the land of Egypt, the Philistines out of Caphtor, and the Syrians out of Kir? [8] The eyes of the Lord GOD are on the sinful kingdom, and I will wipe it off the face of the ground; but I will not wipe out the house of Jacob completely, declares the LORD. [9] For I am about to give the order, and I will sift the house of Israel among all the nations, as grain is sifted in a sieve, yet not a pebble will drop to the ground. [10] All the sinners among my people will die by the sword, the ones who say, "Calamity will not come near us or confront us." [11] On that day I will set up again David's booth that has fallen; I will close up its gaps, restore its ruins, and build it as it was long ago, [12] so that they may take possession of what is left of Edom and of all the nations over whom my name is called, declares the LORD, who does this. [13] The days are coming, declares the LORD, when the one plowing will catch up with the one reaping, and the one treading grapes with the one scattering seed; the mountains will drip new wine, and all the hills will melt with it. [14] I will restore the fortunes of my people Israel; they will build the desolate cities again and settle in them; they will plant vineyards and drink the wine from them, lay out gardens and eat what they yield. [15] I will plant them in their own soil, and never again will they be pulled up out of the soil I have given them, says the LORD your God.

Obadiah

[1] The vision of Obadiah. This is what the Lord GOD says about Edom. We have heard news from the LORD, and a herald has been dispatched among the nations: "Get up! Let us go up against her in battle!" [2] I am going to make you tiny among the nations; you will be held in deep contempt. [3] Your proud heart has misled you, you who nest in the crevices of the crag and make your home on high, who say to yourself, "Who can bring me down to the earth?" [4] Even if you build your nest as high as the eagle's, even if it is set among the stars, I will pull you down from there, declares the LORD. [5] Had thieves broken in on you, or raiders by night (how utterly you are ruined!), would they not have stolen just what they needed? Had grape harvesters come to you, would they not have left a few grapes behind? [6] But Esau, how he has been stripped, his secret stores rummaged through! [7] Every partner in your covenant has shoved you to the frontier; the men you were at peace with have deceived and overpowered you; those who share your bread lay a snare under you; and he does not see it.* [8] On that day, declares the LORD, shall I not make the wise vanish from Edom and discernment from the mountain of Esau? [9] Your fighting men, Teman, will be shattered, so that every last man on the mountain of Esau is cut down in the slaughter. [10] For the violence against your brother Jacob you will be covered with disgrace and cut off for all time. [11] On the day you stood by at a distance, the day outsiders hauled away his goods and foreigners marched through his gates and threw lots over Jerusalem, you were just like one of them. [12] You should not have stared in triumph on your brother's day, the day of his disaster; you should not have rejoiced over the children of Judah on the day of their ruin; you should not have opened your mouth wide on the day of distress. [13] You should not have marched into the gate of my people on the day of their calamity; you, of all people, should not have stared in triumph at his misery on the day of his calamity, nor reached for his goods on the day of his calamity. [14] You should not have stood at the fork of the road to cut down his fugitives, nor handed over his survivors on the day of distress. [15] For near is the day of the LORD against all the nations. What you did will be done to you; your deeds will come back down on your own head. [16] Just as you drank on my holy mountain, all the nations will keep on drinking; they will drink and swallow and be as if they had never existed. [17] But on Mount Zion there will be a rescued remnant, and it will be a holy place; and the house of Jacob will take back what is theirs. [18] Jacob's house will become a fire and Joseph's house a flame, and Esau's house will be straw; they will set it alight and burn it up, and not one survivor will remain of the house of Esau; for the LORD has spoken. [19] The people of the Negev will occupy the mountain of Esau, and the people of the Shephelah the land of the Philistines; they will occupy the fields of Ephraim and the fields of Samaria, and Benjamin will occupy Gilead. [20] The exiled company of the children of Israel will occupy what belongs to the Canaanites as far as Zarephath, and the exiles of Jerusalem who are in Sepharad will occupy the towns of the Negev.* [21] Deliverers will go up on Mount Zion to rule the mountain of Esau, and the kingdom will belong to the LORD.

CHAPTER 1

[1] The word of the LORD came to Jonah the son of Amittai: [2] "Up, go to Nineveh, the great city, and preach against it, because their wickedness has risen to my presence." [3] Jonah did get up, but to flee to Tarshish, away from the LORD's presence. He went down to Joppa, found a ship about to sail for Tarshish, paid the fare for it and went aboard, to go with them to Tarshish, away from the LORD's presence. [4] The LORD flung a great wind out over the sea, and a violent storm arose on the sea, until the ship expected to be broken to pieces. [5] The seamen were terrified, and each one cried for help to his own god; they flung the gear that was on board into the sea to lighten their load. Jonah, meanwhile, had gone down to the lowest part of the vessel, where he lay down and sank into a deep sleep. [6] The chief of the crew came over to him and said, "How can you sleep? Get up and call to your god! It may be that the god will take notice of us, and we will not die." [7] Then the men said to each other, "Come on, let us throw lots and find out on whose account this calamity has come on us." They threw lots, and the lot fell on Jonah. [8] So they said to him, "Tell us, please, on whose account this calamity has come on us: what do you do for a living? Where have you come from? Which is your country, and of which people are you?" [9] "I am a Hebrew," he answered, "and it is the LORD, the God of heaven, whom I fear, the one who made the sea and the dry land." [10] The men were overcome with dread and said to him, "What have you done?" They knew he was fleeing from the LORD's presence, since he had told them so. [11] They asked him, "What should we do with you to make the sea grow quiet for us?" For the sea kept raging higher and higher. [12] "Lift me up and throw me into the sea," he told them, "and the sea will grow quiet for you; I know that this great storm has struck you on my account." [13] Still the men dug in their oars to get back to land, but they could not, because the sea kept raging higher against them. [14] Then they called on the LORD: "We beg you, LORD, do not let us die for taking this man's life, and do not hold us guilty of innocent blood; for you, LORD, have done just as you willed." [15] So they lifted Jonah and threw him into the sea, and the sea stopped its raging. [16] Then a great fear of the LORD came over the men; they offered the LORD a sacrifice and made vows. [17] The LORD provided a great fish to swallow Jonah, and Jonah was in the fish's belly three days and three nights. *

CHAPTER 2

[1] Then Jonah prayed to the LORD his God from the fish's belly. [2] He said: "In my trouble I called to the LORD, and he answered me; from deep inside Sheol I pleaded for help, and you heard my cry. [3] You had thrown me into the depths, into the heart of the seas; the current wrapped around me; every breaker and wave of yours went over me. [4] I thought, 'I have been banished from before your eyes; still, I will look once more toward your holy temple.' [5] Water engulfed me to the throat; the abyss closed around me; reeds were twisted about my head. * [6] I sank to the base of the mountains; the earth barred me in for good. But you lifted my life out of the pit, LORD my God. [7] As my life ebbed away, I called the LORD to mind, and my prayer reached you in your holy temple. [8] Those who hold to empty, worthless things abandon their own steadfast love. [9] But I, with a song of thanks, will offer sacrifice to you; I will make good what I vowed. Salvation is from the LORD." [10] Then the LORD spoke to the fish, and it threw Jonah up onto the dry ground.

CHAPTER 3

[1] The word of the LORD came to Jonah a second time: [2] "Up, go to Nineveh, the great city, and proclaim to it the message I am giving you." [3] This time Jonah got up and went to Nineveh, in obedience to the LORD's word. Now Nineveh was a city great even to God, a three days' walk. * [4] Jonah started into the city and went one day's walk, crying out, "In forty more days Nineveh will be overturned!" [5] The men of Nineveh believed God. They declared a fast, and all of them, from the greatest to the smallest, dressed in sackcloth. [6] When the news reached the king of Nineveh, he got up from his throne, took off his royal robe, wrapped himself in sackcloth and sat down in the ashes. [7] Then he had a proclamation cried throughout Nineveh: "By order of the king and his great men: No person or animal, no cattle or sheep, may taste anything; they must not graze, and they must not drink water. [8] People and animals alike are to be clothed in sackcloth and call on God with all their strength. Each one must turn back from his evil course and from the violence his hands have done. [9] Who can tell? Perhaps God will turn and change his mind and turn back from his burning anger, and we will not die." [10] God saw what they did, how they turned back from their evil course, and God changed his mind about the harm he had said he would bring on them; he did not carry it out.

CHAPTER 4

[1] This was a great evil in Jonah's eyes, and he burned with anger. [2] He prayed to the LORD: "Ah, LORD, isn't this exactly what I said while I was still at home? That is why I tried to get away to Tarshish first; I knew you are a God who is gracious and full of compassion, long-suffering and rich in steadfast love, one who relents from bringing harm. [3] So now, LORD, take my life from me, I beg you; death is better for me than life." [4] The LORD answered, "Are you right to be so angry?" [5] Jonah left the city and sat down on its east side. He built himself a hut there and sat in its shade, waiting to see what would happen to the city. [6] The LORD God provided a leafy plant and made it grow up above Jonah to shade his head and ease his misery; and Jonah was delighted with the plant. * [7] But at daybreak the next morning God provided a worm, which gnawed the plant until it dried up. [8] When the sun came up, God provided a sultry east wind; the sun blazed on Jonah's head until he grew faint, and he begged to die, saying, "Death is better for me than life." [9] Then God said to Jonah, "Are you right to be so angry over the plant?" "I am right to be angry," he said, "angry enough to die." [10] The LORD said, "You cared about the plant, though you did no work for it and did not make it grow; it sprang up overnight and died overnight. [11] Should I not care, then, about Nineveh, the great city, where there are more than a hundred and twenty thousand people who cannot tell their right hand from their left, besides a great many animals?"

CHAPTER 1

[1] The word of the LORD that came to Micah the Morashtite in the days of Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem. [2] Listen, peoples, every one of you; give heed, O earth, and everything in it! Let the Lord GOD be a witness against you, the Lord from his holy temple. [3] See, the LORD is leaving his dwelling place; he comes down and walks upon the heights of the earth. [4] Beneath him the mountains dissolve and the valleys burst apart, like wax in front of a fire, like water rushing down a slope. [5] It is because of Jacob's transgression that all this comes, because of the sins of the house of Israel. Who is Jacob's transgression? Is it not Samaria? And who are Judah's high places? Is it not Jerusalem? [6] I will turn Samaria into a rubble heap in the field, ground for planting vines; I will tip her stones down into the valley and expose her foundations. [7] Every one of her images will be smashed, all her earnings burned up in the fire, and all her idols I will make a ruin; for she amassed them from a harlot's pay, and a harlot's pay they will become again. [8] Because of this I will mourn and howl; barefoot and naked I will go about; I will wail like the jackals and grieve like the ostriches. [9] For her blows cannot be healed; the blow has come as far as Judah; it has reached the very gate of my people, Jerusalem. [10] Do not announce it in Gath; shed no tears at all. In Beth-leaphrah, roll in the dust. [*] [11] Move on, you who live in Shaphir, naked and ashamed; those who live in Zaanan do not venture out. Beth-ezel is wailing; it will take from you its place to stand. [12] The one who lives in Maroth writhes, longing for good, for calamity has come down from the LORD, right to the gate of Jerusalem. [13] Hitch the team to the chariot, you who live in Lachish; you were where sin began for the daughter of Zion, since Israel's transgressions were found in you. [14] So you will have to give farewell gifts to Moresheth-gath; the houses of Achzib will prove a deceit to Israel's kings. [15] Once more I will bring one who will take possession of you, you who live in Mareshah; Israel's glory will go as far as Adullam. [16] Shave your head and cut off your hair for the children you delight in; widen your baldness like the eagle's, for they have gone from you into exile.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Woe to those who scheme iniquity and plot evil as they lie in bed! As soon as morning dawns they do it, since they have the power to. [2] They want fields and grab them, houses, and carry them off; they crush a man and his household, a man and the property he inherited. [3] So this is what the LORD says: Look, I am plotting calamity against this clan, a yoke you will not slip your necks out of; you will no longer walk with heads high, for it will be an evil time. [4] On that day people will make up a proverb about you and wail a mournful dirge: "We are completely plundered! He trades away my people's share. How he strips it from me! He parcels out our fields to the rebel." [*] [5] So there will be no one of yours to stretch the measuring line by lot in the LORD's assembly. [6] "Quit your prophesying," they prophesy. "No one should prophesy about such things; disgrace will not come back on us." [7] Should it be said, house of Jacob, "Has the Spirit of the LORD run short of patience? Are these the things he does?" Do my words not bring good to the one whose walk is upright? [8] Not long ago my people rose up as an enemy. You tear the cloak off the garment of those passing by without a care, like men coming home from war. [9] You evict the women of my people from the homes they love; you rob their little ones of my glory for all time. [10] Get up and leave! This is no resting place, since it has become unclean; it will be destroyed, and the destruction will be painful. [11] If someone who goes around spouting wind and falsehood were to lie, "I will prophesy to you about wine and beer," he would be just the prophet for this people! [12] I will gather you, Jacob, every one of you; I will bring the remnant of Israel together; I will put them all together like sheep in a pen, like a flock in the middle of its pasture; they will hum with people. [13] The one who breaks open the way will go up ahead of them; they will burst through, pass through the gate and leave by it; their king will go on before them, the LORD leading them.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Then I said: Listen, I beg you, leaders of Jacob, rulers of the house of Israel! Are you not the ones who ought to know what justice is? [2] Yet you hate good and love evil; you rip the skin off them and the flesh off their bones; [3] you devour my people's flesh, peel their skin from them, crack their bones and cut them up like something for the pot, like meat in a kettle. [4] When that time comes they will call out to the LORD, and he will give them no answer; he will turn his face away from them then, since their deeds have been evil. [5] This is what the LORD says about the prophets who mislead my people: as long as they have something to chew on, they announce "Peace"; but if anyone fails to feed them, they proclaim a holy war against him. [6] So night will fall on you, with no vision, and darkness, with no divining; the sun will set on the prophets, and the daylight will turn black above them. [7] Then the seers will be embarrassed and the diviners humiliated; they will all cover their mouths, since God gives no answer. [8] But I, for my part, am full of strength through the Spirit of the LORD, full of justice and courage, to make known to Jacob his transgression and to Israel his sin. [9] Listen to this, I beg you, leaders of the house of Jacob and rulers of the house of Israel, you who loathe justice and bend whatever is straight, [10] building Zion with blood and Jerusalem with wrongdoing. [11] Her leaders hand down verdicts for a bribe, her priests give instruction for pay, her prophets tell fortunes for silver; and still they lean on the LORD, saying, "Isn't the LORD among us? No calamity can reach us." [12] So, on your account, Zion will be plowed up like a field, Jerusalem will be reduced to rubble, and the mountain of the house will become a hill overgrown with thickets.

CHAPTER 4

[1] In the last days it will come about that the mountain of the house of the LORD will stand firm at the top of the mountains and be raised above the hills, and peoples will flow to it. [2] Nations in great number will come and say, "Come, let us climb the LORD's mountain, to the house of Jacob's God, so that he may instruct us in his ways and we may walk in his paths." For from Zion the law will go out, and from Jerusalem the word of the LORD. [3] He will judge between many peoples and settle disputes for strong nations even far away. They will hammer their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks; nation will not lift up sword against nation, and they will no longer learn war. [4] Each will dwell beneath his own vine and his own fig tree, and nobody will frighten him; the mouth of the LORD of hosts has spoken. [5] Though every people walks in the name of its own god, we will walk in the name of the LORD our God for ever and ever. [6] On that day, declares the LORD, I will collect the limping, bring together the scattered, and those I have brought harm on. [7] I will turn the limping into a remnant and the driven-off into a mighty nation, and the LORD will be king over them on Mount Zion from now on and for evermore. [8] As for you, Migdal-eder, tower of the flock, stronghold of the daughter of Zion, to you it will come: the former rule will return, royal power for the daughter of Jerusalem. [9] Why, then, are you shouting so loudly now? Have you no king? Is your counselor gone, that pangs grip you like a woman giving birth? [10] Writhe and strain, daughter of Zion, like a woman bearing a child, for now you must leave the city and camp in the open field; you will go as far as Babylon. There you will be delivered; there the LORD will buy you back out of your enemies' hand. [11] But now many nations have gathered against you; they say, "Let her be profaned! Let our eyes feast on Zion!" [12] Yet they have no knowledge of what the LORD intends, no grasp of his purpose: he has gathered them like cut grain onto the threshing floor. [13] Up and thresh, daughter of Zion! I will give you a horn of iron and hooves of bronze, and you will crush many peoples; and I will devote their ill-gotten gain to the LORD, their riches to the Lord of all the earth.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Now gash yourself, daughter of raiders; a siege has been set against us; they strike Israel's judge on the cheek with a rod. [] [2] But you, Bethlehem Ephrathah, too small to be among the thousands of Judah, from you shall come out to me the one who is to be ruler in Israel, whose goings out are from of old, from days of eternity. [] [3] So he will abandon them until the time when the woman in labor has borne her child; then the remainder of his brothers will come back to join the children of Israel. [4] He will take his stand and tend the flock by the LORD's strength, by the majesty of the name of the LORD his God; and they will live on, for his greatness will then reach to the ends of the earth. [5] And this one will be peace. Should Assyria invade our land and march across our fortresses, we will set up against it seven shepherds, even eight chiefs of men. [6] With the sword they will rule the land of Assyria, and Nimrod's land at its gates; so he will rescue us from Assyria when it invades our land and tramples our territory. [7] The remnant of Jacob will be among many peoples like dew sent by the LORD, like rain showers on the plants, which do not hold back for anyone or wait on the sons of men. [8] Among the nations, amid many peoples, the remnant of Jacob will be like a lion among forest animals, like a young lion among herds of sheep, which tramples and mauls whatever it passes through, with no one to rescue. [9] Let your hand be raised high over your foes, and may all your enemies be cut off. [10] On that day, declares the LORD, I will remove your horses from your midst and wreck your chariots. [11] I will do away with the cities of your land and pull down every fortress you have. [12] I will take the sorceries out of your hand, and there will be no fortune-tellers among you. [13] I will destroy your idols and your sacred pillars from among you, and never again will you bow to what your own hands have made. [14] I will tear up your Asherim out of your midst and lay your cities in ruins. [*] [15] In anger and fury I will take vengeance on the nations that would not listen.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Listen now to what the LORD is saying: Stand up, argue your case before the mountains, and let the hills hear what you say. [2] Mountains, hear the LORD's charge, and you lasting foundations of the earth; for the LORD has a dispute with his people, and with Israel he will argue it out. [3] O my people, what have I done to you? How have I wearied you? Testify against me. [4] Why, I brought you up out of the land of Egypt; I ransomed you out of the house of slaves, and I sent Moses, Aaron and Miriam to go ahead of you. [5] My people, call to mind what Balak king of Moab schemed, and how Balaam son of Beor answered him, and all that happened from Shittim to Gilgal, so that you may acknowledge the LORD's righteous deeds. [6] What shall I bring when I come to meet the LORD and bow down to the God who is on high? Am I to come to him with burnt offerings, with yearling calves? [7] Would the LORD be delighted with rams by the thousand, with oil flowing in ten thousand streams? Should I offer my firstborn for my transgression, the child of my own body for my soul's sin? [8] He has made known to you, O man, what is good; and what does the LORD ask of you except to do justice, to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God? [] [9] The voice of the LORD cries to the city, and the one with wisdom will see your name: Hear the rod, and the one who appointed it. [] [10] Are there still treasures of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the short ephah that is accursed? [11] Can I declare clean the one who uses crooked scales and a bag of false weights? [12] Her wealthy are filled with violence; her people speak falsehood, and the tongue in their mouth is all deceit. [13] So I too have made you sick by striking you, laying you waste because of your sins. [14] You will eat but not have enough; hollowness will be inside you. You will try to carry things off but not get them to safety, and whatever you do rescue I will hand over to the sword. [15] You will plant seed, but you will not harvest; you will press olives, but you will not rub on their oil; you will press new wine, but you will not drink the wine. [16] The decrees of Omri are observed, and every practice of Ahab's house, and you follow their plans; so I will make you an object of horror and her people a thing to hiss at, and you will carry the disgrace of my people.

CHAPTER 7

[1] Alas for me! I am like someone after the summer fruit is picked, after the grapes are gleaned: not a cluster left to eat, not one early fig, though I long for it. [2] The faithful have vanished from the land; not one upright person is left among people. All of them lurk to shed blood; each stalks his brother with a net. [3] Both hands are set on evil, to do it thoroughly: the official makes demands, the judge asks for a payoff, and the powerful man voices whatever his soul craves; so together they twist it. [4] The best among them is like a bramble, the most upright worse than a hedge of thorns. The day your watchmen spoke of, your day of reckoning, has arrived; now their bewilderment is upon them. [*] [5] Do not believe a neighbor, do not rely on a close friend; keep the door of your lips shut even to the woman who lies in your arms. [6] For son despises father, daughter stands up against mother, daughter-in-law against mother-in-law; a man's enemies are the members of his own household. [7] But I will keep watch for the LORD; I will wait for the God who saves me; my God will listen to me. [8] Do not gloat over me, my enemy; though I have fallen, I will get up; though I sit in the dark, the LORD is my light. [9] The LORD's anger I will endure, since I have sinned against him, until he takes up my case and secures justice for me. He will lead me out into the light, and I will see his righteousness. [10] My enemy will see it, and shame will wrap her who kept saying to me, "Where is he, the LORD your God?" My eyes will gaze at her; she will then be trodden down like mud in the streets. [11] The day for rebuilding your walls is coming! On that day your border will be pushed far out. [12] That will be the day when people come to you from Assyria and the cities of Egypt, from Egypt all the way to the River, from one sea to another and from mountain to mountain. [13] Yet the earth will become a wasteland on account of those who live in it, as the fruit of what they have done. [14] Tend your people with your staff, the flock that is your inheritance, living by itself in a forest in the midst of Carmel; let them feed in Bashan and Gilead as they did long ago. [15] Just as when you came out of the land of Egypt, I will let him see marvels. [16] Nations will look on and be put to shame in spite of all their strength; they will clap their hands over their mouths, and their ears will go deaf. [17] Like the snake they will lick dust, like creatures that crawl on the ground; they will creep out of their fortresses quaking; to the LORD our God they will come in dread, and they will be afraid of you. [18] What God is there like you, who takes away iniquity and overlooks the transgression of the remnant that is his inheritance? He does not hold on to his anger forever, for he takes delight in steadfast love. [19] Once more he will show us compassion; he will trample our iniquities down. Into the depths of the sea you will hurl all their sins. [20] You will grant faithfulness to Jacob and steadfast love to Abraham, as you promised our fathers by oath in days long past.

CHAPTER 1

[1] The oracle concerning Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum the Elkoshite. [2] A jealous God and one who avenges is the LORD; the LORD avenges and is a master of fury; the LORD avenges himself on his foes and holds anger in store for his enemies. [3] The LORD is long-suffering yet mighty in strength, and the LORD will certainly not let the guilty go unpunished. In gale and tempest is his path, and clouds are the dust under his feet. [4] He scolds the sea and it dries up; he leaves every river dry; Bashan and Carmel fade, and Lebanon's blossom wilts. [5] Mountains shake because of him, and hills dissolve; the earth rises up at his presence, the world and everyone living in it. [6] When he is indignant, who can hold his ground? When his anger burns, who can withstand it? His fury pours out like fire, and the rocks are torn down before him. [7] Good is the LORD, a safe stronghold when trouble comes; he knows those who seek shelter in him. [8] But with a sweeping flood he will bring her place to an utter end, and darkness will chase his enemies. [9] Whatever you scheme against the LORD, he will finish it off completely; trouble will not rise twice. [10] Though they are matted together like thorns and soaked as with their drink, they will be burned up like dry stubble, completely. [11] Out of you has come one who schemes evil against the LORD, one who gives worthless counsel. [] [12] This is what the LORD says: However strong and numerous they may be, they will be mown down and be gone. I have humbled you, but I will not humble you again. [13] Now I will snap his yoke bar off you and tear your shackles apart. [14] And the LORD has issued an order about you: You will have no more offspring to carry your name. I will remove the carved idol and the cast idol from the house of your gods; I will prepare your grave, for you are of no account. [15] See there on the mountains the feet of one bringing good news, announcing peace! Celebrate your festivals, Judah; pay what you vowed; for the worthless one will not invade you anymore; he is wholly cut off. []

CHAPTER 2

[1] A shatterer has come up to face you. Keep watch on the fortress; post a lookout on the road; gird your waist; muster all your might. [2] For the LORD will bring back Jacob's splendor, like Israel's splendor, since robbers have stripped them bare and destroyed their vines. [3] His warriors' shields are dyed red; his fighting men are dressed in crimson; the chariots gleam like fire of steel on the day he makes ready, and the spears of cypress are shaken. [] [4] Through the streets the chariots charge wildly; they jostle one another in the squares; they look like blazing torches; they flash about like lightning. [5] He summons his nobles; they trip as they advance; they hurry to her wall, and the mantelet is put in place. [6] The sluice gates of the rivers are thrown open, and the palace collapses. [7] It is decreed: she is exposed and hauled away, while her slave women moan like the cooing of doves and beat their breasts. [8] Nineveh has been like a pool of water all her days, and now they run off. "Stand! Stand!" — but no one turns around. [9] Take the silver! Take the gold! The hoard is endless, riches of every costly kind. [10] Emptied, plundered, stripped! Hearts dissolve, knees knock together, every waist is gripped with pain, and every face turns pale. [11] What has become of the lions' lair, the place where young lions fed, where lion and lioness prowled with the cub, and nobody disturbed them? [12] The lion killed plenty for his whelps and throttled game for his mates, and he crammed his lairs with kills and his dens with mangled flesh. [13] Here I am against you, declares the LORD of hosts: I will send her chariots up in smoke, the sword will eat up your young lions, I will wipe your prey off the earth, and never again will your envoys' voice be heard.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Woe to the city of bloodshed, packed with lies, crammed with loot, never letting go of its prey! [2] Hear the snap of whips, the clatter of wheels, horses at the gallop, chariots jolting along! [3] Riders spurring on, swords gleaming, spears flashing; slain beyond counting, piles of dead, bodies without number; men trip over their corpses — [4] all because of the endless harlotry of the harlot, so lovely and alluring, mistress of witchcraft, who traffics in nations with her harlotries and in clans with her spells. [5] Here I am against you, declares the LORD of hosts: I will pull your skirts up over your face and let the nations see you naked and the kingdoms see your shame. [6] I will pelt you with abominations, disgrace you and put you on display. [7] Everyone who sees you will run from you, saying, "Nineveh is ruined; who will mourn for her?" Where can I find anyone to console you? [8] Are you any better than No-amon, seated among the streams, with water surrounding her, the sea her bulwark, the waters her wall?* [9] Cush and Egypt were her boundless strength; Put and the Libyans came to your aid. [10] Even so she was deported and went off as a captive; her babies were smashed at every street corner; lots were thrown for her nobles, and all her leading men were put in chains. [11] You too will be made drunk; you will be in hiding; you too will look for a place of safety from the enemy. [12] Every one of your strongholds is a fig tree with its first ripe fruit: give it a shake, and the figs drop straight into the mouth of whoever would eat. [13] Look at your troops: they are women in your midst. The gates of your country stand wide open to your enemies; fire has eaten up the bars of your gates. [14] Haul in water for the siege! Reinforce your fortifications! Step into the mud and stamp the clay; grip the brick mold! [15] Right there fire will consume you and the sword cut you down; it will eat you up as locusts do. Make yourself as many as the locusts, as many as the swarming locusts! [16] You made your traders more numerous than the stars in the sky; the locust sheds its skin and flies off. [17] Your courtiers are like locusts, your officials like swarm upon swarm that camp in the walls on a chilly day; once the sun comes up they are off, and where they went nobody knows. [18] King of Assyria, your shepherds are drowsing, your nobles lie still; your people are strewn across the mountains, and no one gathers them in. [19] Nothing can relieve your fracture; your wound is beyond cure. Everyone who hears what happened to you claps his hands at you, for who has not felt your cruelty without end?

CHAPTER 1

[1] The oracle that Habakkuk the prophet saw. [2] How long, LORD, must I call for help while you do not listen? I shout to you, "Violence!" and you do not rescue. [3] Why do you make me look at wickedness, and why do you gaze on misery? Ruin and violence are in front of me; there is quarreling, and conflict springs up. [4] That is why the law goes slack and justice never comes out to win; the wicked hem in the righteous, so justice comes out bent. [5] Look at the nations and observe; be amazed, be stunned! For in your own days I am carrying out a deed you would not believe if someone told you. [6] Look, I am stirring up the Chaldeans, a fierce and impetuous nation that sweeps across the wide spaces of the earth to seize homes that belong to others. [7] It is terrifying and dreadful; it makes its own law and sets up its own honor. [8] Its horses are faster than leopards, keener than wolves at dusk; its steeds paw the ground, and its riders come from far off; they swoop like an eagle rushing to feed. [9] Every one of them comes bent on violence; their faces are set like the east wind, and they scoop up captives like sand. [10] Kings are something it mocks, and rulers something to joke about; it laughs at every stronghold, throws up a ramp of earth and captures it. [11] Then it rushes past like the wind and moves on, and it becomes guilty, the one whose strength is his god.* [12] Are you not from of old, LORD, my God, my Holy One? We shall not die. LORD, you have set them in place to carry out judgment; you, my Rock, have appointed them to bring correction.* [13] Your eyes are too pure to watch evil; you cannot bear to look at wrongdoing. Why then do you watch the treacherous and say nothing while the wicked devours someone more righteous than himself? [14] You have made people like fish in the sea, like creatures that swarm with no ruler over them. [15] He hauls them all up with a hook, sweeps them away in his net, collects them in his seine; and so he is happy and glad. [16] So he offers sacrifices to his net and burns incense to his seine, since they bring him a fat share and choice food. [17] Is he to go on emptying his net, never sparing, always slaughtering nations?

CHAPTER 2

[1] I will stand at my post and take my place on the rampart; I will look out to see what he will say to me, and what reply I should give to my complaint. [2] The LORD replied to me: Write down the vision; set it out clearly on tablets, so that whoever reads it can run with it. [3] The vision is still waiting for its set time; it pants toward the end and will not prove false. Though it lingers, wait for it; it is sure to come and will not be late. [4] Look, he is puffed up; his soul is not upright within him; but the righteous shall live by his faith. [] [5] Moreover, wine is treacherous; the proud man does not stay at home. He opens his throat wide like Sheol, and like death he is never satisfied; he gathers to himself all nations and collects to himself all peoples. [6] Will not all of them make him the subject of a proverb, of mocking verses and riddles? They will say: "Woe to the one who piles up what is not his — how long can it go on? — and weighs himself down with pledges!" [7] Will not those who bite you rise up without warning, and those who shake you wake up? Then you will be their prey. [8] Since you have looted many nations, all the peoples who are left will loot you, for the human blood you shed and the violence you did to the land, to the city and everyone living there. [9] Woe to the one who grabs wicked profit for his household, to put his nest up high, to escape the grasp of disaster! [10] Your scheming has brought shame on your house; by wiping out many peoples you have sinned against your own life. [11] The very stones will shout from the wall, and a rafter in the timbers will answer them. [12] Woe to the one who builds a city with bloodshed and sets up a town by injustice! [13] Is it not the LORD of hosts who has decreed that peoples toil only to feed the fire and nations exhaust themselves for emptiness? [14] For the earth will be filled with knowing the glory of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea. [15] Woe to the one who gives his neighbor drink, pouring out your fury until they are drunk, so you can stare at their nakedness! [16] You have had your fill of disgrace instead of honor. Now you drink, and show your foreskin! The cup in the LORD's right hand is coming around to you, and disgrace will smother your glory. [] [17] The violence you did to Lebanon will engulf you, and the slaughter of the animals will terrify them, for the human blood you shed and the violence you did to the land, to the city and everyone living there. [18] What use is an idol once its craftsman has carved it, or a cast image, a teacher of falsehood? The one who shaped it puts his trust in what he formed, making idols that cannot speak. [19] Woe to the one who tells a block of wood, "Wake up!" or a mute stone, "Get up!" Will that teach anything? It is plated with gold and silver, but there is not a breath inside it. [20] But the LORD is in his holy temple; hush before him, all the earth!

CHAPTER 3

[1] A prayer of Habakkuk the prophet, set to Shigionoth. [] [2] LORD, I have heard what is told of you, and I stand in awe. LORD, bring your work to life in the midst of the years; in the midst of the years make it known; in anger, remember compassion. [3] God comes from Teman, the Holy One from Mount Paran. Selah. His splendor blankets the heavens, and the earth is full of his praise. [4] There is a radiance like daylight; twin rays stream from his hand, and there his might is hidden. [5] Plague marches ahead of him, and fever goes out at his feet. [6] He stood and measured the earth; he looked, and nations leaped in fear; the age-old mountains broke apart, the ancient hills bowed down; his ways are from of old. [7] I saw Cushan's tents in distress; the tent curtains of Midian's land were quaking. [8] Was it with the rivers that the LORD was angry? Was your anger aimed at the rivers, or your fury at the sea, when you rode out on your horses, on your chariots that bring salvation? [9] Your bow was made bare; oaths were sworn over the rods of your word. Selah. You cleave the earth with rivers. [] [10] When the mountains saw you they shuddered; a torrent of water swept by; the deep roared aloud and lifted its hands up high. [11] Sun and moon halted in their lofty home at the gleam of your arrows flying, at the lightning of your flashing spear. [12] In rage you stride across the earth; in anger you trample nations. [13] You came out to save your people, to save your anointed one; you smashed the head of the wicked man's house, stripping it from foundation to neck. Selah. [14] With his own shafts you ran through the chief of his fighters when they stormed out to scatter me, gleeful as men about to devour the helpless in hiding. [15] With your horses you trod the sea, the churning of vast waters. [16] I heard, and my insides shook; at the sound my lips quivered; decay crept into my bones, and where I stood I shook. Yet I will wait calmly for the day of distress to come upon the people who attack us. [17] Even if the fig tree does not bud and the vines bear no grapes, if the olive crop fails and the fields produce no food, if the sheep vanish from the pen and there are no cattle in the stalls, [18] still I will exult in the LORD and be glad in the God who saves me. [19] GOD the Lord is my strength; he gives me feet like a deer's and lets me walk on my heights. For the choirmaster, with my stringed instruments. [*]

CHAPTER 1

[1] The word of the LORD that came to Zephaniah the son of Cushi, the son of Gedaliah, the son of Amariah, the son of Hezekiah, in the days of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah. [2] I will make a clean sweep of everything on the face of the ground, declares the LORD. [3] Man and animal I will sweep off; I will sweep off the birds of the sky and the fish of the sea, the things that make people stumble, along with the wicked; and I will cut humankind off from the face of the ground, declares the LORD. [4] My hand will reach out against Judah and against everyone living in Jerusalem; from this place I will cut off what is left of Baal, the very name of the idol priests together with the priests; [] [5] those who worship the host of heaven on the housetops, those who worship and take oaths to the LORD while they also take oaths by Malcam; [] [6] those who have turned away from following the LORD, who neither look for the LORD nor ask after him. [7] Hush in the presence of the Lord GOD! The day of the LORD is close; the LORD has made a sacrifice ready and set apart those he has invited. [8] When the day of the LORD's sacrifice comes, I will call to account the princes, the royal sons, and all who dress themselves in foreign clothing. [9] I will call to account on that day all who hop over the threshold, who stuff their masters' house with violence and deceit. [10] On that day, declares the LORD, an outcry will rise from the Fish Gate, howling from the New Quarter, and a mighty crashing from the hills. [11] Howl, you who live in the Mortar, for all the merchant people are destroyed; everyone who weighs out silver is cut off.* [12] At that time I will go through Jerusalem with lamps and call to account the men who have thickened like wine on its dregs, who tell themselves, "The LORD will do nothing, neither good nor bad." [13] Their riches will be looted and their houses left in ruins; they will build houses and not live in them, plant vineyards and never drink the wine they make. [14] Near is the great day of the LORD, near and coming very fast! Listen, the day of the LORD! Bitterly the warrior screams there. [15] That day is a day of fury, a day of anguish and distress, a day of wreck and ruin, a day of darkness and murk, a day of cloud and black gloom, [16] a day of the horn and the war cry against the walled cities and the high corner towers. [17] I will bring such distress on people that they will grope along like the blind, since they have sinned against the LORD; their blood will be spilled out like dust and their entrails like dung. [18] Their silver and gold will not be able to save them on the day of the LORD's fury; the whole earth will be eaten up by the fire of his jealousy, for he will bring an end, a terrifying end, on all who live on the earth.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Pull yourselves together, gather yourselves, nation that feels no shame, [2] before the decree is born and the day blows past like chaff, before the LORD's burning anger falls on you, before the day of the LORD's anger falls on you. [3] Look for the LORD, all you humble people of the land who have carried out his rulings; look for righteousness, look for humility; perhaps you will be sheltered on the day of the LORD's anger. [4] Gaza will be abandoned and Ashkelon left a ruin; Ashdod will be emptied out at midday, and Ekron torn up by the roots. [5] Woe to you who live along the sea, the Cherethite nation! The LORD's word is against you, Canaan, land of the Philistines: I will destroy you until not one inhabitant remains. [6] The land by the sea will turn into pastures, with shepherds' wells and pens for sheep. [7] That coastland will go to the remnant of the house of Judah; there they will pasture their flocks, and at evening they will lie down in the houses of Ashkelon; for the LORD their God will visit them and restore their fortunes. [8] The insults of Moab and the abuse from the children of Ammon have reached my ears, how they mocked my people and bragged about seizing their borders. [9] So, as I live, declares the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Moab will end up like Sodom and the children of Ammon like Gomorrah, a place overrun with nettles, a salt pit, a wasteland for all time; what remains of my people will loot them, and the rest of my nation will take their land. [10] This is what their arrogance will earn them, for they mocked the people of the LORD of hosts and lorded it over them. [11] The LORD will be fearsome to them, for he will starve all the gods of the earth, and every coastland of the nations will worship him, each from its own place. [12] And you, Cushites, you too will be slain by my sword. [13] He will reach out his hand against the north and wipe out Assyria; he will turn Nineveh into a wasteland, parched as the desert. [14] Flocks will rest in the middle of her, every kind of wild creature; the pelican and the hedgehog will roost on the tops of her pillars; a call will sound in the window, rubble will lie on the threshold, for her cedar paneling is stripped bare.* [15] This is the jubilant city that sat so secure, that said to herself, "I am, and there is none but me." How she has become a wasteland, a resting place for wild animals! All who go by her whistle in scorn and wave their hand.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Woe to the filthy, polluted city, the city of oppression! [2] She heeds no voice and takes no correction; she puts no trust in the LORD and does not come near to her God. [3] Inside her, her princes are lions that roar; her judges are wolves at dusk that keep no bones for the morning. [4] Her prophets are arrogant, men of treachery; her priests defile the holy things and twist the law with violence. [5] Yet in her midst is the LORD, who is righteous and does nothing wrong; morning by morning he brings his justice into the light, never failing; but the wrongdoer has no sense of shame. [6] I have wiped out nations; their towers stand in ruins; I have emptied their streets until nobody passes through; their cities lie wasted, without a soul, with no one living there. [7] I thought, "Surely now you will fear me and take correction; then her dwelling will not be cut off, despite all I have brought on her." But they only got up early to make all their doings corrupt. [8] So wait for me, declares the LORD, for the day I rise up to plunder; for I have resolved to gather the nations and bring the kingdoms together, to pour on them my indignation, the full heat of my anger; the whole earth will be consumed by the fire of my jealousy. [9] Then I will give the peoples purified lips, so that every one of them may call on the name of the LORD and serve him shoulder to shoulder. [10] From the far side of the rivers of Cush those who pray to me, my scattered daughter, will bring me offerings. [11] When that day comes, you will feel no shame for all the deeds by which you rebelled against me, for I will take away from among you those who gloat in their pride, and you will never again be arrogant on my holy mountain. [12] I will leave within you a poor and humble people, and they will find refuge in the name of the LORD. [13] The remnant of Israel will commit no wrong and tell no lies; no deceitful tongue will be found in their mouths. They will feed and rest, and no one will disturb them. [14] Sing out, daughter of Zion! Shout, Israel! Be happy and celebrate with all your heart, daughter of Jerusalem! [15] The LORD has revoked your sentence and turned your enemy away. The King of Israel, the LORD, is among you; you need fear disaster no more. [16] In that day Jerusalem will be told, "Have no fear, Zion; do not let your hands hang limp. [17] The LORD your God is among you, a mighty one who brings victory; he will delight in you with gladness; he will be quiet in his love; he will celebrate over you with shouts of joy."* [18] I will gather those who grieve for the appointed feasts, who were of you; the reproach is a burden on her.* [19] Look, I am going to deal with all who oppressed you at that time; I will rescue the limping and bring home the outcast, and I will give them praise and a name in every land where they were shamed. [20] At that time I will bring you home; at that time I will gather you; for I will give you a name and praise among all the peoples of the earth when I restore your fortunes before your very eyes, says the LORD.

CHAPTER 1

[1] In the second year of King Darius, in the sixth month, on the first day of the month, the word of the LORD came by Haggai the prophet to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Jehozadak, the high priest: [2] Thus says the LORD of hosts: These people say, "The time has not come, the time for the house of the LORD to be built." [3] Then the word of the LORD came by Haggai the prophet: [4] Is this the time for you, you yourselves, to be living in houses with paneled walls, while this house stands in ruins? [5] Now therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts: Set your heart on your ways. [6] You have planted plenty and brought in little; you eat, but not your fill; you drink, but not enough to be merry; you get dressed, but there is no warmth for anyone; and the hired man earns his pay only to drop it in a bag full of holes. [7] Thus says the LORD of hosts: Set your heart on your ways. [8] Climb up into the hills, fetch timber and rebuild the house; then I will be pleased with it and I will be honored, says the LORD. [9] You expected much, but see, it turned out little; what you brought home I blew away. And why? declares the LORD of hosts. Because my house lies desolate while every one of you hurries off to his own house. [10] That is why the sky over you has kept back its dew and the land has kept back its crops. [11] I have summoned drought upon land and mountains, upon grain, new wine and oil, upon whatever the soil produces, upon people and animals, and upon everything your hands work at. [12] Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest, along with the whole remnant of the people, listened to the voice of the LORD their God and to the words of the prophet Haggai, since the LORD their God had sent him; and the people were in awe of the LORD. [13] Haggai, the LORD's messenger, then gave the people the LORD's message: I am with you, declares the LORD. [14] So the LORD roused the spirit of Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, the spirit of Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and the spirit of the whole remnant of the people, and they came and set to work on the house of the LORD of hosts, their God, [15] on the twenty-fourth day of the month, in the sixth month, in the second year of King Darius.

CHAPTER 2

[1] In the seventh month, on the twenty-first day of the month, the word of the LORD came by Haggai the prophet: [2] Say to Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, to Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and to the remnant of the people: [3] "Is anyone still among you who saw this house in its first splendor? And what does it look like to you now? Does it not seem like nothing at all to you? [4] But take courage now, Zerubbabel, declares the LORD; take courage, Joshua son of Jehozadak, high priest; take courage, all you people of the land, declares the LORD, and get to work; for I am with you, declares the LORD of hosts, [5] keeping the word I pledged to you when you came out of Egypt. My Spirit stands among you; do not be afraid. [6] For this is what the LORD of hosts says: Once more, in just a little while, I am going to shake the heavens and the earth, the sea and the dry ground. [7] I will shake every nation, and the desire of all nations shall come, and I will fill this house with splendor, says the LORD of hosts.* [8] Mine is the silver, and mine the gold, declares the LORD of hosts. [9] Greater will be the latter splendor of this house than the former, says the LORD of hosts; and in this place I will grant peace, declares the LORD of hosts." [10] On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to Haggai the prophet: [11] This is what the LORD of hosts says: Ask the priests for a ruling on the law: [12] "Suppose a man carries consecrated meat in the corner of his garment, and that corner touches bread, or stew, or wine, or oil, or any food at all; will it become holy?" The priests replied, "No." [13] Haggai went on, "If a person made unclean by a corpse touches any of these things, will it become unclean?" "It will be unclean," the priests replied. [14] Then Haggai said, "That is how this people is, and how this nation is in my sight, declares the LORD, and so is everything they do with their hands; whatever they offer there is unclean. [15] Now then, think carefully from this day forward: before one stone was laid on another in the LORD's temple, [16] back then, someone would come to a grain heap of twenty measures and find ten; someone would go to the vat to draw off fifty measures from the press and find twenty.* [17] I struck you with blight and mildew and hail in all the work of your hands, yet you did not come back to me, declares the LORD. [18] Think carefully from this day forward, from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, from the day the foundation of the LORD's temple was laid; think it over: [19] Is there still seed in the storehouse? The vine and the fig, the pomegranate and the olive tree have not yet borne fruit. But from this day on I will give blessing." [20] On the twenty-fourth day of the month the word of the LORD came to Haggai a second time: [21] Tell Zerubbabel, governor of Judah: "I am about to make the heavens and the earth tremble. [22] I will topple royal thrones and break the might of the nations' kingdoms; I will upend chariots and those who ride them; horses and riders will fall, each by the sword of his fellow. [23] On that day, declares the LORD of hosts, I will take you, Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, my servant, declares the LORD, and I will make you like a signet ring, because you are the one I have chosen, declares the LORD of hosts."

CHAPTER 1

[1] In the eighth month of Darius's second year, the word of the LORD came to Zechariah the prophet, son of Berechiah, son of Iddo: [2] The LORD was deeply angry with your fathers. [3] So tell them: This is what the LORD of hosts says: Turn back to me, declares the LORD of hosts, and I will turn back to you, says the LORD of hosts. [4] Do not be like your fathers, to whom the earlier prophets proclaimed, "This is what the LORD of hosts says: Turn back from your evil ways and your evil deeds." Yet they would not listen or heed me, declares the LORD. [5] Where are your fathers now? And the prophets, do they go on living forever? [6] But did not my words and my decrees, which I charged my servants the prophets to deliver, catch up with your fathers? Then they turned back and said, "The LORD of hosts has done to us just what he planned to do, as our ways and our deeds deserved." [7] On the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month, the month of Shebat, in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to Zechariah the prophet, son of Berechiah, son of Iddo, in these words: [8] During the night I had a vision: there was a man mounted on a red horse, standing among the myrtles in the hollow, and behind him horses that were red, sorrel and white. [*] [9] I asked, "My lord, what are these?" And the angel who was speaking with me told me, "I will let you see what they are." [10] Then the man standing among the myrtles replied, "These are the ones the LORD has sent out to go back and forth through the earth." [11] They reported to the angel of the LORD standing among the myrtles, "We have gone back and forth through the earth, and the whole earth is quiet and undisturbed." [12] Then the angel of the LORD spoke: "LORD of hosts, how much longer will you withhold compassion from Jerusalem and the towns of Judah, which you have been angry with for seventy years now?" [13] The LORD replied to the angel who was speaking with me with kind words, words of comfort. [14] Then the angel who was speaking with me said, "Proclaim this: The LORD of hosts says: I burn with great jealousy for Jerusalem and for Zion, [15] and I burn with great anger against the nations that sit at ease; for I was angry only a little, but they made the harm far worse. [16] So the LORD says this: I have come back to Jerusalem with compassion; my house will be rebuilt in her, declares the LORD of hosts, and a measuring line will be stretched across Jerusalem. [17] Proclaim further: The LORD of hosts says: My cities will once more spill over with good things; the LORD will once more comfort Zion and once more choose Jerusalem." [18] Then I looked up and saw four horns. [19] I asked the angel who was speaking with me, "What are these?" He answered, "These are the horns that scattered Judah, Israel and Jerusalem abroad." [20] Next the LORD let me see four smiths. [21] I asked, "What have these come to do?" He said, "Those are the horns that scattered Judah so completely that no one could raise his head; these smiths have come to frighten them, to knock down the horns of the nations that raised a horn against the land of Judah to scatter it."

CHAPTER 2

[1] I looked up again, and there was a man holding a measuring line. [2] "Where are you headed?" I asked. He told me, "To measure Jerusalem, to find out how broad and how long it is." [3] Then the angel who was speaking with me went out, and another angel came out to meet him [4] and told him, "Hurry, tell that young man: Jerusalem will be a city without walls, spread out like open villages, because of all the people and animals within it. [5] I myself will be a wall of fire around her, declares the LORD, and I will be the glory within her." [6] Away, away! Flee from the northern land, declares the LORD, for I have spread you out like the four winds of the sky, declares the LORD. [7] Come, Zion, get out, you who live with the daughter of Babylon! [8] For thus says the LORD of hosts: After glory he has sent me to the nations that plundered you, for anyone who touches you touches the pupil of his eye. [*] [9] I am about to raise my hand against them, and they will be looted by their own slaves. Then you will know that the LORD of hosts sent me. [10] Sing out and be glad, daughter of Zion! For I am coming to live among you, declares the LORD. [11] On that day many nations will attach themselves to the LORD and become my people. I will live among you, and you will know that the LORD of hosts sent me to you. [12] The LORD will claim Judah as his share in the holy land and will once more choose Jerusalem. [13] Be still before the LORD, all flesh, for he has risen up from his holy dwelling.

CHAPTER 3

[1] He let me see Joshua the high priest standing before the angel of the LORD, with Satan standing at his right side to accuse him. [] [2] And the LORD said to Satan, "May the LORD rebuke you, O Satan! May the LORD who has chosen Jerusalem rebuke you! Is this not a burning stick snatched from the fire?" [3] Joshua stood before the angel dressed in filthy clothes. [4] The angel spoke to those standing in front of him: "Strip the filthy clothes off him." And he said to Joshua, "See, I have removed your iniquity from you, and I will dress you in fine robes." [5] Then I said, "Have them set a clean turban on his head." They set the clean turban on his head and dressed him in the garments, while the angel of the LORD stood there. [6] The angel of the LORD then gave Joshua this solemn charge: [7] This is what the LORD of hosts says: If you walk in my ways and carry out the duties I give you, then you will govern my house and watch over my courts, and I will grant you a place to come and go among these who stand here. [8] Listen, Joshua the high priest, you and your fellow priests seated before you, for they are men who are a sign: I am going to bring my servant, the Branch. [9] Look at the stone I have placed before Joshua: on one stone there are seven eyes. I myself will carve its inscription, declares the LORD of hosts, and in a single day I will remove the iniquity of that land. [10] On that day, declares the LORD of hosts, each of you will call his neighbor to sit under the vine and under the fig tree.

CHAPTER 4

[1] The angel who was speaking with me returned and woke me, the way a man is roused from sleep. [2] "What do you see?" he asked me. I answered, "I see a lampstand made entirely of gold, with a bowl at the top and seven lamps upon it, and seven pipes to each of the lamps at its top. [3] Beside it stand two olive trees, one to the right of the bowl and one to its left." [4] Then I asked the angel who was speaking with me, "My lord, what are these?" [5] The angel who was speaking with me replied, "Don't you know what they are?" "No, my lord," I said. [6] Then he explained to me: "This is the word of the LORD to Zerubbabel: Not by might and not by power, but by my Spirit, says the LORD of hosts. [7] What are you, great mountain? Before Zerubbabel you will be flattened into a plain. He will bring out the top stone to shouts of 'Grace, grace to it!'"* [8] Then the word of the LORD came to me: [9] Zerubbabel's hands laid the foundation of this house, and his hands will finish it; then you will know that the LORD of hosts sent me to you. [10] Who has looked down on the day of small beginnings? They will rejoice when they see the plumb stone in Zerubbabel's hand. These seven are the eyes of the LORD that roam over the whole earth. [11] I then asked him, "What do the two olive trees mean, the one to the right of the lampstand and the one to its left?" [12] I asked him a second question: "What are the two olive branches beside the two gold spouts that empty the golden oil out of themselves?" [13] He said, "Don't you know what they are?" "No, my lord," I replied. [14] So he said, "These are the two sons of oil who stand beside the Lord of all the earth."

CHAPTER 5

[1] Once more I looked up, and I saw a scroll flying. [2] "What do you see?" he asked me. I said, "A scroll in flight, twenty cubits long and ten cubits wide." [3] He told me, "This is the curse going out across the whole land; for by what is written on one side every thief will be purged out, and by what is written on the other everyone who swears falsely will be purged out. [4] I have sent it out, declares the LORD of hosts, and it will go into the thief's house and into the house of whoever swears falsely by my name; it will settle inside his house and eat it away, timbers and stones alike." [5] Then the angel who was speaking with me came forward and told me, "Look up and see what this thing is that is coming out." [6] "What is it?" I asked. "It is an ephah going out," he said, and he added, "This is their appearance throughout the land."* [7] Then a round lid of lead was raised, and there inside the ephah sat a woman. [8] "This is Wickedness," he said, and he shoved her down inside the ephah and pressed the lead weight onto its mouth. [9] I looked up and saw two women coming out with wind in their wings; their wings were like a stork's, and they carried the ephah up between earth and sky. [10] I asked the angel who was speaking with me, "Where are they carrying the ephah?" [11] He answered, "To the land of Shinar, to build a temple for it there; when that is ready, it will be placed there on its own stand."

CHAPTER 6

[1] Once more I looked up and saw four chariots coming out between two mountains, mountains made of bronze. [2] Red horses pulled the first chariot, black horses the second, [3] white horses the third, and dappled horses the fourth, all of them powerful. [4] I spoke up and asked the angel who was speaking with me, "My lord, what are these?" [5] The angel replied, "These are the four spirits of heaven, going out from where they stood before the Lord of all the earth. [6] The one with the black horses is heading for the land of the north, the white ones are following them, and the dappled ones are heading for the land of the south." [7] As the powerful horses came out, they were eager to set off and range over the earth. He said, "Go, range over the earth!" And they ranged over the earth. [8] Then he called out to me, "Look, the ones going to the land of the north have given my Spirit rest in the land of the north." [9] And the word of the LORD came to me: [10] Collect from the exiles, from Heldai, Tobijah and Jedaiah, who have arrived from Babylon; go that same day to the house of Josiah son of Zephaniah. [11] Take the silver and the gold, fashion crowns, and put them on the head of Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest. [12] Tell him: This is what the LORD of hosts says: Here is a man whose name is the Branch; from where he is he will sprout up, and he will build the temple of the LORD. [13] Yes, he is the one who will build the LORD's temple; he will be clothed with majesty, and he will sit and rule on his throne. He will be a priest on his throne, and there will be counsel of peace between the two of them. [14] The crowns will remain in the LORD's temple as a reminder for Helem, Tobijah, Jedaiah and Hen son of Zephaniah. [15] People from far away will come and help build the temple of the LORD, and you will know that the LORD of hosts sent me to you. This will happen if you truly listen to the voice of the LORD your God.

CHAPTER 7

[1] It was in King Darius's fourth year, on the fourth day of the ninth month, Chislev, that the word of the LORD came to Zechariah. [2] Bethel had sent Sharezer and Regem-melech and their men to seek the LORD's favor [3] and to ask the priests of the house of the LORD of hosts and the prophets, "Am I to go on weeping in the fifth month and keeping myself apart, as I have done for so many years?" [4] Then the word of the LORD of hosts came to me: [5] Tell all the people of the land and the priests: When you fasted and lamented in the fifth and the seventh months these seventy years, was it really for me that you fasted? [6] And when you eat and drink, are you not the ones eating and the ones drinking? [7] Are these not the same words the LORD called out through the earlier prophets, back when Jerusalem was settled and secure, along with the towns around her, and when people lived in the Negev and the Shephelah? [8] And the word of the LORD came to Zechariah: [9] This is what the LORD of hosts says: Judge with true justice, and practice kindness and compassion, each of you toward his brother. [10] Do not exploit widow or orphan, foreigner or poor man, and do not scheme in your hearts to harm one another. [11] But they would not listen; they turned away with a defiant shoulder and plugged their ears so they would not hear. [12] They made their hearts hard as flint so as not to listen to the law and the words the LORD of hosts had sent by his Spirit through the earlier prophets; and so the LORD of hosts was greatly angered. [13] Just as he called and they did not listen, so they would call and I would not listen, says the LORD of hosts; [14] I blew them away in a storm among all the nations they had never known, and the land they left behind was so desolate that no one traveled through it; that is how they turned a delightful land into a wasteland.

CHAPTER 8

[1] And the word of the LORD of hosts came: [2] This is what the LORD of hosts says: I am zealous for Zion with a fierce jealousy; with great fury I am zealous for her. [3] This is what the LORD says: I have come back to Zion and will make my home in the middle of Jerusalem; Jerusalem will be called the City of Truth, and the mountain of the LORD of hosts the Holy Mountain. [4] This is what the LORD of hosts says: Once again elderly men and women will sit in Jerusalem's squares, each holding a cane because they have lived so long. [5] The city's squares will be crowded with boys and girls at play. [6] This is what the LORD of hosts says: It may seem too wonderful to the remnant of this people in those days; but must it seem too wonderful to me as well? declares the LORD of hosts. [7] This is what the LORD of hosts says: I am going to rescue my people from the lands of the sunrise and from the lands of the sunset; [8] I will bring them home to live in the heart of Jerusalem; they will be my people, and I will be their God, in truth and righteousness. [9] This is what the LORD of hosts says: Be strong, all you who are hearing these days the words spoken by the prophets who were there when the foundation of the house of the LORD of hosts was laid for the building of the temple. [10] Before that time no one was paid for the labor of man or beast, and nobody could go out or come in safe from the enemy, because I had turned everyone against his neighbor. [11] But now I will not treat the remnant of this people as I did before, declares the LORD of hosts. [12] For the sowing will be in peace: the vine will yield its fruit, the land its harvest, and the sky its dew, and I will give all these things to the remnant of this people as their possession. [13] House of Judah and house of Israel, just as you were a curse among the nations, so I will rescue you and you will become a blessing. Do not be afraid; be strong. [14] This is what the LORD of hosts says: When your fathers made me angry, I resolved to bring disaster on you and did not change my mind, says the LORD of hosts; [15] now in these days I have resolved once more to do good to Jerusalem and to the house of Judah. Do not be afraid. [16] Here is what you must do: tell one another the truth, and in your gates give rulings that are true and bring about peace. [17] Do not plan harm against each other in your hearts, and take no delight in lying oaths; I hate all such things, declares the LORD. [18] And the word of the LORD of hosts came to me: [19] This is what the LORD of hosts says: The fasts of the fourth, fifth, seventh and tenth months will become times of joy and gladness and happy festivals for the house of Judah. So love truth and peace. [20] This is what the LORD of hosts says: The day is still coming when peoples will arrive, those who live in many cities; [21] people from one city will go to another and say, "Come, let us go right away to plead for the LORD's favor and to seek the LORD of hosts; I am going myself." [22] Many peoples and mighty nations will come to Jerusalem to seek the LORD of hosts and to ask for the LORD's favor. [23] This is what the LORD of hosts says: In those days ten men from nations of every language will take hold, gripping the hem of a Jew's robe, and say, "Let us go with you, for we have heard that God is with you."

CHAPTER 9

[1] An oracle. The word of the LORD is against the land of Hadrach, and it comes to rest on Damascus; for the eyes of mankind, and of all the tribes of Israel, are on the LORD, [2] and Hamath too, which borders it, and Tyre and Sidon, for all their great wisdom. [3] Tyre has built herself a fortress and piled up silver like dust and gold like dirt in the streets. [4] But the Lord will take away what she owns and hurl her strength into the sea, and she will be consumed by fire. [5] Ashkelon will see it and be terrified; Gaza will writhe in agony, and Ekron too, because her hope has withered. Gaza will lose her king, and Ashkelon will be left empty. [6] A mixed people will settle in Ashdod, and I will put an end to the Philistines' pride.* [7] I will remove the blood from his mouth and the detestable food from between his teeth; he too will be left as a remnant for our God and become like a chief in Judah, and Ekron like the Jebusites. [8] I will set up camp around my house as a guard against anyone who comes and goes; no oppressor will overrun them again, for now I am watching with my own eyes. [9] Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion! Shout for joy, O daughter of Jerusalem! Look, your King is coming to you; he is righteous and bringing salvation, lowly and riding on a donkey, on a colt, the foal of a donkey.* [10] I will remove the chariot from Ephraim and the horse from Jerusalem, and the war bow will be broken; he will announce peace to the nations, and he will rule from sea to sea, from the River to the farthest parts of the earth. [11] As for you, because of the blood of your covenant, I have released your captives from the waterless pit. [12] Come back to the fortress, you prisoners who have hope; even today I announce that I will repay you twice over. [13] For I have drawn Judah like my bow and loaded it with Ephraim; I will rouse your sons, Zion, against your sons, Greece, and make you like a hero's sword. [14] The LORD will be seen above them, and his arrow will flash out like lightning; the Lord GOD will blow the ram's horn and advance in the storms from the south. [15] The LORD of hosts will shield them; they will devour and trample the sling stones; they will drink and roar as with wine, filled like a basin, like the corners of the altar. [16] On that day the LORD their God will rescue them as the flock of his people, for they are like gems in a crown, glittering over his land. [17] What goodness is his, and what beauty! Grain will make the young men thrive, and new wine the maidens.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Ask the LORD for rain when the late rains are due; it is the LORD who makes the thunderclouds, and he will give them heavy showers, green plants in the field for everyone. [2] For the teraphim talk emptiness, and the diviners see falsehood; they recount worthless dreams and offer hollow comfort. So the people stray like sheep and suffer, having no shepherd. [3] My anger blazes against the shepherds, and I will call the he-goats to account; for the LORD of hosts has visited his flock, the house of Judah, and will make them like his splendid warhorse. [4] Out of him will come the cornerstone, out of him the tent peg, out of him the bow of battle, out of him every leader together. [5] They will be like warriors stamping the enemy into the mire of the streets in battle; they will fight, since the LORD is with them, and the horsemen will be put to shame. [6] I will make the house of Judah mighty and rescue the house of Joseph; I will settle them again, for I have compassion on them, and it will be as if I had never cast them off; for I am the LORD their God, and I will answer them. [7] Ephraim will be like a warrior, their hearts cheered as if by wine; their children will see it and be happy; their hearts will exult in the LORD. [8] I will signal for them with a whistle and bring them together, for I have redeemed them, and they will grow as numerous as they once were. [9] Though I sow them among the peoples, yet in distant lands they will remember me; they will live, they and their children, and they will come back. [10] I will bring them back out of the land of Egypt and collect them from Assyria; I will lead them into the land of Gilead and Lebanon, and even that will not be enough room for them. [11] He will cross the sea of distress and beat down its waves, and every depth of the Nile will run dry; Assyria's pride will be brought low, and Egypt's scepter will be taken away. [12] I will strengthen them in the LORD, and in his name they will go about, declares the LORD.

CHAPTER 11

[1] Throw open your doors, Lebanon, so fire can eat up your cedars! [2] Howl, you cypress, for the cedar is down, the mighty trees are wrecked! Howl, you oaks of Bashan, for the dense forest has been cut down! [3] Hear the shepherds howling, because their splendor is wrecked! Hear the young lions roaring, because the thickets of the Jordan are laid waste! [4] This is what the LORD my God said: Tend the sheep that are destined for slaughter, [5] whose buyers kill them and suffer no penalty, whose sellers say, "Praise the LORD, I am rich!" and whose own shepherds feel no pity for them. [6] I will no longer spare the people of the land, declares the LORD. I am going to hand everyone over to his neighbor and to his king; they will beat the land to pieces, and I will rescue no one from their power. [7] So I tended the sheep destined for slaughter, truly the most afflicted of the flock. I took two staffs, calling one Favor and the other Union, and I tended the sheep.* [8] Within a single month I got rid of the three shepherds. I lost patience with them, and they for their part loathed me. [9] Then I said, "I will not tend you any longer. Let the dying die and the perishing perish, and let those left over eat one another's flesh." [10] I picked up my staff called Favor and snapped it in two, breaking the covenant I had made with all the peoples. [11] It was broken that very day, and so the most afflicted of the flock, who were watching me, understood that this was the word of the LORD. [12] I told them, "If you think it right, pay me my wages; if not, don't." So they weighed out my wages: thirty pieces of silver. [13] Then the LORD told me, "Throw it to the potter, that magnificent price at which they valued me!" So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw them to the potter in the house of the LORD.* [14] Next I snapped my second staff, Union, breaking the bond of brotherhood between Judah and Israel. [15] And the LORD said to me, "Pick up again the gear of a foolish shepherd. [16] For I am about to set up a shepherd over the land who will not look after the perishing, will not search for the strays, will not heal the injured or feed the sound, but will eat the meat of the fattest and rip off their hooves. [17] Woe to the worthless shepherd who abandons the flock! A sword on his arm and on his right eye! May his arm shrivel up entirely and his right eye go completely dark!"

CHAPTER 12

[1] An oracle: the word of the LORD about Israel. The LORD declares, he who spreads out the heavens, lays the earth's foundation and shapes the spirit of man within him: [2] I am going to make Jerusalem a cup that sends all the surrounding peoples reeling; and Judah too will be caught up in the siege against Jerusalem. [3] On that day I will make Jerusalem a stone too heavy for all the peoples; anyone who tries to lift it will be badly cut, and every nation of the earth will gather against her. [4] On that day, declares the LORD, I will strike every horse with terror and every rider with madness. I will keep a watchful eye on the house of Judah, but I will strike every horse of the peoples blind. [5] The chiefs of Judah will say to themselves, "The people of Jerusalem are my strength, through the LORD of hosts their God." [6] On that day I will make the chiefs of Judah like a fire pan in a woodpile, like a burning torch among sheaves; they will consume all the peoples around them, right and left, while Jerusalem stays settled in her own place, in Jerusalem. [7] The LORD will rescue the tents of Judah first, so that the honor of David's house and the honor of Jerusalem's inhabitants will not be raised above Judah. [8] On that day the LORD will be a shield around the people of Jerusalem; the one who stumbles among them will be like David on that day, and the house of David like God, like the angel of the LORD at their head. [9] On that day I will set out to destroy every nation that attacks Jerusalem. [10] And I will pour out on the house of David and on the inhabitants of Jerusalem a spirit of grace and of supplication, and they shall look on me whom they have pierced; and they shall mourn for him as one mourns for an only son, and grieve bitterly for him as one grieves for a firstborn.* [11] On that day there will be great mourning in Jerusalem, like the mourning of Hadad-rimmon in the valley of Megiddon. [12] The land will mourn, clan by clan, each apart: the clan of David's house apart and their wives apart; the clan of Nathan's house apart and their wives apart; [13] the clan of Levi's house apart and their wives apart; the clan of the Shimeites apart and their wives apart; [14] and all the clans that remain, each clan apart and their wives apart.

CHAPTER 13

[1] On that day a spring will be opened for David's house and the people of Jerusalem, to wash away sin and impurity. [2] On that day, declares the LORD of hosts, I will wipe the names of the idols out of the land, and they will never be mentioned again; I will also drive the prophets and the spirit of uncleanness out of the land. [3] If anyone still prophesies, the very father and mother who gave him life will tell him, "You must die, because you have spoken lies in the LORD's name"; and his own father and mother will run him through while he is prophesying. [4] On that day each prophet will be embarrassed by his vision as he prophesies, and none will wear a cloak of hair to fool people. [5] Instead he will say, "I am not a prophet; I till the ground; a man has owned me since I was young." [6] And if someone asks him, "What are these wounds between your hands?" he will reply, "They are the wounds I was given in the house of those who love me."* [7] Rise up, sword, against my shepherd, against the man who is my close companion, declares the LORD of hosts. Strike the shepherd, and the sheep will be scattered, and I will turn my hand upon the little ones. [8] Throughout the land, declares the LORD, two parts will be cut off and die, and a third will be left in it. [9] That third I will lead through the fire; I will refine them the way silver is refined and assay them the way gold is assayed. They will call on my name and I will answer them; I will say, "This is my people," and they will say, "The LORD is my God."

CHAPTER 14

[1] See, a day of the LORD is coming when your plunder will be shared out right in your midst. [2] I will bring all the nations together to fight against Jerusalem; the city will be captured, the houses looted and the women violated. Half the city will go into exile, but the remainder of the people will not be removed from the city. [3] Then the LORD will march out and do battle with those nations, as he fights in the day of war. [4] On that day his feet will stand on the Mount of Olives, which faces Jerusalem to the east, and the Mount of Olives will be torn apart down the middle from east to west, making a vast valley; half of the mountain will shift to the north and half to the south. [5] You will run away through the valley of my mountains, for the valley of the mountains will stretch as far as Azal; you will run as you ran from the earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah. Then the LORD my God will come, and all the holy ones with you.* [6] On that day there will be no light; the bright ones will congeal.* [7] It will be one continuous day, known to the LORD, not day and not night; and when evening comes, there will be light. [8] On that day fresh running water will go out from Jerusalem, half toward the eastern sea and half toward the western sea, summer and winter alike. [9] The LORD will be King over the whole earth; on that day the LORD will be one, and his name one. [10] All the land from Geba to Rimmon, south of Jerusalem, will be leveled like the Arabah, but Jerusalem will rise high and stay where she is, from the Benjamin Gate to the site of the First Gate and the Corner Gate, and from the Tower of Hananel to the royal winepresses. [11] People will make their homes in her; never again will she be under a decree of utter destruction, and Jerusalem will live in safety. [12] This is the plague with which the LORD will strike all the peoples who fought against Jerusalem: their flesh will waste away as they stand on their feet, their eyes will waste away in their sockets, and their tongues will waste away in their mouths. [13] On that day the LORD will throw them into great confusion; each man will grab his neighbor's hand, and they will raise their hands against one another. [14] Judah too will fight in Jerusalem, and the riches of all the surrounding nations will be gathered up: gold, silver and clothing in vast amounts. [15] A plague of the same kind will strike the horses, mules, camels and donkeys, and every animal in those camps. [16] Then all the survivors from every nation that attacked Jerusalem will go up each year to bow down to the King, the LORD of hosts, and to celebrate the Feast of Booths. [17] Should any of the clans of the earth fail to go up to Jerusalem to bow down to the King, the LORD of hosts, no rain will fall on them. [18] And if the clan of Egypt does not go up and come, they will get no rain either; the plague will fall on them with which the LORD strikes the nations that do not go up to celebrate the Feast of Booths. [19] Such will be the penalty for Egypt's sin and for the sin of every nation that does not go up to celebrate the Feast of Booths. [20] On that day the horses' bells will carry the words "Holy to the LORD," and the cooking pots in the LORD's house will be like the sprinkling bowls in front of the altar. [21] Every pot in Jerusalem and in Judah will be holy to the LORD of hosts; all who offer sacrifice will come, take some of them and cook in them. And on that day there will no longer be any Canaanite in the house of the LORD of hosts.*

CHAPTER 1

[1] The oracle of the word of the LORD to Israel by Malachi. [*] [2] I have loved you, says the LORD. Yet you ask, "In what way have you loved us?" Was Esau not Jacob's brother? declares the LORD. And I loved Jacob, [3] while Esau I hated; I have turned his mountains into a wasteland and handed his inheritance over to the desert jackals. [4] Edom may say, "We have been crushed, but we will go back and rebuild the ruins"; this is what the LORD of hosts says: Let them build; I will pull it down. They will be known as the land of wickedness, the people the LORD is angry with forever. [5] You will see it with your own eyes and say, "The LORD is great, even beyond Israel's borders!" [6] A son gives honor to his father, and a servant to his master. If I am a father, then, where is the honor due me? If I am a master, where is the reverence for me? says the LORD of hosts to you priests who treat my name with contempt. Yet you ask, "In what way have we despised your name?" [7] You bring defiled food to my altar. Then you ask, "In what way have we defiled you?" By saying that the LORD's table is contemptible. [8] When you bring a blind animal to sacrifice, is that no evil? When you bring one that is lame or sick, is that no evil? Just try offering it to your governor! Will he be pleased with you or receive you graciously? says the LORD of hosts. [9] So now plead with God for mercy, that he may be gracious to us! With this coming from your hands, will he receive any of you with favor? says the LORD of hosts. [10] If only one of you would close the temple doors, so that you would stop lighting useless fires on my altar! I am not pleased with you, says the LORD of hosts, and I will accept no grain offering from your hand. [11] For from where the sun rises to where it sets, my name is great among the nations; everywhere incense is brought to my name, and a pure grain offering, for great is my name among the nations, says the LORD of hosts. [12] But you treat it as common when you say, "The Lord's table is defiled, and what it yields, its food, is contemptible." [13] And you say, "What a burden!" and you turn up your noses at it, says the LORD of hosts. You bring animals that were stolen, or lame, or sick, and that is what you bring as an offering! Should I accept it from you? says the LORD. [14] A curse on the swindler who has a male in his flock and vows it, then sacrifices a defective animal to the Lord! For I am a great King, says the LORD of hosts, and my name is held in awe among the nations.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Now this commandment is for you, priests. [2] Unless you listen, unless you set your heart on giving glory to my name, says the LORD of hosts, I will send the curse among you and turn your blessings into curses; in fact, I have cursed them already, because you do not take it to heart. [3] See, I am going to rebuke your offspring; I will smear dung on your faces, the dung from your festival sacrifices, and you will be carried off with it. [4] Then you will realize that it was I who sent you this commandment, so that my covenant with Levi might endure, says the LORD of hosts. [5] My covenant with him was life and peace, and I gave them to him so that he would fear; and he did fear me and stood in awe of my name. [6] The law of truth was on his tongue, and nothing crooked was found on his lips; he walked with me in peace and integrity and brought many back from iniquity. [7] A priest's lips ought to safeguard knowledge, and people ought to look for the law from his mouth, since he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts. [8] But you have left the way; by your teaching of the law you have tripped up many; you have ruined the covenant of Levi, says the LORD of hosts. [9] So I in turn have made you despised and humiliated before all the people, since you have not kept my ways and you play favorites in the law. [10] Do we not all have one Father? Did not one God create us? Why then do we break faith with each other, each with his brother, and profane the covenant of our fathers? [11] Judah has broken faith; a detestable thing has been done in Israel and in Jerusalem: Judah has desecrated the LORD's holy place, which he loves, by marrying the daughter of a foreign god. [12] May the LORD cut off from the tents of Jacob any man who does this, whoever he may be, even one who brings an offering to the LORD of hosts. [13] Here is another thing you do: you flood the LORD's altar with tears, crying and moaning, because he no longer pays attention to the offering or receives it gladly from your hands. [14] And you ask, "Why?" It is because the LORD has stood witness between you and the wife you married in your youth, whom you have betrayed, though she is your partner and the wife of your covenant. [15] Did he not make them one, with a remnant of the Spirit in him? And why one? He was seeking offspring from God. So take care in your spirit, and let no one betray the wife of his youth. [] [16] For the LORD, the God of Israel, says that he hates divorce, and the one who covers his garment with violence, says the LORD of hosts. So take care in your spirit, and do not break faith. [] [17] You have worn out the LORD with your talk. And you ask, "How have we worn him out?" By saying, "All who do evil are good in the LORD's eyes, and he is pleased with them," or, "Where is the God who judges?"

CHAPTER 3

[1] See, I am sending my messenger, and he will clear a path before me. Then suddenly the Lord you are looking for will come to his temple, the messenger of the covenant whom you long for; see, he is coming, says the LORD of hosts. [2] Who, though, can bear the day he comes, and who can stay standing when he appears? He will be like a smelter's fire, like the lye of those who wash clothes. [3] He will take his seat, refining and purifying silver; he will cleanse the sons of Levi and refine them like gold and silver, and they will be people who present offerings to the LORD in righteousness. [4] And the offering of Judah and Jerusalem will please the LORD, as it did long ago, as in years gone by. [5] I will come near to you to judge, and I will be quick to testify against sorcerers and adulterers, against those who take false oaths, against those who cheat the laborer of his pay and exploit the widow and the orphan, and against those who push the foreigner aside and have no fear of me, says the LORD of hosts. [6] For I, the LORD, have not changed; and you, sons of Jacob, have not come to an end. [7] Ever since your fathers' days you have strayed from my statutes and not kept them. Come back to me, and I will come back to you, says the LORD of hosts. Yet you ask, "How are we to come back?" [8] Can a man defraud God? Yet you are defrauding me! And you ask, "How have we defrauded you?" In tithes and contributions. [*] [9] You are under a curse, every one of you, the whole nation, because you are defrauding me. [10] Bring the entire tithe into the storehouse so there will be food in my house, and test me with this, says the LORD of hosts: see if I will not throw open the windows of heaven for you and pour out blessing on you until there is more than enough. [11] For your sake I will rebuke the devourer, and it will not ruin the produce of your soil, nor will the vine in your field drop its fruit, says the LORD of hosts. [12] All the nations will count you happy, for you will be a delightful land, says the LORD of hosts. [13] You have used hard words against me, says the LORD. Yet you ask, "What have we said against you among ourselves?" [14] You have said, "Serving God is pointless. What did we gain by doing what he required and going about in mourning before the LORD of hosts? [15] So now we count the arrogant happy; those who do wickedness not only thrive, they even test God and get away with it." [16] Then those who feared the LORD talked with each other, and the LORD took note and listened; a scroll of remembrance was written in his presence about those who fear the LORD and think highly of his name. [17] They will be mine, says the LORD of hosts, my own treasure on the day I act, and I will spare them as a father spares the son who serves him. [18] Then you will again see the difference between the righteous and the wicked, between the one who serves God and the one who does not.

CHAPTER 4

[1] For see, the day is on its way, blazing like a furnace, and all the proud and every evildoer will be straw; the coming day will set them on fire, says the LORD of hosts, and leave them neither root nor branch. [] [2] But on you who fear my name the sun of righteousness will rise, with healing in its wings, and you will go out and frisk about like calves let out of the stall. [3] You will trample the wicked; they will be ash under the soles of your feet on the day I am preparing, says the LORD of hosts. [4] Keep in mind the law of my servant Moses, the statutes and ordinances I gave him at Horeb for all Israel. [5] See, I am sending you the prophet Elijah before the coming of the day of the LORD, that great and dreadful day. [6] He will turn fathers' hearts back to their sons and sons' hearts back to their fathers, so that I do not come and strike the land with a decree of utter destruction. []

CHAPTER 1

[1] The book of the lineage of Jesus Christ, the son of David, the son of Abraham. [2] Abraham fathered Isaac, and Isaac fathered Jacob, and Jacob fathered Judah and his brothers, [] [3] and Judah fathered Perez and Zerah by Tamar, and Perez fathered Hezron, and Hezron fathered Ram, [4] and Ram fathered Amminadab, and Amminadab fathered Nahshon, and Nahshon fathered Salmon, [5] and Salmon fathered Boaz by Rahab, and Boaz fathered Obed by Ruth, and Obed fathered Jesse, [6] and Jesse fathered David the king. And David the king fathered Solomon by Uriah's wife, [7] and Solomon fathered Rehoboam, and Rehoboam fathered Abijah, and Abijah fathered Asa, [8] and Asa fathered Jehoshaphat, and Jehoshaphat fathered Joram, and Joram fathered Uzziah, [9] and Uzziah fathered Jotham, and Jotham fathered Ahaz, and Ahaz fathered Hezekiah, [10] and Hezekiah fathered Manasseh, and Manasseh fathered Amon, and Amon fathered Josiah, [11] and Josiah fathered Jeconiah and his brothers at the time of the removal to Babylon. [12] And after the removal to Babylon, Jeconiah fathered Shealtiel, and Shealtiel fathered Zerubbabel, [13] and Zerubbabel fathered Abiud, and Abiud fathered Eliakim, and Eliakim fathered Azor, [14] and Azor fathered Zadok, and Zadok fathered Achim, and Achim fathered Eliud, [15] and Eliud fathered Eleazar, and Eleazar fathered Matthan, and Matthan fathered Jacob, [16] and Jacob fathered Joseph, the husband of Mary, and from her Jesus was born, who is called Christ. [17] So the generations from Abraham to David are fourteen generations in all, and from David to the removal to Babylon fourteen generations, and from the removal to Babylon to the Christ fourteen generations. [18] The birth of Jesus Christ happened in this way. After his mother Mary had been pledged to Joseph in marriage, before they came together, she was found to have a child in her womb from the Holy Spirit. [19] Joseph her husband was a righteous man and did not want to expose her to public disgrace, so he resolved to release her privately. [20] But when he had pondered these things, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream and said, "Joseph, son of David, do not be afraid to take Mary your wife to yourself, for what has been begotten in her is of the Holy Spirit. [21] She will give birth to a son, and you are to name him Jesus, because he is the one who will save his people from their sins." [22] All this happened so that the word spoken by the Lord through the prophet would be fulfilled, which says, [23] "Behold, the virgin will become pregnant and give birth to a son, and they will call his name Immanuel," which translated is "God with us." [] [24] Rising from sleep, Joseph did as the angel of the Lord had instructed him and took his wife to himself, [25] yet he did not know her until she had given birth to her firstborn son; and he gave him the name Jesus.

CHAPTER 2

[1] After Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea, in the days of King Herod, wise men from the east arrived in Jerusalem, [2] saying, "Where is the newborn King of the Jews? For we saw his star in the east and came to worship him." [3] When King Herod heard it, he was disturbed, and all Jerusalem along with him. [4] He called together all the chief priests and scribes of the people and began asking them where the Christ would be born. [5] They answered him, "In Bethlehem of Judea, for thus it has been written through the prophet: [6] 'And you, Bethlehem, land of Judah, are in no way the least among the leaders of Judah, for from you will come one who governs, who will shepherd my people Israel.'" [7] Then Herod privately called the wise men and found out from them exactly when the star had appeared. [8] He sent them to Bethlehem and said, "Go and inquire carefully about the child. As soon as you find him, let me know, so that I also may come and worship him." [9] When they had heard the king, they set out, and look, the star they had seen in the east went ahead of them until it came and stood above the place where the child was. [10] At the sight of the star they rejoiced with an exceedingly great joy. [11] On entering the house they saw the child with Mary his mother, and they fell down and worshiped him; and opening their treasure chests, they presented him with gifts: gold, frankincense, and myrrh. [*] [12] Then, having been warned in a dream not to go back to Herod, they withdrew to their own country by another road. [13] After they had gone, an angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream and said, "Get up, take the child and his mother, and escape to Egypt. Stay there until I give you word, for Herod is going to seek the child to destroy him." [14] So he rose, took the child and his mother during the night, and withdrew into Egypt. [15] He remained there until Herod's death, in order that what the Lord spoke through the prophet would be fulfilled, which says, "From Egypt I called my Son." [16] Then Herod, seeing that the wise men had made a fool of him, flew into a rage. He sent men and killed all the boys in Bethlehem and throughout its surrounding area who were two years old and younger, in keeping with the time he had carefully learned from the wise men. [17] Then what had been spoken by Jeremiah the prophet was fulfilled: [18] "A sound was heard in Ramah, wailing and weeping and much grieving: Rachel weeping for her children, and she would not accept comfort, because they are no longer." [19] After Herod died, there appeared an angel of the Lord in a dream to Joseph in Egypt, [20] and said, "Get up, take the child and his mother, and go to the land of Israel, because those who sought the life of the child have died." [21] He rose, took the child and his mother, and entered the land of Israel. [22] But hearing that Archelaus ruled as king over Judea instead of his father Herod, he was afraid to go there; and after being warned in a dream, he went away into the region of Galilee. [23] He came and made his home in a town called Nazareth, so that the word spoken through the prophets would be fulfilled: "He will be called a Nazarene."

CHAPTER 3

[1] In those days John the Baptist arrived, preaching in the wilderness of Judea [2] and saying, "Repent, because the kingdom of heaven has drawn near." [3] For this is the one of whom Isaiah the prophet spoke, saying, "A voice of one calling out in the wilderness: 'Make ready the way of the Lord; make his paths straight.'" [4] John himself had clothing made of camel's hair, with a belt of leather around his waist, and his food was locusts and wild honey. [5] At that time Jerusalem was going out to him, and all Judea, and all the country surrounding the Jordan, [6] and they were baptized by him in the Jordan as they confessed their sins. [7] When he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees coming for his baptism, he said to them, "Offspring of vipers! Who showed you how to flee from the coming wrath? [8] Then produce fruits befitting repentance, [9] and do not suppose you can say among yourselves, 'Abraham is our father.' For I say to you that out of these stones God can raise up children for Abraham. [10] The axe is already lying at the root of the trees; so every tree not producing good fruit is being cut down and thrown into the fire. [11] I for my part baptize you in water for repentance, but the one coming after me is stronger than I am; I am not fit to carry his sandals. He will baptize you in the Holy Spirit and fire. [12] His winnowing fork is in his hand, and he will thoroughly cleanse his threshing floor; he will gather his wheat into the storehouse, but he will burn up the chaff with fire that cannot be quenched. [13] Then Jesus arrived from Galilee at the Jordan, coming to John to be baptized by him. [14] But John kept trying to stop him, saying, "It is I who need to be baptized by you, and you are coming to me?" [15] Jesus answered him, "Allow it for now; it is proper for us in this way to fulfill all righteousness." Then John allowed him. [16] Once baptized, Jesus went up at once from the water, and look, the heavens were opened to him, and he saw the Spirit of God coming down as a dove and alighting on him. [17] And there came a voice out of the heavens, saying, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I have delighted."

CHAPTER 4

[1] Then Jesus was brought up into the wilderness by the Spirit to be tempted by the devil. [2] When he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he finally became hungry. [3] Then the tempter approached him and said, "If you are the Son of God, say that these stones should become bread." [4] But he replied, "It is written: 'Man will not live on bread alone, but on every word coming out through the mouth of God.'" [5] Then the devil took him along into the holy city, and he stood him on the highest point of the temple [6] and said to him, "If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down, because it is written, 'He will give orders to his angels concerning you,' and 'They will lift you up in their hands, so that you will not strike your foot against a stone.'" [7] Jesus said to him, "It is also written, 'You shall not tempt the Lord your God.'" [8] Once more the devil took him to an extremely high mountain and showed him all the kingdoms of the world and their glory, [9] and he said to him, "I will give you all these things if you fall down and worship me." [10] Then Jesus told him, "Get away, Satan! For it is written, 'You shall worship the Lord your God, and you shall serve him alone.'" [11] Then the devil let him go, and look, angels came and attended to him. [12] When Jesus heard that John had been handed over, he departed into Galilee. [13] He left Nazareth behind and came and settled in Capernaum, the town beside the sea, within the borders of Zebulun and Naphtali, [14] in order that what was spoken through Isaiah the prophet would be fulfilled, which says, [15] "Land of Zebulun and land of Naphtali, along the way of the sea, beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles: [16] the people sitting in darkness saw a great light, and for those sitting in the land and shadow of death, a light rose upon them." [17] From then on Jesus began to preach, saying, "Repent, because the kingdom of heaven has drawn near." [18] As Jesus walked beside the Sea of Galilee, he saw two brothers, Simon, called Peter, and his brother Andrew, throwing a net into the sea; for they were fishermen. [19] And he said to them, "Come after me, and I will make you fishers of men." [20] Leaving their nets at once, they followed him. [21] Going on from there, he saw two more brothers, James son of Zebedee and his brother John, in the boat with their father Zebedee, repairing their nets; and he called them. [22] And at once, leaving the boat and their father, they followed him. [23] Jesus went around all of Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every disease and every illness among the people. [24] The report about him went out through all Syria, and they brought to him all who were sick, gripped by various diseases and torments, those possessed by demons, epileptics, and paralytics; and he healed them.* [25] Large crowds followed him from Galilee, the Decapolis, Jerusalem, Judea, and from across the Jordan.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Now seeing the crowds, he went up the mountain, and after he had sat down, his disciples approached him. [2] Opening his mouth, he taught them, saying, [3] "Blessed are the poor in spirit, because the kingdom of heaven is theirs. [4] Blessed are those who mourn, because they will be comforted. [5] Blessed are the meek, because they will inherit the earth. [6] Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, because they will be fed to the full. [7] Blessed are the merciful, because mercy will be given to them. [8] Blessed are the pure in heart, because they will see God. [9] Blessed are the peacemakers, because they will be called sons of God. [10] Blessed are those persecuted on account of righteousness, because the kingdom of heaven is theirs. [11] Blessed are you when people heap insults on you and persecute you and falsely say every evil word against you because of me. [12] Rejoice and be overjoyed, because your reward in heaven is great; for in the same way they persecuted the prophets who came before you. [13] You are the salt of the earth. But if the salt becomes tasteless, with what will it be made salty? It is no longer good for anything but to be thrown outside and walked on by people. [14] You are the light of the world. A city located on a mountain cannot be hidden. [15] Nor do people light a lamp only to place it under the grain basket; rather, they set it on the lampstand, and it shines on all who are in the house. [16] Let your light shine before people in just this way, so that they may see your good deeds and glorify your Father who is in heaven. [17] Do not suppose that I came to tear down the Law or the Prophets. I did not come to tear down, but to fulfill. [18] For truly I say to you, until heaven and earth pass away, not a single iota or a single stroke of a letter will by any means pass from the Law until everything has taken place. [19] So whoever sets aside one of the least of these commandments and teaches people to do so will be called least in the kingdom of heaven; but whoever practices and teaches them, this one will be called great in the kingdom of heaven. [20] For I say to you that if your righteousness does not go far beyond that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will by no means enter the kingdom of heaven. [21] You have heard that the people of long ago were told, 'You shall not murder,' and 'Whoever murders will be subject to judgment.' [22] But I say to you that anyone who is angry with his brother without a cause will be subject to judgment; anyone who says to his brother, 'Raca,' will be subject to the Council; and anyone who says, 'Fool!' will be subject to the hell of fire.* [23] Therefore, if you bring your gift to the altar and there you recall that your brother holds something against you, [24] leave your gift right there in front of the altar and go away; first make peace with your brother, and then come and present your gift. [25] Be quick to make friends with your opponent while you are still on the road with him, or else your opponent may hand you over to the judge, and the judge to the officer, and you will be thrown into prison. [26] Truly I say to you, you will certainly not come out from there until you pay back the last quadrans.* [27] You have heard that the people of long ago were told, 'You shall not commit adultery.' [28] But I say to you that anyone who gazes at a woman in order to desire her has already committed adultery with her in his heart. [29] If your right eye causes you to stumble, pluck it out and cast it from you; it is to your advantage that one of your body parts be lost, and not that your whole body be thrown into hell. [30] And if your right hand causes you to stumble, cut it off and cast it from you; it is to your advantage that one of your body parts be lost, and not that your whole body be thrown into hell. [31] It was also said, 'Whoever sends away his wife must give her a document of divorce.' [32] But I say to you that whoever sends away his wife, except on account of sexual immorality, makes her commit adultery; and whoever marries a woman who has been sent away commits adultery. [33] Again, you have heard that the people of long ago were told, 'You shall not break your oath, but you shall carry out your oaths to the Lord.' [34] But I say to you, make no oath at all: not by heaven, because it is God's throne, [35] nor by the earth, because it is the footstool of his feet; nor by Jerusalem, because it is the city of the great King. [36] And do not swear by your own head, since you are not able to make a single hair white or black. [37] Rather, let your speech be 'Yes, yes' or 'No, no'; whatever goes beyond these is from the evil one. [38] You have heard that it was said, 'An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.' [39] But I say to you, do not stand against the evil person; rather, whoever slaps you on your right cheek, turn the other one to him as well. [40] And to the one who wants to take you to court and take your tunic, yield your cloak too. [41] Whoever presses you into service for one mile, go with him two. [42] Give to anyone who asks of you, and do not turn your back on the one who wants to borrow from you. [43] You have heard that it was said, 'You shall love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' [44] But I say to you, love your enemies; bless the ones who curse you, treat well the ones who hate you, and pray for the ones who abuse you and persecute you, [45] so that you may become sons of your Father who is in heaven; for he causes his sun to rise on evil people and good, and he sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous. [46] For if you love the people who love you, what reward do you have? Are not the tax collectors doing the same thing too? [47] And if you greet your brothers only, what are you doing beyond others? Are not the tax collectors also doing this? [48] So you are to be perfect, even as your Father who is in heaven is perfect.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Be careful not to perform your charitable deeds in front of people in order to be noticed by them; if you do, you have no reward with your Father who is in heaven. [] [2] So whenever you give to the needy, do not blow a trumpet ahead of you, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the lanes, so that people will praise them. Truly I say to you, they already have their reward in full. [3] But you, when you give to the needy, must not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing, [4] so that your giving will be done in secret; and your Father who sees in secret will himself repay you openly. [5] And when you pray, you are not to be like the hypocrites, because they love to pray standing in the synagogues and on the corners of the wide streets, so that people may see them. Truly I say to you, they already have their reward in full. [6] But as for you, when you pray, enter your private room, close your door, and pray to your Father who is in secret; and your Father who sees in secret will repay you openly. [7] And in praying, do not pile up meaningless repetitions as the Gentiles do; they suppose that by saying a great deal they will be heard. [8] Do not be like them, then, for your Father knows what you have need of before you ask him. [9] This, then, is how you are to pray: Our Father who is in heaven, let your name be hallowed. [10] Let your kingdom come; let your will be done, on earth as it is in heaven. [11] Our daily bread give us today. [12] And forgive us our debts, just as we too forgive those indebted to us. [13] And do not bring us into temptation, but rescue us from evil. For the kingdom and the power and the glory are yours forever. Amen. [] [14] For if you forgive people their offenses, your heavenly Father will forgive you as well; [15] but if you do not forgive people their offenses, your Father will not forgive your offenses either. [16] Whenever you fast, do not put on a sad face as the hypocrites do; for they make their faces unsightly so that people will see that they are fasting. Truly I say to you, they already have their reward in full. [17] But you, when fasting, put oil on your head and wash your face, [18] so that it is not people who see you fasting but your Father who is in secret; and your Father who sees in secret will repay you openly. [19] Do not store up treasures for yourselves on earth, where moth and rust consume and where thieves dig through and steal; [20] but store up treasures for yourselves in heaven, where neither moth nor rust consumes and where thieves do not dig through or steal. [21] For wherever your treasure is, that is where your heart will be too. [22] The lamp of the body is the eye. If, then, your eye is clear, your whole body will be filled with light; [23] but if your eye is evil, your whole body will be filled with darkness. So if the light within you is darkness, how deep that darkness is! [24] No one can serve two lords; either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will cling to one and look down on the other. You cannot serve God and mammon. [25] For this reason I say to you, do not be anxious for your life, what you will eat or what you will drink, nor for your body, what you will put on. Is not the life more than the food, and the body more than the clothing? [26] Look closely at the birds of the sky: they do not sow or reap or gather into storehouses, and your heavenly Father feeds them. Do you not matter much more than they do? [27] And who among you, by being anxious, can add one cubit to his height? [28] And why be anxious over clothing? Learn from the lilies of the field how they grow: they do not toil, and they do not spin; [29] but I say to you that not even Solomon in all his splendor was dressed like one of them. [30] Now if God dresses the wild grass in this way, which is here today and tomorrow is thrown into the furnace, will he not much more dress you, you of little faith? [31] So do not be anxious, saying, 'What will we eat?' or 'What will we drink?' or 'What will we put on?' [32] For all these are the things the Gentiles strive for; for indeed your heavenly Father knows that you need all of them. [33] Instead, seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things will be added to you as well. [34] So do not be anxious about tomorrow, since tomorrow will be anxious about its own things. Each day's own trouble is enough for it.

CHAPTER 7

[1] Stop judging, so that you will not be judged. [2] For by the standard of judgment you apply you will be judged, and by the measure you measure with, it will be measured to you in return. [3] And why do you look at the splinter in your brother's eye but take no notice of the beam in your own eye? [4] Or how will you say to your brother, 'Allow me to pull the splinter out of your eye,' when look, there is a beam in your own eye? [5] Hypocrite, first pull the beam out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to pull the splinter out of your brother's eye. [6] Do not give the holy thing to the dogs, and do not cast your pearls in front of the pigs, or they may trample them with their feet and then turn and tear you apart. [7] Ask, and it will be given to you; seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you. [8] For everyone who asks receives, whoever seeks finds, and to whoever knocks it will be opened. [9] Or is there anyone among you who, when his son asks him for bread, will hand him a stone? [10] Or if he asks for a fish, will he hand him a snake? [11] So if you, though you are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father who is in heaven give good things to the ones who ask him! [12] Everything, then, that you would want people to do for you, you also do the same for them; for this is the Law and the Prophets. [13] Go in through the narrow gate. For the gate that leads to destruction is wide and the road spacious, and many are the people who go in through it. [14] Because narrow is the gate and constricted the road that leads to life, and those who find it are few. [15] Watch out for false prophets, who come to you dressed as sheep but on the inside are savage wolves. [16] By their fruits you will know them well. Do people pick grapes from thorn bushes or figs from thistles? [17] In the same way, every good tree produces good fruit, while the rotten tree produces bad fruit. [18] A good tree is not able to produce bad fruit, nor is a rotten tree able to produce good fruit. [19] Every tree not producing good fruit is being cut down and thrown into the fire. [20] So then, it is by their fruits that you will know them well. [21] Not all who say to me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter into the kingdom of heaven, but rather whoever does the will of my Father who is in heaven. [22] Many will say to me in that day, 'Lord, Lord, was it not in your name that we prophesied, and in your name that we drove out demons, and in your name that we performed many miracles?' [23] Then I will state plainly to them, 'I never knew you. Get away from me, you who work lawlessness.' [24] So everyone who hears these words of mine and puts them into practice, I will liken him to a sensible man who built his house upon the rock.* [25] The rain poured down, the rivers rose, and the winds blew and fell upon that house; yet it did not collapse, for its foundation had been laid on the rock. [26] But everyone who hears these words of mine and does not put them into practice will be compared to a foolish man who built his house upon the sand. [27] The rain poured down, the rivers rose, and the winds blew and struck that house, and it collapsed, and its collapse was great." [28] And it happened that when Jesus had brought these words to an end, the crowds were amazed at his teaching, [29] for he was teaching them as one who has authority, and not in the way the scribes did.

CHAPTER 8

[1] After he had come down from the mountain, large crowds followed him. [2] And there came a leper who bowed down before him, saying, "Lord, if you are willing, you are able to cleanse me." [3] Jesus reached out his hand and touched him, saying, "I am willing; be cleansed." At once his leprosy was cleansed. [4] Then Jesus said to him, "Make sure you tell no one; instead go, show yourself to the priest, and bring the gift Moses prescribed, as a testimony to them." [5] As Jesus went into Capernaum, a centurion approached him, imploring him [6] and saying, "Lord, my servant* is lying in the house paralyzed, in dreadful torment." [7] Jesus said to him, "I will come and cure him." [8] The centurion answered, "Lord, I am not fit for you to come in under my roof; just speak a word, and my servant will be healed. [9] For I myself am a man under authority, with soldiers under me; I tell this one, 'Go,' and he goes, and another, 'Come,' and he comes, and my servant, 'Do this,' and he does it." [10] Hearing this, Jesus was amazed and said to those following him, "Truly I say to you, not even in Israel have I found faith this great. [11] I say to you that many will come from the east and the west and will take their places at table with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven, [12] but the sons of the kingdom will be cast out into the darkness outside. There will be weeping and grinding of teeth." [13] Then Jesus said to the centurion, "Go; just as you have believed, so let it be for you." And his servant was healed at that very hour. [14] Jesus went into Peter's house and saw his mother-in-law laid up in bed with a fever. [15] He touched her hand, and the fever went away from her; and she got up and waited on them. [16] When evening had come, they brought to him many who were demon-possessed, and he drove out the spirits with a word and healed all who were ill, [17] so that the word spoken through Isaiah the prophet would be fulfilled: "He himself took up our weaknesses and carried away our diseases." [18] Seeing large crowds around him, Jesus gave the order to go across to the other side. [19] Then one scribe approached and said to him, "Teacher, I will follow you anywhere you go." [20] Jesus told him, "The foxes have dens and the birds of the sky have nests, but the Son of Man has no place where he may lay his head." [21] And another of his disciples said to him, "Lord, allow me first to go away and bury my father." [22] But Jesus told him, "Follow me, and leave the dead to bury their own dead." [23] He stepped into the boat, and his disciples followed him. [24] And suddenly a violent storm arose on the sea, so that the boat was being covered over by the waves; but he was sleeping. [25] His disciples came and roused him, saying, "Lord, save us! We are lost!" [26] He said to them, "Why are you so fearful, you of little faith?" Then he rose up and rebuked the winds and the sea, and it became completely calm. [27] The men were amazed and said, "What kind of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him?" [28] When he arrived on the other side, in the region of the Gergesenes, two demon-possessed men coming out of the tombs met him; they were so dangerous that no one was able to go along that road.* [29] And they shouted, "What business do we have with you, Jesus, Son of God? Did you come here to torment us before the appointed time?" [30] Some distance away from them a large herd of pigs was grazing. [31] So the demons pleaded with him, saying, "If you drive us out, allow us to go off into the herd of pigs." [32] He told them, "Go!" And coming out, they went off into the herd of pigs; and the whole herd of pigs stampeded down the cliff into the sea and perished in the water. [33] Those tending them ran away, went off into the town, and reported everything, including what had happened to the demon-possessed men. [34] And look, the whole town came out to meet Jesus, and when they saw him, they urged him to move away from their territory.

CHAPTER 9

[1] He stepped into a boat, crossed over, and came into his own town. [2] And look, they were bringing to him a paralyzed man laid on a bed. Seeing their faith, Jesus said to the paralytic, "Have courage, child; your sins have been forgiven you." [3] At this some of the scribes said among themselves, "This fellow blasphemes." [4] Jesus, seeing their thoughts, said, "Why are you thinking evil things in your hearts? [5] For which is easier: to say, 'Your sins have been forgiven you,' or to say, 'Get up and walk'? [6] But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins"—at this he said to the paralytic—"Get up, take up your bed, and go off to your house." [7] And the man got up and went off to his house. [8] When the crowds saw this, they were filled with wonder and gave glory to God, who had given authority of this kind to men. [9] Moving on from there, Jesus saw a man named Matthew seated at the tax office, and he said to him, "Follow me." So he got up and followed him. [10] It happened that, as he sat at table in the house, look, many tax collectors and sinners came and were sitting at table with Jesus and his disciples. [11] Seeing this, the Pharisees said to his disciples, "Why is your teacher eating with the tax collectors and sinners?" [12] Jesus heard it and said to them, "The strong have no need of a doctor, but those who are ill. [13] Go and learn what this means: 'Mercy is what I want, and not sacrifice.' For I did not come to call righteous people, but sinners, to repentance." [14] Then John's disciples came to him and asked, "Why is it that we and the Pharisees fast often, but your disciples do not fast?" [15] Jesus answered them, "The sons of the bridechamber cannot mourn while the bridegroom is with them, can they? But days will come when the bridegroom will be taken from them, and then they will fast. [] [16] No one puts a patch of unshrunk cloth on an old garment; for the patch pulls away from the garment, and the tear becomes worse. [17] Nor do people pour new wine into old wineskins; if they do, the skins split, the wine pours out, and the skins are destroyed. Instead they pour new wine into fresh wineskins, and both are kept safe." [18] While he was telling them these things, a certain ruler came and bowed down before him, saying, "My daughter has just now died; but come and place your hand on her, and she will live." [] [19] So Jesus rose and went after him, along with his disciples. [20] And a woman who had been hemorrhaging for twelve years approached from behind and touched the edge of his cloak. [21] For she kept saying to herself, "If I can just touch his cloak, I will be restored." [22] Jesus turned around, and when he saw her he said, "Have courage, daughter; your faith has restored you." And the woman was restored from that hour. [23] When Jesus arrived at the ruler's house and saw the flute players and the noisy crowd, [24] he said to them, "Leave, for the girl has not died; she is asleep." And they ridiculed him. [25] Once the crowd had been sent out, he went in and took hold of her hand, and the girl got up. [26] And news of this spread throughout that whole region. [27] As Jesus went on from there, two blind men followed him, shouting, "Have mercy on us, Son of David!" [28] After he had entered the house, the blind men came up to him, and Jesus asked them, "Do you believe that I can do this?" They answered him, "Yes, Lord." [29] Then he touched their eyes and said, "Let it happen to you according to your faith." [30] And their eyes were opened. Jesus gave them a stern warning: "Make sure no one finds out about this." [31] But they went out and made him known throughout that whole region. [32] Just as they were leaving, people brought to him a man who could not speak and was demon-possessed. [33] Once the demon had been driven out, the mute man spoke, and the crowds were amazed and said, "Nothing like this has ever been seen in Israel." [34] But the Pharisees kept saying, "It is by the ruler of the demons that he drives out the demons." [35] Jesus went around all the towns and villages, teaching in their synagogues, preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every disease and every illness among the people. [36] Seeing the crowds, he was moved with compassion for them, because they were weary and scattered, like sheep that have no shepherd. [37] Then he told his disciples, "The harvest is truly abundant, but the workers are few. [38] So ask the Lord of the harvest to thrust out workers into his harvest."

CHAPTER 10

[1] Summoning his twelve disciples, he gave them authority over unclean spirits, so as to drive them out and to heal every disease and every illness. [2] These are the names of the twelve apostles: first Simon, the one called Peter, and his brother Andrew; James son of Zebedee and his brother John; [3] Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas and Matthew the tax collector; James son of Alphaeus, and Lebbaeus, who was also called Thaddaeus; [4] Simon the Cananite, and Judas Iscariot, the one who also betrayed him. [] [5] Jesus sent out these twelve with these instructions: "Do not go off on a road to the Gentiles, and do not go into a Samaritan town; [6] go instead to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. [7] As you go, preach and say, 'The kingdom of heaven has drawn near.' [8] Heal the sick, cleanse lepers, raise the dead, drive out demons. You received without paying; give without charging. [] [9] Do not get gold or silver or copper to put in your belts, [10] no bag for the road, nor two tunics, nor sandals, nor staffs; for the worker deserves his food. [] [11] Whatever town or village you go into, search out who in it is worthy, and remain there until you go on. [12] When you come into the household, give it your greeting. [13] If the household is worthy, let your peace rest on it; but if it is not worthy, let your peace come back to you. [14] And whoever will not welcome you or hear your words, as you go out of that house or town, shake the dust off your feet. [15] Truly I say to you, it will be easier to endure for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that town. [16] Look, I am sending you out like sheep among wolves; so be as shrewd as snakes and as guileless as doves. [17] Be on guard against people, for they will hand you over to local councils and whip you in their synagogues, [18] and you will even be led before governors and kings because of me, for a testimony to them and to the Gentiles. [19] But when they hand you over, do not be anxious over how or what you will speak; for what you should speak will be given to you in that hour. [20] For you are not the ones speaking; it is the Spirit of your Father who speaks in you. [21] Brother will betray brother to death, and a father his child; children will rise up against their parents and have them killed. [22] You will be hated by everyone because of my name, but whoever endures to the end, that one will be saved. [23] Whenever they persecute you in this town, escape to another; for truly I say to you, you will certainly not finish the towns of Israel before the Son of Man comes. [24] A disciple is not above his teacher, nor a servant above his master. [25] It is enough for the disciple to become like his teacher, and the servant like his master. If they called the master of the house Beelzebub, how much more will they call the members of his household! [26] So do not fear them; for there is nothing concealed that will not be uncovered, and nothing secret that will not come to be known. [27] What I say to you in the dark, tell in the daylight; and what you hear in your ear, preach from the rooftops. [28] Do not be afraid of those who kill the body but are unable to kill the soul; instead, fear the one who has power to destroy both soul and body in hell. [29] Are not two sparrows sold for one assarion? Yet not one of them will fall to the ground without your Father. [30] As for you, even the hairs on your head have all been counted. [31] So stop being afraid; you are worth more than many sparrows. [32] So everyone who acknowledges me before people, I will also acknowledge him before my Father who is in heaven. [33] But whoever disowns me before people, I will also disown him before my Father who is in heaven. [34] Do not suppose that I came to cast peace upon the earth; I did not come to cast peace, but a sword. [35] For I came to divide a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law, [36] and a man's enemies will be the members of his household. [37] The one who loves father or mother above me is not worthy of me; the one who loves son or daughter above me is not worthy of me. [38] And the one who does not take up his cross and follow behind me is not worthy of me. [39] The one who has found his life will lose it, and the one who has lost his life because of me will find it. [40] Anyone who welcomes you welcomes me, and anyone who welcomes me welcomes the one who sent me. [41] Anyone who welcomes a prophet in the name of a prophet will receive a prophet's reward, and anyone who welcomes a righteous man in the name of a righteous man will receive a righteous man's reward. [42] And whoever gives even a cup of cold water to drink to one of these little ones in the name of a disciple, truly I say to you, he will certainly not lose his reward."

[1] And it happened, when Jesus had finished directing his twelve disciples, that he left there to teach and to preach in their towns. [2] While in prison John heard about the works of the Christ, and he sent two of his disciples [3] to ask him, "Are you the Coming One, or are we to wait for someone else?" [4] Jesus answered them, "Go and tell John the things you are hearing and seeing: [5] blind people see again and lame people walk, lepers are made clean and deaf people hear, dead people are raised and poor people are given the gospel. [6] And blessed is anyone who does not stumble over me." [7] As these were leaving, Jesus began to talk to the crowds about John: "What did you go out into the wilderness to gaze at? A reed swayed by the wind? [8] If not, what did you go out to see? A man wrapped in soft garments? Look, those who wear soft things are in the palaces of kings. [9] Then what did you go out to see, a prophet? Yes, I say to you, and much more than a prophet. [10] For this is the one about whom it is written, 'Look, I am sending my messenger before your face, who will make ready your way ahead of you.' [11] Truly I say to you, of all who have been born of women, no one greater than John the Baptist has appeared; yet the least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he is. [12] From the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of heaven suffers violence, and violent men seize it.* [13] For all the Prophets and the Law prophesied up to John. [14] And if you are willing to receive it, he himself is Elijah, the one who was to come. [15] Whoever has ears to hear, let him hear.* [16] To what will I liken this generation? It is like little children seated in the marketplaces who call out to their companions [17] and say, 'We played the flute for you, and you did not dance; we wailed for you, and you did not beat your breasts.' [18] For John came not eating and not drinking, and they say, 'He has a demon.' [19] The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and they say, 'See, a man who is a glutton and a wine-drinker, a friend of tax collectors and sinners!' And wisdom has been justified by her children." [20] Then he began to reproach the towns in which the greatest number of his miracles had taken place, because they had not repented: [21] "Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the miracles that happened in you had happened in Tyre and Sidon, they would long ago have repented in sackcloth and ashes. [22] But I say to you, it will be easier to endure for Tyre and Sidon in the day of judgment than for you. [23] And you, Capernaum, lifted up as high as heaven, you will be brought down as far as Hades; for if the miracles that happened in you had happened in Sodom, it would have remained until today. [24] But I say to you that it will be easier to endure for the land of Sodom in the day of judgment than for you." [25] At that time Jesus responded, "I give you praise, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that you hid these things from the wise and intelligent and revealed them to infants. [26] Yes, Father, because this is what seemed good in your sight. [27] Everything has been entrusted to me by my Father; no one fully knows the Son but the Father, and no one fully knows the Father but the Son and anyone to whom the Son wills to reveal him. [28] Come to me, all who are weary and weighed down with burdens, and I will give you rest. [29] Take my yoke on yourselves and learn from me, because I am gentle and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. [30] For my yoke is kind and my load is light."

CHAPTER 12

[1] At that time Jesus was going through the grainfields on the Sabbath, and his disciples, being hungry, began to pick heads of grain and eat them. [2] The Pharisees saw it and said to him, "See, your disciples are doing something that is not lawful to do on the Sabbath." [3] He replied, "Have you not read what David did when he and those with him were hungry, [4] how he went into the house of God and ate the showbread, which was not lawful for him or his companions to eat, but for the priests alone? [5] Or have you not read in the law that on the Sabbath the priests in the temple violate the Sabbath and yet are without guilt? [6] But I say to you that one greater than the temple is here. [7] And if you had known what this means, 'Mercy is what I want, and not sacrifice,' you would not have condemned the innocent. [8] For the Son of Man is Lord of the Sabbath as well." [9] Leaving that place, he went into their synagogue. [10] And there was a man whose hand was shriveled. They questioned him, "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath?"—so that they could bring a charge against him. [11] He said to them, "Which man among you, if he owns a single sheep and it falls into a pit on the Sabbath, will not grab hold of it and pull it out? [12] How much more is a man worth than a sheep! So it is lawful to do good on the Sabbath." [13] Then he said to the man, "Hold out your hand." He held it out, and it was restored to health, just like the other. [14] The Pharisees, however, went out and plotted against him how they might destroy him. [15] Jesus, aware of this, withdrew from there; and large crowds followed him, and he healed them all, [16] and he ordered them not to make him known, [17] in order that the word spoken through Isaiah the prophet would be fulfilled: [18] "Look, my Servant whom I have chosen, my Beloved in whom my soul has delighted. I will place my Spirit on him, and he will announce judgment to the Gentiles.* [19] He will not wrangle or shout, and no one will hear his voice in the streets. [20] He will not break a bruised reed, and he will not put out a smoldering wick, until he leads judgment on to victory.* [21] And the Gentiles will put their hope in his name." [22] Then a demon-possessed man who was blind and unable to speak was brought to him, and he healed him, so that the blind and mute man could both speak and see. [23] All the crowds were astonished and said, "Is this man perhaps the Son of David?" [24] But the Pharisees, hearing it, said, "This fellow drives out demons only by Beelzebub, the ruler of the demons." [25] Jesus knew what they were thinking and said to them, "Any kingdom split against itself is brought to ruin, and any town or household split against itself will not stand. [26] And if Satan drives out Satan, he has been split against himself; how, then, will his kingdom stand? [27] And if I drive out demons by Beelzebub, by whom do your sons drive them out? For this reason they will be your judges. [28] But if I drive out demons by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God has arrived upon you. [29] Or how is anyone able to go into the strong man's house and carry off his possessions unless he first ties up the strong man? Then he will ransack his house. [30] The one who is not with me is against me, and the one who does not gather with me scatters abroad. [31] For this reason I say to you, people will be forgiven every sin and blasphemy, but blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven them. [32] Anyone who says a word against the Son of Man, he will be forgiven; but anyone who speaks against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven, neither in this age nor in the one that is coming. [33] Either make the tree good and its fruit good, or make the tree rotten and its fruit rotten; for it is by the fruit that the tree is recognized. [34] Offspring of vipers, how are you able to say good things when you are evil? For the mouth speaks from what fills the heart. [35] The good man brings out good things from the good treasure of his heart, and the evil man brings out evil things from his evil treasure. [36] But I say to you that every useless word people speak, they will render an account for it in the day of judgment. [37] For on the basis of your words you will be justified, and on the basis of your words you will be condemned." [38] Then some of the scribes and Pharisees responded to him, "Teacher, we would like to see a sign from you." [39] He answered them, "A wicked and adulterous generation demands a sign, yet it will be given no sign except the sign of Jonah the prophet. [40] For just as Jonah was in the belly of the sea creature three days and three nights, so the Son of Man will be in the heart of the earth three days and three nights. [41] The men of Nineveh will stand up at the judgment along with this generation and will condemn it, because they repented at what Jonah preached; and look, something greater than Jonah is here. [42] The queen of the south will be raised at the judgment along with this generation and will condemn it, because she came from the far ends of the earth to listen to Solomon's wisdom; and look, something greater than Solomon is here. [43] Whenever the unclean spirit leaves a man, it roams through dry places looking for rest and does not find any. [44] Then it says, 'I will go back to my house that I left.' And when it arrives, it finds the house standing empty, swept clean, and put in order. [45] Then it goes off and brings along seven other spirits more wicked than itself, and they go in and settle there; and the final condition of that man ends up worse than the first. That is how it will be with this wicked generation as well." [46] While he was yet talking to the crowds, his mother and brothers were standing outside, wanting to speak with him. [47] Someone told him, "Look, your mother and your brothers are standing outside, wanting to speak with you." [48] But he replied to the man who had told him, "Who is my mother, and who are my brothers?" [49] Then, extending his hand toward his disciples, he said, "See, my mother and my brothers! [50] For anyone who does the will of my Father who is in heaven, that one is my brother and sister and mother."

CHAPTER 13

[1] On that day Jesus left the house and sat down by the sea. [2] Such large crowds gathered around him that he stepped into the boat and sat there, while the whole crowd stood on the shore. [3] Then he told them many things in parables: "Look, the sower went out to sow. [4] While he was sowing, some seeds fell beside the road, and the birds came and ate them up. [5] Some fell on rocky places where there was not much earth, and they shot up quickly because the earth was not deep. [6] But once the sun came up they were burned, and because they had no root they dried up. [7] Some fell among the thorns, and the thorns came up and smothered them. [8] And others fell on the good ground and gave a crop, one a hundredfold, another sixty, another thirty. [9] Whoever has ears to hear, let him hear." [10] The disciples came and asked him, "Why do you talk to them in parables?" [11] He answered them, "Because you have been granted to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but they have not been granted it. [12] For whoever has will be given more, and he will have more than enough; but whoever does not have, even what he has will be taken from him. [13] That is why I talk to them in parables: because though they look, they do not see, and though they listen, they do not hear or understand. [14] In them the prophecy of Isaiah is being fulfilled, which says, 'You will keep on hearing but will by no means understand; you will keep on seeing but will by no means perceive. [15] For the heart of this people has become thick, and they hear heavily with their ears, and they have shut their eyes, so that they would not see with their eyes, hear with their ears, understand with their heart, and turn back, and I would heal them.' [16] But your eyes are blessed because they see, and your ears because they hear. [17] For truly I say to you that many prophets and righteous men longed to see the things you are seeing and did not see them, and to hear the things you are hearing and did not hear them. [18] You, then, listen to the parable of the sower. [19] When anyone hears the word of the kingdom and does not grasp it, the evil one comes and seizes what was sown in his heart; this is the one sown beside the road. [20] The one sown on the rocky places is the person who hears the word and at once accepts it gladly; [21] but he has no root in himself and lasts only for a time; when affliction or persecution comes because of the word, he stumbles at once. [22] The one sown among the thorns is the person who hears the word, but the worry of this age and the deceit of wealth smother the word, and it becomes fruitless. [23] And the one sown on the good ground is the person who hears the word and grasps it; he is the one who bears fruit and produces, one a hundredfold, another sixty, another thirty." [24] He set another parable before them: "The kingdom of heaven has become like a man who sowed good seed in his field. [25] But while people were sleeping, his enemy came, sowed darnel among the wheat, and went off. [26] When the blades sprang up and formed heads of grain, the darnel showed up as well. [27] The householder's servants came to him and said, 'Sir, was it not good seed that you sowed in your field? So where did the darnel come from?' [28] He told them, 'A man who is an enemy did this.' The servants asked him, 'Do you want us, then, to go out and collect it?' [29] But he said, 'No, or while you collect the darnel you may uproot the wheat along with it. [30] Leave both to grow side by side until the harvest; and at harvest time I will tell the reapers, "First collect the darnel and tie it in bundles for burning, but bring the wheat together into my storehouse."'" [31] He set another parable before them: "The kingdom of heaven is like a mustard seed, which a man took and planted in his field. [32] It is indeed the smallest of all the seeds, but once it has grown, it is bigger than the garden plants and turns into a tree, so that the birds of the sky come and settle in its branches." [33] He told them another parable: "The kingdom of heaven is like leaven that a woman took and concealed in three measures of flour until the whole of it was leavened." [34] Jesus told the crowds all these things in parables, and apart from a parable he would tell them nothing, [35] so that the word spoken through the prophet would be fulfilled: "I will open my mouth in parables; I will pour out things kept hidden since the foundation of the world." [36] Then, dismissing the crowds, Jesus went into the house. His disciples came to him and said, "Make clear to us the parable of the darnel in the field." [37] He answered them, "The sower of the good seed is the Son of Man. [38] The field is the world. As for the good seed, these are the sons of the kingdom; and the darnel is the sons of the evil one. [39] The enemy who sowed it is the devil; the harvest is the close of the age; and the reapers are angels. [40] So just as the darnel is collected and burned up with fire, so it will be at the close of this age. [41] The Son of Man will send out his angels, and they will collect from his kingdom everything that causes stumbling and those who do lawlessness, [42] and will hurl them into the furnace of fire. There will be weeping and grinding of teeth. [43] At that time the righteous will blaze out like the sun in the kingdom of their Father. Whoever has ears to hear, let him hear. [44] Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a treasure buried in the field, which a man found and kept hidden; and out of joy over it he goes away, sells everything he has, and buys that field. [45] Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant looking for fine pearls. [46] When he found a single pearl of great price, he went away, sold everything he had, and bought it. [47] Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a dragnet cast into the sea that brought in fish of every sort. [48] Once it was full, they hauled it up onto the beach, sat down, and collected the good ones in baskets, but threw the worthless ones out. [49] That is how it will be at the close of the age: the angels will go out and separate the wicked from among the righteous [50] and will hurl them into the furnace of fire. There will be weeping and grinding of teeth." [51] Jesus asked them, "Have you grasped all these things?" They answered him, "Yes, Lord." [52] So he said to them, "For this reason every scribe who has been made a disciple for the kingdom of heaven is like a householder who brings out from his storeroom things new and old." [53] And it happened that when Jesus had finished these parables, he moved on from there. [54] He came into his own hometown and began teaching them in their synagogue, so that they were amazed and said, "Where does this man's wisdom come from, and these miracles? [55] Is this not the son of the carpenter? Is his mother not named Mary, and his brothers James and Joses and Simon and Judas? [56] And are not his sisters all here with us? So where did this man get all this?" [57] And they stumbled over him. But Jesus told them, "Nowhere is a prophet without honor except in his own hometown and in his own house." [58] And he did not perform many miracles there because of their unbelief.

CHAPTER 14

[1] At that time Herod the tetrarch heard the news about Jesus, [2] and he told his attendants, "This is John the Baptist; he has been raised from the dead, and for this reason the miraculous powers are active in him." [3] For Herod had arrested John, tied him up, and put him away in prison on account of Herodias, the wife of his brother Philip. [4] For John kept telling him, "You are not permitted to have her." [5] He wished to kill him, but he was afraid of the crowd, since they considered him a prophet. [6] But when Herod's birthday was being kept, the daughter of Herodias danced in their midst and delighted Herod, [7] so that he swore an oath and promised to give her anything she asked. [8] Urged on by her mother, she said, "Give me, right here on a platter, the head of John the Baptist." [9] The king was distressed, but on account of the oaths and his dinner guests he ordered that it be given to her. [10] He sent word and had John's head cut off in the prison. [11] His head was carried in on a platter and handed to the girl, and she took it to her mother. [12] Then John's disciples came, took away the body, and buried it; and they went off and reported to Jesus. [13] On hearing this, Jesus slipped away from there in a boat to a deserted place, apart from others. When the crowds heard of it, they followed him on foot from the towns. [14] As he came out, Jesus saw a large crowd, and he was moved with compassion for them and cured their sick. [15] As evening came on, his disciples came to him and said, "This place is deserted, and the hour has already gone by. Dismiss the crowds so they can go off into the villages and buy themselves food." [16] Jesus told them, "They have no need to go away. You give them something to eat." [17] They told him, "All we have here is five loaves and two fish." [18] He said, "Bring them here to me." [19] And after ordering the crowds to recline on the grass, he took the five loaves and the two fish, looked up to heaven, and gave a blessing; then he broke the loaves and handed them to the disciples, and the disciples to the crowds. [20] Everyone ate and was filled, and they picked up the fragments that were left over, twelve full baskets. [21] Those who had eaten numbered about five thousand men, not counting women and children. [22] Right away Jesus compelled his disciples to board the boat and go ahead of him to the other side, while he sent the crowds away. [23] After sending the crowds away, he went up the mountain privately to pray. Evening came, and he was there by himself. [24] But the boat was already in the middle of the sea, harassed by the waves, because the wind was against them. [25] During the fourth watch of the night Jesus went off toward them, walking on the sea. [26] When the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were shaken and said, "It is a phantom!" And they screamed in fear. [27] But Jesus at once spoke to them: "Have courage; it is I. Stop being afraid." [28] Peter answered him, "Lord, if it is you, order me to come to you on the waters." [29] He said, "Come." Peter climbed down from the boat and walked on the waters to go to Jesus. [30] But seeing the strong wind, he became frightened, and as he started to go under, he shouted, "Lord, save me!" [31] Immediately Jesus reached out his hand, caught hold of him, and said to him, "You of little faith, why did you doubt?" [32] As they climbed into the boat, the wind died down. [33] Then the men in the boat came and worshiped him, saying, "You are truly the Son of God." [34] Having crossed over, they came to the land of Gennesaret. [35] The men of that place recognized him and sent word into all that surrounding country, and they brought to him all who were ill, [36] and they pleaded with him that they might just touch the edge of his cloak; and all who touched it were thoroughly healed.

CHAPTER 15

[1] Then the scribes and Pharisees from Jerusalem came to Jesus and said, [2] "Why do your disciples violate the tradition of the elders? For they do not wash their hands whenever they eat bread." [3] He answered them, "And why do you violate the commandment of God for the sake of your tradition? [4] For God gave the command, 'Honor your father and your mother,' and, 'Anyone who speaks evil of father or mother, let him be put to death.' [5] But you say, 'If anyone says to his father or mother, "Whatever help you might have had from me is a gift to God," then he shall by no means honor his father or his mother.'* [6] And so you have made the commandment of God void for the sake of your tradition. [7] Hypocrites! Isaiah prophesied rightly about you when he said, [8] 'This people comes near to me with their mouth and honors me with their lips, but their heart is distant, far from me. [9] It is to no purpose that they worship me, teaching as doctrines the commands of men.'" [10] Then he summoned the crowd and said to them, "Listen, and understand. [11] A man is not made unclean by what enters his mouth; it is what comes out of the mouth that makes a man unclean." [12] Then his disciples approached and said to him, "Are you aware that the Pharisees took offense when they heard what you said?" [13] He replied, "Any plant that my heavenly Father did not plant will be pulled up by the roots. [14] Leave them alone; they are blind guides of the blind. And if a blind man guides a blind man, both will fall into a ditch." [15] Peter responded, "Tell us the meaning of this parable." [16] Jesus said, "Are even you still lacking understanding? [17] Do you not yet realize that everything entering the mouth passes into the stomach and is cast out into the latrine? [18] But what comes out of the mouth comes from the heart, and that is what makes a man unclean. [19] For from the heart come evil reasonings, murders, adulteries, acts of sexual immorality, thefts, false testimony, blasphemies. [20] These are the things that make a man unclean; but eating with unwashed hands does not make a man unclean." [21] Leaving there, Jesus withdrew into the region of Tyre and Sidon. [22] And look, a Canaanite woman from those parts came out and called to him loudly, "Have mercy on me, Lord, Son of David! My daughter is cruelly tormented by a demon." [23] But he gave her no answer at all. His disciples came and kept urging him, "Send her off, because she keeps shouting after us." [24] He replied, "I was sent to no one but the lost sheep of the house of Israel." [25] But she came and bowed down before him, saying, "Lord, help me!" [26] He answered, "It is not good to take the bread belonging to the children and toss it to the little dogs." [27] "Yes, Lord," she said, "for even the little dogs eat some of the crumbs falling from their masters' table." [28] Then Jesus answered her, "Woman, your faith is great! Let it happen for you just as you wish." And from that hour her daughter was healed. [29] Moving on from there, Jesus came alongside the Sea of Galilee; he went up the mountain and was sitting there. [30] Large crowds came to him with the lame, the blind, the mute, the maimed, and many others besides; they set them down at Jesus' feet, and he healed them. [31] As a result the crowd was amazed, seeing mute people speaking, maimed people made sound, lame people walking, and blind people seeing; and they gave glory to the God of Israel. [32] Jesus called his disciples to him and said, "My heart goes out to the crowd, because they have already stayed with me three days and have nothing to eat; and I do not want to send them off hungry, or they may collapse on the way." [33] His disciples said to him, "Where in a deserted place would we find enough loaves to satisfy such a large crowd?" [34] Jesus asked them,

"How many loaves have you got?" They answered, "Seven, and a few little fish." [35] He instructed the crowds to recline on the ground. [36] Then he took the seven loaves and the fish, gave thanks, broke them, and kept handing them to his disciples, and the disciples to the crowd. [37] They all ate and were filled; and they picked up what remained of the fragments, seven hampers full. [38] Those who had eaten numbered four thousand men, not counting women and children. [39] After dismissing the crowds, he boarded the boat and came into the region of Magdala.

CHAPTER 16

[1] The Pharisees and Sadducees approached, and, putting him to the test, they requested that he show them a sign from heaven. [2] He answered them, "When evening comes, you say, 'Good weather, because the sky is red'; [3] and at dawn, 'A storm today, because the sky is red and gloomy.' Hypocrites, you know how to judge the look of the sky, but you are not able to judge the signs of the times! [4] A wicked and adulterous generation demands a sign, yet it will be given no sign except the sign of Jonah the prophet." Then he left them and went away. [5] When his disciples arrived at the other side, they had forgotten to take any loaves. [6] Jesus told them, "Look out, and guard yourselves against the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees." [7] They were reasoning among themselves, saying, "It is because we did not bring any loaves." [8] Aware of this, Jesus said to them, "You of little faith, why are you reasoning among yourselves that you did not bring loaves? [9] Do you still not understand? Do you not remember the five loaves for the five thousand, and how many baskets you picked up? [10] Or the seven loaves for the four thousand, and how many hampers you picked up? [11] How is it that you do not understand that it was not about bread that I spoke to you, when I said to guard yourselves against the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees?" [12] Then they realized that he had not told them to guard themselves against the leaven of bread, but against the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees. [13] When Jesus had come into the region of Caesarea Philippi, he questioned his disciples, "Who do people say that I, the Son of Man, am?" [14] They answered, "Some say John the Baptist; others, Elijah; and still others, Jeremiah or one of the prophets." [15] He said to them, "But who do you say that I am?" [16] Simon Peter answered and said, "You are the Christ, the Son of the living God." [17] Jesus responded, "You are blessed, Simon Bar-Jonah, because it was not flesh and blood that revealed this to you, but my Father who is in heaven. [18] And I in turn say to you that you are Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of Hades will not overpower it. [19] And I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven: whatever you bind on the earth will stand bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on the earth will stand loosed in heaven." [20] Then he gave his disciples strict orders to tell no one that he was Jesus the Christ. [21] From then on Jesus began to make clear to his disciples that he had to go away to Jerusalem and suffer many things at the hands of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be put to death, and on the third day be raised. [22] Then Peter took him aside and started to rebuke him, saying, "God be merciful to you, Lord! This will never happen to you!" [*] [23] But he turned and said to Peter, "Get behind me, Satan! You are a stumbling block to me, because your mind is not on the things of God but on the things of men." [24] Then Jesus said to his disciples, "If anyone wishes to come after me, he must deny himself, take up his cross, and keep following me. [25] For whoever wishes to save his life will lose it; but whoever loses his life because of me will find it. [26] For what benefit is it to a man if he gains the whole world but suffers the loss of his own soul? Or what will a man give in exchange for his soul? [27] For the Son of Man is about to come in his Father's glory with his angels, and then he will repay each one according to his conduct. [28] Truly I say to you, some of those standing here will certainly not taste death until they see the Son of Man coming in his kingdom."

CHAPTER 17

[1] Six days later Jesus took along Peter, James, and James's brother John, and brought them up a high mountain privately. [2] He was transformed in front of them: his face shone like the sun, and his garments turned as white as the light. [3] And there before them appeared Moses and Elijah, conversing with him. [4] Peter responded by saying to Jesus, "Lord, it is a fine thing for us to be here. If you are willing, let us set up three shelters here, one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah." [5] He was still speaking when a bright cloud overshadowed them, and a voice came out of the cloud, saying, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I have delighted. Listen to him!" [6] On hearing it, the disciples fell face down and were filled with terror. [7] Jesus came over, touched them, and said, "Get up, and stop being afraid." [8] Raising their eyes, they saw nobody except Jesus alone. [9] On their way down the mountain, Jesus gave them this order: "Tell no one about the vision until the Son of Man has risen from the dead." [10] His disciples questioned him, "Why, then, do the scribes say that Elijah has to come first?" [11] Jesus replied, "Elijah is indeed coming first, and he will restore everything. [12] But I say to you that Elijah has come already, and they did not acknowledge him; instead they did with him whatever they wanted. In the same way the Son of Man too is going to suffer at their hands." [13] Then the disciples realized that he had been speaking to them about John the Baptist. [14] When they reached the crowd, a man approached him, fell on his knees before him, and said, [15] "Lord, show mercy to my son, because he is epileptic and suffers badly; he often falls into the fire and often into the water. [*] [16] I brought him to your disciples, but they were not able to cure him." [17] Jesus answered, "O unbelieving and perverted generation, how long will I be with you? How long will I put up with you? Bring him here to me." [18] Jesus rebuked the demon, and it went out of him; and from that hour the boy was cured. [19] Afterward the disciples came to Jesus in private and asked, "Why were we not able to drive it out?" [20] Jesus told them, "Because of your unbelief. For truly I say to you, if you have faith the size of a mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, 'Go across from here to there,' and it will go across; and nothing will be impossible for you. [21] But this kind does not come out except through prayer and fasting." [22] While they were going about in Galilee, Jesus told them, "The Son of Man is going to be handed over into the hands of men, [23] and they will put him to death, and on the third day he will be raised up." And they were filled with grief. [24] After they arrived in Capernaum, the men collecting the two-drachma tax came up to Peter and said, "Does your teacher not pay the two drachmas?" [25] "He does," he said. When he came into the house, Jesus anticipated him by saying, "What is your opinion, Simon? From whom do the kings of the earth take duties or poll tax: from their own sons, or from outsiders?" [26] Peter said to him, "From outsiders." Jesus told him, "Then the sons are exempt. [27] But so that we do not cause them to stumble, go to the sea, throw in a hook, and take the first fish that comes up. Open its mouth and you will find a stater; take it and give it to them for me and for you."

CHAPTER 18

[1] At that hour the disciples came up to Jesus and asked, "Who, then, is greatest in the kingdom of heaven?" [2] Jesus called a little child over, stood him among them, [3] and said, "Truly I say to you, if you do not turn and become like little children, you will certainly not enter into the kingdom of heaven. [4] So whoever makes himself low like this little child, he is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven. [5] And anyone who welcomes one little child like this in my name welcomes me. [6] But whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in me to stumble, it would be better for him to have a donkey's millstone hung around his neck and to be sunk in the open sea. [7] Woe to the world on account of stumbling blocks! For stumbling blocks must come, but woe to the man through whom the stumbling block comes! [8] If your hand or your foot causes you to stumble, cut it off and cast it from you. It is better for you to enter into life crippled or lame than to have two hands or two feet and be thrown into the eternal fire. [9] And if your eye causes you to stumble, pluck it out and cast it from you. It is better for you to enter into life with one eye than to have two eyes and be thrown into the hell of fire. [10] Take care that you do not look down on one of these little ones; for I say to you that their angels in heaven continually behold the face of my Father who is in heaven. [11] For the Son of Man came to save what was lost. [12] How does it seem to you? If some man has a hundred sheep and one of them wanders off, will he not leave the ninety-nine, go into the mountains, and search for the one that is wandering? [13] And if he manages to find it, truly I say to you, he is happier over it than over the ninety-nine that did not wander off. [14] In the same way, it is not the will of your Father who is in heaven that a single one of these little ones be lost. [15] Now if your brother sins against you, go and point out his fault to him privately, between the two of you. If he listens to you, you have won your brother over. [16] But if he will not listen, take one or two others with you, so that every matter may be confirmed on the testimony of two or three witnesses. [17] If he pays no attention to them, tell the church; and if he pays no attention even to the church, let him be to you just like the Gentile and the tax collector. [18] Truly I say to you, whatever you bind on the earth will stand bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on the earth will stand loosed in heaven. [19] Again I say to you that if two of you on earth are in agreement about any matter they request, it will be granted to them by my Father who is in heaven. [20] For where two or three have been gathered in my name, I am there in their midst." [21] Then Peter came to him and asked, "Lord, how many times shall my brother sin against me and I forgive him? As many as seven?" [22] Jesus answered, "I am not telling you up to seven times, but up to seventy times seven. [23] For this reason the kingdom of heaven has become like a man, a king, who wanted to settle accounts with his servants. [24] As he started the reckoning, a man was brought to him who was in debt to him for ten thousand talents. [25] Because he had nothing with which to repay, his master ordered him to be sold along with his wife, his children, and everything he owned, and the debt to be repaid. [26] So the servant fell down and bowed before him, saying, 'Master, be patient with me, and I will pay you back in full.' [27] The master of that servant, moved with compassion, set him free and canceled the loan for him. [28] But on his way out, that servant came upon one of his fellow servants who owed him a hundred denarii; he grabbed him and started to throttle him, saying, 'Pay back what you owe me!' [29] His fellow servant then fell at his feet and pleaded with him, 'Be patient with me, and I will pay you back in full.' [30] But he would not; instead he went off and had him thrown into prison until he repaid what was owed. [31] When the other servants saw what had happened, they were very upset, and they went and laid out for their master everything that had happened. [32] Then his master called him in and said to him, 'Wicked servant, I canceled that whole debt of yours because you begged me. [33] Ought you not to have shown mercy to your fellow servant as well, just as I showed mercy to you?' [34] And his master, in anger, handed him over to the tormentors until he paid back all that he owed. [35] This is how my heavenly Father will treat you too, unless each of you forgives his brother his offenses from your hearts."

CHAPTER 19

[1] And it happened that when Jesus had finished these words, he left Galilee and went into the region of Judea across the Jordan. [2] Large crowds followed him, and he healed them there. [3] Pharisees also came to him to test him, and they asked, "Is a man permitted to send away his wife for any and every reason?" [4] He replied, "Have you not read that the Creator from the beginning made them male and female, [5] and said, 'On account of this a man will leave his father and mother and be united to his wife, and the two will be one flesh'? [6] Consequently they are no longer two, but one flesh. So what God has yoked together, man must not separate." [7] They asked him, "Why, then, did Moses command giving a document of divorce and sending her away?" [8] He told them, "It was with an eye to your hardness of heart that Moses allowed you to send away your wives; but it has not been this way from the beginning. [9] And I say to you that whoever sends away his wife, except on account of sexual immorality, and marries another commits adultery; and whoever marries a woman who has been sent away commits adultery." [10] His disciples said to him, "If that is how things stand between a man and his wife, it is not advantageous to marry." [11] He answered them, "Not everyone makes room for this word, only those to whom it has been granted. [12] For some are eunuchs who were born that way from their mother's womb; some are eunuchs who were made eunuchs by men; and some are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs because of the kingdom of heaven. Whoever can make room for this, let him make room for it." [13] Then little children were brought to him so that he would place his hands on them and pray; but the disciples rebuked them. [14] But Jesus said, "Allow the little children, and do not stop them from coming to me; for the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these." [15] After placing his hands on them, he went on from there. [16] Then someone came up to him and said, "Good Teacher, what good thing should I do in order to have eternal life?" [17] He said to him, "Why do you call me good? No one is good except one, God. But if you wish to enter into life, observe the commandments." [18] He asked him, "Which ones?" Jesus said, "'You shall not murder; you shall not commit adultery; you shall not steal; you shall not give false testimony; [19] honor your father and mother'; and 'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.'" [20] The young man said to him, "I have observed all these since I was young. What am I still lacking?" [21] Jesus told him, "If you want to be perfect, go away, sell your belongings and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me." [22] On hearing this word, the young man went away grieving, because he owned much property. [23] Jesus then said to his disciples, "Truly I say to you that a rich man will find it hard to enter the kingdom of heaven. [24] And again I say to you, it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God." [25] Hearing this, his disciples were utterly amazed and said, "Who, then, is able to be saved?" [26] Jesus looked straight at them and said, "For men this is impossible, but for God everything is possible." [27] Then Peter answered him, "Look, we have left everything behind and followed you. So what will there be for us?" [28] Jesus told them, "Truly I say to you that you who have followed me, in the regeneration, when the Son of Man takes his seat on the throne of his glory, you too will sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. [29] And everyone who has left houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother or wife or children or fields because of my name will receive a hundred times as much and will inherit eternal life. [30] But many who are first will be last, and those who are last, first.

CHAPTER 20

[1] "For the kingdom of heaven is like a householder who went out at dawn to hire workers for his vineyard. [2] After agreeing with the workers on a denarius for the day, he sent them into his vineyard. [3] Going out around the third hour, he saw others standing in the marketplace with nothing to do, [4] and he told them, 'You go into the vineyard too, and I will give you whatever is fair.' [5] And they went off. He went out again around the sixth and the ninth hour and did the same. [6] Around the eleventh hour he went out and found others standing idle, and he said to them, 'Why have you stood here the whole day doing nothing?' [7] They answered him, 'Because nobody has hired us.' He told them, 'You go into the vineyard too, and whatever is fair you will receive.' [8] When evening came, the owner of the vineyard told his foreman, 'Call the workers and pay them their wages, starting with the last and going on to the first.' [9] Those hired around the eleventh hour came, and each received a denarius. [10] So when the first ones came, they assumed they would get more; but each of them also received a denarius. [11] On receiving it, they began to complain against the householder, [12] saying, 'These last men put in just one hour, and you have treated them as equal to us, who carried the burden of the day and its burning heat.' [13] But he answered one of them, 'Friend, I am not treating you unjustly. Did you not agree with me on a denarius? [14] Take what belongs to you and go. It is my wish to give this last man the same as I gave you. [15] Or am I not permitted to do what I want with what is my own? Is your eye evil because I am good?' [16] In this way the last will be first and the first last. For many are called, but few are chosen." [17] As Jesus was going up to Jerusalem, he took the twelve disciples aside privately, and on the way he said to them, [18] "Look, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be handed over to the chief priests and scribes, and they will sentence him to death, [19] and they will hand him over to the Gentiles to be mocked and flogged and crucified; and on the third day he will rise again." [20] Then the mother of Zebedee's sons came to him with her sons, bowing down and asking a favor of him. [21] He asked her, "What is it you want?" She told him, "Say that these two sons of mine may sit, one at your right hand and one at your left, in your kingdom." [22] Jesus answered, "You do not know what you are requesting. Can you drink the cup I am about to drink, and be baptized with the baptism with which I am being baptized?" They told him, "We can." [23] He told them, "My cup you will certainly drink, and with the baptism with which I am being baptized you will be baptized; but to sit at my right hand and at my left is not mine to give; it belongs to those for whom it has been prepared by my Father." [24] When the ten heard this, they became indignant at the two brothers. [25] Jesus called them together and said, "You know that the rulers of the Gentiles domineer over them, and their great men wield authority over them. [26] It will not be this way among you; rather, whoever wants to become great among you is to be your minister,* [27] and whoever wants to be first among you is to be your servant, [28] just as the Son of Man did not come to be waited on but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many." [29] As they were leaving Jericho, a large crowd followed him. [30] And there were two blind men sitting beside the road; when they heard that Jesus was going by, they shouted, "Have mercy on us, Lord, Son of David!" [31] The crowd scolded them to make them be quiet, but they shouted all the louder, "Have mercy on us, Lord, Son of David!" [32] Jesus stopped, called to them, and said, "What do you wish me to do for you?" [33] They said to him,

"Lord, let our eyes be opened." [34] Moved with compassion, Jesus touched their eyes, and at once their eyes regained sight, and they followed him.

CHAPTER 21

[1] As they approached Jerusalem and came to Bethphage, on the Mount of Olives, Jesus then sent off two disciples, [2] telling them, "Go into the village ahead of you, and right away you will find a donkey tied up, and a colt with her; untie them and bring them to me. [3] If anyone says anything to you, you are to say, 'The Lord needs them,' and he will send them immediately." [4] All this happened so that the word spoken through the prophet would be fulfilled: [5] "Tell the daughter of Zion, 'Look, your King comes to you, meek and riding on a donkey, even on a colt, the offspring of a beast of burden.'" [6] The disciples went and did just as Jesus had instructed them. [7] They led the donkey and the colt, laid their cloaks on them, and set him on them.* [8] Most of the crowd spread out their own cloaks on the road, while others were cutting branches from the trees and spreading them on the road. [9] The crowds going ahead of him and those following kept shouting, "Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the highest!" [10] When he entered Jerusalem, the whole city was shaken, and people asked, "Who is this?" [11] The crowds answered, "This is the prophet Jesus, from Nazareth in Galilee." [12] Jesus went into the temple of God and threw out all who were selling and buying in the temple, and he turned over the tables of the money changers and the seats of the dove sellers. [13] He told them, "It is written, 'My house will be called a house of prayer'; but you have turned it into a hideout for robbers." [14] Blind and lame people came to him in the temple, and he healed them. [15] But when the chief priests and the scribes saw the marvels he had done, and the children shouting in the temple, "Hosanna to the Son of David!" they were indignant, [16] and said to him, "Do you hear what they are saying?" Jesus answered them, "Yes. Have you never read, 'From the mouths of little children and nursing infants you have brought praise to completion'?" [17] Then he left them and went out of the city to Bethany, and he spent the night there. [18] Early in the morning, as he was going back into the city, he became hungry. [19] Seeing a single fig tree beside the road, he went up to it and found nothing on it except leaves; and he said to it, "May no fruit ever come from you again." And instantly the fig tree dried up. [20] When the disciples saw this, they were amazed and said, "How is it that the fig tree dried up at once?" [21] Jesus answered them, "Truly I say to you, if you have faith and do not waver, not only will you do what was done to the fig tree, but even if you tell this mountain, 'Be taken up and thrown into the sea,' it will come about. [22] And everything you ask for in prayer, believing, you will receive." [23] After he had come into the temple, as he was teaching, the chief priests and the elders of the people came up to him and said, "By what authority do you do these things? And who gave you this authority?" [24] Jesus answered them, "I too will ask you one question; if you answer me, I in turn will tell you by what authority I do these things. [25] John's baptism, where did it come from? From heaven, or from men?" They discussed it among themselves, saying, "If we say, 'From heaven,' he will ask us, 'Then why did you not believe him?' [26] But if we say, 'From men,' we are afraid of the crowd, since they all regard John as a prophet." [27] So they answered Jesus, "We do not know." He in turn said to them, "Neither am I telling you by what authority I do these things. [28] "But how does it seem to you? A man had two children. He went to the first and said, 'Child, go work in my vineyard today.' [29] He answered, 'I do not want to'; but later he changed his mind and went. [30] He went to the other and said the same thing. That one answered, 'I will, sir,' but he did not go. [31] Which of the two did what his father wanted?" They said, "The first." Jesus said to them, "Truly I say to you that the tax collectors and the prostitutes are going ahead of you into the kingdom of God. [32] For John came to you in the way of righteousness, and you did not believe him, but the tax collectors and the prostitutes believed him; and you, even after seeing this, did not change your minds later and believe him. [33] "Listen to another parable. There was a householder who planted a vineyard, set a hedge around it, dug a winepress in it, and built a watchtower; then he rented it out to tenant farmers and went abroad. [34] When harvest time came near, he sent his servants to the tenant farmers to collect his fruit. [35] But the tenant farmers seized his servants; one they beat, another they killed, another they stoned. [36] Once more he sent other servants, a larger number than the first, and they treated them the same way. [37] Last of all he sent his son to them, saying, 'They will show respect for my son.' [38] But when the tenant farmers saw the son, they said to one another, 'This is the heir. Come on, let us kill him and take over his inheritance.' [39] So they seized him, threw him out of the vineyard, and killed him. [40] Now when the owner of the vineyard comes, what will he do to those tenant farmers?" [41] They told him, "He will put those wretches to a wretched death, and he will rent out the vineyard to other tenant farmers who will give him the fruit when it is due." [42] Jesus said to them, "Did you never read in the Scriptures, 'The stone that the builders discarded, this has become the head of the corner; this came about from the Lord, and it is wonderful in our eyes'? [43] That is why I say to you that the kingdom of God will be taken from you and given to a nation that produces its fruit. [44] And the one who falls on this stone will be shattered; but on whomever it falls, it will crush him to powder."* [45] When the chief priests and the Pharisees heard his parables, they realized that he was talking about them. [46] They wanted to arrest him, but they were afraid of the crowds, because the people regarded him as a prophet.

CHAPTER 22

[1] Jesus responded and spoke to them in parables once more, saying, [2] "The kingdom of heaven has become like a king who held a wedding feast for his son. [3] He sent his servants to summon the invited guests to the wedding feast, but they refused to come. [4] Again he sent other servants and said, 'Tell the invited guests, "See, I have got my meal ready; my bulls and my fattened animals have been butchered, and everything is prepared. Come to the wedding feast!'" [5] But they disregarded it and went off, one to his own farm, another to his trade, [6] while the rest grabbed his servants, mistreated them, and killed them. [7] When the king heard about it, he became furious; he sent his troops, wiped out those murderers, and set their city on fire. [8] Then he told his servants, 'The wedding is prepared, but the invited guests were not worthy. [9] So go out to where the roads leave the city, and invite to the wedding feast as many as you find.' [10] Those servants went out onto the roads and brought together everyone they found, bad and good alike; and the wedding hall was filled with people reclining at table. [11] "But when the king came in to view the guests, he noticed a man there who was not dressed in wedding clothes. [12] He said to him, 'Friend, how did you get in here without wedding clothes?' The man had nothing to say. [13] Then the king told the attendants, 'Tie him hand and foot, take him away, and throw him out into the darkness outside. There will be weeping and grinding of teeth.' [14] For many are called, but few are chosen." [15] Then the Pharisees went off and plotted how they might trap him in what he said. [16] They sent their disciples to him together with the Herodians, saying, "Teacher, we know that you are truthful and that you teach the way of God in truth, and you are not concerned about anyone, for you do not look at people's outward standing. [17] So tell us, what is your opinion? Is it lawful to pay the poll tax to Caesar, or not?" [18] But Jesus, recognizing their malice, said, "Why are you testing me, hypocrites? [19] Show me the coin used for the poll tax." They brought him a denarius. [20] He asked them, "Whose likeness and inscription is this?" [21] They answered, "Caesar's." Then he told them, "Pay back, then, to Caesar what belongs to Caesar, and to God what belongs to God." [22] Hearing this, they were amazed; and they left him and went away. [23] That same day some Sadducees, who claim there is no resurrection, came to him and questioned him, [24] saying, "Teacher, Moses said, 'If anyone dies without children, his brother is to marry his widow and raise up offspring for his brother.' [25] Now there were seven brothers among us. The first one married and died, and since he had no offspring, he left his wife to his brother. [26] The same happened with the second and the third, all the way to the seventh. [27] Last of all, the woman died too. [28] So in the resurrection, which of the seven will she be wife to? For all of them had her." [29] Jesus answered them, "You are going astray, since you do not know the Scriptures or the power of God. [30] For in the resurrection people neither marry nor are given in marriage; they are like God's angels in heaven. [31] And as for the resurrection of the dead, have you not read what God spoke to you, when he said, [32] 'I am the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob'? God is not God of the dead but of the living." [33] The crowds heard this and were astounded at his teaching. [34] When the Pharisees heard that he had muzzled the Sadducees, they came together in one place. [35] And one of them, an expert in the law, put a question to him to test him: [36] "Teacher, which commandment in the law is great?" [37] Jesus said to him, "'You shall love the Lord your God with your whole heart and with your whole soul and with your whole mind.' [38] This is the first commandment, and the great one. [39] And a second is like it: 'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.' [40] The whole Law and the Prophets hang on these two commandments." [41] While the Pharisees were assembled, Jesus put a question to them, [42] asking, "What is your view about the Christ? Whose son is he?" They told him, "David's." [43] He said to them, "Then how is it that David, in the Spirit, calls him Lord, when he says, [44] 'The Lord said to my Lord, "Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet"'? [45] So if David calls him Lord, how is he his son?" [46] No one could answer him a single word, and from that day on no one dared to question him any further.

CHAPTER 23

[1] Then Jesus addressed the crowds and his disciples, [2] saying, "The scribes and the Pharisees have taken their seat on the chair of Moses. [3] So everything they tell you to keep, keep and do; but do not act as they act, for they talk but do not do. [4] They tie up heavy loads that are hard to carry and place them on people's shoulders, but they themselves refuse to budge them with their own finger. [5] Everything they do is done to be noticed by people: they widen their phylacteries and lengthen the tassels of their garments. [6] They love the place of honor at banquets and the front seats in the synagogues, [7] and being greeted in the marketplaces and having people call them 'Rabbi, Rabbi.' [8] But as for you, do not be called 'Rabbi,' for one is your Instructor, the Christ, and you are all brothers.* [9] And do not call anyone on earth your father, for one is your Father, the one in heaven. [10] Nor are you to be called instructors, for one is your Instructor, the Christ. [11] The greatest among you is to be your servant. [12] Whoever lifts himself up will be brought low, and whoever brings himself low will be lifted up. [13] "But woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you lock the kingdom of heaven in people's faces; you do not go in yourselves, and those who are trying to go in you do not permit to enter. [14] Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you eat up widows' houses and make long prayers for show; because of this you will receive greater condemnation.* [15] Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you go around sea and dry land to win a single convert, and when he becomes one, you make him a son of hell twice as much as you are. [16] "Woe to you, blind guides, who say, 'If anyone swears by the temple, it means nothing; but if anyone swears by the gold of the temple, he is obligated.' [17] You blind fools! Which is greater: the gold, or the temple that makes the gold holy? [18] And, 'If anyone swears by the altar, it means nothing; but if anyone swears by the gift on top of it, he is obligated.' [19] You blind fools! Which is greater: the gift, or the altar that makes the gift holy? [20] So the one who swears by the altar swears by it and by all that is on it. [21] And the one who swears by the temple swears by it and by the one who lives in it. [22] And the one who swears by heaven swears by God's throne and by the one seated on it. [23] "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you give a tenth of mint and dill and cumin, and you have neglected the weightier parts of the law: judgment and mercy and faith. These you ought to have practiced, without neglecting the others. [24] Blind guides, straining out the gnat but gulping down the camel! [25] "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you clean the outside of the cup and the dish, but inside they are full of plunder and lack of self-control. [26] Blind Pharisee! First make clean the inside of the cup and the dish, so that their outside may become clean as well. [27] "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you resemble tombs that have been whitewashed, which look attractive on the outside but on the inside are full of dead men's bones and every kind of impurity. [28] In the same way you too look righteous to people on the outside, but on the inside you are full of hypocrisy and lawlessness. [29] "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you build the tombs of the prophets and decorate the memorials of the righteous, [30] and you say, 'If we had been alive in the days of our fathers, we would not have taken part with them in shedding the blood of the prophets.' [31] So you bear witness against yourselves that you are the sons of those who murdered the prophets. [32] And you, fill up the measure of your fathers! [33] Snakes, offspring of vipers! How are you to escape the condemnation of hell? [34] For this reason, look, I am sending you prophets and wise men and scribes; some of them you will kill and crucify, and some of them you will flog in your synagogues and hunt from town to town, [35] so that upon you will come all the righteous blood poured out on the earth, from the blood of righteous Abel to the blood of Zechariah son of Barachiah, whom you killed between the sanctuary and the altar. [36] Truly I say to you, all of this will come upon this generation. [37] "Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you who kill the prophets and stone those sent to you! How many times I wanted to gather your children together the way a hen gathers her chicks under her wings, but you were not willing! [38] Look, your house is being left to you desolate. [39] For I say to you, from now on you will certainly not see me until you say, 'Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord.'"

CHAPTER 24

[1] Jesus left the temple and was going on his way, and his disciples came up to point out to him the buildings of the temple. [2] He answered them, "Do you not see all these things? Truly I say to you, not a stone will be left here upon a stone that will not be torn down." [3] While he was sitting on the Mount of Olives, the disciples came to him in private and said, "Tell us, when will these things happen, and what will be the sign of your coming and of the close of the age?" [4] Jesus answered them, "Watch out that no one deceives you. [5] For many will come in my name, saying, 'I am the Christ,' and they will deceive many. [6] You are going to hear of wars and reports of wars. Take care not to be frightened, for all these things have to happen, but it is not yet the end. [7] For nation will rise up against nation and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines and plagues and earthquakes from place to place. [8] All these things are the beginning of labor pains. [9] "Then they will hand you over to affliction and will kill you, and you will be hated by all the nations because of my name. [10] At that time many will stumble, and they will betray one another and hate one another. [11] Many false prophets will appear and deceive many. [12] And because lawlessness will increase, the love of the many will grow cold. [13] But whoever endures to the end, that one will be saved. [14] And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached throughout the whole inhabited world as a testimony to all the nations, and then the end will come. [15] "So when you see standing in the holy place the abomination of desolation spoken of through Daniel the prophet (let the one who reads take note), [16] then those in Judea must flee to the mountains. [17] The one on the rooftop must not come down to carry anything out of his house, [18] and the one in the field must not turn back to get his cloak. [19] But woe to women who are pregnant and to those nursing infants in those days! [20] Pray that your flight will not happen in winter or on a Sabbath. [21] For at that time there will be great affliction, of a kind that has not occurred from the beginning of the world until now, and never will again. [22] And if those days had not been shortened, no flesh would be saved; but on account of the elect those days will be shortened. [23] At that time, if anyone tells you, 'Look, here is the Christ!' or 'Over there!' do not believe it. [24] For false christs and false prophets will appear and perform great signs and wonders, so as to deceive, if possible, even the elect. [25] Look, I have told you in advance. [26] So if they tell you, 'Look, he is out in the wilderness,' do not go out; 'Look, he is in the inner rooms,' do not believe it. [27] For just as the lightning flashes out from the east and is seen as far as the west, so will the coming of the Son of Man be. [28] For wherever the carcass is, there the eagles will flock together. [29] "Right after the affliction of those days, the sun will be darkened, the moon will not give its light, the stars will fall from the sky, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken. [30] Then the sign of the Son of Man will appear in heaven, and then all the tribes of the earth will beat their breasts, and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. [31] He will send out his angels with a loud trumpet call, and they will gather his elect from the four winds, from one end of the heavens to the other. [32] "Learn the parable from the fig tree: once its branch has become tender and it sprouts its leaves, you know that summer is near. [33] In the same way you too, when you see all these things, know that it is near, right at the doors. [34] Truly I say to you, this generation will certainly not pass away until all these things happen. [35] Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will certainly not pass away. [36] "But about that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels of the heavens, but my Father alone. [37] Just as the days of Noah were, so the coming of the Son of Man will be. [38] For as in those days before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day Noah went into the ark, [39] and they did not realize until the flood came and carried them all away, so will the coming of the Son of Man be. [40] At that time two will be in the field; one is taken along and one is left. [41] Two women will be grinding at the mill; one is taken along and one is left. [42] So keep watch, because you do not know at what hour your Lord is coming. [43] But understand this: if the householder had known at what watch of the night the thief was coming, he would have stayed awake and would not have let his house be dug through. [44] For this reason you too must be ready, because the Son of Man is coming at an hour you do not expect. [45] "Who, then, is the faithful and sensible servant whom his master has put in charge of his household servants, to give them their food at the proper time? [46] Blessed is that servant whom his master will find doing so when he comes. [47] Truly I say to you that he will put him in charge of all his possessions. [48] But if that evil servant says in his heart, 'My master is taking a long time to come,' [49] and starts beating his fellow servants and eating and drinking with drunkards, [50] the master of that servant will come on a day he is not expecting and at an hour he does not know, [51] and he will cut him in pieces and assign him a place with the hypocrites. There will be weeping and grinding of teeth.

CHAPTER 25

[1] "At that time the kingdom of heaven will be likened to ten virgins who took their lamps and went out to meet the bridegroom. [2] Five of them were sensible, and five were foolish. [3] The foolish ones took their lamps but did not take oil along with them, [4] while the sensible ones took oil in flasks along with their lamps. [5] Since the bridegroom was taking a long time, they all nodded off and were sleeping. [6] But in the middle of the night a shout went up: 'Look, the bridegroom is coming! Go out to meet him!' [7] Then all those virgins got up and put their lamps in order. [8] The foolish ones said to the sensible ones, 'Give us some of your oil, because our lamps are going out.' [9] But the sensible ones answered, 'No, there may not be enough for both us and you. Go instead to the sellers and buy some for yourselves.' [10] While they were off buying it, the bridegroom arrived, and those who were ready went in with him to the wedding feast, and the door was closed. [11] Later the rest of the virgins came too and said, 'Lord, lord, open the door for us!' [12] But he answered, 'Truly I say to you, I do not know you.' [13] So keep watch, because you know neither the day nor the hour in which the Son of Man is coming. [14] "For it is just like a man about to go abroad, who summoned his own servants and entrusted his possessions to them. [15] To one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one, to each in keeping with his own ability, and he went abroad at once. [16] The one who had received the five talents went off and did business with them, and he made another five talents. [17] In the same way, the one with the two also gained another two. [18] But the one who had received one went off, dug a hole in the ground, and hid his master's silver. [19] After a long time the master of those servants came back and settled accounts with them. [20] The one who had received the five talents came forward and brought another five talents, saying, 'Master, you entrusted five talents to me; see, I have gained five more talents in addition to them.' [21] His master said to him, 'Well done, good and faithful servant! You have been faithful over a few things; I will put you in charge of many things. Come into the joy of your master.' [22] The one with the two talents also came forward and said, 'Master, you entrusted two talents to me; see, I have gained two more talents in addition to them.' [23] His master said to him, 'Well done, good and faithful servant! You have been faithful over a few things; I will put you in charge of many things. Come into the joy of your master.' [24] Then the one who had received the one talent came forward too and said, 'Master, I knew that you are a harsh man, harvesting where you did not sow and gathering where you did not scatter. [25] So I was afraid, and I went off and hid your talent in the ground. Here, you have what is yours.' [26] His master answered him, 'You evil and idle servant! You knew that I harvest where I did not sow and gather where I did not scatter? [27] Then you should have deposited my silver with the bankers, and when I came I would have gotten back what is mine with interest. [28] Take the talent away from him, then, and give it to the one who has the ten talents. [29] For to everyone who has, more will be given, and he will have more than enough; but from the one who does not have, even what he has will be taken from him. [30] And throw the useless servant out into the darkness outside. There will be weeping and grinding of teeth.' [31] "When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, he will then take his seat on the throne of his glory. [32] All the nations will be assembled before him, and he will separate people from one another just as the shepherd separates the sheep from the goats. [33] He will place the sheep at his right hand and the goats at his left. [34] Then the King will say to those at his right, 'Come, you who have been blessed by my Father; take possession of the kingdom made ready for you since the foundation of the world. [35] For I was hungry and you gave me something to eat; I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink; I was a stranger and you welcomed me in; [36] naked, and you clothed me; I was sick and you looked after me; I was in prison and you came to see me.' [37] Then the righteous will answer him, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you something to drink? [38] When did we see you as a stranger and welcome you in, or naked and clothe you? [39] When did we see you sick or in prison and come to see you?' [40] And the King will answer them, 'Truly I say to you, to the extent that you did it for one of these brothers of mine, the least of them, you did it for me.' [41] Then he will also say to those at his left, 'Go away from me, you who are cursed, into the eternal fire that has been prepared for the devil and his angels. [42] For I was hungry and you gave me nothing to eat; I was thirsty and you gave me nothing to drink; [43] I was a stranger and you did not welcome me in; naked, and you did not clothe me; sick and in prison, and you did not look after me.' [44] Then they too will answer, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or sick or in prison and did not serve you?' [45] Then he will answer them, 'Truly I say to you, to the extent that you did not do it for one of these, the least, you did not do it for me.' [46] And these will go off into eternal punishment, but the righteous into eternal life."

CHAPTER 26

[1] And it happened that when Jesus had finished all these words, he said to his disciples, [2] "You know that in two days the Passover takes place, and the Son of Man is being handed over to be crucified." [3] At that time the chief priests and the scribes and the elders of the people assembled in the palace of the high priest, the man called Caiaphas, [4] and they conspired to arrest Jesus by trickery and put him to death. [5] But they kept saying, "Not during the festival, so that there will not be a riot among the people." [6] While Jesus was at Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, [7] a woman approached him with an alabaster jar of very expensive perfumed oil, and she poured it over his head as he was reclining at table. [8] Seeing this, his disciples were indignant and said, "What is the point of this waste? [9] This perfumed oil could have been sold for a large sum and given to the poor." [10] Jesus, aware of this, said to them, "Why are you causing the woman trouble? It is a fine deed that she has done for me. [11] For the poor you always have with you, but me you do not always have. [12] In pouring this oil on my body, she did it to prepare me for burial. [13] Truly I say to you, wherever this gospel is proclaimed in all the world, what she has done will also be spoken of in memory of her." [14] Then one of the twelve, the one called Judas Iscariot, went off to the chief priests [15] and said, "What will you give me if I hand him over to you?" And they weighed out for him thirty silver coins. [16] From then on he was looking for a good opportunity to betray him. [17] On the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread the disciples came to Jesus and asked, "Where do you want us to get the Passover ready for you to eat?" [18] He said, "Go into the city to so-and-so and tell him, 'The Teacher says, "My time is near; I am keeping the Passover at your place with my disciples."'" [19] The disciples did as Jesus had instructed them, and they got the Passover ready. [20] When evening had come, he was reclining at table with the twelve. [21] And while they were eating, he said, "Truly I say to you that one of you will betray me." [22] They were deeply grieved, and one after another they began to say to him, "Surely it is not I, Lord?" [23] He answered, "The one who dipped his hand into the dish with me is the one who will betray me. [24] The Son of Man is going away just as it has been written about him, but woe to that man through whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would have been better for that man if he had never been born." [25] Judas, the one betraying him, responded, "Surely it is not I, Rabbi?" He told him, "You have said so." [26] While they were eating, Jesus took the bread, blessed it, broke it, and gave it to the disciples, saying, "Take and eat; this is my body." [27] Then he took the cup, gave thanks, and handed it to them, saying, "All of you, drink from it. [28] For this is my blood of the new covenant, which is being poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins. [] [29] I say to you, from now on I will certainly not drink of this fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it new with you in the kingdom of my Father." [30] After singing a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives. [31] Then Jesus told them, "All of you will stumble because of me this night; for it is written, 'I will strike the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock will be scattered.' [32] But after I have been raised, I will go ahead of you into Galilee." [33] Peter answered him, "Even if all stumble because of you, I will never stumble." [34] Jesus told him, "Truly I say to you that this very night, before a rooster crows, you will deny me three times." [35] Peter said to him, "Even if I have to die with you, I will certainly not deny you!" And all the disciples said the same thing. [36] Then Jesus went with them to a place called Gethsemane, and he told the disciples, "Sit here while I go over there and pray." [37] Taking along Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, he began to be grieved and greatly troubled. [38] Then he said to them, "My soul is overwhelmed with sorrow, to the point of death. Stay here and keep watch with me." [39] Going on a little farther, he fell on his face and prayed, "My Father, if it is possible, let this cup pass away from me. Yet not as I will, but as you will." [40] Then he came to the disciples and found them asleep, and he said to Peter, "So you were not able to keep watch with me for one hour? [41] Keep watching and praying, so that you will not come into temptation. The spirit is eager, but the flesh is weak." [42] He went away again a second time and prayed, "My Father, if this cup cannot pass away from me unless I drink it, let your will be done." [43] Coming back, he again found them asleep, because their eyes were weighed down. [44] Leaving them, he went away once more and prayed a third time, saying the same thing again. [45] Then he came to his disciples and told them, "Sleep on now, and take your rest. Look, the hour has drawn near, and the Son of Man is being betrayed into the hands of sinners. [46] Get up, let us go. Look, the one betraying me has drawn near." [47] While he was still speaking, Judas, one of the twelve, arrived, and with him a large crowd with swords and clubs, sent from the chief priests and elders of the people. [48] His betrayer had given them a signal: "Whomever I kiss, he is the one; arrest him." [49] He went straight up to Jesus and said, "Greetings, Rabbi!" and kissed him warmly. [50] Jesus said to him, "Friend, why have you come?" Then they came forward, laid their hands on Jesus, and arrested him. [] [51] And one of those with Jesus reached out his hand, drew his sword, struck the high priest's servant, and cut off his ear. [52] Then Jesus said to him, "Return your sword to its place, for all who take up the sword will perish by the sword. [53] Or do you suppose that I cannot call on my Father now, and he would put at my side more than twelve legions of angels? [54] How, then, would the Scriptures be fulfilled that say it has to happen in this way?" [55] At that hour Jesus said to the crowds, "Have you come out with swords and clubs to capture me as though I were a robber? Day after day I sat teaching in the temple with you, and you did not arrest me. [56] But all this has happened so that the writings of the prophets would be fulfilled." Then the disciples all deserted him and fled. [57] Those who had arrested Jesus took him away to Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders had assembled. [58] Peter followed him from a distance as far as the high priest's courtyard, and he went in and sat down with the attendants to see how it would end. [59] The chief priests, the elders, and the whole Council kept looking for false testimony against Jesus in order to put him to death, [60] but they found none. Though many false witnesses came forward, they found none. [*] [61] At last two false witnesses came forward and said, "This fellow said, 'I am able to tear down the temple of God and build it within three days.'" [62] The high priest stood up and said to him, "Have you no answer to give? What are these men testifying against you?" [63] But Jesus kept silent. The high priest said to him, "I put you under oath by the living God: tell us whether you are the Christ, the Son of God." [64] Jesus told him, "You have said so. But I say to you, hereafter you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of the Power and coming on the clouds of heaven." [65] Then the high priest ripped his garments and said, "He has blasphemed! Why do we still need witnesses? See, you have now heard his blasphemy. [66] What is your verdict?" They answered, "He deserves death." [67] Then they spat in his face and beat him with their fists, and some slapped him, [68] saying, "Prophesy to us, Christ! Who was it that hit you?" [69] Peter was sitting outside in the courtyard, and a servant girl came up to him and said, "You too were with Jesus the Galilean." [70] But he denied it in front of everyone, saying, "I do not know what you are talking about." [71] When he had gone out to the entryway, another girl saw him and said to the people there, "This man was with Jesus the Nazarene." [72] Again he denied it, with an oath: "I do not know the man!" [73] A little later the bystanders came up and said to Peter, "You certainly are one of them too; even your way of speaking gives you away." [74] Then he began to call down curses and to swear, "I do not know the man!" And at once a rooster crowed. [75] Then Peter remembered the word Jesus had spoken: "Before a rooster crows, you will deny me three times." And he went outside and wept bitterly.

CHAPTER 27

[1] When morning had come, all the chief priests and the elders of the people reached a decision against Jesus to put him to death. [2] They tied him up, led him away, and handed him over to Pontius Pilate the governor. [3] Then Judas, his betrayer, seeing that Jesus had been condemned, was seized with remorse and returned the thirty silver coins to the chief priests and the elders, [4] saying, "I have sinned in betraying innocent blood." But they said, "What is that to us? You see to it." [5] He threw the silver coins into the sanctuary and left; and he went away and hanged himself. [6] The chief priests picked up the silver coins and said, "It is not permitted to put them into the treasury, since it is blood money." [7] After conferring together, they used them to buy the potter's field as a burial ground for foreigners. [8] That is why that field has been called the Field of Blood up to the present day. [9] Then what had been spoken through Jeremiah the prophet was fulfilled: "And they took the thirty silver coins, the price of the one on whom a price had been set, whom some of the children of Israel had priced, [10] and they gave them for the potter's field, just as the Lord directed me." [11] Jesus stood before the governor, and the governor questioned him, "Are you the King of the Jews?" Jesus said to him, "You are saying it." [12] And while the chief priests and the elders were bringing charges against him, he gave no answer. [13] Then Pilate said to him, "Do you not hear how many things they are testifying against you?" [14] But he did not answer him with even one word, so that the governor was greatly amazed. [15] At the festival the governor's custom was to release to the crowd one prisoner of their choosing. [16] At that time they had a notorious prisoner named Barabbas. [17] So when they had assembled, Pilate asked them, "Whom do you want me to release for you: Barabbas, or Jesus, the one called Christ?" [18] For he was aware that they had handed him over out of envy. [19] While he was seated on the judgment seat, his wife sent word to him: "Have nothing to do with that righteous man, for today I have suffered much in a dream on account of him." [20] But the chief priests and the elders persuaded the crowds to ask for Barabbas and have Jesus destroyed. [21] The governor responded, "Which of the two do you want me to release for you?" They said, "Barabbas!" [22] Pilate said to them, "What then shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ?" They all said to him, "Let him be crucified!" [23] The governor asked, "Why? What evil has he done?" But they shouted all the more, "Let him be crucified!" [24] When Pilate saw that he was getting nowhere, but that a riot was breaking out instead, he took water and washed his hands in front of the crowd, saying, "I am innocent of the blood of this righteous man. You see to it." [25] And all the people answered, "His blood be upon us and upon our children!" [26] Then he released Barabbas for them; but Jesus he had flogged and handed over to be crucified. [27] Then the governor's soldiers took Jesus into the Praetorium and assembled the whole cohort around him. [28] They stripped him and draped a scarlet cloak around him. [29] They wove a crown out of thorns and set it on his head, and put a reed in his right hand; and kneeling in front of him, they mocked him, saying, "Hail, King of the Jews!" [30] They spat on him, took the reed, and kept hitting him on the head. [31] After they had mocked him, they took the cloak off him, put his own garments back on him, and led him away to be crucified. [32] On their way out they came across a man from Cyrene named Simon; they forced him to carry his cross. [33] When they came to a place called Golgotha, which is called Skull's Place, [34] they gave him sour wine mixed with gall to drink; but after tasting it, he refused to drink it. [] [35] After crucifying him, they divided up his garments by casting lots, so that the word spoken by the prophet would be fulfilled: "They divided my garments among themselves, and over my clothing they cast lots." [] [36] Then they sat down and kept guard over him there. [37] Above his head they placed the charge against him in writing: "THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS." [38] At that time two robbers were crucified with him, one on the right and one on the left. [39] Those passing by hurled insults at him, shaking their heads [40] and saying, "You who would tear down the temple and build it in three days, save yourself! If you are the Son of God, come down from the cross!" [41] In the same way the chief priests too, together with the scribes and elders, mocked him and said, [42] "He saved others, but he cannot save himself. If he is the King of Israel, let him come down from the cross now, and we will believe him. [43] He has trusted in God; let God rescue him now, if he takes pleasure in him; for he said, 'I am the Son of God.'" [44] The robbers who had been crucified with him also heaped the same insults on him. [45] From the sixth hour until the ninth hour darkness came over all the land. [46] Around the ninth hour Jesus called out with a loud voice, "Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani?" that is, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" [47] When some of the bystanders heard this, they said, "This man is calling for Elijah." [48] At once one of them ran, took a sponge, soaked it with sour wine, put it on a reed, and offered it to him to drink. [49] But the others said, "Leave him alone; let us see if Elijah comes to save him." [50] Jesus cried out again with a loud voice and released his spirit. [51] And look, the veil of the sanctuary was split in two from top to bottom; the earth was shaken, and the rocks split apart. [52] The tombs were opened, and many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep were raised, [53] and after his resurrection they came out of the tombs, entered the holy city, and appeared to many people. [54] When the centurion and those keeping watch over Jesus with him saw the earthquake and what was happening, they were terrified and said, "Truly this was the Son of God!" [55] Many women were there, watching from a distance; they had followed Jesus from Galilee, serving him. [56] Among them were Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James and Joses, and the mother of Zebedee's sons. [57] As evening came on, a rich man from Arimathea arrived, named Joseph, who had himself also become a disciple of Jesus. [58] He went to Pilate and requested the body of Jesus. Then Pilate ordered that the body be given over. [59] Joseph took the body and wrapped it in clean linen, [60] and placed it in his own new tomb, which he had hewn in the rock; and after rolling a large stone against the entrance of the tomb, he went away. [61] Mary Magdalene and the other Mary were there, sitting across from the tomb. [62] On the next day, the one after the Preparation, the chief priests and the Pharisees assembled before Pilate [63] and said, "Sir, we recall that while that impostor was still alive he said, 'After three days I rise again.' [64] So give orders for the tomb to be secured until the third day; otherwise his disciples may come at night, steal him, and tell the people, 'He has been raised from the dead,' and the final deception will be worse than the first." [65] Pilate told them, "You have a guard. Go, secure it as best you know how." [66] So they went and secured the tomb by sealing the stone, with the guard present.

CHAPTER 28

[1] After the Sabbath, as the first day of the week was dawning, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary went to look at the tomb. [2] And suddenly there was a great earthquake, because an angel of the Lord came down from heaven, came and rolled the stone away from the entrance, and sat on it. [3] His appearance was like lightning, and his garment as white as snow. [4] The guards trembled with fear of him and became like dead men. [5] The angel said to the women in response, "Do not be afraid, for I know that you are looking for Jesus, who was crucified. [6] He is not here; for he has been raised, just as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. [7] Then go quickly and tell his disciples that he has been raised from the dead, and that he is going ahead of you into Galilee; you will see him there. There, I have told you." [8] They hurried away from the tomb with fear and great joy and ran to bring word to his disciples. [9] As they were on their way to tell his disciples, suddenly Jesus met them and said, "Rejoice!" They came up, took hold of his feet, and worshiped him. [10] Then Jesus told them, "Stop being afraid. Go and tell my brothers to leave for Galilee; they will see me there." [11] While they were on their way, some of the guards went into the city and reported to the chief priests everything that had happened. [12] After meeting with the elders and making a plan, they gave the soldiers a sizable sum of silver [13] and told them, "Say, 'His disciples came during the night and stole him while we were sleeping.' [14] If the governor hears about this, we will win him over and keep you free from worry." [15] So they took the silver and did as they had been taught. And this story has been circulated among the Jews to the present day. [16] The eleven disciples went to Galilee, to the mountain to which Jesus had directed them. [17] When they saw him, they worshiped him; but some had doubts. [18] Jesus came up and spoke to them, saying, "All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. [19] Go, then, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, [20] and teaching them to keep everything I have commanded you. And look, I am with you every day, until the close of the age." Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God. [2] As it is written in the prophets, "Look, I am sending my messenger before your face, who will make ready your way ahead of you." [*] [3] "A voice of one calling out in the wilderness: 'Make ready the way of the Lord; make his paths straight.'" [4] There came John, baptizing in the wilderness and proclaiming a baptism of repentance leading to the forgiveness of sins. [5] The whole Judean countryside and the people of Jerusalem kept going out to him, and they were all baptized by him in the Jordan River as they confessed their sins. [6] John was clothed in camel's hair, with a belt of leather around his waist, and he would eat locusts and wild honey. [7] And he proclaimed, "The one stronger than I am is coming after me; I am not fit to stoop down and untie the strap of his sandals. [8] I for my part baptized you in water, but he will baptize you in the Holy Spirit." [9] In those days it happened that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee and was baptized by John in the Jordan. [10] As soon as he came up from the water, he saw the heavens splitting apart and the Spirit coming down on him as a dove. [11] And a voice came out of the heavens: "You are my beloved Son, in whom I have delighted." [12] At once the Spirit drove him out into the wilderness. [13] He was there in the wilderness forty days, being tempted by Satan; he was with the wild beasts, and the angels were attending to him. [14] After John had been handed over, Jesus went into Galilee preaching the gospel of the kingdom of God [15] and saying, "The time has been fulfilled, and the kingdom of God has drawn near. Repent, and believe in the gospel." [16] As he walked beside the Sea of Galilee, he saw Simon and his brother Andrew throwing a net into the sea; for they were fishermen. [17] And Jesus said to them, "Come after me, and I will make you become fishers of men." [18] And leaving their nets at once, they followed him. [19] Going on a little farther from there, he saw James son of Zebedee and his brother John, who were also in the boat, repairing the nets. [20] At once he called them, and they left their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired men and went off after him. [21] They went into Capernaum; and straightaway on the Sabbath he went into the synagogue and began to teach. [22] They were amazed at his teaching, for he was teaching them as one who has authority, and not in the way the scribes did. [23] In their synagogue there was a man with an unclean spirit, and he shouted out, [24] saying, "Ha! What business do we have with you, Jesus the Nazarene? Did you come to destroy us? I know who you are: the Holy One of God!" [25] Jesus rebuked him, saying, "Be muzzled, and come out of him!" [26] The unclean spirit threw him into convulsions, cried out with a loud voice, and came out of him. [27] Everyone was so amazed that they kept asking one another, "What is this? What is this new teaching? For with authority he gives orders even to the unclean spirits, and they obey him!" [28] And the news about him spread at once into all the surrounding region of Galilee. [29] As soon as they left the synagogue, they went with James and John into the house of Simon and Andrew. [30] Simon's mother-in-law was lying in bed with a fever, and they told him about her right away. [31] He went to her, took her by the hand, and raised her up; at once the fever went away from her, and she waited on them. [32] That evening, when the sun had gone down, they kept bringing to him all who were ill and those who were demon-possessed. [33] The whole town had gathered at the door. [34] He healed many who were ill with various diseases and drove out many demons, and he would not let the demons speak, because they knew him. [35] Very early, while it was still night, he got up, went out, and went off to a deserted place, and he was praying there. [36] Simon and his companions hunted for him, [37] and when they found him, they told him, "Everybody is searching for you." [38] He answered them, "Let us go into the nearby towns, so that I may preach there too; that is why I have come out." [39] So he went preaching in their synagogues throughout all Galilee and driving out demons. [40] A leper came to him, pleading with him and falling on his knees, and saying to him, "If you are willing, you are able to cleanse me." [41] Moved with compassion, Jesus reached out his hand, touched him, and said to him, "I am willing; be cleansed." [42] As soon as he had spoken, the leprosy went away from him at once, and he was cleansed. [43] Then he gave him a stern warning and sent him away at once, [44] saying to him, "Make sure you say nothing to anyone; instead go, show yourself to the priest, and bring for your cleansing what Moses prescribed, as a testimony to them." [45] But he went out and began to proclaim it widely and to spread the news, so that Jesus could no longer go into a town openly but stayed outside in deserted places; and people kept coming to him from everywhere.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Some days later he went back into Capernaum, and word got around that he was at home. [2] At once so many gathered that there was no more room, not even in front of the door; and he was speaking the word to them. [3] Then some people came to him bringing a paralyzed man, carried by four men. [4] Since they could not get near him because of the crowd, they took off the roof above where he was, and after digging through it, they lowered the mat on which the paralytic was lying. [5] Seeing their faith, Jesus said to the paralytic, "Child, your sins have been forgiven you." [6] Now some of the scribes were sitting there and turning it over in their hearts, [7] "Why does this fellow speak blasphemies like this? Who is able to forgive sins except God alone?" [8] Jesus, immediately knowing in his spirit that they were reasoning this way among themselves, said to them, "Why are you reasoning about these things in your hearts? [9] Which is easier: to say to the paralytic, 'Your sins have been forgiven you,' or to say, 'Get up, take up your mat, and walk'? [10] But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins"—he said to the paralytic— [11] "I say to you, get up, take up your mat, and go off to your house." [12] At once he got up, took up the mat, and went out in front of them all, so that they were all astonished and gave glory to God, saying, "We have never seen anything like this!" [13] Once more he went out beside the sea, and the whole crowd kept coming to him, and he was teaching them. [14] As he passed along, he saw Levi son of Alphaeus seated at the tax office, and he said to him, "Follow me." So he got up and followed him. [15] It happened that, as he sat at table in his house, many tax collectors and sinners were sitting at table with Jesus and his disciples; for there were many of them, and they followed him. [16] When the scribes and Pharisees saw him eating with the tax collectors and sinners, they said to his disciples, "How is it that he eats and drinks with the tax collectors and sinners?" [17] Jesus heard it and said to them, "The strong have no need of a doctor, but those who are ill. I did not come to call righteous people, but sinners, to repentance." [18] John's disciples and those of the Pharisees were fasting. People came and asked him, "Why do John's disciples and the Pharisees' disciples fast, but your disciples do not fast?" [19] Jesus answered them, "The sons of the bridechamber cannot fast while the bridegroom is with them, can they? As long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast. [*] [20] But days will come when the bridegroom will be taken from them, and then they will fast in those days. [21] No one sews a patch of unshrunk cloth on an old garment; if he does, the new patch that fills it pulls away from the old, and the tear becomes worse. [22] And no one pours new wine into old wineskins; if he does, the new wine splits the skins, the wine pours out, and the skins are destroyed. Rather, new wine must be poured into fresh wineskins." [23] It happened that he was passing through the grainfields on the Sabbath, and as they made their way his disciples began to pick the heads of grain. [24] The Pharisees said to him, "See, why are they doing what is not lawful on the Sabbath?" [25] He replied, "Have you never read what David did when he was in need and he and those with him were hungry, [26] how he went into the house of God in the days of Abiathar the high priest and ate the showbread, which it is not lawful for anyone but the priests to eat, and also gave some to his companions?" [27] And he said to them, "The Sabbath came into being for the sake of man, not man for the sake of the Sabbath. [28] So the Son of Man is Lord of the Sabbath as well."

CHAPTER 3

[1] Again he went into the synagogue, and a man was there whose hand was shriveled. [2] They were watching him closely to see whether he would heal him on the Sabbath, so that they could bring a charge against him. [3] He said to the man with the shriveled hand, "Get up and come into the middle." [4] Then he said to them, "Is it lawful on the Sabbath to do good or to do harm, to save a life or to kill?" But they kept silent. [5] He looked around at them with anger, grieved at the hardness of their hearts, and said to the man, "Hold out your hand." He held it out, and his hand was restored to health, just like the other. [6] The Pharisees went out and at once began plotting with the Herodians against him, how they might destroy him. [7] Jesus withdrew with his disciples to the sea, and a great multitude followed him from Galilee and from Judea, [8] from Jerusalem, from Idumea, and from across the Jordan; and from around Tyre and Sidon a great multitude, hearing all that he was doing, came to him. [9] He told his disciples to keep a small boat ready for him because of the crowd, so that they would not crush him. [10] For he had healed many, with the result that all who had diseases were pushing toward him in order to touch him. [11] Whenever the unclean spirits saw him, they would fall down before him and shout, "You are the Son of God!" [12] But he warned them sternly not to make him known. [13] He went up the mountain and summoned those he wanted, and they came to him. [14] He appointed twelve, so that they would be with him and so that he could send them out to preach, [15] and to have authority to heal illnesses and to drive out demons. [16] On Simon he put the name Peter; [17] James son of Zebedee and John the brother of James, on whom he put the name Boanerges, that is, "Sons of Thunder"; [18] Andrew, Philip, Bartholomew, Matthew, Thomas, James son of Alphaeus, Thaddaeus, Simon the Cananite, [19] and Judas Iscariot, the one who also betrayed him. Then they went into a house. [20] And a crowd gathered again, so that they were not even able to eat bread. [21] When his family heard about it, they went out to take hold of him, for they were saying, "He has lost his senses." [22] The scribes who had come down from Jerusalem were saying, "He has Beelzebub," and, "It is by the ruler of the demons that he drives out the demons." [23] So he called them over and spoke to them in parables: "How is Satan able to drive out Satan? [24] If a kingdom is split against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. [25] And if a house is split against itself, that house cannot stand. [26] And if Satan has risen up against himself and is split, he cannot stand; his end has come. [27] No one is able to go into the strong man's house and carry off his possessions unless he first ties up the strong man; then he will ransack his house. [28] Truly I say to you, the sons of men will be forgiven all their sins and whatever blasphemies they may speak; [29] but whoever blasphemes against the Holy Spirit has no forgiveness forever, but is subject to eternal condemnation"— [*] [30] for they had been saying, "He has an unclean spirit." [31] Then his brothers and his mother arrived, and standing outside, they sent word to him and called for him. [32] A crowd was seated around him, and they told him, "Look, your mother and your brothers are outside, looking for you." [33] He replied to them, "Who is my mother, or my brothers?" [34] And looking around at those seated in a circle about him, he said, "See, my mother and my brothers! [35] For whoever does the will of God, that one is my brother and my sister and mother."

CHAPTER 4

[1] Again he began to teach beside the sea. So large a crowd gathered around him that he stepped into the boat and sat in it on the sea, while the whole crowd was on the land along the sea. [2] He taught them many things in parables, and in his teaching he said to them, [3] "Listen! Look, the sower went out to sow. [4] It happened that as he was sowing, some seed fell beside the road, and the birds of the sky came and ate it up. [5] Other seed fell on rocky ground where there was not much earth, and it shot up quickly because the earth was not deep. [6] But once the sun came up it was burned, and because it had no root it dried up. [7] Other seed fell among the thorns, and the thorns came up and smothered it, and it gave no crop. [8] And other seed fell on the good ground and gave a crop that sprang up and grew, and it produced thirtyfold, sixtyfold, and a hundredfold." [9] And he said to them, "Whoever has ears to hear, let him hear." [10] When he was by himself, those around him together with the twelve asked him about the parable. [11] He told them, "To you it has been granted to know the mystery of the kingdom of God; but for those outside, everything comes in parables, [12] so that 'though they look, they may see and not perceive, and though they listen, they may hear and not understand, or else they might turn back, and their sins would be forgiven them.'" [13] He also said to them, "Do you not understand this parable? Then how will you understand all the parables? [14] The sower sows the word. [15] These are the ones beside the road where the word is sown: when they hear, Satan comes at once and seizes the word that was sown in their hearts. [16] In the same way, these are the ones sown on the rocky ground: when they hear the word, they at once accept it gladly; [17] but they have no root in themselves and last only for a time; then, when affliction or persecution comes because of the word, they stumble at once. [18] And these are the ones sown among the thorns, the ones who hear the word, [19] but the worries of this age, the deceit of wealth, and the desires for other things come in and smother the word, and it becomes fruitless. [20] And those sown on the good ground are the ones who hear the word and welcome it and bear fruit, thirtyfold, sixtyfold, and a hundredfold." [21] He said to them, "Is a lamp brought in to be placed under the grain basket or under the bed? Is it not to be set on the lampstand? [22] For there is nothing concealed that will not be disclosed, and nothing became secret except so that it would come into the open. [23] If anyone has ears to hear, let him hear." [24] He also said to them, "Pay attention to what you hear. By the measure you measure with, it will be measured to you, and to you who hear, more will be added. [25] For whoever has will be given more; but whoever does not have, even what he has will be taken from him." [26] He also said, "The kingdom of God is like this: as if a man were to throw seed on the ground, [27] and were to sleep and get up, night and day, and the seed sprouts and grows tall in a way he himself does not know. [28] The soil produces a crop by itself: first the stalk, then the head, then the full grain in the head. [29] And when the crop permits, at once he sends in the sickle, because the harvest has arrived." [30] He also said, "To what may we liken the kingdom of God? Or by what parable shall we picture it? [31] It is like a mustard seed, which, when sown on the ground, is smaller than all the seeds on the earth; [32] yet once it is sown, it comes up and becomes bigger than all the garden plants, and it puts out large branches, so that the birds of the sky are able to settle under its shade." [33] With many parables like these he was speaking the word to them, as far as they were able to hear. [34] Apart from a parable he would not speak to them; but in private he explained everything to his own disciples. [35] That same day, when evening had come, he said to them, "Let us go across to the other side." [36] Leaving the crowd, they took him along in the boat, just as he was; and other small boats were with him too. [37] A violent windstorm arose, and the waves kept breaking into the boat, so that it was already filling up. [38] He himself was in the stern, asleep on the cushion. They roused him and said to him, "Teacher, does it not concern you that we are lost?" [39] He got up, rebuked the wind, and said to the sea, "Silence! Be muzzled!" And the wind died down, and it became completely calm. [40] And he said to them, "Why are you so fearful? How is it that you have no faith?" [41] They were filled with great fear and said to one another, "Who, then, is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?"

CHAPTER 5

[1] They came to the other side of the sea, into the region of the Gadarenes. [2] As soon as he had stepped out of the boat, a man with an unclean spirit came out of the tombs and met him. [3] He lived among the tombs, and no one was able to bind him, not even with chains, [4] for he had often been bound with shackles and chains, but he had pulled the chains apart and smashed the shackles, and no one had the strength to subdue him. [5] Night and day, constantly, he was in the mountains and among the tombs, shrieking and gashing himself with stones. [6] Seeing Jesus from a distance, he ran and bowed down before him, [7] and shouting with a loud voice he said, "What business do I have with you, Jesus, Son of God Most High? I charge you by God, do not torment me!" [8] For he had been saying to him, "Come out of the man, unclean spirit!" [9] He asked him, "What is your name?" He answered, "My name is Legion, because we are many." [10] And he pleaded with him again and again not to send them out of the region. [11] A large herd of pigs was grazing there on the mountainside. [12] All the demons pleaded with him, saying, "Send us into the pigs, so that we may go into them." [13] Jesus immediately allowed them. The unclean spirits came out and went into the pigs, and the herd, about two thousand of them, stampeded down the cliff into the sea and were drowned in the sea. [14] Those tending the pigs ran away and reported it in the town and in the countryside. People came out to see what had happened. [15] They came to Jesus and saw the demon-possessed man, the one who had had the legion, sitting there clothed and in his right mind; and they were afraid. [16] Those who had seen it described to them what had happened to the demon-possessed man and told about the pigs. [17] Then they began to urge him to leave their territory. [18] As he was stepping into the boat, the man who had been demon-possessed pleaded with him to let him stay with him. [19] But Jesus would not allow him; instead he said to him, "Go home to your own people and report to them how much the Lord has done for you and how he has shown you mercy." [20] So he went away and began to proclaim in the Decapolis how much Jesus had done for him, and everyone was amazed. [21] When Jesus had crossed back over in the boat to the other side, a large crowd gathered around him, and he was by the sea. [22] Then one of the synagogue rulers came, named Jairus; and seeing him, he fell at his feet [23] and pleaded with him earnestly, saying, "My little daughter is near the end. Come and place your hands on her, so that she may be restored, and she will live." [24] He went off with him, and a large crowd followed him and pressed in on him. [25] And a woman who had been hemorrhaging for twelve years, [26] who had suffered a great deal under many doctors and had spent everything she had without being helped at all, but instead had grown worse, [27] having heard about Jesus, came up behind him in the crowd and touched his cloak. [28] For she kept saying, "If I touch even his clothes, I will be restored." [29] At once the source of her bleeding dried up, and she sensed in her body that she had been cured of her affliction. [30] Jesus, recognizing at once within himself that power had gone out from him, turned around in the crowd and said, "Who touched my clothes?" [31] His disciples said to him, "You see the crowd pressing in on you, and you ask, 'Who touched me?'" [32] But he kept looking around to see the woman who had done this. [33] Then the woman, frightened and trembling, knowing what had happened to her, came and fell down in front of him and told him the whole truth. [34] He said to her, "Daughter, your faith has restored you. Go in peace, and be healed of your affliction." [35] While he was still speaking, people came from the synagogue ruler's house and said, "Your daughter has died. Why bother the Teacher any longer?" [36] As soon as Jesus heard what was said, he told the synagogue ruler, "Do not be afraid; just believe." [37] He let no one go along with him except Peter, James, and John the brother of James. [38] He came to the synagogue ruler's house and saw an uproar, and people weeping and wailing loudly. [39] Going in, he said to them, "Why are you making an uproar and weeping? The child has not died; she is asleep." [40] And they ridiculed him. But he put them all outside, took along the child's father and mother and those with him, and went in where the child was lying. [41] Taking hold of the child's hand, he said to her, "Talitha, cumi," which translated means, "Little girl, I say to you, get up." [42] At once the girl got up and began to walk, for she was twelve years old. And they were utterly overwhelmed with amazement. [43] He gave them strict orders that no one should find out about this, and he told them to give her something to eat.

CHAPTER 6

[1] He left there and went into his hometown, and his disciples followed him. [2] When the Sabbath came, he began to teach in the synagogue; and many who heard him were amazed and said, "Where does this man get these things? What is this wisdom given to him, that such miracles are even performed by his hands? [3] Is this not the carpenter, the son of Mary, and the brother of James and Joses and Judas and Simon? And are his sisters not here with us?" And they stumbled over him. [4] But Jesus told them, "Nowhere is a prophet without honor except in his own hometown, among his own relatives, and in his own house." [5] He was not able to do any miracle there, except that he placed his hands on a few sick people and healed them. [6] And he was amazed at their unbelief. Then he went around the villages in a circuit, teaching. [7] He summoned the twelve and began to send them out two by two, and he gave them authority over the unclean spirits. [8] He instructed them to take nothing for the road except a staff only: no bag, no bread, no copper money in their belts, [9] but to have sandals tied on, and not to wear two tunics. [10] He told them, "Whenever you go into a house, stay there until you leave that place. [11] And whoever will not welcome you or hear you, as you go out from there, shake off the dust under your feet as a testimony against them. Truly I say to you, it will be easier to endure for Sodom or Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that town." [12] They went out and preached that people must repent. [13] They drove out many demons, and they anointed many sick people with oil and healed them. [14] King Herod heard of it, for his name had become well known; and he said, "John the Baptist has been raised from the dead, and for this reason the miraculous powers are active in him." [15] Others were saying, "He is Elijah," and still others, "He is a prophet, or like one of the prophets." [16] When Herod heard of it, he said, "This is John, whom I beheaded; he has been raised from the dead." [17] For Herod himself had sent men who arrested John and bound him in prison on account of Herodias, the wife of his brother Philip, because he had married her. [18] For John kept telling Herod, "You are not permitted to have your brother's wife." [19] So Herodias had it in for him and wanted to kill him, but she could not, [20] because Herod was afraid of John, knowing him to be a righteous and holy man, and he kept him safe. When he listened to him, he did many things, and he heard him gladly. [21] Then a convenient day came, when Herod on his birthday gave a dinner for his officials, the military commanders, and the leading men of Galilee. [22] When the daughter of Herodias herself came in and danced, she delighted Herod and his dinner guests. The king said to the girl, "Ask me for anything you want, and I will give it to you." [23] And he swore to her, "Whatever you ask me for, I will give you, up to half of my kingdom." [24] She went out and said to her mother, "What should I ask for?" Her mother said, "The head of John the Baptist." [25] At once she hurried back in to the king and made her request: "I want you to give me right now, on a platter, the head of John the Baptist." [26] The king was deeply distressed, but on account of the oaths and his dinner guests he did not want to turn her down. [27] Right away the king sent an executioner and ordered his head to be brought. [28] He went and beheaded him in the prison, brought his head on a platter, and gave it to the girl, and the girl gave it to her mother. [29] When his disciples heard about it, they came, took away his corpse, and laid it in a tomb. [30] The apostles gathered around Jesus and reported to him everything, both what they had done and what they had taught. [31] He said to them, "Come away by yourselves to a deserted place and rest for a little while." For many were coming and going, and they had no opportunity even to eat. [32] So they went away in the boat to a deserted place by themselves. [33] But the crowds saw them leaving, and many recognized him; they ran there together on foot from all the towns and got there ahead of them, and gathered around him. [34] As he came out, Jesus saw a large crowd, and he was moved with compassion for them, because they were like sheep that have no shepherd; and he began to teach them many things. [35] When the hour was already late, his disciples came to him and said, "This place is deserted, and the hour is already late. [36] Dismiss them so they can go off into the surrounding farms and villages and buy themselves bread; for they have nothing to eat." [37] He answered them, "You give them something to eat." They said to him, "Are we to go and buy two hundred denarii worth of bread and give it to them to eat?" [38] He asked them, "How many loaves have you got? Go and see." When they had found out, they said, "Five, and two fish." [39] Then he directed them to have everyone recline in groups on the green grass. [40] So they reclined in groups, row upon row, by hundreds and by fifties. [41] He took the five loaves and the two fish, looked up to heaven, and gave a blessing; then he broke the loaves and kept handing them to his disciples to set before the people, and he divided the two fish among them all. [42] Everyone ate and was filled. [43] And they picked up twelve full baskets of fragments, and of the fish. [44] Those who had eaten the loaves numbered about five thousand men. [45] Right away he compelled his disciples to board the boat and go ahead to the other side, to Bethsaida, while he himself sent the crowd away. [46] After saying goodbye to them, he went off to the mountain to pray. [47] And when evening came, the boat was in the middle of the sea, and he was alone on the land. [48] He saw them straining at the oars, because the wind was against them; and around the fourth watch of the night he came toward them, walking on the sea, and he intended to pass by them. [49] But when they saw him walking on the sea, they thought it was a phantom, and they screamed; [50] for they all saw him and were shaken. At once he spoke with them and said to them, "Have courage; it is I. Stop being afraid." [51] Then he climbed into the boat with them, and the wind died down. And they were utterly astounded within themselves beyond measure, and they wondered. [52] For they had not understood about the loaves; their heart was hardened. [53] Having crossed over, they came to the land of Gennesaret and anchored there. [54] As soon as they stepped out of the boat, the people recognized him, [55] and they ran throughout that whole region and began carrying the sick around on mats to wherever they heard he was. [56] And wherever he went, into villages or towns or farms, they laid the sick in the marketplaces and pleaded with him that they might just touch the edge of his cloak; and all who touched him were restored.

CHAPTER 7

[1] The Pharisees and some of the scribes who had come from Jerusalem gathered around him. [2] They noticed that some of his disciples were eating bread with unclean hands, that is, unwashed, and they found fault. [3] For the Pharisees and all the Jews do not eat without washing their hands thoroughly, since they hold to the tradition of the elders; [] [4] and coming from the marketplace, they do not eat unless they wash. And there are many other things they have received to hold to: the washings of cups and jugs and copper pots and couches. [] [5] So the Pharisees and the scribes questioned him, "Why do your disciples not walk according to the tradition of the elders, but eat their bread with unwashed hands?" [6] He answered them, "Isaiah prophesied rightly about you hypocrites, as it is written: 'This people honors me with their lips, but their heart is distant, far from me. [7] It is to no purpose that they worship me, teaching as doctrines the commands of men.' [8] For you set aside the commandment of God and hold to the tradition of men, the washings of jugs and cups; and you do many other things like these." [9] He went on to say to them, "How well you set aside the commandment of God so that you may keep your tradition! [10] For Moses said, 'Honor your father and your mother,' and, 'Anyone who speaks evil of father or mother, let him be put to death.' [11] But you say, 'If a man tells his father or mother, "Whatever help you might have had from me is Corban"' (that is, a gift), [12] then you no longer let him do anything for his father or his mother, [13] nullifying the word of God by your tradition that you have handed down. And you do many things like this." [14] Then he called the whole crowd to him and said to them, "Listen to me, all of you, and understand. [15] There is nothing outside a man that, by going into him, can make him unclean; but the things that come out of him are what make the man unclean. [16] If anyone has ears to hear, let him hear." [17] When he had gone into a house, away from the crowd, his disciples asked him about the parable. [18] He said to them, "Are you too so lacking in understanding? Do you not realize that whatever enters a man from outside cannot make him unclean, [19] since it does not go into his heart but into his stomach, and passes out into the latrine, purging all foods?" [*] [20] And he said, "What comes out of a man, that is what makes the man unclean. [21] For from within, out of the hearts of men, come evil reasonings, adulteries, acts of sexual immorality, murders, [22] thefts, greed, wicked deeds, deceit, sensuality, an evil eye, blasphemy, arrogance, folly. [23] All these evil things come from within and make the man unclean." [24] He got up and went away from there into the region of Tyre and Sidon. He entered a house and did not want anyone to know, yet he could not stay hidden. [25] For a woman whose little daughter had an unclean spirit heard about him, came, and fell at his feet. [26] The woman was a Greek, of Syrophoenician descent, and she kept asking him to drive the demon out of her daughter. [27] But Jesus said to her, "Let the children be fed first; for it is not good to take the bread belonging to the children and toss it to the little dogs." [28] But she answered him, "Yes, Lord; yet even the little dogs under the table eat from the children's crumbs." [29] He told her, "Because of this word, go; the demon has gone out of your daughter." [30] She went off to her home and found the demon gone and her daughter lying on the bed. [31] Again he left the region of Tyre and Sidon and came to the Sea of Galilee, through the middle of the region of the Decapolis. [32] They brought to him a man who was deaf and could hardly speak, and they pleaded with him to place his hand on him. [33] He took him aside from the crowd by himself, put his fingers into his ears, and after spitting, touched his tongue. [34] Looking up to heaven, he groaned and said to him, "Ephphatha," that is, "Be opened!" [35] At once his ears were opened, the bond of his tongue was released, and he spoke correctly. [36] He ordered them to tell no one; but the more he ordered them, the more widely they proclaimed it. [37] They were astonished beyond all measure and said, "He has done everything well; he makes even the deaf hear and the mute speak!"

CHAPTER 8

[1] In those days, when the crowd was very large and they had nothing to eat, Jesus summoned his disciples and said to them, [2] "My heart goes out to the crowd, because they have already stayed with me three days and have nothing to eat. [3] If I send them home hungry, they will collapse on the way; for some of them have come from far off." [4] His disciples answered him, "Where could anyone find enough bread here in a deserted place to satisfy these people?" [5] He asked them, "How many loaves have you got?" They answered, "Seven." [6] He instructed the crowd to recline on the ground; then he took the seven loaves, gave thanks, broke them, and kept handing them to his disciples to set before the people, and they set them before the crowd. [7] They also had a few little fish; and after blessing them, he told them to set these out as well. [8] They ate and were filled, and they picked up what remained of the fragments, seven hampers. [9] Those who had eaten numbered about four thousand; and he dismissed them. [10] Right away he boarded the boat with his disciples and came into the district of Dalmanutha. [11] The Pharisees came out and began to debate with him, asking him for a sign from heaven to test him. [12] Sighing deeply in his spirit, he said, "Why does this generation demand a sign? Truly I say to you, no sign will be given to this generation." [*] [13] Then he left them, boarded the boat again, and went off to the other side. [14] The disciples had forgotten to take loaves, and except for one loaf they had none with them in the boat. [15] He warned them, "Look out; guard yourselves against the leaven of the Pharisees and the leaven of Herod." [16] They were reasoning with one another, saying, "It is because we have no loaves." [17] Aware of this, Jesus said to them, "Why are you reasoning that you have no loaves? Do you still not perceive or understand? Is your heart still hardened? [18] Do you have eyes and not see, and ears and not hear? And do you not remember? [19] When I broke the five loaves for the five thousand, how many baskets full of fragments did you pick up?" They told him, "Twelve." [20] "And when I broke the seven for the four thousand, how many hampers full of fragments did you pick up?" They said, "Seven." [21] And he said to them, "How is it that you do not understand?" [22] He came to Bethsaida, and people brought a blind man to him and pleaded with him to touch him. [23] He took the blind man by the hand and brought him out of the village; and after spitting on his eyes and placing his hands on him, he asked him if he could see anything. [24] He looked up and said, "I see people; they look like trees, walking around." [25] Then once more he placed his hands on his eyes and had him look up; and he was restored and could see everyone clearly. [26] He sent him off to his home, saying, "Do not go into the village, and do not tell anyone in the village." [27] Jesus and his disciples went out to the villages of Caesarea Philippi, and on the way he questioned his disciples, "Who do people say that I am?" [28] They answered, "John the Baptist; others, Elijah; and still others, one of the prophets." [29] He asked them, "But who do you say that I am?" Peter answered him, "You are the Christ." [30] And he warned them sternly not to tell anyone about him. [31] Then he began to teach them that the Son of Man had to suffer many things and be rejected by the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be put to death, and after three days rise again. [32] He was speaking about this plainly. And Peter took him aside and started to rebuke him. [33] But he turned around, looked at his disciples, and rebuked Peter, saying, "Get behind me, Satan! For your mind is not on the things of God but on the things of men." [34] He summoned the crowd along with his disciples and said to them, "Whoever wishes to come after me must deny himself, take up his cross, and keep following me. [35] For whoever wishes to save his life will lose it; but whoever loses his life because of me and the gospel will save it. [36] For what benefit is it to a man if he gains the whole world but suffers the loss of his own soul? [37] Or what will a man give in exchange for his soul? [38] For whoever is ashamed of me and my words in this adulterous and sinful generation, the Son of Man will also be ashamed of him when he comes in the glory of his Father with the holy angels."

CHAPTER 9

[1] He also said to them, "Truly I say to you, some of those standing here will certainly not taste death until they see the kingdom of God having come with power." [2] Six days later Jesus took along Peter, James, and John, and brought them up a high mountain privately, by themselves. And he was transformed in front of them; [3] his garments became radiant, intensely white like snow, such as no launderer on earth is able to bleach them. [4] And Elijah appeared to them with Moses, and they were conversing with Jesus. [5] Peter responded by saying to Jesus, "Rabbi, it is a fine thing for us to be here; let us set up three shelters, one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah." [6] He did not know what to say, for they were filled with terror. [7] Then a cloud appeared, overshadowing them, and a voice came out of the cloud: "This is my beloved Son. Listen to him!" [8] Suddenly, looking around, they no longer saw anyone with them except Jesus alone. [9] On their way down the mountain, he ordered them not to describe to anyone what they had seen until the Son of Man had risen from the dead. [10] They kept the matter to themselves, discussing what rising from the dead might mean. [11] They questioned him, "Why do the scribes say that Elijah has to come first?" [12] He answered them, "Elijah indeed comes first and restores everything. And how is it written about the Son of Man that he must suffer many things and be treated with contempt? [13] But I say to you that Elijah has indeed come, and they did with him whatever they wanted, just as it is written about him." [14] When he came to the disciples, he saw a large crowd around them and scribes debating with them. [15] As soon as the whole crowd saw him, they were overcome with awe, and they ran up and greeted him. [16] He asked the scribes, "What are you debating with them?" [17] Someone from the crowd answered, "Teacher, I brought you my son, who has a spirit that makes him mute. [18] Wherever it seizes him, it dashes him down, and he foams at the mouth, grinds his teeth, and goes rigid. I asked your disciples to drive it out, but they were not able." [19] He answered him, "O unbelieving generation, how long will I be with you? How long will I put up with you? Bring him to me." [20] So they brought the boy to him. When the spirit saw him, it immediately threw him into convulsions, and he fell on the ground and rolled around, foaming at the mouth. [21] Jesus asked his father, "How long has this been happening to him?" He said, "Since he was a child. [22] It has often thrown him into fire and into water to kill him. But if you can do anything, take pity on us and help us." [23] Jesus said to him, "If you can believe, all things are possible for the one who believes." [24] At once the boy's father cried out with tears, "I believe, Lord; help my unbelief!" [25] When Jesus saw that a crowd was quickly gathering, he rebuked the unclean spirit, saying to it, "Mute and deaf spirit, I command you, come out of him and never enter him again!" [26] After crying out and throwing him into violent convulsions, it came out, and the boy became like a corpse, so that many said that he had died. [27] But Jesus took hold of his hand and raised him, and he stood up. [28] When he had gone into a house, his disciples asked him in private, "Why were we not able to drive it out?" [29] He told them, "This kind cannot come out by anything except through prayer and fasting." [30] Leaving there, they went on through Galilee, and he did not want anyone to know, [31] for he was teaching his disciples and telling them, "The Son of Man is being handed over into the hands of men, and they will put him to death; and after being put to death, he will rise on the third day." [32] But they did not understand what he said, and they were afraid to ask him. [33] They came to Capernaum. Once inside the house, he asked them, "What were you discussing among yourselves on the road?" [34] But they kept quiet, for on the road they had argued with one another about who was the greatest. [35] Sitting down, he called the twelve and said to them, "If anyone wants to be first, he must be last of all and servant of all." [36] Then he took a little child and stood him among them; and taking him in his arms, he said to them, [37] "Anyone who welcomes one little child like these in my name welcomes me; and anyone who welcomes me welcomes not me but the one who sent me." [38] John said to him, "Teacher, we saw someone driving out demons in your name who does not follow us, and we tried to stop him because he does not follow us." [39] But Jesus said, "Do not stop him, for no one who performs a miracle in my name will be able soon afterward to speak evil of me. [40] For whoever is not against us is on our side. [41] For whoever gives you a cup of water to drink in my name because you belong to Christ, truly I say to you, he will certainly not lose his reward. [42] And whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in me to stumble, it would be better for him if a millstone were put around his neck and he had been cast into the sea. [43] If your hand causes you to stumble, cut it off. It is better for you to enter into life crippled than to have two hands and go off into hell, into the fire that cannot be quenched, [44] where their worm does not die and the fire is not put out. [45] And if your foot causes you to stumble, cut it off. It is better for you to enter into life lame than to have two feet and be thrown into hell, into the fire that cannot be quenched, [46] where their worm does not die and the fire is not put out. [47] And if your eye causes you to stumble, pluck it out. It is better for you to enter into the kingdom of God with one eye than to have two eyes and be thrown into the hell of fire, [48] where their worm does not die and the fire is not put out. [49] For everyone will be salted with fire, and every sacrifice will be salted with salt. [*] [50] Salt is good; but if the salt becomes saltless, with what will you season it? Have salt in yourselves, and keep peace with one another."

CHAPTER 10

[1] From there he got up and came into the region of Judea by way of the far side of the Jordan. Crowds again gathered around him, and as was his habit, he again taught them. [2] Pharisees came up and asked him, to test him, "Is a man permitted to send away his wife?" [3] He answered them, "What did Moses command you?" [4] They said, "Moses allowed a man to write a document of divorce and send her away." [5] Jesus answered them, "It was with an eye to your hardness of heart that he wrote this commandment for you. [6] But from the beginning of creation God made them male and female. [7] On account of this a man will leave his father and mother and be united to his wife, [8] and the two will be one flesh; consequently they are no longer two, but one flesh. [9] So what God has yoked together, man must not separate." [10] In the house his disciples asked him again about this. [11] He told them, "Whoever sends away his wife and marries another commits adultery against her; [12] and if a woman sends away her husband and marries another, she commits adultery." [13] People were bringing little children to him so that he would touch them, but the disciples rebuked those who brought them. [14] When Jesus saw this, he was indignant and said to them, "Allow the little children to come to me; do not stop them, for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these. [15] Truly I say to you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a little child will certainly not enter into it." [16] Then he took them in his arms, placed his hands on them, and blessed them. [17] As he was setting out on the road, a man ran up, knelt before him, and asked him, "Good Teacher, what should I do in order to inherit eternal life?" [18] Jesus said to him, "Why do you call me good? No one is good except one, God. [19] You know the commandments: 'Do not commit adultery; do not murder; do not steal; do not give false testimony; do not defraud; honor your father and mother.'" [20] He answered him, "Teacher, I have observed all these since I was young." [21] Jesus looked at him and loved him, and said to him, "One thing you lack: go away, sell whatever you have and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, take up the cross, and follow me." [22] But at this word his face fell, and he went away grieving, because he owned much property. [23] Jesus looked around and said to his disciples, "How hard it will be for those who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God!" [24] The disciples were astonished at his words. But Jesus said to them again, "Children, how hard it is for those who trust in wealth to enter the kingdom of God! [25] It is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God." [26] They were utterly amazed and said to one another, "Who, then, is able to be saved?" [27] Jesus looked straight at them and said, "For men it is impossible, but not for God; for everything is possible for God." [28] Peter began to say to him, "Look, we have left everything behind and followed you." [29] Jesus answered, "Truly I say to you, there is no one who has left house or brothers or sisters or father or mother or wife or children or fields because of me and because of the gospel, [30] who will not receive a hundred times as much now in this present time, houses and brothers and sisters and mothers and children and fields, along with persecutions, and in the age to come eternal life. [31] But many who are first will be last, and those who are last, first." [32] They were on the road going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus was walking ahead of them; they were astonished, and those who followed were afraid. Taking the twelve aside again, he began to tell them the things that were going to happen to him: [33] "Look, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be handed over to the chief priests and the scribes, and they will sentence him to death and hand him over to the Gentiles; [34] and they will mock him, flog him, spit on him, and put him to death; and on the third day he will rise again." [35] Then James and John, Zebedee's sons, came up to him and said, "Teacher, we want you to do for us whatever we ask." [36] He said to them, "What do you wish me to do for you?" [37] They told him, "Grant that we may sit, one at your right and one at your left, in your glory." [38] Jesus said to them, "You do not know what you are requesting. Can you drink the cup that I drink, and be baptized with the baptism with which I am being baptized?" [39] They told him, "We can." Jesus said to them, "The cup that I drink you will drink, and with the baptism with which I am being baptized you will be baptized; [40] but to sit at my right hand and at my left is not mine to give; it belongs to those for whom it has been prepared." [41] When the ten heard this, they began to be indignant at James and John. [42] Jesus called them together and said to them, "You know that those who are considered rulers of the Gentiles domineer over them, and their great men wield authority over them. [43] It will not be this way among you; rather, whoever wants to become great among you will be your minister, [*] [44] and whoever among you wants to become first will be servant of all. [45] For even the Son of Man did not come to be waited on but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many." [46] They came to Jericho. As he was leaving Jericho with his disciples and a sizable crowd, Bartimaeus, son of Timaeus, a blind man, was sitting beside the road begging. [47] When he heard that it was Jesus the Nazarene, he began to shout, "Son of David, Jesus, have mercy on me!" [48] Many scolded him to make him be quiet, but he shouted all the louder, "Son of David, have mercy on me!" [49] Jesus stopped and said to call him. So they called the blind man, saying to him, "Have courage! Get up; he is calling you." [50] Casting aside his cloak, he got up and came to Jesus. [51] Jesus answered him, "What do you wish me to do for you?" The blind man said to him, "Rabboni, let me see again." [52] Jesus told him, "Go; your faith has restored you." At once he regained his sight and followed Jesus on the road.

[1] As they approached Jerusalem, at Bethphage and Bethany near the Mount of Olives, he sent off two of his disciples [2] and said to them, "Go into the village ahead of you, and right away as you enter it you will find a colt tied up, on which no one has ever sat. Untie it and bring it. [3] If anyone says to you, 'Why are you doing this?' say, 'The Lord needs it,' and he will send it here immediately." [4] They went off and found the colt tied at a door, outside in the street, and they untied it. [5] Some of the people standing there said to them, "What are you doing, untying the colt?" [6] They answered just as Jesus had told them, and the men let them go. [7] They brought the colt to Jesus and threw their cloaks on it, and he sat on it. [8] Many spread out their cloaks on the road, while others were cutting leafy branches from the trees and spreading them on the road. [9] Those going ahead and those following kept shouting, "Hosanna! Blessed is the one who comes in the name of the Lord! [10] Blessed is the coming kingdom of our father David, in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the highest!" [11] Jesus entered Jerusalem and went into the temple; and after looking around at everything, since the hour was already late, he went out to Bethany with the twelve. [12] The next day, as they were leaving Bethany, he was hungry. [13] Seeing in the distance a fig tree in leaf, he went to see whether he might find anything on it; but when he came to it, he found nothing except leaves, for it was not the season for figs. [14] Jesus responded by saying to it, "May no one ever again eat fruit from you." And his disciples were listening. [15] They came to Jerusalem. Jesus went into the temple and began to throw out those who were selling and buying in the temple, and he turned over the tables of the money changers and the seats of the dove sellers; [16] and he would not let anyone carry anything through the temple. [17] Then he taught them, saying, "Is it not written, 'My house will be called a house of prayer for all the nations'? But you have turned it into a hideout for robbers." [18] The scribes and the chief priests heard it and began looking for a way to destroy him; for they were afraid of him, because the whole crowd was amazed at his teaching. [19] Whenever evening came, he would go out of the city. [20] Early in the morning, as they passed by, they saw the fig tree dried up from the roots. [21] Peter remembered and said to him, "Rabbi, look! The fig tree you cursed has dried up." [22] Jesus answered them, "Have faith in God. [23] For truly I say to you, whoever tells this mountain, 'Be taken up and thrown into the sea,' and does not waver in his heart but believes that what he says is happening, it will be his, whatever he says. [24] For this reason I say to you, whatever you ask for in prayer, believe that you receive it, and it will be yours. [25] And whenever you stand praying, if you hold anything against anyone, forgive him, so that your Father who is in heaven may also forgive you your offenses. [26] But if you do not forgive, neither will your Father who is in heaven forgive your offenses." [27] They came again to Jerusalem. As he was walking around in the temple, the chief priests, the scribes, and the elders came up to him [28] and said to him, "By what authority do you do these things? And who gave you this authority to do these things?" [29] Jesus answered them, "I too will ask you one question; answer me, and I will tell you by what authority I do these things. [30] John's baptism, was it from heaven, or from men? Answer me." [31] They discussed it among themselves, saying, "If we say, 'From heaven,' he will say, 'Then why did you not believe him?' [32] But if we say, 'From men'"; they were afraid of the people, for all regarded John as truly a prophet. [33] So they answered Jesus, "We do not know." Jesus answered them, "Neither am I telling you by what authority I do these things."

CHAPTER 12

[1] Then he began to speak to them in parables: "A man planted a vineyard, set a hedge around it, dug a pit for the winepress, and built a watchtower; then he rented it out to tenant farmers and went abroad. [2] At harvest time he sent a servant to the tenant farmers to collect from them some of the fruit of the vineyard. [3] But they seized him, beat him, and sent him away with nothing. [4] Again he sent another servant to them; they stoned him, wounded him in the head, and sent him off in disgrace. [5] He sent yet another, and that one they killed; and so with many others, beating some and killing others. [6] He still had one son, his beloved; so he sent him also to them last of all, saying, 'They will show respect for my son.' [7] But those tenant farmers said to one another, 'This is the heir. Come on, let us kill him, and the inheritance will be ours.' [8] So they seized him, killed him, and threw him out of the vineyard. [9] What, then, will the owner of the vineyard do? He will come and destroy the tenant farmers and give the vineyard to others. [10] Have you not even read this Scripture: 'The stone that the builders discarded, this has become the head of the corner; [11] this came about from the Lord, and it is wonderful in our eyes'?" [12] They wanted to arrest him, but they were afraid of the crowd, for they realized that he had told the parable against them. So they left him and went away. [13] Then they sent to him some of the Pharisees and the Herodians to trap him in what he said. [14] They came and said to him, "Teacher, we know that you are truthful and are not concerned about anyone; for you do not look at people's outward standing, but teach the way of God in truth. Is it lawful to pay the poll tax to Caesar, or not? [15] Should we pay, or should we not pay?" But knowing their hypocrisy, he said to them, "Why are you testing me? Bring me a denarius so I can look at it." [16] They brought one, and he asked them, "Whose likeness and inscription is this?" They told him, "Caesar's." [17] Jesus answered them, "Pay back to Caesar what belongs to Caesar, and to God what belongs to God." And they were amazed at him. [18] Then some Sadducees, who claim there is no resurrection, came to him and questioned him, [19] "Teacher, Moses wrote for us that if someone's brother dies and leaves a wife behind but leaves no children, his brother is to take the widow and raise up offspring for his brother. [20] Now there were seven brothers. The first took a wife, and when he died he left no offspring. [21] Then the second took her and died, leaving no offspring either; and the third the same way. [22] All seven had her and left no offspring. Last of all, the woman died too. [23] So in the resurrection, when they rise, which of them will she be wife to? For the seven had her as wife." [24] Jesus answered them, "Is this not why you are going astray, since you do not know the Scriptures or the power of God? [25] For when they rise from the dead, they neither marry nor are given in marriage; they are like the angels in heaven. [26] And as for the dead being raised, have you not read in the book of Moses, in the passage about the bush, how God spoke to him, saying, 'I am the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob'? [27] He is not God of the dead, but God of the living. So you are going far astray." [28] One of the scribes came up and heard them debating; seeing that he had answered them well, he asked him, "Which commandment is first of all?" [29] Jesus answered him, "The first of all the commandments is: 'Hear, O Israel: the Lord our God is one Lord; [30] and you shall love the Lord your God with your whole heart and with your whole soul and with your whole mind and with your whole strength.' This is the first commandment. [31] And a second is like it, namely this: 'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.' There is no other commandment greater than these." [32] The scribe said to him, "Well said, Teacher! You have spoken truly, that there is one God, and there is no other besides him; [33] and to love him with the whole heart, with the whole understanding, with the whole soul, and with the whole strength, and to love one's neighbor as oneself, is more than all the whole burnt offerings and sacrifices." [34] When Jesus saw that he had answered sensibly, he said to him, "You are not far from the kingdom of God." And after that no one dared to question him any further. [35] As Jesus was teaching in the temple, he responded, "How can the scribes say that the Christ is the son of David? [36] For David himself said by the Holy Spirit, 'The Lord said to my Lord, "Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet."' [37] So David himself calls him Lord; then how is he his son?" And the large crowd was listening to him with delight. [38] In his teaching he said to them, "Watch out for the scribes, who like to walk around in long robes, and like greetings in the marketplaces, [39] and the front seats in the synagogues and the places of honor at banquets, [40] who eat up widows' houses and make long prayers for show. These will receive greater condemnation." [41] Jesus sat down across from the treasury and was watching how the crowd put money into the treasury. Many rich people were putting in large amounts. [42] Then a poor widow came and put in two lepta, which make a quadrans. [43] Calling his disciples to him, he said to them, "Truly I say to you, this poor widow has put in more than all those who have put money into the treasury; [44] for they all put in from their surplus, but she, out of her lack, put in everything she had, all she had to live on."

CHAPTER 13

[1] As he was leaving the temple, one of his disciples said to him, "Teacher, look! What stones, and what buildings!" [2] Jesus answered him, "Do you see these great buildings? Not a stone will be left upon a stone that will not be torn down." [3] While he was sitting on the Mount of Olives across from the temple, Peter, James, John, and Andrew asked him privately, [4] "Tell us, when will these things happen, and what will be the sign when all these things are about to be accomplished?" [5] Jesus answered them and began to say, "Watch out that no one deceives you. [6] For many will come in my name, saying, 'I am he,' and they will deceive many. [7] When you hear of wars and reports of wars, do not be frightened; for such things have to happen, but it is not yet the end. [8] For nation will rise up against nation and kingdom against kingdom; there will be earthquakes from place to place, and there will be famines and disturbances. These are the beginning of labor pains. [9] But as for you, watch out for yourselves; for they will hand you over to councils, and you will be beaten in synagogues, and you will be led before governors and kings because of me, for a testimony to them. [10] And first the gospel must be preached to all the nations. [11] When they lead you away and hand you over, do not be anxious beforehand about what you will speak, and do not rehearse it; but whatever is given to you in that hour, speak that. For you are not the ones speaking; it is the Holy Spirit. [12] Brother will betray brother to death, and a father his child; children will rise up against their parents and have them killed. [13] You will be hated by everyone because of my name, but whoever endures to the end, that one will be saved. [14] But when you see the abomination of desolation, spoken of by Daniel the prophet, standing where it should not be (let the one who reads take note), then those in Judea must flee to the mountains. [15] The one on the rooftop must not come down into the house or go in to carry anything out of his house, [16] and the one in the field must not turn back to get his cloak. [17] But woe to women who are pregnant and to those nursing infants in those days! [18] Pray that your flight will not happen in winter. [19] For those days will be a time of affliction of a kind that has not occurred from the beginning of the creation that God created until now, and never will again. [20] And if the Lord had not shortened the days, no flesh would be saved; but on account of the elect, whom he has chosen, he has shortened the days. [21] At that time, if anyone tells you, 'Look, here is the Christ!' or 'Look, over there!' do not believe it. [22] For false christs and false prophets will appear and perform signs and wonders, so as to deceive, if possible, even the elect. [23] But as for you, watch out; look, I have told you everything in advance. [24] But in those days, after that affliction, the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light; [25] the stars of the sky will be falling, and the powers in the heavens will be shaken. [26] And then they will see the Son of Man coming in clouds with great power and glory. [27] And then he will send out his angels and gather his elect from the four winds, from the farthest end of the earth to the farthest end of the sky. [28] Learn the parable from the fig tree: once its branch has become tender and it sprouts its leaves, you know that summer is near. [29] In the same way you too, when you see these things happening, know that it is near, right at the doors. [30] Truly I say to you, this generation will certainly not pass away until all these things happen. [31] Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will certainly not pass away. [32] But about that day or that hour no one knows, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but the Father. [33] Watch out, stay alert and pray; for you do not know when the time is. [34] It is like a man away on a journey, who left his house and gave authority to his servants, to each his work, and ordered the doorkeeper to stay awake. [35] So keep watch, for you do not know when the master of the house is coming: in the evening, at midnight, at rooster crow, or in the morning, [36] or else he may come suddenly and find you sleeping. [37] What I say to you, I say to everyone: Keep watch!"

CHAPTER 14

[1] Two days later it was the Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread. The chief priests and the scribes were looking for a way to arrest him by trickery and put him to death. [2] But they kept saying, "Not during the festival, or there may be a riot among the people." [3] While he was at Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, as he was reclining at table, a woman came with an alabaster jar of very expensive perfumed oil of pure nard; she broke the jar and poured it over his head. [4] But some were indignant among themselves and said, "Why has this perfumed oil been wasted? [5] This could have been sold for more than three hundred denarii and given to the poor." And they scolded her harshly. [6] But Jesus said, "Leave her alone. Why are you causing her trouble? It is a fine deed that she has done for me. [7] For the poor you always have with you, and whenever you want you can do them good; but me you do not always have. [8] She has done what she could; she has anointed my body beforehand for burial. [9] Truly I say to you, wherever this gospel is proclaimed in all the world, what she has done will also be spoken of in memory of her." [10] Then Judas Iscariot, one of the twelve, went off to the chief priests to hand him over to them. [11] When they heard it, they were delighted and promised to give him money. So he was looking for how he might conveniently betray him. [12] On the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, when they would sacrifice the Passover lamb, his disciples asked him, "Where do you want us to go and get things ready for you to eat the Passover?" [13] He sent off two of his disciples and told them, "Go into the city, and a man carrying a jar of water will meet you. Follow him, [14] and wherever he goes in, say to the householder, 'The Teacher says, "Where is the guest room, where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?"' [15] He will show you a large upstairs room, furnished and ready. Get things ready for us there." [16] His disciples went off, came into the city, and found it just as he had told them; and they got the Passover ready. [17] When evening had come, he arrived with the twelve. [18] While they were reclining at table and eating, Jesus said, "Truly I say to you that one of you will betray me, one who is eating with me." [19] They began to be grieved and to say to him one after another, "Surely it is not I?" And another, "Surely it is not I?" [20] He answered them, "It is one of the twelve, the one dipping into the dish with me. [21] The Son of Man is going away just as it has been written about him, but woe to that man through whom the Son of Man is betrayed! It would have been better for that man if he had never been born." [22] While they were eating, Jesus took bread, blessed it, broke it, and gave it to them, saying, "Take and eat; this is my body." [23] Then he took the cup, gave thanks, and handed it to them, and they all drank from it. [24] He said to them, "This is my blood of the new covenant, which is being poured out for many. [25] Truly I say to you, I will certainly not drink again of the fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it new in the kingdom of God." [26] After singing a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives. [27] Jesus told them, "All of you will stumble because of me this night; for it is written, 'I will strike the shepherd, and the sheep will be scattered.' [28] But after I have been raised, I will go ahead of you into Galilee." [29] Peter said to him, "Even if all stumble, I will not." [30] Jesus told him, "Truly I say to you that today, this very night, before a rooster crows twice, you will deny me three times." [31] But he kept insisting all the more, "Even if I have to die with you, I will certainly not deny you!" And they all said the same thing. [32] They came to a place called Gethsemane, and he told his disciples, "Sit here while I pray." [33] Taking along Peter, James, and John, he began to be overwhelmed with alarm and greatly troubled. [34] He said to them, "My soul is overwhelmed with sorrow, to the point of death. Stay here and keep watch." [35] Going on a little farther, he fell to the ground and prayed that, if it were possible, the hour might pass away from him. [36] He said, "Abba, Father, everything is possible for you. Take this cup away from me. Yet not what I will, but what you will." [37] Then he came and found them asleep, and he said to Peter, "Simon, are you sleeping? Were you not able to keep watch for one hour? [38] Keep watching and praying, so that you will not come into temptation. The spirit is eager, but the flesh is weak." [39] He went away again and prayed, saying the same thing. [40] Coming back, he again found them asleep, because their eyes were weighed down; and they did not know what to answer him. [41] He came the third time and said to them, "Sleep on now, and take your rest. It is enough; the hour has come. Look, the Son of Man is being betrayed into the hands of sinners. [42] Get up, let us go. Look, the one betraying me has drawn near." [43] At once, while he was still speaking, Judas, one of the twelve, arrived, and with him a large crowd with swords and clubs, sent from the chief priests and the scribes and the elders. [44] His betrayer had given them a signal: "Whomever I kiss, he is the one; arrest him and lead him away under guard." [45] As soon as he came, he went straight up to him and said, "Rabbi, Rabbi!" and kissed him warmly. [46] Then they laid their hands on him and arrested him. [47] But one of those standing by drew his sword, struck the high priest's servant, and cut off his ear. [48] Jesus responded, "Have you come out with swords and clubs to capture me as though I were a robber? [49] Day after day I was with you in the temple teaching, and you did not arrest me. But this is so that the Scriptures may be fulfilled." [50] Then they all deserted him and fled. [51] A certain young man was following him, wearing a linen cloth around his naked body; and the young men seized him, [52] but he left the linen cloth behind and ran away from them naked. [53] They took Jesus away to the high priest, and all the chief priests and the elders and the scribes assembled with him. [54] Peter followed him from a distance, right into the high priest's courtyard, and he was sitting with the attendants, warming himself by the fire. [55] The chief priests and the whole Council kept looking for testimony against Jesus in order to put him to death, but they found none. [56] For many were giving false testimony against him, but their statements did not agree. [57] Then some stood up and gave false testimony against him, saying, [58] "We heard him say, 'I will tear down this temple made with hands, and within three days I will build another not made with hands.'" [59] But even so their testimony did not agree. [60] Then the high priest stood up in the middle and questioned Jesus, "Have you no answer to give? What are these men testifying against you?" [61] But he kept silent and gave no answer. Again the high priest questioned him, saying to him, "Are you the Christ, the Son of the Blessed One?" [62] Jesus said, "I am. And you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of the Power and coming with the clouds of heaven." [63] Then the high priest ripped his garments and said, "Why do we still need witnesses? [64] You have heard the blasphemy. What is your verdict?" And they all condemned him as deserving death. [65] Then some began to spit on him, to cover his face, to beat him with their fists, and to say to him, "Prophesy!" And the attendants struck him with slaps. [66] While Peter was below in the courtyard, one of the high priest's servant girls came by. [67] Seeing Peter warming himself, she looked closely at him and said, "You too were with Jesus the Nazarene." [68] But he denied it, saying, "I do not know or understand what you are talking about." Then he went out into the entryway, and a rooster crowed. [69] The servant girl saw him and began again to tell the bystanders, "This man is one of them." [70] But again he denied it. A little later the bystanders again said to Peter, "You certainly are one of them, for you are a Galilean, and your way of speaking matches." [71] Then he began to call down curses and to swear, "I do not know this man you are talking about!" [72] And a rooster crowed a second time. Then Peter remembered the word Jesus had spoken to him: "Before a rooster crows twice, you will deny me three times." And when he thought about it, he wept.*

CHAPTER 15

[1] As soon as it was morning, the chief priests, with the elders and scribes and the whole Council, held a consultation; they tied Jesus up, led him away, and handed him over to Pilate. [2] Pilate questioned him, "Are you the King of the Jews?" He answered him, "You are saying it." [3] The chief priests were accusing him of many things, but he gave no answer at all. [4] Pilate questioned him again, "Have you no answer to give? See how many things they are testifying against you!" [5] But Jesus gave no further answer at all, so that Pilate was amazed. [6] Now at the festival he would release to them one prisoner, whomever they requested. [7] There was a man called Barabbas, imprisoned with the insurrectionists who had committed murder during the insurrection. [8] The crowd began shouting and asking him to do what he always did for them. [9] Pilate answered them, "Do you want me to release for you the King of the Jews?" [10] For he was aware that the chief priests had handed him over out of envy. [11] But the chief priests stirred up the crowd to have him release Barabbas for them instead. [12] Pilate answered them again, "Then what do you want me to do with the one you call the King of the Jews?" [13] They shouted again, "Crucify him!" [14] Pilate said to them, "Why? What evil has he done?" But they shouted all the more, "Crucify him!" [15] So Pilate, wanting to satisfy the crowd, released Barabbas for them; and Jesus he had flogged and handed over to be crucified. [16] The soldiers led him away into the courtyard, that is, the Praetorium, and they called together the whole cohort. [17] They dressed him in purple, wove a crown out of thorns, and set it on him, [18] and they began to salute him: "Hail, King of the Jews!" [19] They kept hitting him on the head with a reed and spitting on him, and bending their knees they bowed down before him. [20] After they had mocked him, they took the purple off him, put his own garments on him, and led him out to crucify him. [21] They forced a passerby, Simon of Cyrene, the father of Alexander and Rufus, who was coming in from the country, to carry his cross. [22] They brought him to the place Golgotha, which translated means Skull's Place. [23] They tried to give him wine mixed with myrrh to drink, but he did not take it. [24] After crucifying him, they divided up his garments by casting lots for them, to decide what each would take. [25] It was the third hour when they crucified him. [26] The inscription giving the charge against him read: THE KING OF THE JEWS. [27] With him they crucified two robbers, one on his right and one on his left. [28] And the Scripture was fulfilled that says, "And he was counted among the lawless." [29] Those passing by hurled insults at him, shaking their heads and saying, "Aha! You who would tear down the temple and build it in three days, [30] save yourself, and come down from the cross!" [31] In the same way the chief priests too, together with the scribes, mocked him among themselves and said, "He saved others, but he cannot save himself. [32] Let the Christ, the King of Israel, come down from the cross now, so that we may see and believe." Those who were crucified with him also heaped insults on him. [33] When the sixth hour came, darkness came over the whole land until the ninth hour. [34] At the ninth hour Jesus called out with a loud voice, "Eloi, Eloi, lamma sabachthani?" which translated means, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" [35] When some of the bystanders heard this, they said, "Look, he is calling for Elijah." [36] Someone ran, soaked a sponge with sour wine, put it on a reed, and offered it to him to drink, saying, "Leave him alone; let us see if Elijah comes to take him down." [37] Then Jesus let out a loud cry and breathed his last. [38] And the veil of the sanctuary was split in two from top to bottom. [39] When the centurion standing facing him saw that he had cried out in this way and breathed his last, he said, "Truly this man was the Son of God!"* [40] Some women were also there, watching from a distance; among them were Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James the younger and of Joses, and Salome, [41] who, when he was in Galilee, used to follow him and serve him; and many other women who had come up with him to Jerusalem. [42] Since it was already evening, and it was the Preparation, that is, the day before the Sabbath, [43] Joseph of Arimathea, a respected member of the Council who was himself also waiting for the kingdom of God, came and went in boldly to Pilate and requested the body of Jesus. [44] Pilate was surprised that he was already dead; and summoning the centurion, he asked him whether he had been dead for long. [45] When he found out from the centurion, he gave the body to Joseph. [46] Joseph bought linen, took him down, wrapped him in the linen, and laid him in a tomb that had been hewn out of rock; and he rolled a stone against the entrance of the tomb. [47] Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of Joses were watching where he was laid.

CHAPTER 16

[1] When the Sabbath was over, Mary Magdalene, Mary the mother of James, and Salome bought spices so that they could go and anoint him. [2] Very early on the first day of the week, they came to the tomb once the sun had risen. [3] They were saying to one another, "Who will roll the stone away from the entrance of the tomb for us?" [4] But when they looked up, they saw that the stone had been rolled away; for it was extremely large. [5] Going into the tomb, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, dressed in a white robe; and they were alarmed. [6] He said to them, "Do not be alarmed. You are looking for Jesus the Nazarene, who was crucified. He has been raised; he is not here. See the place where they laid him. [7] But go, tell his disciples and Peter that he is going ahead of you into Galilee; you will see him there, just as he told you." [8] They went out quickly and fled from the tomb, for trembling and amazement had gripped them; and they said nothing to anyone, because they were afraid. [9] After he had risen early on the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene,* from whom he had driven out seven demons. [10] She went and reported it to those who had been with him, while they were mourning and weeping. [11] But when they heard that he was alive and had been seen by her, they did not believe it. [12] After this he appeared in a different form to two of them as they were walking along on their way into the country. [13] They went back and reported it to the others, but they did not believe them either. [14] Later he appeared to the eleven themselves as they were reclining at table, and he reproached them for their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they had not believed those who had seen him after he had been raised. [15] And he said to them, "Go out into the whole world and preach the gospel to all creation. [16] Whoever believes and is baptized will be saved, but whoever does not believe will be condemned. [17] These signs will accompany those who believe: in my name they will drive out demons; they will speak in new tongues; [18] they will pick up snakes; and if they drink anything deadly, it will certainly not harm them; they will place their hands on the sick, and they will get well." [19] So the Lord, after he had spoken to them, was taken up into heaven and sat down at the right hand of God. [20] And they went out and preached everywhere, while the Lord worked with them and confirmed the word by the signs that followed. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Inasmuch as many have set their hand to draw up a narrative of the matters that have been fully carried out among us, [2] even as they were handed down to us by those who from the beginning became eyewitnesses and servants of the word, [3] I too resolved, having traced everything accurately from the start, to write it out for you in order, most excellent Theophilus, [4] that you may come to know the sure truth of the words in which you have been taught. [5] There was in the days of Herod, king of Judea, a priest named Zechariah, from the priestly division of Abijah; his wife was one of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth. [6] Both of them were righteous before God, walking without blame in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord. [7] Yet they had no child, since Elizabeth was barren, and both of them were well along in their days. [8] Now it happened that, as he was carrying out his priestly duty before God in the turn of his division, [9] the lot fell to him, by the custom of the priesthood, to go into the temple of the Lord and burn incense. [10] And all the gathered people were praying outside at the hour of the incense. [11] There appeared to him an angel of the Lord, standing at the right of the altar of incense. [12] Zechariah was shaken when he saw him, and fear came over him. [13] But the angel said to him, "Stop being afraid, Zechariah; your prayer has been heard. Your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son, and you are to name him John. [14] He will be joy and gladness to you, and many will rejoice over his birth. [15] For he will be great before the Lord. Wine and strong drink he must never drink, and he will be filled with the Holy Spirit while still in his mother's womb. [16] Many of the children of Israel he will turn back to the Lord their

God. [17] And he will go before him in the spirit and power of Elijah, to turn back the hearts of fathers to children and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just, to make ready for the Lord a people prepared." [18] Zechariah said to the angel, "By what will I know this? I am an old man, and my wife is well along in her days." [19] In answer the angel said to him, "I am Gabriel, who stand before God. I was sent to speak to you and to announce this good news to you. [20] And now you will be silent, not able to speak, until the day these things happen, because you did not believe my words, which will be fulfilled at their proper time." [21] Meanwhile the people were waiting for Zechariah, and they wondered why he was taking so long in the temple. [22] When he came out he was not able to speak to them, and they realized he had seen a vision in the temple. He kept signaling to them and stayed mute. [23] And when the days of his ministry were fulfilled, he went away to his home. [24] After those days Elizabeth his wife conceived, and she kept herself in seclusion for five months, saying, [25] "This is how the Lord has dealt with me in the days when he looked on me, to remove my disgrace among people." [26] In the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God to a town of Galilee called Nazareth, [27] to a virgin pledged in marriage to a man named Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary. [28] The angel came to her and said, "Rejoice, favored one! The Lord is with you; blessed are you among women." [29] But she, on seeing him, was deeply disturbed at his words, and she kept wondering what sort of greeting this could be. [30] The angel said to her, "Do not fear, Mary; you have found grace with God. [31] Listen: you will conceive in your womb and give birth to a son, and you are to name him Jesus. [32] He will be great and will be called Son of the Most High; and the Lord God will give him the throne of David his father. [33] He will reign over the house of Jacob to the ages, and his kingdom will have no end." [34] Mary said to the angel, "How will this happen, since I do not know a man?" [35] The angel answered her, "The Holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Most High will overshadow you. For that reason the Holy One who is to be born of you will also be called the Son of God.* [36] And look, Elizabeth your relative has herself conceived a son in her old age, and this is the sixth month with her who was called barren. [37] For with God no word will be impossible." [38] Mary said, "Here is the servant of the Lord; may it happen to me as you have said." And the angel left her. [39] In those days Mary got up and went in a hurry to the hill country, to a town of Judah. [40] She went into Zechariah's house and greeted Elizabeth. [41] And it happened that when Elizabeth heard Mary's greeting, the baby leaped within her womb, and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit. [42] She called out with a loud voice and said, "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb! [43] How has this come to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? [44] For the moment the sound of your greeting reached my ears, the baby in my womb leaped with joy. [45] Blessed is she who believed, because what the Lord has told her will be carried out." [46] And Mary said, "My soul magnifies the Lord, [47] and my spirit has exulted in God my Savior, [48] because he has looked on the lowliness of his servant. From now on all generations will call me blessed, [49] for the Mighty One has done great things for me, and holy is his name. [50] His mercy is for generation after generation, for those who fear him. [51] He has done a mighty deed with his arm; he has scattered those who are proud in the thought of their heart. [52] He has pulled the powerful down from their thrones and lifted up the lowly. [53] The hungry he has filled with good things, and the rich he has sent away empty. [54] He has come to the aid of Israel his servant, remembering mercy, [55] just as he spoke to our fathers, to Abraham and to his seed forever." [56] Mary stayed with her about three months and then went back to her home. [57] Now Elizabeth's time to give birth was fulfilled, and she gave birth to a son. [58] Her neighbors and relatives heard how the Lord had made his mercy great toward her, and they shared her joy. [59] On the eighth day they came to circumcise the child, and they were going to call him Zechariah, by his father's name. [60] But his mother spoke up: "Not so; he will be called John." [61] They said to her, "None of your relatives goes by that name." [62] So they gestured to his father to learn what he wanted him named. [63] He asked for a tablet and wrote, "John is his name." And all of them were astonished. [64] At once his mouth was opened and his tongue set free, and he began to speak, praising God. [65] Fear came upon all their neighbors, and through the whole hill country of Judea all these events were being discussed. [66] Everyone who heard stored them up in their hearts, saying, "What, then, will this child become?" And the hand of the Lord was with him. [67] Zechariah his father was filled with the Holy Spirit and prophesied: [68] "Blessed is the Lord God of Israel, because he has visited his people and worked redemption for them, [69] and has raised up for us a horn of salvation in the house of David his servant, [70] as he promised through the mouth of his holy prophets from ages past: [71] salvation from our enemies and from the hand of all who hate us, [72] to deal mercifully with our fathers and to remember his holy covenant, [73] the oath he swore to Abraham our father, to grant us [74] that, rescued from the hand of our enemies, we might serve him without fear [75] in holiness and righteousness before him all our days. [76] And you, child, will be called prophet of the Most High; for you will go ahead before the face of the Lord to make ready his ways, [77] to give his people the knowledge of salvation by the forgiveness of their sins, [78] through the heart of mercy of our God, by which the Dayspring from on high has visited us,* [79] to shine on those sitting in darkness and the shadow of death, to direct our feet into the way of peace." [80] The child kept growing and getting strong in spirit, and he lived in the desert places until the day he was shown publicly to Israel.

CHAPTER 2

[1] In those days a decree went out from Caesar Augustus that the whole world should be enrolled. [2] This was the first enrollment, made when Quirinius was governing Syria. [3] And everyone went to be enrolled, each to his own town. [4] Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the town of Nazareth, to Judea, to the city of

David called Bethlehem, because he belonged to the house and family line of David, [5] to be enrolled together with Mary, the wife pledged to him, who was pregnant. [6] While they were there, the days came for her to give birth. [7] She gave birth to her firstborn son; she wrapped him in strips of cloth and laid him in the manger, because there was no room for them in the lodging. [8] In that same countryside there were shepherds staying out in the fields and keeping the night watches over their flock. [9] Suddenly an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone all around them, and they were terribly afraid. [10] But the angel said to them, "Stop being afraid. Listen, I am announcing to you good news of a great joy that will be for all the people: [11] today, in the city of David, a Savior has been born for you, who is Christ the Lord. [12] This will be your sign: you will find a baby wrapped in strips of cloth and lying in the manger." [13] All at once there appeared with the angel a great company of the heavenly army, praising God and saying, [14] "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men!"* [15] When the angels had left them and gone into heaven, the shepherds said to each other, "Come, let us go over to Bethlehem and see this thing that has taken place, which the Lord has made known to us." [16] They went in a hurry and found Mary and Joseph, and the baby lying in the manger. [17] When they saw it, they spread the word they had been told about this child. [18] And everyone who heard was amazed at what the shepherds told them. [19] But Mary treasured up all these words, turning them over in her heart. [20] The shepherds went back, glorifying and praising God for everything they had heard and seen, just as they had been told. [21] When eight days had passed and it was time to circumcise the child, he was named Jesus, the name the angel had given before he was conceived in the womb. [22] And when the days of her purification under the law of Moses were fulfilled, they took him up to Jerusalem to present him to the Lord,* [23] just as it stands written in the law of the Lord, "Every male that first opens the womb is to be called holy to the Lord," [24] and to offer a sacrifice in keeping with what is said in the law of the Lord, "a pair of turtledoves or two young pigeons." [25] Now there was a man in Jerusalem named Simeon. This man was righteous and devout, looking for the consolation of Israel, and the Holy Spirit rested on him. [26] It had been revealed to him by the Holy Spirit that he would not see death until he had seen the Lord's Anointed. [27] Led by the Spirit, he came into the temple; and as the parents brought in the child Jesus to do for him what was customary under the law, [28] Simeon took him into his arms, praised God, and said, [29] "Now, Master, you are releasing your servant in peace, as you promised, [30] for my eyes have seen your salvation, [31] which you have made ready in the sight of all the peoples, [32] a light to bring revelation to the Gentiles, and the glory of your people Israel." [33] Joseph and his mother were amazed at what was being said about him.* [34] Then Simeon blessed them and said to Mary his mother, "Look, this child is set for the falling and rising again of many in Israel, and for a sign that people will speak against [35] (yes, a sword will go through your own soul too), so that the thoughts of many hearts may be laid bare." [36] There was also a prophetess, Anna, daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher. She was far advanced in years, having lived with her husband seven years after her virginity, [37] and she was a widow of about eighty-four years. She never left the temple, but served there night and day with fasting and prayer. [38] Coming up at that very moment, she began giving thanks to the Lord and speaking about him to all who were waiting for redemption in Jerusalem. [39] When they had carried out everything required by the law of the Lord, they went back to Galilee, to Nazareth, their town. [40] The child kept growing and gaining strength in spirit, being filled with wisdom, and God's grace was on him. [41] Each year his parents used to travel to Jerusalem for the feast of the Passover. [42] When he was twelve, they went up to Jerusalem as the feast's custom was. [43] After the days were over, as they were going back, the boy Jesus remained in Jerusalem, and Joseph and his mother were unaware of it. [44] Thinking he was in the traveling party, they went a day's journey and then began looking for him among their relatives and friends. [45] Not finding him, they went back to Jerusalem to look for him. [46] After three days they found him in the temple, seated among the teachers, listening to them and putting questions to them. [47] All who heard him were astounded at his understanding and at his answers. [48] When they saw him they were amazed, and his mother said to him, "Child, why have you done this to us? Your father and I have been looking for you, anxious and in pain." [49] He said to them, "Why were you looking for me? Did you not know that I must be about my Father's business?"* [50] Yet they did not grasp the word he had spoken to them. [51] Then he went down with them to Nazareth and was obedient to them. And his mother treasured all these words in her heart. [52] And Jesus kept advancing in wisdom and in stature, and in favor with God and with people.

CHAPTER 3

[1] In the fifteenth year of the rule of Tiberius Caesar, while Pontius Pilate governed Judea, Herod was tetrarch of Galilee, his brother Philip tetrarch of Ituraea and the region of Trachonitis, and Lysanias tetrarch of Abilene, [2] under the high priests Annas and Caiaphas, the word of God came to John son of Zechariah in the wilderness. [3] He went through all the country around the Jordan, proclaiming a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins, [4] as it is written in the book of the sayings of Isaiah the prophet: "A voice of one calling out in the wilderness: 'Make ready the way of the Lord; make his paths straight. [5] Every ravine will be filled in, and every mountain and hill will be leveled; the crooked places will become straight and the rough roads smooth, [6] and all flesh will see the salvation of God.'" [7] So he kept saying to the crowds who came out to be baptized by him, "You brood of vipers! Who showed you how to escape the coming wrath? [8] Produce, then, fruits that fit repentance, and do not start telling yourselves, 'Abraham is our father.' I tell you, God can raise up children for Abraham from these very stones. [9] Already the axe is lying at the root of the trees; so every tree that does not produce good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire." [10] The crowds kept asking him, "What should we do, then?" [11] He answered them, "The one who has two tunics should share with the one who has none, and the one who has food should do the same." [12] Tax collectors came as well to be baptized, and they asked him, "Teacher, what should we do?" [13] He told them, "Do not collect more than you have been ordered to." [14] Soldiers too were asking him, "And we, what should we do?" He told them, "Do not shake anyone down or accuse anyone falsely, and be satisfied with your pay." [15] As the people were waiting in expectation and all were wondering in their hearts whether John might perhaps be the Christ, [16] John answered them all: "I baptize you with water; but one stronger than I is coming, whose sandal strap I am not fit to loosen. He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and with fire. [17] His winnowing fork is in his hand, and he will clean out his threshing floor completely and gather the wheat into his granary, but the chaff he will burn up with fire that cannot be put out." [18] So, with many other appeals as well, he proclaimed the good news to the people. [19] But Herod the tetrarch, who had been rebuked by him because of Herodias, the wife of his brother Philip, and because of all the wicked things Herod had done, [20] added this to everything else: he locked John up in prison. [21] When all the people were being baptized, Jesus too was baptized; and as he was praying, heaven was opened, [22] and the Holy Spirit came down on him in bodily form, like a dove, and a voice came out of heaven: "You are my Son, the beloved; in you I am well pleased." [23] Jesus himself, when he began, was about thirty years old, being the son (as was supposed) of Joseph, the son of Heli, [24] the son of Matthat, the son of Levi, the son of Melchi, the son of Janna, the son of Joseph, [25] the son of Mattathias, the son of Amos, the son of Nahum, the son of Esli, the son of Naggai, [26] the son of Maath, the son of Mattathias, the son of Semei, the son of Joseph, the son of Judah, [27] the son of Joanna, the son of Rhesa, the son of Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel, the son of Neri, [28] the son of Melchi, the son of Addi, the son of Cosam, the son of Elmodam, the son of Er, [29] the son of Jose, the son of Eliezer, the son of Jorim, the son of Matthat, the son of Levi, [30] the son of Simeon, the son of Judah, the son of Joseph, the son of Jonan, the son of Eliakim, [31] the son of Melea, the son of Menam, the son of Mattatha, the son of Nathan, the son of David, [32] the son of Jesse, the son of Obed, the son of Boaz, the son of Salmon, the son of Nahshon, [33] the son of Amminadab, the son of Ram, the son of Hezron, the son of Perez, the son of Judah, [34] the son of Jacob, the son of Isaac, the son of Abraham, the son of Terah, the son of Nahor, [35] the son of Serug, the son of Reu, the son of Peleg, the son of Eber, the son of Shelah, [36] the son of Cainan, the son of Arpachshad, the son of Shem, the son of Noah, the son of Lamech, [37] the son of Methuselah, the son of Enoch, the son of Jared, the son of Mahalalel, the son of Kenan, [38] the son of Enosh, the son of Seth, the son of Adam, the son of God.

CHAPTER 4

[1] Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, came back from the Jordan and was led by the Spirit into the wilderness [2] for forty days, while the devil tempted him. During those days he ate nothing, and when they were over, he was hungry. [3] The devil said to him, "If you are the Son of God, tell this stone to turn into bread." [4] Jesus answered him, "It is written: 'Not on bread alone shall man live, but on every word of God.'" [5] Then the devil led him up onto a high mountain and showed him, in an instant of time, all the kingdoms of the inhabited world. [6] The devil said to him, "All this authority and the splendor of these kingdoms I will give to you, because it has been handed over to me, and I give it to anyone I choose. [7] So if you will bow down in worship before me, the whole of it will be yours." [8] Jesus answered him, "Get behind me, Satan! It is written: 'The Lord your God you shall worship, and him alone you shall serve.'" [9] Then he took him to Jerusalem, stood him on the highest point of the temple, and said to him, "If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down from here; [10] for it is written: 'He will give his angels orders concerning you, to protect you,' [11] and: 'They will lift you up in their hands, so that you do not strike your foot on a stone.'" [12] Jesus answered him, "It has been said: 'You shall not put the Lord your God to the test.'" [13] When the devil had finished every kind of temptation, he went away from him until a fitting time. [14] Jesus went back to Galilee in the power of the Spirit, and news of him spread through all the surrounding countryside. [15] He was teaching in their synagogues, and everyone praised him. [16] He came to Nazareth, where he had been raised, and on the Sabbath day he went into the synagogue, as was his custom, and stood up to read. [17] The scroll of the prophet Isaiah was given to him. Unrolling the scroll, he found the place where it was written: [18] "The Spirit of the Lord is on me, for he has anointed me to bring good news to the poor; he has sent me to heal those whose hearts are broken, to announce release to the captives and sight again to the blind, to send away free those who are crushed, [19] to announce the favorable year of the Lord." [20] He rolled up the scroll, handed it back to the attendant, and sat down; and the eyes of everyone in the synagogue were fastened on him. [21] He began by saying to them, "Today this Scripture is fulfilled in your ears." [22] Everyone was speaking well of him and wondering at the words of grace that came out of his mouth, and they said, "Is this not the son of Joseph?" [23] He said to them, "No doubt you will quote me this proverb, 'Doctor, cure yourself! All we heard was done in Capernaum, do here in your own hometown as well.'" [24] Then he said, "Truly I say to you, no prophet is welcome in his own hometown. [25] In truth I tell you, there were many widows in Israel in Elijah's days, when the sky was closed for three years and six months and a severe famine struck the whole land; [26] yet Elijah was sent to none of them, but only to Zarephath in the region of Sidon, to a widow woman. [27] And many lepers were in Israel in the time of Elisha the prophet, yet not one of them was cleansed, only Naaman the Syrian." [28] On hearing this, everyone in the synagogue was filled with rage. [29] They got up, forced him out of the town, and brought him to the edge of the hill on which their town had been built, to hurl him down the cliff. [30] But he passed right through the middle of them and went on his way. [31] He went down to Capernaum, a town in Galilee, and he was teaching them on the Sabbath days.

32 They were amazed at his teaching, because his word carried authority. 33 In the synagogue there was a man who had the spirit of an unclean demon, and he shouted out with a loud voice, 34
"Let us alone! What do we have to do with you, Jesus of Nazareth? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are:
the Holy One of God!" 35 Jesus rebuked him: "Be quiet, and come out of him!" The demon threw the man down in their midst and came out of him without hurting him at all. 36 Amazement came over them all, and they were saying to each other, "What kind of word is this? With authority and power he gives orders to the unclean spirits, and out they come!" 37 And talk about him was spreading into every place in the region round about. 38 Leaving the synagogue, he went into Simon's house. Simon's mother-in-law was gripped by a high fever, and they asked him about her. 39 He stood over her and rebuked the fever, and it let her go. She got up at once and began to serve them. 40 As the sun was going down, all who had people sick with all kinds of illnesses brought them to him, and laying his hands on each one of them, he healed them. 41 Demons too came out of many, shouting, "You are the Christ, the Son of God!"
But he rebuked them and would not let them speak, because they knew he was the Christ. 42 At daybreak he went out and made his way to a deserted place. The crowds went looking for him, and when they reached him, they tried to hold him back from going away from them. 43 But he told them, "To the other towns as well I must bring the good news of the kingdom of God, because that is what I was sent for." 44 And he kept preaching in the synagogues of Galilee.

CHAPTER 5

1 Once, as the crowd was pressing in on him to hear the word of God, he was standing beside the lake of Gennesaret. 2 He saw two boats lying at the shore of the lake; the fishermen had stepped out of them and were rinsing their nets. 3 He got into one of the boats, the one belonging to Simon, and asked him to push off a little from the shore. Then he sat down and taught the crowds from the boat. 4 When he had stopped speaking, he said to Simon, "Head out into deep water and lower your nets for a catch." 5 Simon answered him, "Master, we worked hard the whole night and caught nothing; but on your word I will lower the net." 6 When they did this, they hauled in such a huge number of fish that their net was tearing. 7 They waved to their partners in the other boat to come and lend them a hand; they came and filled both boats until they were starting to sink. 8 Seeing this, Simon Peter fell at the knees of Jesus and said, "Go away from me, Lord, for I am a sinful man." 9 For amazement had gripped him and all who were with him at the haul of fish they had caught; 10 and the same was true of James and John, Zebedee's sons, who were Simon's partners. Jesus said to Simon,
"Do not fear; from now on you will be catching people alive." 11
They brought their boats to shore, left everything behind, and followed him. 12 While he was in one of the towns, there was a man covered with leprosy. On seeing Jesus he fell face down and pleaded with him, "Lord, if you want to, you can make me clean." 13 Reaching out his hand, he touched him and said, "I want to; be made clean." At once the leprosy went away from him. 14 He ordered him to tell no one: "Instead, go, show yourself to the priest and offer what Moses prescribed for your cleansing, as a testimony to them." 15 Yet the word about him kept spreading even more, and large crowds kept coming together to hear him and to be cured of their sicknesses. 16 But he himself would slip away to deserted places and pray. 17 On one of those days, while he was teaching, Pharisees and teachers of the law were seated there who had come from every village of Galilee and Judea and from Jerusalem; and the power of the Lord was there for him to heal them. 18 Some men came carrying on a bed a man who was paralyzed, and they were trying to bring him inside and set him down in front of him. 19 When they could find no way to bring him in because of the crowd, they climbed onto the roof and lowered him with his little bed through the tiles into the middle, right in front of Jesus. 20 Seeing their faith, he said to him, "Man, your sins have been forgiven you." 21 The scribes and the Pharisees started to argue, "Who is this man who is speaking blasphemies? Who is able to forgive sins except God alone?" 22 Jesus knew what they were reasoning and answered them, "What are you reasoning in your hearts? 23 Which is easier: to say, 'Your sins have been forgiven you,' or to say, 'Get up and walk'? 24 But so that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins"—he said to the paralyzed man—"I tell you, get up, pick up your little bed, and go home." 25 Immediately he stood up in front of them, picked up what he had been lying on, and went off to his home, glorifying God. 26 Astonishment took hold of all of them, and they glorified God; they were filled with awe and said, "We have seen remarkable things today." 27 After this he went out and noticed a tax collector named Levi sitting at the tax booth, and he said to him, "Follow me." 28 He left everything behind, got up, and followed him. 29 Levi held a great banquet for him at his house, and a large crowd of tax collectors and others was reclining at the table with them. 30 Their scribes and the Pharisees complained to his disciples, "Why do you eat and drink with tax collectors and sinners?" 31 Jesus answered them, "It is not the healthy who need a doctor, but the sick. 32 I have not come to call righteous people but sinners to repentance." 33 They said to him, "Why do John's disciples fast frequently and offer prayers, and the disciples of the Pharisees too, while yours go on eating and drinking?" 34 He said to them, "Can you make the wedding guests fast while the bridegroom is with them? 35 But days will come when the bridegroom is taken from them; then, in those days, they will fast." 36 He also gave them a parable: "No one sews a patch from a new garment onto an old one; if he does, he tears the new, and the patch from the new will not match the old. 37 And no one pours new wine into old wineskins; if he does, the new wine bursts the skins and runs out, and the skins are lost. 38 No, new wine has to be poured into new skins, and both are kept safe. 39
And no one who has drunk old wine wants new right away; for he says, 'The old is better.'"

CHAPTER 6

1 On the second Sabbath after the first he was going through grainfields, and his disciples were picking heads of grain, rubbing them in their hands, and eating them. * 2 Some of the Pharisees said to them, "Why are you doing what it is not lawful to do on the Sabbath days?" 3 Jesus answered them, "Have you never read even this, what David did when he and his companions were hungry, 4 how he went into the house of God, took the bread of the presence, ate it, and gave some also to those with him, though it is not lawful for anyone but the priests alone to eat it?" 5 And he told them, "The Son of Man is Lord even of the Sabbath." 6 On another Sabbath as well he went into the synagogue and was teaching. A man was there whose right hand was shriveled. 7 The scribes and Pharisees kept a close watch on him to see whether he would heal on the Sabbath, so as to find grounds to accuse him. 8
But he knew what they were thinking, and he told the man with the shriveled hand, "Get up and stand here in the middle." He got up and stood there. 9 Then Jesus said to them, "I will put a question to you: On the Sabbath days is it lawful to do good or to do harm, to save a life or to destroy it?" 10 He looked around at all of them and said to the man, "Stretch out your hand." He did, and his hand was restored, as sound as the other. 11 But they were filled with senseless rage and began talking with one another about what they could do to Jesus. 12 In those days he went out to the mountain to pray, and he spent the whole night in prayer to God. 13 When day came, he called his disciples to him and chose twelve of them, whom he also called apostles: 14 Simon, to whom he also gave the name Peter, and Andrew his brother; James and John; Philip and Bartholomew; 15 Matthew and Thomas; James son of Alphaeus, and Simon, the one called the Zealot; 16 Judas brother of James, and Judas Iscariot, who turned traitor. 17 He came down with them and stood on a level place, with a crowd of his disciples and a great number of people from all of Judea and Jerusalem and from the coast of Tyre and Sidon, who had come to hear him and to be healed of their diseases, * 18 along with those tormented by unclean spirits; and they were being healed. 19 The whole crowd was trying to touch him, because power was coming out from him and healing everyone.
20 Raising his eyes toward his disciples, he said: "Blessed are you who are poor, because the kingdom of God is yours. 21 Blessed are you who are hungry now, because you will be filled. Blessed are you who are weeping now, because you will laugh. 22 Blessed are you when people hate you, and when they shut you out and insult you and reject your name as evil, on account of the Son of Man. 23 Be glad on that day and jump for joy, for look, your reward in heaven is great; that is just how their fathers treated the prophets. 24 But woe to you who are rich, because you are already receiving your comfort. 25 Woe to you who are well fed, because you will go hungry. Woe to you who are laughing now, because you will mourn and weep. 26 Woe to you when all people speak well of you, for that is just how their fathers treated the false prophets. 27 But to you who are listening I say: love your enemies, treat well those who hate you, 28 bless those who curse you, and pray for those who abuse you. 29 To the one who hits you on one cheek, offer the other as well; and from the one who takes your cloak, do not hold back your tunic either. 30 Give to everyone who asks you, and from the one who takes what is yours, do not ask for it back. 31 Just as you want people to treat you, treat them in the same way. 32 If you love those who love you, what thanks do you deserve? Even sinners love those who love them. 33 And if you do good to those who do good to you, what thanks do you deserve? Even sinners do that. 34 And if you lend to those from whom you expect to get something, what thanks do you deserve? Even sinners lend to sinners so as to get back the same amount. 35 Instead, love your enemies, do good, and lend without expecting anything back; then your reward will be great, and you will be sons of the Most High, because he is kind to the ungrateful and the wicked. 36 Be merciful, then, as your Father too is merciful. 37 Do not judge, and you will not be judged; do not condemn, and you will not be condemned; pardon, and you will be pardoned. 38 Give, and it will be given to you: a good measure, pressed down, shaken together, overflowing, they will pour into your lap. For the measure you measure with will be measured back to you." 39 He also told them a parable: "Is a blind man able to guide a blind man? Will they not both tumble into a pit? 40 A disciple is not above his teacher; but everyone, once fully trained, will be like his teacher.
41 Why do you see the speck in your brother's eye, yet fail to notice the log in your own eye? 42 How can you say to your brother, 'Brother, let me remove the speck in your eye,' when you do not see the log in your own eye? You hypocrite, first remove the log from your own eye, and then you will see clearly enough to remove the speck in your brother's eye. 43 No good tree produces rotten fruit, and no rotten tree produces good fruit. 44 Every tree is recognized by its own fruit: people do not gather figs from thorn bushes, or harvest grapes from a briar. 45
The good person brings out good from the good treasure of his heart, and the evil person brings out evil from the evil treasure of his heart; for his mouth speaks from what fills his heart. 46 Why do you call me 'Lord, Lord,' and not do the things I say? 47 Everyone who comes to me, hears my words, and puts them into practice—I will show you what he is like. 48 He is like a man building a house who dug, went deep, and set the foundation on rock. When a flood came, the river crashed against that house but could not shake it, because it had been founded on the rock.
49 But the one who hears and does not put them into practice is like a man who built a house on the ground with no foundation.
The river crashed against it, and at once it collapsed, and the wreck of that house was great."

CHAPTER 7

1 When he had completed all his words in the hearing of the people, he went into Capernaum. 2 There a centurion had a servant whom he valued highly, who was ill and near death. 3 Hearing about Jesus, the centurion sent some elders of the Jews to him, asking him to come and save his servant's life. 4 They came to Jesus and appealed to him urgently: "He deserves to have you grant him this, [5] for he loves our people, and it was he who built our synagogue for us." [6] So Jesus set off with them. He was already not far from the house when the centurion sent friends to tell him, "Lord, do not put yourself to trouble; I am not fit to have you come in under my roof. [7] That is why I did not count myself worthy even to come to you. Only speak a word, and my servant will be cured. [8] For I too am a man set under authority, with soldiers under me. I tell this one, 'Go,' and off he goes; and another, 'Come,' and he comes; and my servant, 'Do this,' and he does it." [9] Hearing this, Jesus was amazed at him. He turned to the crowd following him and said, "I tell you, not even in Israel have I found faith this great." [10] When the men who had been sent went back to the house, they found the sick servant well. [11] The next day he went on to a town called Nain, and a good number of his disciples and a large crowd were going with him. [12] Just as he came near the town gate, a dead man was being carried out, his mother's only begotten son, and she was a widow. A sizable crowd from the town was with her. [*] [13] When the Lord saw her, his heart went out to her, and he said to her, "Stop weeping." [14] He stepped forward and touched the bier, and the bearers stood still. He said, "Young man, I tell you, get up." [15] The dead man sat up and started to speak, and Jesus gave him back to his mother. [16] Fear took hold of everyone, and they glorified God, saying, "A great prophet has arisen among us!" and "God has come to help his people!" [17] This word about him spread through the whole of Judea and all the surrounding country. [18] John's disciples reported all these things to him. [19] So John summoned two of his disciples and sent them to Jesus to ask, "Are you the Coming One, or are we to wait for someone else?" [20] When the men reached him, they said, "John the Baptist has sent us to you to ask, 'Are you the Coming One, or are we to wait for someone else?'" [21] At that very hour he cured many people of diseases, afflictions, and evil spirits, and he gave sight as a gift to many who were blind. [22] Jesus answered them, "Go and report to John what you have seen and heard: blind people see again, lame people walk, lepers are made clean, deaf people hear, dead people are raised, poor people hear the gospel. [23] And blessed is anyone who does not stumble over me." [24] After John's messengers had left, he began to speak to the crowds about John: "What did you go out into the wilderness to look at? A reed swaying in the wind? [25] If not, what did you go out to see? A man wrapped in soft garments? Look, those who wear fine clothing and live in luxury are found in royal palaces. [26] Then what did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes, I tell you, and far more than a prophet. [27] He is the one about whom it is written: 'Look, I am sending my messenger ahead of your face, who will make your way ready before you.' [28] I tell you, among those born of women no prophet is greater than John the Baptist; yet the least in the kingdom of God is greater than he is." [29] And all the people who heard, even the tax collectors, acknowledged God as just, since they had been baptized with John's baptism. [30] But the Pharisees and the experts in the law set aside God's purpose for themselves, since they had not been baptized by him. [31] And the Lord said, "To what, then, shall I liken the people of this generation? What are they like? [32] They are like children sitting in the marketplace and calling out to one another: 'We played the flute for you, and you did not dance; we sang a lament, and you did not weep.' [33] For John the Baptist came neither eating bread nor drinking wine, and you say, 'He has a demon.' [34] The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and you say, 'Here is a glutton and a drinker of wine, a friend of tax collectors and sinners!' [35] Yet wisdom is proved right by all her children." [36] One of the Pharisees invited him to eat with him, so he went into the Pharisee's house and took his place at the table. [37] And there was a woman in the town who was a sinner. When she found out that he was at table in the Pharisee's house, she brought an alabaster jar of perfumed oil, [38] and she stood behind him at his feet, weeping, and began to wet his feet with her tears. She wiped them with the hair of her head, kissed his feet again and again, and anointed them with the perfume. [39] When the Pharisee who had invited him saw it, he said to himself, "If this man were a prophet, he would realize who and what kind of woman it is that is touching him—that she is a sinner." [40] Jesus responded, "Simon, I have something to tell you." "Say it, Teacher," he replied. [41] "A lender had two men in his debt: one owed five hundred denarii, the other fifty. [42] Since neither of them could pay, he cancelled the debt for both. So tell me, which of them will love him more?" [43] Simon replied, "I take it the one for whom he cancelled the larger debt." Jesus said to him, "You have judged correctly." [44] Turning to the woman, he said to Simon, "Do you see this woman? I came into your house; you gave me no water for my feet, but she has wet my feet with her tears and wiped them with the hair of her head. [45] You gave me no kiss, but since I came in she has not stopped kissing my feet. [46] You did not anoint my head with oil, but she has anointed my feet with perfume. [47] For this reason I tell you, her sins, many as they are, have been forgiven, for she loved much; but whoever is forgiven little loves little." [48] Then he said to her, "Your sins have been forgiven." [49] Those at table with him began saying among themselves, "Who is this man, who even forgives sins?" [50] But he said to the woman, "Your faith has saved you; go in peace."

CHAPTER 8

[1] Soon afterward he traveled from town to town and village to village, preaching and announcing the good news of the kingdom of God. The twelve were with him, [2] and also some women who had been cured of evil spirits and illnesses: Mary, called Magdalene, out of whom seven demons had come, [3] Joanna wife of Chuza, Herod's household manager, Susanna, and many others, who were providing for him out of their own means. [4] When a large crowd was coming together and people from town after town were making their way to him, he spoke in a parable: [5] "The sower went out to sow his seed. As he sowed, some fell along the path; it was trodden down, and the birds of the sky ate it up. [6] Other seed fell on rock, and when it came up, it dried out, because it had no moisture. [7] Other seed fell in among thorns, and the thorns grew up with it and choked it. [8] And other seed fell into good soil; it grew up and yielded a crop a hundred times over." As he said this, he called out, "Whoever has ears to hear, let him hear." [9] His disciples asked him what this parable could mean. [10] He said, "To you it has been granted to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God, but to the others it comes in parables, so that seeing they may not see and hearing they may not understand. [11] This is what the parable means: the seed is the word of God. [12] The ones along the path are those who hear; then the devil comes and snatches the word out of their hearts, so that they will not believe and be saved. [13] The ones on the rock are those who receive the word joyfully when they hear it; but these have no root. They believe for a time, and in a time of testing they drop away. [14] The seed that fell among thorns stands for those who hear, but as they go along, they are choked by the worries, wealth, and pleasures of life, and their fruit never ripens. [15] But the seed in the good soil stands for those who hear the word with a noble and good heart, hold on to it, and bear fruit by enduring. [16] "No one lights a lamp and then hides it under a jar or puts it beneath a bed; he places it on a lampstand, so that those coming in can see the light. [17] For nothing is hidden that will not become evident, nor concealed that will not be made known and come into the open. [18] So be careful how you listen. Whoever has will be given more, and whoever does not have, even what he thinks he has will be taken away from him." [19] His mother and brothers came to him, but they were unable to get near him because of the crowd. [20] He was told, "Your mother and your brothers are standing outside and want to see you." [21] He answered them, "My mother and my brothers are those who hear the word of God and do it." [22] One day he got into a boat with his disciples and said to them, "Let us cross to the other side of the lake." So they put out from shore. [23] As they sailed, he fell asleep. A squall of wind swept down on the lake, and the boat was filling with water, and they were in danger. [24] They went and woke him up: "Master, Master, we are going under!" He got up and rebuked the wind and the rough water; they stopped, and it became calm. [25] Then he said to them, "Where is your faith?" Frightened and amazed, they said to one another, "Who can this be? He gives orders even to the winds and the water, and they obey him!" [26] They sailed on to the region of the Gadarenes, which lies across from Galilee. [] [27] As he stepped ashore, a man from the town met him who had been possessed by demons for a long time. He wore no clothes and did not live in a house, but in the tombs. [28] On seeing Jesus, he shrieked, fell down in front of him, and said with a loud voice, "What do I have to do with you, Jesus, Son of the Most High God? I beg you, do not torment me." [29] For Jesus had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. Many times it had taken hold of him; he was kept under guard and bound with chains and fetters, but he would snap the restraints and be driven by the demon into lonely places. [30] Jesus asked him, "What is your name?" He said, "Legion," because many demons had gone into him. [31] And they kept begging him not to order them to depart into the abyss. [] [32] A large herd of pigs was feeding there on the hillside, and they begged him to let them go into the pigs. He gave them permission. [33] The demons came out of the man and went into the pigs, and the herd stampeded down the steep slope into the lake and drowned. [34] When the herdsmen saw what had happened, they ran off and reported it in the town and in the farms. [35] People went out to see what had happened. They came to Jesus and found the man from whom the demons had gone out sitting at Jesus' feet, dressed and of sound mind; and they were frightened. [36] Those who had seen it reported to them how the demon-possessed man had been delivered. [37] Then the entire population of the surrounding region of the Gadarenes asked him to leave them, because they were gripped by great fear. So he got into the boat and went back. [38] The man from whom the demons had gone out was pleading with him to be allowed to go with him, but Jesus sent him off, saying, [39] "Go back to your home and describe all that God has done for you." So he went off and announced throughout the whole town all that Jesus had done for him. [40] When Jesus came back, the crowd welcomed him gladly, for they had all been expecting him. [41] Just then a man named Jairus came, who was a leader of the synagogue. He fell at the feet of Jesus and pleaded with him to come to his house, [42] because his only begotten daughter, about twelve years old, was dying. As he went, the crowds were crushing in on him. [43] A woman was there who had suffered from bleeding for twelve years; she had spent everything she had on doctors, and no one had been able to cure her. [44] She came up from behind and touched the tassel of his cloak, and at once her bleeding stopped. [45] Jesus said, "Who was it that touched me?" As everyone was denying it, Peter and his companions said, "Master, the crowds are hemming you in and pressing against you, and you ask, 'Who touched me?'" [46] But Jesus said, "Someone did touch me; I know that power has gone out from me." [47] Seeing that she had not escaped notice, the woman came trembling and fell down before him, and in front of all the people she told why she had touched him and how she had been cured at once. [48] He said to her, "Take heart, daughter; your faith has made you well. Go in peace." [49] While he was still talking, someone came from the house of the synagogue leader and said, "Your daughter has died; do not bother the Teacher." [50] Hearing this, Jesus said to him, "Do not fear. Just believe, and she will be saved." [51] When he reached the house, he let no one go in with him except Peter, James, and John, and the girl's father and mother. [52] Everyone was weeping and beating their breasts for her. But he said, "Stop weeping; she has not died but is asleep." [53] They ridiculed him, knowing that she had died. [54] But he sent them all out, took her hand, and called out, "Child, get up!" [55] Her spirit came back, and she stood up at once; and he told them to give her something to eat. [56] Her parents were stunned, but he ordered them not to tell anyone what had taken place.

CHAPTER 9

[1] He called his twelve disciples together and gave them power and authority over every demon and to heal diseases. [2] Then he sent them out to proclaim the kingdom of God and to cure the sick. [3] He told them, "Take nothing for the road: no staffs, no

bag, no bread, no money; and do not each have two tunics. [4] Whatever house you go into, remain there and leave from there. [5] Wherever people do not welcome you, when you leave that town, shake the very dust off your feet as a testimony against them." [6] So they left and traveled from village to village, announcing the gospel and healing people everywhere. [7] Herod the tetrarch heard about all that he was doing, and he was at a loss, because some were saying that John had been raised from the dead, [8] others that Elijah had appeared, and still others that one of the prophets of old had come back to life. [9] Herod said, "John I had beheaded. So who is this about whom I hear such things?" And he kept trying to see him. [10] On their return the apostles gave him an account of all they had done. Taking them with him, he withdrew by themselves to a deserted place near a town called Bethsaida. [11] But the crowds found out and followed him. He welcomed them, spoke to them about the kingdom of God, and cured those who needed healing. [12] As the day began to wear away, the twelve came to him and said, "Dismiss the crowd so they can go to the villages and farms around here to find lodging and food, because here we are in a lonely place." [13] But he said to them, "You give them something to eat." They replied, "All we have is five loaves and two fish—unless we are to go and buy food for this whole crowd." [14] For there were about five thousand men. He told his disciples, "Have them recline in groups of fifty." [15] They did this and had everyone recline. [16] Taking the five loaves and the two fish, he looked up to heaven, blessed them, broke them, and kept giving them to the disciples to set before the crowd. [17] They all ate and had their fill, and what they had left over was gathered up: twelve baskets of pieces. [18] Once, when he was praying in private and the disciples were with him, he asked them, "Who do the crowds say I am?" [19] They replied, "John the Baptist; others say Elijah; and others, that one of the prophets of old has come back to life." [20] He asked them, "And you, who do you say I am?" Peter answered, "The Christ of God." [21] He gave them strict orders and instructed them not to tell this to anyone, [22] saying, "The Son of Man has to suffer many things and be rejected by the elders, chief priests, and scribes, and be put to death, and on the third day be raised." [23] Then he said to everyone, "If anyone wishes to come after me, he must say no to himself, take up his cross each day, and follow me. [24] For whoever wishes to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for my sake will save it. [25] What good is it to a person to gain the whole world and lose or forfeit himself? [26] Whoever is ashamed of me and my words, the Son of Man will be ashamed of that person when he comes in his glory and the glory of the Father and of the holy angels. [27] I tell you truthfully, some of those standing here will certainly not taste death before they see the kingdom of God." [28] About eight days after he said these things, he took Peter, John, and James with him and went up onto the mountain to pray. [29] While he was praying, the look of his face changed, and his clothes turned brilliant white, flashing like lightning. [30] And suddenly two men were talking with him: Moses and Elijah. [31] They appeared in glory and were speaking about his departure, which he was going to bring to fulfillment in Jerusalem. [32] Peter and his companions were weighed down with sleep, but when they came fully awake, they saw his glory and the two men standing with him. [33] As the men were leaving him, Peter said to Jesus, "Master, it is good that we are here. Let us put up three shelters, one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah"—not realizing what he was saying. [34] While he was still saying this, a cloud came and covered them with its shadow, and they became afraid as they went into the cloud. [35] A voice came from the cloud: "This is my Son, the beloved; listen to him!" [36] After the voice had spoken, Jesus was found to be alone. They kept quiet, and in those days they told no one anything of what they had seen. [37] On the following day, when they had come down from the mountain, a large crowd came to meet him. [38] A man in the crowd shouted, "Teacher, I beg you to look at my son; he is my only begotten child. [39] A spirit takes hold of him and all at once he screams; it throws him into convulsions with foaming at the mouth, and it leaves him only with difficulty, battering him. [40] I begged your disciples to drive it out, but they were not able." [41] Jesus answered, "You unbelieving and twisted generation, how long am I to be with you and put up with you? Bring your son here." [42] Even as the boy was coming, the demon dashed him to the ground and threw him into a convulsion. But Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, healed the boy, and handed him back to his father. [43] Everyone was overwhelmed at the greatness of God. While all were marveling at everything Jesus was doing, he said to his disciples, [44] "Let these words settle into your ears: the Son of Man is going to be handed over into the hands of men." [45] But they did not understand this statement; it was veiled from them so that they could not grasp it, and they were afraid to ask him about it. [46] A dispute came up among them about which of them might be the greatest. [47] Jesus, knowing the reasoning of their hearts, took hold of a little child, stood him beside himself, [48] and said to them, "Whoever welcomes this little child in my name welcomes me, and whoever welcomes me welcomes the one who sent me. For the one who is least among all of you he will be great." [49] John spoke up: "Master, we saw a man driving out demons in your name, and we tried to stop him, because he does not follow along with us." [50] Jesus told him, "Do not stop him; for whoever is not against us is on our side." [51] As the days drew near for him to be taken up, he firmly set his face to go to Jerusalem. [52] He sent messengers on ahead of him. They went into a Samaritan village to get things ready for him, [53] but the people there would not welcome him, because his face was turned toward Jerusalem. [54] When his disciples James and John saw it, they said, "Lord, do you want us to call down fire from heaven to destroy them, as Elijah also did?" [55] But he turned and rebuked them: "You do not know what kind of spirit you belong to. [56] For the Son of Man did not come to destroy people's lives but to save them." And they went on to another village. [57] As they were traveling along the road, a man said to him, "Lord, I will follow you anywhere you go." [58] Jesus told him, "Foxes have dens and the birds of the sky have nests, but the Son of Man has no place to lay his head." [59] To another he said, "Follow me." But the man said, "Lord, allow me first to go and bury my father." [60] Jesus said to him, "Leave the dead to bury their own dead; but you, go and spread the news of the kingdom of God." [61] Yet another said, "I will follow you, Lord; but first let me say goodbye to the people at my home." [62] Jesus said to him, "No one who puts his hand to the plow and then looks behind him is fit for the kingdom of God."

CHAPTER 10

[1] After this the Lord designated seventy others as well and sent them out in pairs ahead of him to every town and place he himself was going to visit. [2] He said to them, "The harvest is large, but the workers are few. So ask the Lord of the harvest to send workers out into his harvest. [3] Go now; look, I am sending you out like lambs among wolves. [4] Do not carry a money bag, a pack, or sandals, and do not stop to greet anyone on the road. [5] Whatever house you go into, say first, 'Peace to this household.' [6] If the son of peace is there, your peace will come to rest on him; if not, it will come back to you. [7] Stay in that same house, eating and drinking whatever they give you, for the worker deserves his pay. Do not keep moving from one house to another. [8] Whenever you go into a town and they welcome you, eat what they serve you, [9] heal the sick in it, and tell them, 'The kingdom of God has drawn near to you.' [10] But whenever you go into a town and they do not welcome you, go out into its streets and say, [11] 'Even the dust of your town that sticks to us we wipe off as a sign against you. Yet be sure of this: the kingdom of God has drawn near to you.' [12] I tell you, on that day it will be more bearable for Sodom than for that town. [13] "Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! If the miracles done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago, sitting in sackcloth and ashes. [14] Yet at the judgment it will be more bearable for Tyre and Sidon than for you. [15] And you, Capernaum, lifted up to heaven, you will be thrust down to Hades. [16] Whoever listens to you listens to me; whoever rejects you rejects me; and whoever rejects me rejects the one who sent me." [17] The seventy came back full of joy, saying, "Lord, even the demons submit to us in your name!" [18] He said to them, "I was watching Satan fall from heaven like a flash of lightning. [19] See, I am giving you authority to trample on snakes and scorpions and over all the power of the enemy, and nothing at all will hurt you. [20] But do not rejoice in this, that the spirits submit to you; rejoice instead that your names have been written in heaven." [21] At that very hour Jesus was filled with joy in spirit and said, "I praise you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because you have concealed these things from the wise and intelligent and made them known to little children. Yes, Father, because this is what pleased you. [22] Everything has been handed over to me by my Father. No one knows who the Son is but the Father, or who the Father is but the Son, and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him."[*] [23] Turning to the disciples, he said to them privately, "Blessed are the eyes that see what you are seeing. [24] For I tell you, many prophets and kings wanted to see what you see but did not see it, and to hear what you hear but did not hear it." [25] Just then an expert in the law stood up to put him to the test: "Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?" [26] He said to him, "What stands written in the law? What do you read there?" [27] He answered, "'You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your strength, and with all your mind,' and 'your neighbor as yourself.'" [28] Jesus said to him, "Your answer is correct. Do this, and you will live." [29] But wishing to justify himself, he asked Jesus, "And who is my neighbor?" [30] Taking up the question, Jesus said: "A man was on his way down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and he fell into the hands of robbers. They stripped him, beat him, and went off, leaving him half dead. [31] As it happened, a priest was going down by that road; he saw him and went past on the opposite side. [32] In the same way a Levite too came to the spot, saw him, and went past on the opposite side. [33] But a Samaritan who was traveling came upon him, and when he saw him, he was moved with pity. [34] He went over to him and bandaged his wounds, pouring oil and wine on them. Then he put him on his own animal, took him to an inn, and looked after him. [35] The next day, as he was leaving, he took out two denarii and gave them to the innkeeper, saying, 'Look after him, and whatever extra you spend, I will repay you when I come back.' [36] So which of these three, in your view, became a neighbor to the man who fell into the robbers' hands?" [37] He said, "The one who showed him mercy." Jesus told him, "Go and do the same yourself." [38] As they went on their way, he came into a village, and a woman named Martha received him as a guest in her house. [39] She had a sister called Mary, who sat at Jesus' feet and kept listening to what he was saying. [40] Martha, though, was pulled away by all the serving. She came to him and said, "Lord, does it not matter to you that my sister has left me to do the serving by myself? Tell her, then, to give me a hand." [41] Jesus answered her, "Martha, Martha, you are worried and upset over many things, [42] but only one thing is necessary. Mary has chosen the good portion, and it will not be taken from her."

CHAPTER 11

[1] Once he was praying in a certain place, and when he had finished, one of his disciples said to him, "Lord, teach us to pray, just as John taught his disciples." [2] And he said to them, "When you pray, say: Our Father who is in heaven, hallowed be your name. Your kingdom come. Your will be done, as in heaven, so also on earth. [] [3] Give us each day our daily bread. [4] And forgive us our sins, for we too forgive everyone who owes us. And do not lead us into temptation, but rescue us from evil." [5] He also said to them, "Suppose one of you has a friend, and you go to him at midnight and say to him, 'Friend, lend me three loaves of bread, [6] because a friend of mine on a journey has come to me, and I have nothing to put in front of him.' [7] And from inside he answers, 'Do not bother me. The door has already been locked, and my children and I are in bed. I cannot get up and give you anything.' [8] I tell you, even if he will not get up and give him anything because he is his friend, yet because of his shameless persistence he will get up and give him whatever he needs. [9] "So I tell you: ask, and it will be given to you; seek, and you will find; knock, and the door will be opened to you. [10] For everyone who asks receives; the one who seeks finds; and to the one who knocks, the door will be opened. [11] Which father among you, if his son asks for bread, will hand him a stone? Or if he asks for a fish, will hand him a snake in place of a fish? [12] Or if he asks for an egg, will hand him a scorpion? [13] So if you, evil as you are, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will the Father who is from heaven give the Holy Spirit to those who ask him!" [14] He was driving out a demon that was mute. When the demon had gone out, the mute man spoke, and the crowds were amazed. [15] But some of them said, "It is by Beelzebub, the ruler of the demons, that he drives out demons." [16] Others, to test him, kept demanding from him a sign from heaven. [17] But he knew what they were thinking and said to them, "Any kingdom divided against itself is laid waste, and house falls upon house. [18] And if Satan too is divided against himself, how will his kingdom stand? I ask, since you say that I drive out demons by Beelzebub. [19] Now if I drive out demons by Beelzebub, by whom do your sons drive them out? So they will be your judges. [20] But if it is by the finger of God that I drive out demons, then the kingdom of God has come upon you. [21] When a strong man, fully armed, keeps watch over his own palace, his possessions are safe. [22] But when someone stronger than he attacks and overpowers him, he strips him of the armor he relied on and hands out his plunder. [23] Whoever is not with me is against me, and whoever does not gather with me scatters. [24] "When the unclean spirit goes out of a person, it wanders through dry places looking for rest, and when it finds none, it says, 'I will go back to my house that I left.' [25] On arriving, it finds the house swept clean and set in order. [26] Then it goes off and brings along seven other spirits more evil than itself, and they go in and settle there; and that person ends up worse off than at first." [27] As he was saying these things, a woman in the crowd called out to him, "Blessed is the womb that carried you and the breasts you nursed at!" [28] But he replied, "Rather, blessed are those who hear the word of God and keep it." [29] As the crowds were growing larger, he began to say, "This generation is an evil generation. It looks for a sign, yet no sign will be given to it except the sign of Jonah the prophet. [30] For just as Jonah became a sign to the people of Nineveh, so will the Son of Man be to this generation. [31] The queen of the South will rise at the judgment with the men of this generation and condemn them, because she came from the ends of the earth to listen to Solomon's wisdom; and look, more than Solomon is here. [32] The men of Nineveh will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, because they repented at Jonah's preaching; and look, more than Jonah is here. [33] "No one lights a lamp and puts it in a cellar or under a basket; he puts it on the lampstand, so that those who come in may see the light. [34] The eye is the lamp of the body. When your eye is single, your whole body is full of light too; but when it is bad, your body is full of darkness too. [] [35] So watch out that the light in you is not darkness. [36] If your whole body, then, is full of light, with no part of it in darkness, it will be wholly full of light, as when a lamp shines on you with its brightness." [37] While he was speaking, a Pharisee invited him to have a meal at his house, so he went in and reclined at the table. [38] The Pharisee was surprised to see that he did not wash first before the meal. [39] But the Lord said to him, "You Pharisees clean the outside of the cup and the platter, but inside you are full of greed and wickedness. [40] Foolish people! Did not the one who made the outside also make the inside? [41] Instead, give as alms what is inside, and then everything is clean for you. [42] "But woe to you Pharisees! You give a tenth of mint and rue and every garden herb, yet you neglect justice and the love of God. These you should have practiced, without neglecting the others. [43] Woe to you Pharisees! You love the front seats in the synagogues and being greeted in the marketplaces. [44] Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! You are like graves that are not seen, which people walk over without knowing it." [45] One of the experts in the law answered him, "Teacher, in saying this you are insulting us too." [46] He said, "Woe to you experts in the law as well! You weigh people down with burdens that are hard to carry, while you yourselves will not touch those burdens with a single finger. [47] Woe to you! You build tombs for the prophets, and it was your fathers who killed them. [48] So you bear witness and give your approval to what your fathers did: they killed them, and you build their tombs. [49] That is why the wisdom of God also said, 'I will send them prophets and apostles; some of them they will kill and some they will persecute,' [50] so that this generation may be charged with the blood of all the prophets shed since the foundation of the world, [51] from the blood of Abel to the blood of Zechariah, who was killed between the altar and the sanctuary. Yes, I tell you, this generation will be charged with it. [52] Woe to you experts in the law! You have taken away the key of knowledge. You did not go in yourselves, and you blocked those who were going in." [53] As he was saying these things to them, the scribes and Pharisees began to turn fiercely against him and to draw him out on many subjects, [54] watching for him and trying to seize on something he might say, in order to accuse him.

CHAPTER 12

[1] Meanwhile, when a crowd of many thousands had gathered, so many that they were stepping on one another, he began to speak first to his disciples: "Be on your guard against the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy. [2] Nothing is covered up that will not be uncovered, or hidden that will not be made known. [3] So whatever you have said in the dark will be heard in the daylight, and what you have whispered in the ear in private rooms will be shouted from the rooftops. [4] "I tell you, my friends, do not fear those who kill the body and after that can do nothing more. [5] I will point out to you whom you should fear: fear the one who, after killing, has the authority to throw into hell. Yes, I tell you, fear him. [6] Are not five sparrows sold for two assaria? Yet not one of them is forgotten in God's sight. [7] Why, even the hairs of your head have all been counted. Do not fear; you are worth more than many sparrows. [8] "I tell you, everyone who acknowledges me before people, the Son of Man too will acknowledge before the angels of God; [9] but whoever disowns me before people will be disowned before the angels of God. [10] Everyone who speaks a word against the Son of Man will be forgiven; but whoever blasphemes against the Holy Spirit will not be forgiven. [11] "When they bring you before the synagogues, the rulers, and the authorities, do not worry about how you will defend yourselves or what you will say; [12] for the Holy Spirit will teach you at that very hour what you must say." [13] Someone in the crowd said to him, "Teacher, tell my brother to share the inheritance with me." [14] But he said to him, "Man, who appointed me judge or divider over the two of you?" [15] Then he said to them, "Watch out, and guard yourselves against greed, because a person's life is not made up of the abundance of his possessions." [16] And he told them a parable: "A rich man's land yielded an abundant harvest. [17] He thought to himself, 'What am I to do? I have no place to store my crops.' [18] Then he said, 'Here is what I will do: I will tear down my barns and build bigger ones, and I will gather into them all my grain and my goods. [19] Then I will say to my soul, "Soul, you have plenty of goods stored away for many years. Relax; eat, drink, enjoy yourself."' [20] But God said to him, 'Foolish man! This very night your soul is being demanded from you; and the things you have made ready, whose will they be?' [21] That is how it is with one who stores up treasure for himself but is not rich toward God." [22] He said to his disciples, "For this reason I tell you, do not worry about your life, what you will eat, or about your body, what you will wear. [23] Life is more than food, and the body more than clothes. [24] Look at the ravens: they do not sow or reap, they have no storeroom or barn, yet God feeds them. How much more are you worth than the birds! [25] Which of you by worrying can add a single cubit to his stature? [26] So if you cannot do even something so small, why worry about the rest? [27] Look at the lilies and how they grow: they neither labor nor spin. Yet I tell you, not even Solomon in all his glory was dressed like one of them. [28] If God clothes in this way the grass that is in the field today and is thrown into the furnace tomorrow, how much more will he clothe you, you of little faith! [29] So do not be bent on what you will eat and what you will drink, and do not be in suspense. [30] For it is all these things that the nations of the world chase after, and your Father knows that you need them. [31] Rather, seek the kingdom of God, and all these things will be added to you. [32] "Stop being afraid, little flock, because your Father has chosen gladly to give you the kingdom. [33] Sell what you own and give alms. Make for yourselves purses that do not wear out, an unfailing treasure in the heavens, where no thief comes near and no moth ruins. [34] For where your treasure is, there your heart will be as well. [35] "Keep your belts fastened around your waists and your lamps burning. [36] Be like people waiting for their master to come back from the wedding feast, so that when he arrives and knocks they may open the door for him at once. [37] Blessed are those servants whom the master finds awake when he comes. Truly I say to you, he will fasten his belt, have them recline at the table, and come and wait on them. [38] Whether he comes in the second watch or in the third and finds them so, blessed are those servants. [39] But understand this: if the master of the house had known at what hour the thief was coming, he would have stayed awake and would not have let his house be broken into. [40] You too, then, be ready, because the Son of Man is coming at an hour you do not think he will." [41] Peter said to him, "Lord, are you telling this parable for us or for everyone?" [42] The Lord said, "Who, then, is the faithful and sensible steward whom the master will put in charge of his household staff, to give them their ration of grain at the proper time? [43] Blessed is that servant whom his master finds doing so when he comes. [44] I tell you in truth, he will put him in charge of all he owns. [45] But suppose that servant says to himself, 'My master is taking a long time to come,' and starts beating the menservants and maidservants, and eating and drinking and getting drunk; [46] the master of that servant will come on a day he does not expect and at an hour he does not know, and will cut him to pieces and assign him a place with the unfaithful. [47] That servant who knew his master's will but did not get ready or act according to it will receive many lashes. [48] But the one who did not know, and did things that deserve lashes, will receive few. From everyone who has been given much, much will be demanded; and from the one to whom much has been entrusted, they will ask all the more. [49] "I came to throw fire on the earth, and how I wish it were already ablaze![*] [50] I have a baptism to be baptized with, and how hard pressed I am until it is completed! [51] Do you think that I came to bring peace on earth? No, I tell you, but division instead. [52] From now on there will be five in one household divided, three against two and two against three. [53] They will be divided, father against son and son against father, mother against daughter and daughter against mother, mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law and daughter-in-law against mother-in-law." [54] He also said to the crowds, "When you see a cloud coming up in the west, you say at once, 'Rain is on the way,' and so it does. [55] And when a south wind blows, you say, 'It will be hot,' and it is. [56] Hypocrites! You know how to read the face of the sky and the earth; so how is it that you do not read this present time? [57] And why do you not decide for yourselves what is right? [58] When you are going with your opponent before a ruler, on the way do your best to settle with him, so that he does not drag you before the judge, and the judge hand you over to the officer, and the officer throw you into prison. [59] I tell you, you will never get out of there until you have paid back even the last lepton."

CHAPTER 13

[1] At that same time some people were there who reported to him about the Galileans whose blood Pilate had mixed with their sacrifices. [2] In reply he said to them, "Do you think these Galileans were greater sinners than all the rest of the Galileans because they suffered this? [3] Not at all, I tell you; but if you do not repent, you will all perish in the same way. [4] Or those eighteen who were killed when the tower in Siloam fell on them, do you think they were more guilty than all the others living in Jerusalem? [5] Not at all, I tell you; but if you do not repent, you will all perish in the same way." [6] And he told this parable: "A man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard. He came looking for fruit on it and found none. [7] So he said to the man who tended the vineyard, 'For three years now I have been coming to look for fruit on this fig tree, and I find none. Cut it down. Why should it waste the soil?' [8] But he answered, 'Sir, leave it alone one more year, until I dig around it and spread manure. [9] If it bears fruit, good; if not, after that you can cut it down.'" [10] He was teaching in one of the synagogues on the Sabbath, [11] and a woman was there who for eighteen years had had a spirit that kept her ill. She was bent double and could not stand up straight at all. [12] When Jesus saw her, he called out to her, "Woman, you have been released from your illness." [13] He laid his hands on her, and at once she stood up straight and began to glorify God. [14] But the synagogue leader, indignant that Jesus had healed on the Sabbath, said to the crowd, "There are six days on which one ought to work. Come on those days and be healed, not on the Sabbath day." [15] The Lord answered him, "You hypocrite! Does not each of you on the Sabbath untie his ox or his donkey from the stall and lead it out to drink? [16] And this woman, a daughter of Abraham whom Satan has kept tied up for eighteen long years, should she not be untied from this bond on the Sabbath day?" [17] As he said this, all his opponents were humiliated, and the whole crowd was delighted at all the glorious things being done by him. [18] Then he said, "What is the kingdom of God like? To what shall I liken it? [19] It is like a mustard seed that a man took and planted in his own garden. It grew and became a large tree, and the birds of the sky made their nests in its branches." [20] And once more he said, "To what shall I liken the kingdom of God? [21] It is like leaven that a woman took and mixed into three measures of flour until the whole batch had risen." [22] He was traveling through towns and villages, teaching as he made his way toward Jerusalem. [23] Someone asked him, "Lord, will only a few be saved?" He said to them, [24] "Struggle to get in through the narrow gate. For many, I tell you, will try to get in and will not be able, [25] once the master of the house has got up and locked the door. Then you will begin to stand outside and knock on the door, saying, 'Lord, Lord, open for us!' But he will answer you, 'I do not know you, where you come from.' [26] Then you will start saying, 'We ate and drank with you, and you taught in our streets.' [27] And he will say, 'I tell you, I do not know you, where you come from. Get away from me, all you who practice injustice!' [28] There will be weeping there and grinding of teeth when you see Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and all the prophets in the kingdom of God, while you yourselves are thrown outside. [29] People will come from east and west and from north and south and take their places at the table in the kingdom of God. [30] And indeed, some who are last will be first, and some who are first will be last." [31] That same day some Pharisees came to him and said, "Leave and go away from here, because Herod intends to kill you." [32] He said to them, "Go tell that fox, 'Look, I am driving out demons and healing people today and tomorrow, and on the third day I reach my goal.' [33] Even so, I must go on my way today and tomorrow and the next day, because it is unthinkable for a prophet to die anywhere but in Jerusalem. [34] "Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you who kill the prophets and stone those sent to you! How many times I longed to gather your children together the way a hen gathers her brood under her wings, but you were unwilling! [35] Look, your house is being left to you desolate. Truly I say to you, you will not see me until the time comes when you say, 'Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord!'"

CHAPTER 14

[1] One Sabbath, when he went to eat a meal in the house of one of the leading Pharisees, they were watching him carefully. [2] And right there in front of him was a man suffering from dropsy. [3] Jesus responded by asking the experts in the law and the Pharisees, "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath?" [4] But they said nothing. So he took hold of the man, healed him, and sent him on his way. [5] Then he said to them, "Which of you, if his donkey or his ox falls into a well, will not pull it out right away on the Sabbath day?" [6] And they had no answer to give to this. [7] He told a parable to the guests when he observed how they were picking out the places of honor: [8] "When someone invites you to a wedding feast, do not take the place of honor, in case someone more distinguished than you has been invited by him, [9] and the host who invited you both comes and tells you, 'Give this man your seat,' and then, embarrassed, you have to go and take the lowest place. [10] Instead, when you are invited, go and take the lowest place, so that when your host comes, he will say to you, 'Friend, move up higher.' Then you will be honored in front of those who are at the table with you. [11] For everyone who lifts himself up will be brought low, and the one who brings himself low will be lifted up." [12] He said also to the man who had invited him, "When you host a lunch or a dinner, do not invite your friends or your brothers or your relatives or wealthy neighbors; they might invite you back, and you would be repaid. [13] Instead, when you hold a banquet, invite the poor, the maimed, the lame, and the blind, [14] and you will be blessed, since they have nothing to repay you with. You will be repaid at the resurrection of the just." [15] Hearing this, one of those at the table with him said to him, "Blessed is the one who will eat bread in the kingdom of God!" [16] Jesus said to him, "A man was giving a great dinner and invited many guests. [17] At dinnertime he sent his servant to tell those who had been invited, 'Come, because everything is ready now.' [18] But one after another they all began to excuse themselves. The first told him, 'I have bought a field, and I need to go out and look at it. Please consider me excused.' [19] Another said, 'I have bought five pairs of oxen, and I am on my way to try them out. Please consider me excused.' [20] Another said, 'I have just married, and so I am unable to come.' [21] The servant came back and told his master these things. Then the master of the house became angry and said to his servant, 'Go out at once into the streets and alleys of the town and bring in here the poor, the maimed, the lame, and the blind.' [22] The servant said, 'Master, what you ordered has been done, and there is still room.' [23] So the master told the servant, 'Go out to the roads and the hedgerows and press people to come in, so that my house will be full. [24] For I tell you, not one of those men who were invited will taste my dinner.'" [25] Large crowds were traveling with him, and he turned and said to them, [26] "If anyone comes to me and does not hate his own father and mother, wife and children, brothers and sisters, and even his own life as well, he cannot be my disciple.* [27] Whoever does not carry his own cross and follow after me cannot be my disciple. [28] Suppose one of you wants to build a tower. Will he not first sit down and calculate the cost, to see whether he has enough to complete it? [29] Otherwise, after laying the foundation and being unable to finish, everyone who sees it will start making fun of him, [30] saying, 'This fellow started to build and could not finish.' [31] Or what king, setting out to fight against another king, will not first sit down and think it over, whether with ten thousand he can face the one marching against him with twenty thousand? [32] If he cannot, he sends envoys while the other is still far away and asks what the terms of peace are. [33] In the same way, then, none of you who does not say farewell to all his possessions can be my disciple. [34] "Salt is good; but if salt becomes tasteless, how will its saltiness be restored? [35] It is of no use either for the soil or for the manure heap; it gets thrown away. Whoever has ears to hear, let him hear."

CHAPTER 15

[1] All the tax collectors and sinners kept coming near to listen to him. [2] And the Pharisees and scribes were complaining, "This man welcomes sinners and eats with them." [3] So he told them this parable: [4] "Which one of you, if he has a hundred sheep and loses one of them, does not leave the ninety-nine in the open country and go after the lost one until he finds it? [5] When he finds it, he puts it on his shoulders, full of joy. [6] Back at home, he calls his friends and neighbors together and tells them, 'Celebrate with me, because I have found my lost sheep!' [7] In the same way, I tell you, there will be more joy in heaven over one sinner who repents than over ninety-nine righteous people who do not need repentance. [8] "Or what woman who has ten drachmas and loses one of them does not light a lamp, sweep the house, and search thoroughly until she finds it? [9] When she finds it, she calls her friends and neighbors together and says, 'Celebrate with me, because I have found the drachma I lost!' [10] In the same way, I tell you, there is joy before the angels of God over one sinner who repents." [11] He went on: "A man had two sons. [12] The younger of them said to his father, 'Father, give me the part of the estate that is coming to me.' So he divided his property between them. [13] A few days later the younger son packed up everything and set off for a distant country, and there he wasted his estate by living wildly. [14] After he had spent it all, a severe famine struck that country, and he began to go without. [15] So he went and hired himself out to one of the citizens of that country, who sent him to his fields to feed pigs. [16] He wanted to fill his belly with the pods the pigs were eating, but no one would give him any. [17] "Then he came to his senses and said, 'How many of my father's hired workers have more than enough bread, while here I am dying of hunger! [18] I will get up and go to my father and tell him, "Father, I have sinned against heaven and in your sight. [19] I am no longer worthy to be called your son; treat me as one of your hired workers."' [20] "So he got up and went to his father. But while he was still a long way off, his father saw him and was filled with compassion. He ran to him, threw his arms around his neck, and kissed him. [21] The son said to him, 'Father, I have sinned against heaven and in your sight; I am no longer worthy to be called your son.' [22] But the father said to his servants, 'Bring out the finest robe and dress him in it; put a ring on his finger and sandals on his feet. [23] Bring the fattened calf and slaughter it, and let us eat and celebrate, [24] because this son of mine was dead and has come back to life; he was lost and has been found.' And they began to celebrate. [25] "Meanwhile his older son was out in the field. As he came near the house, he heard music and dancing. [26] He called one of the servants over and asked what was going on. [27] He told him, 'Your brother has come, and your father has slaughtered the fattened calf, because he has got him back safe and well.' [28] But he became angry and refused to go in. So his father came out and kept urging him. [29] He answered his father, 'Look, all these years I have been slaving for you, and I never disobeyed an order of yours, yet you never gave me even a young goat so I could celebrate with my friends. [30] But when this son of yours came, who has eaten up your property with prostitutes, you slaughtered the fattened calf for him!' [31] His father said to him, 'Child, you are always with me, and everything I have is yours. [32] But we had to celebrate and rejoice, because this brother of yours was dead and has come back to life; he was lost and has been found.'"

CHAPTER 16

[1] He said also to his disciples, "There was a rich man who had a manager, and charges were brought to him that this man was squandering his property. [2] He called him in and said to him, 'What is this I hear about you? Turn in the accounts of your management, because you cannot be my manager any longer.' [3] The manager said to himself, 'What am I to do, now that my master is taking the management away from me? I am not strong enough to dig, and I would be ashamed to beg. [4] I know what I will do, so that when I am put out of the management, people will welcome me into their homes.' [5] So he called in each one of his master's debtors. He asked the first, 'How much do you owe my master?' [6] He said, 'A hundred baths of olive oil.' He told him, 'Here is your bill; sit down and write fifty, quickly.' [7] Then he asked another, 'And you, how much do you owe?' He said, 'A hundred cors of wheat.' He told him, 'Here is your bill; write eighty.' [8] And the master praised the dishonest manager for acting shrewdly; for the sons of this age are shrewder toward their own kind than the sons of light are. [9] And I say to you, use the mammon of unrighteousness to make friends for yourselves, so that when you fail, they may welcome you into the eternal dwellings.* [10] "Whoever is faithful in a very small matter is faithful in much as well, and whoever is dishonest in a very small matter is dishonest in much as well. [11] So if you have not proved faithful with unrighteous mammon, who will trust you with what is truly riches? [12] And if you have not proved faithful with what belongs to someone else, who will give you what is your own? [13] "No household servant can serve two masters; either he will hate one and love the other, or he will be devoted to one and look down on the other. You cannot serve God and mammon." [14] The Pharisees, who loved money, were listening to all this, and they sneered at him. [15] He said to them, "You are the ones who justify yourselves in front of people, but God knows your hearts. What people hold in high esteem is detestable in God's sight. [16] "The law and the prophets lasted until John; since then the good news of the kingdom of God is being proclaimed, and everyone forces his way into it.* [17] Yet it is easier for heaven and earth to disappear than for a single stroke of a letter in the law to drop out. [18] "Everyone who divorces his wife and marries another woman commits adultery, and everyone who marries a woman divorced from her husband commits adultery. [19] "There was a rich man who used to dress in purple and fine linen, living in splendor and enjoying himself every day. [20] And a poor man named Lazarus had been laid at his gate, covered with sores, [21] longing to satisfy his hunger with the scraps that fell from the rich man's table; and even the dogs would come and lick his sores. [22] The time came when the poor man died, and he was carried away by the angels to Abraham's bosom. The rich man died too and was buried. [23] In Hades, where he was in torment, he raised his eyes and saw Abraham far away, and Lazarus in his bosom. [24] He called out, 'Father Abraham, take pity on me and send Lazarus to dip the end of his finger in water and cool my tongue, because I am in agony in this flame.' [25] But Abraham said, 'Child, remember that during your life you received your good things, while Lazarus received bad things; now he is being comforted here, and you are in agony. [26] Besides all this, a great gulf has been set in place between us and you, so that those who might wish to cross from here to you cannot, nor can anyone cross from there to us.' [27] He said, 'Then I beg you, father, send him to my father's house, [28] for I have five brothers; let him warn them, so that they do not also end up in this place of torment.' [29] Abraham replied, 'They have Moses and the prophets; they should listen to them.' [30] He said, 'No, father Abraham, but if someone from the dead goes to them, they will repent.' [31] He told him, 'If they will not listen to Moses and the prophets, they will not be convinced even if someone rises from the dead.'"

CHAPTER 17

[1] He said to the disciples, "It cannot be that causes of stumbling will not come; but woe to the one through whom they come! [2] He would be better off having a millstone hung around his neck and being hurled into the sea than causing one of these little ones to stumble. [3] Watch yourselves. If your brother sins against you, rebuke him, and if he repents, forgive him. [4] Even if he sins against you seven times in a day and comes back to you seven times in a day saying, 'I repent,' you must forgive him." [5] The apostles said to the Lord, "Give us more faith." [6] The Lord said, "If you had faith the size of a mustard seed, you would say to this mulberry tree, 'Be uprooted and planted in the sea,' and it would do what you said. [7] "Which of you who has a servant out plowing or keeping sheep will tell him when he comes in from the field, 'Come right away and take your place at the table'? [8] Will he not tell him instead, 'Get my supper ready, put on your apron, and wait on me while I eat and drink; after that you can eat and drink'? [9] Does he owe thanks to the servant because he carried out his orders? I do not think so. [10] So it is with you: when you have done everything you were ordered to do, say, 'We are servants who deserve nothing; we have only done what we were obliged to do.'" [11] On the way to Jerusalem he was passing between Samaria and Galilee. [12] As he went into a village, ten leprous men met him. They stood some distance away [13] and raised their voices: "Jesus, Master, take pity on us!" [14] Seeing them, he said, "Go and show yourselves to the priests." And as they were going, they were made clean. [15] One of them, seeing that he had been healed, came back praising God in a loud voice. [16] He threw himself face down at Jesus' feet and thanked him; and he was a Samaritan. [17] Jesus responded, "Were not ten made clean? Where are the other nine? [18] Was no one found to come back and give glory to God except this foreigner?" [19] Then he said to him, "Get up and go on your way; your faith has made you well." [20] Asked by the Pharisees when the kingdom of God was coming, he answered them, "The kingdom of God is not coming in a way that can be watched for; [21] nor will people say, 'Here it is!' or 'There it is!' For in fact the kingdom of God is within you."* [22] To the disciples he said, "Days are coming when you will long to see one of the days of the Son of Man, and you will not see it. [23] People will tell you, 'Look, here!' or 'Look, there!' Do not go off or chase after them. [24] For just as the lightning flashes and lights up the sky from one end under heaven to the other, so will the Son of Man be in his day. [25] But first he has to suffer much and be rejected by this generation. [26] Just as it happened in the days of Noah, so will it be in the days of the Son of Man. [27] People were eating and drinking, marrying and being given in marriage, up to the day Noah went into the ark; then the flood came and destroyed them all. [28] It was the same in the days of Lot: people were eating and drinking, buying and selling, planting and building; [29] but on the day Lot left Sodom, fire and sulfur rained down from heaven and destroyed them all. [30] It will be just like that on the day the Son of Man is revealed. [31] "On that day, anyone who is on the roof, with his belongings in the house, must not go down to get them; and likewise anyone in the field must not turn back to what is behind. [32] Remember the wife of Lot. [33] Whoever tries to keep his life safe will lose it, and whoever loses it will keep it alive. [34] I tell you, on that night two people will be in one bed; one will be taken and the other left. [35] Two women will be grinding grain together; one will be taken and the other left. [36] Two men will be in the field; one will be taken and the other left."* [37] They asked him in reply, "Where, Lord?" He told them, "Where the body is, there the eagles will also flock together."

CHAPTER 18

[1] He told them a parable about their need to pray at all times and not give up. [2] He said, "In a certain town there was a judge who had no fear of God and no regard for people. [3] There was a widow in that town who kept coming to him and saying, 'Grant me justice against my opponent.' [4] For some time he refused; but later he said to himself, 'Even though I have no fear of God and no regard for people, [5] because this widow keeps bothering me, I will see that she gets justice, so that she does not wear me out by coming again and again.'" [6] And the Lord said, "Listen to what the unjust judge says. [7] Will not God, then, secure justice for his chosen ones, who cry to him day and night, even if he is patient with them? [8] I tell you, he will secure justice for them quickly. But when the Son of Man comes, will he really find faith on the earth?" [9] To some who were confident in themselves that they were righteous and who looked down on everyone else, he told this parable as well: [10] "Two men went up into the temple to pray; one was a Pharisee and the other a tax collector. [11] The Pharisee took his stand and prayed these things to himself: 'God, I thank you that I am not like other people—robbers, wrongdoers, adulterers—or even like this tax collector. [12] I fast two times each week; I give a tenth of everything I acquire.' [13] But the tax collector stood far off and would not even raise his eyes to heaven; instead he beat his breast and said, 'God, show mercy to me, the sinner!' [14] I tell you, this man, rather than the other, went down to his home justified. For everyone who lifts himself up will be brought low, and the one who brings himself low will be lifted up." [15] People were bringing even their babies to him so that he would touch them; but when the disciples saw this, they began to rebuke them. [16] But Jesus called the children to him and said, "Allow the little children to come to me, and do not hinder them, for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these. [17] Truly I say to you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God as a little child does will never get into it." [18] A certain ruler asked him, "Good Teacher, by doing what will I inherit eternal life?" [19] Jesus said to him, "Why do you call me good? No one is good but One: God. [20] You know the commandments: 'You shall not commit adultery; you shall not murder; you shall not steal; you shall not give false testimony; honor your father and your mother.'" [21] He said, "I have kept all of these since I was young." [22] On hearing this, Jesus said to him, "There is still one thing you lack. Sell everything you have and distribute it to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; then come, follow me." [23] But when he heard these words, he became deeply grieved, because he was extremely rich. [24] Seeing him so deeply grieved, Jesus said, "How difficult it is for those who have wealth to get into the kingdom of God! [25] It is easier for a camel to go in through a needle's eye than for a rich man to get into the kingdom of God." [26] Those listening said, "Then who is able to be saved?" [27] He said, "What is impossible for men is possible for God." [28] Peter said, "Look, we have left everything behind and followed you." [29] He told them, "Truly I say to you, no one has left home, or parents, or brothers, or wife, or children because of the kingdom of God [30] who will not receive back many times as much in this present time, and in the age that is coming, eternal life." [31] Taking the twelve aside, he told them, "Listen, we are going up to Jerusalem, and everything that has been written through the prophets about the Son of Man will be carried out. [32] He will be handed over to the Gentiles; he will be mocked, mistreated, and spat on; [33] they will flog him and put him to death, and on the third day he will rise." [34] Yet they understood none of this. The meaning of these words was concealed from them, and they did not grasp what was said. [35] As he came near Jericho, a blind man was sitting beside the road begging. [36] Hearing a crowd going by, he asked what was happening. [37] They told him, "Jesus of Nazareth is going by." [38] So he shouted, "Jesus, Son of David, take pity on me!" [39] Those walking in front sternly told him to be quiet, but he shouted even louder, "Son of David, take pity on me!" [40] Jesus stopped and ordered the man to be brought to him. When he came near, Jesus asked him, [41] "What do you want me to do for you?" He said, "Lord, let me see again." [42] Jesus said to him, "See again; your faith has made you well." [43] At once he could see, and he began following him, glorifying God. And all the people, seeing it, gave praise to God.

CHAPTER 19

[1] He entered Jericho and was going through the town. [2] There was a man there named Zacchaeus; he was a chief tax collector and a rich man. [3] He was trying to see who Jesus was, but because of the crowd he could not, since he was short. [4] So he ran ahead and climbed a sycamore-fig tree to see him, because Jesus was about to go by that way. [5] When Jesus reached the spot, he looked up, saw him, and said to him, "Zacchaeus, come down quickly, for today I must stay at your house." [6] He came down quickly and welcomed him with joy. [7] Everyone who saw it began to complain, "He has gone in to lodge with a sinful man." [8] But Zacchaeus stood there and said to the Lord, "Look, Lord, I am giving half of my possessions to the poor, and if I have cheated anyone out of anything, I am paying it back four times over." [9] Jesus said to him, "Today salvation has come to this household, because he too is a son of Abraham. [10] For the Son of Man came to look for and to save what was lost." [11] While they were listening to this, he went on to tell a parable, because he was near Jerusalem and they supposed that the kingdom of God was about to appear at once. [12] So he said, "A man of noble birth went to a distant country to receive royal power for himself and then come back. [13] He called ten of his servants, gave them ten minas, and told them, 'Put this to work until I come.' [14] But his citizens hated him and sent a delegation after him to say, 'We do not want this man to be king over us.' [15] When he came back after receiving the royal power, he had those servants to whom he had given the money called to him, to find out what each had gained in trade. [16] The first came in and said, 'Master, your mina has earned ten more minas.' [17] He said to him, 'Well done, good servant! Because you proved faithful in a very small matter, take charge of ten cities.' [18] The second came and said, 'Master, your mina has produced five minas.' [19] To this one too he said, 'And you are to be over five cities.' [20] Then another came and said, 'Master, look, here is your mina; I kept it stored away in a cloth. [21] I was afraid of you, because you are a harsh man: you take out what you did not put in, and you harvest what you did not sow.' [22] He said to him, 'By your own words I will judge you, you wicked servant! You knew, did you, that I am a harsh man, taking out what I did not put in and harvesting what I did not sow? [23] Then why did you not put my money on deposit, so that when I came back I could have collected it with interest?' [24] And he told those standing by, 'Take the mina away from him and give it to the one who has the ten minas.' [25] They said to him, 'Master, he already has ten minas!' [26] 'I tell you, to everyone who has, more will be given; but from the one who has not, even what he has will be taken away. [27] As for those enemies of mine who did not want me to be king over them, bring them here and execute them in front of me.'" [28] After saying these things, he went on ahead of them, making his way up to Jerusalem. [29] As he came near Bethphage and Bethany, by the hill called the Mount of Olives, he sent off two of his disciples, [30] telling them, "Go to the village ahead of you. As you go in, you will find a colt tied up that no one has ever ridden. Untie it and bring it. [31] If anyone asks you, 'Why are you untying it?' just say this: 'The Lord needs it.'" [32] Those who were sent went off and found things just as he had told them. [33] While they were untying the colt, its owners asked them, "Why are you untying the colt?" [34] They answered, "The Lord needs it." [35] They brought it to Jesus, threw their cloaks over the colt, and helped Jesus mount it. [36] As he rode along, people kept spreading their cloaks on the road. [37] As he was now approaching the way down from the Mount of Olives, the whole throng of disciples began joyfully to praise God with loud voices for all the miracles they had seen, [38] saying, "Blessed is the King who comes in the name of the Lord! Peace in heaven, and glory in the highest!" [39] Some of the Pharisees in the crowd said to him, "Teacher, rebuke your disciples!" [40] He answered, "I tell you, if these were to keep quiet, the stones would shout out." [41] As he came closer and saw the city, he wept over it, [42] saying, "If only you had recognized, you too, even on this day of yours, what would bring you peace! But now it is hidden from your sight. [43] For days will come upon you when your enemies will throw up an embankment against you, encircle you, and press on you from every side. [44] They will dash you to the ground, you and your children within you, and they will not leave one stone on another in you, because you did not recognize the time when you were visited." [45] He went into the temple and began driving out those who were selling and buying there, [46] telling them, "It is written: 'My house is a house of prayer'; but you have turned it into a hideout for robbers." [47] Day after day he was teaching in the temple. The chief priests, the scribes, and the leading men of the people were trying to put him to death, [48] but they could not find a way to do it, because all the people were clinging to his words.

CHAPTER 20

[1] One day, as he was teaching the people in the temple and announcing the gospel, the chief priests and the scribes came up to him along with the elders [2] and said to him, "Tell us, by what authority do you do these things? Or who gave you this authority?" [3] He answered them, "I too will ask you a question. Tell me: [4] John's baptism, did it come from heaven or from men?" [5] They talked it over among themselves: "If we say, 'From heaven,' he will say, 'Why did you not believe him?' [6] But if we say, 'From men,' the whole people will stone us, since they are convinced that John was a prophet." [7] So they replied that they did not know where it came from. [8] Jesus said to them, "Then neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things." [9] He began to tell the people this parable: "A man planted a vineyard, rented it out to tenant farmers, and went away to another country for a long time. [10] At harvest time he sent a servant to the tenants so they would give him his share of the vineyard's fruit. But the tenants beat him and sent him off with nothing. [11] He sent yet another servant; they beat that one too, treated him with contempt, and sent him off with nothing. [12] He sent a third as well; this one too they wounded and threw out. [13] The owner of the vineyard said, 'What am I to do? I will send my son, the beloved one; perhaps when they see him they will show him respect.' [14] But when the tenants saw him, they talked it over with one another: 'This is the heir. Come on, let us kill him, so that the inheritance will be ours.' [15] And they threw him out of the vineyard and killed him. So what will the owner of the vineyard do to them? [16] He will come and put those tenants to death and give the vineyard to others." When they heard this, they said, "Never may it be!" [17] But he looked straight at them and said, "Then what does this mean that is written: 'The stone the builders rejected has become the cornerstone'? [18] Everyone who falls on that stone will be shattered, and anyone on whom it falls will be crushed to dust." [19] At that very hour the chief priests and scribes tried to get their hands on him, but they were afraid of the people, because they realized he had told this parable against them. [20] They kept him under watch and sent spies who acted as if they were righteous men, to catch him in something he said, so as to hand him over to the jurisdiction and authority of the governor. [21] They put a question to him: "Teacher, we know that you speak and teach what is right and show no favoritism, but teach the way of God truthfully. [22] Is it lawful for us to pay tribute to Caesar, or not?" [23] But he saw through their cunning and said to them, "Why are you testing me? [24] Show me a denarius. Whose image and inscription are on it?" They answered, "Caesar's." [25] He said to them, "Then give back to Caesar what is Caesar's, and to God what is God's." [26] They were unable to catch him in his words in front of the people; amazed at his answer, they fell silent. [27] Some of the Sadducees, who say there is no resurrection, came up and questioned him: [28] "Teacher, Moses wrote for us that if a man's brother dies leaving a wife but no children, the man should marry the widow and raise up offspring for his brother. [29] Well, there were seven brothers. The first married a wife and died childless. [30] The second married the woman, and he too died childless. [31] Then the third married her, and so on with all seven; they left no children and died. [32] Finally the woman died too. [33] In the resurrection, then, whose wife will she be? For all seven had her as their wife." [34] Jesus answered them, "The people of this age marry and are given in marriage; [35] but those judged worthy to have a share in that age and in the resurrection from the dead neither marry nor are given in marriage. [36] Indeed, they can no longer die, for they are like the angels, and they are sons of God, being sons of the resurrection. [37] And that the dead are raised Moses himself made known in the passage about the bush, where he calls the Lord 'the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob.' [38] He is not God of the dead but of the living; for to him all are alive." [39] Some of the scribes responded, "Teacher, that was well said." [40] From then on they did not dare to ask him any more questions. [41] He said to them, "How can they say that the Christ is David's son? [42] And David himself says in the Book of Psalms: 'The Lord said to my Lord, "Sit at my right hand [43] until I make your enemies your footstool."' [44] So David calls him 'Lord'; how, then, is he his son?" [45] While all the people were listening, he said to his disciples, [46] "Watch out for the scribes, who like to go about in long robes and love to be greeted in the marketplaces and to have the front seats in the synagogues and the places of honor at banquets. [47] They eat up widows' houses and make long prayers for show. These will receive the heavier condemnation."

CHAPTER 21

[1] Looking up, he saw the rich dropping their gifts into the treasury. [2] He saw too a poor widow putting in two lepta there. [3] And he said, "Truly I say to you, this widow, poor as she is, has put in more than all of them. [4] For all these gave to the offerings for God out of their surplus, but she out of her need has put in all she had to live on." [5] As some were talking about the temple, how it was decorated with fine stones and votive gifts, he said, [6] "As for these things you are looking at, days will come when not one stone will be left on another that will not be torn down." [7] They asked him, "Teacher, when will these things happen, then? And what will be the sign that they are about to take place?" [8] He said, "Watch out that you are not led astray. Many will come in my name, saying, 'I am he,' and 'The time is near.' Do not go after them. [9] When you hear of wars and uprisings, do not be alarmed; these things have to happen first, but the end is not immediate." [10] Then he told them, "Nation will rise up against nation and kingdom against kingdom. [11] There will be great earthquakes, and in place after place famines and plagues; there will be fearful sights and great signs from heaven. [12] But before all this they will lay their hands on you and persecute you, handing you over to synagogues and prisons; you will be led before kings and governors because of my name. [13] It will end in an opportunity for you to bear witness. [14] So make up your minds not to rehearse your defense ahead of time; [15] for I myself will give you words and wisdom that none of your opponents will be able to resist or refute. [16] You will be handed over even by parents, brothers, relatives, and friends, and some of you they will put to death. [17] Everyone will hate you because of my name. [18] Yet not a hair of your head will be lost. [19] By your patient endurance win your souls. [20] "When you see Jerusalem encircled by armies, then recognize that her desolation is near. [21] Then those in Judea must flee to the mountains; those inside the city must get out, and those in the countryside must not go into it. [22] For these are days of vengeance, so that everything that has been written may be fulfilled. [23] Woe to women who are pregnant and to those nursing infants in those days! For there will be terrible distress on the land and wrath against this people. [24] They will fall by the edge of the sword and be carried off as captives among all nations, and Jerusalem will be trodden down by the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles are complete. [25] "There will be signs in sun, moon, and stars, and on the earth nations in anguish and bewilderment at the roar of the sea and the surging waves, [26] people fainting with fear and with dread of what is coming upon the world; for the powers of the heavens will be shaken. [27] Then they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory. [28] When these things start to take place, stand up straight and raise your heads, because your redemption is coming near." [29] He told them a parable: "See the fig tree, and all the trees. [30] As soon as they sprout leaves, you see for yourselves and know that summer is already close. [31] In the same way, when you see these things taking place, you know that the kingdom of God is close. [32] Truly I say to you, this generation will certainly not pass away until everything has taken place. [33] Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will never pass away. [34] "Be on guard, so that your hearts are not weighed down by dissipation, drunkenness, and the worries of life, and that day does not come upon you suddenly. [35] For like a trap it will come upon everyone who lives on the face of the whole earth. [36] So stay awake, praying at all times that you may be counted worthy to escape all these things that are going to happen and to stand before the Son of Man." [37] By day he was teaching in the temple, and every night he would go out and spend the night on the hill called the Mount of Olives. [38] And all the people would get up early to come to him in the temple and listen to him.

CHAPTER 22

[1] The Feast of Unleavened Bread, called the Passover, was approaching, [2] and the chief priests and scribes were looking for a way to do away with him, because they were afraid of the people. [3] Satan went into Judas, called Iscariot, who was one of the twelve. [4] He went off and discussed with the chief priests and the officers how he could hand him over to them. [5] They were delighted and agreed to give him money. [6] He accepted, and began looking for a good opportunity to hand him over to them when no crowd was around. [7] The day of Unleavened Bread came, when the Passover lamb had to be sacrificed. [8] Jesus sent Peter and John, telling them, "Go and get the Passover ready for us to eat." [9] They asked him, "Where do you want us to get it ready?" [10] He told them, "Listen: as you go into the city, a man carrying a jar of water will meet you. Follow him into the house he goes into, [11] and say to the owner of the house, 'The Teacher asks you, "Where is the guest room where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?"' [12] He will show you a large upstairs room, already furnished. Get things ready there." [13] They went and found everything as he had told them, and they got the Passover ready. [14] When the hour came, he took his place at the table, and the twelve apostles with him. [15] He said to them, "I have longed with great longing to eat this Passover with you before I suffer. [16] For I tell you, I will not eat it again until it is fulfilled in the kingdom of God." [17] And taking a cup, he gave thanks and said, "Take this and share it among yourselves. [18] For I tell you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine until the kingdom of God comes." [19] And taking bread, he gave thanks, broke it, and gave it to them, saying, "This is my body, given for you. Do this in remembrance of me." [20] In the same way, after the supper, he took the cup, saying, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood, poured out for you. [21] Yet look, the hand of the one who is betraying me is with me on the table. [22] The Son of Man indeed goes as it has been decreed; but woe to that man through whom he is betrayed!" [23] They began to ask one another which of them it could be who was going to do this. [24] A quarrel also arose among them over which of them was to be regarded as the greatest. [25] He said to them, "The kings of the Gentiles lord it over them, and those in authority over them are called benefactors. [26] But not so with you. Instead, the greatest among you must become like the youngest, and the one who leads like the one who serves. [27] Who is greater, the one at the table or the one who serves? Is it not the one at the table? But I am among you as one who serves. [28] "You are the ones who have stood by me in my trials; [29] and I confer on you a kingdom, just as my Father conferred one on me, [30] so that you may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom and sit on thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel." [31] The Lord said, "Simon, Simon, look: Satan has asked to have all of you, to sift you like wheat. [32] But I have prayed for you, that your faith may not give out. And you, once you have turned back, strengthen your brothers." [33] He said to him, "Lord, with you I am ready to go both to prison and to death." [34] But Jesus said, "I tell you, Peter, the rooster will not crow today before you deny three times that you know me."[*] [35] And he said to them, "When I sent you out with no money bag, pack, or sandals, did you lack anything?" "Nothing," they said. [36] He said to them, "But now whoever has a money bag should take it, and a pack as well; and whoever has no sword should sell his cloak and buy one. [37] For I tell you, what is written must yet be fulfilled in me: 'And he was counted among the lawless.' Indeed, what concerns me is reaching its end." [38] They said, "Lord, see, here are two swords." He told them, "That is enough." [39] He went out and made his way, as he usually did, to the Mount of Olives, and his disciples followed him too. [40] When he reached the place, he told them, "Pray that you do not come into temptation." [41] He himself went off from them about a stone's throw, knelt down, and began to pray, [42] "Father, if you are willing, take this cup away from me; yet let not my will but yours be done." [43] An angel from heaven appeared to him and gave him strength. [44] And in his anguish he prayed more intensely, and his sweat became like thick drops of blood falling to the ground. [45] Getting up from prayer, he came to his disciples and found them asleep, worn out with grief. [46] He said to them, "Why are you sleeping? Get up and pray, so that you do not come into temptation." [47] While he was still speaking, a crowd appeared, and the one called Judas, one of the twelve, was leading them. He came up to Jesus to kiss him. [48] Jesus said to him, "Judas, is it with a kiss that you betray the Son of Man?" [49] When those around him saw what was about to happen, they said, "Lord, should we strike with the sword?" [50] And one of them struck the high priest's servant and cut his right ear off. [51] But Jesus responded, "Let it go this far." And he touched the man's ear and healed him. [52] Then Jesus said to the chief priests, the officers of the temple guard, and the elders who had come out against him, "Have you come out with swords and clubs as if against a bandit? [53] Day after day I was with you in the temple, and you did not lift a hand against me. But this is your hour, and the authority of darkness." [54] They arrested him, led him off, and took him into the house of the high priest. Peter was following at a distance. [55] When they had lit a fire in the middle of the courtyard and sat down together, Peter sat down among them. [56] A servant girl saw him sitting in the firelight, stared at him, and said, "This man was with him too." [57] But he denied him: "Woman, I do not know him." [58] A little later someone else saw him and said, "You are one of them too." But Peter said, "Man, I am not." [59] About an hour later another man insisted, "Certainly this fellow was with him, for he is a Galilean too." [60] But Peter said, "Man, I do not know what you are talking about." At that moment, while he was still speaking, a rooster crowed. [61] The Lord turned and looked straight at Peter, and Peter remembered the Lord's word, how he had told him, "Before the rooster crows, you will deny me three times." [62] And he went outside and wept bitterly. [63] The men who were holding Jesus were mocking him and beating him. [64] They blindfolded him, kept hitting him in the face, and asked him, "Prophesy! Who is the one who hit you?" [65] And they said many other insulting things to him. [66] When day came, the council of the elders of the people met, chief priests and scribes alike, and they led him away to their Sanhedrin, saying, [67] "If you are the Christ, tell us." He said to them, "If I tell you, you will not believe at all; [68] and if I ask you a question, you will not answer me at all, or release me. [69] From now on the Son of Man will be seated at the right hand of the power of God." [70] They all said, "So you are the Son of God?" He answered them, "You are saying that I am." [71] Then they said, "Why do we need any more testimony? We have heard it ourselves from his own lips."

CHAPTER 23

[1] Then the whole assembly of them got up and brought him before Pilate. [2] They began to bring charges against him: "We found this man leading our nation astray, forbidding people to pay tribute to Caesar, and claiming that he himself is Christ, a king." [3] Pilate questioned him: "Are you the King of the Jews?" He answered him, "It is as you say." [4] Pilate said to the chief priests and the crowds, "I find no ground for a charge against this man." [5] But they kept insisting all the more: "He is stirring up the people, teaching all over Judea, starting from Galilee and right up to here." [6] When Pilate heard the word Galilee, he asked whether the man was a Galilean. [7] On learning that he came under Herod's authority, he sent him over to Herod, who was himself in Jerusalem at that time. [8] Herod was very pleased to see Jesus. He had been wanting to see him for a long time, because he had heard a great deal about him, and he was hoping to see some sign performed by him. [9] He put many questions to him, but Jesus gave him no answer at all. [10] Meanwhile the chief priests and scribes stood by, accusing him fiercely. [11] Herod and his troops treated him with scorn and ridiculed him; then he dressed him in a splendid robe and sent him back to Pilate. [12] On that same day Herod and Pilate became friends, though before this they had been enemies. [13] Pilate called together the chief priests, the leaders, and the people, [14] and said to them, "You brought this man to me as one who turns the people away. Now look, I have examined him in front of you and have found in this man no basis for the charges you bring against him. [15] Neither has Herod, for I sent you back to him; and you see, he has done nothing that deserves death. [16] So I will have him flogged and let him go." [17] (He was obliged to release one prisoner to them at the feast.) [18] But they all shouted out together, "Do away with this man! Release Barabbas to us!" [19] Barabbas had been put in prison for a riot that had taken place in the city, and for murder. [20] Wanting to set Jesus free, Pilate called out to them once more. [21] But they kept yelling, "Crucify, crucify him!" [22] A third time he said to them, "Why? What wrong has he done? I have found no ground for the death penalty in him. So I will have him flogged and let him go." [23] But they kept pressing with loud shouts, demanding that he be crucified, and their shouts and those of the chief priests won out. [24] So Pilate decided that their demand should be granted. [25] He released the man they were asking for, who had been thrown into prison for riot and murder; but Jesus he handed over to their will. [26] As they led him off, they seized a man, Simon of Cyrene, who was coming in from the countryside, and put the cross on him to carry behind Jesus. [27] A great number of people followed him, including women who were beating their breasts and wailing for him. [28] Jesus turned to them and said, "Daughters of Jerusalem, stop weeping for me; weep instead for yourselves and for your children. [29] For look, days are coming when people will say, 'Blessed are the barren, the wombs that never gave birth, and the breasts that never fed a child!' [30] Then they will start saying to the mountains, 'Fall on us,' and to the hills, 'Cover us.' [31] For if they do these things when the wood is green, what will happen when it is dry?" [32] Two others as well, who were criminals, were being led away with him to be executed. [33] When they reached the place called The Skull, they crucified him there, along with the criminals, one on his right and the other on his left.* [34] Jesus was saying, "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing." And they divided up his clothes by casting lots. [35] The people stood there watching. Even the leaders joined them in scoffing: "He saved others; let him save himself, if this is the Christ, God's chosen one." [36] The soldiers too made fun of him; they came up and offered him sour wine [37] and said, "If you are the King of the Jews, save yourself!" [38] There was also an inscription above him, written in Greek, Latin, and Hebrew letters: THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS. [39] One of the criminals hanging there kept insulting him: "If you are the Christ, save yourself and us!" [40] But the other answered with a rebuke: "Do you not fear God at all, when you are under the same sentence? [41] For us it is just, because we are getting what our deeds deserve; but this man has done nothing out of place." [42] And he said to Jesus, "Remember me, Lord, when you come in your kingdom." [43] Jesus said to him, "Truly I say to you, today you will be with me in Paradise." [44] It was by now about the sixth hour, and darkness came over the whole land until the ninth hour. [45] The sun was darkened, and the curtain of the temple was split down the middle. [46] Calling out with a loud voice, Jesus said, "Father, into your hands I commit my spirit." With these words he breathed his last. [47] When the centurion saw what had taken place, he gave glory to God and said, "Surely this man was righteous." [48] All the crowds who had gathered for this spectacle, when they saw what had happened, went home beating their breasts. [49] But all who knew him, including the women who had followed him from Galilee, stood far off and watched these things. [50] There was a man named Joseph, a member of the council, a good and just man, [51] who had not agreed with their plan and action. He came from Arimathea, a Jewish town, and he too was waiting for the kingdom of God. [52] He went to Pilate and asked for Jesus' body. [53] He took it down, wrapped it in a linen cloth, and placed it in a tomb cut into the rock, in which no one had yet been laid. [54] It was the day of Preparation, and the Sabbath was about to begin. [55] The women who had come with him from Galilee followed along and saw the tomb and how his body was placed. [56] Then they went back and prepared spices and perfumes. On the Sabbath they rested, as the commandment required.

CHAPTER 24

[1] On the first day of the week, at early dawn, they came to the tomb carrying the spices they had prepared, and some other women with them. [2] They found the stone rolled back from the tomb, [3] and when they went in, they did not find the body of the Lord Jesus. [4] While they were at a loss over this, suddenly two men in gleaming clothes stood beside them. [5] The women were terrified and bowed their faces to the ground, but the men said to them, "Why are you looking for the living one among the dead? [6] He is not here; he has been raised. Remember what he told you while he was still in Galilee: [7] that the Son of Man must be handed over into the hands of sinful men, be crucified, and rise on the third day." [8] Then they remembered his words, [9] and returning from the tomb, they reported all these things to the eleven and to all the others. [10] The ones who told these things to the apostles were Mary Magdalene, Joanna, Mary the mother of James, and the other women with them. [11] But their report looked to them like idle talk, and they would not believe the women. [12] Peter, however, got up and ran to the tomb. Bending down, he saw the linen strips lying there by themselves, and he went away wondering to himself at what had happened. [13] That very day two of them were on their way to a village named Emmaus, sixty stadia from Jerusalem. [14] They were talking with each other about everything that had taken place. [15] As they talked and discussed, Jesus himself came up and began walking along with them, [16] but their eyes were kept from recognizing him. [17] He said to them, "What are these things you are discussing with each other as you walk along, looking so downcast?" [18] One of them, named Cleopas, answered him, "Are you the only visitor in Jerusalem who does not know what has happened there in these days?" [19] He asked them, "What things?" They said to him, "The things about Jesus of Nazareth, who was a prophet, powerful in action and speech before God and all the people, [20] and how our chief priests and leaders handed him over to be sentenced to death, and crucified him. [21] We had been hoping that he was the one who would redeem Israel. And besides all this, it is now the third day since these things took place. [22] What is more, some women from our group amazed us. They went to the tomb early, [23] did not find his body, and came back saying they had even seen a vision of angels, who said he was alive. [24] Some of those with us went off to the tomb and found it just as the women had said; but him they did not see." [25] Then he said to them, "How dull you are, and how slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken! [26] Did not the Christ have to suffer these things and enter into his glory?" [27] Then, starting from Moses and from all the prophets, he explained to them what was said about himself in all the Scriptures. [28] As they came near the village they were heading for, he made as if to go on farther. [29] But they pressed him: "Stay with us, because it is getting toward evening and the day is almost over." So he went in to stay with them. [30] When he was at the table with them, he took the bread, blessed it, broke it, and handed it to them. [31] Then their eyes were opened, and they recognized him; and he disappeared from their sight. [32] They said to each other, "Were not our hearts burning within us as he talked with us on the road and opened up the Scriptures to us?" [33] They got up at that very hour and went back to Jerusalem, where they found the eleven and their companions gathered together, [34] who were saying, "The Lord has really risen and has appeared to Simon!" [35] Then the two told what had happened on the road and how he had been recognized by them in the breaking of the bread. [36] While they were still talking about this, Jesus himself stood among them and said to them, "Peace to you." [37] Startled and terrified, they thought they were seeing a spirit. [38] He said to them, "Why are you shaken, and why are doubts rising in your hearts? [39] Look at my hands and my feet: it is I, myself. Touch me and see; a spirit does not have flesh and bones, as you can see that I have." [40] After saying this, he showed them his hands and his feet. [41] While in their joy they were still unable to believe and were amazed, he asked them, "Do you have anything to eat here?" [42] They gave him a piece of broiled fish and some of a honeycomb, [43] and he took it and ate it in front of them. [44] He said to them, "This is what I told you while I was still with you: everything written about me in the law of Moses, in the prophets, and in the Psalms had to be fulfilled." [45] Then he opened their minds to understand the Scriptures. [46] He told them, "So it is written, and so the Christ had to suffer and rise from the dead on the third day, [47] and repentance and forgiveness of sins had to be proclaimed in his name to all the nations, starting from Jerusalem. [48] You are witnesses of these things. [49] And look, I am sending what my Father promised upon you; but remain in the city of Jerusalem until you are clothed with power from on high." [50] He led them out as far as Bethany, and raising his hands, he blessed them. [51] While he was blessing them, he parted from them and was taken up into heaven. [52] They worshiped him and went back to Jerusalem full of joy, [53] and they were in the temple constantly, praising and blessing God. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. [2] This one was with God in the beginning. [3] Through him all things came to be, and apart from him not a single thing came to be of what has come to be. [4] In him was life, and that life was the light of mankind. [5] The light is shining in the darkness, and the darkness has not overcome it. [*] [6] A man appeared, sent from God; his name was John. [7] This man came for a testimony, to testify concerning the light, so that through him all might believe. [8] He himself was not the light; he came to testify concerning the light. [9] That was the true light, which enlightens every man coming into the world. [10] He was in the world, and through him the world came to be, yet the world did not recognize him. [11] He came to what was his own, and his own people did not welcome him. [12] But to all who did receive him, who believe in his name, he gave the right to become children of God: [13] those born not of bloodlines, nor of fleshly desire, nor of the will of man, but of God. [14] And the Word became flesh and pitched his tent among us, and we gazed on his glory, glory such as belongs to the only begotten from the Father, full of grace and truth. [15] John testifies about him; he cried out, "This was the one I spoke of: 'The one coming after me ranks ahead of me, because he existed before me.'" [16] From his fullness all of us have received, grace upon grace. [17] For the law was given by way of Moses; grace and truth came by way of Jesus Christ. [18] No one has seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, who is in the bosom of the Father, he has made him known. [19] This is John's testimony, when the Jews from Jerusalem sent priests and Levites to ask him, "Who are you?" [20] He openly declared, and did not deny it; he declared, "I am not the Christ." [21] They asked him, "Then what? Are you Elijah?" He said, "I am not." "Are you the Prophet?" He answered, "No." [22] So they said to him, "Who are you? We have to give an answer to those who sent us. What do you say about yourself?" [23] He said, "I am a voice of one calling out in the wilderness, 'Make the way of the Lord straight,' just as Isaiah the prophet said." [24] Now the men who had been sent were from among the Pharisees. [25] They questioned him further: "Why are you baptizing, then, if you are not the Christ, or Elijah, or the Prophet?" [26] John answered them, "I baptize with water; but standing among you is one you do not know. [27] He it is who comes after me and ranks ahead of me, whose sandal strap I am not fit to loosen." [28] This took place in Bethabara across the Jordan, where John was baptizing. [29] The following day John saw Jesus coming toward him and said, "Look, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world! [30] This is the one I meant when I said, 'After me comes a man who ranks ahead of me, because he existed before me.' [31] I did not know him myself; but I came baptizing with water so that he might be made known to Israel." [32] John testified further: "I have watched the Spirit come down from heaven like a dove, and it stayed on him. [33] I did not know him myself, but the one who sent me to baptize with water told me, 'The one on whom you see the Spirit coming down and staying, he is the one who baptizes with the Holy Spirit.' [34] I have seen it, and I have testified that this is the Son of God." [35] The following day John was standing there again with two of his disciples. [36] He looked at Jesus as he walked by and said, "Look, the Lamb of God!" [37] The two disciples heard what he said and went after Jesus. [38] Jesus turned around, saw them following, and asked them, "What are you looking for?" They said to him, "Rabbi" (which means, when translated, Teacher), "where are you lodging?" [39] He told them, "Come and see." So they came and saw where he was lodging, and they spent that day with him. It was about the tenth hour. [40] Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, was one of the two who had heard John speak and had followed Jesus. [41] The first thing he did was to find his brother Simon and tell him, "We have found the Messiah" (which, translated, is Christ). [42] He brought him to Jesus. Jesus looked at him intently and said, "You are Simon, son of Jonah. You will be called Cephas" (which, translated, is Peter). [43] On the following day Jesus decided to set out for Galilee. He found Philip and told him, "Follow me." [44] Philip came from Bethsaida, the hometown of Andrew and Peter. [45] Philip found Nathanael and told him, "The one Moses wrote about in the law, and the prophets as well, we have found: Jesus, son of Joseph, from Nazareth." [46] Nathanael said to him, "From Nazareth can anything good come?" Philip told him, "Come and see." [47] Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him and said about him, "Look, here is a true Israelite, in whom there is nothing false!" [48] Nathanael asked him, "Where do you know me from?" Jesus answered him, "Before Philip called you, while you were under the fig tree, I saw you." [49] Nathanael answered him, "Rabbi, you are the Son of God; you are the King of Israel!" [50] Jesus responded, "Do you believe because I told you I saw you under the fig tree? You will see greater things than that." [51] Then he said to him, "Truly, truly, I say to you, from now on you will see heaven standing open and the angels of God going up and coming down on the Son of Man."

[1] On the third day a wedding took place at Cana in Galilee, and Jesus' mother was there. [2] Jesus and his disciples had also been invited to the wedding. [3] When the wine gave out, Jesus' mother said to him, "They have no wine." [4] Jesus said to her, "Woman, what does this have to do with me and with you? My hour has not come yet." [5] His mother told the servants, "Do whatever he tells you." [6] Six stone water jars stood there for the purification rites of the Jews, each one holding two or three measures. [7] Jesus told them, "Fill the jars with water." So they filled them to the top. [8] Then he told them, "Now draw some out and carry it to the headwaiter." And they carried it. [9] The headwaiter tasted the water, now turned into wine, without knowing where it had come from, though the servants who had drawn the water knew. Then the headwaiter called the bridegroom [10] and said to him, "Everyone serves the good wine first, and the poorer wine after the guests have drunk freely; but you have saved the good wine until now." [11] This, the first of his signs, Jesus did at Cana in Galilee; he displayed his glory, and his disciples believed in him. [12] After this he went down to Capernaum with his mother, his brothers, and his disciples, and they remained there only a few days. [13] The Passover of the Jews was near, so Jesus went up to Jerusalem. [14] In the temple he found people selling cattle, sheep, and doves, and money changers seated at their tables. [15] He made a whip of cords and drove them all out of the temple, sheep and cattle alike; he scattered the money changers' coins and knocked their tables over. [16] To those selling doves he said, "Get these out of here! Stop turning my Father's house into a marketplace!" [17] His disciples recalled that it is written, "Zeal for your house has consumed me." [18] The Jews responded by asking him, "What sign can you show us for doing these things?" [19] Jesus answered them, "Tear down this temple, and in three days I will raise it up." [20] The Jews then said, "This temple took forty-six years to build, and you will raise it up in three days?" [21] But the temple he meant was his body. [22] So after he was raised from the dead, his disciples recalled that he had said this, and they believed the Scripture and the word Jesus had spoken. [23] While he was in Jerusalem at the Passover feast, many put their faith in his name, seeing the signs he was doing. [24] But Jesus would not entrust himself to them, since he knew everyone; [25] he did not need anyone to testify about man, for he himself knew what was in man.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Among the Pharisees there was a man named Nicodemus, a leader of the Jews. [2] He came to Jesus at night and said to him, "Rabbi, we know you are a teacher who has come from God; for no one could do the signs you are doing unless God were with him." [3] Jesus answered him, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless someone is born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." [4] Nicodemus said to him, "How can anyone be born when he is old? He cannot go back into his mother's womb a second time and be born, can he?" [5] Jesus answered, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless someone is born of water and Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. [6] What is born of the flesh is flesh, and what is born of the Spirit is spirit. [7] Do not be amazed that I told you, 'You must be born again.' [8] The wind blows wherever it pleases; you hear the sound of it, but you do not know where it comes from or where it is going. That is how it is with everyone born of the Spirit."[] [9] Nicodemus replied, "How can these things happen?" [10] Jesus answered him, "You are the teacher of Israel, and you do not know these things? [11] Truly, truly, I say to you, we speak of what we know and testify to what we have seen, and yet you people do not accept our testimony. [12] If I have told you earthly things and you do not believe, how will you believe if I tell you heavenly ones? [13] No one has gone up into heaven except the one who came down from heaven, the Son of Man, who is in heaven. [14] Just as Moses lifted up the serpent in the desert, so the Son of Man has to be lifted up, [15] so that everyone who believes in him may not perish but may have eternal life. [16] For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, so that everyone who believes in him may not perish but have eternal life. [17] God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but so that the world might be saved through him. [18] The one who believes in him is not condemned; the one who does not believe has already been condemned, because he has not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. [19] And this is the condemnation: the light has come into the world, and people loved the darkness more than the light, because what they did was evil. [20] For everyone who practices wickedness hates the light and does not come to the light, so that his deeds will not be exposed. [21] But the one who does the truth comes to the light, so that it may be made plain that his deeds have been done in God." [22] After this Jesus went with his disciples into the Judean countryside, and he spent time with them there and was baptizing. [23] John too was baptizing, at Aenon near Salim, because water was plentiful there; and people kept coming and were baptized. [24] John had not yet been put in prison. [25] A dispute about purification broke out between some of John's disciples and the Jews. [26] They came to John and told him, "Rabbi, the man who was with you across the Jordan, the one you testified about, look, he is baptizing, and everyone is going to him." [27] John answered, "A person cannot receive even one thing unless it has been given to him from heaven. [28] You yourselves can testify that I said, 'I am not the Christ; rather, I have been sent ahead of him.' [29] The bride belongs to the bridegroom. The bridegroom's friend, who stands by and listens for him, is overjoyed at the bridegroom's voice. So this joy of mine is now complete. [30] He must grow greater, and I must grow less. [31] The one who comes from above is above all. The one who is from the earth belongs to the earth and speaks as one from the earth. The one who comes from heaven is above all. [32] He testifies to what he has seen and heard, and yet no one accepts his testimony. [33] The one who has accepted his testimony has put his seal on this: God is true. [34] For the one whom God sent speaks God's words, since God does not give the Spirit in limited measure. [35] The Father loves the Son and has put everything into his hands. [36] The one who believes in the Son has eternal life; the one who refuses to obey the Son will not see life, but God's wrath remains on him."

CHAPTER 4

[1] When the Lord learned that the Pharisees had been told that Jesus was making and baptizing more disciples than John [2] (though it was not Jesus himself who baptized, but his disciples), [3] he left Judea and set off once more for Galilee. [4] His route had to take him through Samaria. [5] So he came to a Samaritan town called Sychar, close to the plot of land Jacob had given to his son Joseph. [6] Jacob's well was there, and Jesus, tired out from the journey, sat down just as he was beside the well. It was about the sixth hour. [7] A Samaritan woman came to draw water, and Jesus said to her, "Give me something to drink." [8] His disciples had gone off into the town to buy food. [9] The Samaritan woman said to him, "How is it that you, a Jew, ask me, a Samaritan woman, for a drink?" For Jews do not associate with Samaritans. [10] Jesus answered her, "If you knew God's gift, and who it is that is saying to you, 'Give me something to drink,' you would have asked him, and he would have given you living water." [11] The woman said to him, "Sir, you have no bucket, and the well is deep. So where do you get this living water? [12] You are not greater than our father Jacob, are you? He gave us the well and drank from it himself, along with his sons and his flocks." [13] Jesus answered her, "Everyone who drinks this water will be thirsty again; [14] but whoever drinks the water I will give him will never be thirsty again, ever. The water I will give him will become within him a spring of water welling up to eternal life." [15] The woman said to him, "Sir, give me this water, so that I will not get thirsty or have to keep coming here to draw water." [16] Jesus told her, "Go and call your husband, and come back here." [17] The woman answered, "I do not have a husband." Jesus said to her, "You are right to say, 'I do not have a husband'; [18] you have had five husbands, and the man you have now is not your husband. What you have said is the truth." [19] The woman said to him, "Sir, I can see that you are a prophet. [20] Our fathers worshiped on this mountain, but you people say that the place where one must worship is in Jerusalem." [21] Jesus said to her, "Believe me, woman, an hour is coming when you will worship the Father neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem. [22] You worship what you do not know; we worship what we know, because salvation comes from the Jews. [23] But an hour is coming, and is here now, when the true worshipers will worship the Father in spirit and truth; for such are the worshipers the Father is looking for. [24] God is Spirit, and those who worship him have to worship in spirit and truth." [25] The woman said to him, "I know that Messiah is coming, the one called Christ. When he comes, he will explain everything to us." [26] Jesus said to her, "I am he, the one speaking to you." [27] At this point his disciples came back, and they were surprised that he was talking with a woman. Yet none of them asked, "What do you want?" or "Why are you talking with her?" [28] Then the woman left her water jar, went off into the town, and said to the people, [29] "Come and see a man who told me everything I ever did! Could he be the Christ?" [30] They left the town and began making their way to him. [31] In the meantime the disciples kept urging him, "Rabbi, eat something." [32] But he told them, "I have food to eat that you know nothing about." [33] So the disciples began asking one another, "No one has brought him anything to eat, have they?" [34] Jesus told them, "My food is to do the will of the one who sent me and to bring his work to completion. [35] Do you not say, 'Four months more, and then the harvest comes'? Look, I tell you, raise your eyes and see the fields: they are already white for harvest. [36] The reaper is receiving his pay and gathering a crop for eternal life, so that sower and reaper may rejoice together. [37] For here the saying holds true: 'One sows, another reaps.' [38] I sent you to reap what you have not worked for. Others have done the hard work, and you have come in on their labor." [39] Many Samaritans from that town believed in him because of the woman's word when she testified, "He told me everything I ever did." [40] So when the Samaritans came to him, they kept asking him to stay with them, and he stayed there two days. [41] And because of his word many more came to believe. [42] They told the woman, "We no longer believe just because of what you said; we have heard for ourselves, and we know that this man really is the Savior of the world, the Christ." [43] After the two days he left there and went on to Galilee. [44] For Jesus himself had testified that a prophet is not honored in his own homeland. [45] So when he reached Galilee, the Galileans received him, because they had seen everything he had done in Jerusalem during the feast; they themselves had gone to the feast too. [46] So he came once more to Cana in Galilee, where he had turned the water into wine. There was a royal official whose son lay sick in Capernaum. [47] When he heard that Jesus had come from Judea to Galilee, he went to him and begged him to come down and heal his son, who was at the point of death. [48] Jesus said to him, "Unless you people see signs and wonders, you will never believe." [49] The official said to him, "Sir, come down before my little boy dies." [50] Jesus told him, "Go; your son is alive." The man believed what Jesus said to him and set off. [51] While he was still on his way down, his servants met him with the news: "Your boy is alive!" [52] So he asked them at what hour he had begun to recover, and they told him, "The fever left him yesterday at the seventh hour." [53] The father realized that this was the very hour when Jesus had told him, "Your son is alive." And he and his whole household believed. [54] This was now the second sign Jesus performed after coming from Judea to Galilee.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Some time later there was a feast of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. [2] In Jerusalem, near the Sheep Gate, there is a pool which in Hebrew is called Bethesda, with five covered colonnades. [3] In these lay a great number of sick people—blind, lame, and paralyzed—waiting for the water to move. [4] For from time to time an angel would go down into the pool and stir up the water; then whoever stepped in first after the stirring of the water was cured of whatever disease afflicted him. [5] One man there had been ill for thirty-eight years. [6] When Jesus saw him lying there and learned that he had been in this condition a long time, he asked him, "Do you want to get well?" [7] The sick man answered him, "Sir, I have no one to put me into the pool when the water is stirred up; and while I am on my way, someone else goes down ahead of me." [8] Jesus told him, "Get up, pick up your mat, and walk." [9] At once the man became well; he picked up his mat and began to walk. That day was a Sabbath. [10] So the Jews said to the man who had been cured, "It is the Sabbath, and you are not permitted to carry your mat." [11] He replied, "The man who made me well is the one who told me, 'Pick up your mat and walk.'" [12] They asked him, "Who is the man who told you, 'Pick up your mat and walk'?" [13] But the man who had been healed did not know who it was, for Jesus had slipped off, since there was a crowd at the place. [14] Later Jesus found him in the temple and told him, "Look, you have become well. Do not sin any longer, so that something worse does not happen to you." [15] The man went off and informed the Jews that it was Jesus who had made him well. [16] That is why the Jews began persecuting Jesus and trying to kill him: he was doing these things on the Sabbath. [17] Jesus answered them, "My Father has been at work up to now, and I am at work as well." [18] For this the Jews tried all the harder to kill him, because he was not only breaking the Sabbath but was even calling God his own Father, making himself equal to God. [19] So Jesus responded, "Truly, truly, I say to you, the Son can do nothing on his own, except what he sees the Father doing; for whatever the Father does, the Son does in the same way. [20] The Father loves the Son and shows him everything he himself is doing, and he will show him works greater than these, so that you will be amazed. [21] Just as the Father raises the dead and makes them alive, so the Son too makes alive whomever he wishes. [22] The Father does not judge anyone; he has entrusted all judgment to the Son, [23] so that all may honor the Son as they honor the Father. Whoever does not honor the Son does not honor the Father who sent him. [24] Truly, truly, I say to you, whoever hears my word and believes the one who sent me has eternal life; he does not come into condemnation but has crossed over from death into life. [25] Truly, truly, I say to you, an hour is coming, and is here now, when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God, and those who hear will live. [26] For just as the Father has life in himself, so he has granted to the Son as well to have life in himself. [27] And he has given him authority to carry out judgment too, because he is the Son of Man. [28] Do not be amazed at this, for an hour is coming when all who are in the tombs will hear his voice [29] and come out: those who did good, to a resurrection of life; those who practiced evil, to a resurrection of condemnation. [30] On my own I can do nothing. I judge as I hear, and my judgment is just, because I seek not my own will but the will of the Father who sent me. [31] If I testify about myself, my testimony is not true. [32] Someone else testifies about me, and I know that the testimony he gives about me is true. [33] You sent messengers to John, and he has testified to the truth. [34] Not that I accept testimony from a man; I say these things so that you may be saved. [35] He was the lamp that burned and shone, and for a while you were glad to delight in his light. [36] But the testimony I have is greater than John's: the works the Father has given me to complete, these very works I am doing, testify about me that the Father has sent me. [37] And the Father who sent me has himself testified about me. You have never heard his voice or seen his form, [38] and his word does not remain in you, because you do not believe the one he sent. [39] You search the Scriptures, because you think that in them you have eternal life; and these are the very ones that testify about me. [*] [40] Yet you refuse to come to me to have life. [41] I do not accept glory from people. [42] But I know you: you do not have the love of God within you. [43] I have come in the name of my Father, and you do not accept me; if someone else comes in his own name, you will accept him. [44] How can you believe, when you accept glory from one another but do not seek the glory that comes from the only God? [45] Do not suppose that I will accuse you before the Father. Your accuser is Moses, the one on whom you have pinned your hopes. [46] If you believed Moses, you would believe me, because it was about me that he wrote. [47] But if you do not believe what he wrote, how will you believe what I say?"

CHAPTER 6

[1] After this Jesus went off across the Sea of Galilee, that is, of Tiberias. [2] A large crowd kept following him, because they were seeing the signs he was doing on the sick. [3] Jesus went up onto the mountainside and sat down there with his disciples. [4] The Passover, the feast of the Jews, was close at hand. [5] Jesus raised his eyes and, seeing that a large crowd was coming toward him, said to Philip, "Where are we to buy bread for these people to eat?" [6] He said this to test him, since he himself knew what he was going to do. [7] Philip answered him, "Two hundred denarii worth of bread would not be enough for each of them to have even a little." [8] Another of his disciples, Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, said to him, [9] "There is a lad here with five barley loaves and two small fish; but what good are they for so many?" [10] Jesus said, "Have the people recline." There was plenty of grass in that place, so the men reclined, about five thousand in number. [11] Then Jesus took the loaves, gave thanks, and handed them out to the disciples, and the disciples to those reclining; and the same with the fish, as much as they wanted. [12] When they were full, he told his disciples, "Collect the leftover pieces, so that nothing goes to waste." [13] So they collected them and filled twelve baskets with pieces of the five barley loaves that the eaters had left over. [14] When the people saw the sign Jesus had done, they said, "This really is the Prophet who is coming into the world." [15] Jesus, aware that they were about to come and seize him to make him king, withdrew again to the mountain, all by himself. [16] As evening came on, his disciples went down to the sea, [17] got into a boat, and set out across the sea for Capernaum. By now it had grown dark, and Jesus had not yet come to them. [18] A strong wind was blowing, and the sea was getting rough. [19] When they had rowed some twenty-five or thirty stadia, they saw Jesus walking on the sea and drawing near the boat, and they were frightened. [20] But he told them, "It is I. Stop being afraid." [21] So they were glad to take him into the boat, and at once the boat reached the shore they were heading for. [22] The next day the crowd that had stayed on the other side of the sea noticed that only one small boat had been there, the one his disciples had got into, and that Jesus had not gone into the boat with his disciples; his disciples had left by themselves. [23] Other small boats, though, came from Tiberias near the spot where they had eaten the bread after the Lord had given thanks. [24] So when the crowd saw that neither Jesus nor his disciples were there, they got into the boats themselves and went to Capernaum looking for Jesus. [25] When they found him across the sea, they asked him, "Rabbi, when did you get here?" [26] Jesus answered them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, you are looking for me not because you saw signs, but because you ate the loaves and had your fill. [27] Do not work for food that spoils, but for the food that lasts to eternal life, which the Son of Man will give you; for God the Father has put his seal on him." [28] They asked him, "What must we do to carry out the works of God?" [29] Jesus answered them, "This is the work of God: that you believe in the one he has sent." [30] So they said to him, "Then what sign are you doing, so that we may see it and believe you? What work are you performing? [31] Our fathers ate the manna in the desert, as it is written: 'Bread from heaven he gave them to eat.'" [32] Jesus said to them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, it was not Moses who gave you the bread from heaven; it is my Father who gives you the true bread from heaven. [33] For the bread of God is the one who comes down out of heaven and gives life to the world." [34] They said to him, "Lord, give us this bread always." [35] Jesus told them, "I am the bread of life. Whoever comes to me will never go hungry, and whoever believes in me will never be thirsty again. [36] But I told you that you have seen me and still you do not believe. [37] Everyone the Father gives me will come to me, and whoever comes to me I will never turn away. [38] For I have come down from heaven to do not my own will but the will of the one who sent me. [39] And the will of the Father who sent me is this: that I should lose nothing of all he has given me, but raise it up on the last day. [40] This is the will of the one who sent me: that everyone who looks to the Son and believes in him should have eternal life; and I will raise him up on the last day." [41] At this the Jews began to complain about him, because he said, "I am the bread that came down out of heaven." [42] They were saying, "Is not this Jesus, Joseph's son? We know his father and mother. So how can he now say, 'I have come down out of heaven'?" [43] Jesus answered them, "Stop complaining among yourselves. [44] No one is able to come to me unless the Father who sent me draws him, and I will raise him up on the last day. [45] It stands written in the Prophets, 'And they will all be taught by God.' Everyone who has listened to the Father and learned from him comes to me. [46] Not that anyone has seen the Father except the one who is from God; he has seen the Father. [47] Truly, truly, I say to you, the one who believes in me has eternal life. [48] I am the bread of life. [49] Your fathers ate the manna in the desert, and yet they died. [50] Here is the bread that comes down out of heaven, so that anyone may eat of it and not die. [51] I am the living bread that came down out of heaven. Anyone who eats of this bread will live forever; and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world." [52] Then the Jews began quarreling among themselves: "How can this man give us his flesh to eat?" [53] Jesus said to them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you do not have life in yourselves. [54] The one who feeds on my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up on the last day. [55] For my flesh is real food, and my blood is real drink. [56] The one who feeds on my flesh and drinks my blood remains in me, and I in him. [57] Just as the living Father sent me and I live because of the Father, so too the one who feeds on me will live because of me. [58] This is the bread that came down out of heaven. It is not like the manna your fathers ate, and died; the one who feeds on this bread will live forever." [59] He said these things while teaching in a synagogue at Capernaum. [60] When they heard this, many of his disciples said, "This teaching is hard. Who can accept it?" [61] Jesus, aware within himself that his disciples were complaining about it, said to them, "Does this make you stumble? [62] Then what if you were to see the Son of Man going up to where he was before? [63] The Spirit is the one who gives life; the flesh is of no help at all. The words I speak to you are spirit and they are life. [64] Yet some of you do not believe." For Jesus knew from the start who did not believe and who would betray him. [65] And he went on, "That is why I told you that no one can come to me unless it has been granted to him by my Father." [66] From then on many of his disciples turned back and no longer went about with him. [67] So Jesus asked the Twelve, "You do not want to go away too, do you?" [68] Simon Peter answered him, "Lord, to whom would we go? You have words of eternal life. [69] And we have come to believe and to know that you are the Christ, the Son of the living God." [70] Jesus answered them, "Did I not choose you, the Twelve? Yet one of you is a devil." [71] He meant Judas Iscariot, son of Simon; for he, one of the Twelve, was going to betray him.

CHAPTER 7

[1] After this Jesus traveled about in Galilee; he chose not to travel in Judea, because the Jews were trying to kill him. [2] The Jewish feast of Tabernacles was approaching. [3] So his brothers told him, "Leave this place and go to Judea, so that your disciples there too can see the works you do. [4] No one who wants to be publicly known does things in secret. If you are doing these things, show yourself to the world." [5] For even his brothers did not believe in him. [6] Jesus told them, "My time is not here yet, but for you any time is right. [7] The world cannot hate you, but me it hates, because I testify against it that what it does is evil. [8] You go on up to this feast. I am not going up to this feast yet, because my time has not yet been fulfilled." [9] After telling them this, he stayed on in Galilee. [10] But once his brothers had gone up, he too went up to the feast, not publicly but, so to speak, in secret. [11] At the feast the Jews kept looking for him and asking, "Where is that man?" [12] Among the crowds there was a great deal of whispering about him. Some were saying, "He is a good man," while others said, "No, he is deceiving the people." [13] But no one would speak about him openly, for fear of the Jews. [14] When the feast was already half over, Jesus went up to the temple and began to teach. [15] The Jews were amazed and said, "How does this man know his letters, when he has never been taught?" [16] Jesus answered them, "My teaching is not my own; it belongs to the one who sent me. [17] If anyone is willing to do his will, he will know whether the teaching comes from God or whether I am speaking on my own. [18] The one who speaks on his own is after his own glory; but the one who seeks the glory of the one who sent him is truthful, and there is nothing false in him. [19] Has not Moses given you the law? Yet not one of you carries out the law. Why are you trying to kill me?" [20] The crowd answered, "You are demon-possessed! Who is trying to kill you?" [21] Jesus answered them, "I did one work, and you are all amazed. [22] Moses gave you circumcision—not that it comes from Moses, but from the fathers—and on the Sabbath you circumcise a man. [23] If a man receives circumcision on the Sabbath so that the law of Moses will not be broken, are you angry with me for making a whole man healthy on the Sabbath? [24] Stop judging by outward appearance; judge with a just judgment." [25] Some of the people of Jerusalem were saying, "Is this not the man they are trying to kill? [26] And here he is speaking in public, and they say nothing to him! Could it be that the authorities really know that this is indeed the Christ? [27] Yet we know where this man is from; but when the Christ comes, no one will know where he is from." [28] So Jesus, as he was teaching in the temple, called out, "You know me, and you know where I am from. I have not come on my own; but the one who sent me is true, and you do not know him. [29] I know him, because I come from him, and he is the one who sent me." [30] So they tried to arrest him, yet no one laid a hand on him, because his hour had not yet come. [31] But many in the crowd believed in him, and they kept saying, "When the Christ comes, will he do more signs than these that this man has done?" [32] The Pharisees heard the crowd whispering these things about him, and the Pharisees and chief priests sent officers to arrest him. [33] Jesus said to them, "I will be with you only a little while longer, and then I am going to the one who sent me. [34] You will look for me and not find me; and where I am, you cannot come." [35] So the Jews said to one another, "Where is this man about to go that we will not find him? He is not going to go to the Dispersion among the Greeks and teach the Greeks, is he? [36] What does he mean by saying, 'You will look for me and not find me; and where I am, you cannot come'?" [37] On the last and greatest day of the feast, Jesus stood up and called out, "If anyone is thirsty, let him come to me and drink. [38] The one who believes in me, as the Scripture has said, rivers of living water will flow from within him." [39] He said this about the Spirit, whom those who believed in him were going to receive; for the Holy Spirit was not yet given, since Jesus had not yet been glorified.* [40] Many in the crowd, on hearing these words, said, "This man really is the Prophet." [41] Others said, "This is the Christ." But some said, "Surely the Christ does not come from Galilee? [42] Does not the Scripture say that the Christ comes from the seed of David and from Bethlehem, the village where David lived?" [43] So the crowd was split because of him. [44] Some of them wanted to arrest him, yet no one laid hands on him. [45] The officers went back to the chief priests and Pharisees, who asked them, "Why have you not brought him in?" [46] The officers replied, "Never has anyone spoken the way this man speaks." [47] The Pharisees answered them, "Have you been led astray too? [48] Has a single one of the rulers or of the Pharisees believed in him? [49] But this crowd, which does not know the law, is under a curse." [50] Nicodemus, who had come to Jesus by night and who was one of them, said to them, [51] "Our law does not judge a man without first hearing him and finding out what he is doing, does it?" [52] They answered him, "Are you from Galilee too? Search, and you will see that no prophet has arisen from Galilee." [53] Then everyone went home.

CHAPTER 8

[1] Jesus, though, went to the Mount of Olives. [2] At daybreak he came back to the temple, and all the people were coming to him, and he sat down and began to teach them. [3] The scribes and Pharisees brought a woman who had been caught in adultery, made her stand in the middle, [4] and said to him, "Teacher, this woman has been caught in the very act of committing adultery. [5] In the law Moses commanded us to stone women like this. So what do you say?" [6] They were saying this to test him, so that they would have grounds to accuse him. But Jesus bent down and began writing on the ground with his finger, as if he did not hear them. [7] When they kept on questioning him, he stood up and said to them, "Whoever among you is without sin, let him throw the first stone at her." [8] And bending down again, he went on writing on the ground. [9] When they heard this, convicted by their conscience, they went away one at a time, starting with the oldest down to the last; and Jesus was left alone, with the woman still standing in the middle. [10] Jesus stood up and, seeing no one but the woman, said to her, "Woman, where are your accusers? Did no one condemn you?" [11] She said, "No one, Lord." Jesus said, "Neither do I condemn you. Go, and from now on sin no more." [12] Jesus spoke to them once more: "I am the light of the world. The one who follows me will never walk in darkness, but will have the light of life." [13] The Pharisees said to him, "You are testifying about yourself; your testimony is not true." [14] Jesus answered them, "Even if I do testify about myself, my testimony is true, because I know where I came from and where I am going; but you do not know where I come from or where I am going. [15] You judge according to the flesh; I am not judging anyone. [16] Yet even if I do judge, my judgment is true, because I am not alone; it is I together with the Father who sent me. [17] In your own law, too, it is written that the testimony of two men is true. [18] I testify about myself, and the Father who sent me testifies about me." [19] So they asked him, "Where is this Father of yours?" Jesus answered, "You do not know me or my Father. If you knew me, you would know my Father as well." [20] He spoke these words in the treasury while teaching in the temple; and no one arrested him, because his hour had not yet come. [21] Again he said to them, "I am going away, and you will look for me, and you will die in your sin. Where I am going, you cannot come." [22] So the Jews were saying, "He is not going to kill himself, is he? Is that why he says, 'Where I am going, you cannot come'?" [23] He told them, "You are from below; I am from above. You belong to this world; I do not belong to this world. [24] That is why I told you that you will die in your sins: unless you believe that I am he, you will die in your sins." [25] So they said to him, "Who are you?" And Jesus said to them, "Just what I have been telling you from the beginning. [] [26] I have many things to say about you and to judge; but the one who sent me is true, and what I have heard from him, that is what I declare to the world." [27] They did not realize that he was speaking to them about the Father. [28] So Jesus said, "When you lift up the Son of Man, then you will know that I am he, and that I do nothing on my own, but speak these things just as my Father taught me. [29] The one who sent me is with me. The Father has not left me by myself, because I always do what pleases him." [30] As he was saying these things, many believed in him. [31] Jesus then said to the Jews who had believed him, "If you remain in my word, you are truly my disciples; [32] you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free." [33] They answered him, "We are descendants of Abraham and have never been slaves to anyone. How can you say, 'You will become free'?" [34] Jesus answered them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, everyone who practices sin is a servant of sin. [35] The servant does not remain in the household forever; the son remains forever. [36] So if the Son makes you free, you will be free in reality. [37] I know you are descendants of Abraham; yet you are trying to kill me, because my word finds no room in you. [38] I speak of what I have seen with my Father, and you do what you have seen with your father." [39] They answered him, "Our father is Abraham." Jesus told them, "If you were children of Abraham, you would be doing what Abraham did. [40] As it is, you are trying to kill me, a man who has told you the truth I heard from God. Abraham did nothing like that. [41] You are doing the works of your father." They said to him, "We were not born of fornication; we have one Father: God." [42] Jesus said to them, "If God were your Father, you would love me, for I came out from God and am here. I have not come on my own; he sent me. [43] Why do you not understand what I am saying? Because you are unable to listen to my word. [44] You belong to your father the devil, and you want to carry out your father's desires. He was a murderer from the start and does not stand in the truth, because there is no truth in him. Whenever he lies, he speaks out of his own nature, for he is a liar and the father of lies. [45] But because I speak the truth, you do not believe me. [46] Which one of you can prove me guilty of sin? If I am telling the truth, why do you not believe me? [47] Whoever belongs to God listens to God's words. The reason you do not listen is that you do not belong to God." [48] The Jews answered him, "Are we not right to say that you are a Samaritan and demon-possessed?" [49] Jesus answered, "I am not demon-possessed; I honor my Father, and you dishonor me. [50] I am not seeking glory for myself; there is one who seeks it, and he is the judge. [51] Truly, truly, I say to you, if anyone keeps my word, he will never ever see death." [52] The Jews said to him, "Now we are sure you are demon-possessed! Abraham died, and so did the prophets, yet you say, 'If anyone keeps my word, he will never ever taste death.' [53] You are not greater than our father Abraham, who died, are you? The prophets died too. Who are you making yourself out to be?" [54] Jesus answered, "If I glorify myself, my glory amounts to nothing. The one who glorifies me is my Father, the one you claim is your God. [55] You have not come to know him, but I know him. If I were to say that I do not know him, I would be a liar like you. But I do know him, and I keep his word. [56] Abraham your father was overjoyed that he would see my day; he saw it and was glad." [57] So the Jews said to him, "You are not yet fifty years old, and you have seen Abraham?" [58] Jesus said to them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, before Abraham came into being, I am." [59] At that they picked up stones to throw at him. But Jesus hid himself and went out of the temple, passing through the middle of them, and so went on his way.

CHAPTER 9

[1] As he went along, he saw a man who had been blind since birth. [2] His disciples asked him, "Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, so that he was born blind?" [3] Jesus answered, "It was not that this man sinned, or his parents; it happened so that the works of God might be displayed in him. [4] While it is day, I must do the works of the one who sent me; night is coming, when no one is able to work. [5] While I am in the world, I am the light of the world." [6] After saying this, he spat on the ground, made mud with the spittle, and smeared the mud on the blind man's eyes. [7] Then he told him, "Go and wash in the pool of Siloam" (a name that means Sent). So the man went off, washed, and came back able to see. [8] His neighbors, and those who had earlier seen that he was blind, began asking, "Is this not the man who used to sit and beg?" [9] Some said, "That is the man." Others said, "He looks like him." He kept saying, "I am the man." [10] So they asked him, "Then how were your eyes opened?" [11] He answered, "A man called Jesus made mud, smeared it on my eyes, and told me, 'Go to the pool of Siloam and wash.' So I went, and once I had washed, I could see." [12] They asked him, "Where is that man?" He said, "I have no idea." [13] They took the man who had once been blind to the Pharisees. [14] The day on which Jesus had made the mud and opened his eyes was a Sabbath. [15] So the Pharisees too asked him once more how he had gained his sight. He told them, "He put mud on my eyes, I washed, and now I see." [16] Some of the Pharisees then said, "This man is not from God, because he does not keep the Sabbath." But others said, "How can a sinful man perform signs like these?" And they were divided. [17] So they spoke again to the blind man: "What do you have to say about him, since it was your eyes he opened?" He said, "He is a prophet." [18] The Jews refused to believe that he had been blind and had gained his sight until they called in the parents of the man who had gained his sight. [19] They asked them, "Is this your son, the one you say was born blind? Then how is it that he can see now?" [20] His parents answered them, "We know this is our son and that he was born blind. [21] But how he now sees, we do not know, and who opened his eyes, we do not know. He is old enough; ask him. He can speak for himself." [22] His parents said this because they were afraid of the Jews; for the Jews had already agreed that anyone who confessed Jesus as the Christ would be expelled from the synagogue. [23] That is why his parents said, "He is old enough; ask him." [24] So a second time they summoned the man who had been blind and told him, "Give glory to God. We know this man is a sinner." [25] He answered, "Whether he is a sinner I do not know. One thing I know: I was blind, and now I see." [26] They asked him again, "What did he do to you? How did he open your eyes?" [27] He replied, "I already told you, and you would not listen. Why do you want to hear it again? You do not want to become his disciples too, do you?" [28] They heaped insults on him and said, "You are that man's disciple; we are disciples of Moses. [29] We know that God has spoken to Moses, but as for this fellow, we do not know where he comes from." [30] The man answered them, "Well, here is an astonishing thing! You do not know where he comes from, and yet he opened my eyes. [31] We know that God does not listen to sinners; but if someone is devout toward God and does his will, God listens to him. [32] Never since the world began has anyone heard of someone opening the eyes of a man born blind. [33] If this man were not from God, he could do nothing." [34] They answered him, "You were born steeped in sin, and you are trying to teach us?" And they threw him out. [35] Jesus heard that they had thrown him out, and when he found him he asked, "Do you believe in the Son of God?" [36] He answered, "And who is he, Lord, so that I may believe in him?" [37] Jesus said to him, "You have seen him; in fact, he is the one talking with you." [38] He said, "I believe, Lord!" And he worshiped him. [39] Jesus said, "I came into this world for judgment, so that those who do not see may see, and those who see may become blind." [40] Some Pharisees who were with him heard this and asked him, "Surely we are not blind too, are we?" [41] Jesus told them, "If you were blind, you would not have sin. But now that you say, 'We see,' your sin remains.

CHAPTER 10

[1] "Truly, truly, I say to you, whoever does not go into the sheepfold through the door but climbs in by another way is a thief and a bandit. [2] The one who goes in through the door is the sheep's shepherd. [3] The gatekeeper opens for him, and the sheep listen to his voice. He calls his own sheep by name and leads them out. [4] When he has brought his own sheep out, he walks ahead of them, and the sheep follow him because they recognize his voice. [5] A stranger they will never follow; they will run away from him, because they do not recognize the voice of strangers." [6] Jesus used this figure of speech with them, but they did not grasp what he was telling them. [7] So Jesus spoke again: "Truly, truly, I say to you, I am the door for the sheep. [8] All who came before me are thieves and bandits; but the sheep did not listen to them. [9] I am the door. Whoever goes in through me will be saved; he will come in and go out and find pasture. [10] The thief comes for nothing but to steal, slaughter, and destroy. I came so that they may have life, and have it in abundance. [11] I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life on behalf of the sheep. [12] The hired man, who is not a shepherd and to whom the sheep do not belong, sees the wolf coming, abandons the sheep, and runs away; then the wolf seizes them and scatters the sheep. [13] The hired man runs away because he works for pay and has no concern for the sheep. [14] I am the good shepherd. I know my own, and I am known by my own, [15] just as the Father knows me and I know the Father; and I lay down my life on behalf of the sheep. [16] I have other sheep too, which are not of this fold. I must bring them as well, and they will listen to my voice; and there will be one flock, one shepherd.* [17] This is why the Father loves me: because I lay down my life so that I may take it back again. [18] No one takes it away from me; I lay it down of my own accord. I have authority to lay it down, and I have authority to take it back again. This is the command I received from my Father." [19] Once more the Jews were divided because of these words. [20] Many of them were saying, "He is demon-possessed and out of his mind. Why listen to him?" [21] Others said, "These are not the sayings of a demon-possessed man. A demon cannot open blind people's eyes, can it?" [22] It was then the Feast of Dedication in Jerusalem. It was winter, [23] and Jesus was walking about in the temple, in Solomon's colonnade. [24] So the Jews surrounded him and asked, "How long will you keep us in doubt? If you are the Christ, tell us openly." [25] Jesus answered them, "I have told you, and you do not believe. The works I do in my Father's name testify about me. [26] But you do not believe, because you are not among my sheep, as I told you. [27] My sheep listen to my voice; I know them, and they follow me. [28] I give them eternal life; they will never perish, and no one will tear them out of my hand. [29] My Father, who has given them to me, is greater than all, and no one can tear them out of my Father's hand. [30] I and the Father are one." [31] Again the Jews picked up stones to stone him. [32] Jesus responded, "I have shown you many good works from my Father. For which of these works are you going to stone me?" [33] The Jews answered him, "We are not stoning you for a good work, but for blasphemy: because you, a mere man, make yourself God." [34] Jesus answered them, "Has it not been written in your law, 'I said, you are gods'? [35] If he called them gods to whom the word of God came—and the Scripture cannot be set aside— [36] do you say of him whom the Father consecrated and sent into the world, 'You are blaspheming,' because I said, 'I am the Son of God'? [37] If I am not doing my Father's works, do not believe me. [38] But if I am doing them, even if you do not believe me, believe the works, so that you may come to know and believe that the Father is in me and I am in him." [39] Once again they tried to arrest him, but he slipped out of their grasp. [40] He went away again across the Jordan to the place where John had been baptizing at first, and he stayed there. [41] Many came to him, and they kept saying, "John performed no sign, but all that John said about this man was true." [42] And there many believed in him.

CHAPTER 11

[1] A man named Lazarus was sick. He was from Bethany, the village of Mary and her sister Martha. [2] This Mary, whose brother Lazarus was sick, was the one who anointed the Lord with perfume and wiped his feet with her hair. [3] So the sisters sent word to him: "Lord, look, the one you love is sick." [4] On hearing this, Jesus said, "This sickness will not end in death; it is for God's glory, so that through it the Son of God may be glorified." [5] Jesus loved Martha, her sister, and Lazarus. [6] So when he heard that he was sick, he stayed on two more days in the place where he was. [7] Then, after this, he told the disciples, "Let us go back to Judea." [8] The disciples said to him, "Rabbi, only recently the Jews were trying to stone you, and you are going back there?" [9] Jesus answered, "Does the day not have twelve hours? Whoever walks during the day does not stumble, because he sees the light of this world. [10] But whoever walks during the night stumbles, because the light is not in him." [11] He said this, and then he told them, "Our friend Lazarus has fallen asleep; but I am going there to wake him." [12] His disciples said, "Lord, if he has fallen asleep, he will get better." [13] But Jesus had been speaking of his death, while they supposed he meant the rest of ordinary sleep. [14] So then Jesus told them openly, "Lazarus has died. [15] And for your sakes I am glad I was not there, so that you may believe. But let us go to him." [16] Then Thomas, called Didymus, said to his fellow disciples, "Let us go too, so that we may die with him." [17] When Jesus arrived, he found that Lazarus had already been in the tomb four days. [18] Bethany was close to Jerusalem, about fifteen stadia off, [19] and many of the Jews had come to Martha and Mary to comfort them about their brother. [20] When Martha heard that Jesus was coming, she went out to meet him, while Mary stayed sitting in the house. [21] Martha said to Jesus, "Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died. [22] And even now I know that God will give you whatever you ask of him." [23] Jesus told her, "Your brother will rise again." [24] Martha said to him, "I know he will rise again in the resurrection on the last day." [25] Jesus told her, "I am the resurrection and the life. The one who believes in me will live, even if he dies, [26] and everyone who is alive and believes in me will never die, ever. Do you believe this?" [27] She said to him, "Yes, Lord; I believe that you are the Christ, the Son of God, the one coming into the world." [28] After saying this, she went off and called her sister Mary aside, telling her privately, "The Teacher is here and is asking for you." [29] When she heard this, she got up quickly and went to him. [30] Jesus had not yet entered the village; he was still at the spot where Martha had met him. [31] The Jews who were with Mary in the house comforting her saw her get up quickly and go out, so they followed her, saying, "She is going to the tomb to weep there." [32] When Mary reached the place where Jesus was and saw him, she fell at his feet and said to him, "Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died." [33] When Jesus saw her weeping, and the Jews who had come with her weeping too, he was deeply indignant in spirit and stirred up, [34] and he asked, "Where have you put him?" They told him, "Lord, come and see." [35] Jesus burst into tears. [36] So the Jews said, "See how much he loved him!" [37] But some of them said, "This man opened the blind man's eyes; could he not also have prevented this man from dying?" [38] Once more deeply indignant within himself, Jesus came to the tomb. It was a cave, with a stone lying against the entrance. [39] Jesus said, "Remove the stone." Martha, the dead man's sister, told him, "Lord, there will be a stench by now; he has been dead four days." [40] Jesus said to her, "Did I not tell you that if you believed, you would see the glory of God?" [41] So they removed the stone from where the dead man lay. Jesus raised his eyes upward and said, "Father, I thank you for hearing me. [42] I knew that you always hear me, but I said this for the sake of the crowd standing here, so that they may believe that you sent me." [43] Having said this, he shouted with a loud voice, "Lazarus, come out here!" [44] The dead man came out, his hands and feet bound with strips of cloth and his face wrapped in a cloth. Jesus told them, "Untie him and let him go." [45] So many of the Jews who had come to Mary and had seen what Jesus did believed in him. [46] But some of them went off to the Pharisees and told them what Jesus had done. [47] So the chief priests and Pharisees called a meeting of the council and said, "What are we to do? This man is performing many signs. [48] If we leave him alone like this, everyone will believe in him, and the Romans will come and take away both our place and our nation." [49] But one of them, Caiaphas, who was high priest that year, told them, "You know nothing at all. [50] You do not realize that it is to our advantage that one man die for the people, rather than the whole nation be destroyed." [51] He did not say this on his own; as high priest that year he prophesied that Jesus was going to die for the nation, [52] and not for the nation only, but also to gather into one the scattered children of God. [53] So from that day on they made plans to put him to death. [54] For that reason Jesus no longer went about openly among the Jews. He left there for the countryside near the wilderness, to a town called Ephraim, and stayed there with his disciples. [55] The Jewish Passover was near, and many went up to Jerusalem from the countryside before the Passover to purify themselves. [56] They kept looking for Jesus, and as they stood in the temple they said to one another, "What do you think? Will he not come to the feast at all?" [57] The chief priests and the Pharisees had given orders that anyone who knew where he was should let them know, so that they could arrest him.

CHAPTER 12

[1] Six days before the Passover, Jesus came to Bethany, the home of Lazarus, the man who had died and whom he had raised from the dead. [2] They gave a dinner for him there; Martha was serving, and Lazarus was one of those at the table with him. [3] Mary then took a pound of pure nard, a very expensive perfume, anointed Jesus' feet, and wiped his feet dry with her hair; and the whole house was filled with the scent of the perfume. [*4] But one of his disciples, Judas Iscariot, son of Simon, the one who was going to betray him, said, [5] "Why was this perfume not sold for three hundred denarii and the money given to the poor?" [6] He said this not out of concern for the poor, but because he was a thief; he kept the money box and used to help himself to what was put in it. [7] So Jesus said, "Let her be; she has kept this for the day of my burial. [8] For you always have the poor among you, but you do not always have me." [9] A large crowd of the Jews found out that he was there, and they came not only because of Jesus but also to see Lazarus, whom he had raised from the dead. [10] So the chief priests made plans to kill Lazarus too, [11] since because of him many of the Jews were leaving them and believing in Jesus. [12] The following day the great crowd that had come for the feast heard that Jesus was on his way to Jerusalem. [13] They took palm branches and went out to meet him, shouting, "Hosanna! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord, the King of Israel!" [14] Jesus found a young donkey and sat on it, as it is written: [15] "Stop being afraid, daughter of Zion; look, your King is coming, seated on a donkey's colt." [16] At first his disciples did not understand these things; but when Jesus had been glorified, they remembered that these things had been written about him and that they had done these things for him. [17] The crowd that had been with him when he called Lazarus out of the tomb and raised him from the dead went on testifying. [18] That was also why the crowd went out to meet him: they had heard that he had performed this sign. [19] So the Pharisees said to one another, "You see, you are getting nowhere. Look, the whole world has gone off after him!" [20] Among those going up to worship at the feast were some Greeks. [21] These came to Philip, who was from Bethsaida in Galilee, and made a request of him: "Sir, we would like to see Jesus." [22] Philip went and told Andrew; Andrew and Philip in turn went and told Jesus. [23] Jesus answered them, "The hour has come for the Son of Man to be glorified. [24] Truly, truly, I say to you, unless a grain of wheat falls into the earth and dies, it stays just a single grain; but if it dies, it produces much fruit. [25] The one who loves his life will lose it, and the one who hates his life in this world will keep it for eternal life. [26] If anyone serves me, he must follow me; and where I am, my servant will be there too. If anyone serves me, the Father will honor him. [27] Now my soul is in turmoil, and what am I to say? 'Father, rescue me from this hour'? No, it was for this very reason that I came to this hour. [28] Father, glorify your name." Then a voice came out of heaven: "I have glorified it, and I will glorify it again." [29] The crowd standing there heard it and said it was thunder; others said, "An angel has spoken to him." [30] Jesus responded, "This voice did not come for my sake but for yours. [31] Now is the judgment of this world; now the ruler of this world will be driven out. [32] And I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw everyone to myself." [33] He said this to indicate the kind of death he was going to die. [34] The crowd answered him, "We have heard from the law that the Christ remains forever. So how can you say that the Son of Man must be lifted up? Who is this Son of Man?" [35] Jesus said to them, "For a little while longer the light is with you. Walk while you have the light, so that darkness does not overtake you; whoever walks in the darkness does not know where he is going. [36] While you have the light, believe in the light, so that you may become sons of light." After saying these things, Jesus went away and was hidden from them. [37] Although he had performed so many signs in front of them, they still did not believe in him, [38]

so that the word spoken by Isaiah the prophet would be fulfilled: "Lord, who has believed what we have heard? And to whom has the arm of the Lord been revealed?" [39] That is why they could not believe, for again Isaiah said, [40] "He has blinded their eyes and hardened their heart, so that they would not see with their eyes and perceive with their heart and turn back, and I would heal them." [41] Isaiah said this when he saw his glory and spoke of him. [42] Even so, many even of the leaders believed in him, but because of the Pharisees they would not confess it, so as not to be expelled from the synagogue; [43] for they loved praise from people more than praise from God. [44] Jesus called out, "Whoever believes in me believes not in me but in the one who sent me. [45] And whoever sees me sees the one who sent me. [46] I have come into the world as light, so that no one who believes in me should remain in the darkness. [47] If anyone hears my words and does not believe, I do not judge him; for I did not come to judge the world but to save the world. [48] The one who rejects me and does not accept my words has a judge: the word I have spoken will judge him on the last day. [49] For I have not spoken on my own; the Father who sent me has himself commanded me what to say and what to speak. [50] And I know that his command is eternal life. So what I speak, I speak just as the Father has told me."

CHAPTER 13

[1] Before the feast of the Passover, Jesus knew that his hour had come to pass out of this world to the Father. Having loved his own who were in the world, he loved them to the very end. [2] When supper had begun, and the devil had already put it into the heart of Judas Iscariot, son of Simon, to betray him, [] [3] Jesus, knowing that the Father had put everything into his hands, and that he had come out from God and was going back to God, [4] got up from the supper, took off his outer garments, and taking a towel, wrapped it around his waist. [5] Next he poured water into the basin and began washing the disciples' feet and drying them with the towel wrapped around him. [6] He came to Simon Peter, who said to him, "Lord, are you going to wash my feet?" [7] Jesus answered him, "What I am doing you do not understand now, but later you will understand." [8] Peter said to him, "Never shall you wash my feet, ever!" Jesus answered him, "Unless I wash you, you have no share with me." [9] Simon Peter said to him, "Lord, then not just my feet, but my hands and my head too!" [10] Jesus told him, "He who has bathed has no need to wash, except for his feet, but is clean all over. And you are clean, though not every one of you." [] [11] He knew who was going to betray him; that was why he said, "Not all of you are clean." [12] After he had washed their feet, put his garments back on, and taken his place at the table again, he said to them, "Do you know what I have done for you? [13] You call me 'Teacher' and 'Lord,' and you are right, for that is what I am. [14] So if I, the Lord and Teacher, have washed your feet, you too ought to wash each other's feet. [15] I have given you an example, so that you also may do as I have done for you. [16] Truly, truly, I say to you, a servant is not greater than his master, and a messenger is not greater than the one who sent him. [17] Now that you know these things, you are blessed if you do them. [18] I am not speaking of all of you; I know the ones I have chosen. But the Scripture must be fulfilled: 'The one who eats bread with me has raised his heel against me.' [19] I am telling you this now, before it takes place, so that when it does take place you may believe that I am he. [20] Truly, truly, I say to you, whoever receives anyone I send receives me, and whoever receives me receives the one who sent me." [21] After saying this, Jesus was shaken in spirit and declared, "Truly, truly, I say to you, one of you is going to betray me." [22] The disciples kept looking at one another, uncertain which of them he meant. [23] One of his disciples, the one Jesus loved, was reclining close against Jesus' bosom. [24] So Simon Peter nodded to him to find out whom he was talking about. [25] Leaning back against Jesus' chest, that disciple asked him, "Lord, who is it?" [26] Jesus answered, "It is the one for whom I will dip this morsel and give it to him." So he dipped the morsel and handed it to Judas Iscariot, son of Simon. [27] After the morsel, Satan entered into him. So Jesus told him, "What you are going to do, do it quickly." [28] None of those at the table understood why he said this to him. [29] Since Judas kept the money box, some thought Jesus was telling him, "Buy what we need for the feast," or that he should give something to the poor. [30] So after taking the morsel he went out at once. And it was night. [31] When he had gone out, Jesus said, "Now the Son of Man has been glorified, and God has been glorified in him. [32] If God has been glorified in him, God will also glorify him in himself, and he will glorify him without delay. [33] Little children, I am with you only a little longer. You will look for me, and as I told the Jews, so now I tell you too: 'Where I am going, you cannot come.' [34] I am giving you a new commandment: love one another. Just as I have loved you, you too are to love one another. [35] This is how everyone will know that you are my disciples: if you have love among yourselves." [36] Simon Peter asked him, "Lord, where are you going?" Jesus answered, "Where I am going you cannot follow me now; but later you will follow me." [37] Peter said to him, "Lord, why can I not follow you right now? I will lay down my life for you!" [38] Jesus answered him, "You will lay down your life for me? Truly, truly, I say to you, no rooster will crow before you have denied me three times.

CHAPTER 14

[1] "Stop letting your hearts be troubled. You believe in God; believe in me as well. [2] In my Father's house are many dwelling places; if that were not so, I would have told you. I am going to make a place ready for you. [*] [3] And if I go and make a place ready for you, I am coming back and will take you to be with me, so that where I am you may be too. [4] And you know where I am going, and you know the way." [5] Thomas said to him, "Lord, we do not know where you are going. How can we know the way?" [6] Jesus told him, "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except by me. [7] If you had known me, you would have known my Father too. From now on you know him, and you have seen him." [8] Philip said to him, "Lord, show us the Father, and that will be enough for us." [9] Jesus said to him, "All this time I have been with you, and you still do not know me, Philip? Whoever has seen me has seen the Father. How can you say, 'Show us the Father'? [10] Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in me? The words I say to you I do not speak on my own; it is the Father, remaining in me, who does his works. [11] Believe me that I am in the Father and the Father is in me; or else believe on account of the works themselves. [12] Truly, truly, I say to you, the one who believes in me will also do the works that I do; and he will do greater works than these, because I am going to my Father. [13] Whatever you ask in my name, I will do it, so that the Father may be glorified in the Son. [14] If you ask anything in my name, I will do it. [15] If you love me, keep my commandments. [16] I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Helper, to remain with you forever: [17] the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees him nor knows him. You know him, because he remains with you and will be in you. [18] I will not leave you as orphans; I am coming to you. [19] In a little while the world will no longer see me, but you will see me; because I live, you too will live. [20] On that day you will realize that I am in my Father, and you are in me, and I am in you. [21] The one who has my commandments and keeps them is the one who loves me. And the one who loves me will be loved by my Father, and I will love him and show myself to him." [22] Judas (not Iscariot) said to him, "Lord, what has happened, that you are going to show yourself to us and not to the world?" [23] Jesus answered him, "If anyone loves me, he will keep my word, and my Father will love him, and we will come to him and make our dwelling with him. [24] Whoever does not love me does not keep my words. And the word you are hearing is not mine; it is from the Father who sent me. [25] I have told you these things while I am still staying with you. [26] But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, will teach you everything and remind you of everything I have told you. [27] Peace I leave you; my own peace I give you. I do not give to you the way the world gives. Do not let your hearts be troubled or fearful. [28] You heard me tell you, 'I am going away and I am coming back to you.' If you loved me, you would be glad that I said, 'I am going to the Father,' because my Father is greater than I. [29] I have told you now, before it happens, so that when it does happen you may believe. [30] I will not talk with you much longer, because the ruler of this world is coming. and he has nothing in me; [31] but so that the world may know that I love the Father, I do exactly as the Father commanded me. Get up, let us leave here.

CHAPTER 15

[1] "I am the true vine, and my Father is the one who tends it. [2] Every branch in me that bears no fruit he takes away, and every branch that does bear fruit he prunes, so that it will bear still more fruit. [*] [3] You are clean already because of the word I have spoken to you. [4] Remain in me, and I will remain in you. Just as the branch cannot bear fruit by itself unless it remains in the vine, so neither can you unless you remain in me. [5] I am the vine, you are the branches. Whoever remains in me, and I in him, is the one who bears much fruit, because apart from me you can do nothing. [6] If anyone does not remain in me, he is thrown away like a branch and dries up; such branches are gathered, thrown into the fire, and burned. [7] If you remain in me and my words remain in you, you will ask whatever you want, and it will happen for you. [8] My Father is glorified in this: that you bear much fruit; and so you will be my disciples. [9] Just as the Father has loved me, so have I loved you. Remain in my love. [10] If you keep my commandments, you will remain in my love, just as I have kept my Father's commandments and remain in his love. [11] I have told you these things so that my joy may remain in you and your joy may be complete. [12] This is my commandment: love one another just as I have loved you. [13] No one has greater love than this: to lay down one's life for one's friends. [14] You are my friends if you do what I command you. [15] I no longer call you servants, because a servant does not know what his master is doing. Instead I have called you friends, because I have made known to you everything I heard from my Father. [16] It was not you who chose me; I chose you, and I appointed you to go and bear fruit, fruit that will last, so that whatever you ask the Father in my name he may give you. [17] This is what I command you: love one another. [18] If the world hates you, keep in mind that it hated me before you. [19] If you belonged to the world, the world would love its own. But because you do not belong to the world, and I chose you out of the world, for that reason the world hates you. [20] Remember what I told you: 'A servant is not greater than his master.' If they persecuted me, they will persecute you too; if they kept my word, they will keep yours as well. [21] But they will do all these things to you because of my name, since they do not know the one who sent me. [22] Had I not come and spoken to them, they would not have sin; but as it is, they have no excuse for their sin. [23] Whoever hates me hates my Father as well. [24] Had I not done among them works that no one else has done, they would not have sin; but as it is, they have seen and have hated both me and my Father. [25] Yet this has happened so that the word written in their law might be fulfilled: 'They hated me for no reason.' [26] When the Helper comes, whom I will send you from the Father, the Spirit of truth who goes out from the Father, he will testify about me. [27] And you too will testify, since you have been with me from the start.

CHAPTER 16

[1] "I have told you these things to keep you from stumbling. [2] They will expel you from the synagogues; in fact, an hour is coming when anyone who kills you will think he is rendering service to God. [3] They will do these things to you because they have not known the Father or me. [4] But I have told you these things so that when the hour comes you may remember that I told you about them. I did not tell you this from the start, because I was with you. [5] But now I am going to the one who sent me, and not one of you asks me, 'Where are you going?' [6] Instead, because I have told you these things, grief has filled your hearts. [7] Yet I am telling you the truth: it is for your good that I go away. For if I do not go away, the Helper will not come to you; but if I go, I will send him to you. [8] When he comes, he will convict the world about sin, about righteousness, and about judgment: * 9 about sin, because they do not believe in me; 10 about righteousness, because I am going to my Father and you will no longer see me; 11 about judgment, because the ruler of this world stands judged. 12 I have many more things to tell you, but you are not able to bear them now. 13 But when he comes, the Spirit of truth, he will lead you into all the truth. He will not speak on his own; he will speak whatever he hears, and he will announce to you what is to come. 14 He will glorify me, because he will take what is mine and announce it to you. 15 Everything the Father has is mine. That is why I said that he will take what is mine and announce it to you. 16 In a little while you will no longer see me, and again in a little while you will see me, because I am going to the Father." 17 At this some of his disciples said to one another, "What does he mean by telling us, 'In a little while you will not see me, and again in a little while you will see me,' and, 'because I am going to the Father'?" 18 They kept saying, "What does he mean by 'a little while'? We do not understand what he is saying." 19 Jesus knew they wanted to ask him, so he said to them, "Are you asking one another about this, that I said, 'In a little while you will not see me, and again in a little while you will see me'? 20 Truly, truly, I say to you, you will weep and wail, but the world will rejoice. You will grieve, but your grief will be turned into joy. 21 When a woman is giving birth, she has grief, because her hour has come; but once she has given birth to the child, she no longer remembers the distress, because of the joy that a human being has been born into the world. 22 So you too have grief now; but I will see you again, and your hearts will rejoice, and no one takes your joy away from you. 23 On that day you will ask me nothing. Truly, truly, I say to you, whatever you ask the Father in my name, he will give it to you. 24 Up to now you have asked nothing in my name. Ask and you will receive, so that your joy may be complete. 25 I have said these things to you in figures of speech. An hour is coming when I will no longer speak to you in figures, but will tell you openly about the Father. 26 On that day you will ask in my name. I am not telling you that I will ask the Father for you, 27 for the Father himself loves you, because you have loved me and have believed that I came out from God. 28 I came out from the Father and have come into the world; now I am leaving the world again and going to the Father." 29 His disciples said to him, "There, now you are speaking openly and not in any figure of speech. 30 Now we know that you know everything and do not need anyone to ask you questions. Because of this we believe that you came out from God." 31 Jesus answered them, "So now you believe? 32 Look, an hour is coming, and has already come, when you will be scattered, each to his own home, and you will leave me alone. Yet I am not alone, because the Father is with me. 33 I have told you these things so that in me you may have peace. In the world you will have trouble; but take heart, I have conquered the world."

1 After Jesus had said these things, he raised his eyes to heaven and said, "Father, the hour has come. Glorify your Son, so that your Son also may glorify you, 2 just as you gave him authority over all flesh, so that he may give eternal life to all those you have given him. 3 And this is eternal life: that they know you, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom you sent. 4 I have glorified you on earth; I have finished the work you gave me to do. 5 So now, Father, glorify me at your side with the glory I had with you before the world was. 6 I have made your name known to the people you gave me out of the world. They were yours; you gave them to me, and they have kept your word. 7 Now they know that everything you have given me comes from you, 8 because the words you gave me I have given to them. They accepted them, and they truly understood that I came out from you, and they believed that you sent me. 9 I am asking on their behalf. I am not asking on behalf of the world, but on behalf of those you have given me, because they are yours. 10 All that is mine is yours, and what is yours is mine; and I have been glorified in them. 11 I am no longer in the world, but they are in the world, and I am coming to you. Holy Father, keep them in your name, those you have given me, so that they may be one just as we are. 12 While I was with them in the world, I kept them in your name. I watched over those you gave me, and not one of them has been lost except the son of perdition, so that the Scripture would be fulfilled. 13 But now I am coming to you, and I am saying these things in the world so that they may have my joy made complete in themselves. 14 I have given them your word, and the world has hated them, because they do not belong to the world, just as I do not belong to the world. 15 My request is not that you take them out of the world, but that you keep them from the evil one. 16 They do not belong to the world, just as I do not belong to the world. 17 Make them holy by your truth; your word is truth. 18 Just as you sent me into the world, so I have sent them into the world. 19 And for their sake I consecrate myself, so that they too may be made holy in truth. 20 My request is not only for these, but also for those who will believe in me through their message, 21 that they may all be one; just as you, Father, are in me and I am in you, that they also may be one in us, so that the world may believe that you sent me. 22 The glory you have given me I have given to them, so that they may be one just as we are one, 23 I in them and you in me, so that they may be brought to complete unity, and the world may know that you sent me and that you loved them just as you loved me. 24 Father, it is my will that those you have given me may also be with me where I am, to see my glory, the glory you gave me because you loved me before the world was founded. 25 Righteous Father, the world has not known you, but I have known you, and these have come to know that you sent me. 26 I made your name known to them, and I will keep making it known, so that the love with which you loved me may be in them, and I may be in them."

CHAPTER 18

1 After saying these things, Jesus went out with his disciples to the other side of the Kidron ravine. There was a garden there, and he and his disciples went into it. 2 Judas, his betrayer, also knew the place, because Jesus had often gathered there with his disciples. [3] So Judas took the cohort of soldiers and some officers from the chief priests and the Pharisees and came there with lanterns, torches, and weapons. [4] Jesus, knowing everything that was about to happen to him, stepped forward and asked them, "Who is it you are looking for?" [5] They answered him, "Jesus of Nazareth." He told them, "I am he." Judas, his betrayer, was standing there with them too. [6] When he told them, "I am he," they stepped back and fell to the ground. [7] So he asked them again, "Who is it you are looking for?" They said, "Jesus of Nazareth." [8] Jesus answered, "I told you that I am he. So if it is me you want, let these men go." [9] This was to fulfill the word he had spoken: "Of those you have given me, I have not lost a single one." [10] Then Simon Peter, who had a sword, drew it and struck the high priest's servant, cutting off his right ear. The servant's name was Malchus. [11] Jesus said to Peter, "Put your sword back into its sheath. The cup the Father has given me, am I not to drink it?" [12] So the cohort, its commander, and the officers of the Jews seized Jesus and tied him up. [13] They brought him first to Annas, the father-in-law of Caiaphas, who was high priest that year. [14] Caiaphas was the one who had counseled the Jews that it was better for one man to die on behalf of the people. [15] Simon Peter was following Jesus, along with another disciple. That disciple was an acquaintance of the high priest, and he went with Jesus into the high priest's courtyard, [16] while Peter stood outside at the door. So the other disciple, the high priest's acquaintance, went out, spoke to the woman at the door, and brought Peter in. [17] The servant girl at the door said to Peter, "Surely you are not one of this man's disciples too?" He said, "I am not." [18] The servants and officers had made a charcoal fire because it was cold, and they stood around it warming themselves. Peter too was standing with them, warming himself. [19] The high priest questioned Jesus about his disciples and his teaching. [20] Jesus answered him, "I have spoken publicly to the world. I always taught in synagogues and in the temple, where the Jews always come together; I said nothing in secret. [21] Why are you questioning me? Question those who heard what I told them. They know what I said." [22] When he said this, one of the officers standing nearby slapped Jesus and said, "Is this the way you answer the high priest?" [23] Jesus answered him, "If I said something wrong, testify to what was wrong; but if I spoke rightly, why do you hit me?" [24] So Annas sent him, still bound, to Caiaphas the high priest.* [25] Meanwhile Simon Peter was standing there warming himself. They said to him, "Surely you are not one of his disciples too?" He denied it: "I am not." [26] One of the high priest's servants, a relative of the man whose ear Peter had cut off, said, "Did I not see you with him in the garden?" [27] Again Peter denied it, and at that moment a rooster crowed. [28] Then they took Jesus from Caiaphas to the governor's headquarters. It was early morning. They did not go into the headquarters themselves, so as not to become defiled and be unable to eat the Passover. [29] So Pilate came out to them and asked, "What charge are you bringing against this man?" [30] They answered him, "If this man were not a criminal, we would not have handed him over to you." [31] Pilate told them, "You take him and judge him by your own law." The Jews said to him, "We are not permitted to put anyone to death." [32] This was to fulfill what Jesus had said when he indicated the kind of death he was going to die. [33] Pilate went back into the headquarters, summoned Jesus, and asked him, "Are you the King of the Jews?" [34] Jesus answered, "Are you saying this on your own, or did others tell you about me?" [35] Pilate answered, "I am not a Jew, am I? Your own nation and its chief priests handed you over to me. What have you done?" [36] Jesus answered, "My kingdom does not belong to this world. If my kingdom belonged to this world, my servants would be fighting to keep me from being handed over to the Jews. But as it is, my kingdom is not from here." [37] Pilate said to him, "So you are a king?" Jesus answered, "You are saying that I am a king. For this I was born, and for this I came into the world: to testify to the truth. Everyone who belongs to the truth listens to my voice." [38] Pilate said to him, "What is truth?" With that he went out again to the Jews and told them, "I find no case against him at all. [39] But it is your custom that I release one man for you at the Passover. So do you want me to release the King of the Jews for you?" [40] Again they all shouted, "Not this one, but Barabbas!" Barabbas was a bandit.

CHAPTER 19

[1] Then Pilate took Jesus and had him flogged. [2] The soldiers wove a crown out of thorns and set it on his head, and they threw a purple robe around him. [3] They kept saying, "Hail, King of the Jews!" and slapping him. [4] Pilate went outside once more and said to them, "See, I am bringing him out to you so that you will know that I find no case against him." [5] So Jesus came out wearing the crown of thorns and the purple robe. Pilate said to them, "Look, the man!" [6] When the chief priests and the officers saw him, they shouted, "Crucify! Crucify!" Pilate told them, "You take him and crucify him; I find no case against him." [7] The Jews answered him, "We have a law, and under that law he must die, because he made himself out to be the Son of God." [8] When Pilate heard this, he became even more afraid. [9] He went back into the headquarters and asked Jesus, "Where do you come from?" But Jesus gave him no reply. [10] So Pilate said to him, "You will not speak to me? Do you not realize that I have authority to crucify you and authority to release you?" [11] Jesus answered, "You would have no authority over me at all if it had not been given to you from above. That is why the one who handed me over to you has the greater sin." [12] From that moment Pilate kept trying to release him, but the Jews shouted, "If you release this man, you are no friend of Caesar! Anyone who makes himself a king sets himself against Caesar." [13] On hearing these words, Pilate brought Jesus outside and sat down on the judge's seat at a place called the Stone Pavement, in Hebrew Gabbatha. [14] It was the day of Preparation for the Passover, about the sixth hour. He said to the Jews, "Look, your King!" [15] But they shouted, "Take him away! Take him away! Crucify him!" Pilate said to them, "Am I to crucify your King?" The chief priests answered, "We have no king except Caesar." [16] Then he handed him over to them to be crucified. So they took Jesus and led him off. [17] Carrying his own cross, he went out to what is called the Place of the Skull, in Hebrew Golgotha. [18] There they crucified him, and two others with him, one on either side, with Jesus between them. [19] Pilate also had a notice written and fastened to the cross. It read: "JESUS OF NAZARETH, THE KING OF THE JEWS." [20] Many of the Jews read this notice, because the place where Jesus was crucified was close to the city, and it was written in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin. [21] So the chief priests of the Jews told Pilate, "Do not write, 'The King of the Jews,' but rather, 'This man said, I am King of the Jews.'" [22] Pilate answered, "What I have written stays written." [23] When the soldiers had crucified Jesus, they took his clothes and divided them into four parts, one part for each soldier. They also took the tunic; but the tunic had no seam, being woven in one piece from top to bottom. [24] So they said to one another, "Let us not tear it; let us draw lots for it to see who gets it." This was to fulfill the Scripture that says, "They divided my clothes among them, and for my garment they cast lots." That is what the soldiers did.

[25] Standing near the cross of Jesus were his mother, his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene. [26] When Jesus saw his mother and the disciple he loved standing nearby, he said to his mother, "Woman, here is your son." [27] Then he said to the disciple, "Here is your mother." And from that hour the disciple took her into his home. [28] After this, Jesus, knowing that everything was now completed, said, so that the Scripture would be fulfilled, "I am thirsty." [29] A jar full of sour wine stood there, so they soaked a sponge in the sour wine, put it on a stalk of hyssop, and raised it to his mouth. [30] When Jesus had taken the sour wine, he said, "It is finished." Then he bowed his head and handed over his spirit. [31] Since it was the day of Preparation, the Jews did not want the bodies to remain on the cross on the Sabbath, for that Sabbath was a great day. So they asked Pilate to have the men's legs broken and the bodies removed. [32] The soldiers came and broke the legs of the first man, and then of the other one crucified with him. [33] But when they came to Jesus and saw that he was already dead, they did not break his legs. [34] Instead, one of the soldiers jabbed his side with a spear, and at once blood and water flowed out. [35] The one who saw this has testified, and his testimony is true. He knows that he is telling the truth, so that you may believe. [36] For these things took place to fulfill the Scripture: "Not a bone of his will be broken." [37] And another Scripture says, "They will look on the one they have pierced." [38] Afterward Joseph of Arimathea, who was a disciple of Jesus, though a secret one for fear of the Jews, asked Pilate for permission to remove the body of Jesus. Pilate allowed it, so he came and removed the body of Jesus. [39] Nicodemus, the man who had first come to Jesus at night, came too, bringing a mixture of myrrh and aloes weighing about a hundred pounds. [40]
They took Jesus' body and wrapped it in strips of linen with the spices, following the burial custom of the Jews. [41] At the place where he was crucified there was a garden, and in the garden a new tomb where no one had ever been laid. [42] Since it was the Jewish day of Preparation and the tomb was close by, they laid Jesus there.

CHAPTER 20

[1] Early on the first day of the week, while it was still dark, Mary Magdalene went to the tomb and saw that the stone had been removed from the tomb. [2] So she ran off to Simon Peter and to the other disciple, the one Jesus loved, and told them, "They have taken the Lord out of the tomb, and we do not know where they have put him!" [3] So Peter and the other disciple set out and made their way to the tomb. [4] The two of them were running together, but the other disciple outran Peter and reached the tomb first. [5] Bending down, he saw the strips of linen lying there, but he did not go in. [6] Then Simon Peter, who had been following him, arrived and went into the tomb. He saw the strips of linen lying there, [7] and the cloth that had been around his head, not lying with the linen strips but rolled up in a place by itself. [8] Then the other disciple, who had reached the tomb first, went in as well; he saw, and he believed. [9] For they did not yet understand the Scripture, that he had to rise from the dead. [10] So the disciples went back to their homes. [11] Mary, though, stood weeping outside the tomb. As she wept, she bent down to look into the tomb, [12] and she saw two angels in white seated where Jesus' body had been lying, one at the head and the other at the feet. [13] They said to her, "Woman, why are you weeping?" She told them, "They have taken my Lord away, and I do not know where they have put him." [14] After saying this, she turned around and saw Jesus standing there, but she did not know that it was Jesus. [15] Jesus said to her, "Woman, why are you weeping?
Who is it you are looking for?" Thinking he was the gardener, she said to him, "Sir, if you have carried him off, tell me where you have put him, and I will take him away." [16] Jesus said to her,
"Mary." She turned and said to him, "Rabboni!" (which means Teacher). [17] Jesus told her, "Stop clinging to me, for I have not yet gone up to my Father. But go to my brothers and tell them, 'I am going up to my Father and your Father, to my God and your God.'" [18] Mary Magdalene went and announced to the disciples that she had seen the Lord and that he had told her these things.
[19] On the evening of that same day, the first day of the week, the doors of the place where the disciples had gathered were locked for fear of the Jews. Jesus came and stood among them and said to them, "Peace to you." [20] After he said this, he showed them his hands and his side. The disciples rejoiced when they saw the Lord. [21] Jesus said to them again, "Peace to you. Just as the Father has sent me, so I am sending you." [22] And after saying this, he breathed on them and told them, "Receive the Holy Spirit. [23] Whose sins you forgive, they are forgiven them; whose sins you retain, they are retained." [24] Thomas, one of the twelve, the one called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came. [25]
The other disciples kept telling him, "We have seen the Lord!"
But he told them, "Unless I see the marks of the nails in his hands, put my finger into the marks of the nails, and put my hand into his side, I will never believe." [26] Eight days later his disciples were inside again, and Thomas was with them. Though the doors were locked, Jesus came and stood among them and said, “Peace to you.” [27] Then he said to Thomas, “Bring your finger here and look at my hands; bring your hand and put it into my side. Stop being unbelieving, and believe.” [28] Thomas answered him, “My Lord and my God!” [29] Jesus told him, “Because you have seen me, Thomas, you have believed. Blessed are those who have not seen and yet have believed.” [30] Jesus performed many other signs in front of his disciples that are not written in this book. [31] But these have been written so that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that by believing you may have life in his name.

CHAPTER 21

[1] After this Jesus showed himself to the disciples once more, by the Sea of Tiberias. This is how he showed himself. [2] Simon Peter, Thomas (called Didymus), Nathanael from Cana in Galilee, Zebedee’s sons, and two more of his disciples were together. [3] Simon Peter told them, “I am going out to fish.” They told him, “We will come with you too.” They went out and got into the boat at once, but that night they caught nothing. [4] Just as day was breaking, Jesus stood on the beach, but the disciples did not realize that it was Jesus. [5] Jesus called to them, “Lads, you do not have any fish, do you?” They answered him, “No.” [6] He told them, “Throw the net off the right side of the boat, and you will find some.” So they threw it, and now they could not haul it in because of the huge number of fish. [7] Then the disciple Jesus loved said to Peter, “It is the Lord!” When Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he tucked in his outer garment, for he was stripped for work, and threw himself into the sea.* [8] The other disciples came in the small boat, towing the net full of fish, for they were not far from land, only about two hundred cubits. [9] When they stepped ashore, they saw a charcoal fire burning, with fish lying on it, and bread. [10] Jesus told them, “Bring some of the fish you have just caught.” [11] Simon Peter went aboard and dragged the net ashore, full of big fish, a hundred and fifty-three of them; and even with so many, the net was not torn. [12] Jesus said to them, “Come, have breakfast.” None of the disciples dared to ask him, “Who are you?” for they knew it was the Lord. [13] Jesus came, took the bread, and gave it to them, and did the same with the fish. [14] This was now the third time Jesus appeared to his disciples after being raised from the dead. [15] When they had finished breakfast, Jesus said to Simon Peter, “Simon, son of Jonah, do you love me more than these?” He said to him, “Yes, Lord, you know that I have affection for you.” He told him, “Feed my lambs.”* [16] A second time he said to him, “Simon, son of Jonah, do you love me?” He said to him, “Yes, Lord, you know that I have affection for you.” He told him, “Tend my sheep.” [17] The third time he said to him, “Simon, son of Jonah, do you have affection for me?” Peter was hurt that he asked him the third time, “Do you have affection for me?” and he said to him, “Lord, you know everything; you know that I have affection for you.” Jesus told him, “Feed my sheep. [18] Truly, truly, I say to you, when you were young, you used to fasten your own belt and go wherever you wanted; but when you are old, you will stretch out your hands, and someone else will fasten your belt and take you where you do not want to go.” [19] He said this to indicate the kind of death by which Peter would glorify God. After saying this, he told him, “Follow me.” [20] Peter turned and saw the disciple Jesus loved following them, the one who had leaned back against his chest at the supper and asked, “Lord, who is it that is betraying you?” [21] Seeing him, Peter asked Jesus, “Lord, and what about him?” [22] Jesus told him, “If I want him to remain until I come, what concern is that of yours? As for you, follow me.” [23] So the word spread among the brothers that this disciple was not going to die. But Jesus had not said to him that he would not die, only, “If I want him to remain until I come, what concern is that of yours?” [24] This is the disciple who testifies about these things and who wrote them down, and we know that his testimony is true. [25] There are also many other things that Jesus did; if every one of them were written down, I suppose that not even the world itself could hold the books that would be written. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] I composed the first account, O Theophilus, about all that Jesus began both to do and to teach, [2] until the day on which, having given charge through the Holy Spirit to the apostles whom he had chosen, he was taken up; [3] to whom also, after he had suffered, he presented himself alive by many sure proofs, appearing to them over forty days and speaking of the things concerning the kingdom of God. [4] And being assembled together with them, he charged them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the promise of the Father, “which you heard from me; [5] for John baptized with water, but you will be baptized with the Holy Spirit before many days have passed.” [6] They therefore, when they had come together, were asking him, “Lord, is it at this time that you are restoring the kingdom to Israel?” [7] And he said to them, “It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father has put within his own authority. [8] But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you, and you will be witnesses to me both in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth.” [9] And when he had said these things, while they watched, he was taken up, and a cloud received him out of their sight. [10] And while they were gazing into heaven as he went, look, two men in white apparel stood by them, [11] who also said, “Men of Galilee, why do you stand gazing into heaven? This Jesus, who was taken up from you into heaven, will come in just the way you watched him going into heaven.” [12] Then they returned to Jerusalem from the mount called Olivet, which is near Jerusalem, a Sabbath day’s journey off. [13] And when they had come in, they went up into the upper room where they were staying, both

Peter and James and John and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew, James the son of Alphaeus and Simon the Zealot, and Judas the brother of James.[*] [14] All these were continuing with one accord in prayer and supplication, with the women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with his brothers. [15] And in those days Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples (a crowd of about a hundred and twenty names was gathered together) and said, [16] "Men and brothers, this Scripture had to be fulfilled, which the Holy Spirit spoke before by the mouth of David concerning Judas, who became guide to those who took Jesus; [17] for he was numbered with us and had obtained a portion of this ministry." [18] (Now this man purchased a field with the wages of unrighteousness, and falling headlong he burst asunder in the middle, and all his bowels gushed out. [19] And it was known to all who live in Jerusalem, so that that field is called in their own tongue Akeldama, that is, Field of Blood.) [20] "For it is written in the book of Psalms: 'Let his habitation be desolate, and let no one dwell in it'; and 'His office of oversight let another take.' [21] Therefore of these men who have kept company with us all the time that the Lord Jesus went in and out among us, [22] starting from the baptism of John up to the day on which he was taken up from us, one of these should become with us a witness of his resurrection." [23] And they set forth two: Joseph called Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and Matthias. [24] And praying, they said, "You, Lord, who know the hearts of all, make plain which one of these two you have chosen [25] to take the share of this ministry and apostleship from which Judas by transgression fell away, to go to his own place." [26] And they gave their lots, and the lot fell on Matthias, and he was numbered with the eleven apostles.

CHAPTER 2

[1] And when the day of Pentecost had fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. [2] And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing violent wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. [3] And there appeared to them tongues as of fire, parting among them, and it sat upon each one of them. [4] And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance. [5] And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, from every nation of those under heaven. [6] And when this sound arose, the multitude came together and was thrown into confusion, because each one was hearing them speak in his own dialect. [7] And they were all beside themselves and marveling, saying to one another, "See, are not all these who are speaking Galileans? [8] And how is it that we hear, each of us in our own tongue in which we were born? [9] Parthians and Medes and Elamites, and those dwelling in Mesopotamia, in Judea and Cappadocia, in Pontus and Asia, [10] in Phrygia and Pamphylia, in Egypt and the parts of Libya around Cyrene, and sojourners from Rome, both Jews and proselytes,[*] [11] Cretans and Arabians: we hear them speaking in our tongues the mighty things of God." [12] And they were all amazed and at a loss, saying to one another, "What can this mean?" [13] But others mocked and said, "They are full of sweet wine." [14] But Peter, taking his stand with the eleven, lifted up his voice and declared to them: "Men of Judea, and all you who dwell at Jerusalem, let this be known to you, and give ear to my words. [15] For these men are not drunk, as you suppose, seeing it is but the third hour of the day. [16] But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel: [17] 'And it shall be in the last days, says God, that I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams; [18] and even upon my menservants and upon my maidservants in those days I will pour out of my Spirit, and they shall prophesy. [19] And I will show wonders in the heaven above and signs on the earth beneath, blood and fire and vapor of smoke; [20] the sun shall be turned into darkness and the moon into blood, before the great and notable day of the Lord comes. [21] And it shall be that whoever calls upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.' [22] "Men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus the Nazarene, a man approved by God among you by mighty works and wonders and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as you yourselves also know, [23] this man, delivered up by the determined counsel and foreknowledge of God, you took, and by lawless hands you fastened him to a cross and killed him. [24] God raised him up, having loosed the pangs of death, since it was not possible that he should be held by it. [25] For David speaks concerning him: 'I foresaw the Lord always before my face, for he is at my right hand, that I may not be moved. [26] Therefore my heart rejoiced and my tongue was glad; moreover my flesh also shall encamp in hope, [27] because you will not leave my soul in Hades, nor will you allow your Holy One to see decay. [28] You have made known to me the ways of life; you will fill me with gladness in your presence.' [29] "Men and brothers, let me speak freely to you of the patriarch David, that he both died and was buried, and his tomb is with us to this day. [30] Being therefore a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn to him with an oath that of the fruit of his loins, as to the flesh, he would raise up the Christ to sit upon his throne, [31] he, seeing this beforehand, spoke of the resurrection of the Christ, that his soul was not left in Hades, nor did his flesh see decay. [32] This Jesus God has raised up, of which we are all witnesses. [33] Therefore, being exalted by the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he has shed forth this which you now see and hear. [34] For it was not David who ascended into the heavens, but he says himself, 'The Lord said to my Lord, "Sit at my right hand, [35] until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet."' [36] Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly that God has made this Jesus, whom you crucified, both Lord and Christ." [37] When they heard this, they were stung to the heart, and they said to Peter and to the rest of the apostles, "Men and brothers, what shall we do?" [38] And Peter said to them, "Repent, and let each of you be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of sins, and you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. [39] For the promise is to you and to your children, and to all who are far off, as many as the Lord our God will call to himself." [40] And with many other words he testified and kept exhorting, saying, "Be saved from this crooked generation." [41] Then those who gladly accepted his word were baptized, and on that day some three thousand souls were added. [42] And they continued steadfastly in the teaching of the apostles and in the fellowship, in the breaking of bread and in the prayers. [43] And fear came upon every soul, and many wonders and signs were being done through the apostles. [44] And all who believed were in one place and held all things in common. [45] and they sold their possessions and goods and distributed them to all, as anyone had need. [46] And day by day, continuing with one accord in the temple and breaking bread from house to house, they ate their food with gladness and simplicity of heart, [47] praising God and having favor with all the people. And the Lord added to the church daily those who were being saved.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Now Peter and John went up together into the temple at the hour of prayer, the ninth hour. [2] And a certain man, lame from his mother's womb, was being carried in, whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple called Beautiful, to ask alms from those entering the temple. [3] When he saw Peter and John about to go into the temple, he asked for alms. [4] And Peter, fixing his gaze on him together with John, said, "Look at us." [5] And he gave heed to them, expecting to receive something from them. [6] But Peter said, "Silver and gold I have none, but what I have, this I give to you: in the name of Jesus Christ the Nazarene, rise up and walk." [7] And seizing him by the right hand he lifted him up, and immediately his feet and ankle bones received strength; [8] and leaping up he stood and walked about, and he entered with them into the temple, walking and leaping and praising God. [9] And the whole people saw him walking about and praising God; [10] and they knew that it was he who used to sit for alms at the Beautiful Gate of the temple; and they were filled with wonder and amazement at what had happened to him. [11] And as the lame man who had been healed held fast to Peter and John, all the people ran together to them at the porch called Solomon's, utterly amazed. [12] When Peter saw it, he answered the people: "Men of Israel, why do you marvel at this? Or why do you look so earnestly at us, as though by our own power or godliness we had made him walk? [13] The God of Abraham and of Isaac and of Jacob, the God of our fathers, has glorified his Son Jesus, whom you handed over and denied in the presence of Pilate, when that man had judged it right to set him free.* [14] You denied the Holy and Righteous One and requested that a man who was a murderer be granted to you, [15] and the Author of life you killed, whom God raised from the dead; we are witnesses of this.* [16] And by faith in his name, his name has made this man strong, whom you see and know; and the faith that comes through him has given him this perfect soundness in the presence of you all. [17] "And now, brothers, I know that you did it in ignorance, as your rulers also did. [18] But the things that God announced beforehand by the mouth of all his prophets, that the Christ should suffer, he has thus fulfilled. [19] Repent therefore and turn, so that your sins may be blotted out, in order that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord, [20] and that he may send Jesus Christ, who was proclaimed to you beforehand, [21] whom heaven must receive until the times of the restoration of all things, of which God spoke by the mouth of all his holy prophets from of old. [22] For Moses truly said to the fathers, 'The Lord your God will raise up for you a prophet from among your brothers, like me; you shall listen to him in all things, whatever he says to you. [23] And it shall be that every soul that does not hear that prophet shall be utterly destroyed from among the people.' [24] Indeed, all the prophets from Samuel and those who came after him, as many as have spoken, have also foretold these days. [25] You are the sons of the prophets and of the covenant that God made with our fathers, saying to Abraham, 'And in your seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed.' [26] To you first, God, having raised up his Son Jesus, sent him blessing you, in turning away each one of you from your wickednesses."

CHAPTER 4

[1] As they spoke to the people, the priests and the captain of the temple and the Sadducees came upon them, [2] being grieved because they were teaching the people and announcing in Jesus the resurrection from the dead. [3] And they laid hands on them and put them in custody until the next day, for it was already evening. [4] However, many of those who heard the word believed, and the number of the men was about five thousand. [5] Now it happened on the next day that their rulers and elders and scribes were brought together in Jerusalem, [6] and Annas the high priest and Caiaphas and John and Alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the high priest. [7] And when they had set them in the midst, they asked, "By what power, or by what name, have you done this?" [8] Then Peter, filled with the Holy Spirit, said to them, "Rulers of the people, and elders of Israel, [9] if we this day are being examined concerning a good deed done to a sick man, by what means this man has been made whole, [10] let it be known to all of you and to all the people of Israel that by the name of Jesus Christ the Nazarene, whom you crucified, whom God raised from the dead, by him this man stands here before you whole. [11] He is the stone that was despised by you, the builders, which has become the head of the corner. [12] Nor is there salvation in any other; for there is no other name under heaven given among men by which we must be saved." [13] Now as they observed the boldness of Peter and John, and realized that they were unlettered and untrained men, they marveled; and they took note that they had been with Jesus. [14] And seeing the man who had been cured standing with them, they had nothing to say against it. [15] But when they had commanded them to go aside out of the council, they conferred among themselves, [16] saying, "What shall we do to these men? For that a notable sign has been done through them is plain to all who live in Jerusalem, and we cannot deny it. [17] But so that it may spread no further among the people, let us strictly threaten them to speak no more in this name to anyone." [18] And they called them and commanded them not to speak at all nor teach in the name of Jesus. [19] But Peter and John answered them, "Whether it is right before God to listen to you more than to God, judge for yourselves; [20] for we cannot keep from speaking the things we have seen and heard." [21] So when they had further threatened them, they let them go, finding nothing as to how they might punish them, because of the people; for all were glorifying God for what had been done. [22] For the man on whom this sign of healing had been wrought was above forty years old. [23] And being let go, they went to their own company and reported all that the chief priests and the elders had said to them. [24] When they heard it, they lifted up their voice to God with one accord and said, "Master, you are the God who made the heaven and the earth and the sea and all that is in them, [25] who by the mouth of your servant David said, 'Why did the nations rage, and the peoples plot vain things? [26] The kings of the earth took their stand, and the rulers were gathered together against the Lord and against his Christ.' [27] For in truth there were gathered together against your holy Son Jesus, whom you anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with Gentiles and peoples of Israel, [28] to do whatever your hand and your counsel determined beforehand to be done. [29] And now, Lord, look upon their threats, and grant to your servants that with all boldness they may speak your word, [30] while you stretch out your hand for healing, and signs and wonders come about through the name of your holy Son Jesus." [31] And when they had prayed, the place where they were gathered together was shaken; and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit, and they spoke the word of God with boldness. [32] And the multitude of those who believed had one heart and one soul; and not one of them said that any of his possessions was his own, but all things were common to them. [33] And with great power the apostles were giving their testimony to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, and great grace was upon them all. [34] For neither was there anyone among them who lacked; for as many as owned lands or houses sold them and brought the prices of the things that were sold [35] and laid them at the feet of the apostles; and distribution was made to each according as anyone had need. [36] And Joses, who by the apostles was surnamed Barnabas (which, translated, is Son of Encouragement), a Levite, a Cypriot by birth, [37] having a field, sold it and brought the money and laid it at the feet of the apostles.

CHAPTER 5

[1] But a certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira his wife, sold a piece of property [2] and kept back part of the price for himself, his wife also knowing it; and he brought a certain part and laid it at the feet of the apostles. [3] But Peter said, "Ananias, why has Satan filled your heart, that you should lie to the Holy Spirit and hold back part of the price of the land? [4] As long as it stayed unsold, was it not yours? And once sold, was it not in your own power? Why did you plan this deed in your heart? You have lied not to men but to God." [5] And Ananias, hearing these words, fell down and expired; and great fear came on all who heard these things. [6] And the young men got up, wrapped him up, carried him out, and buried him. [7] About three hours later his wife came in, not knowing what had happened. [8] And Peter answered her, "Tell me whether you sold the land for so much." And she said, "Yes, for so much." [9] Then Peter said to her, "How is it that you have agreed together to tempt the Spirit of the Lord? Look, the feet of those who buried your husband are at the door, and they will carry you out." [10] Then immediately she fell down at his feet and expired. And the young men came in and found her dead, and carrying her out, they buried her by her husband. [11] And great fear came upon the whole church and upon all who heard these things. [12] And through the hands of the apostles many signs and wonders were done among the people; and they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch. [13] And of the rest no one dared to join himself to them, but the people magnified them. [14] And believers were added to the Lord more and more, multitudes both of men and of women, [15] so that they brought the sick out into the streets and laid them on beds and pallets, that at least the shadow of Peter passing by might fall on some of them. [16] And a multitude also came together from the surrounding cities to Jerusalem, bringing sick people and those troubled by unclean spirits, and they were all healed. [17] Then the high priest rose up, and all who were with him, that is, the sect of the Sadducees, and they were filled with jealousy, [18] and they laid their hands on the apostles and put them in the public prison. [19] But an angel of the Lord opened the prison doors by night, and brought them out and said, [20] "Go, and standing in the temple, speak to the people all the words of this Life." [21] And when they heard this, they went into the temple early in the morning and taught. Now the high priest came, and those who were with him, and called together the council and all the senate of the children of Israel, and sent to the prison to have them brought. [22] But the officers, on arriving, did not find them in the prison; and they came back and reported, [23] "The prison we found shut with all security, and the guards standing outside before the doors; but when we opened it, we found no one within." [24] When the priest and the captain of the temple and the chief priests heard these words, they were perplexed about them, wondering where this would lead.* [25] Then someone came and reported to them, "Look, the men you placed in the prison are standing in the temple and teaching the people." [26] Then the captain went with the officers and brought them, but not by force, for they feared the people, lest they be stoned. [27] And having brought them, they stood them before the council. And the high priest asked them, [28] saying, "Did we not strictly charge you not to teach in this name? And look, you have filled Jerusalem with your teaching and intend to bring this man's blood upon us." [29] But Peter and the apostles answered, "We ought to obey God rather than men. [30] The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom you put to death by hanging him on a tree. [31] Him God has exalted with his right hand to be Prince and Savior, to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins. [32] And we are his witnesses of these things, and so is the Holy Spirit, whom God gave to those who obey him." [33] When they heard this, they were cut to the quick and were planning to kill them. [34] Then there stood up in the council a certain Pharisee named Gamaliel, a teacher of the law, honored by all the people, and he commanded that the apostles be put outside for a short time. [35] And he said to them, "Men of Israel, take heed to yourselves as to what you intend to do to these men. [36] For before these days Theudas rose up, saying that he was somebody, and a number of men, some four hundred, attached themselves to him; he was slain, and all who obeyed him were broken up and came to nothing. [37] After this man Judas the Galilean rose up in the days of the registration and drew away many people after him; he also perished, and all who obeyed him were scattered. [38] And now I say to you, stand away from these men and let them alone; for if this counsel or this work is of men, it will come to nothing; [39] but if it is from God, you cannot overthrow it; you might even be found fighting against God." [40] And they were persuaded by him; and having called for the apostles and beaten them, they commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jesus, and released them. [41] So they departed from the presence of the council, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for his name. [42] And daily, in the temple and from house to house, they did not stop teaching and announcing the good news of Jesus as the Christ.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Now in those days, as the disciples were multiplying, a murmuring arose from the Hellenists against the Hebrews, because their widows were overlooked in the daily service. [2] And the twelve called the multitude of the disciples to them and said, "It is not fitting that we should leave the word of God and serve tables. [3] Therefore, brothers, look out from among you seven men of good report, full of the Holy Spirit and wisdom, whom we may set over this business; [4] but we will give ourselves continually to prayer and to the ministry of the word." [5] And the saying pleased the whole multitude; and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and of the Holy Spirit, and Philip and Prochorus and Nicanor and Timon and Parmenas and Nicolas, a proselyte of Antioch, [6] whom they set before the apostles; and having prayed, they laid their hands on them. [7] And the word of God increased, and the number of the disciples in Jerusalem multiplied exceedingly, and a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith. [8] And Stephen, full of faith and power, was doing great wonders and signs among the people. [9] But some men rose up from the synagogue called the synagogue of the Freedmen, and of the Cyrenians and Alexandrians, and of those from Cilicia and Asia, disputing with Stephen. [10] And they were not able to withstand the wisdom and the Spirit with which he spoke. [11] Then they secretly induced men to say, "We have heard him speaking words of blasphemy against Moses and God." [12] And they stirred up the people and the elders and the scribes, and came upon him, caught him, and led him into the council, [13] and they set up false witnesses, who said, "This man does not cease speaking blasphemous words against this holy place and the law; [14] for we have heard him say that this Jesus the Nazarene will destroy this place and change the customs that Moses delivered to us." [15] And all who sat in the council, looking intently at him, saw his face like the face of an angel.

CHAPTER 7

[1] And the high priest said, "Are these things so?" [2] And he said, "Men, brothers and fathers, listen. The God of glory appeared to our father Abraham when he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Haran, [3] and said to him, 'Go out from your land and from your relatives, and come into the land that I will show you.' [4] Then he came out of the land of the Chaldeans and dwelt in Haran; and from there, when his father was dead, God moved him into this land in which you now dwell. [5] And he gave him no inheritance in it, not so much as a foot's breadth; yet he promised that he would give it to him for a possession, and to his seed after him, when as yet he had no child. [6] And God spoke thus: that his seed would be strangers in a foreign land, and that they would bring them into bondage and mistreat them four hundred years. [7] 'And the nation to which they will be in bondage I will judge,' said God, 'and after that they will come out and serve me in this place.' [8] And he gave him a covenant of circumcision; and so Abraham fathered Isaac and circumcised him on the eighth day; and Isaac fathered Jacob, and Jacob the twelve patriarchs. [9] "And the patriarchs, moved with envy, sold Joseph into Egypt. But God was with him, [10] and delivered him out of all his afflictions, and gave him favor and wisdom in the sight of Pharaoh king of Egypt, who made him governor over Egypt and all his house. [11] Then a famine came upon all the land of Egypt and Canaan, and great affliction, and our fathers found no sustenance. [12] But when Jacob heard that there was grain in Egypt, he sent out our fathers the first time. [13] And the second time Joseph was made known to his brothers, and Joseph's family was disclosed to Pharaoh. [14] Then Joseph sent and called for his father Jacob and all his relatives, seventy-five souls. [15] So Jacob went down into Egypt, and he died, he and our fathers, [16] and they were carried over to Shechem and placed in the tomb that Abraham had bought for a price in silver from the sons of Hamor of Shechem. [17] "But as the time of the promise drew near which God had sworn to Abraham, the people grew and multiplied in Egypt, [18] until another king arose who did not know Joseph. [19] He dealt craftily with our people and mistreated our fathers, forcing them to cast out their infants so that they would not survive. [20] At that time Moses was born, and he was exceedingly fair before God; and he was nourished three months in his father's house. [21] And when he was cast out, Pharaoh's daughter took him up and nourished him as her own son. [22] And Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in words and in deeds. [23] "When he was nearing forty years of age, it came into his heart to visit his brothers, the children of Israel. [24] And seeing one of them suffer wrong, he defended him and avenged the one who was oppressed, and struck the Egyptian. [25] For he supposed his brothers would have understood that God by his hand was giving them deliverance; but they did not understand. [26] And the next day he showed himself to them as they were fighting and urged them to be at peace, saying, 'Men, you are brothers; why do you wrong one another?' [27] But the one who did his neighbor wrong thrust him away, saying, 'Who made you a ruler and a judge over us? [28] Do you want to kill me as you did the Egyptian yesterday?' [29] Then Moses fled at this saying, and was a stranger in the land of Midian, where he fathered two sons. [30] "And when forty years were fulfilled, there appeared to him in the wilderness of Mount Sinai an angel of the Lord in a flame of fire in a bush. [31] When Moses saw it, he wondered at the sight; and as he drew near to behold it, the voice of the Lord came to him: [32] 'I am the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob.' And Moses began to tremble and did not venture to look. [33] And the Lord said to him, 'Put off the sandals from your feet, for the place where you stand is holy ground. [34] I have seen, I have seen the oppression of my people who are in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and I have come down to rescue them; and now come, I will send you into Egypt.' [35] "This Moses whom they refused, saying, 'Who made you a ruler and a judge?', him God sent to be ruler and redeemer by the hand of the angel who appeared to him in the bush. [36] He brought them out, after he had shown wonders and signs in the land of Egypt, and in the Red Sea, and in the wilderness forty years. [37] "This is the Moses who said to the children of Israel, 'The Lord your God will raise up for you a prophet from among your brothers, like me; you shall listen to him.' [38] This is he who was in the congregation in the wilderness with the angel who spoke to him on Mount Sinai, and with our fathers; who received living oracles to give to us; [*39] to whom our fathers would not be obedient, but thrust him away, and in their hearts turned back to Egypt, [40] saying to Aaron, 'Make us gods who will go before us; for this Moses who led us out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him.' [41] And they made a calf in those days, and offered a sacrifice to the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their own hands. [42] Then God turned and gave them up to serve the host of heaven, as it is written in the book of the prophets: 'Did you offer to me slain beasts and sacrifices forty years in the wilderness, O house of Israel? [43] Yes, you took up the tabernacle of Moloch and the star of your god Remphan, figures that you made in order to worship them; and I will carry you away beyond Babylon.' [44] "Our fathers had the tabernacle of the testimony in the wilderness, as he who spoke to Moses had appointed, that he should make it according to the pattern he had seen; [45] which our fathers also, having received it in turn, brought in with Joshua into the possession of the nations, whom God drove out before the face of our fathers, until the days of David, [46] who found favor before God and asked that he might find a dwelling for the God of Jacob. [47] But Solomon built him a house. [48] However, the Most High does not dwell in temples made by hands; as the prophet says, [49] 'Heaven is my throne, and earth the footstool of my feet. What house will you build me? says the Lord; or what is the place of my rest? [50] Has not my hand made all these things?' [51] "You stiff-necked and uncircumcised in heart and ears! You always resist the Holy Spirit; as your fathers did, so do you. [52] Which of the prophets did your fathers not persecute? And they killed those who foretold the coming of the Righteous One, of whom you have now become the betrayers and murderers; [53] you who received the law by the direction of angels and have not kept it." [54] When they heard these things, they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed their teeth at him. [55] But he, being full of the Holy Spirit, looked intently into heaven and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing at the right hand of God, [56] and he said, "Look, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of Man standing at the right hand of God." [57] Then they cried out with a loud voice, stopped their ears, and rushed upon him with one accord; [58] and having driven him out of the city, they stoned him; and the witnesses laid aside their garments at the feet of a young man whose name was Saul. [59] And they stoned Stephen as he was calling upon the Lord and saying, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." [*60] Then he knelt down and cried with a loud voice, "Lord, do not lay this sin to their charge." And when he had said this, he fell asleep.

CHAPTER 8

[1] And Saul was consenting to his death. On that day a great persecution arose against the church in Jerusalem; and they were all scattered throughout the regions of Judea and Samaria, except the apostles. [2] And devout men carried Stephen to burial and made great lamentation over him. [3] As for Saul, he was laying waste the church, entering every house, and dragging off men and women he delivered them to prison. [4] So those who had been scattered went everywhere preaching the word. [5] And Philip went down to a city of Samaria and preached the Christ to them. [6] And the crowds with one accord gave heed to the things spoken by Philip, as they heard and saw the signs he was doing. [7] For from many who had unclean spirits, they came out, crying with a loud voice; and many who were paralyzed and lame were cured. [8] And there was great joy in that city. [9] But a certain man named Simon had previously been practicing magic in the city and astonishing the nation of Samaria, saying that he himself was someone great. [10] To him they all gave heed, from the least to the greatest, saying, "This man is the great power of God." [11] And they gave heed to him, because for a long time he had astonished them with his magic arts. [12] But when they believed Philip, who was preaching the good news concerning the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women. [13] Then Simon himself also believed; and when he was baptized, he continued with Philip, and he was astonished, beholding the miracles and signs that were done. [14] Now when the apostles in Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent Peter and John to them, [15] who came down and prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Spirit; [16] for as yet he had fallen upon none of them; they had only been baptized into the name of the Lord Jesus. [17] Then they laid their hands on them, and they received the Holy Spirit. [18] And when Simon saw that through the laying on of the apostles' hands the Holy Spirit was given, he offered them money, [19] saying, "Give me also this authority, so that on whomever I lay hands, he may receive the Holy Spirit." [20] But Peter said to him, "Your silver perish with you, because you thought that the gift of God could be acquired with money! [21] You have neither part nor lot in this matter, for your heart is not right in the sight of God. [22] Repent therefore of this wickedness of yours, and pray to God, if perhaps the thought of your heart may be forgiven you. [23] For I see that you are in the gall of bitterness and the bond of unrighteousness." [24] Then Simon answered, "Pray to the Lord for me, that none of the things you have spoken may come upon me." [25] And they, when they had testified and spoken the word of the Lord, returned to Jerusalem, and preached the gospel in many villages of the Samaritans. [26] And an angel of the Lord spoke to Philip, saying, "Arise and go toward the south, along the way that goes down from Jerusalem to Gaza." That way is desert. [27] So he rose and went; and look, a man of Ethiopia, a eunuch, an official of Candace queen of the Ethiopians, who was over all her treasure, who had come to Jerusalem to worship, [28] was returning; and sitting in his chariot, he was reading the prophet Isaiah. [29] Then the Spirit said to Philip, "Go near and join yourself to this chariot." [30] Running up, Philip heard him reading the prophet Isaiah and said, "Do you really understand what you are reading?" [31] And he said, "Why, how could I, unless someone guides me?" And he begged Philip to come up and sit with him. [32] Now the passage of Scripture which he read was this: "He was led as a sheep to slaughter, and as a lamb is dumb before its shearer, so he does not open his mouth. [33] In his humiliation his judgment was taken away; and who will declare his generation? For his life is taken away from the earth." [34] And the eunuch said to Philip in reply, "Please tell me, about whom does the prophet say this? About himself, or about someone else?" [35] Then Philip opened his mouth, and beginning from this Scripture he preached Jesus to him. [36] And as they went on their way, they came to some water, and the eunuch said, "See, water! What hinders me from being baptized?" [37] And Philip said, "If you believe with all your heart, it is allowed." And he answered, "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God." [38] And he commanded the chariot to stand still, and both Philip and the eunuch went down into the water, and he baptized him. [39] And when they came up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught Philip away, and the eunuch saw him no more, for he went on his way rejoicing. [40] But Philip was found at Azotus, and passing through, he preached the gospel in all the cities until he came to Caesarea.

CHAPTER 9

[1] But Saul, still breathing out threats and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went to the high priest [2] and requested from him letters to Damascus, to the synagogues, so that if he found any of the Way, whether men or women, he might bring them bound to Jerusalem. [3] And as he journeyed, he came near Damascus, and suddenly a light from heaven flashed around him; [4] and he fell to the ground and heard a voice saying to him, "Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me?" [5] And he said, "Who are you, Lord?" And the Lord said, "I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting. It is hard for you to kick against the goads." [6] And trembling and astonished he said, "Lord, what do you want me to do?" And the Lord said to him, "Rise and go into the city, and you will be told what you must do." [7] And the men who journeyed with him stood dumbfounded, hearing the voice but seeing no one. [8] And Saul was raised up from the ground, and though his eyes were open he saw no one; and leading him by the hand they brought him into Damascus. [9] And for three days he was unable to see, and he neither ate nor drank. [10] There was a certain disciple at Damascus named Ananias; and the Lord said to him in a vision, "Ananias." And he said, "Here I am, Lord." [11] And the Lord said to him, "Arise and go to the street called Straight, and inquire in the house of Judas for one called Saul, of Tarsus; for look, he is praying, [12] and he has seen in a vision a man named Ananias coming in and laying a hand on him so that he may receive his sight." [13] And Ananias answered, "Lord, I have heard from many about this man, how many evil things he has done to your saints in Jerusalem; [14] and here he has authority from the chief priests to bind all who call upon your name." [15] But the Lord said to him, "Go, for he is a chosen vessel of mine, to carry my name before Gentiles and kings and the children of Israel; [16] for I will show him how many things he must suffer for my name's sake." [17] And Ananias went his way and entered the house, and putting his hands on him he said, "Brother Saul, the Lord, Jesus, who appeared to you on the way as you came, has sent me so that you may receive your sight and be filled with the Holy Spirit." [18] And immediately there fell from his eyes something like scales, and he received sight at once; and he arose and was baptized; [19] and when he had taken food, he was strengthened. And Saul was with the disciples at Damascus for some days. [20] And immediately he proclaimed the Christ in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God. [21] And all who heard were astonished and said, "Is this not he who destroyed those who called on this name in Jerusalem, and came here for this purpose, that he might bring them bound to the chief priests?" [22] But Saul kept growing stronger, and he confounded the Jews who lived at Damascus, proving that this is the Christ. [23] And after many days were fulfilled, the Jews took counsel together to kill him; [24] but their plot was made known to Saul. And they watched the gates day and night to kill him; [25] but the disciples took him by night and let him down through the wall, lowering him in a basket. [26] And when Saul had come to Jerusalem, he tried to join himself to the disciples; but they were all afraid of him, not believing that he was a disciple. [27] But Barnabas took him and brought him to the apostles, and told them how he had seen the Lord on the road, and that he had spoken to him, and how at Damascus he had spoken boldly in the name of Jesus. [28] So he was with them, coming in and going out at Jerusalem, and speaking boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus. [29] And he talked and disputed with the Hellenists, but they went about to kill him. [30] And when the brothers learned of it, they brought him down to Caesarea and sent him off to Tarsus. [31] Then the churches throughout all Judea and Galilee and Samaria had rest and were edified; and walking in the fear of the Lord and in the comfort of the Holy Spirit, they were multiplied. [32] Now as Peter was passing through all parts, he came down also to the saints who lived at Lydda. [33] There he found a certain man named Aeneas, who had kept his bed eight years and was paralyzed. [34] And Peter said to him, "Aeneas, Jesus the Christ heals you; rise and make your bed." And immediately he rose. [35] And all who lived at Lydda and Sharon saw him, and they turned to the Lord. [36] And at Joppa there was a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas; this woman was full of good works and acts of mercy which she did. [37] And in those days she fell sick and died; and having washed her, they laid her in an upper room. [38] And since Lydda was near Joppa, the disciples, having heard that Peter was there, sent two men to him, urging him not to delay in coming to them. [39] And Peter rose and went with them. When he arrived, they brought him up into the upper room, and all the widows stood by him weeping and showing the tunics and garments that Dorcas used to make while she was with them. [40] But Peter put them all out, knelt down and prayed; and turning to the body he said, "Tabitha, arise." And she opened her eyes, and seeing Peter she sat up. [41] And he gave her his hand and raised her up; and when he had called the saints and the widows, he presented her alive. [42] And it was known throughout all Joppa, and many believed in the Lord. [43] And he remained many days in Joppa with one Simon, a tanner.

CHAPTER 10

[1] There was a certain man in Caesarea named Cornelius, a centurion of the cohort called the Italian cohort, [2] a devout man and one who feared God with all his house, who gave much alms to the people and prayed to God always. [3] He saw plainly in a vision, about the ninth hour of the day, an angel of God coming in to him and saying to him, "Cornelius." [4] And when he looked at him, he was afraid and said, "What is it, lord?" And he said to him, "Your prayers and your alms have come up for a memorial before God. [5] And now send men to Joppa and call for Simon, who is surnamed Peter; [6] he is lodging with a certain Simon, a tanner, whose house is by the sea. He will tell you what you must do." [7] And when the angel who spoke to Cornelius had departed, he called two of his household servants and a devout soldier from among those who waited on him continually, [8] and when he had explained everything to them, he sent them to Joppa. [9] On the next day, as they went on their journey and drew near the city, Peter went up on the housetop to pray, about the sixth hour. [10] And he became very hungry and wanted to eat; but while they made ready, a trance fell upon him, [11] and he saw heaven opened and a certain vessel descending to him, like a great sheet, bound at the four corners and let down to the earth, [12] in which were all the four-footed animals of the earth, and wild beasts and creeping things and birds of the air. [13] And a voice came to him: "Rise, Peter; kill and eat." [14] But Peter said, "Not so, Lord; for I have never eaten anything common or unclean." [15] And a voice came to him again a second time: "What God has cleansed, do not call common." [16] This was done three times, and the vessel was taken up again into heaven. [17] Now while Peter was at a loss within himself as to what the vision he had seen might be, look, the men sent from Cornelius, having asked their way to Simon's house, stood at the gate, [18] and calling out, they asked whether Simon, surnamed Peter, was a guest there. [19] And while Peter thought on the vision, the Spirit said to him, "Behold, three men seek you. [20] Arise therefore, go down, and go with them, doubting nothing, for I have sent them." [21] Then Peter went down to the men who had been sent to him from Cornelius and said, "Look, I am the one you seek. What is the cause for which you have come?" [22] And they said, "Cornelius, a centurion, a righteous man and one who fears God, of good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned by a holy angel to send for you to come to his house and to hear words from you." [23] So he called them in and gave them lodging. And the next day Peter went out with them, and some of the brothers from Joppa went along with him. [24] And the day after, they entered Caesarea. And Cornelius was waiting for them and had called together his kinsmen and close friends. [25] And as Peter was coming in, Cornelius met him, and falling down at his feet, worshiped him. [26] But Peter raised him up, saying, "Stand up; I myself am also a man." [27] And as he talked with him, he went in and found many who had come together. [28] And he said to them, "You yourselves know that it is unlawful for a man who is a Jew to keep company with or come to someone of another race; but God has shown me that I should call no man common or unclean. [29] Therefore I came without objecting as soon as I was sent for. I ask, then, for what reason you have sent for me." [30] And Cornelius said, "Four days ago I was fasting until this hour, and at the ninth hour I was praying in my house, and suddenly a man stood before me in bright clothing, [31] and said, 'Cornelius, your prayer is heard, and your alms are remembered in the sight of God. [32] Send therefore to Joppa and call here Simon, whose surname is Peter; he is lodging in the house of one Simon, a tanner, by the seaside. When he comes, he will speak to you.' [33] So I sent for you at once, and you have done well to come. Now therefore we are all here present before God to hear all the things that God has commanded you." [34] Then Peter opened his mouth and said, "Truly I perceive that God is not one to show partiality, [35] but in every nation the one who fears him and works righteousness is acceptable to him. [36] The word that he sent to the children of Israel, announcing peace through Jesus Christ (he is Lord of all), [37] you yourselves know: the thing that happened throughout all Judea, beginning from Galilee after the baptism that John preached: [38] how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Spirit and with power; who went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, for God was with him. [39] And we are witnesses of all that he did both in the land of the Jews and in Jerusalem; whom they killed by hanging him on a tree. [40] God raised him up on the third day and caused him to be seen, [41] not to all the people, but to witnesses chosen beforehand by God, to us, who ate and drank with him after he rose from the dead. [42] And he commanded us to preach to the people and to testify solemnly that it is he who was ordained by God to be judge of the living and the dead. [43] To him all the prophets bear witness, that through his name everyone who believes in him receives forgiveness of sins." [44] While Peter was yet speaking these words, the Holy Spirit fell on all who were hearing the word. [45] And those of the circumcision who believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because on the Gentiles also the gift of the Holy Spirit had been poured out; [46] for they heard them speaking with tongues and magnifying God. Then Peter answered, [47] "Can anyone forbid water, that these should not be baptized, who have received the Holy Spirit just as we have?" [48] And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then they asked him to stay for some days.

[1] Now the apostles and the brothers who were throughout Judea heard that the Gentiles too had received the word of God. [2] And when Peter had come up to Jerusalem, those of the circumcision contended with him, [3] saying, "You went in to uncircumcised men and ate with them!" [4] But Peter began and set it out to them in order, saying, [5] "I was in the city of Joppa, praying, and in a trance I saw a vision: a certain vessel descending like a great sheet let down out of heaven by four corners, and it came even to me. [6] When I had looked at it intently, I considered it and saw four-footed animals of the earth, and wild beasts and creeping things and birds of the air. [7] And I heard a voice saying to me, 'Rise, Peter; kill and eat.' [8] But I said, 'Not so, Lord; for nothing common or unclean has at any time entered my mouth.' [9] But a voice answered me a second time from heaven, 'What God has cleansed, do not call common.' [10] And this was done three times, and all were drawn up again into heaven. [11] And at that very moment three men stood at the house where I was, sent to me from Caesarea. [12] And the Spirit told me to go with them, doubting nothing. Moreover these six brothers went with me, and we entered the man's house. [13] And he told us how he had seen the angel standing in his house and saying to him, 'Send men to Joppa and call for Simon, who is surnamed Peter, [14] who will speak words to you by which you and all your household will be saved.' [15] And as I began to speak, the Holy Spirit fell upon them, just as on us at the beginning. [16] And I remembered the word of the Lord, how he used to say, 'John baptized with water, but you will be baptized with the Holy Spirit.' [17] If then God gave them the like gift as he did to us when we believed on the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I, that I could withstand God?" [18] When they heard these things, they held their peace and glorified God, saying, "So then God has also granted to the Gentiles repentance that brings life." [19] Now those who had been scattered abroad by the tribulation that arose over Stephen went through as far as Phoenicia and Cyprus and Antioch, speaking the word to none but Jews only. [20] But among them were some men of Cyprus and Cyrene, who, when they had come to Antioch, spoke to the Hellenists, proclaiming the good news of the Lord Jesus. [21] And the hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number believed and turned to the Lord. [22] And news of them came to the ears of the church in Jerusalem, and they sent out Barnabas to go as far as Antioch. [23] When he came and saw the grace of God, he was glad, and he exhorted them all to hold fast to the Lord with purpose of heart; [24] for he was a good man and full of the Holy Spirit and of faith. And a considerable crowd was added to the Lord. [25] Then Barnabas departed to Tarsus to seek Saul, [26] and when he had found him, he brought him to Antioch. For a whole year they assembled with the church and taught a large crowd; and the disciples were first called Christians at Antioch. [27] In those days prophets came down from Jerusalem to Antioch. [28] And one of them, named Agabus, stood up and signified by the Spirit that there was going to be a great famine throughout all the world; and it came to pass in the days of Claudius Caesar. [29] And the disciples, each according to his means, determined to send relief to the brothers who lived in Judea; [30] which they also did, sending it to the elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

CHAPTER 12

[1] Now about that time Herod the king stretched out his hands to mistreat some of the church. [2] And he killed James the brother of John with the sword. [3] And because he saw that it pleased the Jews, he went on to seize Peter also. (Those were the days of Unleavened Bread.) [4] And having apprehended him, he put him in prison and handed him over to four squads of four soldiers each to keep him, intending after the Passover to bring him forth to the people. [5] So Peter was being kept in the prison; but prayer was being made earnestly by the church to God for him. [6] And when Herod was about to bring him forth, that same night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains; and the keepers before the door were guarding the prison. [7] And look, an angel of the Lord stood by him, and a light shone in the cell; and he struck Peter's side and raised him up, saying, "Arise quickly." And his chains fell off from his hands. [8] And the angel said to him, "Gird yourself and bind on your sandals." And he did so. And he said to him, "Cast your cloak about you and follow me." [9] And he went out and followed him, and did not know that it was true which was done by the angel, but thought he saw a vision. [10] When they were past the first and the second guard, they came to the iron gate that leads into the city, which opened to them by itself; and they went out and passed on through one street, and immediately the angel departed from him. [11] And when Peter had come to himself, he said, "Now I know of a truth that the Lord has sent his angel and has delivered me out of the hand of Herod and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews." [12] And when he had considered the matter, he came to the house of Mary the mother of John, whose surname was Mark, where many were gathered together praying. [13] And as Peter knocked at the door of the gate, a servant girl named Rhoda came to listen; [14] and recognizing Peter's voice, for joy she did not open the gate, but ran in and told them that Peter stood before the gate. [15] But they said to her, "You are raving." But she kept affirming that it was so. Then they said, "It is his angel." [16] But Peter continued knocking; and when they had opened the door and saw him, they were astonished. [17] But beckoning to them with his hand to be silent, he declared to them how the Lord had led him out of the prison. And he said, "Report these things to James and to the brothers." And he went out and went to another place. [18] When day came, there was no small stir among the soldiers over what had become of Peter. 19 And when Herod had sought for him and did not find him, he examined the guards and commanded that they be led away to execution. And he went down from Judea to Caesarea and stayed there. 20 Now Herod was furiously angry with the people of Tyre and Sidon; but they came to him with one accord, and having made Blastus, the king's chamberlain, their friend, they asked for peace, because their country was fed by the king's country. 21 And on a set day Herod, arrayed in royal apparel, sat on the judgment seat and made a public address to them. 22 And the people kept shouting, "The voice of a god and not of a man!" 23 And immediately an angel of the Lord struck him, because he did not give the glory to God; and he was eaten by worms and expired. 24 But the word of God grew and multiplied. 25 And Barnabas and Saul returned from Jerusalem, having fulfilled their ministry, and took with them John, whose surname was Mark.

CHAPTER 13

1 Now there were at Antioch, in the church that was there, certain prophets and teachers: Barnabas, and Simeon who was called Niger, and Lucius the Cyrenian, and Manaen, a foster brother of Herod the tetrarch, and Saul. 2 While they were ministering to the Lord and fasting, the Holy Spirit said, "Separate now for me Barnabas and Saul for the work to which I have called them." 3 Then, when they had fasted and prayed and laid their hands on them, they sent them away. 4 So they, being sent forth by the Holy Spirit, went down to Seleucia, and from there they sailed to Cyprus. 5 And when they were at Salamis, they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews; and they had John also as their attendant. 6 And when they had gone through the island as far as Paphos, they found a certain magician, a false prophet, a Jew, whose name was Bar-Jesus, 7 who was with the proconsul, Sergius Paulus, a prudent man. He called for Barnabas and Saul and desired to hear the word of God. 8 But Elymas the magician (for so his name is translated) withstood them, seeking to turn the proconsul aside from the faith. 9 But Saul, who is also Paul, filled with the Holy Spirit, fixed his eyes on him 10 and said, "O full of all deceit and all villainy, you son of the devil, you enemy of all righteousness, will you not stop perverting the straight ways of the Lord? 11 And now, see, the hand of the Lord is upon you, and you shall be blind, not seeing the sun for a season." And immediately there fell on him a mist and a darkness, and he went about seeking someone to lead him by the hand. 12 Then the proconsul, when he saw what was done, believed, being astonished at the teaching of the Lord. 13 Now when Paul and his company had set sail from Paphos, they came to Perga in Pamphylia; and John departed from them and returned to Jerusalem. 14 But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antioch of Pisidia, and went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day and sat down. 15 After the reading of the law and the prophets, the rulers of the synagogue sent to them, saying, "Men and brothers, if you have any word of exhortation for the people, say on." 16 Then Paul stood up, and beckoning with his hand he said, "Men of Israel, and you who fear God, give ear. 17 The God of this people Israel chose our fathers and exalted the people when they dwelt as strangers in the land of Egypt, and with a high arm he brought them out of it. 18 And for a period of about forty years he bore with their ways in the wilderness. 19 And when he had destroyed seven nations in the land of Canaan, he divided their land to them by lot. 20 And after these things, for about four hundred and fifty years, he gave them judges until Samuel the prophet.* 21 And afterward they desired a king, and God gave them Saul the son of Kish, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, for the space of forty years. 22 And when he had removed him, he raised up David to be their king, to whom also he gave testimony and said, 'I have found David the son of Jesse, a man after my own heart, who will do all my will.' 23 From this man's seed God, according to his promise, has raised up for Israel a Savior, Jesus, 24 after John had first preached, before his coming, a baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel. 25 And as John was fulfilling his course, he said, 'Whom do you think I am? I am not he. But look, there comes one after me, whose sandal I am not worthy to loose from his feet.' 26 "Men and brothers, children of the stock of Abraham, and those among you who fear God, to you the word of this salvation has been sent. 27 For those who live in Jerusalem, and their rulers, not knowing him, nor yet the voices of the prophets that are read every Sabbath, fulfilled them by condemning him. 28 And though they found no cause of death in him, they asked Pilate that he should be put to death. 29 And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, they took him down from the tree and laid him in a tomb. 30 But God raised him from the dead; 31 and for many days he was seen by those who had come up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who are his witnesses to the people. 32 And we bring you the good news that the promise which was made to the fathers, God has fulfilled to us their children, in that he raised up Jesus; 33 as it is also written in the second psalm, 'You are my Son; today I have begotten you.' 34 And concerning the fact that he raised him from the dead, no more to return to decay, he has spoken in this way: 'I will give you the holy and sure blessings of David.'* 35 Therefore he also says in another place, 'You will not allow your Holy One to see decay.' 36 For David, having served the counsel of God in his own generation, fell asleep and was laid beside his fathers and saw decay; 37 but he whom God raised up did not see decay. 38 Be it known to you therefore, men and brothers, that through this man is preached to you the forgiveness of sins; 39 and from all things from which you could not be justified by the law of Moses, by him everyone who believes is justified. 40 Beware therefore, lest that come upon you which is spoken in the prophets: 41 'Behold, you despisers, and wonder and perish; for I work a work in your days, a work that you will by no means believe, though someone declares it to you.'" 42 And as the Jews were going out of the synagogue, the Gentiles begged that these words be spoken to them the next Sabbath. 43 And when the congregation had broken up, many of the Jews and of the devout proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas, who spoke to them and urged them to continue in the grace of God. [44] And on the next Sabbath almost the whole city gathered together to hear the word of God. [45] But when the Jews saw the crowds, they were filled with envy and spoke against the things spoken by Paul, contradicting and blaspheming. [46] Then Paul and Barnabas grew bold and said, "It was necessary that the word of God should first be spoken to you; but seeing you put it from you and judge yourselves unworthy of eternal life, look, we turn to the Gentiles. [47] For so the Lord has commanded us: 'I have set you as a light of the Gentiles, that you should be for salvation to the end of the earth.'" [48] And when the Gentiles heard this, they were glad and glorified the word of the Lord, and as many as were appointed to eternal life believed. [49] And the word of the Lord was published throughout all the region. [50] But the Jews stirred up the devout and honorable women and the chief men of the city, and raised persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them from their borders. [51] But they shook off the dust from their feet against them and came to Iconium. [52] And the disciples were filled with joy and with the Holy Spirit.

CHAPTER 14

[1] And at Iconium they went together into the synagogue of the Jews, and so spoke that a great multitude both of Jews and of Greeks believed. [2] But the unbelieving Jews stirred up the souls of the Gentiles and embittered them against the brothers. [3] Therefore they stayed a long time, speaking boldly in the Lord, who gave testimony to the word of his grace and granted signs and wonders to be done by their hands. [4] But the multitude of the city was divided, and part held with the Jews, and part with the apostles. [5] And when a rush was made by both the Gentiles and the Jews with their rulers, to treat them shamefully and to stone them, [6] they became aware of it and fled to the cities of Lycaonia, Lystra and Derbe, and the region round about; [7] and there they preached the gospel. [8] And at Lystra there sat a certain man who had no strength in his feet, lame from his mother's womb, who had never walked. [9] This man heard Paul speaking; and Paul, steadfastly beholding him and perceiving that he had faith to be healed, [10] said with a loud voice, "Stand upright on your feet." And he leaped up and walked. [11] And when the crowds saw what Paul had done, they lifted up their voices, saying in the speech of Lycaonia, "The gods have come down to us in the likeness of men!" [12] And they called Barnabas Zeus, and Paul Hermes, because he was the chief speaker.* [13] Then the priest of Zeus, whose temple was before their city, brought oxen and garlands to the gates, and wanted to sacrifice together with the crowds. [14] But when the apostles Barnabas and Paul heard of it, they tore their clothes and ran in among the crowd, crying out [15] and saying, "Men, why do you do these things? We also are men of like passions with you, and preach the gospel to you, that you should turn from these vanities to the living God, who made the heaven and the earth and the sea and all things that are in them; [16] who in times past permitted all the nations to walk in their own ways. [17] Yet he did not leave himself without witness, in that he did good and gave us rain from heaven and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness." [18] Even by saying these things, they barely restrained the crowds from sacrificing to them. [19] And Jews came there from Antioch and Iconium, who won over the crowds; and having stoned Paul, they dragged him out of the city, supposing he was dead. [20] But as the disciples stood around him, he rose up and came into the city; and the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derbe. [21] And when they had preached the gospel to that city and made a good number of disciples, they returned to Lystra and to Iconium and to Antioch, [22] confirming the souls of the disciples, exhorting them to continue in the faith, and saying that we must enter the kingdom of God through many tribulations. [23] And when they had appointed elders for them in every church and had prayed with fasting, they commended them to the Lord, on whom they had believed. [24] And after passing through Pisidia, they came to Pamphylia; [25] and when they had preached the word in Perga, they went down to Attalia; [26] and from there they sailed to Antioch, from which they had been commended to the grace of God for the work that they had now accomplished. [27] And when they had come and gathered the church together, they recounted all that God had done with them, and that he had opened to the Gentiles a door of faith. [28] And they stayed there a long time with the disciples.

CHAPTER 15

[1] And certain men who came down from Judea were teaching the brothers, "If you are not circumcised after the custom of Moses, you cannot be saved." [2] So when Paul and Barnabas had no small dissension and dispute with them, they determined that Paul and Barnabas and certain others of them should go up to Jerusalem to the apostles and elders about this question. [3] And being brought on their way by the church, they passed through Phoenicia and Samaria, telling in full of the conversion of the Gentiles; and they caused great joy to all the brothers. [4] And arriving at Jerusalem, they were received by the church and the apostles and the elders, and they related all that God had done with them. [5] But there rose up some of the sect of the Pharisees who believed, saying, "They must be circumcised and commanded to keep the law of Moses." [6] So the apostles and the elders came together to consider this matter. [7] And when there had been much debate, Peter rose up and said to them, "Men and brothers, you know that a good while ago God chose among us, that the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the word of the gospel and believe. [8] And God, who knows the hearts, bore them witness, giving them the Holy Spirit even as he did to us; [9] and he put no difference between us and them, purifying their hearts by faith. [10] Now therefore, why do you tempt God, to put a yoke on the neck of the disciples which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear? [11] But we believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved in the same way as they." [12] Then all the multitude kept silence and gave audience to Barnabas and Paul, who recounted what signs and wonders God had done among the Gentiles through them. [13] And after they had become silent, James answered, saying, "Men and brothers, hear me. [14]

Simeon has declared how God at the first visited the Gentiles, to take out of them a people for his name. [15] And to this agree the words of the prophets, as it is written: [16] 'After these things I will return and will build again the tabernacle of David, which has fallen down; and I will build again its ruins, and I will set it up, [17] so that the residue of men may seek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles upon whom my name is called, says the Lord, who does all these things.' [18] All his works are known to God from eternity. [19] Therefore I judge that we should not trouble those from among the Gentiles who are turning to God, [20] but that we should write to them to abstain from the pollutions of idols and from sexual immorality and from what is strangled and from blood. [21] For Moses of old time has in every city those who preach him, being read in the synagogues every Sabbath." [22] Then it pleased the apostles and the elders, with the whole church, to choose men from among them and send them to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas: Judas surnamed Barsabas, and Silas, leading men among the brothers; [23] and they wrote this letter by them: "The apostles and the elders and the brothers, to the brothers who are of the Gentiles in Antioch and Syria and Cilicia: greetings. [24] Since we have heard that certain who went out from us have troubled you with words, unsettling your souls, saying, 'You must be circumcised and keep the law,' to whom we gave no such commandment, [25] it seemed good to us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men to you with our beloved Barnabas and Paul, [26] men who have hazarded their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. [27] We have sent, then, Judas and Silas, who themselves also will report the same things by word. [28] For it seemed good to the Holy Spirit and to us to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things: [29] that you abstain from things offered to idols and from blood and from what is strangled and from sexual immorality; if you keep yourselves from these, you will do well. Farewell." [30] So when they were dismissed, they came to Antioch; and when they had gathered the multitude together, they delivered the letter. [31] And having read it, they rejoiced over the encouragement. [32] And Judas and Silas, being prophets themselves also, exhorted the brothers with many words and confirmed them. [33] And after they had stayed there for a time, they were let go in peace from the brothers to the apostles. [34] But it seemed good to Silas to remain there.* [35] Paul also and Barnabas continued in Antioch, teaching and preaching the word of the Lord, with many others also. [36] And after some days Paul said to Barnabas, "Let us go back now and visit our brothers in every city where we have proclaimed the word of the Lord, and see how they are doing." [37] And Barnabas was determined to take with them John, who was called Mark. [38] But Paul thought it not good to take with them this man, who had departed from them from Pamphylia and had not gone with them to the work. [39] And the contention was so sharp that they parted from one another; and so Barnabas took Mark and sailed to Cyprus. [40] And Paul chose Silas and went out, being handed over by the brothers to the grace of God. [41] And he went through Syria and Cilicia, confirming the churches.

CHAPTER 16

[1] Then he came to Derbe and Lystra. And look, a certain disciple was there named Timothy, the son of a certain Jewish woman who believed; but his father was a Greek. [2] He was well reported of by the brothers at Lystra and Iconium. [3] Paul wished this man to go out with him, and taking him he circumcised him because of the Jews who were in those parts; for they all knew his father, that he was a Greek. [4] And as they went through the cities, they delivered to them for keeping the decrees that had been ordained by the apostles and elders at Jerusalem. [5] And so the churches were established in the faith and increased in number daily. [6] And when they had gone through Phrygia and the region of Galatia, being prevented by the Holy Spirit from speaking the word in Asia, [7] they came toward Mysia and attempted to go into Bithynia, but the Spirit did not permit them. [8] And passing by Mysia, they came down to Troas. [9] And a vision appeared to Paul in the night: a man of Macedonia stood and appealed to him, saying, "Come over into Macedonia and help us." [10] And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia, gathering that the Lord had called us to preach the gospel to them. [11] Therefore, putting out from Troas, we came with a straight course to Samothrace, and the next day to Neapolis, [12] and from there to Philippi, which is the chief city of that part of Macedonia, a colony. And we were staying in this city some days. [13] And on the Sabbath day we went out of the city to a riverside, where prayer was customarily made, and we sat down and spoke to the women who came together there. [14] And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple from the city of Thyatira, who worshiped God, was listening; and the Lord opened her heart to heed the things spoken by Paul. [15] And when she was baptized, and her household, she pleaded with us, saying, "If you have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my house and stay there." And she constrained us. [16] And as we were going to prayer, a certain slave girl met us who had a spirit of Python, who brought her masters much gain by soothsaying. [17] She followed Paul and us and cried out, saying, "These men are the servants of the Most High God, who proclaim to us the way of salvation." [18] And this she did for many days. But Paul, being worn out by it, turned and said to the spirit, "I command you in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her." And it came out the same hour. [19] And when her masters saw that the hope of their gain was gone, they caught Paul and Silas and drew them into the marketplace to the rulers. [20] And when they had brought them to the magistrates, they said, "These men, being Jews, are greatly troubling our city, [21] and they proclaim customs that are not lawful for us to receive or to practice, since we are Romans." [22] And the crowd rose up together against them, and the magistrates tore their clothes off them and commanded that they be beaten with rods. [23] And when they had laid many stripes on them, they cast them into prison, charging the jailer to keep them securely. [24] He, having received such a charge, cast them into the inner prison and made their feet fast in the stocks. [25] But about midnight Paul and Silas, praying, were singing praises to God, and the prisoners were listening to them. [26] And suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken; and immediately all the doors were opened, and everyone's bonds were loosed. [27] And the jailer, waking out of his sleep and seeing the prison doors open, drew his sword and was about to kill himself, supposing that the prisoners had fled. [28] But Paul called out with a loud voice, "Do yourself no harm, for we are all here!" [29] Then he called for lights and sprang in, and trembling for fear he fell down before Paul and Silas; [30] and he brought them out and said, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" [31] And they said, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and you will be saved, you and your house." [32] Then they spoke the word of the Lord to him and to all who were in his house. [33] And he took them the same hour of the night and washed their stripes; and immediately he was baptized, he and all his household. [34] And bringing them up into his house, he set a table before them, and he rejoiced greatly with all his household, having believed in God. [35] And when it was day, the magistrates sent the officers, saying, "Let those men go." [36] And the jailer reported these words to Paul: "The magistrates have sent word to let you go; so now come out and go in peace." [37] But Paul said to them, "They have beaten us openly, uncondemned, being Romans, and have cast us into prison; and now do they thrust us out secretly? No indeed; but let them come themselves and bring us out." [38] And the officers reported these words to the magistrates, and they were afraid when they heard that they were Romans; [39] and they came and pleaded with them, and when they had brought them out, they asked them to leave the city. [40] So they went out of the prison and entered the house of Lydia; and when they had seen the brothers, they encouraged them and departed.

CHAPTER 17

[1] Now when they had passed through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where there was the synagogue of the Jews. [2] And Paul, as his manner was, went in to them, and on three Sabbaths reasoned with them from the Scriptures, [3] opening and setting forth that the Christ had to suffer and rise again from the dead, and that "this Jesus, whom I preach to you, is the Christ." [4] And some of them were persuaded and cast in their lot with Paul and Silas, and of the devout Greeks a great multitude, and of the leading women not a few. [5] But the Jews who did not believe, moved with envy, took to themselves some wicked men of the marketplace, gathered a crowd, and set the city in an uproar; and assaulting the house of Jason, they sought to bring them out to the people. [6] But when they did not find them, they dragged Jason and some brothers before the rulers of the city, shouting, "These men who have turned the world upside down have come here too, [7] and Jason has received them; and they all act contrary to the decrees of Caesar, saying that there is another king, Jesus." [8] And they troubled the crowd and the rulers of the city when they heard these things. [9] And when they had taken security from Jason and the rest, they let them go. [10] Then the brothers immediately sent Paul and Silas away by night to Berea; and when they arrived, they went into the synagogue of the Jews. [11] Now these were more noble-minded than those in Thessalonica, for they received the word with all readiness of mind and searched the Scriptures daily whether these things were so. [12] Therefore many of them believed, and of honorable Greek women and of men, not a few. [13] But when the Jews of Thessalonica had knowledge that the word of God was preached by Paul at Berea also, they came there too, stirring up the crowds. [14] Then the brothers immediately sent Paul away to go as it were toward the sea; but Silas and Timothy remained there. [15] And those who conducted Paul brought him as far as Athens; and receiving instruction for Silas and Timothy to come to him with all speed, they departed. [16] Now while Paul waited for them at Athens, his spirit was stirred within him as he saw the city given over to idols. [17] Therefore he disputed in the synagogue with the Jews and the devout persons, and in the marketplace daily with those who met with him. [18] Then certain philosophers of the Epicureans and of the Stoics encountered him. And some said, "What would this babbler say?" Others said, "He seems to be a setter forth of foreign divinities," because he preached to them Jesus and the resurrection. [19] And they took him and brought him to the Areopagus, saying, "May we know what this new teaching is, of which you speak? [20] For you bring certain strange things to our ears; we would like to know, therefore, what these things mean." [21] (For all the Athenians and the strangers who were there spent their time in nothing else but either to tell or to hear some new thing.) [22] Then Paul stood in the midst of the Areopagus and said, "Men of Athens, I observe that in all things you are exceedingly religious. [23] For as I passed by and beheld the objects of your worship, I found also an altar on which was inscribed, TO AN UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore you worship without knowing him, him I declare to you. [24] God, who made the world and all things in it, since he is Lord of heaven and earth, does not dwell in temples made with hands, [25] nor is he served by men's hands, as though he needed anything, seeing he gives to all life and breath and all things. [26] And he has made from one blood every nation of men to dwell on all the face of the earth, and has determined the times appointed beforehand and the bounds of their habitation, [27] so that they should seek the Lord, in the hope that they might grope for him and find him, though he is not far from each one of us. [28] For in him we live and move and have our being, as some of your own poets have also said, 'For we are also his offspring.' [29] Since then we are the offspring of God, we ought not to suppose that the Divine is like gold or silver or stone, graven by the art and device of man. [30] Therefore, having overlooked the times of ignorance, God now commands all men everywhere to repent, [31] because he has set a day on which he is going to judge the world in righteousness by the man whom he has appointed, having furnished proof of this to all by raising him from the dead." [32] And when they heard of the resurrection of the dead, some mocked, but others said, "We will hear you again on this matter." [33] So Paul went out from among them. [34] However, certain men attached themselves to him and believed, among whom were Dionysius the Areopagite and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

CHAPTER 18

[1] After these things Paul departed from Athens and came to Corinth. [2] And he found a certain Jew named Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy with his wife Priscilla, because Claudius had ordered all the Jews to depart from Rome; and he came to them; [3] and because he was of the same craft, he lodged with them and worked, for by occupation they were tentmakers. [4] And he reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath, and sought to persuade Jews and Greeks. [5] And when Silas and Timothy came down from Macedonia, Paul was pressed in the spirit and testified to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ. [6] But when they opposed him and blasphemed, he shook out his garments and said to them, "Your blood be upon your own heads; I am clean. From now on I will go to the Gentiles." [7] And he departed from there and entered the house of a certain man named Justus, one who worshiped God, whose house adjoined the synagogue. [8] And Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, believed in the Lord with all his household; and many of the Corinthians, when they heard, believed and were baptized. [9] And the Lord said to Paul in the night by a vision, "Do not be afraid, but speak and do not hold your peace, [10] for I am with you, and no one shall set on you to harm you; for I have many people in this city." [11] And he continued there a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them. [12] But when Gallio was proconsul of Achaia, the Jews rose up with one accord against Paul and brought him before the judgment seat, [13] saying, "This fellow persuades men to worship God contrary to the law." [14] And when Paul was about to open his mouth, Gallio said to the Jews, "If it were a matter of wrong or wicked villainy, O Jews, it would be reasonable that I should bear with you; [15] but if it is a question of words and names and your own law, look to it yourselves; for I do not want to be a judge of such matters." [16] And he drove them away from the judgment seat. [17] Then all the Greeks seized Sosthenes, the ruler of the synagogue, and beat him before the judgment seat; and Gallio cared nothing about these things. [18] And Paul, having remained there yet a good many days, took leave of the brothers and sailed for Syria, and with him Priscilla and Aquila, having had his head shaved at Cenchreae, for he had a vow. [19] And he came to Ephesus and left them there; but he himself entered the synagogue and reasoned with the Jews. [20] And when they asked him to stay a longer time with them, he did not consent, [21] but took leave of them, saying, "I must by all means keep this coming feast at Jerusalem; but I will return to you again, if God wills." And he set sail from Ephesus. [22] And when he had landed at Caesarea and gone up and greeted the church, he went down to Antioch. [23] And after he had spent some time there, he departed and went through the region of Galatia and Phrygia in order, strengthening all the disciples. [24] Now a certain Jew named Apollos, a native of Alexandria, an eloquent man, came to Ephesus; he was mighty in the Scriptures. [25] This man had been instructed in the way of the Lord; and being fervent in spirit, he spoke and taught diligently the things of the Lord, knowing only the baptism of John. [26] And he began to speak boldly in the synagogue. And when Aquila and Priscilla heard him, they took him to themselves and expounded to him the way of God more accurately. [27] And when he wanted to cross over to Achaia, the brothers wrote, urging the disciples to receive him; and when he arrived, he helped much those who had believed through grace; [28] for he mightily refuted the Jews, and that publicly, showing by the Scriptures that Jesus was the Christ.

CHAPTER 19

[1] And while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul passed through the upper regions and came to Ephesus; and finding certain disciples, [2] he said to them, "Did you receive the Holy Spirit when you believed?" And they said to him, "No, we have not so much as heard whether there is a Holy Spirit." [3] And he said to them, "Into what then were you baptized?" And they said, "Into John's baptism." [4] Then Paul said, "John indeed baptized with a baptism of repentance, telling the people that they should believe in the one who was coming after him, that is, in Christ Jesus." [5] When they heard this, they were baptized into the name of the Lord Jesus. [6] And when Paul had laid his hands on them, the Holy Spirit came upon them, and they spoke with tongues and prophesied. [7] And all the men were about twelve. [8] And he went into the synagogue and spoke boldly for three months, reasoning and persuading concerning the things of the kingdom of God. [9] But when some were hardened and did not believe, speaking evil of the Way before the multitude, he departed from them and separated the disciples, disputing daily in the lecture hall of one Tyrannus. [10] And this continued for two years, so that all who lived in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks. [11] And God worked special miracles by the hands of Paul, [12] so that from his body handkerchiefs or aprons were brought to the sick, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them. [13] Then certain of the wandering Jewish exorcists took it upon themselves to call the name of the Lord Jesus over those who had the evil spirits, saying, "We adjure you by the Jesus whom Paul preaches." [14] And there were seven sons of one Sceva, a Jew and chief of the priests, who did this. [15] But the evil spirit answered and said, "Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are you?" [16] Then the man in whom the evil spirit was leaped on them, overpowered them, and prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded. [17] And this became known to all the Jews and Greeks who lived at Ephesus; and fear fell upon them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified. [18] And many of those who had believed came, confessing and declaring their deeds. [19] Many also of those who had practiced magic arts brought their books together and burned them before all; and they counted the price of them and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver. [20] So the word of the Lord grew mightily and prevailed. [21] After these things were accomplished, Paul purposed in the spirit, when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia, to go to Jerusalem, saying, "After I have been there, I must also see Rome." [22] So he sent into Macedonia two of those who ministered to him, Timothy and Erastus, but he himself stayed in Asia for a time. [23] And at that time there arose no small disturbance concerning the Way. [24] For a certain man named Demetrius, a silversmith who made silver shrines of Artemis, brought no small gain to the craftsmen; [*] [25] whom he called together with the workmen of like occupation, and said, "Men, you know that by this craft we have our prosperity. [26] And you see and hear that not only at Ephesus but almost throughout all Asia this Paul has persuaded and turned away many people, saying that they are no gods which are made with hands. [27] So not only is this trade of ours in danger of being set at nothing, but also the temple of the great goddess Artemis of being despised, and her magnificence of being destroyed, whom all Asia and the world worship." [28] And when they heard this, they were full of wrath and cried out, "Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!" [29] And the whole city was filled with confusion; and they rushed with one accord into the theater, dragging along Gaius and Aristarchus, Macedonians who were Paul's traveling companions. [30] And when Paul wanted to go in among the people, the disciples would not let him. [31] And some of the officials of Asia also, who were his friends, sent to him and begged him not to venture into the theater. [32] Some therefore cried one thing and some another; for the assembly was confused, and the greater part did not know why they had come together. [33] And they drew Alexander out of the crowd, the Jews pushing him forward; and Alexander motioned with his hand and wanted to make a defense to the people. [34] But when they recognized that he was a Jew, all with one voice cried out for about two hours, "Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!" [35] And when the town clerk had calmed the crowd, he said, "Men of Ephesus, what man is there who does not know that the city of the Ephesians is temple keeper of the great goddess Artemis and of the image that fell from Zeus? [36] Since, then, these things cannot be spoken against, you ought to be calm and do nothing rash. [37] For you have brought these men here who are neither robbers of temples nor blasphemers of your goddess. [38] If, then, Demetrius and the craftsmen with him have a matter against anyone, court days are held and there are proconsuls; let them bring charges against one another. [39] But if you inquire anything concerning other matters, it shall be determined in the lawful assembly. [40] For indeed we are in danger of being charged with riot over today's events, there being no cause by which we can give an account of this disorderly gathering." [41] And when he had thus spoken, he dismissed the assembly.

CHAPTER 20

[1] After the uproar had ceased, Paul called the disciples to him, embraced them, and departed to go to Macedonia. [2] And when he had gone over those parts and had given them much exhortation, he came into Greece. [3] And having spent three months there, when the Jews laid a plot against him as he was about to sail into Syria, he purposed to return through Macedonia. [4] And Sopater of Berea accompanied him as far as Asia, and of the Thessalonians, Aristarchus and Secundus, and Gaius of Derbe, and Timothy, and of Asia, Tychicus and Trophimus. [5] These went on ahead and were waiting for us at Troas. [6] But we sailed from Philippi after the days of Unleavened Bread and came to them at Troas in five days, where we stayed seven days. [7] And on the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul discoursed with them, ready to depart the next day, and he continued his speech until midnight. [8] And there were many lights in the upper room where they were gathered together. [9] And a certain young man named Eutychus, sitting at the window, was being borne down by a deep sleep as Paul kept discoursing on and on; overcome by sleep, he fell down from the third story and was picked up dead. [10] But Paul went down, threw himself on him, and embracing him said, "Do not be troubled, for his life is in him." [11] And when he had gone up again and had broken bread and eaten, and had talked with them a long while, until daybreak, he departed. [12] And they brought the boy in alive and were greatly comforted. [13] And we went ahead to the ship and sailed to Assos, there intending to take in Paul; for so he had appointed, meaning himself to go on foot. [14] And when he met us at Assos, we took him aboard and came to Mitylene. [15] And sailing from there, we came the next day opposite Chios; the following day we crossed over to Samos and stayed at Trogyllium, and the day after we came to Miletus. [16] For Paul had determined to sail past Ephesus, so that he would not have to spend time in Asia; for he was hastening, if it were possible for him, to be at Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost. [17] And from Miletus he sent to Ephesus and called for the elders of the church. [18] And when they had come to him, he said to them, "You yourselves know, from the first day that I came into Asia, in what manner I have been with you the whole time, [19] serving the Lord with all humility and with many tears and trials that befell me through the plots of the Jews; [20] how I kept back nothing that was profitable, but declared it to you and taught you publicly and from house to house, [21] testifying both to Jews and to Greeks repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ. [22] And now, look, I go bound in the spirit to Jerusalem, not knowing the things that will befall me there, [23] except that the Holy Spirit testifies in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions await me. [24] But I take no account of any of these things, nor do I count my life dear to myself, so that I may finish my course with joy, and the ministry that I received from the Lord Jesus, to testify to the gospel of the grace of God. [25] And now, look, I know that all of you, among whom I went about preaching the kingdom of God, will see my face no more. [26] Therefore I take you to witness this day that I am pure from the blood of all; [27] for I did not hold back from declaring to you the whole counsel of God. [28] Therefore take heed to yourselves and to all the flock, among which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers, to shepherd the church of God, which he purchased with his own blood. [29] For I know this, that after my departure grievous wolves will come in among you, not sparing the flock; [30] and from among yourselves men will rise up speaking perverse things, to draw away the disciples after them. [31] Therefore watch, remembering that for the space of three years I did not cease to warn everyone night and day with tears. [32] And now, brothers, I commend you to God and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up and to give you an inheritance among all those who are sanctified. [33] I coveted no one's silver or gold or clothing. [34] You yourselves know that these hands ministered to my needs and to those who were with me. [35] In all things I showed you that, laboring thus, we ought to support the weak, and remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he himself said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'" [36] And when he had thus spoken, he knelt down and prayed with them all. [37] And they all wept freely, and fell on Paul's neck and kissed him repeatedly, [38] sorrowing most of all for the word he had spoken, that they would see his face no more. And they accompanied him to the ship.

CHAPTER 21

[1] And when we had torn ourselves away from them and put to sea, we ran a straight course to Cos, and the next day to Rhodes, and from there to Patara. [2] And finding a ship sailing over to Phoenicia, we went aboard and set forth. [3] And when we had sighted Cyprus and left it on the left hand, we sailed on to Syria and landed at Tyre; for there the ship was to unload her cargo. [4] And finding the disciples, we stayed there seven days. They kept telling Paul through the Spirit not to go up to Jerusalem. [5] And when we had completed the days, we departed and went on our way, all of them escorting us with wives and children until we were outside the city; and kneeling down on the shore, we prayed. [6] And when we had said farewell to one another, we went on board the ship, and they returned home. [7] And having finished the voyage from Tyre, we arrived at Ptolemais, and greeting the brothers, we stayed one day with them. [8] And on the next day we who were Paul's companions departed and came to Caesarea, and entering the house of Philip the evangelist, who was one of the seven, we stayed with him. [9] This man had four unmarried daughters who prophesied. [10] And as we stayed on a good many days, a certain prophet named Agabus came down from Judea. [11] And when he had come to us, he took Paul's belt, bound his own hands and feet, and said, "Thus says the Holy Spirit: 'In this way the Jews at Jerusalem will bind the man who owns this belt and hand him over into the hands of the Gentiles.'" [12] And when we heard these things, both we and the people of the place begged him not to go up to Jerusalem. [13] Then Paul answered, "What are you doing, weeping and breaking my heart? For I am ready not only to be bound but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus." [14] And since he would not be persuaded, we fell silent, saying, "The will of the Lord be done." [15] And after these days we packed up and went up to Jerusalem. [16] And some of the disciples from Caesarea also went with us, bringing with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an early disciple, with whom we were to lodge. [17] And when we had come to Jerusalem, the brothers received us gladly. [18] And on the following day Paul went in with us to James, and all the elders were present. [19] And when he had greeted them, he declared one by one what things God had done among the Gentiles through his ministry. [20] And hearing it, they glorified the Lord, and they said to him, "You see, brother, how many tens of thousands of Jews there are who have believed, and they are all zealous for the law; [21] and they have been informed about you, that you teach all the Jews who are among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, telling them not to circumcise their children or to walk according to the customs. [22] What is it, then? A multitude will surely come together, for they will hear that you have come. [23] So do this that we tell you: we have four men who are under a vow; [24] take these men, purify yourself with them, and pay their expenses so that they may shave their heads; and all will know that there is nothing in what they have been told about you, but that you yourself also walk orderly, keeping the law. [25] But as for the Gentiles who have believed, we have written and decided that they should observe no such thing, except that they keep themselves from what is offered to idols, from blood, from what is strangled, and from sexual immorality." [26] Then Paul took the men, and the next day, having purified himself with them, he entered the temple, announcing when the days of purification would be fulfilled, until the offering should be made for each one of them. [27] And when the seven days were almost ended, the Jews from Asia, when they saw him in the temple, stirred up all the crowd and laid hands on him, [28] crying out, "Men of Israel, help! This is the man who teaches everyone everywhere against the people and the law and this place; and besides, he has also brought Greeks into the temple and has defiled this holy place." [29] For they had previously seen Trophimus the Ephesian in the city with him, and they supposed that Paul had brought him into the temple. [30] And the whole city was set in motion, and the people ran together; and they took Paul and drew him out of the temple, and immediately the doors were shut. [31] And as they went about to kill him, news came up to the commander of the cohort that all Jerusalem was in an uproar. [32] He immediately took soldiers and centurions and ran down upon them; and when they saw the commander and the soldiers, they left off beating Paul. [33] Then the commander came near and took him, and commanded him to be bound with two chains; and he demanded who he was and what he had done. [34] And some among the multitude cried one thing and some another; and when he could not know the certainty because of the tumult, he commanded him to be brought into the barracks. [35] And when he came upon the stairs, it so happened that he was carried by the soldiers because of the violence of the crowd; [36] for the multitude of the people followed, crying out, "Away with him!" [37] And as Paul was about to be led into the barracks, he said to the commander, "May I speak to you?" He said, "Can you speak Greek? [38] Are you not that Egyptian who before these days made an uproar and led out into the wilderness the four thousand men of the Assassins?" [39] But Paul said, "I am a man who is a Jew of Tarsus in Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city; and I beg you, allow me to speak to the people." [40] And when he had given him leave, Paul stood on the stairs and beckoned with his hand to the people; and when there was a great silence, he spoke to them in the Hebrew tongue, saying,

CHAPTER 22

[1] "Men, brothers and fathers, hear the defense I now make before you." [2] And when they heard that he spoke to them in the Hebrew tongue, they kept the more silence. And he said: [3] "I am indeed a man who is a Jew, born in Tarsus of Cilicia, yet brought up in this city at the feet of Gamaliel, and taught according to the exactness of the law of the fathers, being zealous toward God, as you all are this day. [4] I persecuted this Way to the death, binding and delivering into prisons both men and women, [5] as also the high priest bears me witness, and all the council of the elders; from them I also received letters to the brothers, and was on my way to Damascus to bring those who were there in chains to Jerusalem, to be punished. [6] And as I made my journey and drew near to Damascus, about noon suddenly there shone from heaven a great light around me. [7] And I fell to the ground and heard a voice saying to me, 'Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me?' [8] And I answered, 'Who are you, Lord?' And he said to me, 'I am Jesus the Nazarene, whom you persecute.' [9] And those who were with me saw the light and were afraid, but they did not hear the voice of the one who spoke to me. [10] And I said, 'What shall I do, Lord?' And the Lord said to me, 'Arise and go into Damascus, and there it will be told you of all things that are appointed for you to do.' [11] And when I could not see for the glory of that light, being led by the hand by those who were with me, I came into Damascus. [12] And one Ananias, a devout man according to the law, having a good report of all the Jews who lived there, [13] came to me, and stood and said to me, 'Brother Saul, receive your sight.' And the same hour I looked up at him. [14] And he said, 'The God of our fathers has chosen you beforehand to know his will and to see the Righteous One and to hear the voice of his mouth; [15] for you will be his witness to all men of what you have seen and heard. [16] And now why do you delay? Arise and be baptized, and wash away your sins, calling on the name of the Lord.' [17] And when I had come again to Jerusalem, while I was praying in the temple, I was in a trance [18] and saw him saying to me, 'Make haste and get quickly out of Jerusalem, for they will not receive your testimony concerning me.' [19] And I said, 'Lord, they themselves know that I imprisoned and beat in every synagogue those who believed on you; [20] and when the blood of your witness Stephen was shed, I also was standing by and consenting to his death, and keeping the garments of those who killed him.' [21] And he said to me, 'Go, for I will send you far off to the Gentiles.'" [22] They listened to him up to this word, and then they lifted up their voices and said, "Away with such a fellow from the earth, for it is not fit that he should live!" [23] And as they cried out and threw off their garments and threw dust into the air, [24] the commander commanded him to be brought into the barracks, and said that he should be examined by scourging, so that he might know for what cause they cried out so against him. [25] And as they stretched him out with the thongs, Paul said to the centurion who stood by, "Is it lawful for you to scourge a man who is a Roman, and uncondemned?" [26] When the centurion heard that, he went to the commander and reported it, saying, "Take care what you are about to do, for this man is a Roman." [27] And the commander came and said to him, "Tell me, are you a Roman?" And he said, "Yes." [28] And the commander answered, "With a great sum I obtained this citizenship." And Paul said, "But I was born a citizen." [29] Then immediately those who were about to examine him withdrew from him; and the commander also was afraid when he found out that he was a Roman, and because he had bound him. [30] The next day, wanting to know for certain why he was accused by the Jews, he released him from his bonds and commanded the chief priests and all their council to come, and he brought Paul down and set him before them.

CHAPTER 23

[1] Then Paul, looking intently at the council, said, "Men and brothers, I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day." [2] And the high priest Ananias commanded those who stood by him to strike him on the mouth. [3] Then Paul said to him, "God shall strike you, you whitewashed wall! For do you sit to judge me according to the law, and command me to be struck contrary to the law?" [4] And those who stood by said, "Do you revile God's high priest?" [5] And Paul said, "I did not know, brothers, that he was high priest; for it is written, 'You shall not speak evil of a ruler of your people.'" [6] But when Paul perceived that one part were Sadducees and the other Pharisees, he cried out in the council, "Men and brothers, I am a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee; concerning the hope and resurrection of the dead I am being judged!" [7] And when he had said this, a dissension arose between the Pharisees and the Sadducees, and the multitude was divided. [8] For the Sadducees say that there is no resurrection, nor angel, nor spirit; but the Pharisees confess both. [9] Then there arose a great outcry; and the scribes of the Pharisees' party stood up and argued sharply, saying, "We find no evil in this man; but if a spirit or an angel has spoken to him, let us not fight against God." [10] And when there arose a great dissension, the commander, fearing lest Paul be pulled in pieces by them, commanded the soldiers to go down and take him by force from among them and bring him into the barracks. [11] And the following night the Lord stood by him and said, "Be of good courage, Paul; for as you have testified of me at Jerusalem, so you must bear witness at Rome also." [12] And when it was day, some of the Jews formed a conspiracy and bound themselves under a curse, saying that they would neither eat nor drink until they had killed Paul. [13] There were more than forty who had formed this conspiracy. [14] They went to the chief priests and the elders and said, "We have bound ourselves under a solemn curse to taste nothing until we have killed Paul. [15] Now therefore you with the council signify to the commander that he bring him down to you tomorrow, as though you would inquire more precisely concerning him; and we, before he comes near, are ready to kill him." [16] And when the son of Paul's sister heard of their lying in wait, he went and entered the barracks and told Paul. [17] Then

Paul called one of the centurions to him and said, "Bring this young man to the commander, for he has something to tell him." [18] So he took him and led him to the commander and said, "The prisoner Paul called me and asked me to bring this young man to you; he has something to tell you." [19] Then the commander took him by the hand and went with him aside privately and asked him, "What is it that you have to report to me?" [20] And he said, "The Jews have agreed to ask you to bring Paul down to the council tomorrow, as though they would inquire somewhat more precisely about him. [21] But do not yield to them; for more than forty of their men lie in wait for him, who have bound themselves under a curse neither to eat nor to drink until they have killed him; and now they are ready, looking for a promise from you." [22] So the commander let the young man depart, charging him, "Tell no one that you have shown these things to me." [23] And he called two of the centurions and said, "Make ready two hundred soldiers to go as far as Caesarea, with seventy horsemen and two hundred spearmen, at the third hour of the night; [24] and provide mounts to set Paul on, and bring him safely through to Felix the governor." [25] And he wrote a letter in this manner: [26] "Claudius Lysias, to the most excellent governor Felix: greetings. [27] This man was taken by the Jews and was about to be killed by them; then I came with the troops and rescued him, having learned that he was a Roman. [28] And wanting to know the cause for which they accused him, I brought him down into their council. [29] I perceived that he was accused about questions of their law, but had nothing laid to his charge worthy of death or of bonds. [30] And when it was told me that the Jews were going to lay wait for the man, I sent him to you immediately, and gave commandment to his accusers also to say before you what they have against him. Farewell." [31] So the soldiers, as they had been ordered, took Paul and brought him by night to Antipatris. [32] And the next day they left the horsemen to go on with him and returned to the barracks. [33] When they came to Caesarea and had delivered the letter to the governor, they also presented Paul to him. [34] And when the governor had read it, he asked of what province he was; and when he understood that he was of Cilicia, [35] he said, "I will hear your case when your accusers also arrive." And he commanded him to be kept in Herod's praetorium.

CHAPTER 24

[1] And after five days the high priest Ananias came down with the elders and with a certain orator named Tertullus, and they brought their charges against Paul before the governor. [2] And when Paul had been called, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying, "Since through you we enjoy great peace, and very worthy deeds are being done for this nation by your foresight, [3] we accept it always and in all places, most excellent Felix, with all thankfulness. [4] But so that I may not be further tedious to you, I beg you of your clemency to hear us a few words. [5] For we have found this man a pestilent fellow and a mover of strife among all the Jews throughout the world, and a ringleader of the sect of the Nazarenes; [6] who also tried to profane the temple; and we seized him and wanted to judge him according to our law. [7] But Lysias the commander came and with great violence took him away out of our hands,* [8] commanding his accusers to come before you. By examining him yourself you will be able to learn from him about all these things of which we accuse him." [9] And the Jews also assented, asserting that these things were so. [10] Then Paul, after the governor had beckoned to him to speak, answered: "Since I know that you have been for many years a judge to this nation, I make my defense for myself the more cheerfully, [11] since you can find out that it is no more than twelve days since I went up to Jerusalem to worship; [12] and they did not find me disputing with anyone in the temple, or stirring up a crowd, either in the synagogues or throughout the city; [13] nor can they prove the things of which they now accuse me. [14] But this I confess to you, that according to the Way, which they call a sect, so I worship the God of our fathers, believing all things that are written in the law and in the prophets, [15] having a hope toward God, which these men themselves also await, that there is going to be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and of the unjust. [16] And in this I myself always strive to have a conscience without offense toward God and men. [17] Now after several years I came to bring alms to my nation, and offerings; [18] in the midst of which certain Jews from Asia found me purified in the temple, neither with a crowd nor with tumult. [19] They ought to have been present before you to make accusation, if they had anything against me. [20] Or else let these men themselves say what wrongdoing they found in me when I stood before the council, [21] unless it is for this one voice that I cried out standing among them: 'Concerning the resurrection of the dead I am being judged by you today.'" [22] And when Felix heard these things, having more exact knowledge of the Way, he deferred them, saying, "When Lysias the commander comes down, I will determine your matter." [23] And he commanded the centurion to keep Paul and to let him have liberty, and to forbid none of his own people to minister to him or come to him. [24] And after some days, when Felix came with his wife Drusilla, who was a Jew, he sent for Paul and heard him concerning the faith in Christ. [25] And as he reasoned about righteousness, self-control, and the judgment to come, Felix trembled and answered, "Go your way for this time; when I have a convenient season, I will call for you." [26] At the same time he was also hoping that money would be given him by Paul, so that he might release him; therefore he sent for him often and talked with him. [27] But when two years had been completed, Felix received Porcius Festus as his successor; and wishing to do the Jews a favor, Felix left Paul bound.

CHAPTER 25

[1] Now when Festus had come into his province, after three days he went up from Caesarea to Jerusalem. [2] And the high priest and the leading men of the Jews brought charges before him against Paul, and they urged him, [3] and desired a favor against him, that he would send for him to Jerusalem, while they laid wait along the way to kill him. [4] Festus, however, answered that

Paul was being kept at Caesarea and that he himself was about to set out there shortly. [5] "Therefore," he said, "let those among you who are able go down with me, and if there is anything amiss in this man, let them accuse him." [6] And when he had stayed among them more than ten days, he went down to Caesarea; and the next day he sat on the judgment seat and commanded Paul to be brought. [7] And when he had come, the Jews who had come down from Jerusalem stood around and laid many grievous complaints against Paul, which they could not prove, [8] while Paul said in his defense, "Neither against the law of the Jews, nor against the temple, nor against Caesar have I committed any offense." [9] But Festus, wanting to do the Jews a favor, answered Paul, "Are you willing to go up to Jerusalem and be judged there before me concerning these things?" [10] And Paul said, "I am standing at Caesar's judgment seat, where I ought to be judged. To the Jews I have done no wrong, as you yourself know very well. [11] For if I am an offender and have committed anything worthy of death, I do not refuse to die; but if there is nothing in the things of which these men accuse me, no one can deliver me to them as a favor. I appeal to Caesar." [12] Then Festus, having conferred with his council, answered, "You have appealed to Caesar; to Caesar you shall go." [13] And after some days King Agrippa and Bernice came to Caesarea to greet Festus. [14] And when they had been there many days, Festus declared Paul's case to the king, saying, "There is a certain man left in bonds by Felix, [15] about whom, when I was at Jerusalem, the chief priests and the elders of the Jews brought charges, asking for a judgment against him. [16] To them I answered that it is not the manner of the Romans to deliver any man to destruction as a favor before the accused has the accusers face to face and has had opportunity to answer for himself concerning the charge laid against him. [17] Therefore, when they had come together here, without any delay, on the next day I sat on the judgment seat and commanded the man to be brought. [18] When the accusers stood up around him, they brought no accusation of such things as I supposed, [19] but had certain questions against him about their own religion and about a certain Jesus, who was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive. [20] And because I was at a loss how to inquire into these questions, I asked whether he would be willing to go to Jerusalem and be judged there concerning these matters. [21] But when Paul had appealed to be reserved for the decision of the Emperor, I commanded him to be kept until I could send him to Caesar." [22] Then Agrippa said to Festus, "I would also like to hear the man myself." "Tomorrow," he said, "you shall hear him." [23] So the next day, when Agrippa and Bernice had come with great pomp and had entered the place of hearing with the commanders and the principal men of the city, at Festus' command Paul was brought in. [24] And Festus said, "King Agrippa and all you men who are here present with us, you see this man about whom the whole multitude of the Jews have dealt with me, both at Jerusalem and here, crying out that he ought not to live any longer. [25] But when I found that he had done nothing worthy of death, and since he himself had appealed to the Emperor, I decided to send him. [26] I have nothing definite to write to my lord about him. Therefore I have brought him before you, and especially before you, King Agrippa, so that after the examination has taken place I may have something to write. [27] For it seems to me unreasonable to send a prisoner without also indicating the charges against him."

CHAPTER 26

[1] And Agrippa said to Paul, "You are permitted to speak for yourself." Then Paul stretched out his hand and began his defense: [2] "Concerning all the things of which I am accused by the Jews, King Agrippa, I count myself fortunate that I am to make my defense before you today, [3] especially because I know you to be an expert in all the customs and questions among the Jews. Therefore I beg you to hear me patiently. [4] My manner of life from my youth, which was spent from the beginning among my own nation at Jerusalem, all the Jews know, [5] since they have known me from the first, if they are willing to testify, that according to the strictest sect of our religion I lived as a Pharisee. [6] And now I stand here on trial for the hope of the promise made by God to our fathers, [7] to which our twelve tribes hope to attain, earnestly serving God night and day. For this hope's sake, King Agrippa, I am accused by the Jews. [8] Why should it be thought incredible by you that God raises the dead? [9] I myself indeed thought that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth. [10] And this I did in Jerusalem: I shut up many of the saints in prisons, having received authority from the chief priests; and when they were being put to death, I cast my vote against them. [11] And I punished them often in all the synagogues and tried to compel them to blaspheme; and being exceedingly enraged against them, I persecuted them even to foreign cities. [12] While thus occupied, as I was going to Damascus with authority and commission from the chief priests, [13] at midday, O king, I saw on the road a light from heaven, above the brightness of the sun, shining around me and those who journeyed with me. [14] And when we had all fallen to the ground, I heard a voice speaking to me and saying in the Hebrew tongue, 'Saul, Saul, why do you persecute me? It is hard for you to kick against the goads.' [15] And I said, 'Who are you, Lord?' And he said, 'I am Jesus, whom you persecute. [16] But rise and stand on your feet; for I have appeared to you for this purpose, to appoint you a servant and a witness both of the things you have seen and of the things in which I will appear to you, [17] rescuing you from the people and from the Gentiles, to whom I now send you, [18] to open their eyes and to turn them from darkness to light and from the authority of Satan to God, so that they may receive forgiveness of sins and a share among those who are sanctified by faith in me.' [19] For this reason, King Agrippa, I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision, [20] but declared first to those in Damascus and in Jerusalem, and throughout all the region of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God, and do works worthy of repentance. [21] For these causes the Jews caught me in the temple and went about to kill me. [22] Therefore, having obtained help from God, I continue to this day, testifying both to small and great, saying nothing other than what the prophets and Moses said would come to pass: [23] that the Christ would suffer, and that he, as the first to rise from the dead, would proclaim light to the people and to the Gentiles." [24] And as he was making his defense in this way, Festus said with a loud voice, "You are out of your mind, Paul; your great learning is driving you mad." [25] But he said, "I am not out of my mind, most excellent Festus, but I am speaking words of truth and soberness. [26] For the king knows of these things, before whom I also speak boldly; for I am persuaded that none of these things are hidden from him, since this was not done in a corner. [27] King Agrippa, do you believe the prophets? I know that you believe." [28] And Agrippa said to Paul, "With a little more you are persuading me to become a Christian."* [29] And Paul said, "I would pray to God that, whether with little or with much, not only you but also all who hear me today would become such as I am, apart from these bonds." [30] And when he had thus spoken, the king rose, and the governor and Bernice and those who sat with them; [31] and when they had gone aside, they spoke with one another, saying, "This man is doing nothing worthy of death or of bonds." [32] And Agrippa said to Festus, "This man could have been set free if he had not appealed to Caesar."

CHAPTER 27

[1] And when it was determined that we should sail to Italy, they delivered Paul and some other prisoners to a centurion named Julius, of the Augustan cohort. [2] So, boarding a ship of Adramyttium, we put to sea, intending to sail along the coasts of Asia, Aristarchus, a Macedonian of Thessalonica, being with us. [3] And the next day we touched at Sidon; and Julius treated Paul courteously and gave him liberty to go to his friends and receive their care. [4] And when we had put to sea from there, we sailed under the shelter of Cyprus, because the winds were contrary. [5] And when we had sailed over the sea of Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Myra in Lycia. [6] There the centurion found a ship of Alexandria sailing to Italy, and he put us on board. [7] And when we had sailed slowly many days and had scarcely come opposite Cnidus, the wind not permitting us, we sailed under the shelter of Crete, opposite Salmone; [8] and passing along it with difficulty, we came to a place called Fair Havens, near which was the city of Lasea. [9] Now when much time had been spent, and sailing was now dangerous because the Fast was now already past, Paul admonished them, [10] saying to them, "Men, I perceive that this voyage will be with hurt and much damage, not only of the cargo and the ship but also of our lives." [11] But the centurion was more persuaded by the pilot and the owner of the ship than by the things spoken by Paul. [12] And because the harbor was not fit to winter in, the majority advised to set sail from there also, if by any means they could reach Phoenix, a harbor of Crete facing southwest and northwest, and winter there. [13] And when a south wind blew gently, thinking they had gained their purpose, they weighed anchor and sailed along Crete, close in shore. [14] But not long after, a tempestuous wind called Euroclydon rushed down from it. [15] And when the ship was caught and could not bear up into the wind, we gave way and were carried along. [16] And running under the shelter of a small island called Clauda, we were barely able to get the ship's boat under control. [17] And when they had taken it up, they used helps, undergirding the ship; and fearing lest they should run aground on the Syrtis, they lowered the gear, and so were carried along. [18] And because we were exceedingly tossed by the storm, the next day they began to throw the cargo overboard; [19] and on the third day we threw out the ship's tackle with our own hands. [20] And when neither sun nor stars appeared for many days, and no small tempest pressed upon us, all hope that we would be saved was finally taken away. [21] But after long abstinence Paul stood up in the midst of them and said, "Men, you ought to have listened to me and not have set sail from Crete, and so have spared yourselves this damage and loss. [22] And now I exhort you to be of good courage, for there will be no loss of any life among you, but only of the ship. [23] For there stood by me this night an angel of the God to whom I belong and whom I serve, [24] saying, 'Fear not, Paul; you must stand before Caesar; and look, God has given you all those who sail with you.' [25] Therefore be of good courage, men, for I believe God that it will be just as it was told me. [26] But we must run aground on a certain island." [27] But when the fourteenth night had come, as we were driven up and down in the Adriatic Sea, about midnight the sailors supposed that they were drawing near some land. [28] And they sounded and found it twenty fathoms; and when they had gone a little farther, they sounded again and found it fifteen fathoms. [29] Then fearing lest we should fall upon rough places, they cast four anchors out of the stern and wished for day to come. [30] And as the sailors were seeking to flee out of the ship and had let down the boat into the sea, under pretense of being about to run out anchors from the bow, [31] Paul said to the centurion and the soldiers, "Unless these men stay in the ship, you cannot be saved." [32] Then the soldiers cut away the ropes of the boat and let it fall off. [33] And while the day was coming on, Paul begged them all to take food, saying, "This day is the fourteenth day that you have waited and continued fasting, having taken nothing. [34] Therefore I beg you to take some food, for this is for your preservation; for not a hair shall fall from the head of any of you." [35] And when he had said these things, he took bread and gave thanks to God in the presence of them all; and when he had broken it, he began to eat. [36] Then they were all of good courage, and they also took food. [37] And in all we were two hundred and seventy-six souls in the ship. [38] And when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship by throwing the wheat out into the sea. [39] And when it was day, they did not know the land, but they discovered a certain bay with a beach, onto which they were minded, if they could, to drive the ship. [40] And casting off the anchors, they left them in the sea, at the same time loosening the bands of the rudders; and hoisting the foresail to the wind, they made toward the shore. [41] But they struck a place where two seas met and ran the ship aground; and the bow stuck fast and remained immovable, but the stern was being broken up by the violence of the waves. [42] And the soldiers' counsel was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them should swim out and escape. [43] But the centurion, wanting to save Paul, kept them from their purpose, and commanded that those who could swim should cast themselves first into the sea and get to land, [44] and the rest to follow, some on planks and some on pieces of the ship. And so it was that they all escaped safely to land.

CHAPTER 28

[1] And when they had been brought safely through, they then learned that the island was called Melita.* [2] And the natives showed us no ordinary kindness; for they kindled a fire and received us all, because of the rain that had set in and because of the cold. [3] But when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks and laid them on the fire, a viper came out because of the heat and fastened on his hand. [4] And when the natives saw the creature hanging from his hand, they said to one another, "This man must surely be a murderer, whom Justice has not let live, even though he has been brought safely out of the sea."* [5] And he shook off the creature into the fire and felt no harm. [6] But they were expecting him to swell up or suddenly fall down dead; and after they had waited a long time and seen nothing unusual happen to him, they changed their minds and said that he was a god. [7] Now in the region around that place were lands belonging to the chief man of the island, whose name was Publius, who received us and lodged us courteously for three days. [8] And the father of Publius lay sick with fever and dysentery; to whom Paul went in and prayed, and laid his hands on him and healed him. [9] So when this was done, the others also on the island who had diseases came and were healed. [10] They also honored us with many honors, and when we departed, they put on board such things as were necessary. [11] And after three months we set sail in a ship of Alexandria that had wintered at the island, with the Twin Brothers as its emblem.* [12] And landing at Syracuse, we stayed there three days; [13] from there we sailed around and came to Rhegium; and after one day the south wind blew, and on the second day we came to Puteoli, [14] where we found brothers and were invited to stay with them seven days; and so we came to Rome. [15] And from there, when the brothers heard about us, they came to meet us as far as the Forum of Appius and Three Taverns; and when Paul saw them, he thanked God and took courage. [16] And when we came to Rome, the centurion delivered the prisoners to the captain of the guard; but Paul was allowed to live by himself, with the soldier who guarded him. [17] And after three days Paul called together the leading men of the Jews; and when they had come together, he said to them, "Men and brothers, though I had done nothing against the people or the customs of our fathers, I was delivered as a prisoner from Jerusalem into the hands of the Romans, [18] who, when they had examined me, wanted to release me, because there was no cause for death in me. [19] But when the Jews spoke against it, I was compelled to appeal to Caesar, not that I had anything to accuse my nation of. [20] For this reason therefore I have called for you, to see you and speak with you; because for the hope of Israel I am bound with this chain." [21] And they said to him, "We have neither received letters from Judea concerning you, nor has any of the brothers who came reported or spoken any evil about you. [22] But we want to hear from you what you think; for concerning this sect, we know that it is spoken against everywhere." [23] And when they had appointed him a day, many came to him at his lodging; and he explained the matter to them, solemnly testifying to the kingdom of God and persuading them concerning Jesus, both from the law of Moses and from the prophets, from morning until evening. [24] And some were persuaded by the things spoken, but others did not believe. [25] And when they disagreed among themselves, they departed, after Paul had said one word: "Well did the Holy Spirit speak through Isaiah the prophet to our fathers, [26] saying, 'Go to this people and say, "Hearing, you will hear and will not understand, and seeing, you will see and will not perceive; [27] for the heart of this people has grown dull, and with their ears they have been dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears and understand with their heart and turn, and I should heal them."' [28] Be it known to you, then, that the salvation of God has been sent to the Gentiles; they will also listen." [29] And when he had said these words, the Jews departed and had a great dispute among themselves. [30] And Paul stayed two whole years in his own rented house and received all who came to him, [31] preaching the kingdom of God and teaching the things concerning the Lord Jesus Christ with all boldness, unhindered.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul, a servant of Jesus Christ, called as an apostle, set apart for the gospel of God, [2] which he promised beforehand through his prophets in the holy Scriptures, [3] concerning his Son, who came of the seed of David according to the flesh, [4] who was declared to be the Son of God in power, according to the Spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead: Jesus Christ our Lord, [5] through whom we received grace and apostleship for the obedience of faith among all the Gentiles, for his name's sake, [6] among whom you also are, the called of Jesus Christ; [7] to all who are in Rome, beloved of God, called to be saints: grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. [8] First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, that your faith is proclaimed in the whole world. [9] For God is my witness, whom I serve in my spirit in the gospel of his Son, how unceasingly I make mention of you, [10] always asking in my prayers whether somehow, now at last, the way may be opened for me by the will of God to come to you. [11] For I long to see you, that I may impart to you some spiritual gift, so that you may be established; [12] and that is, that I may be comforted together with you while I am among you, through the faith we have in common, both yours and mine. [13] Now I do not want you to be unaware, brothers, that I often planned to come to you (but was hindered until now), so that I might have some fruit among you also, even as among the rest of the Gentiles. [14] I am a debtor both to Greeks and to barbarians, both to the wise and to the foolish. [15] So, as far as it depends on me, I am ready to preach the gospel to you who are in Rome as well. [16] For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God to salvation to everyone who believes, to the Jew first and also to the Greek. [17] For in it the righteousness of God is revealed from faith to faith; as it is written, "The righteous will live by faith."* [18] For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven upon all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men who hold down the truth in unrighteousness; [19] because what may be known of God is evident among them, for God made it evident to them. [20] For since the creation of the world his invisible things are clearly seen, being understood through the things that are made, both his eternal power and divinity, so that they are without excuse; [21] because, although they knew God, they did not glorify him as God nor give thanks, but became empty in their reasonings, and their senseless heart was darkened. [22] Professing to be wise, they became foolish, [23] and changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made in the likeness of corruptible man, and of birds, and of four-footed beasts, and of creeping things. [24] Therefore God also gave them up, in the desires of their hearts, to uncleanness, to dishonor their bodies among themselves; [25] who exchanged the truth of God for the lie, and worshiped and served the creature rather than the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen. [26] For this reason God gave them up to dishonorable passions; for even their women exchanged the natural use for what is against nature; [27] and likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust toward one another, men with men committing what is shameful, and receiving in themselves the recompense of their error which was due. [28] And even as they did not think it worth having God in their knowledge, God gave them up to a reprobate mind, to do the things that are not fitting; [29] being filled with all unrighteousness, sexual immorality, wickedness, covetousness, malice; full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, malignity; whisperers, [30] backbiters, haters of God, insolent, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, [31] without understanding, covenant-breakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful; [32] who, knowing the righteous ordinance of God, that those who practice such things are worthy of death, not only do them but also take pleasure in those who practice them.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Therefore you are without excuse, O man, everyone who judges; for in the matter in which you judge another, you condemn yourself; for you who judge practice the same things. [2] But we know that the judgment of God is according to truth upon those who practice such things. [3] And do you suppose this, O man, you who judge those who practice such things and do the same, that you will escape the judgment of God? [4] Or do you despise the riches of his kindness and forbearance and longsuffering, not knowing that the kindness of God leads you to repentance? [5] But according to your hardness and impenitent heart you are storing up wrath for yourself in the day of wrath and of the revelation of the righteous judgment of God, [6] who will render to each according to his works: [7] to those who by endurance in good work seek glory and honor and incorruption, eternal life; [8] but to those who are contentious and disobey the truth but obey unrighteousness, indignation and wrath, [9] tribulation and distress upon every soul of man that works evil, of the Jew first and also of the Greek; [10] but glory and honor and peace to everyone who works good, to the Jew first and also to the Greek. [11] For there is no respect of persons with God. [12] For as many as sinned without law will also perish without law; and as many as sinned under law will be judged by law; [13] for it is not the hearers of the law who are righteous before God, but the doers of the law who will be justified. [14] For when Gentiles, who do not have the law, do by nature the things of the law, these, not having the law, are a law to themselves, [15] who show the work of the law written in their hearts, their conscience bearing witness with them, and their reasonings accusing or else excusing one another between themselves, [16] in the day when God will judge the secrets of men according to my gospel through Jesus Christ. [17] Look, you are named a Jew, and rest upon the law, and boast in God, [18] and know his will, and approve the things that differ, being instructed from the law, [19] and are confident that you yourself are a guide of the blind, a light of those in darkness, [20] an instructor of the foolish, a teacher of infants, having the form of knowledge and of the truth in the law. [21] You, then, who teach another, do you not teach yourself? You who preach that one should not steal, do you steal? [22] You who say that one should not commit adultery, do you commit adultery? You who abhor idols, do you rob temples? [23] You who boast in the law, do you dishonor God through breaking the law? [24] For the name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles because of you, even as it is written. [25] For circumcision indeed profits, if you keep the law; but if you are a transgressor of the law, your circumcision has become uncircumcision. [26] If, then, the uncircumcision keeps the righteous ordinances of the law, will not his uncircumcision be reckoned as circumcision? [27] And the uncircumcision that is by nature, if it fulfills the law, will judge you, who with the letter and circumcision are a transgressor of the law. [28] For he is not a Jew who is one outwardly, nor is that circumcision which is outward in the flesh; [29] but he is a Jew who is one inwardly, and circumcision is of the heart, in spirit, not in letter; whose praise is not from men but from God.

CHAPTER 3

[1] What, then, is the advantage of the Jew? Or what is the profit of circumcision? [2] Much in every way. First indeed, that they were entrusted with the oracles of God. [3] For what if some did not believe? Will their unbelief make the faithfulness of God of no effect? [4] May it never be! But let God be true, and every man a liar; as it is written, "That you may be justified in your words, and may overcome when you are judged." [5] But if our unrighteousness commends the righteousness of God, what shall we say? Is God unrighteous who inflicts wrath? (I speak as a man.) [6] May it never be! Otherwise, how will God judge the world? [7] For if the truth of God has abounded to his glory through my lie, why am I also still judged as a sinner? [8] And why not say (as we are slandered, and as some affirm that we say), "Let us do evil things, that good things may come"? Their condemnation is just. [9] What then? Are we better than they? Not at all; for we previously brought the charge against both Jews and Greeks that they are all under sin; [10] as it is written: "There is none righteous, not even one; [11] there is none who understands; there is none who seeks out God. [12] All have turned aside; together they have become unprofitable; there is none who does good, there is not even one." [13] "Their throat is an open grave; with their tongues they have practiced deceit"; "the poison of asps is under their lips"; [14] "whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness"; [15] "their feet are swift to shed blood; [16] destruction and misery are in their ways; [17] and the way of peace they did not know"; [18] "there is no fear of God before their eyes." [19] Now we know that whatever things the law says, it speaks to those who are under the law, that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become guilty before God; [20] because by works of law no flesh will be justified before him; for through law is the knowledge of sin. [21] But now apart from law the righteousness of God has been manifested, being witnessed by the law and the prophets; [22] even the righteousness of God through faith in Jesus Christ, to all and upon all who believe; for there is no distinction; [] [23] for all sinned and fall short of the glory of God, [24] being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus; [25] whom God set forth as a propitiation, through faith, in his blood, as a demonstration of his righteousness, because of the passing over of the sins previously committed, [] [26] in the forbearance of God; for the demonstration of his righteousness at the present time, that he might be righteous and the one who justifies him who is of the faith of Jesus. [*] [27] Where then is the boasting? It was excluded. By what law? Of works? No, but by the law of faith. [28] We reckon, then, that a man is justified by faith apart from works of law. [29] Or is he the God of Jews only? Is he not also of Gentiles? Yes, of Gentiles also, [30] since God is one, who will justify circumcision by faith and uncircumcision through faith. [31] Do we, then, make the law void through faith? May it never be! Rather, we establish the law.

CHAPTER 4

[1] What, then, shall we say that Abraham our father has found according to the flesh? [2] For if Abraham was justified by works, he has something to boast of, but not before God. [3] For what does the Scripture say? "And Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him for righteousness." [4] Now to him who works, the wage is not reckoned according to grace, but according to debt; [5] but to him who does not work, but believes on him who justifies the ungodly, his faith is reckoned for righteousness. [6] Even as David also speaks of the blessedness of the man to whom God reckons righteousness apart from works: [7] "Blessed are they whose lawless deeds were forgiven, and whose sins were covered; [8] blessed is the man to whom the Lord will by no means reckon sin." [9] This blessedness, then, is it upon the circumcision, or upon the uncircumcision also? For we say that faith was reckoned to Abraham for righteousness. [10] How, then, was it reckoned? While he was circumcised, or uncircumcised? Not while circumcised, but while uncircumcised. [11] And he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had while uncircumcised, that he might be the father of all who believe though they are uncircumcised, that righteousness might be reckoned to them also, [12] and the father of the circumcised, to those who are not of the circumcision only, but who also walk in the steps of the faith which our father Abraham had while uncircumcised. [13] For the promise to Abraham or to his seed, that he would be heir of the world, was not through the law but through the righteousness of faith. [14] For if those who are of the law are heirs, faith is made void and the promise made of no effect; [15] for the law works wrath; for where there is no law, neither is there transgression. [16] For this reason it is of faith, that it may be according to grace, so that the promise may be sure to all the seed, not only to that which is of the law, but also to that which is of the faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all [17] (as it is written, "I have made you a father of many nations"), in the presence of God, whom he believed, who gives life to the dead and calls the things that are not as though they were; [18] who against hope believed in hope, that he might become the father of many nations, according to what had been spoken, "So shall your seed be." [19] And not being weak in faith, he did not consider his own body, already dead (he being about a hundred years old), nor the deadness of Sarah's womb; [20] but he did not waver at the promise of God through unbelief, but was strengthened in faith, giving glory to God, [21] and being fully assured that what he has promised he is able also to do. [22] Therefore also it was reckoned to him for righteousness. [23] Now it was not written for his sake alone that it was reckoned to him, [24] but for our sake also, to whom it will be reckoned, to us who believe on him who raised Jesus our Lord from the dead, [25] who was delivered up for our trespasses and was raised for our justification.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Having been justified, then, by faith, we have peace toward God through our Lord Jesus Christ, [2] through whom also we have obtained access by faith into this grace in which we stand, and we boast in hope of the glory of God. [3] And not only so, but we also boast in tribulations, knowing that tribulation brings about endurance, [4] and endurance, tested character; and tested character, hope; [5] and hope does not put to shame, because the love of God has been poured out in our hearts through the Holy Spirit who was given to us. [6] For when we were still without strength, Christ in due season died for the ungodly. [7] For scarcely for a righteous man will anyone die; yet perhaps for the good man someone would even dare to die. [8] But God commends his own love toward us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us. [9] Much more, then, having now been justified by his blood, we will be saved from wrath through him. [10] For if, while we were enemies, we were reconciled to God through the death of his Son, much more, having been reconciled, we will be saved by his life. [11] And not only so, but we also boast in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have now received the reconciliation. [12] Therefore, even as through one man sin entered into the world, and death through sin, and so death passed to all men, because all sinned; [13] for until the law sin was in the world, but sin is not imputed when there is no law. [14] Nevertheless death reigned from Adam until Moses, even over those who had not sinned after the likeness of Adam's transgression, who is a type of him who was to come. [15] But the free gift is not as the trespass. For if by the trespass of the one the many died, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is of the one man Jesus Christ, abounded to the many. [16] And the gift is not as it was through the one who sinned; for the judgment came from one offense to condemnation, but the free gift came from many trespasses to justification. [17] For if by the trespass of the one death reigned through the one, much more those who receive the abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness will reign in life through the one, Jesus Christ. [18] So then, as through one trespass condemnation came to all men, so also through one righteous act justification of life came to all men. [19] For as through the disobedience of the one man the many were made sinners, so also through the obedience of the one the many will be made righteous. [20] Moreover the law came in alongside, that the trespass might abound; but where sin abounded, grace abounded all the more, [21] that as sin reigned in death, so also grace might reign through righteousness to eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

CHAPTER 6

[1] What, then, shall we say? Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound? [2] May it never be! How shall we who died to sin live any longer in it? [3] Or do you not know that as many of us as were baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into his death? [4] So we were buried with him through baptism into death, that as Christ was raised from the dead through the glory of the Father, so we also might walk in newness of life. [5] For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we will also be in the likeness of his resurrection; [6] knowing this, that our old man was crucified with him, that the body of sin might be rendered powerless, so that we should no longer serve sin. [7] For he who has died has been justified from sin.* [8] And if we died with Christ, we believe that we will also live with him, [9] knowing that Christ, having been raised from the dead, dies no more; death no longer has dominion over him. [10] For in that he died, he died to sin once for all; but in that he lives, he lives to God. [11] So also you, reckon yourselves to be dead indeed to sin, but alive to God in Christ Jesus our Lord. [12] Do not, then, let sin reign in your mortal body, so that you obey it in its lusts; [13] neither present your members to sin as instruments of unrighteousness; but present yourselves to God as alive from the dead, and your members to God as instruments of righteousness. [14] For sin will not have dominion over you; for you are not under law, but under grace. [15] What then? Shall we sin, because we are not under law but under grace? May it never be! [16] Do you not know that to whom you present yourselves as servants to obey, you are servants of the one you obey, whether of sin to death, or of obedience to righteousness? [17] But thanks be to God that, though you were servants of sin, you obeyed from the heart the form of teaching to which you were delivered. [18] And having been freed from sin, you became servants to righteousness. [19] I speak in human terms because of the weakness of your flesh. For just as you presented your members as servants to uncleanness and to lawlessness, resulting in lawlessness, so now present your members as servants to righteousness, resulting in sanctification. [20] For when you were servants of sin, you were free in regard to righteousness. [21] What fruit, then, did you have at that time in the things of which you are now ashamed? For the end of those things is death. [22] But now, having been freed from sin and having become servants to God, you have your fruit for sanctification, and the end, eternal life. [23] For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.

CHAPTER 7

[1] Or do you not know, brothers (for I speak to those who know the law), that the law has dominion over a man as long as he lives? [2] For the woman who has a husband is bound by law to her husband while he lives; but if the husband dies, she is released from the law of the husband. [3] So then, while the husband lives, she will be called an adulteress if she is joined to another man; but if the husband dies, she is free from the law, so that she is not an adulteress though she is joined to another man. [4] So, my brothers, you also were made dead to the law through the body of Christ, that you might belong to another, to him who was raised from the dead, that we might bear fruit to God. [5] For when we were in the flesh, the sinful passions, which were through the law, were at work in our members to bear fruit to death. [6] But now we have been released from the law, that being dead in which we were held fast, so that we serve in newness of spirit and not in oldness of letter.* [7] What, then, shall we say? Is the law sin? May it never be! But I would not have known sin except through the law; for I would not have known lust if the law had not said, "You shall not lust." [8] But sin, taking occasion through the commandment, produced in me every kind of lust; for apart from the law sin was dead. [9] Once I was alive apart from the law; but when the commandment came, sin revived, and I died. [10] And the commandment that was for life, this very one I found to be for death. [11] For sin, taking occasion through the commandment, deceived me, and through it killed me. [12] So the law indeed is holy, and the commandment holy and righteous and good. [13] Did, then, that which is good become death to me? May it never be! But sin, that it might be shown to be sin, worked death in me through what is good, so that sin through the commandment might become exceedingly sinful. [14] For we know that the law is spiritual; but I am fleshly, sold under sin. [15]

For what I am doing, I do not understand; for what I will, that I do not practice; but what I hate, that I do. [16] But if I do what I do not will, I agree with the law that it is good. [17] But now it is no longer I who do it, but the sin that dwells in me. [18] For I know that in me, that is, in my flesh, dwells no good thing; for to will is present with me, but how to perform what is good I do not find.
[19] For the good that I will, I do not do; but the evil that I do not will, that I practice. [20] But if I do what I do not will, it is no longer I who do it, but the sin that dwells in me. [21] I find, then, this law: that when I will to do good, evil is present with me. [22]
For I delight in the law of God according to the inward man, [23] but I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members. [24] Wretched man that I am! Who will deliver me out of the body of this death? [25] I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord. So then I myself with the mind serve the law of God, but with the flesh the law of sin.

CHAPTER 8

[1] There is therefore now no condemnation to those who are in Christ Jesus, who do not walk according to the flesh but according to the Spirit.* [2] For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus freed me from the law of sin and of death. [3] For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God did: sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, he condemned sin in the flesh, [4] that the righteous ordinance of the law might be fulfilled in us, who do not walk according to the flesh but according to the Spirit. [5] For those who are according to the flesh mind the things of the flesh; but those who are according to the Spirit, the things of the Spirit. [6]
For the mind of the flesh is death, but the mind of the Spirit is life and peace; [7] because the mind of the flesh is enmity toward God; for it is not subject to the law of God, for neither can it be; [8] and those who are in the flesh cannot please God. [9] But you are not in the flesh but in the Spirit, if indeed the Spirit of God dwells in you. But if anyone does not have the Spirit of Christ, he is not his. [10] And if Christ is in you, the body indeed is dead because of sin, but the spirit is life because of righteousness. [11]
And if the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead dwells in you, he who raised Christ from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies through his Spirit who dwells in you. [12] So then, brothers, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live according to the flesh; [13] for if you live according to the flesh, you will die; but if by the Spirit you put to death the deeds of the body, you will live. [14] For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God. [15] For you did not receive a spirit of bondage again to fear, but you received the Spirit of adoption, by whom we cry out, "Abba, Father." [16] The Spirit himself bears witness with our spirit that we are children of God; [17] and if children, also heirs: heirs indeed of God, and joint heirs with Christ, if indeed we suffer with him, that we may also be glorified with him. [18] For I reckon that the sufferings of the present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory that will be revealed to us. [19] For the earnest expectation of the creation waits for the revealing of the sons of God. [20] For the creation was subjected to vanity, not willingly, but because of him who subjected it, in hope, [21] because the creation itself also will be freed from the bondage of corruption into the liberty of the glory of the children of God. [22]
For we know that the whole creation groans and travails in pain together until now. [23] And not only so, but we ourselves also, who have the firstfruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, eagerly waiting for the adoption, the redemption of our body. [24] For in hope we were saved; but hope that is seen is not hope; for why does anyone still hope for what he sees? [25] But if we hope for what we do not see, through endurance we await it. [26] And likewise the Spirit also helps us in our weaknesses; for we do not know what we should pray for as we ought; but the Spirit himself intercedes for us with groanings that cannot be uttered. [27] And he who searches the hearts knows what is the mind of the Spirit, because according to God he intercedes for the saints. [28] And we know that all things work together for good to those who love God, to those who are called according to his purpose. [29] For whom he foreknew, he also predestined to be conformed to the image of his Son, that he might be the firstborn among many brothers; [30] and whom he predestined, these he also called; and whom he called, these he also justified; and whom he justified, these he also glorified. [31] What, then, shall we say to these things? If God is for us, who is against us? [32] He who did not spare his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how will he not also with him freely give us all things? [33] Who will bring a charge against God's chosen ones? It is God who justifies; [34] Who is the one who condemns? It is Christ who died, yes rather, who was also raised, who is also at the right hand of God, who also intercedes for us. [35] Who will separate us from the love of Christ? Tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? [36] Even as it is written: "For your sake we are put to death all day long; we were reckoned as sheep for slaughter." [37] But in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us. [38] For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels nor principalities nor powers, nor things present nor things to come, [39] nor height nor depth, nor any other created thing, will be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

CHAPTER 9

[1] I say the truth in Christ, I do not lie, my conscience bearing witness with me in the Holy Spirit, [2] that I have great sorrow and unceasing anguish in my heart. [3] For I could wish that I myself were anathema from Christ for the sake of my brothers, my kinsmen according to the flesh, [4] who are Israelites; theirs are the adoption and the glory and the covenants and the giving of the law and the service and the promises; [5] theirs are the fathers, and from them, according to the flesh, is the Christ, who is over all, God blessed forever. Amen.* [6] But it is not as though the word of God has come to nothing. For not all who are of Israel are Israel; [7] nor, because they are the seed of Abraham, are they all children;
but, "In Isaac your seed will be called." [8] That is, it is not the children of the flesh who are children of God, but the children of the promise are reckoned as seed. [9] For this is the word of promise: "At this season I will come, and Sarah will have a son." [10] And not only so, but Rebecca also, when she had conceived by one man, our father Isaac; [11] for though the children were not yet born, nor had done anything good or evil, that the purpose of God according to election might stand, not of works but of him who calls,* [12] it was said to her, "The older will serve the younger." [13] Even as it is written, "Jacob I loved, but Esau I hated." [14] What, then, shall we say? Is there unrighteousness with God? May it never be! [15] For he says to Moses, "I will have mercy on whom I have mercy, and I will have pity on whom I have pity." [16] So then it is not of him who wills, nor of him who runs, but of God who has mercy. [17] For the Scripture says to Pharaoh, "For this very thing I raised you up, that I might show in you my power, and that my name might be declared in all the earth." [18] So then on whom he wills he has mercy, and whom he wills he hardens. [19] You will say to me, then, "Why does he still find fault? For who has withstood his will?" [20] No, but who are you, O man, to answer back to God? Will the thing formed say to him who formed it, "Why did you make me like this?" [21] Or does the potter not have authority over the clay, to make from the same lump one vessel for honor and another for dishonor? [22] And what if God, willing to show his wrath and to make known his power, endured with much longsuffering vessels of wrath fitted for destruction, [23] and that he might make known the riches of his glory upon vessels of mercy, which he prepared beforehand for glory, [24] even us, whom he also called, not of the Jews only but also of the Gentiles? [25] As he says also in Hosea, "I will call that which was not my people, my people; and her who was not beloved, beloved." [26] "And it will be, in the place where it was said to them, 'You are not my people,' there they will be called sons of the living God." [27] And Isaiah cries out concerning Israel, "Though the number of the children of Israel be as the sand of the sea, the remnant will be saved; [28] for he is bringing the word to completion and cutting it short in righteousness; for the Lord will carry out a word cut short upon the earth." [29] And even as Isaiah said before, "Unless the Lord of Sabaoth had left us a seed, we would have become like Sodom, and been made like Gomorrah." [30] What, then, shall we say? That Gentiles who did not pursue righteousness laid hold of righteousness, even the righteousness that is of faith; [31] but Israel, pursuing a law of righteousness, did not attain to the law of righteousness. [32] Why? Because they sought it not by faith, but as it were by the works of the law. For they stumbled at the stone of stumbling, [33] even as it is written, "Look, I lay in Zion a stone of stumbling and a rock of offense; and everyone who believes on him will not be put to shame."

CHAPTER 10

[1] Brothers, the desire of my heart and my supplication to God for Israel is for their salvation. [2] For I bear them witness that they have a zeal for God, but not according to knowledge. [3] For, being ignorant of the righteousness of God, and seeking to establish their own righteousness, they did not subject themselves to the righteousness of God. [4] For Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to everyone who believes. [5] For Moses writes of the righteousness which is of the law, that the man who does those things will live by them. [6] But the righteousness of faith speaks thus: "Do not say in your heart, 'Who will ascend into heaven?'" that is, to bring Christ down; [7] or, "'Who will descend into the abyss?'" that is, to bring Christ up from the dead. [8] But what does it say? "The word is near you, in your mouth and in your heart"; that is, the word of faith which we proclaim: [9] that if you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus, and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved. [10] For with the heart one believes to righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made to salvation. [11] For the Scripture says, "Everyone who believes on him will not be put to shame." [12] For there is no distinction between Jew and Greek; for the same Lord over all is rich toward all who call upon him. [13] For "whoever calls upon the name of the Lord will be saved." [14] How, then, will they call on him in whom they have not believed? And how will they believe in him of whom they have not heard? And how will they hear without a preacher? [15] And how will they preach unless they are sent? Even as it is written, "How beautiful are the feet of those who bring good tidings of peace, who bring good tidings of good things!" [16] But they did not all obey the gospel; for Isaiah says, "Lord, who has believed our report?" [17] So then faith is by hearing, and hearing by the word of God. [18] But I say, did they not hear? Yes indeed: "Their sound went out into all the earth, and their words to the ends of the world." [19] But I say, did Israel not know? First Moses says, "I will provoke you to jealousy by those who are no nation; by a foolish nation I will anger you." [20] And Isaiah is very bold and says, "I was found by those who did not seek me; I was made manifest to those who did not ask for me." [21] But to Israel he says, "All the day long I stretched out my hands to a people who disobey and contradict."

CHAPTER 11

[1] I say, then, has God cast away his people? May it never be! For I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin. [2] God has not cast away his people whom he foreknew. Or do you not know what the Scripture says of Elijah, how he pleads with God against Israel, saying, [3] "Lord, they killed your prophets and dug down your altars, and I alone am left, and they seek my life"? [4] But what does the divine answer say to him? "I have kept for myself seven thousand men, who have not bowed the knee to Baal." [5] Even so, then, at the present time also there is a remnant according to the election of grace. [6] And if by grace, it is no longer of works; otherwise grace is no longer grace. But if of works, it is no longer grace; otherwise work is no longer work. [7] What then? What Israel seeks, it did not obtain, but the election obtained it, and the rest were hardened; [8] even as it is written, "God gave them a spirit of stupor, eyes not to see and ears not to hear, until this day." [9] And David says, "Let their table become a snare and a trap, and a stumbling block and a recompense to them; [10] let their eyes be darkened, not to see, and bow down their back always." [11] I say, then, did they stumble so that they should fall? May it never be! But by their trespass salvation has come to the Gentiles, to provoke them to jealousy. [12] Now if their trespass is the riches of the world, and their loss the riches of the Gentiles, how much more their fullness! [13] For I speak to you, the Gentiles; inasmuch as I am an apostle of the Gentiles, I magnify my ministry, [14] if by any means I may provoke to jealousy those who are my flesh and may save some of them. [15] For if their casting away is the reconciliation of the world, what will the receiving of them be, but life from the dead? [16] And if the firstfruit is holy, the lump is also; and if the root is holy, so are the branches. [17] And if some of the branches were broken off, and you, being a wild olive, were grafted in among them and became a fellow partaker of the root and fatness of the olive tree, [18] do not boast against the branches. But if you boast, it is not you who bear the root, but the root bears you. [19] You will say, then, "Branches were broken off, that I might be grafted in." [20] That is true: by unbelief they were broken off, and you stand by faith. Do not be high-minded, but fear; [21] for if God did not spare the natural branches, take heed, or he may not spare you either. [22] See, then, the goodness and severity of God: upon those who fell, severity; but upon you, goodness, if you continue in his goodness; otherwise you also will be cut off. [23] And they also, if they do not continue in unbelief, will be grafted in; for God is able to graft them in again. [24] For if you were cut out of the olive tree which is wild by nature, and were grafted contrary to nature into a good olive tree, how much more will these, who are according to nature, be grafted into their own olive tree? [25] For I do not want you to be unaware, brothers, of this mystery, so that you may not be wise in your own estimation: that hardening in part has come to Israel, until the fullness of the Gentiles comes in; [26] and so all Israel will be saved; even as it is written, "There will come out of Zion the Deliverer, and he will turn away ungodliness from Jacob; [27] and this is the covenant from me to them, when I take away their sins." [28] As regards the gospel, they are enemies for your sake; but as regards the election, beloved for the fathers' sake. [29] For the gifts and the calling of God are without regret. [30] For as you also once disobeyed God, but now have obtained mercy through their disobedience, [31] so also these now have disobeyed, that through your mercy they also may obtain mercy. [32] For God has shut up all in disobedience, that he might have mercy upon all. [33] O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past tracing out! [34] "For who has known the mind of the Lord? Or who has been his counselor?" [35] "Or who has first given to him, that it should be repaid to him?" [36] For of him and through him and to him are all things. To him be the glory forever. Amen.

CHAPTER 12

[1] I exhort you, then, brothers, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, well-pleasing to God, which is your reasonable service. [2] And do not be conformed to this age, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, so that you may prove what is the will of God, the good and well-pleasing and perfect. [3] For I say, through the grace given to me, to everyone who is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think, but to think so as to be sober-minded, as God has apportioned to each a measure of faith. [4] For even as in one body we have many members, but all the members do not have the same function, [5] so we, being many, are one body in Christ, and individually members of one another. [6] And having gifts differing according to the grace given to us: if prophecy, let us prophesy according to the proportion of faith; [7] or ministry, let us be occupied in ministering; or he who teaches, in teaching; [8] or he who exhorts, in exhortation; he who gives, with simplicity; he who leads, with diligence; he who shows mercy, with cheerfulness. [9] Let love be without hypocrisy. Abhor what is evil; cleave to what is good. [10] Be tenderly affectionate to one another in brotherly love; in honor preferring one another; [11] not slothful in diligence; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord; [*] [12] rejoicing in hope; enduring in tribulation; continuing steadfastly in prayer; [13] contributing to the needs of the saints; pursuing hospitality. [14] Bless those who persecute you; bless, and do not curse. [15] Rejoice with those who rejoice, and weep with those who weep. [16] Be of the same mind toward one another; do not set your mind on high things, but associate with the lowly. Do not be wise in your own estimation. [17] Repay no one evil for evil. Take thought for what is honorable in the sight of all men. [18] If it is possible, as much as depends on you, be at peace with all men. [19] Do not avenge yourselves, beloved, but give place to wrath; for it is written, "Vengeance is mine; I will repay, says the Lord." [20] Therefore, "If your enemy is hungry, feed him; if he is thirsty, give him drink; for in doing this you will heap coals of fire upon his head." [21] Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good.

CHAPTER 13

[1] Let every soul be subject to the higher authorities. For there is no authority except from God, and the authorities that exist are ordained by God. [2] Therefore whoever resists the authority resists the ordinance of God, and those who resist will receive condemnation on themselves. [3] For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to evil. Do you want to have no fear of the authority? Do what is good, and you will have praise from it; [4] for it is God's minister to you for good. But if you do what is evil, be afraid; for it does not bear the sword in vain; for it is God's minister, an avenger to execute wrath on him who practices evil. [5] Therefore it is necessary to be subject, not only because of wrath but also for conscience' sake. [6] For this reason you also pay tribute; for they are public servants of God, devoting themselves continually to this very thing. [7] Render, then, to all what is due them: tribute to whom tribute is due, custom to whom custom, fear to whom fear, honor to whom honor. [8] Owe no one anything, except to love one another; for he who loves another has fulfilled the law. [9] For this, "You shall not commit adultery, you shall not murder, you shall not steal, you shall not bear false witness, you shall not lust," and if there is any other commandment, it is summed up in this word, namely, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself."[*] [10] Love works no evil to the neighbor; love, then, is the fullness of the law. [11] And do this, knowing the time, that it is already the hour for us to awake out of sleep; for now our salvation is nearer than when we believed. [12] The night is far spent, and the day is at hand. Let us, then, cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light. [13] Let us walk decently, as in the day, not in revelry and drunkenness, not in lewdness and wantonness, not in strife and envy. [14] But put on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make no provision for the flesh, to fulfill its lusts.

CHAPTER 14

[1] Receive him who is weak in the faith, but not to pass judgment on his reasonings. [2] One believes that he may eat all things; but he who is weak eats herbs. [3] Let not him who eats despise him who does not eat; and let not him who does not eat judge him who eats; for God received him. [4] Who are you to judge another man's servant? To his own master he stands or falls. Yes, he will be made to stand; for God is able to make him stand. [5] One man esteems one day above another; another esteems every day alike. Let each be fully assured in his own mind. [6] He who regards the day regards it to the Lord, and he who does not regard the day does not regard it to the Lord. He who eats eats to the Lord, for he gives thanks to God; and he who does not eat, to the Lord he does not eat, and gives thanks to God. [7] For none of us lives to himself, and none dies to himself. [8] For whether we live, we live to the Lord; and whether we die, we die to the Lord. Whether, then, we live or whether we die, we are the Lord's. [9] For to this end Christ both died and rose and lived again, that he might be Lord both of the dead and of the living. [10] But you, why do you judge your brother? Or you also, why do you despise your brother? For we will all stand before the judgment seat of Christ. [11] For it is written, "As I live, says the Lord, to me every knee will bow, and every tongue will confess to God." [12] So then each of us will give account concerning himself to God. [13] Let us, then, no longer judge one another; but judge this rather, not to put a stumbling block or an occasion of falling in a brother's way. [14] I know and am persuaded in the Lord Jesus that nothing is common of itself; except that to him who reckons anything to be common, to him it is common. [15] But if your brother is grieved because of food, you are no longer walking in love. Do not destroy with your food the one for whom Christ died. [16] So do not let your good be spoken of as evil. [17] For the kingdom of God is not eating and drinking, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit. [18] For he who in these things serves Christ is well-pleasing to God and approved by men. [19] So then let us pursue the things that make for peace and the things by which we may build up one another. [20] Do not destroy the work of God for the sake of food. All things indeed are clean, but it is evil for the man who eats with offense. [21] It is good not to eat meat nor to drink wine, nor to do anything by which your brother stumbles or is offended or is made weak. [22] Do you have faith? Keep it to yourself before God. Blessed is he who does not condemn himself in what he approves. [23] But he who doubts is condemned if he eats, because it is not of faith; and all that is not of faith is sin.

CHAPTER 15

[1] And we who are strong ought to bear the weaknesses of those who are not strong, and not to please ourselves. [2] Let each of us please his neighbor for his good, to build him up. [3] For even Christ did not please himself; but, as it is written, "The reproaches of those who reproached you fell upon me." [4] For whatever things were written beforehand were written for our instruction, that through endurance and through the consolation of the Scriptures we might have hope. [5] Now may the God of endurance and of consolation grant you to be like-minded toward one another according to Christ Jesus, [6] that with one accord, with one mouth, you may glorify the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ. [7] Therefore receive one another, even as Christ also received us, to the glory of God. [8] Now I say that Jesus Christ has become a minister of the circumcision for the truth of God, to confirm the promises made to the fathers, [9] and that the Gentiles might glorify God for mercy; even as it is written, "For this cause I will confess to you among the Gentiles, and sing to your name." [10] And again he says, "Rejoice, Gentiles, with his people." [11] And again, "Praise the Lord, all you Gentiles, and laud him, all you peoples." [12] And again Isaiah says, "There will be the root of Jesse, and he who rises to rule over the Gentiles; in him the Gentiles will hope." [13] Now may the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that you may abound in hope by the power of the Holy Spirit. [14] And I myself also am persuaded concerning you, my brothers, that you yourselves also are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, able also to admonish one another. [15] Nevertheless I have written to you more boldly in part, as reminding you, because of the grace given to me by God, [16] that I should be a minister of Jesus Christ to the Gentiles, ministering the gospel of God as a priestly service, that the offering up of the Gentiles might be acceptable, sanctified by the Holy Spirit. [17] Therefore I have my boasting in Christ Jesus in the things that pertain to God. [18] For I will not dare to speak of any of the things which Christ has not worked through me for the obedience of the Gentiles, in word and deed, [19] by the power of signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God; so that from Jerusalem, and round about as far as Illyricum, I have fully preached the gospel of Christ; [20] and so I have made it my aim to preach the gospel, not where Christ was named, that I might not build upon another man's foundation; [21] but, as it is written, "Those to whom nothing was announced concerning him will see; and those who have not heard will understand." [22] For this reason also I have often been hindered from coming to you. [23] But now, no longer having room in these regions, and having had a longing these many years to come to you, [24] whenever I journey to Spain I will come to you; for I hope to see you as I pass through, and to be sent on my way there by you, if first I may be partly filled with your company. [25] But now I am going to Jerusalem, ministering to the saints. [26] For it pleased Macedonia and Achaia to make a certain contribution for the poor among the saints who are in Jerusalem. [27] For it pleased them indeed, and they are their debtors; for if the Gentiles have shared in their spiritual things, they ought also to minister to them in fleshly things. [28] When, then, I have completed this, and have sealed to them this fruit, I will set out by way of you into Spain. [29] And I know that, coming to you, I will come in the fullness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ. [30] Now I exhort you, brothers, through our Lord Jesus Christ and through the love of the Spirit, to strive together with me in your prayers to God on my behalf, [31] that I may be delivered from the unbelievers in Judea, and that my ministry for Jerusalem may be acceptable to the saints, [32] that I may come to you in joy through the will of God, and may be refreshed together with you. [33] Now the God of peace be with you all. Amen.

CHAPTER 16

[1] And I commend to you Phoebe our sister, who is a servant of the church that is in Cenchreae,* [2] that you receive her in the Lord in a manner worthy of the saints, and help her in whatever matter she may need you; for she herself has been a helper of many, and of myself also. [3] Greet Priscilla and Aquila, my fellow workers in Christ Jesus, [4] who for my life laid down their own necks; to whom not only I give thanks, but also all the churches of the Gentiles. [5] And greet the church in their house. Greet Epaenetus my beloved, who is the firstfruit of Achaia for Christ. [6] Greet Mary, who labored much for us. [7] Greet Andronicus and Junia, my kinsmen and my fellow captives, who are of note among the apostles, who also were in Christ before me. [8] Greet Amplias, my beloved in the Lord. [9] Greet Urbanus, our fellow worker in Christ, and Stachys my beloved. [10] Greet Apelles, approved in Christ. Greet those of the household of Aristobulus. [11] Greet Herodion my kinsman. Greet those of the household of Narcissus who are in the Lord. [12] Greet Tryphaena and Tryphosa, who labor in the Lord. Greet Persis the beloved, who labored much in the Lord. [13] Greet Rufus, the chosen one in the Lord, and his mother and mine. [14] Greet Asyncritus, Phlegon, Hermas, Patrobas, Hermes, and the brothers with them. [15] Greet Philologus and Julia, Nereus and his sister, and Olympas, and all the saints with them. [16] Greet one another with a holy kiss. The churches of Christ greet you. [17] Now I exhort you, brothers, to mark those who cause the divisions and the occasions of stumbling contrary to the teaching which you learned, and turn away from them. [18] For such do not serve our Lord Jesus Christ, but their own belly; and by smooth words and fair speeches they deceive the hearts of the innocent. [19] For your obedience has reached all; I rejoice, therefore, over you; but I want you to be wise toward what is good, and simple toward what is evil. [20] And the God of peace will crush Satan under your feet shortly. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen. [21] Timothy my fellow worker greets you, and Lucius and Jason and Sosipater, my kinsmen. [22] I, Tertius, who wrote the letter, greet you in the Lord. [23] Gaius, host to me and to the whole church, greets you. Erastus the steward of the city greets you, and Quartus the brother. [24] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen. [25] Now to him who is able to establish you according to my gospel and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery kept secret through eternal ages, [26] but now made manifest, and through the prophetic Scriptures, according to the command of the eternal God, made known to all the Gentiles for the obedience of faith, [27] to the only wise God, through Jesus Christ, be glory forever. Amen.*

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul, called by the will of God to be an apostle of Jesus Christ, and our brother Sosthenes, [2] to the church of God which is in Corinth, to those sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all who in every place call upon the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, both theirs and ours: [3] Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. [4] I thank my God always concerning you for the grace of God given you in Christ Jesus, [5] that in everything you were enriched in him, in all utterance and all knowledge, [6] even as the testimony of Christ was confirmed in you, [7] so that you fall short in no gift, waiting for the revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ, [8] who will also confirm you to the end, blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ. [9] God is faithful, by whom you were called into the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord. [10] Now I exhort you, brothers, through the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that you all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you, but that you be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment. [11] For it has been made plain to me about you, my brothers, by those of Chloe's household, that there are contentions among you. [12] And I mean this, that each of you says, "I am of Paul," and "I of Apollos," and "I of Cephas," and "I of Christ." [13] Has Christ been divided? Was Paul crucified for you? Or were you baptized into the name of Paul? [14] I thank God that I baptized none of you except Crispus and Gaius, [15] so that no one should say that I baptized into my own name. [16] And I also baptized the household of Stephanas; besides that, I do not know whether I baptized any other. [17] For Christ did not send me to baptize but to preach the gospel, not with wisdom of words, lest the cross of Christ be made of no effect. [18] For the word of the cross is foolishness to those who are perishing, but to us who are being saved it is the power of God. [19] For it is written, "I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and the understanding of the intelligent I will bring to nothing." [20] Where is the wise man? Where is the scribe? Where is the disputer of this age? Has not God made foolish the wisdom of this world? [21] For since, in the wisdom of God, the world through its wisdom did not know God, it pleased God through the foolishness of preaching to save those who believe. [22] For indeed Jews ask for a sign, and Greeks seek after wisdom; [23] but we preach Christ crucified, to Jews a stumbling block and to Greeks foolishness, [24] but to those who are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God; [25] because the foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men. [26] For consider your calling, brothers: not many wise according to the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble; [27] but the foolish things of the world God chose, that he might put the wise to shame; and the weak things of the world God chose, that he might put to shame the strong things; [28] and the base things of the world and the things despised God chose, and the things that are not, that he might bring to nothing the things that are, [29] that no flesh should boast in his presence. [30] But of him are you in Christ Jesus, who became to us wisdom from God, both righteousness and sanctification and redemption, [31] that, even as it is written, "He who boasts, let him boast in the Lord."

[1] And I, when I came to you, brothers, did not come with excellence of speech or of wisdom, proclaiming to you the testimony of God. [2] For I determined not to know anything among you except Jesus Christ, and him crucified. [3] And I was with you in weakness and in fear and in much trembling; [4] and my speech and my preaching were not with persuasive words of human wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power, [5] that your faith should not be in the wisdom of men but in the power of God. [6] Yet we do speak wisdom among the mature; but a wisdom not of this age, nor of the rulers of this age, who are coming to nothing. [7] But we speak God's wisdom in a mystery, the wisdom that has been hidden, which God foreordained before the ages for our glory, [8] which none of the rulers of this age knew; for had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory. [9] But as it is written: "Things which eye has not seen, nor ear heard, and which have not entered into the heart of man, the things which God has prepared for those who love him." [10] But to us God revealed them through his Spirit; for the Spirit searches all things, even the depths of God. [11] For who among men knows the things of a man except the spirit of the man which is in him? So also the things of God no one knows except the Spirit of God. [12] Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit who is from God, that we might know the things freely given to us by God; [13] which things we also speak, not in words taught by human wisdom, but in those taught by the Holy Spirit, comparing spiritual things with spiritual. [14] But the natural man does not receive the things of the Spirit of God, for they are foolishness to him, and he cannot know them, because they are spiritually discerned. [15] But he who is spiritual discerns all things, yet he himself is discerned by no one. [16] For "who has known the mind of the Lord, that he may instruct him?" But we have the mind of Christ.

CHAPTER 3

[1] And I, brothers, could not speak to you as to spiritual men, but as to fleshly, as to infants in Christ. [2] I gave you milk to drink, not solid food; for you were not yet able to bear it, and even now you are still not able, [3] for you are still fleshly. For since there is jealousy and strife and divisions among you, are you not fleshly and walking in a merely human way? [4] For whenever one says, "I am of Paul," and another, "I of Apollos," are you not fleshly? [5] Who then is Paul, and who Apollos, but ministers through whom you believed, even as the Lord gave to each? [6] I planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the increase. [7] So neither he who plants is anything, nor he who waters, but God who gives the increase. [8] Now he who plants and he who waters are one, and each will receive his own reward according to his own labor. [9] For we are God's fellow workers; you are God's cultivated field, God's building. [10] According to the grace of God that was given to me, as a wise master builder I have laid a foundation, and another builds upon it. But let each one take heed how he builds upon it. [11] For no one can lay another foundation than the one that is laid, which is Jesus Christ. [12] Now if anyone builds upon this foundation gold, silver, precious stones, wood, grass, stubble, [13] each one's work will become manifest; for the Day will make it plain, because it is revealed by fire; and the fire will test each one's work, of what sort it is. [14] If anyone's work which he has built upon it remains, he will receive a reward. [15] If anyone's work is burned up, he will suffer loss; but he himself will be saved, yet so as through fire. [16] Do you not know that you are a temple of God, and the Spirit of God dwells in you? [17] If anyone destroys the temple of God, God will destroy him; for the temple of God is holy, which you are. [18] Let no one deceive himself. If anyone among you seems to be wise in this age, let him become foolish, so that he may become wise. [19] For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, "He is the one who catches the wise in their craftiness"; [20] and again, "The Lord knows the thoughts of the wise, that they are futile." [21] So let no one boast in men; for all things are yours, [22] whether Paul or Apollos or Cephas or the world or life or death or things present or things to come, all are yours, [23] and you are Christ's, and Christ is God's.

CHAPTER 4

[1] So let a man regard us as attendants of Christ and stewards of the mysteries of God. [2] Moreover, it is required in stewards that one be found faithful. [3] But to me it is a very small thing that I should be examined by you or by man's day of judgment; indeed, I do not even examine myself. [4] For I am conscious of nothing against myself, yet I am not justified by this; but the one who examines me is the Lord. [5] So do not judge anything before the time, until the Lord comes, who will both bring to light the hidden things of darkness and make manifest the counsels of the hearts; and then each one will have his praise from God. [6] Now these things, brothers, I have applied in a figure to myself and Apollos for your sakes, that you may learn in us not to think beyond what is written, that none of you be puffed up for one against another. [7] For who makes you differ from another? And what do you have that you did not receive? And if you did receive it, why do you boast as if you had not received it? [8] Already you are full! Already you have become rich! You have reigned as kings without us! And I wish indeed that you did reign, so that we too might reign with you! [9] For I think that God has displayed us, the apostles, last, as men condemned to death; for we have become a spectacle to the world, both to angels and to men. [10] We are fools for Christ's sake, but you are wise in Christ; we are weak, but you are strong; you are glorious, but we are without honor. [11] To this present hour we both hunger and thirst, and are poorly clothed, and are beaten, and have no settled home, [12] and we labor, working with our own hands. Being reviled, we bless; being persecuted, we endure it; [13] being slandered, we entreat. We have become as the filth of the world, the offscouring of all things, until now. [14] I do not write these things to shame you, but as my beloved children I warn you. [15] For though you have ten thousand instructors in Christ, yet you do not have many fathers; for in Christ Jesus I begot you through the gospel. [16] Therefore I exhort you, be imitators of me. [17] For this reason I sent Timothy to you, who is my beloved and faithful child in the Lord, who will remind you of my ways that are in Christ, even as I teach everywhere in every church. [18] Now some are puffed up, as though I were not coming to you. [19] But I will come to you shortly, if the Lord wills, and I will know, not the speech of those who are puffed up, but the power. [20] For the kingdom of God is not in word but in power. [21] What do you want? Shall I come to you with a rod, or in love and a spirit of meekness?

CHAPTER 5

[1] It is actually reported that there is sexual immorality among you, and such sexual immorality as is not even named among the Gentiles, that someone has his father's wife. [2] And you are puffed up, and have not rather mourned, that he who has done this deed might be taken away from among you. [3] For I, absent in body but present in spirit, have already judged, as though I were present, him who has done this thing, [4] in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, when you are gathered together along with my spirit, with the power of our Lord Jesus Christ, [5] to deliver such a one to Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus. [6] Your boasting is not good. Do you not know that a little leaven leavens the whole lump? [7] Purge out, then, the old leaven, that you may be a new lump, even as you are unleavened. For indeed Christ our Passover was sacrificed for us. [8] So let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, nor with leaven of malice and wickedness, but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth. [9] I wrote to you in the letter not to keep company with sexually immoral people; [10] not at all meaning the sexually immoral of this world, or the covetous, or extortioners, or idolaters, since then you would have to go out of the world. [11] But now I have written to you not to keep company with anyone who is called a brother, if he is sexually immoral or covetous or an idolater or a reviler or a drunkard or an extortioner; not even to eat with such a one. [12] For what have I to do with judging those who are outside? Do you not judge those who are inside? [13] But God judges those who are outside. And put away the wicked man from among yourselves.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Dare any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unrighteous, and not before the saints? [2] Do you not know that the saints will judge the world? And if the world is judged by you, are you unworthy to judge the smallest matters? [3] Do you not know that we will judge angels? How much more, then, things that pertain to this life? [4] If, then, you have courts for matters of this life, set those to judge who are least esteemed in the church. [5] I say it to your shame. Is it so, that there is not a wise man among you, not even one, who will be able to judge between his brothers, [6] but brother goes to law with brother, and that before unbelievers? [7] Already, then, it is altogether a defeat for you that you have lawsuits with one another. Why not rather suffer wrong? Why not rather be defrauded? [8] But you yourselves do wrong and defraud, and that to your brothers. [9] Or do you not know that the unrighteous will not inherit the kingdom of God? Do not be deceived: neither the sexually immoral, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate men, nor men who lie with males, [10] nor thieves, nor the covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners will inherit the kingdom of God. [11] And such were some of you; but you were washed, but you were sanctified, but you were justified in the name of the Lord Jesus and by the Spirit of our God. [12] All things are lawful for me, but not all things are profitable. All things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any. [13] Foods are for the belly and the belly for foods; but God will bring to nothing both it and them. Now the body is not for sexual immorality but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body. [14] And God both raised up the Lord and will also raise us up through his power. [15] Do you not know that your bodies are members of Christ? Shall I, then, take the members of Christ and make them members of a harlot? May it never be! [16] Or do you not know that he who is joined to the harlot is one body with her? For "the two," he says, "will become one flesh." [17] But he who is joined to the Lord is one spirit. [18] Flee sexual immorality. Every sin that a man does is outside the body; but he who commits sexual immorality sins against his own body. [19] Or do you not know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit who is in you, whom you have from God, and you are not your own? [20] For you were bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body and in your spirit, which are God's.*

CHAPTER 7

[1] Now concerning the things of which you wrote to me: it is good for a man not to touch a woman. [2] But because of the cases of sexual immorality, let each man have his own wife, and let each woman have her own husband. [3] Let the husband render to the wife the goodwill due to her, and likewise also the wife to the husband.* [4] The wife does not have authority over her own body, but the husband; and likewise the husband also does not have authority over his own body, but the wife. [5] Do not deprive one another, except by agreement for a time, that you may give yourselves to fasting and prayer; and come together again, so that Satan may not tempt you because of your lack of self-control. [*] [6] But this I say as a concession, not as a command. [7] For I wish that all men were even as I myself am. But each has his own gift from God, one in this way and another in that. [8] But I say to the unmarried and to the widows: it is good for them if they remain even as I am. [9] But if they do not have self-control, let them marry; for it is better to marry than to burn. [10] And to the married I give this charge, not I but the Lord: that a wife not be separated from her husband; [11] but if she is indeed separated, let her remain unmarried, or else be reconciled to her husband; and that a husband not send away his wife. [12] But to the rest I speak, not the Lord: if any brother has a wife who does not believe, and she is willing to dwell with him, let him not send her away. [13] And if a woman has a husband who does not believe, and he is willing to dwell with her, let her not send him away. [14] For the unbelieving husband is sanctified in the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified in the husband; otherwise your children would be unclean, but now they are holy. [15] But if the unbelieving one separates, let him separate; the brother or the sister is not under bondage in such cases; but God has called us in peace. [16] For how do you know, wife, whether you will save your husband? Or how do you know, husband, whether you will save your wife? [17] Only, as God has apportioned to each, as the Lord has called each, so let him walk. And so I ordain in all the churches. [18] Was anyone called when already circumcised? Let him not become uncircumcised. Was anyone called while uncircumcised? Let him not be circumcised. [19] Circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing, but the keeping of the commandments of God. [20] Let each remain in the calling in which he was called. [21] Were you called as a servant? Do not be concerned about it; but if you are also able to become free, use it rather. [22] For the servant who was called in the Lord is the Lord's freedman; likewise also the free man who was called is Christ's servant. [23] You were bought with a price; do not become servants of men. [24] Brothers, let each one remain with God in the state in which he was called. [25] Now concerning virgins I have no command of the Lord; but I give my judgment, as one who has received mercy from the Lord to be faithful. [26] I think, then, that this is good because of the present necessity: that it is good for a man to remain as he is. [27] Are you bound to a wife? Do not seek to be released. Are you released from a wife? Do not seek a wife. [28] But even if you marry, you have not sinned; and if the virgin marries, she has not sinned. Yet such will have trouble in the flesh, and I would spare you. [29] But this I say, brothers: the time is short; from now on let those who have wives be as though they had none, [30] and those who weep as though they did not weep, and those who rejoice as though they did not rejoice, and those who buy as though they did not possess, [31] and those who use this world as not using it to the full; for the fashion of this world is passing away. [32] But I want you to be without care. The unmarried man cares for the things of the Lord, how he may please the Lord; [33] but he who is married cares for the things of the world, how he may please his wife. [34] There is a difference also between the wife and the virgin. The unmarried woman cares for the things of the Lord, that she may be holy both in body and in spirit; but she who is married cares for the things of the world, how she may please her husband. [35] And this I say for your own profit, not that I may put a noose on you, but for what is proper, and that you may attend upon the Lord without distraction. [36] But if anyone thinks he is behaving improperly toward his virgin, if she is past the flower of her youth, and need so requires, let him do what he wills; he does not sin; let them marry. [37] But he who stands steadfast in his heart, having no necessity, but has authority concerning his own will, and has judged this in his heart, to keep his own virgin, does well. [38] So then he also who gives in marriage does well, but he who does not give in marriage does better. [39] A wife is bound by law as long as her husband lives; but if her husband falls asleep, she is free to be married to whom she wills, only in the Lord. [40] But she is happier if she so remains, according to my judgment; and I think that I also have the Spirit of God.

CHAPTER 8

[1] Now concerning the things sacrificed to idols, we know that we all have knowledge. Knowledge puffs up, but love builds up. [2] And if anyone thinks that he knows anything, he knows nothing yet as he ought to know. [3] But if anyone loves God, he is known by him. [4] Concerning, then, the eating of things sacrificed to idols, we know that an idol is nothing in the world, and that there is no other God but one. [5] For even if there are so-called gods, whether in heaven or on earth (as there are many gods and many lords), [6] yet for us there is one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we for him; and one Lord Jesus Christ, through whom are all things, and we through him. [7] However, not all have this knowledge; for some, with consciousness of the idol until now, eat it as a thing sacrificed to an idol, and their conscience, being weak, is defiled. [8] But food does not commend us to God; for neither, if we eat, do we abound, nor, if we do not eat, do we lack. [9] But take heed lest by any means this right of yours become a stumbling block to those who are weak. [10] For if anyone sees you, who have knowledge, reclining at table in an idol's house, will not the conscience of him who is weak be built up to eat the things sacrificed to idols? [11] And through your knowledge the weak brother will perish, for whom Christ died. [12] And so, sinning against the brothers and wounding their weak conscience, you sin against Christ. [13] Therefore, if food causes my brother to stumble, I will never eat meat, that I may not cause my brother to stumble.

CHAPTER 9

[1] Am I not an apostle? Am I not free? Have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord? Are you not my work in the Lord? [2] If to others I am not an apostle, yet at least I am to you; for you are the seal of my apostleship in the Lord. [3] My defense to those who examine me is this: [4] Do we not have the right to eat and to drink? [5] Do we not have the right to take along a sister as a wife, as also the other apostles do, and the brothers of the Lord, and Cephas? [6] Or is it only Barnabas and I who have no right to refrain from working? [7] Who ever serves as a soldier at his own expense? Who plants a vineyard and does not eat of its fruit? Or who tends a flock and does not drink of the milk of the flock? [8] Do I say these things as a mere man? Or does not the law say the same also? [9] For in the law of Moses it is written, "You shall not muzzle a threshing ox." Is it for the oxen that God is concerned? [10] Or does he say it entirely for our sake? For our sake it was written, that he who plows should plow in hope, and he who threshes in hope should be partaker of his hope. [11] If we have sown spiritual things for you, is it a great thing if we reap your fleshly things? [12] If others share in this right over you, do not we even more? Yet we have not used this right, but we endure all things, lest we should hinder the gospel of Christ. [13] Do you not know that those who minister at the holy things eat of the things of the temple, and those who serve at the altar share with the altar? [14] Even so the Lord ordained that those who preach the gospel should live from the gospel. [15] But I have used none of these things; nor have I written these things that it should be done so to me; for it would be better for me to die than that anyone should make my boasting void. [16] For if I preach the gospel, I have nothing to boast of; for necessity is laid upon me; yes, woe is me if I do not preach the gospel. [17] For if I do this willingly, I have a reward; but if against my will, I have been entrusted with a stewardship. [18] What, then, is my reward? That when I preach the gospel I may make the gospel of Christ free of charge, so as not to make full use of my right in the gospel. [19] For though I am free from all men, I made myself a servant to all, that I might gain the more. [20] And to the Jews I became as a Jew, that I might gain the Jews; to those who are under the law, as under the law, that I might gain those who are under the law; [21] to those who are without law, as without law (not being without law toward God, but under law toward Christ), that I might gain those who are without law. [22] To the weak I became as weak, that I might gain the weak. I have become all things to all men, that I may by all means save some. [23] And this I do for the gospel's sake, that I may become a fellow partaker of it. [24] Do you not know that those who run in a race all run, but one receives the prize? So run, that you may obtain it. [25] And everyone who competes exercises self-control in all things. They do it to receive a perishable crown, but we an imperishable. [26] Therefore I run thus: not with uncertainty; thus I fight: not as one who beats the air; [27] but I buffet my body and bring it into bondage, lest by any means, after preaching to others, I myself should be disqualified.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Now I do not want you to be unaware, brothers, that our fathers were all under the cloud, and all passed through the sea, [2] and all were baptized into Moses in the cloud and in the sea, [3] and all ate the same spiritual food, [4] and all drank the same spiritual drink; for they drank of a spiritual rock that followed them, and the rock was Christ. [5] But with most of them God was not well pleased; for they were overthrown in the wilderness. [6] Now these things became examples for us, so that we should not desire evil things, as they also desired. [7] And do not become idolaters, as some of them were; as it is written, "The people sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play." [8] Nor let us commit sexual immorality, as some of them did, and in one day twenty-three thousand fell. [9] Nor let us tempt Christ, as some of them also did, and were destroyed by the serpents. [10] Nor murmur, as some of them also did, and were destroyed by the destroyer. [11] Now all these things happened to them as types, and they were written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the ages have come. [12] Therefore let him who thinks he stands take heed lest he fall. [13] No temptation has taken hold of you except what is human; but God is faithful, who will not let you be tempted beyond what you are able, but with the temptation will also make the way of escape, that you may be able to bear it. [14] Therefore, my beloved, flee from idolatry. [15] I speak as to sensible men; you judge what I say. [16] The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? [17] Because there is one bread, we, though many, are one body; for we all partake of the one bread. [18] Consider Israel according to the flesh: are not those who eat the sacrifices partakers of the altar? [19] What, then, do I say? That an idol is anything, or that a thing sacrificed to idols is anything? [20] Rather, I say that the things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to demons and not to God; and I do not want you to become partakers with demons. [21] You cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons; you cannot partake of the table of the Lord and of the table of demons. [22] Or do we provoke the Lord to jealousy? Are we stronger than he? [23] All things are lawful for me, but not all things are profitable; all things are lawful for me, but not all things build up. [24] Let no one seek his own, but each one another's good. [25] Eat whatever is sold in the meat market, asking no questions for conscience' sake; [26] for "the earth is the Lord's, and its fullness." [27] And if any of those who do not believe invites you, and you wish to go, eat whatever is set before you, asking no questions for conscience' sake. [28] But if anyone says to you, "This was sacrificed to idols," do not eat it, for the sake of the one who informed you and for conscience' sake; for "the earth is the Lord's, and its fullness." [29] Conscience, I say, not your own, but the other man's; for why is my liberty judged by another's conscience? [30] If I partake with thankfulness, why am I spoken evil of for that for which I give thanks? [31] Whether, then, you eat or drink or do anything, do all things to the glory of God. [32] Give no occasion of stumbling, either to Jews or to Greeks or to the church of God, [33] even as I also please all men in all things, not seeking my own profit but that of the many, that they may be saved.

CHAPTER 11

[1] Be imitators of me, even as I also am of Christ. [2] Now I praise you, brothers, that you remember me in all things and hold fast the traditions just as I delivered them to you. [3] But I want you to know that the head of every man is Christ, and the head of the woman is the man, and the head of Christ is God. [4] Every man who prays or prophesies with his head covered dishonors his head. [5] But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head; for that is one and the same as if her head were shaved. [6] For if a woman is not veiled, let her also be shorn; but if it is a shame for a woman to be shorn or shaven, let her be veiled. [7] For a man indeed ought not to veil his head, being the image and glory of God; but the woman is the glory of man. [8] For man is not from woman, but woman from man; [9] nor was man created for the sake of the woman, but woman for the sake of the man. [10] For this reason the woman ought to have authority on her head, because of the angels. [11] Nevertheless, neither is man without woman, nor woman without man, in the Lord. [12] For as woman is from man, so man also is through woman; but all things are from God. [13] Judge among yourselves: is it proper for a woman to pray to God unveiled? [14] Or does not even nature itself teach you that if a man has long hair, it is a dishonor to him, [15] but if a woman has long hair, it is a glory to her? For her hair is given to her for a covering. [16] But if anyone seems to be contentious, we have no such custom, nor do the churches of God. [17] Now in giving this charge I do not praise you, because you come together not for the better but for the worse. [18] For first of all, when you come together as a church, I hear that there are divisions among you, and in part I believe it. [19] For there must also be factions among you, that those who are approved may become manifest among you. [20] When, then, you come together in one place, it is not to eat the Lord's supper; [21] for in eating, each one takes his own supper ahead of the others, and one is hungry and another is drunk. [22] What! Do you not have houses to eat and drink in? Or do you despise the church of God and put to shame those who have nothing? What shall I say to you? Shall I praise you? In this I do not praise you. [23] For I received from the Lord that which I also delivered to you, that the Lord Jesus, on the night in which he was betrayed, took bread, [24] and having given thanks, he broke it and said, "Take, eat; this is my body, which is broken for you; do this in remembrance of me."* [25] In the same way also he took the cup after supper, saying, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood; do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of me." [26] For as often as you eat this bread and drink this cup, you proclaim the Lord's death until he comes. [27] Therefore whoever eats this bread or drinks the cup of the Lord unworthily will be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord. [28] But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of the bread and drink of the cup. [29] For he who eats and drinks unworthily eats and drinks condemnation to himself, not discerning the body of the Lord.* [30] Because of this many among you are weak and sickly, and a good many sleep. [31] For if we discerned ourselves, we would not be judged. [32] But being judged, we are disciplined by the Lord, that we may not be condemned with the world. [33] So then, my brothers, when you come together to eat, wait for one another. [34] And if anyone is hungry, let him eat at home, lest you come together for condemnation. And the rest I will set in order whenever I come.

CHAPTER 12

[1] Now concerning spiritual gifts, brothers, I do not want you to be unaware. [2] You know that you were Gentiles, carried away to these mute idols, however you were led. [3] Therefore I make known to you that no one speaking by the Spirit of God says, "Jesus is anathema," and no one can say, "Jesus is Lord," except by the Holy Spirit. [4] Now there are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit; [5] and there are diversities of ministries, and the same Lord; [6] and there are diversities of workings, but it is the same God who works all in all. [7] But to each one is given the manifestation of the Spirit for what is profitable. [8] For to one is given through the Spirit a word of wisdom, and to another a word of knowledge by the same Spirit; [9] to another faith by the same Spirit; to another gifts of healings by the same Spirit; [10] to another the working of miracles; to another prophecy; to another discerning of spirits; to another different kinds of tongues; and to another the interpretation of tongues. [11] But one and the same Spirit works all these things, distributing to each one individually as he wills. [12] For as the body is one and has many members, and all the members of the one body, being many, are one body, so also is Christ. [13] For by one Spirit we were all baptized into one body, whether Jews or Greeks, whether servants or free; and we were all made to drink into one Spirit. [14] For the body also is not one member, but many. [15] If the foot should say, "Because I am not a hand, I am not of the body," is it therefore not of the body? [16] And if the ear should say, "Because I am not an eye, I am not of the body," is it therefore not of the body? [17] If the whole body were an eye, where would the hearing be? If the whole were hearing, where would the sense of smell be? [18] But now God has set the members, each one of them, in the body as he willed. [19] And if all were one member, where would the body be? [20] But now there are many members, yet one body. [21] And the eye cannot say to the hand, "I have no need of you"; or again the head to the feet, "I have no need of you." [22] No, much rather, those members of the body which seem to be weaker are necessary; [23] and those members of the body which we think less honorable, on these we bestow greater honor; and our uncomely parts have greater comeliness, [24] whereas our comely parts have no need. But God has composed the body together, having given greater honor to the part that lacked, [25] that there may be no division in the body, but that the members may have the same care for one another. [26] And if one member suffers, all the members suffer with it; or if one member is honored, all the members rejoice with it. [27] Now you are the body of Christ, and members individually. [28] And God has set some in the church: first apostles, second prophets, third teachers, then miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, administrations, kinds of tongues. [29] Are all apostles? Are all prophets? Are all teachers? Are all workers of miracles? [30] Do all have gifts of healings? Do all speak with tongues? Do all interpret? [31] But earnestly desire the better gifts. And yet I show you a more excellent way.

CHAPTER 13

[1] If I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, but do not have love, I have become sounding brass or a clanging cymbal. [] [2] And if I have prophecy, and understand all mysteries and all knowledge, and if I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, but do not have love, I am nothing. [3] And if I give out all my goods as food, and if I deliver up my body to be burned, but do not have love, it profits me nothing. [4] Love suffers long and is kind; love does not envy; love does not vaunt itself, is not puffed up, [5] does not behave improperly, does not seek its own, is not provoked, does not take account of evil; [6] does not rejoice in unrighteousness, but rejoices with the truth; [7] bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things. [8] Love never fails. But whether there are prophecies, they will be done away; whether tongues, they will cease; whether knowledge, it will be done away. [9] For we know in part, and we prophesy in part; [10] but when that which is complete has come, then that which is in part will be done away. [11] When I was a child, I spoke as a child, I thought as a child, I reasoned as a child; but when I became a man, I put away the things of a child. [12] For now we see through a mirror, dimly, but then face to face; now I know in part, but then I will know fully, even as I also was fully known. [] [13] And now faith, hope, love abide, these three; but the greatest of these is love.

CHAPTER 14

[1] Pursue love, and earnestly desire spiritual gifts, but especially that you may prophesy. [2] For he who speaks in a tongue speaks not to men but to God; for no one understands him; but in the spirit he speaks mysteries. [3] But he who prophesies speaks to men edification and exhortation and consolation. [4] He who speaks in a tongue edifies himself, but he who prophesies edifies the church. [5] Now I would like you all to speak with tongues, but even more that you would prophesy; for he who prophesies is greater than he who speaks with tongues, unless he interprets, that the church may receive edification. [6] And now, brothers, if I come to you speaking with tongues, what will I profit you, unless I speak to you either in revelation or in knowledge or in prophecy or in teaching? [7] Even things without life that give a sound, whether flute or harp, if they do not make a distinction in the sounds, how will it be known what is piped or harped? [8] For if the trumpet gives an uncertain sound, who will prepare himself for battle? [9] So also you, unless you utter by the tongue speech that is easily understood, how will what is spoken be known? For you will be speaking into the air. [10] There are, it may be, so many kinds of sounds in the world, and none of them is without meaning. [11] If, then, I do not know the meaning of the sound, I will be a barbarian to him who speaks, and he who speaks will be a barbarian to me. [12] So also you, since you are zealous of spiritual gifts, seek to abound in them for the edification of the church. [13] Therefore let him who speaks in a tongue pray that he may interpret. [14] For if I pray in a tongue, my spirit prays, but my understanding is unfruitful. [15] What is it, then? I will pray with the spirit, and I will pray also with the understanding; I will sing with the spirit, and I will sing also with the understanding. [16] Otherwise, if you bless with the spirit, how will he who fills the place of the unlearned say the Amen at your giving of thanks, since he does not know what you are saying? [17] For you indeed give thanks well, but the other is not edified. [18] I thank my God that I speak with tongues more than you all; [19] but in the church I would rather speak five words with my understanding, that I might also instruct others, than ten thousand words in a tongue. [20] Brothers, do not be children in understanding; but in malice be infants, and in understanding be mature. [21] In the law it is written, "With other tongues and with other lips I will speak to this people, and even so they will not hear me, says the Lord." [22] So then tongues are for a sign, not to those who believe but to the unbelieving; but prophecy is not for the unbelieving but for those who believe. [23] If, then, the whole church comes together in one place, and all speak with tongues, and there come in those who are unlearned or unbelievers, will they not say that you are out of your minds? [24] But if all prophesy, and some unbeliever or unlearned man comes in, he is convicted by all, he is examined by all, [25] and thus the secrets of his heart are made manifest; and so, falling on his face, he will worship God, declaring that God is truly among you. [26] How is it, then, brothers? Whenever you come together, each of you has a psalm, has a teaching, has a tongue, has a revelation, has an interpretation. Let all things be done for edification. [27] If anyone speaks in a tongue, let it be by two, or at the most three, and each in turn; and let one interpret. [28] But if there is no interpreter, let him be silent in the church, and let him speak to himself and to God. [29] And let two or three prophets speak, and let the others discern. [30] But if anything is revealed to another sitting by, let the first be silent. [31] For you can all prophesy one by one, that all may learn and all may be exhorted. [32] And the spirits of the prophets are subject to the prophets. [33] For God is not a God of disorder but of peace, as in all the churches of the saints. [34] Let your women keep silent in the churches, for they are not permitted to speak, but to be subject, as also the law says. [35] And if they wish to learn anything, let them ask their own husbands at home; for it is a shame for women to speak in church. [36] Or did the word of God go out from you? Or did it come to you only? [37] If anyone thinks he is a prophet or spiritual, let him acknowledge the things which I write to you, that they are commandments of the Lord. [38] But if anyone is ignorant, let him be ignorant. [39] Therefore, brothers, earnestly desire to prophesy, and do not forbid speaking with tongues. [40] Let all things be done decently and in order.

CHAPTER 15

[1] Now I make known to you, brothers, the gospel which I preached to you, which you also received, in which you also stand, [2] by which also you are saved, if you hold fast the word which I preached to you, unless you believed in vain. [3] For I delivered to you first of all that which I also received: that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures, [4] and that he was buried, and that he was raised on the third day according to the Scriptures, [5] and that he was seen by Cephas, then by the twelve. [6] After that he was seen by more than five hundred brothers at once, of whom the greater part remain until now, but some have fallen asleep. [7] After that he was seen by James, then by all the apostles. [8] And last of all, as by one born out of due time, he was seen by me also. [9] For I am the least of the apostles, who am not worthy to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God. [10] But by the grace of God I am what I am; and his grace toward me was not in vain, but I labored more abundantly than they all; yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me. [11] Whether, then, it was I or they, so we preach, and so you believed. [12] Now if Christ is preached, that he has been raised from the dead, how do some among you say that there is no resurrection of the dead? [13] But if there is no resurrection of the dead, neither has Christ been raised; [14] and if Christ has not been raised, then our preaching is empty, and your faith is also empty. [15] And we are also found false witnesses of God, because we testified of God that he raised the Christ, whom he did not raise, if indeed the dead are not raised. [16] For if the dead are not raised, neither has Christ been raised; [17] and if Christ has not been raised, your faith is futile; you are still in your sins. [18] Then also those who fell asleep in Christ perished. [19] If in this life only we have hoped in Christ, we are of all men the most miserable. [20] But now Christ has been raised from the dead, and has become the firstfruits of those who have fallen asleep. [21] For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. [22] For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ all will be made alive. [23] But each in his own order: Christ the firstfruits, afterward those who are Christ's at his coming. [24] Then comes the end, when he delivers up the kingdom to God, even the Father, when he has abolished all rule and all authority and power. [25] For he must reign until he has put all the enemies under his feet. [26] The last enemy to be abolished is death. [27] For he subjected all things under his feet. But when he says that all things have been subjected, it is evident that he is excepted who subjected all things to him. [28] And when all things have been subjected to him, then the Son himself also will be subjected to him who subjected all things to him, that God may be all in all. [29] Otherwise, what will they do who are baptized for the dead, if the dead are not raised at all? Why then are they baptized for the dead? [30] Why also do we stand in danger every hour? [31] I die daily; I affirm it by the boasting in you which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord. [32] If, in human terms, I fought with beasts at Ephesus, what does it profit me, if the dead are not raised? Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die. [33] Do not be deceived: evil company corrupts good habits. [34] Become sober, as you ought, and do not sin; for some do not have the knowledge of God. I speak this to your shame. [35] But someone will say, "How are the dead raised? And with what body do they come?" [36] Foolish one! What you sow is not made alive unless it dies. [37] And what you sow, you do not sow the body that will be, but a bare grain, perhaps of wheat or of some other grain; [38] but God gives it a body as he has willed, and to each of the seeds its own body. [39] Not all flesh is the same flesh; but there is one flesh of men, another flesh of beasts, another of fish, and another of birds. [40] There are also heavenly bodies and earthly bodies; but the glory of the heavenly is one thing, and that of the earthly another. [41] There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars; for star differs from star in glory. [42] So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption; it is raised in incorruption. [43] It is sown in dishonor; it is raised in glory. It is sown in weakness; it is raised in power. [44] It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body. [45] So also it is written, "The first man Adam became a living soul"; the last Adam, a life-giving spirit. [46] However, the spiritual is not first, but the natural, and afterward the spiritual. [47] The first man is of the earth, earthy; the second man is the Lord from heaven. [48] As is the earthy, such also are the earthy; and as is the heavenly, such also are the heavenly. [49] And as we bore the image of the earthy, we will also bear the image of the heavenly. [50] And this I declare, brothers: that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, nor does corruption inherit incorruption. [51] Look, I tell you a mystery: we will not all sleep, but we will all be changed, [52] in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet; for the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised incorruptible, and we will be changed. [53] For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. [54] And when this corruptible has put on incorruption, and this mortal has put on immortality, then the saying that is written will come to pass: "Death was swallowed up in victory." [55] "O death, where is your sting? O Hades, where is your victory?"* [56] Now the sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law. [57] But thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. [58] Therefore, my beloved brothers, be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that your labor is not in vain in the Lord.

CHAPTER 16

[1] Now concerning the collection for the saints, as I gave order to the churches of Galatia, so you also must do. [2] On the first day of the week, let each of you put something aside by himself, storing it up as he may prosper, that there be no collections when I come. [3] And when I arrive, whomever you approve by letters, these I will send to bring your gift to Jerusalem.* [4] And if it is fitting that I go also, they will go with me. [5] Now I will come to you when I pass through Macedonia; for I am passing through Macedonia; [6] And perhaps I will stay with you, or even spend the winter, that you may send me on my way wherever I go. [7] For I do not want to see you now just in passing; but I hope to remain some time with you, if the Lord permits. [8] But I will remain in Ephesus until Pentecost; [9] for a great and effective door has opened to me, and there are many adversaries. [10] Now if Timothy comes, see that he is with you without fear; for he works the work of the Lord, as I also do. [11] Let no one, then, despise him; but send him on his way in peace, that he may come to me; for I am waiting for him with the brothers. [12] Now concerning our brother Apollos, I strongly urged him to come to you with the brothers; and it was not at all his will to come now, but he will come when he has a convenient time. [13] Watch, stand firm in the faith, be manly, be strong. [14] Let all that you do be done in love. [15] Now I exhort you, brothers (you know the household of Stephanas, that it is the firstfruits of Achaia, and that they have devoted themselves to the ministry of the saints), [16] that you also be subject to such, and to everyone who works and labors with us. [17] And I rejoice at the coming of Stephanas and Fortunatus and Achaicus, because what was lacking on your part they supplied. [18] For they refreshed my spirit and yours; therefore acknowledge such men. [19] The churches of Asia greet you. Aquila and Priscilla greet you heartily in the Lord, with the church that is in their house. [20] All the brothers greet you. Greet one another with a holy kiss. [21] I, Paul, write this greeting with my own hand. [22] If anyone does not love the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be anathema. Maran atha. [*] [23] The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with you. [24] My love be with you all in Christ Jesus. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul, by God's will an apostle of Jesus Christ, and Timothy, our brother, to the church of God at Corinth, together with all the saints throughout Achaia: [2] Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. [3] Blessed is the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies and the God of all consolation, [4] who consoles us in all our affliction, so that we may be able to console those in every affliction through the consolation with which we ourselves are consoled by God. [5] For as the sufferings of Christ abound toward us, so our consolation also abounds through Christ. [6] And whether we are afflicted, it is for your consolation and salvation, which works in the enduring of the same sufferings that we too suffer; or whether we are consoled, it is for your consolation and salvation; and our hope on your behalf is firm, [] [7] knowing that as you are partakers of the sufferings, so also of the consolation. [8] For we do not wish you to be unaware, brothers, of our affliction that befell us in Asia, that we were burdened exceedingly, above our strength, so that we despaired even of living. [9] But we ourselves had the sentence of death within ourselves, so that we might not trust in ourselves but in God, who raises the dead; [10] who rescued us from so great a death and does rescue us; in him we have set our hope that he will yet rescue us, [11] while you also work together for us by your prayer, so that thanks may be given by many people on our behalf for the gift bestowed on us through many. [12] For our boasting is this, the witness of our conscience: that in simplicity and godly sincerity, not in fleshly wisdom but in the grace of God, we have behaved ourselves in the world, and more especially toward you. [13] For we are not writing to you anything other than what you read and recognize, and I hope you will go on recognizing it to the end, [14] just as you have already recognized in part that we are your reason for boasting, as you are ours, on the day of the Lord Jesus. [15] It was with this confidence that I intended to come to you first, so that you might receive a second benefit, [16] and to go on by way of you into Macedonia, then come back to you from Macedonia and be helped on my journey by you to Judea. [17] So when I intended this, did I act with fickleness? Or what I plan, do I plan according to the flesh, so that with me it should be "Yes, yes" and "No, no"? [18] But God is faithful: our word toward you was not yes and no. [19] For the Son of God, Jesus Christ, who was proclaimed among you by us, by me and Silvanus and Timothy, was not yes and no, but in him it has been yes. [20] For all the promises of God in him are yes, and in him amen, to the glory of God through us. [21] And the one who confirms us with you in Christ and anointed us is God, [22] who also sealed us and gave the down payment of the Spirit in our hearts. [] [23] Now I call on God as witness upon my soul that it was to spare you that I did not come to Corinth again. [24] Not that we are masters over your faith, but we are fellow workers for your joy; for by faith you stand.

CHAPTER 2

[1] But I decided this for myself: not to come to you again in sorrow. [2] For if I make you sorrowful, who then is there to make me glad, except the one I have made sorrowful? [3] And I wrote this very thing to you, so that when I came I would not have sorrow from those who ought to make me rejoice, having confidence in you all that my joy is the joy of you all. [4] For it was out of much affliction and anguish of heart that I wrote to you, with many tears, not so that you would be grieved, but so that you might know the love which I have so abundantly for you. [5] But if anyone has caused sorrow, he has caused sorrow not to me but, in part (not to overstate it), to you all. [6] For such a person this penalty from the majority is enough, [7] so that on the contrary you should rather forgive and comfort him, lest such a one be swallowed up by excessive sorrow. [8] Therefore I urge you to confirm your love toward him. [9] Indeed, this was why I wrote: to test you and find out whether you are obedient in everything. [10] Now if you forgive anyone anything, I forgive him too; for if I have forgiven anything, to whomever I have forgiven it, I have forgiven it for your sakes in the person of Christ, [11] so that Satan may not take advantage of us, for we are well aware of his designs. [12] When I came to Troas for the gospel of Christ, even though a door stood open for me in the Lord, [13] I had no rest in my spirit, because I did not find Titus my brother; but taking leave of them, I went out into Macedonia. [14] But thanks be to God, who at all times leads us in triumph in Christ, and makes manifest the scent of his knowledge through us in every place. [15] For to God we are the sweet smell of Christ among those being saved and among those perishing; [16] to the one a scent of death to death, to the other a scent of life to life. And who is sufficient for these things? [17] For we are not, like the many, peddling the word of God; but out of sincerity, as from God, we speak before God in Christ.*

CHAPTER 3

[1] Are we beginning again to commend ourselves? Or do we need, as some do, letters of commendation to you or letters of commendation from you? [2] You are our letter, written on our hearts, known and read by all people, [3] since you are plainly shown to be a letter of Christ ministered by us, written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God, not on tablets of stone but on fleshly tablets of the heart. [4] And such confidence we have through Christ toward God; [5] not that we are sufficient of ourselves to reckon anything as coming from ourselves, but our sufficiency is from God, [6] who also made us sufficient as ministers of a new covenant, not of the letter but of the Spirit; for the letter kills, but the Spirit makes alive. [7] But if the ministry of death, engraved in letters on stones, came with glory, so that the children of Israel could not gaze at the face of Moses because of the glory of his face, a glory that was being done away, [8] how will the ministry of the Spirit not be all the more with glory? [9] For if the ministry of condemnation was glory, much more does the ministry of righteousness overflow with glory. [10] Indeed, what once had glory has no glory at all in this respect, because of the glory that so far outshines it. [11] For if what was being done away came with glory, much more does what remains abide in glory. [12] Having, then, such hope, we use much plainness of speech, [13] and we are not like Moses, who put a veil over his face so that the children of Israel might not gaze at the end of what was being done away. [14] But their minds were hardened; for until this day the same veil remains unlifted at the reading of the old covenant, the veil that is done away in Christ.* [15] But to this day, whenever Moses is read, a veil lies over their heart. [16] But when one turns to the Lord, the veil is removed. [17] Now the Lord is the Spirit, and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty. [18] And all of us, with unveiled face, beholding as in a mirror the glory of the Lord, are being changed into the same image from glory to glory, as by the Spirit of the Lord.*

CHAPTER 4

[1] Therefore, having this ministry, as we have received mercy, we do not lose heart; [2] but we have renounced the hidden things of shame, not walking in craftiness nor falsifying the word of God, but by the open statement of the truth commending ourselves to every man's conscience before God. [3] But even if our gospel is veiled, it is veiled among those who are perishing, [4] in whom the god of this age has blinded the minds of those who do not believe, so that the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God, should not dawn on them. [5] For we do not proclaim ourselves but Christ Jesus as Lord, and ourselves your servants for the sake of Jesus. [6] For it is God, who said, "Light shall shine out of darkness," who has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ. [7] But we have this treasure in earthenware vessels, so that the surpassing greatness of the power may be from God and not from us. [8] We are pressed hard on every side but not hemmed in; perplexed but not in despair; [9] persecuted but not forsaken; cast down but not destroyed; [10] always carrying about in the body the dying of the Lord Jesus, so that the life of Jesus may also be made manifest in our body. [11] For we who live are always being handed over to death for Jesus' sake, so that the life of Jesus may also be made manifest in our mortal flesh. [12] So death works in us, but life in you. [13] Yet having the same spirit of faith, in keeping with what is written, "I believed, and so I spoke," we too believe, and so we too speak, [14] for we know that the one who raised the Lord Jesus will raise us also through Jesus and will bring us, together with you, into his presence. [15] For all things are for your sake, so that the grace, multiplied through the many, may cause thanksgiving to abound to the glory of God. [16] Therefore we do not lose heart; but even if our outer man is decaying, yet the inner man is being renewed day by day. [17] For this slight, momentary affliction of ours is producing for us an eternal weight of glory, beyond all measure and proportion, [18] while we look not at the things that are seen but at the things not seen; for the things that are seen are for a season, but the things not seen are eternal.

CHAPTER 5

[1] For we know that if our earthly house, this tent, is taken down, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. [2] For in this we groan, longing to be clothed over with our dwelling that is from heaven, [3] if indeed, having been clothed, we shall not be found naked. [4] For indeed we who are in this tent groan, being weighed down, because we do not wish to be unclothed but to be clothed over, so that what is mortal may be swallowed up by life. [5] Now the one who prepared us for this very thing is God, who also gave us the down payment of the Spirit. [6] So we are always of good courage, knowing that while we are at home in the body we are away from the Lord [7] (for we walk by faith, not by sight); [8] we are of good courage, and are well pleased rather to be away from the body and at home with the Lord. [9] Therefore we also make it our ambition, whether at home or away, to be well-pleasing to him. [10] For we must all be made manifest before the judgment seat of Christ, so that each one may receive what is due for the things done in the body, according to what he has done, whether good or bad. [11] Knowing, then, the fear of the Lord, we persuade men; but we have been made manifest to God, and I hope we have also been made manifest in your consciences. [12] For we are not commending ourselves to you again, but giving you an occasion to boast on our behalf, so that you may have something to say to those who boast in appearance and not in heart. [13] For whether we were beside ourselves, it was for God; or whether we are of sober mind, it is for you. [14] For the love of Christ holds us in its grip, because we have reached this conclusion: if one died for all, then all died; [15] and he died on behalf of all, that those who live should no longer live to themselves but to the one who died and rose again on their behalf. [16] So from now on we know no one according to the flesh; even if we have known Christ according to the flesh, yet now we know him so no longer. [17] So if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old things have passed away; look, all things have become new. [18] And all things are from God, who reconciled us to himself through Jesus Christ and gave us the ministry of reconciliation, [19] namely, that God was in Christ reconciling the world to himself, not counting their trespasses to their account, and has entrusted to us the message of reconciliation. [20] So we are ambassadors on behalf of Christ, as though God were pleading through us; we beg on behalf of Christ, be reconciled to God. [21] For our sake he made the one who knew no sin to be sin, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God.

CHAPTER 6

[1] As those who work together with him, we also appeal to you not to receive the grace of God to no purpose. [2] For he says, "At a welcome time I heard you, and on a day of salvation I came to your aid." Look, now is the truly welcome time; look, now is the day of salvation. [3] We give no occasion of stumbling in anything, so that the ministry may not be blamed, [4] but in everything we commend ourselves as ministers of God, in much endurance, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses, [5] in stripes, in prisons, in tumults, in labors, in sleepless nights, in fastings, [6] by purity, by knowledge, by longsuffering, by kindness, by the Holy Spirit, by love without pretense, [7] in the word of truth, in the power of God, by the weapons of righteousness on the right hand and on the left, [8] through glory and dishonor, through evil report and good report; as deceivers, and yet true; [9] as unknown, and yet well known; as dying, and look, we live; as chastened, and yet not put to death; [10] as sorrowing, yet always rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things. [11] Our mouth is open toward you, Corinthians; our heart is enlarged. [12] There is no lack of room for you in us, but you are cramped in your own affections. [13] Now in return (I speak as to children), be enlarged, you also. [14] Do not become unequally yoked with unbelievers; for what partnership has righteousness with lawlessness, and what fellowship has light with darkness? [15] And what concord has Christ with Belial, or what portion has a believer with an unbeliever?* [16] And what agreement has a temple of God with idols? For you are a temple of the living God, as God said, "I will dwell in them and walk among them, and I will be their God and they will be my people." [17] Therefore "Go out from their midst and be set apart," says the Lord, "and touch nothing unclean; and I will welcome you, [18] and I will be a Father to you, and you will be sons and daughters to me," says the Lord Almighty.

CHAPTER 7

[1] Having, then, these promises, beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from every defilement of flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God. [2] Make room for us. We wronged no one, we corrupted no one, we took advantage of no one. [3] I do not speak to condemn you; for I have said before that you are in our hearts, to die together and to live together. [4] Great is my boldness of speech toward you, great my boasting on your behalf; I am filled with consolation, I overflow with joy in all our affliction. [5] For indeed, when we had come into Macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but we were afflicted on every side: fightings without, fears within. [6] But the God who consoles the lowly consoled us by the coming of Titus, [7] and not by his coming only, but also by the consolation with which he was consoled over you, as he told us of your longing, your mourning, your zeal for me, so that I rejoiced still more. [8] For even if I grieved you with the letter, I do not regret it, though I did regret it; for I see that that letter grieved you, if only for an hour. [9] Now I rejoice, not that you were grieved, but that you were grieved into repentance; for you were grieved in a godly way, so that you suffered loss from us in nothing. [10] For godly grief works repentance leading to a salvation that brings no regret; but the grief of the world works death. [11] For see this very thing, that you were grieved in a godly way: what earnestness it produced in you, yes, what clearing of yourselves, what indignation, what fear, what longing, what zeal, what avenging! In everything you proved yourselves to be clear in the matter. [12] So, although I wrote to you, it was not for the sake of the one who did the wrong, nor for the sake of the one who suffered the wrong, but so that our care for you might be made manifest to you in the sight of God.* [13] For this reason we have been consoled in your consolation; and we rejoiced still more at the joy of Titus, because his spirit has been refreshed by you all. [14] For if I have boasted to him about you in anything, I was not put to shame; but as we spoke all things to you in truth, so our boasting before Titus also proved to be the truth. [15] And his affection for you is all the more abundant as he remembers the obedience of you all, how you received him with fear and trembling. [16] I rejoice, therefore, that in everything I have confidence in you.

CHAPTER 8

[1] Now, brothers, we make known to you the grace of God that has been given among the churches of Macedonia, [2] that in a great trial of affliction the abundance of their joy and their deep poverty abounded to the riches of their liberality. [3] For they gave according to their ability, I testify, and beyond their ability, of their own accord, [4] begging us with much entreaty that we would receive the gift and the fellowship of the ministry to the saints;* [5] and this not as we had hoped, but they gave themselves first to the Lord, and then to us by the will of God, [6] so that we urged Titus that, as he had begun before, so he would also complete this grace among you as well. [7] But as you abound in everything, in faith and word and knowledge and all earnestness and in your love toward us, see that you also abound in this grace. [8] I do not speak by way of command, but through the earnestness of others I am testing the genuineness of your love as well. [9] For you know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, being rich, he became poor for your sakes, so that you by his poverty might become rich. [10] And in this I give my opinion; for this is to your advantage, since a year ago you were the first to begin, not only to do but also to be willing. [11] So now also finish the doing, so that as there was a readiness to be willing, so there may also be a completion out of what you have. [12] For if the readiness is present, it is acceptable according to what one has, not according to what one does not have. [13] For it is not that others should have relief and you hardship, but by way of equality: at the present time your abundance may supply their need,* [14] so that their abundance may also supply your need, that there may be equality, [15] as it is written, "He who gathered much had no surplus, and he who gathered little had no shortage." [16] But thanks be to God, who puts the same earnestness for you in the heart of Titus. [17] For he not only accepted our appeal, but being very earnest, he went out to you of his own accord. [18] And we have sent with him the brother whose praise in the gospel is throughout all the churches; [19] and not only that, but he was also chosen by the churches to travel with us with this gift, which we are administering to the glory of the Lord himself and to show your readiness; [20] avoiding this, that anyone should find fault with us over this generous sum that we are administering, [21] for we take thought for what is honorable not only before the Lord but also before men. [22] And we have sent with them our brother, whom we have often tested and found earnest in many things, but now much more earnest because of his great confidence in you. [23] As for Titus, he is my partner and fellow worker for you; as for our brothers, they are messengers of the churches, the glory of Christ. [24] So show to them, and before the churches, the proof of your love and of our boasting about you.

CHAPTER 9

[1] For concerning the ministry to the saints, it is superfluous for me to write to you; [2] for I know your readiness, about which I boast of you to the Macedonians, that Achaia has been ready since last year; and your zeal has stirred up most of them. [3] But I have sent the brothers, so that our boasting about you might not prove empty in this matter, so that, as I said, you may be ready; [4] lest, if any Macedonians come with me and find you unprepared, we (not to mention you) would be put to shame in this confident boasting. [5] So I thought it necessary to urge the brothers to go on ahead to you and arrange in advance your blessing announced beforehand, so that it may be ready as a blessing and not as a matter of covetousness. [6] But this I say: he who sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and he who sows bountifully will also reap bountifully. [7] Let each one give as he has purposed in his heart, not grudgingly or of necessity; for God loves a cheerful giver. [8] And God is able to make all grace abound toward you, that you, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound for every good work; [9] as it is written, "He scattered, he gave to the poor; his righteousness abides forever." [10] Now may he who supplies seed to the sower supply bread for eating, and multiply your seed for sowing, and increase the produce of your righteousness, [11] while you are enriched in everything for all liberality, which through us produces thanksgiving to God. [12] For the ministration of this service not only supplies the needs of the saints but also overflows in many thanksgivings to God, [13] since through the proof given by this ministry they glorify God for the submission that your confession shows to the gospel of Christ, and for the liberality of your fellowship with them and with all, [14] while they, in their prayer for you, long for you because of the surpassing grace of God upon you. [15] Thanks be to God for his indescribable free gift.

CHAPTER 10

[1] Now I myself, Paul, exhort you by the meekness and gentleness of Christ, I who in person am lowly among you, but when absent am bold toward you; [2] and I beg that when I am present I may not have to be bold with the confidence with which I intend to be daring against some who regard us as walking according to the flesh. [3] For though we walk in the flesh, we do not wage war according to the flesh; [4] for the weapons of our warfare are not fleshly, but mighty before God for the pulling down of strongholds, [5] casting down reasonings and every high thing raised up against the knowledge of God, and bringing every thought into captivity to the obedience of Christ, [6] and being ready to avenge all disobedience, once your obedience is fulfilled. [7] Do you look at things according to outward appearance? If anyone is confident in himself that he is Christ's, let him consider this again within himself, that as he is Christ's, so also are we Christ's. [8] For even if I should boast somewhat more abundantly about our authority, which the Lord gave us for building up and not for your destruction, I will not be put to shame, [9] so that I may not seem as if I wanted to frighten you by my letters. [10] "For his letters," says one, "are weighty and strong, but his bodily presence is weak and his speech is of no account." [11] Let such a person consider this: what we are in word by letters when absent, such we will also be in deed when present. [12] For we do not dare to class or compare ourselves with some of those who commend themselves; but they, measuring themselves by themselves and comparing themselves with themselves, are without understanding. [13] But we will not boast beyond measure, but according to the measure of the rule that God apportioned to us as a measure, to reach even as far as you. [14] For we are not stretching ourselves beyond our measure, as though we did not reach you; for we came all the way to you in the gospel of Christ; [15] not boasting beyond measure in the labors of others, but having hope that, as your faith grows, we shall be greatly enlarged among you according to our rule, [16] so as to preach the gospel in the regions beyond you, and not to boast in another's rule about things already made ready. [17] But he who boasts, let him boast in the Lord. [18] For it is not the one who commends himself who is approved, but the one whom the Lord commends.

CHAPTER 11

[1] Would that you could bear with me a little in my foolishness; and indeed you do bear with me. [2] For I am jealous over you with a godly jealousy; for I have betrothed you to one husband, to present you as a pure virgin to Christ. [3] But I am afraid that somehow, as the serpent deceived Eve by his cunning, your minds may be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ. [4] For if he who comes proclaims another Jesus whom we did not proclaim, or you receive a different spirit which you did not receive, or a different gospel which you did not accept, you would bear with it well enough. [5] For I consider that in nothing have I fallen short of the very chief apostles. [6] But even if I am unskilled in speech, yet I am not in knowledge; but in every way we have been made manifest among you in all things. [7] Or did I commit a sin in humbling myself so that you might be exalted, because I preached the gospel of God to you free of charge? [8] I robbed other churches, taking wages from them in order to serve you. [9] And when I was present with you and was in need, I was a burden to no one; for the brothers who came from Macedonia supplied my need; and in everything I kept myself, and will keep myself, from being a burden to you. [10] The truth of Christ is in me, that this boasting of mine shall not be stopped in the regions of Achaia.* [11] Why? Because I do not love you? God knows. [12] But what I do, I will go on doing, so that I may cut off the opportunity from those who want an opportunity, so that in the matter they boast of they may be found to be just as we are. [13] For such men are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into apostles of Christ. [14] And this is no wonder, for Satan himself transforms himself into an angel of light. [15] So it is no great thing if his ministers also transform themselves into ministers of righteousness; their end will be according to their works. [16] I say again, let no one think me a fool; but if you do, then receive me even as a fool, so that I too may boast a little. [17] What I am saying, I do not say according to the Lord, but as in foolishness, in this confident boasting. [18] Seeing that many boast according to the flesh, I too will boast. [19] For you gladly bear with the foolish, being wise yourselves. [20] For you put up with it if someone enslaves you, if someone devours you, if someone takes from you, if someone exalts himself, if someone strikes you on the face. [21] I speak as to our dishonor, as though we had been weak. But in whatever anyone is daring (I speak in foolishness), I am daring too. [22] Are they Hebrews? So am I. Are they Israelites? So am I. Are they the seed of Abraham? So am I. [23] Are they ministers of Christ? (I speak as one beside himself.) I am more: in labors more abundantly, in stripes beyond measure, in prisons more frequently, in deaths often. [24] From the Jews five times I received forty stripes less one. [25] Three times I was beaten with rods, once I was stoned, three times I suffered shipwreck; a night and a day I have passed in the deep; [26] in journeys often, in perils of rivers, in perils of robbers, in perils from my own people, in perils from the Gentiles, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils at sea, in perils among false brothers; [27] in labor and hardship, in sleepless nights often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness. [28] Besides the things that come from outside, there is that which presses on me daily, the care of all the churches. [29] Who is weak, and I am not weak? Who is made to stumble, and I do not burn? [30] If I must boast, I will boast of the things that concern my weakness. [31] The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who is blessed forever, knows that I do not lie. [32] In Damascus the ethnarch under Aretas the king was guarding the city of the Damascenes, wishing to seize me; [33] and through a window I was let down in a basket through the wall, and escaped his hands.

CHAPTER 12

[1] To boast is doubtless not profitable for me; for I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord. [2] I know a man in Christ who fourteen years ago (whether in the body, I do not know; or out of the body, I do not know; God knows) was caught up to the third heaven. [3] And I know such a man (whether in the body or apart from the body, I do not know; God knows), [4] how he was caught up into Paradise and heard unspeakable words, which it is not lawful for a man to utter. [5] On behalf of such a one I will boast; but on behalf of myself I will not boast, except in my weaknesses. [6] For if I should wish to boast, I shall not be foolish, for I will speak the truth; but I refrain, so that no one may think more of me than what he sees me to be or hears from me. [7] And so that I might not be exalted above measure by the surpassing greatness of the revelations, there was given me a thorn in the flesh, a messenger of Satan to buffet me, so that I might not be exalted above measure.* [8] Three times I begged the Lord about this, that it might depart from me. [9] And he has said to me, “My grace is sufficient for you; for my power is made perfect in weakness.” Most gladly, therefore, I will rather boast in my weaknesses, so that the power of Christ may spread its tent over me. [10] Therefore I take pleasure in weaknesses, in insults, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ’s sake; for whenever I am weak, then I am strong. [11] I have become foolish in boasting; you compelled me. For I ought to have been commended by you; for in nothing did I fall short of the very chief apostles, even if I am nothing. [12] Truly the signs of an apostle were performed among you in all patience, in signs and wonders and mighty works. [13] For in what were you inferior to the rest of the churches, except that I myself was not a burden to you? Forgive me this wrong! [14] See, a third time I am ready to come to you, and I will not be a burden to you; for I do not seek yours but you. For the children ought not to lay up for the parents, but the parents for the children. [15] And I will most gladly spend and be utterly spent for your souls, even if, loving you more abundantly, I am loved the less. [16] But be it so: I did not burden you; yet, being crafty, I caught you with guile. [17] Did I take advantage of you through any of those whom I sent to you? [18] I urged Titus to go, and with him I sent the brother. Did Titus take any advantage of you? Did we not walk in the same spirit? Did we not walk in the same steps? [19] Again, do you think we are making our defense to you? Before God in Christ we speak; and all things, beloved, are for your building up. [20] For I fear that perhaps, when I come, I may find you not as I wish, and that I may be found by you not as you wish; that perhaps there may be strifes, jealousies, outbursts of wrath, rivalries, backbitings, whisperings, conceit, disorders; [21] and that when I come again my God may humble me before you, and I may mourn over many of those who have sinned before and have not repented of the uncleanness and sexual immorality and sensuality that they practiced.

CHAPTER 13

[1] This is the third time I am coming to you. By the mouth of two or three witnesses every word shall be established. [2] I have said before, and I say beforehand, as when I was present the second time, so now while absent I write to those who have sinned before and to all the rest, that if I come again I will not spare, [3] since you seek proof of the Christ who speaks in me, who is not weak toward you but is mighty among you. [4] For even if he was crucified through weakness, yet he lives by the power of God; for we too are weak in him, but we shall live with him by the power of God toward you. [5] Test yourselves, whether you are in the faith; prove yourselves. Or do you not realize about yourselves that Jesus Christ is in you?—unless indeed you are disapproved. [6] But I hope you will know that we are not disapproved. [7] Now I pray to God that you do no evil, not that we may appear approved, but that you may do what is good, even though we may seem disapproved. [8] For we can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth. [9] For we rejoice when we are weak and you are strong; and this also we pray for: that you be made complete. [10] For this reason I write these things while absent, that when present I may not deal sharply, according to the authority the Lord gave me for building up and not for pulling down. [11] Finally, brothers, rejoice; be made complete, be comforted, be of the same mind, be at peace; and the God of love and peace will be with you. [12] Greet one another with a holy kiss. [13] All the saints greet you. [14] The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit be with you all. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul, an apostle not from men and not through any man, but through Jesus Christ and God the Father, the one who raised him from the dead, [2] and all the brothers here with me, to the churches of Galatia: [3] Grace to you and peace from God the Father and our Lord Jesus Christ, [4] who gave himself for our sins in order to rescue us out of the present evil age, in keeping with the will of our God and Father, [5] to whom be the glory forever and ever. Amen. [6] It amazes me that you are so soon moving away from the one who called you in the grace of Christ, over to a different gospel, [7] which is no other gospel at all; it is only that certain people are stirring you up and want to overturn the gospel of Christ. [8] But even if we ourselves or an angel out of heaven should proclaim to you a gospel at odds with what we proclaimed to you, may he be accursed.* [9] We have said it before, and now I say it once more: if anyone proclaims to you a gospel at odds with what you received, may he be accursed. [10] Is it men, then, that I am now trying to win over, or God? Or am I looking to please men? If I were still pleasing men, I would be no servant of Christ. [11] Now I make known to you, brothers, concerning the gospel proclaimed by me, that it is not of human making. [12] For I myself did not receive it from a man, nor was I taught it; it came by revelation of Jesus Christ. [13] You have heard, of course, how I once conducted myself in Judaism: how beyond all measure I kept persecuting the church of God and was laying it waste; [14] and I was advancing in Judaism beyond many of my own age among my people, being far more zealous for the traditions of my fathers. [15] But when it pleased God, who set me apart from my mother's womb and called me through his grace, [16] to reveal his Son in me so that I might proclaim him among the Gentiles, I did not at once take counsel with flesh and blood, [17] nor did I go up to Jerusalem to those who were apostles before me; instead I went off into Arabia, and then went back again to Damascus. [18] Then, after three years, I went up to Jerusalem to make the acquaintance of Peter, and I remained with him fifteen days. [19] Of the other apostles I saw no one, except James the brother of the Lord. [20] Now as for what I am writing to you, look, before God, I am not lying. [21] Afterward I came into the districts of Syria and Cilicia. [22] And I was not known by sight to the churches of Judea that were in Christ; [23] they were only hearing, "He who once persecuted us now preaches the faith that he once ravaged." [24] And they were glorifying God because of me.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Then, fourteen years later, I went up to Jerusalem once more with Barnabas, and took Titus along as well. [2] I went up because of a revelation, and I laid before them the gospel that I proclaim among the Gentiles, though privately, before those of repute, for fear that I might somehow be running, or had run, to no purpose. [3] But not even Titus, my companion, being a Greek, was compelled to undergo circumcision. [4] And this was because of false brothers smuggled in, who had slipped in to spy on our liberty that we have in Christ Jesus, in order to enslave us; [5] to them we did not give way in submission, not even for an hour, so that the truth of the gospel would continue with you. [6] But as for those reputed to be something (whatever they once were makes no difference to me; God shows no partiality to a man), those of repute, I say, added nothing to me. [7] On the contrary, they saw that I had been entrusted with the gospel to the uncircumcision, as Peter had been with that to the circumcision [8] (for the one who was at work in Peter for an apostleship to the circumcision was at work in me as well for the Gentiles), [9] and when James and Cephas and John, who seemed to be pillars, recognized the grace that had been given to me, they gave me and Barnabas the right hand of fellowship, that we should go to the Gentiles and they to the circumcision. [10] Only, they asked that we keep the poor in mind, which was the very thing I was eager to do. [11] Now when Peter came to Antioch, I stood against him face to face, because he was to be blamed. [12] For before some came from James, he was eating together with the Gentiles; but when they came, he was drawing back and setting himself apart, fearing those of the circumcision. [13] And the rest of the Jews also played the hypocrite along with him, so that even Barnabas was carried away by their hypocrisy. [14] But when I saw that they were not walking uprightly according to the truth of the gospel, I said to Peter before them all, "If you, being a Jew, live in the manner of the Gentiles and not in the manner of the Jews, why do you compel the Gentiles to live as Jews? [15] We, Jews by nature and not sinners from the Gentiles, [16] knowing that a man is not justified by works of the law but through faith in Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Christ Jesus, so that we might be justified by faith in Christ and not by works of the law; for by works of the law no flesh shall be justified.* [17] But if, while seeking to be justified in Christ, we ourselves also are found to be sinners, is Christ then a minister of sin? Not at all! [18] For if I build up again the things I tore down, I make myself a transgressor. [19] For I through the law died to the law, so that I might live to God. [20] I have been crucified with Christ, and I live—no longer I, but Christ lives in me. And the life I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me. [21] I am not setting aside the grace of God; for if righteousness comes by way of the law, then Christ died needlessly."

CHAPTER 3

[1] You foolish Galatians! Who has bewitched you, that you should not obey the truth, you before whose eyes Jesus Christ was publicly portrayed among you as crucified? [2] There is just one thing I want to find out from you: was it by works of the law that you received the Spirit, or by the hearing of faith? [3] Are you so foolish? Having begun in the Spirit, are you now being made complete by the flesh? [4] Did you suffer so much for nothing, if indeed it really was for nothing? [5] So then, does the one who supplies the Spirit to you and works miracles among you do it by works of the law, or by the hearing of faith? [6] It is just as with Abraham: he believed God, and it was reckoned to him for righteousness. [7] Know, then, that those who are of faith, these are sons of Abraham. [8] And the Scripture, seeing in advance that God justifies the Gentiles by faith, announced the gospel ahead of time to Abraham: "In you all the nations will be blessed." [9] So those who are of faith receive the blessing together with Abraham, the man of faith. [10] For as many as are of the works of the law are under a curse; for it is written, "Cursed is everyone who does not continue in all the things written in the book of the law, to do them." [11] Now it is evident that no one is justified by the law before God, because "the righteous will live by faith." [12] But the law is not of faith; rather, "the one who does them will live by them." [13] Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law, having become a curse for us (for it is written, "Cursed is everyone who hangs on a tree"), [14] in order that the blessing of Abraham might reach the Gentiles in Christ Jesus, so that through faith we might receive the promise of the Spirit. [15] Brothers, I speak in human terms: even a man's covenant, once it has been confirmed, no one sets aside or adds to it. [16] Now the promises were spoken to Abraham and to his seed. It does not say "and to seeds," as referring to many, but as referring to one, "and to your seed," who is Christ. [17] Now this is what I say: the law, which came four hundred and thirty years later, does not annul a covenant confirmed beforehand by God with respect to Christ, so as to make the promise void. [18] For if the inheritance comes from the law, it no longer comes from a promise; but God freely gave it to Abraham through a promise. [19] What purpose, then, does the law serve? It was added because of transgressions, until the seed to whom the promise was made should come, and it was ordained through angels by the hand of a mediator. [20] Now a mediator does not stand for one party alone; but God is one. [21] Is the law, then, against the promises of God? Not at all! For if a law had been given that could make alive, righteousness really would be from the law. [22] But the Scripture shut up all things under sin, in order that the promise by faith in Jesus Christ might be given to those who believe. [23] But before faith came, we were kept under guard by the law, shut up for the faith that was afterward to be revealed. [24] So then the law has become our tutor to bring us to Christ, so that we might be justified by faith.* [25] But now that faith has come, we are no longer under a tutor. [26] For all of you are sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus. [27] For as many of you as were baptized into Christ have put on Christ. [28] There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither servant nor free, there is neither male nor female; for you are all one in Christ Jesus. [29] And if you are Christ's, then you are Abraham's seed, heirs according to the promise.

CHAPTER 4

[1] What I mean is this: as long as the heir is a child, he is no different from a servant, although he is master of everything, [2] but he is under guardians and stewards until the time appointed by his father. [3] So it is with us: when we were children, we were held in bondage under the elements of the world.* [4] But when the fullness of the time came, God sent out his Son, born of a woman, born under the law, [5] in order to redeem those under the law, so that we might receive adoption as sons. [6] And because you are sons, God sent out the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, who cries out, "Abba, Father!" [7] So you are a servant no longer, but a son; and if a son, also an heir of God through Christ. [8] But at that time, when you did not know God, you served those that by nature are not gods. [9] But now that you have come to know God, or rather to be known by God, how is it that you turn back again to the weak and beggarly elements, which you want to serve all over again? [10] You carefully keep days and months and seasons and years. [11] I am afraid for you, that perhaps I have labored over you in vain. [12] Brothers, I beg you, become as I am, for I also have become as you are. You did me no wrong. [13] You know that it was on account of a weakness of the flesh that I first proclaimed the gospel to you; [14] and my trial that was in my flesh you did not despise or loathe, but received me as an angel of God, as Christ Jesus. [15] What, then, became of your happiness? For I testify of you that, had it been possible, you would have dug out your eyes and given them to me. [16] So then, by speaking the truth to you, have I become your enemy? [17] These people zealously court you, but not for good; they want to shut you out, so that you will zealously court them. [18] It is good to be zealously courted in a good cause at all times, and not only when I am present with you, [19] my little children, over whom I am once more in birth pains until Christ is formed in you. [20] I wish I could be present with you now and change my tone, for I am perplexed about you. [21] Tell me, you who want to be under the law, do you not listen to the law? [22] For it is written that Abraham had two sons, one by the slave woman and one by the free woman. [23] But the son of the slave woman was born according to the flesh, and the son of the free woman through the promise. [24] These things are an allegory; for these women are two covenants: one from Mount Sinai, bearing children for slavery, which is Hagar. [25] For this Hagar is Mount Sinai in Arabia, and corresponds to the present Jerusalem, and she is in slavery with her children. [26] But the Jerusalem that is above is free, and she is the mother of us all. [27] For it is written, "Rejoice, you barren one who bears no child; break out and shout, you who have no birth pains; for the desolate one has many more children than she who has the husband." [28] And we, brothers, are children of promise, after the pattern of Isaac. [29] But just as at that time the one born according to the flesh persecuted the one born according to the Spirit, so it is now as well. [30] But what does the Scripture say? "Cast out the slave woman and her son; for the son of the slave woman shall by no means be heir with the son of the free woman." [31] So then, brothers, we are not children of the slave woman but of the free woman.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Stand firm, then, in the liberty with which Christ has made us free, and do not be entangled again in a yoke of slavery. [2] Look: I, Paul, say to you that if you let yourselves be circumcised, Christ will profit you nothing. [3] And I testify again to every man who lets himself be circumcised that he is obligated to keep the whole law. [4] You have been cut off from Christ, you who are trying to be justified by the law; you have fallen from grace. [5] For through the Spirit, by faith, we eagerly wait for the hope of righteousness. [6] For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision nor uncircumcision avails anything, but faith working through love. [7] You were running well. Who hindered you from obeying the truth? [8] This persuasion did not come from the one who calls you. [9] A little leaven leavens the whole lump. [10] I have confidence in you in the Lord that you will think nothing else; but the one who troubles you will bear his judgment, whoever he is. [11] And I, brothers, if I still preach circumcision, why am I still persecuted? In that case the offense of the cross has been done away. [12] I wish those who are throwing you into turmoil would even cut themselves off![*] [13] For you were called to liberty, brothers; only do not use your liberty as an opportunity for the flesh, but through love serve one another. [14] For the whole law is fulfilled in one word, in this: "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." [15] But if you bite and devour one another, take care that you are not consumed by one another. [16] This I say: walk by the Spirit, and you will not fulfill the desire of the flesh. [17] For the flesh desires against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh; and these are opposed to each other, so that you do not do the things you want. [18] But if you are being led by the Spirit, you are not under the law. [19] Now the works of the flesh are evident, which are: adultery, sexual immorality, impurity, debauchery, [20] idolatry, sorcery, hatreds, strife, jealousies, outbursts of anger, selfish ambitions, dissensions, heresies, [21] envyings, murders, drunkenness, carousing, and the like, about which I tell you beforehand, as I also said before, that those who practice such things will not inherit the kingdom of God. [22] But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, kindness, goodness, faith, [23] meekness, self-control; there is no law against things like these. [24] And those who are Christ's have crucified the flesh along with its passions and lusts. [25] If we live by the Spirit, let us also walk by the Spirit. [26] Let us not become vainglorious, provoking one another, envying one another.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Brothers, if a man is overtaken in any trespass, you who are spiritual should restore such a one in a spirit of meekness, considering yourself, lest you too be tempted. [2] Bear one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ. [3] For if anyone imagines he is something when he is nothing, he is fooling himself. [4] But let each one test his own work, and then he will have reason for boasting in himself alone and not in another. [5] For each one will bear his own load. [6] Let the one taught the word share in all good things with the one who teaches him. [7] Do not be deceived: God is not mocked. For whatever a man sows, that he will also reap. [8] For the one who sows to his own flesh will reap corruption from the flesh, but the one who sows to the Spirit will reap eternal life from the Spirit. [9] And let us not grow weary in doing good, for in due season we will reap, if we do not faint. [10] So then, as we have opportunity, let us do good to all, and especially to those who are of the household of faith. [11] Notice what large letters I am using as I write to you with my own hand.[*] [12] All those who want to put on a fine appearance in the flesh are pressing you to be circumcised, only so that they will not be persecuted for the cross of Christ. [13] For even the circumcised do not keep the law themselves; yet they want you circumcised so that they can boast about your flesh. [14] But for my part, let me boast of nothing except the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by which the world has been crucified to me, and I to the world. [15] For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision nor uncircumcision avails anything, but a new creation. [16] And as many as walk by this rule, peace and mercy be on them, and on the Israel of God. [17] From now on let no one trouble me; for I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus. [18] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit, brothers. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul, by the will of God an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the saints who are at Ephesus and faithful in Christ Jesus: [2] Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. [3] Blessed is the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us with every spiritual blessing in the heavenly places in Christ, [4] just as he chose us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blemish before him in love, [5] having predestined us for adoption as sons through Jesus Christ to himself, in keeping with the good pleasure of his will, [6] to the praise of the glory of his grace, with which he has favored us in the Beloved. [7] In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of trespasses, according to the riches of his grace, [8] which he made to abound toward us in all wisdom and prudence, [9] making known to us the mystery of his will, according to the good pleasure that he set forth in him [10] for the administration of the fullness of the times: to gather together all things in one in Christ, both the things in the heavens and the things on the earth; [*] [11] in him, in whom we too were made his heritage, having been predestined according to the purpose of the one who works all things according to the counsel of his will, [12] that we should be to the praise of his glory, we who first hoped in Christ; [13] in whom you also hoped, having heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation; in whom also, having believed, you were sealed with the Holy Spirit of promise, [14] who is the down payment of our inheritance until the redemption of the purchased possession, to the praise of his glory. [15] For this reason I also, having heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus and of your love toward all the saints, [16] do not cease giving thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers, [17] that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give you a spirit of wisdom and revelation in the full knowledge of him, [18] the eyes of your understanding being enlightened, so that you may know what is the hope of his calling, and what are the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints, [19] and what is the surpassing greatness of his power toward us who believe, according to the working of his mighty strength, [20] which he worked in Christ when he raised him from the dead and seated him at his right hand in the heavenly places, [21] far above all rule and authority and power and dominion, and above every name that is named, not only in this age but also in the age to come; [22] and he put all things under his feet, and gave him to be head over all things to the church, [23] which is his body, the fullness of him who fills all in all.

CHAPTER 2

[1] And you he made alive, when you were dead in your trespasses and sins, [2] in which you once walked according to the age of this world, according to the ruler of the power of the air, the spirit that now works in the sons of disobedience; [3] among whom we too all once lived in the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind, and were by nature children of wrath, just as the others. [4] But God, who is rich in mercy, on account of the great love with which he loved us, [5] even when we were dead in trespasses, made us alive together with Christ (by grace you are saved), [6] and raised us up together and made us sit together in the heavenly regions in Christ Jesus, [7] so that in the ages to come he might show the surpassing riches of his grace in kindness toward us in Christ Jesus. [8] For by grace you are saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God; [9] not of works, lest anyone should boast. [10] For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand, that we should walk in them. [11] Therefore remember that you were once Gentiles in the flesh, called "the uncircumcision" by what is called "the circumcision," which is made in the flesh by hand, [12] that at that time you were without Christ, alienated from the commonwealth of Israel and strangers to the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world. [13] But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far off have been made near by the blood of Christ. [14] For he himself is our peace, who has made the two one and has broken down the middle wall of partition, [15] having abolished the enmity in his flesh, the law of commandments contained in ordinances, so as to create in himself one new man out of the two, making peace, [*] [16] and might reconcile them both to God in one body through the cross, having put to death the enmity by it. [17] And he came and preached peace to you who were far off and to those who were near. [18] For through him we both have our access in one Spirit to the Father. [19] So then you are no longer strangers and sojourners, but fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God, [20] built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief cornerstone, [21] in whom the whole building, fitted together, grows into a holy temple in the Lord; [22] in whom you also are being built together into a dwelling place of God in the Spirit.

CHAPTER 3

[1] For this reason I, Paul, the prisoner of Christ Jesus on behalf of you Gentiles— [2] assuming you have heard of the stewardship of God's grace that was entrusted to me for your benefit, [3] how by revelation he made known to me the mystery, as I have briefly written above; [4] so that, when you read, you can understand my knowledge of the mystery of Christ, [5] which in other generations was not made known to the sons of men as it has now been revealed to his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit: [6] that the Gentiles are fellow heirs, and of the same body, and partakers together of his promise in Christ through the gospel, [7] of which I was made a minister according to the gift of the grace of God given to me by the working of his power. [8] To me, who am less than the least of all the saints, this grace was given, to preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, [9] and to make all see what is the fellowship of the mystery, which from the beginning of the ages has been hidden in God, who created all things through Jesus Christ, [10] so that now the manifold wisdom of God might be made known through the church to the principalities and authorities in the heavenly places, [11] according to the eternal purpose that he carried out in Christ Jesus our Lord, [12] in whom we have our boldness and our access in confidence through faith in him. [13] Therefore I ask that you not lose heart over my afflictions on your behalf, which are your glory. [14] For this reason I bow my knees to the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, [15] from whom every family in the heavens and on earth takes its name, [16] that he would grant you, according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with might through his Spirit in the inner man, [17] so that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith; [18] that you, being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all the saints what is the breadth and length and depth and height, [*] [19] and to know the love of Christ which passes knowledge, so that you may be filled to all the fullness of God. [20] Now to him who is able to do exceedingly abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that works in us, [21] to him be the glory in the church in Christ Jesus throughout all generations, forever and ever. Amen.

CHAPTER 4

[1] I therefore, the prisoner in the Lord, exhort you to walk worthy of the calling with which you were called, [2] with all lowliness and meekness, with longsuffering, bearing with one another in love, [3] being diligent to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace: [4] one body and one Spirit, even as you were called in one hope of your calling; [5] one Lord, one faith, one baptism; [6] one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all of you. [7] But to each one of us grace was given according to the measure of the gift of Christ. [8] Therefore he says, "When he ascended on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts to men." [9] (Now this "he ascended"—what does it mean but that he also first descended into the lower parts of the earth? [10] He who descended is the same one who also ascended far above all the heavens, so that he might fill all things.) [11] And it was he who gave some as apostles, others as prophets, others as evangelists, and others as shepherds and teachers, [12] to equip the saints for a work of service, for the building up of the body of Christ, [13] until we all come to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to a full-grown man, to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ; [14] so that we may no longer be children, tossed to and fro and carried about by every wind of doctrine, by the trickery of men, by craftiness in the scheming of error; [*] [15] but, speaking the truth in love, may grow up in all things into him who is the head, Christ, [16] from whom the whole body, fitted and knit together by what every joint supplies, according to the working in the measure of each single part, makes the body grow for the building up of itself in love. [17] This, then, I say and testify in the Lord, that you no longer walk as the rest of the Gentiles also walk, in the emptiness of their mind, [18] having their understanding darkened, alienated from the life of God because of the ignorance that is in them, because of the hardness of their heart; [19] who, being past feeling, have given themselves over to sensuality, to work all uncleanness with greediness. [20] But that is not how you learned Christ, [21] if indeed you have heard him and have been taught in him, as the truth is in Jesus: [22] that you put off, concerning your former way of life, the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts, [23] and be renewed in the spirit of your mind, [24] and put on the new man, which was created according to God in righteousness and true holiness. [25] Therefore, putting away lying, let each one speak truth with his neighbor, for we are members of one another. [26] Be angry and do not sin; do not let the sun go down on your anger, [27] and do not give place to the devil. [28] Let him who stole steal no longer; but rather let him labor, working with his hands what is good, so that he may have something to give to him who has need. [29] Let no corrupt word proceed out of your mouth, but only what is good for building up as the need may be, so that it may impart grace to those who hear. [30] And do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, by whom you were sealed for the day of redemption. [31] Let all bitterness and wrath and anger and clamor and evil speaking be put away from you, with all malice. [32] And be kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, just as God in Christ also forgave you.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Therefore be imitators of God as beloved children, [2] and walk in love, just as Christ also loved us and gave himself up for us, an offering and a sacrifice to God for a fragrant aroma. [3] But sexual immorality and all uncleanness or covetousness, let it not even be named among you, as is fitting for saints; [4] nor shameful conduct, nor foolish talk or jesting, which are not fitting, but rather thanksgiving. [5] For this you know well, that every sexually immoral or unclean or covetous person, who is an idolater, has no inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and God. [6] Do not let anyone mislead you with hollow words, for it is because of these things that God's wrath comes on the sons of disobedience. [7] So do not be partakers with them. [8] For you were once darkness, but now you are light in the Lord; walk as children of light [9] (for the fruit of the Spirit is in all goodness and righteousness and truth), [*] [10] proving what is acceptable to the Lord. [11] And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. [12] For the things done by them in secret it is a shame even to speak of. [13] But everything that is brought to light is made visible by the light; for whatever makes things visible is light. [14] Therefore he says, "Awake, you who sleep, and arise from the dead, and Christ will shine on you." [15] See, then, that you walk with care, not as unwise but as wise, [16] redeeming the time, because the days are evil. [17] Therefore do not be foolish, but understand what the will of the Lord is. [18] And do not be drunk with wine, in which is dissipation, but be filled with the Spirit, [19] speaking to one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord, [20] giving thanks always for all things in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to God and the Father, [21] submitting to one another in the fear of God. [22] Wives, be subject to your own husbands as to the Lord. [23] For the husband is head of the wife, as also Christ is head of the church, and he is the Savior of the body. [24] But as the church is subject to Christ, so also let wives be subject to their own husbands in everything. [25] Husbands, love your own wives, just as Christ also loved the church and gave himself up for her, [26] so that he might sanctify her, having cleansed her with the washing of water by the word, [27] so that he might present the church to himself glorious, not having spot or wrinkle or any such thing, but that it should be holy and without blemish. [28] So husbands ought to love their own wives as their own bodies; he who loves his own wife loves himself. [29] For no one ever hated his own flesh, but nourishes and cherishes it, just as the Lord does the church, [30] because we are members of his body, of his flesh and of his bones. [31] "For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two shall be one flesh." [32] This is a great mystery, but I am speaking with reference to Christ and the church. [33] Nevertheless, let each one of you in particular so love his own wife as himself, and let the wife see that she reverences her husband.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. [2] "Honor your father and your mother" (this is the first commandment with a promise attached), [3] "so that things may go well with you and you may live a long time on the earth." [4] And fathers, do not provoke your children to wrath, but bring them up in the discipline and admonition of the Lord. [5] Servants, obey those who are your masters according to the flesh, with fear and trembling, in sincerity of heart, as to Christ, [6] not with eye-service as men-pleasers, but as servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart, [7] rendering service with good will, as to the Lord and not to men, [8] knowing that whatever good each one does, he will receive the same back from the Lord, whether he is servant or free. [9] And masters, do the same things to them, giving up threatening, knowing that your own Master also is in heaven, and there is no partiality with him. [10] Finally, my brothers, be strong in the Lord and in the power of his might. [11] Put on the whole armor of God, so that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. [12] For our wrestling is not against blood and flesh, but against the principalities, against the authorities, against the world-rulers of the darkness of this age, against the spiritual powers of wickedness in the heavenly places. [13] Therefore take up the whole armor of God, so that you may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand. [14] Stand, then, having girded your waist with truth and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, [15] and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace; [16] above all, taking up the shield of faith, with which you will be able to quench all the flaming arrows of the evil one. [17] And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God, [18] praying at all times with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching to this end with all perseverance and supplication for all the saints, [19] and for me, that utterance may be given to me in opening my mouth, to make known with boldness the mystery of the gospel, [20] for which I am an ambassador in chains, so that in it I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak. [21] But that you also may know my affairs, how I fare, Tychicus, the beloved brother and faithful minister in the Lord, will make all things known to you, [22] whom I sent to you for this very purpose, that you might know our affairs and he might comfort your hearts. [23] Peace be to the brothers, and love together with faith, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. [24] Grace be with all who love our Lord Jesus Christ in incorruption.*

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul and Timothy, servants of Jesus Christ, to all the saints in Christ Jesus who live at Philippi, together with the overseers and deacons: [2] Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. [3] I give thanks to my God at every remembrance of you, [4] always, in each of my prayers for all of you, praying with joy [5] for your sharing in the gospel from the first day until now, [6] being confident of this very thing, that he who began a good work in you will perfect it until the day of Jesus Christ; [7] just as it is right for me to think this of you all, because I have you in my heart, since both in my bonds and in the defense and confirmation of the gospel you are all partakers with me of grace. [8] God is my witness how I yearn for all of you with the deep affection of Jesus Christ. [9] And this I pray, that your love may abound still more and more in knowledge and all discernment, [10] so that you may approve the things that excel, and be sincere and give no offense until the day of Christ, [11] being filled with the fruits of righteousness, which are through Jesus Christ, to the glory and praise of God. [12] Now I want you to know, brothers, that the things that happened to me have turned out rather for the furtherance of the gospel, [13] so that it has become evident throughout the whole praetorium and to all the rest that my bonds are in Christ; [14] and most of the brothers, having become confident in the Lord through my bonds, are much more bold to speak the word without fear. [15] Some indeed preach Christ even from envy and strife, but some also from good will. [16] The former proclaim Christ out of selfish ambition, not sincerely, supposing that they will add affliction to my bonds;* [17] but the latter do so out of love, knowing that I am appointed for the defense of the gospel. [18] What then? Only that in every way, whether in pretense or in truth, Christ is proclaimed; and in this I rejoice, yes, and I will rejoice. [19] For I know that this will turn out for my salvation through your prayer and the supply of the Spirit of Jesus Christ, [20] according to my earnest expectation and hope that in nothing I shall be put to shame, but that with all boldness, as always, so now also Christ will be magnified in my body, whether by life or by death.

[21] For to me, to live is Christ, and to die is gain. [22] But if I am to live in the flesh, this is for me the fruit of my labor; yet what I shall choose I do not say. [23] For I am hard pressed between the two, having the desire to depart and to be with Christ, which is far better; [24] yet to remain in the flesh is more necessary for your sake. [25] And being confident of this, I know that I shall remain and continue with you all for your progress and joy in the faith, [26] so that your rejoicing in Christ Jesus may abound because of me through my coming to you again. [27] Only, let your conduct as citizens be worthy of the gospel of Christ, so that, whether I come and see you or am absent, I may hear of your affairs, that you stand fast in one spirit, with one soul striving together for the faith of the gospel, [28] and not frightened in anything by your adversaries; which is to them a proof of destruction, but to you of salvation, and that from God. [29] For to you it has been granted on behalf of Christ not only to believe in him but also to suffer for his sake, [30] having the same conflict which you saw in me and now hear is in me.

CHAPTER 2

[1] If then there is any encouragement in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any tender affection and compassion, [2] make my joy full by being of the same mind, having the same love, being of one soul, minding one thing, [3] doing nothing through rivalry or vainglory, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem others better than himself. [4] Let each of you look out not only for his own concerns, but each for the concerns of others as well. [5] Let this mind be in you that was also in Christ Jesus, [6] who, being in the form of God, did not consider being equal with God a thing to be seized,* [7] but emptied himself, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men; [8] and being found in outward form as a man, he humbled himself and became obedient as far as death, even the death of a cross.* [9] Therefore God also highly exalted him and bestowed on him a name that is above every name, [10] so that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of those in heaven and those on earth and those under the earth, [11] and every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father. [12] So, my beloved, as you have always obeyed, not as in my presence only but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling; [13] for it is God who works in you both to will and to work for his good pleasure. [14]
Do all things without murmurings and arguments, [15] so that you may become blameless and harmless, unblemished children of God in the midst of a crooked and perverted generation, among whom you shine as lights in the world, [16] holding fast the word of life, so that I may boast in the day of Christ that I did not run in vain or labor in vain. [17] Yes, and if I am even being poured out as a libation upon the sacrifice and priestly service of your faith, I rejoice, and I rejoice together with you all. [18] And in the same way you also rejoice, and rejoice together with me. [19] Now I hope in the Lord Jesus to send Timothy to you shortly, so that I too may be encouraged when I know your state. [20] For I have no one like-minded who will sincerely care for your state. [21] For they all seek their own things, not the things of Christ Jesus. [22] But you know his tested worth, that as a child serves a father, he served with me for the gospel. [23] So I hope to send him at once, as soon as I see how things go with me; [24] but I trust in the Lord that I myself also will come shortly. [25] Yet I thought it necessary to send to you Epaphroditus, my brother and fellow worker and fellow soldier, but your messenger and the one who ministered to my need, [26] since he was longing for you all and was distressed because you had heard that he was sick. [27] For indeed he was sick almost to death; but God had mercy on him, and not only on him but on me also, so that I would not have sorrow upon sorrow. [28] I have sent him, therefore, the more eagerly, so that when you see him again you may rejoice, and I may be the less sorrowful. [29] Receive him, then, in the Lord with all gladness, and hold such men in esteem, [30] since it was for the work of Christ that he came near to death, disregarding his own life to supply what was lacking in your service to me.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Finally, my brothers, rejoice in the Lord. To write the same things to you is not tiresome to me, and for you it is safe. [2] Look out for the dogs, look out for the workers of evil, look out for the mutilation! [3] For we are the circumcision, who worship God in the Spirit and rejoice in Christ Jesus and have no confidence in the flesh, [4] though I myself have confidence in the flesh as well. If anyone else thinks he has grounds for confidence in the flesh, I have more: [5] circumcised the eighth day, of the race of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew of Hebrews; as to the law, a Pharisee; [6] as to zeal, persecuting the church; as to the righteousness that is in the law, blameless. [7] But whatever things were gain to me, these I have counted loss for Christ. [8] Yes indeed, and I count all things to be loss because of the excellence of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord, for whose sake I have suffered the loss of all things, and I count them as refuse, so that I may win Christ [9] and be found in him, not having my own righteousness, which is from the law, but that which is through faith in Christ, the righteousness which is from God by faith; [10] that I may know him and the power of his resurrection and the fellowship of his sufferings, being conformed to his death, [11] if by any means I may attain to the resurrection of the dead. [12] Not that I have already obtained it, or am already made perfect; but I press on, if indeed I may lay hold of that for which I was also laid hold of by Christ Jesus. [13] Brothers, I do not count myself to have laid hold of it; but one thing I do: forgetting what lies behind and reaching forward to what lies ahead, [14] I press on toward the goal for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. [15] As many, then, as are mature, let us be of this mind; and if you think otherwise in anything, this too God will reveal to you. [16] Nevertheless, to whatever point we have attained, let us walk by the same rule, let us be of the same mind. [17] Brothers, join in imitating me, and note those who walk in this way, as you have us for a pattern. [18] For many walk, of whom I often told you and now tell you even weeping, who are the enemies of the cross of Christ: [19] whose end is destruction, whose god is the belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things. [20] For our citizenship is in heaven, from which we also eagerly wait for a Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, [21] who will change the body of our humiliation so that it may be conformed to the body of his glory, according to the working by which he is able even to subject all things to himself.

CHAPTER 4

[1] Therefore, my brothers, beloved and longed for, my joy and crown, so stand fast in the Lord, beloved. [2] I urge Euodia and I urge Syntyche to be of the same mind in the Lord. [3] And I ask you also, true companion, help these women who labored with me in the gospel, together with Clement and the rest of my fellow workers, whose names are in the book of life.* [4] Rejoice in the Lord always; again I will say, rejoice. [5] Let your gentleness be known to all men. The Lord is near. [6] Be anxious for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God; [7] and the peace of God, which passes all understanding, will keep your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus. [8] Finally, brothers, whatever things are true, whatever things are honorable, whatever things are just, whatever things are pure, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report, if there is any virtue and if there is anything praiseworthy, think on these things. [9] Whatever you learned and received and heard and saw in me, practice these things; and the God of peace will be with you. [10] But I rejoiced in the Lord greatly that now at last your care for me has flourished again; you were indeed concerned, but you lacked opportunity. [11] Not that I speak in regard to need; for I have learned, in whatever state I am, to be content. [12] I know both how to be abased and how to abound; everywhere and in all things I have been instructed both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need. [13] I can do all things in Christ who strengthens me. [14] Nevertheless you did well in sharing in my affliction. [15] And you Philippians yourselves know that in the beginning of the gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no church shared with me in the matter of giving and receiving except you only; [16] for even in Thessalonica you sent both once and twice for my need. [17] Not that I seek the gift; but I seek the fruit that abounds to your account. [18] But I have all and abound; I am full, having received from Epaphroditus the things sent from you, a fragrant aroma, an acceptable sacrifice, well-pleasing to God. [19] And my God will supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus. [20] Now to our God and Father be glory forever and ever. Amen. [21] Greet every saint in Christ Jesus. The brothers who are with me greet you. [22] All the saints greet you, especially those of Caesar's household. [23] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul, by the will of God an apostle of Jesus Christ, and Timothy, our brother, [2] to the holy and faithful brothers in Christ at Colossae: grace and peace to you from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. [3] We give thanks to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying at all times concerning you, [4] having heard of your faith in Christ Jesus and of the love that you have for all the saints, [5] because of the hope laid up for you in heaven, of which you heard before in the word of the truth of the gospel, [6] which has come to you, as it has also in all the world, and is bearing fruit, as it does also among you, since the day you heard and came to know the grace of God in truth; [7] as you also learned from Epaphras, our beloved fellow servant, who is a faithful minister of Christ for you, [8] who also declared to us your love in the Spirit. [9] For this reason we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease praying for you and asking that you may be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding, [10] that you may walk worthy of the Lord, fully pleasing him, bearing fruit in every good work and increasing in the knowledge of God; [11] strengthened with all might, according to his glorious power, for all endurance and longsuffering with joy; [12] giving thanks to the Father, who has made us fit to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light; [13] who has delivered us from the power of darkness and transferred us into the kingdom of the Son of his love, [14] in whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, [15] who is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn of all creation. [16] For by him all things were created, those in the heavens and those on the earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or principalities or authorities; all things have been created through him and for him. [17] And he is before all things, and in him all things consist. [18] And he is the head of the body, the church; he is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, so that in all things he might have the preeminence. [19] For all the fullness was pleased to make its home in him, [20] and through him to reconcile all things to him, making peace through the blood of his cross; through him, I say, whether things on earth or things in heaven. [21] And you, who were once alienated and enemies in your mind in your evil works, yet now he has reconciled* [22] in the body of his flesh through death, to present you holy and without blemish and irreproachable in his sight, [23] if indeed you continue in the faith, grounded and steadfast, and are not moved away from the hope of the gospel that you heard, which was preached in all creation under heaven, of which I, Paul, became a minister; [24] who now rejoice in my sufferings for you, and fill up in my flesh what is lacking of the afflictions of Christ, for the sake of his body, which is the church,* [25] of which I became a minister according to the stewardship from God that was given to me for you, to fulfill the word of God, [26] the mystery that had been hidden from the ages and from the generations, but now has been manifested to his saints; [27] to whom God willed to make known what are the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory; [28] whom we preach, warning every man and teaching every man in all wisdom, so that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus; [29] to which end I also labor, striving according to his working, which works in me mightily.

CHAPTER 2

[1] For I want you to know what a great conflict I have for you and for those in Laodicea, and for all who have not seen my face in the flesh, [2] that their hearts may be encouraged, being knit together in love, and attaining to all the riches of the full assurance of understanding, to the knowledge of the mystery of God, both of the Father and of Christ, [3] in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. [4] And I say this so that no one may delude you with plausible speech. [5] For though I am absent in the flesh, yet I am with you in spirit, rejoicing and seeing your good order and the steadfastness of your faith in Christ. [6] As you therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk in him, [7] rooted and built up in him and established in the faith, just as you were taught, abounding in it with thanksgiving. [8] See that no one carries you off as spoil through philosophy and empty deceit, according to the tradition of men, according to the elements of the world, and not according to Christ. [9] For in him dwells all the fullness of the Godhead bodily, [10] and you are complete in him, who is the head of all principality and authority; [11] in whom you were also circumcised with a circumcision not made by hands, in the putting off of the body of the sins of the flesh, by the circumcision of Christ, [12] having been buried with him in baptism, in which you were also raised with him through faith in the working of God, who raised him from the dead. [13] And when you were dead in your trespasses and in the uncircumcision of your flesh, he made you alive together with him, having freely forgiven you all your trespasses; [14] having blotted out the handwritten bond of decrees that was against us, which was hostile to us; and he has taken it out of the way, nailing it to the cross. [15] Having disarmed the principalities and authorities, he made a public show of them, triumphing over them in it. [16] So let no one judge you in food or in drink, or regarding a feast or a new moon or sabbaths, [17] which are a shadow of things to come, but the substance belongs to Christ. [18] Let no one disqualify you, insisting on lowliness and the worship of angels, intruding into things he has not seen, vainly puffed up by his fleshly mind,* [19] and not holding fast to the Head, from whom the whole body, nourished and knit together by joints and ligaments, grows with the growth that is from God. [20] If then you died with Christ to the elements of the world, why, as though living in the world, do you submit to decrees: [21] "Do not handle, nor taste, nor even touch" [22] (which all go to ruin in the using), according to the commandments and teachings of men? [23] These things indeed have an appearance of wisdom in self-chosen worship and lowliness and severe treatment of the body, but are of no value against the indulgence of the flesh.

CHAPTER 3

[1] If then you have been raised with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God. [2] Set your mind on the things above, not on the things on the earth. [3] For you died, and your life is hidden with Christ in God. [4] When Christ, our life, appears, then you also will appear with him in glory. [5] Therefore put to death your members that are on the earth: sexual immorality, uncleanness, passion, evil desire, and covetousness, which is idolatry. [6] Because of these things the wrath of God comes on the sons of disobedience, [7] in which you also once walked, when you lived in them. [8] But now you also put away all these: anger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy language out of your mouth. [9] Do not lie to one another, since you have put off the old man with his deeds, [10] and have put on the new man, which is being renewed in knowledge according to the image of him who created him, [11] where there is neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, barbarian, Scythian, servant, free, but Christ is all and in all. [12] Therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, put on a heart of compassion, kindness, lowliness of mind, meekness, longsuffering; [13] bearing with one another and forgiving one another, if anyone has a complaint against another; just as Christ forgave you, so you also must do. [14] And above all these things put on love, which is the bond of perfection. [15] And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to which also you were called in one body; and be thankful.* [16] Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord. [17] And whatever you do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father through him. [18] Wives, be subject to your own husbands, as is proper in the Lord. [19] Husbands, love your wives, and do not be bitter toward them. [20] Children, obey your parents in all things, for this is acceptable to the Lord. [21] Fathers, do not provoke your children, lest they lose heart. [22] Servants, obey in all things your masters according to the flesh, not with eye-service as men-pleasers, but in sincerity of heart, fearing God. [23] And whatever you do, work at it from the heart, as to the Lord and not to men, [24] knowing that from the Lord you will receive the reward of the inheritance; for you serve the Lord Christ. [25] But he who does wrong will be repaid for the wrong he has done, and there is no partiality.

CHAPTER 4

[1] Masters, give your servants what is just and equal, knowing that you also have a Master in heaven. [2] Continue steadfastly in prayer, and be watchful in it with thanksgiving, [3] praying at the same time for us also, that God would open to us a door for the word, to speak the mystery of Christ, for which I am also in bonds, [4] so that I may make it manifest, as I ought to speak. [5] Walk in wisdom toward those outside, redeeming the time. [6] Let your speech always be in grace, seasoned with salt, so that you know how you should answer each one. [7] Tychicus, the beloved brother and faithful minister and fellow servant in the Lord, will make known to you all my affairs; [8] whom I have sent to you for this very thing, that he may know your circumstances and comfort your hearts, [9] with Onesimus, the faithful and beloved brother, who is one of you. They will make known to you all things that are happening here. [10] Aristarchus, my fellow prisoner, greets you, and Mark, the cousin of Barnabas, about whom you received instructions (if he comes to you, welcome him), [11] and Jesus who is called Justus. These are the only ones of the circumcision who are my fellow workers for the kingdom of God; they have been a comfort to me. [12] Epaphras, who is one of you, a servant of Christ, greets you, always laboring earnestly for you in his prayers, that you may stand perfect and complete in all the will of God. [13] For I bear him witness that he has great zeal for you and for those in Laodicea and in Hierapolis. [14] Luke, the beloved physician, greets you, and Demas. [15] Greet the brothers in Laodicea, and Nymphas and the church in his house. [16] And when this letter has been read among you, see that it is also read in the church of the Laodiceans, and that you also read the letter from Laodicea. [17] And say to Archippus, "See to the ministry that you have received in the Lord, that you fulfill it." [18] The greeting by my own hand—Paul. Remember my bonds. Grace be with you. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul, Silvanus and Timothy, to the church of the Thessalonians, which is in God the Father and in the Lord Jesus Christ: grace and peace to you from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. [2] We give thanks to God at all times for every one of you, making mention of you in our prayers, [3] as we call to mind without ceasing your work of faith, your toil of love and your steadfastness of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, in the presence of our God and Father, [4]* knowing, brothers loved by God, how you were chosen; [5] for our gospel did not come to you in word alone, but also in power and in the Holy Spirit and in much assurance, just as you know what sort of men we became among you for your sake. [6] And you became imitators of us and of the Lord when, in much distress, you received the word with joy from the Holy Spirit, [7] so that you became a pattern for all the believers in Macedonia and Achaia. [8] For from you the word of the Lord has echoed forth, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but in every place your faith toward God has gone abroad, so that we have no need to speak of anything. [9] For people themselves tell about us what sort of welcome we had among you, and how you turned to God from idols to serve a living and true God, [10] and to wait for his Son out of the heavens, whom he raised from among the dead, Jesus, our deliverer from the wrath that is coming.

CHAPTER 2

[1] For you yourselves know, brothers, that our entrance among you has not proved empty, [2] but after we had suffered beforehand and been mistreated at Philippi, as you know, we found boldness in our God to speak to you the gospel of God amid much conflict. [3] For our exhortation was not out of deception, nor out of uncleanness, nor in guile; [4] but as we have been tested by God and found fit to be entrusted with the gospel, so we speak—not as pleasing men, but God, who proves our hearts. [5] For at no time did we come with a word of flattery, as you know, nor with a pretense for greed—God is witness— [6] nor seeking glory from men, neither from you nor from others, though we could have been a burden as apostles of Christ. [7] Rather, we were gentle in your midst, as a nurse warms and cherishes her own children. [8] So, being fond of you, we were well pleased to impart to you not only the gospel of God but our own souls too, because you had become dear to us. [9] For you call to mind, brothers, our labor and travail: working night and day so as not to be a weight on any of you, we proclaimed to you the gospel of God. [10] You are witnesses, and God is, how devoutly and righteously and without blame we behaved toward you who believe; [11] You know also how, like a father with his own children, we were exhorting and encouraging each one of you, [12] and testifying to you that you should walk in a manner worthy of God, who calls you into his own kingdom and glory. [13] For this cause we also give thanks to God unceasingly: that when you received the word of hearing from us, the word of God, you welcomed it not as the word of men but, as it truly is, the word of God, which also works in you who believe. [14] For you, brothers, became imitators of the churches of God in Christ Jesus that are in Judea, because you suffered the same things at the hands of your own countrymen as they did at the hands of the Jews, [15] who killed both the Lord Jesus and their own prophets and persecuted us; they do not please God and are set against all men, [16]* forbidding us to speak to the Gentiles that they might be saved, and so they are always filling up their sins to the full. But the wrath has come upon them to the end. [17] But we, brothers, bereft of you for a season—in presence, not in heart—were all the more eager, with great desire, to see your face. [18] Therefore we wished to come to you—I, Paul, indeed once and again—but Satan hindered us. [19] For who is our hope or joy or crown of boasting? Is it not you as well, in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ when he comes? [20] Yes, you are our glory and our joy.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Therefore, when we could bear it no longer, we were content to be left at Athens alone, [2] and we sent Timothy, our brother, a minister of God and our fellow laborer in the gospel of Christ, to make you firm and to exhort you concerning your faith, [3] so that no one should be shaken in these afflictions. For you yourselves know that this is our appointed lot. [4] For indeed, when we were with you, we told you beforehand that we were going to suffer affliction, and so it came about, as you know. [5] Because of this, when I too could bear it no longer, I sent to learn of your faith, fearing that somehow the tempter had tempted you and our toil would turn out to be for nothing. [6] But now that Timothy has come to us from you and has brought us glad news of your faith and love, and that you keep a kind remembrance of us always, longing to see us as we also long to see you— [7] for that reason, brothers, we have been comforted over you, in all our affliction and need, through your faith. [8] Because now we live, if you stand fast in the Lord. [9] For what thanksgiving can we render back to God concerning you, for all the joy with which we rejoice on your account before our God, [10] while night and day we beg exceedingly to see your face and to complete what is lacking in your faith? [11] Now may our God and Father himself, and our Lord Jesus Christ, make straight our way to you; [12] and may the Lord cause you to increase and abound in love toward one another and toward all, even as we do toward you, [13] so that he may make your hearts firm and blameless in holiness before our God and Father when our Lord Jesus Christ comes with all his saints.

CHAPTER 4

[1] Finally, then, brothers, we ask you and appeal to you in the Lord Jesus: you received from us instructions on how you must walk and please God; abound in this more and more. [2] For you know what orders we gave you through the Lord Jesus. [3] For this is what God wills: your sanctification, that you keep away from sexual immorality; [4] that each of you know how to keep his own vessel in sanctification and honor, [*] [5] not in the passion of desire like the Gentiles who do not know God; [6] and that no one overstep and wrong his brother in this matter, because the Lord avenges all these things, as we told you before and warned you solemnly. [7] For God did not call us to impurity but in sanctification. [8] So whoever disregards this disregards not a man but God, who also gave us his Holy Spirit. [9] But concerning love of the brothers you have no need for me to write to you, for you yourselves are God-taught to love one another; [10] and indeed you practice it toward all the brothers in the whole of Macedonia. But we exhort you, brothers, to abound still more, [11] and to strive earnestly to be quiet, to tend to your own affairs and to work with your own hands, just as we charged you, [12] so that your conduct may be seemly in the eyes of outsiders and you may not be in need of anything. [13] Now I do not want you to be ignorant, brothers, about those who are asleep, that you may not sorrow as the others do, who have no hope. [14] For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, in the same way God will bring with him those who have fallen asleep through Jesus. [15] This we declare to you by the word of the Lord: we who are living, who remain until the coming of the Lord, shall by no means get ahead of those who have fallen asleep. [16] For the Lord himself will descend from heaven with a shout of command, with the voice of an archangel and with the trumpet of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. [17] Next, we the living who remain will be snatched up along with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air; and so we will be with the Lord for all time. [18] So comfort one another with these words.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Now about the times and the seasons, brothers, there is no need for anything to be written to you. [2] For you yourselves know precisely that the day of the Lord comes in this way, like a thief at night. [3] When they say, "Peace and safety!" then ruin falls on them all at once, as birth pangs seize a woman who is with child, and they will by no means escape. [4] But you, brothers, are not in the dark, for that day to catch you like a thief. [5] You are all sons of light and sons of day; we are not of night or of darkness. [6] Let us not, then, sleep as the rest do; let us be watchful and sober. [7] For sleepers sleep at night, and drunkards get drunk at night. [8] But we are of the day; so let us be sober, wearing faith and love as a breastplate and the hope of salvation as a helmet. [9] For God has not set us apart for wrath, but for obtaining salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ, [10] who died on our behalf, so that whether we wake or sleep we may live in company with him. [11] So comfort each other and strengthen one another, as indeed you do. [12] And we ask you, brothers, to know those who labor among you and preside over you in the Lord and warn you, [13] and to esteem them beyond measure in love on account of their work. Keep peace among yourselves. [14] We exhort you, brothers: admonish the disorderly, cheer the fainthearted, hold on to the weak, be longsuffering toward all. [15] See that no one returns evil for evil to anyone, but always pursue the good, both for one another and for all. [16] Rejoice always. [17] Pray without ceasing. [18] In all things give thanks; this is God's will for you in Christ Jesus. [19] Do not quench the Spirit. [20] Do not treat prophecies with contempt. [21] Prove all things; hold fast what is good. [22] Stay away from evil in every form. [23] And may the God of peace himself sanctify you completely; and may your spirit and soul and body be preserved entire, without blame, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. [24] Faithful is the one who calls you, and he will also do it. [25] Brothers, pray for us. [26] Greet all the brothers with a holy kiss. [27] I put you under oath by the Lord to have this letter read to all the holy brothers. [28] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul, Silvanus and Timothy, to the church of the Thessalonians, which is in God our Father and in the Lord Jesus Christ: [2] grace and peace to you from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. [3] We are under obligation to give thanks to God at all times for you, brothers, as is only proper, because your faith is flourishing greatly and the love of each one of you, all of you, for one another is increasing. [4] This is why we ourselves boast about you among the churches of God, for your endurance and faith in all the persecutions and afflictions you are putting up with. [5] All this is a clear sign of God's just judgment, meant to have you counted worthy of the kingdom of God, the kingdom for which you are indeed suffering. [6] since it is right in God's sight to pay back affliction to those who afflict you, [7] and to grant relief to you who are afflicted, and to us as well, when the Lord Jesus is revealed from heaven with the angels of his power, [8] in a fire of flame, dealing out vengeance to those who do not know God and to those who do not obey the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. [9] These will pay the penalty, eternal ruin, away from the face of the Lord and from the glory of his strength, [10] when he comes on that day to be glorified in his saints and to be admired in all who believe—for our testimony to you was believed. [11] To that end we always pray for you also, that our God may count you worthy of the calling and powerfully accomplish all your delight in goodness and your work of faith, [12] so that the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and you in him, in keeping with the grace of our God and of the Lord Jesus Christ.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Now concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered to him, we ask you, brothers, [2] not to be quickly shaken out of your senses or alarmed, whether by a spirit or by a spoken word or by a letter supposedly from us, as if the day of Christ had already arrived. [3] Do not let anyone deceive you in any way. For it will not come unless the falling away comes first, and the man of sin is revealed, the son of perdition, [*4] who sets himself against and lifts himself up over everything that is called God or is an object of worship, so that he takes his seat as God in the temple of God and puts himself on show, claiming that he is God. [5] Don't you remember that while I was still with you I used to tell you these things? [6] And you know what is holding him back now, so that he may be revealed when his time comes. [7] For the mystery of lawlessness is already operating; only there is one who restrains now, until he is removed from the scene. [8] And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord will consume with the breath of his mouth and render powerless by the radiance of his coming. [9] The coming of that one is in accordance with the activity of Satan, with every kind of power and with lying signs and wonders, [10] and with every deceit of wickedness for those who are perishing, because they refused to welcome the love of the truth so as to be saved. [11] And for this reason God will send them an active power of error, to make them believe the lie, [12] in order that all may be condemned who did not believe the truth but delighted in unrighteousness. [*13] But we ought always to thank God for you, brothers loved by the Lord, because God picked you from the beginning for salvation, in the Spirit's sanctification and in faith in the truth. [*14] To this he called you through our gospel, so that you may obtain the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ. [15] So then, brothers, stand your ground and hold on to the traditions in which you were instructed, whether by spoken word or by our letter. [16] May our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God our Father, who loved us and in his grace gave us everlasting encouragement and a good hope, [17] encourage your hearts and make you steadfast in every good word and deed.

CHAPTER 3

[1] As for the rest, brothers, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may spread quickly and be honored, as it was among you, [2] and that we may be rescued from perverse and evil people; for faith is not found in everyone. [3] But faithful is the Lord, who will make you firm and keep you safe from the evil one. [4] We are confident in the Lord about you, that you are doing what we instruct you, and that you will go on doing it. [5] May the Lord guide your hearts into the love of God and into the patient endurance of Christ. [6] Now we instruct you, brothers, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, to hold yourselves apart from every brother who conducts himself in an unruly way and not in line with the tradition he received from us. [7] You yourselves know how you are to imitate us: we did not behave in an unruly way among you, [8] nor did we eat bread from anyone as a gift; we worked with toil and hard labor night and day so as not to weigh on any of you. [9] Not that we have no authority, but so that we might give you ourselves as a pattern, for you to imitate us. [10] For even while we were with you, we gave you this instruction: if anyone does not want to work, he should not eat either. [11] For we hear that some are walking in an unruly way among you, not working at all but busying themselves with what is not theirs. [12] We instruct and urge such people by our Lord Jesus Christ to work quietly and to eat the bread they earn themselves. [13] And you, brothers, do not lose heart in doing what is right. [14] If anyone does not obey what we say in this letter, take note of him and have nothing to do with him, so that he may be put to shame. [15] Still, do not count him an enemy; admonish him as a brother. [16] And may the Lord of peace himself grant you peace continually, in every way. The Lord be with you all. [17] This greeting is in my own hand—Paul's. It is the mark in every letter; this is how I write. [18] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with all of you. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ by order of God our Savior and of the Lord Jesus Christ, who is our hope, [2] to Timothy, a genuine son in the faith: grace, mercy and peace from God our Father and Jesus Christ our Lord. [3] When I was setting out for Macedonia, I begged you to stay on at Ephesus so that you could instruct certain people not to teach anything different, [4] and not to occupy themselves with myths and genealogies without end, which bring on speculation rather than the edification of God that is in faith. [*] [5] The aim of this instruction is love that comes from a clean heart, from a good conscience and from faith without pretense. [6] Some have missed the mark on these things and wandered off into idle talk, [7] wishing to be teachers of the law, though they understand neither the things they say nor the matters they speak about so confidently. [8] We know that the law is good, provided one uses it as law is meant to be used, [9] recognizing that the law is not laid down for a righteous man but for the lawless and the unruly, for the godless and sinners, for the unholy and the profane, for those who strike their fathers and their mothers, for murderers, [10] for the sexually immoral, for men who lie with men, for slave traders, for liars, for perjurers, and for whatever else stands against sound teaching, [11] in keeping with the glorious gospel of the blessed God, with which I have been entrusted. [12] I am grateful to the one who gave me strength, Christ Jesus our Lord, for he counted me faithful and placed me in the ministry, [13] even though before I was a blasphemer, a persecutor and an insolent man. Yet I found mercy, because what I did, I did ignorantly in unbelief; [14] and the grace of our Lord abounded far beyond, with the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus. [15] Faithful is this word, and worthy of being welcomed by all: Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, and of these I am first. [16] But this is why mercy was shown to me: so that in me first Jesus Christ might put all his patience on display, as a model for those who would later believe in him to eternal life. [17] To the King of the ages, incorruptible, invisible, to God who alone is wise, be honor and glory forever and ever. Amen. [18] Timothy, my son, I entrust this instruction to you, in line with the prophecies once made about you, so that by them you may wage the good warfare, [19] keeping hold of faith and a good conscience. Some have pushed conscience aside and their faith has been wrecked; [20] among them are Hymenaeus and Alexander, whom I delivered to Satan, so that they may learn by discipline not to blaspheme.

CHAPTER 2

[1] First of all, then, I urge that requests, prayers, petitions and thanksgivings be offered on behalf of all people, [2] for kings and for all those in high positions, so that we may live a tranquil and peaceful life, godly and dignified in every way. [3] This is right and pleasing before God our Savior, [4] who desires all people to be saved and to arrive at the knowledge of the truth. [5] For God is one, and there is one mediator between God and men, Christ Jesus, himself a man, [6] who gave himself as a ransom on behalf of all—the testimony given at the proper time. [7] For this I was appointed a preacher and an apostle—I am telling the truth in Christ, I am not lying—a teacher of the Gentiles in faith and truth. [8] So it is my wish that in every place the men should pray, raising holy hands, free from anger and argument; [9] and in the same way that women should adorn themselves in fitting clothing, with modesty and good sense, not with braids, or gold, or pearls, or expensive garments, [10] but with what suits women who profess reverence for God: good works. [11] Let a woman be a learner in silence, with all submissiveness. [12] I do not allow a woman to teach or to domineer over a man; she is to remain quiet. [13] For Adam was formed first, and Eve afterward. [14] And it was not Adam who was deceived; it was the woman who was deceived and came to be in transgression. [15] But she will be saved through childbearing, if they continue in faith and love and holiness, together with self-control.

CHAPTER 3

[1] The saying is trustworthy: if a man seeks the office of overseer, it is a good work he is longing for. [2] The overseer therefore must be beyond reproach, the husband of one wife, temperate, prudent, of good conduct, given to hospitality, skilled in teaching; [3] not a drinker, not a brawler, not eager for shameful gain, but kind, not contentious, free from the love of money; [4] ruling his own household well, with children who obey him with full respect. [5] If a man does not know how to rule his own household, how will he look after the church of God? [6] Not a new believer, so that he does not swell with pride and fall into the condemnation of the devil. [7] He must also be well spoken of by those outside, so that he does not fall into reproach and into the devil's trap. [8] Deacons, likewise, must be worthy of respect, not two-faced, not given to a lot of wine, not eager for shameful gain, [9] holding the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience. [10] These too must first be tested; then, if no charge is found against them, let them serve. [11] Their wives, in the same way, must be serious, not slanderous, temperate, faithful in all things. [] [12] Deacons are each to be the husband of one wife, ruling their children and their own households well. [13] For those who have served well win for themselves a good standing and much confidence in the faith that is in Christ Jesus. [14] I write you these things, though I hope to come to you before long; [15] but in case I am delayed, so that you may know how one must conduct oneself in God's house, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and base of the truth. [16] And confessedly great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifested in the flesh, justified in the Spirit, seen by angels, preached among the Gentiles, believed in throughout the world, received up into glory. []

CHAPTER 4

[1] The Spirit says plainly that in the last times some will fall away from the faith, paying attention to misleading spirits and to the teachings of demons, [2] by means of the hypocrisy of liars whose own consciences have been branded, [3] who prohibit marriage and require abstinence from foods that God created to be partaken of with thanks by those who believe and have come to know the truth. [4] For every created thing of God is good, and nothing is to be cast aside if it is received with thanks, [5] because it is made holy through the word of God and through prayer. [6] If you put these things before the brothers, you will be a fine servant of Jesus Christ, trained up in the words of the faith and of the good doctrine that you have carefully followed. [7] Turn down profane myths fit only for old women, and exercise yourself toward godliness. [8] Bodily exercise brings a little benefit, but godliness benefits in every way, since it carries the promise of life now and of the life ahead. [9] This word is sure, and worthy of complete acceptance. [10] It is for this that we toil and are reviled, because we have put our hope in the living God, who is the Savior of all people, above all of believers. [11] Insist on these things and teach them. [12] Let no one treat you with contempt on account of your youth; rather, become a pattern for those who believe, in word, in conduct, in love, in spirit, in faith, in purity.
[13] Until I come, give your attention to the public reading, to exhortation, to teaching. [14] Do not be careless about the gift within you, which was granted to you through prophecy along with the laying on of hands by the body of elders. [* 15] Make these things your concern; live in them, so that your advance may be plain to all. [16] Pay attention to yourself and to your teaching; stay with them, for if you do this you will save yourself and also those who hear you.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Do not lash out at an older man, but encourage him as a father;
the younger men as brothers, [2] older women as mothers, younger women as sisters, in all purity. [3] Give honor to widows who are really widows. [4] But if a widow has children or grandchildren, they should first learn to practice godliness toward their own family and to give something back to their parents, for this is good and pleasing before God. [5] The one who is truly a widow, left all alone, has fixed her hope on God and keeps on with her requests and prayers night and day; [6] but she who lives in luxury has died, though living. [7] Give these instructions as well, so that they may be free from reproach. [8] If anyone fails to provide for his own relatives, and above all for the members of his household, he has disowned the faith and is worse than one who does not believe. [9] Let no widow be enrolled unless she is at least sixty years of age and has been the wife of one husband, [10] and has a reputation for good works: that she has raised children, welcomed strangers, washed the saints' feet, helped those in distress, and given herself to every kind of good work. [11] But decline to enroll the younger widows, for when their desires pull them away from Christ, they want to marry, [12] and so they bring judgment on themselves for having set aside their first pledge. [13]
At the same time they also learn to be idle as they go around from house to house, and not just idle, but chatterers and meddlers, talking about things they should not. [14] Therefore I want younger women to marry, bear children, run their households, and give the opponent no pretext for abuse. [15] For some have already strayed off after Satan. [16] If any believing man or woman has widows in the family, he or she should assist them, and the church should not be weighed down, so that it can assist those who are widows indeed. [17] Let elders who preside well be counted worthy of double honor, above all those who labor in the word and in teaching. [18] For the Scripture says, "You shall not muzzle an ox that is threshing," and, "The worker is worthy of his wage." [19] Accept no charge against an elder except on the word of two or three witnesses. [20] As for those who persist in sin, reprove them before everyone, so that the others may also stand in fear. [21] In the presence of God and the Lord Jesus Christ and the chosen angels I solemnly urge you to observe these rules without prejudging, doing nothing by leaning to one side. [22] Lay hands on no one quickly, and have no share in sins that belong to others; keep yourself clean. [23] No longer drink water only, but use a little wine for the sake of your stomach and your many ailments. [24] Some people's sins are obvious, running ahead of them to judgment, while the sins of others show up later. [25] Good works, likewise, are plain to see, and those that are not so cannot be concealed.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Let all who are servants under the yoke regard their own masters as worthy of all honor, so that the name of God and the teaching are not reviled. [2] Those whose masters are believers should not think less of them because they are brothers; on the contrary, they should serve them all the better, since those who benefit from their good service are believers and dearly loved.
Teach and urge these things. [3] If anyone teaches some other doctrine and does not agree with the sound words of our Lord Jesus Christ and with the teaching that accords with godliness, [4] he is swollen with conceit and understands nothing. He has a sickly appetite for controversies and battles over words, which give rise to envy, quarreling, abusive talk, evil suspicions, [5] and endless friction among men whose minds are corrupt and who have been robbed of the truth, who imagine that godliness is a way to make a profit. Keep away from such people. [6] Yet godliness joined with contentment is indeed great gain. [7] For we brought nothing into the world, and clearly we cannot take anything out of it either. [8] And if we have food and things to cover us, with these we will be satisfied. [9] But people who are set on being wealthy fall into temptation and a snare and many senseless, injurious desires, which drown men in ruin and destruction. [10] For the love of money is the root of all evils; some, in reaching for it, have been led astray from the faith and have run themselves through with many pangs. [11] But you, man of God, run from these things. Strive after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, steadfastness, meekness. [12] Fight the good fight of the faith; get a firm grip on eternal life, to which you were called, and you made the good confession before many witnesses. [13] Before

God, who gives life to all things, and before Christ Jesus, who bore witness to the good confession before Pontius Pilate, I instruct you [14] to keep this commandment spotless and beyond reproach until our Lord Jesus Christ appears, [15] an appearing that the blessed and only Sovereign will bring about in his own time, the King of those who reign and Lord of those who rule, [16] who alone has immortality, who dwells in light no one can approach, whom no human has seen or is able to see; to him be honor and power forever. Amen. [17] Charge the rich of this present age not to think too highly of themselves or to rest their hope on the uncertainty of wealth, but on the living God, who supplies us with all things in abundance to enjoy. [18] to work what is good, to be wealthy in good works, open-handed, sharing with others, [19] storing away for themselves a good foundation for the future, so that they may grasp eternal life. [20] Timothy, keep safe what has been committed to you, avoiding the irreverent, empty talk and the contradictions of what is falsely named knowledge, [21] which some have claimed and have missed the mark regarding the faith. Grace be with you. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul, by God's will an apostle of Jesus Christ, sent in keeping with the promise of the life that is in Christ Jesus, [2] to Timothy, my dear son: grace, mercy and peace from God the Father and from Christ Jesus our Lord. [3] I am grateful to God, whom I serve as my ancestors did, with a clean conscience, as I keep you constantly in mind in my petitions night and day. [4] Recalling your tears, I long to see you, so that I may be full of joy. [5] I have been reminded of the unfeigned faith that is in you, a faith that made its home first in your grandmother Lois and your mother Eunice, and I am sure it is at home in you too. [6] For this reason I call on you to rekindle the gift of God that is in you by the laying on of my hands. [7] For what God gave us is not a spirit of cowardice but a spirit of power and love and sound judgment. [8] So do not be ashamed of the testimony about our Lord, or ashamed of me, his prisoner; instead, share with me in suffering for the gospel, relying on the power of God, [9] who saved us and called us with a holy calling, not on the basis of what we had done, but because of his own purpose and grace, which was granted to us in Christ Jesus before the ages began, [10] and which has now been brought to light by the appearing of our Savior Jesus Christ, who put an end to death and through the gospel shed light on life and incorruption. [11] For this I was appointed preacher, apostle and teacher of the Gentiles. [12] For this cause I also endure these things; but I am not ashamed, for I know the one I have believed, and I am convinced he has the power to protect my deposit until that day. [13] Hold on to the outline of sound words that you heard from me, in the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus. [14] By the Holy Spirit who lives in us, keep the good treasure that was entrusted to you. [15] You know that all who are in Asia turned their backs on me, Phygelus and Hermogenes among them. [16] The Lord grant mercy to the house of Onesiphorus, for again and again he revived my spirits and was not ashamed of my chain. [17] Instead, once he was in Rome, he sought me out all the more diligently and found me. [18] The Lord grant him to find mercy with the Lord on that day. And how much he did for me in Ephesus, you know very well.

CHAPTER 2

[1] You, then, my son, be made strong by the grace that is in Christ Jesus. [2] What you heard from me in the presence of many witnesses, hand on to trustworthy men who will be competent to teach others too. [3] So take your share of hardship like a good soldier of Jesus Christ. [4] No soldier on active duty gets tangled up in the business of everyday life, because he wants to please the one who enlisted him. [5] Likewise an athlete is not awarded the crown unless he competes by the rules. [6] It is the farmer who does the hard work who ought to have the first share of the harvest. [7] Ponder what I am telling you, and may the Lord grant you discernment in every matter. [8] Remember that Jesus Christ, of David's seed, has been raised from the dead, as my gospel declares, [9] and for it I endure hardship, even to chains, as though I were a wrongdoer; yet the word of God has not been bound. [10] For that reason I put up with all things for the chosen ones' sake, so that they also may gain the salvation in Christ Jesus, along with everlasting glory. [11] The saying is reliable: if we have died together with him, we will also live together with him; [12] if we hold out, we will also reign together with him; if we deny him, that one will also deny us; [13] if we are unbelieving, he remains faithful—he cannot deny himself. [14] Bring these things to their remembrance, and charge them earnestly before the Lord not to wage wars of words, which profit nothing and only overturn those who hear. [15] Make every effort to stand before God as one tested and approved, a workman not put to shame, cutting straight the word of truth. [16] Shun profane and empty babble, for it will lead people on into further ungodliness, [17] and their word will eat away like gangrene. Hymenaeus and Philetus are among them; [18] they have gone astray from the truth by claiming that the resurrection has already happened, and they are upsetting the faith of some. [19] Yet the firm foundation God laid remains standing, with this seal on it: "The Lord knows those who are his," and, "Let everyone who names the name of Christ stand away from unrighteousness." [20] In a great house you find vessels not only of gold and silver but of wood and clay as well, some meant for honor, some for dishonor. [21] So if anyone purifies himself from these things, he will be a vessel for honorable use, set apart as holy, serviceable to the master, ready for any good work. [22] Get away from youthful passions; go after righteousness, faith, love, peace, in company with those who call upon the Lord with a pure heart. [23] Decline foolish, ill-informed debates, knowing that they produce fighting. [24] A servant of the Lord ought not to be a fighter, but gentle toward all, apt at teaching, patient under wrong, [25] instructing his opponents with gentleness. Perhaps God will grant them repentance so that they come to know the truth, [26] and they may sober up and get free from the devil's snare, having been caught alive by him to do his will.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Understand this: in the last days hard times will set in. [2] For people will be self-loving, money-loving, boastful, haughty, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, ungrateful, irreverent, [3] without family affection, irreconcilable, slanderers, lacking self-mastery, fierce, hostile to the good, [4] betrayers, headstrong, blinded by conceit, fond of pleasure rather than fond of God, [5] keeping up an outward show of godliness but having rejected its power. Turn away from people like these. [6] Among them are the ones who slip into households and take captive weak women weighed down with sins and driven by all sorts of desires, [7] who are forever learning and yet can never arrive at the knowledge of the truth. [8] In the same way that Jannes and Jambres resisted Moses, these men also resist the truth—men corrupted in mind, worthless with regard to the faith. [9] Yet they will advance no further, for their senselessness will be obvious to all, just as that of those men was. [10] But you have followed closely my teaching, my conduct, my purpose, faith, longsuffering, love, steadfastness, [11] the persecutions and sufferings that came upon me at Antioch, at Iconium, at Lystra—such persecutions I bore! And from all of them the Lord delivered me. [12] And all who are resolved to live in godliness in Christ Jesus will suffer persecution, [13] but evil men and charlatans will advance only in what is worse, deceiving others and deceived themselves. [14] You, though, must abide in the things you learned and were assured of, knowing from whom you learned them, [15] and that since you were a small child you have known the sacred writings, which have power to make you wise toward salvation through faith in Christ Jesus. [16] All Scripture is God-breathed and profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for discipline in righteousness, [*] [17] so that the man of God may be complete, thoroughly furnished for every good work.

CHAPTER 4

[1] So, before God and the Lord Jesus Christ, who will judge the living and the dead at his appearing and in his kingdom, I solemnly charge you: [2] Herald the word; be on hand when it is convenient and when it is not; convince, rebuke, exhort, with all longsuffering and doctrine. [3] For there will be a season when they will not bear with healthy teaching, but, with ears itching, they will pile up teachers for themselves in line with their own cravings, [4] and they will close their ears to the truth and wander off into myths. [5] As for you, be watchful and sober in everything, suffer hardship, do an evangelist's work, fulfill your ministry completely. [6] For I am even now being poured out as a drink offering, and the moment of my departure is here. [7] I have fought the good contest, I have completed the course, I have kept the faith. [8] For the rest, the crown of righteousness is stored up for me, which the Lord, the just Judge, will give me in that day—and not to me alone, but to all who have loved his appearing. [9] Hurry to come to me soon. [10] Demas has left me behind, for he loved the present age, and he has gone to Thessalonica; Crescens has gone to Galatia, Titus to Dalmatia. [11] No one but Luke is with me. Pick up Mark and bring him with you, for he is of good use to me in serving. [12] Tychicus I sent to Ephesus. [13] The cloak I left behind at Troas with Carpus—bring it when you come, along with the books, and especially the parchments. [14] Alexander the coppersmith did me a great deal of harm. May the Lord repay him according to his deeds. [15] Guard yourself against him as well, for he stood hard against our words. [16] When I first made my defense, nobody stood beside me; all of them left me. May it not be reckoned to them. [17] The Lord, though, stood by me and strengthened me, so that by me the proclamation might be completed and all the Gentiles might hear; and I was rescued out of the lion's mouth. [18] And the Lord will deliver me from every wicked work and will save me for his heavenly kingdom. To him be the glory forever and ever. Amen. [19] Give my greetings to Prisca and Aquila and to the household of Onesiphorus. [20] Erastus remained at Corinth; Trophimus I left behind at Miletus, sick. [21] Hurry to come before winter. Greetings to you from Eubulus, Pudens, Linus, Claudia and all the brothers. [22] The Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Grace be with you. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Paul, a servant of God and an apostle of Jesus Christ, in the service of the faith of God's chosen ones and of their full knowledge of the truth that goes with godliness, [2] resting on the hope of eternal life, which God, who never lies, promised before time everlasting, [3] and in his own seasons he revealed his word in the proclamation with which I was entrusted at the command of God our Savior; [4] to Titus, a genuine son in the faith we share: grace, mercy and peace from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ our Savior. [5] I left you in Crete for this purpose: to set right the things still lacking and to install elders in each city, as I instructed you— [6] if a man is irreproachable, the husband of one wife, with faithful children who are not accused of reckless living or of being unruly. [7] For as God's steward the overseer must be free of accusation: not self-willed, not prone to anger, not a drinker, not a striker, not grasping for shameful gain, [8] but hospitable, a friend of what is good, prudent, upright, devout, disciplined, [9] keeping a firm grip on the reliable word that agrees with the teaching, so that he can both encourage people with healthy doctrine and convict those who speak against it. [10] For there are many who are rebellious, idle talkers and deceivers of the mind, above all those of the circumcision. [11] Their mouths must be shut, for they turn whole houses upside down, teaching what is improper for the sake of shameful gain. [12] One of them, a prophet of their own, said, "Cretans are always liars, wicked beasts, idle bellies." [13] This witness is true; for this reason reprove them with severity, so that they may be sound in the faith, [14] and not pay heed to Jewish fables and to the rules of men who turn their backs on the truth. [15] All things are clean to the clean; but to the defiled and unbelieving nothing is clean, for their very mind and conscience are defiled. [16] They declare that they know God, yet in their works they disown him; they are loathsome and disobedient, and useless for any good work.

[1] As for you, say what suits wholesome teaching. [2] Older men are to be sober, dignified, self-controlled, healthy in faith, in love and in patience. [3] Older women likewise are to carry themselves as is fitting for those who are holy, not slanderers, not enslaved to much wine; they are to teach what is good, [4] so as to instruct the younger women in loving their husbands and loving their children, [5] to be sensible, chaste, keepers of their homes, good, yielding to their own husbands, so that the word of God is not spoken against. [6] Urge the younger men, too, to be of sound mind. [7] Present yourself in all respects as a model of good works; in teaching show soundness, gravity, incorruption, [8] speech that is healthy and beyond reproach, so that whoever is against you may be put to shame, with nothing evil to say about you. [9] Servants should submit to their own masters, giving full satisfaction in everything, not contradicting, [10] not keeping back anything for themselves, but proving entirely trustworthy and good, that they may adorn the doctrine of God our Savior in every way. [11] For the grace of God has been made visible, with salvation for all mankind, [12] disciplining us so that, having renounced impiety and the cravings of the world, we may live soberly, justly and devoutly in the present age, [13] expecting the blessed hope and the appearing in glory of our great God and Savior Jesus Christ, [*] [14] who gave himself on our behalf to buy us back from all lawlessness and to purify for himself a people who are his own treasure, zealous for good works. [15] These are the things you must say; urge and correct with full authority. Do not let anyone disregard you.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Bring it back to their minds that they are to be under rulers and authorities, to obey them, and to stand ready for every good work; [2] to revile no one, to be no fighters but gentle, displaying all meekness toward all people. [3] For we ourselves were once without understanding, disobedient, wandering astray, in bondage to desires and pleasures of every sort, passing our lives in malice and envy, hateful, and hating one another. [4] But when the goodness and loving-kindness of God our Savior appeared, [5] not by works in righteousness that we had done, but in keeping with his mercy he saved us, by the bath of regeneration and the renewing of the Holy Spirit, [6] whom he shed on us richly through Jesus Christ our Savior, [7] so that, justified by that grace of his, we might become heirs in hope of eternal life. [8] The saying is sure. And I want you to insist on these things with confidence, so that those who have believed God will be intent on taking the lead in good works. These things are good and useful for people. [9] Steer clear of foolish questionings, genealogies, contentions and fights over the law, for they bring no benefit and are empty. [10] A factious man, after a first and a second warning, refuse, [11] knowing that such a one has turned aside from the way and is sinning, condemned by himself. [12] Whenever I send Artemas or Tychicus to you, hurry to come to me at Nicopolis, for I have determined to spend the winter there. [13] Speed Zenas the lawyer and Apollos on their way with care, so that nothing is lacking to them. [14] And let our own people also learn to take the lead in good works to meet necessary needs, so that they will not be unfruitful. [15] All those with me greet you. Greet those who love us in the faith. Grace be with you all. Amen.

PHILEMON

[1] Paul, a prisoner of Christ Jesus, and Timothy our brother, to Philemon, our beloved fellow worker, [2] to Apphia the beloved, to Archippus our comrade-in-arms, and to the church gathered at your house: [3] grace and peace to you from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. [4] I always give thanks to my God when I mention you in my prayers, [5] because I hear about your love and about the faith you have toward the Lord Jesus and toward all the saints. [6] I pray that your fellowship in the faith may prove effective as you come to recognize every good thing that is in you for Christ Jesus. [7] For we have much joy and comfort over your love, because the hearts of the saints have found rest through you, brother. [8] For this reason, though I have full freedom in Christ to command you to do what is proper, [9] I would rather urge you for love's sake, being who I am: Paul, an old man, and now a prisoner of Jesus Christ as well. [10] I urge you on behalf of my child, whom I fathered in my bonds, Onesimus, [11] who once was unprofitable to you but now is profitable to you and to me; him I have sent back. [*] [12] You, then, receive him; he is my very heart. [13] I was minded to hold on to him here, so that on your behalf he could wait on me in the bonds I wear for the gospel. [14] Yet without knowing your mind I chose to do nothing, so that your good deed would come not out of obligation but willingly. [15] For it may be that he was taken away for an hour for this very reason, so that you might have him back eternally, [16] no longer as a servant, but above a servant, as a brother beloved—especially to me, and how much more to you, both in the flesh and in the Lord. [17] If, then, you hold me to be your partner, receive him as you would receive me. [18] And if he has wronged you at all, or is in your debt, put it down to my account. [19] I, Paul, have written it in my own hand: I will make it good—not that I need tell you that you owe me even your own self besides. [20] Yes, brother, let me have some profit from you in the Lord; give my heart rest in the Lord. [21] I have written to you trusting in your obedience, aware that you will do even beyond what I say. [22] And at the same time, have lodging ready for me as well, for I hope that through your prayers I will be granted to you. [23] Greetings to you from Epaphras, my fellow captive in Christ Jesus, [24] from Mark, Aristarchus, Demas and Luke, my co-workers. [25] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Long ago, in many portions and in many fashions, God spoke to the fathers through the prophets; he has in these last days spoken to us by his Son, [*] [2] whom he made heir of everything, and through whom he also created the ages. [3] He, being the brightness of his glory and the stamp of his very essence, and bearing up all things by the word of his power, when he had by himself accomplished the cleansing of our sins, sat down at the right hand of the Majesty in the heights, [4] and he has become greater than the angels by as much as the name he has received as his inheritance surpasses theirs. [5] For to which of the angels did he ever say, "You are my Son; today I have begotten you"? And again, "I will be a Father to him, and he will be a Son to me"? [6] And again, when he leads the firstborn into the inhabited world, he says, "And let all God's angels bow down before him." [7] Of the angels he says, "He makes his angels winds, and his servants a flame of fire." [8] But to the Son he says, "Your throne, O God, stands forever and ever; the scepter of your kingdom is a scepter of uprightness. [9] You loved righteousness and hated lawlessness; that is why God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of joy beyond your fellows." [10] And, "In the beginning, Lord, you founded the earth, and the heavens are what your hands have made. [11] They will be destroyed, but you endure; all of them will grow old like a garment, [12] You will fold them up like a mantle, and they will be changed. But you are the same, and your years will never run out." [13] To which of the angels has he ever said, "Sit at my right hand until I put your enemies beneath your feet as a footstool"? [14] Are they not all spirits in holy service, sent out to minister for the sake of those who are going to inherit salvation?

CHAPTER 2

[1] That is why we must hold all the more closely to what we have heard, so that we do not drift past it. [2] For if the word that was spoken through angels was valid, and every transgression and act of disobedience received its fair reward, [3] how shall we get away if we pay no heed to so great a salvation? It began by being spoken through the Lord, and was made firm for us by those who heard, [4] God bearing joint witness with signs and wonders, with powers of many kinds, and with portions of the Holy Spirit handed out according to his own will. [5] For it was not under angels that he placed the coming inhabited world we speak of. [6] Instead, someone has borne witness in a certain place, saying, "What is man, that you remember him, or the son of man, that you look after him? [7] For a little while you made him lower than the angels; you crowned him with glory and honor and placed him over what your hands have made; [8] you have subjected all things beneath his feet." For when he subjected all things to him, he left nothing unsubjected to him. But at present we do not yet see all things subjected to him. [9] Yet Jesus, made for a short time lower than the angels, we see crowned with glory and honor on account of the suffering of death, so that by the grace of God he might taste death for every one. [10] For it suited him, on whose account all things are and through whom all things are, as he was bringing many sons to glory, to perfect through sufferings the founder of their salvation. [11] For the one who sanctifies and those who are sanctified all have one origin, and for that reason he is not ashamed to call them brothers, [12] when he says, "I will announce your name to my brothers; in the middle of the assembly I will sing hymns to you." [13] And again, "I will put my confidence in him." And again, "Look, I and the children God has given me." [14] Since, therefore, the children have flesh and blood in common, he also shared in these very things, so that through death he might render powerless the one who had the power of death, namely the devil, [15] and might set at liberty all those who, through fear of death, were bound to slavery all their lives long. [16] For clearly it is not angels that he takes hold of to help, but the seed of Abraham. [17] So he was obliged to be made like his brothers in everything, that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest in matters toward God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people. [18] For since he himself has suffered under trial, he is able to come to the rescue of those who are being tried.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Therefore, holy brothers, partners in a heavenly calling, consider attentively the Apostle and High Priest of our confession, Christ Jesus, [2] who is faithful to the one who made him such, as Moses too was in all his house. [3] For this man has been thought worthy of more glory than Moses, by as much as the one who builds a house has more honor than the house. [4] Every house, after all, is put together by someone, but the one who put together all things is God. [5] Now Moses was faithful in all his house as an attendant, to testify to the things that were going to be spoken, [6] but Christ as Son over his house; and his house we are, if we hold on to our boldness and the boast of our hope firm to the end. [7] That is why, as the Holy Spirit says, "Today, if you will hear his voice, [8] do not make your hearts hard, as in the rebellion, on the day of testing in the desert, [9] where your fathers put me to the test, tried me, and saw what I did for forty years. [10] Therefore I was indignant with that generation and said, 'They always wander in their heart, and they did not come to know my ways.' [11] As I swore in my anger, 'They will never enter my rest.'" [12] Watch out, brothers, that there is not in any one of you a wicked heart of unbelief, shown in falling away from the living God. [13] Rather, exhort each other day by day, as long as the word "Today" is still being spoken, so that no one among you is hardened by the deception of sin. [14] For we have been made partakers of Christ, if we hold fast the beginning of our assurance unshaken until the end, [15] as it is said: "Today, if you will hear his voice, do not make your hearts hard, as in the rebellion." [16] For some, when they heard, rebelled; yet not all who came out of Egypt under Moses.* [17] With whom was he indignant forty years? Was it not with those who sinned, whose corpses fell in the desert? [18] And to whom did he swear they would not come into his rest, except those who were disobedient? [19] So we see that it was unbelief that kept them from entering.

CHAPTER 4

[1] So let us be afraid that, while a promise of entering his rest is left open, any one of you might appear to have fallen behind. [2] For the good news has been told to us as it was to them; but the word they heard did not benefit them, because it was not blended with faith in those who heard. [3] For it is we who have believed who enter that rest, just as he has said, "As I swore in my anger, 'They will never enter my rest,'" although his works had been completed since the founding of the world. [4] For somewhere he has spoken of the seventh day like this: "And on the seventh day God rested from all his works." [5] And in this passage again: "They will never enter my rest." [6] Seeing then that some are still to enter it, and those to whom the good news came earlier did not enter on account of disobedience, [7] he once more marks out a certain day, "Today," saying through David after so long a time, as has been said before: "Today, if you will hear his voice, do not make your hearts hard." [8] For if Joshua had brought them to rest, he would not be speaking after these things about another day.* [9] So there remains a Sabbath rest for God's people. [10] For the one who has entered into his rest has himself ceased from his own works, as God did from his. [11] Let us be eager, then, to enter that rest, so that no one may fall by following the same example of disobedience. [12] For the word of God is living and at work, more cutting than any two-edged sword, reaching through to the dividing of soul and spirit, of joints and marrow, and discerning the thoughts and intentions of the heart. [13] And no creature is invisible in his presence; all things are naked and laid open to the eyes of him with whom is our reckoning. [14] So, having a great high priest who has passed through the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us hold on to our confession. [15] For ours is not a high priest who cannot share the feeling of our weaknesses, but one who in all points was tempted after our likeness, without sin. [16] Let us draw near, then, with boldness to the throne of grace, to receive mercy and to find grace for timely help.

CHAPTER 5

[1] For every high priest, taken from among men, is set in place on men's behalf for matters concerning God, to bring both gifts and sacrifices for sins. [2] He is capable of moderate feeling toward the ignorant and the wandering, since he too wears weakness about him; [3] and on account of it he must bring offerings for sins on his own account as well as for the people. [4] And no one takes the honor for himself; only the one called by God takes it, as Aaron was. [5] Thus Christ too did not glorify himself in becoming high priest; it was the one who spoke to him: "You are my Son; today I have begotten you." [6] So too he says elsewhere, "You are a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek." [7] In the days of his flesh, with strong outcry and tears, he brought requests and entreaties to the one able to save him out of death, and he was heard for his reverent fear; [8] and though he was a Son, it was from his sufferings that he learned obedience; [9] and having been brought to perfection, he became for all who obey him the cause of eternal salvation, [10] addressed by God as high priest after the order of Melchizedek. [11] On this subject our discourse is long and hard to put into words, because you have grown slow to hear. [12] Indeed, considering the time, you ought to be teachers, yet you again need someone to teach you the elementary principles of the words of God, and you have become people who need milk and not solid food. [13] For anyone who feeds on milk is inexperienced in the message of righteousness; he is an infant. [14] But solid food belongs to the full-grown, who through habit have their senses exercised to discern both good and evil.

CHAPTER 6

[1] Therefore, setting aside the first message about Christ, let us move on toward completeness, not putting down again a foundation of repentance from dead works and faith toward God, [2] of teaching about washings and the laying on of hands, about the resurrection of the dead and eternal judgment. [3] And we will do this, if God allows. [4] For when people have once been enlightened, have tasted the heavenly gift, have been made partakers of the Holy Spirit, [5] and have tasted the good word of God and the mighty powers of the age that is coming, [6] and have then fallen aside, it is impossible to renew them once more to repentance, for they crucify the Son of God afresh for themselves and make a public spectacle of him. [7] For earth that drinks the rain that comes on it again and again, and bears vegetation useful to those for whose sake it is worked, partakes of blessing from God; [8] but when it brings forth thorns and briars it is rejected and near a curse, and its end is burning. [9] But about you, beloved, we are persuaded of better things, things bound up with salvation, even if we speak in this manner. [10] For God is not unrighteous, to forget your work and the labor of love that you displayed toward his name when you served the saints and while you still serve them. [11] And our desire is that each of you display the same earnestness toward the full assurance of hope to the end, [12] so that you will not be sluggish, but imitators of those who by faith and long endurance are heirs of the promises. [13] For God, when he gave his promise to Abraham, swore by himself, because he had no one greater to swear by, [14] saying, "I will certainly bless you and multiply you greatly." [15] And thus, having persevered patiently, he attained the promise. [16] For men swear by what is greater, and for them the oath, serving as confirmation, settles every dispute. [17] So when God wanted to demonstrate still more fully to the heirs of the promise how fixed his counsel was, he stepped in with an oath, [18] so that through two things that cannot change, in which God cannot possibly lie, we who have fled for refuge might have powerful encouragement to seize the hope that lies before us. [19] This hope we hold as an anchor of the soul, secure and unshaken, which goes into the place inside the veil, [20] where Jesus entered ahead of us as our forerunner, having become a high priest forever after the order of Melchizedek.

CHAPTER 7

[1] For this Melchizedek, king of Salem, priest of the Most High God, who went out to meet Abraham as he returned from cutting down the kings, and who blessed him, [2] to whom Abraham also assigned a tenth of everything—he is first, as his name is translated, king of righteousness, and then also king of Salem, which is king of peace; [3] without father, without mother, without genealogy, having no beginning of days and no end of life, but made like the Son of God—this man remains a priest without interruption. [4] See how great this man was, to whom Abraham the patriarch gave a tenth of the choicest spoils! [5] And those sons of Levi who receive the priestly office have a command under the law to take a tenth from the people, that is, from their brothers, though they too have come out of Abraham's loins. [6] But the one whose ancestry is not reckoned from them has taken a tenth from Abraham and has blessed the man who held the promises. [7] And no one can deny that the lesser is blessed by the greater. [8] Here, men who die receive tenths; there, one receives them of whom it is attested that he lives. [9] And in a manner of speaking, Levi too, who receives tenths, has paid tenths through Abraham, [10] since he was yet in his father's loins when Melchizedek met him. [11] Now if completeness had come by the Levitical priesthood—for on it the people had received the law—what further need would there be for a different priest to rise after the order of Melchizedek, and not to be named after the order of Aaron? [12] For if the priesthood is transferred, a transfer of the law necessarily follows as well. [13] For the one these things are said of has belonged to another tribe, from which no man has attended the altar. [14] It is evident, after all, that our Lord has risen out of Judah, a tribe about which Moses said nothing concerning priesthood. [15] And the matter is plainer still if another priest arises in the likeness of Melchizedek, [16] who has come to be so not by the law of a fleshly command but by the power of an endless life. [17] For the witness is: "You are a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek." [18] On the one hand, the earlier commandment is annulled because it was weak and of no use [19] (for the law brought nothing to perfection); on the other hand, a better hope is introduced, by which we come near to God. [20] And inasmuch as it was not without an oath that he was made priest— [21] (for those others became priests without an oath, but he with an oath, through the one who said to him, "The Lord has sworn and will not go back on it: 'You are a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek.'") [22] to that extent Jesus has become the guarantee of a better covenant. [23] Moreover, the others were made priests in great numbers, because death hindered them from remaining; [24] but he holds his priesthood permanently, because he abides forever. [25] That is why he is also able to save to the uttermost those who approach God through him, since he is always alive to plead on their behalf. [26] It was fitting for us to have such a high priest, holy, guileless, undefiled, separated from sinners and become higher than the heavens, [27] who has no need, as the high priests did, to offer up sacrifices daily, first on account of his own sins and then those of the people; for this he did once and for all by offering himself up. [28] For the law sets up as high priests men who are weak, but the word of the oath that came after the law sets up a Son made perfect forever.

CHAPTER 8

[1] Now here is the sum of what we are saying: we have a high priest of this kind, who has taken his seat at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens, [2] a minister of the holy things and of the true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched and not man. [3] For every high priest is installed to present gifts and sacrifices; hence it is necessary that this one also has something to present. [4] Were he on earth, he would not even be a priest, since there are those who offer the gifts according to the law, [5] who serve a sketch and shadow of the heavenly things, just as Moses was instructed by God when he was about to complete the tabernacle: "See," he says, "that you make all things in keeping with the pattern shown to you on the mountain." [6] But now he has obtained a ministry more excellent, by as much as he is mediator of a better covenant, which has been given legal force on better promises. [7] For if that first covenant had been without fault, there would have been no occasion to look for a second. [8] For God finds fault with them when he says: "Behold, days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will bring about a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah. [9] not according to the covenant I made with their fathers on the day I took hold of their hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt; for they did not abide in my covenant, and I disregarded them, says the Lord. [10] For this is the covenant I will covenant with the house of Israel after those days, says the Lord: putting my laws into their understanding, I will also write them upon their hearts; and I will be to them a God, and they will be to me a people. [11] And they will by no means teach, each one his fellow citizen or his brother, saying, 'Know the Lord,' because they will all know me, from the least to the greatest. [12] For I will be gracious toward their wrongdoing, and I will never again call to mind their sins and their lawless acts." [13] By speaking of a "new" covenant, he has treated the first as old; and what is growing old and aging will soon vanish.

CHAPTER 9

[1] The first covenant, then, also had its regulations for worship and its sanctuary belonging to this world. [2] For a tabernacle was constructed, the first one, in which were the lampstand, the table and the presentation of the loaves; it is called the Holy Place. [3] And past the second veil was the tabernacle called the Holy of Holies, [4] containing the golden censer and the ark of the covenant, covered with gold all over; in it were the golden pot holding the manna, Aaron's staff that had sprouted, and the tablets of the covenant. [5] and over it the cherubim of glory overshadowing the mercy seat—things of which we cannot now speak one by one. [] [6] With these things arranged in this way, the priests go continually into the first room of the tabernacle to carry out their duties of worship, [7] but into the second only the high priest, once a year, and not without blood, which he presents for himself and for the errors of the people. [8] The Holy Spirit signifies by this that the way into the holies had not yet been revealed while the first tabernacle still had its standing, [9] which is a parable for the present time, in which gifts and sacrifices are offered that cannot, as to conscience, make the worshiper perfect, [10] resting only on foods and drinks and various washings, ordinances of the flesh imposed until a time of correction. [11] But Christ, having arrived as high priest of the good things to come, by way of the greater and more complete tabernacle, not handmade, that is, not of this creation, [12] entered once for all into the holies, not through the blood of goats and calves but through his own blood, having found eternal redemption. [13] For if the blood of bulls and goats, and a heifer's ashes sprinkled on the defiled, sanctify to the cleanness of the flesh, [14] how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit presented himself without blemish to God, cleanse your conscience from dead works for the service of the living God? [15] That is why he is mediator of a new covenant: a death has taken place that redeems from the transgressions committed under the first covenant, so that those who have been called may receive the promise of the eternal inheritance. [16] For where a testament exists, the death of the testator must be brought forward; [] [17] for a testament is valid upon death, since it is never in force while the testator is living. [18] Therefore not even the first was inaugurated without blood. [19] For after every command had been spoken by Moses to all the people according to the law, he took the blood of the calves and goats, with water and scarlet wool and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book and all the people, [20] and said, "This is the blood of the covenant that God has laid on you as a command." [21] And the tabernacle too, and all the vessels of the service, he likewise sprinkled with the blood. [22] Indeed, by the law almost everything is cleansed with blood, and apart from the shedding of blood forgiveness does not come about. [23] It was needful, then, that the patterns of the things in the heavens be cleansed with these, but the heavenly things themselves with sacrifices better than these. [24] For it was not into holies made by hand, mere counterparts of the true, that Christ entered, but into heaven itself, now to be manifested before the face of God for us; [25] nor did he enter to offer himself repeatedly, as the high priest goes into the holies year by year with blood not his own; [26] else he would have had to suffer often since the foundation of the world. But now, once, at the consummation of the ages, he has been revealed to abolish sin through the sacrifice of himself. [27] And as it is laid up for men to die once, and after that, judgment, [28] so also Christ, offered once to carry the sins of many, will be seen a second time, without sin, by those who eagerly wait for him, for salvation.

CHAPTER 10

[1] For the law, holding a shadow of the good things to come and not the very image of the things, can never by the same yearly sacrifices, which they offer without end, make perfect those who approach. [2] Would they not otherwise have stopped being offered, since the worshipers, once cleansed, would have had no conscience of sins anymore? [3] But in them there is a remembering of sins year by year; [4] for the blood of bulls and goats is powerless to take away sins. [5] Therefore, as he comes into the world, he says, "Sacrifice and offering you did not wish, but a body you made ready for me; [6] You took no delight in burnt offerings and offerings for sin. [7] Then I said, 'See, I come—in the heading of the book it is written of me—to do your will, O God.'" [8] Having said above, "Sacrifice and offering and burnt offerings and offerings for sin you neither wanted nor took pleasure in"—the very things offered under the law— [9] he then has said, "See, I come to do your will, O God." He removes the first so as to set up the second. [10] It is by this will that we have been sanctified, through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all. [11] Every priest, moreover, stands ministering daily and repeatedly bringing the same sacrifices, which never have power to strip away sins. [12] But Christ offered one sacrifice for sins for all time and then sat down at God's right hand, [13] where from now on he waits until his enemies are placed as a footstool under his feet. [14] For with a single offering he has perfected for all time those who are being sanctified. [15] The Holy Spirit is also our witness; for after having said beforehand, [16] "This is the covenant I will covenant with them after those days, says the Lord: putting my laws upon their hearts, I will also write them on their minds," [17] he says, "And their sins and their lawless acts I will not remember any longer." [18] Now where there is forgiveness of these, there is no longer any offering for sin. [19] Having, then, brothers, boldness to go into the holies by the blood of Jesus, [20] by the way he dedicated for us, newly made and living, through the veil, that is, his flesh, [21] and since we have a great priest over the house of God, [22] let us approach with a true heart in fullness of faith, our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience and our bodies bathed in pure water. [23] Let us keep the confession of our hope steady and unbending, for faithful is the one who promised. [24] And let us pay attention to one another, to provoke love and good works, [25] not forsaking our own assembling together, as is the way of some, but exhorting, and so much the more as you see the Day drawing near. [26] For if we sin willingly after receiving the full knowledge of the truth, there is no sacrifice for sins remaining, [27] but a fearful kind of waiting for judgment and a fury of fire that is about to devour the adversaries. [28] A man who disregarded the law of Moses dies without compassion on the word of two or three witnesses. [29] Of how much worse punishment, do you think, will he be judged worthy who has trodden down the Son of God, has counted common the blood of the covenant by which he was sanctified, and has outraged the Spirit of grace? [30] For we know the one who said, "Vengeance belongs to me; I will pay back, says the Lord," and again, "The Lord will judge his people." [31] It is a terrifying thing to fall into the hands of the living God. [32] But recall the former days in which, after being enlightened, you endured a great fight of sufferings, [33] on the one hand being made a spectacle through reproaches and afflictions, and on the other becoming companions of those who were living through such things. [34] For you had compassion on me in my chains, and you took the plundering of your goods with joy, knowing that you have in yourselves a better possession in heaven, and one that abides. [*] [35] Do not, then, cast away your boldness, which holds a great reward. [36] For you have need of endurance, so that after doing the will of God you may carry off the promise. [37] "For yet a very little while, and the coming one will come and will not be slow. [38] But the just shall live by faith; and if he shrinks back, my soul takes no pleasure in him." [39] But we are not of the drawing back that leads to ruin, but of the faith that leads to the preserving of the soul.

CHAPTER 11

[1] Faith is the firm ground of what we hope for, the proof of realities we do not see. [2] For by it the people of old received God's approval. [3] By faith we perceive that the ages were fashioned by God's word, so that what we see did not come to be out of things that appear. [4] By faith Abel offered to God a fuller sacrifice than Cain, and by it he received the testimony that he was righteous, God bearing witness over his gifts; and by it, having died, he speaks still. [5] By faith Enoch was transferred so as not to see death, and he was not to be found, since God had transferred him; for before his removal he had this testimony, that he had pleased God. [6] And apart from faith no one can be pleasing to him; for whoever draws near to God must believe that he is, and that he proves to be the rewarder of those who seek him out. [7] By faith Noah, having been warned by God about what was still unseen, in reverent awe constructed an ark to save his house; by this he condemned the world and became heir of the righteousness that accords with faith. [8] By faith Abraham obeyed when he was called to set out for a place he was to receive as an inheritance; and he set out without knowing where he was going. [9] By faith he lived as a foreigner in the land of promise, as though in a land not his own, dwelling in tents with Isaac and Jacob, who shared the same promise as heirs. [10] for he was awaiting the city that has the foundations, of which God is the craftsman and maker. [11] By faith Sarah herself also received power to conceive seed, and she bore a child beyond the normal age, because she judged the one who had promised to be faithful. [12] So from one man—and he as good as dead—there were born as many as the stars of the sky in number, and as the sand along the edge of the sea, beyond counting. [13] These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them from afar and been persuaded of them and embraced them, they confessed that they were strangers and temporary residents on the earth. [14] For those who speak like this make it clear that they are seeking a fatherland. [15] And if they had kept in mind the one they had come out from, they would have had time to turn back. [16] But in fact they desire a better one, that is, a heavenly one. For this reason God is not ashamed of them, to be called their God, since he has prepared a city for them. [17] By faith Abraham, when he was put to the test, offered up Isaac; he who had received the promises was ready to offer his only begotten son, [18] the one to whom it had been said, "Through Isaac your seed will be named." [19] He reasoned that God could even raise him from the dead, and in a figure, he did receive him back from there. [20] By faith Isaac invoked blessings on Jacob and Esau with regard to things to come. [21] By faith Jacob, at the point of death, blessed each of the sons of Joseph, and bowed down in worship upon the head of his staff. [22] By faith Joseph, as his life was ending, called to mind the going out of the children of Israel and gave command concerning his bones. [23] By faith Moses, after his birth, was hidden for three months by his parents, because they saw that the child was beautiful, and they were not afraid of the king's decree. [24] By faith Moses, once he was grown, declined to be called a son of Pharaoh's daughter, [25] choosing rather to share ill-treatment with the people of God than to have the brief enjoyment of sin, [26] esteeming the reproach of Christ greater wealth than the treasures in Egypt, for he was looking away to the reward. [27] By faith he forsook Egypt, not fearing the king's rage, for he stood firm as though he saw the Invisible One. [28] By faith he has kept the Passover and the pouring of the blood, so that the one destroying the firstborn would not touch them. [29] By faith they went through the Red Sea as over dry ground, and the Egyptians, attempting it, were swallowed up. [30] By faith the walls of Jericho fell after being encircled for seven days. [31] By faith Rahab the prostitute did not perish along with the disobedient, because she had given the spies a friendly welcome. [32] And why should I go on? Time would give out if I were to recount Gideon, Barak, Samson and Jephthah, David as well, and Samuel and the prophets, [33] who through faith overcame kingdoms, did what was right, won promises, stopped the mouths of lions, [34] extinguished the power of fire, fled from the edge of the sword, were given strength out of weakness, grew mighty in war, turned back armies of foreigners. [35] Women got their dead back by resurrection; but others were beaten to death, not accepting the release offered them, so that they might attain a better resurrection. [36] Others again experienced mockery and whips, and further, bonds and prison. [37] They were stoned, they were sawn apart, they were tested, they died by the slaughter of the sword; they roamed about in sheepskins and goatskins, in want, in affliction, in ill-treatment— [38] men the world was not worthy of—straying in deserts and on mountains, in caves and in the holes of the earth. [39] And though these all had testimony borne to them through their faith, they did not obtain the promise, [40] since God had provided something better concerning us, that they should not be made perfect apart from us.

CHAPTER 12

[1] So then, with so great a cloud of witnesses encircling us, let us too strip off every weight and the sin that hems us in on every side, and let us run with patience the contest that lies ahead of us, [2] looking away to Jesus, the founder and finisher of our faith, who in exchange for the joy set before him bore the cross, thinking nothing of its shame, and is seated at the right hand of God's throne. [3] Weigh carefully the one who endured such hostility from sinners against himself, so that you may not become weary, fainting in your souls. [4] Not yet have you stood against sin, wrestling with it, to the point of blood. [5] And have you forgotten the encouragement that speaks to you as to sons? "My son, do not treat lightly the Lord's discipline, and do not give up when he corrects you; [6] for the Lord disciplines the one he loves, and whips every son he accepts." [7] If you endure discipline, God is dealing with you as with sons; for who is a son whom a father does not discipline? [8] But if you are left without discipline, which all have shared, then you are illegitimate children and not sons. [9] Besides, we had fathers in the flesh to correct us, and we respected them; should we not much more be subject to the Father of spirits and live? [10] They, for a few days, corrected us as seemed right to them, but he corrects us for our benefit, to have us partake of his holiness. [11] All discipline, for the present, seems a matter not of joy but of sorrow; afterward, though, to those exercised by it, it pays back the peaceful fruit of righteousness. [12] So raise your drooping hands and steady your weak knees, [13] and make straight tracks for your feet, so that what is lame may not be put out of joint but rather be healed. [14] Seek peace with everyone, and the holiness without which no one will see the Lord. [15] Watch over one another, lest anyone fail to obtain the grace of God, lest some root of bitterness spring up and cause disturbance, and through it many be defiled; [16] lest anyone be a fornicator or profane, like Esau, who gave up his birthright for one meal. [17] For you know that later on, when he wished to inherit the blessing, he was turned away; he found no opportunity for repentance, although he sought the blessing with tears. [18] For you have not drawn near to a mountain that may be felt with the hand, and to burning fire, and to blackness and darkness and tempest, [19] and to the sound of a trumpet and a voice uttering words, a voice which those who heard begged that no further message be given them, [20] for they could not bear the order: "Even if a beast touches the mountain, it shall be stoned or struck through with a dart." [21] So fearful was the sight that Moses said, "I am terrified and trembling." [22] No, you have come to Mount Zion, to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to tens of thousands of angels, [23] to the general assembly and church of the firstborn, who are registered in the heavens, and to God the Judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made perfect,* [24] and to Jesus, the mediator of a fresh covenant, and to the blood of sprinkling, which speaks better than Abel's. [25] Beware of refusing the one who speaks. For if those men did not get away when they rejected the one who gave them oracles on earth, much less shall we, who turn from the one who speaks from heaven. [26] His voice shook the earth then; but now he has given this promise: "Yet once more I shake not the earth only, but heaven too." [27] Now the phrase "Yet once more" makes plain the removal of the things being shaken, as of things that were made, so that the things not shaken may abide. [28] Since, then, we are receiving a kingdom that is unshakable, let us have grace, through which we may serve God acceptably, with modesty and reverent fear; [29] for our God is indeed a fire that consumes.

CHAPTER 13

[1] Let love for the brothers abide. [2] Do not neglect hospitality to strangers, for in this way some have had angels as guests without realizing it. [3] Remember the prisoners as though bound with them, and those who suffer ill-treatment, as being yourselves also in the body. [4] Marriage is honorable in every respect, and the bed undefiled; but fornicators and adulterers God will judge. [5] Let your conduct be free from the love of money, being satisfied with what you have; for he himself has said, "I will never let go of you, and I will never abandon you," [6] so that we can take courage and say, "The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear; what will man do to me?" [7] Call to mind those who led you, who spoke the word of God to you; observe the outcome of their way of life, and imitate their faith. [8] Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and to the ages. [9] Do not be carried about by varied and foreign teachings, for it is a good thing for the heart to be established by grace, not by foods, from which those who walked in them gained nothing. [10] We have an altar from which those who serve the tabernacle have no authority to eat. [11] For the bodies of the animals whose blood the high priest brings into the holy place as an offering for sin are burned outside the camp. [12] So Jesus too suffered outside the gate, in order to sanctify the people by his own blood. [13] So let us go out to him outside the camp, carrying his reproach. [14] For we have here no abiding city, but we are seeking the one to come. [15] Through him, then, let us bring up to God a sacrifice of praise continually, that is, the fruit of lips acknowledging his name. [16] And do not neglect doing good and sharing, for in sacrifices like these God takes pleasure. [17] Obey your leaders and defer to them, for they keep watch over your souls as men who will have to give an account. Let them do this with joy and not with groaning, for that would be of no advantage to you. [18] Pray for us; for we are persuaded that we have a good conscience, wanting to conduct ourselves rightly in all things. [19] I urge you all the more earnestly to pray, so that I may be given back to you sooner. [20] May the God of peace, who brought up from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the eternal covenant, [21] make you complete in every good work so that you may do his will, and may he work in you what is pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen. [22] I urge you, brothers, to put up with this word of exhortation, for I have written to you only briefly. [23] You should know that our brother Timothy has been released. If he comes soon, I will see you together with him. [24] Greet all your leaders and all the saints.

Those from Italy greet you. [25] Grace be with all of you. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] James, a servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve tribes in the dispersion: greetings. [2] Count it all joy, my brothers, when you fall into trials of every sort, [3] knowing that the proving of your faith works out endurance. [4] And let endurance have its full effect, so that you may be perfect and entire, with nothing missing. [5] If any of you is lacking in wisdom, let him ask it of God, who gives to all freely and without reproach, and it will be given him. [6] But let him ask in faith, not wavering at all; for whoever wavers resembles a surge of the sea, driven by the wind and thrown about. [7] That man should not think he will receive anything at all from the Lord— [8] a double-souled man, unsettled in all his ways. [9] Let the brother of low degree boast in his exaltation, [10] and the rich one in his humbling, because like a flower of the field he will pass away. [11] For the sun rises with its burning heat and parches the grass; its flower drops, and the grace of its look is lost. So too will the rich man fade in the midst of his pursuits. [12] Blessed is the man who endures trial; for when he has been approved, he will receive the crown of life, which the Lord promised to those who love him. [13] Let no one who is tempted say, "My temptation comes from God." For God is not open to temptation by evil, and he tempts no one himself. [14] But each one is tempted by his own desire, which draws him off and baits him. [15] Desire then conceives and bears sin; and sin, when it has run its full course, brings forth death. [16] Do not be led astray, my beloved brothers. [17] Every good giving and every perfect gift is from above, descending from the Father of lights, with whom there is no alteration or shadow due to turning. [18] Of his own will he brought us forth by the word of truth, so that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures. [19] So, my beloved brothers, let every man be fast to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath; [20] for a man's wrath does not accomplish the righteousness of God. [21] Strip off, then, all filthiness and overflow of evil, and in meekness accept the implanted word, which is able to save your souls. [22] Be doers of the word, and not hearers only who mislead themselves. [23] For if anyone is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he is like a man who studies his natural face in a mirror: [24] he studies himself and goes his way, and straightaway he has forgotten what sort of man he was. [25] But the one who has looked closely into the perfect law of liberty and has remained in it, becoming no forgetful hearer but a doer of work, that one will be blessed in his doing. [26] If anyone among you supposes he is religious, yet does not bridle his tongue but deceives his own heart, that man's religion is empty. [27] Religion pure and undefiled before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their trouble, and to keep oneself unspotted by the world.

CHAPTER 2

[1] My brothers, do not hold the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, together with respect of persons. [2] For if there comes into your synagogue a man with gold rings on his fingers, in bright clothing, and there also comes in a poor man in dirty clothing, [3] and you fix your eyes on the one who wears the bright clothing and say, "You sit here in a good place," but to the poor man you say, "You stand there," or, "Sit here below my footstool," [4] have you not drawn distinctions among yourselves and become judges whose reasonings are evil? [5] Listen, my beloved brothers. Did not God choose the poor of this world, rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom that he promised to those who love him? [6] But you have treated the poor man with dishonor. Is it not the rich who lord it over you, and they themselves who drag you before the courts? [7] Is it not they who blaspheme the worthy name that was called upon you? [8] If, however, you carry out the royal law as the Scripture has it, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself," you do well. [9] But if you favor some persons over others, you are working sin, and you stand convicted by the law as transgressors. [10] For whoever keeps the law as a whole but trips at one point has become liable for all of it. [11] For he who said, "Do not commit adultery," said too, "Do not kill." Now if you do not commit adultery but do kill, you have become a transgressor of the law. [12] So speak and so act as men about to be judged by the law of liberty. [13] For the judgment will be without mercy to the one who has done no mercy; mercy exults over judgment. [14] What use is it, my brothers, if someone says he has faith but does not have works? That faith cannot save him, can it? [15] If a brother or a sister is without clothing and short of daily food, [16] and someone from among you says to them, "Go your way in peace, be warm and be fed," but you do not give them the things the body requires, what use is that? [17] Even so faith, if it does not have works, is dead in itself. [18] But someone will say, "You have faith, and I have works." Show me your faith without your works, and I will show you my faith by my works. [*] [19] You believe that God is one; you do well. The demons also believe, and they shiver. [20] But are you willing to recognize, you hollow man, that faith apart from works is dead? [21] Abraham our father—was he not justified by works when he brought Isaac his son up onto the altar? [22] You see that faith was cooperating with his works, and out of the works faith was perfected; [23] and the Scripture was fulfilled which says, "Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him for righteousness," and he was called the friend of God. [24] You see, then, that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only. [25] And in the same way Rahab the harlot too—was she not justified by works when she welcomed the messengers and sent them out by another road? [26] For as the body apart from the spirit is dead, so also faith apart from works is dead.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Do not become teachers in large numbers, my brothers, knowing that we will receive the stricter judgment. [2] For in many things we all trip. If someone does not trip in speech, he is a mature man, able to rein in the whole body too. [3] See, we put bits into horses' mouths to make them obey us, and we steer their whole body. [4] Look at the ships also: they are so big, and are pushed along by hard winds, yet they are turned by a very small rudder wherever the impulse of the one steering decides. [5] In the same way the tongue is a small member, yet it boasts of great things. See how great a mass of wood a little fire sets ablaze! [6] The tongue too is a fire, a world of unrighteousness. Among our members the tongue is so placed that it stains the whole body and sets aflame the course of life, and it is set aflame by hell.* [7] For every kind of wild animal and bird, of creeping thing and creature of the sea, is tamed and has been tamed by the human race, [8] but the tongue no one among men can subdue; it is an evil that will not be held still, full of death-bringing venom. [9] By it we bless God and the Father, and by it we curse men who were made after God's likeness. [10] From one and the same mouth proceed blessing and curse. My brothers, these things should not be so. [11] Does a spring send out from the same opening both the sweet and the bitter? [12] My brothers, can a fig tree produce olives, or a vine figs? Neither can any spring give both salty and sweet water. [13] Who is wise and understanding among you? By his good way of life let him show his works in the meekness that belongs to wisdom. [14] But if you have bitter zeal and party spirit in your heart, do not exult and lie against the truth. [15] This is not the wisdom that descends from above; it is of the earth, of the natural man, of demons. [16] For where zeal and party spirit are found, there are unrest and every vile deed. [17] The wisdom from above, however, is in the first place pure, then peaceable, reasonable, ready to be persuaded, overflowing with mercy and good fruits, undivided, unfeigned. [18] And the fruit that is righteousness is sown in peace for those who make peace.

CHAPTER 4

[1] What is the source of the wars and the battles among you? Is it not here—your pleasures that are at war in your members? [2] You crave and do not possess; you kill and are envious and cannot get; you battle and make war. Yet you do not possess, because you do not ask. [3] You ask and do not receive, because you ask wrongly, so as to squander it on your pleasures. [4] You adulterers and adulteresses, do you not know that love of the world is enmity with God? Whoever, then, wishes to be the world's friend sets himself up as God's enemy. [5] Or do you think the Scripture speaks for nothing? The spirit that has made its dwelling in us longs to the point of envy.* [6] But he gives more grace. So it says, "God sets himself against the proud, but to the humble he gives grace." [7] Be subject, then, to God. Stand up against the devil, and he will run from you. [8] Draw close to God, and he will draw close to you. Cleanse your hands, sinners, and make your hearts chaste, you double-souled. [9] Be afflicted, mourn and weep; let your laughter be changed to sorrow and your joy to heaviness. [10] Bring yourselves low before the Lord, and he will raise you up. [11] Brothers, do not speak against one another. Whoever speaks against a brother or judges his brother speaks against the law and judges the law; and if you judge the law, you are not a doer of the law but its judge. [12] There is one Lawgiver, the one who has power to save and to destroy. But who are you, that you judge another? [13] Come now, you who say, "Today or tomorrow we will journey to such and such a city and pass a year there, and we will trade and gain"— [14] you who do not know what tomorrow holds. For of what sort is your life? It is a vapor appearing for a little and afterward vanishing. [15] Rather than that, you ought to say, "If the Lord is willing, we will both live and do this or that." [16] But now you glory in your pretensions; every such glorying is evil. [17] So whoever knows the right thing to do and does not do it, for him it is sin.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Come now, you rich, weep and howl over the miseries that are coming upon you. [2] Your riches have decayed, and your garments have become moth-eaten. [3] Your gold and silver are rusted through, and their rust will testify against you and devour your flesh like fire. It is in the last days that you have laid up treasure. [4] Behold, the pay of the workmen who reaped your fields, of which you have defrauded them, cries out; and the cries of those who harvested have come into the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth.* [5] You have lived softly on the earth and indulged yourselves; you have fattened your hearts as in a day of slaughter. [6] You have condemned, you have killed the righteous one; he offers you no resistance. [7] Have patience, therefore, brothers, until the coming of the Lord. Look: the farmer waits for the precious fruit of the ground, being patient over it until it gets the early and the latter rain. [8] You too be patient; make your hearts firm, because the coming of the Lord has drawn near. [9] Brothers, do not groan against one another, so that you will not be condemned. See, the Judge is standing at the doors. [10] My brothers, take as a pattern of suffering hardship and of patience the prophets who spoke in the Lord's name. [11] See, we call blessed those who endure. You have heard of Job's endurance and have seen the outcome the Lord gave, for the Lord is full of pity and compassionate. [12] Above all, my brothers, do not swear, either by heaven or by earth or by any other oath. Let your yes be yes and your no be no, so that you do not fall into condemnation.* [13] Is anyone among you suffering? He should pray. Is anyone cheerful? He should sing praise. [14] Is anyone among you weak with illness? Let him call to himself the elders of the church, and let them pray over him after anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord. [15] And the prayer of faith will save the one who is ailing, and the Lord will raise him up; and if he has committed sins, he will be forgiven. [16] Confess your faults to one another and pray for one another, so that you may be healed. The prayer of a righteous man, when it is at work, has great strength. [17] Elijah was a man with a nature like ours, and he prayed with prayer that it might not rain, and for three years and six months it did not rain on the earth. [18] And he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth sprouted its fruit. [19]

Brothers, if any among you is led astray from the truth and someone turns him around, [20] let him be sure that whoever turns a sinner back from his wandering way will save a soul from death and will cover a multitude of sins.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Peter, apostle of Jesus Christ, to the chosen who live as exiles scattered through Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia, [2] chosen in keeping with the foreknowledge of God the Father, by the sanctifying of the Spirit, for obedience to Jesus Christ and for sprinkling with his blood: may grace and peace be yours in abundance. [3] Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who out of his great mercy has begotten us again for a living hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from among the dead, [4] for an inheritance incorruptible, unstained and unfading, held in keeping in the heavens for you, [5] who are protected by the power of God through faith for a salvation prepared to be disclosed in the last season. [6] In this you are glad with great gladness, even if now, for a short while and as need may be, you have been made to grieve by many-sided trials, [7] so that your faith, once proved—a thing much more costly than gold that perishes, though gold too is proved by fire—may be found to your praise and honor and glory at the unveiling of Jesus Christ. [8] Not having seen him, you love him; and in him, though you do not see him at present, you trust and leap for joy with a gladness too deep for speech and glorified, [9] as you carry off the goal of your faith, the salvation of your souls. [10] It was about this salvation that the prophets made careful search and investigation, they who prophesied about the grace that was to come to you, [11] inquiring what time or what sort of season the Spirit of Christ within them was indicating when he foretold the sufferings destined for Christ and the glories after them. [12] To them it was disclosed that it was not for their own sake but for ours that they were handling the things now reported to you by those who proclaimed the gospel to you with the Holy Spirit sent forth from heaven—things the angels yearn to stoop and look into. [13] So, with the loins of your mind girded up and staying sober, put your hope completely on the grace being brought to you when Jesus Christ is revealed. [14] Like children of obedience, do not mold yourselves to the desires that ruled you earlier in your ignorance, [15] but after the pattern of the Holy One who called you, become holy yourselves in every part of your behavior, [16] for it is written, "Be holy, for I am holy." [17] And if you address as Father the one who judges each one's work without favoritism, spend the time of your sojourn in reverent fear, [18] aware that it was not with things that decay, silver or gold, that you were set free from the empty manner of life passed down from your fathers, [19] but by the costly blood of Christ, as of a lamb unblemished and spotless. [20] He was marked out beforehand before the world was founded, but has appeared in these last times on your account, [21] who by him have come to believe in God, who raised him from among the dead and gave him glory, so that your faith and hope might be fixed on God. [22] Now that you have purified your souls in obedience to the truth through the Spirit, resulting in unfeigned love for the brothers, love one another intensely, from a clean heart, [23] having been begotten again not from seed that perishes but from seed that does not, through the word of God, which lives and abides forever. [24] Because all flesh is as grass, and all man's glory as the bloom of grass. The grass has withered, and its bloom has fallen away, [25] but the word of the Lord abides forever. And this is the word that was announced to you as good news.

CHAPTER 2

[1] Rid yourselves, then, of all wickedness and all trickery, of pretenses and jealousies and backbiting of every sort, [2] and as babies just born, desire the unmixed milk of the word, so that by it you may grow, [3] if in fact you have tasted that the Lord is kind. [4] Drawing near to him, a living stone, cast aside indeed by men but with God chosen and held in honor, [5] you too, as living stones, are being built into a spiritual house, a holy priesthood, to bring up spiritual sacrifices well-pleasing to God through Jesus Christ. [6] Hence Scripture contains this: "Behold, I set in Zion a chief cornerstone, chosen, highly valued; and the one who believes in him will by no means be disgraced." [7] For you who believe, then, he is precious; but for the disobedient, "The stone that the builders threw out has become the head of the corner,"* [8] and "a stone to strike against and a rock to fall over." They stumble, being disobedient to the word, and to this they were also appointed. [9] But you are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people God has acquired, so that you may make known the virtues of the one who called you out of darkness into his astonishing light. [10] You were at one time no people, but are now the people of God; you were those who had not been shown mercy, but now have been shown mercy. [11] Beloved, I appeal to you as aliens and temporary residents: keep away from fleshly cravings, which campaign against the soul. [12] Keep your behavior among the Gentiles upright, so that in the very matter in which they speak against you as wrongdoers, they may, from watching your good works, glorify God in the day of visitation. [13] Submit to every human ordinance for the Lord's sake, whether to the king as the one over all, [14] or to governors as men sent through him to punish wrongdoers and to commend those who do good. [15] For such is the will of God: that by doing good you muzzle the ignorance of senseless men— [16] as free men, yet not holding your freedom as a veil for wickedness, but as God's servants. [17] Honor all people. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king. [18] House servants, submit to your masters in all fear, not only to the kind and fair-minded but to the perverse as well. [19] For this finds favor, if because of his conscience before God a man puts up with grief, suffering wrongfully. [20] For what renown is there if you sin and are beaten and bear it patiently? But if you do good and suffer and bear it patiently, this finds favor with God. [21] It was for this that you were called, since Christ also suffered on our behalf, leaving behind a model for us, so that you might walk in his tracks. [22] He did no sin, and no deceit was found on his lips. [23] Being abused, he did not return abuse; suffering, he made no threats, but committed his cause to the one who judges righteously. [24] He himself carried up our sins in his own body onto the tree, so that we, having parted from sins, might live for righteousness; by his stripe you were healed. [25] For you were like sheep wandering off, but now you have been turned back to the Shepherd and Guardian of your souls.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Likewise, you wives, be submissive to your own husbands, so that even if some of them do not obey the word, they may be won over without a word by the way their wives live, [2] as they watch your chaste conduct joined with fear. [3] Let your adorning not be the outward kind—braiding the hair, hanging on of gold, or wearing of garments— [4] but the hidden person of the heart, in the imperishable quality of a meek and tranquil spirit, which in God's eyes is of great price. [5] For in this manner, long ago, the holy women also, who set their hope on God, made themselves beautiful, being under their own husbands, [6] as Sarah was obedient to Abraham, calling him lord; and you have become her daughters, as long as you do good and are not terrified by any alarm. [7] Husbands, likewise, dwell with them in accordance with knowledge, giving honor to the woman as to a weaker vessel, as being co-heirs of the grace of life, so that your prayers are not obstructed. [8] In conclusion, be all of one mind, sharing in each other's feelings, full of brotherly love, tender of heart, courteous, [9] not giving back evil in exchange for evil, or reviling in exchange for reviling, but blessing in return, knowing that you were called to this, to inherit a blessing. [10] For "the one who wishes to love life and see good days, let him restrain his tongue from evil and his lips from speaking deceit; [11] let him turn aside from evil and do good, let him seek peace and go after it. [12] For the Lord's eyes are upon the righteous, and his ears are turned to their pleading; but the Lord's face is against those who do evil." [13] And who will do you harm if you become imitators of the good? [14] But even should you suffer because of righteousness, you are blessed. Do not fear what they fear, and do not be disturbed, [15] but sanctify the Lord God in your hearts, and always stand ready with a defense for everyone who asks you for an account of the hope that is in you, with meekness and fear, [16] keeping a good conscience, so that, in the very thing in which they speak against you as evildoers, those who abuse your good behavior in Christ may be put to shame. [17] For it is better, if the will of God should so will, to suffer for doing right than for doing wrong. [18] For Christ also suffered for sins once, the just on behalf of the unjust, so as to lead us to God, being put to death in the flesh but quickened by the Spirit, [19] in whom he also went and made proclamation to the spirits in prison, [20] who once were disobedient, when once the patience of God waited in the days of Noah while the ark was being built, in which a few, that is, eight souls, were brought safely through water. [] [21] The antitype of this, baptism, now saves us also—not a stripping off of filth from the flesh, but the appeal of a good conscience to God—through the resurrection of Jesus Christ, [] [22] who has passed into heaven and is at the right hand of God, angels and authorities and powers having been placed under him.

CHAPTER 4

[1] Since, then, Christ has suffered for us in the flesh, arm yourselves too with the same intent; for whoever has suffered in the flesh has ceased from sin, [2] so as to live the remaining time in the flesh no longer for human cravings but for the will of God. [3] For the time of our life already gone by is enough for us to have carried out what the Gentiles want, as we went on in debauchery, lusts, drunken bouts, carousing, drinking sessions and abominable idol worship. [4] Wherein they find it strange that you do not run along with them into the same overflow of dissipation, and they speak evil of you. [5] They will render account to him who stands ready to judge the living and the dead. [6] For this is why the gospel was proclaimed even to the dead, that though judged in the flesh as men are, they might live in the spirit as God does. [7] The end of all things has come near; so be clear-minded and keep sober for the sake of prayer. [8] Above everything, hold to an intense love for one another, because love will cover a multitude of sins. [9] Be hospitable toward one another, without murmuring. [10] As each has received a gift, use it to serve one another, like good managers of God's many-sided grace. [11] If anyone speaks, let him speak as uttering oracles of God; if anyone ministers, as out of the might that God furnishes, so that in everything God may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom belong the glory and the dominion forever and ever. Amen. [12] Beloved, do not be taken aback by the burning among you, which is happening to put you to the test, as though something foreign were befalling you; [13] but to the degree that you share Christ's sufferings, rejoice, so that at the revealing of his glory you may also rejoice and exult. [14] If you are reviled in the name of Christ, happy are you, because the Spirit of glory and of God is resting on you; on their side he is blasphemed, but on yours he is glorified. [15] Let none of you, however, suffer as a murderer, a thief, a wrongdoer, or a busybody in other men's affairs. [16] But if one suffers as a Christian, he should not feel shame; let him glorify God on this account. [17] Because the time has come for the judgment to begin from the house of God; and if first from us, what will be the end of those who refuse to obey the gospel of God? [18] And if the righteous man is saved only with difficulty, where will the ungodly man and the sinner show himself? [19] So then, let those who suffer according to God's will entrust their souls in well-doing to him, as to a faithful Creator.

CHAPTER 5

[1] The elders among you I exhort, as their fellow elder and witness of the sufferings of Christ, and as a sharer too in the glory that is going to be revealed: [2] tend the flock of God that is in your midst, exercising oversight not under constraint but voluntarily, not from greed for gain but with readiness of heart, [3] not as domineering over those in your charge, but as patterns for the flock. [4] And when the Chief Shepherd appears, you will carry off the unwithering crown of glory. [5] In like manner, younger men, be subject to the elders. Yes, all of you, being subject to one another, tie on humility like an apron; for "God sets himself against the arrogant, but grants grace to the lowly." [6] Be humbled, then, under the strong hand of God, so that he may exalt you at the right time, [7] throwing your whole anxiety upon him, since it matters to him what happens to you. [8] Be sober, be vigilant, because your adversary the devil goes about like a roaring lion, seeking someone he may gulp down. [9] Stand against him, solid in the faith, knowing that the very same sufferings are being accomplished in your brotherhood throughout the world. [10] Now may the God of all grace, who has called us into his everlasting glory by Christ Jesus, himself, after you have suffered a short time, make you complete, establish, strengthen and ground you. [11] His be the glory and the might forever and ever. Amen. [12] Through Silvanus, a faithful brother as I count him, I have written to you in a few words, encouraging you and bearing witness that this is the true grace of God, in which you stand. [13] She who is in Babylon, chosen along with you, sends you her greetings, and so does Mark, my son. [14] Greet each other with a kiss of love. Peace to all of you who are in Christ Jesus. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] Simon Peter, servant and apostle of Jesus Christ, to those who have been allotted a faith of the same standing as ours by the righteousness of our God and our Savior Jesus Christ: [*] [2] May grace and peace be increased to you in the full knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord. [3] His divine power has granted us everything that has to do with life and godliness, through the knowledge of him who called us by glory and virtue; [4] and through these he has granted us his precious and very great promises, so that through them you might come to share in the divine nature, having fled from the corruption that lust brings into the world. [5] For this very reason, bringing in every effort on your part, furnish your faith with virtue, and virtue with knowledge, [6] and knowledge with self-mastery, and self-mastery with patience, and patience with godliness, [7] and godliness with kindness toward the brothers, and kindness toward the brothers with love. [8] For if these things are present in you and are growing, they keep you from being useless or barren in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. [9] But the one in whom these things are missing is blind and cannot see far, having let slip from memory the cleansing of his former sins. [10] So, brothers, be all the more eager to make sure of your calling and your choosing; for if you practice these things, you will never fall. [11] For in this way you will be richly provided with an entrance into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. [12] That is why I will not be careless about reminding you of these things continually, although you know them and are made firm in the truth you now have. [13] I consider it right, as long as I am in this tent, to keep you awake by reminding you, [14] since I know that the laying aside of my tent will come quickly, as our Lord Jesus Christ made clear to me. [15] And I will take pains that after my departure you may have these things in remembrance at any time. [16] For it was not by following cleverly invented tales that we made known to you the power and the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ; we had seen his majesty with our own eyes. [17] For he received from God the Father honor and glory, when this voice was carried to him by the Majestic Glory: "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." [18] And we ourselves heard this voice carried from heaven, since we were with him on the holy mountain. [19] And we have the word of prophecy made firmer still, to which you do well to give your attention as to a lamp shining in a dark and dingy place, until day breaks and the morning star rises in your hearts. [20] Know this first of all: no prophecy of Scripture comes from anyone's own interpretation. [21] For no prophecy was ever carried in by human will, but holy men of God spoke as the Holy Spirit carried them along.

CHAPTER 2

[1] But there were also false prophets among the people, just as among you there will be false teachers, who will bring in on the side heresies that ruin, denying even the Master who bought them, and drawing on themselves swift destruction. [2] Many will follow their ruinous ways, and because of them the way of truth will be maligned. [3] In their greed they will exploit you with fabricated stories. Their sentence, pronounced long ago, is not idle, and their ruin is not asleep. [4] For if God did not spare angels when they sinned, but cast them into Tartarus and handed them over to chains of gloom, to be held for judgment; [] [5] and did not spare the ancient world, but he kept Noah, the eighth person, a herald of righteousness, when he brought a flood on a world of ungodly people; [] [6] and he reduced the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah to ashes and condemned them to overthrow, making them an example to those who would afterward live ungodly lives; [7] and he rescued righteous Lot, who was distressed by the unbridled conduct of lawless men— [8] for as that righteous man lived among them, day after day his righteous soul was racked by the lawless deeds he saw and heard— [9] then the Lord knows how to rescue the godly from trials and to keep the unrighteous under punishment for the day of judgment, [10] especially those who follow the flesh in polluting desire and look down on authority. Bold and arrogant, they do not tremble to blaspheme glories, [*] [11] whereas angels, though greater in might and power, do not pronounce a blasphemous judgment against them before the Lord. [12] But these people, like irrational animals, creatures of instinct born to be captured and destroyed, blaspheming in matters they know nothing about, will be destroyed in their own corruption, [13] and they will receive the reward of unrighteousness. They count it a pleasure to revel in the daytime. They are stains and blemishes, reveling in their deceptions while they feast with you. [14] Their eyes are full of adultery and never stop sinning; they entice unsteady souls; they have hearts trained in greed. Accursed children! [15] They have left the straight road and wandered off, following the road of Balaam son of Bosor, who loved the wages of wrongdoing [16] but was rebuked for his own lawbreaking: a dumb donkey spoke with a human voice and held back the prophet's madness. [17] These people are waterless springs and clouds driven by a gale; for them the gloom of darkness has been kept in store forever. [18] For by uttering high-sounding words of folly, they use the cravings of the flesh and sensuality to lure those who had truly escaped from people who live in error. [19] They promise them freedom while they themselves are slaves of corruption; for a man is enslaved to whatever overcomes him. [20] For if, after they have escaped the defilements of the world through knowing the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, they are again tangled up in them and overpowered, the last state has become worse for them than the first. [21] It would have been better for them never to have known the way of righteousness than, after knowing it, to turn their backs on the holy commandment delivered to them. [22] What the true proverb says has happened to them: "A dog goes back to its own vomit," and "A sow that has been washed goes back to rolling in the mud."

CHAPTER 3

[1] Beloved, this is now the second letter I am writing to you; in both I am stirring up your sincere mind by reminding you, [2] so that you will recall the words spoken in the past by the holy prophets, and the commandment of us, the apostles of the Lord and Savior. [3] Above all, understand this: in the last days scoffers will come, walking according to their own desires, [4] saying, "What has become of the promise of his coming? Ever since the fathers fell asleep, everything goes on as it has since the beginning of creation." [5] For they deliberately overlook this: that long ago, by the word of God, heavens existed and an earth formed out of water and by means of water, [6] and that by these the world of that time was deluged with water and perished. [7] But by the same word the heavens and earth that now exist are stored up for fire, being kept until the day of judgment and destruction of ungodly men. [8] But do not let this one fact escape your notice, beloved: with the Lord one day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years like one day. [9] The Lord is not slow about his promise, as some think of slowness, but he is patient toward us, not wishing for anyone to perish, but for all to come to repentance. [10] But the day of the Lord will come like a thief in the night. On it the heavens will pass away with a rushing noise, the elements will be burned up and dissolved, and the earth and the works in it will be burned up. [*] [11] Since all these things are to be dissolved in this way, what kind of people ought you to be in holy living and godliness, [12] as you wait for and hasten the coming of the day of God, because of which the heavens will be set on fire and dissolved, and the elements will melt in the heat? [13] But in keeping with his promise we are waiting for new heavens and a new earth, in which righteousness is at home. [14] So, beloved, since you are waiting for these things, make every effort to be found by him at peace, without spot or blemish. [15] And count the patience of our Lord as salvation, just as our beloved brother Paul also wrote to you according to the wisdom given him, [16] as he does in all his letters when he speaks in them of these matters. There are some things in them that are hard to understand, which the ignorant and unstable twist to their own destruction, as they do the other Scriptures. [17] You, then, beloved, since you have been forewarned, be on your guard so that you are not carried away by the error of lawless men and lose your own firm footing. [18] But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. To him be the glory both now and to the day of eternity. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] What was from the beginning, what we have heard, what we have seen with our own eyes, what we looked upon and our hands handled, concerning the Word of life— [] [2] and the life was revealed, and we have seen it and testify to it, and we announce to you the eternal life that was with the Father and was revealed to us— [3] what we have seen and heard we announce to you also, so that you too may share fellowship with us; and indeed our fellowship is with the Father and with his Son Jesus Christ. [4] We are writing these things to you so that your joy may be made complete. [] [5] This is the message we have heard from him and are announcing to you: God is light, and there is no darkness in him whatever. [6] If we say we have fellowship with him while walking in the darkness, we are lying and not doing the truth. [7] But if we walk in the light as he himself is in the light, we have fellowship with each other, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanses us from every sin. [8] If we say we have no sin, we are leading ourselves astray, and the truth is not in us. [9] If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just, so that he forgives us our sins and cleanses us from all unrighteousness. [10] If we say we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word has no place in us.

CHAPTER 2

[1] My little children, these things I am writing to you so that you may not sin. And should anyone sin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous. [] [2] And he is the propitiation for our sins, and not only for ours but also for the whole world's. [] [3] And this is how we know that we have come to know him: if we keep his commandments. [4] The one who says, "I have come to know him," but does not keep his commandments is a liar, and in him the truth is not. [5] But whoever keeps his word, truly in that one the love of God has been brought to completion. By this we know that we are in him. [6] The one who says he abides in him is himself bound to walk in the same way that he walked. [7] Brothers, it is no new commandment I am writing to you, but an old commandment that you have had from the start; the old commandment is the word you heard from the start. [8] And yet it is a new commandment I am writing to you, a thing that is true in him and in you, because the darkness is passing and the true light is already shining. [9] Whoever says he is in the light and hates his brother is still in the darkness right up to now. [10] Whoever loves his brother abides in the light, and there is nothing in him to make anyone stumble. [11] But whoever hates his brother is in the darkness and walks about in the darkness, and he does not know where he is heading, because the darkness has made his eyes blind. [12] I write to you, little children, because your sins have been forgiven you on account of his name. [13] I write to you, fathers, because you have come to know him who is from the beginning. I write to you, young men, because you have conquered the evil one. I write to you, little ones, because you have come to know the Father.* [14] I have written to you, fathers, because you have come to know him who is from the beginning. I have written to you, young men, because you are strong, and the word of God abides in you, and you have conquered the evil one. [15] Do not love the world, nor the things in the world. If anyone loves the world, the Father's love is not in him. [16] because all that is in the world, the craving of the flesh and the craving of the eyes and the arrogance of life, is not of the Father but is of the world. [17] The world and its desire are passing away, but whoever does God's will abides forever. [18] Children, it is the last hour. You heard that the antichrist is coming, and even now many antichrists have appeared; that is how we know it is the last hour. [19] They went out from among us, but they were not of us; for if they had been of us, they would have stayed on with us. But they went out so that it might be shown that not all are of us. [20] But you have an anointing from the Holy One, and you know everything. [21] I have not written to you because you do not know the truth, but because you do know it, and because no lie comes from the truth. [22] Who is the liar, if not the one who denies that Jesus is the Christ? This is the antichrist, the one who denies the Father and the Son. [23] Everyone who denies the Son does not have the Father either; he who confesses the Son has the Father too.* [24] As for you, let what you heard from the start abide in you. If what you heard from the start abides in you, you too will abide in the Son and in the Father. [25] And this is the promise that he himself made to us: the eternal life. [26] I have written these things to you about those who are leading you astray. [27] As for you, the anointing you received from him abides in you, and you have no need for anyone to teach you. But as the same anointing teaches you about everything, and is true and is no lie, so, just as it has taught you, you will abide in him. [28] And now, little children, abide in him, so that when he is revealed we may have boldness and not shrink from him in shame at his coming. [29] If you know that he is righteous, you know also that everyone who does righteousness has been born of him.

CHAPTER 3

[1] Look at the kind of love the Father has bestowed on us, that we should be called children of God! For this cause the world does not know us: because it did not know him. [2] Beloved, we are God's children now, and what we shall be has not yet been revealed. We know that when he is revealed we will be like him, because we will see him just as he is. [3] And everyone who holds this hope fixed on him purifies himself, as he is pure. [4] Everyone who practices sin practices lawlessness as well; sin is lawlessness. [5] And you know that he was made manifest to bear away our sins, and in him sin does not exist. [6] No one abiding in him sins; no one sinning has seen him or known him. [7] Little children, let no one deceive you. Whoever does righteousness is righteous, even as that one is righteous. [8] The one who practices sin is of the devil, for the devil has been sinning since the beginning. The Son of God appeared for this reason, to undo the works of the devil. [9] No one who has been born of God practices sin, because his seed abides in him; and he is not able to go on sinning, because he has been born of God. [10] In this the children of God and the children of the devil are made manifest: everyone who does not do righteousness is not of God, nor is he who does not love his brother. [11] For this is the message you heard from the start: that we should love one another. [12] We must not be like Cain, who was of the evil one and slaughtered his brother. And for what reason did he slaughter him? Because his own deeds were evil, while his brother's were righteous. [13] Do not wonder, my brothers, if the world hates you. [14] We know that we have crossed over out of death into life, because we love the brothers. Whoever does not love his brother abides in death. [15] Everyone who hates his brother is a murderer, and you know that no murderer has eternal life abiding in him. [16] In this we have come to know the love of God: that he laid down his life on our behalf; and we too are bound to lay down our lives on behalf of the brothers.* [17] But if anyone has the means of life in this world and sees his brother in need, yet closes his heart against him, how does the love of God abide in him? [18] My little children, let our love not be a matter of words or talk, but of action and truth. [19] And by this we know that we are of the truth, and will persuade our hearts before him; [20] for if our heart condemns us, God is greater than our heart, and he knows all things. [21] Beloved, if our heart does not condemn us, we have boldness before God, [22] and whatever we ask, we receive from him, because we keep his commandments and do what is pleasing in his eyes. [23] And this is his commandment, that we should believe the name of his Son Jesus Christ and love one another, just as he gave us the commandment. [24] The one who keeps his commandments abides in him, and he in him. And by this we know that he abides in us, from the Spirit he has given us.

CHAPTER 4

[1] Beloved, do not trust every spirit, but put the spirits to the test to find out whether they come from God, for many false prophets have gone out into the world. [2] By this you know the Spirit of God: every spirit that confesses that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is of God, [3] and every spirit that does not confess that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is not from God. This is the spirit of the antichrist; you have heard that it is coming, and it is in the world already now. [4] You are of God, little children, and have overcome them, for greater is he who is in you than he who is in the world. [5] They are of the world; that is why they speak as the world speaks, and the world hears them. [6] We are of God. Whoever knows God hears us; whoever is not of God does not hear us. From this we know the spirit of truth and the spirit of error. [7] Beloved, let us love one another, because love is from God, and everyone who loves has been begotten of God and knows God. [8] Whoever does not love has not known God, because God is love. [9] In this the love of God appeared among us: God sent his only begotten Son into the world so that through him we might have life. [10] In this is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us and sent his Son as propitiation for our sins. [11] Beloved, if God loved us in this way, we too are bound to love one another. [12] No one has ever beheld God. If we love one another, God abides in us and his love has been brought to completion in us. [13] By this we know that we abide in him and he in us, because he has given us from his Spirit. [14] And we have seen, and we testify, that the Father sent the Son to be Savior of the world. [15] If anyone confesses that Jesus is the Son of God, God abides in him and he in God. [16] And we have come to know and to believe the love God has toward us. God is love, and whoever abides in love abides in God, and God abides in him. [17] In this, love has been made complete among us, so that we may have boldness on the day of judgment: because as he is, so also are we in this world. [18] Fear has no place in love; rather, perfect love drives fear out, because fear involves punishment, and the one who fears has not been made complete in love. [19] We love him because he loved us first. [20] If anyone says, "I love God," yet hates his brother, he is a liar. For the one who does not love his brother whom he has seen, how can he love God whom he has not seen? [21] And we have this commandment from him: the one who loves God is to love his brother as well.

CHAPTER 5

[1] Everyone who believes that Jesus is the Christ has been begotten of God, and everyone who loves the one who begot loves also the one begotten of him. [2] This is how we know that we love God's children: when we love God and keep his commandments. [3] For loving God means this, that we keep his commandments; and his commandments are not heavy. [4] Because everything begotten of God conquers the world; and the victory that has conquered the world is this—our faith. [5] Who is the one who conquers the world, if not the one who believes that Jesus is the Son of God? [6] This is the one who came through water and blood, Jesus the Christ—not with the water only, but with the water and the blood. And the Spirit is the one who testifies, because the Spirit is the truth. [7] For there are three who bear witness in heaven: the Father, the Word and the Holy Spirit; and these three are one. [] [8] And there are three who bear witness on earth: the Spirit and the water and the blood; and these three agree as one. [] [9] If we accept human testimony, God's testimony is greater; for this is the testimony of God which he has borne concerning his Son. [10] The one who believes in the Son of God has the testimony within himself. The one who does not believe God has made him a liar, because he has not believed in the testimony God has given about his Son. [11] And the testimony is this: God gave us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. [12] Whoever has the Son has the life; whoever does not have the Son of God does not have the life. [13] I have written these things to you who believe in the name of the Son of God, so that you may know that you have eternal life, and that you may go on believing in the name of the Son of God. [14] And this is the boldness we have before him: if we ask anything in keeping with his will, he listens to us. [15] And if we know that he listens to us in whatever we ask, we know that the requests we have made of him are ours. [16] If anyone sees his brother committing a sin that does not lead to death, he shall ask, and he will give him life—to those whose sin does not lead to death. There is a sin leading to death; I am not saying he should make request about that. [17] All unrighteousness is sin, and there is a sin not leading to death. [18] We know that no one begotten of God goes on sinning; but the one begotten of God guards himself, and the evil one does not lay hold of him. [19] We know that we are of God, and that the whole world lies in the evil one. [*] [20] And we know that the Son of God has come and has given us insight, so that we may know the one who is true; and we are in the true one, in his Son Jesus Christ. This is the true God and eternal life. [21] Little children, guard yourselves from idols. Amen.

[1] The elder to the elect lady and her children, whom I love in truth—and not I alone, but all who have come to know the truth— [*] [2] for the sake of the truth that abides in us and will be with us forever: [3] grace, mercy and peace will be with you from God the Father and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love. [4] I was very glad that I have found some of your children walking in truth, in keeping with the commandment we received from the Father. [5] And now I beg you, lady, not as one writing you a fresh commandment, but the one we have had since the beginning: let us love one another. [6] And love is this: that we walk by his commandments. This is the commandment, as you heard it from the start, that you walk in it. [7] For many deceivers have entered into the world, men who do not acknowledge Jesus Christ as coming in flesh. This is the deceiver and the antichrist. [8] Look to yourselves, that we may not lose the things we accomplished, but may receive full wages. [9] Everyone who oversteps and does not abide in the teaching of Christ does not have God; whoever abides in the teaching of Christ, he has both the Father and the Son. [10] If someone comes to you without bringing this teaching, do not receive him into the house, and do not say "Greetings" to him; [11] for the one who says "Greetings" to him shares in his wicked works. [12] Having many things to write to you, I preferred not to use paper and ink, but I hope to come to you and speak mouth to mouth, that our joy may be full. [13] The children of your elect sister send you their greetings. Amen.

[1] The elder to Gaius, the beloved, whom I love in truth. [2] Beloved, above all I pray that you may prosper and be in good health, just as your soul is prospering. [3] For I was overjoyed when brothers arrived and bore witness to your truth, to how you are walking in the truth. [4] Greater joy I have none than this, to hear of my children walking in the truth. [5] Beloved, you are doing a faithful work in all you do for the brothers and for strangers, [6] who have testified to your love in the presence of the church; you will do well if you speed them on their journey worthily of God. [7] for it was for his name's sake that they went out, accepting nothing from the Gentiles. [8] So we ought to take up such men, that we may become co-workers with the truth. [9] I wrote to the church; but Diotrephes, who loves to hold the first place among them, does not receive us. [10] Therefore, if I come, I will call attention to the works he does, prating against us with evil words; and not being satisfied with this, neither does he himself receive the brothers, and those who would, he forbids and casts out of the church. [11] Beloved, do not copy what is bad but what is good. The one who does good is of God; the one who does bad has not seen God. [12] To Demetrius witness has been borne by all, and by the truth itself; and we also bear witness, and you know that our witness is true. [13] I had many things to write, but I do not want to write them to you with ink and pen. [14] I hope to see you very soon, and we will talk mouth to mouth. Peace to you. The friends send you greetings. Greet the friends, each by name.

Jude

[1] Jude, servant of Jesus Christ and brother of James, to the called, who are sanctified in God the Father and preserved by Jesus Christ: [2] may mercy, peace and love be yours in abundance. [3] Beloved, as I was putting all my energy into writing to you about the common salvation, I felt the need to write to you exhorting you to fight on for the faith delivered once for all to the saints. [4] For certain men have slipped in by stealth, who were long ago written down beforehand for this condemnation—ungodly men, changing the grace of our God into wantonness and denying the only Master, God, and our Lord Jesus Christ. [*5] But I wish to put you in remembrance, though you once knew this, that the Lord, having saved a people from the land of Egypt, the second time destroyed those who did not believe. [6] And angels who did not keep to their own position of rule, but abandoned their proper home, he has kept in everlasting bonds beneath gloom for the judgment of the great day— [7] just as Sodom and Gomorrah and the towns around them, which in like manner to these indulged in fornication and went after other flesh, lie before us as an example, undergoing the punishment of eternal fire. [8] Likewise these dreamers also stain the flesh, set aside lordship and speak abusively of glories. [9] Yet Michael the archangel, in his dispute with the devil as he argued over the body of Moses, did not dare to bring against him a railing judgment, but said, "May the Lord rebuke you." [10] But these men speak evil of whatever they are ignorant of, and in what they know by nature, as the brute beasts do, in these things they corrupt themselves. [11] Woe to them! For they have gone the way of Cain, they have poured themselves out in Balaam's error for pay, and they have perished in Korah's revolt. [12] These are hidden reefs in your love feasts, banqueting with you fearlessly, pasturing themselves; clouds without water, carried this way and that by winds; trees of late autumn without fruit, twice dead, rooted out; [*13] raging waves of the sea, frothing up their own shames; straying stars, for whom the blackness of darkness is kept in store for eternity. [14] And Enoch too, seventh from Adam, prophesied about these men, saying, "Behold, the Lord came among his holy myriads, [15] to execute judgment upon all, and to convict all the ungodly among them concerning all their works of ungodliness which they ungodly committed, and concerning all the hard things that ungodly sinners spoke against him." [16] These are grumblers, faultfinders, going after their own cravings, and their mouths speak inflated things, admiring persons for the sake of gain. [17] But you, beloved, call to mind the words spoken in advance by the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ, [18] how they kept telling you that in the last time there would be mockers walking after their own desires for ungodly things. [19] These are the ones who set themselves apart, natural men, without the Spirit. [*20] But you, beloved, building yourselves up on your most holy faith and praying in the Holy Spirit, [21] keep yourselves in God's love, expecting the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ for eternal life. [22] And have compassion on some, making a distinction; [*23] but others save with fear, pulling them out of the fire, hating even the tunic stained by the flesh. [24] To him who has power to keep you from falling, and to make you stand spotless before his glory with exultation, [25] to the only wise God our Savior, be glory and majesty, might and authority, both now and for all the ages. Amen.

CHAPTER 1

[1] The revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave to him to show his servants the things that must come to pass shortly; and he made it known by sending it through his angel to his servant John, [2] who bore witness to the word of God and to the testimony of Jesus Christ, and to whatever he saw. [3] Blessed is he who reads, and they who hear the words of the prophecy and observe what is written in it; for the time is near. [4] John, to the seven churches in Asia: grace be to you, and peace, from the One who is and who was and who is coming, and from the seven spirits that are in front of his throne, [5] and from Jesus Christ, the witness who is faithful, the firstborn from among the dead, and the ruler of the earth's kings. To the one who loved us and in his own blood washed us from our sins, [6] and made us kings and priests to his God and Father—to him be the glory and the might forever and ever. Amen. [7] See, he is coming with the clouds!
Every eye will see him, and those as well who pierced him; and all the tribes of the earth will beat their breasts over him. Yes, amen.
[8] "I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end," says the Lord, "the One who is and who was and who is coming, the Almighty." [9] I, John, who am also your brother and a sharer with you in the tribulation, in the kingdom, and in the patient endurance of Jesus Christ, was on the island called Patmos for the word of God and for the testimony of Jesus Christ. [10] On the Lord's day I came to be in the Spirit, and behind me I heard a great voice, like that of a trumpet, [11] which said, "I am the Alpha and the Omega, the first and the last," and, "What you see, write it in a book, and send it to the seven churches in Asia—to Ephesus, to Smyrna, to Pergamum, to Thyatira, to Sardis, to Philadelphia, and to Laodicea."* [12] And I turned to see the voice that was talking with me; and when I had turned, I saw seven lampstands of gold, [13] and in the middle of the seven lampstands one like a son of man, wearing a robe that reached to his feet, and with a golden sash tied around his chest. [14] His head and his hair were white as white wool, white as snow, and his eyes were like a fiery flame; [15] his feet resembled polished bronze, as if they had been fired in a furnace, and his voice was like the sound of many waters. [16] He had seven stars in his right hand, and a sharp double-edged sword came out of his mouth, and his appearance was as the sun when it shines in its might. [17] When I saw him, I fell down at his feet like one dead. Then he put his right hand on me and said to me, "Do not fear. I am the first and the last, [18] and the one who lives. I was dead, and see, I am living forever and ever. Amen. And I hold the keys of Hades and of death. [19] Write down what you saw, and what is, and what is going to happen after these things. [20] Here is the mystery of the seven stars you saw on my right hand and of the seven golden lampstands: the seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands you saw are the seven churches."

CHAPTER 2

[1] To the angel of the church at Ephesus write: Thus says the one who holds the seven stars in his right hand, who walks about in the middle of the seven gold lampstands: [2] I know your works, your hard labor, and your endurance; I know that you cannot put up with evil men, and that you tested those who claim to be apostles but are not, and found them to be liars. [3] You have carried burdens and you have endurance; on account of my name you have worked hard and not given up. [4] But I have something against you: you have left behind your first love. [5] Remember, then, where you have fallen from; repent, and do the first works. If you do not, I will come to you swiftly and move your lampstand out of its place—unless you repent. [6] Still, you have this in your favor: you hate the practices of the Nicolaitans, which I hate as well. [7] Whoever has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit is saying to the churches. To the one who overcomes I will grant to eat from the tree of life, which is in the middle of the paradise of God. [8] And to the angel of the church of the Smyrnaeans write: Thus says the First and the Last, who was dead and lived again: [9] I know your works, your affliction and your poverty—though you are rich—and the blasphemy of those who call themselves Jews and are not, but are Satan's synagogue. [10] Have no fear of any of the things you are going to suffer. Look, the devil is going to throw some of you into prison so that you may be put to the test, and you will have ten days of affliction. Be faithful all the way to death, and I will give you the crown of life. [11] Whoever has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit is saying to the churches. The one who overcomes will in no way be harmed by the second death. [12] And to the angel of the church in Pergamum write: Thus says the one who has the sharp, double-edged sword: [13] I know your works and where you live, there where Satan's throne is; and you cling to my name and did not deny my faith, even in the days when Antipas was my faithful witness, who was killed among you, where Satan lives. [14] Still, I have a few things against you: you have there some who hold fast to the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balak to throw a snare in the way of the children of Israel, to eat food offered to idols and to commit sexual immorality. [15] Likewise you also have those who hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitans, a thing I hate. [16] Repent; if you do not, I will come to you swiftly and wage war against them with the sword of my mouth. [17] Whoever has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit is saying to the churches. To him who overcomes I will grant to eat of the manna that has been hidden, and I will give him a white stone, and on that stone a new name is written which nobody knows but the one who receives it. [18] And to the angel of the church in Thyatira write:
Thus says the Son of God, who has his eyes like a blazing fire and his feet like polished bronze: [19] I know your works, your love, your service, your faith and your endurance, and your works—the last ones more numerous than the first. [20] Yet I have a few things against you: you let the woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess, teach and lead my servants astray, so that they commit sexual immorality and eat food offered to idols. [21] And I granted her time to repent of her sexual immorality, but she did not repent. [22] Look, I am throwing her into a bed, and those who commit adultery with her into great affliction, if they do not repent of their works. [23] Her children I will kill with death; and all the churches will know that I am the one who searches the inner parts and the hearts, and I will give to every one of you according to your works. [24] But I say to you, and to the others in Thyatira—as many as do not have this teaching and have not come to know the "depths of Satan," as they put it—I will lay no other burden on you. [25] Only, keep hold of what you have until I come. [26] And the one who overcomes and who keeps my works until the end, to him I will give authority over the nations, [27] and he will shepherd them with an iron rod, as the vessels of a potter are smashed to pieces, even as I too have received from my Father; [28] and I will give him the morning star. [29] Whoever has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit is saying to the churches.

CHAPTER 3

[1] And to the angel of the church in Sardis write: Thus says the one who has the seven spirits of God and the seven stars: I know your works; you have a name for being alive, and yet you are dead. [2] Be on the watch, and shore up the remaining things that are about to die, for I have not found your works brought to fullness before God. [3] So remember how you received and heard, and hold to it, and repent. If, then, you do not keep watch, I will come upon you as a thief does, and you will have no idea at what hour I am coming upon you. [4] Even in Sardis you have a few names who have not stained their garments; and they will walk with me dressed in white, for they are worthy. [5] The one who overcomes—he will be clothed in white garments, and I will never erase his name from the book of life, and I will acknowledge his name before my Father and before his angels. [6] Whoever has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit is saying to the churches. [7] And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write: Thus says the One who is holy, the One who is true, who holds the key of David, who opens, and no one shuts; and shuts, and no one opens: [8] I know your works. See, I have put in front of you an opened door that nobody can close, because you have little strength, and you kept my word and did not deny my name. [9] See, I will hand over some from the synagogue of Satan, those who say they are Jews and are not but are lying—see, I will make them come and bow down in worship at your feet, and recognize that I have loved you. [10] Since you kept the word of my endurance, I in turn will keep you from the hour of testing that is going to come upon the whole inhabited world, to test those who live on the earth. [11] Look, I am coming swiftly. Keep hold of what you have, so that no one takes your crown. [12] Him who overcomes I will make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he will no longer go out of it at all; and I will inscribe on him the name of my God, and the name of my God's city, the new Jerusalem that is coming down out of heaven from my God, and my new name. [13] Whoever has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit is saying to the churches. [14] And to the angel of the church of the Laodiceans write: Thus says the Amen, the faithful and true Witness, the beginning of God's creation: [15] I know your works, that you are not cold and not hot. If only you were cold, or else hot! [16] So then, because you are lukewarm, being neither cold nor hot, I am about to spew you out of my mouth. [17] Because you say, "I am rich; I have grown wealthy and lack nothing," and you do not see that it is you who are the wretched one, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked, [18] my advice to you is to buy from me gold purified in fire so that you may become rich, and white clothing so that you may be dressed and the shame of your nakedness not be exposed; and rub your eyes with salve so that you can see. [19] Whoever I love, I rebuke and correct. So be earnest, and repent. [20] Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in to him and will dine with him, and he with me. [21] The one who overcomes—I will grant him to sit down with me on my throne, just as I myself overcame and sat down with my Father on his throne. [22] Whoever has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit is saying to the churches.

CHAPTER 4

[1] After this I looked, and there in heaven was a door that had been opened; and the first voice I had heard, like a trumpet talking with me, said, "Come up here, and I will show you what has to happen after these things." [2] And at once I was in the Spirit; and look, a throne stood in heaven, and someone was sitting on the throne. [3] And the One seated was to look at like a stone of jasper and sardius, and encircling the throne was a rainbow that looked like emerald. [4] Round about the throne there were twenty-four thrones, and on those thrones I saw the twenty-four elders sitting, wrapped in white garments; and on their heads they had crowns of gold. [5] Out of the throne come lightnings and thunders and voices; and seven lamps of fire are burning in front of the throne, which are the seven spirits of God. [6] And before the throne there was a glassy sea resembling crystal. And in the middle of the throne and all around it were four living creatures, full of eyes front and back. [7] The first living creature resembled a lion, the second resembled a young bull, the third had a face like that of a man, and the fourth resembled an eagle in flight. [8] And the four living creatures, every one of them, had six wings apiece, and were full of eyes all around and within; and day and night they have no rest, saying, "Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, who was and who is and who is coming." [9] And each time the living creatures give glory and honor and thanks to the One sitting on the throne, the One who lives forever and ever, [10] the twenty-four elders fall down in front of the One sitting on the throne and worship the One who lives forever and ever, and they throw down their crowns before the throne, saying, [11] "Worthy are you, Lord, to receive the glory and the honor and the power, because you created all things, and on account of your will they exist and were created."

CHAPTER 5

[1] And I saw, on the right hand of the One sitting on the throne, a scroll with writing inside and on the back, sealed shut with seven seals. [2] And I saw a powerful angel calling out in a great voice, "Who is worthy to open the scroll and to undo its seals?" [3] But nobody, whether in heaven or on the earth or below the earth, was able to open the scroll, nor to look at it. [4] And I was weeping greatly, because nobody was found worthy to open and read the scroll, or to look at it. [5] Then one of the elders says to me, "Stop weeping. Look, the Lion that is from the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has prevailed to open the scroll and to break its seven seals." [6] And I looked, and there, in the middle of the throne and of the four living creatures, and in the middle of the elders, stood a Lamb that looked as if it had been slaughtered. It had seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God that have been sent out into the whole earth. [7] He came and took the scroll from the right hand of the One sitting on the throne. [8] When he took the scroll, the four living creatures and the twenty-four elders fell before the Lamb; each of them had harps and golden bowls filled with incense, which are the prayers of the saints. [9] And they sing a new song, saying, "You are worthy to take the scroll and to open its seals, because you were slaughtered, and with your blood you bought us for God out of every tribe and language and people and nation, [10] and you have made us kings and priests for our God, and we shall reign on the earth." [11] Then I looked, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne and the living creatures and the elders—their number was myriads upon myriads, and thousands upon thousands— [12] who said with a great voice, "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honor, and glory, and blessing!" [13] And every created thing that is in heaven and on the earth and beneath the earth, and those that are on the sea, and everything in them—I heard them saying, "To the One seated on the throne and to the Lamb be the blessing and the honor and the glory and the might, forever and ever!" [14] And the four living creatures kept saying, "Amen." And the twenty-four elders fell down and worshiped the One who lives forever and ever.

CHAPTER 6

[1] And I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard one of the four living creatures saying in a voice like thunder, "Come and see!" [2] And I looked, and there was a white horse, and the one sitting on it held a bow; a crown was given to him, and he rode out conquering, and to conquer. [3] Then, when he opened the second seal, I heard the second living creature saying, "Come and see!" [4] And another horse came out, a red one; and the one sitting on it was granted to take peace away from the earth, so that people would slaughter one another; and a large sword was given to him. [5] When he opened the third seal, I heard the third living creature saying, "Come and see!" And I looked, and there was a black horse, and the one sitting on it held a balance in his hand. [6] And I heard a voice from the midst of the four living creatures, saying, "A measure of wheat for a denarius, and three measures of barley for a denarius; and you must not damage the oil and the wine."* [7] When he opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature saying, "Come and see!" [8] I looked, and there was a pale horse, and the one sitting on it—his name was Death, and Hades came along with him. And they were given authority over a fourth of the earth, to kill by sword and by hunger and by death and by the wild beasts of the earth. [9] And when he opened the fifth seal, I saw beneath the altar the souls of those who had been slaughtered because of the word of God and because of the testimony they held. [10] They were crying out with a great voice, "How long, holy and true Master, will you hold back from judging and avenging our blood on those who live on the earth?" [11] And white robes were given to each of them, and they were told to rest yet a short time, until their fellow servants and their brothers—those who were going to be killed just as they had been—should also be made complete. [12] And I watched as he opened the sixth seal, and there was a great earthquake; the sun turned black like sackcloth made of hair, and the moon turned like blood, [13] and the stars of heaven fell to the earth, as a fig tree casts its unripe figs when a great wind shakes it. [14] The heaven departed like a scroll that is rolled up, and every mountain and island was moved from its place. [15] And the kings of the earth, the high officials, the rich, the military commanders, the powerful, every servant and every free man hid themselves in the caves and in the crags of the mountains, [16] and they say to the mountains and the rocks, "Fall on top of us and hide us from the presence of the One sitting on the throne and from the wrath of the Lamb, [17] because the great day of his wrath has arrived, and who is able to stand?"

CHAPTER 7

[1] And after these things I saw four angels standing at the earth's four corners, gripping the four winds of the earth so that no wind would blow on the land or on the sea or on any tree. [2] And I saw another angel going up from where the sun rises, holding the seal of the living God; and he shouted in a great voice to the four angels who had been granted to harm the earth and the sea, [3] saying, "Do no damage to the earth, nor to the sea, nor to the trees, until we have marked the servants of our God with a seal on their foreheads." [4] And I heard how many were sealed: a hundred and forty-four thousand, sealed out of every tribe of the children of Israel: [5] from the tribe of Judah, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Reuben, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Gad, twelve thousand sealed; [6] from the tribe of Asher, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Naphtali, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Manasseh, twelve thousand sealed; [7] from the tribe of Simeon, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Levi, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Issachar, twelve thousand sealed; [8] from the tribe of Zebulun, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Joseph, twelve thousand sealed; from the tribe of Benjamin, twelve thousand sealed. [9] After this I looked, and there was a vast crowd that nobody could count, out of every nation and of tribes and peoples and languages, standing in front of the throne and in front of the Lamb, dressed in white robes, with palm branches in their hands, [10] crying out with a great voice and saying, "Salvation be to our God, the One seated on the throne, and to the Lamb!" [11] And all the angels stood in a circle around the throne and the elders and the four living creatures, and they fell face down in front of the throne and worshiped God, [12] saying, "Amen! The blessing and the glory and the wisdom and the thanksgiving and the honor and the power and the strength be to our God forever and ever. Amen." [13] And one of the elders spoke up and said to me, "These who are wearing the white robes—who are they, and where have they come from?" [14] And I answered him, "My lord, you are the one who knows." And he told me, "These are the people who are coming out of the great tribulation; they washed their robes and made them white in the Lamb's blood. [15] For this reason they are in front of God's throne, and they render him service day and night in his temple; and the One sitting on the throne will pitch his tent over them. [16] Never again will they be hungry, never again thirsty; the sun will not beat down on them, nor any burning heat, [17] because the Lamb who is in the center of the throne will shepherd them and guide them to living springs of waters; and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes."

CHAPTER 8

[1] And when he opened the seventh seal, a silence fell in heaven for about half an hour. [2] And I saw the seven angels who stand in God's presence, and seven trumpets were handed to them. [3] Another angel came and took his place at the altar, holding a golden censer; and he was given a great deal of incense, so that he might add it to the prayers of all the saints upon the golden altar in front of the throne. [4] And the smoke of the incense went up together with the prayers of the saints from the angel's hand into the presence of God. [5] Then the angel took the censer, filled it from the fire of the altar, and hurled it onto the earth; and there came voices and thunders and lightnings and an earthquake. [6] And the seven angels holding the seven trumpets got themselves ready to sound them. [7] The first angel sounded his trumpet, and hail and fire came, mixed with blood, and were hurled onto the earth; and a third of the trees were burned up, and all the green grass was burned up. [8] Then the second angel sounded, and what looked like a huge mountain ablaze with fire was cast into the sea; and a third of the sea turned to blood, [9] and a third of the creatures in the sea, those that had life, died, and a third of the ships were wrecked. [10] The third angel sounded, and from heaven a great star fell, burning like a lamp, and it fell upon a third of the rivers and upon the springs of waters. [11] The star is called Wormwood; and a third of the waters turned into wormwood, and many people died of the waters because they had been made bitter. [12] Then the fourth angel sounded, and a third of the sun was struck, and a third of the moon and a third of the stars, so that a third of them grew dark, and for a third of it the day did not shine, and the night in the same way. [13] And I looked, and I heard an angel flying in mid-heaven, calling out in a great voice, "Woe, woe, woe to those who live on the earth, because of the remaining trumpet blasts of the three angels who are yet to sound!"

CHAPTER 9

[1] Then the fifth angel sounded, and I saw a star that had fallen out of heaven to the earth, and to him was given the key to the pit of the abyss. [2] He opened the pit of the abyss, and smoke went up out of the pit like the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by the smoke from the pit. [3] And out of the smoke locusts came forth onto the earth, and authority was given to them such as the scorpions of the earth have. [4] They were told to do no harm to the grass of the earth or to anything green or to any tree, but only to those people who do not bear the seal of God on their foreheads. [5] And they were permitted, not to kill them, but to have them tormented for five months; and the torment they caused was like a scorpion's torment when it stings a person. [6] In those days men will look for death and not find it; they will yearn to die, and death will run away from them. [7] The locusts looked like horses equipped for war; on their heads were what seemed to be crowns like gold, and their faces were like men's faces. [8] They had hair like the hair of women, and their teeth were like those of lions. [9] And they had breastplates like breastplates of iron, and the noise of their wings was like the rumble of chariots with many horses racing into battle. [10] They have tails like those of scorpions, and there were stings in their tails; and their power was to injure men for five months. [11] Over them they have a king, the angel of the abyss, whose name in Hebrew is Abaddon, while in Greek he is called Apollyon. [12] The one woe has gone; see, two more woes are coming after these things. [13] And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a single voice from the four horns of the golden altar that stands before God, [14] telling the sixth angel, the one holding the trumpet, "Set free the four angels who are bound at the great river, the Euphrates." [15] So the four angels were set free, who had been kept ready for that hour and day and month and year, to kill a third of mankind. [16] The count of the cavalry armies was two myriads of myriads; I heard what their number was. [17] And in the vision I saw the horses, and those sitting on them, in this way: they had breastplates fiery, hyacinth-colored and sulfurous; and the horses' heads were like lions' heads, and out of their mouths go fire and smoke and sulfur. [18] A third of mankind was killed by these three—by the fire, by the smoke, and by the sulfur issuing from their mouths. [19] For the power they have is in their mouth and in their tails; their tails resemble serpents and have heads, and with these they do injury. [20] And the rest of mankind, those not killed by these plagues, did not turn in repentance from the works of their hands so as to stop worshiping demons and the idols of gold, of silver, of bronze, of stone and of wood, which are unable to see or hear or walk. [21] Nor did they repent of their killings, their sorceries, their sexual immorality, or their stealing.

CHAPTER 10

[1] And I saw another strong angel descending out of heaven, robed in a cloud, with a rainbow upon his head; his face was like the sun, and his feet like columns of fire. [2] In his hand he held a small scroll that had been opened. He planted his right foot on the sea and his left on the land, [3] and he shouted with a great voice, just as a lion roars; and when he shouted, the seven thunders spoke with their own voices. [4] When the seven thunders had spoken their voices, I was going to write; and I heard a voice from heaven telling me, "Put a seal on what the seven thunders said, and do not write those things." [5] Then the angel I had seen standing on the sea and on the land lifted his hand toward heaven [6] and swore by the One who lives forever and ever, who created heaven and what is in it, and the earth and what is in it, and the sea and what is in it, that there will be time no longer,* [7] but in the days when the seventh angel's voice is heard, when he is about to sound, the mystery of God will also be brought to completion, as he announced the good news to his servants the prophets. [8] And the voice I had heard from heaven was speaking with me again, and saying, "Go and take the little scroll that lies open in the hand of the angel standing on the sea and on the land." [9] So I went off to the angel and said to him, "Give me the little scroll." And he says to me, "Take it and eat it up. It will turn your stomach bitter, but in your mouth it will be as sweet as honey." [10] I took the little scroll out of the angel's hand and ate it up; and in my mouth it was sweet like honey, but once I had eaten it, my stomach turned bitter. [11] And he tells me, "You have to prophesy again concerning many peoples and nations and languages and kings."

CHAPTER 11

[1] Then a reed resembling a staff was handed to me, and the angel stood there and said, "Get up and measure the temple of God and the altar, and those worshiping in it. [2] But leave the outer courtyard of the temple out, and do not measure it, because it has been handed over to the Gentiles; and they will trample the holy city for forty-two months. [3] And I will grant this to my two witnesses: they will prophesy for one thousand two hundred and sixty days, wearing sackcloth." [4] These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands, the ones standing in the presence of the God of the earth. [5] If anyone wants to hurt them, fire goes out from their mouth and devours their enemies; and anyone who would hurt them must be killed in this manner. [6] They have authority to close up the sky so that no rain falls during the days of their prophecy, and they hold authority over the waters to change them into blood, and to strike the earth with every plague as often as they wish. [7] And when they complete their testimony, the beast that comes up out of the abyss will wage war against them, and will defeat them and kill them. [8] Their corpses will lie in the main street of the great city, which in a spiritual sense is called Sodom and Egypt, where our Lord also was crucified. [9] And some from among the peoples, tribes, languages and nations will gaze at their corpses three and a half days, and will not let their corpses be laid in tombs. [10] The inhabitants of the earth will be glad over them and celebrate, and they will send presents to each other, because these two prophets brought torment on the inhabitants of the earth. [11] And after the three days and a half, a spirit of life from God entered them, and they rose to their feet, and great terror came over those who were watching them. [12] They heard a great voice out of heaven telling them, "Come up here." And they went up into heaven in the cloud, while their enemies looked on. [13] In that same hour a great earthquake took place, and a tenth of the city collapsed; seven thousand persons were killed in the earthquake, and the rest were struck with fear and gave glory to the God of heaven. [14] The second woe has gone; and look, the third woe is coming swiftly. [15] And the seventh angel sounded, and great voices arose in heaven, saying, "The kingdoms of the world have become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ, and he shall reign forever and ever!" [16] Then the twenty-four elders, who were seated on their thrones before God, fell face down and worshiped God, [17] saying, "We thank you, Lord God Almighty, the One who is and who was and who is coming, because you have taken hold of your great power and have taken up your reign. [18] The nations were enraged, and your wrath has come, and the season for the dead to be judged, and for giving the reward to your servants the prophets, and to the saints and to those who fear your name, the small and the great, and for bringing ruin on those who ruin the earth." [19] And the temple of God in heaven was opened, and the ark of his covenant appeared in his temple; and there came lightnings, voices, thunders, an earthquake, and great hail.

CHAPTER 12

[1] Then a great sign was seen in heaven: a woman wrapped in the sun, the moon beneath her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars. [2] She was pregnant, and she cries out in her labor pains, in torment to give birth. [3] And another sign appeared in heaven: there was a huge red dragon that had seven heads and ten horns, and seven diadems upon his heads. [4] His tail drags along a third of the stars of heaven, and he flung them down to the earth. And the dragon took his stand in front of the woman who was about to give birth, in order to devour her child the moment she gave birth. [5] And she bore a son, a male, who is going to shepherd all the nations with an iron rod; and her child was snatched up to God and to his throne. [6] The woman fled into the desert, where she has a place made ready by God, so that there they may nourish her one thousand two hundred and sixty days. [7] And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels made war against the dragon; and the dragon and his angels made war, [8] but they were not strong enough, and no place was found for them in heaven anymore. [9] So the great dragon was hurled down—the serpent of old, who is called the devil and Satan, who misleads the whole inhabited world. He was hurled down to the earth, and his angels were hurled down along with him. [10] And I heard a great voice in heaven saying, "Now at last the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God, and the authority of his Christ, have come about; for the accuser of our brothers, who brings charges against them before our God day and night, has been cast down. [11] They overcame him because of the blood of the Lamb and because of the word of their testimony, and they did not love their life, even in the face of death. [12] So be glad, you heavens, and you who live in them! Woe to the inhabitants of the earth and of the sea, because the devil has gone down to you full of rage, knowing that he has but a short time." [13] When the dragon saw that he had been hurled down to the earth, he hunted the woman who had borne the male child. [14] But the two wings of the great eagle were given to the woman, that she might fly into the desert, to her own place, where she is fed for a time and times and half a time, away from the presence of the serpent. [15] And from his mouth the serpent spewed water like a river after the woman, to have her swept away by the current. [16] But the earth helped the woman; the earth opened its mouth and gulped down the river that the dragon had spewed from his mouth. [17] And the dragon grew angry at the woman, and went away to wage war on the remainder of her offspring, those who keep God's commandments and have the testimony of Jesus Christ.

CHAPTER 13

[1] And I stood on the sand of the sea. Then I saw a beast coming up out of the sea, with seven heads and ten horns, and on its horns ten diadems, and on its heads a name of blasphemy. [*2] The beast I saw resembled a leopard; its feet were as those of a bear, and its mouth as a lion's mouth. And the dragon handed over to it his power and his throne and great authority. [3] And I saw one of its heads as if it had been slaughtered to death, and its fatal wound was healed; and all the earth was filled with wonder and went after the beast. [4] They worshiped the dragon, who had given authority to the beast; and they worshiped the beast, saying, "Who is equal to the beast? Who can wage war against it?" [5] It was given a mouth that spoke boastful things and blasphemies, and it was given authority to carry on for forty-two months. [6] So it opened its mouth in blasphemy toward God, to blaspheme his name and his tabernacle and those who make their dwelling in heaven. [7] And it was allowed to wage war on the saints and to conquer them; and it was given authority over every tribe and language and nation. [8] And all who live on the earth will worship it, whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb that was slain from the founding of the world. [9] If anyone has an ear, let him hear. [10] Whoever gathers others into captivity goes off into captivity; whoever kills with the sword must himself be killed with the sword. Here is the patience and the faith of the saints. [11] And I saw another beast coming up from the earth; it had two horns like a lamb's, and it was speaking like a dragon. [12] It wields all the authority of the first beast in its presence, and it makes the earth and its inhabitants worship the first beast, whose fatal wound was healed. [13] And it works great signs, so as even to bring fire down from heaven to the earth before the eyes of men. [14] And it leads astray those who live on the earth by means of the signs it was permitted to work in the presence of the beast, telling those who live on the earth to make an image for the beast that has the sword wound and came back to life. [15] And it was permitted to put breath into the image of the beast, so that the image of the beast would even speak, and would cause all who did not worship the image of the beast to be put to death. [16] It sees to it that all—the small and the great, the rich and the poor, the free and the servants—are given a mark on their right hand or on their foreheads, [17] and that nobody is able to buy or sell except the one who bears the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of its name. [18] Here is wisdom. Whoever has understanding, let him reckon the number of the beast, for it is the number of a man; and its number is six hundred and sixty-six.

CHAPTER 14

[1] And I looked, and there was a Lamb standing on Mount Zion, and with him a hundred and forty-four thousand who had his Father's name written on their foreheads. [2] I heard a sound out of heaven like the sound of many waters and like the sound of a great thunder; and I heard the sound of harpers harping on their harps. [3] And they are singing what seems a new song in front of the throne and in front of the four living creatures and the elders; and nobody was able to learn the song except the hundred and forty-four thousand who had been bought from the earth. [4] These are those who did not soil themselves with women, for they are virgins. These are the ones following the Lamb wherever he may go. These were bought from among men as firstfruits to God and to the Lamb. [5] No guile was found in their mouth, for they are faultless before the throne of God. [6] And I saw another angel flying in mid-heaven with an everlasting gospel to announce to those who live on the earth—to every nation and tribe and language and people— [7] and he was saying in a loud voice, "Fear God and give glory to him, for the hour of his judgment has arrived; and bow down before the One who made the heaven and the earth and the sea and springs of waters." [8] Then another angel followed, saying, "Babylon has fallen, has fallen, the great city, since she has made all the nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her sexual immorality." [9] A third angel followed them, calling out with a great voice, "If anyone worships the beast and its image, and takes a mark on his forehead or on his hand, [10] he himself will also drink of the wine of God's fury, which has been mixed undiluted in the cup of his wrath, and he will be tormented with fire and sulfur before the holy angels and before the Lamb. [11] The smoke of their torment rises to ages of ages; and those who worship the beast and its image have no rest day and night—they and anyone who takes the mark of its name." [12] Here is the endurance of the saints: here are they who keep God's commandments and the faith of Jesus. [13] And I heard a voice from heaven saying to me, "Write: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from this time on." "Yes," says the Spirit, "so that they may rest from their toils; and their works go along with them." [14] And I looked, and there was a white cloud, and sitting on the cloud was one like a son of man, wearing a crown of gold on his head and holding a sharp sickle in his hand. [15] Then another angel came out from the temple, shouting with a great voice to the one sitting on the cloud, "Swing your sickle and reap, because the hour for you to reap has come, because the harvest of the earth has dried out." [16] And the one sitting on the cloud thrust his sickle onto the earth, and the earth was harvested. [17] Another angel came out of the temple in heaven, he also holding a sharp sickle. [18] And yet another angel came out from the altar, having authority over the fire; and he shouted with a great cry to the one holding the sharp sickle, "Swing your sharp sickle and gather in the clusters of the vine of the earth, because its grapes have come to their prime." [19] So the angel thrust his sickle into the earth and gathered the vintage of the earth's vine, and cast it into the great winepress of God's fury. [20] The winepress was trampled outside the city, and blood came out of the winepress as high as the horses' bridles, for a stretch of one thousand six hundred stadia.

CHAPTER 15

[1] And I saw another sign in heaven, great and astonishing: seven angels holding seven plagues, the last ones, because in them God's fury has been brought to an end. [2] And I saw what seemed a glassy sea mingled with fire, and those who had come off victorious over the beast and over its image and over its mark, over the number of its name, standing on the glassy sea, holding harps of God. [3] And they sing the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, "Your works are great and wonderful, Lord God Almighty; your ways are righteous and true, King of the saints. [4] Who would not fear you, Lord, and glorify your name? For you only are holy; for all the nations will come and bow down before you, because your righteous decrees have been made plain." [5] After these things I looked, and see, in heaven the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony was opened. [6] And out of the temple came the seven angels holding the seven plagues, dressed in clean, gleaming linen, and wearing golden sashes around their chests. [7] Then one of the four living creatures handed the seven angels seven golden bowls filled with the fury of God, who lives forever and ever. [8] And the temple was filled with smoke from God's glory and from his power, and nobody could go into the temple until the seven plagues of the seven angels had been brought to an end.

CHAPTER 16

[1] And I heard a great voice from the temple telling the seven angels, "Go, pour out onto the earth the bowls of the fury of God." [2] The first went off and poured out his bowl onto the earth, and an ugly and malignant sore broke out on the people who had the mark of the beast and those who worshiped its image. [3] The second angel poured out his bowl into the sea, and it turned to blood like that of a corpse, and every living soul in the sea died. [4] The third angel poured out his bowl into the rivers and into the springs of waters, and they turned to blood. [5] Then I heard the angel of the waters saying, "Righteous are you, Lord, the One who is and who was and who shall be, because you judged these things.* [6] Because they poured out the blood of saints and of prophets, blood is what you have given them to drink, for they are worthy of it." [7] And I heard another, out of the altar, saying, "Yes, Lord God Almighty, your judgments are true and righteous." [8] Then the fourth angel poured out his bowl upon the sun, and it was granted to burn men with fire. [9] And men were burned with intense heat, and they blasphemed the name of God, who holds authority over these plagues; and they would not repent so as to give him glory. [10] The fifth angel poured out his bowl upon the throne of the beast, and its kingdom was darkened, and they chewed their tongues because of the pain, [11] and they blasphemed the God of heaven on account of their pains and their sores, and did not turn from their works in repentance. [12] Then the sixth angel poured out his bowl upon the great river, the Euphrates, and its water dried up, so that the way might be made ready for the kings who come from the rising of the sun. [13] And out of the dragon's mouth, and out of the beast's mouth, and out of the false prophet's mouth, I saw three unclean spirits like frogs. [14] These are spirits of demons that work signs, and they go out to the kings of the earth and of the whole inhabited world, to gather them together for the war of that great day of God Almighty. [15] "See, I come like a thief. Blessed is he who keeps awake and guards his clothes, so that he will not walk around naked and people see his shame." [16] And they brought them together at the place whose Hebrew name is Armageddon. [17] Then the seventh angel poured out his bowl into the air, and a great voice issued from the temple of heaven, from the throne, saying, "It is done!" [18] And there came voices and thunders and lightnings, and a great earthquake took place, the like of which had not happened since men came to be on the earth—an earthquake so vast, so great. [19] The great city split into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell; and Babylon the great was remembered before God, to give her the cup of the wine of the fury of his wrath. [20] Every island ran away, and the mountains could not be found. [21] Huge hail, each stone about a talent in weight, comes down out of heaven on men; and men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail, for that plague is exceedingly great.

CHAPTER 17

[1] And one of the seven angels holding the seven bowls came and talked with me, saying, "Come, I will show you the sentence on the great prostitute who sits on many waters, [2] with whom the kings of the earth have committed sexual immorality, and with the wine of whose sexual immorality the inhabitants of the earth have become drunk." [3] So he carried me off in the Spirit into a desert; and I saw a woman seated on a scarlet beast covered with names of blasphemy, which had seven heads and ten horns. [4] The woman was dressed in purple and scarlet and decked out with gold and precious stone and pearls, and in her hand she held a gold cup brimming with abominations and with the filthiness of her sexual immorality. [5] And upon her forehead was a written name: MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF THE PROSTITUTES AND OF THE ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH. [6] And I saw that the woman was drunk with the blood of the saints and with the blood of the witnesses of Jesus; and when I saw her, I wondered with great wonder. [7] And the angel said to me, "Why were you amazed? I will explain to you the mystery of the woman and of the beast that carries her, the one with the seven heads and the ten horns. [8] The beast you saw was, and is not, and is going to come up out of the abyss and go off to destruction. And those who live on the earth, whose names have not been written in the book of life since the founding of the world, will be amazed when they see the beast that was, and is not, and yet is. [*] [9] This is where the mind with wisdom comes in: the seven heads are seven mountains on which the woman sits. [10] They are also seven kings. Five have fallen, the one is, the other has not come yet; and when he comes, he has to remain for a short while. [11] And the beast that was and is not—it is itself an eighth, and is one of the seven, and is going off to destruction. [12] The ten horns you saw are ten kings, who have received no kingdom as yet, but who take authority as kings for a single hour together with the beast. [13] They share one purpose, and they will hand over their own power and authority to the beast. [14] They will wage war against the Lamb, and the Lamb will defeat them, because he is Lord of lords and King of kings; and those with him are the called and chosen and faithful." [15] And he tells me, "The waters you saw, where the prostitute is sitting, are peoples and crowds and nations and languages. [16] And the ten horns you saw on the beast—these will hate the prostitute, and will leave her desolate and stripped, and will eat her flesh and burn her up in fire. [17] For God has put it in their hearts to carry out his intent, and to act in one accord, and to give their kingdom to the beast, until the words of God are brought to completion. [18] And the woman you saw is the great city, the one that holds kingship over the kings of the earth."

CHAPTER 18

[1] After these things I saw another angel coming down out of heaven, who had great authority; and the earth was lit up by his glory. [2] And he cried out with strength, in a great voice, saying, "Babylon the great has fallen, has fallen, and has become a home for demons, a hold for every unclean spirit, and a cage for every unclean and detestable bird. [3] For all the nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her sexual immorality; the kings of the earth have committed sexual immorality with her, and the merchants of the earth have grown wealthy from the might of her extravagance." [4] And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, "Come out of her, my people, so that you will have no share in her sins, and so that you will not receive any of her plagues; [5] because her sins have been piled one upon another up to heaven, and God has called to mind her wrongdoings. [6] Repay her just as she repaid you, and pay her back double according to her works; in the cup she mixed, mix her a double portion. [7] To the degree that she glorified herself and lived in indulgence, give her that much torment and grief; for in her heart she says, 'I sit enthroned as queen; I am not a widow, and I will never see grief.' [8] That is why in a single day her plagues will come—death and grief and hunger—and she will be burned up in fire, because the Lord God who judges her is strong. [9] The kings of the earth who committed sexual immorality and lived in indulgence with her will weep for her and beat their breasts over her when they see the smoke of her burning, [10] standing at a distance for fear of her torment, and saying, 'Woe, woe, the great city, Babylon, the strong city! For in one hour your judgment has arrived.' [11] And the merchants of the earth weep and grieve over her, because nobody buys their merchandise any longer— [12] merchandise of gold and of silver, of precious stone and of pearls, of fine linen and purple, of silk and scarlet; every kind of thyine wood, every object of ivory, every object of the most costly wood, and of bronze and iron and marble; [13] and cinnamon and incense and fragrant ointment and frankincense, and wine and oil and fine flour and wheat, and cattle and sheep, and horses and carriages, and slaves, and the souls of men. [*] [14] The ripe fruit your soul craved has gone away from you, and all the dainty and dazzling things have gone away from you, and you will never, ever find them again. [15] Those who traded in these things, who grew rich from her, will stand at a distance for fear of her torment, weeping and grieving, [16] and saying, 'Woe, woe, the great city, which was dressed in fine linen and purple and scarlet, and decked out with gold and precious stone and pearls! [17] For in one hour so much wealth has been made desolate.' And every pilot, and all the crowd aboard the ships, and sailors, and all who make their living by the sea, stood at a distance, [18] and they kept crying out as they looked at the smoke of her burning, saying, 'What city is like the great city?' [19] They threw dust on their heads and were crying out, weeping and grieving, and saying, 'Woe, woe, the great city, in which all who had ships on the sea grew rich from her costliness! For in one hour she has been made desolate.' [20] Be glad over her, heaven, and you holy apostles and prophets, for God has judged your cause against her." [21] And a strong angel picked up a stone like a large millstone and hurled it into the sea, saying, "Thus, with a violent rush, Babylon the great city will be hurled down, and will never be found again. [22] The sound of harpers and musicians and flutists and trumpeters will never again be heard in you; no craftsman of any craft whatever will ever again be found in you; the sound of a millstone will never again be heard in you; [23] the light of a lamp will never again shine in you; and the voice of bridegroom and bride will never again be heard in you. For your merchants were the great men of the earth, for by your sorcery all the nations were led astray. [24] And in her the blood of prophets and of saints was found, and of all who had been slaughtered on the earth."

CHAPTER 19

[1] After these things I heard a loud voice of a vast crowd in heaven, saying, "Hallelujah! The salvation and the glory and the honor and the power are the Lord our God's, [2] because his judgments are true and righteous; for he has judged the great prostitute who ruined the earth with her sexual immorality, and has exacted vengeance for the blood of his servants from her hand." [3] And a second time they said, "Hallelujah!" And her smoke goes up forever and ever. [4] Then the twenty-four elders and the four living creatures fell down and worshiped God, the One sitting on the throne, and said, "Amen! Hallelujah!" [5] And a voice went out from the throne, saying, "Praise our God, all his servants, and you who fear him, the small and the great." [6] And I heard something like the voice of a vast crowd, and like the sound of many waters, and like the sound of mighty thunders, saying, "Hallelujah! For the Lord God Almighty reigns. [7] Let us be glad and rejoice greatly and give the glory to him, because the wedding of the Lamb has come, and his wife has got herself ready." [8] And it was given to her to dress in fine linen, pure and shining, for the fine linen is the righteous deeds of the saints. [9] And he says to me, "Write: Blessed are those who have been invited to the wedding supper of the Lamb." And he tells me, "These are true words of God." [10] So I fell at his feet to worship him, and he says to me, "Take care not to! I am a fellow servant of yours and of your brothers who have the testimony of Jesus. Worship God; for the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy." [11] And I saw heaven standing open, and there was a white horse; and the one sitting on it is called Faithful and True, and with righteousness he judges and wages war. [12] His eyes are as a fiery flame, and upon his head are many diadems; he has a name written which nobody knows except he himself. [13] And he is wearing a garment dipped in blood, and his name is called The Word of God.* [14] The armies that are in heaven were following him on white horses, dressed in fine linen, white and clean. [15] And out of his mouth goes a sharp sword, so that with it he may strike the nations; and it is he who will shepherd them with an iron rod, and he who treads the winepress of the wine of the fury and the wrath of God Almighty. [16] And on his garment and on his thigh he has a name written: KING OF KINGS AND LORD OF LORDS. [17] And I saw one angel standing in the sun; and he cried out in a great voice, saying to all the birds flying in mid-heaven, "Come, assemble for the supper of the great God, [18] so that you may eat the flesh of kings and the flesh of commanders and the flesh of strong men, and the flesh of horses and of their riders, and the flesh of all, free and servant alike, small and great alike." [19] Then I saw the beast and the kings of the earth and their armies, assembled to wage war against the one sitting on the horse and against his army. [20] And the beast was captured, and together with it the false prophet who had worked the signs in its presence, by which he led astray those who had taken the mark of the beast and those who worshiped its image. The two of them were cast alive into the lake of fire that is ablaze with sulfur. [21] And the others were killed with the sword of the one sitting on the horse, the sword that went out of his mouth; and all the birds ate their fill of their flesh.

CHAPTER 20

[1] And I saw an angel descending out of heaven, who held the key of the abyss and a great chain in his hand. [2] He took hold of the dragon, the serpent of old, who is the devil and Satan, and bound him for a thousand years, [3] and cast him into the abyss and locked him in and put a seal over him, so that he would no longer lead the nations astray until the thousand years had been completed. After these things he has to be let loose for a short time. [4] And I saw thrones, and people sat on them, and judgment was entrusted to them; and I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded because of the testimony of Jesus and because of the word of God, and who had not worshiped the beast or its image, and had not taken the mark on their foreheads and on their hands. And they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years. [5] But the remainder of the dead did not come to life again until the thousand years were completed. This is the first resurrection. [6] Blessed and holy is the one who has a share in the first resurrection. Over these the second death holds no authority; rather, they will be priests of God and of Christ, and will reign with him a thousand years. [7] And when the thousand years have been completed, Satan will be let loose from his prison, [8] and he will go out to lead astray the nations at the earth's four corners, Gog and Magog, to gather them together for war; their number is like the sand of the sea. [9] They went up across the breadth of the earth and encircled the camp of the saints and the city that is loved; and fire came down from God out of heaven and devoured them. [10] And the devil, who was leading them astray, was cast into the lake of fire and sulfur, where the beast and the false prophet are; and they will be tormented by day and by night forever and ever. [11] And I saw a great white throne, and the One sitting on it, from whose presence the earth and the heaven fled, and no place was found for them. [12] And I saw the dead, the small and the great, standing in front of God; and books were opened, and another book was opened, which is the book of life. And the dead were judged by what was written in the books, according to their works. [13] The sea handed over the dead that were in it, and death and Hades handed over the dead that were in them; and they were judged, every one according to his works. [14] Then death and Hades were hurled into the lake of fire. This is the second death. [15] And whoever was not found written in the book of life was hurled into the lake of fire.

CHAPTER 21

[1] And I saw a new heaven and a new earth, because the first heaven and the first earth had gone away, and the sea is no more. [2] And I, John, saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. [3] And I heard a great voice out of heaven, saying, "See, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will make his dwelling with them; they will be his peoples, and God himself will be with them, their God.* [4] And God will wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death will exist no longer, nor will there be grief or outcry or pain any longer, for the first things have gone away." [5] Then the One seated on the throne said, "Behold, I make all things new." And he tells me, "Write it down, because these words are true and trustworthy." [6] And he said to me, "It is done. I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end. To whoever is thirsty I will give freely from the spring of the water of life. [7] He who overcomes will inherit all things; I will be his God, and he will be my son. [8] But the cowardly and unbelieving and vile, murderers, the sexually immoral, sorcerers, idolaters, and all liars—their share will be in the lake that is burning with fire and sulfur, which is the second death." [9] And one of the seven angels who held the seven bowls filled with the seven last plagues came to me and talked with me, saying, "Come here, I will show you the bride, the wife of the Lamb." [10] And in the Spirit he carried me off to a great and lofty mountain, and showed me the great city, holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God, [11] with the glory of God. Its brilliance resembled a most precious stone, like jasper stone that is clear as crystal. [12] It had a wall great and lofty, with twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and names inscribed on them, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel— [13] from the east, three gates; from the north, three gates; from the south, three gates; and from the west, three gates. [14] The wall of the city had twelve foundations, and in them the names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb. [15] The one talking with me had a golden reed for measuring the city and its gates and its wall. [16] The city is laid out as a square, its length as great as its breadth. And he measured the city with the reed: twelve thousand stadia; its length, breadth and height are the same. [17] And he measured its wall: a hundred and forty-four cubits, by a man's measure, which is the angel's. [18] The wall was constructed of jasper, and the city was pure gold resembling clear glass. [19] The foundations of the city's wall were decorated with every kind of precious stone. The first foundation was jasper; the second, sapphire; the third, chalcedony; the fourth, emerald; [20] the fifth, sardonyx; the sixth, sardius; the seventh, chrysolite; the eighth, beryl; the ninth, topaz; the tenth, chrysoprase; the eleventh, jacinth; the twelfth, amethyst. [21] The twelve gates were twelve pearls; every one of the gates was made from one pearl. And the main street of the city was pure gold, like glass one can see through. [22] I did not see a temple in it, because the Lord God Almighty is its temple, and the Lamb. [23] Nor does the city need the sun or the moon to give light in it, for the glory of God lit it up, and its lamp is the Lamb. [24] And the nations of the saved will walk by its light, and the kings of the earth are bringing their glory and honor into it. [25] Its gates will never be closed by day, for there will be no night there. [26] And they will bring the nations' glory and honor into it. [27] And nothing that defiles, nor anyone who commits abomination and falsehood, will ever get into it, except those who are written in the book of life of the Lamb.

CHAPTER 22

[1] And he showed me a pure river of the water of life, gleaming like crystal, flowing out of the throne of God and of the Lamb. [2] In the middle of its street, and on this side and that side of the river, was the tree of life, producing twelve crops of fruit, giving its fruit each month; and the leaves of the tree are for the healing of the nations. [3] And there will no longer be any curse; the throne of God and of the Lamb will be in it, and his servants will render him service. [4] They will look upon his face, and his name will be on their foreheads. [5] Night will not be there, and they have no need of a lamp or of the light of the sun, because the Lord God gives them light; and they will reign forever and ever. [6] And he said to me, "These words are faithful and true; and the Lord God of the holy prophets sent his angel to show his servants the things that must come to pass shortly. [7] See, I come swiftly. Blessed is he who keeps the words of the prophecy of this book." [8] I, John, am the one who saw these things and heard them. And when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship at the feet of the angel who was showing me these things. [9] And he says to me, "Take care not to! For I am a fellow servant of yours, and of your brothers the prophets, and of those keeping the words of this book. Worship God." [10] And he tells me, "Do not put a seal on the words of the prophecy of this book, for the time is near. [11] Whoever does wrong, let him keep doing wrong; whoever is filthy, let him be filthy still; whoever is righteous, let him be made righteous still; and whoever is holy, let him be made holy still. [12] And see, I come swiftly, and I bring my reward with me, to repay each one as his work shall be. [13] I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last." [14] Blessed are those who carry out his commandments, so that they will have the right to the tree of life and may enter the city by the gates. [15] Outside are the dogs, the sorcerers, the sexually immoral, the murderers, the idolaters, and everyone who loves a lie and practices it. [16] "I, Jesus, sent my angel to bear witness to you of these things in the churches. I am the Root and the Offspring of David, the bright and morning star." [17] The Spirit and the bride say, "Come!" And let him who hears say, "Come!" Let him who is thirsty come; whoever wishes, let him take the water of life as a gift. [18] For I solemnly testify to everyone who hears the words of the prophecy of this book: if anyone adds to them, God will lay upon him the plagues written in this book; [19] and if anyone removes anything from the words of the book of this prophecy, God will remove his part from the book of life, and from the holy city, and from what is written in this book. [*] [20] The one who bears witness to these things says, "Yes, I am coming swiftly." Amen. Yes, come, Lord Jesus! [21] The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with all of you. Amen.

Translation Notes

Genesis

Gen 1:2 "Spirit of God": ruach elohim can also mean "wind of God"; "Spirit" follows the traditional understanding (KJV likewise).

Gen 1:6 "expanse" (raqia), something spread or beaten out; KJV "firmament".

Gen 3:5 "like God": kelohim can also be read "like gods" (so the KJV); the plural verb form does not decide it.

Gen 4:1 "with the LORD": Hebrew 'et-YHWH, literally "with/along with the LORD"; often understood as "with the help of the LORD".

Gen 4:7 "will you not be accepted": Hebrew se'et, literally "lifting up" (of the face, in contrast with v. 6), i.e. acceptance.

Gen 4:8 "Cain spoke to Abel his brother": the Hebrew gives no words; ancient versions (Samaritan, LXX) add "Let us go out to the field". Not added here.

Gen 4:13 "punishment": 'avon means both iniquity and its punishment; KJV "My punishment is greater than I can bear".

Gen 5:2 "Man": Hebrew 'adam, the same word as the name Adam.

Gen 6:3 "strive with": the sense of yadon is uncertain ("strive with", "abide in", "contend with").

Gen 9:6 "by man": or "in exchange for the man"; the traditional reading is kept.

Gen 10:11 "he went out to Assyria": the Hebrew may also be read "from that land Asshur went out" (so the KJV); taken here as Nimrod's movement.

Gen 10:21 "the elder brother of Japheth": the Hebrew can also mean "the brother of Japheth the elder" (so the KJV).

Gen 14:14 "brother": here "relative, kinsman" (Lot was his nephew), kept literal as in v. 16.

Gen 14:19 "Possessor": qoneh can mean "possessor" or "creator/maker"; KJV "possessor".

Gen 15:1 Hebrew "your reward (will be) very great"; the KJV takes it as a second predicate of "I am" ("thy exceeding great reward").

Gen 15:2 Literally "the son of the possession (mesheq) of my house is Damascus Eliezer"; a wordplay on mesheq / Dammeseq. "Heir" gives the sense.

Gen 16:12 Literally "a wild donkey of a man" (pere' 'adam); the KJV has "a wild man". "Over against" ('al pene) may also mean "east of" or "in defiance of".

Gen 16:13 Hebrew 'El ro'i, "a God of seeing" or "God who sees me". The second half is difficult; literally "Have I also here seen after the one who sees me?"

Gen 18:3 The Masoretes point 'Adonay as the divine title ("Lord"); with other vowels it would be "my lord(s)", a courteous address to the visitors.

Gen 19:18 'Adonay is again pointed as the divine title ("my Lord"), though Lot speaks "to them"; contrast 19:2, pointed 'adonay, "my lords".

Gen 20:16 Obscure idiom: "a covering of the eyes" probably means compensation that silences reproach; the last clause (wenokhachat) may be "you are vindicated" or "you are reproved" (KJV).

Gen 21:12 'Amah, "slave woman" (KJV "bondwoman"), distinct from shiphchah "maidservant" in ch. 16.

Gen 22:14 YHWH yir'eh, "the LORD will see / provide"; the saying uses the passive, "it shall be seen / provided" (KJV "it shall be seen").

Gen 22:17 "His enemies": the Hebrew suffix is singular, referring to the collective "seed".

Gen 23:6 Literally "a prince of God" (nesi' 'elohim), a Hebrew superlative: "a mighty prince".

Gen 24:43 'Almah, the word of Isa 7:14; Rebekah has already been called betulah, "virgin", in 24:16.

Gen 24:63 The verb lasuach is rare; "meditate" follows the traditional sense (others: "walk", "lament").

Gen 25:22 Literally "If so, why (am) I this?"; the sense of Rebekah's complaint is debated.

Gen 26:8 Metsacheq, "laughing / playing", a wordplay on the name Isaac; here of marital affection ("caressing"; KJV "sporting").

Gen 27:39 "Away from the fatness of the earth": Hebrew mishmanne ha'arets, where the preposition min can mean "of" (KJV "the fatness of the earth shall be thy dwelling") or "away from". The contrast with v. 28 favors the second sense.

Gen 30:11 Following the Qere ba gad, "good fortune has come" (Kethiv bgd, "with fortune"). KJV "A troop cometh" takes gad as "troop".

Gen 30:27 Hebrew nichashti, "I have divined / learned by divination"; KJV "I have learned by experience".

Gen 31:47 Jegar-sahadutha is Aramaic and Galeed is Hebrew; both mean "heap of witness".

Gen 32:28 "Striven with God": Hebrew sarita im-elohim. KJV "power with God".

Gen 32:32 Hebrew gid hanasheh, of uncertain meaning (traditionally the sciatic nerve); KJV "the sinew which shrank".

Gen 33:18 Hebrew shalem is taken as "safely, in peace"; KJV takes it as a place name ("to Shalem, a city of Shechem").

Gen 33:19 Hebrew qesitah, a unit of value of unknown weight; KJV "pieces of money".

Gen 35:7 "God had revealed himself": the verb niglu is plural with ha'elohim. Some render "the gods / divine beings had appeared", but here it refers to the God of Jacob (compare 35:1).

Gen 36:15 Hebrew alluf, "chief, clan leader" (also in vv. 15-43); KJV "duke".

Gen 36:24 Hebrew hayyemim, probably "hot springs" (so the Vulgate); KJV "mules".

Gen 37:3 "Long robe with sleeves": Hebrew ketonet passim, a robe reaching to the palms and soles (or "ornamented robe"); KJV "coat of many colors" follows the Greek and Latin versions.

Gen 37:36 "Medanites": the Masoretic text reads Medanim here (Midianites in v. 28); the KJV follows the ancient versions with "Midianites". "Officer": Hebrew saris, literally "eunuch", but used of court officials in general; Potiphar was married (39:1, 7).

Gen 38:8 "Offspring" (also twice in v. 9): Hebrew zera', elsewhere in Genesis rendered "seed"; here "offspring" is used for clarity, since the levirate duty concerns a child to carry on the dead brother's name; KJV "seed".

Gen 38:21 "Cult prostitute": Hebrew qedeshah, a woman associated with pagan shrines, distinct from zonah "prostitute" in v. 15; KJV "harlot" in both places.

Gen 41:40 "Shall be ruled": Hebrew yishshaq, literally "shall kiss" (submission or homage) or "shall order themselves"; KJV "be ruled".

Gen 41:43 "Abrek": an Egyptian or Semitic word of uncertain meaning, left untranslated; KJV "Bow the knee".

Gen 43:11 "Present": Hebrew minchah, here a gift or tribute to a superior, not the "grain offering" of the sacrificial laws (also 43:15, 25, 26).

Gen 47:31 "Bed": Hebrew mittah as pointed in the Masoretic text; the Greek read the same consonants as matteh "staff", the reading quoted in Heb 11:21.

Gen 48:22 "One portion": Hebrew shekem echad, literally "one shoulder", a ridge or share of land; also a wordplay on the city of Shechem.

Gen 49:6 "Hamstrung oxen": Hebrew shor "ox", as pointed in the Masoretic text; KJV "digged down a wall" reads shur "wall".

Gen 49:10 "Shiloh": kept as a proper name, as the Masoretic text points it; often understood messianically, or read shelloh "to whom it belongs" / "until tribute comes to him".

Exodus

Exod 3:14 Hebrew "ehyeh asher ehyeh"; the verb can also be rendered "I will be what I will be." The short form "I AM" (ehyeh) underlies the divine name YHWH in v. 15.

Exod 3:22 Hebrew "sha'al" means "ask, request"; the KJV has "borrow" here and in 11:2 and 12:35.

Exod 4:25 "His feet" is ambiguous in Hebrew: it may refer to Moses or to the child. "Feet" may also be a euphemism.

Exod 6:3 Literally "by my name YHWH I was not known to them"; the point is that the patriarchs did not know God by the full meaning of this name, though the name itself appears in Genesis.

Exod 8:21 Hebrew "arov" (a swarm or mixture); traditionally understood as swarms of flies or of mixed insects. The KJV has "swarms of flies."

Exod 8:23 Hebrew "pedut" normally means "redemption"; here it marks the separation between Israel and Egypt. The KJV has "a division."

Exod 9:15 The Hebrew perfect "I have stretched out" is understood as hypothetical: God could have destroyed Pharaoh already but kept him for the purpose stated in v. 16.

Exod 10:10 Literally "see, for evil is before your faces"; it may mean "you have evil intentions" or "evil awaits you."

Exod 10:19 Hebrew "Yam Suph," literally "Sea of Reeds"; rendered "Red Sea" as in the traditional English versions. Also in 13:18.

Exod 12:6 Literally "between the two evenings," i.e. at twilight, between sunset and dark.

Exod 13:18 Hebrew "chamushim" is uncertain; it is usually taken as "armed" or "arranged for battle" (KJV "harnessed").

Exod 14:25 "Took off" follows the Masoretic wayyasar ("removed"); the Samaritan and Greek read "bound" (clogged) the wheels.

Exod 15:2 "The LORD" renders the short form Yah. "Praise him" ('anwehu) may also mean "adorn him"; the KJV has "prepare him an habitation."

Exod 16:15 "What is it?" renders man hu', the origin of the name manna (v. 31).

Exod 17:16 Literally "a hand upon the throne (kes) of Yah," taken as an oath or a gesture against God's throne; "Yah" rendered "the LORD." Some read kes as nes, "banner" (cf. v. 15).

Exod 20:13 The verb ratsach means unlawful killing; "murder" rather than the KJV "kill."

Exod 21:6 Ha'elohim, "God" (i.e. before God at the sanctuary); the KJV has "judges." Likewise 22:8–9.

Exod 21:8 Follows the Qere lo ("for himself"); the Ketiv lo' would give "so that he has not designated her."

Exod 21:22 "Her children come out" (yeled plural) may mean a premature birth or a miscarriage; "harm" (ason) is not restricted to the woman.

Exod 22:28 Elohim taken as "God"; the KJV has "the gods" (margin "judges").

Exod 25:5 "Goatskins" for `orot techashim; the animal is uncertain (KJV "badgers' skins"; others "dolphin skins", "sea cow" or "fine leather"). Same in 26:14; 35:7, 23; 36:19; 39:34.

Exod 26:6 "Clasps" for qeres (KJV "taches"); kept distinct from waw "hooks" on the pillars (26:32, 27:10).

Exod 26:33 "Most holy place" renders qodesh haqqodashim, literally "the holy of holies".

Exod 26:36 "Screen" for masak (KJV "hanging"), to keep it distinct from the "hangings" (qela`im) of the court and from the inner "veil" (parokhet).

Exod 28:17 The identification of the twelve stones (28:17-20; 39:10-13) is uncertain; KJV has sardius, topaz, carbuncle; emerald, sapphire, diamond; ligure, agate, amethyst; beryl, onyx, jasper.

Exod 28:32 "Coat of mail" for tachra', a rare word of uncertain meaning (KJV "habergeon"). Same in 39:23.

Exod 28:41 "Ordain" renders the idiom "fill their hand"; likewise in 29:9, 29, 33, 35.

Exod 29:18 "Food offering" renders 'ishsheh (KJV "an offering made by fire"); also 29:25, 41; 30:20.

Exod 29:39 "At twilight" renders "between the two evenings"; also 29:41; 30:8.

Exod 32:4 "These are your gods": elohim with plural demonstrative and verb; it may also be read "This is your god" (one calf). Likewise 32:8.

Exod 32:29 Literally "fill your hand today to the LORD"; the Hebrew is imperative ("Consecrate yourselves"), not a past tense.

Exod 33:14 "My presence" is literally "my face"; also 33:15.

Exod 34:13 "Asherim" (plural of Asherah), wooden cult objects of the goddess Asherah; the KJV has "groves".

Exod 34:28 "Ten Commandments" is literally "the ten words".

Exod 34:29 "Shone" for qaran (from qeren, "horn"), whence the Vulgate's "horned"; also 34:30, 35.

Exod 36:1 The verb (weqatal) may be read as future/jussive ("shall work") or as narrative past ("so Bezalel... worked", KJV "Then wrought").

Exod 39:24 The Hebrew has only "twisted" (mashzar) after the colors; the KJV adds "linen".

Leviticus

Lev 1:9 "Food offering" for 'ishsheh (KJV "an offering made by fire"); the word is related to "fire" but also to "food" (cf. 3:11, 16 "food" lechem). "Pleasing aroma" for reach nichoach (KJV "sweet savour").

Lev 5:6 Here 'asham ("guilt offering", KJV "trespass offering") is rendered by the fixed term, although the animal is brought "as a sin offering"; in this section 'asham covers the penalty or compensation due for guilt; so also in 5:7.

Lev 6:1 Lev 6:1-7 in the English numbering is 5:20-26 in the Hebrew Bible; the English numbering is followed.

Lev 7:14 "Contribution" for terumah (KJV "heave offering"), also in 7:32, 34.

Lev 7:35 Mishchah, usually "anointing" (KJV), here means the share or portion assigned to the priests.

Lev 8:33 Literally "he will fill your hand seven days", the idiom for ordaining (installing) a priest; "ordination" (milluim, "filling") also in 8:22, 28, 31.

Lev 10:6 "Do not let the hair of your heads hang loose": the verb para' can mean to let the hair loose or to uncover the head (KJV "uncover not your heads"); a sign of mourning in either case.

Lev 11:5 Shaphan is the rock hyrax ("rock badger"); KJV "coney".

Lev 11:13 The identification of many of the birds in 11:13-19 (and of the creatures in 11:22, 29-30) is uncertain; common modern identifications are used. Where the KJV has e.g. "ossifrage", "osprey", "owl", "cuckow", "lapwing", the Hebrew terms are rendered by their probable modern equivalents.

Lev 11:20 "Winged swarming creature" (sherets ha'oph), i.e. flying insects; KJV "fowls that creep".

Lev 13:2 "Leprosy" for tsara'at (KJV "leprosy"); "leprous" as adjective. The term covers various skin diseases, not necessarily Hansen's disease, and in 13:47-59 and 14:34-57 also mold or mildew in fabrics, leather and houses. Nega' ("stroke, plague") is rendered "case", "disease" or "diseased area" by context.

Lev 13:30 Netheq, "itch" (KJV "dry scall"), a scaly disease of the scalp or beard.

Lev 13:55 Literally "it is a corrosion in its baldness or in its forehead-baldness", i.e. a bare, worn spot on the back or the front of the material.

Lev 16:8 "Azazel" (also 16:10, 26) is kept as a proper name; its meaning is uncertain. The KJV has "scapegoat" (understanding "the goat that departs").

Lev 17:7 "Goat demons" renders se'irim, literally "he-goats"; the KJV has "devils".

Lev 19:20 "There shall be an inquiry" renders the rare word biqqoret; others understand "compensation" or "punishment". The KJV has "she shall be scourged".

Lev 20:17 Hebrew chesed here is the rare homonym meaning "shame, disgrace", not "steadfast love". The KJV has "a wicked thing".

Lev 21:4 "As a husband" renders ba'al; the sense is debated ("a chief man among his people", KJV margin; or for a relative by marriage).

Lev 23:24 "A memorial proclaimed with a blast of trumpets": literally "a memorial of a shout/blast" (teru'ah); "trumpets" is implied, as in the KJV.

Lev 25:33 The Hebrew has no negative; read literally "and whoever redeems from the Levites". The rendering follows the sense of buying property from a Levite, as the KJV ("if a man purchase of the Levites").

Lev 26:34 "Enjoy" renders ratsah, which may also mean "make up for, pay off" (its missed Sabbaths). Likewise in 26:41, 43 "accept the punishment for their iniquity" renders ratsah 'awon, literally "accept/pay off their iniquity".

Numbers

Num 3:39 In the Hebrew text the name "Aaron" bears extraordinary dots (puncta extraordinaria), traditionally taken as marking the word as doubtful; it is translated as written.

Num 4:6 "Goatskins" for tachash (KJV "badgers' skins"); the animal is uncertain (other proposals: dolphin, dugong, fine leather). Same in 4:8, 10, 11, 12, 14, 25.

Num 5:7 Here 'asham means the restitution or compensation for the wrong, not the guilt offering; so also in 5:8, where it is distinguished from "the ram of atonement".

Num 5:9 "Contribution" for terumah (KJV "offering"); see the note on Lev 7:14.

Num 6:20 "The breast that is waved and the thigh that is contributed" (KJV "the wave breast and heave shoulder"), as in Lev 7:34.

Num 11:25 "They did not continue doing it" (velo yasafu, "they did not add/repeat"). The KJV "and did not cease" reflects a derivation from suf, "to cease"; the Masoretic vocalization points to yasaf.

Num 12:1 "Cushite" (KJV "Ethiopian"): a woman from Cush, the region south of Egypt.

Num 13:33 "Nephilim": Hebrew nephilim, as in Gen 6:4; the KJV has "giants".

Num 14:33 "Shepherds": Hebrew ro'im, "shepherds" (i.e. living as nomads with their flocks); the KJV has "wander". "Unfaithfulness" renders zenut, literally "whoredom", used figuratively of Israel's unfaithfulness to the LORD.

Num 14:34 "My opposition": Hebrew tenu'ati, a rare word meaning "my opposition" or "my displeasure"; the KJV has "my breach of promise".

Num 15:19 "Contribution": Hebrew terumah, an offering "lifted off" or set apart for the LORD; the KJV has "heave offering".

Num 16:30 "Sheol": the KJV has "the pit" here and in 16:33.

Num 18:8 "As a portion": Hebrew lemoshchah, from mashach "anoint"; understood here as "portion, share" (as in Lev 7:35). The KJV has "by reason of the anointing".

Num 18:10 "In a most holy place": literally "in the holy of holies"; it refers to the sacred precincts where the most holy portions were eaten (Lev 6:16), not the inner sanctuary.

Num 19:9 "Water for impurity": Hebrew mei niddah, water used to remove impurity; the KJV has "water of separation". "It is a sin offering" (chatta't): the KJV has "a purification for sin".

Num 20:13 "Meribah" means "quarreling, strife", echoing "the people quarreled" (rib) in 20:3 and 20:13.

Num 21:1 "Atharim": understood as a place name; the KJV, following the ancient versions, has "the way of the spies".

Num 21:3 "Hormah" sounds like cherem, "devoted to destruction", echoing "devote to destruction" in 21:2-3 (KJV "utterly destroy").

Num 21:6 "Fiery serpents": Hebrew nechashim seraphim, literally "burning serpents", probably for their burning bite. In 21:8 "fiery serpent" renders saraph alone.

Num 21:14 "Waheb in Suphah": the Hebrew quotation is a fragment and its sense is uncertain; Waheb and Suphah are taken as place names. The KJV has "What he did in the Red sea".

Num 21:30 Hebrew difficult; "we shot them down" follows the Masoretic vowels (wanniram). Some versions read "their dominion (or lamp) has perished".

Num 22:5 "The River": the Euphrates.

Num 22:32 "Reckless": Hebrew yarat, a rare verb of uncertain sense ("rush headlong, be precipitate"); the KJV has "perverse".

Num 23:7 "Discourse": Hebrew mashal, a poetic utterance or oracle; the KJV has "parable". So also in 23:18; 24:3, 15, 20, 21, 23.

Num 23:10 "The fourth part of Israel": Hebrew rova', taken as "fourth part" (as in the KJV); some take it as "dust cloud".

Num 23:22 "Wild ox": Hebrew re'em, a strong wild ox (the extinct aurochs). The KJV has "unicorn", following the Greek monokeros. "He has strength like the horns of the wild ox" renders a phrase of uncertain sense, literally "like the horns (or heights) of a wild ox to him".

Num 23:23 "Against Jacob": the preposition be can mean "in" or "against"; "against" as in the KJV.

Num 24:3 "Whose eye is opened": Hebrew shetum, a rare word; some render "whose eye is closed". So also in 24:15.

Num 24:8 "Wild ox": Hebrew re'em; the KJV has "unicorn". See the note on 23:22.

Num 24:17 "A star... a scepter": lowercase, as figures in Balaam's oracle; the KJV capitalizes "Star" and "Sceptre", reading them as messianic titles. "The forehead" (pa'ate, literally "the two sides, corners") follows the parallel in Jer 48:45. "Sons of Sheth": Sheth may be a people's name or a word meaning "tumult".

Num 24:22 "Kain": Hebrew Qayin, the name of the Kenite people (24:21). "Be burned away" (leva'er) can also mean "be destroyed".

Num 25:1 "Commit sexual immorality": Hebrew zanah, KJV "commit whoredom".

Num 25:4 "Hang": the verb (hoqia') probably denotes impaling or exposing the bodies; KJV "hang them up".

Num 25:8 "Chamber": qubbah, a vaulted tent or alcove, used only here; KJV "tent".

Num 26:39 "Shephupham": the Hebrew spelling; KJV "Shupham", matching the clan name "Shuphamites".

Num 27:18 "The Spirit": Hebrew ruach without article; it may be read "a man in whom is spirit". KJV "the spirit".

Num 28:2 "Food offering(s)": Hebrew 'isheh, traditionally "offering made by fire" (KJV); the sense "food gift" is suggested by "my food" in the same verse.

Num 29:1 "A day of blowing the trumpets": Hebrew yom teru'ah, literally "a day of shouting/blast"; no instrument is named in the Hebrew.

Num 29:40 In the Hebrew Bible this verse is 30:1, and 30:1-16 is numbered 30:2-17; the English numbering is followed.

Num 32:14 "Brood": Hebrew tarbut, "increase, offspring"; KJV "an increase of sinful men".

Num 32:38 "Their names being changed": Hebrew musabbot shem, a parenthetical remark that these names (Nebo and Baal-meon, names of gods) were altered.

Num 32:41 "Havvoth-jair": "the tent villages of Jair".

Num 33:52 "Carved stones": Hebrew maskiyyot, carved figures or stones; KJV "pictures".

Num 34:8 "Lebo-hamath": Hebrew lebo' chamat, possibly a place name; KJV "the entrance of Hamath".

Num 35:12 "The avenger": Hebrew go'el, the kinsman-redeemer; in this chapter the go'el haddam, "avenger of blood".

Num 35:16 "Murderer"/"manslayer": both render Hebrew rotseach; "manslayer" is used where the killing is unintentional (vv. 6, 11-12, 25-28), "murderer" where it is deliberate.

Deuteronomy

Deut 1:1 "On the other side of the Jordan" (be'ever hayyarden), i.e. east of the Jordan from the standpoint of the land; the KJV has "on this side Jordan." "Suph" is a place name here; the KJV has "the Red sea."

Deut 2:34 Hebrew "haram" (hif.): to devote to destruction, placing persons or things under the ban (herem) as belonging wholly to the LORD. The KJV has "utterly destroyed." So also 3:6; 7:2, 26; 13:15, 17; 20:17.

Deut 2:37 Literally "and all that the LORD our God commanded"; the sense is the places he commanded them not to approach.

Deut 3:11 Hebrew "eres" normally means "bed" or "couch"; some understand it here as a sarcophagus. The KJV has "bedstead."

Deut 4:13 "The Ten Words": Hebrew aseret haddevarim; the KJV has "ten commandments." So also 10:4.

Deut 5:21 The Hebrew uses two different verbs: "hamad" (covet) for the neighbor's wife and "hit'avveh" (desire) for the house and the rest.

Deut 6:4 Hebrew "YHWH eloheinu YHWH ehad." Also possible: "The LORD is our God, the LORD alone."

Deut 7:5 "Asherim" (plural of Asherah): wooden cult poles or images associated with the goddess Asherah; the KJV has "groves." So also 12:3; 16:21 ("an Asherah," KJV "a grove").

Deut 8:3 Literally "by all that goes out of the mouth of the LORD"; the KJV has "by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD," as in Matt 4:4.

Deut 10:6 "Beeroth Bene-jaakan" means "the wells of the sons of Jaakan"; the KJV has "Beeroth of the children of Jaakan."

Deut 11:30 Hebrew "elonei moreh": "the oaks (or terebinths) of Moreh"; the KJV has "the plains of Moreh."

Deut 12:32 In the Hebrew Bible this verse is 13:1.

Deut 13:1 Deut 13:1-18 in the English numbering is 13:2-19 in the Hebrew Bible (Hebrew 13:1 is English 12:32); the English numbering is followed.

Deut 13:16 "As a whole offering to the LORD" renders kalil, "whole, complete," a term also used of an offering wholly burned (KJV "every whit").

Deut 14:5 Several of the animal names in 14:5 and the bird names in 14:12-18 are of uncertain identification; probable identifications are given.

Deut 15:2 Literally "every owner of a loan of his hand shall release what he lends to his neighbor"; the release (shemittah) cancels or suspends the debt.

Deut 15:18 "Worth twice the wages of a hired worker": mishneh can mean "double" or "the equivalent of"; the slave's service is valued at twice (or at the same as) a hired worker's wages (KJV "a double hired servant").

Deut 17:8 "Between blood and blood, between claim and claim, or between stroke and stroke": that is, cases of homicide, of legal rights, and of assault (or, possibly, of skin disease, since nega' is also used of leprous "plague").

Deut 17:18 "A copy of this law" renders mishneh hattorah hazzot; the Greek rendering of this phrase (deuteronomion) gave the book its name.

Deut 18:1 "Food offerings" renders 'ishshe, traditionally "offerings made by fire" (so the KJV).

Deut 18:8 "Besides what he receives from the sale of his patrimony": literally "apart from his sales according to the fathers"; the sense is uncertain.

Deut 18:11 "Medium" and "spiritist" for 'ov and yidde'oni (KJV "consulter with familiar spirits" and "wizard").

Deut 19:6 "Avenger of blood" for go'el haddam, the kinsman responsible for redeeming the blood of the slain.

Deut 20:6 "Begun to enjoy its fruit" renders chillel, literally "made it common," that is, put a newly planted vineyard to ordinary use after the fruit of the first years had been set apart (Lev 19:23-25).

Deut 20:19 The Hebrew ki ha'adam 'ets hassadeh is taken as a question, "Is the tree of the field a man...?"; the KJV reads it as a statement: "for the tree of the field is man's life."

Deut 21:23 "Cursed by God" for qilelat 'Elohim, literally "a curse of God" (KJV "accursed of God"); cited in Gal 3:13.

Deut 22:5 "What pertains to a man" renders keli gever, a broad term for a man's articles: clothing, gear, or weapons.

Deut 22:12 "Tassels" for gedilim, "twisted cords" (KJV "fringes"); cf. Num 15:38-39.

Deut 22:15 In 22:15-29 the Hebrew writes na'ar ("young man") in most places but reads na'arah ("young woman"); the Qere is followed.

Deut 22:30 Deut 22:30 in the English numbering is 23:1 in the Hebrew Bible, and 23:1-25 in English is 23:2-26 in Hebrew; the English numbering is followed. "Uncover his father's skirt": that is, violate his father's marital rights.

Deut 23:2 "One born of a forbidden union" for mamzer, a word of uncertain meaning, usually understood as the offspring of an incestuous or otherwise prohibited union (KJV "a bastard").

Deut 23:17 "Cult prostitute" for qedeshah (feminine) and qadesh (masculine), persons attached to pagan shrines (KJV "whore" and "sodomite"). "Children of Israel" (rather than "children of Israel") keeps the contrast with "daughters of Israel."

Deut 23:18 "The price of a dog" probably refers to the earnings of a male prostitute (cf. 23:17).

Deut 24:1 "Some indecency" renders 'erwat davar, literally "the nakedness of a thing"; the precise sense was debated already in antiquity (KJV "some uncleanness"). Cf. 23:14, "anything indecent," with the same phrase.

Deut 24:6 "An upper millstone" renders rekhev, the upper "rider" stone; taking either stone of the hand mill deprives a household of its daily bread.

Deut 25:5 "Perform the duty of a husband's brother" renders the verb yibbem (levirate marriage); so also in 25:7.

Deut 26:5 "An Aramean about to perish" for 'arammi 'oved; 'oved can mean "perishing" or "wandering, lost" (KJV "a Syrian ready to perish"). The reference is to Jacob.

Deut 26:17 "You have declared" (26:17) and "the LORD has declared" (26:18) render the rare causative form he'emir, "cause to say" or "proclaim"; the two verses describe the mutual affirmation of the covenant.

Deut 28:27 "Tumors" follows the Qere (טְחֹרִים); the written text (Ketiv) has עָפֳלִים, "swellings". KJV "emerods".

Deut 29:19 "To sweep away the watered along with the parched": a proverbial expression of uncertain sense, probably meaning that the sinner's stubbornness brings ruin on everyone, the righteous and the guilty alike.

Deut 30:3 "Restore your fortunes" renders shav et-shevutekha (KJV "turn thy captivity"); the phrase can also mean "bring back your captives."

Deut 32:5 The Hebrew is very compressed; literally "he has corrupted to him, not his sons, their blemish". The sense is that by their defect they have shown they are not truly his children.

Deut 32:8 "The children of Israel" is the Masoretic reading. The Septuagint and a Qumran manuscript read "the sons of God" (or "angels of God").

Deut 32:42 "Long-haired heads" renders פַּרְעוֹת; the word may also mean "leaders", hence "from the head of the leaders of the enemy".

Deut 32:43 Literally "Make his people shout for joy, O nations" or "Praise his people, O nations"; the "with" is implied (so also KJV). The longer text of the Septuagint, partly quoted in Heb 1:6 and Rom 15:10, is not in the Hebrew.

Deut 33:2 "A fiery law" follows the Qere אֵשׁ דָּת (as KJV). The Ketiv is one word, אשדת, of uncertain meaning (perhaps "slopes" or "flashing fire").

Deut 33:17 "Wild ox" for רְאֵם, a powerful wild bovine (probably the aurochs). KJV "unicorn" follows the Septuagint's monokeros.

Deut 33:25 "Strength" renders the rare word דֶּבְאָ; found only here; its meaning is uncertain ("rest", "security" and "strength" have all been proposed).

Joshua

Josh 2:10 "Devoted to destruction" renders the verb haram (hif.), placing people or things under the ban (herem) as belonging wholly to the LORD; the KJV has "utterly destroyed." So throughout the book.

Josh 5:6 "to give us": the Hebrew has the first person (lanu), the speaker identifying with Israel; KJV likewise.

Josh 5:14 "No": Hebrew lo' (negative); some manuscripts read lo, "to him".

Josh 6:18 "devote them to destruction and then take": the Masoretic text has pen-tacharimu; the Greek reads "lest you covet".

Josh 7:26 "Achor" means "trouble", a play on Joshua's words in v. 25.

Josh 8:13 "went into the middle of the valley": Hebrew vayelekh, "went"; some manuscripts read vayalen, "lodged" (compare v. 9).

Josh 9:4 "posed as envoys": Hebrew vayitstayyaru; some manuscripts and the ancient versions read vayitstayyadu, "took provisions" (compare v. 12).

Josh 10:13 "Book of Jashar": Jashar means "the upright"; a lost collection of poems, also cited in 2 Sam 1:18.

Josh 11:20 "harden their hearts": literally "make their hearts strong" (chazaq).

Josh 12:18 "Lasharon": Hebrew lasharon; could also be read "of the Sharon", i.e. the king of Aphek in the Sharon.

Josh 13:5 "Lebo-hamath": or "the entrance of Hamath" (so the KJV); taken here as a place name.

Josh 13:14 "Food offerings" renders 'ishshe, traditionally "offerings made by fire" (so the KJV).

Josh 13:26 "Lo-debar": the written text (Ketiv) has lidbir; the reading follows the town known from 2 Sam 9:4; KJV "Debir".

Josh 14:8 "wholly followed": literally "filled after" the LORD, i.e. followed him fully; also in vv. 9 and 14.

Josh 15:3 "ascent of Akrabbim": Akrabbim means "scorpions".

Josh 15:40 "Lahmas": so the Masoretic text; many manuscripts and the KJV read "Lahmam".

Josh 15:52 "Rumah": so the Masoretic text; many manuscripts and the KJV read "Dumah" (the Hebrew letters r and d are very similar).

Josh 17:11 "the three heights": Hebrew shelosheth hannapheth; obscure, perhaps referring to Naphath-dor (12:23) or to three hilly districts.

Josh 18:28 "Gibeath and Kiriath": Hebrew gibe'at qiryat; possibly one name, or Kiriath standing for Kiriath-jearim; the count of fourteen requires two towns.

Josh 19:22 "Shahazimah" follows the Qere (as the KJV); the written text (Ketiv) has Shahazumah.

Josh 19:28 "Ebron": so the Masoretic text; some manuscripts read "Abdon" (compare 21:30); KJV "Hebron".

Josh 19:34 "Judah at the Jordan": the mention of Judah this far north is difficult; the Greek omits it. Translated as it stands.

Josh 19:47 "slipped away from them": literally "went out from them", i.e. the Danites could not hold their allotted territory (compare Judg 1:34; 18:1).

Josh 21:36 Verses 36-37 are missing from the Leningrad Codex and many Hebrew manuscripts; they are found in other manuscripts and the versions, and are kept here as in the KJV (compare 1 Chr 6:78-79).

Josh 22:14 "thousands": Hebrew alphe yisra'el, here the clans or divisions of Israel (also vv. 21, 30).

Josh 22:22 "The Mighty One, God, the LORD": Hebrew El Elohim YHWH, three names of God repeated as a solemn oath formula.

Josh 22:34 The Hebrew gives no separate name before the explanation; many manuscripts and the KJV (in italics) supply "Ed", meaning "witness".

Josh 24:2 "the River": the Euphrates (also vv. 3, 14, 15).

Josh 24:32 "pieces of money": Hebrew qesitah, a unit of value of unknown weight (Gen 33:19).

Judges

Judg 3:7 "Asherim": Hebrew 'asherot/'asherim, the cult poles or images of the goddess Asherah (also "Asherah" in 6:25-30); KJV "groves".

Judg 3:8 "Mesopotamia": Hebrew Aram-naharaim, "Aram of the two rivers" (v. 10 has only "Aram"); so the KJV, as in Gen 24:10. Elsewhere in the historical books Aram is rendered "Syria" (10:6).

Judg 3:15 "Restricted in his right hand": literally "bound/impeded as to his right hand", i.e. left-handed; KJV "lefthanded".

Judg 3:19 "Carved images": pesilim, elsewhere idols; KJV "quarries" (margin "graven images").

Judg 3:22 "Dung": parshedonah, a word used only here; sense uncertain (KJV "dirt"). Some take it as "he went out through the vestibule".

Judg 3:24 "Relieving himself": literally "covering his feet", a euphemism; KJV "covereth his feet".

Judg 5:7 "Village life": perazon, meaning uncertain ("rural population" or "leadership"); KJV "the inhabitants of the villages".

Judg 5:8 "War was at the gates": lechem she'arim, an obscure phrase; the noun is often taken as "fighting". KJV "then was war in the gates".

Judg 5:13 Difficult line; the Masoretic vowels allow "Then he made a remnant rule over the nobles" (KJV). Rendered here as two parallel verbs "came down".

Judg 5:30 "A womb, two wombs": Hebrew racham, a crude term for captive women; KJV "a damsel or two". "Necks of the plunderer": literally "necks of spoil".

Judg 6:25 "The second bull seven years old": the Hebrew may mean a second bull besides "your father's bull", or explain it; KJV "even the second bullock of seven years old".

Judg 6:26 "Stronghold": ma'oz, "place of refuge"; "in the proper arrangement" renders bamma'arakah, literally "in the row/order"; KJV "upon the top of this rock, in the ordered place".

Judg 7:5 The Hebrew construction is elliptical: "every one who laps... you shall set apart, and every one who kneels" (KJV adds "likewise"). Verse 6 makes clear that the lappers raised water to the mouth with the hand.

Judg 8:16 "Taught... a lesson": Hebrew wayyoda', "he made known / taught"; KJV "taught". Some ancient versions read "threshed" (as in v. 7).

Judg 9:2 "Leaders": ba'ale Shekem, literally "lords/owners of Shechem", the landholding citizens; KJV "men of Shechem".

Judg 9:6 "Oak of the pillar": 'elon mutsav, "the oak of the set-up stone"; KJV "the plain of the pillar".

Judg 9:31 "Secretly": betormah, possibly a place name ("in Tormah", cf. Arumah, v. 41); KJV "privily".

Judg 9:46 "Stronghold": tsriach, an inner chamber or fortified hall; KJV "hold".

Judg 10:16 "His soul could bear... no longer": literally "his soul was short with the trouble of Israel"; KJV "his soul was grieved for the misery of Israel".

Judg 11:31 "Whatever comes out": Hebrew hayyotse', masculine, which can mean "whoever"; KJV "whatsoever". The text does not decide whether a person was in view.

Judg 11:37 "Wander": reading weyaradti as "go down", or from rud "roam"; KJV "go up and down upon the mountains".

Judg 11:40 "Commemorate": letannot, "to recount / lament", as in 5:11; KJV "to lament" (margin "to talk with").

Judg 12:7 "In one of the cities of Gilead": Hebrew "in the cities of Gilead" (plural); KJV "in one of the cities of Gilead".

Judg 13:18 "Wonderful": peli (Qere pil'i), "beyond understanding"; same root as "a wonderful thing" in v. 19. KJV "secret".

Judg 14:15 "On the seventh day": so the Hebrew; the Septuagint and Syriac read "fourth", which fits v. 14 ("three days") better. KJV follows the Hebrew.

Judg 15:16 "Heaps upon heaps": chamor chamoratayim, a pun on chamor "donkey" and chamor "heap"; KJV "heaps upon heaps".

Judg 15:19 "En-hakkore": "the spring of the one who called". "The hollow place": makhtesh, literally "mortar"; KJV "an hollow place that was in the jaw".

Judg 16:2 "The Gazites were told": the Hebrew has only "To the Gazites, saying"; the verb is implied (the Septuagint supplies "it was told"). KJV "And it was told the Gazites".

Judg 16:7 "Bowstrings": yetarim lachim, "fresh cords/sinews"; KJV "green withs" (margin "new cords").

Judg 16:13 "Web": the warp on the loom. The Septuagint has a longer text in vv. 13-14 that is not in the Hebrew and is not translated here.

Judg 17:1 "Micah": Hebrew Michayehu (Micaiah) in vv. 1 and 4, Michah elsewhere; KJV "Micah" throughout.

Judg 17:5 "House of gods": beit elohim; may also be read "house of God" (a shrine). "Household idols": teraphim. "Consecrated": literally "filled the hand of", also in v. 12.

Judg 17:10 "A year": layyamim, literally "for the days", here "yearly"; KJV "by the year". "So the Levite went in": the sense of the Hebrew wayyelekh, perhaps "went (along with it)".

Judg 18:7 "Who held power over them": yoresh 'etser, obscure ("possessing restraint"); KJV "magistrate". The phrase is variously understood.

Judg 18:12 "West of": literally "behind", i.e. west in Hebrew orientation; KJV "behind".

Judg 18:30 "Manasseh": the Hebrew writes Manasseh with a raised (suspended) nun, signalling that "Moses" (Mosheh) is meant; KJV "Manasseh".

Judg 19:2 "Was unfaithful": watizneh, literally "played the harlot"; the Septuagint has "was angry with him".

Judg 19:18 "The house of the LORD": so the Hebrew; the Septuagint reads "my house", which suits v. 29.

Judg 19:22 "Know him": a euphemism for sexual relations, as in v. 25.

Judg 20:16 "Restricted in the right hand": as in 3:15, i.e. left-handed.

Judg 20:33 "Open ground of Geba": ma'areh-geba', a word of uncertain meaning; KJV "the meadows of Gibeah".

Judg 20:43 "At their resting place": menuchah, possibly a place name (Menuhah) or "with ease"; KJV "with ease".

Judg 20:48 "The whole city": reading metom, "soundness/entirety" (Masoretic); some manuscripts read metim "men". KJV "as well the men of every city".

Judg 21:22 "Grant them to us as a favor": literally "show us favor (with) them". The last clause means that, having not given the women willingly, the fathers would not break the oath.

Ruth

Ruth 1:8 "Deal kindly": chesed, here between people; rendered "kindness" (see 2:20, 3:10).

Ruth 1:20 "Naomi" means "pleasant"; "Mara" means "bitter".

Ruth 1:21 "Testified against me": 'anah bi, "answered/testified against me"; KJV "testified against me". The Septuagint reads "humbled me".

Ruth 2:7 "In the shelter": literally "her sitting in the house (was) little"; the sense is uncertain. KJV "that she tarried a little in the house".

Ruth 2:20 "Redeemers": go'el, the kinsman with the right and duty to redeem property and to preserve the family name (Lev 25:25); KJV "one of our next kinsmen". The same word throughout chs. 3-4.

Ruth 3:3 "Your cloak": the Qere simlotayikh (plural, "your garments") is written; KJV "thy raiment". "Go down": Qere weyaradt (you); Ketiv "I will go down". Likewise in v. 4 the Qere "you will lie down" is followed.

Ruth 3:9 "Corner of your garment": kanaf, also "wing", echoing 2:12 ("under whose wings"); KJV "skirt".

Ruth 3:15 "Six measures": Hebrew "six of barley", the measure is not named; KJV "six measures". "He went": so the Masoretic (Leningrad) text, i.e. Boaz went into the town; many manuscripts and versions read "she went" (so the KJV).

Ruth 3:16 "How did it go": literally "Who are you, my daughter?"; KJV "Who art thou, my daughter?"

Ruth 4:1 "My friend": peloni 'almoni, "so-and-so", a deliberate non-naming; KJV "Ho, such a one".

Ruth 4:4 "If he will not": the Hebrew has "he", probably addressed through the elders; many manuscripts and versions read "you".

Ruth 4:5 "You must also acquire Ruth": following the Qere qanitah ("you acquire"); the Ketiv reads "I acquire". The Hebrew "from Naomi and from Ruth" is understood as in KJV, "thou must buy it also of Ruth".

Ruth 4:20 "Salmon": the Hebrew spells the name Salmah here and Salmon in v. 21.

1 Samuel

1 Sam 1:5 "A double portion": Hebrew 'appayim (lit. "of two faces/nostrils") is obscure; KJV "a worthy portion".

1 Sam 2:3 Following the Qere lo ("by him"); the Ketiv lo' would read "and actions are not weighed".

1 Sam 2:16 Following the Qere lo' ("no"); the Ketiv lo reads "to him".

1 Sam 2:28 "Food offerings": Hebrew 'ishsheh; KJV "offerings made by fire".

1 Sam 3:13 "Bringing a curse on themselves" (lit. "cursing for themselves"); KJV "made themselves vile". Ancient tradition (tiqqun soferim) holds the original read "cursing God".

1 Sam 4:13 "By the road": following the Qere yad ("side"); the Ketiv yk is unclear.

1 Sam 5:6 "Tumors": following the Qere tehorim (also in 5:9, 12; 6:4, 5, 11, 17); the Ketiv 'ofalim means "swellings"; KJV "emerods".

1 Sam 6:18 "The great Abel" is the Masoretic reading; many take it as "the great stone" (cf. 6:14-15), as the KJV does.

1 Sam 6:19 The Hebrew reads literally "seventy men, fifty thousand men"; the syntax is difficult.

1 Sam 9:24 The end of Samuel's words is obscure in Hebrew (lit. "for to the appointed time it has been kept for you, saying, 'The people I have invited'").

1 Sam 10:27 Minchah here means a gift or tribute to the king, not a grain offering.

1 Sam 12:11 "Bedan" is the Masoretic reading; the name is unknown elsewhere among the judges (some ancient versions read "Barak").

1 Sam 13:1 The Hebrew reads literally "Saul was a son of a year when he became king, and he reigned two years over Israel"; the numbers appear incomplete. Rendered in the traditional sense, as in the KJV.

1 Sam 13:21 "Pim": a weight of about two thirds of a shekel, known from inscribed weights; the KJV, not knowing the word, has "a file". "A third of a shekel" interprets the obscure "and for three of a fork".

1 Sam 14:18 "Ark of God" is the Masoretic reading; the Greek version reads "ephod", which fits v. 3 and v. 19.

1 Sam 14:27 "His eyes brightened": following the Qere (also v. 29); the Ketiv reads "his eyes saw".

1 Sam 14:41 "Give a perfect lot" (Hebrew havah tamim); tamim may also allude to the Thummim.

1 Sam 15:23 "Idolatry" renders terafim (household idols).

1 Sam 15:29 "The Eternal One of Israel" (Hebrew netsah, "enduring one", also "glory"); KJV "the Strength of Israel".

1 Sam 15:32 "Cheerfully" (ma'adannot) is uncertain; the word may also mean "in fetters" or "hesitantly".

1 Sam 17:12 "Advanced in years among men": the Hebrew ba ba'anashim is difficult (literally "gone in among men"); taken as "advanced in age", as in the expression ba bayyamim. The KJV has "went among men for an old man".

1 Sam 17:18 "Some token from them": Hebrew 'arubbatam, "their pledge", probably some proof that they were well or a token for the goods received.

1 Sam 17:29 "Was it not just a word?": Hebrew halo davar hu, which can also mean "Was it not a matter worth asking?"; the KJV has "Is there not a cause?"

1 Sam 18:10 "Raved": the hithpael of naba', "prophesy", here of uncontrolled ecstatic behavior under the evil spirit; the KJV has "prophesied".

1 Sam 18:21 "A second time": Hebrew bishtayim, literally "by two", understood as a second offer (after Merab). The KJV has "in the one of the twain".

1 Sam 19:13 "Household idol": Hebrew teraphim (plural in form, here a single figure); the KJV has "an image".

1 Sam 20:41 "From beside the south side of the stone": the Hebrew has only me'etsel hannegev, "from beside the south"; the KJV has "out of a place toward the south".

1 Sam 21:5 The Hebrew of David's reply is compressed and difficult; rendered as an argument from the lesser to the greater about the men's ritual cleanness.

1 Sam 22:6 "On the height": Hebrew baramah, which may also be the town name Ramah (so the KJV). "Tamarisk": Hebrew 'eshel; the KJV has "a tree".

1 Sam 22:14 "Who has access to your private council": Hebrew sar 'el mishma'techa, literally "who turns aside to your hearing" (mishma'at elsewhere means a private audience or bodyguard, 2 Sam 23:23); the KJV has "goeth at thy bidding".

1 Sam 24:3 "To relieve himself": literally "to cover his feet", a euphemism.

1 Sam 25:6 "Long life to you!": Hebrew lechai, literally "to life" or "to the living one", taken as a greeting; the KJV has "to him that liveth in prosperity".

1 Sam 25:22 "One male": literally "one who urinates against a wall", an idiom for a male (also in 25:34). "To the enemies of David": the Hebrew softens the oath by placing it on David's enemies rather than on David himself.

1 Sam 26:19 "May he accept an offering": literally "may he smell an offering".

1 Sam 27:7 "A year": Hebrew yamim, literally "days", which often means a full year.

1 Sam 28:3 "The mediums and the spiritists": Hebrew 'ovot and yidde'onim; the KJV has "those that had familiar spirits, and the wizards".

1 Sam 28:13 "A divine being": Hebrew 'elohim with a plural participle ("coming up"), here of a supernatural figure from the realm of the dead; the KJV has "gods".

1 Sam 30:30 "Bor-ashan": so the Masoretic text; the KJV has "Chorashan".

1 Sam 31:13 "Tamarisk": Hebrew 'eshel, as in 22:6; the KJV has "a tree".

2 Samuel

2 Sam 1:9 "Agony" renders the rare Hebrew shabats (KJV "anguish"); it may denote cramp or dizziness.

2 Sam 1:18 Hebrew: "to teach the children of Judah bow." Taken as the title of the lament ("The Bow"); the KJV supplies "the use of the bow."

2 Sam 1:19 Hebrew hatsevi can mean "the glory/beauty" or "the gazelle."

2 Sam 1:21 "Fields of offerings" is literal; the phrase is obscure (perhaps fields yielding grain for offerings). "No longer anointed": Hebrew "without anointed (one) with oil"; may refer to the shield (leather shields were oiled) or to Saul.

2 Sam 2:23 Hebrew homesh: "belly" (KJV "fifth rib," a traditional rendering).

2 Sam 2:27 Joab's oath: either the pursuit would have stopped already in the morning had Abner spoken earlier, or (KJV) it would have continued until morning. Translated in the first sense.

2 Sam 3:8 "A dog's head that belongs to Judah": an expression of contempt; Abner protests that he is no lowly partisan of Judah.

2 Sam 3:12 Hebrew tahtav, "in his place": either "on his own behalf" or "where he was" (KJV "on his behalf").

2 Sam 3:29 "Holds a spindle": doing women's work, i.e., an effeminate or weak man; some take pelekh as "crutch."

2 Sam 3:39 Hebrew rakh, "tender, soft": David is still weak in power though anointed king.

2 Sam 4:6 Literally "takers of wheat": they entered as if to fetch grain. The verse is compressed in the Hebrew.

2 Sam 5:6 Hebrew "unless you remove the blind and the lame" (infinitive with the Qere hesirkha). Rendered as the Jebusites' taunt that even the disabled could repel David.

2 Sam 5:8 Hebrew tsinnor: "water shaft" or "gutter" (KJV "gutter"); the syntax of David's saying is elliptical. "Hated" follows the Qere (sene'e).

2 Sam 5:23 Hebrew bekha'im: some kind of tree (KJV "mulberry trees"); "balsam" is a traditional guess.

2 Sam 6:2 "Baale-judah" is a place name (= Kiriath-jearim); the KJV reads "from Baale of Judah." The name is repeated in the Hebrew: "called by the name, the name of the LORD."

2 Sam 6:7 Hebrew shal occurs only here: "error" or "irreverence" (KJV "error").

2 Sam 6:19 Hebrew eshpar is uncertain: "portion of meat" or "date cake" (KJV "a good piece of flesh").

2 Sam 7:19 "This is the instruction for mankind": Hebrew torat ha'adam, obscure; perhaps "this is the manner of men" (KJV) or a promise reaching to all mankind.

2 Sam 7:23 The Hebrew shifts persons ("for you... your land"); retained as in the original.

2 Sam 8:1 Metheg-ammah, "bridle of the mother (city)," may be a figurative phrase for control of the chief city (cf. 1 Chr 18:1, "Gath and her towns").

2 Sam 8:5 "Syrians"/"Syria": Hebrew Aram/Arameans; the familiar KJV form is used in the historical books (also 8:6, 12-13; ch. 10; 15:8).

2 Sam 8:13 "Syrians": the Masoretic text has Aram; 1 Chr 18:12 and the title of Ps 60 have Edom, and v. 14 continues with Edom.

2 Sam 8:18 Hebrew kohanim, "priests" (KJV "chief rulers," following 1 Chr 18:17).

2 Sam 9:11 The last sentence is presented as the king's words ("my table"); the KJV supplies "said the king."

2 Sam 11:1 "Kings" follows the Qere (hammelakhim); the written text (Ketiv) has "messengers."

2 Sam 11:4 "Purifying herself from her uncleanness" refers to purification after her monthly period, showing she was not pregnant by Uriah.

2 Sam 12:14 Literally "you have greatly scorned the enemies of the LORD," widely understood as a scribal softening of "you have scorned the LORD"; rendered in the sense followed by the KJV.

2 Sam 12:25 Jedidiah means "beloved of the LORD (Yah)."

2 Sam 12:30 Hebrew malkam: "their king" (so KJV) or the Ammonite god Milcom.

2 Sam 12:31 The Hebrew may mean forced labor with saws and tools (as here) or, as the KJV has it, putting them under saws and through the kiln as punishment. "Brick kiln" follows the Qere (malben).

2 Sam 13:16 The Hebrew is difficult ("Do not, concerning this great evil..."); rendered by its evident sense.

2 Sam 13:18 Hebrew ketonet passim, as in Gen 37:3; "long robe with sleeves" (KJV "garment of divers colours"). The meaning of passim is uncertain.

2 Sam 13:39 Hebrew "and (it) ceased/longed, David the king, to go out to Absalom"; the feminine verb is taken with an implied "soul/spirit." Some understand "ceased (his anger) to go out against Absalom."

2 Sam 14:14 "God does not take away life" (lo yissa elohim nefesh); the KJV reads "neither doth God respect any person."

2 Sam 14:26 "At the end of every year": Hebrew "at the end of days to days," a customary period, usually annual.

2 Sam 15:7 "Forty years" is the Masoretic reading (KJV the same); some ancient versions read "four years."

2 Sam 15:27 Hebrew haro'eh attah: "Are you a seer?" (KJV); others take it as "Do you see?" i.e., "Look."

2 Sam 15:28 "Plains" follows the Qere (arvot); the written text (Ketiv) has "fords."

2 Sam 16:12 The Ketiv reads "my iniquity/affliction"; the Qere "my eye." Rendered in the sense "affliction," as in the KJV.

2 Sam 16:14 Hebrew ayephim, "weary"; possibly a place name ("arrived at Ayephim"), since "there" follows.

2 Sam 17:3 The Hebrew is compressed: "as the return of the whole (is) the man whom you seek"; i.e., killing David alone will bring the whole people back.

2 Sam 17:20 Hebrew mikhal (only here) is uncertain: "brook" or "stream" (KJV "brook").

2 Sam 17:25 "Israelite": 1 Chr 2:17 calls him "Ithra the Ishmaelite."

2 Sam 17:28 "Parched seeds" renders the repeated qali; the second occurrence may be a copying repetition.

2 Sam 18:3 Masoretic text: "for now like us (are) ten thousand"; rendered with the KJV sense "you are worth ten thousand of us" (reading attah, "you").

2 Sam 18:12 "Protect, whoever you are": Hebrew shimru mi, "watch, whoever (you be)." Some ancient versions read "for me" (li).

2 Sam 18:13 "His life" follows the Qere (benafsho); the Ketiv reads "my life."

2 Sam 18:33 In the Hebrew Bible this verse is 19:1, and 2 Sam 19 has one more verse in its numbering; the KJV numbering is followed here.

2 Sam 19:18 Hebrew avrah, "ferry" or "ford" (KJV "ferry boat"); the sense of the crossing is uncertain.

2 Sam 19:43 "We have ten shares in the king": i.e., the ten northern tribes. The Masoretic text has "in David also I (am more) than you"; some ancient versions read "I am the firstborn rather than you."

2 Sam 20:14 "Berites" is uncertain; some read "Bichrites" (the clan of Bichri).

2 Sam 20:18 The proverb "Let them just ask at Abel" refers to Abel's reputation for wisdom.

2 Sam 20:26 Hebrew kohen, "priest" (KJV "chief ruler"); see also 8:18.

2 Sam 21:8 The Masoretic text has "Michal" (as the KJV); since Michal had no child (6:23) and Merab was given to Adriel (1 Sam 18:19), many think Merab is meant. Hebrew "whom she bore to Adriel" may mean "brought up for Adriel."

2 Sam 21:16 Hebrew harafah / rafah, "the giant(s)" (also vv. 18, 20, 22), possibly a proper name, Rapha (the Rephaim). "New armor": the Hebrew has only "new" (a new weapon or belt).

2 Sam 21:19 The Masoretic text reads "Elhanan... struck down Goliath the Gittite." The KJV supplies "the brother of" from 1 Chr 20:5, which names the victim Lahmi the brother of Goliath. "Oregim" ("weavers") in the father's name may be a copying echo of the end of the verse.

2 Sam 21:21 "Shimeah" follows the Qere (Shim'a), the same man as in 13:3; the Ketiv reads "Shimei".

2 Sam 22:5 Hebrew nahale beliyya'al, "torrents of Belial/worthlessness"; here "destruction" by context (KJV "floods of ungodly men").

2 Sam 22:33 Hebrew "God is my fortress of strength"; Ps 18:32 has "who girds me with strength."

2 Sam 22:36 Hebrew anotekha: "your humility/condescension" or "your answering"; KJV "thy gentleness."

2 Sam 22:51 "Tower" follows the Qere (migdol); the Ketiv (magdil) reads "He gives great salvation," as in Ps 18:50.

2 Sam 23:1 "Raised on high": Hebrew huqam al, "raised up on high" (al taken as "height").

2 Sam 23:5 The verse can be read as questions (as here) or as statements ("Truly my house is not so with God..."); the Hebrew is ambiguous.

2 Sam 23:8 The Hebrew is difficult. Josheb-basshebeth ("who sits in the seat"; KJV "that sat in the seat") is taken as a name (cf. Jashobeam in 1 Chr 11:11). "Officers" follows the Qere (hashalishi); "he was called Adino the Eznite" renders hu adino ha'etsni, which 1 Chr 11:11 replaces with "he wielded his spear."

2 Sam 23:13 "Thirty chief men": Hebrew "three from the thirty, head"; perhaps "three of the thirty chiefs."

2 Sam 23:18 "Three" follows the Qere (hashloshah); the Ketiv has "thirty."

2 Sam 23:20 Hebrew ari'el: "heroes" (literally "lion of God" or "altar hearth"); KJV "two lionlike men of Moab."

2 Sam 24:1 The subject of "stirred... up" is the LORD, by the Hebrew syntax; 1 Chr 21:1 says Satan incited David. The sense is that God permitted or used the act in judgment.

2 Sam 24:13 "Seven years" is the Masoretic reading; 1 Chr 21:12 has "three years."

2 Sam 24:23 Literally "All this Araunah the king gives to the king"; "the king" is read here as a vocative. Some take it as calling Araunah a king (Jebusite ruler).

1 Kings

1 Kgs 1:2 "Nurse": Heb. sokhenet, one who attends or takes care of someone; KJV "cherish".

1 Kgs 1:43 "No!": Heb. aval, here a strong adversative ("on the contrary"); KJV "Verily".

1 Kgs 2:23 "At the cost of his own life": lit. "against his soul (nefesh)".

1 Kgs 2:28 "The news came to Joab": the clause "for Joab had sided with Adonijah..." is parenthetical in the Hebrew.

1 Kgs 3:9 "A listening heart": Heb. lev shomea, lit. "a hearing heart"; KJV "an understanding heart".

1 Kgs 3:11 "To discern what is right": lit. "to understand to hear judgment (mishpat)".

1 Kgs 4:5 "Priest": Heb. kohen; here perhaps a court official or chief minister (KJV "principal officer").

1 Kgs 4:21 "The River": the Euphrates. In the Hebrew Bible this verse is 5:1; 4:21-34 here = 5:1-14 in the Hebrew numbering, and 5:1-18 = 5:15-32.

1 Kgs 4:26 "Forty thousand": so the Hebrew; 2 Chr 9:25 has four thousand.

1 Kgs 4:28 "Swift steeds": Heb. rekesh, fast horses (KJV "dromedaries").

1 Kgs 5:8 "Cypress": Heb. berosh, a conifer (KJV "fir").

1 Kgs 5:11 "Twenty cors": so the Hebrew; the Greek has twenty thousand baths (cf. 2 Chr 2:10).

1 Kgs 5:18 "Gebalites": men of Gebal (Byblos); KJV "stonesquarers".

1 Kgs 6:3 "Nave": Heb. heikhal, the main hall of the temple (KJV "temple"); the "inner sanctuary" is the devir (KJV "oracle").

1 Kgs 6:4 "Windows with recessed frames": Heb. obscure (shequfim atumim); KJV "windows of narrow lights".

1 Kgs 6:31 "A fifth part of the wall": Heb. obscure (hamishit); perhaps "five-sided". Likewise "a fourth part" in 6:33.

1 Kgs 7:23 "The Sea": the great bronze basin for washing (2 Chr 4:6).

1 Kgs 7:41 "Bowl-shaped capitals": Heb. gullot, bowl-shaped parts of the capitals (KJV "bowls of the chapiters").

1 Kgs 8:13 "Exalted house": Heb. beit zevul, a lofty or princely dwelling.

1 Kgs 8:32 "Condemning the guilty... justifying the righteous": Heb. lehar'shia rasha... ulehatsdiq tsaddiq, lit. "declaring the wicked wicked... declaring the righteous righteous".

1 Kgs 9:8 "Which is now exalted": Heb. elyon, "high"; some versions read "will become a heap of ruins" (cf. 2 Chr 7:21).

1 Kgs 9:13 "Cabul": sounds like Heb. "as nothing" or "good for nothing".

1 Kgs 9:18 "Tadmor": the Qere; the Ketiv reads Tamar.

1 Kgs 9:26 "Red Sea": Heb. yam suph, here the Gulf of Aqaba.

1 Kgs 10:22 "Peacocks": Heb. tukkiyyim, uncertain; possibly baboons. "Ships of Tarshish" denotes large seagoing ships.

1 Kgs 10:28 "From Kue": Heb. miqveh, here taken as the region Kue (Cilicia); KJV "linen yarn".

1 Kgs 10:29 "Syria": Hebrew Aram, so throughout the book (KJV also "Syria"); compare 2 Kgs 5:1.

1 Kgs 11:5 "Ashtoreth": the Hebrew has "god" (elohei), but the deity is female; rendered "goddess". Likewise in 11:33.

1 Kgs 11:36 "Lamp": Heb. nir, a lamp, figuratively a continuing dynasty.

1 Kgs 12:28 "Here are your gods": Heb. elohekha with a plural verb ("who brought you up"); cf. Exod 32:4.

1 Kgs 12:31 "From among all the people": Heb. miqtsot ha'am, "from the whole range of the people", not "the lowest" (KJV).

1 Kgs 13:33 "Consecrated him": lit. "filled his hand", the idiom for ordaining a priest.

1 Kgs 14:10 "Every male": lit. "one who urinates against the wall"; same idiom in 16:11 and 21:21. "Bond and free": Heb. atsur ve'azuv, of uncertain sense ("shut up and left", KJV).

1 Kgs 14:14 "And what then? Even now": the Hebrew is abrupt and obscure; lit. "this day; and what? even now".

1 Kgs 14:15 "Asherim": wooden cult objects (poles) of the goddess Asherah; KJV "groves". Also 14:23; "Asherah" in 15:13, 16:33.

1 Kgs 14:24 "Male cult prostitutes": Heb. qadesh (KJV "sodomites"); also 15:12, 22:46.

1 Kgs 16:13 "Idols": lit. "vanities" (hevel); also 16:26.

1 Kgs 17:1 "Of the settlers of Gilead": Heb. mitoshavei; the consonants could also be read "from Tishbe in Gilead".

1 Kgs 17:21 "Soul": Heb. nefesh, here the life of the child; also 17:22.

1 Kgs 18:21 "Go limping between two opinions": Heb. posechim al shtei hasse'ippim, lit. "limping on two branches/crutches". The same verb is used in 18:26.

1 Kgs 18:27 "He has stepped aside": Heb. sig lo, of uncertain sense; possibly a euphemism for relieving oneself.

1 Kgs 18:29 "Raved on": Heb. vayyitnabbe'u, lit. "they prophesied", here of ecstatic frenzy.

1 Kgs 19:12 "A sound of thin, quiet stillness": Heb. qol demamah daqqah; KJV "a still small voice".

1 Kgs 20:11 "Straps on his armor... takes it off": lit. "the one girding himself... the one loosening (his belt)".

1 Kgs 20:33 "Watching for a sign": Heb. yenachashu, lit. "were divining", i.e. looking for an omen in his words.

1 Kgs 20:38 "Bandage": Heb. afer, a head covering (KJV "ashes", reading efer).

1 Kgs 20:42 "Devoted to destruction": Heb. ish cheremi, "the man of my ban (cherem)".

1 Kgs 21:10 "Cursed": Heb. berakh, lit. "blessed", a euphemism for cursing; also 21:13.

1 Kgs 22:21 "A spirit": Heb. haruach, with the article, "the spirit".

1 Kgs 22:27 "Meager bread and meager water": lit. "bread of affliction and water of affliction".

1 Kgs 22:38 "The prostitutes washed themselves in it": so the Hebrew (hazzonot rachatsu); KJV "they washed his armour".

2 Kings

2 Kgs 1:2 "Injured" / "injury": the verb and noun (chalah, choli) mean sickness or weakness; here the result of the fall. KJV "was sick... disease". "Baal-zebub": "lord of flies"; a deity of Ekron.

2 Kgs 1:8 "A hairy man": literally "a man, possessor of hair"; may refer either to his body hair or to a garment of hair (compare Zech 13:4).

2 Kgs 2:9 "A double portion": literally "a mouth of two", the firstborn's share (Deut 21:17).

2 Kgs 2:23 "Young boys": ne'arim qetannim; na'ar covers a range from child to young man. KJV "little children".

2 Kgs 3:4 "Sheep breeder": noqed, a raiser or owner of sheep (compare Amos 1:1).

2 Kgs 3:27 "Great wrath against Israel": the Hebrew does not say whose wrath; the text is left as it stands.

2 Kgs 5:1 "Syria": Hebrew Aram, so throughout the book (KJV also "Syria"). "Leprous" / "leprosy": tsara'at, a skin disease, rendered "leprosy" throughout.

2 Kgs 5:12 "Amana": following the Qere; the Ketiv reads "Abana" (as the KJV).

2 Kgs 5:13 "How much more": literally "and indeed, when he has said to you".

2 Kgs 6:1 "Under your oversight": literally "before you", i.e. where we sit before you as disciples.

2 Kgs 6:25 "Dove's dung": following the Qere (divyonim); the Ketiv has a coarser word for dung. Some take it as the name of a cheap food (a plant). A kab is a small dry measure.

2 Kgs 6:33 "The messenger": some propose "the king" (compare 7:2, 17), since the words seem to be the king's; the Hebrew reads "the messenger".

2 Kgs 7:13 The repeated clause ("they are like the whole multitude of Israel...") is in the Masoretic text and is translated as it stands; the sense is that the men sent are no worse off than the rest, who will die anyway.

2 Kgs 8:10 "Say to him": following the Qere (lo, "to him"); the Ketiv lo' ("not") would give "Say, 'You will not recover.'"

2 Kgs 8:11 "Until he was ashamed": the subject is not stated; probably Hazael, under Elisha's gaze.

2 Kgs 8:16 "Jehoshaphat being king of Judah": this phrase is in the Masoretic text; it may reflect a coregency.

2 Kgs 8:26 "Granddaughter": literally "daughter" of Omri, i.e. descendant (she was daughter of Ahab, 8:18).

2 Kgs 9:8 "Every male": literally "one who urinates against a wall" (KJV "him that pisseth against the wall"). "Bond or free": a merism for everyone, whatever the precise sense of the two terms.

2 Kgs 9:13 "The bare steps": literally "the bone of the steps"; sense uncertain, perhaps the steps themselves or the top of the stairway.

2 Kgs 9:25 "Burden of prophecy": massa, an oracle, often of judgment; KJV "burden".

2 Kgs 10:1 "The officials of Jezreel": the Hebrew reads Jezreel, though the letters go to Samaria; probably the officials of the royal house of Jezreel now in Samaria.

2 Kgs 10:15 "Jehonadab": the Hebrew has Jonadab here and Jehonadab in 10:23; the longer form is used in both places.

2 Kgs 10:25 "Inner city": literally "the city of the house of Baal", perhaps the inner sanctuary or citadel of the temple.

2 Kgs 11:4 "Carites": probably foreign mercenaries serving as royal guards (compare the Cherethites, 2 Sam 20:23). "The guard": literally "the runners".

2 Kgs 11:12 "The testimony": ʻedut, probably a copy of the covenant law given to the king (compare Deut 17:18).

2 Kgs 12:4 "The money for which each man is assessed": literally "money that passes", probably the census money (Exod 30:13). The sentence is elliptical in Hebrew.

2 Kgs 13:17 "Victory": teshu'ah, "salvation, deliverance"; KJV "deliverance".

2 Kgs 14:14 "Hostages": literally "the sons of pledges".

2 Kgs 14:26 "Very bitter": following the sense of the Hebrew moreh ("rebellious") as a by-form of marah, "bitter". "No one left, bond or free": see 9:8.

2 Kgs 14:28 "Recovered for Israel Damascus and Hamath, which had belonged to Judah": literally "restored Damascus and Hamath to Judah in Israel"; the phrase is difficult, perhaps recalling Davidic rule over these areas.

2 Kgs 15:5 "A separate house": beit hachofshit, perhaps a house of release from duties, a place of isolation; KJV "several house".

2 Kgs 15:10 "In front of the people": Hebrew qavol-ʻam, an unusual Aramaic-like form; some read "at Ibleam".

2 Kgs 15:13 "Uzziah": another name of Azariah (15:1).

2 Kgs 15:25 "Argob and Arieh": probably two men killed with Pekahiah, though the Hebrew is not clear on their role.

2 Kgs 16:6 "Edomites": following the Qere; the Ketiv reads "Arameans" (Syrians). The forms differ by one letter in Hebrew.

2 Kgs 16:18 "Covered way": following the Qere (musak); the Ketiv has a word from the same root. The precise structure is uncertain.

2 Kgs 17:15 "Worthless things... became worthless": hevel, "vapor, futility", used of idols (KJV "vanity... vain").

2 Kgs 17:16 "An Asherah": a cult pole or image of the goddess Asherah (KJV "a grove").

2 Kgs 18:4 "Nehushtan": a play on nechoshet, "bronze", and nachash, "serpent".

2 Kgs 18:17 "The Tartan, the Rab-saris and the Rabshakeh": Assyrian titles (commander in chief, chief official, chief cupbearer or field commander), kept as titles; the KJV treats them as names.

2 Kgs 18:27 "Their own dung... their own urine": following the Qere, which substitutes milder words ("their excrement", "the water of their feet") for the cruder Ketiv.

2 Kgs 19:9 "Cush": the region south of Egypt (Nubia); KJV "Ethiopia".

2 Kgs 19:23 "With my many chariots": following the Qere (berov); the Ketiv reads "with the chariotry of my chariots".

2 Kgs 19:31 "The LORD of hosts": following the Qere, which adds "of hosts" (as in Isa 37:32).

2 Kgs 19:37 "His sons": following the Qere, which supplies the word (as the KJV does).

2 Kgs 20:4 "The middle court": following the Qere (chatser); the Ketiv reads "the middle city".

2 Kgs 20:7 "He recovered": literally "he lived".

2 Kgs 21:6 "Mediums and spiritists": ʻov and yidde'oni, those who consult the dead and familiar spirits (KJV "familiar spirits and wizards"); so also 23:24.

2 Kgs 21:13 "Plumb line": mishqelet, a leveling weight; the measuring line and plumb line of judgment used on Samaria and Ahab's house.

2 Kgs 22:14 "The Second Quarter": Hebrew mishneh, a newer district of Jerusalem; KJV "in the college".

2 Kgs 23:5 "Idolatrous priests": kemarim, a term used only of pagan priests. "Constellations": mazzalot, perhaps the signs of the zodiac.

2 Kgs 23:7 "Hangings": literally "houses", perhaps tent-coverings or garments for the image of Asherah.

2 Kgs 23:11 "Precincts": parwarim, a rare word for an annex or colonnade of the temple (compare parbar, 1 Chr 26:18).

2 Kgs 23:13 "Mount of Corruption": har hammashchit, a wordplay on the Mount of Olives (mishchah, "anointing"); KJV "mount of corruption".

2 Kgs 23:29 "Went up to the king of Assyria": the preposition ʻal can mean "against" or "to"; historically Neco marched to support Assyria. KJV "against".

2 Kgs 23:33 "So that he might not reign": following the Qere (mimmeloch); the Ketiv reads "when he reigned".

2 Kgs 23:36 "Zebidah": following the Qere; the Ketiv reads "Zebudah".

2 Kgs 24:14 "Craftsmen and smiths": the second term (masger) may mean "locksmiths" or "metalworkers"; KJV "smiths".

2 Kgs 25:3 "On the ninth day of the month": the Hebrew does not name the month here; Jer 52:6 has "in the fourth month".

2 Kgs 25:4 "Fled": the verb is not in the Masoretic text here ("all the men of war by night by the way of the gate"); it is supplied from the sense (compare Jer 52:7).

2 Kgs 25:11 "Deserters": literally "those who fell to the king of Babylon", that is, who went over to him.

2 Kgs 25:19 "Those who saw the king's face": the king's close advisers.

2 Kgs 25:27 "Lifted up the head": an idiom for releasing and showing favor (compare Gen 40:13).

1 Chronicles

1 Chr 1:6 "Diphath": so the Masoretic text; Gen 10:3 and many manuscripts read "Riphath" (KJV).

1 Chr 1:7 "Rodanim": so the Masoretic text; Gen 10:4 has "Dodanim" (KJV here also "Dodanim").

1 Chr 1:36 "and of Timna, Amalek": the Hebrew lists Timna among the sons; Gen 36:12 shows Timna was the concubine who bore Amalek.

1 Chr 1:51 "Aliah": Qere; Gen 36:40 has "Alvah".

1 Chr 2:7 "Achar" ("trouble") is the form of Achan used here, playing on "the troubler of Israel".

1 Chr 2:18 "had children by Azubah his wife, and by Jerioth": the Hebrew is difficult (lit. "fathered with Azubah, a wife, and with Jerioth").

1 Chr 2:24 "in Caleb-ephrathah": the Hebrew is difficult; the Greek reads "Caleb went in to Ephrathah".

1 Chr 2:50 "The sons of Hur": the Hebrew has the singular "son of Hur"; it introduces the list that follows.

1 Chr 2:52 "the Menuhoth": Hebrew ha-Menuchot, probably the same group as the Manahathites of v. 54 (KJV "Manahethites").

1 Chr 3:17 "the captive": Hebrew assir, taken by the KJV as a name (Assir).

1 Chr 3:22 "six": only five names are listed after Shemaiah; the total probably includes Shemaiah.

1 Chr 4:3 "These belonged to the father of Etam": the Hebrew is abrupt (lit. "these were the father of Etam"); the Greek reads "these were the sons of Etam".

1 Chr 4:7 "Zohar": Qere; the written text (Ketiv) has Izhar (KJV "Jezoar").

1 Chr 4:10 "pain": Hebrew 'otsbi, a play on the name Jabez (v. 9).

1 Chr 4:17 "she conceived": the mother is not named; she is probably Bithiah of v. 18.

1 Chr 5:6 "Tiglath-pileser": the Hebrew here spells the name Tilgath-pilneser (also v. 26).

1 Chr 6:28 "the firstborn, and the second, Abijah": the Hebrew vashni means "and the second"; the KJV takes it as a name (Vashni). The firstborn was Joel (v. 33; 1 Sam 8:2).

1 Chr 6:58 "Hilez": so the Masoretic text; Josh 21:15 and many manuscripts have "Hilen"/"Holon" (KJV "Hilen").

1 Chr 6:61 The Hebrew appears abbreviated; Josh 21:5 shows these ten cities came from Ephraim, Dan and the half-tribe of Manasseh.

1 Chr 7:15 The Hebrew of this verse is difficult; "his sister" and "the second" have no clear antecedent.

1 Chr 7:23 "Beriah" sounds like Hebrew bera'ah, "in disaster".

1 Chr 7:28 "Ayyah": so the Masoretic text; many manuscripts read "Gaza" (KJV).

1 Chr 7:34 "Rohgah, Hubbah": Qere; the written text has Rohagah, Jehubbah (KJV "Jehubbah").

1 Chr 8:7 "who carried them into exile": the Hebrew is abrupt (lit. "and Gera, he exiled them"); the KJV makes it "he removed them".

1 Chr 8:29 "the father of Gibeon": his name, Jeiel, is supplied in 9:35.

1 Chr 9:1 The Masoretic accents end the sentence at "Kings of Israel"; the KJV reads "the kings of Israel and Judah, who were carried away".

1 Chr 9:2 "temple servants": Hebrew netinim, "those given" (KJV "Nethinims").

1 Chr 9:32 "the bread set in rows": Hebrew lechem ha-ma'arekhet, "bread of the arrangement" (KJV "shewbread").

1 Chr 9:41 The Hebrew has no "and Ahaz" here (compare 8:35); the KJV supplies it in italics.

1 Chr 11:11 "the officers": Qere ha-shalishim; the written text can be read "the thirty" (also 12:18).

1 Chr 11:21 "honored above the two": the Hebrew is difficult (lit. "above the three, in the two, he was honored"); compare 2 Sam 23:19.

1 Chr 11:22 "the two Ariels of Moab": Hebrew 'ari'el, probably a title or "champion"; the KJV renders "two lionlike men".

1 Chr 12:14 "the least was a match for a hundred": or "the least was over a hundred, and the greatest over a thousand".

1 Chr 12:18 "We are yours": the Hebrew has simply "To you, O David".

1 Chr 13:6 "which is called by his name": the Hebrew is terse (lit. "where a name is called"); compare 2 Sam 6:2.

1 Chr 14:1 "Hiram": Qere; the written text has Huram.

1 Chr 14:11 "Baal-perazim" means "lord of breakings through", echoing "broken through".

1 Chr 14:14 "balsam trees": Hebrew bekha'im, a tree of uncertain identity (KJV "mulberry trees").

1 Chr 15:18 "Ben": probably not a separate name; it is absent from the parallel lists in vv. 20-21 and 16:5.

1 Chr 15:22 "music": Hebrew massa', "lifting up", either of the voice (music) or of the ark (carrying); also v. 27.

1 Chr 16:3 "a portion of dates": Hebrew 'eshpar, a word of uncertain meaning (KJV "a good piece of flesh").

1 Chr 16:38 "Jeduthun": Qere; the written text has Jedithun.

1 Chr 17:5 "from tabernacle to tabernacle": the Hebrew is shortened (lit. "and from tabernacle").

1 Chr 17:17 "have regarded me as a man of high rank": the Hebrew is obscure (lit. "you have seen me according to the manner of a man, the ascent"); compare 2 Sam 7:19.

1 Chr 18:5 "Syrians": Hebrew Aram (also "Syria" in v. 6 and "Syrians" in ch. 19), as in Kings and the KJV. The compound place names Aram-naharaim and Aram-maacah (19:6) are kept.

1 Chr 20:2 "their king": Hebrew malkam, which may also be read as the name of the Ammonite god Milcom.

1 Chr 20:3 "cut them with saws": Hebrew vayyasar; the parallel 2 Sam 12:31 reads vayyasem, "set them to work with".

1 Chr 20:4 "the Rephaim" / "the Rapha" (vv. 6, 8): a people of great stature (KJV "the giant").

1 Chr 20:5 "Jair": Qere; the written text has Jaur.

1 Chr 21:1 "Satan": Hebrew satan without the article, which may also mean "an adversary"; 2 Sam 24:1 says the anger of the LORD incited David.

1 Chr 22:9 "Solomon" (Shelomoh) sounds like shalom, "peace", in the same verse.

1 Chr 22:14 "with great pains": Hebrew be'onyi, "in my affliction" (KJV "in my trouble").

1 Chr 23:9 "Shelomoth": Qere; the written text has Shelomith.

1 Chr 23:10 "Zina": called Zizah in v. 11.

1 Chr 23:13 "to consecrate the most holy things": or "to be consecrated as most holy" (Hebrew lehaqdisho qodesh qodashim).

1 Chr 24:6 "and one taken for Ithamar": the Hebrew repeats "taken, taken for Ithamar".

1 Chr 24:23 "The sons of Hebron... the chief": the Hebrew has only "And the sons: Jeriah"; the rest is supplied from 23:19.

1 Chr 24:26 "Beno": possibly not a name but "his son" (Hebrew beno); also v. 27.

1 Chr 25:3 "six": only five names are listed; the Greek adds Shimei (compare v. 17).

1 Chr 25:5 "to lift up his horn": that is, to exalt him (or, to sound the horn in praise).

1 Chr 26:18 "Parbar": a Hebrew word of uncertain meaning, probably a court or colonnade on the west side of the temple.

1 Chr 26:25 "Shelomith": Qere; the written text has Shelomoth, the form kept in v. 26.

1 Chr 27:29 "Shitrai": Qere; the written text has Shirtai.

1 Chr 28:11 "mercy seat": Hebrew kapporet, the cover of the ark.

1 Chr 28:12 "all that he had in mind": lit. "all that was in the spirit with him"; it may also be read "by the Spirit".

1 Chr 29:5 "consecrate himself": lit. "fill his hand", an idiom used for ordination; here, to give freely.

1 Chr 29:24 "pledged their allegiance": lit. "gave a hand under".

2 Chronicles

2 Chr 1:13 Hebrew "to the high place"; the sense requires "from" (as the following "from before the tent of meeting"); KJV supplies "came from his journey to".

2 Chr 1:16 Hebrew miqqe'/miqweh read as the place name Kue (Cilicia); KJV "linen yarn".

2 Chr 1:17 "Syria": Hebrew Aram, so throughout the book (Syrians for the people), as in Kings and the KJV.

2 Chr 2:3 "Hiram": Hebrew here Huram (so throughout the book); the form of Kings (1 Kgs 5:1; 7:13) is used. The craftsman's name Huram-abi (2:13; 4:16) is kept as in the Hebrew.

2 Chr 2:4 "The regular arrangement" = the continual arrangement of the bread of the Presence (ma'areket tamid).

2 Chr 2:10 "Crushed wheat" renders makkot; the parallel 1 Kgs 5:11 has "food" (makkolet).

2 Chr 2:13 Hebrew "Huram my father" (Huram-abi), a title or part of the name of the craftsman called Hiram in 1 Kgs 7:13; KJV "of Huram my father's".

2 Chr 3:4 Height of the porch "a hundred and twenty" as in the Hebrew; some ancient versions have twenty.

2 Chr 3:16 "In the inner sanctuary" (baddevir) as in the Hebrew; the sense is obscure (KJV "as in the oracle"); many emend to "like a necklace".

2 Chr 4:3 Hebrew "oxen" (beqarim); the parallel 1 Kgs 7:24 has "gourds".

2 Chr 5:9 Hebrew "and it was there to this day", the singular referring to the ark with its poles; rendered "they are there".

2 Chr 6:2 "Exalted house" renders beit zevul (a lofty dwelling); KJV "an house of habitation".

Ezra 7:12 7:12–26 is in Aramaic. "Perfect peace, and so on": the Aramaic has only גְּמִיר ("perfect/complete") and the formula וְכֶעֶנַת; "peace" is supplied, as in the KJV.

Ezra 7:26 "Banishment": Aramaic שָׁרְשִׁי, literally "rooting out"; KJV "banishment".

Ezra 8:5 "Of the sons of Shecaniah, the son of Jahaziel": so the Hebrew; some ancient versions add a clan name ("Zattu").

Ezra 8:10 "Of the sons of Shelomith, the son of Josiphiah": so the Hebrew; some ancient versions read "of the sons of Bani, Shelomith the son of Josiphiah".

Ezra 8:27 "Darics": Hebrew אַדְרַכְנִים, the Persian gold coin (cf. 2:69; 1 Chr 29:7); KJV "drams".

Ezra 9:5 "Humiliation": Hebrew תַּעֲנִית, self-abasement with fasting; KJV "heaviness".

Ezra 9:8 "A peg": Hebrew יָתֵד, a tent peg, i.e. a secure hold; KJV "a nail".

Ezra 10:3 "The Lord" follows the Masoretic pointing אֲדֹנָי; KJV "my lord", taking it of Ezra.

Ezra 10:44 "Some of them had wives by whom they had children": literally "some of them had wives, and they had set sons"; the Hebrew is difficult.

Nehemiah

Neh 1:1 "Susa" for שׁוּשַׁן (KJV "Shushan"); "the citadel" for הַבִּירָה (KJV "the palace"). Same in Esther.

Neh 2:13 "Dragon Spring": Hebrew עֵין הַתַּנִּין may also mean serpent or jackal (KJV "dragon well").

Neh 3:5 "their lord" (אֲדֹנֵיהֶם) may refer to the governor/Nehemiah or to God; KJV "their LORD".

Neh 3:26 "temple servants" translates הַנְּתִינִים (KJV "Nethinims"), literally "those given"; so throughout the book.

Neh 4:12 Hebrew obscure: "from all the places where you turn, against us" (KJV "From all places whence ye shall return unto us they will be upon you"). Rendered by the general sense.

Neh 4:13 Hebrew difficult; "in the open places" renders בְּצִחִיחִים (bare/exposed spots).

Neh 4:23 Hebrew literally "each his weapon, the water"; sense uncertain. KJV "saving that every one put them off for washing".

Neh 5:7 "exacting interest" for מַשָּׁא נֹשִׁים (lending on pledge/interest); KJV "exact usury".

Neh 7:70 "darics" for דַּרְכְּמוֹנִים, a Persian gold coin (KJV "drams"); "minas" for מָנִים (KJV "pound").

Neh 9:38 In the Hebrew text this verse is 10:1, and Neh 10:1–39 is 10:2–40; KJV numbering kept.

Esther

Esth 1:6 Several materials in this verse are rare words of uncertain identification (בַּהַט, דַּר, סָחֶרֶת): rendered porphyry, mother-of-pearl, colored stones.

Esth 2:23 "gallows" renders עֵץ, literally "tree" or "wood" (KJV "tree" here, "gallows" from 5:14 on); probably a stake or pole for impaling or hanging. Used throughout the book.

Esth 7:4 The last clause is difficult: "the distress would not be worth the damage to the king" (or "the enemy could not compensate for the king's loss", cf. KJV).

Esth 8:10 "swift royal steeds bred from the stud": Persian loanwords (בְּנֵי הָרַמָּכִים, הָאַחַשְׁתְּרָנִים) of uncertain meaning (KJV "mules, camels, and young dromedaries").

Job

Job 1:5 "Cursed": the Hebrew says "blessed" (barak), a scribal euphemism for cursing God; so also in 1:11, 2:5 and 2:9.

Job 1:6 "Satan": Hebrew ha-satan, "the adversary"; with the article it may be a title rather than a proper name.

Job 3:5 "Deep darkness": Hebrew tsalmawet, traditionally "shadow of death" (KJV); rendered "deep darkness" throughout Job. "All that blackens the day": the Hebrew kimrire yom is obscure; it is taken as "darkenings of the day" (eclipses, storms). The KJV has "blackness of the day".

Job 3:8 "Curse the day": some read yam "sea" for yom "day", in parallel with Leviathan; the Masoretic text is kept.

Job 4:18 "Angels": Hebrew mal'akhim, "messengers".

Job 5:5 An obscure verse. "From among the thorns" renders el-mitsinnim; "the thirsty" follows the reading tsemeim (the Masoretic tsammim is usually "snare"; KJV "the robber").

Job 5:7 "Sparks": literally "sons of flame" (or "of Resheph").

Job 6:6 "Juice of mallow": the Hebrew hallamut is uncertain; the KJV has "white of an egg".

Job 6:14 An obscure verse; "even if" takes the second half as concessive. It can also be read "or he forsakes the fear of the Almighty".

Job 6:21 Following the Qere lo, "to it / like it" (like the dry wadis). The Ketiv lo' gives "you have become nothing", as in the KJV.

Job 7:20 "To myself": the Masoretic text has 'alay, "to myself"; Jewish tradition lists it among the scribal corrections for an original "to you".

Job 9:9 The identification of the constellations ('ash, kesil, kimah) is traditional but not certain.

Job 9:13 "Rahab": a mythical sea monster, a figure for the forces of chaos (not the Rahab of Joshua 2).

Job 9:33 "Arbiter": Hebrew mokhiah, one who decides between two parties; the KJV has "daysman".

Job 9:35 "I am not so in myself": the sense is probably "I do not feel guilty within", or "it is not so with me now".

Job 10:17 "Wave after wave of hosts": literally "changes and a host (army) are with me", that is, relays of troops coming against him.

Job 11:6 "Has two sides": literally "is double"; the sense is uncertain. "Exacts of you less" renders "causes to be forgotten for you some of your iniquity".

Job 11:12 A proverb: the hollow man will get sense when a wild donkey's colt is born a man, that is, never. Some read it as a hope ("a wild donkey's colt may be born a man").

Job 12:5 An obscure verse; nakhon is taken as "ready, prepared" (KJV "is ready to slip with his feet").

Job 12:6 "Who carry their god in their hand": literally "to whom God (Eloah) brings into his hand"; it may also mean those whom God has put under his own power.

Job 13:15 Following the Qere lo, "in him", as the KJV does. The Ketiv lo' reads "Look, he will slay me; I have no hope".

Job 14:14 "Release": Hebrew halifah, "change, relief", as of a soldier relieved at the end of his service (KJV "my change").

Job 16:20 "My friends scorn me": melitsay re'ay can also be read "my interpreter (intercessor) is my friend", referring to the witness in heaven of 16:19.

Job 17:2 "Provocation": literally "their provoking (rebelling)"; the line is difficult.

Job 17:5 An obscure proverb; "for a share of the spoil" takes leheleq as "for a portion". It may also mean "he invites friends to a feast while his own children starve".

Job 18:2 "Hunt for words": qintse lemillin is uncertain, perhaps "set snares for words" or "put an end to words".

Job 18:13 "The firstborn of death": a figure for a deadly disease, or for death's chief agent.

Job 19:25 "Redeemer": Hebrew go'el, the kinsman who redeems, avenges and vindicates. "At the last" (aharon) may also be "as the Last One"; "upon the dust" may mean "upon the earth" or "over my grave".

Job 19:26 A difficult verse. "Thus destroyed" renders niqqephu zo't, literally "they have struck off this". "From my flesh" can mean "in my flesh" or "apart from my flesh"; the first is preferred here, as in the KJV.

Job 19:27 "My heart is spent": literally "my kidneys are spent in my bosom", that is, I long for it intensely.

Job 19:29 "There is a judgment": following the reading shaddun = she + din. Some take it as "that there is the Almighty (Shaddai)".

Job 20:23 "As his food": bilhumo is uncertain; it may also mean "upon his flesh".

Job 21:24 "Pails": the word 'atinim occurs only here; it may also mean "his loins (or body) are full of fat".

Job 21:30 "Spared... led away": the sense may also be "the evil man is kept for the day of calamity", as in the KJV "reserved".

Job 22:20 "Our foes": Hebrew qimanu is rare, probably "those who rise against us"; the KJV has "our substance".

Job 22:22 "Instruction": Hebrew torah, here in its general sense of teaching from God's mouth; the KJV has "the law".

Job 22:29 "Lift up!": Hebrew gevah, a terse word (from ga'ah, "to be high"); the line is obscure. The KJV has "There is lifting up".

Job 22:30 "One who is not innocent": Hebrew 'i-naqi, with 'i as a negative ("not"); the KJV takes 'i as "island".

Job 23:2 "Defiant": Hebrew meri, "rebellion" (the KJV reads mar, "bitter"). "The hand on me": Hebrew "my hand", that is, the blow laid on me; the KJV has "my stroke".

Job 23:12 "My portion of bread": Hebrew mechuqqi, "more than my portion/allotment"; the KJV has "my necessary food".

Job 23:13 "He is one": Hebrew hu' be'echad, "he is in one", that is, unique and unchangeable in his purpose; the KJV has "he is in one mind".

Job 23:17 "I have not been silenced by the darkness": Hebrew nitsmatti, "be silenced, be destroyed"; the verse is difficult. The KJV has "Because I was not cut off before the darkness, neither hath he covered the darkness from my face".

Job 24:6 "His fodder": Hebrew belilo, "his mixed feed", that is, the rich man's crop, which the poor harvest for him; the KJV has "his corn".

Job 24:12 "Does not charge it as wrong": Hebrew lo' yasim tiflah, "does not set down folly", that is, God does not seem to call the wrong to account; the KJV has "layeth not folly to them".

Job 24:18 Verses 18–24 describe the fate of the wicked; some take them as Job quoting his friends' view. The text is translated as it stands.

Job 26:5 "The shades": Hebrew repha'im, the spirits of the dead; the KJV has "dead things".

Job 26:6 "Abaddon": Hebrew 'avaddon, "destruction", the realm of the dead parallel to Sheol; the KJV has "destruction".

Job 26:12 "Stirred up": Hebrew raga' can mean "stir up" or "calm"; the KJV has "divideth". "Rahab": the sea monster, symbol of chaos; the KJV has "the proud".

Job 27:8 "When God cuts him off": Hebrew ki yivtsa', "when he cuts off", with God as subject from the parallel line; the verb can also mean "make gain" (so the KJV, "though he hath gained").

Job 27:19 "He will not be gathered": that is, not gathered to his fathers in burial, or not able to gather his wealth again; the KJV has the same literal wording.

Job 28:4 The verse describes miners lowered on ropes into shafts; the Hebrew is difficult. The KJV has "The flood breaketh out from the inhabitant; even the waters forgotten of the foot".

Job 28:18 "Pearls": Hebrew peninim, a precious stone or coral of reddish color, or pearls; the KJV has "rubies".

Job 29:6 "Curds": Hebrew chem'ah, curdled milk or butter (so the KJV, "butter").

Job 29:18 "Like the sand": Hebrew kachol; some take chol here as the phoenix, the bird that renews its life.

Job 30:3 "Gnaw the dry ground": Hebrew ha'oreqim tsiyyah; the verb may also mean "flee into" the dry land (so the KJV).

Job 30:11 "His cord": following the Qere yitro; the Ketiv reads yitri, "my cord". "God" is supplied as the implied subject.

Job 30:22 "In the roaring storm": following the Qere teshuwwah; the Ketiv tushiyyah means "sound wisdom" (KJV "my substance").

Job 30:24 The verse is obscure; it is taken as a general truth that anyone in ruin reaches out and cries for help. The KJV has "Howbeit he will not stretch out his hand to the grave, though they cry in his destruction".

Job 31:26 "The sun": Hebrew 'or, "light", here the shining sun, as in the parallel with the moon.

Job 31:33 "As Adam did": Hebrew ke'adam may also mean "as men do"; the KJV has "as Adam".

Job 33:18 "By the weapon": Hebrew shelach, a missile or spear; some take it as the "channel" or river of death.

Job 33:19 "Continual strife in his bones": following the Qere veriv; the Ketiv verov means "and the multitude of his bones" (so the KJV).

Job 33:23 "Angel": Hebrew mal'akh, "messenger", here a heavenly messenger; the KJV has "messenger". "Mediator": Hebrew melits, "interpreter".

Job 34:17 "Him who is righteous and mighty": Hebrew tsaddiq kabbir, God; the KJV has "him that is most just". Verse 18 continues the description of God, reading the Hebrew ha'amor as "who says"; the KJV has "Is it fit to say".

Job 34:36 "Would that": Hebrew 'avi, taken as a wish particle; some take it as "my father" (addressing God).

Job 35:15 "Arrogance": Hebrew pash occurs only here; taken as "arrogance" or "folly". The KJV has "extremity".

Job 36:14 "Cult prostitutes": Hebrew qedeshim, men devoted to pagan shrine prostitution, whose life ended in shame and early death; the KJV has "the unclean".

Job 36:18 "Scoffing": Hebrew sefeq, "mockery" or "abundance"; the verse is difficult. The KJV has "lest he take thee away with his stroke".

Job 36:33 The verse is obscure; it is taken as the thunder announcing God's coming storm, perceived even by the cattle. The KJV has "The noise thereof sheweth concerning it, the cattle also concerning the vapour".

Job 37:24 "Wise in their own heart": Hebrew chakhme lev, "wise of heart", here in the sense of those who think themselves wise.

Job 38:32 "The Mazzaroth": a constellation or the signs of the zodiac; the Hebrew word is kept, as in the KJV. "The Bear": Hebrew 'ayish, probably the Great Bear; the KJV has "Arcturus".

Job 38:36 "The inward parts... the mind": Hebrew tuchot and sekhwi are rare; some take them as the ibis and the rooster, birds that foretell the weather. The KJV has "the inward parts... the heart".

Job 39:9 "Wild ox": Hebrew re'em (also in v. 10); the KJV has "unicorn".

Job 39:13 The second line is difficult: Hebrew 'evrah chasidah wenotsah, "the pinion of the stork and plumage", taken as a question contrasting the ostrich with the stork, which cares for its young. The KJV has "or wings and feathers unto the ostrich".

Job 39:19 "Mane": Hebrew ra'mah, probably "quivering (mane)", from a root meaning "to tremble" or "to thunder"; the KJV has "thunder".

Job 40:15 "Behemoth": Hebrew behemot, the intensive plural of "beast", a great land creature; the name is kept, as in the KJV.

Job 40:21 "Lotus plants": Hebrew tse'elim (also v. 22), probably the thorny lotus; the KJV has "shady trees".

Job 41:1 "Leviathan": Hebrew livyatan, a great sea creature; the name is kept, as in the KJV. Verse numbering follows the KJV (Hebrew 40:25–41:26).

Job 41:6 "Merchants": Hebrew kena'anim, "Canaanites", used here of traders.

Job 41:13 "A double bridle": Hebrew kefel risno, "the double of his bridle", that is, his jaws; the KJV has "his double bridle".

Job 42:6 "I despise myself": Hebrew 'em'as, "I reject/despise", without an object; it can also mean "I retract (my words)".

Job 42:11 "A piece of money": Hebrew qesitah, a unit of value of unknown weight (also Gen 33:19).

Psalms

Ps 2:9 "Break" follows the Masoretic vowels (from ra'a', "shatter"); the Greek and Rev 2:27 read "shepherd/rule" (ra'ah).

Ps 2:12 "Son" renders bar (Aramaic "son", as in Prov 31:2). Some take it as "purely" or "in purity" (Kiss purely / worship in purity). The EVBO-EN follows the KJV reading "Kiss the Son".

Ps 3:2 Selah: a liturgical or musical term of uncertain meaning (perhaps a pause or a raising of the voice); kept untranslated throughout the Psalms.

Ps 4:0 "To the choirmaster" renders lamnatseach, "to the leader" (the director of temple music; KJV "To the chief Musician"). Neginoth: probably "stringed instruments" (singular Neginah in 61:0); kept transliterated as in the KJV.

Ps 4:3 "The godly one" renders chasid, related to chesed ("steadfast love"): one who is loyal and devoted to God.

Ps 5:0 Nehiloth: probably "flutes" or wind instruments; kept transliterated.

Ps 5:8 "Those who lie in wait for me" renders shorerai (KJV "mine enemies"), literally "those who watch me" with hostile intent.

Ps 6:0 Sheminith: literally "the eighth", perhaps an octave or an eight-stringed instrument; kept transliterated.

Ps 6:5 Sheol: the realm of the dead (KJV here "the grave").

Ps 7:0 Shiggaion: a literary or musical term of uncertain meaning, perhaps an impassioned or irregular song; kept transliterated.

Ps 7:4 "Plundered my foe without cause" takes chalats in its sense "strip, despoil". The KJV takes it as "delivered" and makes the clause a parenthesis.

Ps 7:9 "Inmost being" renders kelayot, literally "kidneys" (KJV "reins"), the seat of the emotions and conscience.

Ps 7:12 The subject of the verse is ambiguous: either God sharpens his sword against the man who will not turn, or the wicked man prepares his weapons. Taken here as God (vv. 11-13).

Ps 8:0 Gittith: perhaps an instrument or melody associated with Gath, or a vintage song (gat, "winepress"); kept transliterated.

Ps 8:5 "Than the angels" renders me'elohim, as the KJV and the Greek translators did (cited in Heb 2:7). It can also be read "than God".

Ps 9:0 Muth-labben: apparently "death of the son", probably the name of a tune; kept transliterated.

Ps 9:16 Higgaion: probably a musical direction (a meditative interlude or resounding music); kept transliterated.

Ps 10:3 "Blesses himself" takes berek as reflexive; the clause may also be read "the greedy man curses and spurns the LORD" (barak used euphemistically).

Ps 10:10 Verse 10 follows the Qere (chel ka'im, "the helpless"). The Hebrew is difficult; "he is crushed" (yidkeh) may describe the victim.

Ps 12:5 "In the safety for which he longs" takes yaphiach lo as "he pants for it"; the KJV reads "from him that puffeth at him".

Ps 12:7 "Them" and "him" follow the Hebrew pronouns (the plural refers to the afflicted or to the LORD's words; the singular to each of the afflicted).

Ps 14:7 "Restores the fortunes" renders shuv shevut (KJV "bringeth back the captivity"); the phrase is broader than return from exile.

Ps 16:0 Michtam: a term of uncertain meaning (perhaps "inscription" or "golden poem"); kept transliterated.

Ps 16:2 The Masoretic form 'amart is feminine ("you have said"), understood as addressed to the soul; "O my soul" is supplied, as in the KJV. Many manuscripts and ancient versions read "I said".

Ps 16:3 The Hebrew of vv. 3-4 is difficult; the rendering follows the Masoretic accents.

Ps 16:10 "Holy One" renders chasid (Qere, singular), "the godly/faithful one"; applied to Christ in Acts 2:27 and 13:35.

Ps 17:13 "By your sword" and (v. 14) "by your hand" may also be read in apposition: "the wicked, who are your sword... men who are your hand" (so the KJV).

Ps 17:14 The first half of the verse is obscure in the Hebrew; the rendering is literal.

Ps 18:1 "Love" renders the rare verb racham (here with the sense of deep, tender love), not the usual 'ahav.

Ps 18:4 "Destruction" renders beliya'al ("worthlessness", Belial); the parallel with death and Sheol points to ruin or the realm of destruction (KJV "ungodly men").

Ps 18:26 "Shrewd" renders tittappal, "show yourself tortuous": God outmaneuvers the crooked (KJV "froward").

Ps 18:35 "Gentleness" renders 'anvah, God's condescension or humility in stooping to help (KJV "gentleness").

Ps 19:1 "Expanse" renders raqia', the "firmament" of Gen 1:6-8 (KJV "firmament").

Ps 19:3 Literally "there is no speech and no words; their voice is not heard": creation speaks without audible words. The KJV supplies "where" and reads "nor language, where their voice is not heard".

Ps 19:12 "Declare me innocent" renders naqqeni (KJV "cleanse thou me"), a legal term: acquit, hold guiltless.

Ps 20:9 Following the Masoretic accents ("O LORD, save! May the King answer us"). The Greek reads "O LORD, save the king, and answer us".

Ps 22:0 Aijeleth Shahar: "the doe of the dawn", probably the name of a tune; kept transliterated as in the KJV.

Ps 22:1 Quoted by Jesus on the cross (Matt 27:46; Mark 15:34).

Ps 22:8 "He committed himself" renders gol, literally "roll [your cause] onto the LORD", spoken in mockery; the Greek and Matt 27:43 render "he trusted in God".

Ps 22:16 "They pierced" follows the reading ka'aru found in some Hebrew manuscripts and supported by the Greek ("they dug"), as in the KJV. The Masoretic text reads ka'ari, "like a lion [at] my hands and my feet".

Ps 22:20 "My only life" renders yechidati, "my only one", i.e. my one precious life (KJV "my darling").

Ps 22:21 "Wild oxen" renders re'emim (KJV "unicorns"). "You have answered me" ('anitani) marks the turn from lament to praise.

Ps 22:29 The last clause is difficult; the rendering takes it as one who is dying, unable to preserve his own life.

Ps 23:2 "Waters of rest" renders me menuchot, waters where one finds rest (KJV "still waters").

Ps 23:4 "The shadow of death" renders tsalmavet; the word can also mean "deep darkness".

Ps 23:6 "I will dwell" follows the sense of the KJV and the ancient versions (reading veshivti). The Masoretic vowels (veshavti) mean "I will return to the house of the LORD".

Ps 24:4 "His soul" follows the Qere (naphsho). The written text (Ketiv) has "my soul": the one who has not taken the LORD's name ("my soul") in vain.

Ps 24:6 "O Jacob" is literal, as in the KJV; the Greek and Syriac read "the God of Jacob".

Ps 25:0 Psalm 25 is an alphabetic acrostic: each verse begins with a successive letter of the Hebrew alphabet (with some irregularities). The same form appears in Pss 9-10, 34, 37.

Ps 26:1 "Vindicate me" renders shofteni, literally "judge me" (KJV), i.e. decide my case in my favor.

Ps 27:8 The Hebrew is compressed: "To you my heart says: 'Seek my face'". The heart repeats God's invitation. The KJV supplies "When thou saidst".

Ps 27:13 The sentence breaks off in the Hebrew ("Unless I had believed..."). The KJV supplies "I had fainted". The word lule ("unless") carries special Masoretic dots, marking it as doubtful.

Ps 28:2 "Sanctuary" renders devir, the inner room of the temple, the Most Holy Place (KJV "oracle").

Ps 29:1 "Sons of the mighty" renders bene 'elim (KJV "O ye mighty"); it may refer to heavenly beings.

Ps 29:6 "Wild ox" renders re'em (KJV "unicorn"), as in 22:21.

Ps 30:3 "That I should not go down" follows the Qere (miyyordi). The Ketiv reads "from among those who go down to the pit".

Ps 30:4 "His holy name" renders zekher qodsho, literally "the remembrance of his holiness" (KJV); zekher is used of the name by which God is remembered (Exod 3:15).

Ps 31:5 Spoken by Jesus on the cross (Luke 23:46).

Ps 32:0 Maschil: Hebrew maskil, a term of uncertain meaning, perhaps "instructive" or "skillful" poem (from sakal, "be wise"); kept transliterated as in the KJV.

Ps 32:1 Quoted in Rom 4:7-8.

Ps 32:4 "Vitality" renders leshaddi, a rare word, probably "my sap, freshness" (KJV "my moisture").

Ps 32:9 The last clause is literally "not to come near you": the animal will not come to you without restraint.

Ps 34:0 Abimelech appears to be the royal title of Achish, king of Gath (1 Sam 21:10-15).

Ps 34:21 "Be held guilty" renders ye'shamu (KJV "be desolate"), "bear guilt and its punishment"; also v. 22.

Ps 35:15 "Smiters" renders nekhim, a rare word (KJV "abjects"); perhaps "those who strike" or "outcasts".

Ps 35:16 The Hebrew is obscure; literally "with profane ones, mockers of a cake".

Ps 36:1 Literally "an oracle (ne'um) of transgression to the wicked within my heart". Many Hebrew manuscripts and the ancient versions read "his heart"; the Masoretic text has "my heart".

Ps 36:2 The Hebrew is compressed: "for he makes it smooth to himself in his eyes, to find his iniquity, to hate".

Ps 37:3 "Feed on faithfulness" renders re'eh 'emunah; it may also mean "cultivate faithfulness" or "be fed securely" (KJV "verily thou shalt be fed").

Ps 37:20 "The glory of the pastures" renders kiqar karim; karim can mean "pastures" or "lambs" (KJV "the fat of lambs").

Ps 37:23 The verse may also be read "and he delights in his way", with the LORD as subject (KJV).

Ps 37:35 "Luxuriant native tree" renders ke'ezrach ra'anan, literally "like a native, green [tree]" (KJV "green bay tree").

Ps 38:0 "To bring to remembrance" renders lehazkir, perhaps connected with the memorial portion of an offering (Lev 2:2); also in the title of Ps 70.

Ps 38:7 "Burning" renders niqleh, "roasted, burning" (KJV "a loathsome disease").

Ps 39:0 Jeduthun: one of David's chief musicians (1 Chr 16:41; 25:1). In the titles of Pss 62 and 77 ("according to Jeduthun") the phrase may refer to a manner of performance associated with him; in 77:0 the written text (Ketiv) spells the name Yedithun.

Ps 39:5 "Breath" renders hevel ("vapor, vanity"; KJV "vanity"); also in vv. 6 and 11. "Even standing firm" renders nitsav (KJV "at his best state").

Ps 39:6 "As a shadow" renders betselem, "as an image/shadow" (KJV "in a vain shew").

Ps 39:13 "Look away from me" renders hasha', a plea that God turn his punishing gaze away; "smile again" renders 'avligah, "be cheerful, recover".

Ps 40:6 "Ears you have dug for me" is literal (KJV "mine ears hast thou opened"). Heb 10:5 follows the Greek "a body you have prepared for me".

Ps 40:9 "Proclaimed the good news" renders bissarti (KJV "preached").

Ps 41:3 "You turn over all his bed" is literal (KJV "make all his bed"), i.e. you transform his sickness into health.

Ps 41:8 "A thing of destruction" renders devar-beliya'al, literally "a thing of worthlessness/Belial", a fatal illness or a curse (KJV "an evil disease").

Ps 41:9 Quoted by Jesus of Judas (John 13:18).

Ps 41:13 This doxology closes Book I of the Psalms (Pss 1-41).

Ps 42:5 "The salvation of his presence" (literally "of his face"): so the Masoretic text here; in the refrain of 42:11 and 43:5 it reads "the salvation of my face and my God". The KJV has "the help of his countenance".

Ps 42:6 "The Hermons": the Hebrew is plural, probably the peaks of the Hermon range (KJV "the Hermonites"). "Mizar" means "small"; the location is unknown.

Ps 44:2 "Let them spread out": the verb shalach (piel) may mean "send out" the nations (KJV "cast them out") or let Israel spread like a vine's branches; the parallel with "planted" favors the second.

Ps 44:19 "The shadow of death": Hebrew tsalmaweth, as vocalized by the Masoretes; it may also mean "deep darkness".

Ps 45:0 "Shoshannim": Hebrew "lilies", probably the name of a tune; kept transliterated as in the KJV.

Ps 45:4 "Let your right hand teach you awesome things": the Hebrew jussive may also be read "your right hand will show you awesome deeds".

Ps 45:6 "Your throne, O God": the Hebrew addresses the king as Elohim; Hebrews 1:8 quotes it so. Some render "your throne is God's", but the vocative is the natural reading.

Ps 45:8 "Stringed instruments": Hebrew minni, taken as a short plural of men, "strings" (as in 150:4). The KJV reads it as "whereby".

Ps 46:0 "Alamoth": Hebrew "young women", perhaps a high voice register; kept transliterated as in the KJV.

Ps 46:1 "Readily found": literally "found very much"; that is, he has proved a sure help (KJV "a very present help").

Ps 47:7 "With a Maschil": the same term as in the titles (KJV "with understanding"); here it seems to mean a skillful or instructive psalm.

Ps 48:2 "In the far north": Hebrew yarkethe tsaphon, "the farthest parts of the north", possibly an echo of Zaphon, the mountain of the gods in Canaanite tradition (KJV "the sides of the north").

Ps 48:14 "Until death": Hebrew al-muth. Some divide it as almuth, "over death" (forever), or take it as a musical note like Alamoth (46:0) belonging to the next psalm; the Masoretic text is followed.

Ps 49:5 "Those who dog my heels": Hebrew "the iniquity of my heels", taken as the iniquity of those who lie in wait for me (compare 56:6). The KJV has "the iniquity of my heels".

Ps 49:13 "Foolishly confident": Hebrew kesel may mean "folly" or "confidence"; here the line describes the self-assured.

Ps 49:14 "Their form... far from its lofty dwelling": the second half of the verse is obscure; mizzebul lo is taken as "away from its (former) dwelling". "In the morning" may point to a day of reversal or vindication.

Ps 50:5 "Godly ones": Hebrew chasidim, those bound to God in steadfast love (KJV "saints"); so throughout these psalms.

Ps 51:4 Romans 3:4 quotes this verse from the Greek.

Ps 51:11 "Your Holy Spirit": Hebrew ruach qodsheka, "the spirit of your holiness"; capitalized according to the edition's rule (KJV "thy holy spirit"). Elsewhere in the OT only Isaiah 63:10-11.

Ps 53:0 "Mahalath": a term of uncertain meaning (perhaps "sickness", or a tune name); kept transliterated as in the KJV.

Ps 53:5 Compare 14:5-6; this psalm is a variant of Psalm 14, with "God" for "the LORD".

Ps 53:6 "Restores the fortunes": Hebrew shuv shevuth (KJV "bringeth back the captivity"); it may also mean "turns back the captivity".

Ps 55:15 "May death take them by surprise": following the Qere yashi maweth; the Ketiv yeshimawet would read "desolations upon them". "Alive": KJV "quick".

Ps 55:18 "For many were in conflict with me": literally "for with many they were with me"; the preposition is taken in the hostile sense (KJV "for there were many with me").

Ps 55:19 "Bring them low": Hebrew ya'anem, from anah, "answer" or "afflict"; the context favors the second. "Do not change": they have no changes of fortune or of heart.

Ps 56:0 Jonath-elem-rechokim: "the silent dove of distant places" (or "the dove of the far-off terebinths"), probably a tune name; kept transliterated as in the KJV.

Ps 56:2 "Arrogantly": Hebrew marom, "on high"; the KJV takes it as a vocative, "O thou most High".

Ps 56:8 "Flask": Hebrew nod, a skin bottle, a wordplay with nodi, "my wandering".

Ps 57:0 "Al-taschith": "Do not destroy", probably a tune name; kept transliterated as in the KJV.

Ps 57:4 "Who are ablaze": Hebrew lohatim, "those who blaze", that is, devouring enemies (KJV "them that are set on fire").

Ps 58:1 "When you keep silent": the Masoretic text has elem, "silence"; the KJV renders "O congregation", and many read elim, "O gods" or "mighty ones". The Masoretic text is followed.

Ps 58:9 "Whether raw or burning": the Hebrew of the second line is obscure ("as living, as burning, he will sweep it away"); the image is of a storm scattering the fuel before the pot is heated.

Ps 59:9 "Because of his strength": the Masoretic text has uzzo, "his strength"; many manuscripts and versions read uzzi, "O my Strength", as in 59:17.

Ps 59:10 "The God of my steadfast love": following the Qere chasdi; the Ketiv reads "his steadfast love".

Ps 59:15 "They linger through the night": Hebrew wayyalinu, from lun, "lodge"; the KJV takes it from a root meaning "grumble" ("grudge").

Ps 60:0 "Shushan-eduth": "lily of testimony", probably a tune name; kept transliterated as in the KJV.

Ps 60:4 "Because of the truth": Hebrew qoshet, "truth" (so the KJV); some take it as qeshet, "bow", that is, "to flee from the bow".

Ps 60:8 "Philistia, raise a shout over me": the Hebrew is ironic, or else "because of me, Philistia, raise a shout"; compare 108:9, "over Philistia I shout in triumph".

Ps 62:9 "A breath": Hebrew hevel (KJV "vanity"). "The sons of men... the sons of man": Hebrew bene adam and bene ish, which may also contrast the common people and the nobles (KJV "men of low degree... men of high degree").

Ps 63:1 "I seek you at dawn": Hebrew ashachareka, related to shachar, "dawn"; hence the KJV "early will I seek thee". Others take it as "earnestly".

Ps 63:10 "Jackals": Hebrew shu'alim, which can mean "foxes" (so the KJV) or "jackals"; jackals feed on the dead.

Ps 64:6 "We have finished a carefully searched-out scheme": the line is difficult; it is taken as the words of the plotters.

Ps 65:1 "To you silence is praise": following the Masoretic dumiyyah, "silence" (that is, quiet trust is itself praise); the KJV has "Praise waiteth for thee". The Greek reads "is fitting" (dumiyyah as domiyah).

Ps 65:3 "Make atonement for them": Hebrew kipper (KJV "purge them away").

Ps 66:12 "Abundance": Hebrew rewayah, "saturation", "overflowing" (KJV "a wealthy place").

Ps 68:4 "The LORD is his name": Hebrew beyah shemo, using the short form of the divine name, Yah (KJV "by his name JAH"). Yah is rendered "the LORD" throughout the Psalms: 68:18 (Yah Elohim, "the LORD God"); 77:11; 89:8; 94:7, 12; 102:18; 115:17-18; 118:5, 14, 17-19; 122:4; 130:3; 135:3-4; 150:6. "Rides through the deserts": Hebrew aravoth, "desert plains" (KJV "the heavens"; compare 68:33).

Ps 68:6 "Into prosperity": Hebrew bakkosharoth, a rare word, probably "to prosperity" or "with singing" (KJV "with chains").

Ps 68:11 "Women who proclaim the news": the Hebrew participle is feminine plural (KJV "those that published it").

Ps 68:13 "Sheepfolds": Hebrew shephattayim, of uncertain meaning, perhaps "saddlebags" or "hearthstones" (KJV "pots").

Ps 68:16 "Look on in envy": Hebrew teratsdun, a rare verb, "watch jealously" (KJV "leap").

Ps 68:18 "Received gifts among men": Ephesians 4:8 quotes this verse in the form "gave gifts to men".

Ps 68:19 "Carries our load": Hebrew ya'amas lanu, "carries a load for us"; the KJV supplies "loadeth us with benefits".

Ps 68:20 "GOD the Lord": Hebrew YHWH Adonai (the reverse of the usual Adonai YHWH, "the Lord GOD"), with the divine name read with the vowels of Elohim; so also 109:21; 140:7; 141:8.

Ps 68:30 "The beast of the reeds": probably the hippopotamus or crocodile as a figure for Egypt (KJV "the company of spearmen"). "Submits with bars of silver": the Hebrew of this line is obscure.

Ps 69:1 "Up to my throat": Hebrew ad nefesh, "to the soul", here in its sense of "throat" or "neck" (KJV "unto my soul").

Ps 69:4 "What I did not steal I must then give back": the Hebrew az ashiv may be a statement ("then I restored") or an indignant question.

Ps 69:21 "Gall": Hebrew rosh, a bitter, poisonous plant. Compare Matthew 27:34, 48.

Ps 69:22 "For those at ease": Hebrew lishlomim, which may also mean "for their peace offerings" (KJV "for their welfare"). Romans 11:9-10 quotes 69:22-23 from the Greek.

Ps 70:0 This psalm is nearly identical to 40:13-17.

Ps 71:6 "You drew me out": Hebrew gozi, a rare word, "the one who cut me off" or "drew me out" (at birth).

Ps 72:5 "They will fear you": so the Masoretic text; the Greek reads "may he endure" (ya'arik for yira'ukha).

Ps 72:16 "Plenty": Hebrew pissath, found only here, probably "abundance" (KJV "an handful").

Ps 72:20 This line closes the second book of the Psalms (Psalms 42-72).

Ps 73:4 Hebrew lemotam, "in their death"; some divide the consonants as lamo tam, "they have no pangs; sound and fat is their body".

Ps 73:10 A difficult verse. The Qere yashuv "turn back" is followed; the Ketiv reads yashiv "he brings back". The sense of the second line ("waters of a full cup are drained by them") is uncertain.

Ps 73:20 Hebrew ba'ir, taken as "when (you) rouse yourself" (from 'ur); the same consonants could mean "in the city".

Ps 73:21 Literally "in my kidneys", the seat of the emotions.

Ps 74:5 A difficult verse; literally "he is known as one bringing up on high, in a thicket of wood, axes".

Ps 74:14 Hebrew letsiyyim may mean "to the desert dwellers" (people) or "to the creatures of the desert".

Ps 75:6 Hebrew harim may be "lifting up" (exaltation), as taken here, or "mountains" ("the wilderness of the mountains").

Ps 76:10 "Wrap around you": literally "gird yourself" with the remainder of wrath, that is, the last of human fury becomes an ornament to God; the KJV has "restrain".

Ps 77:10 Hebrew shenot may mean "the changing of" (as taken here) or "the years of" the right hand of the Most High (KJV "I will remember the years").

Ps 78:25 "The mighty" (abbirim) is understood by the ancient versions as the angels.

Ps 78:38 Hebrew yekhapper, "make atonement for"; the KJV has "forgave".

Ps 78:41 Hebrew hitvu is uncertain: "provoked" or "pained"; the KJV has "limited".

Ps 80:0 Shoshannim-eduth: "lilies, a testimony", probably a tune name; kept transliterated as in the KJV (compare Shoshannim, 45:0, and Shushan-eduth, 60:0).

Ps 80:4 Literally "how long will you smoke (with anger)".

Ps 80:5 Hebrew shalish, a measure (a "third"), here "by the measure".

Ps 80:15 Hebrew ben, "son"; in the vine image it may mean "branch" (as in Gen 49:22).

Ps 81:5 "Over" (al) may also be "against" (KJV "through"). The speaker who hears an unknown language is the psalmist (or Israel), introducing God's words in vv. 6-16.

Ps 82:1 Hebrew elohim, "gods", here probably rulers and judges (compare v. 6 and John 10:34-35), or heavenly beings; "assembly of God" is literally "the congregation of El" (KJV "congregation of the mighty").

Ps 84:5 The Hebrew has only "highways in their heart", that is, the pilgrim roads to Zion.

Ps 84:6 Baca may mean "weeping" or a balsam tree that grows in dry places. Moreh may be "early rain" (as here) or "teacher".

Ps 85:1 "Restored the fortunes": Hebrew shavta shevut (KJV "brought back the captivity"); it may also mean "turned back the captivity".

Ps 86:13 Literally "from the lowest Sheol" (KJV "the lowest hell").

Ps 87:4 Rahab here is a poetic name for Egypt (compare Isa 30:7), not the woman of Jericho.

Ps 87:7 A difficult verse; literally "and singers as dancers (or pipers): all my springs are in you".

Ps 88:0 Mahalath Leannoth is kept transliterated; it may mean "for sickness, to afflict" or name a tune.

Ps 88:10 Hebrew rephaim, "the departed" or "shades", the spirits of the dead (KJV "the dead").

Ps 88:11 Abaddon, "destruction", a name for the realm of the dead (KJV "destruction").

Ps 88:15 Hebrew afunah occurs only here; "I am in despair" (or "I am helpless"); the KJV has "I am distracted".

Ps 88:18 Literally "my acquaintances (are) darkness"; that is, darkness is the only companion left.

Ps 89:6 Hebrew bene elim, "sons of the mighty" or "sons of God", probably heavenly beings.

Ps 89:22 Hebrew yashi may mean "exact (as a creditor)" or "deceive".

Ps 90:3 Hebrew dakka, "crushed matter, dust" (KJV "destruction").

Ps 90:9 Hebrew hegeh, "a sigh" or "a murmur"; the KJV has "as a tale that is told".

Ps 91:9 The Hebrew changes speaker: "For you, O LORD, are my refuge" is the psalmist's confession, followed by words addressed to the believer. The KJV joins them: "Because thou hast made the LORD, which is my refuge... thy habitation".

Ps 92:10 Hebrew re'em, "wild ox"; the KJV has "unicorn".

Ps 95:8 Meribah means "quarreling" and Massah "testing" (Exod 17:7); the KJV translates them ("provocation", "temptation").

Ps 96:8 Hebrew minchah, here a gift or tribute brought to the King, rendered "offering" rather than "grain offering".

Ps 100:3 Following the Qere velo anachnu, "and we are his"; the Ketiv velo' anachnu gives the KJV's "and not we ourselves".

Ps 101:3 Hebrew devar beliyya'al, "a worthless thing".

Ps 102:6 The identification of these birds (qa'at, kos) is uncertain; "pelican" and "owl" follow the traditional understanding.

Ps 102:23 Following the Qere kochi, "my strength"; the Ketiv reads kocho, "his strength".

Ps 103:5 Hebrew edyekh is obscure, literally "your ornament"; taken here as "your desire" (KJV "thy mouth").

Ps 104:4 Or "He makes winds his messengers, flames of fire his ministers"; the order given here follows the Hebrew, as quoted in Heb 1:7.

Ps 104:8 Or "They (the waters) went up the mountains, went down into the valleys".

Ps 104:30 Hebrew ruach, "Spirit" or "breath" (the same word as "breath" in v. 29).

Ps 104:35 Hallelujah: Hebrew hallelu-Yah, "praise Yah", kept as "Hallelujah" where it stands as an exclamation (104:35; 105:45; 106:1, 48; Pss 111-117; 135; 146-150); inside a sentence it is rendered "Praise the LORD" (135:3).

Ps 105:18 Literally "his soul (nefesh) came into iron"; nefesh may also mean "neck" here (KJV "he was laid in iron").

Ps 105:28 Following the Qere devaro, "his word" (Ketiv "his words"). The negative refers to Moses and Aaron's obedience, or to the darkness itself; the Greek version omits "not".

Ps 106:7 Hebrew yam suf, literally "Sea of Reeds", traditionally "Red Sea"; likewise in vv. 9 and 22.

Ps 106:26 "Lifted up his hand", the gesture of an oath: he swore against them.

Ps 106:33 "His spirit" may be the Spirit of God (compare Isa 63:10) or Moses' own spirit.

Ps 107:3 "From the sea": Hebrew yam, usually "west"; here paired with north, so the KJV renders "south." Kept literal.

Ps 109:6 "Accuser": Hebrew satan, here a human adversary at court; KJV "Satan."

Ps 110:1 "The LORD said": Hebrew ne'um YHWH, "the utterance of the LORD"; "my Lord" is adoni.

Ps 110:3 Difficult verse. "Offer themselves freely" (lit. "freewill offerings"). Many manuscripts read "on the holy mountains" (harere) for "in the splendor of holiness" (hadre); the Masoretic text is followed.

Ps 110:6 "The head": Hebrew rosh, singular; may mean "chief" or "chiefs" (KJV "the heads over many countries").

Ps 112:1 Psalms 111 and 112 are acrostics (each half-line begins with the next letter of the Hebrew alphabet).

Ps 116:10 "I believed, therefore I spoke": Hebrew ki may also mean "when" or "even when"; this rendering is the one cited in 2 Cor 4:13.

Ps 118:10 "Cut them off": Hebrew 'amilam, from mul, "circumcise" or "cut off"; sense uncertain (KJV "destroy").

Ps 118:14 "Song": Hebrew zimrat, possibly "might" or "protection"; "song" as in Exod 15:2.

Ps 118:25 "Save us, we pray": Hebrew hoshi'ah-na, the source of "Hosanna."

Ps 119:1 Acrostic psalm: each group of eight verses begins with one letter of the Hebrew alphabet (the letter headings are not part of the verse text). The terms are rendered consistently: torah "law," 'edot "testimonies," piqqudim "precepts," huqqim "statutes," mitswot "commandments," mishpatim "judgments," dabar and 'imrah "word."

Ps 119:38 "Which leads to the fear of you": lit. "which is for your fear"; may also refer to the servant ("who is devoted to fearing you").

Ps 119:83 "Wineskin in the smoke": a skin bottle hung in a smoky room, blackened and shriveled.

Ps 120:0 "Song of Ascents" (Psalms 120–134): probably songs sung going up to Jerusalem for the festivals; KJV "A Song of degrees."

Ps 126:1 "Brought back the captives": Hebrew shivat/shuvah, "restoration" or "captivity" (so also 126:4, "restore our fortunes," lit. "turn back our captivity").

Ps 127:2 "For so he gives to his beloved sleep": or "he gives to his beloved in sleep."

Ps 131:2 "Surely": Hebrew im lo, an oath formula ("if I have not…").

Ps 132:6 "It": probably the ark (cf. 132:8). "Jaar" (lit. "forest") likely refers to Kiriath-jearim (1 Sam 7:1–2).

Ps 133:2 "Collar": lit. "mouth" of his robes, the neck opening (KJV "skirts").

Ps 136:13 "Red Sea": Hebrew yam suph, lit. "Sea of Reeds" (also 136:15).

Ps 137:2 "Willows": Hebrew 'aravim, possibly poplars.

Ps 138:2 "Above all your name": Hebrew is difficult; perhaps "you have magnified your word above all your name," i.e., beyond all your renown.

Ps 139:16 "Unformed substance": Hebrew golem, "embryo." "When as yet there was none of them" follows the Ketiv (lo'); the Qere (lo) gives "and for it (or for him) one of them."

Ps 139:24 "Grievous way": Hebrew derek 'otseb, "way of pain" or possibly "way of an idol."

Ps 141:5 Hebrew of 141:5–7 is very difficult; the renderings follow the most likely sense of the Masoretic text.

Ps 143:9 "I have fled to you for refuge": Hebrew lit. "to you I have covered (myself)," i.e., hidden.

Ps 144:2 "My steadfast love": Hebrew hasdi, i.e., "my source of steadfast love" (KJV "my goodness").

Ps 144:14 "Heavy with young" (or "loaded"); "no breach … no going into exile" may also mean "no miscarriage, no loss of young" in the herds.

Ps 145:13 Psalm 145 is an acrostic; the Masoretic text has no line beginning with nun. Some manuscripts (and the LXX) add one after 145:13 ("The LORD is faithful in all his words, and kind in all his works"); it is not translated here.

Ps 145:17 "Kind": Hebrew hasid, related to hesed.

Ps 147:15 "Command": Hebrew 'imrah, elsewhere "word"; here parallel to davar "word."

Ps 149:6 "Two-edged sword": lit. "sword of mouths."

Ps 150:3 "Trumpet": Hebrew shophar, the ram's horn.

Proverbs

Prov 1:8 "Teaching": Hebrew torah (KJV "law"); in Proverbs it is the instruction of a parent or of the wise, so "teaching" is used where it is the instruction of a parent or teacher (1:8; 3:1; 4:2; 6:20, 23; 7:2; 13:14; 31:26); where it refers to the law in general (28:4, 7, 9; 29:18) it is "law".

Prov 1:20 "Wisdom": Hebrew chokmot, a plural form (of fullness or excellence) used with a singular verb; so also in 9:1.

Prov 1:32 "Turning away": Hebrew meshubah, apostasy or waywardness; the KJV has "the turning away".

Prov 3:8 "Navel": Hebrew shor, the navel or umbilical cord, standing for the body's vital center; the KJV also has "navel".

Prov 3:26 "Your confidence": Hebrew kesel, which can mean "confidence" or "loins/side"; read as "confidence", as in the KJV.

Prov 4:7 "The beginning of wisdom is this": Hebrew reshit chokmah, literally "the beginning of wisdom: get wisdom"; reshit may also mean "the chief thing" (KJV "the principal thing").

Prov 6:26 "Brought down to a loaf of bread": the Hebrew is terse ("for a harlot, up to a loaf of bread"); it may mean that a harlot reduces a man to poverty, or that she costs only a loaf, while the adulteress costs his life.

Prov 7:20 "The full moon": Hebrew keseh (spelled kese' here), the day of the full moon; the KJV has "the day appointed".

Prov 7:22 "As one in fetters to the correction of a fool": the Hebrew (ukhe'ekhes el-musar evil) is obscure; it is taken literally, with 'ekhes as "fetter/anklet". The KJV has "as a fool to the correction of the stocks".

Prov 8:22 "Possessed": Hebrew qanani, from qanah, "get, acquire, possess"; some render "created" or "begot". Kept as "possessed", as in the KJV.

Prov 8:30 "Master workman": Hebrew amon, of uncertain sense: "master craftsman" or "nursling, little child". The KJV has "one brought up with him".

Prov 9:10 "The Holy One": Hebrew qedoshim, a plural of majesty referring to God; the KJV has "the holy".

Prov 10:10 "A babbling fool": literally "a fool of lips"; also in 10:8.

Prov 11:21 "Be sure of this": literally "hand to hand", an idiom of assurance (KJV "though hand join in hand").

Prov 11:31 "Repaid on earth": the verse is quoted from the Septuagint in 1 Pet 4:18 ("If the righteous scarcely be saved").

Prov 12:4 "A wife of strength": Hebrew eshet chayil, a woman of worth, ability and strength (KJV "a virtuous woman"); so also in 31:10.

Prov 12:26 "Guides his neighbor": the Hebrew yater is uncertain ("searches out", "is more excellent than"); the KJV has "is more excellent than his neighbour".

Prov 13:23 "Fallow ground": Hebrew nir, newly broken or fallow land (KJV "tillage").

Prov 14:34 "Reproach": Hebrew chesed, normally "steadfast love", here in its rarer sense of "shame, reproach" (as in Lev 20:17); so also the KJV.

Prov 15:11 "Abaddon": Hebrew abaddon, "destruction", the realm of the dead (KJV "destruction"); also in 27:20.

Prov 16:4 "For its purpose": Hebrew lamma'anehu, "for its answer/purpose" (or "for himself", as the KJV).

Prov 18:1 The Hebrew is difficult; it is taken as describing the one who isolates himself. The KJV takes it positively ("Through desire a man, having separated himself, seeketh and intermeddleth with all wisdom").

Prov 18:24 "Comes to ruin": Hebrew lehitro'ea', read as "to be broken/ruined"; the KJV, taking it from "friend", has "must show himself friendly".

Prov 19:7 "They are all he has": the Qere lo hemmah ("they are his") is followed; the written text (Ketiv) has lo' hemmah, "they are not", hence the KJV "yet they are wanting to him".

Prov 19:18 "Do not set your heart on putting him to death": literally "do not lift up your soul to his death", that is, do not let discipline go as far as destroying him. The KJV has "let not thy soul spare for his crying".

Prov 20:20 "Blackest darkness": the Qere be'ishon, "in the pupil (that is, the middle) of darkness", is followed.

Prov 21:12 "The Righteous One": Hebrew tsaddiq without article; taken as referring to God, since the second line describes judgment. It may also mean "a righteous man" (so the KJV).

Prov 22:20 "Excellent things": the Qere shalishim is followed; it may also be read "thirty (sayings)". The written text (Ketiv) has shilshom, "formerly".

Prov 23:7 "As he thinks within himself": the verb sha'ar is rare and the line is obscure; it may mean "as one who calculates within himself".

Prov 23:26 "Keep": the Qere titzorna is followed; the written text has tirtzenah, "delight in".

Prov 24:21 "Those who are given to change": Hebrew shonim, those who change or are different; taken as political innovators or rebels (KJV "them that are given to change").

Prov 24:26 "Kisses the lips": that is, an honest answer is a mark of true friendship.

Prov 25:27 "So to seek one's own glory is not glory": the second line reads literally "and the searching of their glory, glory"; the negation of the first line is taken as carried over. The text is difficult.

Prov 26:2 "Will come back to him who utters it": the Qere lo ("to him") is followed, understood of the one who curses. The written text (Ketiv) has lo' ("not"), and the KJV follows it: "so the curse causeless shall not come".

Prov 26:10 The Hebrew is very obscure (literally "a great one/archer who wounds all, and he who hires a fool and he who hires passers-by"). The KJV has "The great God that formed all things both rewardeth the fool, and rewardeth transgressors".

Prov 27:16 "His right hand grasps oil": literally "the oil of his right hand calls out", that is, he cannot hold it.

Prov 28:17 "Let no one hold him back": or "let no one support him"; the line is terse.

Prov 29:18 "Vision": Hebrew chazon, prophetic revelation; "cast off restraint" renders yippara', "are let loose" (KJV "perish").

Prov 29:21 "A son": the rare word manon is uncertain; it may mean "heir", "son" (KJV) or "grief".

Prov 30:1 "The oracle": Hebrew hammassa', "the burden/oracle" (KJV "the prophecy"); some take it as the place name Massa. The same applies to 31:1. "Ithiel and Ucal" may also be read as words ("I have wearied myself, O God, and I am consumed").

Prov 30:15 "The leech": Hebrew 'aluqah, found only here (KJV "horseleach").

Prov 30:26 "Rock badgers": Hebrew shephanim, the hyrax (KJV "conies").

Prov 30:28 "Lizard": Hebrew semamit, probably the gecko (KJV "spider").

Prov 30:31 "Strutting rooster": Hebrew zarzir motnayim, literally "girded of loins"; uncertain (KJV "greyhound"). "Against whom there is no rising up" renders the obscure alqum.

Prov 31:4 "Where is strong drink?": the Qere ey is followed; the written text (Ketiv) has o, "or".

Prov 31:10 Verses 10–31 form an alphabetic acrostic in Hebrew, each verse beginning with the next letter of the alphabet.

Ecclesiastes

Eccl 1:1 "the Preacher": Hebrew Qoheleth, "one who gathers (an assembly)", i.e. one who addresses an assembly; traditionally "the Preacher".

Eccl 1:2 "vanity": Hebrew hevel, literally "breath, vapor"; what is fleeting and without substance. Rendered "vanity" throughout the book.

Eccl 1:14 "a chasing of the wind": Hebrew re'ut ruach (in 1:17 ra'yon ruach); KJV "vexation of spirit".

Eccl 2:8 "many concubines": the Hebrew shiddah weshiddot is obscure; KJV "musical instruments, and that of all sorts".

Eccl 2:25 "apart from me": Hebrew mimmenni; KJV "more than I".

Eccl 3:11 "eternity": Hebrew ha'olam; KJV "the world".

Eccl 3:15 "what has been driven away": literally "what is pursued"; KJV "that which is past".

Eccl 3:21 Follows the Masoretic pointing, which reads the article ("which goes upward... which goes downward"); others read it as a question ("whether it goes upward").

Eccl 5:1 English 5:1 is Hebrew 4:17; English 5:2-20 is Hebrew 5:1-19.

Eccl 5:6 "the messenger": Hebrew mal'akh; KJV "the angel".

Eccl 5:9 The Hebrew is obscure; it may also be read "a king for a tilled field is an advantage to a land in every way".

Eccl 5:20 "keeps him occupied": Hebrew ma'aneh, or "answers him".

Eccl 7:27 "says the Preacher": the Hebrew verb is feminine here.

Eccl 8:8 "wind": Hebrew ruach, also "spirit" (so KJV).

Eccl 9:4 "joined": following the Qere; the Ketiv reads "chosen".

Eccl 11:5 "the wind": Hebrew ruach; KJV "the spirit".

Eccl 12:6 "snapped": following the Qere; the Ketiv reads "removed". KJV "loosed".

Eccl 12:11 "one shepherd": commonly understood of God.

Eccl 12:13 "the whole of man": that is, man's whole duty (KJV "the whole duty of man").

Song of Songs

Song 1:2 "love": Hebrew dodim, love shown in caresses; likewise in 1:4; 4:10; 7:12.

Song 1:7 "one who is veiled": KJV "one that turneth aside".

Song 1:9 "my love": Hebrew ra'yati, "my companion, my darling"; rendered "my love" throughout the book.

Song 2:1 "rose": Hebrew havatselet, a meadow flower of uncertain identity (perhaps crocus or asphodel).

Song 2:12 "singing": Hebrew zamir may also mean "pruning".

Song 4:4 "built in courses": Hebrew talpiyyot, of uncertain meaning; KJV "for an armoury".

Song 5:14 "beryl": Hebrew tarshish, a precious stone of uncertain identity.

Song 6:12 "my noble people": Hebrew ammi-nadiv; KJV takes it as a name, "Amminadib".

Song 6:13 English 6:13 is Hebrew 7:1, and English 7:1-13 is Hebrew 7:2-14. "the two camps": Hebrew Mahanaim, possibly the place name.

Song 8:6 "the very flame of the LORD": Hebrew shalhevetyah, ending in the short divine name Yah; KJV "a most vehement flame".

Isaiah

Isa 2:16 "Delightful vessels": Hebrew sekhiyyot ha-chemdah, a rare word, probably "craft/ships of desire"; the KJV has "pleasant pictures".

Isa 3:4 "The capricious": Hebrew ta'alulim, "caprice, wantonness" (abstract for persons); the KJV has "babes".

Isa 4:2 "The branch of the LORD": Hebrew tsemach, the same word later used as a messianic title (Jer 23:5; Zech 3:8).

Isa 5:1 "A very fertile hill": literally "a horn, son of oil".

Isa 5:7 Wordplay in Hebrew: mishpat "justice" / mispach "bloodshed"; tsedaqah "righteousness" / tse'aqah "outcry".

Isa 7:3 "Shear-jashub" means "a remnant shall return" (compare 10:21-22).

Isa 7:9 Wordplay in Hebrew: ta'aminu "believe" / te'amenu "be established" (both from the root 'aman).

Isa 7:14 "The virgin": Hebrew ha-'almah, "the young woman of marriageable age"; the Greek Septuagint and Matt 1:23 have parthenos, "virgin". "Immanuel" means "God with us" (compare 8:8, 8:10).

Isa 8:1 "Maher-shalal-hash-baz" means "swift is the spoil, speedy the plunder". "In ordinary letters": literally "with the stylus of a man".

Isa 8:9 "Be broken": Hebrew ro'u, from ra'a' "to break" (or "to make an uproar"); the KJV has "associate yourselves".

Isa 9:1 In the Hebrew Bible 9:1 is 8:23 and 9:2-21 are 9:1-20; the KJV numbering is followed. The KJV renders the first clause "Nevertheless the dimness shall not be such as was in her vexation".

Isa 9:3 "You have increased its joy" follows the Qere lo ("to it"); the Ketiv lo' ("not") lies behind the KJV "and not increased the joy".

Isa 9:6 Hebrew 9:5. "Wonderful Counselor": pele' yo'ets, which may also be read as two titles (KJV "Wonderful, Counsellor"). "Mighty God": 'el gibbor, the same title as in 10:21.

Isa 10:27 "Because of the fatness": Hebrew shemen, "fat, oil"; the KJV has "because of the anointing".

Isa 12:2 "The LORD, the LORD": Hebrew Yah YHWH; the KJV has "the LORD JEHOVAH". The phrase "my strength and my song" echoes Exod 15:2.

Isa 13:1 "Oracle": Hebrew massa', literally "burden" (so the KJV), a solemn pronouncement; so in the other headings of chapters 13-22.

Isa 13:21 "Wild goats": Hebrew se'irim, "hairy ones"; the KJV has "satyrs".

Isa 14:4 "The fury": reading marhebah ("raging"); the Masoretic madhebah is unknown and was taken by the KJV as "the golden city".

Isa 14:12 "Day Star": Hebrew helel, "shining one", the morning star; the KJV has "Lucifer" ("light-bearer"), the Latin Vulgate's word for the morning star.

Isa 14:29 "Flying fiery serpent": Hebrew saraf me'ofef; saraf is the word used for the seraphim in 6:2.

Isa 15:2 "The temple": Hebrew ha-bayit, "the house"; the KJV takes it as a place name, "Bajith".

Isa 17:8 "Asherim": sacred poles or trees associated with the goddess Asherah (also 27:9); the KJV has "groves". "Incense altars": Hebrew chammanim, perhaps sun pillars; the KJV has "images".

Isa 17:11 "The harvest will flee away": Hebrew ned qatsir, "a heap of harvest" or "the harvest flees"; the KJV has "the harvest shall be a heap".

Isa 18:2 "A nation mighty and conquering": literally "a nation of qav-qav and trampling", obscure; the KJV has "a nation meted out and trodden down".

Isa 19:18 "City of Destruction": Masoretic 'ir ha-heres; some Hebrew manuscripts read ha-cheres, "City of the Sun" (Heliopolis).

Isa 20:1 "Commander in chief": Hebrew tartan, an Assyrian title; the KJV leaves it as a name, "Tartan".

Isa 21:8 "Like a lion": the Masoretic text has simply "a lion" (so the KJV, "And he cried, A lion"); it is taken as a comparison for the watchman's loud cry.

Isa 23:10 "Overflow your land like the Nile": Hebrew "pass over your land like the Nile"; the sense is disputed. "No restraint" (mezach, a girdle or restraint); the KJV has "no more strength".

Isa 23:11 "Canaan": here Phoenicia, the land of Tyre and Sidon; the KJV renders "the merchant city".

Isa 23:13 A difficult verse. The Hebrew can also be read: "this is the people that was not; Assyria founded it for desert dwellers" (so the KJV). "Creatures of the desert" (tsiyyim) may be wild beasts or desert people.

Isa 24:15 "In the east": Hebrew ba'urim, "in the (regions of) light", that is, where the sun rises, in parallel with "the coastlands of the sea" (the west); the KJV has "in the fires".

Isa 24:16 "I waste away": Hebrew razi-li, "leanness to me"; the KJV has "my leanness".

Isa 25:8 "Forever": Hebrew lanetsach; the KJV has "in victory", the sense taken in 1 Cor 15:54.

Isa 25:10 "In the water of": following the Qere bemey; the written text (Ketiv) has bemo, "in".

Isa 26:3 "Perfect peace": Hebrew "peace, peace", a doubling for emphasis.

Isa 26:4 "The LORD, the LORD himself": Hebrew Yah YHWH, using the short form Yah; the KJV has "the LORD JEHOVAH". "Rock of ages": Hebrew tsur ʻolamim; the KJV has "everlasting strength".

Isa 26:11 "Zeal for the people": the KJV has "their envy at the people".

Isa 26:14 "Shades": Hebrew repha'im, the spirits of the dead; also in 26:19. The KJV has "deceased" and "the dead".

Isa 26:15 "Extended all the borders of the land": the KJV takes it as "you had removed it far unto all the ends of the earth".

Isa 26:18 "Have not been born": Hebrew "have not fallen", used of birth; the KJV has "neither have the inhabitants of the world fallen".

Isa 26:19 "My dead bodies": Hebrew nevelati, "my corpse", used collectively; the KJV has "together with my dead body". "Dew of light": Hebrew ʻorot, "lights"; the KJV has "dew of herbs".

Isa 27:2 "Delightful vineyard": the Masoretic text reads chemed, "delight"; the KJV ("a vineyard of red wine") follows the reading chemer, "wine".

Isa 27:6 "In days to come": Hebrew habba'im, "those who come"; the KJV has "them that come of Jacob".

Isa 28:10 Hebrew tsav latsav, tsav latsav, qav laqav, qav laqav, possibly imitating the sounds of a child's lesson or meaningless babble, as the scoffers mock the prophet.

Isa 28:25 "Dill" (qetsach, black cumin or nigella) and "spelt" (kussemet); the KJV has "fitches" and "rie".

Isa 29:1 "Ariel": a name for Jerusalem, probably "altar hearth" (compare Ezek 43:15-16); it can also mean "lion of God". In 29:2, "like an Ariel" means like an altar hearth, a place of burning.

Isa 30:1 "Make an alliance": Hebrew "pour out a libation" or "weave a covering", probably a treaty sealed with a drink offering; the KJV has "cover with a covering".

Isa 30:7 "Rahab who sits still": Rahab, the chaos monster, is a name for Egypt (51:9; Ps 87:4); the KJV has "Their strength is to sit still".

Isa 30:20 "Your Teacher": the Hebrew form morekha can be plural, but the verb is singular; the KJV has "your teachers".

Isa 30:28 "Sieve of destruction": Hebrew "sieve of worthlessness"; the KJV has "sieve of vanity".

Isa 32:12 "Beat your breasts": Hebrew ʻal-shadayim sophdim, "beating upon breasts"; the KJV reads "lament for the teats".

Isa 33:18 "The one who counted... weighed the tribute": the officials of the foreign oppressor who assessed tribute; the KJV has "the scribe... the receiver".

Isa 33:23 Addressed to the enemy pictured as a disabled ship. "In its socket": Hebrew ken, "base"; the KJV has "they could not well strengthen their mast".

Isa 34:7 "Wild oxen": Hebrew re'emim; the KJV has "unicorns".

Isa 34:11 "Pelican" and "hedgehog" (qa'at, qippod), birds and animals whose identity is uncertain; the KJV has "cormorant" and "bittern". "Chaos... emptiness" (tohu... bohu) recall Gen 1:2.

Isa 34:13 "Jackals": Hebrew tannim (also 35:7); the KJV has "dragons". "Ostriches": the KJV has "owls".

Isa 34:14 "Hyenas" (ʻiyyim) and "wild goat" (sa'ir, possibly a goat-demon); the KJV has "wild beasts of the island" and "satyr". "Night creature": Hebrew lilit, a creature of the night (later identified with a female demon, Lilith); the KJV has "screech owl".

Isa 34:16 "My mouth": so the Hebrew (pi), the prophet speaking for God; the KJV has "my mouth it hath commanded".

Isa 35:1 "Because of them": Hebrew yesusum, the verb with a suffix "them", probably referring to the events of chapter 34 or to the returning exiles; some take the final m as a scribal doubling. "Crocus": Hebrew chavatselet; the KJV has "rose".

Isa 36:2 "The Rabshakeh": an Assyrian title (chief cupbearer or field commander), kept as a title; the KJV treats it as a name.

Isa 36:12 "Their own dung... their own urine": following the Qere, which substitutes milder words for the cruder Ketiv.

Isa 37:25 "Egypt": Hebrew matsor, a poetic name for Egypt (also meaning "siege"); the KJV has "the besieged places".

Isa 37:38 "Ararat": the KJV has "Armenia".

Isa 38:8 "Steps": Hebrew ma'alot, the steps of a stairway built by Ahaz, used to mark the sun's shadow; the KJV has "degrees" and "sun dial".

Isa 38:11 "The LORD, the LORD": Hebrew Yah, Yah, the short form of the divine name. "The place where all has ceased": Hebrew chadel, "cessation", the realm of the dead; the KJV has "the world" (reading cheled).

Isa 38:14 "Swift": Hebrew sus, a bird; the KJV has "crane", and "crane" here renders ʻagur (KJV "swallow").

Isa 39:8 "Security": Hebrew ʻemet, "truth" or "stability"; the KJV has "peace and truth".

Isa 40:3 The Masoretic accents join "in the wilderness" to "prepare": "A voice cries: In the wilderness prepare the way of the LORD." The KJV, following the sense used in the Gospels (Matt 3:3; Mark 1:3; Luke 3:4; John 1:23), has "The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the LORD".

Isa 40:6 "Beauty": Hebrew chesed, here in the unusual sense of the grace or constancy of mortal flesh; the KJV has "goodliness" (compare 1 Pet 1:24, "glory").

Isa 40:9 "O Zion, herald of good news": or "you who bring good news to Zion" (and likewise for Jerusalem); the KJV has "O Zion, that bringest good tidings".

Isa 41:2 "Called him in righteousness to follow at his feet": Hebrew tsedeq yiqra'ehu leraglo; the KJV takes tsedeq as a person: "raised up the righteous man from the east, called him to his foot".

Isa 41:19 The identification of several trees is uncertain; the KJV has "shittah tree", "oil tree", "fir tree", "pine" and "box tree".

Isa 42:19 "The one at peace with me": Hebrew meshullam, perhaps "the one in covenant of peace" or "the dedicated one"; the KJV has "he that is perfect".

Isa 42:20 "You have seen": following the Qere ra'ita; the Ketiv reads ra'ot, "seeing".

Isa 43:14 A difficult verse. "As fugitives": Hebrew barichim, which can also mean "bars"; the KJV has "nobles". "In the ships in which they rejoiced": literally "in the ships of their shout"; the KJV has "whose cry is in the ships".

Isa 44:2 "Jeshurun": a poetic name for Israel, "the upright one" (Deut 32:15; 33:5, 26).

Isa 44:24 "By myself": following the Qere me'itti; the Ketiv reads mi 'itti, "who was with me?"

Isa 45:7 "Calamity" for Hebrew ra' (KJV "evil"); in contrast with shalom ("peace") the word here means disaster, not moral evil.

Isa 45:24 "It will be said of me" follows the Hebrew li amar ("one has said to/of me"); the construction is terse.

Isa 48:16 "And his Spirit" may be a second subject ("the Lord GOD and his Spirit have sent me") or a second object ("has sent me and his Spirit"); the Hebrew is ambiguous, and the English keeps the same order.

Isa 49:12 "Sinim": the Hebrew place name is kept; its identification is uncertain.

Isa 51:9 "Dragon" for Hebrew tannin (sea monster); "Rahab" is a poetic name for Egypt and the chaos of the sea, not the woman of Joshua 2.

Isa 52:15 "Sprinkle" for Hebrew yazzeh, as in the priestly rites of cleansing (Lev 14:7; 16:14), and as in the KJV. Some render "startle," but that sense is not otherwise attested for this verb.

Isa 53:5 "Pierced" renders Hebrew mecholal, from chalal, "to pierce, wound" (the same root as "pierced" the dragon in 51:9); the KJV has "wounded." "Stripes" (chaburah) are the welts or wounds left by blows.

Isa 53:8 "Stricken for the transgression of my people": the Hebrew reads literally "for the transgression of my people a stroke was to them"; lamo ("to them") is taken here, as often in poetry, as "to him."

Isa 53:10 "When you make his soul a guilt offering": the verb tasim can be second person ("you make") or third person feminine with "his soul" as subject ("when his soul makes a guilt offering"). The Hebrew asham is "guilt offering."

Isa 53:11 The Masoretic text reads "he will see" without an object; some ancient witnesses add "light." The base text is followed. "The Righteous One, my servant" takes tsaddiq as a title in apposition to "my servant."

Isa 54:11 "Antimony" (puk) is the dark mineral used as eye paint, here as a setting for stones (KJV "fair colours").

Isa 55:3 "The sure steadfast love shown to David": Hebrew chasde David hanne'emanim, literally "the faithful steadfast loves of David", that is, the covenant love promised to David; the KJV has "the sure mercies of David", as in the quotation at Acts 13:34.

Isa 57:9 "The king" (melek) may be a human king or the god Molech; the Hebrew is ambiguous.

Isa 59:19 The second half is difficult. Following the Masoretic accents, tsar is joined to "river" ("a narrow, rushing river") and the subject "he" is the LORD; the KJV reads "when the enemy shall come in like a flood, the Spirit of the LORD shall lift up a standard against him." Ruach may also be "wind" here.

Isa 62:4 "Hephzibah" means "My delight is in her"; "Beulah" means "Married."

Isa 63:9 The text follows the Qere lo ("to him": "he was afflicted"); the Ketiv lo' would read "he did not afflict."

Isa 64:1 The English verse numbering follows the KJV; in Hebrew Bibles 64:1 is the second half of 63:19, and 64:2-12 are 64:1-11.

Isa 65:11 "Fortune" and "Destiny" render Gad and Meni, names of pagan deities of luck (KJV "that troop" and "that number"); verse 12 plays on Meni with umaniti, "I will destine."

Isa 66:18 "I know" is supplied: the Hebrew reads literally "and I, their works and their thoughts; it is coming to gather..."

Isa 66:20 Minchah is first used of the returning exiles brought "as an offering," then of the "grain offering" in a clean vessel.

Jeremiah

Jer 1:12 Wordplay: "almond tree" (shaqed) and "watching" (shoqed).

Jer 2:2 "Steadfast love" renders chesed, the fixed term; here it is Israel's loyal love toward the LORD in her youth. The KJV has "kindness".

Jer 2:20 "I will not transgress" follows the marginal reading (Qere 'e'evor), as the KJV does; the written text (Ketiv) has 'e'evod, "I will not serve".

Jer 2:34 "Breaking in": the poor were not killed as burglars caught in the act, which would have been lawful (Exod 22:2).

Jer 3:14 "I am a husband to you" (ba'alti): also "I am your master"; the KJV has "I am married unto you".

Jer 6:2 "I will cut off" (damiti): the verb can also mean "I have likened", as in the KJV ("I have likened the daughter of Zion to a comely and delicate woman").

Jer 8:13 The last clause is obscure; it may also be read "and what I gave them they transgress".

Jer 10:11 This verse is written in Aramaic in the original.

Jer 11:15 A difficult verse; the Hebrew is obscure, and "holy flesh" refers to sacrificial meat.

Jer 12:5 "Thickets of the Jordan": literally "the pride (or swelling) of the Jordan"; the KJV has "the swelling of Jordan".

Jer 13:23 "Cushite": a man of Cush, the land south of Egypt; the KJV has "Ethiopian".

Jer 15:11 "I will release you" follows the marginal reading (sheritika); the sense is uncertain. The KJV has "it shall be well with thy remnant".

Jer 15:12 A difficult verse: probably the people cannot break the iron of the northern enemy. The KJV reads "Shall iron break the northern iron and the steel?"

Jer 17:2 Asherim: wooden cult poles or images of the goddess Asherah; the KJV has "groves".

Jer 17:8 "Does not see" follows the marginal reading (Qere yir'eh), as the KJV does; the written text (Ketiv) may be read yira', "does not fear".

Jer 17:9 "Desperately sick" (anush): "incurable"; the KJV has "desperately wicked".

Jer 18:14 Difficult verse. "Waters from afar": Hebrew zarim, "strange/foreign"; "plucked up" (yinnateshu) may be read "dried up" by a slight change, but the Masoretic text is followed.

Jer 19:2 "Potsherd Gate": Qere harsit; KJV "east gate".

Jer 20:3 Magor-missabib means "Terror on every side".

Jer 20:12 "The heart and the mind": literally "kidneys and heart".

Jer 22:11 Shallum is another name for King Jehoahaz (2 Kgs 23:30-34).

Jer 22:24 Coniah is Jehoiachin (also called Jeconiah).

Jer 23:5 "Branch" (tsemach): a messianic title, as in Zech 3:8; 6:12.

Jer 23:6 Hebrew YHWH tsidqenu, "The LORD is our righteousness"; cf. 33:16.

Jer 23:33 "Burden" (massa) also means "oracle"; the wordplay runs through vv. 33-40.

Jer 23:39 Hebrew nashiti... nasho, "I will surely forget"; some manuscripts and versions read "I will surely lift you up".

Jer 25:9 "Devote them to destruction": Hebrew charam (KJV "utterly destroy").

Jer 25:23 "Who clip the corners of their hair": literally "all who are cut at the corner"; a desert custom (cf. 9:26).

Jer 25:26 Sheshach is a cipher (atbash) for Babel, i.e. Babylon (cf. 51:41).

Jer 26:18 Quoting Mic 3:12.

Jer 27:1 The Masoretic text reads "Jehoiakim"; the context (vv. 3, 12; 28:1) concerns Zedekiah, and a few manuscripts read so. The base text is followed.

Jer 29:11 "Peace" (shalom) here includes welfare and well-being; "harm" renders ra'ah, literally "evil" (so the KJV), in the sense of disaster.

Jer 29:14 "Restore your fortunes" (shuv shevut): KJV "turn away your captivity"; same phrase in 30:3, 18; 31:23; 32:44; 33:7, 11, 26.

Jer 30:7 "Time of distress for Jacob": traditionally "the time of Jacob's trouble".

Jer 30:21 "Who would dare of himself": literally "who is he that has pledged his heart to approach me?"

Jer 31:2 "Went to find rest": the Hebrew infinitive is terse, literally "going to give him rest"; it may refer to the LORD going to give Israel rest.

Jer 31:3 "From far away" may also be temporal, "of old". "Drawn you with steadfast love" (chesed): or "continued my steadfast love to you".

Jer 31:15 Quoted in Matt 2:18.

Jer 31:22 "A woman will encompass a man": a much-debated phrase (Hebrew neqevah tesovev gaver); literal rendering kept.

Jer 31:31 Quoted in Heb 8:8-12; 10:16-17.

Jer 31:32 "Though I was a husband to them": Hebrew ba'alti; Heb 8:9 follows the Greek version, "and I disregarded them".

Jer 31:38 "Are coming" follows the Qere (ba'im), which the Ketiv lacks.

Jer 31:40 "Fields": Qere hasshedemot (Ketiv hasheremot).

Jer 32:12 "My cousin": literally "my uncle" (dodi); the Hebrew is elliptical for "my uncle's son" (vv. 8-9).

Jer 33:3 "Hidden things": Hebrew betsurot, "inaccessible, fortified things"; KJV "mighty things".

Jer 33:16 "She" refers to Jerusalem; compare 23:6, where the name is given to the Branch.

Jer 34:5 "Spices": the Hebrew speaks only of "burnings", a funerary honor (cf. 2 Chr 16:14; 21:19).

Jer 37:12 "to receive his portion": Hebrew lachaloq, "to divide/share", probably to take his share of a family property (cf. 32:6-15); KJV "to separate himself thence".

Jer 38:28 The verse ends with a clause that opens the next scene: "And it came about when Jerusalem was captured" (continued in 39:3); KJV supplies "and he was there when Jerusalem was taken".

Jer 39:3 Rab-saris and Rab-mag are Babylonian titles (chief official, a high officer), kept as titles; the division of the names follows the Masoretic punctuation.

Jer 40:5 "While Jeremiah had not yet turned back": the Hebrew (literally "and while he would not yet return") is obscure; the sense seems to be that Nebuzaradan continued speaking before Jeremiah answered or left.

Jer 41:9 "alongside Gedaliah": Hebrew beyad-Gedalyahu, literally "by the hand of Gedaliah"; KJV "because of Gedaliah".

Jer 42:20 "you have gone astray at the cost of your souls": Hebrew hit'eitem benafshoteikhem; KJV "ye dissembled in your hearts".

Jer 43:9 "in the mortar, in the brickwork": the terms melet and malben are uncertain; KJV "in the clay in the brickkiln".

Jer 43:12 "I will set fire": so the Masoretic text (first person); the following verbs are third person (Nebuchadnezzar).

Jer 44:19 The speakers here are the women, as "without our husbands" shows; "bearing her image" renders leha'atsivah, "to portray her".

Jer 46:15 "your mighty one" (singular verb in Hebrew) may refer to Pharaoh's army or to the Apis bull (so the Greek, reading "Apis has fled"); KJV "thy valiant men".

Jer 46:17 "just a loud noise": Hebrew sha'on, "uproar, din", perhaps a nickname; "he let the appointed time slip by" refers to a missed opportunity.

Jer 46:20 "horsefly": Hebrew qerets, a rare word; KJV "destruction".

Jer 48:1 "the high fortress": Hebrew hammisgav, possibly a place name (Misgab, so KJV).

Jer 48:4 "her little ones": following the Qere tse'ireha; the Ketiv may be read "to Zoar".

Jer 48:9 "Give wings": Hebrew tsits, of uncertain meaning (also "flower", "salt"); "wings" follows the KJV and the verb "fly away" (natso tetse).

Jer 48:12 "men who tilt jars": Hebrew tso'im, those who tip or decant wine jars; KJV "wanderers... shall cause him to wander".

Jer 49:1 "their king": Hebrew malkam, which may also be read as the god Milcom (so the Greek); likewise in 49:3.

Jer 49:19 "Who will summon me?" i.e. who can call me to account or appoint me a time (for trial); KJV "who will appoint me the time?"

Jer 49:25 "How has the city of praise not been abandoned": the sense is uncertain; perhaps "How it has been abandoned!" (reading without the negative) or "Why was it not abandoned (by its people before the disaster)?"

Jer 50:11 "threshing": following the Masoretic vowels (dashah); KJV "as the heifer at grass" (reading deshe').

Jer 50:21 Merathaim ("double rebellion") and Pekod ("punishment") are plays on names of regions of Babylonia.

Jer 50:36 "the babblers": Hebrew baddim, "empty talkers", often of false diviners; KJV "the liars".

Jer 50:39 "wild beasts of the desert... jackals... ostriches": the animal terms tsiyyim, 'iyyim and benot ya'anah are uncertain; KJV "wild beasts of the desert... wild beasts of the islands... owls".

Jer 51:1 "Leb-kamai": a cipher (atbash) for Kasdim, "Chaldea"; literally "the heart of those who rise up against me" (so KJV).

Jer 51:3 Following the Qere (the second "let him bend" is not read); the line may also be understood as a negative command ("Let not the archer bend his bow"), but the Masoretic 'el is taken as "against".

Jer 51:19 Unlike the parallel in 10:16, the Hebrew here does not name "Israel"; the KJV supplies it in italics.

Jer 51:41 "Sheshach": a cipher (atbash) for Babel.

Jer 51:59 "the quartermaster": Hebrew sar menuchah, literally "officer of the resting place", in charge of the king's lodging on the march; KJV "a quiet prince".

Jer 52:15 "craftsmen": Hebrew ha'amon, which may mean "artisans" (cf. 2 Kgs 25:11, hehamon, "multitude"); KJV "the multitude".

Lamentations

Lam 1:7 "Downfall": Hebrew mishbattekha, "her ceasing / annihilation"; the KJV has "her sabbaths".

Lam 1:14 "Is bound fast": reading niqad, "is bound"; the word occurs only here and its sense is uncertain. The KJV has "is bound by his hand".

Lam 2:6 "His booth": Hebrew sukko, the Lord's own dwelling, the temple, here compared to a garden hut; the KJV has "his tabernacle".

Lam 3:22 "Is why we are not consumed": Hebrew ki lo tamnu, "that we are not finished". Some manuscripts and versions read tammu, "they (his mercies) do not cease". "Steadfast love" = chesed.

Lam 4:3 "Jackals": following the Qere tannim; the KJV has "sea monsters".

Lam 4:20 "The anointed of the LORD": the king, Zedekiah, described as "the breath of our nostrils".

Lam 5:22 Hebrew ki im, "unless" or "but"; the verse can also be read as a question or as "for you have utterly rejected us". The book ends without a word of hope.

Ezekiel

Ezek 1:4 "amber" (chashmal), a rare word of uncertain meaning, perhaps a gleaming metal or alloy; KJV likewise "amber". Also 1:27 and 8:2.

Ezek 2:1 "Son of man" (ben-adam) is God's usual address to Ezekiel throughout the book (over ninety times); it is capitalized here as a form of address and stresses his human frailty before God. It is distinct from the NT title "the Son of Man".

Ezek 5:7 "nor even acted according to the judgments of the nations": the Hebrew has the negative ("you have not done"), as the KJV; some manuscripts and ancient versions lack it ("but have acted according to the judgments of the nations").

Ezek 6:14 "Diblah": Hebrew Diblathah (with directional ending); many read "Riblah" (d and r look alike in Hebrew). KJV "Diblath".

Ezek 7:7 "doom" (tsephirah), a rare word of uncertain sense, perhaps "turn" or "cycle" of fate, or "crown/garland"; KJV "the morning". Also 7:10.

Ezek 7:11 The Hebrew of this verse is terse and obscure; "wealth" (hemehem) and "eminence" (noah) are uncertain words.

Ezek 8:2 "fire" follows the Masoretic text (esh); the Greek reads "a man" (ish), as in 1:26–27.

Ezek 8:17 "putting the branch to their nose": an obscure idolatrous gesture (perhaps part of sun worship); some take it as an insult to God. KJV likewise.

Ezek 9:4 "a mark": literally "a taw", the last letter of the Hebrew alphabet, which in the old script was shaped like an X or a cross.

Ezek 11:3 "The time is not near to build houses": the Hebrew is terse ("not near, building houses"); it may also be a question ("Is not the time near to build houses?"). KJV "It is not near; let us build houses".

Ezek 11:16 "a sanctuary for a little while" (miqdash me'at): or "a little sanctuary", in a small measure; KJV "a little sanctuary".

Ezek 13:18 "bands" (kesatot) and "veils" (mispachot) are rare words for magical charms of uncertain form; KJV "pillows" and "kerchiefs". "the joints of the hands": the Hebrew reads "my hands" (yaday), probably a scribal form of "hands"; KJV "armholes".

Ezek 16:10 "goatskins" (tachash): the exact animal is uncertain; KJV "badgers' skin".

Ezek 16:36 "lust": literally "your copper/bronze" (nechoshet), of uncertain sense here; perhaps "money" spent on lovers, or a word for sexual discharge. KJV "filthiness".

Ezek 16:53 "restore their fortunes" (shub shebut): KJV "bring again their captivity"; the phrase means a full reversal of their condition.

Ezek 16:57 "Syria": Hebrew Aram, as in the Masoretic text (KJV "Syria"); many manuscripts and the Syriac read "Edom" (d and r look alike in Hebrew). Likewise 27:16.

Ezek 17:5 "Like a willow": Hebrew tsaftsafah occurs only here; usually understood as a kind of willow. KJV "as a willow tree".

Ezek 18:2 "Are set on edge": literally "become blunt/dull", the sensation of sour fruit on the teeth.

Ezek 20:26 "I defiled them": that is, God gave them over to defile themselves through their own offerings, a judicial hardening (compare v. 25).

Ezek 20:29 Wordplay: mah habbamah ("What is the high place?") and ha-ba'im ("you who go"); "Bamah" is the Hebrew word for "high place".

Ezek 20:37 "Bond of the covenant": Hebrew masoreth, often taken as "fetter, bond". KJV likewise "bond".

Ezek 21:10 Very difficult verse. "Or shall we rejoice? The rod of my son despises every tree" is a literal rendering of the Hebrew; the "rod" may be Judah's scepter, which scorns every other rod (compare Gen 49:9-10).

Ezek 21:13 Difficult Hebrew; literally "For it is a testing, and what if even the despising rod shall not be?"

Ezek 21:15 "Glittering point": Hebrew ibchah occurs only here; meaning uncertain (KJV "the point of the sword").

Ezek 21:25 "Profane": Hebrew chalal, which can also mean "slain" or "pierced"; KJV "profane".

Ezek 21:27 "He comes to whom the right belongs": an echo of Gen 49:10; Hebrew mishpat, "right, justice, judgment".

Ezek 22:16 "You shall be profaned": following the Masoretic pointing (from chalal). KJV "thou shalt take thine inheritance in thyself" (from nachal).

Ezek 22:25 "A conspiracy of her prophets": so the Masoretic text; the Greek reads "her princes".

Ezek 23:42 "Sabeans": following the Qere (sabaim); the Ketiv may be read "drunkards".

Ezek 26:7 Hebrew spells the name "Nebuchadrezzar" here and in 29:18-19; 30:10. The standard form Nebuchadnezzar is used.

Ezek 27:6 "Boxwood": Hebrew bat-ashurim, understood as a kind of cypress or boxwood; KJV "the company of the Ashurites".

Ezek 27:16 "Syria": Hebrew Aram (KJV "Syria"); some Hebrew manuscripts and the Syriac read "Edom" (compare 16:57).

Ezek 27:17 "Pannag": meaning unknown, perhaps a kind of cake or millet.

Ezek 27:19 "Dan and Javan from Uzal": Hebrew me'uzzal; KJV read it as "going to and fro".

Ezek 28:13 The identification of several of these gems is uncertain. "Settings and mountings" (tuppeka unqabeka) is also uncertain; KJV "tabrets and pipes".

Ezek 28:14 "You were": Hebrew 'at (you). Some read 'et, "with": "with an anointed cherub I placed you".

Ezek 29:3 "Monster": Hebrew tannim (here for tannin), a great sea or river creature, probably the crocodile. KJV "dragon". Likewise 32:2.

Ezek 29:7 "Made all their loins shake": literally "made all their loins stand".

Ezek 29:10 "From Migdol to Syene": that is, from the north to the south of Egypt. KJV "from the tower of Syene". Likewise 30:6.

Ezek 30:5 "Cub": an unidentified people (KJV "Chub"). "The land of the covenant" is possibly Jews allied with Egypt.

Ezek 30:15 "Pelusium": Hebrew Sin, a frontier fortress of Egypt. "Thebes" is Hebrew No; "Memphis" is Hebrew Noph (v. 13, 16).

Ezek 30:17 "Aven": Hebrew for On (Heliopolis), with a wordplay on 'aven, "iniquity".

Ezek 31:3 "Assyria": the Masoretic reading; some propose te'ashshur, "a cypress".

Ezek 32:32 "My terror": following the Qere; the Ketiv reads "his terror".

Ezek 33:31 'Agavim, literally "passionate (or lustful) love"; rendered "much love" here and "love song" in v. 32.

Ezek 34:29 Matta' leshem, "a planting for a name"; rendered "a planting of renown" (KJV "a plant of renown").

Ezek 35:5 'Avon qets, literally "iniquity of the end", i.e. the time of the final punishment (as in 21:25, 29).

Ezek 35:6 Ki ledam e'eskha, literally "I will make you into blood"; 'im lo' is taken as "since you did not hate blood" (KJV "sith thou hast not hated blood").

Ezek 35:9 Tashovnah, "return", following the Qere (KJV "return"), in the sense "be restored"; the Ketiv may be read "be inhabited".

Ezek 36:3 Ya'an beya'an, a doubled "because", rendered "precisely because"; shammot may mean "make desolate" (so KJV) or be from nasham "pant after".

Ezek 36:14 "Leave... childless" (teshakkeli) follows the Qere; the Ketiv reads "cause to stumble".

Ezek 36:38 Tson qodashim, literally "flock of holy things", the sheep brought for sacrifice at the feasts.

Ezek 37:1 Ruach in this chapter: "Spirit" of the LORD (vv. 1, 14), "breath" (vv. 5-10), "winds" (v. 9).

Ezek 37:23 MT moshevotehem "their dwelling places" is kept; many read meshuvotehem "their backslidings" by a change of vowels and letter order.

Ezek 37:27 Mishkan rendered "tabernacle" (dwelling place); "over them" ('alehem) may also mean "with them".

Ezek 38:2 Nesi' rosh, "chief prince" (so KJV); some take Rosh as a proper name ("prince of Rosh, Meshech and Tubal"). Same in 38:3; 39:1.

Ezek 39:2 Shishshe'tikha, a word found only here, is taken as "drive you on, lead you"; KJV "leave but the sixth part of thee".

Ezek 39:11 Ha'oberim, "those who pass through" (travelers), perhaps a place name ("the Valley of Abarim"); hamon-gog means "multitude of Gog", and Hamonah (v. 16) "multitude".

Ezek 39:25 Shevut, "restore the fortunes" (KJV "bring again the captivity").

Ezek 39:26 Venashu, "they shall bear"; some read venashu as "they shall forget" by a slight change.

Ezek 40:5 Terms in chs. 40-48: sha'ar "gate"; 'ulam / 'elam "vestibule" (KJV "porch" or "arches"); ta' "side room" (KJV "little chamber"); 'ayil "jamb" (KJV "post"); lishkah "chamber"; tsela' "side chamber" (41:5-11); bayit "house", hekhal "temple" (41:1).

Ezek 40:14 Obscure verse; literally "and he made jambs, sixty cubits, and to the jamb of the court the gate all around". Translated as closely as the Hebrew allows.

Ezek 40:16 Challonot 'atumot, "closed" or "narrowed" windows (KJV "narrow windows").

Ezek 40:43 Shefattayim, a rare word: "hooks" (KJV) or "ledges, rims".

Ezek 40:49 Literally "and by the steps by which they went up to it"; KJV supplies "he brought me".

Ezek 41:6 An obscure architectural description; translated as closely as the Hebrew allows (so also 41:7 and 42:3-6).

Ezek 41:12 Gizrah, "separate area" (KJV "separate place"), the restricted yard behind the temple.

Ezek 41:25 'Av, a rare word, perhaps a wooden canopy or overhang (KJV "thick planks").

Ezek 42:16 "Five hundred" (me'ot) follows the Qere; the Ketiv reads 'ammot, "cubits".

Ezek 42:20 The unit is not stated in the Hebrew; from vv. 16-19 it is reeds (so KJV).

Ezek 43:13 Gav hammizbeach, literally "the back (mound) of the altar", here taken as its height or elevation (KJV "the higher place").

Ezek 43:15 Harel / ari'el, "altar hearth", the top of the altar where the fire burned (KJV "altar").

Ezek 43:26 "Consecrate it", literally "fill its hands" (KJV "consecrate themselves").

Ezek 44:19 Literally "they shall not sanctify the people with their garments", i.e. pass holiness on to them by contact.

Ezek 44:29 Cherem, "devoted thing", what is set apart irrevocably to the LORD (KJV "dedicated thing").

Ezek 45:1 The Hebrew gives no unit for these large measures (here and in 45:3-6; 48:8-35); KJV supplies "reeds". The text is left without a unit.

Ezek 45:12 Maneh, "mina" (KJV "maneh"), a weight of sixty shekels in the sum 20 + 25 + 15.

Ezek 45:21 Chag shevu'ot yamim, literally "a feast of weeks of days"; rendered "a feast lasting seven days" with the KJV, as vv. 23 and 25 require.

Ezek 46:17 Shenat hadderor, "the year of release" (literally "of liberty"), the Jubilee (Lev 25:10).

Ezek 46:22 Qeturot, "enclosed" (KJV "joined"); the last word of the verse is marked in the Masoretic text as doubtful.

Ezek 47:13 Geh, an unusual form, taken as zeh "this".

Ezek 47:15 Levo' tsedadah, "to the entrance of Zedad" (KJV "as men go to Zedad"); levo' chamat in 47:20 and 48:1 is likewise "the entrance of Hamath" (often treated as a place name, Lebo-hamath).

Ezek 47:18 Tamoddu, "you shall measure", as in the Masoretic text and KJV; some read "to Tamar" (cf. v. 19).

Ezek 47:19 Meribath-kadesh, "the waters of strife at Kadesh" (KJV); "the Brook" (nachlah) is the Brook of Egypt.

Ezek 48:35 Yahweh shammah, "The LORD Is There".

Daniel

Dan 2:4 From "O king, live forever" (2:4b) to the end of chapter 7 the original is in Aramaic, not Hebrew.

Dan 3:25 "Like a son of the gods": Aramaic dameh le-bar elahin, spoken by the pagan king, who in 3:28 calls the figure "his angel". The KJV renders "like the Son of God". The wording does not have the article and elahin is plural, but Christian interpreters have often seen here an appearance of the pre-incarnate Christ.

Dan 4:1 In the Aramaic text, 4:1-3 are numbered 3:31-33, and 4:4-37 are 4:1-34. This translation follows the English numbering, as the KJV does. Likewise 5:31 is 6:1 in the Aramaic, and chapter 6 is one verse lower there.

Dan 4:13 "A watcher": Aramaic ir, a heavenly being who watches (also 4:17, 23).

Dan 7:13 "One like a son of man": Aramaic ke-bar enash, "one like a human being". Jesus takes this vision as the basis of his title "the Son of Man" (Matt 26:64; Mark 14:62).

Dan 8:11 "The continual offering": Hebrew hattamid, "the continual (one)", the regular daily burnt offering (Exod 29:38-42); KJV "the daily sacrifice". Likewise 8:12-13; 11:31; 12:11.

Dan 8:14 "Evenings and mornings": Hebrew ereb boqer, "evening-morning"; the KJV has "days". "Restored to its right condition": Hebrew nitsdaq, literally "made right / vindicated"; the KJV has "cleansed".

Dan 9:25 "Messiah the Prince": Hebrew mashiach nagid, "an anointed one, a prince". Here, as in 9:26, the EVBO-EN renders mashiach as "Messiah", with the KJV, in line with its messianic reading. Elsewhere mashiach is rendered "anointed".

Dan 9:26 "Messiah shall be cut off, but not for himself": Hebrew yikkaret mashiach we-en lo, literally "an anointed one shall be cut off, and there is not to him", that is, "and he shall have nothing". The KJV has "but not for himself". The verb karat (cut off) is used of violent death.

Dan 9:27 "On the wing of abominations": Hebrew we-al kenaf shiqqutsim meshomem; "wing" may mean a pinnacle of the temple or the extremity. The KJV has "for the overspreading of abominations he shall make it desolate".

Dan 11:37 "The one desired by women": Hebrew chemdat nashim; probably a deity favored by women (often taken as Tammuz/Adonis). The KJV has "the desire of women".

Dan 12:2 "Everlasting life": Hebrew chayye olam, the only occurrence of this phrase in the Hebrew Bible.

Hosea

Hos 1:6 "that I should ever forgive them": Hebrew nasa essa lahem, "I will surely lift up (= forgive) for them", read here with the preceding negative; KJV "but I will utterly take them away".

Hos 1:10 Verses 1:10-11 and 2:1-23 follow the KJV numbering; in the Hebrew Bible they are 2:1-25.

Hos 2:16 "My Husband... My Baal": Hebrew Ishi and Baali; baal also meant "husband/master", so the name is to be dropped because of its link with the god Baal.

Hos 4:18 "her rulers love, they love disgrace": literally "her shields love, give!, shame"; the Hebrew is difficult; "shields" is a figure for rulers.

Hos 5:11 "the command": Hebrew tsav, a rare and obscure word (perhaps a contemptuous term for idols or human decrees); KJV "the commandment".

Hos 6:7 "like Adam": Hebrew ke'adam may also mean "like men" (KJV) or refer to the town of Adam (Josh 3:16), which suits "there".

Hos 7:16 "not to the Most High": Hebrew lo 'al, literally "not upward"; also 11:7.

Hos 10:5 "idol priests": Hebrew kemarim, a term used only for priests of false worship.

Hos 10:10 "two iniquities": following the Qere ('onotam); the Ketiv may be read "their two furrows" (so KJV).

Hos 11:12 In the Hebrew Bible this verse is 12:1, and 12:1-14 is 12:2-15; the KJV numbering is followed.

Hos 13:14 The first two clauses may also be read as questions ("Shall I ransom them...?"), which suits the end of the verse; KJV and Paul (1 Cor 15:55) take them as promises.

Joel

Joel 1:4 The four insect names (gazam, arbeh, yeleq, hasil) are rendered "gnawing", "swarming", "creeping" and "stripping" locust; their exact meaning is uncertain (KJV "palmerworm, locust, cankerworm, caterpillar"). Also 2:25.

Joel 2:17 "for the nations to rule over them": or "a byword among the nations" (mashal, "proverb"); KJV "that the heathen should rule over them".

Joel 2:23 "the early rain in righteousness": Hebrew hammoreh litsdaqah; moreh can also mean "teacher" ("the teacher of righteousness"). "In the first month": Hebrew barishon, as the KJV; some render "as before".

Joel 2:28 In the Hebrew Bible 2:28-32 is 3:1-5, and chapter 3 is chapter 4; the KJV numbering is followed.

Joel 3:21 "I will clear their blood that I have not cleared": Hebrew niqqeti, "declare innocent / leave unpunished"; KJV "cleanse"; often understood as "avenge".

Amos

Amos 1:3 "I will not turn it back": the Hebrew lo ashivennu leaves the object unstated (the punishment, or the decree); KJV "I will not turn away the punishment thereof". Same formula through 2:6.

Amos 2:13 "make the ground give way beneath you": Hebrew me'iq, a rare verb ("press down", "totter", or "split"); KJV "I am pressed under you".

Amos 5:8 "shadow of death": Hebrew tsalmavet, "deep darkness".

Amos 5:26 "Sikkuth your king and Kiyyun": probably names of Assyrian astral deities (Sakkut, Kaiwan = Saturn); KJV "the tabernacle of your Moloch and Chiun"; Acts 7:43 follows the Greek.

Amos 6:12 "plow them with oxen": Hebrew babbeqarim; a different division of the letters gives "plow the sea with oxen".

Amos 6:13 "Lo-debar... Karnaim": towns whose names mean "nothing" and "horns" (strength), a wordplay.

Amos 7:7 "plumb line": Hebrew anakh, used only here (vv. 7-8), traditionally "plumb line" (KJV); possibly "tin" or "lead".

Amos 7:14 The Hebrew has no verb ("no prophet I"); present ("I am not") or past ("I was not", KJV) are both possible.

Amos 8:2 "summer fruit... the end": wordplay between qayits (summer fruit) and qets (end).

Amos 8:8 "like the Nile": the Hebrew text has ka'or ("like the light"), read as kay'or ("like the Nile"), as in 9:5; KJV "as a flood".

Amos 8:14 "the guilt of Samaria": Hebrew ashmat, perhaps a play on the name of the goddess Ashima (2 Kgs 17:30).

Obadiah

Obad 1:7 "he does not see it": literally "there is no understanding in him"; the shift to the third person is in the Hebrew.

Obad 1:20 "The exiled company": Hebrew hachel-hazzeh, literally "this host/army"; Sepharad is an unknown place (later identified with Spain).

Jonah

Jonah 1:17 In the Hebrew Bible 1:17 is 2:1, and 2:1-10 is 2:2-11; the KJV numbering is followed.

Jonah 2:5 "to the throat": Hebrew ad nefesh, "up to the neck/life"; KJV "even to the soul".

Jonah 3:3 "a city great even to God": Hebrew ir gedolah lelohim, an idiom for "an exceedingly great city" (KJV).

Jonah 4:6 "leafy plant": Hebrew qiqayon, an unidentified plant (perhaps the castor-oil plant); KJV "gourd".

Micah

Mic 1:10 Beth-leaphrah ("house of dust") begins a series of wordplays on town names (1:10-15) that cannot be reproduced in English.

Mic 2:4 Hebrew obscure; "to the rebel" (leôbb) may also be read "instead of restoring"; KJV "turning away".

Mic 5:1 This verse is 4:14 in the Hebrew Bible; Hebrew 5:1-14 = English 5:2-15. KJV numbering is followed.

Mic 5:2 "Goings out" (môt), i.e. origins or activities; "from days of eternity" (mîmê ôlm), KJV "from everlasting".

Mic 5:14 Asherim: cult poles of the goddess Asherah; KJV "groves".

Mic 6:8 esed rendered "kindness" because it describes conduct between people; elsewhere "steadfast love".

Mic 6:9 "The one with wisdom will see your name": Hebrew difficult; ancient versions read "fear your name".

Mic 7:4 "The day of your watchmen", i.e. the day the prophets (watchmen) foretold.

Nahum

Nah 1:11 "Worthless" (blîyaal), KJV "wicked"; also in 1:15.

Nah 1:15 This verse is 2:1 in the Hebrew Bible; Hebrew 2:2-14 = English 2:1-13. KJV numbering is followed.

Nah 2:3 "Fire of steel" (pldôt), a rare word, probably the gleaming metal fittings of the chariots; KJV "flaming torches".

Nah 2:7 Hebrew huab ("it is decreed") is obscure; KJV takes it as a name, "Huzzab".

Nah 3:8 No-amon is Thebes in Upper Egypt; "the sea" here is the Nile.

Habakkuk

Hab 1:11 Hebrew difficult; also possible: "then the wind sweeps by and passes on". KJV "then shall his mind change".

Hab 1:12 "We shall not die" is the Masoretic reading; Jewish tradition records an original "you shall not die" (a scribal correction, tiqqun sopherim).

Hab 2:4 "Faith" (mûnâ) also means "faithfulness", steady trust that holds fast to God; the NT quotes this verse as "the just shall live by faith" (Rom 1:17; Gal 3:11; Heb 10:38).

Hab 2:16 "Show your foreskin" (hrl); the Dead Sea scroll and ancient versions read "stagger" (hrl).

Hab 3:1 Shigionoth: a musical or literary term of uncertain meaning (cf. Ps 7 title).

Hab 3:9 Hebrew very obscure; "oaths... of your word" may also be read "rods sworn by your word" or "arrows of your command".

Hab 3:19 "GOD the Lord": Hebrew YHWH Ădny (reverse of the usual Adonai YHWH), rendered as in Ps 68:20; 109:21; 140:7; 141:8; KJV "The LORD God".

Zephaniah

Zeph 1:4 "Idol priests" (kmrîm), a term used only for priests of false gods; KJV "Chemarims".

Zeph 1:5 Malcam ("their king"), probably the Ammonite god Milcom/Molech; KJV "Malcham".

Zeph 1:11 "The Mortar" (makt), a hollow district of Jerusalem; KJV "Maktesh". "Merchant people" is literally "people of Canaan".

Zeph 2:14 "The pelican and the hedgehog": identification of these animals is uncertain; KJV "cormorant and bittern".

Zeph 3:17 "He will be quiet in his love": Hebrew yarî; the Greek reads "he will renew you in his love".

Zeph 3:18 Hebrew difficult; the sense of the second line is uncertain.

Haggai

Hag 2:7 "The desire of all nations" (emdat kol-haggôyim): the noun is singular but the verb plural, so it may also be read "the treasures of all nations shall come"; KJV and Christian tradition read it of the Messiah.

Hag 2:16 "Measures" is supplied; the Hebrew gives only the numbers. "Vat" (pûrâ) is a rare word for the wine trough.

Zechariah

Zech 1:8 "Sorrel" (ruqqîm), a reddish-brown color; KJV "speckled".

Zech 2:8 "After glory he has sent me": Hebrew obscure; perhaps "with glory" or "after the glory (appeared)". "His eye": an ancient scribal tradition holds that the original read "my eye".

Zech 3:1 "Satan" (han, "the accuser"); the verb "to accuse" (inô) is from the same root.

Zech 3:8 "The Branch" (ema), a messianic title (Jer 23:5; 33:15); also 6:12.

Zech 4:7 "Top stone" (heben hrâ), the capstone or headstone of the building.

Zech 5:6 "Their appearance" (ênm, literally "their eye"); Greek and Syriac read "their iniquity" (wnm).

Zech 9:6 "A mixed people" (mamzr), probably people of mixed descent; KJV "a bastard".

Zech 9:9 Quoted in Matt 21:5 and John 12:15. "Bringing salvation": Hebrew nô is passive ("saved, victorious"); KJV "having salvation".

Zech 11:7 "The most afflicted of the flock": Hebrew lkn niyyê han; the Greek reads "for the sheep merchants" (likenanîyê). Also 11:11. "Union" (blîm), literally "bonds"; KJV "Beauty" and "Bands".

Zech 11:13 "To the potter" (el-hayyôr); the Syriac reads "into the treasury" (el-hôr). Cf. Matt 27:9-10.

Zech 12:10 "On me whom they have pierced": the Hebrew has the first person (lay), with the LORD speaking; the following "for him" shifts to the third person. Quoted in John 19:37.

Zech 13:6 "Between your hands", i.e. on the chest or arms.

Zech 14:5 "Valley of my mountains": the ancient versions read "the valley of Hinnom" or "the valley of my mountains shall be stopped up" (nistam). Azal is an unknown place. "With you" follows the Hebrew; the ancient versions read "with him".

Zech 14:6 "The bright ones will congeal": Qere; Hebrew obscure; other renderings: "cold and frost".

Zech 14:21 "Canaanite" may also mean "trader" (cf. 11:7, 11).

Malachi

Mal 1:1 "Malachi" means "my messenger" (cf. 3:1).

Mal 2:15 Hebrew very difficult; the sense of the first half is uncertain. KJV "And did not he make one? Yet had he the residue of the spirit."

Mal 2:16 "He hates divorce": Hebrew literally "he hates sending away"; the subject may also be read as the man ("if he hates and sends her away").

Mal 3:8 "Contributions" (trûmâ); KJV "offerings".

Mal 4:1 Chapter 4 (4:1-6) follows the KJV division; in the Hebrew Bible these verses are 3:19-24.

Mal 4:6 "A decree of utter destruction" (rem); KJV "a curse".

Matthew

Matt 1:2 "Fathered" for ἐγέννησεν (KJV "begat") throughout the genealogy.

Matt 1:23 "Virgin" for ἡ παρθένος, consistent with Isa 7:14 in the EVBO-EN.

Matt 2:11 Scrivener reads εἶδον "they saw" (not εὗρον "they found").

Matt 4:24 σεληνιαζομένους, literally "moonstruck" (KJV "lunatick"); rendered "epileptics" by sense.

Matt 5:22 εἰκῇ "without a cause" is in the base text.

Matt 5:26 κοδράντης, the Roman quadrans (KJV "farthing").

Matt 6:1 ἐλεημοσύνη, "alms" (charitable giving); rendered "charitable deeds" in v. 1 and by "give to the needy" / "giving" in vv. 2–4.

Matt 6:13 The doxology is in the base text.

Matt 7:24 Scrivener adds ὁμοιώσω αὐτὸν "I will liken him".

Matt 8:6 παῖς, "servant" (also "boy"); likewise in 8:8 and 8:13.

Matt 8:28 "Gergesenes" follows the base text (Γεργεσηνῶν).

Matt 9:15 "Sons of the bridechamber" is a Semitic idiom for the bridegroom's attendants or wedding guests.

Matt 9:18 Scrivener reads ἄρχων εἷς, "a certain ruler".

Matt 10:4 Κανανίτης, "Cananite" (KJV "the Canaanite"), probably from Aramaic qan'ana, "zealot"; compare Luke 6:15. Same rendering in Mark 3:18.

Matt 10:8 Scrivener's order: "cleanse lepers, raise the dead".

Matt 10:10 Scrivener reads ῥάβδους, "staffs" (plural).

Matt 10:25 Scrivener reads Βεελζεβούβ, "Beelzebub", here; in 12:24, 27 it reads Βεελζεβούλ. The standard English form "Beelzebub" is used throughout (also in Mark and Luke).

Matt 11:12 βιάζεται may be passive ("suffers violence") or middle ("forces its way"); the passive is kept, as in the KJV.

Matt 11:15 Scrivener adds ἀκούειν: "ears to hear".

Matt 12:18 "Servant" renders παῖς, following the Hebrew עֶבֶד of Isa 42:1 that Matthew quotes; the word can also mean "child" or "son".

Matt 12:20 "Smoldering wick" (λίνον τυφόμενον, lit. "smoking flax"); KJV "smoking flax".

Matt 15:5 Verse division follows Scrivener: the clause "and he shall by no means honor his father or his mother" belongs to v. 5, so v. 6 begins "And so you have made...". The words "to God" are added for sense: the formula declares the support owed to parents a gift dedicated to God (compare Mark 7:11, "Corban").

Matt 16:22 "God be merciful to you" renders the idiom ἵλεώς σοι (lit. "merciful to you"), an expression of aversion; KJV "Be it far from thee".

Matt 17:15 "Epileptic" renders σεληνιάζεται, lit. "is moonstruck"; KJV "lunatick".

Matt 18:26 "Bowed before him" renders προσεκύνει, the gesture of homage before a king; elsewhere the same verb is rendered "worship".

Matt 20:26 "Minister" renders διάκονος, to distinguish it from δοῦλος ("servant") in v. 27; both are servants, the second the lower in rank (a bondservant).

Matt 21:7 Scrivener reads ἐπεκάθισαν ("they set him on them"), plural, not ἐπεκάθισεν ("he sat on them"); translated from Scrivener.

Matt 21:44 "crush him to powder": λικμάω, literally "winnow"; here in the sense of scattering like chaff, i.e. crushing to dust.

Matt 23:8 καθηγητής (also v. 10) is rendered "Instructor" (KJV "Master"); it is a different word from διδάσκαλος, "teacher".

Matt 23:14 This verse is in the base text (Scrivener), and the order of vv. 13–14 follows it; "condemnation" translates κρίμα (KJV "damnation").

Matt 26:28 διαθήκη is rendered "covenant" (KJV "testament").

Matt 26:50 ἐφ᾽ ᾧ πάρει is elliptical; it can be a question ("why have you come?", as the KJV takes it) or a command ("do what you have come for").

Matt 26:60 Verse division follows Scrivener: v. 60 ends with "they found none", and "At last two false witnesses came forward" begins v. 61.

Matt 27:34 The base text reads ὄξος, "sour wine" (KJV "vinegar"); other manuscripts read οἶνον, "wine".

Matt 27:35 The quotation "They divided my garments..." (Ps 22:18) is in the base text and is translated.

Matt 28:1 ὀψὲ σαββάτων may mean "late on the Sabbath" (KJV "In the end of the sabbath") or "after the Sabbath"; σαββάτων in the second phrase means "week".

Mark

Mark 1:2 The base text reads "in the prophets" (Malachi 3:1 and Isaiah 40:3 are both quoted); many modern editions read "in Isaiah the prophet".

Mark 2:19 "Sons of the bridechamber" is a Semitic idiom for the bridegroom's attendants or wedding guests.

Mark 3:29 Greek ainiou krises, "eternal judgment"; rendered "condemnation" where the KJV has "damnation".

Mark 7:3 Greek pygm, literally "with the fist"; the exact sense is uncertain ("up to the wrist", "thoroughly"). The KJV has "oft".

Mark 7:4 Greek baptisntai and baptismous, "wash/washings" (ritual immersion or washing).

Mark 7:19 The base text has katharizon, "purging all foods", describing the digestive process (KJV "purging all meats"); it is rendered literally, not as "declaring all foods clean".

Mark 8:12 Literally "if a sign shall be given to this generation", a Hebrew oath formula meaning a solemn denial.

Mark 9:49 Some take "salted with fire" as referring to judgment, others to purifying trial; the second clause (from Lev 2:13) is in the base text.

Mark 10:43 "Minister" renders διάκονος, to distinguish it from δοῦλος ("servant") in v. 44, as in Matt 20:26–27.

Mark 12:40 Greek krima, "judgment"; rendered "condemnation" where the KJV has "damnation".

Mark 12:42 Greek lepta (the smallest coin) and kodrants (Latin quadrans); the KJV has "two mites, which make a farthing".

Mark 14:72 Greek epibaln, literally "having thrown upon (it)"; the sense is uncertain ("when he thought about it", KJV "when he thought thereon"; or "he broke down").

Mark 15:39 Greek huios theou without the article; it may be read "a son of God". The KJV has "the Son of God".

Mark 16:9 Mark 16:9-20 is part of the base text (Scrivener) and is translated in full; it is absent from a few early manuscripts.

Luke

Luke 1:35 Scrivener reads ἐκ σοῦ, "of you" ("the Holy One who is to be born of you").

Luke 1:78 ἀνατολή, "rising" (of the sun), a messianic title; rendered "Dayspring", as in the KJV.

Luke 2:14 The base text reads εὐδοκία (nominative), "good will toward men"; many modern editions read εὐδοκίας, "among men with whom he is pleased".

Luke 2:22 Scrivener reads αὐτῆς, "her purification" (KJV); many editions read αὐτῶν, "their purification".

Luke 2:33 The base text reads "Joseph and his mother"; many modern editions read "his father and his mother".

Luke 2:49 ἐν τοῖς τοῦ πατρός μου, literally "in the (things) of my Father": either "about my Father's business" (KJV) or "in my Father's house".

Luke 3:31 Scrivener reads Μεναμ, "Menam"; the KJV has "Menan".

Luke 3:36 This Cainan is not in the Hebrew of Gen 11:12 but is in the Greek Septuagint; in 3:37 the OT form "Kenan" is used for the Καϊνάν of Gen 5.

Luke 6:1 δευτερόπρωτος, "second-first" Sabbath, a rare term of uncertain meaning; rendered as the KJV does, "the second Sabbath after the first".

Luke 6:17 Following Scrivener's verse division, "who had come to hear him and to be healed of their diseases" belongs to v. 17.

Luke 7:12 μονογενής, "only begotten", here of a widow's only son; likewise of Jairus's only daughter (8:42) and of the only son in 9:38.

Luke 8:26 Scrivener reads Γαδαρηνῶν "Gadarenes" (also 8:37).

Luke 8:31 Scrivener reads παρεκάλουν "they begged" (plural, the demons), not the singular.

Luke 10:22 Scrivener lacks "And turning to the disciples he said" at the start of the verse (as the KJV); not translated.

Luke 11:2 The base text has the longer form of the Lord's Prayer ("Our Father who is in heaven… Your will be done"); translated in full.

Luke 11:34 ἁπλοῦς, "single" (whole, undivided; also "sound" or "generous").

Luke 12:49 καὶ τί θέλω εἰ ἤδη ἀνήφθη, literally "and what do I wish, if it is already kindled?"; rendered as an exclamation of desire (KJV "what will I, if it be already kindled?").

Luke 14:26 "Hate" (μισεῖ) kept literally; it expresses a decisive preference for Christ over every other tie.

Luke 16:9 "Mammon" (μαμωνᾶς) is kept as a transliteration: Aramaic for wealth or property, here personified (also 16:11, 13). Scrivener reads κἀγὼ ὑμῖν λέγω without καί, so "And I say to you", not "I also say to you".

Luke 16:16 βιάζεται: "forces his way into it" (KJV "presseth into it"); the verb implies effort or violence.

Luke 17:21 ἐντὸς ὑμῶν: "within you", as the KJV; it may also mean "in your midst" / "among you".

Luke 17:36 This verse is in the base text (Scrivener) and is translated, although many critical editions omit it.

Luke 22:34 Scrivener reads πρὶν ἢ τρίς ("before you deny three times"), so the sentence follows the base text, not the shorter reading.

Luke 23:33 Κρανίον means "Skull". The KJV's "Calvary" comes from the Latin calvaria; here the Greek is translated.

John

John 1:5 "Overcome" (κατέλαβεν): the verb can mean "seize, overcome" or "grasp, comprehend"; the KJV has "comprehended".

John 3:3 "Again" (ἄνωθεν) can also mean "from above"; the same word in 3:7 and 3:31 ("from above").

John 3:8 The same Greek word (πνεῦμα) means both "wind" and "Spirit"; here "wind" in the first clause, "Spirit" at the end.

John 5:39 "You search" (ἐρευνᾶτε) can be read as indicative or imperative; the KJV takes it as a command, "Search the scriptures".

John 7:39 "Given" is supplied for sense; the Greek reads literally "the Holy Spirit was not yet".

John 8:25 A difficult phrase (τὴν ἀρχὴν ὅ τι καὶ λαλῶ ὑμῖν); it can also be read "Even what I told you from the beginning" (KJV) or "Why do I speak to you at all?"

John 8:58 "I am" (ἐγὼ εἰμί) is absolute here, contrasted with Abraham's coming into being (γενέσθαι).

John 10:16 "Flock" (ποίμνη) is distinct from "fold" (αὐλή) earlier in the verse; the KJV has "one fold".

John 12:3 Greek litra, a Roman pound (about 327 g). "Pure" renders pistiks, whose meaning is uncertain ("genuine" or possibly a place or plant name); the KJV has "spikenard".

John 13:2 Scrivener reads deipnou genomenou (aorist): "when supper had begun" or "supper being ended" (KJV); some editions read ginomenou, "during supper".

John 13:10 "He who has bathed" (leloumenos, a full bath) is contrasted with "wash" (nipsasthai, washing a part of the body).

John 14:2 Greek monai, "dwelling places" (from men, "remain"); the KJV has "mansions". The same word is "dwelling" in 14:23.

John 15:2 Wordplay in Greek: airei ("takes away") and kathairei ("prunes", literally "cleans"), echoed by katharoi ("clean") in 15:3.

John 16:8 Greek elench: "convict", that is, expose and prove guilty; the KJV has "reprove".

John 18:24 Scrivener reads oun ("So Annas sent him"), a new action; the KJV renders it as a pluperfect ("Now Annas had sent him").

John 20:17 Greek m mou haptou (present imperative): "stop clinging to me" rather than "do not touch me" (KJV).

John 21:7 Greek gymnos, literally "naked"; here lightly clad for work, without his outer garment.

John 21:15 In vv. 15–17 the Greek alternates two verbs: agapa in Jesus' first two questions and phile in Peter's three answers and in Jesus' third question. To keep the difference, agapa is translated "love" and phile "have affection for". Elsewhere in John phile is simply "love" (11:3, 36; 12:25; 15:19; 16:27; 20:2). The KJV has "love" for both verbs. "Simon, son of Jonah" renders Simn Ina; the critical text reads "son of John".

Acts

Acts 1:13 Ἰούδας Ἰακώβου, literally "Judas of James"; rendered "the brother of James" as in the KJV (cf. Jude 1), though "son of James" is also possible.

Acts 2:10 Following Scrivener, "both Jews and proselytes" belongs to v. 10 (the accented edition places it in v. 11).

Acts 3:13 παῖς, of Jesus: "Son" (also 3:26; 4:27, 30). In 4:25, of David, "servant".

Acts 3:15 ἀρχηγός: "Author" here (originator of life); "Prince" in 5:31, where it is paired with "Savior" (KJV "Prince" in both).

Acts 5:24 Scrivener reads ὅ τε ἱερεὺς "the priest"; the KJV renders "the high priest".

Acts 7:38 ἐκκλησία here is Israel's assembly at Sinai: "congregation" (KJV "church").

Acts 7:59 ἐπικαλούμενον has no stated object; "the Lord" is supplied from the prayer that follows (KJV supplies "God").

Acts 12:4 πάσχα: "Passover" (KJV "Easter").

Acts 12:19 ἀπαχθῆναι, "be led away," the technical term for being led off to execution; "to execution" is supplied (KJV "put to death").

Acts 13:20 "About 450 years" is joined to the period of the judges, following Scrivener's word order and the KJV.

Acts 13:34 τὰ ὅσια Δαβὶδ τὰ πιστά: "the holy and sure blessings of David" (KJV "the sure mercies of David").

Acts 14:12 Δία / Ἑρμῆν: "Zeus" and "Hermes" (KJV uses the Latin names Jupiter and Mercurius).

Acts 15:34 This verse is in the Textus Receptus (Scrivener) and is translated; it is absent from many critical editions.

Acts 19:24 Ἄρτεμις: "Artemis" (also 19:27-28, 34-35); the KJV uses the Latin name Diana. Likewise Zeus in 19:35 (KJV "Jupiter"); cf. 14:12.

Acts 24:7 Verses 24:6b–8a ("and wanted to judge him… commanding his accusers to come before you") follow the Textus Receptus; many critical editions omit them.

Acts 26:28 Greek "en oligo" ("in little") is ambiguous: "with little (effort/argument)" or "in a short time"; KJV "almost". Rendered "with a little more" to keep the link with "with little or with much" in 26:29.

Acts 28:1 Melita (Greek Melite), the island of Malta; the EVBO-EN keeps the form "Melita".

Acts 28:4 "Justice" (Greek Dike) is personified here as a goddess of vengeance; capitalized.

Acts 28:11 "Twin Brothers" = Greek Dioskouroi, Castor and Pollux (so the KJV), sons of Zeus, patrons of sailors.

Romans

Rom 1:17 "The righteous" for ὁ δίκαιος (KJV "the just"), consistent with δικαιοσύνη = righteousness.

Rom 3:22 "Faith in Jesus Christ" for πίστεως Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ (objective genitive); also possible "the faith of Jesus Christ" (KJV).

Rom 3:25 "Propitiation" for ἱλαστήριον, as in the KJV; the same word is "mercy seat" in Heb 9:5.

Rom 3:26 Following Scrivener's verse division, "in the forbearance of God" begins verse 26 (KJV ends verse 25 with it).

Rom 6:7 "Justified from sin" for δεδικαίωται ἀπὸ τῆς ἁμαρτίας (KJV "freed from sin"); kept to preserve the key term, in the sense of "acquitted, released".

Rom 7:6 Scrivener reads ἀποθανόντος (genitive, "that being dead by which we were held", as in the KJV), not ἀποθανόντες ("having died").

Rom 8:1 The base text includes "who do not walk according to the flesh but according to the Spirit", lacking in the critical text.

Rom 9:5 Rendered with Christ as subject: "the Christ, who is over all, God blessed forever."

Rom 9:11 Following Scrivener's verse division, "not of works but of him who calls" ends verse 11.

Rom 12:11 Scrivener reads τῷ κυρίῳ "serving the Lord"; some editions read τῷ καιρῷ "serving the time".

Rom 13:9 The base text includes "You shall not bear false witness".

Rom 16:1 "Servant" for διάκονος (feminine article), as decided for this edition; also possible "deaconess".

Rom 16:27 The subscription found in some editions ("Written to the Romans from Corinth…") is not translated.

1 Corinthians

1 Cor 3:5 Scrivener reads ἀλλ᾽ ἢ διάκονοι, "but ministers" (the critical text lacks ἀλλ᾽ ἢ and has "ministers" as the predicate).

1 Cor 6:20 Scrivener includes "and in your spirit, which are God's" (absent from the critical text).

1 Cor 7:3 Scrivener reads τὴν ὀφειλομένην εὔνοιαν, "the goodwill due to her" (critical text: τὴν ὀφειλήν, "her due"); KJV "due benevolence".

1 Cor 7:5 Scrivener reads "to fasting and prayer" (critical text: "to prayer").

1 Cor 11:24 Scrivener reads "Take, eat" and "which is broken for you"; the critical text lacks both.

1 Cor 11:29 κρίμα: "condemnation" (KJV "damnation"); likewise in 11:34 (KJV "condemnation").

1 Cor 13:1 ἀγάπη is rendered "love" throughout the chapter, consistent with the rest of the EVBO-EN; the KJV has "charity" here.

1 Cor 13:12 ἐν αἰνίγματι, literally "in a riddle"; rendered "dimly" (KJV "darkly").

1 Cor 15:55 Scrivener reads Ἅιδη, "O Hades" (KJV "O grave"); the critical text repeats "O death".

1 Cor 16:3 χάρις here refers to the collection for Jerusalem: "gift" (KJV "liberality").

1 Cor 16:22 Maran atha is Aramaic, "Our Lord, come" (or "Our Lord has come"); left untranslated as in the Greek. KJV "Anathema Maranatha".

2 Corinthians

2 Cor 1:6 In the base text (Scrivener) the clause "and our hope on your behalf is firm" closes verse 6, and verse 7 begins with "knowing"; the KJV places it at the start of verse 7.

2 Cor 1:22 Greek arrabn, a down payment or first installment guaranteeing the rest; KJV "earnest".

2 Cor 2:17 Greek kapleuontes, "peddling, hawking for profit" (possibly also "adulterating"); KJV "corrupt".

2 Cor 3:14 Base text ho ti, read as a relative ("which veil", as the KJV); it may also be taken as "because it is done away in Christ".

2 Cor 3:18 Greek katoptrizomenoi, "beholding as in a mirror" (or "reflecting").

2 Cor 6:15 The base text reads Belial (Beliar in other editions), a name for Satan.

2 Cor 7:12 Base text "our care for you" (tn spoudn hmn tn hyper hymn); some editions read "your care for us".

2 Cor 8:4 χάρις: "gift" here and in 8:19, where it means the collection (KJV "gift" / "grace"); in 8:6–7 "grace". In 1:15 "benefit".

2 Cor 8:13 In the base text the words "at the present time your abundance may supply their need" belong to verse 13; the KJV places them in verse 14.

2 Cor 11:10 Base text phragsetai, "shall be stopped" (or "silenced").

2 Cor 12:7 Greek skolops, "thorn" or "stake"; "messenger" translates angelos.

Galatians

Gal 1:8 Greek anathema, "accursed", devoted to destruction under God's curse.

Gal 2:16 Greek pistis Isou Christou, "faith in Jesus Christ" (objective genitive, as the KJV "faith of Jesus Christ" is usually understood); possibly "the faithfulness of Jesus Christ".

Gal 3:24 Greek paidaggos, a household slave in charge of a child's conduct and schooling until maturity; KJV "schoolmaster".

Gal 4:3 Greek stoicheia, "elements" or "elementary principles" (also 4:9).

Gal 5:12 Greek apokopsontai, "cut themselves off"; likely an ironic allusion to castration (mutilation), going beyond circumcision.

Gal 6:11 "Large letters" (plikois grammasin) refers to the size of Paul's handwriting; the KJV "how large a letter" takes it as the length of the letter.

Ephesians

Eph 1:10 Scrivener ends the verse at "on the earth"; "in him" opens 1:11 ("in him, in whom also..."), and the verse division follows the base text.

Eph 2:15 Following Scrivener's division, "the enmity" (τὴν ἔχθραν ἐν τῇ σαρκὶ αὐτοῦ) begins 2:15 as the object of "having abolished."

Eph 3:18 Following Scrivener, "rooted and grounded in love" opens 3:18.

Eph 4:14 κυβεία, literally "dice-playing," i.e. trickery.

Eph 5:9 Scrivener reads "the fruit of the Spirit" (τοῦ πνεύματος); the critical text has "of the light."

Eph 6:24 No "Amen": Scrivener lacks it. The subscription is not translated.

Philippians

Phil 1:16 Scrivener reverses the order of 1:16–17 compared with the critical text: those preaching from rivalry come in 1:16, those preaching from love in 1:17, as in the KJV.

Phil 2:6 ἁρπαγμός: "a thing to be seized" (KJV "robbery").

Phil 2:8 Following Scrivener, "and being found in outward form as a man" opens 2:8.

Phil 4:3 σύζυγε "true companion" may be a proper name (Syzygus, "yokefellow").

Colossians

Col 1:21 Following Scrivener, "yet now he has reconciled" (νυνὶ δὲ ἀποκατήλλαξεν) closes 1:21.

Col 1:24 Scrivener opens with ὃς ("who"), linking back to "I, Paul" in 1:23.

Col 2:18 καταβραβευέτω "disqualify" (deprive of the prize); θέλων ἐν taken as "insisting on."

Col 3:15 The base text reads "the peace of God"; the critical text has "of Christ."

1 Thessalonians

1 Thess 1:3 Following Scrivener, ἀδιαλείπτως "without ceasing" belongs to 1:3.

1 Thess 2:7 The base text reads ἤπιοι "gentle" (some manuscripts νήπιοι "infants"). Following Scrivener, "though we could have been a burden as apostles of Christ" closes 2:6.

1 Thess 2:15 Scrivener reads ἡμᾶς "us" (persecuted us).

1 Thess 4:4 σκεῦος "vessel" may mean one's own body or one's wife.

2 Thessalonians

2 Thess 2:3 The base text reads "the man of sin" (ἁμαρτίας); the critical text has "lawlessness."

2 Thess 2:12 κριθῶσιν: "be condemned" (KJV "be damned"), following this edition's rule for κρίνω.

2 Thess 2:13 Scrivener reads ἀπ' ἀρχῆς "from the beginning" (some manuscripts have ἀπαρχήν "as firstfruits").

1 Timothy

1 Tim 1:4 Scrivener reads οἰκοδομίαν ("edification") where other editions read οἰκονομίαν ("stewardship"); translated "the edification of God" (KJV "godly edifying"). The KJV's closing "so do" is not in the Greek and is omitted.

1 Tim 3:11 Γυναῖκας may mean "women" (deaconesses) or "wives"; rendered "their wives" with the KJV, given the context of vv. 8-12.

1 Tim 3:16 Base text reads θεός: "God was manifested in the flesh" (other editions have ὅς, "who").

1 Tim 4:14 πρεσβυτέριον: "body of elders" (KJV "presbytery").

2 Timothy

2 Tim 3:16 θεόπνευστος: "God-breathed" (KJV "given by inspiration of God").

Titus

Titus 2:13 "Our great God and Savior Jesus Christ": one article governs both nouns, so both titles refer to Jesus Christ (KJV "the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ").

Philemon

Phlm 1:11 In Scrivener, ὃν ἀνέπεμψα ("whom I have sent back") closes v. 11, so v. 12 begins "You, then, receive him".

Hebrews

Heb 1:1 In the base text, "has in these last days spoken to us by his Son" belongs to v. 1; v. 2 begins with "whom".

Heb 3:16 Read as a statement with the KJV: "some... rebelled; yet not all"; other editions accent it as a question ("who...? Was it not all...?").

Heb 4:8 Ἰησοῦς here is Joshua son of Nun (KJV "Jesus").

Heb 9:5 ἱλαστήριον: "mercy seat", the lid of the ark.

Heb 9:16 διαθήκη: "testament" (a will) in vv. 16-17, where the argument turns on the death of the testator; "covenant" elsewhere.

Heb 10:34 Scrivener reads τοῖς δεσμοῖς μου: "on me in my chains" (other editions read "on the prisoners").

Heb 12:23 In Scrivener, πανηγύρει ("general assembly") begins v. 23.

James

Jas 2:18 The base text reads "without (chris) your works"; some editions read "from (ek) your works".

Jas 3:6 "Course of life" renders ton trochon ts geneses, literally "the wheel of birth/existence".

Jas 4:5 A difficult verse; it may also be read as God jealously longing for the spirit he caused to dwell in us.

Jas 5:4 Kyrios Sabath transliterates the Hebrew "LORD of hosts".

Jas 5:12 Base text: hypo krisin, "into judgment"; rendered "condemnation" as in the KJV.

1 Peter

1 Pet 2:7 Greek h tim, "the honor/preciousness"; rendered "he is precious" as in the KJV.

1 Pet 3:20 The base text includes hapax exedecheto, "once... waited", which some editions read as apexedecheto, "was waiting".

1 Pet 3:21 The base text begins with the relative h ("to which"); baptism is called the antitype (antitypon) of the saving through water in Noah's day.

1 Pet 5:13 "She who is in Babylon" most likely refers to a church (Greek feminine, implied ekklsia).

2 Peter

2 Pet 1:1 The base text repeats "our" (tou theou hmn kai stros hmn), "our God and our Savior Jesus Christ".

2 Pet 2:4 Greek tartarsas, "cast into Tartarus"; the KJV renders "cast down to hell".

2 Pet 2:5 Literally "kept Noah the eighth" (ogdoon), that is, with seven others.

2 Pet 2:10 Greek doxas, "glories", probably angelic beings; the KJV has "dignities".

2 Pet 3:10 Greek ta stoicheia, "the elements"; kausoumena luthsontai, literally "will be dissolved burning".

1 John

1 John 1:1 Greek tou logou ts zs; "Word" is capitalized as a title of Christ, as in John 1.

1 John 1:4 The base text reads "your joy" (hymn); some editions read "our joy".

1 John 2:1 Greek parakltos, rendered "Helper" in John 14–16; here, of Christ pleading before the Father, "Advocate" (one called alongside to plead a case).

1 John 2:2 Greek hilasmos, "propitiation": the sacrifice that turns away God's wrath against sin. Also at 4:10.

1 John 2:13 In the base text the clause "I write to you, little ones, because you have come to know the Father" closes verse 13; some editions place it at the start of verse 14.

1 John 2:23 The second clause ("he who confesses the Son has the Father too") is in the base text; the KJV prints it in italics.

1 John 3:16 The base text reads "the love of God" (tn agapn tou theou).

1 John 5:7 Verses 7–8 include the Comma Johanneum ("in heaven: the Father, the Word and the Holy Spirit; and these three are one. And there are three who bear witness on earth"), which is in the base text and the KJV but absent from most Greek manuscripts and from critical editions.

1 John 5:8 Greek eis to hen eisin, literally "are into the one", that is, they agree in one testimony.

1 John 5:19 Greek en t ponr, "in the evil one" (masculine, as in 5:18); the KJV has "in wickedness".

2 John

2 John 1:1 Greek eklekt kyria, "elect lady"; possibly a church personified, or a Christian woman.

Jude

Jude 1:4 The base text reads "the only Master, God" (despotn theon); critical editions omit "God", making "Master" refer to Jesus Christ.

Jude 1:12 Greek spilades, "hidden reefs" (or "spots", as in the KJV).

Jude 1:19 Greek psychikoi, "natural" or "soulish", in contrast with having the Spirit; the KJV has "sensual".

Jude 1:22 Greek diakrinomenoi; in the base text "making a distinction" (KJV "making a difference"), though it may also mean "those who doubt".

Revelation

Rev 1:11 Scrivener includes "I am the Alpha and the Omega, the first and the last" here (absent from critical texts); translated as base text.

Rev 6:6 "Measure" renders Greek choinix, a dry measure (about a day's ration of grain).

Rev 10:6 "There will be time no longer" (chronos ouk estai eti) may also mean "there will be no more delay".

Rev 13:1 "And I stood" (first person, estathn) follows Scrivener; critical texts read "he stood" and attach it to 12:17 (12:18 in some editions).

Rev 16:5 Scrivener reads "who shall be" (ho esomenos, as in the KJV), not "the Holy One" (ho hosios) of most manuscripts.

Rev 17:8 "And yet is" follows Scrivener (kaiper estin); other texts read "and will come" (kai parestai).

Rev 18:13 "Slaves" renders smatn, literally "bodies".

Rev 19:13 "The Word of God": ho logos, rendered "Word" as in John 1 and 1 John 1.

Rev 21:3 "His peoples" (plural laoi) follows Scrivener; the KJV has "his people".

Rev 22:19 "Book of life" follows the Textus Receptus (biblou ts zs); most manuscripts read "tree of life".
